Boys' conference of the Y. M. C. A.

days session, except the securing of
a room during the time of the conference will be receiving immediate attention. A large attendance is expected and an enthusiastic meeting is predicted. Delegates will be present from Idaho, Utah and eastern Oregon.

Relative to rooms, all those who can accommodate one or more boys on Friday, Saturday and Sunday should be in communication with the committee. Breakfast Saturday and also quested to do so. Anyone who has no house room but wishes to donate

a room during the time of the conference will find the donation gratefully reference to meals has been made in order that delegates should be inconvenienced as little as possible.

The boys will breakfast down attend different churches and where the ministers desire to make a statement of the cause in full to the congregation. Sunday afternoon at 3:30 there will be a meeting at the Presbyterian

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—German greed has over-reached itself again.
Supremely arrogant over the manner in which the Russian Bolsheviks fell in with its proposals for an armistice, the German high command, Washington learned today, has demanded peace terms which bid fair to unite all Russia into a potent anti-German force.

Advices reaching Russian diplomatic circles, anteater and neutral embassies and legations and American officials all carried the same story in different words. Lenin and his followers have failed entirely to get from the German officials any promises that will appeal to the Russian people. Instead, all of the German claims emphasize the intention of creating in Russia a German vassal state. As a result even the Bolshevik leaders are becoming despairing of making any substantial progress towards a separate peace while the opposition forces are said to be gaining in strength everywhere.

The German peace terms are said to have insisted on the retention of all territory captured, especially in the north; to be given a free hand in Russia with a preferential status on German manufactures, and a certain percentage of Russian produced war supplies and foodstuffs.

Heavy artillery activities on both the French and English fronts are taking on a new tone. The Austro-German drive has been stopped after the assalants had suffered tremendous losses. There is heavy snow in the mountains behind them and their positions are reported to be insecure. The trouble in Portugal still continues with little definite information obtainable. President Castelo Branco has been put in jail.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 11.—The flame of revolt against the Bolshevik government in Petrograd is sweeping all Russia.

Eleven different republics have been set up declaring their independence of the Petrograd government, according to advices received here today. Foreign lives and property are endangered at some points and the misery of the Russia people has reached such depths that it is impossible to describe it.

The latest to join the Cossack rebellion headed by General Korniloff and General Kaledine was Dr. Rodzianko who was president of the Duma at the time of the overthrow of the Romanoff dynasty.

The Bolsheviks are feverishly issuing proclamations at Petrograd charging that the Cossacks aim to replace the former czar, Nicholas, back on the throne.

Furthermore they assert that the Cossack leaders are "determined to destroy the Bolsheviks efforts to obtain peace."

Troops loyal to the Bolshevik regime have been sent against the counter revolutionaries with orders to give no quarter, but as they are of indifferent courage and of inferior fighting qualities; it is regarded as doubtful if they can overcome the fiery Cossacks in battle unless enabled to do so by a preponderance of numbers.

In the meanwhile the Cossacks are advancing, seizing railways, cities, communications and supplies of coal and provisions.

Part of the Bolshevik garrison at Moscow was reported today to have mutinied and joined the Kaledine frontier.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 11.—A German council of war is being held at German headquarters in France to make plans for a big drive against the allies on the western front. Information to this effect was received here today.

An Austrian journalist who recently interviewed Field Marshal von Hindenburg quoted him as saying that "peace cannot be thought of unless the Germans are victorious." Von Hindenburg was quoted further as saying that the next overtures must come from the allies.

NEGROES ARE HANGED FOR THE
HOUSTON RIOT

THIRTEEN MEMBERS OUT OF
SIXTY-THREE IN TRIAL

ARE EXECUTED

Others Get Long Term
Sentences

No Word Given Out Regarding Verdict of Court Martial Until Carried Into Effect by the Federal Government.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 11.— Without previous announcement or indication of any decision on the part of the military authorities, thirteen negro soldiers convicted after a trial by court martial of murder and mu-lity in connection with the riots at Houston, Texas, August 23, were hanged
at Fort Sam Houston today. Others received long sentences in the penitentiary for participation.

The negroes hanged were among 63
hanged by court martial at Fort Sam Houston recently on murder and mu-lity charges. Although the trial ended several days ago and the court martial board had been considering the evidence, no announcement of a verdict was made. Not until after the board had been given its final indefinite of the intention of the government given out.

The men hanged belonged to the Twenty-fourth Infantry. They were accused of the slaying of 17 persons during a riot of negro troops in Houston. Among those killed were Captain J. W. Matthes, of the Illinois national guard.

MILITARY SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The senate today ordered the military committee to take up the charges of slop-ness against certain parts of the

BATTLE IN MOSCOW

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The first clash between the Bolshevik troops and patriotic forces supporting Korniloff and Kaledine has taken place at Moscow. Dispatches received the afternoon did not give details but referred to firing in the streets of the city.

FARM LOAN RATE
RAISED BY THE WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Farmers who borrow from the federal farm loan board hereafter will have to pay 5 1/2 per cent for the accommodation.
The board today announced an increase in this figure from the 5 per cent which it has been charging. War time financing, however, has interfered with the original plans of the board.

Baker's Licenses
in Effect Today

New Regulation Adopted In Conformity To Ruling—Local Bakers and Grocers Meet.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The license system governing the bakers and the manufacturers of certain bread products went into operation today under the recent proclamation of the president and the regulations laid down
by Food Administrator Hoover.

Although the government has not sought to fix the retail price of bread, certain harmful competitive practices have been eliminated and fixing standards of weight in multiples of one pound and the limitation of ingredients, the consumers burden has been cut down sharply.

Food Administrator Hoover stated today the co-operation of American bakers has already resulted in enormous savings, estimating the annual savings of flour at 500,000 barrels, more than 100,000,000 pounds of sugar and about 100,000,000 pounds of lard.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Dec. 10.—
Gunnery on an American merchant ship which arrived here today from Archangel, Russia, declared they encountered a German submarine three days out from Archangel and destroyed
it with gunfire.

The gunners said the submarine emerged quite a distance astern after firing a torpedo. The torpedo passed under the ship.

There were 15 men in the gun crew.
They immediately opened fire with their 4-inch gun. They got the range quickly and smashed the periscope on the U-boat with three shots. Two other shots were fired, one of which went directly into the conning tower of the submarine, according to the gunners.

The U-boat then submerged and was not seen again. The American vessel did not intercept further. The encounter took place at latitude 73 degrees 10 minutes north and 15 degrees east. The American ship was commanded by Captain W. H. Smith, now owned by the emergency fleet corporation of the United States shipping board.

Vicious Blaze
Well Handled

Twin Falls Has Narrow Escape From Holocaust—Fire in First National Taken In Time, But Much Damage Resulted.

It was just before eight o'clock last night that Messrs. M. F. Sweeley, S. R.
Hodgin and C. A. Bailey, being together in Walters & Hodgins law office, one of the rooms south of the corner on the upper floor of the First National bank building, perceived a vapor in the air that they at first thought to be steam. It was not until after the second examination that they saw a small fire in the room and announced that the building was on fire. Mr. Sweeley at once phoned an alarm, and the safes were examined, and a few minutes later collected in each office. This did not occupy over three minutes, but the progress of the fire had been so rapid that the stairway and landing at the top,
including the continuous wood work in the corridors, were a mass of flame and all egress in that way cut off. By this time the fire department was enroute, and the first duty was the rescue of the three men—Senator Sweeley taking the ladder from a window of his office on the Shoshone street, and Messrs. Hodgin and Bailey, doing their athletic stunt on the alley next the Idaho theatre.

In the meantime the hose had been connected and laid and the nozzle was quickly directed into the foot of the stairway, where a veritable sea of flame was faced—the entire stairway, railing and paneled side walls of varnished oak wood being ablaze and giving off intense heat as well as clouds of acrid smoke. It was, however, surface fire and yielded to the water comparatively quickly.

The fire, which entered the stairway on the stairs, was obliged to wear a respirator; but he got there, just the same. Indeed, the entire job was a first-class piece of work on the part of the fire department, for they extinguished the fire quickly and with the smallest possible amount of water in the hall and none at all in any of the offices above either side. This was exceedingly fortunate, as the four or five law libraries up there are worth more than twenty thousand dollars, to say nothing of books in other offices and many other things readily damaged by water.

No reliable estimate of the damage has been possible at this writing, but it is considerable. Every office in the large windows along and at both ends of the corridor was shattered by the heat; and the walls, many of which were paneled, are all ruined either by heat or smoke. Many of the Werneke book units are blistered, and almost all the book bindings are more or less discolored. Nevertheless, taking all in all, the damage is not serious, and the city at large, taking well afford to congratulate themselves on the outcome.

The fire place the responsibility for the origin of the fire directly on the connection between the boiler furnace and the chimney, which has been recently renewed and left without a safety device. The chimney seems to have been burned out, creating a draft that heated the connecting pipe internally. This kindled the toilet paper in the room, and the fire spread right up the stairway, first to the lower and then to the upper floor.

CONFUSION MARKED WAR
REPORTS OF YESTERDAY

Turmoil Throughout the East With Rumor Rife—Little Doing on Either Italian or Western Fronts—Russia in Seeming State of Upheaval—
News From Portugal Meagre—Germany
Makes Great Concessions to Turkey—Austria
to Send Troops to the West.

(I. N. S. Monday War Summary)
News from Russia of a counter revolution against the Bolshevik government at Petrograd took precedence
today over all else.

General Kaledine and General
Korniloff are said to have a big army of Cossacks in the Far East and southeastern Russia and are threatening to isolate Petrograd and northern Russia, shutting off the food and fuel supply.

Only artillery activity was reported by the French war office. Violent duels with big guns are raging at Verdun, at Cambres and upper Alsace.

The greater part of Russia is evidently up in arms against the Bolsheviki leaders and there was strong rumor today that the revolutionaries would be frustrated in their efforts to make a separate peace with Germany.

The province of Amur, in Siberia and the city of Vladivostok, Russia's chief port, have declared their independence of the Bolshevik government.

Fierce artillery duels were reported from the western and Italian fronts,
but no decisive infantry operations.

Military critics in Paris are making the prediction now that Germany is preparing for a great offensive against the French armies in the Champagne district (between Rheims and the Argonne forest) but it may be some time before any definite move is made.

The Russian province of Orenburg, bordering Asiatic Siberia, and the province of Besarabia, bordering on Rumania, have declared their independence, according to information received here this afternoon.

In interruptions of telegraphic communication the Petrograd and the strict censorship prevailing at Lisbon makes it impossible to give a detailed picture of the situation there, but the latest advices indicate that the rebel have been successful after several days of sanguinary fighting, and that for the time being they are in control of the government.

Just when the revolutionaries control Portugal will have on that country's part in the war could not be determined but varied conclusions were drawn today from the fact that the revolutionaries had taken control of the government.

For some time there have been reports that German agents are "at work" in Portugal and that German gold was being distributed freely in an effort to stir up sedition.

The German press continues to talk of a general offensive in a defensive manner but without any evidence of strong belief that it will be coming soon.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 10.—Nicholas Lentze, the Bolshevik premier at Petrograd, intends to put the question of an armistice up to the congress, that he will not accept an armistice according to a dispatch printed in the Dagens Nyheter, today.

The Bolshevik minister evidently will not be asked to accept any responsibility for the truce, it was said.

The Petrograd Telegraph agency sent out a denial of reports that the Bolsheviks were demanding immediate settlement.

It is believed that the president will outline this in his coming address to congress, that he will ask specific authority to take over the roads in accordance with a set program also is believed certain.

Already he has power to take them over at a war measure but it is believed that he has in mind a more general plan for which special authority will be granted. It is also believed that the executive will suggest specific repeal of anti-pooling laws for the balance of the war period.

Conserve Heat; Conserve Coal

Plumbing Inspector Alex Murray Gives A Number of Suggestions To Housekeepers.

Plumbing Inspector Alex W. Murray, of this city, has prepared for the TIMES, the following suggestions for the consideration of housewives and all burning coal:

"Waste not, Want Not." About two-thirds of the coal bill goes up the chimney or into the ash can. Take heed to the following and two-thirds will be a benefit instead of a loss. The coal should be of a kind that will give off the greatest number of units of heat, to meet the requirements for which it is burnt.

The apparatus which is consumed should be so constructed that the draft, whether of ingress or egress, can be under perfect control; because the improper admission of air, whether of direction or quantity, will prevent the perfect combustion and thus reduce the number of B. T. U. (British thermal units) of heat per pound of coal used; it is therefore very essential that the joints, seams and doors, be made as nearly airtight as practicable.

The fire pot, or fire box should be of such a size to contain the quantity of coal necessary to emit the amount of heat required, the shape of the wall, preferably round or of rectangular or square, the corners should be rounded.

As to the troubles from smoke, poor drafts and economizing extra heat, it is best to consult an expert tinsmith or furnace man, because they are daily working out these problems and can point out the remedy.

It is estimated that about one-third of the coal used for fire is expended in producing the draft and the residue ash and clinker; but this may be increased to one-half when the apparatus has not been manufactured upon scientific principles and mechanical skill; addition of improper installed or mismanaged; that is to say, assuming that there are from 12,000 to 13,000 B. T. U. in one pound of the average quality of coal, with perfect combustion and management, 8,500 heat units should be available, but if the reverse condition exists but about 4500 of the heat units are utilized, hence the importance of a careful study of the coal problem.

Hard coal does not require as large a fire pot or box as soft coal.

All surfaces that permit the radiation of heat where not needed, should be covered with some kind of non-conducts of heat material or surrounded by still air.

To obtain the full heat value of coal, it is estimated that about three hundred cubic feet of air, per pound of coal, (varying in volume as to the kind of coal) should be supplied to the burning coal.

The ash pan or pit should be kept free from ashes, so that the volume of air required will have space to enter and be slightly warmed, and this also prevents the burning or the warping of the grate.

The grate so made as to be easily shaken and to facilitate the withdrawal of clinkers.

Reclaiming the coal that is dumped into the ash pan will amount to a pretty penny at the end of the month.

The coal bin should be built to prevent dampness or forgetfulness of a borrowing neighbor.

Much coal can be saved by burning waste combustible material, when first of short duration of necessity.

It is good practice to sample by a burning test the coal before purchasing a large supply, rejecting that which makes too much ash or clinkers. The sanitary condition of the premises plays an important part in the economy of coal as well as of life, every grammar school child knows that the breathing of pure air makes the body warmer than when foul air enters the lungs (intervals of time being the same) when cold air is breathed than when it is heated.

A strict obedience to the hygienic rules of living will enable the body to endure a very cold atmosphere without discomfort, and therefore lessen the amount of coal required for air heating purposes.

The smile or frown of the Goddess Hygiea should be heeded by us, as by the ancients.

American People Behind President

Government Organ in Germany Says Men and Money Will be Given Freely for War.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—That President Wilson has the whole American nation standing solidly behind him is admitted by the foreign press. The Cologne Gazette, said a dispatch from that German city today.

The paper was quoted as saying: "They (the American) support him (President Wilson) even when he asks congress to declare war on Germany's allies in order to help Italy. They will give him more money and more money to continue the war and only when we are victorious in Europe will war enthusiasm in the United States weaken."

It is assumed that the article is a warning to the German people that they must expect to face a mighty foe in the United States to steel them for the maximum of effort and sacrifice.

Lies Nailed as Deserved

Pro-Germans "Bunk" Circulated to Aid the Kaiser Is Exposed by the St. Louis "Republic."

The newspaper named above has a department devoted to exposure of the falsity of charges made by seditiously inclined persons. It invites its readers to do as it does in such statements, with whatever authority may attach, and then arrays the truth against them. Out of 44 lies enumerated and exposed in two recent issues, several are appended hereto with the Republic's serial numbers attached, and its answer, just as they appear in that paper:

LIE NO. 2. That a sweater knitted in St. Louis for the soldiers in France, was sold by Red Cross workers and identified by the woman who knitted it by piece of currency sewed into the fabric. (Heads of the Red Cross society in St. Louis branded this as a bold fabrication. Nothing handled by the Red Cross society is sold.)

LIE NO. 23. A "Loyal American" writes that he has been told that American soldiers are sending word to friends that they are receiving so many sweaters and other knitted garments that they are using them for coats and about ships. (The Red Cross, through George W. Simmons, general manager of the Southwest District, recently appealed for all knitted garments that might be got. There is a pitiful shortage and winter is coming on. No matter how many knitted articles went aboard a ship, none of them would be used as maps.)

LIE NO. 27. That the government is pretending to buy horses, but in reality, is taking them away from the farmers and never pays for them. (Ask any man who has sold a horse to the government whether he was paid for it or not. Thousands of Americans are selling horses and mules daily to the government, and are being paid all they ask for the animals.)

LIE NO. 30. That the trenches in which the American soldiers have been placed in France are the very worst on the western front. Three feet of water makes them almost uninhabitable, and within two weeks 20 men have died of pneumonia, 95 of scarlet fever and 60 of smallpox. (Every letter received from members of the overseas force tells of the excellent treatment accorded the men in France; of the hospital conditions and facilities and of the unusual lack of illness among the men.)

LIE NO. 33. This one is familiar, but has a new dress this time: That a mother sent her son at a training camp a big birthday cake, and then wrote him asking how he liked it. He replied he had never received the cake, but that he had passed an officers' tent and had seen him eating it. (Wives, mothers and sweethearts in St. Louis of the thousands of men who have gone to the training camps, and cantonnements will nail this lie hard and fast. If you will take the trouble to ask them about it.)

LIE NO. 4. That all the boys and men between the ages of 16 and 35 of age are to be drafted into the army by January 1. (Congress has fixed the draft at 21 to 31 years, inclusive, and has never changed this rule.)

LIE NO. 5. That tobacco collected through the various agencies for the men overseas is not given to them until they have paid from 50 cents to $2.50 a package for it. (The Republic brands this lie. The Republic has sent several thousand dollars' worth of tobacco to France, and not 1 cent has been charged the soldiers for it.)

LIE NO. 8. That the recent registration of women was to find out how much money each had in the bank; how much of it was owned and everything about each registrant's personal affairs. (While this lie was given credence by many women who should have known better, still it is without foundation from the very fact that the registration was voluntary and that questions of a personal nature were not asked. Any woman who registered knows this.)

LIE NO. 9. That the millions collected from the public for Red Cross work goes into the pockets of thieves and that the soldiers and sailors get none of it. (This lie is reported by J. H. Davis, secretary of the Elks at Mitchell, S. D. (Men and women at the head of the Red Cross society's list of the most uprooted imaginable. They were selected for the work because of this fact. Work done abroad and in the army was the complaint filed herewith; the Republic by the Red Cross nails this as pro-German propaganda.)

LIE NO. 15. That all the money invested in Liberty bonds by men and women and children throughout the United States will be given to the Germans. (Liberty bonds are backed by all the finances of the United States. Whenever the money so invested is "lost" this government will have collapsed.)

LAWS AGAINST SEDITION THAT COUNCIL, WILL HELP ENFORCE

Question Raised as to the Adequacy of Legislation Enacted Shows Many Strong Measures on Statute Books—Crime to Insult Flag by Word or Act—First Laws Passed Were Insufficient—All Citizens Asked to Help Bring Criminals to Book.

"In this country we have capital punishment for treason, penitentiary sentences for the felony of syndicalism and the rock pile for vagrancy. The TIMES has always urged that very law against treason, sabotage and vagrancy, should, in these times, be enforced to the limit and that those who resist the officers in the legal exercise of their duties should be shot down. We believe that this policy if carried out would abolish treason, syndicalism and general uselessness, at least during the term of the war."

An editorial in last Sunday's TIMES, of which the above excerpt is a part, brought from a sincere, intelligent and patriotic citizen a protest on the ground that it at least implied our legal system for dealing with the seditious to be much more perfect than facts would warrant. The point raised was that our laws did not fully cover the ground. It was stated that some forty-two complaints regarding seditious statements had been reported and that prosecutions had not followed because it was declared that the laws applied only to aliens. It was stated that the sabotage law was defective. It was added that federal officials had not shown proper zeal in prosecuting slackers under the draft laws and that they had likewise been remiss in enforcing the other federal statutes enacted to punish the traitorous.

As far as complaint regarding the failure of the federal authorities to run down and prosecute all offenders is concerned, this is a matter which has been touched on directly or indirectly in the editorial columns of this paper since the war began, and necessarily for law enforcement was emphasized in the paragraph reproduced at the head of this editorial. On November 22, this matter was touched on at length under the head of "The New Nations Guard."

From the editorial referred to we reproduce the following paragraphs bearing on that subject:

"It will in effect be a new national guard, composed of men who have had previous military service and are ineligible to service abroad on account of age, or because of the rigidity of the medical examination."

"The purpose of this organization is to protect property against the seditious and the pro-German element in this country. The advantage of this sort of military organization over any other suggested is obvious. It will be directly under the orders of the nation. It will be composed of men, taught to obey and to carry out orders, who will not go off on a tangent, but who will shoot if commanded to do so."

"All such work should be done by responsible men under regular authority. The nation can then co-operate with the local authorities and will have behind it the whole power of the nation."

"The enforcement of the anti-spy provisions of the federal statutes and the laws violated by the I. W. W. has been difficult because of the conflict of authorities of the men engaged in their suppression. The work is being systematized now, and the new organization will make it especially effective."

"When the war started, the first thing needed was to get the army and navy into fighting shape. At that time every branch of the peace enforcement service of the nation, state and local community, was proceeding in its own way without regard to the others. The time has now come when system can take the place of chaos and when a regular force of trained men under orders from the national government can be organized to stand behind all peace officers and help them enforce the law of the land against the enemy at home."

On the above score it might be remarked that when, less than two months ago, the plan for co-ordination between the different branches of the federal service were worked out, it was found that there were no less than seven distinct branches of the United States Secret Service under new federal laws, to look out for the seditious and that up to that time, their wiles in this regard had overlapped in a manner that was confusing and inefficient. Singularly enough this very fact was a tribute to their organization for the purposes for which they were originally intended. Each had a special line, and as they did not contemplate spying and traitors, they found themselves confused when thrown in with others in hunting down the traitorous. Immediate, effective co-operation was impossible. This was unfortunate, but the trouble is now largely eliminated, and the machinery will work more perfectly as time goes on, so that the pro-German "vermin at home" will, we believe, be speedily brought to book, especially with the aid of the council of defense now being perfected and the new national guard now being organized.

The reason for the fact that so many branches were working independently is to be found in the orders given for each of the independent special lines to get busy in the spy game. At that, the things accomplished by our secret service since the trouble arose has the marvel of the world. They have discovered inside secrets of the German foreign office which the traitors of Europe utterly failed to fathom. In fact all the sensational discoveries of this kind since the war began have been made by our men.

Federal legislation was of a two-fold character. On one hand there were laws and orders issued having to do with alien enemies.

The annual report of Attorney General Gregory given to the public yesterday contains an explanation of the attitude of the legal department relating to slackers on page 74, as follows: "In regard to prosecutions for failure to register, the department fully adopted the attitude of dealing leniently with all those who thereafter showed a willingness to register, and extended the locus penitentia as far as possible, believing that it was more important to get the eligibles into the army than into jail. The result was that the ultimate opposition to the draft by those liable was surprisingly small, considering the persistent propaganda carried on against the policy of the law and its constitutionality. In cases where the defendants could not be persuaded to register every effort was made to expedite the hearing of their cases so that they might be registered on conviction before the draft was completed."

The general policy of the government was therefore to get as many into the army as possible and not to prosecute those who had been misled by others into an unpatriotic attitude where they subsequently showed a disposition to repent their action. That some of the federal officials carried this leniency to reprehensible lengths is undoubted.

Efforts to enforce the provisions of such measures against American citizens who were guilty of seditious or treasonable conduct proved wholly futile, since the law did not reach them. As early as May, 1916, Attorney General Gregory sought legislation from congress covering offenses of Americans against their country, but it was not acted on until February 20, of this year, when it was passed in the senate and signed by the president. A new draft was introduced, but was not passed by congress until June 15. Of this law the report of the attorney general says:

"It's many important and sorely needed provisions will provide greater protection to the interests of the United States in times of peace, and will also enable the federal government in the preparation for and successful carrying out of the provisions of the title relating to search warrants, moreover, this department will be enabled to enforce the federal criminal laws with far greater effectiveness and with all necessary safeguards to the rights of citizens. Under this law several prosecutions have already been instituted, and those which have come to trial have almost without exception resulted in conviction."

Unfortunately, the Espionage law, which would have strengthened the draft law materially, was not passed by congress until 30 days after registration was completed, so there was a loop left through which the propaganda was carried on.

To close his report, the whole subject the attorney general says: "In view of the helpful legislation completed at the last session of congress, the government's hands have been materially strengthened so that it now has power to deal with disturbing malcontents. It is equipped with statutes under which it can prosecute those who wilfully make or convey false reports or false statements during the period we are at war with intent to interfere with the operations of our military or naval forces or attempt to promote the success of the enemies of our country. It can also reach those who cause or attempt to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny or refusal of duty, or wilfully obstruct the recruiting or enlistment service of the United States; also those who undertake to overawe officers of the government in performing their duties either by direct intimidation or threats or injury to the person or property. Those who engage in any form of seditious conspiracy to overthrow the government, to prevent the enforcement of laws, or to cause those who seek to levy war against the government or forcibly oppose its authority, can now be reached by laws applicable to seditious persons."

It is true that the espionage act as now referred to is so framed that among other things it will accomplish the punishment of spies, regulate the use of mails against seditious or revolutionary matter, and punish those who conspire either with spies or other persons operating against the government. The prosecution of William D. Haywood and other leaders of the so-called Industrial Workers of the World to the number of more than 150 in the northern district of Illinois is an instance of how these laws may be employed for the public protection in this time of stress. The effect of these prosecutions is already having a far-reaching and highly beneficial influence in the maintenance of order and obedience to law throughout the country.

The fact that President Wilson has asked for further legislation from congress indicates that there are no doubt experience will show that the espionage act shall require amendment, but the report proves that already a great body of national law has been enacted, which if enforced will result in the practical elimination of seditious persons from the country.

Relative to the Idaho sabotage law, the council of defense, in its public utterances indicates its belief that this measure has, in fact, and that the vagrancy law is also effective. There are good lawyers on the council of defense. It is true that some early constructions placed on the sabotage law would have hampered it, and warranted the conclusion that it was ineffective. It is hoped that the opinion of the attorneys of the council of defense will prove correct and that the intention of legislature may be carried out.

Another erroneous idea which seems quite prevalent is that an American citizen can insult, desecrate or defile the flag without becoming criminally liable. Attention is directed to Section 7215 of the Revised Code of Idaho, which reads as follows:

"Any person who in any manner shall publicly mutilate, defile, or destroy, or attempt to do so, or to cause, either by words or act, upon any such flag, standard, color or emblem shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $100, or by imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both, in the discretion of the court, and shall also forfeit a penalty of $50 for each such offense, to be recovered with costs in a civil action, or suit in any court having jurisdiction."

This has been the law of Idaho for more than twelve years.

The TIMES has on several occasions commented Sheriff Kendell for the sentiments which he has expressed on the subject of law enforcement. The machinery for enforcement has not always been the best, because not completed and in the hurry of the draft and the efforts to secure the co-operation of departments it would not be surprising should a guilty person slip through, occasionally. Those, however, who have violated the espionage law since its passage in June, may still be brought to book. Speaking yesterday, Sheriff Kendell said:

"With the council of defense in operation I believe that those guilty of law violation will be reached by the law. The council of defense is not mine, although I am a member of it. It is authorized by the national government for the enforcement of its laws. It hunts down violations, and conducts investigations, having many of the powers of a grand jury. It will go after violators without fear or favor. There are half a dozen women in and around this city who are reputed to have said things which must be taken as evidence to believe that the laws will be found sufficient to handle all violators."

That this will prove to be the case is the hope of all patriotic citizens. It is this ideal that THE TIMES has urged ever since the war was declared; that laws be enacted covering all cases and that machinery be constructed whereby such laws might be enforced with justice. The American people will not stand treason in their midst. Were the law unable to take care of it they would do so otherwise. We believe that this unfortunate alternative will prove wholly unnecessary. Certainly the patriotic citizens will help the council and the authorities. That the American people are unable to pass laws which will protect them and enable them legally is something that THE TIMES does not believe; and it is convinced that the machinery now being constructed by government, through the council of defense, the new national guard and other agencies, the treasonable, and seditious will be brought to justice.

HORRORS OFFICIALLY TOLD

The question has often been asked why the government of the United States did not publicly report on the ruthlessness so often charged by unofficial writers and speakers. This query is answered by an official report, reviewed elsewhere in this issue and obtainable on request by any American. No document could show forth more completely the awfulness of the campaign carried on by the soldiers of the Kaiser than this. Starvation, deportation, the burning of peaceful towns, the shelling of undefended villages, the killing of non-combatant men, women and children in direct violation of the laws of humanity, of the laws of nations and of the solemn obligations deliberately entered into by Germany in The Hague tribunal. These things are shown to have been the result of deliberate policy on the part of the Prussian military leaders and to have been in line with what such leaders have long advocated as the proper method of waging war.

In fact, nothing has been recorded which is not traced home to the heads of the army of the invasion in Belgium and France. Instances of the deliberate, wholesale cutting off of hands of innocent children, of inoculation of prisoners and non-combatants with tuberculous germs and of emasculation of men are not reported, probably for the reason that there is no proof that such things, where they may have occurred, were the result of deliberate governmental policy on the part of Germany, but enough has been shown to indicate that the rulers of Germany have lost all sense of humanity and are waging a war which rivals the excesses of the Huns, whose ferocity the Kaiser urged his soldiers to imitate during the Boxer war in China.

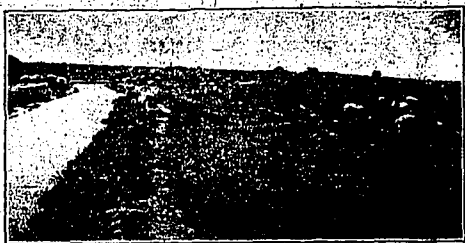

Every American citizen should secure a copy of the report and study its contents, not for the purpose of urging the emulation of barbarity, but for the purpose of forming a determination to wage a civilised war until a repetition of such savagery shall be forever made impossible.

GOOD ADVICE

Senator Borah no doubt gives good advice when he says that we should endeavor to retain the friendship of Russia in this trying time. It is pretty hard to tell what more the government can do than it has been doing, though if there is any definite means of holding Russia in line it should be adopted. The United States declined to enter into the protest filed by the allied governments recently in order that no offense be given. The unofficial statement that supplies would be definitely cut off was promptly officially denied. When the Kerensky and Korniloff factions were at loggerheads, the government let it be known that it would not take sides. No official denunciation of the Bolsheviks has been voiced.

The whole question bristles with difficulties. Should the Bolshevik faction establish a permanent government, we might readily enough recognize it as the de facto government of Russia; but with eleven separate divisions each proclaiming itself an independent nation we are presented with a most complicated diplomatic tangle. President Pierce once said that he recognized five different factions as the de facto government of Mexico within one year, which was "going some." On the other hand President Hayes refused recognition to President Diaz for more than a year in Mexico, and withheld recognition from President Blanco for a year and a half in Venezuela, and President Wilson, following the precedents, refused recognition to Huerta altogether.

The Washington administration had trouble with French revolutionists. Citizen Genet almost started a revolution here because we did not cooperate as much as he thought we should with the Girondists, but just as he was being disciplined properly for his impertinence and activities, the Jacobins got in control, and cut off his head, figuratively, while performing the same grim service for his boss.

UTILIZING DITCH BANKS

How H. H. Schildman, of Piler, Eliminates Waste of Land Along Irrigation Laterals

In a literal sense. Perhaps the circumspection that we used in not throwing ourselves into the arms of the Girond, may have made our French relations less strenuous with its successors. In spite of our diplomacy we got into a limited war with the Directory which succeeded both.

Charles Edward Russell says that wholesale denunciation of the Bolshevik in American newspapers has had a bad effect in Russia.

Dr. Frank Bohn, who lectured here during the Chautauqua says in copy-righted, syndicate articles that the Bolshevik leaders are all eminent scholars, thoroughly honest but utterly and hopelessly impractical. He predicts their speedy downfall on account of the fact that their plans cannot be carried out. The wisest policy would, under such circumstances, seem to be to tolerate their regime during its brief existence and prepare to "stand in" with its successor.

What effect the precautionary measures adopted yesterday by Japan and China may have in Russia is, of course, like everything else problematic they seem sane, but sanity is seldom at premium in a country in the throes of revolution and there is a possibility that the Maximalist orators may use the "invasion" as a battle-cry to rally the masses to them. Their own practical incompetency to meet the pressing problems of hunger and cold, will probably prevent their using any slogan with permanent effect.

If the senior senator has an effective plan for keeping on the good side of the Russian parties, it will no doubt be welcomed by the administration and by the people.

Annual Meeting Co. Farm Bureau

Election of Officers Postponed To December 18, at Parish Hall—Receipts and Expenses Reported and Talks Made.

The meeting was called to order by President White at 2:30 last Saturday p. m., with regrets for the small attendance—thought to be a result of insufficient publicity. In opening the meeting the president talked at some length, reviewing the work of the year past and the situation with which the organization is now confronted. In a personal view, the president said that he had done his best to make the bureau a live organization; that, in starting, it was looking for worlds to conquer, and that, "perhaps, in my zeal to accomplish something, I may have gone too strong."

He then enumerated the "various matters in which active interest had been taken, such as pooling in the purchase of binder twine and sacks and the sale of wool, and claimed splendid results. He also referred to the furnishing daily market reports and maintaining a clearing house for labor, concluding with the "canal proposition," in which he claimed that we "certainly 'initiated' something!" The very effective work of the organization in the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. drives was also referred to, as well as the great opportunity of offering for reducing interest rates on farm loans. The hitch with the county commissioners in regard to finances, and with the county agent were also mentioned—both in terms explanatory and conciliatory; rather than otherwise. But as the president will doubtless repeat this in substance, at the adjourned session, we will not attempt further details at this time.

On call for the order of business, Secretary Edwards read the proceedings of the last meeting. This was followed, later, by a financial statement, in substance as follows:

Uncle Sam has asked us to economize. It is our duty to do so. We believe a wave of economic reform is sweeping over our country that will make it easier for the Government to sell the next issue of Liberty Bonds. We are co-operating in this movement to the end that we may do our bit to win the war. We have all goods marked in plain prices—so that you can compare with other prices that you may know. We do not know definitely what will be required of us but we understand it our duty to sell goods as cheaply as possible so that the wage earner will find his wages ample to provide for himself and family.

On Tuesday, December 11, 1917, we are going to make only two deliveries a day—at 9:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. This will lessen expenses and enable us to sell you for less. If we can further encourage you to carry home all goods, except those too heavy to carry, thereby placing the deliveries to a very small part of the business we can make Prices Still Cheaper. If by adopting this new method we help even a few of our customers to be economical; and so contribute their part to this great economical reform that should sweep over this country, we shall be satisfied if our profit is far less than under the old system. Send the children. Teach them to shop. It will be our pleasure to look after them in particular.

and gave reasons for the faith that was in him with detail and vigor. From the old Farmers' Union, which died of poverty, we have left one good thing in the local insurance company, where perfect protection is furnished at 10 per cent of "old line" cost. Farmers need a place to learn and to debate; they need the organization for help on the labor question, the federal farm loan business, the interest question and the management of a farm sales exchange—and here's where the professional real estate men got their, as the speaker thought that if this business was thus managed "these brass-collar gentlemen would be out picking up spuds, where they belonged."

After some others had favored a recess, Mr. Alworth moved that it be taken (after some discussion as to time and place) to Tuesday, December 18, at two p. m. in the Parish hall. This motion finally carried, but pending action County Agent McLean rose and offered to send notices of the change to the membership, if desired. This led to an invitation to say more, which he did very effectively. He expressed his great desire to see the farm bureau kept alive, explaining that under only law permitting federal aid, it could only be realized in counties having such an organization. He referred to the friction in the past only to say "lots fought about it, got together and make a grand success for the future."

Palace of Truth Good—Love, more or less true, has a rocky road to travel in the Palace of Truth, which was presented in the Lavington theatre on Saturday night as part of the high school yearbook canoe, by the Ben Groat players. Those in the audience who had any mental reservations about people and things were glad that the affair happened in fairly land and that they were not liable to become guests unwelcome at such a confoundedly honest place. The parts were well acted, and if the singing was not up to the highest standard, it was because it was not supposed to be. Everybody enjoyed the play.

Kinney sign painting establishment while the frame theatre, left this week for his home, took a view of disposing of his interests there and coming to the Twin Falls tract. Mr. Moore is related to a TIMES reporter. In his opinion, the Twin Falls tract was the finest agricultural section in the United States and that he desired to make his home somewhere on it. He is well known as an expert in his line throughout the Willamette valley in Oregon.

Baird, Peterson, Martelle, Mart Dean, Fred Hills, Fred Davis, Mary Hill, John McCall, Seth Curtis, John McDowell, R. A. Graham and Misses Lila Voss, Josie Peterson, Jones.

Commissioners On Coal—The county commissioners are busy taking their coal survey outside of the city. They have received a great many cards from all parts of the county and have indicated that the supply is short. A few declare that they have enough on hand to pull through until spring, but these are exceptions. An early start in the following is common. Amount needed, five tons; amount on hand, 150 pounds. It is true that many are so situated in the country that they can get coal for themselves in abundance and most of them could worry through the winter. This is also largely true of the smaller towns, so that the problem so far as keeping the coal supply in the county is confined to Twin Falls. Lack of coal for threshing is a serious problem in the county in some places.

Black Crimes Are Officially Proven

Some of the blackest pages in all history, comprising a documentary record of "deeds that make one despair of the future of the human race," are found in a book named "German War Practices," which has just been issued at the government printing office by the committee on public information of the United States senate. It is edited by Frank C. Murphy, of Princeton, and other scholars.

The dumbfounding evidence which this book presents to the jury of mankind is the most complete and authentic record of German atrocities and official proclamations and utterances of the responsible heads of the the imperial German government, letters and diaries of German soldiers, quotations from German newspapers, and material drawn from the archives of the state department which lay bare the story of inconceivable German atrocities.

The purpose of the book is to show that the system of frightfulness, which the great atrocity, is the definite policy of the German government, so sinister that German soldiers have themselves at time revolted. Individual acts of wanton cruelty and barbarism, expressing his protest against the operation of the remorseless system.

The book supplements the Bryce report which was the first official survey of the reign of horror, rule, and death left by the German army on the lands of innocent and defenseless people. The book is supplemental also to the official report of the American Commission and the French minister of foreign affairs, and it reveals more of the damning German war philosophy as expressed in the German White Book and various letters and diaries of German soldiers.

The book is a masterpiece of the system of brutality that they cried out in letters to Ambassador Gerard, and expressed in the most brutal and unrelenting manner in the slaughter of the Russians in the Masurian lakes and swamps by saying, "There is no God, there is no morality, and no ethics any more; there is only brute force."

The illuminating reports of Brand Whitlock, minister to Belgium, tell of miseries inflicted upon the Belgian people, Mr. Whitlock saying: "One is so overwhelmed with the horror of the thing itself, that it has been, and even now is, difficult to write calmly and dispassionately." Herbert Hoover, writing for this book, of his experiences in Belgium, says: "The sight of the destroyed cities and the suffering people, the fatherless, the destitute, the physical misery of the people but, partially nourished at best, the deportation of men by tens of thousands to slavery camps, the execution of men and women for paltry offenses of their loyalty to their country, the seeking of every resource through which the German could produce of the country, the denudation of the country of cattle, horses, and tortoise; all these things we had to witness, and it is difficult to think of them with sympathy, during this long and terrible time, and still these are not the events of battle itself, but the effects of grinding heel of a race determined to maintain the mastery of the world. All these things are known to the world—but what can never be known is the dumb agony of the people, the suffering of the women, the fathers, the souls have passed the wretched gamut of emotions. And why? Because these, a free and democratic people, dared to oppose the hordes before the march of autocracy."

Frederick C. Walcott's description of devastated Poland comprehends the monstrous wrongs inflicted by the Prussian system upon those defenseless people.

In a statement prepared for the book, Vernon Kellogg said: "I went to Germany to see the war, and I came out a neutral, and I maintained while there a steadfastly neutral behavior, but I came out no neutral. . . . I went in also a hater of war, but I came out a hater of the German war; I also came out with ineradicable conviction, again, that the only way in which Germany under its present rule could be brought to its senses could be kept from doing what it has done is by force of arms."

The book gives excerpts from the diaries of German soldiers of which there are numerous. One of the highest of August 18-19 the village of Saint-Maurice was punished for having fired on German soldiers by being burnt to the ground by the German troops. The village was surrounded, men posted about a yard from one another, so that no one could get out. Then the Thilens set fire to it house by house; neither man, woman, or child could escape; only the greater part of the live stock we carried off, as that could be used. Any one who ventured to come out was shot down. All the inhabitants left in the villages were burnt with the houses."

"A horrible bath of blood. The whole village burnt, the French were thrown into the blazing houses, civilians with the rest."

That the reign of frightfulness was the definite policy of the German government is testified to by an amazing collection of documents and utterances of German officials. Here with are excerpts from documentary proof furnished by German records establishing the truth beyond question.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES AND LOVE IN THIS SENNETT COMEDY

"AN INTERNATIONAL SNEAK" ONE OF THE FUNNIEST YET. PAULINE FREDERICK ON SAME PROGRAM—VAUDEVILLE ACT FROM BIG CIRCUIT

CLIFFORD AND WAYNE COMPANY WITH MASTER KARHL WONDERFUL INDIAN BOY SINGER IN "THE FULL DRESS INDIAN AND HIS TWENTIETH CENTURY SQUAW."

OF COURSE NOT! You can't mix love with high explosives—at least not in a Paramount Sennett comedy. If you want to see it tried, and are prepared to explode yourself, see "An International Sneak," featuring Chester Conklin of the bushy moustache fame, and pretty Ethel Tear, at the Idaho Tuesday and Wednesday.

Clifford and Wayne are sure-fire entertainers with their Indian skit, have good voices and use them well, offering well selected numbers that delight the audience. The little chief Master Karhl, wins the affection of everyone at once. The act has proven a positive sensation in other parts of the country and has been playing the big Orpheum and Pantages circuits.

On the same program is Pauline Frederick in David Graham Phillips' famous novel, "The Hungry Heart," a famous story, a famous actress, and a lavishly staged production.

In "The Hungry Heart," Miss Frederick had the opportunity for emotional acting not equalled in any of her previous pictures. As Courtney Vaughan, she is first a bride, amazed at her husband's absorption in a girl outside his sphere and his refusal to admit that she is capable of meeting him on his own intellectual level; then a wife in love with another man; a tempestuous woman, bitter at the false past she must play in the game of life; and last of all a heroine who renounces her past and enters a newer and better understanding with her husband, making of her mistakes a ladder to a happier life.

With the Film Folk

Today it is the fifth largest industry in the world and the millions spent on it are a testimony to its staggering significance.

Experiences that are common to all people, north or south, east or west, and among all peoples, that every man or woman will recognize as his or her own individual experiences are shown in Margaret Clavin's "The Bachelor." The youth with the budding moustache who gets desperately ill on knocking his first love, the boarding school girl who spends her year's allowance in a month; these and many more are found in Mary Robert Rinehart's clever story of a youthful "suburb" which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post recently.

"If you like me I will have you shot immediately."—These sentences are taken from a phrasebook supplied to German soldiers, according to Minister Brand Whitlock. Each chapter is a complete story in itself, and a jump can be made from one to the other without in the least destroying the sequence of the story. The tale in brief follows the adventures which befall the discoverer of a valuable ingredient for the making of a powerful explosive, and the efforts of a foreign enemy to get possession of the secret. The photoplay is unusually beautiful and artistic.

the pursuit leads to a hanging bridge which gives Gwyn a narrow escape. Gwyn manages to hold to the bridge until Nan reaches safely and then drops the bridge into the chasm, but not until the outlaw leaders gain a place of safety by grabbing onto a rope. Then follows a lapse in hostilities in which Gwyn gets the mine in operation.

The outlaws, however, plot to attack the mine and begin by attacking the first pay roll, together with the mine doods.

A wild race to the recorder's office is made in which the Central Powers agent wins.

CHAPTER II

But Casey was not trying to take the engine house just now. First he must get his men out of the trap. He worked along the side of the train until he reached the engine, mounted the step and crouched behind the cab. "Hold tight," he called, "lie down behind the ore in the cars!" and with this he grasped the throttle and immediately started the train. Protected by the piles of ore, which served as a sort of entrenchment, Casey's men beat off all attacks as the train galloped headway and crawled faster and faster toward the incline.

But Rawls was alive to the situation. What he desired was not a retreat, but the possibility of a counter attack, but a decisive victory, a stunning defeat of Casey's entire force. Another train, with its engine pointed in the opposite direction to that in which Casey was established, stood on a siding. His decision was instantaneous. Summoning his men to climb aboard, he backed the train on to the track and started in pursuit.

The race was even till they struck the grade and then Rawls' train, with every car loaded, had a greater motive power than any engine—gravity. As the two trains slid down the mountain the distance between grew less and less. Both sides were firing as rapidly and continuously as human fingers could load and press the trigger. However and narrower grew the intervening space till the trains coupled and locked. And now, back and forth over the swaying ore cars, there waged a hand-to-hand, then the other, in a desperate rush, would carry the fighting back.

In the rear. Von Block, Shoestring and "One-Lung" had mounted a gatling gun on the front of an engine and were bearing down on Casey from the other side of the bridge. The fire had been less severe on this side, and the engine crept out over the sleepers with its deadly weapon pouring forth a flying fusillade of bullets. It was only by swiveling their bodies underneath and hanging by the beams that the stout-hearted little band of defenders could save themselves.

Election day dawned bright and clear, and Hogan, his red machine conspicuous with campaign banners, was greeted with cheers wherever he went. The events of the day before had turned the tide, and Casey's defeat was a foregone conclusion. But the candidate dropped his campaign smile for a hearty laugh when he came upon Casey twisting his hat with boyish embarrassment before a young lady's praise.

"Isn't he—I mean it—perfectly lovely?" she exclaimed with enthusiasm as Hogan drove up. "Do you know what Wm. Casey did last night? Captured a brand new gatling gun. Von Block had shipped from the east. Isn't that simply magnificent?" She was beaming on the big Irishman with frank admiration, clapping her hands and murmuring those girlish exclamations which prove so often fatal to any man's self-possession. Casey welcomed the newcomer as a providential diversion.

"The Von came too far, that's all," he explained. "We worked along the side of the engine, and the gat couldn't turn on such a wide angle. But they still have the mine, and a gang of men is working now rebuilding the bridge. Gwyn and I decided we too could use the bridge, so we are not disturbing them. And now tell me how the election is going?"

"Fine," grinned Hogan. "Mrs. Gwyn is the best little politician I've seen in many a day. And by the way, old man Taylor, the poor old skeleton that keeps the doods, told me this morning he had changed his mind about the title to the mine and had corrected the records in her ladyship's favor. I wouldn't wonder if he was something of a politician himself."

By noon the ballot was almost completed, with Hogan leading by a safe majority.

"Well," he told Gwyn, "since your wife fought for me I'll repay the favor. The boys are having a holiday today, and I don't know any kind of celebration that'd please 'em better than a stiff little scrap. Let's drive those bandits out of the mine before supper time. What 'd you say?" Hogan cupped his hands and gave a shrill signal. In a few moments every man on the block had gathered to know what it was all about.

"All right," he said, "let's go!" Hogan and Casey and the boys were going after the bandits at the mine. Anybody with a good gun who wants some excitement is invited. The line forms on the left.

Half an hour later the new sheriff and his first posse were on their way up the mountain.

Shop Early Advice Important This Year

Larger Holiday Business and Short Labor Supply Make It Important.

"Do Your Shopping Early!" has special significance for the public, in the approaching holiday trading period through the necessity of conforming private interests to the need of the nation by avoiding the great strain upon labor, freight and postal facilities of the "eleventh-hour" buying says the Dry Goods Reporter.

With the government striving to keep industries normal and railroads adequate for the present volume of business, the public will be expected to arrange the extra demand upon the carriers in such a manner as to occasion the least possible congestion. Early buying and shipping is the solution. Added to the usual arguments for doing Christmas shopping early are several imperative new reasons which are the special outgrowth of the war and which may be summarized as follows:

First, the stores are facing a larger holiday business than ever with a labor shortage in all lines which may make it difficult for them to obtain the usual quota of extra clerks the last two weeks before Christmas.

Second, the congestion of mail already is such that unless the people use forward extra gifts to the soldiers the service may not be adequate for prompt delivery.

Stocks have been accumulated by most of the stores a month earlier than usual because of the necessity of sending gifts to soldiers abroad and in distant home camps.

Retailers are making displays earlier than usual, hence the public can begin now and for their own convenience are urged to begin now to do Christmas shopping.

A CABINET MAN'S WAR BREAD

Mrs. Gregory Gives The Recipe For The Kind She Feeds Her Husband.

"On what meat doth this, our Caesar, feed that he has grown so great?" was asked by one of the famous band of conspirators, and before and since that time the world has been much interested in the food of its celebrities. That makes particularly interesting, the oatmeal bread on which Mrs. Thomas Watt Gregory wife of the attorney, general of the United States, feeds her husband. She calls this her "favorite war time recipe" in a letter to the People's Home Journal:

"One cupful of liquid, one tea-spoonful of salt, one cupful of rolled oats, one quarter cake of yeast in one-quarter cupful of lukewarm water, two and one-half cupfuls of white flour. Soak the liquid, add the salt and pour over the rolled oats. Cook slowly, letting it stand one-half hour. Add yeast and sifted flour. knead and let rise until double in bulk. Knead again, let rise in pan until light. Bake in a moderate oven from fifty to sixty minutes."

CAMOUFLAGE REACHES FAMOUS PUMPKIN PIE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—The art of camouflage has now reached the good old pumpkin pie. Mrs. G. M. King of 214 William street, East Orange, N. J., today sent to the national emergency food garden commission, a recipe for making pumpkin pie, without the pumpkin. Here it is:

"Scald one quart of milk; add scant cup of Indian meal; little salt. When cool add two eggs. Cinnamon and ginger to taste. Sweeten with brown sugar. Put a little cream or milk on top and bake."

The commission will be very glad to get other helpful recipes but it urges that a few pumpkins be planted next year just the same.

Rice Pudding

One quart milk, one-fourth cup rice, one-fourth cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, salt, nutmeg, a few raisins. Wash the rice and put in the water in a baking dish and bake for two or three hours. Stir occasionally. Serve either hot or cold.

Rogerson Items

Dr. Thurston, Mr. Jones, Mrs. Boyd, Mr. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Lutz and Mrs. Clash were Twin Falls callers last week.

The Red Cross ladies gave an informal lunch and entertained at cards in the waiting room of the depot, Thursday evening, November 30.

A silver tea set was served in the basement of the church by Mesdames Busel Gibbs and Hines on Saturday, December 1.

Miss Olive Cooper from Indiana, was visiting at the Al Cochran home. Vane Whiteside of Three Creek has purchased the Lloyd Reynolds property.

On Friday evening December 21, the Rogerson school will give a basket social, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase a Victrola. There will be a short program given in the school building, after which the baskets will be auctioned off. By the kindness of Mrs. Edna Deane, the dining room of the hotel will be the room open to the "grown ups" for a social dance. So come bring your box eat supper with your best girl, listen to our short program and then repair to the hotel for a delightful evening. The school is badly in need of a musical instrument and Mrs. Deane to help up it is doing the free use of her dining room for the evening.

BRITISH ARMS ON YESTERDAY

HOLY CITY CAPTURED BY GENERAL ALLENBY FROM THE TURKS

Taken by Ottomans 401 Years Ago

Center of World's Conflicts From Earliest Ages—Present Campaign Has Been Interesting From Military Point of View.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Jerusalem, the Holy City, has been captured by the Turks by the British army operating in Palestine.

Announcement to this effect was made in parliament this afternoon. It was based on official advice from General Allenby, commander in chief of the British forces on the Palestine front.

The fall of the Holy City had been expected ever since the British took Joppa, its port on the Mediterranean. Jerusalem is the holiest city in the Christians for the first time since 1616, when it came from the Ottoman yoke.

The British campaign in Palestine was opened last March and has been prosecuted steadily since then, first by General Sir Edmund Allenby, and then by General Allenby, who assumed command on June 29. The advance was northward along the Mediterranean coast but was necessarily slowed by cause of the arid desert that had to be crossed.

Jerusalem is 25 miles inland from the sea. It was made the capital of the Christian republic established there by the Crusaders from 1099 to 1187.

Jerusalem, the birthplace of Christianity, is the most fought-for city in the world. Down through the ages it has been battled for by Jews, Mohammedans, Pagans and Christians. The hills of Palestine have been drenched with Christian blood in mighty battles fought by fanatic Christian invaders. The historic city has been destroyed and rebuilt time and time again, only to finally fall for the second time into the hands of Christian hands.

The gigantic British encircling strategy took in, on the south, the little town of Bethlehem, where Christ was born 1917 years ago. There seems to be no doubt that the capture of Jerusalem is one of the most stupendous moral victories of the war.

It is a unique fact that British leaders and British armies now, as in the centuries past, are still the tenacious successful foes of Mohammedan people. In the twelfth century Richard Coeur de Lion, in Palestine, was defeated by Saladin, who decided to absolve himself of mundane tasks by engaging in an altruistic campaign for the deliverance of Jerusalem to Christian control. In a series of campaigns he fought the mighty Saladin through many sanguinary battles to a truce. He found it impossible to maintain a maximum fighting strength through the extensive line of communications. Disease and misfortune reduced his armies to nomadic bands, which were some of them taken as slaves by the Muslims. Others roamed the continent for years or engaged in mercenary wars wherever they found chieftains willing to employ them.

Richard himself became a fugitive, was arrested by enemies while struggling his way through Austria, and only released when he agreed to Christian raised enormous ransoms.

Briefly Jerusalem was subject to Egypt about 1400 B. C. Later it passed into the possession of the Babylonians. David was the next conqueror. Its rise to a great city caused much jealousy among neighboring potentates.

The Egyptians and Assyrians and finally the Babylonians, under Nebuchadnezzar, employed the tactics the Germans have practiced on Belgium in the present war. The city was removed, magnificent buildings burned and men and women deported to Babylon.

After seventy years, Cyrus permitted the Jews to return. They restored the city, and 538 B. C. rebuilt the ruins of Solomon's temple. A period of peace was enjoyed until Alexander's Macedonian Empire collapsed. Then Jerusalem was sacked by Ptolemy Soter, who deported most of the population to Alexandria. The Macedonians finally cast off the Macedonian yoke, and in 105 B. C. Jerusalem became independent.

Another period of comparative peace was uninterrupted until forty years after the Crucifixion. Tyranny of the Romans then drove some of the Jews to revolt.

Jerusalem was taken by insurgents in 66 A. D. and Titus captured it in 70 B. C. After one of the most terrible sieges and battles in history.

A rebellion of the Jews against Jewish idolatry came next. The revolt gained control in the fourth century and there was a succession of Christian emperors until 638.

Then Caliph Omar, the Arabian, and his Mohammedans took the Holy City. His dynasty was succeeded by the Turks. All Europe became aroused by the cruelties of the Turks and their persecutions, and the Crusades were started.

The Crusaders carried Jerusalem by storm in 1099 and held it until 1187, when the famous Saladin conquered them and became master of the Holy City.

It is an interesting campaign that has just been successful in restoring Jerusalem. A glance at the geographical nature of the land over which the British advanced from Gaza to Jaffa to Jerusalem is fairly interesting.

Palestine, an almost regular rectangle, may be divided into four equal parts, longwise for this purpose. The strip along the coast is the sea. That country, a continuous plain; the next strip to the west is mountainous. It resembles in general character the Catskill country of New York state, except that the hills and mountains are not so heavily wooded.

The third strip from the coast is a great depression through which the River Jordan flows.

The fourth is the plateau land which rises beyond the Jordan. By taking the coastal route the English were able to advance with little trouble from natural obstacles. Some distance above Askalon the invading army apparently forked, one branch continuing up the coast to Jaffa and the other turning northward toward Jerusalem, which lies in the hilly country.

Registration Day on December 18

Many Things Women Can Do To Help Win The Great War For Liberty and Humanity.

A week from today is registration day for women who wish to serve in the war. Although the matter has been fully explained in two articles published in the Sunday TIMES and furnished by Mrs. John E. Twiss, who has been in the front lines of the war, in order that the matter be emphasized by reiteration, the TIMES publishes the following statement by Mrs. J. G. Green, of New York, the organizer of the movement to be kept continually before the women of the country.

To the women who do not understand the need for doing registration cards, nor the power behind the movement, this explanation is given. In 1916 the council of national defense was created by act of congress to deal with problems in the United States arising from war conditions. As the help of women was needed, this council created the women's committee, which is a part of the government and is doing government work. The United States has asked this woman's committee to take a census, an inventory of all the women of the United States through the signing of cards.

This week marks the beginning of the big registration drive and every loyal woman should be a part of it. It is right that the woman should demand a clear explanation of the reason for signing. Here it is: Simply that the government may know the women-power of the nation, so that it may be informed where it may call into service trained workers in the dozens of lines where women workers may be of service.

Women should regard the signing of a registration card in the nature of a rare privilege, because it not only gives her the opportunity to prove her loyalty but the opportunity also to offer to her country such service as she is best fitted to render. For instance: The government needed Red Cross nurses. Some had registered for service in Bolivia and the government knew where it could find 10 to 12 who were willing to enter its service. Hence, it called to them and they responded at once and will soon be where their services are required.

In England, one million women took the place of men in the first two years of the war. Two million more women were needed to cook for the army and for the children of the one million women workers.

This will be the result in the United States where one million men are already taken and millions more may be called. Women will have to fill their places either as volunteer or paid workers. The charitable agencies need large forces of volunteers to help with the relief, investigative and protective work. Trained workers can be used at once for the benefit of their home communities.

Any woman can devote a few hours a week to work for her government in some capacity, whether trained or untrained. Our boys are fighting for us from the shame and the woe the women of Belgium and northern France suffered from the common enemy and while the boys are away, we are now suffering in agony and despair, and we should fight for them at home.

This is a government census and whether or not we are asked to offer or perform any service, it should include our names. Do your duty loyally and register. You can kill or hurt the enemy by offering to serve in the army, or you can make Christmas gifts or sew a cheery letter to

PROPOSED OPERATIONS

Erection of 88-foot Standard Rig in Big Piney Basin on the south slope of the Lacey Dome—on the northern extension of the LaBarge Anticline. Developments in the Cretaceous well, where the Shannon Sands were struck at 835 feet and the remarkable oil structure—sealed and unutilized—offer ample evidence of large producing wells in the Big Piney Basin.

IN THE FOSSIL FIELD

Drilling operations are intended immediately upon the sale of our Pre-Organization Stock, on Section 11, Township 21 North, Range 117 West, in the Fossil Field, less than a mile north of the well of high grade paraffine oil recently brought in by the Idaho-Wyoming Company at the shallow depth of 242 feet. Excellent possibilities of profit-making exist in the Fossil field with a five to ten barrel production of this remarkably high grade, high-gasoline content oil, with present proven development, let alone much greater possibilities as the drills penetrate the underlying oil sands.

PRESENT SHALLOW WELLS PROFITABLE

It is estimated that wells of the present depth can be completed in less than ten days each, at a cost less than $1000 per well. TWENTY WELLS, of this sort, which we propose to drill will pay dividends of a satisfactory amount while drilling operations are carried on in the second Big Muddy—the Big Piney Basin.

OIL LAND HOLDINGS

Present leases and claims in excess of 1000 acres of very choice unusually well located State, Patented and Government Land in both fields. Negotiations pending for the acquisition and title to several thousand acres additional holdings.

NINE PERTINENT FACTS

1. Absolutely NO WATERED STOCK.
2. Strong and responsible Board of Directors; insuring efficiency.
3. Organized on sane, conservative basis—NO "WILD-CATTING."
4. Executive, administration, engineering and geological departments complete.
5. Operation in proven fields.
6. Extensive holding of oil land—OF TREMENDOUS FUTURE VALUE.
7. Additional holdings to be secured, making this Lincoln County's LARGEST HOLDING AND OPERATING COMPANY.
8. Immediate production of oil from shallow wells.
9. Oregon Short Line main line runs through the center of Section eleven in the Fossil Field.

OF IMPORTANCE TO YOU

ONLY FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND SHARES will be issued to Directors and Board of Management for cash, services, oil claims and oil leases consisting of State, Patented and validated Government Lands. In other words approximately ONE-SEVENTH of the total Shares of the corporation will be held by the promoters. We believe no fairer offer could possibly be made to the investing public.

some soldier boy in France who has no mother or sister. The government wants to know of the capacities in which women are now serving, either in the home or as paid pursuits, trades or professions in every community a classified list of women willing to be called upon in the event of a war, or in the event of a state of nation will be carefully prepared and kept.

Training of Nurses
A list will also be kept of women who wish to take training in order to give efficient nursing service. What their services are required, these workers trained or untrained may be placed in position of usefulness in many fields.

Registration is voluntary; women will not be drafted into government service. Women will not be taken from their homes for government service either here or in Europe unless they voluntarily offer themselves for such service. If a woman registers as "trained" and capable of self-support, this will not give cause for her husband to be drafted.

Even if a woman registers for service, she will not be compelled to serve should conditions change, nor will she be punished or criticized for being unable to respond. Registration is intended for women loyal to America whether or not they are naturalized citizens and should not be forced on unwilling or disloyal women. It is especially stated that "women will not be forced to give their exact age, but are advised to do so, as certain government positions are only open to women between certain ages. The age should at least be given in decades "over 30 or under 40," etc.

The most urgent need for the service of women at the present time is in the profession of nursing and in office positions. Women are earnestly urged to register. Registration is a proof of loyalty to our government. It means help for our boys in the trenches who are fighting to save us and our homes.

Land Land Troops in Vladivostok
Will Try To Protect Stores From The Soldiers Of The Bolsheviks—Co-operating With Japan.

(N. S. Leased Wire)
TOKIO, Dec. 10.—Japanese troops have been landed at Vladivostok, Russia's great port city on the Pacific.

Chinese troops have entered Harbin, Manchuria, to protect their interest in the profession of nursing and in office positions. Women are earnestly urged to register. Registration is a proof of loyalty to our government. It means help for our boys in the trenches who are fighting to save us and our homes.

Harbin is in Manchuria at the eastern terminus of the main line of the trans-Siberian railway. There are vast supplies of war stores lying in the warehouses at Vladivostok which were sold to the Russian government by Japan and the United States. Practically all of these supplies have remained there because of the interruption of steady traffic on the trans-Siberian railway. It is supposed that agreements existed by which these stores were to be used against the German powers and the landing of Japanese troops was probably accomplished to prevent the munitions from being taken over by the Bolsheviks. It was recently reported that the Bolsheviks were making their way into Vladivostok.

SAYS SATAN TO THE KAISER

When Louis Syborsky of Creston, Iowa, wrote the satire on Kaiser Wilhelm which follows, he little thought it would attract the attention which it has. Requests for copies have come to him from Theodore Roosevelt, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Secretary to the President Tumulty and other notables. The article is in the form of a letter from his Satanic Majesty to his human prototype. It says: To Wilhelm von Hohenzollern, King of Prussia, Emperor of all Germany and envy extraordinary of Almighty God.

My Dear Wilhelm: I call you by that familiar name, for I have always been very close to you—much closer than you could ever know. From the time that you were yet an undeveloped being in your mother's womb I have shaped your destiny for my purpose. In the days of Rome I created a roughneck known in history as Nero. He was a vulgar character and told me his purpose at that particular time. In these modern days of chaotic demon and efficient super-criminalism was needed, and as I knew the Hohenzollern blood I picked you as my special instrument to place on earth an annex of hell. I gave you abnormal ambition, likewise an oversupply of egotism that you might not discover your own failings; I twisted your mind to that of a madman with certain normal tendencies to carry you, by a most dangerous character placed in power. I gave you the power of a hypnotist and a certain magnetic force that you might sway your people. I am responsible for the fact that you are helpless on your left, for your crippled condition embitters your life and destroys all noble impulses that might otherwise cause me anxiety, but your strong sword arm is driven by your ambition that squelches all sentiment and pity; I placed in your soul a deep hatred of my thing English, for of all nations on earth I hate England most; wherever England plants her flag she brings order out of chaos and the hated cross follows the Union Jack; under her rule wild tribes become tillers of the soil, and in due time practical citizens; she is the great civilizer of the globe and I HATE HER. I planted in your soul a cruel hatred of your mother because she was English, and left my good friend Bismarck to fan the flame I kindled. Recent history proves how well our work was done. It broke your royal mother's heart, but I gained my purpose.

The inherited disease of the Hohenzollerns killed your father, just as it will kill you, and you became the ruler of Germany and a tool of mine soon after. To assist you and further hasten my work, I sent you three evil spirits—Nietzsche, Nietzsche and later Bernhard—whose teachings inflamed the youth of Germany, who to some time would be willing and loyal subjects and eager to spill their blood and pull your chestnuts, yours and mine; the spell has been perfect—you cast your ambitious eyes toward the Mediterranean, Egypt, India and the Dardanelles and you began your great railway to Baghdad, but the ambitious archduke and his more ambitious wife sold you in your way. It was then that I sowed the seed in your head that blossomed into the assassination of the duke and his wife, and all hell smiled when it saw how cleverly you saddled the crime on Serbia. I saw you set sail for the fields of Norway, and I knew you would prove an alibi. How cleverly done, so much like your noble grandfather who also secured an alibi to remove old King Frederick of Denmark, and later robbed that country of two provinces that gave Germany an opportunity to become a naval power. Murder in sixty words, but it takes a Hohenzollern to make away and get by.

Your opportunity was at hand; you set the world on fire and boils of hell were ringing your rape on Belgium caused much joy. It was the beginning, the foundation of a perfect hell on earth; the destruction of noble cathedrals and other infinite works of art was hailed with joy in the infernal regions.

You made war on friends and foes alike and the murder of civilians showed my teachings had born fruit. Your trachery toward me has hastened a universal upheaval, the things I most desired. Your undersea warfare is a master stroke, from the little smelt, mackerel and herring to the Lusitania you show no favorites; as a war lord you stand supreme, for you have no mercy; you have no conscience, for you cling to a mother's breast as they both go down into the deep together, only to be torn apart and leasurably devoured by sharks in your very bowels.

I have strolled over the battlefields of Belgium and France. I have seen your hand of destruction everywhere; I'll tell you, work, super-ferocious I made you. I have seen the fields of Poland; now a wilderness fit for prowling beasts only; no merry children in Poland now; they all succumbed to frost and starvation—I drifted down into Galicia where formerly Jews and Gentiles lived happily together; I found but ruins and ashes; I tell you, work, super-ferocious I made you. I have seen the fields of Belgium when you drove the peaceful population before you like cattle into slavery and death; I saw wife and forced them to hard labor in trenches. I have seen the most fiendish rape committed on young women, and I have seen the father of their offspring and I began to doubt if my own inferno was really up to date.

You have taken millions of dollars from innocent victims and called it indemnity; you have lived fat on the land you usurped and sent the real owners away to starvation. You have strayed away from all legalized war methods and introduced a code of your own. You have killed and robbed the people of friendly nations and destroyed their property. You are a liar, a hypocrite and a bluffer of the highest magnitude. You are part of mine and yet you pose as a personal friend of God. Ah, Wilhelm, you are a wonder. You wantonly destroy all things magnificent. You are the chronic killer of Christians, and your devout worshiper in a Lutheran church. A Mohammedan army, commanded by German officers, are slaughtering one another in massacres. Christianity is a new line of warfare. When a Prussian officer can witness a nude woman being dismembered by a Turkish soldier, committing double murder with one cut of his saber, and calmly stand by and see a house full of innocent Armenians locked up, the houses smothered with oil and fired, then my teachings did not stop with you, but have been extended to the whole German nation. I confess my Satanic soul grew sick and then my pupil had become the master. I am a back number, and my dear Wilhelm, I abdicate in your name the great key of hell will be turned over to you. The devil that has struck the doom of damned souls since time began is yours. I am satisfied with what I have done, that my abdication in your favor is for the very best interests of hell—in the future I am at your majesty's service. Affectionately and sincerely, LUCIFER H. CONFUSION MARKED WAR

Bolsheviks conceded all of Germany's demands in the armistice negotiations. There was a fresh flood of reports concerning Russian affairs from Japan this evening. The following:

1. "That the Maximalists have issued a decree abolishing lawyers and the courts, establishing government tribunals in their stead."

2. "That the Bolsheviks are now willing to agree to the formation of a coalition government."

3. "That Russian soldiers returning from the front are murdering the Jews."

4. "That the peasants council has issued a decree repudiating an armistice with Germany."

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 10.—The national revolution which has broken out in Russia may put an end to further armistice negotiations on the eastern and Rumanian fronts.

General Kallandenes and General Korniloff, the Cossack leaders who declared war on the Bolshevik government, were reported today as saying that they would continue the war against the central powers until victory came.

A temporary truce is already existing on the eastern and Rumanian fronts but December 19 has been set as the date when further negotiations will be commenced for an extended armistice. An extended armistice, if effected, would be the first decisive step towards a separate peace.

An unconfirmed rumor was in circulation today that Germany has secretly offered aid to the Bolshevik government in Petrograd to combat the Cossacks.

Germany has signified her willingness to enter into peace with Russia on the basis of no indemnities, according to the Swedish newspaper Huvudsdaen today.

It was reported from Petrograd that the Bolshevik government would issue a formal publication Thursday repudiating Russia's loans.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A renewal of the gigantic battles on the western and Italian fronts during the present week is predicted today by military experts.

In the full which developed at Cambrai, in France, and on the Arago plateau in northern Italy, the artillery took up the battle and the big guns on both sides have been thundering incessantly. Germany is reported to be massing every available reserve on the western front for a great blow, in conjunction with the drive in Italy. Most of the members of the German's general staff have gathered at western headquarters and enormous numbers of guns are being moved to west Flanders and France.

Following the capture of Monte Sisamol and adjacent heights from the Italians, the invading Austro-German armies in northern Italy suspended their infantry operations and began to pound the new mountain line of the Italians with their artillery.

This is in line with the strategy the Austro-German generals have employed in mountain fighting ever since the beginning of the war.

It is their aim to blast a path through the Italian's mountain defenses before renewing their infantry thrusts against them. A dispatch from Rome says that the Austro-German artillery fire has increased to great violence between the Piave and Brenta valleys, particularly in the sector of Monte Grappa.

General Plummer, former commander of the British troops on the west Flanders front, where he won many brilliant successes over the Germans, was reported today to have reached the Italian front where he is helping direct the Italian defense.

British forces operating in Palestine have captured Jerusalem.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 10.—Count Czernin, Austrian foreign minister, has promised to send Austrian troops to the western front to reinforce the Germans, said a telegram from Berlin today, adding:

"The German press is jubilant."

In the meantime German troops

continue to pour into Flanders from the east.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—The capture of 200 Italian prisoners and an Italian bridgehead position at Sile, on the delta of the Piave river, was reported by the German war office today. Sile lies east of Capovale where the Piave flows into the gulf of Venice.

BERNE, Dec. 10.—Turkey and Germany have entered into an agreement by which Turkey will not pay any interest on loans to her by Germany for a period of twelve years following the war, said a dispatch from Constantinople today, by way of Vienna.

The Turkish minister of finance was given as authority for the statement.

Turkey has been financed by Germany since the beginning of the war.

If such an agreement as mentioned has been concluded it shows that Germany is making unusual concessions to Turkey in the evident fear that Turkey will drop out of the war.
