Fake Advertising Will Have to Run the Gauntlet of Association Censorship

The merchants of Twin Falls have perfected an organization known as the Merchants' Association which is expected to do much toward increasing the friendly relation among themselves and prove of incalculable value toward building up Twin Falls as a trading center.

The association starts off with a membership of most of the prominent merchants of the city, who have gathered from time to time in the preliminary meetings. The question of advertising has been given serious consideration and hereafter fake advertising selected will have a hard time getting the necessary approval of the advertising committee of the new association. Without such approval no member will utilize such advertising. In no way does the new association aim to fix prices or to pool interests and the manner and time of holding sales is left to the individual members.

At a meeting held last Friday evening the by-laws of the organization were approved and a board of directors consisting of the following were elected: C. M. Booth, J. E. Gustafson, C. B. Channell, L. E. Salladay, Bob Strauss, J. A. Stachar, J. Wright, George Wiley and L. T. Wright. These directors will meet soon to elect the officers for the association.

HILLING WILD HORSES

Nevada Stock Man Has Shot Hundreds of Head.

Idle hands of wild horses are beginning to fade away from the Blanton ranch near Sunnyside. What has upset them? Well, a bolt of lead is the answer. When any of these unruly nags put in an appearance on the tracks of land used by James Blanton as a range for his large herds of cattle, they are quickly dispatched by a rifle bullet.

Fortune has smiled on his efforts as several hundred head of wild horses have been killed since Mr. Blanton decided to rid that section of the nomads. Carl Steves, who has been employed on the Blanton ranch for the last year, devised a large portion of his time to killing the undesirable.

Mr. Steves was in Elly last Monday and estimates that two hundred wild horses have been killed in that section since different ranchers start a crusade against the animals who were degrading their cattle and horse privileges. James Wakeling and R. Hendricks have joined in the effort to wipe out the warring and the hides of the horses can be sold for $2.00.—White Pine News.

RECITAL A SUCCESS

Pupils Give Splendid Program Wednesday Evening.

On Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at the First Christian Church, the pupils of the Music and Art Studio gave a recital in which they gave evidence of careful teaching and diligent study.

The program was made up of numbers by pupils of the violin teacher, Miss Pauline Alfante, and piano department, Misses Grace Bell and Georgia Martin, and several numbers by the advanced pupils were rendered in an artistic manner.

The juvenile orchestra, which made its initial appearance at the recital proved to be a surprise, giving two selections and considering that they have been organized for only a few weeks, and composed of children from 7 to 12 years of age, did very well.

The exhibit of the art department, under the efficient tutelage of Miss Eva Martin, was of a very high order and much commented upon by the large audience present.

The following is the program:

CANNOT DIVERT FUNDS

Library Site Must Be Procured by Bond Issue.

According to Mayor Stevedy in the regular session of the city council, held on the 10th inst., regarding a site for the proposed Carnegie library, it was brought up, the city cannot legally raise money from the general fund for the purchase of a site. Mayor Stevedy advocated the issuance of bonds to cover such purchase and the purchase of the matter was referred to the taxpayers. If the citizens voted in favor of issuing a library bond, the city must act as creditor and judge of such bonds. The expense could be brought down to the minimum. It is worth attempting at least, in order to get the site and then obtain the money by a bond issue. The city clerk, Harry B. B. present quarters, reviewed and the number of bonds circulated by the following:

Dr. P. A. DeWalt was in the city Thursday from Ellet looking over the library site.

Mrs. H. K. Wiley and two sons left Thursday morning for their home in Springfield, Miss. After visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Young for some time.

COVER EIGHTH AVENUE DITCH

City and Canal Company Compromise Temporarily.

STEEL NET WILL PREVENT CULVERTS FROM FALLING IN

The menacing Eighth avenue ditch is to be covered just as speedily as the matter can be accomplished. The statement made by The Times by Mayor Everett M. Sweedley Wednesday.

By an agreement made with the directors of the Twin Falls Canal company the ditch will be covered with a heavy steel netting supported by wooden cross braces so that it will be impossible for any child to get into the water. Approaches to the ditch at the edges of the city limits will be protected by a screen to prevent the entrance of any victim by that method.

The covering of course, will be not a thing of beauty and only temporary. Costing about a thousand dollars, but will do the work until the legal end of the argument can be thrown out in court. Both the city and the Canal company are to be associated in making the compromise, which will prevent loss of life and accumulated damage suits against them in case of accident.

WARNING TO INSURANCE MEN

Rebating Discovered and Commissioner Says Practice Must Cease.

Rebating in insurance has been discovered as practiced in Idaho by State Insurance Commissioner George F. Stevie who proposed to wage the war on the practice. Rebating is the practice of giving a commission to a number of companies combined, the agents or agencies of the respective companies rebating back to the insured part of the commission paid thereby securing an advantage over agents who refuse to rebate. This practice must cease according to insurance Commissioner Stevie of Idaho, who has issued a warning to insurance companies who will be revoked and prosecutions follow.

The notice of the insurance commissioner says in part: "Rebating is directed to the provisions of section 44, section 26, insurance laws of the state of Idaho, being section 22, chapter 47, section 106 of 1913; and section 45, section 28, being section 20, chapter 47, section 106 of 1913. The law makes rebating a misdemeanor subject on conviction to a $100 fine for each and every violation and imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than 30 days or both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 45 provides a penalty for intermeddling with the business of insurance companies either through direct or otherwise with regard to the insurance policy or policies, it shall be a misdemeanor for any person to receive a fine of $100 for each offense and imprisonment of six months in the county jail for each and every violation.

"Rebating, twitting and intermeddling are vicious practices and will not be countenanced by this department," concludes the warning issued by the commissioner. "Any and all violations of these sections will be vigorously prosecuted and no leniency will be shown."—Caldwell News.

The mid-annual council of the general federation of women's clubs at Portland last week was the largest gathering which the federation has ever had at its "bi-yearly" meeting. BRIDGE DEAL IS ILLEGAL

Action of County Commissioners Annulled by Court.

CANNOT MAKE INDIVIDUAL CONTRACT FOR TWO COUNTIES

An important decision was made by Judge Baker's court, regarding the action of the Twin Falls Board of County Commissioners, in letting a contract for the Murrough bridge across the Snake River. Under an appeal by citizens of Hansen from the action of the county commissioners in entering into a contract for the construction of a bridge jointly owned by two counties, Judge Baker made the decision that such contract was illegal and annulled the action. The bridge matter must now be taken up through the regular channels as a joint contract between Blaine and Twin Falls counties, or the highway district of the north side, which is directly concerned. A new petition alleging necessity for such action and the whole legal procedure must be according to law.

Mayor Sweezy's efforts to be congratulated upon his efforts to cover the... well as the high priced favorite of the county board.

The work of street commissioner Porter for this city is being watched with much interest and is a matter for commendation for results already obtained.

PEJorative SITUATION To pick an engineer who has persistently fought a bridge project, as the man to determine stresses and capacity for the making of estimates does not look like good business judgment.

The county commissioners could have secured, for the same price or less, the services of some other engineer who would have an axe to grind in the matter and whose data would not be questioned by those interested in that bridge.

well as the high priced favorite of the county board. As a matter of fact, the estimates of the two steel bridges across Rock creek were the work of the Midland bridge company, rather than of the engineer who claims the credit for close figuring.

CHANGE EXPECTED The resignation of Secretary of State W. J. Bryan from Wilson's cabinet does not create as much sensation as might be expected from such an important event.

While the Times believes fully that President Wilson in his new policy is right, yet cannot help but admiring the steadfastness of Mr. Bryan in sticking for his principles, even at the expense of lost prestige.

STARVING GERMANY The torpedoing of the Lusitania is justified by Germany as an act of retaliation against England for "starving" the German women and children. No actual list of those who have starved to death, however, has as yet been published.

The time has now come for every one whose means will at all permit it and who has adequate storage facilities at his disposal, to save them, to provide himself as generously as possible with smoked and pickled meats.

"Going to the Mill"

Do not let a crumb of bread, that gifts of God be wasted. Eat only war bread. Regard the potato as a means to assist us to victory. Blush for shame if your desire for luxuries tempts you to eat pies and pastry. Look with contempt on those who are so immoral as to eat cake and so on their grossness impair our supply of flour.

In the face of such appeals it is a little difficult to discover where the truth lies. Breadstuffs may be, and very probably are, dangerously scarce. But man does not live by bread alone and other provisions seen to be both abundant and cheap. This we learn from a careful study of the following columns of the newspaper, which, in times of stress are always a valuable index of the national life.

Are You With Us?

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Includes items like Ham, Beef, Pork, etc.

Inclusive of women and children, with starvation the evidently hopes to attain a peace which she would not be entitled to by military success. Now, to ensure, this plan is doomed to failure.

TALKS ON THRIFT No. 19.—THE COST OF WASTE. Men do not reap in the spring my dear. Nor are granaries filled in May. Save it be with a harvest of former years. Stored up for a rainy day.

Even greater waste is that in the corn that is not harvested. Iowa, Illinois, eastern Kansas and Nebraska and southern Minnesota had about forty million acres of corn last year, of which probably not more than one-fourth was harvested for the silo or the shock or for shredding. The rest goes to waste, and it amounts to over one-third of the feeding value of the whole crop.

Installation of smoke-consuming machinery and proper stoking, engine claim, will prevent much of the loss now suffered from this source. We are horrified by the stupendous waste being wrought by the destructive forces of war on the other side of the Atlantic. Let us not overlook the fact that, individually and collectively, we Americans are responsible for an aggregate waste which is about if not quite as stupendous and the fact that history's most devastating war is now in progress should impel us to look upon the waste of all kinds in our own country.

"What Am I Worth"

Put that question to yourself. Most men are worth only what they earn. If they don't work or can't work, their money value drops to zero.

If you are in that class, put every ounce of your strength and ambition to the task of getting out of it. A safe and sure way to do it is to take part of your earnings regularly and build up capital in a savings account the

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS

Objects and Methods of Movement to Make Rural Life Fuller.

The primary object of the boys' and girls' clubs, which are being organized throughout the country with the assistance of the department of agriculture, is to aid young people to become more efficient and more contented farmers and home builders by cultivating in boys and girls habits of industry and thrift, the possibilities of farm life are revealed not only to the youth but to their parents. The best methods of handling farm products and preventing waste are demonstrated, the spirit of co-operation in the family and community is developed, and the dignity of the farmers' vocation enhanced by presenting it as a skilled occupation, capable of commanding adequate reward to the competent. Finally, the school life and the home life of the boys and girls are brought into closer relationship and the rural school teacher aided in the task of making agricultural instruction a vital thing.

The clubs may be organized under the leadership of the county superintendent of schools or any of the teachers under their direction. The best theories of the county are not yet able to the possibilities of these clubs the county demonstrates and may take charge of the movement, or if there is no demonstration agent in the county such organizations as local chambers of commerce, the Grange, women's clubs, etc., may assume the leadership. The names and addresses of the boys included in the clubs are collected and sent to the state agent, who will furnish organization and cultural instructions upon request. Success has shown, however, that the difficulty is not in organizing a club with a large enrollment of members, but in inducing these members to complete their work and report on the results. The test of efficiency is not so much the organization of new clubs as continuing interest in those already formed. The leader's duty therefore is to keep in touch with the members of the club, encourage them and assist them in their work, and see that once a project has been started it is carried out to completion.

To assure this continuity of interest various schemes have been evolved to make the club work progressive. Thus in the case of the boys' clubs a number of rotation systems have been devised. In the south, for example, there is a two-year rotation, in which corn is followed by a winter cover crop of oats or clover with clover or vetch to be turned under. The second year cowpeas or soy bean peanuts are grown, followed by a winter cover crop which turns under and followed by corn the third year. In Alabama and Georgia there is a three-year rotation which consists of corn, cotton, corn and oats, or cowpeas. In the north, corn is followed by forage crops, alfalfa, and clover, and a club project in poultry, pigs or baby beef is added.

Such systems as these, however, are not practicable in every locality, and state agents sometimes have resort to unusual methods to interest the youngsters in useful work. The state club agent in Washington, for example, was confronted with a rather difficult problem in the vicinity of Bellingham, north of Puget Sound. Much of that country is owned by the federal government and by large landholders, and is mostly covered with large forests. Here the problem of giving the boys interesting and educational work was solved by means of the angora goat. The large estate owners are pleased to have goats forage in the forests as they clean up the undergrowth and the state agent contends that this kind of club is the best for that part of the country.

Another example of agents adapting their plans to circumstances is the casing of Salmon in Washington and Oregon, mainly along the Columbia river. There thousands of tons of salmon have gone to waste annually. To prevent 25 clubs of about 29 members each are cannal salmon, turning what has heretofore been wasted into a well-preserved article of food.

In the girls' clubs new members grow tomatoes only. During the second year they divide their garden in half and grow tomatoes and a few other crops. The third year they have more crops. Some of the combinations are tomatoes, beans and beets; and tomatoes, peppers and peas. After these have been mastered, the girls begin to fill their gardens with perennial vegetables and fruits. In this way by the time a club girls are ready for the high school or college she will have started a permanent garden or orchard.

The effect of this club work is by no means confined to the members themselves. Many of the county agents have found that it is the best possible introduction to the home of the members invariably adopt the methods of the boys in their various projects. The yields and profits that the boys get are the best possible demonstration of the value of their methods. It has been said, for example, that a single-acre club boy in one community did more for sound corn culture in his country than five years of public lecturing could have accomplished. In the same way the success of the girls with their canned products has paved the way for women county agents to demonstrate simple methods of canning to the mothers. It is an easy matter for an agent who has gained in this way the confidence of the farm family to secure the introduction of a number of simple but important improvements in household management.

er since of the clubs are to cultivate closer co-operation between mother and daughter in home interests and activities, to teach economy and thrift, and to furnish helpful ideas for the direction of girls' work in co-operation with mothers, in the home during their vacation periods.

MYSTERIOUS GIRL RIDER

Best Performer With Self-Photo Circus Fakhoun.

"I'd like to join your circus." "She was young and childish appearing and she could saddle a pig like the fat of Fred B. Hutchinson, the general manager of the Self-Photo Circus, who was in Denver last winter. The manager, busy with his contracts, looked up. "What do you mean? Do you have you been with?" "No." "Well, what can you do?" "I can ride a pig." "Got any pictures?" The general manager had lost a great deal of interest in the conference and stood on the edge of his seat. "I have not any pictures," answered, "but if you'll take me to the pig barn, I'll show you what I know about riding a pig." "You're kidding, aren't you?" "I can just about out-ride any equestrienne in America."

The general manager opened his eyes. He rose from his desk and fifteen minutes later, ordered a hostler from the pig barn with one of the pig barns. The girl slipped on a "barback" stove from a pocket and rode them. Two minutes later the general manager of the Self-Photo-Buffalo Bill circus gasped and reached somewhat aimlessly for something to lean against. The shy little girl had performed the turning of a "flip-flop" on a horseback that was just the beginning. She leaped from the horse's back to the ground. She leaped back again. She did not let her hands as the horse galloped. She balanced as lightly as the breeze itself, she did every trick known to equestrianism—and then some more as if it were a matter of course. That night a young girl, the general manager and owner of the Self-Photo-Buffalo Bill circus had a long conference and a contract passed between them. And as a result of it all, when the Self-Photo-Buffalo Bill circus comes here Monday, June 14th, it will bring as one of its chief features Rosa Houshild the "Maid of Mystery."

For the circus has learned just one thing about her since that day of the meeting last winter, and that one thing is that she can out-ride any one in the business. Where she comes from, what her real name is, how she learned to ride and what she never before appeared in public—all these things are unknown to the circus. The rider has simply announced that she respects her contract to know as best she can and that's all the circus can learn. But one thing it is sure of—that she is the best equestrienne it ever discovered.

A gate does't seem important enough to make much fuss about.

Still—if you had overheard the remark as we did, "Bygones, that's a good gate—that farmer's up to scratch—bet he has a good farm!"—then you would probably look around and see in what shape your own gates were.

Little things like that certainly do a lot toward making a place look shabby or up-to-date.

A COMMUNICATION
In the last issue of the Twin Falls News there appeared an editorial article headed "A Legal Farce." This article was a direct slap at the jury in the case of the State of Idaho vs. Pettigall in an attempted attempt to pay as if it were a girl. Now the writer of that article asks for an explanation from the hands of the jury, and it would seem from the utterances contained not from the sober investigation of two men in an all night—eighteen hours labor—that excited such sentiment that would lead some people to think they had their rights trampled upon, but it is from the horrible expression of some bombast who the "spoon bunni" of all that is pure and good in the field of sacred literature. Some but he.

Now the writer of that article at no time presented any evidence to the jury. If the defendant was an he says as fully as "He" had evidence that the jury needed, and the not giving of that evidence was of the primitive style of back-woods bombast which would lead one to inquire if ever the writer was used to living in a civilized country. If he did not have the evidence, he is the most despicable fellow on earth.

Had the writer of that article come to the jury and asked the reasons for acquitting the defendant, undoubtedly he would have spent his time in admonishing witnesses to be more careful in the giving of evidence; he would perhaps have asked the witnesses render the jury assistance by giving evidence. He would have admonished mothers to not allow their little ones to play alone with a crowd of boys running the streets after nine o'clock at night. Now what are the facts?

One witness said there were finger marks on the floor of the boxcar in the dust. Four witnesses swore that on the floor was from one-tenth to one-quarter of an inch thick. The testimony showed absolutely that no other marks were visible in that dust on the floor except some finger marks which the little girl claimed to have made in a sitting or a crouching position. It is a matter of fact that the witness alleged more than he above stated. Can a child lie down on the floor covered with a much dust and not leave marks or disturb the dust in some way? Can a jury manufacture evidence? No further.

The juror man at Bull seems to be a man of more than ordinary intelligence and left certain phases of the evidence to a doctor at Bull, who was not called to the stand when the alleged crime took place saying he thought the doctor more competent in certain evidence located upon. The jury at midnight said "Where, where is that doctor that can throw the least particle of evidence that will assist us?"

Now further.

The garment of the little girl which was exhibited in evidence hardly seemed sufficient. A piece had previously been cut away, leaving about three inches below the waist line in the rear part of the garment these under-nud and uper-nud the front of the garment an width about three inches of the waist line in front and a new piece sewed in with a single white thread about 20x40. Now this white thread was broken in one place only. The thread was practically all there and a part of the thread pulled out of the garment and was early torn, and was torn by the jury with their hands. When three-fourths of the numbers of that jury have little girls and one of the little law clerks, could any one think that the jury would be indifferent?

There are other features this with would like to dwell upon which other things besides space prevent. But I want to say this:

"When the donkey saw the zebra. He began to switch his tail. We, I never he did answer. There's a mule that's been in jail. When I see an article in a paper that is to be read by everybody, who here had not the opportunity to know the facts in the matter, and that article breathing germs of discontent, mischievous, anarchy and perhaps attracting public sentiment at the expense of a jury in trying to belittle a juror's efforts, trying to belittle them in the eyes of the public, I tell you gentle reader, that the writer of the article is absolutely an ignorant as to the other mule.

CURTIS ADAMS, Jurymen.

The Chautauqua Bee Is Buzzing

People are talking Chautauqua. They are all preparing to attend the big week. There are still a few who have not yet purchased that season ticket. And if you are one of those few, you should find a man with the package of tickets and tell him your wants. He'll tell you all about Chautauqua and he will sell you a ticket or a bunch of tickets.

The program is just full of good things. There will not be a dull number. Everything from a magician to Alpine Yodlers will appear for your entertainment.

Illustrated programs may be obtained from most merchants and from all banks.

Be sure and remember those "kiddies." A season ticket to Chautauqua will give them the time of their young lives. And they will be better for it, too.

SEC. BRYAN HAS RESIGNED.

ings arising out of the use of submarines against merchantmen, we find ourselves differing irreconcilably as to the methods which should be employed.

"It falls to your lot to speak officially for the nation; I consider it to be none the less my duty to endeavor as a private citizen to promote the end which you have in view by means which you do not feel at liberty to use. In so serving the interest and pleasant relations which have existed between us during the past two years permit me to acknowledge the profound satisfaction which it has given me to be associated with you in the work which has come before the state department and to thank you for the courtesies shown."

"With the heartiest wishes for your welfare and for the success of your administration, I am, my dear Mr. President,

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) W. J. BRYAN"
Washington, June 8, 1915.

President's Acceptance.

The president's letter to Mr. Bryan was as follows:

"My Dear Mr. Bryan: I accept your resignation only because you insist upon its acceptance, and I accept it with much more than deep regret, and a feeling of personal sorrow. Our two years of close association have been delightful to me. Our judgments have accorded in practically every matter of official duty and of public policy until now. Your support of the work and purposes of this administration has been generous and loyal beyond praise. Your devotion to the duties of your great office and your eagerness to take advantage of every great opportunity for service if offered has been an example to the rest of us. You have earned our affectionate admiration and friendship. Even now we are not separated in the object we seek but only in the method by which we seek it.

"It is for these reasons that my feelings about your retirement from the office of secretary of state go much deeper than regret. I deplore it. Our subjects are the same and we ought to pursue them together. I yield to your desire only because I must and when you deplored on the parting. We shall continue to work for the same causes even when we do not work in the same way.

"With affectionate regard, sincerely yours,
