FARM SURVEY TO BE LAUNCHED HERE FORTHWITH

PURPOSE IS TO ASCERTAIN SUPPLY AND NEED FOR LABOR, SEED, ETC.

QUESTIONNAIRE GOES OUT IN COUNTRY THROUGH SCHOOLS AND FARM BUREAU UNDER AUTHORITY OF STATE AND NATION

Under the joint auspices of the public school system, extension division of the state university and the United States department of agriculture, and in accordance with a resolution adopted at the recent meeting of the state farm bureau at Gooding, arrangements are being made to take a survey at once that will give an estimate of the labor needed during the coming season and a statement of crop acreage, live stock, seed and other farm supplies wanted or for sale.

Plan of Organization
Blanks for this purpose have been received in this county by County Agent Donald McLean, who with W. F. Alworth, president of the farm bureau, and A. Butler, labor member of the farm bureau executive committee, is taking the initiative in the matter. The co-operation of the county council of defense and of the county superintendent's office has been enlisted in the undertaking.

In the larger districts, the work of taking the census will devolve upon farm bureau district chairmen and their assistants, while in some other districts the survey will be made through the schools.

The purpose of the survey is to ascertain accurately the resources and requirements of the agricultural industry. For some time past such a survey has been contemplated by the United States department of agriculture in order that the problems of agricultural production may be met during the coming year.

Pursuant to suggestion of the national council of defense, the state of New York, and the results were pronounced highly satisfactory.

Each Farm Benefit
In order that the survey may be made of most use to the farmers, it is proposed to take it as soon as possible, and the director of the state university extension department has suggested that the first week in March be given over to this work.

In order to make the survey uniform throughout the several states, a committee representing several different bureaus of the department of agriculture drew up a questionnaire which has been adopted for use in this state.

Where Data Goes
As soon as the information collected on the questionnaires from the farm bureau committee and the schools is returned, a number of clerks, bookkeepers and others will tabulate their services will be not to work making out a summary for the county. County summaries will be transmitted to the state headquarters, where a summary for the state will be made and ultimately all of the information collected will be gathered in the office of the department of agriculture office of farm management.

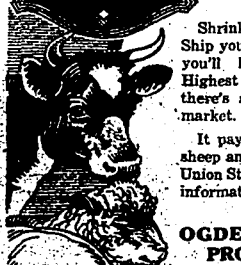

The state summaries will be made available to every agency in the state engaged in war emergency work. The individual farm summaries, retained in the office of the county agent will show what farmers have various kinds of live stock and crop seeds for sale and what farmers wish to buy.

NOTICE
All persons driving or operating automobiles on the public highways in Twin Falls county must make application for license before March 1st. Sheriff, deputies, constables, police, game wardens and deputies are authorized to enforce the automobile law and make arrests for any violations thereof.

You can avoid any trouble and extra expense by acting promptly.

FOOD CONSERVATION RULES IN LUNCHEON HELD AT CHURCH ON WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Guests Are Seated at Twelve Tables Decorated Symbolical of Months of the Year—Demonstrate Possibilities of Wartime Feasts

The ladies of the Presbyterian church celebrated Washington's birthday with a delightful birthday luncheon in the spacious rooms on the first floor of the church. The twelve tables arranged to receive the guests and each presided over by two hostesses, represented the months of the year, and the beautiful and artistic decorations were symbolic of the month represented. The place cards were so arranged that each guest was seated at the table of her birth month. As an offering to the treasury of the Ladies' Aid society, every guest left at her plate an envelope containing one cent for each year of her age. The two course luncheon was delicious and entirely in keeping with the principles of the food administration. The whole affair, indeed, was so planned as to demonstrate how artistic and wholly delightful a wartime party may be made.

After the serving of the luncheon the following responses to toasts were given, Mrs. W. E. Nixon acting as toast mistress:

"Camouflage," Mrs. K. Packard; "Our Valley Forge," Mrs. A. Gamble; "Our Little Heart," Mrs. J. Irving; "The Red, White and Blue," Mrs. F. W. McRoberts; Mrs. H. Schurmer gave a reading, "Corporal Dick's Promotion," and responded to the enthusiastic encore given her with "George Washington and His Hatchet." At the close of the afternoon the two hundred and twenty-five guests joined in singing "America."

GIVES UP ATTEMPT TO DETERMINE AGE

Jury Fails to Reach Verdict in Trial of Walter Raleigh, Alleged Black-Whit, Convicted Here

Walter Raleigh, tried in the United States district court in Boise Thursday for failure to register, made a statement to the jury that he was tried and convicted of burglary in Twin Falls in 1914 he was advised by his attorney to give his age as young as possible and consequently he gave his age as 23 years when he was in reality nearly 32. He was placed under arrest for failure to register, but the records at the state penitentiary showed him to be younger than he represented himself. He now claims his age as 33 years.

The jury, seated in a quinary over these points practically all day, finally gave up, failing to reach a verdict. He was ordered dismissed by the court.

COUNCIL OF DEFENSE ORGANIZES FOR DRIVES

Outlines Plan to Secure Through and Systematic Campaigns for War Funds

Following the formation of the fighting forces at the front the committee will be divided into sectors, each sector being a school district whenever possible, at the head of each sector will be a captain who will select two lieutenants to assist him in organizing the work.

Each captain will be provided with a complete card index system giving particulars as to the war work activities of everyone in his sector. Every individual will be listed as to his Liberty loan purchases, Red Cross and C. A. contributions and other activities.

OFFICERS AFFIX SIGNATURES TO WATER BONDS

INSTRUMENTS ARE NOW LEGAL OBLIGATIONS OF THE CITY

CONTRACTS FOR MATERIALS AND CONSTRUCTION WHICH IS NECESSARY TO BE ENTERED INTO WHEN BUYERS MAKE PAYMENT

Affixing of the signatures of city officials to the bonds received Friday from the printers made these instruments legal obligations of the municipality in the sum of $375,000 for the purpose of improving and extending the city waterworks system as provided in plans and specifications of the engineers, Burns & McDonnell of Kansas City, and authorized by vote at a bond election on January 31.

The bonds are issued each in the sum of $1000, bearing 40 coupons representing interest payments at the rate of six percent per annum, giving each coupon a value of $100. The first interest payment becomes due on July 1, 1918, and successive interest payments become due thereafter semi-annually.

Under the terms of issuance the city has the right to pay off all the indebtedness after ten years from date of sale, or it may extend the payments over 20 years.

Net receipts from the operation of the system, it is estimated, will be sufficient to defray the interest payments and substantially reduce the principal. Receipts during the first year under municipal ownership, April 1, 1917, were $48,000, and the income from this source it is estimated, will be from $2000 to $3000 greater this year.

The bonds are to be delivered to the order of the purchasers, Sidney Spitz & Company of Toledo, who secured the entire issue on their bid of par and premium of $100. This is to be done as soon as the approval of Judge Woods of Chicago, upon the bond proceedings, is received, and contracts for materials and construction are to be let in order to permit of beginning operations this spring.

Mayor Bracken has indicated that contracts for materials and construction will be made separately.

Signatures of Mayor Bracken, City Treasurer H. E. Hounie, and City Clerk W. A. Minnick, each being affixed to the bonds. Mayor Bracken completed the task of signing his name 375 times in about two hours, time Saturday night. The city treasurer, who was relieved of the necessity for signing each coupon by reason of the use of his printed facsimile signature, finished a similar work in a similar time. The city clerk, who was required to sign each bond twice, took twice as long for the work.

Weather Bureau Report for January Shows Average Depth With High Water Content

Report of the weather bureau for the month of January relative to snow on the upper Snake river drainage area says in the western and central divisions of the Mindokla national forest there is little drifting; in the central division there is an average depth of snow with heavy drifts, well packed. The water content in all sections is above the average. The snowfall throughout the Targee national forest, reported through the St. Anthony station, is about normal. The depth ranges from 14 inches with the foot to 72 inches on the high mountain ranges. The snow is well packed with but few drifts, and no slides have been reported.

MAKES LUCKY STRIKE IN FOSSIL OIL WELL

FIRST BORE ON THE W. T. WOOD PROPERTY IS PRONOUNCED THE BEST IN THE FIELD

Claims Adjoin the Holdings of Local Investors Who Are Pushing Development Work With Standard Drill Rig—Welcome News Here

The best well in the Fossil, Wyoming, oil field, is declared to have resulted in the bore known as Wood well No. 1. The well, owned by the Wood Oil & Development company, of which W. T. Wood, formerly of Twin Falls, is a principal owner and secretary and general manager, was drilled by the Standard Oil Company of the Idaho-Wyoming Oil company in which local investors are heavily interested. Mr. Wood is secretary also of the Wood Oil & Development company. The first of the year he has made his home in Kemmerer in order that he may be nearer to his oil interests. He retains his interests in the Diamond Hardware company here, and expects to return here from time to time as occasion demands.

Following is the account of the drilling on the Wood property as given by the Kemmerer Republican of February 22:

Splendid showing is made in Wood well No. 1, in the Fossil field, according to report yesterday. At 550 feet the hole had gone through the cap rock into the sands, and is now making both oil and gas. All who have seen the showing declare this to be the best well ever drilled in that field, and much enthusiasm is resulting. A few more feet more drilling will bring it in, it is said.

A large quantity of oil has been bled from the hole, which flows as rapidly as the oil is taken out. Several oil men have visited the new well, including W. St. Hilary, who declares it should be at least a 20-barrel producer. The Wood Oil & Development is as yet undetermined as to its next move, but may continue the next month, hoping to secure an even greater result.

Other advice from Kemmerer is that the third successful well on the Idaho field, which has been completed, and that a standard drilling rig capable of drilling to a depth of over 4000 feet, is in operation on the ground. Within the next 40 days, it is stated, there will be 40 rigs in operation in the Fossil field.

WE MUST KILL GERMANS

THE SOONER the American people realize that they are at war with the German nation, the better it will be for them. This talk about being at war with the German government as distinguished from the German people is all hosh!

It was a popular cry at the beginning of the war. Even President Wilson seemed to have fallen before the deception.

It is not the Kaiser alone who must be killed.

It is not the German War Lords only who must suffer for the curse they have inflicted upon humanity.

Germany—the German people—must toil in abject poverty to meet the huge indemnities they must pay to Belgium and to France and to Serbia and to Rumania, for their unholy ravages.

America will accept none of the gold wrung from the distress of a vanquished German people. It wants none.

But it will insist that the German people know the anguish, the distress and sorrow which they have ruthlessly sown throughout the world.

No! The "Potsdam gang" will not suffice. We must kill Germans!

Germans have killed Americans.

It is the hand of the German people that has taken American womanhood, and innocent babes, and in mid-ocean forced their heads relentlessly beneath the silencing waves.

It is the hand of that same German people that has abandoned non-combatant Americans lies from refuge, after sinking their vessels.

It is the hand of that same German people that destroyed the Lusitania and later the Tuscania.

It was the same remorseless hand that ravished the women and young girls of Belgium and devastated their homes.

It was the same hand that plied the same terrible business in northern France, in Serbia, Rumania, and elsewhere.

It is the same hand that cuts the throats of American sentries.

We are going to make that hand which commits these outrages toil at the plow, toil in the factory, and toil everywhere in Germany—toil in poverty, toil in distress, toil without profit, toil until wearied, only to still toil on, and on, until the desire to outrage and destroy and conquer is crushed from it altogether.

And to do this we must kill Germans—not merely handfuls of Germans, but thousands, and—God forbid!—possibly millions of Germans. We must send the flower of their youth and the best of their manhood back to them battered and wrecked.

Why must we treat the German people in this manner?

Is it only because the Germans have killed and are going to kill Americans?

Is it but to make the Germans accept our form of government?

It is neither of these. We recognize the God-given right of the German people to govern themselves as they see fit—or to be governed by their Kaiser or War Lords as they choose.

But the German people are going to be taught that God also gave to other peoples the right of self-government and the right to adjust their internal affairs according to their own dictates.

This, then, is why we must kill Germans. The securing of this privilege, and the worldwide recognition of this principle once and for all time, is our reason for unsheathing the sword. Our forefathers shed their blood on Bunker Hill for that cause. We are prepared to consecrate the fields of France with our own blood in defense of exiled Belgium—to establish the right of the weak to live!

To know the spirit of Germany is to know that we must kill Germans.

The German people are afflicted with the same disease that has become so chronic with the "Potsdam gang." For years and years their children have had it drilled into them at their schools at their universities, and the youth, in their military establishments. Sermons have been preached on the texts: "The Mission of Germany," "World Power or Downfall," "The Worship of Power," "War as a part of the Divine Order," "War as the Sole Arbitrator," "Dispossessing the Conquered," "The Coming War," "The Program of Annexations," etc., without end.

Pastor W. Lehmann had this to say in a sermon preached on August ninth, nineteen hundred fifteen, in a church dedicated to the purposes of God Almighty. Read it—it speaks for itself:

Germany is now about to become, mentally and morally, the most unclean in the world. The German nation is the sum of hatred, science, intelligence, morality, and religion, in the entire domain of the human race.

life. . . . The world shall once again be healed by the German spirit; that shall be no empty phrase for us. All the good things—courage, patriotism, faithfulness, moral purity, conscience, the sense of duty, activity on a moral basis, inward riches, intellect, industry, and so forth—no other nation possesses all these things in such high perfection as we do. And because it is so, because Germany is the leader in the entire domain of intellect, character and soul—and in the end the world's judgment depends on these—because Germany is thus more and more becoming the center of the world, therefore our neighbors look upon it with awe and with envy. Thus this war is a war of envy and jealousy of Germany's leadership. It is a fight of hounds against a noble quarry."

Pastor J. Rump, Kriegsbetstunden, in nineteen hundred fourteen, was even more intolerant in speaking of the "Mission of Germany in the World." He said:

"Take heed that ye be counted amongst the blessed, who show declining England, corrupt Belgium, licentious France, untruth Russia, the unconquerable youthful power and manhood of the German people in a manner never to be forgotten. . . . Brethren, make an end of this generation of vipers with German blows and German thrusts."

Then, here is a translation of a portion of a poem by Fritz Phillippi, widely circulated throughout Germany:

"We have become a nation of wrath; we think only of the war. . . . We execute God Almighty's will, and the justice of His justice we will fulfill, combined with the rage, in vengeance upon the ungodly. God calls us to murderous battles, even if worlds should thereby fall to ruins. . . . We are woven together like the chattering lark; of war we flame about like the lightning. Like gardens of roses our wounds blossom at the gate of Heaven. We thank Thee, Lord God. Thy wrathful call obliterates our sinful nature; with Thine iron rod we smite all our enemies in the face."

The next quotation is by a member of the "Potsdam gang." It is really unnecessary to invade that select circle to find an expression of the German people, but the Kaiser has put the spirit of the German people so precisely that his language here is given:

"Our German Fatherland, (to) which I hope it will be granted, through the harmonious co-operation of princes and peoples, of its armies and its citizens, to become in the future as closely united, as powerful, and as authoritative as once the Roman world-empire was, and that, just as in the old times they said 'Ovis romanus sum,' hereafter, at some time in the future, they will say, 'I am a German citizen.'"

Drunk with the thirst for power and the love of conquest!

Every German student knows his Nietzsche. His phrase, "the will to power," had been and is a catchword of many German political writers and statesmen. Really he was not a lover of Prussia and its ways, but his ethics were imbued with militarism. He preached the gospel of pride and might, and while his vivid ideas were cast in figures, there is no doubt that they had been as fuel to the militaristic flame.

Just one short quotation from this man:

Life is essentially appropriation, injury, conquest of the strange and weak, suppression, severity, obtrusion of its own forms, incorporation at the least, and in its mildest form exploitation.

Hermann Bahir, Kriegssengen, magazine writer and stage manager of the Deutsches theater in Berlin, in nineteen hundred fifteen made this contribution to German war literature:

"I am going to pronounce a blessing on this war, the blessing which is on all lips, for we Germans, no matter in what part of the world we are, all bless, bless, and bless again this world war."

Pastor B. Baumgarten, in the pamphlet series entitled "Deutsche Reden in Schwerer Zeit," regards the sinking of the Lusitania as part of the Divine Order. Not only would the Germans seize the world for their own, but they have for several years protested a monopoly on God!

Pastor Baumgarten says:

"Whoever can not prevail upon himself to approve from the bottom of his heart the sinking of the Lusitania, whoever can not conquer his sense of the gigantic cruelty to unnumbered perfectly innocent victims . . . and give himself up to honest delight at this victorious exploit of German defensive power—him we judge to be no true German."

Jungdeutschland-Post, a weekly paper for juvenile readers, carried this paragraph in nineteen hundred thirteen. Particularly noteworthy is the endeavor to instill in the minds of the German children that war is a "holy expression of human activity."

"We Germans and Christians are also taught by honor and duty that there can be no peace for the souls of the dead or the living until a conflict is settled by the victory and triumph of our arms. . . . Pagan belief and Christian faith alike teach us that we should give our lives for our brothers, for our fatherland, for our Kaiser and his empire, for the victory of our arms, in order that there may be peace for the living and rest for the dead. Therefore war is the most sublime and most holy expression of human activity."

God is inspired by Oskar A. H. Schmitz to not make the present the last war. "We must not look for permanent peace as a result of this war," writes Schmitz. "Heaven defend Germany from that!" Schmitz is an author and political writer.

These few extracts are not the sum total of German utterances that can be held up to the scorn of the spirit of America—the spirit of freedom—the spirit of a "square deal" and the spirit of "live and let live." Countless thousands of similar and even more forceful expressions can be found without effort. Those above quoted were merely selected at random.

We are at war with the German government. And we are at war with the German people. We are at war with the whole German nation.

We must kill Germans!

All the young men in the Wayside Club and a few friends, including the following: Macklin, Wayne, and others, enjoyed a picnic supper at the home of L. S. Jones Thursday evening. After a sumptuous supper they had a program. Music was furnished by Nava Jones, Mabel Dill, and others. Recitations were given by Orel Taylor, Dorothy Dryden, Margaret Strain, Laura Humphrey, Mrs. Ollie Jones and Mrs. Hammond. All joined in singing our national hymn. Mr. Hammond gave a splendid short talk in recognition of L. S. Jones, who left the next night for Mare Island. Mrs. W. H. Jones took charge of the program.

L. C. Jones and Walter Crisp both left for Mare Island. Ralph and Vernon Mandlin expect to go Monday. Maxwell left several weeks ago. This takes all of the young single men of the draft age but three. Two of these, Earl Maxwell and Ollie Jones, were rejected on physical examination, but at that Carl is still trying to go. We feel it will require the best effort of those left at home to do the work needed here.

Amos Martyn and wife returned from a six weeks visit in North Dakota, and of course Idaho is the best yet.

Herbert Lambing and family of Kimberly came down to spend the day at the A. V. Strain home Sunday.

Mrs. E. K. Neely returned home Sunday after spending two weeks at the A. O. Rutherford home.

Mrs. C. E. Maullin spent Sunday with her son Vernon and wife, of Filer. The Wayside club met in an all day session at the A. V. Strain home on Thursday. There were ten ladies present. Eight hospital suits were completed. The club ladies have bought a sewing machine to be used in the home of Mrs. Strain and thereafter sewing meetings will be held at the Strain home. The first Thursday of each month a regular program day will include knitting. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Richard Griffith on May 7. All come! If you do not have knitting stand, bring your needles.

The Sunday school class of Miss Schultz and Miss Vera Pickett, of the Methodist church, had a contest. Miss Schultz lost, so they entertained the winning class at the home of Miss Nava Jones. They came out in one auto with three autos. A fine time is reported.

A. C. Rutherford is thought to be gaining very rapidly and has been held close to twelve weeks.

A. C. Durbin and family of Kimberly neighborhood were Sunday visitors at the home of his brother-in-law, Irwin Crisp.

PROTEST LEASING LAND TO CATTLEMEN

North Side Farmers Object to Reclamation Service Proposal—Claim It Will Kill Out the Sheep Industry

HAZELTON—Mass meetings are called for Friday evening of this week to be held at Hazelton, at which time the protest of the United States reclamation service leasing a strip of land reaching from Minidoka to Sugar Loaf butte, about five fourteen miles wide, and about two and a half miles long, and thereby shutting off sheep moving from this segregation to the summer range, will be taken up. WHEN YOU HAVE A COUGH
It's when you have a severe cold that you appreciate the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Frank Crocker, Pocatello, writes: "Our five-year-old son Paul caught a severe cold last winter that settled on his lungs, and he had terrible coughing spells. We were greatly worried about him as the medicine we gave him did not help him in the least. A neighbor spoke so highly of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that I got a bottle of it. Basketball teams from 19 southern Idaho schools will participate in the second annual basketball tournament of southern Idaho, to be held in Twin Falls March 8 and 9, over 80 athletes being brought together in competition on the local floor on that occasion. Over 15 games will be played.

The stronger teams will form class A and will contend for the championship of southern Idaho and for the big cup. The weaker teams will form class B and contend for the consolation cup. The Gooding, Rupert, and Twin Falls teams are probably the strongest teams and will fight to the finish for premier honors. The tournament was first won by the Oakley academy team.

The tournament will begin Friday afternoon, March 8, and games will be played on the evening of that day and on the morning and evening of the next day.

In attendance at the tournament will be teams from Buhl, Hollister, Kimberly, Henry, Burley, Oakley, Rupert, Jerome, Wendell, Shoshone and Gooding.

TWIN FALLS BOY BECOMES OFFICER

Thomas R. Potter Wins Commission as Lieutenant at Fort Leavenworth Training Camp

Thomas R. Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Potter of Twin Falls and a graduate of high school, has completed a course of training in the provisional officers' candidate battalion at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, being commissioned as a second lieutenant and assigned to duty with the Fifteenth United States cavalry regiment stationed at Douglas, Arizona. Before reporting at his new post of duty, he will spend an 11 days furlough here.

Lieutenant Potter was for two seasons captain of the Twin Falls high school football team. As a member of D company of the Idaho regiment, he was in the service on the Mexican border in 1916 with the Twin Falls unit, being promoted during that time to the rank of corporal. Instead of returning to Idaho, he was mustered out of the service on the border and went to Washington, D. C., where he entered the Army and Navy Preparatory school. He passed examinations for admission into West Point military academy and later qualified for admission into the Fort Leavenworth training camp.

E. J. Hornbrook will hold a public sale at his farm 1 mile south and 1 mile east of Berger, on Friday, March 8, after free lunch at noon. 8 head of horses, 1 setty, 100 chickens and full farm equipment. H. B. Lue, auctioneer. Adv.

"HIS TREATMENT IS REMARKABLE," HE SAYS

CAPT. F. R. PATTY, RE-PASSENGER AGENT, NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD, CHASTANOGA, TENNESSEE, TROUBLES

Nearly everybody in Knoxville, Tennessee, especially railroad people, know Captain F. R. Patty, for twelve years district passenger agent for the Northern Pacific railroad, with local offices in Chattanooga and general offices in St. Paul, Minn.

On account of generally failing health Capt. Patty was forced to discontinue active work and for the past few years has been making his home in Knoxville, where he numbers his friends by his acquaintances. He is a tall, genial gentleman of the old school and is loved by all who know him. The following interesting statement was made by him in person to the Tanager representative.

"I am 69 years old and always enjoyed good health up to about six years ago, when I suffered a nervous breakdown and my general health gradually failed me. My principal trouble was indigestion and catarrh, but my whole system seemed to be out of shape. My condition finally got so bad I couldn't sleep at night and always after eating I would suffer so from indigestion and heart-burn that I felt just like there was a coal of fire in my stomach. My hearing and vision were also affected. I consulted several doctors here in Knoxville and other cities and they helped me considerably and I finally got so I could go around, but somehow I just couldn't feel right and could not sleep at night, which made me awfully nervous and anxious. I would not seem to be able to get any sleep."

"I began reading about this Tanager when you first came here, but did not decide to try the medicine until I talked with a friend of mine who had actually used it. He said it was the best thing he had ever taken, and that was sufficient proof for me."

"I have just finished the first bottle and came here this morning, not only to buy the second bottle, but to tell you just what it has done for me. I began enjoying my meals from the first few drops. My nervousness is gone and I can sleep like a child and always wake up in the morning ready for breakfast and feeling refreshed. I am very fond of onions, but was almost afraid to eat them, because they always disagreed with me. Now I could taste them hours afterwards. I ate one for dinner the other day and it agreed with me perfectly and I felt so bad after efforts to feel like a different man and am always going to keep this Tanager on hand. It has done me more good than anything else in the medicine line I have ever taken. I certainly do recommend it to my friends. It is really remarkable."

Tanager is sold in Twin Falls by City Pharmacy; in Bogertown by Thompson Drug Co.; in Murtaugh by Murtaugh Drug Co.; in Elletts by A. B. Woods; in Buhl by C. D. Boring Brothers Co. and in Kimberly by W. A. L. Stowe. Adv.

CUTS AND FLASHES

On Monday at the Idaho prairie Bald Bennett, Thomas H. Ince's Australian star, will make her debut in Paramount pictures. "The Keys of the Kingdom," as directed by Jerome Storm, will be the vehicle, and it is said that the cast picked to support Miss Bennett is especially good. It includes Earl Rodney, George Nichols, Josef Swickard, Carl Forme, Gertrude Claire, Lydia Knott and Melvorne MacDowell. The story is that of a girl who makes a supreme sacrifice to save her father, a weakling, for her dear mother's sake, thus gaining a strong and lovable character which wins her the love of a handsome youth.

The famous sombrero worn by William S. Hart in the three great Arctcraft pictures, "The Narrow Trail," "The Silent Man" and "Wolves of the Trail," is on its way to the fighting lines of Europe in the interest of the American Red Cross. The journey to England, France and

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—COMME EARLY—DON'T BE ONE OF THOSE WHO "COULDN'T GET IN"

In "A Modern Musketeer," the very first glimpse one gets of Doug is where he is protecting an abused female. She is one of those I-love-him-because-he-beat-me dames, but that doesn't faze Dougie. Not a tall. He wades right in and cleans out a barroom full of gangsters and thugs. And it is one of the sweetest little old "cleanings" ever staged.

In the production of this new Fairbanks picture, the company traveled into the uninhabited regions of the west in order to get scenes that have never before been presented in a photoplay. Upon conclusion of the scenes staged at the Grand Canyon of Arizona, the entire company journeyed to the Canyon. De Chelly, ninety miles from Gallup, New Mexico, making a long trip over the plains on pack mules.

BARE PHOTOGRAPHY

The principal motive for the trip to the Canyon Du Chelly was because of the cliff dwellings, inhabited three thousand years ago by a pigmy race of people. Permission to stage part of his photoplay here was given to Douglas Fairbanks by work on these sets, which will be completed by the time the company returns from the Mississippi location. Mr. DeMille and all who have read "The Whispering Chorus," say that it is one of the most unusual stories yet obtained for production at the Lasky studio.

Not satisfied with what he has already done for the Red Cross, Douglas Fairbanks, who has just cleared $18,000 at a Roletto held for the benefit of that body, has entered himself in the Red Cross Tennis Tournament soon to take place in southern California. Douglas will play against some of the most noted champions with Mary K. Brown as his partner.

BENNETT COMEDY COMING MONDAY

The title for Pauline Frederick's next Paramount release following "Mrs. Dan's Defense" is "Madame Jealousy." Eve X. Unsell made the scenario for "Madame Jealousy" from the script furnished by George V. Hottel, who wrote the story especially for Paramount. "Madame Jealousy" is announced as something absolutely new in pictures and is said to be one of the most elaborate productions in which Miss Frederick has ever starred.

3 Things to Remember

When you start to spend money for advertising

They are:

1. What you have to say--your proposition.
2. The medium--the newspaper you select.
3. THE TREATMENT.

Too many advertisers are concerned only with what they have to say and the saying of it. This is important, but—

It can be rendered worthless by the TREATMENT the printer gives it. Type has PERSONALITY.

TREATMENT attracts attention and commands respect.

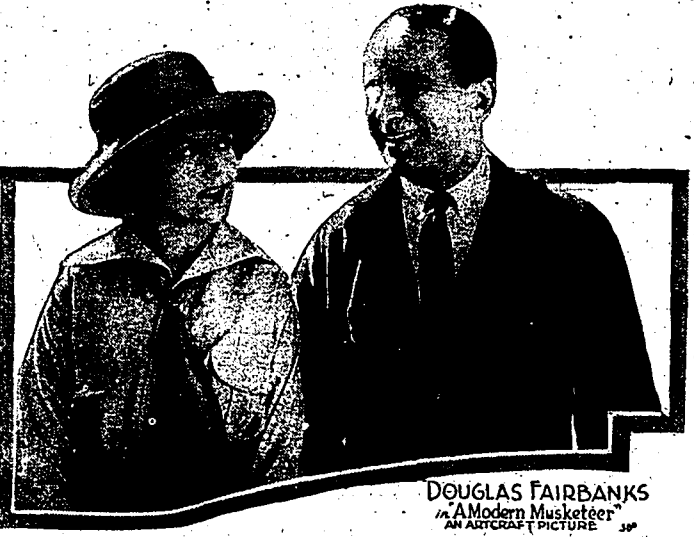

If you were employing a salesman you would be just as particular about his appearance, his bearing, his personality, as about what he was going to say to your prospective customers.

Be at least as particular about your advertisements.

The flag is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ostrander, for whose only son, Corporal Eugene E. Ostrander, it bears a star.

Strikingly impressive was the ceremony with which the service flag was revealed to the view of the audience. From behind the folds of the flag and Stipes held by four girls, at a signal at the beginning of the program, it was hoisted aloft. Principal C. E. Dowman presided at the program, which was mainly in charge of Miss Simpson, director of the boys' and girls' glee clubs, which organizations lead the singing of patriotic songs with excellent effect.

The Honor roll so far as present records show, is as follows:

Deal—Charles Girdner, and John H. Smith.

FARM QUESTIONNAIRE

The farm bureau will, during the next week, make a complete survey of the labor, seed and crop needs of every farm in the county. This is our part of a movement on the part of the government to secure accurate data on the labor and seed needs of the entire country for the next season and also a crop estimate. It is very important that everyone fill out the blanks that will be given them by one of the committee members in their district. An especial point to make this report as accurate as possible. If for any reason you are not reached by one of the committee, call up either the chairman of your district or the farm bureau office. The government is very insistent that one of these blanks be returned from every farm. Do your bit.

WHY GERMANY CAN'T WIN

(Farm and Poultry)

The Germans can never win this war. Even if the Kaiser defeats Italy; even if he defeats France; even if he makes peace with Russia and Roumania; even if he continues to have his way in the Balkans and Poland—then the Kaiser will not be in as strong a position as Napoleon once was.

And Napoleon, his armies bled white with victories, was finally defeated, and spent his last days in exile at St. Helena.

Even though the Kaiser should be victorious on land, it would be short-lived, and the spoils would have to be returned and full reparation made. Why? Simply because the United States, Great Britain and Japan can still shut the Germans from the seas. With free access to the raw material resources of the world, the whole world the allies can maintain an economic blockade of Germany until the German people will establish a people's government with which lasting peace can be made.

The United States and Great Britain will never surrender. If worse comes to worst, they will continue the war against Kaiserism on the sea and in the air until the Germans will gladly make a lasting peace.

But the Kaiser hasn't defeated Italy. He hasn't defeated France. The allies are getting stronger every day as the United States throws her gigantic weight in man power and resources against the Kaiser, while the Germans were at their zenith in the opening days of the war three and one-half years ago and are getting just that much weaker every day.

The same thing that defeated Napoleon will defeat the Kaiser. What? Sea power. No, the Germans can never win this war.

SEIZURE OF HOUSEWIVES' FOOD STOCKS IMPOSSIBLE

The government has never considered any plan of seizing foodstuffs owned by housewives. Nor is there any policy of this kind suggested for the future.

In spite of this fact, the United States food administration has been repeatedly obliged to issue official denials of rumors that the government intends commandeering groceries and canned goods put up in American homes.

These rumors were originated partly by pro-German propagandists and partly by conscientious objectors, who sought to profit through buying from misinformed housewives.

The year 1918 will see home canning and preserving practice on greater scale than ever before in the nation's history, officials in Washington believe. And they are assuring all patriots housewives that foods so saved are theirs, and theirs alone.

THIS SEASON NO BREED SHOULD GO UNTESTED

Food and Labor Shortage and Failure of Much Grain to Mature Make Matter Unusually Important

Do not buy, sell, or plant untested seed this season. Find out if it will grow. Germination tests can be made at home or at the local school. Because of an adverse season followed by a hard freeze early in October, much grain produced in 1917 failed to mature sufficiently to make good seed. We can less afford to risk the planting of poor seed than ever before. Rising poor crops or even replanting because of low grade seed will not relieve the food or labor shortage.

Good seed can be had if the proper effort is made at once to get it. A surplus of seed was produced in some localities, and some farmers still hold 1915 and 1916 seed that is satisfactory for planting. A seed survey is being conducted by the farm bureau to locate all the good seed for sale in Idaho. A list of farmers and seed dealers having seed to sell has just been issued and may be obtained from the state seed committee or the county agent.

ORDER FOREIGN KILLING HENS

From February 11 to April 30, Egg Producing Hens Are Protected by Government Ban

Local meat dealers received word recently that no more poultry would be killed at this time. This is in obedience to an order issued by the national food administration, forbidding the sale and shipment of freshly killed hens and pullets from February 11 to April 30. The object of the order is to increase egg production during the hatching season and encourage the raising of poultry. All producers of poultry and dealers in this line are to be governed by the ruling.

SAVE THE HENS

Every pullet and young hen sold for food this winter means a reduction of from five to twelve dozen eggs in the potential egg supply of next spring and summer.

Hundreds of thousands of farmers who have not raised poultry will do so next spring and summer—responding to the demand for more chickens and eggs so that beef and pork will be released to help win the war. They will need young hens.

The United States department of agriculture, urges the saving of fowls of producing qualities, so that they may be used for stock in the early spring.

EARLY HATCHED CHICKENS STRONGER

The early hatched chickens are not only the chickens that lay the winter egg but it is also the chickens best able to withstand disease and parasites.

It is in the midsummer months that chickens are hurt most by lice. The late hatched chickens have not had time to become large or strong enough to resist lice attacks, but the early hatched chickens by mid-summer, has become strong and sturdy enough to do so, because the early development of the early hatched bird has proceeded the extremely hot months, it is more apt to live through the summer.

MAKING ENTAILAGE FROM POTATOES

Utilization of Small Spuds in Feeding (Dr. H. E. Horton, Agriculturalist, American Steel & Wire Co.)

For generations Denmark, the home of efficient bacon production, has made large use of potatoes, and shown us the way to use this food to our great advantage. A way to keep potatoes over the year has stood in the way of developing this valuable food. In very recent time Dr. Round, of the United States department of agriculture, has worked out a method of preserving potatoes in the form of silage. This discovery is of tremendous importance, for it will stock up northern and western farms and steady the marketing of the potato crop.

Under normal conditions ten to twelve million bushels of potatoes are lost by rotting, and in exceptional years this amount easily may reach 50,000,000 bushels. This year large quantities of potatoes were frozen in the ground. Facilities for making potato ensilage would prevent large losses of this kind. The successful making of potato ensilage hinges on the use of an organism of microscopic size known as the lactic acid organism. Clean ground potatoes, inoculated with this organism, furnish a sure means of saving the potato and producing a palatable, nutritive ensilage which may be fed to the hogs and cattle to advantage.

In the following will be found Dr. Round's description of the preparation of the lactic acid organism and the making of potato ensilage.

The lactic acid organism is prepared by fermenting corn meal. If equal parts by weight of corn meal and water, at 100 degrees Fahrenheit, are thoroughly mixed, and then packed and stamped into a perfectly clean, water-tight receptacle, such as a glass jar, crock or barrel and set in a warm place, in forty-eight hours the corn meal will have undergone a lactic acid fermentation and will contain enormous numbers of lactic acid organisms in practically pure culture. The surface of this meal, after it is stamped into the water-tight receptacle, should be covered as tightly as possible with heavy and a wet cloth—both absolutely clean—in order to keep away as much of the air as possible. This type of starter should be used as soon as it becomes sour to the taste. If kept at a temperature between 80 degrees and 90 degrees Fahrenheit, it is ready for use in about two or three days.

In our work the potatoes after grinding are put immediately into water-tight receptacles, such as barrels, tanks, or large vats, along with about 2 per cent of corn meal sprinkled in among the potatoes. The mixture is then stamped down, covered to a depth of several inches with straw, corn stalks, or leaves, and then fitted with a board cover, which is weighted down with stones.

An air-tight covering is necessary to prevent decomposition on the surface of the fermenting material. The weight of the stones should be sufficient to bring the juice just over the potatoes, but it is desirable to keep the upper surface of the straw and the board covering dry, if possible. This can be accomplished by the proper adjustment of the stones.

In our work in which the covering is adjusted in this manner, there is no loss whatever of the fermented potatoes. Fermentation begins at once and if the weather is warm, gas bubbles appear within 24 hours and for some days considerable pressure is developed, which necessitates the addition of very heavy weights to hold the potatoes down.

After a few days the gas formation slows down and the mass settles somewhat, but the fermentation is not complete until the end of the third week or longer, depending on the temperature. In warm weather the fermentation is complete in ten days.

Summary

1. The use of 2 per cent to 5 per cent of corn meal mixed with crushed potatoes insures an acid fermentation which converts the potatoes into silage.

2. This work may be done upon any scale. If reasonable care is used, losses should be negligible.

3. The potatoes should first be washed, and then crushed by passing them through an apple grater which has been modified by substituting rows of blunt spikes for the grater knives.

4. The fermentation requires a tight receptacle which may be a barrel, a vat, a pit, or a silo, but must retain the potatoes.

5. The upper surface of the crushed potato should first be covered to a depth of several inches with an absorbent fibrous substance such as straw, corn stalks or leaves, then closely fitted with a wooden cover weighted down by stones until the surface of the potatoes is barely covered by juice. The top of the straw and of the board cover should be kept dry.

6. Fermentation begins at once. With the evolution of gas, considerable pressure develops which should be controlled by extra weights. After a few days this pressure disappears. Acid fermentation continues, however, for two or

Doing Our Part

Did you ever notice the difference between the size of a crowd in a town Saturday afternoon and other days of the week?

The telephone company is now serving a "Saturday afternoon crowd" every day.

Since the war began the business activity of the country has been expanding with abnormal rapidity. This has required constantly more and more telephone service for the business houses.

Complete telephone systems have been built and are maintained at more than fifty training camps over the country. This has taken a tremendous amount of equipment and the services of a large number of skilled telephone men.

Many of our men are constantly engaged in installing and maintaining the equipment used only by the Government in this country.

In addition to this, our Government needed skilled telephone men in the prosecution of the war, and these could be furnished only by the telephone companies of this country.

In spite of the war and what it has meant to this company in the increased number of telephone men needed to handle the enlistment of so many of our trained men, the shortage of equipment and the high cost of materials—

In spite of all these obstacles, we are meeting the needs of the public for telephone service in a remarkably successful way.

CHAPTER II.

Slitly to Rest Billie.

Our billet was a spacious annular, a large barn on the left side of the road, which had one hundred entrances, one for each shell, rat, and mouse, and the hundredth one for Tommy. I was tired out, and using my shrapnel-proof helmet (shrapnel proof until a piece of shrapnel hit it), or tin hat, for a pillow, lay down in the straw, and went soon fast asleep. I must have slept about two hours, when I awoke with a prickling sensation all over me. As I thought, the straw had worked through my uniform. I woke up the fellow lying on my left, who had been up the line before, and asked him:

"Does the straw bother you, mate? It's worked through my uniform and I can't sleep."

In a sleepy voice he answered, "That ain't straw, them's cooties." From that time on my friends the "cooties" were constantly with me. "Cooties," or body lice, are the bane of Tommy's existence.

The aristocracy of the trenches very seldom call them "cooties," they speak of them as fleas.

To an American flea means a small insect armed with a bayonet, who won't let you into your hole and then hop and jump to the next place to be attacked. There is an advantage in having fleas on you instead of "cooties" in that in one of his extended jumps a flea is liable to land on the fellow next to you; he has the typical energy and push of the American, while the "cooties" has the bulldog tenacity of the Englishman; he holds on and consolidates or digs in until he is killed.

There is no way to get rid of them permanently. No matter how often you bathe, and that is not very often, or how many times you change your underwear, your friends the "cooties" are always in evidence. The billets are infested with them, especially so if there is straw on the floor.

I have taken a bath and put on brand-new underwear. In fact, complete change of uniform, and then turned in for the night. The next morning my shirt would be full of them. It is a common sight to see eight or ten soldiers sitting under a tree with their shirts over their knees engaging in a "shirt hunt."

At night about half an hour before "lights out," you can see the Tommies grouped around a candle, trying, in its dim light, to take their underwear of the vermin. A very quick method is to take your shirt and drawers, and run the seams back and forward in the flame from a candle and burn them out. This practice is dangerous, because you are liable to burn holes in the garments if you are not careful.

Recruits generally sent to Eighty for a brand of insect powder advertised as "Good for body lice." The advertisement is quite right; the powder is good for "cooties"; they simply thrive on it.

The older men of our battalion were wiser and made scratches out of wood. These were rubbed smooth with a bit of stone or sand to prevent splinters. They were about eighteen inches long, and Tommy guaranteed that a scratcher of this length will reach any part of the body which may be attacked. Some of the fellows were lazy and only made their scratchers twelve inches, but many a night when on guard, looking over the top from the fire step of the front-line trench, they would have given a thousand "quid" for the other six inches.

Once while we were in rest billets an Irish Hussar regiment camped in an open field opposite our billet. After they had picked and fed their horses a general shirt hunt took place. The troopers ignored the call "Dinner up," and kept on with their search for big game. They had a curious method of procedure. They hung their shirts over a hedge and bent over with their scratching tool handles.

I asked one of them why they didn't pick them off by hand, and he answered, "We haven't had a bath for nine weeks or a change of clothes. If I tried to pick the 'cooties' off my shirt, I would be here for duration of war." After taking a close look at his shirt, I agreed with him; it was alive.

The greatest shock a recruit gets when he arrives at his battalion in France is to see the men engaging in a "cootie" hunt. With an air of contempt and disgust he avoids the company of the older men, until a couple of days later, in a torment of itching, he has to go to bed with a shirt hunt. He spends many a sleepless night of misery. During these hunts there are lots of pertinent remarks bandied back and forth among the explorers, such as, "May, Bill, I'll swap you two little ones for my big one." "No, I'll swap one of mine for that looks like Kaiser's."

We rommies were lucky, we had no books, so had both eyes on the airplane.

After church parade we were marched back to our billets, and played football all afternoon.

CHAPTER IV.

"Into the Trench."

The next morning the draft was inspected by our general, and we were assigned to different companies. The boys in the brigade had nicknamed this general Old Pepper, and he certainly earned the sobriquet. I was assigned to E company with another American named Stewart.

For the next ten days we "rested," repairing roads for the Frenches, drilling, and digging bombing trenches.

One morning we were informed that we were going up the line, and our march began.

It took us three days to reach reserve billets—each day's march bringing the sound of the guns nearer and nearer. At night, way off in the distance we could see their flashes, which lighted up the sky with a red glare.

Against the horizon we could see numerous observation balloons or "saucers" as they are called.

On the afternoon of the third day's march I witnessed my first airplane being shelled. A thrill ran through me and I gasped in awe. The airplane was making wide circles in the air, while little puffs of white smoke were bursting all around it. These puffs appeared like tiny balls of cotton wool after each burst could be heard a dull "plop."

The sergeant of my platoon informed us that it was a German airplane and I wondered how he could tell from such a distance because the plane seemed like a little black speck in the sky. I expressed my doubt as to whether it was English, French or German. With a look of contempt he further informed us that the allied anti-aircraft shells when exploding emitted white smoke while the German shells gave forth black smoke, and as he expressed it, "It must be an Allemand because our pom-poms are shelling, and I know our batteries are not of their bulky nature and are certainly not strewn on our own planes, and another piece of advice—don't chuck your weight about until you've been up the line and learnt something."

I immediately quit "chucking my weight about" from that time on. Just before reaching reserve billets we were marching along, laughing, and singing one of Tommy's trench ditties:

"I looked up outside with rifles and bayonets, 120 rounds of ammunition, wearing our tin hats, and the march to church began. After marching about five miles, we turned off the road into an open field. At one end of this field the chaplain was standing in a timber. We formed a semicircle around him. Overhead there was a black speck circling round and round in the sky. This was a German Fokker. The chaplain had a book in his left hand—left eye on the book—right eye on the airplane."

"I answered, 'Yep.' In an angry tone, he commanded, 'Don't you 'yep' me. Say, 'Yes, sergeant major.'"

"I did so. Somewhat mollified, he ordered, 'Outside for church parade.'"

"I looked up and answered, 'I am not going to church this morning.'"

He said, "Oh, yes, you are!"

I answered, "Oh, no, I'm not!"—But I went.

We lined up outside with rifles and bayonets, 120 rounds of ammunition, wearing our tin hats, and the march to church began. After marching about five miles, we turned off the road into an open field. At one end of this field the chaplain was standing in a timber. We formed a semicircle around him. Overhead there was a black speck circling round and round in the sky. This was a German Fokker. The chaplain had a book in his left hand—left eye on the book—right eye on the airplane."

"I answered, 'Yep.' In an angry tone, he commanded, 'Don't you 'yep' me. Say, 'Yes, sergeant major.'"

"I did so. Somewhat mollified, he ordered, 'Outside for church parade.'"

"I looked up and answered, 'I am not going to church this morning.'"

He said, "Oh, yes, you are!"

I answered, "Oh, no, I'm not!"—But I went.

I want to go home! I want to go home! I don't want to go to the trenches no more. I want to go home. Where saucers and white-bangs are gone.

Take me over the sea. Where the Allemand can't get at me. Oh, my, I don't want to die. I want to go home.

When overhead came a "swish" through the air, rapidly followed by three others. Then about two hundred yards to our left in a large field, four columns of black earth and smoke rose into the air, and the ground trembled from the report—the explosion of four German five-nine's, or "coalboxes." A sharp whistle blast, immediately followed by two short ones, rang from the head of our column. This was to take up of our column. We divided into small squads and went into the fields on the right and left of this road, and crouched on the ground. No other shells followed this salvo. It was our first baptism by shell fire. From the wait up I was all enthusiasm, but from there down, everything was missing. I thought I should die with fright.

After awhile, we reformed into columns of four, and proceeded on our way.

About five that night, we reached the ruined village of H—, and I got my first sight of the awful destruction caused by German Kultur.

Marching down the main street we came to the heart of the village. The town took up quarters in shellproof cellars (shellproof until hit by a shell). Shells were constantly whistling over the village and bursting in our rear, searching for our artillery.

These cellars were cold, damp and smelly, and overrun with large rats—black fellows. Most of the Tommies slept with their overcoats over their faces. I did not. In the middle of the night I woke up in terror. The cold, clammy feet of a rat had passed over my face. I immediately smothered myself in my overcoat, but could not sleep for the rest of the night.

Next morning we took over our sector of the line. In single file we wended our way through a zigzag communication trench, six inches deep with mud. This trench was called "Whispering street" on our way up the front line an occasional flare of bursting shrapnel would light up the sky and we could hear the fragments slapping the ground above us on our right and left. Then a Fritz would traverse back and forth with his "typewriter" or machine gun. The bullets made a sharp crackling noise overhead.

The boy in front of me named Prentice crumpled up without a word. A piece of shell had gone through his shrapnel-proof helmet. I felt sick and weak.

In about thirty minutes we reached the front line. It was dark as pitch. Every now and then a German star shell would pierce the blackness out in front with its silvery light. I was trembling all over, and felt very lonely and afraid. All orders were given in whispers. The company we relieved filed past us and disappeared into the blackness of the communication trench leading to the rear. As they passed us, they whispered, "The best o' luck mates."

I sat on the fire step of the trench with the rest of the men. In each traverse two of the older men had been put on guard with their heads sticking over the top, and with their eyes trying to pierce the blackness in "No Man's Land." In this trench there were only two dugouts, and these were used by Lewis and Vickers machine gunners, so it was the fire step for ours. Pretty soon it started to rain. We put on our "macks," but they were not much protection. The rain trickled down our backs, and it was not long before we were wet and cold. How I passed that night I will never know, but without any unusual occurrence, dawn arrived.

The word "stand down" was passed along the line, and the sentries got down off the fire step. Pretty soon the rum issue came along, and it was a Godsend. It warmed our chilled bodies and put new life into us. Then from the communication trenches came dixies or iron pots, filled with steaming tea, which the two wooden states through their handles, and were carried by two men. I filled my canteen and drank the hot tea without taking it from my lips. It was not long before I was asleep in the mud on the fire step.

My ambition had been attained! I was in a front-line trench on the western front, and oh, how I wished I were back in Jersey City.

CLUB MAKES INTERIM CHOICE OF PRESIDENT

MRS. C. J. SCHROEDER IS UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF TWENTIETH CENTURY MEMBERS

Nominating Committee for General Election Selected--Annual Breakfast to be Patriotic Affair--War Time Foods Demonstrated.

By unanimous vote of the Twentieth Century club expressed at an election on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. C. J. Schroeder was chosen president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. J. L. Cookley resigned.

The general election of the club will take place on April 2, and a nominating committee composed of Mrs. Braden, Mrs. Aiken, Mrs. Kautz, Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Sweet was elected at the Tuesday meeting to select candidates.

The club decided to give the annual breakfast at the close of the club year making it a patriotic war-time breakfast.

In expression of appreciation for the services for the war emergency benefit fund, the privileges of membership were extended to Mrs. Herman Schlegel and Mrs. Mollie Kautz, and a vote of thanks was extended to Twin Falls newspaper.

The meeting convened with Miss Jane Maxwell, second vice-president, presiding, and Mrs. M. J. Sweet, president of the state federation of women's clubs, occupying a seat of honor beside the chairman.

Following the business session, Mrs. Aiken, chairman of the afternoon's program, proved her ability in providing a most practical and interesting program. Miss Young, domestic science teacher of the high school, read an excellent paper on the food values of various grains and demonstrated war breads, while Mrs. E. J. Osterander and Mrs. Aiken demonstrated war cakes and breads, substituting corn and all war foods were served to the club members and their guests.

GETS DEMONSTRATION DEHYDRATION UNIT

METHOD OF FRUIT AND VEGETABLE PRESERVATION IS BE EXPLAINED

Purpose Is to Secure Establishment of Plant in Twin Falls--Local Business Men and Farmers Interested by Manufacturers' Representative

A unit of the apparatus used in the Luther process of dehydrating fruits and vegetables was received here Tuesday by H. M. Read of Walla Walla, representative of the inventor and manufacturer, who recently has brought the process to the attention of local business men and farmers with a view to securing the establishment of a dehydration plant in Twin Falls.

The apparatus will be installed in the Herriott building on Second street west where demonstrations will be made daily for several days. An invitation is extended to everyone interested in methods of preserving perishable food-stuffs to attend and witness these demonstrations.

The inventor of the process, W. M. Luther of Walla Walla, has been invited by Mr. Read to come to Twin Falls to meet with local people and explain the process and its advantages. Not only are fruits and vegetables most successfully preserved by the Luther process, Mr. Read states in displaying samples of the treated products, but recently it has been discovered that meats can be dehydrated to permit of shipment without refrigeration, and to keep indefinitely. Inquiry of the government directed the investigations of the inventor in this direction. On learning of the success of the experiments, the government agents advised that they were prepared to let large contracts for dehydrated meat. The plant at Walla Walla was unable to supply the demand.

An excellent lunch was served by the ladies of the community at noon. M. J. W. E. Alworth spoke of the plans of the farm bureau for the coming year, laying particular stress upon collective efforts in all lines, especially in the labor bureau.

Miss Britton-Walker spoke of the beauty co-operation of the entire district with the school board and instructors. She urged that suggestions for any changes be brought directly to them in control in the district.

Mrs. E. H. Schindler of Filer spoke of the work of the Junior Red Cross and referring to the service flag presented to the district pointed out the work of those remaining at home to provide for those represented on that flag.

Miss Amy Kelly of the extension department spoke of the work of the women county agent.
