PRES. TO REPLY TO GERMANY

Note Will be Very Polite in Regard to Submarine Warfare.

Washington, June 1.—After more than two hours' discussion of international politics with respect to Germany and Mexico, confronting the United States, preparation of a second note to Germany was begun and the warning to the Mexican factions was completed.

The prevailing belief in the cabinet meeting was that the note to Germany probably would be brief and would be dispatched to Germany, asking whether Germany intends to give answer to disregard the fundamental principles of international law.

Before the cabinet meeting President Wilson called that he did not think it was wise for him to attend Germany's reply to the American note before June 15, as he would not be in the United States.

On All of Your Printed Matter, It Represents Good Workmanship, Good Wares and Good Conditions.

During the two days, holidays of Sunday and Monday, there were approximately a hundred cars crossing the ferry at Shoshone falls in either direction. With the grades in a dry condition, this was not a particularly trying or dangerous trip. On Monday night after a snowing rain, the descent and ascent of these grades by teams and autos was extremely dangerous and most expedient to most of the people the need for a bridge from rim to rim, which will cut off such hazardous trips. It is high time for the people of this county to realize from the very charges and risk and wear on the rigs and autos that the ruin to rim bridge is the cheapest measure possible. The bridge can be built if the people concerned will get busy. Just as long, however, as the commissioners fail to hear from the taxpayers, they are going to go ahead with their own ideas, right or wrong.

UNWISE ACTION

The Times notes with considerable surprise the action of the Twin Falls county commissioners in retaining the services of Engineer Fox in the face of manifest disapproval of the taxpayers of this county. Mr. Fox has had enough Twin Falls money for services which could easily be performed by the county's surveyor. Mr. Fox is not entitled to any compensation at the hands of the taxpayers because of his undue activity toward certain bridge projects and his unaccountable opposition toward other bridges which a great many of the taxpayers favor. In a word Mr. Fox figures too much on the stability of the jobs of the present commissioners, and not enough on the fact that there may be a vast difference of opinion regarding bridge affairs which does not concern him as a paid employe of the county taxpayers.

The Times believes fully that the commissioners in employing Mr. Fox further, are going contrary to the interests of the county, and to the desires of the majority of the taxpayers. By thus doing they are giving a direct slap in the face to the people to whom they are directly responsible. The county funds were not given over to the disposal of the county commissioners for their individual exploitation or for the purpose of playing politics. For every dollar expended they must render a strict accounting to the voters and the Times does not intend to let them lose sight of the fact for a moment.

Mr. Fox is not the only one who has been paid for services which could be done by the last man who should be given a chance to work for the county. There are in this city and county many competent engineers, who know as much or more about bridge and road work as Mr. Fox. They are citizens here and taxpayers. Why does the

"Because the American people have had an object-lesson in the torpeding of the Lusitania and because," says New York Herald, "remarks, 'they know James Bryce,' the Bryce Commission report on alleged German atrocities in Belgium and northern France has attracted so far more attention in the American press and has won, apparently, a far wider credence than did the somewhat similar reports previously issued by France and Belgium. 'The Bryce report has sharply directed the attention of civilized humanity to Germany's manner of conducting her warfare,' says the New Haven Journal-Courier, and the Boston Herald, until now rather skeptical of the many stories of atrocities with which the press have been deluged since the war began, is convinced that 'all dispute as to the character of the German conquest of Belgium may now be laid aside.' 'A civilized and neutral world, recalling what it knew of Germany and Germans, found it impossible to believe that the things reported in Belgium represented German deliberate and organized policy,' remarks the New York Tribune, 'but all such incredulity so far as the United States is concerned, sank with the Lusitania.' Before bringing in a final verdict, however, the New York Evening Mail calls for a further consultation. 'The honor of humanity itself and the credit of the faith of Christendom,' exclaims the Evening Mail, 'demand that either these terrible charges shall be disproved or that the men guilty of the commission, ordering, or permitting the outrages shall be held up on the tallest authority, to the searing scorn of the whole world.' 'The testimony of the Bryce Commission is such that general denials from the German side are no longer sufficient,' says the New York Globe, which hopes that 'Germany will never have applied against her civilians the rules that her soldiers applied in Belgium.' The British Commission, which carried on its investigation independently of the French and Belgian commissions, based its conclusions on the depositions of more than 1200 eyewitnesses of the incidents described, and upon the corroboratory evidence found in diaries kept by German soldiers. The personnel of the Commission is as follows: Viscount Bryce, author of 'The American Commonwealth,' and from 1907 to 1912 British ambassador at Washington; Sir Frederick Dalrymple, Sir Edward Clarke, Sir Alfred Hopkinson, and Sir Kenneth D. Phipps, all eminent in the domain of English law; Herbert A. L. Fisher, historian and economist; Harold Cox, editor of the Edinburgh Review. These highly trained men, 'bound' as the New York Sun remarks, 'by their education, pursuits, experience and habits of mind to seek and know facts,' confess that they began their work with doubts whether a positive result would be obtained. 'But after five months of investigation they are convinced that in the early weeks of the war 'murder, lust, and pillage perpetrated' very many parts of Belgium on a scale unparalleled in any war between civilized nations during the last three centuries,' and they find the following conclusions 'definitely established by the evidence':

(1) That there were in many parts of Belgium deliberate and systematically organized massacres of the civil population, accompanied by many isolated murders and other outrages.

(2) That in the conduct of the war generally innocent civilians, both men and women, were murdered in large numbers, women violated and children maimed.

(3) That looting, burning, and the wanton destruction of property were ordered and commanded by the officers of the German army, that sabotage provision had been made for systematic incendiarism at the very outbreak of the war, and that burning and destruction were frequently when no military necessity could be alleged, being indeed part of a system of general terrorism.

(4) That the rules of war were frequently broken, particularly by the using of civilians, including women and children, as a shield for advancing forces exposed to fire, to a less degree by killing the wounded and prisoners, and in the frequent abuse of the Red Cross and the white flag.

The report is careful to distinguish between two classes of outrages: (a) those which are of a general character on their own initiative, and (b) those which are committed under orders. It is upon the latter that the interest of the world focuses, since they offend, if true, an appalling communitarian sense of German militarism. The purpose of these systematic excesses, the Commission finds, was 'to strike terror into the civil population and disorganizes the Belgian troops, so as to crush down resistance and extinguish the very spirit of self-defense. The Commission finds:

'The evidence shows that the killing of non-combatants was carried out to an extent for which no previous war between nations claiming to be civilized (for such even as the atrocities perpetrated by the Turks on the Bulgarian Christians in 1916 and on the Armenian Christians in 1905 and 1909 do not belong to that category) furnishes any precedent. That this killing was done as part of a deliberate plan is clear from the facts heretofore set forth regarding Louvain, Aerchot, Dinant, and other towns.

The killing was done under orders in each case. It began at a certain fixed date. Some of the officers who carried out the work did it reluctantly, and said they were obeying directions from their chiefs. The same remarks apply to the destruction of property.

House-burning was part of the program, and villages and even large parts of a city, were given to the flames as part of the terrorizing policy.

'Citizens of neutral states who visited Belgium in December and January reports that the German authorities do not deny that non-combatants were systematically killed in large numbers during the first weeks of the invasion, and this so far as we know, has never been officially denied. If it were denied, the flight and continued voluntary exile of thousands of Belgian refugees would go for to contradict a denial for there is no historical parallel in modern times for the flight of a large part of a nation before an invader.'

'The German government has, however, sought to justify their severities on the grounds of military necessity, and have excused them as retaliation for cases in which civilians fired on German troops. There may have been cases in which such firing occurred, but no proof has ever been given, or to our knowledge, attempted to be given, of such cases, nor of the stories of shocking outrages perpetrated by Belgian men and women on German soldiers.'

'Of the theory behind this amazing program, the Commission goes on to say: 'In the minds of Prussian officers war seems to have become a sort of sacred mission, one of the highest functions of the omnipotent state, which is itself as much an army as a state. Ordinary morality and the ordinary sentiment of pity vanish in its presence, superseded by a new standard which attributes to the soldier every means that can conduce to success, however, shocking to a natural sense of justice and humanity, however revolting to his own feelings. The spirit of war is defiled. Obedience to the state and its warlike leaders no longer mean for any other duty or feeling.'

TALKS ON THRIFT

IS BECOMING AN INVESTMENT. 'Thrill, when it begins to take root, is a plant of rapid growth.' - George Washington. The National City Bank of Chicago has a 'Savings Investment Club' designed to encourage savings deposits to become investors in bonds. When a depositor has $20 in his credit the bank will lend him $20 at the current rate of interest, and he can buy a $100 bond, selecting the bond himself. The bank holds the bond as collateral security for the $20 loan and the customer continues his savings deposits until he can pay the $20 note. Then he can start the process again and buy a second bond. The plan is sound, inasmuch as the depositor is guaranteed that most of his savings draw back interest, instead of savings interest. If the income yield of the bond is higher than the interest rate he pays the bank on his $20 note, he makes a further profit. If the yield of the bond and the interest on the note are equal the transaction will reach the same result as if he bought two $20 bonds one after the other.

The same plan is conducted by other banks, including the Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee. The latter institution offers the same arrangement proportionately to savings depositors who wish to buy $200 and $1000 bonds.

Even if the banks where you are located are not in a position to assist you in just this way you can put yourself in a position to take advantage of favorable investment opportunities now existing.

A good bond will pay you a steady income. It will be good collateral for a loan, or will form a "nest egg" for more bonds. Even though you have saved nothing as yet, you can own a $100, $200 or $500 bond in 52 weeks.

Become now a regular weekly saver at some bank. Pledge yourself to make $2 weekly deposits of a sum you can manage to get extra. When you have accumulated some capital, close your hand upon good advice, and then get about saving for another, and keep it up. It is always better to be a lender than a borrower. A certain Wood City bank has a city hall building twenty-five years ago at a cost of about $4,000,000. It has now paid out a check in bond interest as the cost of the building and still owes every cent of the principal. Many an individual is handling his own indebtedness in the same foolish way.

If you are in that class stop borrowing from others. Stop borrowing from your own future. Save your money and become a lender. You will be rewarded. T. D. MacGREGOR.

The Winner In Idaho

More Studebaker Motor Cars have been sold in Idaho during the 1915 Season than of any other car selling for $600 or more. There were also more Studebakers sold during the 1914 Season than of any other car selling for $500 or more.

There is a Reason for This Endorsement

We will tell you the reasons—

The Studebaker Factory is building a Car which outclasses its competitors

It has more power.

The Motor works more silently.

The Motor is far more accessible.

The Car is more replete with high grade features.

The Studebaker Factory keeps a Factory Mechanician in their employ who spends his entire time in the Boise block of territory.

He stops with each agent periodically and inspects every Studebaker Car.

This helps to eliminate complications.

Studebaker Service

IDAHO GRADUATES PLACED

Majority of Agricultural Class Have Definite Plans.

At the University of Idaho, the fact that the type of young men now being trained in the practical courses of our state university are in demand in advance of the supply. Prof. J. H. Lattin, director of the class, graduating this June as follows:

Four weeks in advance of commencement time of the fifteen graduates of the 1915 class of the College of Agriculture of the University of Idaho have made permanent plans for employment. The calls upon Idaho have been such that two men of this class are already at work and another leaves within a week.

Seven of the nine mentioned have gone or will go directly after commencement into agricultural improvement and development work in the Northwest, where the youthful vigor, earnestness and skill of these trained men will be of great value. Three of the seven, totaling part of the entire graduating class of the year go directly into Idaho farms.

One man goes to the University of Illinois as a post graduate student, having received appointment to study agronomy and having had his work in agriculture and related lines done at Idaho accepted by the University of Illinois on a par with the work presented by graduates of the larger universities of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The following is the list of men who have made permanent plans: J. A. Lockhart, of White, South Idaho, is already at work as field man for the division of dairying, U. S. Department of Agriculture, working principally in Idaho and Washington, S. L. Deuing, of Moscow, Idaho, is going to take charge of one of the two large creameries at North Yakima, Wash. A skillful and trained man has been employed by this concern that there may come from the factory a higher grade and more uniform product.

Ray Cannonick, of Wendell, Idaho, has been offered two positions, recently one the management of a cheese factory in Southern Idaho and the other an appointment as assistant in cheese-making, Division of Dairym, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

H. E. Lattie, of Payette, Idaho, has been appointed as assistant in the live stock and general agricultural work on the 3500 acre Copper and Maud ranch at Strathmore, Alberta, Canada. F. H. Lafrenz, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, has been appointed superintendent of the University of Idaho. This position is to be developed as the experimental and demonstration farm of the entire western section of central and northern Idaho. His stock work will be made prominent in the development of the farm.

J. E. Nardby, of Genesee, Idaho, has been awarded a scholarship in animal husbandry at the University of Illinois at Urbana. Mr. Nardby will do advanced work in Animal Hus-bandy and incidentally study the leading Euro-Jersey herds of the world with a view of further improving the Nordic herds' herd at Genesee. S. L. Johnson, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, has already leased a 50 acre farm near Idaho Falls, and will take possession immediately after commencement. Mr. Johnson plans to develop an improved live stock farm, including high pure bred herds. Wilfred Waters, of Nez Perce, Idaho, will go back to his father's farming lands near Nez Perce immediately after commencement, to assist in making extensions and improvements in the handling of the stock and in the general farm practice. Eugene Hawley, of Yacoma, Idaho, is already laying the foundation for live stock farms on his father's large farm near Moscow. In addition to Mr. Johnson, Carl Eckert was a member of the 1915 class in agriculture but was compelled to discontinue his work at the university at holidays the past winter on account of illness in his family which resulted in the death of his mother. He plans to continue his education at Idaho. Both those young men have maintained a high standard of excellence in the class and both are graduates of the local high school.

PREVENT OUTBREAK OF HOG CHOLERA

ery cared for an average of 30 out of every 100 hogs can be saved.

If hog cholera appears in your herd or in your neighbor's please notify the Bureau of Animal Industry office at Twin Falls in the county court house, telephone 712. We need this information to save your hogs and police the disease in your county. All farmers' attention is again directed to the fact that the anti-hog cholera serum and treatment of infected hogs is free of charge. Let it be further understood that there are no charges made for any investigation of any herd of hogs that may be infected. Do not always rely on your neighbors' conveying this information to the government officials, but go to the nearest telephone and see that the information gets to the clerk in charge of the government office at once. Please also notify the number of hogs in your herd and give the township, range and section in which your hogs are located and a prompt investigation will be made. Do not be in forming the government officials of the outbreak of cholera and do not offer to increase your loss but let the disease disseminate to your neighbors' herd. I shall be pleased to have all farmers, when visiting Twin Falls, to call at our new office on the main floor of the court house so they may better acquaint themselves with our methods of hog cholera control work, and receive an interesting farmers' bulletin on hog cholera.

Thinking you for your earnest cooperation in the control of hog cholera within the Twin Falls district, Minidoka project, and Lincoln and Gooding counties, I am, Very respectfully, W. A. SULLIVAN, Inspector in Charge.

Stumped afternoon at Hollister, at which time the matter will be gone over thoroughly. It is possible that the question of filing this action will be submitted to the members of the association for a referendum vote.—Hollister Herald

Propose To Charge Mismanagement Against Directors of Canal Co.

An action against the Salmon River Canal company alleged improper expenditures and charges with mismanagement in other respects and to secure an accounting and appointment of receiver for that company is being considered by the directors of the Salmon River Settlers' association, and their attorneys have been instructed to investigate the matter with the idea of determining the feasibility of such a course. The meeting of the directors' court early this spring, it is thought that the suggested action will have some effect, not included in the Federal court case. If the action succeeds, the control of the canal company will be taken away from the Twin Falls-Salmon River Land and Water company, and placed in the hands of an officer of the court and an accounting had of all collections made by that company. There's no better covering for a house, than the right kind of cedar shingles.

And if they are to be used all over, as they were in this case, it's especially important that they be good. Extra wide shingles tend to split and "cup."

Likewise if they are cut from cross, curly-grained wood.

If they are to be durable and weather-resisting, they must not be baked to death in the dry-kill. That drives the life out of the wood.

In short, there's a mighty difference in shingles.

EXCELSIOR EXCERPTS

A severe storm was experienced here last Friday. Not very much damage was done here, however. To the south of us in the vicinity of Rock Creek, the alfalfa and grain were almost totally destroyed. Many windows were broken and a few chickens killed by the hail stones.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Patterson—Sunday—night—when the neighbors came in and surprised them. Mr. Andrews and Mrs. Perry furnished the entertainment.

Our household boys report a splendid victory over Murtaugh Sunday. Score 24 to 22 in favor of Rock Creek. Some like a foot ball game, doesn't it?

Orval Edwards and Verne Patterson have secured positions on the Artesian City baseball team. Orval played the last two innings as second baseman for Rock Creek at Murtaugh Sunday and showed good form for a kid. He took the place of Wm. Rich for a short time.

We will soon be able to have a baseball team of our own. Several of our men are making good on the Rock Creek and Artesian City teams. John Harrington, John Walker and Charles Cassidy star on the Rock Creek team, and Orval Edwards, Lawrence Strong and Verne Patterson furnish a large portion of the fancy work on the Artesian City team.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mr. W. E. Edwards, Mr. Josie Harris, Mr. E. E. Chandy had a severe case of heart trouble Saturday evening, but it didn't last long. This is getting to be quite an epidemic around here especially whenever Miss Hawatin Gardner is around.

Mr. W. J. Calkins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Valline and the Misses Vera Butler and Gladys Stricker attended church and Sunday school at Hansen Sunday afternoon.

We are glad to state that the hoars that were advertised for last week have been found. They were in the possession of Mrs. Artesian City folks.

A burning thirst for knowledge is consuming many of our eighth grade graduates. Orval Edwards, Wesley Calkins, Alvin Amick, and Lawrence Strong intend to enter high school this year.

A large delegation from here attended the wedding dance at Artesian City Friday night in spite of the inclement weather. Another dance is announced for this Friday night.

Artesian City and Rock Creek play ball next Sunday at Rock Creek. The Artesian men are good players and a great game is expected.

Who said Idaho was in the arid region.

Verne Patterson has had a case of blood poisoning in his arm but is better now.

The epidemic of heart trouble is spreading. Alvin Amick, who was first taken with the disease last Friday night but recovered Saturday evening, has suffered a relapse. Thomas Butler has a severe case and Merlin Allen showed alarming symptoms Tuesday afternoon. Charles Chandy has almost recovered from his case but has broken out again. Almost all of these boys feel that the hair of the dog is good for the bite, and hence around the source of the disease. Strange to state, all of these persons caught this disease from the same place.
