

BORAH BOOM IS GROWING

East Looks Westward for Presidential Timber

COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY ADMS NEAR OF PRAISE

Eastern Statesmen and Eastern People Said to Regard Borah as the Strongest Available.

The demand for United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho as Republican presidential candidate in 1916 is becoming general over the country...

The most remarkable aspect of the situation is the fact that the political possibilities is the heightened position of Senator Borah of Idaho. There has been no political talk in any newspaper more interesting or accurate than this from the Boston Transcript.

From All Parts of the Country. What does this call for Borah means it is coming from all parts of the country.

There is a senator who has neither an organization nor abundant wealth. He has not announced his candidacy for the presidency...

People Doing Own Thinking. It has come in the last few months and without the semblance of an effort on his own part...

Senator Borah, of course, profits first by the announcement of Justice Hughes that he will under no circumstances accept the nomination...

VETERAN EDITOR STRICKEN. J. W. Jones, of Hilly Star, Suffers Paralytic Stroke.

Late yesterday afternoon word was received that J. W. Jones, editor and publisher of the Hilly Star...

For years Editor Jones has been a prominent figure in newspaper and political circles in the upper Snake river valley.

Hosts of friends are anxiously awaiting news of his latest and complete recovery.

The money collected by the city although in the form of the various sewerage improvement districts were formed by the city and turned over to a commission of three business men...

From All Parts of the Country. What does this call for Borah means it is coming from all parts of the country.

While the United States is being so firm with Germany it would be well to remind Secretary Bryan that a little firmness with England will not come amiss. Politic notes to the demoralizing English government have so far been wasted and have produced little of permanent good.

TREATING ALL ALIKE

Deputy Game Warden Fitzmaurice for this county is doing splendid work in stopping the violation of the state game laws. Mr. Fitzmaurice is utterly fearless in punishing every person who fishes without a license and prominent citizens must take their medicine when caught violating any section of the law.

The silent traffic policeman on the corner of Main and Shawnee is an innovation of the new administration that apparently is accomplishing a vast amount of good. Most of the automobilists are very carefully avoiding the knocking over of the sign and in order to do so must make the turn in the right direction.

The German-speaking labor papers are strong for peace at any price—and manifest, as they have done since the war began, a strongly anti-German tone. A good example is found in the views of the New York Volks-Zeitung, which says:

WHERE THE GERMAN-AMERICANS STAND

"Entirely justified" is the verdict that is passed by German-American papers upon the sinking of the Lusitania. "Germany's right to act, without immediate notice, a merchant vessel carrying contraband of war," is this section of American opinion, so obvious that it hardly merits discussion, though a number of papers agree that the warning issued by the German embassy fulfills that obligation of giving notice demanded by international law.

"Going to the Mill" - A section of the newspaper with a large question mark.

action, if any, that should be taken; and finally, what would be the attitude of American citizens of German descent in the event of any conflict between the United States and Germany—an eventuality regarded as extremely improbable.

"German action within her rights after giving preliminary wide-spread notice to shipping interests by establishing a war-zone, which action she supplemented by special public notice to American travelers prior to this sailing...Responsibility rests with England and the Canal line for attempting to use Americans as human shields to guard ammunition-supplies on an English auxiliary cruiser."

"The New York Staats-Zeitung goes further and asks if the loss of the Lusitania was not deliberately planned by England to obtain the assistance of neutrals:

"Was it part of the plan by means of the sinking of the Lusitania, with its many American passengers, so as to unite the neutrals of the world—Italy, Holland, the Scandinavian countries, the Balkans, and even South America—in an offensive and defensive alliance that should be directed under the war-cry of the rights for neutrals against Germany and against Germany's submarine warfare?"

"The New York Herald holds that the loss of Americans on British ships can not rightly be used as a basis of a protest, as there is no doctrine of international law stating that the presence of neutrals on belligerent ships renders immunity from attack. It then proceeds:

"If it were really the case that the presence of one or more Americans on board a British ship could confer immunity upon the ship, its crew and cargo, then Germany's sea offensive against England would be completely nullified, as England would enter upon every ship a pair of immunity-Americans. This is simply absurd."

The St. Louis Mirror Post notes warily that England is trying to entrap us:

"Because England herself is powerless, the United States is to be provoked into war with Germany. As it stands today the chances of such an eventuality are very small, but the Washington government will act very carefully before taking decisive steps."

The German-speaking labor papers are strong for peace at any price—and manifest, as they have done since the war began, a strongly anti-German tone. A good example is found in the views of the New York Volks-Zeitung, which says:

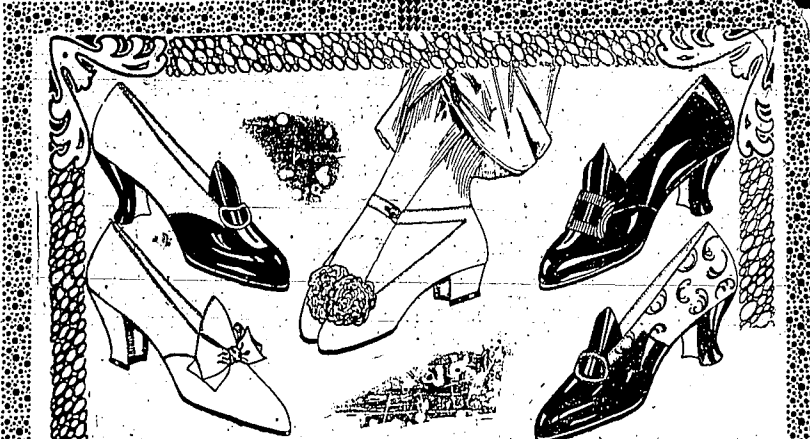

"The workers can have no interest in a war. They stand to lose for all—lives, homes, jobs, families, happiness. Therefore it is the duty of American Americans to fight the campaign of fear and hate. It is not a question of excusing the German act. That cannot be excused. But we can not believe the dead American passengers to life by sending unknown thousands of soldiers to an early grave. After all, there are other methods of punishing Germany for her wanton slaughter. 'Down with war! Peace at all costs!' that must be the slogan of the American workman."

Another New York paper is strongly against any idea of war, says the Democratic Journal:

"It is terrible that women and children and non-combatants should be sacrificed in the horrors of this war, and it is just as horrible that men should be killed and maimed. It is not an essential difference whether these men wear uniforms or not. We do not forget that the sinking of the Lusitania is merely an incident in this dreadful war. The difference between the United States and Germany can be settled by diplomatic means, and the best solution would be to stop this world-war altogether."

The Fatherland calls for the impeachment of the secretary of state: "Instead of urging the president to take steps against Germany, we should impeach the secretary of state for his neglect of duty in not warning all Americans of the peril of such a trade in the war-zone, especially under the flag of a belligerent nation. If the secretary of state, in accordance with the Mexican precedent, had issued such a warning, not a single American life would have been forfeited."

"This author, who predicted, specifically the sinking of the Lusitania a few days before the event, now proceeds to further prophesies: "So innocent passengers should be allowed to embark on a vessel carrying explosives. It stands in reason that a fate not unlike that of the Lusitania will most before long a passenger-ship by an explosion of vast stores of ammunition within. While Germany is not bound to respect a flag of any ship carrying implements of murder, German submarines may discriminate in favor of a neutral flag. Spontaneous combustion recognizes no international convention." "When Germany determines upon a plan of action she means business.

PRISONERS DOING WORK. With 400 acres of land cleared, 200 acres in wheat, 76 acres in oats, 16 acres of wheat in alfalfa and some seven acres in potatoes the prisoners' camp on the state land in the Gem irrigation project in Owyhee county is demonstrating the policy of working prisoners who can be treated outside of the prison walls.

Warden John Snook of the penitentiary returned last night from the Gem project having taken over a prisoner by the name of Workman to take the place of Redford, the prisoner who violated the rules of the penitentiary and escaped from the camp, but was later recaptured. He inspected the camp and crops and returned well satisfied.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Diseases of Adult Life.

Sanitation has achieved brilliant results in decreasing the disease due to germs which for the most part affect children and young people, and the death rate among young people have notably diminished. It is the time that attention was turned to the diseases of later life which are, actually on the increase among us.

In England and Wales the death rates at all ages are decreasing. In the United States they are decreasing at ages under forty-five and rapidly increasing at ages over forty-five.

The diseases of later life are for the most part not germ diseases but diseases due to wearing out of the body and particularly to the wearing out of the heart and blood vessels and kidneys. It is possible that the change in the racial composition of our population, due to immigration, has something to do with the increase of these diseases. It is probable that the stress and strain of modern life has much to do with it. The fact remains that such an increase is going on and that it can be checked by observing the laws of personal hygiene.

The breakdown of the bodily machine before the attainment of normal old age is generally due to excessive use of the body, to too little and too little exercise, too much work and too much food.

There is an abundance of fresh air to keep it in good condition. People who live much out of doors and who sleep out of doors or with their windows open, suffer much less from disease than those who remain themselves in close-lit rooms.

The body needs plenty of exercise to keep it in good condition. Half an hour's vigorous physical exercise each day will tone up the lungs and heart and blood vessels as nothing else can do. Exercise in the open air is the best kind of all.

It is not hard work that kills, but continuous work and proper rest and recreation will enable a man to accomplish more and keep well. When the Johns Hopkins men in Java changed from a nine-hour to an eight-hour day the employees accomplished more work in the short day than they had in the long day before.

Overeating is as bad as under-eating. When overeating, and particularly the eating of too much meat, is combined with lack of exercise, the body may be half poisoned by products of decay from the intestine, efficiency impaired, and disease brought on.

Moderation is the key to health—moderation in work and play, in eating and drinking—moderation in all things. One should not wait until diseases of the heart and arteries have once developed to think of these things. The formation of healthy habits of living in youth is the best way to prevent the diseases of middle life, but it is never too late to mend.

Sure Throat.
Take no chances when a sore throat. Call in the doctor—it may be diphtheria.

If your child has a sore throat be sure to call in the doctor. Only a doctor can decide whether or not the case is one of diphtheria. If the doctor says that antitoxin should be used, see that this is done; it may save the child's life. In the days before we had antitoxin, one out of three children who had diphtheria died. Now if antitoxin is used on the first or second day of the disease, ninety-eight out of every hundred children recover. The sooner diphtheria is attended to, the more certain is the cure.

A child should not be allowed to get out of bed until the doctor permits. Diphtheria may affect the heart if the child gets up too soon. In these things and you will protect your own and other people's children.

Wetting the Fingers.
I desire to call attention through the medium of your columns to a doubtful practice of the frequenters of the reading rooms of the public library. I refer to the disgusting habit of wetting the fingers in order to turn the pages of a book. This not only causes the immediate result of soiling the books, but also the ultimate effect of spreading all forms of disease. This may seem a trifling matter, but I believe many cases of sickness might be traced to this source. Notices prohibiting the practice should be posted in all libraries as conspicuously as those prohibiting spitting.—Richard S. Wormser, in N. Y. Times.

Does your neighborhood look brighter and cleaner this week than it did last? If not, why not?
This is the season when nature is busy beautifying things, and we should do our share in making our surroundings as clean and attractive as possible.

If babies are worth having, they are worth saving.
Get after that mummy-gills-right away, for if it has been there long it will soon be tearing out swarms of disease-spreading flies.

By the way, a cold sponge and shower will do you good. It is strengthening, invigorating and will protect you against colds and colds are the forerunners of pneumonia. Pneumonia caused our highest death-rate last year.

HANSEN NOTES

We are sorry to hear that there will be no graduation exercises in Honesda this year owing to objections offered by the school board. Miss Havenport worried diligently with the class, so as to be able to give the community a good entertainment and she is very sorry to have to give it up. Mr. Hansen, who had charge of the school this year has been re-engaged for the coming year, all other teachers who taught here this year are going to leave. We did not very much to lose them as they have done good work. Mr. Pettigrove has resigned his connection with the school board. Probably the largest shipment of lumber—twine—received in this town was received by Ora McVey this week. He purchased a car of 24,000 pounds.

Among those registered at the Overland Inn this week are: I. C. Galt, Mrs. O. J. H. Fowler, Salt Lake; Geo. L. Drouil, Salt Lake; E. F. Malin, Odessa; Arthur Biddle, Bear Lake; Gus Baker, Twin Falls; J. C. Moore, Twin Falls; Herbert Kille, Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble were surprised by a number of friends last Saturday evening. All present report a pleasant evening.

Miss Elva Fox, of Tacoma, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. St. Burkhalter spent the weekend at Hurley with friends. On her return home Sunday, she was accompanied by Miss Grace Johnson, of Hurley. They were entertained at six o'clock dinner Sunday evening by Mrs. Burkhalter.

Among the visitors to Twin Falls Monday were Miss Clegg and Joe Frohlich.

Hansen was in a state of excitement Sunday evening and the cause for the excitement was a large column of smoke that was issuing from the basement of H. S. Beal's general store. The smoke attracted the attention of a passerby, who gave the alarm to the telephone office and in a short time a bucket brigade was formed and the blaze was local and extinguished before much serious damage was done. The damage amounted to about $250. It is believed the fire started in a case of matches.

Martaugh sent their baseball team to Hansen last week to try it a round of two with the boys here in spite of the rain wind and mud. Some of the Martaugh boys were laid up and consequently they were greatly handicapped. The Hansen kids walked away with the game to the tune of 14 to 5. The game was called in the 6th inning on account of rain. Elmer will play here next Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Everybody come.

Aggressive use of the properties in or near the town will result good results, in or out of seasons, and practically cut out losses from vacancies.

WATER REQUIREMENTS OF FERTILE VERSUS INFERTILE SOILS.

(By E. H. FAHNS, D. RECK, Supt. Twin Falls Experiment at SD 7)

The following experiment was conducted upon the Twin Falls station during the season of 1914. The object of this experiment was to determine what effect fertilization has upon irrigation requirements of soil to yield six sub-plots of approximately 0.1 acre each were devoted to this experiment. Three of these plots were irrigated and the other three were not irrigated during the season. The three remaining sub-plots were not fertilized, being just the raw soil, 1 acre each, 2 acre feet and 3 acre feet of water during the season. Water was applied to three sets of plots respectively, 1 acre foot, 2 acre feet and 3 acre feet of water, and one unfertilized constituted a set of plots. Marquis wheat was sown at the rate of 125 lbs per acre on April 3rd. The results of this experiment are shown in a table which follows. It is to be noted that only 15.67 cords of manure per acre were applied, and as such a difference in water requirements was obtained. It is only fair to believe that this difference would have been greater had the manure been in a higher state of fertilization. The following table shows the irrigation details of the experiment.

Fertility Experiment, Marquis Wheat Plots Nos. 1 and 10, 1914.

Table with 5 columns: Method of Treatment, No. of Plots, Area of Acre, Irrigation, Yield per Acre, Yield Wt., and other details. Rows include Unfertilized, Fertilized, and other treatments.

All sub-plots harvested on July 25, except sub-plots Nos. 1, which were harvested on July 28th. Threatened ripening were: Sub-plots Nos. 1, 7-26; Sub-plots Nos. 2, 7-24; Sub-plots Nos. 3, 7-23.

difference between the maximum and minimum irrigated sub-plots. Few crops there was a very noticeable difference in the yields of the fertilized minimum and the unfertilized maximum irrigated plots. The former produced approximately 16.5 per cent more grain per acre and received but 33 per cent as much water during the season. The results of this experiment would seem to strengthen the theory that "less water would be required to produce a maximum yield of crops upon fertile than upon unfertile soil." It should be noted that only 15.67 cords of manure per acre were applied, and as such a difference in water requirements was obtained. It is only fair to believe that this difference would have been greater had the manure been in a higher state of fertilization. The following table shows the irrigation details of the experiment.

Table with 5 columns: Sub-plot, Lease, Sec. Twp., Rec., Impr., and App'd. Value. Lists various sub-plots and their associated values.

Electric Iron $2.75

A Large Shipment of ACME Armored Electric Sad Irons. GUARANTEED For All Time.

Here is the secret of the wonderful iron. Here is the reason why it does the work quicker, cheaper, easier and better. Figure it out for yourself. It is just simple, plain common sense!

An electric iron receives a set amount of electric current just as an electric lamp does, therefore the supply of heat to it is just the same in amount. It does not vary, but the amount of heat taken by the work does vary. Some pieces take so much heat that the iron cools down in working. On the other hand, other pieces take much less heat, therefore the iron gets hotter while working. There are no two pieces of work that take the same amount of heat as the iron receives, therefore the iron must be a reservoir for heat. It must absorb the constant supply and hold it where it can be drawn on as needed. It is the heavy base which the ACME IRON has that acts as the reservoir. The ACME IRON has twice the weight in metal that any other iron has, therefore it takes twice as long to cool down. You don't have to nurse it along on heavy work, but can plug right along on practically any piece and not be delayed.

To get a smooth, easy running iron, you have to have an even heat while working and that means a hot point and hot edges when standing idle. Half the entire supply of heat goes into the edges outside of the Element Slots. In the ACME IRON there is just as much heat going into the iron where it narrows down as there is in the back where it is heavier.

The ACME gets the most heat where the heat is needed most.

It not only shows a perfect hot-point but it shows hot edges as well.

The ACME IRON has the Armored cord, a patent feature which no other iron has and which will save you the whole cost of the iron in the saving of cord repair cost.

Actually it is far cheaper to buy the ACME ELECTRIC IRON at its cost price than it would be to accept any other iron as a gift.

Owing to the fact that we are able to purchase these irons in large quantities, we are able to sell them cheaper. Therefore, we are selling the ACME ELECTRIC IRON, which retails for $3.75 at a reduction of $1.00, making it cost the consumer but $2.75.
