AGRICULTURE NEWS LETTER

"There is a tremendous increase of interest in the county agricultural or farm adviser movement. One of the men and hope before long to have the work started. This is due to the fact that the men now in the field are helping farmers in a dollar and cent way. They lead in the fight against diseases of animals and crops and insect pests, are up to the job to give practical help and not only that, they are also giving information on the way to do it. Here the agriculturalists are on the job fighting hog cholera. They address meetings, interest the people to work together to prevent the disease, and stop the spread of this dread disease, and give information on the way to do it. They do not stop here. They are not 'idle collar farmers'. They get in the pens, treat the hogs, and help the farmers clean up and disinfect. By this work they are saving the farmers thousands of dollars. The farmers, too, are patting these men on the head and are anxious to cooperate."

"The Canyon county agriculturalist, W. T. McCall, is also helping a great deal in the fight against grasshoppers and cutworms. He is on the job to show as well as give advice. Mr. J. A. Mortenson, the Franklin county adviser, is working in this way against the alfalfa weevil. He has also given valuable advice in the fight against blackleg. These men help in a practical way every day in the week, 'pick in and help out way' that not only saves the farmer loss, but gets the whole community to work together on the problem."

"I've noticed something lately fairly about this agricultural movement, said Mr. Mortenson. 'Farmers who do not know about the work may think the game the hardest, have all sorts of prejudices, while in counties where an agriculturalist is employed, the farmers eagerly avail themselves of the practical help. Why in Caldwell, the other day, 27 farmers called in one afternoon at the office of the agriculturalist for help and information. In Livingston county, Illinois, the farmers recently overabundant funds for the work, though each farmer was asked to subscribe not less than ten dollars a year for three years. They know the value of the work, they know that it is a dollar saving proposition, that the man is 'practical', changes farm science into farm sense and more profit."

"Here in Idaho we are not asking the farmers to subscribe. If the county subscribers make a direct appropriation of from $1000 to $2000 a year for the work, the balance may be secured from federal funds. This is an opportunity which no county should overlook, for the county agriculturalist will put a county on the agricultural map, for he lets the people work together for the profitable alfalfa farming, better markets and better country conditions. The result, more settlers, a bigger, better, more satisfied county, and a more satisfied rural Idaho."

BLIGHT

We have many inquiries regarding blight, what it is and what we may do.

A rainfall in excess of four inches may have given us a very favorable piece favorable to the growth and dissemination of blight spores. The normal rainfall for May in Southern Idaho is only 1.25 inches. We had an unusually warm April. Warm weather and excessive rainfall placed the trees in a receptive condition to receive blight spores. In addition the excessive rainfall, in the case of many orchards, there had been added an early irrigation. During the months of March and April people were urged to make use of early water running to waste in the ditches since there was a probability that there would be a shortage of water for irrigation in August. The warmth of April coupled with the excessive amount of water available forced the sap and placed the trees in a receptive condition for receiving blight spores. Under ordinary conditions as to temperature and moisture, we would not expect blighting conditions to be present until June, at which time our apple trees would be out of bloom.

The apple tree can more readily receive blight spores through the bloom than through the foliage. Here and there in the trees which were in bloom, the most serious harm in this situation has been that the bloom destroys the fruit for that particular year this season and with long continued wet weather such as we have had during the month of May, the blight may extend down through the branches which the fruit spur was headed. Should the infection grade the branch then the particular branch down as the source of infection.

If the amount of water in the soil and the humidity of the atmosphere working together could be such as to force a very vigorous flow of sap then the blight may in extreme cases extend down the branch and in very extreme cases the principal limbs and the trunk of the tree may become infected.

The possibility of being troubled by blight is always with us and has been present in fruit growing districts for a long time. We have suffered more than most this season because atmospheric conditions and soil conditions favoring the reception of blight spores combined to be present during the blossoming period instead of coming some weeks later after the blossoming period had passed by. We do not in southern Idaho often have a very wet May. The rainfall in the past month of May exceeded the rainfall of any other month of May and records have been made by the weather bureau. Therefore the amount of harm sustained this season is not likely to occur again in the near future.

Now what may we do to lessen the harm of this particular situation of blight. First, older trees suffer less from blight than young, because the sap pressure, circulation is distributed throughout many more points of

DAIRY NOTES

The milkster's hands must be not only clean but also dry.
A trade mark can be made very valuable by a good dairyman.
When adding butter it pays to put it up in neat, attractive cartons.
A full calf becomes a producer when milk and butter are most valuable.
A poor milkster is one of the surest means of diminishing the milk flow.
Remember that the income from the dairy is an all-the-year-round proposition.

The greatest economy of Ford cars is not in the low price but in the low cost of operation—less than two cents a mile—in city and country. They are designed and built to serve and save; to bring the luxury of pleasure and the sturdiness in business work—this is why there are more than 700,000 now in use—this is what has made the Ford the universal car—these are the merits we present why you should buy a Ford.

SURPRISED AT DEVELOPMENT

Senator Elliott Tells of the Impressions Gained in Trip

The development of southern Idaho, especially in the dry farming section, is little short of wonderful and made a great impression on Senator E. F. Elliott of Bonner county, a member of the irrigation and drainage committee, who visited this section recently, judging from the following statement he made upon reaching his home at Bonner Ferry:

"This commission was created to see if something could be done on the part of the state to relieve the serious condition into which the settlers on arroyos of the Carey act irrigation project have fallen by reason of failure on the part of some of the companies promoting these systems. The commission is also empowered to draft new legislation for both irrigation and drainage purposes, if such should be deemed necessary in accordance with its duties the commission is investigating the condition of all Carey act projects in the state, including the Kootenai, examining the irrigation works and holding meetings at various places. We started our tour at Arco in Blaine county and have visited the Lost River, Little Lost River, Blaine county, South Side and North Side, Twin Falls, Little Salmon River, Oakley and King Hill irrigation systems. Most of the tour was made by auto, using high power machines and making runs averaging from 25 to 30 miles a day through the agricultural country.

Three of the projects visited are at an elevation of 6000 feet and the season is fully a month behind the Kootenai valley, but other sections like that of King Hill on the Snake river were ahead of us. Around Twin Falls they are just beginning to cut the first crop of alfalfa. This country is rapidly developing as a seed producing region. Thousands of acres are being used for the culture of seed peas, clover and red clover and alfalfa seed. Some of the farmers are also growing garden seeds. The soil is not as good a stock country as the North Twin Falls tract, although large numbers of horns are raised. We found on some of the projects visited that they are up against a serious shortage of water and had it not been for the heavy rains during May their condition would have been worse. The rainy spring and cool weather have saved southern Idaho this year. We had a fine chance to see the great developments of the past few years in dry farming. Immense tracts of sagebrush land, much of it on the mountain slopes, have been plowed and seeded to wheat. Some of this is leased state land, but many are taking up desert homesteads and growing wheat and alfalfa. The broken down irrigation projects the settlers are making a success in this way.

Wonderful Natural Phenomenon. We had opportunity to see some of the natural wonders of Idaho. One was the slinks of both the Big and Little Lost Rivers, the streams which come from the Sawtooth range on the lava beds and then disappear, only to come to the surface a hundred miles lower down on the bluffs of Snake river, where they are called "The Three

BRANCHES ARE 'IN THE RED'

Railroad Company Produces Mass of Data in Fight Against 3-Cent Rate.

Of 15 branch lines on which the fixing of passenger rates was at issue, only five were operated at a profit during 1914 according to figures submitted to the public utilities commission Tuesday by the Oregon Short Line. The company's table showed that during the year a deficit of $45,882.73 was incurred on the 15 lines. The hearing was held on a complaint filed by the attorney general, asking that the railroad be compelled to put into effect a rate of 3 cents per mile on all its branches. The first hearing was held August 2, 1914. Subsequently the commission issued an order directing the railroad to within 30 days, discontinue charging more than 3 cents per mile on any branch line. The order was made permanent as to the Yellowstone and Twin Falls branches. As to others affected, however, the railroad company was allowed a new hearing. The Boise branch was not affected because the 3-cent rate was already in effect on it.

Great Detailed Figures. George H. Smith, of Salt Lake and H. B. Thompson, of Pocatello, represented the railroad company at the hearing Tuesday. Joel L. Priest, general agent, also assisted in the proceedings. Captain Davis appeared for the public utilities commission.

The railroad company was in the position of being compelled to show that its rates were not excessive or discriminatory. It introduced a mass of carefully worked out tables on other exhibits showing conditions on the branch lines as compared to the main line, and other data about its system in Idaho.

WILL DRAW SALARY QUARTERLY

Supreme Court Rules That New Law Is Imperative.

The supreme court of Idaho held that the act of the last legislature providing for the monthly instead of quarterly payment of county officers' salaries was unconstitutional. It was argued that the constitution meant that the salaries should be paid at not greater intervals than every quarter.

The decision was rendered in the case of Robert H. Leonard, probate judge of Owyhee county, against John S. Clark, auditor of that county.

Judge Leonard, in order to test the law applied for writ of mandamus to compel the auditor to pay him his salary for the month of May, 1915.

The auditor demurred to the petition for the writ, and the supreme court sustained the demurrer.

Amendment Needed. In its decision the court said:

"It is earnestly urged that the people of Idaho are upon a different footing from that which they were when the constitution was adopted and amended as to the mode of payment of county officers' salaries. It is not a matter of monthly and then quarterly, but of monthly and then quarterly. We are fully aware of the fact that the legislature has the power to amend the constitution, but we are not unmindful that if the constitution is to be amended it must be done by the joint act of the legislature and the people themselves and that it cannot be accomplished by judicial construction."

The statement was written by Justice Morgan. Chief Justice Sullivan and Justice Judge concurred.

WAR TAX BLINDERS

Administration Fell Down on Provision for Enforcing Law.

Washington, D. C. June 24.—A study of the "war revenue tax" disclosure of the most astonishing blunders to be met in known, there are four simple requirements that are obvious.

1. It should be determined where the burden of the tax should fall.
2. Based on accurate estimates, the law should produce the amount of revenue needed.
3. The law should be phrased in clear unambiguous terms, admitting of but one construction that will insure the enforcement of such a law.
4. Timely, adequate provision should be made for revenue stamps, blank receipts, instructions, and all other numerous details entering into the enforcement of such a law.

This administration failed on every one of these counts.

Under the first essential, that of determining where the burden of the tax shall fall, the Democrats floundered repeatedly. They first announced the plan of increasing the income tax, and abandoned it on discovering that financial returns would be delayed for months under that method. Then they turned to a plan of taxing freight receipts. This was discarded with astonishing celerity. Political promises are too great. After other ineffectual attempts the Spanish war stamp tax was adopted as a basis, giving the country a "war tax" in time of peace.

The second essential was disregarded. Their estimates were inaccurate. Had they been based on facts instead of guess work, we would not now have the treasury filled with a constant reminder of Democratic extravagance and inefficiency.

The third essential was disregarded. There are conflicting provisions in the "war tax" as to when it shall take effect. Other clauses are so obscurely phrased that it has been necessary to appeal to the courts for construction.

The fourth essential was disregarded. Its inadequacy were the provisions for stamps required under the act that business all over the country halted because of inability to comply with the law. Long and annoying waiters appear over penalties for such violations, resulting in needless confusion for which no one but the present administration is to blame.

Specific examples of the errors referred to in the "war tax" law will be discussed in later articles.

TOWN DOCTOR, NELS DARLING

OF OKLAHOMA CITY

During the next twelve months The Times has arranged for the exclusive use of a series of articles upon Civic Betterment from the trenchant pen of Nels Darling, the best known exponent of home-town loyalty in the United States. These articles will be pertinent talks on "The Home Town" "Talks with the Business Men" and "Talks on Advertising."

They are interesting, terse and to the point. Darling never wastes any ammunition. The Times believes that these articles will do much to awaken Twin Falls citizens to their responsibility for the success of the home town. Some of the talks to the merchants will probably stir up some argument and opposition, but will nevertheless set them to thinking.

HANSEN NOTES

J. Warren White, of Buhl, was in town on business Saturday.
Frank Bigger of Blaine wired the new house belonging to Mr. Emanuel for heat and lights this week, while in town Mr. Bigger wired several of the residents.
Our town has been practically deserted for the past week, nearly all of the farmer folk and the townpeople either at school or on their way to Monday and most everyone has taken in one or more numbers of the Chronicle.

Sam Sunday was the day that we had set for our husband boys to walk Church Hill, and the town had their cannon loaded to the muzzle for them, too. Everybody thought sure that they could see Slim and Lyman coming home with a new seal between them. The team started for Church Hill, in autos belonging to Herb Smith and Clyde Hughes and were making good time, taking a long way from home, when one of the autos received a puncture and was detained for several hours on the road between Murtaugh and Church Hill. The other auto, however, and came back on a flat wheel, but the other machine went on to the battlefield and carried five of our boys to the front and Church Hill.

Everybody is saying and the report is that the day will make about a ton to the acre more this year than last. All of the grain crops are in fine condition and the drylanders are tightly elated over the prospects, very little irrigating has been done here this year in comparison with other years and it will not do the big job of the season, as the crops are all going to come off early.

We are figuring on celebrating the 4th at home this year on the 3rd of July. The business men and some of the farmers have donated liberally to the entertainment fund and committees are at work on the program for the day. Speaking must-must will take up the program, address in the afternoon. There will be two hall games, and at night a dance. Kimberly, Rock Creek, Murtaugh, Artesian and other neighbors are cordially invited.

Last Saturday night a new institution was made here. The new building, the Nutmeg, Grating and Floor Polishing Society. The members are Fred Cook, Sturgeon McCoy, Sam Walton, Hyron Adams, Harry Bond, Oregon Plowmen (charter members) and others. If you have any planers or grubbers blades to file or anything in the line of a copper kettle to polish, the society earnestly solicit the work as they did not get their hands shared for nothing.

E. Pettigrove has commenced work on his new bungalow to be built at Faircrest. It is to be of the multiple bungalow type, with a large front veranda annex. There is also to be a conservatory and music room and when finished will be one of the finest and most beautiful country homes on the tract and on the Pettigrove tract.

A dance was given by the boys last Saturday night, a fair crowd attended and report a good time and the boys realized a neat sum, after the dancing, ice cream was served at the Overland Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mouton are at home to their friends at their residence at Kimberly. We wish them every success and happiness in their adventure.

PLEASANT VALLEY NEWS

Mrs. E. L. Eaton is rapidly recovering from a severe attack of influenza which she was not expected to live over eight to ten days to all up.

Mr. H. C. Hansen, who has been ill for some time is now able to be up and around again.

The new rural mail route with Merrill M. Cook as carrier, made the first delivery on the Idaho side on the 1st of the route very much appreciate the accommodation the new route will afford them in the future.

Ernest McIntyre purchased a new Reo automobile last week. This is the third new car that has come to the valley in about six weeks.

Mr. Grant Pransell arrived here Saturday from his home in Leslie, North Carolina, for a visit with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Bran and his brother, Walter Pransell. Mr. Pransell was here a year and was most favorably impressed and has great confidence in the future of the Twin Falls tract. He says that while coming across the great central valley he passed through several places that were having great floods that were causing much damage to the crops.

Mr. Harry T. West has his pumping plant in operation and is running it day and night. It is a success in every way and will irrigate about 750 acres at such low cost per acre that Mr. West had expected.

Mr. Horace H. Jones has commenced excavating for the basement of his new residence.

Makum and Larson finished their contracts of sheeping in the valley and have moved home as they have finished work for the season.

Floyd Brown, Frank Reeves and Douglas Armon were Kimberly callers Saturday.

The first cutting of alfalfa which was very light this season is about all in the field. It is expected that on June the fifteenth, occurred the marriage of Miss Florence Hodson and Al Mikum at the residence of Rev. W. S. Hartman in this city.

A popular young couple are well and favorably known to the people of the valley and their many friends. They are a bright and happy couple on the matrimonial sea.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
Washington, D. C., June 16, 1915.
Washington is visited by a great many tourists and sightseers at the time of the year and the big sightseeing automobiles carrying fifty passengers or more and charging one dollar each, are loaded with smiling faces and the crowds of all ages. We have had occasional showers here lately followed by a beautiful sunshiny day and the parks with their wealth of flowers and trees which offer the great public buildings, are gathering places for many who sit on the benches in the shade and enjoy the view. Each big sightseeing automobile carries a man with a megaphone who keeps up a continual talk to the children and them about each of the public buildings they then happen to be passing. One of the finest pieces of information about Washington and its history.

One of the finest views is looking down Pennsylvania avenue from the Treasury department, to the Capitol which stand magnificently on Capitol Hill surrounded by terraces and marble steps, one mile away. Pennsylvania avenue is 169 wide here and at the grand parades of Washington center and march up and down it. When the president is inaugurated he passes up and back from the capitol to the White House, which is next to the Treasury department along this world famous thoroughfare. At these times great grandstands are erected at the treasury and along the avenue and vast throngs fairly crowd the streets until it is almost impossible to move and women have fainted from being crowded and unable to get any way or the other. There are about fifty moving picture shows in Washington and many of them open at midday and they are always crowded. Some have valuable in connection but you must make tickets to pictures only. Sometimes when the film is something exceptional they charge 25 cents admission but a great many charge 10 cents for films only.

F. Street, which is just north of Pennsylvania avenue, has become a great promenade in recent years and many drowsy men and women may be seen always strolling along. It has many stores and is very busy. There are big department stores in which you can buy anything from a wash-dress to a most expensive fur coat. There are window displays of exquisite jewelry, some of magnificent and water color paintings, suitable luxuries in connection but you must make tickets to pictures only. Sometimes when the film is something exceptional they charge 25 cents admission but a great many charge 10 cents for films only.

PRESS CLUB MEETING

Mackay Citizens Are Ideal Entertainers.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Eastern Idaho Press club was held last Saturday and Sunday in the busy little city of Mackay, and those of the club who attended had the time of their lives. The people of Mackay do not do things by halves and the entertainment provided was royal in the careful planning for comfort and pleasure of the press club. For not a single minute were the club members left to their own resources.

Arriving at the little dining town at noon automobiles were in waiting to convey the guests to the Mackay hotel, where together with a number of the members of the Mackay Commercial club and their wives, a beautiful and delicious lunch was enjoyed. Those who missed this, feel will be envious for years to come as the extent of their loss grows upon them. Saturday afternoon after a short business session the club members again participated in entertainment provided by the Mackay citizens, an automobile trip to Fawn Creek, where winding along a sparkling mountain stream the road led upward among towering peaks, craggy boulders and beautiful views. It was a slight, worth seeing and one of the scenic beauties of the west.

Mackay recline, which they should more extensively advertise. Sunday morning the program culled for a fishing trip and a fish fry. Knowing the reputation for the fishing of the Lost river every one of the boys had his mind made up for a ten pounder at least. Most of them failed to get ten pounders, but the Times editor will swear that all of them tried to tuck away ten pounders under their belt at the fish fry. Most of them succeeded. The trip to fishing grounds was one of the incidents of the trip and one that will linger long as a pleasant laughable memory. Attempting to get through a stretch of swampy meadow to the fishing grounds the advancing autos must have been a great deal like admiring on the firing line in Europe. First a big Studebaker would go in to the hubs and had to be extracted by the first aid commission consisting of some dozen lunkers. Then racing and bumping across runs and bogs perhaps, three or four cars would be stuck in the bog at the same time only to wait for the life saving crew to get out and make another run. But as a sample of editorial stickiness, the fishing spot was reached with unassisted help, but with somewhat dirty raincoat. Strange as it may seem not a single male person lost his temper. Even Chase Clark, the doughy Mackay attorney, never even said "damn," when the utility team dumped him with almost deadly into a nice soft jelly and one of the scenic beauties of the west.

the people in trying to sustain the reputation of one of nature's finest spots. Even a lazy editor could catch up there. Some of the trout even chasing the anglers out on the banks in their eagerness to make good. Saturday night the editors and their wives enjoyed an informal dance at Mackay's fine dance hall and were only able to last make the early morning schedule the next day by dint of will power.

Mackay is certainly a delightful spot to spend a vacation. Beautiful snow capped mountains, fine trout fishing and a climate that banishes laziness, make it one of the best in the state. Long live the loyal Mackay citizens, may they soar to capitalistic heights on the wave of high priced copper. They deserve it.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 21- DOUBLING YOUR INCOME

Remember that money is of a prolific, generating nature. Money can "beget" money, and its offspring can beget more, and so on. Flooding turned a six, turned again it is seven and three percent and son on till it becomes one hundred pounds. The more there is of it the more it produces every turning, so that the profits rise quicker and quicker.—Benjamin Franklin.

This is not a get-rich-quick scheme. It is simply a plain statement of how any industrious young man who sets about it early enough can double his income by middle life simply through $50.00 weekly wages saved and wise investment of them from time to time.

After he has done this, he can stop working and let his capital work for him or keep on working with it and still further increase his fortune before he retires.

Let us assume that you are in your twenties and that you are earning $20 a week, $1,040 a year.

In order to equal that income through 6 per cent investments you would need a capital of $17,300.

Here is how you can do it before you have passed your prime:

Suppose you open a savings account in a bank which pays 4 per cent interest, an savings, compounded semi-annually.

Save and deposit in the bank $5 every week.

Whether your principal and interest equal or exceed $1,000 draw out that sum and invest it in a first mortgage paying 6 per cent a year, payable semi-annually. Likewise deposit your mortgage interest in your savings account, continue to withdraw and invest whenever your savings account reaches the $1,000 mark.

In 25 years your principal will amount to $17,772.22 and your income from this sum invested in four to six per cent mortgages will be upwards of $20 a week. This is how it figures out:	$5 per week deposited in bank at 4 per cent annually, compounded semi-annually will amount to $11,233.91 in 25 years.

You take out $1,000 and invest it in a first mortgage at 6 per cent.	Balance on Savings account $11,233.91

WORKING ON REPLY

Germany Will Probably Point Out Impossibility of Such Action.

Berlin, via London.—The foreign office experts have commenced the consideration of the German answer to the American government's note concerning Germany's submarine warfare and the first draft of the document presumably will be finished at the end of this week. As the reply this time will be submitted to Emperor William at headquarters, after it is thrashed out between the departments concerned, it probably will not be ready for transmission before the middle of the end of next week.

There is no clear indication of the probable nature of the note, yet obtainable. From the emphasis which the answer would be expected to lay on the alleged British practice of flying neutral flags and encouraging merchantmen to attack submarines, and the responsibility of Germany to observe the regulations concerning violation and search under these conditions, it might be anticipated that the argument would be the crux of the reply. But at the foreign office there seems to be an impression that this point will appear only as a subordinate part of the reply. If at all, and that an attempt will be made to give a definite answer to President Wilson's request, one way or another.

Arrangement of Lusitania.

The alleged arrangement of the Lusitania probably will not figure prominently in the next reply. Considerable testimony has been assembled regarding the presence of guns aboard the Lusitania, and it all tends to support the view that the vessel was a merchant ship. It is probable that the Lusitania was sunk, although some of it touches on trips made since the war began.

A German sailor named Emil Gratz for instance, deposes in an affidavit published here that he sailed for four years on British ships, and that he witnessed the Lusitania and the Mauretania. He avers that he made three trips on the Lusitania and that she, like the Mauretania, carried five or six 12-centimeter guns—two on her aft deck, two amidships, and one or two forward. Gratz testified that he observed the Lusitania's receipt in the crew of the Lusitania exercising with these guns.

Higher business influences continue to be exerted in favor of a peaceful settlement with the United States. A number of industrial and commercial leaders in Germany have gathered in Berlin during the last few days to use their influence personally to this end.
