ROMANS RETIRE AGAIN BEFORE TEUTONIC FOE

TAGLIAMENTO LINE ABANDONED BY GENERAL CADORNA WHO FALLS BACK

Battle Expected at the River Plave

Aggressive and Makes Good Gains From Germans.

International News Service Summary

Rome and Berlin official war statements this afternoon made it certain that General Cadorna's Italian army will not be determined stand along the Tagliamento river, as was expected.

ROME, Nov. 6—Portions of the mountainous area along the Tagliamento river have been evacuated by the Italian forces in order to establish a battle-line, the war office announced.

The German thrust southward would indicate the enemy is attempting a flanking movement in that direction as well as from the north. The sector referred to in the retreat undoubtedly means the Pinzano region.

BERLIN, Nov. 6—The Germans have withdrawn from the line, the war office announced today.

The Italian army is retreating between the mountains and the sea, the announcement states. The line of retreat extends from the Fella river as far as Colbricon and north to the Bagiana valley, a front of about 93 miles, the war office claims.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—Thousands of tons of coal, wheat and other supplies are being rushed today to the relief of Italy in some of the ships battered and sunk by the German fleet.

The government and placed in the service of the Italian government. Five of these large cargo ships are now en route from the north. The sector which are to be chartered to the Italians under arrangements completed by the shipping board are being made ready for service by the last of November, shipping board officials announced today.

LONDON, Nov. 6—Preparations of a proposal for a preliminary peace conference at Berne in December by the central powers were hinted at in dispatches today from Amsterdam.

Two representatives for each belligerent is the German plan, according to the dispatch. It is a formal announcement of the move will be made in the rechartering some time this month by Chancellor Hertling.

General Haig's forest drive is believed to be a continuation of his plan to smash through to Roulers, one of the German's chief railway centers in Flanders. If the British succeed in their drive into the strong hold they will be in a position to attempt a drive to force the Germans to evacuate Ostend and Zeebrugge, their main ports with the coast.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—Turks and Bulgarians are making the Twains in their invasion of Italy.

Fresh arrivals on the Italian front of Austrian, German, Turkish and Bulgarian troops with heavy guns, machine guns and artillery are reported in official dispatches from Rome this afternoon.

AMERICA LOST FIRST PRISONER IN EVERY WAR

PRESENT INSTANCE SIMILAR TO OPENING OF EVERY CONFLICT IN THE PAST

Were Cut Off From a Retreat

List of Names of the Men Who Were Killed With the Wounded and Captured Is Made Public by Department.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—In losing first prisoners to the Germans the United States ran true to form, declared army officers today. At the same time they pointed out that it is a good omen.

To the war of 1812 the first American expedition against the British was a failure, ending in the loss of prisoners. In the Mexican war the enemy took American soldiers prisoners along the Rio Grande before our troops really got into action. In the civil war the Confederates took first prisoners and in 38 severe American soldiers fell into the hands of the Spaniards before the real fighting began. The result of all these conflicts is really recalled.

The delay in the official report is believed to have been due to the fact that only a small number of men were engaged.

Not more than thirty were entirely cut off from all means of communication with rear and that it was impossible to send reinforcements to their rescue, but that finally one or more of the beleaguered men made his way to his comrades.

POSTMASTER IS ANXIOUS TO STOP LOOSE MAILING

SAYS LACK OF CO-OPERATION DELAYS TRANSMISSION OF MANY LETTERS

Should Have Street Number on Letters

Too Many Get Letters for the Clerks to Become Familiar With Them All—New Rules Regarding Parcel Post.

"Patrons of the Twin Falls post office are very careless about having their mail addressed to their street and residence number, said postmaster today. "Owing to the effect that there are several employees in the local postoffice who have not been in the service a great while and are not acquainted with the city it is necessary to give a great many of these letters directory service. This means a lot of extra work in the office and a delay for the patron receiving the mail."

"Business firms should invariably have their box number or street address printed on their envelopes and letters. Business writing letters and postal cards should always have their complete return address on each piece of matter mailed."

"It may be possible for postal clerks to familiarize themselves with the address of all patrons of an office having only two or three hundred patrons but it is an impossibility in an office having 18 thousand."

"Business firms and all other patrons are requested to post their mail as early in the day as possible. A great many firms hold all their mail for posting until about 5:30 p. m. That is the busiest time in the local office and quite frequently it is not possible to dig up all the mail that the senders expect to be dispatched on the evening train. If every patron will assist by posting his mail in the day it will make our work much lighter on the employees and enable us to give better service to the public."

"For the convenience of those sending packages, I wish that you would give as much publicity as possible to the following notice from Postmaster General A. S. Burleson:

"Section 456, Postal Laws and Regulations is amended by the addition of the following as paragraphs 7 and 8, effective December 1, 1917:

"7. Upon every parcel or package transported to the United States to another by parcel post on which the postage amounts to 25 cents or more, there shall be paid a tax of one cent for each 25 cents or fractional part thereof charged for such transportation, to be paid by the consignee. No such parcel or package shall be transported until a stamp or stamp representing the tax due shall have been affixed thereto. (Act of October 3, 1917, Section 807, Paragraph 14).

"8. The tax on fourth-class matter referred to in the preceding paragraph is not applicable to parcels on which the postage amounts to less than 25 cents. On parcels subject to 25 cents postage the tax is one cent; on parcels on which the postage is from 25 to 50 cents, the tax is two cents, and so on. Parcels shall not be accepted for mailing unless both the required postage and tax are fully prepaid. Special internal revenue stamps shall be used to pay the tax; postage stamps are not valid for this purpose. The failure of any postmaster to observe the foregoing shall be reported to the chief assistant postmaster general, Division of Classification."

"The internal revenue stamps affixed to parcels in payment of the tax must be cancelled by the sender, marking, or causing to be placed, thereon his written or stamped initials together with the date upon which the stamps are so cancelled. In no case however, should the sender cancel postage stamps affixed to parcels; such stamps must be cancelled only by post office employees."

"Internal revenue stamps for use in paying such tax will be supplied to postmasters in due course for sale to patrons."

"Last year Postmaster Stronk, in an interview in the TIMES recently requested the co-operation of the people in expediting the handling of their mail, and renews the admonition as he says many are getting careless again."

HOW YOU CAN SAVE FOOD.

The following general plan as outlined by Mr. Herbert Hoover was adopted October 2, 1917, at the meeting of the State Executive Committee, called by Mr. R. E. Becknell, food administrator for Idaho.

Our problem is to feed our allies this winter by sending them as much food as we can of the most concentrated nutritive value in the least shipping space. These foods are beef, wheat, pork, dairy products and sugar. Our solution is to eat less of these and more of our foods of which we have an abundance, and to waste less of all foods.

Feed—Serve bread or rolls made from corn, rye or mixed flour, breakfast food and hot cakes of corn, oatmeal, buckwheat, rice or hominy. Eat European plan, give individuals a portion of bread and butter of uniform weight, rolls, or slices to weigh not more than one and one-half ounces. Serve absolutely no toast, a garniture or under mess, etc. Serve bread. Do not serve bread and butter before the first course. People eat them without thought. Serve no white bread on Wednesdays. Reduce use of crackers.

Meat—Serve no meats of any kind on Tuesdays.

Use more chicken, fish, hare, rabbit, turkey, goose, lobster, crabs, sea foods, clams and sea clams, all kinds. Use less beef, mutton and pork. Serve smaller portions of all these have fewer of these items on the menu. If you must include one of the three, use mutton in preference to beef or pork. Serve "per person portion of these meats, of moderate cost and charge accordingly. War portions at reduced prices may be served. Provide more entrees and made dishes. Beans are more useful as they contain nearly the same nutritive values as meat. Serve bacon only as a dish, not as a garniture. Serve no meat of any kind on Tuesdays, and use less fruits, candies and meats on other days as far as possible.

Milk—Use it all. Economize on the milk of children, except for children. Serve buttermilk. Serve cottage cheese regularly in varying forms; it is especially nutritious. Use skim-milk in soups, stews, etc. Use great quantity of it goes to waste in the country. Use cheese generally. The children must have whole milk, therefore, reduce use of cream.

Fats—Serve as few filled dishes as possible so as to save both butter and lard and in any event use vegetable oils for frying, that is, olive oil, cotton seed oil, etc. "Owing to the fact that they are equally good. Serve all butter in standard pats for guests and employees. A butter pat machine will save a great deal of butter and fat, as our supplies of tropical oils for soap making are much reduced. Do not waste soap, candy and sweet drinks. Use honey, maple syrup, molasses, and dark syrups with hot cakes and waffles. In order to save butter and sugar, use stale all the classes of fruit preserves, jams, marmalades and jellies. Use brown sugar, in cooking and economize by the use of granulated sugar on the table. Use less butter in cakes, especially. Use honey for sweetening pastry and cakes when possible.

Vegetables—Use more vegetables in soups, stews, casseroles, and vegetables into salads and attractive dishes. Feature vegetable dinners and vegetable salads of all kinds. Encourage use of vegetable dishes with salads. We have a great surplus of vegetables and they can be used by substituting them for staples as the staples most needed will be saved.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Fought at every turn by outlaws and agents of the Central Powers, John Gwyn, an American mining engineer, is trying to work a western mine producing an ingredient needed by the government in the manufacture of explosives. The mine is owned by Nan Lawton, with whom Gwyn is in love. The outlaws and their servants in an effort to obtain a missing part of the mine chart and finally trap Gwyn and Nan in their own home which they set ablaze.

They offer the imprisoned paid their lives in return for the mine chart, but are refused and the house burns to the ground. The outlaws ride away believing that Gwyn and Nan have perished. They managed to escape, however, through a subterranean passage and reach the Lost Mine Hotel.

The next day they set out in search of the villains, who at the same time seek to locate the mine. Gwyn meets Von Bleck and accuses him of murder and arson and forces him to admit that Cut Deep has the other half of the chart. He starts after Cut Deep leaving Nan to guard the mine. He gets the paper from Cut Deep and returns in time to save Nan from Von Bleck. Nan and Gwyn then set out for the mine over a wild trail and Nan falls into a mountain torrent and is being swept away when Gwyn leaps in after her.

CHAPTER 7

"Now that we have changed our positions, I'll ask you my dear, just as I was asked you the other half of the chart? I would not care to take any bold step but I might remind you, you are holding something which would warrant my risking almost anything to obtain."

Gwyn, as he rode at a rapid gait down the trail, looked back once or twice to assure himself that all was well at the barn. He did not fear leaving Nan alone with Von Bleck, for the prisoner had been securely bound and could scarcely move, he thought, let alone escape.

Suddenly, as he rounded another turn in the trail, his horse stopped short. Gwyn's hand, almost automatically, reached down to his holster. But a few feet ahead, riding leisurely along the trail, was Cut Deep Rawls, the man Gwyn was on his way to town to meet—the man in fact, that Von Bleck had confessed, held the other part of the chart to the cinabar mine.

Rawls' horse stopped almost as abruptly as had Gwyn's, but his rider was not as alert. When he lifted his eyes to see what had caused the unexpected halt, he found himself looking directly into the business end of Gwyn's revolver. He started, surprised and frightened, and obeyed Gwyn's demand to dismount.

Reluctantly Rawls allowed Gwyn to remove his revolver from his belt and then, from the bosom of his shirt, he extracted the half of the chart. Gwyn took it from him, glanced at it to make sure that he had obtained what he desired and not a blank sheet of paper, and put it in his pocket. Then, ordering Rawls to walk ahead, he turned his horse about and drove slowly back toward the barn where he had left Von Bleck and Nan.

When he arrived within about a hundred yards of the barn, Gwyn dismounted and approached the dilapidated structure from the side, keeping Rawls always in front of him, covered with his revolver. A few feet from the door, Gwyn stopped and listened. He could hear the soft tread of Von Bleck addressing Nan. At first he could not hear what the agent of the Central Powers was saying, and then the words came plainly. There was a sarcastic sneer in the tone.

"You can tell your friend, Mr. Gwyn, that I was very sorry I could not wait until he returned, but important business made it imperative for me to leave immediately."

"Fortunately, I arrived before you left, so you can negotiate your business with me directly." Gwyn said as he strode to the threshold and beheld Von Bleck backing slowly toward him while Nan sat helplessly upon the box where the prisoner had been tied. Von Bleck smiled in the fulfillment of Gwyn's ruling was the last thing he had expected. In his hand he held Nan's gun, and he attempted to turn quickly and fire upon Gwyn, but discovered that upon facing the door, he was in a direct line to receive fire from the easterner's own weapon. He had, however, covered first, and there was nothing for him to do but meekly surrender. Rawls, standing with a scowl in the doorway, regarded the whole scene in disgust. He seemed ready to pounce upon Von Bleck and thrash him for having told Gwyn that he had the chart. Gwyn motioned the remaining half of the map from Von Bleck, without trouble folded it and placed it carefully in his pocket with the other, and ordered the central power's representative and Rawls out of the barn.

"The two of you," he said curtly and with a sternness that made both Von Bleck and Rawls heed his words, "had better get on your horses and ride out of town. If you want to be perfectly safe, my advice is that you keep on riding even then."

Dejectedly, and realizing that they had been defeated, Von Bleck and his confederate mounted and rode down the trail toward the town of Lost Mine. Gwyn and Nan watched them until they had disappeared from view and then turned their attention to the map. The two portions, placed together, made a clear chart of the location of Colorado's cinabar mine. Nan and Gwyn, now that they had procured the chart, decided to find the exact location without further loss of time. Gwyn, in New York, Gwyn explained, would soon be requiring more of the cinabar to continue the manufacture of the explosive, and, if they did not hurry their operations, the whole nation would suffer. So, replacing the chart in his pocket, Gwyn led the way, and together they rode along the trail to a point where a group of three pine trees, marked on the map, showed they were approaching their destination. But Gwyn, in encouraging Von Bleck and Rawls, had forgotten that there remained another of the outlaw band with whom he had to cope. Drant, the third confederate, now remained in the mountains searching for the mine when Rawls had left him to return to the town, where he had intended to meet Von Bleck. Now, as Gwyn and Nan approached, Drant was but a short distance away. He was attracted by the sound of their horses, and saw them coming up the trail, and they halted by the pines to consult the chart, he hid and decided to watch them. The two dismounted, fastened their horses, and commenced their serious undertaking of finding the entrance to the mine. Drant, creeping cautiously behind the underbrush which his him, followed.

Outside, the limbs of the pines creaked in the mountain wind with a low, creaking sound. It was very dark and very lonesome in the thickness of the forest, but impenetrable darkness or the solitude of the hills meant nothing to the eyes nor to the feelings of the little gathering in the brilliantly lighted room of the Lost Mine hotel. John Gwyn and Nan Lawton were conversing both happily and seriously with a tall, robust individual, a stranger to Gwyn. The stranger, whose features, despite his jovial looks and jocular manner, were firm and determined, was William Casey—known to the community as "Bill," a strong, sturdy, Irish-American who had come to Lost Mine few years previous in search of his fortune and was still searching.

"We located the mine this afternoon," Gwyn said, and his smile reflected the enthusiasm revealed in his voice. "It is now imperative that I arrange for the immediate development of the mine and the shipment of the cinabar to New York. The organization which I am representing is eager that no time be lost, and the days that have been consumed by our strife with the central powers, in the form of Von Bleck, have been precious ones. We must catch up now."

"Mr. Casey, since you are at the head of the vigilance committee hunting down the murderers of Don Carlos and Yagui Jose, the developments of the future will depend greatly upon you."

"My warrants," replied Casey, "call for only Rawls and Drant. Von Bleck, for some reason beyond my jurisdiction, is not included."

"If you get the men you are after—it's a pity that I didn't hold Rawls when I had him—Von Bleck will be practically helpless to interfere with us," Gwyn said. "As soon as operations are begun I am going to install you as manager of the mine. My plan tells me that you have had a great deal of experience along these lines and are just the man I need, hope that by that time it will be my wish to plan to be married within the next few weeks, you know."

A FAY REACHING AGREEMENT

The agreement between the United States and Japan published today will have a far reaching effect on the future of both countries and on the history of the world. It will mean their cooperation to the uttermost in the great world war for liberty, for the tendency of Japan for the past two generations has been toward liberty. The fundamental interests of the two nations are the same. In fact, the fundamental interests of all nations are the same, but they do not always recognize it as clearly as the United States and far Nippon do today.

HOOPER AND GOOD ROADS

That Food Administrator Hoover has come to the people with a message for good roads, should make a deep impression on all the citizens of our county. Good roads mean greater production. They mean conservation of energy, the saving of wasted effort, the husbanding of lost motion. Were all the roads in America as good as the roads in Europe, how much more time, now wasted in making extra trips hauling, could be utilized in primary production? And think how much more valuable land in Europe is compared with lands of similar fertility in the United States. This shows that instead of impoverishing the land holders, good roads enrich them, while enriching the nation and making it more efficient.

Will Enlist If Boy Is Prisoner

(I. N. S. Licensed Wire)
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—"If we don't get word that my boy has been released by the Germans, I'll enlist and take his place on the fighting front." Such an offer Langman declared today, after receiving official notice from Washington that his son Harry was among the missing on the fighting front. "Whatever the fate of my boy may be, I am proud—proud of him and of my other son who is at the Houston camp," the mother said. "I have them gladly."

"THE GHOST HOUSE" WITH JACK PICKFORD AND LOUISE HUFF PROVES DELIGHTFUL TREAT

POPULARITY OF THESE YOUTHFUL STARS EVIDENCED BY CAPACITY HOUSES THAT ATTEND FIRST SHOW—A THRILLING STORY

"BEAR FACTS" AN EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD COMEDY—PROGRAM REPEATED TONIGHT AND WEDNESDAY.

(First Night's Review)
Even for a "Ghost House" there was considerable doing when two pretty young ladies, including the popular Louise Huff, decide to move into their uncle's home, although it had a "spooky" reputation. On the same night a bank vault is "cracked" and one of the Crooks, despite his fright and superstitions, conceals himself in the attic.
Matters are complicated by a college initiation downstairs, in which Jack Pickford is the victim. The way things work out, and the ghosts walk, keeps everybody interested not only in the audience—but the characters on the screen as well, especially because even the bravest of them have indication of "nerves" on approaching the Ghost House.

Was Big Success
The picture exceeded all expectations, both as a story and by reason of the two youthful stars that romp through its truly wonderful scenes, stars whose popularity is attested by the crowds that saw the picture Monday night, and who in fact never miss a Paramount feature starring Jack Pickford and Louise Huff. Adding to this the direction of Wm. Desmond, the picture is a story chock full of comedy, thrills and tense situations, and a most delightful entertainment.

Enjoyable Program
"Bear Facts" comedy, added more fun to a big evening's program. The vaudeville program includes a classical dancing number of unusual interest, and closes with a singing act. The evening's program on the big pipe organ is a most enjoyable attraction in itself. The same program runs Tuesday and Wednesday.

WHAT THE STARS ARE DOING
"Hoping Her Romance" is the next Mack Bennett-Paramount comedy scheduled for a limited showing at the Idaho. Some of the actors who appear in this skit are: Polly Moran, Ted Turpin, Ben Scowille and Ethel Tetter. These

ITALIAN READY FOR POSSIBLE RETREAT NORTH OF PINZANO

Drawing Army Toward Reserve Forces in Prospect of Great Battle - William Allen White Says Americans Will Fight Little Until Spring - Washington Officials Have Encouraging Information - Germans Cross Tagliamento.

(International News Service Summary) General Cadorna's Italian army may have to make a further retreat. The Italian war office statement today admitted that the Germans have succeeded in crossing the Tagliamento river north of Pinzano. By this move the Germans now are in position to attempt a drive in the rear of the Italian army if General Cadorna maintains his stand along the Tagliamento.

It has been predicted that in the event of the Germans forcing a crossing of the upper Tagliamento General Cadorna would withdraw to the Piava river, which runs parallel to the Tagliamento. Military experts have pointed out that the Piava affords the Italians a much better line of defense than the Tagliamento.

The Piava starts in the Carnic Alps, fully fifteen miles from farther north than the Tagliamento and flows in a zigzag course, emptying into the sea about twenty miles above Venice.

By falling back to the Piava General Cadorna would be getting closer to his base of supplies and also would have his reserve forces closer at hand.

School was prearranged and pupils and teachers went to the rescue, notwithstanding which, a mere twenty-five per cent of the local crop pile froze on the trees! Where, of where were the Roderick Dhus of the club then? The TIMES wonders who the members who put in about sixteen solid days apple picking - and, further, deponent saith not.

CUBAN CONGRESS TO PASS DRAFT LAW

(International News Service)
HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 4.—Either conscription or the selective draft will be authorized by the Cuban congress which will convene tomorrow in what is expected to be its most noteworthy session since Cuba became a republic. The raising of equipment in the near future of a strong military force, in line with President Menocal's recommendations in his last message, and with the plan of Cuba's Council of National Defense, await only the determination of the method to be followed, rather than the wisdom of the policy of General Menocal and his advisers who are determined that Cuba's alliance in the war against Germany shall take on a most active character. Leaders of both political parties are in accord with the raising of a large military force—possibly doubling the present strength of the regular army and militia more than 25,000 men, and a similar strengthening of naval units and personnel. Whatever differences exist on the eve of the session, it is solely as to conscription or its alternative.

In the Senate Vice President Emilio Nunez will convene the lawmakers and Dr. Ricardo Dolz, now speaker of the house of representatives, will address his colleagues on the military program which Cuba is to follow, now that her war plans are on the eve of consummation. Legislators have reached the capital from every part of the island, and a public demonstration of loyalty to Cuba's allies is expected when the congressmen and senators take their seats.

Whatever the character of the military measures to be enacted, all indications are for speedy action. The attitude of the Conservatives—the party in power, which at first was lukewarm toward universal military service, has become more and more pronounced in its favor, and statements of the leaders show that there will be no opposition to the increase of Cuba's strength. The Liberals, on the other hand, have no program of opposition, and the administration presses bills conscription or the selective draft as a fortunate omen of Cuba's loyalty and her national integrity at a time when the attitude of President Menocal has determined Cuba's leadership in war policies throughout Latin America.

Recent action of Cubans in raising nearly $2,000,000 for the second Liberty Loan; the action of the United States treasury in taking half the Cuban war bond issue of $30,000,000, and progress made by the Council of National Defense under General Menocal's direction have so unified sentiment throughout the insular republic that Cuba's strong position, both politically and commercially is expected to find expression in an ambitious program of legislation which will serve as a guide to other Latin-American allies in the months to come. Members of the diplomatic corps and their attaches will view the proceedings in the senate chamber, and public interest is at its height.

At the last session in July the portfolio of Minister of War and Navy was created, and Major General Jose Marti was named for the place. President Menocal later, by an executive decree, increased the army appropriation to the record figure of $13,500,000, and when, by his appointment of the Defense Council, he promulgated the plans for active war co-operation, only universal military service remained to be authorized by the congress.

After reviewing the various organic laws of Cuba relating to military measures, President Menocal's recommendations assert: "The task of enlisting and mobilizing the militia of 17,000 men last February carries the hope that the raising of a larger army necessary for the carrying on of the war against the Imperial German government will give results no less favorable, and in which the honor of the republic will remain unblemished." After referring to the increased responsibilities of Cuba as an ally in the war, President Menocal's message adds: "For all these things voluntary enlistment was insufficient. And here in all parts of the world when it was necessary to enlarge the service, as in England and the United States, a complete change in the tradition and the custom was obligated. In our republic voluntary enlistment always encountered more obstacles than in these great nations, and I consider it my duty to recommend to the honorable congress the immediate adoption of the only means by which we will be able to overcome the difficulties quickly—the imposition of obligatory military service, based on a system of selection, as was recently instituted in the United States."

President Menocal adds that obligatory military service in Cuba will prove to be "a grand school of social discipline. It makes a citizen understand and feel from the first years of youth his obligations to his country, and makes him respect the law, not by the imposition of force, but by the consciousness of duty. Our people will surely sympathize with this new system," General Menocal says, "for which they will prepare, as being of the most ardent patriotism and traditional spirit of sacrifice."

In addition to increasing the Cuban army and navy, the congress is expected to discuss the wisdom of an amnesty measure and a parliamentary form of government.

mission a daily report showing the total wheat purchased; then a weekly report showing amount shipped or ground and, of course, the balance on hand; and, finally, a monthly report giving the number of barrels of flour and tons of bran and shorts made, together with a detail of each and every item of expense connected with the manufacture—which monthly report must be signed and acknowledged before a notary. In addition the books from which these reports are made are, and must be, open to official inspection at any and all times. Referring to the charge of Governor Cap-por, we are not here investigating the retailers or the bakers; but if the governor, or any local critic, can tell how the mill people are going to beat this game for a "rake off" equal to the "freight charge," or anything else, the TIMES, as well as the company, invites them to stop forward at once and do so.

"They say," also refers to another source of profit to wheat buyers in the reimbursement by the government for holding the grain on account of lack of shipping instructions or facilities. This seems to be true, as the TIMES was informed that, after thirty days continued inability to ship from these reasons, the food commission allows one-fiftieth of one cent per bushel per day. As this must cover interest on the investment, insurance and storage, its value as a "get-rich quick" proposition can be pretty easily understood.

Another feature of the business perhaps not so generally known is that, in calculating and allowing the stated profit, no account is permitted to be made, or taken, for the value of or interest upon, the property invested in the business—the mill, machinery, etc. The average profit allowed must also be made and accredited during the current season—no such thing being permitted as an accumulation of profits now to be applied against a dull period next spring.

As already stated, the information herein formulated was obtained from the local Mill & Elevator company.

The TIMES wishes further to say that it was willingly furnished and that it bore every indication of being quite ingenuous and truthful. If it is not so, the one who knows is again invited to show wherein!

both countries." That Viscount Ishii has, throughout his conferences, shown a sincerity and candor which dispelled every doubt as to his purpose and brought the two governments into an attitude of confidence toward each other which made it possible to discuss every question with frankness and cordiality," is asserted by Mr. Lansing.

Secretary Lansing expresses confidence that the understanding reached will make for an essential to that "general international peace," which is the ambition of President Wilson.

The results of the conference between the ambassador plenipotentiary of Japan and the secretary of state looked upon in diplomatic and official as a triumph to the diplomacy of Secretary Lansing when it is considered that Viscount Ishii was vested with plenary power in procuring the affirmation of the "open door" policy. Further it is considered the greatest diplomatic achievement in Secretary Lansing's administration.

Secretary Lansing to Viscount Ishii: "Excellency:—I have the honor to communicate herein my understanding of the agreement reached by us in our recent conversations touching the questions of mutual interest to our government relating to the republic of China.

"In order to silence mischievous reports that have from time to time been circulated it is believed by us that a public announcement once more of desires and intentions of both our governments with regard to China is advisable.

"The government of the United States and Japan recognize that territorial proximity creates special relations between countries, and consequently, the government of the United States recognizes that Japan has special interests in China, particularly in the part to which her possessions are contiguous.

"The territorial sovereignty of China, nevertheless, remains unimpaired and the government of the United States has every confidence in the repeated assurance of the imperial Japanese government that while geographical position gives Japan such special interests they have no desire to discriminate against the trade of other nations or to disregard the commercial rights heretofore granted by China in treaties with other powers.

"The governments of the United States and Japan deny that they have any purpose to infringe in any way the independence or territorial integrity of China, and they declare, furthermore, that they always adhere to the principle of the so-called "open door" or equal opportunity for commerce and industry in China.

"Moreover, they mutually declare that they are opposed to the acquisition by any government of any special rights or privileges that would affect the the independence or territorial integrity of China or that would deny to the subjects or citizens of any country the full enjoyment of equal opportunity in the commerce and industry of China.

"I shall be glad to have your excellency confirm this understanding of the agreement reached by us.

"Accept, excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration. (Signed) "ROBERT LANSING."

Viscount Ishii's reply:

"Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of today, communicating to me your understanding of this agreement reached by us in our recent conversations touching the question of mutual interest to our government relating to the Republic of China.

"I am happy to be able to confirm to you, under authorization of my government the understanding in question set forth in the following terms."

Here Viscount Ishii quotes Secretary Lansing's note verbatim, beginning with the second paragraph.

"I take this opportunity to convey to you, sir, the assurance of my highest consideration. (Signed) "K. ISHII."
