LIABILITY LAW WILL BE BEATEN IN SENATE

DEMOCRATIC DEFEATERS HELP MINORITY DEFEAT MEASURE IN UPPER HOUSE

HOUSE DEMOCRATS STILL HOPE TO CARRY COMPROMISE BILL

Interests Fought Original Bates Bill Successfully—If Bolting Democrats Stand With Republicans No Liability Law Will Pass.

(Editorial Correspondence)

BOISE, March 5.—That no employers' liability act will be put on the statute by the fourteenth session of the legislature, now hearing the day of adjournment, is the conclusion freely expressed by many of those who have followed closely the tug-of-war between the democratic side of the house and the republican faction in the senate, which with the support of four democratic deserters, is in control of that body.

The fact that both the Democratic and the Republican parties in Idaho stand pledged to the enactment of an effective workmen's compensation measure, does not alter their convictions.

As they point out, that the senators constituting the Republican minority and the four recalcitrant Democrats have bound themselves not to accept those amendments which would adopt to the senate bill. The senate measure, known as the Rockwell bill, passed the senate after they had definitely postponed the House bill.

The House bill was knocked out by the Democratic majority of the house Saturday, section by section, and what is known as the Anderson bill substituted.

The original house bill, by Bates, was bitterly and successfully opposed by interests representing capital, while the present bill substituted in the house for the Bates bill, in acceptance, is a compromise measure, to both the people representing organized labor and those representing the timber and mining industries.

In spite of this agreement the house and the senate are at logger-heads, and bid fair to remain so.

It is conceded that the house substitute will be adopted by a substantial majority. This will place the question of whether or not the state is to have an employers' liability act squarely up to the senate.

Thursday is the sixteenth day of the session, after which the solons draw pay, the senate must either deprive the state of this privilege for two or three years, or else accept the Anderson bill.

Hope is still entertained, however, that some of the senate democrats will stand by the Rockwell bill, which will "stand hatched" when it comes to a showdown and that means will be found of exerting sufficient pressure upon the senators to get them back into the party harness.

A parliamentary battle, devoid of any special brilliancy on either side, was waged all day Saturday between the two sides of the senate.

The Twain Falls delegation, headed by E. Hansen and assisted by the Bates bill in the house; Atherton, in the senate, contributed to its defeat. Atherton voted for Rockwell bill; Hansen and Sims voted for the Bates bill and probably all support the amended bill when it comes up for final passage. Atherton, in the senate, is expected to vote against it.

WILSON AGAIN IS MADE PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Inducted Into Office With Due Ceremony.

PATRIOTISM MARKS THE DAY

Vice President Marshall First Takes the Oath—Imposing Inaugural Parade in Largely Military in Its Nature—Flage and Illumination.

By EDWARD B. CLARK. Washington, March 5.—Woodrow Wilson has been inaugurated president of the United States for the second time, and Thomas R. Marshall has come into his own as vice president of the United States for the second time in company with the chief executive.

For several nights prior to the inauguration, Washington was a flood of light. Thousands of American citizens came to the capital of their nation from all over the United States to witness the ceremonies attending the inauguration. The situation of the country in reference to its foreign relations added more than a touch of seriousness and a distinct flavor of patriotism to the entire proceedings.

President Wilson drove from the White House to the capitol with his wife at his side. In the carriage with him were two members of the congressional committee on the inauguration, and of which Senator Orverman of North Carolina is chairman.

Vice President Marshall, with Mrs. Marshall in the carriage with him, was escorted in like manner to the capitol.

Big Crowds, Many Flags. From an early hour the sidewalks were crowded with persons waiting to see the president and "the first lady of the land" pass along the avenue to the place of the oath-taking.

The windows commanding a view of Pennsylvania avenue also were crowded with onlookers. The red, white and blue was everywhere in evidence. The only foreign flags to be seen in Washington were those flying from the flagpoles of the foreign embassies and legations which, even though they are located in the city of Washington, are recognized as being foreign territory.

Vice President Marshall was sworn into office before the inauguration of the president. The exercises took place in the senate chamber. The legislative day of March 5, so far as the senate was concerned, had been continued by recesses until the hour of 12 noon of the calendar day March 5.

The president pro tempore of the senate presided at the ceremonies preceding the administration of the oath to the vice president-elect. The president of the United States, the members of the cabinet, the foreign ambassadors and other notable guests occupied seats

Woodrow Wilson.

In the senate chamber. At twelve o'clock the president pro tempore administered the oath of office prescribed by law to the vice president-elect. Immediately following the taking of the oath of office by Mr. Marshall, the newly elected senators of the United States were sworn into office. Then the vice president made the address of acceptance. The general terms of the senate will carry out the order of the senate for the inauguration of the president of the United States.

The president-elect, accompanied by the chief justices of the United States, the joint committee on arrangements, the associate justices of the Supreme

SIXTY-FIFTH CONGRESS MEETS IN CAPITOL

Several Big Men Enter Senate—'Lady From Montana' Overshadows New House Members.

(United Press) WASHINGTON, March 5.—The sixty-fifth American Congress began its two-year life at noon today.

It will number among its members the first woman admitted to the halls of Congress: Miss Jeanette Rankin of Montana.

Somewhat overshadowed by the brighter lustre of the Presidential inauguration, the "top" half of the Congress, the Senate, took its respective oaths of office, severally and altogether, and attended the taking of the oath by the President on the Capitol steps.

While it lost some of its leading spirits, the Senate today gained several who, having shown elsewhere, may shine in Congress, and, as in some former cases, may not.

Hiram Johnson of California, Frank K. Kellogg of Minnesota, Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania and Peter Gerry Cooley of Rhode Island attracted much of the interest that attached to the new Senate.

Johnson, the center of fire in the California fight in November, succeeds Works, another Republican, whose last days in Congress were lived up by caustic comments from home about his race speeches. The Progressive influence for vice president in 1912 and one of the last to leave the Progressive ship when it ran aground on Lake Michigan last summer, Johnson's arrival was awaited with interest and some trepidation by conservatives—who hope, however, he will be an other—have been quiet at first, anyway. Kellogg is the "Trust Buster" of notoriety fame a few years back. He succeeds Clapp of Minnesota, also a Republican, and is ranked with Johnson as an addition to the thin line of progressives in the Senate.

Knox of Pennsylvania, succeeding Oliver, is remembered in Washington and probably everywhere else as a Republican Secretary of State and a former Senator.

Gerry, who succeeds Lippitt, is also prominent particularly because he comes from Newport, R. I. and is a society leader.

Senators who took the oath of office today included, besides those named, Harry S. New, who succeeds Chilton of West Virginia; Frederick Hale, who succeeds Johnson of Maine; Frank B. Rowland, who succeeds Lee of Maryland; Kenneth D. McKellar, who also came from the House to succeed Luke Lea of Tennessee.

O. Wolcott, who succeeds Dupont of Delaware; J. S. Frolinghouse, who succeeds Martina of New Jersey; Calder, who succeeds O'Gorman of New York; and Samuel A. Jones, assistant secretary of the Interior, who succeeds Catron of New Mexico.

The House line-up will for the first time greet the "Lady From Montana," who successfully overshadowed any of the incoming congressmen—even former Governor Sander Alexander, Minn. Merwin of Chicago and State Senator Christy D. Sullivan of Tammammy Hill.

LIEUTENANT LONDON RESIGNS POSITION

First Lieutenant in Buhl Military Company Gives Place Up Because of Changed Residence.

Because he had removed his residence from Buhl, Lieutenant E. A. London, deputy county auditor, resigned his position last week as first lieutenant in Co. America Will Stand "Firm in Armed Neutrality" Says The President

OBSTRUCTIONISTS KILL THE DEFENSE BILL

Eleven Senators Thwart the Will of Executive, Congress and Nation—Censured by Wilson.

WASHINGTON.—The little band of obstructionist senators consisting of seven Republicans and five Democrats succeeded in preventing action Saturday night on the bill authorizing President Wilson to arm merchant ships and such other instrumentalities as might be necessary to protect American shipping.

The obstructionists planned to have Senator La Follette talk the measure to death by occupying all the time available until the term of congress expires in order to deprive the Wisconsin man of the satisfaction and notoriety which he hoped to gain, the friends of the bill arranged to have Senator Hitchcock, father of the measure, announce himself as averring the bill. Two senators were sick and unable to be present, and several were absent from the city.

Those who were not present are said to have been favorable to the legislation. Immediately after the adjournment of congress, President Wilson issued a statement censuring the obstructionists and employed in this and other matters. Relative to the defense measure he said:

"The termination of the last session of the sixteenth congress by constitutional limitation presents a situation unparalleled in the history of any modern government. In the hands of the men who are in charge of this matter, the crisis brought by more subtle and far-reaching possibilities of national danger than any other the government has ever known, is being met by a situation unparalleled in the history of any modern government. President Wilson speaks of only eleven senators who opposed the bill, but he does not say which of the eleven senators he had in mind. He says that the bill was passed by a vote of 117 to 11.

The old law referred to by the president was adopted by congress in 1915 and referred to the resistance of American merchantmen against the attacks of German submarines and pirates. It was in this law that the United States was first authorized to arm merchant ships.

CONCERNING NEW ADMINISTRATION TO PEACE, WILSON ASSERTS AMERICAN RIGHTS

DECLARES "NOTHING WILL ALTER OUR THOUGHT OR PURPOSE"

In Eloquent and Impressive Words The Nation's Chief Insists That Our People All Stand Together—Immense Crowd Sings America.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—For the expressed purpose of "setting Europe right on the international position of the United States," President Wilson today ordered copies of his inaugural address brought to the attention of all foreign governments. Officials believe that a false impression may have been created about the address owing to developments during the past week, and the administration wishes the world to know that America stands firm.

WASHINGTON.—Woodrow Wilson, with the major part of the world at war and America poised on its verge, consecrated his second inauguration as president of the United States on Monday with a last message of hope for peace.

Standing in the shadows of the nation's capitol, with his face turned toward the eastern war-scarred skies, the president renewed his oath of allegiance to the constitution, praying to God that he might be given wisdom and prudence to do his duty in the true spirit of the American people.

While trumpets blared and martial accoutrements rattled about him, the president declared that the wrongs of the United States had patiently borne in the conflict of other peoples without wishing to wrong or injure in return.

Addressing the throngs of great and other continent had removed provincialism and made American citizens of the world, and that the principles of a republic should be applied to a liberation of man by revolutionary voice a determination that America, standing "firm in armed neutrality," must demonstrate her "claim to the right of self-determination and freedom of action" in world affairs.

Peculiar interest and significance in the light of his rebuke Sunday night to some who predicted the passage of the armed neutrality bill, were attached to the president's assertion on this point; even more interest and concern when he added:

"We are together, by circumstances, not by our own purpose or desire, to a more active assertion of our rights as we see them, and a more united front in the struggle for our struggle itself. But nothing will alter our thought or our purpose. We desire neither conquest nor advantage.

"And it is imperative that we should stand together. We are being forced into a new unity amidst the fires that now blaze throughout the world. In their ardent heart we shall, in God's providence, be united by our common action and division, purified of the errant humors of party and of private interest, and shall stand forth in the days to come with a new dignity of national pride in the eyes of the world. We are together, by circumstances, not by our own purpose or desire, to a more active assertion of our rights as we see them, and a more united front in the struggle for our struggle itself. But nothing will alter our thought or our purpose. We desire neither conquest nor advantage.

"I pray God I may be given the wisdom and the prudence to do my duty in the true spirit of this great people. I am their servant, and can succeed only by the aid and guidance of the people. We are together, by circumstances, not by our own purpose or desire, to a more active assertion of our rights as we see them, and a more united front in the struggle for our struggle itself. But nothing will alter our thought or our purpose. We desire neither conquest nor advantage.

DEFENSIVE WAR DECLARED LIKELY BY MISS TARBELL

NOTED LECTURER SAYS IT WILL BE A MIRACLE IF WE ESCAPE WITHOUT A CONFLICT

COUNTRY WILL STAND WITH PRESIDENT IN DEMANDING RIGHTS

League to Enforce Peace Frailties—War a Cause of High Cost of Living—People Should Store Products for Their own Use in Winter.

"It seems to me that it would be almost a miracle should the United States not be drawn into war, defensively," said Miss M. TARBELL, who, interviewed by a TIMES reporter today, Miss Tarbell lectures on "Industrial Idealism" at the Lavington tonight and tomorrow. She believes that the administration of the country would contemplate offensive war," she continued, "and should the administration attempt such war I do not believe that it would succeed, perhaps we would win, but I am sure that they will stand behind President Wilson in his policy of keeping the seas open to American trade and defending our rights and I feel that they should do so."

"I believe that the war should be followed by the establishment of a league to enforce peace. Perhaps it would not succeed, perhaps we would ourselves feel called upon to break it, but it is the next logical step to take. "A tariff war such as is sometimes talked about, would be quite incompatible with such a league, and should not be encouraged. A general understanding regarding trade between nations ought to be arrived at, as trade wars."

"The high cost of living I attribute to a great extent to the war as people cease to produce and begin to waste that is so scarce, they engage in wars. To some extent it is the difficulty of which they complain, and to a great extent solve the problem of high cost of living without legislation, for you know when you pass laws to govern things, you are confronted with the problem of passing the right laws and the further problem of getting the right people to enforce them."

THE "CITY OF PUEBLA"

(Written for the Times)

(Note: The American steamship City of Puebla, 2,624 tons, with a crew composed entirely of American citizens, is the first United States vessel to defy the U-boat perils since the German decree of February 1. With a cargo of merchandise declared to be contraband, she sailed from Brooklyn pier on February 16. She carried no guns and her sides were not striped "barber pole" fashion as set forth in the German mandate. Her destination is Havre, one of the German "blockaded" ports and her cargo consists of cotton, copper and spelter.)

The City of Puebla
Is out upon the sea,
And all my heart is with her
Wherever she may be;
And so are all the crew,
Her cargo it is contraband—
She's Yankee thru and thru.

She cares not for the Kaiser
Or for the Kaiser's spleen,
She fears not hidden dangers,
From mine or submarine,
Her Captain is American,
And so are all the crew,
And Yankee courage always wins
She's bound to make it thru.

The Kaiser William took his map
And drew a little line—
Said he unto his fawning slaves
"That Ocean sure is mine."
Said he, "All neutral vessels now
When sailing on my sea,
Will have to show to my police
A passport signed by me."

The crew of the Puebla
Aboard their little craft—
Received his message with a sneer
And scornfully they laughed:
"Who is this tyrant who has dared
(Spoke up the Captain then)
To close the highway of the sea
To free-horn Yankee men?"

"Our cargo's here at hand," my lands,
Its contraband of war,
But Yankees take no orders—
From a German Emperor—
I'm here to stick to our good ship
And sail her o'er the sea!"
And thirty sailors yelled with joy
And shouted, "So are we."

So out upon the ocean
Intrepidly they steer;
For Kaiser and Kaiser's threats
They neither care nor fear;
And all my heart goes out to her
Wherever she may be—
The City of Puebla, which
Is now upon the sea.

Far out upon the Ocean
With merciless design—
The submarines are waiting there
To sink her in the brine,
But bravely and undauntedly
Upon her way she swings—
For Yankees brook no insolence
From Emperors or Kings.

Brave City of Puebla,
And all her gallant crew—
The God of free Americans
Will surely guide her thru!
My love has all gone out to her
My heart is on the sea,
With thirty brave Americans
Wherever they may be.

VERDICT OF JURY FOR THE DEFENDANT.

F. F. Varney was tried before a jury Thursday afternoon on the charges made by Street Commissioner W. F. Porter, of working some of his girl employees over the time permitted by law. Mr. Varney said that on some days when there was a mass, some of his employees worked more than the legal time, but that on other days they got off earlier, so that it more than balanced for the week. He had not charged them with overtime, but had paid them overtime when they worked later than regular hours. His employees testified to the same facts. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

Court, the foreign ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary, the members of the senate, preceded by the vice president and secretary of the senate, the holder members of the house of representatives, preceded by the officers of the house who have just relinquished office by virtue of the expiration of their terms, and other distinguished guests made their way to the inaugural stand.

Inauguration of the President.
The procession, headed by the president-elect, wound through the east sen-

Thomas R. Marshall.

his carriage and was driven slowly to the White House at the head of the procession formed in honor of the inaugural celebration.

Luncheon Deferred for Parade.
In years past the presidential party always has entered the White House for luncheon prior to the review of the parade from the stand in front of the executive mansion. This custom in the past caused such a delay that it was decided this year to go away with the luncheon feature.

President Wilson with Mrs. Wilson, the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, and new members of his cabinet, were immediately to the little enclosed structure, much like a sentry box, which had been built in the middle of the great grandstand in front of the White House and from which the chief executive viewed the parades.

It was the gravity of the situation in connection with our foreign affairs which gave to the inaugural ceremonies their serious tone and patriotic features. The parade of the day was largely military in its nature, although there were in the procession many bodies which in a sense might be said to represent the spirit of industrial preparedness of the United States for any eventuality which might come.

Make-up of the Procession.
At the forefront of the parade as it left the capitol were, of course, the president and the vice president of the United States with their guards of honor. Major General Hugh L. Scott, U. S. Army, was the grand marshal of the occasion. George E. Lindbergh was the marshal of the civic organizations which took part in the marching ceremonies.

Immediately preceding the carriages of the presidential and vice presidential parties and of Col. Robert N. Hart, industrialist, was the famous New Jersey United States Marine band. The president had as his guard of honor the squadron of the Second United States Cavalry.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall were escorted by the Black Horse troop of the Culver Military academy, Indiana, the state of which the vice president and his wife are natives.

The West Point cadets and the Annapolis cadets took part in the procession. In addition to these young soldier and sailor organizations there was as large a representation of the forces of the United States as properly could be spared from post and garrison duty. In addition there were troops from Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, and some other states of the Union representing the National Guard.

A patriotic and picturesque feature of the ceremonies attending the inauguration was supplied by the rapidly thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic. In years past the soldiers of the war between the states have made the entire length of the line of march, but this year the distance which they traversed was shortened. They acted to the picture of the parade as they moved by the presidential reviewing stand with their old flags above them.

At night Washington was aglow with fireworks and with the combined effects of gas and electric light illuminations. In addition searchlights showed the heavens here and there, and one great shaft of light illuminated the apex of the Washington monument, while the lights of the city brought into bold relief the dome of the capitol.

—From Exchanges—
Factory For Aberdeen—A best sugar factory at Aberdeen, the extension of the Aberdeen branch railroad to Fairview and the consideration of the possibilities of the cattle feeding industry on the irrigated land north of American Falls, were some of the things considered at a mass meeting attended Tuesday in Aberdeen by not less than 100 farmers.—American Falls Press.

Big Strike at Strevell—Reports are coming in from the south end of Raft River valley, in the Clear Creek range, a few miles west of Strevell, to the effect that a big strike of good ore has been opened up there.

It is claimed this new property will be an early shipper, as the body of ore encountered is a large one. An yet we have been unable to secure any details, other than the fact that this property recently passed into the hands of Salt Lake capitalists, known as the Western Exploration company, and are now on the ground with a force of men and equipment to begin extensive work at once.—Malta Inland Empire.

County Hospital Pays—When Pocatello and Blannock county engaged in the process of operating a public hospital and took over the old plant, and later appropriated funds to commence the work of doubling the capacity of the establishment a good public institution was started, and one that will prove a profitable investment, according to the present operation of the hospital. At the present time the city and county have $500 tied up in the cost in the neighborhood of $450,000. Last year the revenue from the hospital was $17,000, and with increased facilities this figure will be practically doubled, as the prestige of the institution is rapidly growing, and the quarters are overcrowded, and will not until the upper floors are completed.—Pocatello Tribune.

Owens Valuable Violin—O. C. Christensen may have a fortune in an old violin which has been in his family for generations. His attention was directed to its inscription by a newspaper story coming from Sussex, N. J., as follows: Mahlon P. Johnson, a civil war veteran, recently got out an old violin given to him by his grandfather in 1847. An expert in such matters discovered on the inside of the instrument the inscription, "Antonio Stradivarius, Cremona, Feb. 26, Anno 1730." It is now valued at from $10,000 to $30,000.

The markings in Mr. Christensen's violin are identical with the above except for the year, which is 1716 instead of 1730. Mr. Bunn, leader of the American Falls Concert band, is of the opinion that the violin is of great value, and may possibly have a market value as high as $50,000.—American Falls Press.

STOP, THINK, INVESTIGATE!

The City of Twin Falls is today facing the most important proposition of its existence; one that must have incalculable effect upon its future for good or for ill, according to the manner in which it shall be worked out.

Of course reference is had to the proposal to expend a half million dollars for a new and better water supply and distributing system—bonding the city in payment of the same.

That there is immediate and crying need for such an improvement is the practically unanimous sentiment of our people. Accepting this to be the case, the city authorities have prepared a report from an engineer making specific recommendations relative to the three prime considerations involved, namely:

The source of proposed supply. Method of purifying and distributing. Aggregate cost of entire plant.

Herein is great opportunity for investigation and for careful consideration. After the work shall have been completed, or even after its plan and method is definitely decided upon, will be too late. Now is the time for investigation and, if thought necessary, for criticism and for suggestion—all of which we understand to be desired and invited by the city officials having the matter in charge.

How many voters and taxpayers of Twin Falls have present and definite knowledge as to the details of the proposed plan? And, having such knowledge, how many of them will be prepared to judge whether or not it is satisfactory as to the sufficiency and purity of the water supply and the economy of its procurement?

The answer which must be given to the foregoing questions is conclusive as to the responsibility, which, in a case of this kind, must devolve upon the consulting engineer. We may, and should, interest and inform ourselves as far as possible as to the practical merits of his proposed plan, but after that the conclusion must necessarily rest upon confidence, or the lack of it, in his dictum. How far such confidence is justified must, in each individual case, rest upon the character, the professional standing and record of the engineer himself, as established by past efforts and accomplishments.

They succeeded—the more shame to them! This, speaking of the twelve senators—seven Republicans and five Democrats—who filibustered against the vote that would have added Congressional sanction to the president's authority to arm American ships against the German submarine menace. Seventy-six senators—thirty Republicans and forty-six Democrats—were willing and anxious to vote for the measure; but under the foolish and outworn rules of senatorial procedure, the recalcitrant handful were able to maintain successive opposition through twenty-six hours of continuous session and until the final fall at noon Friday, upon the last moment of the existence of the first Congress. Some satisfaction was found in the fact that Senator La Follette, the ignominious Roman of them all, was prevented from occupying the last hours and minutes in the noisy pose before the country which he had planned.

The United States is not at war; but, even if it was, why should it be necessary to guard the bridges and tunnels of our great railway lines to prevent them from being blown up? Is it possible that prospective or even actual war with a foreign nation can bring such risks into the very heart of our own country? If such proves to be the case, dramatic reprisals will surely come about.

Saturday ended a week of rain and snow at the National Capitol, previously decorated for the inaugural ceremonies. No one who has never seen the drooping, wetted and washed-out appearance of a bunting-covered city after a continued rain can fully appreciate the press statement that "the capital looks like a belle caught in a thunder shower."

An extra session of congress, the president says, will now be necessary in order to authorize him to arm merchant ships and otherwise protect American lives and interests. If this was the real purpose of the filibusters instead of harking to a constitutional conscience, they can be better understood but not more easily defended.

The Idaho senate on last Friday passed its bill No. 60, providing for the licensing of architects. This is a matter in which the architects themselves are much interested, and their patrons, the "dear public," should be. The bill will doubtless meet no opposition in the house.

The lower house of congress on Saturday passed the resolution authorizing a bond issue of an hundred and fifty millions to provide for hastening the progress of naval construction. Some two years ago would have been a good time to have begun "hastening."

Washington's fashionable orky knows as the inaugural ball was prevented this year by President Wilson's determined resistance. If never before, certainly at this time this custom is "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

If a few senators can prevent a vote in the United States senate upon a matter of vital importance, the United States senate had better amend its rules of order.

The Idaho legislature seems to have found ground on the rock ledge of a workmen's compensation law.

MR. BUTLER WILL GIVE CONCERT FRIDAY EVENING

Song Recital Held at Parish Hall by Well Known Baritone Assisted by Professors Coburn and Schettler.

Mr. Chas. Butler is going to give a concert in the Parish hall on Friday night, March 9. Mr. Butler is a baritone and his singing in the Tabernacle here last year made him a host of friends who are anxious to hear him in a song recital such as he is able to give in high class concert work. His voice has a depth of sympathy and pathos that always reaches the heart, and his range is over two octaves with perfect enunciation and marvelous breath control, which enables him to phrase his songs in the most pleasing manner. Those who know Mr. Butler admire him greatly and it is at the earnest request of these friends that he has consented to sing next Friday night. The tickets are on sale at the Skeels-Wiley Drug store, price 50 cents, children 25 cents. A large crowd will be present to enjoy this feast of song. Mr.

Coburn is to assist Mr. Butler playing his accompaniments and will also play a piano solo. Mr. Neil Schettler will play a violin solo and also play an obligato for several of Mr. Butler's selections. The program follows:

1. (a) The Swirl of Ferrara, Bulard. (b) The Trumpet, Barron, Dix.
2. To the Evening Star, Tannhauser, Wagner. Even Bravest Hearts, Faust, Gounod.
3. Caprice Espagnol, Moszkowski.
4. (a) Thine Eyes So Blue, Eduard Lassen. (b) The Sunshine of Your Smile, Hay. (c) On the Weser, Gustav Pressel.

If we but try to ourselves in ourselves as we have wished to be known in the councils of the world and in the thought of all those who love liberty and justice and the right extended.

Making no attempt to review the legislative record of the last four years, the president said, this was no time for retrospection. "It is time now to speak of thoughts and purposes for the immediate future. To be indifferent to the influence of the war upon America, he said, was impossible and he was firm in the conviction that the part that this country wished to play in the vital turmoil was the part of These were the dominant thoughts of the president as he addressed the cheering multitude. In the assemblage before him American citizens of all nations had sung "America" with a mighty voice while waiting for his appearance on the inaugural stand.

Thomas R. Marshall on being sworn in as vice president delivered a short address the dominant note of which was sounded in the statement that the chief duty of a citizen was to be a patriot.

Cafes Boost H. L. C.—As far removed as is Twin Falls from the federal investigation of the H. C. L., the patron of the local cafes is not beyond the influence of that increasing cost, and beginning March 10, he will find it still more difficult to satisfy the cravings of the inner man. This comes as a result of the announcement this week on the part of five of the Twin Falls eating establishments, that on and after the above date, local restaurants will be forced to raise their prices. Long-suffering war is blamed for the boost in prices. The cafes are raising their prices on that date at the Model, Twin Falls, City, Palace and Royal.

WIDOW OF MEMBER MONITOR CREW DIED

Mrs. F. C. Nare of Twin Falls Brings Home Picture of Famous Ship After Death of Her Mother.

Word was received two weeks ago in this city of the death of her mother, Mrs. Wollington Holmes, of Kansas City, Kansas. The Kansas City Star of February 14 contained an interesting account of an important event in the life of Mrs. Nare's father, Vol-lington Holmes, brought out by the death of his widow. Mr. Holmes was a member of the crew of the famous monitor when he fought the celebrated battle with the Merrimac. The Star ran a cut of the noted little fighting ship as she steamed under the gulf of a coasting vessel in the secret bayou of the Potomac where the wood-work which disguised her real character was removed and her big guns mounted. The Monitor was built complete inside the temporary vessel which carried her to the Potomac. Each member of the crew was presented with a picture of the vessel after the defeat of the Confederate battle-ship. Mrs. Nare was with her mother at the time of her death and brought the picture to this city, where her father back with her.

FIVE-MILLIONS IN SUPERANNUATED FUND

Bishop Lawrence of Episcopal Church Makes Successful Appeal to Wall Street Millionaires.

(United Press)
NEW YORK, March 1.—Bishop H. Lawrence of Massachusetts, who sat himself right down in the midst of Wall street one year ago and started to collect a $5,000,000 pension fund from all over the country for superannuated Episcopal clergymen, completed his task today. He has the five million. The pension list will provide not less than $600 annually for old age or disability; and from that up to half of the yearly salary. It will give widows of ministers not less than $300 annually; and orphans $100 annually up to 7 years of age, $200 from 7 to 14 and $300 from 14 to 21.

NEW YORK POLICE BEGIN COURSE IN LAW STUDY

(United Press)
NEW YORK, March 1.—Members of the New York Police department today began to study law at Columbia University. The department has made a special arrangement with the Columbia Law school whereby the entire course will cost each policeman only $15, with $3 additional for books.

The course will last for sixteen weeks, with "one" two-hour period each week. Some law has heretofore been taught at the police training school, but the idea of an advanced course came from the policemen themselves. The law course will not be required by the department. It will be entirely optional with the man himself and must be pursued in hours when he is off duty.

The courses are given with the idea of training the policeman in the law as it is applied to his own particular duties so he may have a better understanding of his job.

SOUL TREATMENT FOR WAR STRICKEN ALL EUROPE

BOSTON—March 1.—On the theory that men's souls will be sick after the European war has finished, certain-ly there is a piece of famous religious leaders met here today to consider what spiritual medicine shall be prepared for them. The prevention of future wars by proper religious teaching also will be considered.

School Notes

Outclassed in teamwork and accuracy in bucket shooting, Twin Falls high school lost the eighth basketball game of the season to Rupert, by the score of 23 to 64. The local boys played in good form, but they missed the basket who was disabled for the season. In the last Buhl game, Neuman scored for Twin Falls seven times during the game but he was unable to keep up with some of the speedy Rupert boys. The score was simply a repetition of the points they piled-up on Twin when they played here a month ago. Local enthusiasts hope to hand it back to them if they enter the tournament to be held here in March.

Four towns have signified their intention of entering the basketball tournament planned by Coach Nafziger. Though Rupert and Oakley are as yet undecided, they are still expected to enter. The only one unable to enter, owing to entrance and eligibility requirements. The Commercial club has announced they will send for cups and medals to the winners of both classes, A and B.

A basket ball game with Hollister has been announced for Friday evening, March 2, at 8 o'clock. The Hollister team has an excellent record this season; and a fast game is anticipated.

The condition of the roads has been such that the meeting of the agricultural club of the high school, has been postponed from this time, until it was decided by the program committee to hold it Thursday, March 8. An excellent program is to be rendered by various members of the club, and other

BALANCED RATION BEST FOR HENS

Missouri Expert Writes Regarding Poultry Food—Fresh Water, Grit Charcoal and Shells Needed.

That mill products and grains are the best poultry foods is shown in a table prepared by Director Thomas E. Quinsberry, of the Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station, the largest poultry experiment station in the world, says the Price Current-Reporter. Mr. Quinsberry shows the value of the various feeds in a unique way. He says:

The solids of an egg are made principally of three different kinds of material—Fat, protein and minerals. The yolk is principally fat; the white protein, and the shell minerals. In order to balance the ration for egg production it is necessary to know how much yolk and white-forming material is in each kind of food. The following table shows the number of Mike Neilson, who is putting the new cigar store and billiard hall in the room formerly occupied by the Golden Rule, has taken a lease on the building recently vacated by the Buhl Hardware company, and is fitting it up for a picture house, says the Buhl Pioneer. The floor will be lowered, a new front will be put in and the entire building will be remodeled, making it into a well-ventilated, convenient and attractive show house. An orchestra pit will be built in the rear, but a stage will not be put in until later, perhaps during the summer, when a stage man is built on the rear of the present building, so that the seating capacity will not be lessened by building the stage inside of the present structure.

Mr. Quinsberry has figured out a balanced ration which will furnish the maximum amount of yolks and whites.

This ration should be kept in the yards where the hens may eat it at all times.

To secure best results with this or with any other feed, fresh water, grit, charcoal and oyster shells or ground limestone should also be always before the hens.

INTERPRETATIVE LECTURES STILL AT THE ISIS THEATRE

"God's Cartoons" The Sunday Night
Subject: The Four Great Beasts of The Book of Daniel.

"God takes the things of this world and used them to represent the great things he desires to teach us, the same as the accomplished cartoonist today uses his pencil to tell things that it would take whole articles to give to the people." So said Evangelist Bunch at the Idaho theatre Sunday night to an intensely interested audience, while speaking on the subject, "God's Cartoons of the Nations of Europe." He used a series of large charts upon which were pictured the four beasts designed after the descriptions that he given in the Bible of the ones Daniel the prophet saw. The apostle Paul in his letter to the Corinthians said, speaking of the prophecies, "These things that were written afore time were written for our admonition upon whom the ends of the world are come," so they have direct bearing on the things going on in the world today.

The four great beasts spoken of in Daniel 7 represent the four kingdoms that should bear rule over all the earth. These are the same kingdoms that were fully explained in the discourse a few nights ago. The lion spoken of in this prophecy is what God would best represent the Babylonian kingdom, the four wings on its back represents the swiftness with which young Nebuchadnezza carried his conquests. The bear that raised itself up on one side represents the Medo Persian kingdom and the three ribs in the mouth of the bear represent the three first provinces that Babylon conquered, Syria, Lydia and Egypt. This gave these people a thirst for conquest and as a result they conquered the then known world.

The leopard with four heads and four wings represents the Grecian kingdom that attained to the zenith of its power under Alexander the Great. The fourth beast represents the Roman kingdom and describes in detail many of the characteristics of that kingdom and the work it accomplished. The ten horns of the beast represent the ten divisions of the Roman kingdom. These are the different kingdoms of Europe today. Thus the prophecy brings us to our own time and portrays the very conditions we see in the world today.

But the record says, "The kingdom will be given to the Saints of the most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom and all dominions shall serve and obey him." So there will never be another universal, temporal kingdom here on earth.

The next great event that will take place in the world will be the setting up of the Kingdom of God. It is our privilege to become citizens of this kingdom that will not be overthrown by a stronger but will continue forever. There can never be any permanent peace in this world until the saints of the most High take the kingdom and Christ the Prince of Peace reigns as King of Kings and Lords of Lords.

turned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in Kansas.

Miss Dorothy Hess, principal of the Berger Public schools, was the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanderson in Twin Falls, a week ago Sunday.

Miss Ruth Beegley, who visited with friends in this neighborhood has returned to her home near Piner.

Mrs. C. W. Simpson was down from Hollister for a few days visit with Mr. Simpson recently. As soon as Mr. Simpson can secure commodious quarters for his family, Mrs. Simpson and children will move to Berger. Those worthy people will be welcomed into our midst.

Peter Christensen and family are the latest arrivals to the Salmon, coming from Kansas. They have come with the view of locating on some good irrigated tract, and will perhaps locate on the Twin Falls tract.

It seems that the population on the Salmon tract is on the increase lately an another newcomer has arrived to the Salmon, and will make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Schuler. Says Lewis, "Yah, Yah, it was a boy." The mother and child are doing nicely.

J. F. Wynman who has been visiting friends and relatives in Pennsylvania the past few months, has returned to his home on the Salmon tract.

After four years farming on the Salmon tract with a constant supply of water, with which to raise crops, L. O. Evans has decided to leave the Salmon tract and move to the Twin Falls tract where there is an abundant supply of water with which to raise bountiful crops successfully. Mr. Evans has rented a farm on that tract and moved there this week. Mr. Evans has a fine well improved farm on the Salmon tract with costly buildings, which are surrounded by trees and roses planted four years ago; the residence being heated and lighted by electricity.

C. E. Rudder and family are making preparations to move off the Salmon tract to the Twin Falls tract, having rented a place there.

Frank Holloway contemplates leaving the Salmon tract this spring and move to some other section where conditions are more favorable.

The Tom Thumb wedding by the Berger public school in the school auditorium Wednesday evening was a decided success. It evidently showed a careful and painstaking training by the teachers, Miss Dorothy Hess and Miss Mary Howe. The affair was a credit to the teachers and the child.

There was a large attendance at the literary Friday evening and a good program was given. Those who participated did credit to themselves and the society. A solo was rendered by Rex Lammons who was good and he readily responded to an encore. The reading by Mrs. R. W. Lammons was greatly appreciated. Instrumental music was furnished by the Berger orchestra and the music was exceedingly good and the orchestra had to respond to several encores.

The gentlemen who furnished the music were: E. L. Mollen, Dan Co; A.

A. Joiner, guitar; and Mr. Campbell, violin. The singing by the male quartet was not amiss; it was good and greatly appreciated. After the close of the program, all repaired to the auditorium, where ice cream, cake, coffee, etc., were served by the ladies of the literary society. One hundred and fifty or more people were seated at the tables, which had been prepared for the occasion, all enjoying themselves immensely.
