I. W. W. RAID IN NEW YORK IS FRUITFUL

EVIDENCE FOUND SHOWING CONNECTION WITH THE GERMAN PROPAGANDA

Documents in German Language Seized

Ninety Spy Suspects All of Whom Are Unnaturalized Subjects of Kaiser Are Captured and Will be Interned for War.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Following up their sensational raids of last night, when more than 200 alien enemies and members of the I. W. W. were taken into custody, federal agents and New York city police today continued to "spot" men in all parts of the city. It was stated that all of the men arrested will be interned for the duration of the war.

In their raids the authorities have obtained a mass of evidence showing systematic German plotting throughout greater New York. Papers, blue prints and maps, for the greater part written in German and including drawings of machinery being manufactured in New York for the government and quantities of enemy compounds that would readily destroy machinery and render useless the works of any engine were found in the German quarters and were seized.

GERMAN WAR PARTY ON THE AGGRESSIVE IN THE REICHSTAG

Make Demands for Annexations and Indemnities as Price of Peace—National Liberals Join Conservative Junkers—Centrists and Socialists Drop Historic Quarrel to Fight Against Program of Extreme War Party—Kaiser Said to Have Assured Pope He Will Evacuate Belgium on "Specified Conditions"—Von Tirpitz "Ruthless" Element Would Shut Off Debate and Prevent Peace Talk.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 27.—Coincident with the convening of the German reichstag the Pan-American party has launched the most vigorous campaign in behalf of a peace with annexations and indemnities that Germany has shown since the outbreak of the war.

The Pan-Germans are receiving the support of the National Liberals, but are meeting with powerful opposition from the Social Democrats and the Centrists.

Representatives in the reichstag of the von Tirpitz group of reactionaries are planning to have the present session cut as short as possible and to block all debate on peace if possible.

In view of the situation now existing in Germany much interest was aroused here today by the report that Germany had secretly made known to Pope Benedict her willingness to restore Belgium on certain conditions.

A dispatch to the International News Service from a Swiss source several days before the text of the German reply had been made public stated that the German government "had communicated to the pope that it was willing to give up the occupied portion of Belgium territory on conditions that were specified."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Germany's latest peace "trial balloon" the verbal offer to Pope Benedict XV to quit Belgium under certain trade and military guarantees fails absolutely to interest the United States government. Officials made this plain today by recalling that the position this government has maintained at all times is that Germany must completely restore the country its military ambition ravished and that however great might be the wish of the United States for an honorable peace it cannot deviate from that stand.

State department officials again pointed to the warning given two weeks ago that Germany was about to launch a series of seeming peace concessions that had no other object than crystallizing pacifist propaganda in the allied nations.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 27.—Hostile references were made to President Wilson's note to the pope when the reichstag met on Wednesday, said a dispatch from Berlin today.

President Kaempff was quoted as saying that "anyone who attempted to come between the kaiser and the German people would encounter granite."

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Four powerful German counter-attacks on the western front in west Flanders all failed to wrest from the British any of the ground gained yesterday east of Ypres. The British war office announced today.

The assaults were made between the Tower hamlets and the St. Julien's line, but all broke down under the concentrated fire of the British batteries. South of Polygon wood the German attacks were "most violent." Field Marshal Haig reported from the British headquarters.

The Germans suffered heavy losses. During the night the fighting slackened and the British were left in possession of the ground they had so brilliantly won.

The desperate battle which began at dawn yesterday on the west Flanders front raged all night and today. These important results had been attained by the British:

1. The British line has been advanced from one half of a mile to a yard over a front six miles wide east of Ypres.

The newly won ground is being consolidated all night and today. German counter attacks had to be beaten off in the meantime.

Kimberly Short of Dwelling Houses

Serious Lack of Residences and Rooms For Light House Keeping in The Town.

Many Kimberly people are wondering why they are going to do this winter for a place to live. Not that they are too poor to pay rent, but that there is nothing to rent. The shortage of houses or even light housekeeping rooms, promises to be a serious matter for some, who have not yet been able to locate a dwelling place for cold weather. Several families have talked of leaving town because of this feature of limited room, and in several instances it has been necessary for more than one family to crowd into one house that was only large enough for one. The hotels and boarding places are full of steady occupants.

As a result of this there will probably be more or less building going on all winter. Several new homes are under construction at the present time, and plans are being entertained for several more in the very near future.

This Week's Doings

G. I. Klous is back from Bull, where he has been on an extended business trip, for the last couple of months. Born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wilson, a baby girl. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Kenneth Olson, one of the twin babies of N. A. Olson, died last Friday, and was buried on Sunday. Mrs. C. J. Olson, wife of the new telephone operator, has arrived from Nampa, and they expect to begin house keeping soon.

Mrs. Paul Scott was operated on last Wednesday for appendicitis. She is doing so nicely, that she expects to be home by next week.

W. Burns left for his former home in South Dakota last week to look after his farm. He expects to make quite a visit.

The new J. A. Steadman home is nearing completion and the family will move into town as soon as it is finished.

A. Stowe slipped from the sidewalk on Saturday evening and broke his leg. Just above the ankle.

The young Walden lad fell from a toy wagon on Sunday morning and broke his arm.

Mr. Cunningham, who has been the janitor for the high school building, resigned, and Mr. Jerome J. Hansen has accepted the position.

Mr. Emmanuel and family have moved to Twin Falls and C. B. Smith, cashier for the Farmers & Merchants bank, will occupy that residence.

Mr. Willmarth, has purchased the McDonald lots on the north side of the tracks and will build there soon. Mr. and Mrs. Grant King and family will leave on Thursday morning for Boise, where they will attend the State Fair, and will probably be gone next week, to visit with friends and relatives.

Rev. V. G. Backman will leave Tuesday for Nampa, where he will help in the Organ-Meet Evangelist meetings, which are being held in that city. He also, incidentally will visit with his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Backman.

The Turner-Webster Caterpillar was hauling a heavy load, consisting of two wagon loads of wheat, and a plow, on Saturday evening, when one of the wheels on the wheat wagon gave away, causing the wagon to go aside. They were pulled up on the street by W. Arnold's residence until

Harvest Hands Are Very Scarce

Farmers Compelled to Help One Another, Causing Much Delay With The Threshing.

Because of the lack of help, it has been necessary to prolong the threshing season this year. The farmers have found it necessary to assist one another in the work because of the shortage of available help, and consequently are finding it difficult to get the work done. It has been necessary for one machine to set up at a single ranch as high as three times before the entire crop could be harvested. Generally the wheat has been threshed first, then the oats and other seeds, and last the clover and grass seeds.

Many farmers, who have heretofore depended upon a great amount of help in the harvest have this year handled the whole crop practically single handed. One man living east of town put up his own hay and stacked his own grain, doing all the hauling by himself. In many instances the women folk have gotten out in the field and worked like men.

After all, we conclude that the American farmer, especially the small holder of the Twin Falls tract, is not to be cheated out of his rightful heritage even by conditions so adverse as this lack of hands in a plentiful harvest. It has been a year when it has been practically true that the harvest is great but the laborers few.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The local Methodist church, proposes to entertain its friends and members next Saturday night by presenting to them the DeMoss Entertaining company, of musicians and vocalists. This company comes with the reputation of being entertainers of a very high class, and have featured in many of the larger churches of the state. The company consists of two men and two women, and two little boys, all of whom are efficient soloists, able to play various instruments, and all are singers of exceptional ability. The entertainment will be given next Saturday night at the Methodist church, and the community is cordially invited to be present. The admission charges will be twenty-five and fifty cents.

O. S. L. DEPOT MOVED

Folks who travel will no longer have to walk across the tracks to reach the depot. The building which has served for that purpose has been moved bodily across the tracks and laid upon its new foundation, now facing the north instead of the south.

While the building was standing across the tracks, it was being used as a silt track, and was not only necessary to move the depot across the tracks, but the whole building had to be completely torn around.

Plans are now underway to improve the parking and grounds of the depot, so as to make them more attractive as they are in other places.

BEEF HAULING TO COMMENCE SOON

Beef hauling will soon commence in real earnest. Some of the local beef raisers have been hauling for the past couple of weeks, but so far there have been very few beefs in the proper condition for pulling. About October 1, however, it is thought by Mr. Johnson that the beefs will commence to come in in large quantities. Mr. Johnson predicts a big crop this year.

Stall Swearingin, formerly a Kimberly barber, and who has for some time been proprietor of the Sure-Shut Panatorium in this city, has opened a barber shop of his own in the old Union building. This is the second or third shop that Mr. Swearingin has owned in Kimberly.

Arthur H. Fay, local builder was in town Saturday evening and Sunday. He says that the house upon which he is now working, near Rock Creek will soon be completed.

A new sidewalk is being constructed in front of the new building of the Farmers & Merchants National bank this week. Work was begun Monday.

S. H. Wannamaker, who was for several days a visitor in Kimberly left for Jerome last Wednesday, September 19.

E. S. Muckley of Portland and field secretary for the National Benevolent association, will be in Kimberly next Sunday, according to a letter received by Rev. V. G. Backman last week.

Kimberly dog owners are fast coming to the conclusion that the only safe method of keeping a dog around the place, and the only sure method is to get a tag for him and a new collar. The ordinance calling for dog taxes is being strictly enforced.

M. E. Wright is putting in a new collar on his nursery north of town. He is also improving his residence property by installing new walks.

Many of the farmers are pulling their beans at the present time as a result of the rain.

Influenza among the horses in various sections of the country is reported. The local veterinary has been administering vaccine in an attempt to stay the spread of the disease. As the disease is very contagious it will probably be wise for the farmers to keep a close watch for any symptoms among their stock.

Mrs. W. R. Zubank, who has been for some time suffering severely with influenza pneumonia, is reported as very ill. Late last week it was thought that she was improving, but weather conditions seem to have taken an ill effect.

The Loyal Berean class of the Christian Sunday school held their regular monthly business meeting and social last Tuesday night in the church parlors.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

To all the members of the Chris-ian church of Kimberly, we make this announcement. Next Sunday, September 30, is the day set for the Every-Member Canvass. These are our plans for that day. We trust that all will co-operate to make them a success.

Program for Sunday, Sept. 30. Morning-Bible school at ten. The usual order of services will be followed. Communion service at 11:00 a. m. Prayers and worship, followed by a sermon by E. S. Muckley of Portland. Brief instructions to the congregation concerning the Every-Member Canvass. Benediction and dismissal.

(All the members of the church and its friends are requested to depart home immediately following the morning services, and there remain during the afternoon to await the coming of the team appointed to call upon them and present to them the work of the church for this year and the year to begin October 1.)

Dinner will be provided for the members of the teams who are to call upon the members in the afternoon in the basement of the church. E. S. Muckley will again address these men briefly concerning their task, after which they will be dismissed and sent out to make the canvass.

Evening-Christian Endeavor services at 7:15, followed by the evening worship, when the reports of the teams will be received and presented to the congregation. The pastor will begin a series of popular evening sermons, to run through the month of October.

Let us make this a great rally day for our church. A day that shall not be forgotten, so rich shall its blessings be to the world which it has proposed through the authority and help of the Christ-to uplift.

Every Wednesday night at the parlors, Mrs. Backman teaches a class in Bible history. For your sake, in order for a coherent and more comprehensive understanding of this Book of effort, you should put forth great effort to be present at every meeting.

Friday night is the night of our service of songs. We appreciate with the splendid response which has been given us by the choir members. We hope that no opportunity will be neglected by the members to participate in this important feature of the church services.

Sunday, October 7 is the day of the regular monthly business meeting and dinner at the local workers' Bible class. Let us all work diligently to the end that this day might be a great day of gathering together for the members of the class.

The contest which has been running on for some time between the Loyal Bereans and the Loyal Workers, closed last Sunday with the Loyal Workers in the lead on every point.

At a meeting of the members of the church last Sunday morning it was unanimously voted to extend Brother C. L. Organ a call to hold meetings for us next January. We will be looking forward to the date of his coming with great preparation and diligent labor that his service might indeed be a great blessing to us in our work here.

Kimberly High School Notes.

The Kimberly schools were dismissed on Wednesday, September 19, in order that the children might attend the Southern Idaho Fair at Piler. They all report a very interesting and enjoyable time.

The Kimberly schools are being organized into a Red Cross unit for the purpose of filling Christmas boxes for the soldiers, and French orphans. The grade children are showing great interest in this latter. This work is in charge of Miss Wall.

The cement walks, leading from the two front entrances of the new high school building, to the street, are nearly completed. These will be a very welcome improvement.

The Christian church of Kimberly entertained at a reception on Monday evening, September 17, in honor of the Kimberly school teachers.

All kinds of job work received and promptly handled by the Kimberly Advance. Call 47 J.

FORGIVENESS

My heart was heavy, for its trust had been abused, its kindness answered with foul wrong;
So, turning gloomily from my fellow-men,
One summer Sabbath day I strolled among
The green mounds of the village burial place
Where, pondering how all human love and hate
Find one sad level—and how, soon or late,
Wronged and wrong-doer, each with meekened face,
And cold hands folded over a still heart,
Pass the green threshold of our common grave,
Whither all footsteps trend, whence none depart,
Awe'd for myself, and pitying my race,
Our common sorrow, like a ghastly way,
Sweet all my pride, and trembling I forgive.
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

OUR FUTURE EFFICIENCY

There is one inevitable outcome of this war which is the one bright side to all its ugliness; as it were the silver lining of the cloud. It takes just such a crisis to open our eyes to the criminal things we have been doing in our blind selfishness. The outlandishness and absolute uselessness of some of our so-called best people, who devoted their hours to wasteful, extravagant living, to idle, unprofitable pastimes; to dress, to jewelry, to frivolities was more than sufficient stimulus to our late line. It was in reality a problem of colossal dimensions, which had been permitted to go on to further extremities would probably have resulted in a calamity to our national progress.
It is beyond dispute that when the "higher ups" in society create some class of fashion or fancy, that all other classes of society spare no means to follow in their foot steps. Only we might add, the further the fancy gets down the scale, the more serious the problem becomes. Hence, if the leading classes of society should have continued in their extremes of fashion and foolishness. In their puddle-dogism, in their practices of race extinction through failure to take care of their homes; and in all of those practices of wasted energy and purpose, and the hungering classes financially below them should have followed in their foot steps, the outcome is readily seen. The truth of the matter is, the whole American race would have deteriorated into a state of simple good-for-nothingness.

But thanks to a kind providence we have been saved from this calamity, by another which at first glance seems more awful, but which in reality cannot compare in its awfulness with the one we have escaped. Scientists, historians, and religionists, all unite in telling us that we have reached an age when we are about to pass over the line of demarcation which divides the present age of "Modernism" into a great beyond, an age of something according to some-one and something else according to another. It should be impossible for us to determine what the other age, which we are about to enter, will be, or be like, but we may

SOME REALITIES THAT SHOULD NOT BE

A certain young man walked into a confectionery store and bought twenty-five cents worth of chewing gum. Ten minutes before he had lured down a fellow traveler, a truck who asked for the price of a cup of coffee.

A certain lady of great means had a pig for a pet. Upon this animal she lavished her money, diamonds, gold, rubys, and pearls. In her name town over five hundred children were being cared for in orphanages, most of them in ragged clothes, stood shivering in their ragged clothes in the storm, while she and her pig rode by in their car.

A man tried to sell him a paper, it was the way he made his living, but he passed the paper up and bought a package of peanuts instead. He tried to sell him a paper, it was the way he made his living, but he passed the paper up and bought a package of peanuts instead.

One man will always get more than another, the more intellectual, more spiritual, a better business man, and how great an opportunity that man has to put a little sunshine into the world.

Terrific Explosions Destroy Factories

Munitions Plant Blown To Pieces and Standard Oil Ship Totally Demolished—One Man Killed; 12 Injured.
(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 25.—One man was killed and more than a dozen others were injured when a terrific explosion wrecked the munitions plant of the Newton Manufacturing company, at Warrenville, three miles from here today.

Three hundred others at work in the building at the time had narrow escapes. The force of the explosion blew windows in houses more than a mile away.

The Newton Manufacturing company is engaged in the manufacture of street and shell for the United States government. The company's plant was filled with nitro glycerine shells.

RICHMOND, Calif., Sept. 25.—Two men were blown to pieces, Standard Oil tanker, J. A. Moffatt was badly damaged and shells in the main wharf of the oil company here was blown in at four o'clock this morning by an explosion. The victims were Ernest Hudson, quartermaster of San Francisco and P. R. Julliard, Richmond. It was definitely established several hours after the blast that they were blown to pieces. Two others were injured. The cause of the explosion is a mystery although the police have decided some outside agency in a measure rest assured that it will be an agent of greater efficiency. For the United States alone, there can be no other alternative than an era of greater efficiency when this lesson of war shall have been learned. They who were formerly useless as a plague to the country, because of their thoughtless disregard of the needs the land have now risen to the cry and need of their America, and formerly frivolous women, are now sowing, knitting, cooking, economizing, learning 20 to things worth a while, learning how to be wives and mothers in the truest and most sacred sense of those words. Young women of the land have now risen to the heights of all appearances and outward display, at the sound of the bugle, changed like the very lightning, and who now, call them worthless, as they quietly and earnestly offer their services to the country, to be used at her discretion, to be shot, mangled and torn with shells.

The real manhood and womanhood of the race, so long hid and left un-nourished; how it will finally break out when a crisis comes, and how we admire it. We have heard that it loves manhood and womanhood when it is true.

The crisis of war has been a re-educating force in our land, and it seems inevitable that the future shall see a greater and more efficient and industrious race than has ever been seen before. The women are going to learn the value of money, the value of human life, the value of expediency, of efficiency, and above all they are going to learn to sympathize with the real needs of the country and its more unfortunate people. We are going to learn how to look a great problem square in the face and solve it. We are going to learn the value of unity and co-operation. We are going to recognize as we have never before recognized it, the mutual interests that exist between all classes and kinds of men.

All this that we are to learn, simply means in the last analysis, that we are going to become more efficient. It is indeed encouraging to look forward to such a greater, brighter day as we now behold in the distance, and feel that after all, this terrible war, these lives that have been sacrificed, the money and energy that has been expended, that it has all happened for a purpose, and that the blood of our sons shall not have been shed in vain.

Surely the American people will not fail to recognize those vital lessons that are being taught, and will grasp them eagerly that they might in some measure redeem themselves from the past and forever in the future remain a people of the light, frivulous, nothingness of their former manner of living, and stand out instead as solid, firm, substantial men and women.

Indian Home Rule Issue in Empire

Agitation For Autonomy In Home Affairs Spreading Through Eastern India.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)
LONDON, Sept. 25.—The home rule fight which Ireland has monopolized so long has now spread to India. To ally this agitation with the explaining the political reforms which the home government has in mind is one of the tasks which will fall to Edwin Montagu, secretary for India, when he leaves for Bombay later.

"Political feeling in India is drifting into dangerous channels," says the Times, one of the most conservative newspapers in the British Isles. "Apart from the extreme forms of agitation, advocating something in the form of complete home rule immediately on the conclusion of the war and a policy of passive resistance to the counter measures with which the government has been compelled to maintain its authority. In the great body of middle opinion a feeling of uncertainty prevails as to what will be the position of India in the new empire when peace is declared."

A dispatch from Bombay quotes the Times of India as saying that Mr. Montagu's coming will undoubtedly lead the leaders of Indian opinion will meet the British statesman with a spirit of cooperation and a desire to reach a settlement. "The Times" adds that there has been agitation of the most reprehensible sort on foot in India.

U. S. Red Cross Well Assisted

Belgian Labor Utilized in Much of the Activities of the Organization on European War Front

By Robert J. Prow, (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.) PARIS, Sept. 27.—Belgian labor is being utilized by the American Red Cross in reconstructing work in the devastated region of France from which the Germans withdrew last March to the Hindenburg line. The employment of Belgian laborers and artisans by the American authorities solves two grave problems, the first being that of obtaining men in a country where every man is either in the trenches or employed in munitions making, and the second being that of providing employment for Belgian refugees in France.

Part of the large fund subscribed in the United States to aid France is being used in rebuilding French cities and towns destroyed by the invaders. The American Red Cross Executive Committee, headed by Major Grayson P. Murphy, who is attached to General Pershing's staff, is directing the work.

When the committee went to the French government and announced it had millions of dollars to spend in reconstructing the devastated regions it offered for a certain amount of labor—about 300 French artisans to begin with.

Louis Malvy, minister of the Interior, threw up his hands. There were not 300 able-bodied Frenchmen available for that work. France's main source was in the trenches or just behind the line, and every man that could be spared from fighting was engaged in making guns, shells and ships or in filling the soil that France might not be starved by the submarine campaign.

"But what are we to do? We must have men to perform the work. We have the money, but it is useless without labor," said Major Murphy. "Perhaps you could use Annamites," suggested M. Malvy.

Annamites are the natives of the French colony in Indo-China. They are Mongoloid of slight stature like the Japanese, and have been extensively used as skilled labor in French factories since the war. They have proved particularly adept in manufacturing aeroplane motors, where their painstakingness and thoroughness in details has enabled them to compete with the highest class skilled French labor in making delicate machinery.

Major Murphy investigated the proposition of employing Annamites, but soon learned from French army officers who had handled the Asiatics that they are useless doing outdoor work in winter. As long as they can be kept indoors in warm factory buildings they stand the cold climate fairly well, but they are unable to stand the rigors of outdoors. As the reconstruction work would not be going full swing before September or October, and what to do during the winter, Major Murphy was forced to discard the proposition of utilizing Annamites.

The only alternative the French authorities suggest was that American labor be transported from the United States. Very little investigation proved that this was not desirable because of the cost of bottoms and the need of every available ship for carrying troops, provisions and munitions.

Finally Louis Chevillon, secretary of the Belgian Relief Commission in Paris, solved the problem. He offered, through several skilled mechanics who had worked in Belgium, to do the work and who had fled before the Kaiser's invading legions, to supply 300 Belgian laborers and skilled workers in two weeks and to leave 500 in a month.

These Belgians are available because many exemptions have been granted to young men of military age who have lost their brothers in the Belgian army. This leniency exists because the Allied Powers realize how Belgium's manhood has been killed and they desire to do their best to serve some of the men of the "bantam kingdom" to repopulate it when the invaders withdraw.

As a result there are many Belgian refugees scattered throughout France, subsisting on charity in many cases. They have gone through so many privations that their country is desolate and with their women folk sold into slavery in Germany and their menfolk killed or maimed in battle, they have no reason to try to find employment in a strange land.

These men are being rounded up by half a dozen energetic Belgian laborers from Paris, who themselves held treated situations in the factories of Antwerp, Brussels and Liege. Instead of waiting for their countrymen to seek positions, they are offering work to them and guaranteeing that the Belgians will work together and not be mixed with French or other labor.

In less than a week M. Chevillon's lieutenants recruited over 120 Belgian laborers and skilled artisans, and in two weeks they had almost obtained the first 300. They are paid fifteen cents an hour, which is the standard wage today in France, and most food and house themselves. Usually the cost of their clothes is met, however, as there are ample billets for workmen as well as for troops in most of the ruined villages behind the lines.

French authorities are highly pleased at the action of the American Red Cross in offering employment to the unhappy refugees, many of whom have been doubly miserable because of their idleness and constant brooding over their troubles. It is estimated that as the reconstruction work broadens out more and more Belgians will be hired until several thousand are being utilized.

All the old timers can tell you when they first saw "The Old-Homestead" and will tell you that it is one of their most pleasant memories. They have never forgotten it and you may gamble that they will see it again when it is presented at the Laving Theatre on Monday, October 1. The production this season is the most pretentious the famous old play has had in fifteen years. Of course it has been seen in stock theaters, but this will be the first time it has been presented in all of its completeness with a specially selected cast since the last presentation by the author, Denman Thompson. Ferdinand Munier, who has been starring in the piece in the East for several years, will play "Joshua Whitcomb." He was a member of the original company as understudy for Mr. Thompson in the same part, and is said to be an exact duplicate of this famous old actor, having played the part many times when Mr. Thompson's name remained on the program.

In the Matter of the Proposed Bond Issue For Roads by Unanimous Action the Following Statement Was Adopted for Submission to The Voters:

Yielding to what appeared to this board as a general demand for road improvement by means of a bond issue, we, as county commissioners of Twin Falls county have decided to call an election for the purpose of submitting to the voters of the entire county a bond issue in the sum of $1,000,000. The proceedings for this election are being prepared by the attorney for the Lumberman's Trust company of Portland, Oregon. Every step in the proceedings is being carefully gone over by the attorney to the best of his ability to secure the legality of the election. It is generally conceded that better bidding will be obtained if the bonds here proposed have been prepared by bond attorneys of recognized standing with the leading bond houses.

It is proposed to call this election for the latter part of October, and should the election carry, the bonds will be offered for sale immediately thereafter. In selling the bonds it is not the intention to have all the money made available at once, thereby necessitating the carrying of large sums on deposit with local banks until such time as is needed. The sale will be conditioned on the money being furnished as work progresses and there is need for it to pay for the construction.

In order to secure the fair handling of the proceeds of the bond issue an advisory committee has been named to cooperate with this board in laying out the roads to be improved and the expenditure of the money. This committee has been selected with the idea of giving every part of the county a voice in the matter. The committee consists of C. H. Taylor, Buhl; C. J. Miller, Castleford; W. F. Alworth, Filer; T. J. Douglas, Holter; T. H. Inzer, Latta; Lawrence Hancock, Hansen, and A. L. Swim, Twin Falls.

It is proposed to pave the state highway from Buhl to Hansen at an estimated cost of $150,000 per mile. The balance of the east and west state highway in this county will be finished with crushed rock and gravel. The state highway commission have resolution spread on their minutes, approved this plan, of construction and have agreed that the state will stand one-third of the expense. The mileage other than the state highway which it is intended to improve from the bond issue will be of crushed rock and gravel construction at an estimated cost of $5,000.00 per mile. The county commissioners in conjunction with the advisory committee have outlined the roads to be improved and which can be referred to by the voters. In selecting the roads to be improved it has been the intention to distribute the work throughout the county in such manner that each town and shipping point would have hard surface roads leading to them and also to give their residents of each community a direct route to the different towns on the tract.

We believe that the county's share of the automobile tax will be sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and that there would be no levy required to meet this interest by a direct tax. This statement is made with the belief that the taxpayers should know definitely, before deciding for or against the bonds, where the roads are to be improved and how the money will be handled.

BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS O. E. CARLSON, Chairman. W. F. BREWER.

OLD HOMESTEAD REVIVED AGAIN MAKES 'EM LAUGH

Bewhiskered old jokes so ancient as to be brand new to today's generation and a happy revival of yesterday's colloquial expressions and the rural slang of the late '30's added to clean, wholesome plots and a group of lovable characters admirably played, will be appreciated in the return of "The Old Homestead" which will be revived at the Laving theatre, next Monday, October 1.

Uncle Joshua, portrayed by Ferdinand Munier, is splendid in character throughout the play, and a genuine delight to everyone who laughs with him when he asks if the statute in the New York home had been a New York lady before she died, or when he sheds gentle tears over his search for his lost boy, Aunt Matilda, by Elizabeth Ross, the old spinster for whom two delicious old bachelors, Cy Prime and Seth Perkins, played by John Sumner and William Dills, fight and quarrel is just the right woman to make the old New England home com-

Joe Stromp came in from the north side to see something good at the fair. Joe has sold out over there and will return in October.

Vic Penns has bought two acres of Bob Macaw on North street, and expects to build a house in the near future.

The Twin Falls band received many compliments from the music they furnished at the fair this week.

Ray Shearer from Cullum, Ill., a brother of Guy Shearer, is here on a visit. A year ago he purchased the Wilson farm and may buy another one before he returns.

Mr. and Mrs. Bemenderfer of Kalama, Michigan, drove overland and will spend the winter in Filer, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Timm. Mrs. Bemenderfer is a sister of Mrs. Timm.

Dr. McGinnis has added a new porch on his home on Yakima avenue, and the addition is a creditable one to his property.

Last Saturday noon H. G. Munyon received a wire from Kansas City saying that his brother Fred had been accidentally killed by being hit with an automobile. His wife Sandra remains to attend the funeral. Nothing further has been heard of the accident.

L. A. Ragdale did not enter his tomatoes in competition at the fair, but he dropped in this office and left a couple of tomatoes that weighed two and one-fourth pounds each. If anyone has raised larger ones this year the Journal would be pleased to announce the fact.

The Filer Woman's club will hold their yearly reception for husbands and teachers on the evening of September 23. The place of meeting to be announced next week. Club members will be allowed to bring guests by notifying Mrs. Dave Beemer and paying 15 cents for each guest. Come and bring your friends to meet the teachers and enjoy the splendid program being prepared.

R. A. Reynolds and G. F. Allen have just returned from a trip where they bought their Christmas goods for their stores at Twin Falls, Filer and Buhl.

E. R. Darlington is now chief engineer of the Twin Falls North Side Land and Water company, succeeding

C. R. Burley, who is a member of the officers corps of the national army and is now in training at San Francisco. Mr. Darlington is a man of large experience in his profession, having the past eight years been with the Salmon river company. Prior to this he was employed on government irrigation works and at private practice.

Roosevelt Answers "Tom Fool" Question

Says We Are In Same Position As Man Receiving Slap In Wife's Face, Not to Fight at a Disadvantage.

(I. N. S. Leased Wire)

CAMP GRANT, Rockford, Ill., Sept. 26.—When you look at what Germany has done to us the man who asks why the United States is at war is capable of asking why the man whose wife's face has been slapped knocks down the fellow who did it.

This was Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's answer here today to what he termed the "Tom Fool" questions asked by pacifists and those who seek to obstruct the war program of the United States. The answer was given in a typical Roosevelt address to the thousands of men of the national army in training here. The same illustration was used three weeks ago by Senator Williams in reply to Senator Hardwick.

"Another type of tom fool," continued Colonel Roosevelt, "asks why we should fight abroad. The answer is simply because we don't want to fight at home.

"You are going over," the Colonel told the men of Camp Grant, "so that you won't have to fight at a disadvantage. Some of us do not want to get into the fight but we won't. What I am going to do is my level best to back you men who go to the front to fight the Hun outside of our country and to help those who stay to fight the Hun inside this country.

"We have heard a good deal of the conscientious objector." He says we must consider his conscience. If he is too conscientious to fight for his country then I would like to see us to conscientious to let him vote for his country."

Second Raid Kills Several in London

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Six persons were killed and 15 wounded in last night's German air raid on London. It was officially announced today. This was the second raid against this city in 24 hours, but was a failure so far as material results were concerned.

Not more than two hostile planes were able to fight their way past the coast defenses and the British aerial patrols. These two reached a southern suburb.

A number of bombs were dropped, but there were no casualties outside of London.

The six persons killed last night brings the total number of Britons killed in German air raids up to 333.

CONVICT LAFOLLETTE— THEN OUST HIM!

The advisability of attempting to oust Senator LaFollette before convicting him in court for the utterances attributed to him, wherein he is quoted as saying that the United States had no valid reason to go to war with Germany, is largely a matter of expedience, though the precedent which it would establish should be considered. LaFollette, whose whole attitude on this question has been reprehensible and unpatriotic, is quoted as saying in Minnesota, that while the United States had a right to allow its citizens to sell arms and munitions to the allies, it had no right to go to war on account of the killing of men and women riding on ships that carried such munitions. The un-soundness of this view judged by international law has been so often shown in the TIMES that its repetition would be superfluous. Even in less civilized times, the doctrine that no ship should be sunk without first caring for the safety of its passengers was accepted by all advanced nations. That this was sound international law was specifically admitted by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg in the Sussex case, so that LaFollette was more German than the chancellor. This was had enough before war was declared. At this time it is unreasonable in spirit if not in letter. No sympathy should be wasted on the Wisconsin senator whatever congress may in its discretion determine to do with him. Should it decide to oust him, it has a legal right to do so, and he deserves it richly on account of his general attitude.

Yet, the advisability of the act at this time may well be questioned, unless following conviction in court. In the first place the utterances attributed to him were admittedly made in the midst of confusion and may have been misunderstood and misquoted. The law covers treasonable and seditious utterances pretty thoroughly and if these were such, the first place to try him is in the courts. Should he be convicted there, the senate should act promptly. But should the evidence disclose that no legal treason had been committed, then such proceedings would be inadvisable though quite legal and morally excusable. The situation in this country at this time is just this: Pro-German agents have sedulously and to some extent successfully instilled in the minds of some people the false idea that there is a wide-spread movement on foot to deprive them of their liberties. Those who accept this theory are relieved, for, in addition to the vague, false suspicion has entered the minds of a larger number of workmen, that there is a possibility that something of the kind may be intended. Anything that can be twisted into evidence that such is the case, will tend to dampen the enthusiasm which such may feel for their country. That such ideas haunt some citizens who are supporting the government cannot be doubted. The wise policy, the one which Lincoln would pursue, would be to convince such of their error.

With this class the open utterances of the Wisconsin senator do less harm than many suppose. That he is a demagogue has pretty thoroughly soaked into minds even the take-warriors. But a senator of the United States losing his seat for his alleged convictions would be quite another matter. The halo of martyrdom would make him a hero with many people who mean to be good citizens. Denunciation of those who would thus be misled would be quite futile. It would further alienate them and make them feel as martyrs. The effect in Germany would likewise probably be bad, for it would be pointed out that a man, who had committed no crime for which he was amenable to the law of the land, had been ousted from the senate, and this would be perverted into a proof that the freedom of America was a myth and, further, that desperate measures were necessary to prevent American citizens from revolting. Arrested, tried and convicted of seditious utterances in open court in a fair trial and the unfortunate consequences mentioned above as possible would not follow.

The plan of laying the evidence in the case before a jury is the wisest one. There is more deep-seated animosity among the people in favor of this war than of any other war in which the country was ever engaged. Popular liberties are safer than ever before. The masses are not effeminate, but are convinced and determined. Under such circumstances wisdom dictates that whatever is done, should tend to still further unify the people, and the fact that accused culprits even in the senate, get their day in court, will strengthen this feeling.

"ADMISSION TWO BITS"

The proprietors of those enterprising publications, The Denver Post and the Kansas City Post with their vast number of spell-bound readers of live scandal, and incidentally proprietors of a cracking good circus, have spotted something bigger than the latest divorce sensation, the ferocious rhinoceros or the African lion. They have seen the man who stayed the demon of marital infidelity, took the rind off of the rhinoceros and throw the lid into the lion, roaring whither he would, from Timbuctoo to the "River of Doubt," except on the European battle front, and learned that the only reason he did not wander there was because of a fence, "built strong, horseshoe and hog tight," erected under the direction of the general war staff.

A great light came to these wily journalistic showmen. If they could only cage this chafing specimen and display him before the admiring and subscription-paying multitude in the act of chewing up the general war staff it would bring plenty shekels to their coffers. To think was to act, for their familiarity with actors is noted, and here is what they did, as described in the International News Service dispatches yesterday:

"KANSAS CITY, MO.—F. G. Bonfills and H. H. Tammen, proprietors of the Denver Post and the Kansas City Post, today published an open letter to Col. Theodore Roosevelt offering to pay the colonel two dollars for every one promised him by the Kansas City Star, a newspaper which has employed Roosevelt as a special writer. If the colonel will sever his connection with that paper and devote his energies to the Denver Post and the Kansas City Post to stir the government to a reorganization of its war staff and an efficient conduct of the war preparations, Roosevelt has not yet signified whether he will accept the offer."

Used to buying the untamed at so much per. It naturally occurred to them that the only way to catch this partner of the "nut eating bird" was to buy him. Once they had him, they felt that they could make him roar at suitable intervals, that is every few minutes, at the general staff, by holding up a picture of the war scenes in Europe from which he had been separated by the attitude of the war council. They figured, no doubt, that the noise resulting, would reduce to the cadence of a darkey lullaby, the roars of the British lion when American politicians twisted his tail.

The quest will be futile. The colonel will not be a party to the Post's enterprising subscription campaign. He will not enter into a rivalry for first place in the Post audiences with Floesie Dewdrop, the winsome variety actress who inveigled Billie Billions, the wealthy scion of the New York Billions house, into a costly matrimonial escapade. The colonel may have tarried in spirit on the troubled shores of the "River of Doubt" before he ever saw the stream, while the match-making "Easy Horse" wooed and won him into wedding a vice presidential nomination in 1900, but he isn't there now for the purposes of Bonfills and Tammen.

The confiding urchin who goes forth on the advice of his mother to ensnare the wary and elusive swallow by sprinkling salt on his tail will have a bird show collected before these enterprising journalists and showmen get their prey.

Still, the advertising feature is worth the trial. The two Posts are brought to popular attention. The older Bennett of the New York Herald went an expedition to seek the north pole. It did not bring back the pole but left it where it didn't find it, in order that it might later be a boneless bone of contention between Admiral Peary and Captain Cook. The effort paid the Herald well. The Posts will lose nothing in this venture. They are not in the habit of suffering financial loss, and their present inpropriety, for obvious reasons, will not lose them the respect of the best people of the country. You can't lose what you haven't got."

A WISE MOVE

President Wilson never did a wiser thing in his official career than when he discouraged the sending of congressional representatives to an inter-allied congress in Europe. America stands in this war for certain great things. Without an alliance or anything that can be construed to mean one, it can compel the nations abroad to also maintain a high standard. A formal alliance, or something that could be construed as such, would perhaps seem to commit the United States to abide by economic or other arrangements of foreign nations, which would prove detrimental to our own commercial interests as well as to the interests of permanent peace. The unfortunate results of unauthorized negotiations between American consuls in the Orient with Philipinos during the war with Spain is sufficient warning to avoid letting men without authority but with something of the semblance of it, get into positions where they can say something that some enthusiast or designing person can construe as a pledge in behalf of their country.

A COMMENDABLE ROAD PLAN

THE TIMES trusts that every reader of its columns will study the statement set forth by the county commissioners in the resolutions published in this issue, explaining their plans for the use of public moneys in connection with a county bond issue. In reading this, it should be recalled that, in the event that the bonds are voted, one-third of the total amount expended on the state highway in the county will be donated by the state. The advisory committee selected from the different neighborhoods to consult with the commissioners, are among the best and most experienced men in the county. That no safeguard will be overlooked to protect the people is assured with such men working in connection with the board.

MORE THAN 4000 SUBMARINE CHASERS OPERATING IN THE ATLANTIC OCEAN

Says Americans Must Quit Joy Riding

Great Britain Will Speedily Pay Off Immense Debt Contracted During the War and Regain Prosperity.

Homer J. Dodge
 (U. S. Staff Correspondent)
 ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26.—Great Britain will be able to cope successfully with the submarine menace, H. R. Brand, vice chairman of the British war mission declared this afternoon before the American Bankers' association. He asserted that the British now have more than 4,000 anti-submarine boats operating.
 Brand said the war had changed England from a creditor nation with a billion dollars favorable trade balance to a debtor nation, owing billions. He maintained the resources of the allies were adequate to beat Germany. If properly handled, but that America must learn to proceed on a war basis. Referring again to England's war debt, he said:

"The world will be amazed at the rapidity with which she will pay off this debt. She has sold two and a half billion dollars worth of American securities, has borrowed a billion from the United States. In addition, she now owes for goods bought here and must continue to ask for additional funds and credit."

In conclusion, Brand said that England must borrow heavily because she has the largest navy and is financing other allies.

Congressmen and Senators Threatened

Anonymous Letters Received by Leaders in The National House Swearing Vengeance.

(U. S. Leased Wire)
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Threats of death have been received in large numbers during the past few days by congressmen and senators who have been especially active in pushing war legislation. Anonymous writers, believed to include pro-Germans and zealous pacifists, anti-draft advocates, I. W. W. members and plain cranks are promising to kill all senators who have to do with measures relating to the war.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military affairs committee who had more to do with the passage of the draft bill than any other man in congress, has been the recipient of several communications threatening him with death. The senator has on-ly ignored them.

Senator King of Utah, who has been particularly outspoken against the I. W. W. and other forms of organized disloyalty, has also been singled out for death by some of the anonymous writers. Senator King believes that most of the communications come from I. W. W. members, who are enraged at his actions. One of the writers threatened not only to kill the senator but all members of his family.

QUALITY OF PROTEIN VARIES

Source of Nutrient is Important as Well as Quantities Furnished, Say Wisconsin Experts.

Hart and Humphrey of the Wisconsin experimental station report that there is a difference between the quality of proteins coming from various kinds of feeds. As an instance, an animal is able to use more of the protein found in milk than in any other article of food. Sixty per cent of the protein in distiller's grain can be used, 61 per cent of oilmeal, 45 per cent of gluten feed and 60 per cent of skim milk powder when fed with corn.

An animal producing from 40 to 45 pounds of milk daily and receiving no skim milk powder stood no nitrogen, but rather drew from her system in proportion to the amount demanded. No more protein was fed in the ration when the skim milk powder was used; the results were simply owing to the fact that in one form the protein was usable, while in the other it was not.

The source of nutrient is therefore important as well as the quantities furnished.

NECESSARY FOOD FOR PLANT

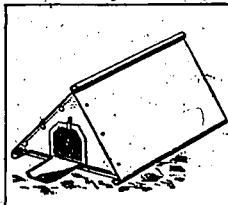

Humus Has Power of Holding Nitrates of Soil Fertility Holds Moisture in Position.

Humus is the substance formed in the soil by decaying vegetable matter, such as leaves, stubble, roots, manure, crop plowed under and so on. Humus not only comprises elements of plant food, itself, but it has the power of holding the necessary nitrates of fertile soil to prevent their escaping through washing or other means. It also has the effect of a sponge in absorbing and holding moisture in position and form available for the use of growing plants and aids in keeping the soil porous. Humus is indispensable to plant growth. Poor crops are in many cases due to its lack.

ROW CORN THAT IS ADAPTED

Most Profitable to Raise Crop That Will Mature and Require Entire Season to Ripen.

(W. E. HANCOCK, Ohio College of Agriculture.)

It is the most profitable, ordinarily, to grow corn that will mature and that will require the entire growing season in order to ripen. In the northern portion of the state, corn that has been introduced from southern sections will frequently not mature. In the southern portion of the state, on the other hand, some corn is grown which does not require the entire growing season for its maturity. Such corn is of a smaller type and does not yield as much grain as the length of season makes possible.

CULTIVATION OF CORN CROP

There is No Work Which Will Take Place of Good Plowing Near Enough to Destroy Weeds.

Some plow the middles, but do but little plowing near the corn. While it is important to clean the middles, there is no work which will take the place of good plowing near enough the corn to destroy all the grass. The plow is the implement for grass destruction, but after all can be done with it there may be here and there some hoeing to do. When the corn is laid by as to plowing, the hoe should go immediately over the fields and destroy every weed and every sprig of grass which may have been left. The rule on every farm should be to lay by the corn absolutely clean.

BEST DISPOSITION OF ASHES

The best place to use the ashes from the range or coal stove is in the henhouse. Scatter them liberally over and under the roosts and wherever filth has collected. Disloyalty Charges Made in Two States

While One Element in Minnesota Seeks to Oust LaFollette Another Fights Thompson.

(U. S. Leased Wire)
 CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The issue of alleged disloyalty utterances was brought acutely before the public in the west today by two movements to oust Senator LaFollette from his seat and by the announced candidacy of Mayor William Hale Thompson for the United States senate.

Approval or disapproval of the stand on his public and "authorized" utterances on war issues, LaFollette has instructed his lieutenant in Wisconsin that future campaigns there should be made entirely on the basis of his position regarding America and the war.

Simultaneous movements were under way in Chicago and Minnesota today to bring about the ousting of LaFollette from the United States senate. The Minnesota Public Safety committee has petitioned congress to remove LaFollette.

The resolution demanding the removal of LaFollette from the senate has been prepared by a committee of the National Security league, which also has led the fight against Mayor Thompson's acts and attitude.

FARM MARKETS

BULLETIN NO. 16

INFORMATION OF UNUSUAL INTEREST TO IDAHO GROWERS OF WHEAT.

Department of Agriculture Investigating Alleged Practices of Grain Dealers in Assessing Farmers a Discount Against Wheat Purchased.

The following information has, in the main, been received from the federal department of agriculture, relative to the assessment of discounts against wheat:

"It has been brought to the attention of the United States department of agriculture from several sources that in certain parts of the country, where this year's crop of wheat is now being moved, the country grain dealers are assessing the farmers a discount against all wheat purchased, contending that such assessment is mandatory by reason of the official grain standards of the United States for wheat under the United States grain standards act. Apparently the contention on the part of the country grain dealers is based upon the item 'dockage' contained in the official standards. From information received by the department it appears, however, that the discount is actually an arbitrary assessment in the interest of the buyers, and is not based upon the official standards nor required or contemplated by the act or the regulations thereunder.

"The primary purpose in the establishment of the official grain standards of the United States was to provide a basis whereby parties to transactions involving the purchase and sale of grain should be delivered for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce might, through being able to obtain a correct application of such standards, arrive at the actual value and make settlements accordingly. The standards for wheat do not provide for any arbitrary assessment for dockage. They do provide for the determination of the amount of bran, weed seeds, weed stems and certain other matter, called dockage, which actually may be present in a lot of wheat, the amount of which, if in excess of one-half of one per cent by weight, is to be stated in terms of the actual percentage as a part of the grade designation of the wheat. This is called the dockage system of grading and has been in use for many years in the northwestern states prior to the adoption of the official standards.

The transactions in question appear to be purely local, not involving interstate commerce, and are perhaps conducted in violation of the prohibitions of the act. Nevertheless, the Department of Agriculture is investigating the matter and will be glad to have any facts which may be of value, and which will enable it to bring about the discontinuance of misrepresentation based on the act or the standards thereunder.

"The following information has been given to wheat growers: "Wheat is attracting, at the present time, greater attention than perhaps any other grain, because of the scarcity and high price and the necessity of sowing a large acreage this fall," says the department statement. "It might be expected, therefore, that various persons are offering to the public varieties that they describe as far superior to the kinds now being grown. These varieties are usually given some catchy name and extravagant claims are made for them. "An example of this kind is the Alaska, or seven-headed wheat, that was exploited in the early '90s by backers of this wheat did not get very far with it, however, as the postoffice department issued a fraud order and their business collapsed. This type of wheat with branched heads should be left strictly alone by the farmers.

"Radical claims of high yields are made for some varieties of wheat. It is not uncommon to see a new variety for an unscrupulous or unformed promoter to claim yields four or five times that of the average yield of the country. A well-known variety in the section to which it is adapted may yield a few bushels more than the varieties being commonly grown. Very seldom, can a doubling of the yield be expected.

"Buying seed grown at a great distance from home is another thing that wheat growers should be on their guard against. No wheat should be bred for California conditions, for instance, no matter how good for California, has been found adapted to the country east of the Colorado mountains adapted wheat do not succeed east of that state. Neither would the wheats adapted to the Atlantic coast or the Mississippi succeed in California. In short, home-grown seed should be used unless the state agricultural experiment station or the United States department of agriculture advises otherwise."

Sheep Moot Watchful Animal.—Since shepherds watched their flock by night on the plains of Palestine and for thousands of years anterior to the march of the Magi after the coming of the Star of the East, which led them to the manger at Bethlehem, the sheep has been held one of most sacred and beautiful and useful of all animals in the economies of mankind. No other yields so bountifully of both clothing and food as the cloths as well as the food so toothsome.—Exchange.

BRIDGEPORT, O., Sept. 27.—Because spectators thought they were witnessing a movie stunt an unknown man, with cork legs, nearly lost his life here when he fell from a bridge over Wheeling Creek into the backwater of the Ohio river. His head stuck in the mud and the legs flopped away. When it was realized that the man needed help rescuers pulled him out in a semi-conscious condition.

Start Smoke Fund for Soldier Boys

The Times Starts Campaign to Send Boxes of Smokes To American Boys in France.

The most unusual feature in this issue of the TIMES is the advertisement showing one of the cartons of smoking tobacco which are to be sent, by the hundreds of thousands, for the delectation of American soldiers in France. This advertisement is unusual for the reason that it offers nothing for sale by any one, in the present or future, and that the TIMES does not receive a cent for publishing it. It is published solely for the purpose of introducing our "Smoke Campaign"—under which all interested (and who is not?) are asked to contribute twenty-five cents, or as many times as they may be able to, and through which, for every twenty-five cents so contributed a carton actually containing, at retail price, sixty-five cents worth of fine cigarettes and smoking tobacco, will be delivered to some American soldier in France! We say "delivered" because if any shipment should be lost at sea, another will at once be forwarded in its place. Now who will be first on the list of contributors? The New York "Smoke fund" is now over $100,000 which means 200,000 soldier packages.

CONCLUDING FAIR DAYS
ATTENDANCE GOOD THURSDAY
THE GOVERNOR ON THE GROUNDS

Show of Fine Horses, Sheep and Swine—Red Cross Bull Sold Twice for $280.—Two Accidents Mar the Record. Grand Stock Parade.

A notable incident of Thursday at the Southern Idaho Fair was the visit to Filer and to the fair grounds of Governor Alexander and Attorney General Walters and other gentlemen with the Secretary of State, had been making an official visit of inspection in the adjoining county, and arrived at Filer by the noon train which, unfortunately but not unusually, was very late. They were met at the station by Messrs. J. W. Tanner, H. H. Schilderman and other prominent citizens and taken to the Tanner residence where the hostess served them with an elegant dinner—of which the governor showed his appreciation by absorbing, according to his own statistics, one-half a fried chicken and seven biscuits. He remained able to get to the fair grounds, where he met old friends and made new ones and witnessed a couple of races before leaving for the train, homeward bound.

One of the pleasing events of the day was the appearance in front of the grand stand of the five-months Holstein bull presented to the Duhil Red Cross chapter by Mr. H. C. Styer, a patriotic citizen of that vicinity. The bull, which was a handsome as well as pure bred animal, was put up at auction for the benefit of the chapter, and was sold to Mr. J. P. Martin, of Filer for $150. Mr. Martin at once presented his purchase to the Filer chapter, R. C., and it was again sold at auction—the time being bought by a syndicate of Filer men for $150. It was rumored that the Twin Falls chapter might be the next beneficiary; but, however that may be, it would have been quite the nice thing had some liberal men from that city, instead of from Filer, become the purchasers. However, Twin Falls did not appear to be represented, except by a couple of newspaper men; and, after consultation, they decided that if bulls were selling for two-hits a dozen, they couldn't buy a rope halter.

A hasty visit to the stock sheds developed the very apparent fact that, if the showing was not so great in numbers, it included some of fine individuals as candidates for the prize where. We shall not go into great detail here, as the TIMES expects to publish a list of the premiums as awarded. But the Percheron mare Detroit, who was covered with ribbons, the three-year-old stallion Carson and seven other representatives from the stock of Walter Bros., of Filer, showed that their well known importers and breeders were not in the business unintelligently. Filer showed long on Bercherons, Davis Bros. holding the ribbon on best stallion of that breed, and Mr. Gifford having some notable entries.

The entries in the sheep department indicated the rise in the value of the warty, Brown Bros. of Twin Falls, made a magnificent showing of Hampshire and Shropshire. Hobbs & Gillett of Filer, and H. C. Fryer of Rambouilletes had some fine specimens, including a patriarch ram that weighed 400 pounds, and carried at present prices, over $50.

The swine pen held an equally satisfactory population. Howard & Sons of Parma, had the Poland China, including one 360 pounder, the Roydon Estate of Payette, made a grand exhibition of the same breed. L. B. Otto of Filer, and H. C. Fryer showed the finest of Duroc Jerseys, and the Chester Whites, from George E. Lavash, of Lincoln county, seemed crowned with ribbons.

Looking over the grounds in general, the advertising exhibitions did not seem as many, nor striking as one would expect. D. Watson's Light & Power plant was all the time crowded by interested observers. The Idaho Power company had a fine showing in horticultural hall; and there were a few others, including Reynolds Brothers, who would well deserve mention.

The Anchor Hay, Grain & Feed company, which has mills at both Filer and Twin Falls, had a splendid display at the fair. A thousand sample bags of Anchor Chicken Feed that just makes the eggs grow was distributed among those interested, as a great many people were. Three hogs and three calves, the largest weighing over 500 pounds, all raised on the products of the Anchor mills, proved a good advertisement. The proprietor, John Finke, took first prize for Kaffir corn, which he thought pretty good for his first year on the farm. He had entries in the classes of pop corn, sweet corn, millet and several varieties of potatoes that were classified. In addition, he entered fine samples of his famous onion seed, milk maize, Early Six Weeks potatoes and Blue Manhattan potatoes, for which there were no prizes offered by the fair board, as they are new successes on the tract.

There was also a "Midway"—but of this, perhaps the less said the better. There was nothing outbursting, perhaps; but it was generally a dingy, down-at-the-heel outfit, with the cheapest of catchpenny devices.

The County Farm Agent, Mr. Donald McLean, who was superintendent of dairy cattle, was on the job all the time; as was Mr. Van Tassell, superintendent of dairy products. Hog chowra demonstrations by Dr. W. S. Sullivan was a profitable feature of the fair.

Thursday's races did not go off with as much excitement as the previous days were some quite interesting contests. The summary follows:

2:14 trot—2 in 2—Purse $300.
8 entries; 4 starters

5 Dr. Melvin, Jas. Bloom.....2 3 3
Time: 2:15 1/4; 2:16 1/4; 2:22 1/4

A novelty running race, with a winner at each quarter, was also a feature; but the jockeys scored it almost to death. Carter Johnson was winner at the quarter and Baldwin at the half, three-quarters and full mile. This race paid $50 for the 1/4, $50 for the 1/2, $75 for the 3/4 and $100 for the full mile.

The judges stand was presided over and announcements made by Mr. H. B. Wier, of the Walter Bros., breeders of Percherons at both Filer and Filer; and his oerous duties were well discharged.

An accident occurred at or near the race track during the afternoon, one of them quite serious. A broken girth gave a rider a hard fall, but did not so far as could be learned, incur grave injury. Later some alleged cowboys brought out some alleged bucking horses; one of which, after the franchise who was to ride it had either chawed or blown into or spit into, its ear during several minutes, did get up a rolling motion like a ship in a storm. Unfortunately, it kept rolling after leaving the track for the stables, and ran into three women, two of whom were seriously injured. Mrs. Owens sustained a fracture of the leg, and Mrs. Berger, of Berger,

SAXON "SIX"
A big touring car for five people

14 Cars at $895 to $1250
Surpassed by Saxon "Six" at $935

Now of course it is generally known that Saxon "Six" is an abler performer than any other car in its price class. That fact has been fixed by a score of different public tests.

Now as to its quality and value. Let us together make exact comparisons.

Here we take 11 important features of Saxon "Six" at $935. And we will compare them with the features of 14 cars ranging in price from $895 to $1250.

One more thing. To prove the unquestioned value and quality of each Saxon "Six" feature, we will note how many costly cars also have it.

Saxon "Six" at $935 has Continental motor, Timken axles, Timken bearings, Fedders radiator, Stromberg carburetor, Remy ignition, Spiral bevel gear, Warner steering gear, Exide storage battery, Semi-floating axle, and Wagner 2-unit starting and lighting system.

There are 25 cars costing $2,000 and up to $10,000 that also use these same 11 features.

Yet the first of the list of 14 cars costing $895 to $1250, has only one of the 11 features mentioned. The second of the 14 cars has only 1 of the 11 features.

The third of the 14 cars has only 3 of the 11 features. The fourth has only 1 of the 11.

Of the 10 remaining cars on this list of 14, three have not a single one of the 11 important features.

Three of the remaining 10 have only 2 of the 11 important features. Three of the 10 have 3 of the 11 important features. And one has 4 of the 11 important features.

There is food for thought in that comparison.

Thirteen of the 14 cars in this list cost from $10 to $315 more than Saxon "Six."

Yet not one of them has more than 4 of the same costly car features that Saxon "Six" at $935 gives you.

Bear in mind, too, that Saxon "Six" is a "Six." This is important. For no "four" can hope to approximate a "Six" in acceleration, in flexibility, in smoothness, in quietness, and in long service.

That makes it easy to decide whether or not Saxon "Six" is the car for your money. And the price now but not for long is $935. So place your order at once.

Saxon "Six", $935; Saxon "Six" Sedan $1395; Saxon "Six" Chummy Roadster, $935. F. e. b. Detroit.

Nussgen Charges a Conspiracy Nussgen That He Did Not Send Out Leaves Containing Unsatisfactory Matter From His Bakery.

The preliminary in first of the three cases of the state against E. R. Smith, for the past two days and shows no signs of being completed.

she, never sold the boy bread. The defense seems to take the position that the boy was "mistaken" and got the bread of a grocery store. The theory of the defense is that Nussgen is the victim of a conspiracy. Mrs. Nussgen testified that a man named Al Patrick told her after her husband let him out of the store of driving for the bakery that "He would get even with them." Other witnesses testified that this man had made similar statements to them.

Mr. Nussgen denied stories current some time ago which his attorney charged were part of the conspiracy to ruin his business. He said that he was not pro-German and had not been since the declaration of war by the United States against Germany; that he had not been given back eyes, hanged, driven out of town or arrested and thrown into jail as a spy as had been rumored, but that these false and malicious reports all hurt his business.

GEORGE M. COHAN IN "SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE"

AT THE IDAHO LAST HALF OF WEEK—VAUDEVILLE

Heralded as a "mystery farce," "Seven Keys to Baldpate" offers a combination of novel situations and surprises that keeps the audience guessing from beginning to end.

At times it appears to be a farce of extreme humor when suddenly it takes on a dramatic aspect that quickens the heart-beat, ending finally with a complete surprise that leaves the audience laughing not only at the play but at itself as well.

What Our Franklin Efficiency Demonstration Means to Thinking Motorists

THE chief aim of our efficiency demonstration with a Franklin stock car, on July 13, was to furnish to the thinking class of car owners and prospects a simple test by which to compare the efficiency of the Franklin with one or more cars of any class.

The procedure of our test was simple. Any car of any make can easily follow it.

We put one gallon of commercial gasoline into a glass bottle, connected the bottle to the carburetor and started the car.

On the same day—July 13—179 Franklin Dealers throughout the country did the same. The U. S. Weather Map for that day shows varied weather conditions—fair, windy and rain. As weather influences road conditions, you can realize that the cars participating experienced practically a season's variety in a day.

Yet these 170 cars scored a national average of 40.3 miles to the single gallon of gasoline. (Each test, as well as our own, is verified by affidavit sworn to by driver and two observers.)

How This Result Helps You

WHAT does this test mean to the thinking motorist, you may ask?

It means that when a car claims "efficiency" and "thrift," the claim can only be proven by such gasoline mileage as the Franklin has demonstrated in this test.

It means construction of finest materials, scientifically distributed, to get the scientific light weight which successfully puts a stop to waste.

It means the elimination of water-cooling systems—177 troublesome and fuel-wasting parts.

It means (and every Franklin owner bears us out in this statement) that all gasoline-consuming friction and drag, all wear and tear, is cut to a minimum in the Franklin.

Franklin efficiency reflects the efficiency of its air-cooled engine. All fuel energy goes for moving the car.

More Than Miles per Gallon

THE Franklin is as easy on tires as on gasoline. Owners' individual reports show a set of tires lasts over 10,000 miles.

The comfort and flexibility of the Franklin are well known—not the least important reasons why the Franklin owner sticks to Franklin Cars, year after year.

And for long life—you find Franklin Cars depreciating less than any other car on the market.

Again we say—Franklin efficiency means much to thinking motorists. We are always pleased to explain and prove the facts of the Franklin Car.
