Admission of Marie Correll's new novel "Butter Glasgow," the critic and editor of New York, said at the Players' club.

"Miss Correll is the only novelist in existence who sends free copies of her novels to the press for review. Miss Correll has been reelected so hard by the press, that she is resolved to undergo no more of it."

"She is like the long-haired chap who walked into the general store at Queg and said: 'Do you sell state eggs?'"

"No," said the grocer with a smile, "but I've got some."

"Well, give me all you've got," said the stranger.

"The grocer, as he handed up the eggs, laughed and said: 'I guess you're punk to see 'Hamp' bought at the opera-house!'"

"No," said the stranger grimly, "I'm going to play 'Hamp' tonight at the opera house."

WHOLESALE MURDER PLANNED

Plot of Anarchists in New York Tricked by Police.

New York, Mar. 2.--An attempt to blow up St. Patrick's cathedral with a bomb, caused the arrest of two men by detectives who had been informed for months of activity which followed the announcement of police headquarters, that arrests had been an anarchist plot to kill with bombs, Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and other wealthy men.

The Catholic working was to be a plot for the spreading of anarchy of murder and looting. The best move according to the police was to place bombs in the homes of Carnegie, Rockefeller and Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Baldo, a detective, assisted in manufacturing the bomb with which the attempt was made to blow up the cathedral. He also accompanied the bomb thrower to the police and set with him while he hid the bomb and hid it at the altar. He had a hundred worshippers were at the cathedral. As soon as the bomb was lighted, Baldo arrested his companion, who had been with him, Arthur.

The bomb hurled at the altar was made of acid, iron bolts a plaster of paris bomb. Most of the scrap iron was melted into a mass which had been wrapped from the faces of wealthy residents.

Two other detectives examined the five Charles' Catholic celebration was charged with complicity in the plot, and also arrested. A detective disguised as a priest, led Baldo and Arthur to the plot.

Two scrub women in the vestibule, who were detectives, Arthur here, set off himself to be identified when arrested. Baldo had lived with the anarchist in the city which included the assassination of Carnegie, Rockefeller and Vanderbilt.

REASONS FOR BUYING A FORD

Tells Hank Ford Something New About His Tin Lizzie.

The following letter, received by the Ford Motor Company of Detroit, Mich., is self-explanatory: Dear Sir: I refer to your inquiry as to why I purchase a Ford car. I give the following reasons: First--The price. The most beautiful car for the money and under light. This is indeed the acme of perfection in automobile lighting. The intensity exceeds in casting the light in any direction, thereby compelling slow and careful driving. It is convenient. Furthermore, should you be through the dim haze discover an obstacle, you can with back and quick direction "sweep" the machine at once and see all find the obstruction. It is a flood of light where it may be analyzed and studied with due deliberation.

Yes, indeed, I think the Ford is a great car, and if I were to have one made to order the only improvement I would insist on would be smaller work a narrower seat--a disconcert its little indicators, Mr. Chaplin built it up on his coming to the Esplanade company, though he has instituted reforms into it that would make a Methodist deacon shriek with laughter.

Mr. Chaplin produced the play without any genius whatever, although he had carefully thought out the outlines of his plot beforehand. Most of the incidents and practically all of the little inter-plotting details, were extemporaneous, however, Mr. Chaplin originating them as the camera was clicking out the film.

The result is that the comedy is the most original and the fun the most spontaneous and handled of any ever produced. Mr. Chaplin was ably assisted in his work by Ben Turpin, one of the oldest comedians in the business. In the motion picture, however, Turpin's absurd physics together with Chaplin's peculiar capers and wonderful facial expressions make them a pair unique to the motion picture comedy stage.

CONDITIONS BAD IN CANADA

Resident of This Section Returns, Gives History of Outlook.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Stettler, formerly well known residents of Nanaimo, arrived in town this week after having been in western Canada fourteen months. They left Nanaimo four years ago and settled in Twin Falls. Having heard and read so much glowing reports about western Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Stettler concluded to try that country. They settled fourteen months ago in Athabasca at the terminus of the railroad and Mr. Stettler opened a meat market. Conditions, he says, were bad enough before the war, but everything had been over-boomed--but after the war what little money there was in the country took wings and he never saw such hard times. His lot to almost give his market away to get rid of it. Steel ballistics at Edmonton, he says that but the steel balls were stopped--a fish there when the war started as not a dollar could be had for further construction. People in this part of the country could not get any idea of what real hard times he like.

Mr. Stettler said each family of homesteaders had been given $40 by the government to be used in buying provisions, but there is much suffering and he thought many would starve before they could get out of the country. No one here could imagine how hard conditions really are. Mr. Stettler declared it was a shame the way the country had been over-boomed and presented at great financial loss to Americans who had flocked to there and now were not able to get away.

Mr. Stettler says, "I'm in Switzerland and speak the German language which latter fact mediated against him." He showed that he was a citizen of the United States and managed to get along without serious trouble. Mr. and Mrs. Stettler were, more than delighted to get back to Idaho and he thought they were very glad. After visiting friends here they will return to Twin Falls, where they own property and expect to reside--Nanaimo Record.

It is possible, the deplorable custom of Ford drivers, to lounge luxuriously in the seat, and to force them to alter the elevation of the body about a foot, and the substitution of soft woolen wheels in place of the "springs" which would obviate all the troubles, with no noticeable detriment to the riding qualities of the car as now constructed.

Your truly, "HIS NEW JOB" Is Full on a Perfect Scream in Copie Pictures.

Charles Chaplin will appear in his first Esplanade photograph, "His New Job" at the Isis, Wednesday and Thursday, Mar. 5 and 6. This comedy is declared by critics who have seen it to be the funniest comedy ever filmed. It is simply a riot of fun from start to finish. It is the very best comedy I ever produced. It is what Mr. Chaplin says of it himself. "The new surroundings and the clever actors whom I had to work with enabled me to make the greatest comedy of my life. I couldn't help laughing at it myself, when I saw it on the screen." This two-reel comedy is just what

On All of Your Printed Matter, It Represents Good Workmanship, Good Values, and Good Conditions.

A great many people of this city are wondering why the trimming of the trees in the city park is being done, just what kind of a hair curl will be given to the community Christmas tree. Some are anticipating a close shave.

If the Chronicle is right about the number of citizens who desire to become city officials, there is at least plenty of choice for the taxpayers, yet without considerable of a problem to pick five-particular radiant stars from the galaxy that is presented to view.

One of the best features in the hope for increasing prosperity is the fact that Twin Falls merchants have the women sales, and are now making the most of their merchandise and the moderate use of their regular prices. The fact that the newspaper, which profits from such sales, will be regarded as junk, because it is the truth, not the mere profit but ever later, every citizen who is in the business is good and the business man are making money. Strains as it may seem, sales do not benefit even the newspaper, because of the period of depression which probably follows the extensive vacation on the part of the merchants. Only so much will be spent in advertising and newspaper would rather have that space divided over the whole year, with an attendant saving in the cost of producing the paper. Sales help to increase the persons who always buy such sales, before making their purchases and who offer some incentives in order to take advantage of such sacrifices of the merchants.

SITUATION BETTER

The situation with regard to this country's relations to the warring powers has materially cleared up with the proposed blockade of German ports by the allies. Before, with drastic orders concerning trade between the American shipping agencies between England and French ports, subject to seizure on one side and possible seizure on the other of the vessels, there was the "embargo" in the future presented to this nation. But with a virtual blockade thus declared by the allies, any neutral vessel attempting to run such blockade is subject to seizure which does not constitute a breach of international law. American vessels urged on by the desire for commercial profit, cannot expect to be protected if they knowingly enter the danger zone. The result should relieve the strained situation in America and bring about common sense ideas of a strictly neutrality. Protecting the American merchant vessels against seizure is all right, but protecting a few big shipping interests to the detriment of the whole nation and endangering its peace is not for what the Allies are so prominent, primarily is intended as a world power.

"BIBB" THE DEMAND AND SUPPLY

Never before, perhaps, has the word "BIBB" so frequently appeared in the newspapers as since the beginning of the present year. This is due to the disturbed conditions of trade, rather than to any marked alteration in the factors of demand and supply. The food crops of 1914 were large, and except for small areas they were over all plentifully harvested. The number of people to be fed is not greater by reason of the war, but on the contrary, it grows perceptibly less, while the merely wasteful and extravagant uses of food materials have been greatly limited. Europe is now enduring upon the eighth month of the war. In any case, in 1914 or in war, Europe would through these "eight months" and through three or four months of the same, have had to rely upon the cereals produced in 1914 for its supply of bread-stuffs.

What, then, has produced the conditions that have been so alarmingly set forth in the newspapers? In ordinary times, the process of distribution goes on evenly and without friction brought to the public mind. The European war, which is a standard fact, which is of dark bread or of white bread, is the foremost food article, has put been accustomed to the thought of a falling supply or an increasing price. The world's surpluses of wheat, rice, and barley enter with the most plentiful currents of international trade. A bar crop in one country is stored for use in any other. This "interdependence" of the world has seldom known any difference as regards the supply of its daily bread. The ordinary rates on ocean freight on cereals from the United States and Canada, Argentina, India, and Australia, are very low, while in normal times the rice, barley and wheat of Russia, Hungary and eastern Europe move readily and constantly in eastward steamer, river, and canal barges, and the railroad network to the more densely populated industrial regions of southern and western Europe.

But since the war broke out the traffic systems have been paralyzed, and the markets greatly deranged. Throughout the vast Russian empire there has been an ample supply of food with a low tendency of price. This is because of the shutting off of the German market, and the difficulties in exporting grain surpluses—due to hostile conditions in the Baltic on one side and the Black Sea on the other. Great Britain is most dependent, but the British navy, which has made it easy for merchant ships to bring food supplies to England from all quarters of the globe, so that the situation is to supply and price has been relatively normal. Very little complaint has come from France about dearth of bread—or, indeed, about anything else. This is because there has been no apprehension of food shortage in any one of the three large allied powers.

The most acute trouble has been in Belgium. This has been due to the various misfortunes that attend the ravages of war on a great scale. Large supplies of food were requisitioned by the "Germans." Other supplies were destroyed through the burning of houses, barns and stacks of grain. Harvests were largely drawn into military service, and other farm products were to a great extent slaughtered for food. The stoppage of industry destroyed the earning capacity of hundreds of thousands of people, who were thus rendered unable to buy food even if the military conditions had not interfered with the bringing in of commercial supplies. Under these circumstances the demand for bread in Belgium grew desperate, and so it has come to pass that a very large part of the population has lately been sustained by the relief from the United States that has taken on an organized and systematic form, as already described in this Review. Most positive assurance is given by the Americans having most to do with this relief that the German military, and civil authorities in Belgium have not failed to co-operate and that nothing has to be said by the British people has been turned to German benefit.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 2.—OH EASILY DISETTING SIN

"The man who is always in debt, and paying off Peter to pay Paul, has not a cent saved. He must run away from creditors, attend to his life in order to find himself out thinking that he is happy."—W. S. Parker.

Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist and head of Sears, Roebuck & Company, in a recent newspaper interview, said that lack of thrift is over-chief national sin, and he said it even after the European war had been in progress for several months and the need for common sense thrift in this country had become more imperative than ever. "The World" writes:

"The American people are the most reckless spenders in the world. The average man in this country is spending every dollar he makes, and maybe more. The man who follows this policy is facing poverty every day. The chief extravagance in this country are motor cars, dress and home and other means for making a show."

Mr. Rosenwald was asked to define "thrift" and replied that "I don't know what Webster calls it, but I would say that a thrifty man is one who spends less than he earns."
"That seems like a good definition and a simple thing to do also. But how many of us ignore the wisdom of it. There was once an old man in America when the people knew something of economy and when waste was regarded as a sin. The women who turned the spinning-wheels knew about saving, and used to teach their children about 'Wifful waste is woful want.' Poor Dickens's Almanac, which was one of the original 'best sellers' of the United States, was the work of a man who understood compound interest from the point of view of the wage-earner. It is, it too much to hope that that time will come again. It is not more than probable that the exigencies of the present great convulsion involving half the world may compel us to choose the straight and narrow path of economy, rather than the 'broad one' of extravagance which as surely leads to destruction as the denial of national prosperity."—F. D. Macgregor.

What a Buick Has Done for Others a Buick Will Do for You

Records of the past are the best promises of the future. Here is another of the many affidavits we have regarding Buick economy.

Twin Falls, Idaho
October 24, 1914.

State of Idaho, County of Twin Falls, ss.

This is to certify that we, A. J. Patterson and R. C. McNitt, of Lewiston, Mifflin County, Pennsylvania, left said town on August 25th, 1914. We came by way of Harrisburg, Reading and Allentown into Philadelphia and spent several days there. From there we went to New York City and spent several days there. Then we went to Syracuse, N. Y., by way of Albany and then to Buffalo and Niagara Falls and stayed there some time. From there to Detroit, Mich., where we spent a week. And from there to Flint, Mich., where the car we are driving is made and was all through factory there.

Came to Chicago from there and spent a week, thence to Des Moines, Iowa, and from there to Omaha. From Omaha to Lincoln, Neb., and then to Denver, Colo. Came from Denver to Salt Lake City, Utah, by the way of Laramie, Rock Springs, and Evanston.

From Salt Lake City to Twin Falls by way of Ogden, Mahad and American Falls. We are driving a Buick 36 runabout, 1914 model of midsize weight is 2140 lbs., ready for the road. We have traveled 6340 miles as per speedometer. Some people may think this mileage, but when they consider we have been nine weeks on the road and using our car every place we stopped, mileage will look different to them.

A line about the Buick car we will say, the only troubles we had were six punctures and two blowouts. Car has always been ready, waiting. It has only used one gallon of common gasoline to every 20 miles traveled, and we feel it has not its equal in any other make for such a trip. We feel highly elated in recommending this car to the many men who inquire how it is standing the trip and that if we were purchasing another car only the Buick people could sell us.

One word about Buick agents. They have treated us with the greatest courtesy possible. This car traveled over 3000 miles before starting said trip. It has not had the front tire off on this trip. Had to get two new rear tires. The front tires are the ones that were on when we purchased car.

J. J. PATTERSON,
R. C. McNITT.

Subscribed and sworn to before me on this 24th day of October, 1914.

J. H. MOREHOUSE,
Notary Public.

You never see a sworn statement regarding the gasoline mileage of other cars. There is a reason. When they do tell of their mileage they do not do it in a sworn affidavit and before a notary public.

At the end of a season's driving it will make some difference if you have been getting from eighteen to twenty-four miles per gallon of gas or only from eight to ten.

IT IS THE DIFFERENCE THAT COUNTS

Let us show you the reason for the Buick Economy.

Oldest Garage and Automobile Firm in Southern Idaho

Six or seven tons of the $2000 ore in the lower tunnel stripped and made a special run on this ore in a few days. Nearly $100,000 has been shipped from the surface workings. The leases on Lincoln and Wilson hills and now several of the mines are being opened at a depth by tunnel or shaft. Several tons of ore in several of these properties and several prospectors have recently taken leases, while others are looking for showings on which to take a lease. W. Gardner on his lease on the Goibam claim has struck into $2000 ore. Henry Purilly opened a foot of good ore in his lease on the Haven claim at a depth of eight feet and sold the lease to L. J. Kather and H. G. Hanson.

The Placer mines and gold prospects on Limerick canyon are not respecting much attention this winter, and nothing is being done in the Sacramento canyon section. Near the head of Spring Valley Creek there are several very promising gold prospects on the surface. Several new finds of gold have been made in Troy and Fisher canyons on the east side of the range and south of American canyon. Jack Hildan, David Farthing and Edward Olin have several locations on the north side of Troy canyon. They have one in hand and leave on the property No. 2 claim to A. E. Ferguson and Fred Cook, who have started work on a 60-foot tunnel in the ledge which on the surface shows some very rich pulpings of free gold. E. J. Reagan has also opened several claims adjoining the Prospect No. 1. Fisher canyon some fine gold specimens have been taken from ground located by Hildan and Olin. Altogether about 200 number of parties are outfitting to go over there and prospect. There is no doubt, but that numerous new discoveries will be made in the Sacramento country around Rochester this spring, as soon as the prospectors can get down into the mines. The ledge which was located, now they are getting down to prospecting work and are doing some digging which promises to disclose rich veins of ore. It is a very prosperous season for the miners of Rochester.

RABIES SPREAD BY COVOTES

Nevada and Oregon Has Had Coyote Scare.
Oregon has been experimenting with the coyotes of the mountain districts of Idaho and Nevada. A net rid of the predatory animals by offering a bounty and failing to make any perceptible headway one of the officials hit upon the bright idea of inoculating the coyotes with serum of rabies. The germus took effect, but there are signs of animals on the range, indicating that they have been afflicted through the bites of mad coyotes, and now Oregon is trying to do the work of the misapplied official.

But that is not all. Oregon alone is not suffering. Reports have been received to that effect that the epidemic is spreading among domestic animals in Idaho and that owners of livestock are warned against the danger of their animals becoming afflicted.

The Winnebago Star says: "Reliable reports have been received that rabies, or hydrophobia, is prevalent among coyotes in the vicinity of McDermit and has occasioned much trouble among stock raisers in that section."

Mad coyotes have for some time caused a reign of terror in central and eastern Oregon according to reports made to Governor Winnebago.

Death to man and beast has followed in the wake of the attacks made by these mad coyotes, and in turn bitten by the rabid animals, the stock and stockmen in the Oregon section mentioned that travel on foot or horseback is declared to be perilous.

It is declared that at Dry Lake, a small village in south central Oregon, that a dog which had been bitten by a mad coyote, and in turn bitten by a man, had killed another person.

The boy died and it was feared that other deaths would follow. Considerable losses are reported among stockmen and state aid is extending to the coyotes has been asked.

The existence of rabies among coyotes in the vicinity of McDermit is a serious matter and steps should be taken by the state and county authorities to stamp out the disease.

It is reported that a mad coyote got into a band of sheep near McDermit about a week ago and bit the shepherd of the animals. The shepherd tried to drive the cat away and was attacked and bitten.

The herder was taken to McDermit and now under the treatment of Dr. Chaney, who is administering the Pasteur serum, which it is hoped will prevent the development of rabies, which would mean the man's almost certain death.—Elko Free Press.
