GERMANY WANTS AN UNDERSTANDING

Claims Lusitania Carried Guns Below Decks

DEMANDS OF UNITED STATES ARE IGNORED

Final Decision on Requests of America Withheld Pending Explanation, Text of Note.

Berlin—Germany withholds its final decision on the demands advanced by the United States government in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania until the receipt of an answer from the United States in the note which Herr von Jagow, the foreign minister, has delivered to Ambassador Gerard, in reply to the American note received by the German government on June 10.

In its reply the German government declares that it is not its intention to submit neutral ships in the war zone, which are guilty of no hostile acts, to attack by submarines or airplanes; that it is investigating the submarine in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania, and that in all cases where neutral vessels, through their own fault, have been damaged, Germany will pay indemnification.

The following is the text of the note which the German government has submitted to the United States government in connection with the refusal of the British government to end the submarine warfare, failed of their purpose because of the refusal of the British government to accept the German proposal.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Will Furnish Free Treatment For Rabies.

The state board of health will furnish treatment for persons bitten by rabid (mad) animals without charge, other than the small express charges from Washington.

The only restriction placed on the treatment by the U. S. public health service is that it must be administered at the state laboratory in Boise.

Persons desiring treatment should telegraph or phone Dr. Ralph Falk, secretary or Dr. E. E. Johnson, bacteriologist, Boise.

What is Best to do. For the patient, the wound should be immediately cauterized with nitric acid and dressed antiseptically. If the wound is deep, involving the perforation of the eye it should be washed with bichloride of mercury solution. As the organism causing rabies is usually present in the theoretically a saturated solution of quinine would be an ideal dressing. However, this is purely preventative, do not depend on possible or fortunate.

For the animal, it should never be killed. It should be confined in some enclosure from which it is impossible for it to make its escape, and kept in confinement for a definite length of time, and if the dog is ill it will certainly die. Animals killed before death occurs do not show gross microscopic lesions, and the Negri bodies are exceedingly difficult to find without animal inoculation, which occupies so much time that it does not admit of any immediate treatment of the patient. If the animal does not show any symptoms of rabies after being confined for a week or ten days, the matter may be dismissed.

In killing a rabid animal, do not shoot it in the head or club its brains out. The part of the brain where the Negri bodies are most easily found is in the hippocampus major or minor, and you can readily see that ramified brains are difficult to examine. After the animal is dead, separate the head from the body and, if possible, park it in ice and send it immediately to the laboratory of the state board of health at Boise. Whenever possible, send by messenger, and never under any circumstances by parcel post. When the distance is great and there will be delay in reaching the laboratory it is better to remove the brain, immerse it in a clean glass jar and cover with a 50 per cent solution of glycerine and water. This preserves the brain and does not interfere with the staining or microscopic examination. Upon receiving the report that the brain has been found rabid, the person bitten should report immediately to the state board of health for treatment.

"Twilight Sleep." The pros and cons have in their anxiety to cut-out one another have published articles filled with the most extravagant promises of the so-called "twilight sleep."

One of the famous maternity hospitals of the country has issued the following on "twilight sleep."

"The prolongation of labor, the interference in the number of fetal aspirates, the excessive distention of the uterine musculature that is an distressing, the difficult control of patients and avoidance of infection, the more frequent hemorrhages, the increased violence, the ghastly delirium persisting for days, the making of symptoms such as hemorrhage, rupture of the womb, and even a fatal result, all these are not to be regarded as the advantages and uncertainties of the 'twilight sleep' the general, had impression given to women who are being taught to approach 'the horrors of labor' in fear and trembling, constitutes so severe and arraignment of this treatment of labor cases that we feel compelled to condemn it."

Desires All the Facts. In the interest of a clear and complete understanding which is the aim of both governments...

The government of the United States proceeds on the assumption that the Lusitania could be treated as an ordinary unarmed merchantman...

It is further known to the Imperial government, from trustworthy reports from its agents and neutral passengers...

The Imperial government further has the honor to direct the particular attention of the American government to the fact that the British note in a confidential instruction issued in February, 1915...

WHY NOT Recognize Ship Ship. The Imperial government, in view of these facts indubitably known to it, is unable to regard British merchantmen in the same manner as the merchantmen specified by the admiralty staff of the German navy as "undefended."

Justifies Its Action. "The German government believes that it is acting in justified self-defense in seeking with all means at its disposal to protect the lives of its soldiers by destroying ammunition intended for the enemy."

The British shipping companies must have been aware of the danger to which the passengers aboard the Lusitania were exposed under these conditions. The company in question, notwithstanding this, attempted deliberately to use the lives of American citizens as protection for the ammunition and munitions...

Quick Sinking of Vessel. "There can be no doubt, according to the British report, that the Lusitania's commander, which is further confirmed by other information that the quick sinking of the Lusitania was primarily attributable to the explosion of the ammunition ship carried as a torpedo. The last tanks passengers would otherwise, in all human probability, have been saved."

The Imperial government considers the above narrative to be important enough to recommend them to the attentive examination of the American government.

Final Decision Withheld. The Imperial government, while withholding its final decision on the demands advanced in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania until receipt of an answer from the American government, felt compelled, inasmuch as to recall here and now, to make a statement with satisfaction of the necessary provisions of the Lusitania's return to Berlin and London as a basis for further negotiations...

NOTICE TO PAINTERS. Notice is hereby given that bids will be received for painting the bridge in Twin Falls, Idaho, on June 10, 1915, at 10 o'clock a. m. by H. W. Redman, 4 South 2d street, from Twin Falls, Idaho.

IDAHO'S MOSES

He Refused to Proclaim Memorial Day, Not Filled to Split Eloquence.

One Moses Alexander, by grace of the devil in the matter of Republican National government, governor of the state of Idaho, refused and failed to recognize Memorial Day of the year 1915...

Governor Moses may have been born in the United States, or he may have been born in a foreign country. We do not know. That wherever or however, the untoward accident of his birth, we do know that he has not heretofore been a citizen of the United States...

It is not known, but it is an infidelity to say that he has never thought upon the subject.

General Managers (Calvin, of the Short Line, on an Inspection Trip.

"While traffic is comparatively quiet at this time of year, which is unusual, there is promise for a better season for Idaho than it has known in years."

When the general manager made the reference to the "best season" there was a glint of humor in his eye and he smiled in philosophic manner.

A special of three service cars came to the city, morning from Salt Lake. A few minutes afterward left for the Idaho division on a trip of inspection.

RIVER RUNNING LOW.

The recent rains have had little effect on the flow of Snake river. The stream was steadily falling up to the time the storms began and only within the last few days it showed any increased flow, which at this time is very slight.

PUT IDAHO BUTTER ON MAP

Flower Plan of Mrs. Alice Cooksey Copied at Frisco Fair.

San Francisco—Idaho's horticultural exhibit of the fair is attracting marked and unusual attention. The exhibit covers the fruit products of the state completely. It is unsurpassed in its displays from Oregon and Washington, but the consensus of opinion here is that Idaho's horticultural exhibit takes the palm. It is arranged most tastefully and is well kept up.

One of the most remarkable and valuable exhibits on the grounds in the Golden Gate butter exhibit, consisting of the various flowers made from butter. There are lilacs, roses and various other flowers. Their native colors and fragrances appear before this exhibit and very long.

Idaho has the glory in a large way of that remarkable exhibit. The artist is Mrs. Alice Cooksey of Twin Falls. The making of flowers from butter was an original conception of Mrs. Cooksey's. She decorated the tables for a number of state agricultural exhibitions at Twin Falls a few years ago. It was Mrs. Cooksey's ambition to make Idaho famous by the flower exhibit of Idaho butter.

Through the thoughtfulness that sometimes happens this opportunity was lost to the state. There is a whole lot of butter in the grounds and one of the first features is that after the butter has been used for decorative purposes in the most beautiful flowers it can be made with a refresh. Mrs. Cooksey has pledged her assistance in the decorative work for anything in which she is interested. She is a capable artist and her work is indeed artistic—Statesman.

ABOUT SEASON TICKETS

High Class Concert or Lecture Heard for the Price of a "Jinney."

Isn't it about time for you to be thinking about your season ticket to the chautauqua? Your young people, who are so fond of every entertainment of the whole week—about thirty-five in all, and you will get a lasting pleasure and entertainment from them. You will have a better understanding of literature and a wider appreciation of good music, a wider understanding of literature and a wider appreciation of good music, a wider understanding of literature and a wider appreciation of good music.

When the average cost of these entertainments is only seven or eight or ten cents a piece, it would be profitable to miss them. The way to get them at this price, rather than pay fifty cents a dollar for some of the best ones, that you will attend anyway, is to get a season ticket before noon of the opening day.

When you have the money a ticket will cost you, and you can make up your mind a day less and besides being better off for it you will have saved the price of a season ticket for yourself and your family. The result of this practice some economy and attain the same result, or bustle a little harder to make good money.

Be assured that you will want that season ticket when the time comes to buy it and by taking thought now you will have it.

HIGHWAY CREW AT KIMBERLY

Work Is Now Completed From Cassia County Line to Hannen.

William Harkins, the state highway contractor, moved one of his camps into Kimberly this week and they have pitched their tents northeast of the Electric Power plant. Work is now being done on the road between here and Hannen and between here and Twin Falls. Mr. Harkins stated in a call reporter that if everything goes well he will have the road to the Falls completed by the first of June. He will then be working on Twin Falls and build the road from the west limits of the county seat to the Buhl-Independent road district, about three miles to the east of Buhl. This road will be completed by July first.

Mr. Harkins believes it is expected that work on the strip between the Independent road district at Buhl will be completed by the time Mr. Harkins gets through with his work west of Twin Falls, thus finishing the road through Twin Falls county.

"When work was begun it was expected that it would continue the highway call for a thirty foot road, and since the streets of Kimberly are six feet wide negotiations were entered into with Mr. Harkins to have the entire sixty feet paved. Satisfactory arrangements were made. The possible company agreeing to pay the proportion for the grading of the extra thirty feet.

The highway through Kimberly extends for a quarter of a mile down Main street to the corner of Main and Center street, and there is a quarter of a mile on Center street. Kimberly Call.

There's no better covering for a house, than the right kind of cedar shingles.

And if they are to be especially all over, as they were in this case, it's especially important that they be good. Extra wide shingles tend to split and "cup."

Likewise if they are cut from cross, curly-grained wood.

If they are to be durable and weather-resisting, they must not be liable to death in the dry-kill. That drives the life out of the wood.

In short, there's a mighty difference in shingles.

DAIRY FACTS

WINTER FEED FOR THE COWS

Important for Dairyman to Provide an Abundance of Different Feeds to Keep Up Milk Flow.

(By Dr. H. W. Weatherston) During the winter months it is generally found difficult to provide such food as is necessary for the dairy cow to keep up the regular flow of milk. At this season of the year feed is generally scarce—the proper kind for the dairy cow—and that which we have on hand is often of an inferior quality. After cutting off the green fresh grass they do not relish such dry feed and being of an inferior quality one will soon notice a great decrease in the flow of milk.

For this reason it is very important for the farmer to try to provide an abundance of different feeds to make up for this dry or inferior feed. Of course the flow of milk cannot be kept up to what they give during the spring and summer when pastured, but with plenty of first-class hay, such as alfalfa and good clover, and fine feed of bran and corn meal kept on hand that it may be fed liberally two or three times a day as a staple feed will not be so much decreased in the milk supply after all. That is, if it is given to them liberally and regularly. Do not think it is a waste to feed such feed when there isn't anything else dry hay of some kind to feed on. On the latter, the cow can barely maintain her flesh, much less keep up the milk supply.

When we have good clover hay and alfalfa, not so much of the bran, feed or meal is required, as both when cured properly, are very strong feeds and cattle thrive on them.

I am not going to attempt to give the amount that should be fed, as I leave that for the dairyman to decide for himself. What I wish to impress upon the reader's mind is this: The necessity of having on hand always a supply of bran, meal, fine feed, etc., mixed with the dry hay or corn feed, which is generally of an inferior quality, fed at this season of the year.

Without the above feed mentioned, it is impossible for the dairyman to obtain good results during the season when cattle are not pastured.

TASK OF DEHORNING CATTLE

Operation is Most Frequently Performed to Prevent Animals From Injuring Each Other.

Cattle have been dehorned since about 1720. The operation sometimes is performed to remove horns that are broken or otherwise injured, but most frequently it is to prevent horned animals from injuring one another. Usually it is considered justifiable on account of the benefits that are derived from the operation.

The growth of horns on calves may be prevented entirely by the liberal use of a strong solution of ordinary lye; or if the use of a solution is not desirable it can be purchased at drug stores in the form of sticks known as caustic potash. This should be applied immediately after birth to the place where the horn makes its appearance. Care should be exercised in using lye and this remedy because lye will eat away all the skin with which it comes in contact.

Various kinds of instruments are used for the removal of the horns of older animals. If an ordinary saw is used it should be sharpened and, as with lenses the danger of splintering the bones of the head during the operation. If a large number of animals are dehorned, quicker and safer work can be done with a "dehorning instrument." This can be purchased of any veterinary supply company for $7.50 to $10.

It is best not to dehorn during the dry season. Sometimes the horn is cut by the use of a "dehorning instrument," but because of the magnetics of flies are prevalent. The animal suffers tremendously if this happens, and there is a rapid loss in condition. It is easier to dehorn during a small piece of cotton, around the neck, may be applied to the wound and held in place by means of a bandage around the head. This also is of great value if excessive bleeding follows the operation. If necessary, cotton can be put to the cavities of the head they should be washed out with a weak, watery solution of ordinary dip.

A single telephone connected with no other is about the most useless thing in the world; but connect it with one other and both at once become serviceable.

The more telephones connected together through an exchange, the more valuable is the service of each individual telephone.

Likewise, the service of a telephone exchange having no connection with the exchanges of other communities is of very little value.

To furnish service of the highest efficiency and greatest value every exchange must be connected by Long Distance lines with every other exchange, and every telephone with every other telephone.

These Long Distance lines, in this western country, must necessarily traverse rugged mountains and desert plains—lines expensive to construct and costly to maintain.

In the territory of this company, 82,916 miles of Long Distance lines connect over 397 exchanges and 237,000 telephones.

That is what makes possible Universal Service. That is what makes YOUR service valuable.

The Woodmen dance last Friday evening was liberally patronized, everyone attending in an enjoyable manner. The music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra, Miss Georgia Saller at the piano, Nell Hazard, violon, and Ray Hildebrand. The topic for the Christian Endeavor services to be held in the new church next Sunday evening, at 7:45, is "Foreign Missions." Mrs. G. M. Hall is to address the society on this subject and Rev. L. C. Colby, who is the chairman of the county Presbyterian mission, will also give a talk on the work accomplished through missionary work. Special music will be furnished by the young people's choir under the direction of Miss Virginia Cavness.

AUTO OCCUPANTS IN LUCK

Escaped injury in Accident Which is One of the Oddest That Has Been Recorded. The motor truck of a Los Angeles high-ranger recently turned turtle on a high bridge when the driver lost control of the machine. Instead of making a sharp turn of 90 feet when the machine backed off the viaduct, it turned a somersault, landing upside down on the top of a water tank. The two Japanese riding on the truck were thrown into the tank through the roof, but were unharmed. The Orientals were able to swim until rescued by way of a trap door in the side of the tank. The machine was badly wrecked—Modern Mechanics.

KEEPING CAR CLEAN

Important Matter, and Does Not Call for Excessive Amount of Time or Labor.

VARNISH NEEDS PROPER CARE

Immediate Attention at the End of Each Trip Will Do Much to Keep Vehicle in Condition—Best Method of Removing Mud.

Why is it that a man or woman, who in the matter of dress are immaculate, have shoes and headwear are always neat, and whose home is a clean personified, will drive around in an automobile that looks as if it had been out in the weather for a decade and had never experienced a bath or had a coat of varnish? The only answer to this is that they don't know how to keep a car looking neat. All automobiles are turned out by the factories and sold by the agents looking as if they had just been turned out by a shine finisher. It is easy enough with a little knowledge, care and attention to keep them looking that way. The touring season is about to open, and traveling over the country roads the car is sure to accumulate considerable dust and dirt. As soon as the trip is finished it should receive immediate attention, and in the manner of washing the automobile lies with the secret of keeping the car looking like new. No varnish will endure being scrubbed with a brush or with hot water. No varnish will withstand the chemical action of ammonia or any kind of soap. Many of the common washing fluids or powders. No varnish will stand having dust or mud rubbed off, nor will it endure the grits of dust and mud driven into it by the water blast from a high pressure hose to which it is subjected. Use water at 60 degrees or lower and a soft, clean cloth or sponge. It is best to use no kind of soap unless it is pure castile. Mud, wet or dry, should be removed by flowing water squeezed from a clean sponge. Wash from a hose with little pressure—never with a water blast. When not in use keep the car covered with a soft lined cover. All dust contained in a glass dish may be filled with boiling water, slowly, without cracking it, and may be filled with ice water, slowly, but it will invariably crack if plunged instantly from boiling water into ice water and vice versa. Some useful "don'ts" follow: Don't allow curious persons to lay their hands on the varnish of your car—it creates instant change of temperature. Don't keep your car in a stable or near horses. Ammonia fumes are deadly to varnish. Don't assume that any varnish can last forever. Good varnish lasts a reasonable length of time even with careful treatment, but it lasts two or three times as long if you treat it well.

MEXICAN SITUATION BAD

President Wilson to Notify Factious War Men Stop.

Washington—President Wilson has decided to serve notice on all warring factions in Mexico that conditions in that country have become intolerable and that unless they themselves, compromise the situation soon, some other means may have to be employed to accomplish the result.

The first intimation of the president's determination to take this step came Friday in his appeal issued as head of the American Red Cross stating forth that "due to several years of lateral disturbances the unfortunate people of many parts of Mexico have been reduced to the verge of starvation and urging contributions to relief funds.

Later the White House gave out the following: "While the president's appeal for aid for the Mexicans was issued it was also stated at the executive office that a statement from the president on the present situation in Mexico might be expected in a few days."

This statement has been interpreted and will be issued after the cabinet meeting next Tuesday and then communicated to the leaders of all the Mexican factions.

Officials at the White House and state department declined to say what the president's statement contained, but denied that recognition of any faction was now contemplated. It was stated authoritatively that while friends of Carranza here had been pressing for recognition, the Washington government had not been impressed with the ability of any of the contending chiefs to restore order.

The present action, it was said, was not intended to assist one faction at the expense of another, but to decide at an early settlement of the conditions of at least provision for the maintenance of the starting population.

High officials referred to the president's forthcoming announcement as not meaning immediate intervention and they emphasized the word "imminent."

The impression in executive quarters was that one purpose would be to place responsibility for the present state of affairs squarely upon the military elements in the southern republic, which have overrun the country and appropriated its food supply of the country.

Officials said the president was anxious to continue the policy of allowing the Mexicans to settle their differences without outside interference, the president is said to be determined that the civilian population of the country shall not be starved in the meantime.

Talk of intervention which has been heard ever since the European war, is being steadily kept from the situation because some was immediately rejected by the White House statement. Many diplomats who interpreted the day's events as the forerunner of a new policy thought intervention was an inevitable outcome of the situation and that the United States has passed the day for such action by notifying the world of its purpose to take the step for the sake of humanity. They pointed out that a similar utterance and preceded intervention in Cuba in 1898. For the present it is understood no intention to take the Mexican situation of the intolerable state of affairs and the desires of the American government of conditions will be allowed to stand without explanation while the relief work of the American Red Cross is undertaken in earnest.

The belief was widespread in official circles given out last Tuesday night that an immediate effect of the forthcoming statement will be to give warning that the relief supplies must not be appropriated by the military factions and that they must assist in feeding the starving populace.

While the president's statement will not appear until the alternate course in case it is not needed, the general trend of comment Friday night indicated that the United States government, as a first step in such a contingency, would insist on keeping the railroad between Vera Cruz and Mexico City open for the transportation of supplies and might even deliver its supplies to the people in other Mexican cities by governmental agencies.

The government's plans it is said, will take several weeks to be worked out, and they are not expected to come to a definite point while the delicate negotiations with Carranza are in progress.

President Wilson stated Tuesday after his conference with Dr. Da Val West, his personal representative in Mexico, that he had decided on a change in the Mexican policy. The events of the last 24 hours—the seizure by Carranza authorities of large quantities of corn purchased by the international relief committee, and the inability of the authorities at Vera Cruz and Mexico City to provide transportation for supplies to succor the ever increasing broad lines brought about the determination to act.

Secretary Bryan announced that American consuls throughout Mexico had been instructed to keep the state government closely advised of any "It takes time," said Mr. Bryan, "to collect goods to relieve such a situation, and while the government is making arrangements for getting the goods there it is losing so time in arranging their collection."

Mr. Bryan remarked that "recently there had been intimations that Mexico City would change hands again. Officials flatly denied reports that Great Britain through her embassy here had been exerting pressure for the relief of conditions in Mexico. It was pointed out, however, that Da Val West, after spending three months in Mexico, was understood to have brought back information tending to show that none of the leaders had sufficient capacity to dominate the situation, and to have suggested that the United States must compel a settlement."

The idea that by relieving distressed conditions among the populace the insurrection of the United States government upon the warring factions would increase, it is said to have been one of Mr. West's arguments. His reports were of a decidedly pessimistic character concerning the economic as well as the political conditions. He found that most of the crops were failures, that the land had not been tilled and that the food supply was diminishing to a dangerous degree, that almost the entire population was threatened with starvation.
