J. H. H. is supposed to be a duty of masculine pretension but the people of the Twin Falls tract will with a question declare the Greek to be a woman, after a slight retrospect on the weather of May. Dickness has no place in stern masculinity.

The city council on behalf of the G. A. R. is asking the business men to close during the Memorial Day week. It would seem that this mark of respect is fully due to the veterans. The business on that day will not be heavy enough to endanger any loss over the closing.

Canyon county is attempting to make its county fair into a statewide annual exhibit and should have encouragement from the other counties.

The Canyon county fair will add the biggest and best conducted fair in the state, with the best grounds and well-kept grounds and buildings, the logical beginning for a good state association. The need for a state fair as the agricultural and live-stock interests increase is apparent and many believe that such an association would receive fairly support all over the state. All other fairs of this particular would have the same support in the past if it could have recognized the rights of the other sections and not attempted to put over one of two raw deals through the various legislative sessions.

Citizens who have visited the cities of the West of all sizes return with tales of stagnation in business and general depression. Experience of all these citizens confirm the present conditions found in the Twin Falls country until even those who have been slouting hard times the hardest are compelled to stop and admit that this is the best country on earth.

Most of the trouble here is in the minds of the people who do not realize that the so-called progress times of several years ago were not a time to reflect hanging for the return, were abnormally prosperous due to a big influx of outside capital. That outside capital has to some extent been cut off and the result is now almost a normal condition for an agricultural community, with money plentiful in the fall and winter during the growing of the crops. The Twin Falls country is good. There is no reason to be steady and sure. It is by far the best of all things that men are doing in the West. The only trouble is with the people who cannot get over the boom times of the early days and the "easy money" which resulted from an over-stimulated condition. We are fortunate indeed that no bad reaction resulted from the over-stimulation.

A JUST CRITICISM

On a recent trip through the Salmon river and Twin Falls tracts special note was taken of the condition of the roads, especially the main road from Twin Falls to Hoodport. This is a pretty good road, very much better than a few years ago, but one glaring fault that could be easily and cheaply remedied is apparent. Nearly all the private roads, public and private, are about three feet higher than the average roadbed, making some difficult and dangerous places for cars as well as for automobiles. If such outlets were made wider and shallower they would carry 20 to 30 times as much water, or if they had proper outlets they would be able to handle in the same amount of time a much greater volume of water. This is a difficulty every one who has been on a road banked up on either side of a creek had at each side of the bank at the outlet would feel very much in the fall in holding the earth and in maintaining any approach. Work is being done in nearly every place through the Salmon tract, where these banks occur and it would not be a few dollars to correct them. This almost every subject on this particular road. It occurs to the writer that it would be good business to do this, many will do it to make the trip to Contact, other Nevada points and to California right along now, and the improvement would add materially to the popularity of the Central highway of which this portion of the road is a part. THE CITY MANAGER'S TROUBLES

One trouble with running a town on a purely business basis would seem to be that the lawbreaker—or many of them—do not fancy the idea. They are used to the slow and superficial pace of the professional politician, and the more sober but more solid achievements of the engineer-manager do not impress them. They regard the city administration as a kind of show, and they demand plenty of music and dancing, without regard to logic and philosophy. At least this is what we gather from a resume of the papers read at the next convention of city managers at Springfield, Ohio.

The city manager-manager form of government, as a general proposition, seems to have caught the public fancy and it is spreading rapidly. Intelligent city managers will be offered positions as city managers. For their own good and for the good of a movement which is deserving of success they are cautioned to examine themselves thoroughly as to their possession of the requisite qualifications before accepting positions of this character. Many men possess all the mental qualifications, but lack the temperament. Their success as city managers would therefore be highly problematical. Literary Digest.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 9.—COMMERCIAL THRIFT

"The first principal of money-making is money-saving."—John Wannamaker.

One of our most successful merchants says that unless a man is effectively saving he is not a storekeeper and is bound to fail. Stopping the little leaks of waste in the success of the merchant. Only a little margin of waste in the handling of goods is necessary to completely dissipate the small margin of profit, leaving the merchant with only his labor for his pains. It is impossible to point to a single successful merchant or manufacturer who has not a proper regard for the value of money and the importance of thrift in all business relations.

Any beginner in business who does not have this habit instilled in him will not succeed. It is not a matter of profit, leaving the merchant with only his labor for his pains. It is impossible to point to a single successful merchant or manufacturer who has not a proper regard for the value of money and the importance of thrift in all business relations.

WHY IS WOMAN RESTLESS?

DESTINY OF NATIONS DEPENDS UPON CONTENTED HOMES. By W. D. Lewis, President Texas Farmers Union. Why is woman dissatisfied? Why does she grow restless under the crown of womanhood? Why is she weary of the God-given mission of motherhood? Is it not a sufficient political achievement for woman that future rulers nurse at her breast, laugh in her arms and kneel at her feet? Can a nation long be more glorious than that to which millions to the world's greatest geniuses, chant melodies to master minds and rock the cradle of human destiny?

God pity our country when the handshaker of the politician is the grudgingly to woman's heart than the palter of children's feet.

Woman is Ruler Over All.

Why does woman chafe under restraint of sex? Why revile the hand of nature? Why demand the birth that civilization has clung to since this hallowed garment that has wiped the tears of sorrow from the face of childhood is in her breast, whence every generation has hidden its face in shame; clinging to its motherly folds, tottering children have learned to play hide and seek from it. Youth learned to reverence and respect womanhood. Can man think of his mother without this consecrated garment?

Why this inordinate thirst for power? Is not woman all powerful? Man cannot enter this world without her consent, he cannot remain in peace without her blessing and unless she sheds tears of regret over his departure, he has lived in vain. Why this longing for the power which God has made the prerogative of all? Why this authority when man bows down and worships her? Man has given woman his heart, his name and his money. What more does she want?

Can you find it in his heart to look with pride upon the statement that his honorable mother-in-law was one of the most powerful political bosses in the country; that his distinguished father-in-law was one of the ablest filibusters in the Senate or that his mother was a noted warrior, and his name a terror to the enemy? Whither are we drifting and where will we land?

God Save Us From a Hen-Pecked Nation.

I follow the slow for a living and my views may have in them the smell of the soil; my hair is turning white under the weight of many winters and perhaps I am a little old-fashioned, but I believe there is more moral influence in the dress of woman than in all the statute books of the land. An agency for morality, I wouldn't give one prayer of my mainly mother for all the women's votes at Christendom. As an agency for good government, I wouldn't give the plea of a mother's heart for righteousness for all the oaths of office in the land. There is more power in the smile of woman than in an act of congress. There are greater possibilities for good government in her family of laughing children than in the cabinet of the president of the United States.

The destiny of this nation lies in the home and not in the legislative halls. The hearthstone and the family altar remain the source of our inspiration and the Act of the Apostles will ever abide higher than the Act of Congress.

This country is law-made. Why leading to a statute book, already granting us the status of a nation, the system of woman? If we never had a chance to vote again in a lifetime and did not pass another law in twenty-five years, we could survive the ordeal, but without home civilization would wither and die.

God save these United States from becoming a hen-pecked nation; help us keep sense out of Congress and forbid that women become stepmothers to government. In the prayer of the farmers of this country.

A DIVINE COVENANT.

God Almighty gave Eve to Adam with the pledge that she would be his helpmeet and with this order of companionship, civilization has been created. In this relationship, God has blessed woman and man has honored her and after four thousand years of progress, she now proposes to revoke God's decree by asking for divorce, thereby breaking an agreement to which she was a party.

Woman, remember that the Israelites secured a divine covenant, and as a result wandered forty years in the wilderness. Remember that it is a dangerous thing to divorce woman by law. Rome tried lowering woman's standard and an outraged civilization, the clothes off the backs of six hundred million people, were put in the world and unashamed.

TO PREVENT SOIL DRIFTING

First Thing to Do is to Keep Ground Full of Roots.—Organic Matter of Any Kind is Helpful.

THE W. C. FALMER.

In a good many places, when the soil is put in a condition to keep the moisture from evaporating, the soil is in a better condition. This is a serious problem and it will get worse. The first thing to do is to keep the soil full of roots, such as grasses and alfalfa. The roots hold the soil grains together into soil crumbles or little lumps and they cannot blow. They set a good deal as the band about a foot of alfalfa. As long as it is in place the bunch cannot blow, but if the band is broken, then the wind can take the shingles one at a time, and scatter them over a large lot. Organic matter of any kind is helpful; spreading manure, and especially putting it on thin with the manure spreader, is helpful. In case a crop has been cut, the best thing to do is to let it drift, then putting on a thin covering of straw will help.

Winter Feeding of Horses.

On many farms, after the active growing season is over, the horses are made to work that is, they are made to work out their entire livelihood from straw, corn fodder, or any other waste food that may be available. While horses need no energy in winter, they do need food, and the quality of food supplied should be kept up. If the horses are to keep in good order and be ready for the hard work expected of them in the spring.

Building Poultry Houses.

In constructing a poultry house, try to secure the largest pen room at the lowest cost, and remember, if you keep heavy birds to provide for the addition of the next crop, a porch with clean water trough access it at intervals is good enough.

A repetition of your want ad may bring a better offer for that second-hand article.

SILAGE GAINING IN FAVOR

Becoming More Popular for Feeding Cattle and in Some Sections it is Almost a Necessity.

Silage for feeding cattle is becoming more popular every year and throughout many sections has become almost a necessity. There may be some districts in which roughage can be more cheaply supplied in the form of hay; but even then something excellent in the form of silage or roots, is almost essential for the best results. I know of no better combination than clover hay and corn silage. This one seems to be the best combination of the other. Hay is very palatable to cattle and should be fed separately for the sake of variety.

A bunch of cattle getting a good feed night, and morning of cut straw and silage, need 12 hours before feeding, and all the hay they will eat at noon, is about as well off for roughage as is possible. I do not know of any other ration on which cattle can be kept to full all the time without putting them off their feed.

In the early part of the season very little grain should be fed and the allowances gradually increased from week to week. Many farmers make a good deal of grain by overfeeding in the early part of the winter. It is an easy matter to ruin the digestion of a steer by feeding too much corn for any considerable length of time.

It is better to give a little more of better results than any single variety of alone. If cottonseed meal and molasses are to be fed it is a good practice to keep them for a finishing ration.

We're Not at War Here

This country is at peace. Let us talk less of war and more of business. The war bothers us Americans somewhat, of course, but we have the men, the money, the resources and the opportunities so that we can well afford to "gang our ain gain," as the Scotch say.

The Twin Falls Bank and Trust Company wants to do all it can to promote the prosperity of this community and its individual citizens. We are here to help you save and make more money. Will you give us the opportunity to co-operate with you by coming to the bank as often as you can and by keeping your balance on deposit here as large as possible?

MEAD FOR RECLAMATION

Belief in Washington That Noted Engineer Will be Given Place.

Washington, Friday, upon receipt of a dispatch from the department of the interior, it is made that Elwood Mead of Wyoming, one of the best known American authorities on irrigation, and for the next two years in charge of government irrigation work in Australia, is to be placed at the head of the United States reclamation service. This change will not be made immediately but will be worked out gradually by Secretary Lane, whose chief duty is to secure the best organization of the reclamation service.

Mr. Mead, at the instance directly from Secretary Lane, has been given the honorific position in Australia and is on his way back to the United States to assume a chair in engineering at the University of California. But when he gets back Mr. Mead will immediately head the new board of review of the reclamation service, which is to re-visit and re-assess the lands of government irrigation projects in this country, a task that will consume many months and when that work is completed, or soon thereafter, Mr. Mead is expected to become director of the reclamation service.

Paving the Way.

Secretary Lane is not the authority for this promotion for Secretary Lane is not prone to discuss his plans for the future. But it is noted with interest that Secretary Lane is gradually working out the reclamation service, the officials formerly in control and is gradually taking up an entirely new staff. Under Chief of Construction Sydney Williamson, in charge of the new western office at Denver, he has been in the service, and Mr. Williamson in time will probably get rid of Director F. H. Newell, who had been at the head of the reclamation service since its organization. He did not deliberately "fire" Mr. Newell; instead he created the reclamation commission, leaving Mr. Newell as an unpaid director, but the duties of the directorate were largely given to other consultants and Mr. Newell found himself robbed of all authority. In fact, he found himself subordinate to the new men, and his position eventually became unprofitable. When he is no longer certain his dignity and his office, he has up his office.

Commissioner Abolished.

Now Secretary Lane has abolished the reclamation commission, it having accomplished its purpose and the next official to go is Arthur P. Davis, Newell's chief lieutenant, who succeeded him as director. The secretary regards Mr. Davis as a man who more efficient man than Newell but finds him so impregnated with many of the Newell ideas that he wants him out of the service. Davis, who was formerly was chief engineer of the service. When Newell left he became director and chief engineer, but recently Mr. Williamson was named "chief of construction" and Mr. Davis now is merely director, and, like Newell, subject to removal at any time. This is another unusual feat of the service made subordinate to a man in lower position, and thus Mr. Davis is expected to gradually eliminate himself.

With Newell and Davis are going many of the higher salaried engineers of the service, the supervising engineers who had large jurisdiction in the field. These men also were loyal to Newell, but they are to be disposed of on the ground of economy.

When the plan is worked out in the early Elwood Mead will have completed his work as head of the board of review; the work of reorganizing and re-assessing will have been completed. Mr. Davis will no longer be willing to act as subordinate to an official under him, and when the vacancy occurs Elwood Mead will be appointed.

A STRONG ATTRACTION

What the Schumann Quintet is Doing on the Chautauque Circuit.

If there is any organization that can come back to the Schumann quintet, a sterling organization of five artists, with Carl Lamport, for nine years first violin in the Thorburn-Thomson orchestra, as leader, is one of the strongest attractions on the local Chautauque circuit this season. Their idea in presenting "symphonic concerts" with five people is new, but has been highly successful. This is brought about by carrying a specially built road organ which produces unique and surprising effects in adding the reed and wood instrument qualities and harmonies with the other instruments used.

They, Mr. Lamport has a way of telling what can be heard in the classical selection they are about to play which allows his hearers, though they may consider themselves lacking in musical appreciation, to understand a heavy composition and to watch for the things he tells them the composer put into it, and he wins their hearts at once.

In presenting a musical program of the "one of Louis XIV," they appear in powdered wig and with every attention to costume to harmonize. The music of Norway and the countries of the north is given and costume of these countries are worn.

No musical organization is doing more to really educate the people to like the best music and the best of it is that people are finding the education enjoyable.

NEW HOMESTEAD LAW

Interpretation of Enlarged Homestead Act Given by Smith.

Charles W. Smith has been furnished by the commissioner of the general land office with a copy of the regulations governing the administration of the law giving preference right to a prairie homestead under the enlarged homestead law, which was introduced by Mr. Smith. This law makes it possible for any settler to secure a preference right to enter the public lands that finally be determined to be non-irrigable, by filing a formal application at the local land office.

If the land which is desired should be designated in order that entry may be made, either original or additional, the applicant must file a certified copy of the regulations which have heretofore been filed for the designation of land under the enlarged homestead law. It must give the preference right as described, and a new application, accompanied by the fees and commissions must be filed in the local land office in order to secure this preference right. This application will be suspended pending an examination of the land, and should be forwarded through the general land office to the general survey for examination. Satisfaction of the action taken will then be sent through the local land office, and if the land is designated for application to enter the land will be returned; otherwise the filing fee will be returned to the applicant.

This new law will be of the greatest benefit to prospective entrymen and insure him in the land which they have selected. It is designated as being of the character required under the enlarged homestead law. Under the old law the land was thrown open to general entry and the settler for the designation of the land was never certain that he would secure the land, which he had selected.

Mr. Smith has also been furnished by the general land office with a copy of the regulations governing the new law for the relief of entrymen, which he has advocated the past two years. Under these provisions thousands of desert entrymen throughout the arid land states who have been unable to secure water to irrigate the lands, will be able to secure title by paying the land over by cultivation by the dry farm method for three years and the payment of $1.25 per acre to the government. Only one-sixth of the land must be cultivated the second year, and one-eighth the third year. The fee must be permanent improvement on the land amounting to $15 per acre. There were thousands of entries which would have been cancelled because of failure to secure water, but not all have been cancelled. The time within which to offer final proof having expired.

HANSEN NOTES

The Washington highway is beginning to do justice to the name as the concrete work on bridges and culverts is in about 75 per cent. There are thousands of entries which would have been cancelled because of failure to secure water, but not all have been cancelled. The time within which to offer final proof having expired.

Mr. J. P. Hansen and his wife, Mrs. H. S. Beals, departed last Wednesday for Pullman, Washington, a telephone called Mrs. Keith to her mother, who is very ill and is not expected to recover.

Next Sunday Murling is going to send their baby to Idaho to be born. If they can recover the baby which they lost several weeks ago at the hands of war boys, Buck Creek had to be taken to the hospital last Sunday the baby being 15 to 4. A week from next Sunday Ellen and Hansen will visit at Hansen, Lyman Station, as Mrs. Filer Monday and made arrangements for the same. Every is expected to "root" as Filer has a good team and a good lively fight is expected.

Joe J. Hansen, of Buck Creek, arrived from an extended stay at Hot Lake, Oregon, where he has been taking treatments for rheumatism. Mrs. H. S. Beals, departed last Wednesday for Pullman, Washington, a telephone called Mrs. Keith to her mother, who is very ill and is not expected to recover.

Next Sunday Murling is going to send their baby to Idaho to be born. If they can recover the baby which they lost several weeks ago at the hands of war boys, Buck Creek had to be taken to the hospital last Sunday the baby being 15 to 4. A week from next Sunday Ellen and Hansen will visit at Hansen, Lyman Station, as Mrs. Filer Monday and made arrangements for the same. Every is expected to "root" as Filer has a good team and a good lively fight is expected.

PAY YOUR ROAD POLL TAX

Every male inhabitant over the age of 21 and under 50 years of age, is required to pay a road poll tax and on the return or omission of such person to pay same the collector must collect the tax by seizure and sale of any personal property owned by such person. The county commissioners have placed the Road Poll Tax for 1915 on the return or omission of such person to collect such tax. All persons subject to the tax will attend to the payment of the same promptly. J. HOWARD HEINE, May 21, County Treasurer.

RAISING BABY PHEASANTS

W. R. Priebe Has Success With Game Birds. W. R. Priebe has an interesting sight at his home on Seventh avenue east, in a large brood of baby Chinese pheasants which he has hatched from eggs with the aid of several hiddens. Some time ago, Mr. Priebe secured several live pheasants and started to raise the rare game birds for the market. This spring all of the hens have been laying and as a result over fifty eggs have been given over to the hatching power of lame hens. The first of this week the first setting began to break through the shells and twelve tiny little baby pheasants are now scratching for worms, while several other broods are expected to join the crowd within a short time. The little pheasants do not resemble the full grown birds in the slightest and would make for ordinary chicks save for pronounced and uniform stripings on the back.

NOTICE!

For the convenience of our patrons we have opened a cream receiving station up town at 210 Shoshone street, and will pay the highest market price for cream, eggs and poultry. LINCOLN PRODUCE & REFRIGERATING COMPANY. May 21.

Postal Account by Mail
Depositor Need Not Appear at Post Office in Person.

Every person in the United States can now open an account with the post office in a postal savings bank after July 1st, according to an instructive leaflet issued by Postmaster General G. W. Stewart. This important extension of the service will be made possible by permitting persons living in countries abroad to open an account and to justify the designation of their local post offices as regular postal savings banks to open accounts by mail.

Government Inspector (third assistant) Postmaster general, who has direct supervision of postal savings, was so impressed by the appeal made by the country to open postal savings accounts by mail that he took up the task some weeks ago of working out possible and safe methods for meeting a demand well illustrated in a letter from a Sallie county Missouri, who resides many miles from a postal savings bank.

"Having a few hundred dollars saved from fifty years of hard and arduous labor and skimming cream on the part of my wife and myself, we concluded to deposit it in the Postal Savings Bank of America. I wrote to the postmaster at that place and received reply to the effect that none but patrons of that office could deposit money in the office, which was disappointing news to us. Our little farm is not large enough to support us and land is so high that it is impossible to raise anything but a few little we have saved and we are so old that we can't afford much now and we thought it best to lay by it until we could put it away in decency."

Under the plan adopted by the postmaster general for opening accounts by mail an interested depositor, who lives where there is no regularly designated postal savings bank, will apply to his local postmaster, who will see that necessary identification data is prepared and forwarded to a nearby postoffice authorized to accept deposits. The interested depositor will then be given permission to forward the first and subsequent deposits by mail under the postmaster's receipt to the postmaster at the banking point for which receipts or certificates will be issued. He may withdraw all or part of his postal savings by mail and on demand together with any interest that may be due him.

The local post office will see that any person ten years old or over may open an account in his or her own name; that an account may be opened by a married man, one from his own funds or interference by her husband; that post office officials are forbidden to receive money by depositors; that the postmaster, the amount of any deposits; that withdrawals may be made without any interest; and that the local post office will see that any person ten years old or over may open an account in his or her own name; Circillo and His World Renowned Band Coming Back

LAST year the whole country was searched for a better band than had ever been brought to the western slope before. Circillo's Concert Band was selected, and the choice was promptly indorsed by the patrons of sixty Chautauqua, all the cities in which Circillo appeared. An insistent demand arose for his return, and the result is that Circillo's Band, improved and enlarged, has been engaged for the 1915 season. This is the only attraction of thirty on the program of the last assembly which returns this year. The success of this band is hard to analyze, for it depends on so many superior characteristics. The greatest is the leader himself. He transmits his magnetic, forceful personality to his players to a degree that is rare, even among great band leaders. The work of this conductor is full of life and vitality. Every effect is a superlatively. His dimenidos are light as the flutter of a bird's wing, though every instrument is sounded, and his crescendos are powerful and climactic. Whether playing popular or classic selections, the full power and melody are brought out so the listener catches the true spirit of the composer. All will be glad of another opportunity to hear Circillo's Band.

"Il Trovatore" Grand Opera Soloists

EVERY true music lover loses the concert grand opera companies and in Twin Falls, Idaho, the soloists of "Il Trovatore" are presented by this company of singers, a truly wonderful performance. An advance report of this program describes the Anvil Chorus. While darkness reigns on the stage the voices continue. In the accompaniment of the band, and four heavy men, sustained blacksmiths, beat anvils, while sparks produced by electrical connections flash from various parts of the stage.

"The Story Beautiful," Presented By Father Patrick J. MacCorry

ONE of the masterpieces on the present day American platform is "The Story Beautiful," presented by Father Patrick J. MacCorry, entitled "The Story Beautiful" is one of the great popular Lyceum orators of the present generation and has a number of lectures, but his "Story Beautiful" is the finest of them all. This is an art education in itself, being illustrated by dissolving slides of world famous pictures. A musical setting accompanies this program. "The Story Beautiful" comes with Chautauqua week, and four people are required to present it.
