FORMER TWIN FALLS GIRL IS WEDDING BRIDE

Miss Mae Jones and Clifford E. Hauenstein of Denver Wedded at Long Beach

LONG BEACH, Cal.—A wedding of considerable interest in Twin Falls was solemnized Friday evening, March 1, when Miss Mae Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Jones, formerly of Twin Falls, and Clifford E. Hauenstein of Denver, Colorado, were married in the beautiful new home of the bride's parents in Long Beach. The Rev. Henry Kendall Booth officiated.

Mr. Hauenstein is a member of the army aviation corps, stationed at San Diego, California. He was allowed only a five days' furlough, and the marriage, which was planned for later in the year, was suddenly decided upon. The large living room was beautifully decorated with ropes of smilax twined with Cecil Brunner rose buds. The ceremony took place under a canopy of smilax and rose buds, from which was suspended a large wedding bell of white rose buds. The couple stood against a background of flags.

Sergeant James Hauenstein, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride's sister, Mrs. George L. McLean, was matron of honor, and little Lela McGinn was ringbearer, carrying the ring imbedded in a big white rose.

The bride was daintily gowned in white mousseline de soir over a beautiful white slip made for her by Mrs. Harry Alexander. She carried a showy bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. Immediately after the ceremony a collation was served, the bride cutting and distributing her wedding cake. Only the immediate families and intimate friends were present at the ceremony and reception. The young couple will make their home in San Diego, where Mr. Hauenstein is in training.

NOTICE RULE-CURTAINS FLOUR BUYING

FOOD ADMINISTRATOR
HOLDS 50-50 BASIS MUST
BE OBSERVED

ANSWERS COMPLAINT OF SUBSTITUTION
SHORTAGE WITH SUGGESTION THAT MORE POTATOES
AND MEAT BE USED

Notwithstanding statements of Idaho dealers that it would be impossible for them to supply flour on a fifty-fifty basis, under the rigid ruling of the national food administration, effective Monday last, State Food administrator R. F. Bicknell has announced that he has no alternative but to enforce the rule.

Three-Fold Advantage
"As I recently suggested," Mr. Bicknell said, "my personal opinion is that if the public at large will stop using flour and the substitutes for a period of 30 days, and will use instead potatoes they will not only conserve as the necessities of the case demand, but they will drive down the price of both flour and substitutes and at the same time furnish a market for our large stock of potatoes."

"I regret that a completion of the whole course by the national food administration renders necessary the revocation of my ruling of a few days ago permitting flour to be sold in the ration of one part substitute, to three parts wheat flour, thus causing the people of the state to be put absolutely on the original fifty-fifty plan, but circumstances over which neither the national nor state administrations have any control have decreed otherwise."

"It is therefore incumbent upon me to call upon all citizens of this state, both consumers and dealers, to comply with both the letter and spirit of the law, that with every purchase of wheat flour there may be an equal purchase of substitutes, and that no attempts be made to purchase flour otherwise. In addition, I appeal again to all our citizens that they continue their consumption of wheat flour to the absolute minimum of requirements."

Reason for Baking
Increased demand for foodstuffs from the allies were announced some time ago, when the food administration abolished the meatless meat and porkless Saturday, as the consumption of wheat is closely related to the consumption of meat, and it was deemed more imperative to ease the grain. Shortage of arrivals from the Argentine caused the increased demand upon this country.

IRA TREADWELL MUST ANSWER TO CHARGE OF FORGERY IN THE
DISTRICT COURT

Offers Testimony to Show That He Was Away From Twin Falls on Date He Is Accused of Forging Bad Checks in This City

In support of his own statement at a preliminary examination Monday before Probate Judge O. P. Duvall, Ira Treadwell, aged 25, produced the testimony of two other witnesses to show that he was not in Twin Falls on February 13, last, the date on which he is accused of passing forged checks aggregating in amount about $750 in five local merchants. The court did not find the evidence offered by the defendant sufficient and bound him over for trial in the district court on the charge of forgery made against him. His bond was fixed at $1000. He offered to put up a cash bond in smaller amount at the preliminary examination before Judge Duvall. The defendant at the preliminary examination were: Benson C. Heiser and Mrs. Pearl Heiser. Heiser said that he had come with Treadwell from Salmon, Idaho, to Twin Falls last spring. He testified that on the morning of February 13 as he was going to Burley he met Treadwell on the east-bound train from Twin Falls. In reply to questions as to his business in Burley, he asserted that he was chasing jack-rabbits up and down Main street.

INVALID AGAINST CITY

Judge Babcock Decides Novel Point of Law in Case Involving the Municipality

In his decision in the case of E. M. Golden against the city of Twin Falls on Monday, Judge Babcock held that garnishment was invalid as against a municipality. The question had not heretofore been tested in Idaho courts, local attorneys state. The case was brought before the court in argument on a writ of mandamus secured by Golden, a member of the fire department, to compel the city clerk to issue warrants for his salary. Payment had been withheld in compliance with a garnishment initiated by Golden's creditors against the city by order of the justice court.

The blaze was well under way before alarm was turned in by the fire department, and nothing could be done to save the building.

NOTED VIOLINIST COMING

Mincha Elman to be heard at the Lav-ering in Near Future

It is so easy to write superlatives when speaking about world famous artists, that the average reader is constantly in a fit of uncertainty whether or not so and so really is the "greatest in the world." America is famed as the land of advertisements and wild statements, and unfortunately the enthusiasm must be concerned with the theatrically inclined impressarios has led them into the fault of expressing themselves in extravagant terms. The singer has reached a point now where unless an attraction is advertised as greater than the greatest, the public feels unimpressed. More than one artist has suffered in consequence of extravagant advertising, but there are still a few whose powers are so supreme that no words overstate their true worth. Such an artist is Mincha Elman. From the age of five he astonished his hearers with marvelous violin gifts, and his name has reached a point now where he is every city in America has termed him "greatest," "most popular," "most astounding," "colossal," and "not only outstepping the bounds of truth to say that he is unquestionably alone in the field of virtuoso. Tone, technique, temperament, intelligence, artistry, musicianship are all combined in his work; of no other violinist can this be said to such a complete degree. As the Cleveland News says, he is the most popular, and the reason for it is that Elman touches the hearts of everyone. He plays from his heart as well as with his head, and his heart is generous. No one can sit unmoved when he plays the Ave Maria of Schubert or the Bach Air for O string. He rouses the most unmusical listener.

The south central Idaho basketball championship was won by the Twin Falls high school team from Rupert Saturday evening on the floor of the local high school gymnasium in the final contest of the two days' tournament in which teams of eight towns were entered. Oakley defeated Burley, 44 to 18, winning the consolation cup.

As the title holders, the Twin Falls team, with E. P. Nafziger, coach, left Tuesday for Moscow to take part in the state tournament conducted by the state university on March 14 and 15. Public interest in the tournament increased as the games went on, and the final contest Saturday was played before a large and enthusiastic crowd that packed the gymnasium, and which included over 100 rooters from towns represented in the tournament, namely, Burley, Heyburn, Rupert, Oakley, Gooding, Wendell, Jerome and Twin Falls.

Twin Falls beat Burley 30 to 6.

Along with our sympathetic adjustments (which our best patients get from two to four times daily as needed), we have mineral vapor baths, electric light baths, five baths, high frequency electricity, and many other drugstore methods. The results we are getting in cases of female trouble, rheumatism, paralysis, appendicitis, etc., are little short of marvelous.

Don't have your loved ones operated on until you have tested the drugstore way. No harm can possibly come from our treatment.

ROBINSON'S

SAILING ON AN EVEN KEEL

In passing through the sea of commerce one comes across many an odd sale (sale). Some are just what they appear to be, but most of them are not the "philanthropic" acts of merchants towards a deserving and needy public, but just plain "get rid of the stuff" propositions. The sale season for the present, is apparently over. Great good has been done (I) and great benefit has been derived (I) to whom? Oh, yes! To the merchants.

During the time that these most tremendous sacrifices (I) were being made by the merchants here and hereabouts, a man and his wife with a family from out-of-town came here attracted by the wonderful bargains (I) being offered, and after making an inspection came to the conclusion that with few exceptions the goods offered were not specially desirable and that they had "better see Robinsons, as he had always treated them right," and came down here to this out-of-the-way place (where rents are lower) and found prices lower too and BOUGHT. Yes, bought shoes for men, women and children; bought underwear, hosiery, sheets, pillow cases, towels, waists, skirts, gloves and many other items, and after they had supplied their wants in the lines I carry, told me that they were glad they had come back again and best of all they felt that they did not want to make the long trip from their home here and had an order all made out to send away, but used it as a memorandum for their purchases here. Is there a good strong reason for this? Are Robinson's prices right? Even in times of sales (I)?

SHOES are not high here because PRICES are RIGHT.

HOSIERY is not high here as PRICES are RIGHT.

UNDERWEAR will not seem high here. PRICES are RIGHT.

IT will be worth your while to come down to this out-of-the-way location where rents are lower and it costs less to do business and see the new things we are showing.

JULIAN ELTINGE AT THE IDAHO IN "THE WIDOW'S NIGHT"

FEMININE IMPERSONATOR HERE THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY IN COMICAL SUFFRAGE FARCE

In the course of "The Widow's Night" Mr. Eltinge learns to care for a baby, milk cows, scares an elderly aunt into presenting him, in female garb, as a princess traveling incognito, and comports himself generally in a manner that would scarcely be expected in an enterprising New Yorker.

The rural atmosphere of a good part of the film is a novelty in Eltinge pictures. But it is not long ere the scene is changed to a fashionable resort, where the romance begins which leads to so many complications.

The hero commits the indiscretion of falling in love with a calendar, or rather the face upon it. Of course he finds out who the model is and goes in search of her. This enables him to enter into a series of highly amusing situations, which result in the successful culmination of his love affair and the exposure of a crook.

Julian Eltinge has won an enviable place as a screen star in his Paramount pictures because the novelty of his offerings is in itself a variety of attraction that could not be duplicated. There is but one Julian Eltinge.

COMEDY—A PANTAGES ACT

William C. DeMille wrote "The Last of the Mohicans" which Old Printzland "pictured the Paramount offering, "One More American," several years ago, and therefore could not have had George Regan in mind when he developed the character of Luigi Riccardo. Had he really been thinking of the talented delineator of Latin characters, however, he could not have painted a character more suited to the star's ability. Mr. DeMille directed the production which was shown at the Idaho the first of the week and which concerns Luigi Riccardo, who owns a little marionette theater in the Italian quarter of New York, and who has saved his pennies against the day when his wife and little girl will arrive from the shores of sunny Italy. Riccardo is a victim of the war, having been gassed by his enemy by refusing to pay graft money.

When the little family arrives from Italy and lands at Ellis Island, Regan uses his influence to prevent the child and wife being admitted. The anguish of Riccardo on learning that his loved ones are, after all, to be lost to him, is pitiful, and sets out to kill Regan, having learned that he is responsible.

When the ward healer has been trapped through Potter, a reporter, and when Riccardo finally reaches him he finds that his enemy is a power-hungry and the residents thereof live lives that are totally different than those of the upper crust.

TAKE HOLD OF PLAN TO SAVE PERISHABLE CROP

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN AND GROWERS LAUNCH PLANS FOR PLANT

ORGANIZATION OF $50,000 CON-CERN TO INSTALL APPARATUS
OF 20 TONS DAILY CAPACITY IS ENDORSED AT MEETING

An important step toward the solution of the problem of disposing profitably of Twin Falls district's perishable products crop was taken at a meeting of local business men and growers in the Parish hall on Thursday evening of last week when plans were inaugurated for financing the installation here at an early date of a Luther process dehydrating plant of 20 tons daily capacity. For this purpose it is planned to form a stock company among business men and growers, with a capitalization of $50,000, one-half of which amount is to be paid in at once.

For Present Relief
Dehydration of potatoes and the conversion of this product into potato flour is to be one of the principal purposes of the enterprise, and to the end that such disposition may be made of last year's crops still in the hands of the growers, it is proposed to establish the plant as soon as possible.

The manufacturers of the Luther process plants have apparatus on hand for installing only one plant this year; their industry is new and the output is limited both by reason of small facilities and difficulty in securing required materials. Promoters of the Twin Falls plant intend to see to it that this apparatus is installed in Twin Falls.

J. McMillan Presides

The meeting Thursday was presided over by James McMillan, formerly secretary of the Twin Falls Commercial club, who has for years been a foremost advocate of the advantages that would result from the establishment here of a plant similar to the one proposed. The merits of the Luther process were set forth at this meeting by H. M. Read, representative of the manufacturer, who has been here for several weeks installing local men in the enterprise, and who, since the installation of a demonstration unit of the apparatus in the Hardest building, on Second avenue west, has been in charge of demonstrations which have been witnessed by hundreds of interested persons.

Mr. Read stated at the meeting that he was so favorably impressed with the possibilities for the dehydrating industry in this district, that he was ready to invest his own capital in the proposed enterprise and remain to make his home here.

Canvasmen Encouraged
Subsequent to the meeting Thursday, canvassers have been calling on local business men and growers for the purpose of obtaining their financial support to the enterprise and are meeting with much encouragement.

Friends Make Merry at the Housewarming for Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Thompson

On the occasion of a housewarming given by a number of friends Friday evening at his new home on Fifth avenue north, W. G. Thompson, formerly deputy sheriff and now acting assistant postmaster, was called upon to respond feebly to the speech made by District Judge W. A. Babcock upon presenting a broken down chair as the gift of the unexpected guests. The chair, the relic of furniture was removed and a handsome leather rocker substituted in its stead.

The affair was planned by Sheriff and Mrs. F. M. Kondak. Surprise on the appearance of the guests was complete. Following the presentation of the gifts, luncheon was served and the guests were served and a most enjoyable evening spent. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames F. M. Kondak, W. A. Babcock, T. A. Swift & Company Publicity

At a recent hearing of the Federal Trade Commission there was introduced correspondence taken from the private files of Swift & Company, which showed that the Company had been considering for some time an educational advertising campaign.

The need for this publicity has been apparent to us for several years. The gross misrepresentation to which we have recently been subjected has convinced us that we should no longer delay in putting before the public the basic facts of our business, relying on the fair-mindedness of the American people.

The feeling against the American packer is based largely on the belief that the income and well-being of the producer and consumer are adversely affected by the packers' operations, resulting in unreasonably large profits.

Swift & Company's net profit is reasonable, and represents an insignificant factor in the cost of living.

For the fiscal year 1917 the total sales and net profit of Swift & Company were as follows:

Sales
$875,000,000.

Profits
$34,650,000.

This is equivalent to a $3.465 profit on a business of $87,500.

If Swift & Company had made no profit at all, the cattle raiser would have received only one-eighth of a cent per pound more for his cattle, or the consumer would have saved only one-quarter of a cent per pound on dressed beef.

With the Red Cross Work At Home and Abroad

Edited by Twin Falls Chapter

Beginning March 18 and ending March 25 a seven-day nationwide campaign will be carried on by the Red Cross and the Commission for Relief in Belgium to secure a minimum quantity of 5000 tons of clothes for the destitute people of Belgium and occupied portions of northern France. At the request of Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium, H. P. Davidson, chairman of the Red Cross war council, has granted the use of the National Red Cross organization for collecting the needed clothing. The donations will be shipped at once to the Atlantic seaboard and sent overseas for distribution.

The Luncheon club, teachers' organization, Daughters of the American Revolution and practically all of the rural clubs have formed circles, also the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, Episcopal Church, D. S. Baptist ladies and scores of individual women, for making layettes.

It is difficult to estimate the entire number of layettes that will be shipped from this chapter, but two hundred and fifty is considered a conservative estimate. Mrs. Seaver says that the nicety of all the work on the garments, and the generosity of the donations, is an inspiration to the refugee committee. She emphasizes that this work is absolutely voluntary, and that all gifts whether large or small are gratefully accepted. Portions of layettes are gladly received and completed at refugee headquarters. Several gifts of money and material have also been received.

Announcement is made that some of the long expected material has been received and those who desire work can now get it at the rest room.

Mrs. Rose Logan, secretary of Community auxiliary, submits the following report:

About thirty-five Red Cross members of the Community auxiliary attended the meeting at Community church, on Wednesday, March 6.

Mrs. Dallas, chairman, was presented with $16.50. Mrs. Neer making the presentation. The proceeds were the result of an entertainment and dance given by Mr. Deim.

Mrs. Griffin also made a presentation of $8.05 from the Salmon Social club. All of which money is to be used for Red Cross purposes.

At the instigation of Mrs. Dallas all members rose and gave a vote of thanks to the donors.

99.6% is a figure that no vehicle of the day has surpassed.

It is based on what the 6600 Maxwell trucks have done.

Think what it means—6600 trucks all identically alike (except the bodies) travelling over every known kind of road in and about 500 cities, used in every climate where the American flag flies, every altitude, and driven by 6600 different drivers—who have 6600 different ideas on how to drive a truck.

And yet of all this number the service records show 99.6% perfect.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger. As soon as the first indication of a cold appears take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. As to the value of this preparation, ask anyone who has need it.—Adv.

FARMERS ARE GIVEN ALLOWANCE FOR BAGS

Grain Corporation Concedes Growers Nine Cents a Bushel for the Sacking

Unless market conditions are changed radically, or unless there be causes so that the grain corporation of the United States food administration will not handle the grain crop this year, farmers throughout the western states will be allowed nine cents per bushel, or approximately 20 cents each for bags on sacked wheat for the crop of 1918. It has been announced by R. A. Lewis, of San Francisco, second vice-president of the grain corporation. The new price amounts to an increase of about 11 cents per bag over the allowance for the 1917 crop and will assure the farmer an adequate return on the price he has to pay for new bags, it is said.

Evidence at an investigation before the war trade board in Washington last week went to show that present high prices are due to high prices for bags in Calcutta, and not to any appreciation on the part of bag men here.

CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY SPLENDID MUSIC PROGRAM

MELODIES OF SOUTH ARE FEATURE IN TWENTIETH CENTURY SESSION

TITLE OF HONORARY PRESIDENT
IS CONFERRED UPON MRS. KENNEDY
PACKARD, PIONEER OF
IDAHO CLUB WOMEN

During the club year, now drawing to a close, members of the Twentieth Century club have enjoyed many splendid programs, but none perhaps more than the one over which Mrs. W. H. Dwight presided Tuesday afternoon and which was devoted to music. Southern melodies predominating. The attendance was unusually large, among them being a goodly number of ladies from the Ellier club, which is known as one of the hustling clubs of the state.

Proceeding the program club business was dispatched, with the president, Mrs. J. Schroeder, in the chair. During which time the state president, Mrs. M. J. Sweely, presented a written motion, the intent of which was to confer on Mrs. Augusta Packard the title of honorary president. In introducing the resolution Mrs. Sweely referred to the early days in Twin Falls, when Mrs. Packard instituted a small reading club of four ladies, from which evolved the Sylvania club, of which she was the first president, and later the Twentieth Century club, which she also served as president. The club unanimously passed the resolution and the lady was conducted to a seat of honor by the state president.

Among other business, Mrs. G. D. Aiken, chairman of the committee having in charge the club breakfast, presented a report, and requested that the club choose the place for holding the annual gathering, and Moore hall was at once decided upon, April 16 being the date and 1 o'clock the hour. The chairman stated that the menu would be in keeping with the spirit of conservation and all members who desired to attend should send their names to the committee by April 5.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Wolfe, was most satisfactory considering that at the opening of the year's work, after giving generously to calls for patriotic and other worthy causes, she had found little practically—savings, and all feel that much credit is due to the president, Mrs. C. J. Schroeder, for her excellent and untiring work. Mrs. Packard announced that she had just received a telegram from New York stating that Twin Falls' allotment of clothing for the Belgian refugees was 3000 pounds, and urged that all who had clothing to donate bring it to the rest room on North Main street, taking care that it is not worn or matter how old fashioned. Dark colors are preferable.

After stating that she had in her possession pictures of Washington and Lincoln, which the club had some years ago purchased with the intention of presenting to the city schools and found themselves unable to frame at that time, Mrs. W. E. Rich also stated that they be framed and presented to the Washington building, as the other building.

lugs had previously been provided. The motion was adopted.

A communication from President Axline of the Albion Normal was read by the secretary, Mrs. F. W. Brough, in which he expressed the thanks of the school for favors and entertainments extended to the glee club during their visit to the city.

Mrs. C. H. Robbins, chairman of the program committee, announced that the next meeting on March 20 will be an open day and at that time Miss Ineb Sanders of New York, a prominent suffragist who has been a co-worker with Carrie Chapman Catt, will speak on "Women's War Work." She is said to be a very pleasing speaker.

Other business being dispatched, Mrs. Dwight took charge of the program, which opened with a piano solo, "Old Black Joe," by Mrs. Gilbert, who declined to respond to the request for an encore.

A pretty Southern lullaby sung by Mrs. O. P. Duval was so well appreciated that another was insisted, upon and thoroughly enjoyed.

The popularity of Mrs. Herman Schurmer as a reader was increased as the club listened to her rendition of "When Lindy Singed," and she amused her audience with a second selection which told of the sorrows of a father at the disgrace caused by his son Bill "getting into the legislature."

One of Flier's talented musicians, Mrs. Guy Shearer, assisted greatly in the entertainment when she sang "A Little Bit of Honey," and "Mighty Lak a Rose." She was accompanied by Mrs. Pruitt, also of Flier.

"Wake, Miss Lindy," as sung by Madame McCormick, Duval, Cowling, Bracken and Miss Pittman was beautiful and the audience insisted on hearing it the second time, and their request was granted at least in part. Their accompaniment was played by Mrs. Jerry Higgins, who also accompanied the soloists in her usual excellent manner.

DEFEND FLAG OR LEAVE, SAYS BISHOP

Methodist Episcopal Churchmen Deliver Sermon for Loyalty in the War

"Any man who will not defend the American flag ought not to be allowed to remain under it; there is no room in America for any but Americans," declared Bishop Richard J. Cooke of Helena, striking the keynote in a denunciation of pacifists and disloyalists in his address on the great war before an audience that filled the Methodist Episcopal church here Wednesday evening.

Prussian militarism, in the furtherance of the schemes of the Pan-Germans, prepared for the war for 40 years and started it deliberately when occasion was presented in the shooting of the Austrian grand duke, he declared. "I hate Prussia with a deadly hate, because she has impressed upon the brow of Germany the impress of infamy that centuries will not erase," he said. "Germany of today is not the Germany of a few years ago. The German in uniform is blindly obedient to constituted authority and irresponsible. Germany cannot win the war if she failed, what she attacked England and France when they were unready, she cannot succeed now when they are fully armed and when the full power of the United States is aligned against her. We are in this war and we are going through it if it takes one year or one hundred years."

REGISTRAR WEDDINGS ARE TO BE REVIEWED

Appeals Filed in Cases of 50 Men Married Since the Declaration of War

Appeals from the decision of the local draft board in the cases of 50 registrants of this county who have married since the declaration of war, have been taken to the district board by County Attorney Frank L. Stephan, appeal agent, in compliance with orders of the provost marshal general. The purpose of the action, it is stated, is to effect a uniform classification throughout the country in the cases of the men who have wed since the declaration of war.

It has been the policy of the local board to classify married men either in class two or four, regardless of the date of their marriage, provided it is shown that the marriage was not entered into as a clear evasion of the draft. This action is in accordance with a recent ruling of the provost marshal general. There were 2514 registrants under the draft in Twin Falls county.

How Many Bones in Your Feet?

Most likely, you don't know. Few people do, and it is usually a surprise to learn that there are so many and that the foot is about the most complicated and delicately constructed part of the body. That is, perhaps, the reason why at least 75 per cent of all adults have some kind of foot trouble.

Dr. Wm. M. Schell, of Chicago, perhaps the greatest living authority on foot troubles and their mechanical correction, says that not one adult in one hundred has feet that are completely free from defects. He has made a life study of the subject and has patented a great number of appliances for correcting defective conditions and giving comfort.

One of Dr. Schell's personally trained assistants is to be in this city from March 25 to March 27 and will conduct a demonstration of the Schell appliances in the Model Shoe store each day while here. He will examine feet and give expert advice without charge.—Adv.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

REVOCATION of the exceptions to the Food Administration rule requiring the purchase of an equal amount of substitute for each purchase of wheat flour puts Idaho consumers in a position where they must begin to realize the extent of the homely sacrifices that must be made for the winning of the war.

Heretofore, because of the scarcity of the official substitutes, the ration of three to one purchases has obtained in Idaho. Dealers state that substitutes are available now in no greater quantities than they have been in the past, although every effort has been put forth to secure them.

Appreciative of the difficulty that will be experienced in some States in securing substitutes, National Food Administrator Hoover says nevertheless that this simply means that wheat or wheat products should be sold only to the extent that there are available substitutes of equal weight. He emphasizes that our more abundant meats should be substituted for our less abundant breadstuffs.

In this connection, Idaho's Food Administrator has said that the people of this state can serve themselves and the Government in a three-fold way by practically ceasing to use wheat flour and cereal substitutes and instead use potatoes in increased proportions with the meat. Such a policy will conserve as necessities require while driving down the price of wheat flour and substitutes and at the same time furnish a market for our large supply of potatoes.

It were well that such a view of the situation should be taken generally, and a virtue thus made of a necessity. Idaho's people, although in a position of disadvantage in respect to the new conservation, are not disposed to be intimidated by considerations of their own comfort to the higher requirements of the present emergency, and if it is necessary that they forego accustomed fare that has become a luxury, under existing circumstances, to the end that their sacrifice may assist the cause of democracy, they are going to grin and bear it.

BERGER ON THE WAR

CAMPAIGN promises of Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, candidate for the United States Senate on the Socialist ticket, declaring for an immediate general peace and withdrawal of American troops from Europe "to procure absolute security for this country," appeal to the American bolshevik—and to them only. Possibly Berger may have had access to the War Cyclopedia recently issued by the Committee on Public Information, wherein it is shown that bolshevik is a Russian word meaning "belonging to the majority," being adopted by the Radicals, lead by Lenin, at the time when the split in the Russian Democratic party occurred in nineteen hundred five.

As a candidate for office, Berger would of course appeal to what he considered the majority, but he was mistaken when he attempted to apply the ideals of the Russian majority to that of America.

Berger is now under federal indictment as an anti-draft agitator.

It is possible that he may find that the American majority would place him in an internment camp instead of in the Senate.

SAVING FARM PRODUCTS

FARMERS who are business men as well, and every other person who is dependent in any measure for his livelihood upon the prosperity of the agricultural industry in this district, will welcome at any time the advent here of an institution that has for its purpose the conversion of perishable farm and orchard crops into imperishable products of high market value.

A dryer, evaporator or dehydration plant is a sound commercial institution and the benefits to this section from the establishment of such a venture would probably be considerable. Just at this time, with fruit and vegetables literally going to waste for lack of cars in which to ship them to market, the need is more than ever imperative. There is no occasion to take the slightest risk in the selection of the type of plant. At a number of points over Idaho successful businesses of this kind are in operation and at various other points are to be found the sad remains of a number of similar institutions which were not successful.

Twin Falls should have some such plant as that proposed but there should be little if any promotion expense connected with its establishment or with the sale of stock in the corporation.

Shoot at the Enemy, Not at One Another

—Rogers in the New York Herald.

PROTECTING INVESTMENTS

AS EVIDENCE of the growing pinch of war time costs, the willingness of the Government to regard with favor the general proposition of extending financial aid, in the event aid becomes necessary, to the public utilities companies of the country is of more than passing interest.

Of all the varied forms of goods and service dealt in by the business interests of America, the product of the public utilities companies up to this time stands alone in that there has been no general increased cost to the consumer. One or two street car companies throughout the East and Middle West have raised their fares a penny or two, but telephone service, electric light and heat, and kindred products are still sold at the same old figure, and in the case of the latter group, there is not even a tax added.

Of course costs have gone up in these industries just the same as in others possibly to an extent far and away above the general average as applied to some lines. That the fact is recognized by both Mr. Wilson and Mr. McAdoo may perhaps be accepted as the best of all evidence of the truth of this.

As to just what the profits may or may not have been in the past, opinions differ, but there is no room for question but what these have been sharply cut into, and if costs continue to rise the Government itself will probably lend a hand to protect these investments.

Training Little Children

Article 1—Walks and Talks Afford Opportunities for Teaching Facts of First Hand and in Interesting Ways
(By Mrs. Bertha Emblin)

From about the age of 3, and extending indefinitely through childhood years there is no more valuable aid for the mother who desires to promote the well-being of her children than walks and talks. It is usually most difficult for the home-keeping mother to find sufficient leisure—or rather, uninterrupted leisure—to concentrate on work or play with her children. But when you leave your home and its distractions behind you, you begin to realize that you have found a way in which you can say with Froebel, "Come, let us live with our children."

These walks and talks can be useful both to the city mother and the country mother, though it will be easily seen that the country mother has the advantage in this respect. The city mother will have to substitute, for the suggestions below, the city parks, the river or lake front, visits to the large factories, museums and historic points of interest. You can make the walks as long or as short as your leisure permits; you can plan them for every day or every other day, morning or afternoon; and after a month's trial you will begin to realize their value for yourself as much as for the children. The blue sky and the great outdoors will take you away from the pettiness of the thousand and one trifles that continually intrude themselves upon your attention while you remain within four walls, and they will be equally uplifting in taking the little ones away—especially in this time of small towns—from the petty small talk that emanates from the porches and the front stoops and passages along the sidewalks from house to house and from child to child.

It is well for you to decide upon your destination before you call the children to you. "Let's go to the pond today!" or "This is a great day for the woods!" A playmate or two taken along occasionally, and frequently if you have but one child, will lend additional zest to the walks and will enlarge your opportunities of getting better acquainted, not only with the playmate, but with your own children in relation to their playmates.

Try to forget all your grown-up dignity on these walks (especially if it is a country road) and have as much fun and laughter as the children are ready for. Wear only stout shoes and "rough-leg" clothes. Sometimes permit the children to take skates, or a bicycle, or a velocipede, a wagon of jaunty car, or a sled, a hoop, or horse rein. All these will provide additional attractions when the children seem loath to leave their street play.

These walks will develop your children physically, fully as much as any systematic exercises, and the variety of "stunts" that will be initiated along the road will astound you. In some of them you may join others with teach you to have control of your nerves, while the children develop strength and independence thereby. So far as the physical activities are concerned, you need suggest very little; the children will initiate as much as there are time and energy for. There will be walking forward and backward, sometimes with eyes shut; sometimes on stone walls and in ditches; there will be running, skipping, hopping, jumping, from different heights, whistling and singing, games of "follow master," racing, stone-throwing and stick-throwing into ponds and trees, and tree-climbing.

That the "walks and talks" are a great mental stimulus is readily apparent, when one reflects for a moment upon the opportunities for asking and answering questions that seldom arise in the schoolroom; the opportunities to observe public work that is going on away from one's immediate neighborhood; the road-building, the digging of trenches and laying of mains, the setting and taking down of telegraph poles, the operation of the switch tower on the railroad bridge, the regulation of traffic, the construction of buildings. There is a deepening of sense impressions; there is training in the correct use of good English in conversations and story-telling by the way-side; there is reading and dramatization in the woods and in the shady nooks and on the rocky heights, that add so much in creating a congenial atmosphere for the play of the imagination, and last but not least—perhaps the most valuable feature—there is a tremendous field for developing a knowledge of nature's workshop.

Perhaps some concrete illustrations will serve to root purpose.

Stand still a few moments with eyes shut; listen intently, then tell what was heard. Look intently in all directions, close eyes, and tell what was seen. Name objects (seeds, flowers, twigs, etc.) by touch alone with eyes shut. Point to every bird's nest observed on the walk. Find all the maple trees along one road. By taking one tree at a time you will soon be surprised to discover how many trees you and the children can name.

GROWING SUGAR BEETS

TWIN FALLS County has done more than her share in the purchase of war securities, donations to war relief funds and in the enlistments of men, thereby achieving a record in these respects of which every citizen may well be proud. But until the signing of the last contract whereby it is assured that ten thousand acres of sugar beets will be grown in this district this year as asked by the Government, there can be no justification for complacency here with regard to the County's fulfillment of war duties.

Statement of Government agents that up to the present time in this district contracts for the growing of less than two thousand acres of beets have been signed is evidence of a lack of realization of the urgency of the task assigned to this locality because of its peculiar qualifications for fulfilling it.

Immediately increased production is an imperative essential to the winning of the war, and can be secured only from the beet fields. Increase in the production of cane sugar cannot be secured short of two years, because cane planted now will not yield sugar before then. The responsibility is plainly up to the sugar beet growers, and sugar beet growers are to be found only in districts adapted to the cultivation of the crop.

The Twin Falls district is preeminently a sugar producing district. Every requirement for the successful conduct of the industry exists or has been provided here. Other regions are better qualified for supplying the war demands for increased production of wheat, pork and other products. The Government recognizes these facts, and in asking only that Twin Falls help to produce what it is best qualified to produce, namely, sugar.

The requirements are not excessive. The acreage allotted is only three thousand acres more than were grown here last year. The farmer is not asked to devote all his land to sugar beets, but he is asked to diversify his crops in such a manner as to insure the Nation an ample food supply.

The price of nine dollars a ton for beets—one dollar and fifty cents more than was paid last year—eliminates the possibility of exorbitant profits to the manufacturer and assures to the efficient grower a financial reward equal to, if not greater than, that to be obtained in the production of any other farm crop.

It is not to be considered that Twin Falls County will fall short of her patriotic duty in this respect, but rather that this war allotment, like every other one so far, will be over-subscribed and her splendid record maintained.

PAY UP OR BE FINED

THERE remain seventeen days in which to make return of the federal income tax.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, has extended the time for filing income and excess profit returns until April first, but taxpayers who wait until April second are subject to a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars and an additional assessment of fifty per cent on the amount due.

The presence here for several days of an agent of the Internal Revenue Bureau has been of material assistance to persons subject to payment of the income tax—and the income which is not taxable must be a moderate one. Probably ninety per cent of the income tax payers of this County already have made their returns, but it is to the remaining ten per cent that warning must be given. The Government is not required to seek the taxpayer. The taxpayer must seek the Government.

CURSTONE ORATORY

The trouble is that the term "free speech" has been crassly misunderstood. Lots of men of large voice but small mentality have taken it for granted that it gave them warrant to spill their ideas upon the public at any old time or in any old place. Every convenient beer keg and soap box was a pulpit, and every pedestrian a prospect. With the war-time test applied, a practical application of free speech is the right of any man to think as he pleases so long as he keeps it to himself and does not run counter to the welfare of his country and the majority of its citizens. This land will not be less free or less desirable as a place of residence if this interpretation is retained.—Los Angeles Times.

COMMUNITY DRYING PLANT.

(From the Idaho Farmer.)
Municipal or government-owned drying plants have been in successful operation in European countries for years. Such plants provide village communities with a convenient and simple method of drying all sorts of produce of the home garden and orchard, as well as the vegetables and fruits shipped to the community, which might be allowed to go to waste at the present market places. The advantage to the busy farmer's wife in the country community cannot be overestimated. Her work is heavy in the summer, when vegetables and fruits must be saved for winter use. The establishment of a community drying plant at a consolidated school, country church or centrally located farm home would offer a great relief from her heavy kitchen duties. The housewife could clean and slice at least a portion of the fruits and vegetables she desires to conserve, and either take these or have one of the children take them to the community drying plant, where they could be left until it was convenient to call for the dried product.
A successful community drying plant located at Lincoln, Nebraska, is described in Farmers' Bulletin 116, which may be obtained free upon application to the division of publications, United States department of agriculture. Practically the same plan was followed in 11 other communities—nine of them in Nebraska—during the summer and fall of 1917, and the experience is related at this time in answer to a demand for information of this character for consideration at farmers' meetings during the winter.

POTATO FLOUR MILL

Is to be installed at Meridian (From the Idaho Farmer.)
A potato flour mill, with a daily output of five car loads, is to be installed at Meridian at once by the Idaho Products company of Boise, and the machinery for the plant has already been purchased at an approximate cost of $10,000 and is now in transit. The industry is to be in active operation by

March 1, and possibly earlier, according to present plans.

It is believed that the plant will serve to give impetus to the potato industry, which has been making large proportions throughout the entire Boise valley.

All sizes of sound potatoes are to be manufactured into flour by the plant and through their utilization for flour a market will be created for the potatoes of the valley grown last year which have been the main market. By the evaporation process which will be employed about five pounds of potatoes will make one pound of the flour. It is anticipated that the output of the industry will be sold to bakeries and mixed with other flour, about 5 per cent of the potato flour being used.

It is contemplated by the officers of the company that the mill will be in operation for a period of 90 days this spring, it being estimated that this period of time will be required to manufacture the portion of last year's crop to crop into flour which has not yet been sold.

The fruit-evaporating plant installed last year by this company at Meridian cost $30,000 and the additional investment of $10,000 for the mill rises the total cost of its industries to a sum in excess of $40,000.

IN THE DAIRY

David Rees announces his intention of disposing of his herd of 35 cows at public auction to the near future. This will be unswerving news for all of his customers, who will find it hard to purchase milk of as good a quality elsewhere. The portion of last year's crop over 4.5 per cent for several months, butterfat content. However, it will have the effect of relieving the cow shortage on other farms and will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity of procuring some good milk cows which may be found in this herd. The interview stated that the herd had over 50 pounds of butterfat the last month.

FINISHING HOGS ON THE HOVERIZED BASIS

Barley, Corn or Field Peas Require a Supplementary Protein (By William Hishop, State College of Washington, in the Idaho Farmer.)

A few days ago I was greatly interested in a published interview given by the manager of the Spokane branch of Carleton's Packing company. This interview stated that owing to the great scarcity of fat hogs in the northwest, it would be necessary for his company to ship hog products from Minnesota river points for consumption in this territory.

In other words, we are retrograding instead of progressing, from a swine producing to a swine consuming. However, we must accept the situation as it is and try to make amends for our misgivings in the wholesale disposal of our breeding stock. What hogs they are left must be sent to market in a highly finished condition. Each feeder should attempt to market as many pounds of pork and lard on four feet as is compatible with economy. In other words, no hogs should be marketed today that weigh less than 200 pounds and possess a high degree of finish and quality.

Within the last few weeks every stockyard in the northwest was experiencing a very strong call for feeder pigs. A feeder is usually a pig weighing from 80 to 125 pounds. These pigs are now gleaming our stubblefields, particularly in the wheat growing sections. In our own growing valleys they are either hogging off corn or barley or are gleaming the stray ears of corn remaining after husking. In this way they develop a strong framework of bone, supple lean meat tissues and a capacious, vigorous digestive tract, all of which lead up to the final fattening period in the dry lot.

Usually a stubble hog will gain 20 pounds in 40 to 50 days. This is a cheap gain and makes up for the more expensive gains that are to be made later on when in the feed lot proper. When pigs come off the stubblefields they are usually in a thrifty condition. Generally speaking, it takes about 60 to 75 days on full feed to produce the desired finish. During that time a good thrifty hog will gain from 40 to 100 pounds of live weight. Fattening is best accomplished by restricting the exercise, reducing the allowance of bulky feed, and supplying the maximum amount of palatable, starchy, carbonaceous feeds, properly supplemented with protein rich feeds, which balance the ration. At the present time it is distinctly inadvisable to use wheat for fattening hogs. Wheat can be used to better advantage for other purposes. Furthermore, barley is almost as efficient as wheat, and the big corn crop there is no excuse for feeding wheat.

Our experiments here with feeding barley as compared with wheat have shown barley to be about 30 per cent as efficient as wheat, when both were fed in the ground form and properly supplemented with 60 per cent digested tankage. At the present time we are finishing a load of spring barrows that now weigh 185 pounds. Since being placed in the fattening pen they have been receiving a ration of nine parts by weight of rolled barley and one part by weight of tankage. In addition, they have received skimmed milk once daily to the extent of about five pounds per head. During the last 100 pounds of gain have been made on 485 pounds of rolled barley and tankage combined. The early part of the fattening period was spent in hogging off a fire of barley. During the grazing period they stretched out wonderfully and were in excellent position to make dry fat gains. They had a record of a mineral mixture which has helped to keep them rid of worms, and assisted in the development of strong bone, which is so essential to economical gain. They have been in quarters have been dry, well bedded and well watered. In addition, they have been well fed; in other words, they have been able to get it at all times. When pigs weigh more than 125 pounds it is more economical to use them in the feed lot than to haul them. If they weigh less than that, then the hand-fed method seems to be the better.

These pigs will be marketed at an early date. They should dress from 83 to 85 per cent, because they will carry a high finish, be devoid of wrinkles and seams and be strictly grain fed, as compared with grass fed hogs, which are so common at the present moment. They now run in age from 5 1/2 months to six months. I question if we would have made those hogs marketable at an earlier date or at a less cost.

Another excellent crop for the finishing of hogs at the present moment is Canada field peas. The seconds of the pea crop were fed to a car load of hogs at the state college during the winter of 1916. They were compared with barley, and both feeds were supplemented with tankage. The Canada field pea lot made the cheaper, the greater and the more rapid gain, and the finished product was pronounced by Mr. Stanton of Spokane to be superior.

At the present time no farmer can afford to feed barley, corn or field peas unless he uses a supplementary protein-rich feed. These grains are all to deficient in proteins and mineral matter to be in themselves balanced feeds. Hence the need for tankage or skimmed milk. Soy bean meal and linseed oil meal have been used as protein supplements to these grains for fattening hogs, but have not proved nearly so efficient. The hogs tire of the latter and soon begin to go back instead of forward. Some farmers prefer to feed whole grain to fattening pigs. Ear corn is pronounced by many central western experiment stations as the most economical form in which to feed it. They say that the hogs should do the work of grinding, and they are correct. However, they admit that when hogs weigh more than 125 pounds that it is more economical to grind the feed. In the case of barley, Canada field peas or wheat, they should be ground for the most efficient gain.

In conclusion I wish to say that the best method of Hooverizing in connection with fattening pigs at this time is to supply the proper feed in the proper proportion, provide dry, warm, roomy, well-watered quarters, and carry the hogs until they weigh at least 200 pounds and carry a smooth, even covering of fat.

HAY CIRCULAR

March 5, 1918.

The hay market is weakening in all sections. The reports we are receiving show a decline of from $2 to $3. Texas advises that it has been raining some there, and the grass is starting to grow in many sections of the state, and their market is weakening. We expect further declines on the market as spring advances.

The embargo has been lifted from Kansas City, and our representative on that market reports market weaker from $1 to $3 per ton, with further declines expected. We are doing all within our power to hold this market up, and have sold several cars rolling now unsold which we expect to have to sell for less money. We have put for any quantity in hay from the section, and would advise all shippers to rush shipments to the market as soon as possible. We are again asking you to consider shippers regarding damp, off-grade hay, also about loading to minimum provided by railroads.

We are getting from six to twenty cars of hay every day, and we are sure that we can continue to handle all the hay that is shipped, and will be able to get as much for the hay as any one else, but we find hay will sell from 50c to 60c per ton higher when it is loaded in the car and rolling than as it was still in the stack or baled and so care immediately available.

We hope to be able to get out a few of the final returns on the first shipments within a few days. Will rush same all within our power.

Yours very truly,
INTERMOUNTAIN FARMERS' EQUITY

FEEDER LETTER

NORTH PORTLAND, Ore., March 8.—Conditions in the feeder section do not show any material change in prices or supply. The demand is still very good for small lots to go into the country. Lots from 25 to 50 head are causing considerable inquiry. There is some inquiry for larger lots. A Montana veterinarian writes that there is no embargo against strictly range cattle from Oregon and Washington. Their bulletin No. 25 notwithstanding.

The usual number of feeder hogs is moving from the yards daily. These are well conditioned hogs and for the most part are going to nearby garbage feeding plants. They are selling from $14.50 to $15.

In the sheep section there does not seem to be any activity except in the ewe department. A number of ewes are being sent to the country daily in small lots. This would indicate that farmers are taking hold of the "sheep on every farm" idea to a considerable extent, as, indeed, they must if our wool supply is to be kept up on a war basis. The government needs 120 pounds of wool for every soldier in the field.

LIMITS DEALERS FLOUR PROFITS

In the opinion of the food administration the gross maximum profit for wholesalers in flour should not exceed from 50 to 75 cents per barrel. The profit to retail dealers in original mill packages should not exceed from 80 cents to $1.00 per barrel, depending upon the character of service performed. Where retailers sell in amounts less than original mill packages, the gross profit should not exceed 1 cent a pound of flour in excess of those or in excess of those obtained in pre-war times will be cause for investigation.

A HOME MADE STONE BOAT.

(Alfred Mathewson in the Farmers Mail and Breeder.)

A very convenient stone boat for hauling big rocks can be made easily. The simplicity of this device leaves little to be desired. It consists of two two-inch planks about eight feet long, with a cross-piece two inches by six inches, having two 4-inch holes, 20 inches from each end, to center. This piece is slipped loosely to the planks at one end with a chain-bolt, the heads of which are counter-sunk in the under sides of the planks.

At the other ends of the planks, about six inches from the ends, two-inch holes are bored. A piece of chain with a toggle on one end is slipped through those holes. The planks are drawn up to straddle the boulder. The chain being held in one plank with the toggle, is drawn tight through the

MAKE FURTHER EFFORT TO STOP FILER ELECTION

APPEAL FROM COMMISSIONERS' ORDER FIXING DATE IS FILED

RESIDENTS OF PROPOSED HIGHWAY DISTRICT, FAILING TO HALT PROCEEDING, PRESENT TAKE MORE LITIGATION

A further barrier in the path of organization of the proposed Filer highway district was interposed Friday when notice of appeal to the district court from the order of the county commissioners fixing the date for an election on the district proposition was filed by M. A. Thometz and others. Under advice of the county attorney, proceedings for the election to take place on March 23 will proceed without interruption regardless of the appeal.

Appeal on Law and Fact

The appeal is taken from the whole order of the commissioners on March 6, and is taken on questions both of law and of fact. The order established the boundaries of the proposed district, designated voting precincts and fixed the date of the election at which the question of whether or not the proposed district should be created is to be submitted to the voters of the proposed district. E. M. Wolfe of Twin Falls is attorney for the appellants. Service of the notice of appeal has been accepted by the commissioners.

The appellants represent those residents of the southeast corner of the proposed district, who previously protested against being included in it and secured temporary writ of injunction in district court staying proceedings with the election. The court declined to make this restraining order permanent after a hearing last week. The commissioners thereupon made the order for the election.

Favor County Administration

Disatisfaction over their prospect of receiving highway improvements under the proposed district administration is given as the reason for the obstacles to its formation interposed by the appellants. They have previously stated their belief that they will be better served in this respect by remaining under the county administration.

COUNTY HOLDS RECORD FOR DRAFT VOLUNTEERS

Total of 67 Registrants Leave Here to Enter Branches of the Service
Open to Them

Voluntary enlistments of registrants under the draft in Twin Falls county numbered 66 in the spruce production division, aviation section, and two in the engineers corps during the time these branches of the military service were open to registrants. Four other registrants who had been accepted for admission into the spruce production division prior to receipt of the order closing enlistments in this branch were prevented from enlisting on Friday as they had intended when further orders were received to the effect that no more enlistments under this call could take place because there were no facilities to take care of more men.

The coast artillery is the one branch remaining open for enlistment of registrants in this district. Recruits for this branch will be forwarded to a California training camp.

BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS PURPOSE OF DRIVE

A book drive in which reading matter will be gathered up for the soldiers is to be launched this month in Idaho, under the direction of Mrs. Marie Schreiber, state librarian. The campaign will open March 18 and will continue for two weeks. It is to be conducted throughout all states at the same time by the library service of the American Library association.

Two million books have been asked for. No fixed quota has been assigned to Idaho, but the people of the state are expected to give as many volumes as possible.

The Twin Falls public library is a receiving station for this district. Miscellaneous books, fiction, poetry, travel, history and general literature are wanted, but any good book which any person thinks a soldier would enjoy reading is acceptable.

The books will be distributed in training camps, forts and posts, naval bases and stations and vessels, and to the marine corps stations.

The American Library association has built, or will build, 34 buildings in different camps and at posts and stations where soldiers, sailors and marines are stationed. The books to be gathered this month will be placed in those libraries and distributed among the men in the overseas forces in France. Each of the 34 buildings put up by the library association will house from 10,000 to 15,000 volumes, and it is to fill the shelves that the big drive will be made.

MRS. CHAS. PEDEN GAINS 27 POUNDS

WAS TWICE EXAMINED AND EACH TIME TOLD OPERATION WOULD BE ONLY A MATTER OF A FEW WEEKS

"I have just finished my third bottle of Tanlac and have gained twenty-seven pounds," was the truly remarkable statement made by Mrs. Charles Peden, residing at 530 Mill Street, Huntville, Ala. Mrs. Peden is one of the best-known and most highly respected women of that thriving little city, where she has made her home for a number of years.

"When I commenced taking the medicine," she continued, "I only weighed ninety-eight (98) pounds; now I weigh one hundred twenty-five pounds, and I feel better in my life. For years I have suffered with a bad form of stomach trouble, constipation and pains in my side and back. At times the pains took the form of torture and was twice examined and each time I was told that I had appendicitis and that an operation would be my only hope. I finally called off my anger and weighed ninety-eight pounds and was so weak I could hardly get around."

"I had no appetite at all, scarcely, and what little I did eat would not stay in my stomach. It gave me palpitation of the heart, sick headaches and a dizzy feeling about the head. When these spells came on me I could not eat and I was so weak I could hardly get around."

"I had fallen off until I was almost 'skin and bones,' and my strength and energy were slowly leaving me. I had a dread of the future and could see nothing but the operating table and knife. I had a perfect horror of any operation, but had made up my mind that it was either life or death, and prepared to submit to it. I had made all preparations for the operation and called on my sister to tell her good-bye, as I did not know whether I would live to see her again or not. My sister begged and pleaded with me not to allow them to cut on me and told me to wait and try a good tonic for a while. The next day as I returned from the consultation room I thought of what she said, and as I had heard so much about Tanlac I decided to try it as a last resort and stopped at Gilbert's drug store and got a bottle. Of course I had lost weight and had no faith in the medicine, but to please my sister I made up my mind to take it, and oh, what a happy day that was for me."

"It never occurred for the operation, but just kept taking Tanlac. Right from the start I began to feel better. The medicine seemed to take hold right at once. I had a soothing effect, and in a few days I felt no pain at all. I was so happy over the wonderful improvement in the condition that I sent for my neighbors to tell them how much better I felt. I sent and got another bottle of Tanlac, and have just finished taking my third bottle and feel like I have been made all over again into a new woman."

"As I have said before, I now weigh one hundred twenty-five pounds, and my improvement has been so rapid that none of my clothes are big enough for me. I will have to make them all over again. I now have a ravenous appetite and my husband says I am simply eating him out of house and home. I have even gone back to my coffee, which I was told not to touch. Those terrible pains in my back and head have all disappeared and I sleep like a child for again. I feel so much better and I feel in my household duties, and I feel in my work. I do nothing but rejoice all day long over the recovery of my health and praise Tanlac to everybody.

"I feel so grateful for the escape from the operating table and the knife that I can only praise what I have said; you may, if you wish, tell other women suffering as I was to come and see me and I will be glad to tell them about Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Twin Falls by City Pharmacy, in Rogersburg by Thompson Drug Co., in Murthaugh by Murthaugh Drug Co., in Filer by A. H. Wood, in Buhl by G. D. Rogers Brothers Co., and in Kimberly by W. A. L. Stowe.—Adv.

THE MARKETS

KANSAS CITY

STOCK YARDS—Week's cattle run liberal, with fewer novices from Colorado and Nebraska; hogs decreased materially, while sheep offerings were above normal. Actual comparisons are: Cattle, this week 44,500, last week 45,500, same week last year 39,384. Calves, this week 2000, last week 2141, same week last year 1601. Hogs, this week 43,000, last week 72,000, same week last year 34,494. Sheep, this week 11,500, last week 24,913, same week last year 23,306.

Cattle prices closed at a lower level, in which fat and thin classes shared; hogs advanced sharply, while sheep prices closed steady and fat lambs quotably weaker today, but higher for the week, top $17.50 was paid Wednesday. Breeding classes ruled firmer.

Beef Steers

Beef steer prices sagged, with continued liberal supplies all week. The close averaged 15 to 25 cents under last week, extremes 10c to 15c off. Prime natives ranged up to $12.50 and Colorado natives to $13.10, top of the week. Bulk of short feds, well over $11.50 to $12.50. Butcher classes declined 15 to 25 cents with fair receipts. Colorado cows $9.40 to $10.15; bulls $9.20. Nebraska cows, late, at $10.50. Bulls closed 10c, 25 to 30 cents lower, with $10 top. Veal calves are firmer, best $10 to $13.25.

Blockers and Feeders

Liberal supplies of thin stock cattle in the opening days culminated in lower price levels. Choice to prime feeders reacted 15 to 25 cents; medium to plain light weights predominated and sagged generally 25 to 50 cents. Best feeders sold up to $12.50 and stockers $11.55. Stock cows and heifers closed 25 to 60 cents lower. Stock calves developed a weaker tendency.

Hogs

Hog prices have advanced continuously since Monday's weak opening and closed today around .08c above last Saturday, with $17.60 top and $17.50 to $17.50 bulk, against $16.65 top and $16.25 to $16.60 bulk on Monday. Today, sales opened 15 to 25 cents higher and closed with the advance lost. Receipts around 8000 against 9000 last Friday.

Sheep and Lambs

Today 2000; last Friday 1600. Sheep stock lambs weak to 10c lower; Western fed, $17. For week, sheep held steady, top ewes $12.75, wethers $12, yearlings $13.75. Lambs declined 10 to 20 cents yesterday, with $17.40 fed Colorado. Strong demand for breeders and feeders at firmer prices, top western lambs $17.25, ewes $16.50.

365 FEET OF OIL IN CASING, IDAHO- WYOMING No. 2 Will Be Flowing Well Within the Next 24 Hours

Idaho-Wyoming well No. 2, in which tools were lost several weeks ago, located on the southwest quarter of section 14, township 21, last evening, showed 365 feet of pure oil in the casing, the oil being eight inches above the ground level, and according to the report of expert field men, will be a flowing well within the next 24 hours. This indicates a big pay well, under ordinary circumstances, but extraordinary conditions make it a remarkable showing, and prove that large production will be secured in the field. The drillers several weeks ago lost the tools, and in their efforts to recover them, their operations tended to bring the earth solidly about the big drill, and the oil now in the casing clear to the top indicates that considerable pressure exists, and that big paying sands have been reached.

Lee Steinbrook and two drillers bailed out a barrel of the oil yesterday and took it to the Hecla-Wyoming rig, where it is being used in drill-sharpening operations. Mr. Steinbrook is superintendent of the Hecla, and came here from the Casper field, and he states that as soon as the tools are removed from this well it will have a strong flow. The tools still in it, it will be flowing from the top of the casing in 24 hours, according to Mr. Steinbrook.

The Hecla-Wyoming spudded in the first of the week on acreage secured from the Wood Oil company, and expects to bring in a well very shortly. This acreage is near the Idaho-Wyoming No. 2.

Valve-in-Head Motor

The Chevrolet valve-in-head motor is the direct-application-of-power type. Gasoline vapor is introduced directly into the cylinder head and is exploded flatly against the piston head, just like a hammer striking a nail squarely on the head. Every bit of power from the explosion is utilized to turn the flywheel—there is absolutely no waste.

In all other types of motors the gasoline is introduced into a side chamber, where it is exploded. The force travels "around the corner" to the piston head and a loss of power results.

And every Chevrolet is valve-in-head powered. The "Four-Ninety" Touring at $770 and the "Four-Ninety" Roadster at $755. Every Chevrolet is completely equipped. Prices, delivered here.

Write or call for a copy of the booklet, "Squarely on the Head" It tells all about the valve-in-head motor and its use in motor cars, aeroplanes and submarines.

CHAPTER VII

Rations.

Just dishing off Mr. Lance Corporal butted in.

In Tommy's eyes a lance corporal is one degree below a private, in the corporal's eyes he is one degree above a general.

He ordered me to go with him and help him draw the next day's rations, also told me to take my waterproof.

Every evening, from each platoon or machine-gun section, a lance corporal and private go to the quartermaster sergeant at the company stores and draw rations for the following day.

The "quarter," as the quartermaster sergeant is called, receives daily from the orderly room (captain's office) a slip showing the number of men entitled to rations, so there is no chance of putting anything over on him. Many arguments take place between the "quarter" and the platoon noncom, but the former always wins out. Tommy says the "quarter" gets his job because he was a burglar in civil life.

Then I spread the waterproof sheet on the ground, while the quartermaster's batman dumped the rations on it. The corporal was smoking a fat. I carried the rations back to the billet. The corporal was still smoking a fat. How I envied him. But when the lamp commenced my envy died, and I realized that the first requisite of a non-commissioned officer of active service is diplomacy. There were 19 rats in our section, and they soon formed a regular circle around us after the corporal had called out "Rations up."

The quartermaster sergeant had given a slip to the corporal on which was written a list of the rations. Sitting on the floor, using a wooden box as a table, the same corporal, on the left of the corporal the rations were piled. They consisted of the following:

Six loaves of fresh bread, each loaf of six being better as a peace, the result of an army service corps man placing a box of bully beef on it during transportation.

Three tins of jam, one apple and the other two plum.

Seventeen Bermuda onions, all different sizes.

A piece of cheese in the shape of a wedge.

Two one-pound tins of butter.

A handful of raisins.

A tin of biscuits, or as Tommy calls them "flat breakers."

A bottle of mustard pickles.

The "bully beef" was a condensed milk, fresh meat, bacon and "Maconochie" rations (a can filled with vegetables and greasy water, which had been turned over to the company cook to make a stew for next day's dinner. He also received the tea, sugar, salt, pepper and flour.

Scratching his head, the corporal studied the slip issued to him by the quarter. Then he "saw," mystified voice he read out, "No. 1 section, 10 men. Bread, loaves, six. He looked puzzled and soliloquized in a muttering voice:

"Six loaves, nineteen men. Let's see, that's three in a loaf for fifteen men—well, to make it even, four of 'em'll have to muck in on one loaf."

The four that got stuck made a howl, but to no avail. The bread was dished out. Pretty soon from a far corner of the billet, three indignant Tommies accosted the corporal with:

"What do you call this, a loaf of bread? Looks more like a sniping plate."

The corporal answered:

"Well, don't blame me, I didn't bake it; somebody's got to get it, so shut up until I dish out these blinkin' rations."

Then the corporal started on the Jam, three tins—apple one, plum two. Nineteen men, three tins. Six in a tin makes twelve men for two tins, seven in the remaining tin.

He passed around the jam, and there was another riot. Some didn't like apple, while others who received plum were partial to apple. After a while differences were adjusted and the issue went on.

Bermuda onions, seventeen.

The corporal avoided a row by saying that he did not want an onion, and I said they make your breath smell, so I guessed I would do without one too. The corporal looked his gratitude.

Cheese, ponderous.

The corporal borrowed a jackknife (corporals are always borrowing), and sliced the cheese—each slicing bringing forth a part remark from the on-lookers as to the corporal's eyesight.

"Blessin' onions, eight and."

By this time the corporal's nerves had gone west, and in despair he said that the rations were to be turned over to the cook for "dun" (plum pudding). This decision elicited a little "groning," but quiet was finally restored.

"Blessin' time one."

With his borrowed jackknife, the corporal opened the tin of biscuits, and told everyone to help themselves—no body responded to this invitation. Tommy is "fed up" with biscuits.

"Butter, tins, two."

"Nine in one, ten in the other."

Another rumus.

"Pickles, mustard, bottles, one."

Nineteen names were put in a steel helmet, the last one out winning the pickles. On the next issue there were only 18 names, as the winner is eliminated until every man in the section has won a bottle.

The raffle is closely watched, because Tommy is suspicious when it comes to snatching with his rations.

When the issue is finished the corporal sits down and writes a letter home, asking them if they cannot get some M. P. (member of parliament) to have him transferred to the Royal Flying Corps where he won't have to taste rations.

At the different French estaminets in the village and at the cantons Tommy buys fresh eggs, milk, bread and pastry. Occasionally when he is flush, he invests in a tin of jam or apricots. His pay is only a shilling a day, 24 cents, or a cent a hour. Just imagine, a cent an hour for being under fire—not much chance of getting rich out there.

When he goes into the fire trench (front line), Tommy's men take a tumble. He carries in his haversack what the government calls emergency or iron rations. They are not supposed to be opened until Tommy dies of starvation. They consist of one tin of bully beef, four biscuits, four tins of which contains the sugar and Oxo cubes (concentrated beef tablets). These are only to be used when the enemy establishes a curtain of shell fire on the communication trenches, preventing the "dishing out" of rations, which in an attack a body of troops has been cut off from its base of supplies.

The rations are brought up at night by the company transport. This is a section of the company in charge of the quartermaster sergeant, composed of men, mules and limbers (two-wheeled wagons), which supplies Tommy's wants while in the front line. They are constantly under shell fire. The rations are unloaded at the entrance trench where the "dishing out" and are "carried in" by men detailed for that purpose. The quartermaster sergeant never goes into the front-line trench. He doesn't have to, and I have never heard of one volunteering to do so.

The company sergeant major sorts the rations and sends them in.

Tommy's trench rations consist of all the bully beef he can eat, biscuits, cheese, tinned butter (sometimes 17 men to a tin), jam, marmalade, and occasionally fresh bread (ten to a loaf). When it is possible he gets tea and stew.

When things are quiet, and Fritz is behaving like a gentleman, which seldom happens, Tommy has the opportunity of making dessert. This is "trench pudding." It is made from broken biscuits, condensed milk, jam, and a little brandy. Tommy drenches with mud—put into a canteen and cooked over a little spirit stove known as "Tommy's cooker."

(A firm in Blighty widely advertises these cookers as a necessity for the men in the trenches. Guiltless people buy them—ship them to the Tommies, who immediately upon receipt of same throw them over the parapet. Sometimes a Tommy falls for the ad, and uses the cooker in a dugout to the disgust and discomfort of the other occupants.)

This mess is stirred up in a tin and allowed to simmer over the flames from the cooker until Tommy decides that it has reached sufficient (guiltless) consistency. He takes his bayonet and mess up in the front trench to cool. After it has cooled off he tries to eat it. Generally one or two Tommies in a section have cast-iron stomachs and the tin is soon emptied. Once I tasted trench pudding, but only once.

In addition to the regular ration issue Tommy uses another channel to enlarge his menu.

In the English papers a "Lonely Soldier" column is run. This is for men who are without friends or relatives to be without friends or relatives. They write to the papers and their names are published. Girls and women in England answer them, and send out parcels of foodstuffs, cigarettes, etc. I have known a "Lonely" soldier to receive as many as five parcels and eleven letters in one week.

CHAPTER VIII

The Little Wooden Cross.

After remaining in our billets for eight days, we received the unwelcome tidings that the next morning we would "go in" to "take one." At six in the morning our march started and, after a long march down the dusty road, we again arrived at Reserve billets.

I was No. 1 in the leading set of four. The man on my left was named "Pete Walling," a cherry sort of fellow. He laughed and joked all the way on the march, buoying up my drooping spirits. I could not figure out anything attractive in again occupying the front line, but Pete did not seem to mind, said it was all in a lifetime. My left heel was billeted from the rubbing of my heavy marching boot. Pete noticed that I was limping and offered to carry my rifle, but by this time I had learned the ethics of the march in the British army and contemptuously refused his offer.

We had gotten half-way through the communication trench, Pete in my immediate rear. He had his hand on my shoulder, as men in a communication trench have to do to keep in touch with each other. We had just climbed over a barbed-wire part of the trench when in our rear a man tripped over a loose signal wire, and let out an oath. As usual, Pete pushed the body on.

The faller man he had to cross this barbed-wire part. A bullet cracked in the air and I ducked. Then a moan from the rear. My heart stood still. I went back and Pete was lying on the ground. By the aid of my flashlight I saw that he had his hand pressed to his right breast. The fingers were covered with blood. I flashed the light on his face and in the glow a gray-blue color was stealing over his countenance. Pete looked up at me and said: "Well, Yank, they've done me in. I can feel myself going West." His voice was getting fainter and I had to kneel down to get his words. Then he gave me a message to write home to his mother and his sweetheart, and I like a great big boob, cried like a baby. I was losing my first friend of the trenches.

Word was passed to the rear for a stretcher. He died before it arrived. Two men pushed the body on the stretcher and carried it to the nearest first-aid post, where the doctor took an official record of Pete's name, number, rank and regiment from his identity card, this to be used in the casualty lists and notification to his family.

We left Pete there, but it broke our hearts to do so. The doctor informed us that we would bury him the next morning. That afternoon five of the boys of our section, myself included, went to the little ruined village in the rear and from the deserted gardens of the French chateaux gathered grass and flowers. From these we made a wreath.

While the boys were making this wreath, I sat under a shot-scarred apple tree and carved out the following verses on a little wooden shield which we nailed on Pete's cross.

True to his God; true to Britain. Doing his duty to the last. Just when more battle was written On the Roll of Honor of heroes passed— Passed to their God, enshrined in glory, Entering life of eternal rest. One more chapter in England's story Of her sons doing their best.

Rest, you soldier, make no fuss! Never forgotten by us true! Know that we are thinking of you, 'Ere to our rest we are bidden to go.

Next morning the whole section went over to say good-bye to Pete, and laid him away to rest.

After each one had a look at the face of the dead, a corporal of the R. A. M. C. sewed up the remains in a blanket. Then placing two heavy ropes across the stretcher (to be used in lowering the body into the grave), we lifted Pete onto the stretcher, and reverently covered him with a large union jack, the flag he had died for.

The chaplain led the way, then came the officers of the section, followed by two of the boys carrying a wreath. Immediately after came poor Pete on the flag-draped stretcher, carried by four soldiers. I was one of the four. Behind the stretcher, in column of fours, came the remainder of the section.

To get to the cemetery, we had to pass through the little shell-torn village, where troops were hurrying to and fro.

As the funeral procession passed these troops came to the "attention" and saluted the dead.

Foot Pals were receiving the only salute a private is entitled to "some-where in France."

Now and again a shell from the German lines would go whistling over the village to burst in our artillery lines in the rear.

When we reached the cemetery we halted in front of an open grave, and laid the stretcher beside it. Forming a hollow square around the opening of the grave, the chaplain read the burial service.

German machine-gun bullets were "cracking" in the air above us, but Pete didn't mind, and neither did we.

When the body was lowered into the grave the flag having been removed, we clicked our heels together and came to the salute.

I left before the grave was filled. I could not bear to see the dirt thrown on the blanket-covered face of my comrade. On the western front there are no coffins, and you are lucky to get a blanket to protect you from the wet and the worms. Several of the section stayed and decorated the grave with white stones.

That night, in the light of a lonely candle in the machine gunner's dugout at the front line I wrote a note to the rear. One to Pete's mother, the other to his sweetheart. While doing this I cursed the Prussian war gas with all my heart, and I think that St. Peter noted same.

The machine gunners in the dugout were laughing and joking. To them Pete was unknown. Pretty soon, in the darkness of their meriment, my blues disappeared. One soon forgets on the western front.

CHAPTER IX

Suicide Annex.

I was in my first dugout and looked around curiously. Over the door of mine was a little sign reading "Suicide Annex." One of the boys told me that this particular front trench was called "Suicide Ditch." Later on I learned that machine gunners and clubbers are known as the "Suicide Club."

That dugout was muddy. The men slept in mud, washed in mud, ate mud, and dreamed mud. I had never before realized that so much discomfort and misery could be contained in those three little letters, M U D. The floor of the dugout was an inch deep in water. Outside it was raining cats and dogs, and this rivulet was trickling down the steps. From the air shaft immediately above me came a drip, drip, drip. Suicide Annex was a hole eight feet wide, ten feet long and six feet high. It was about twenty feet below the trench; at least there were twenty steps leading down to it. These steps were cut into the earth, but at that time were muddy and slippery. A man had to be very careful or else he would "about the ditch."

When we were sent down, we could not see the smoke from Tommy's fire with a knife. It was cold. The walls and roof were supported with heavy square timbers, while the entrance was strengthened with sandbags. Nails had been driven into these timbers. On each nail hung a miscellaneous assortment of equipment. The lighting arrangements were superb—one candle in a reflector made from an ammunition tin. My teeth were chattering from the cold, and the drip from the shaft did not help matters much. While I was sitting bemoaning my fate and wishing for the friend at home, the fellow next to me, who was writing a letter, looked up and innocently asked, "Say, Hank, how do you spell 'conflagration'?"

I looked at him in contempt and answered that I did not know.

From the darkness in one of the corners came a thin, piping voice singing words of the popular, trench ditty entitled:

"Pack up your Troubles in your Old Kit Bag, and Smile, Smile, Smile! Every now and then the singer

ROAD AND ISSUE FOR THIS COUNTY

SECRETARY OF STATE SAYS LICENSES WILL PAY OFF $500,000

GIVING TWIN FALLS IN THE LEAD—ESTIMATE TOTAL REVENUE OF $500,000

Twin Falls county is now receiving sufficient revenues from the sale of motor licenses to pay the interest and create sinking funds on county highway bonds in the sum of $500,000, said Secretary of State Dougherty in an interview in Boise Saturday, in which he advocated such a policy.

Twin Falls county last year led the state in the number of sales, with Ada a close second, Canyon third and Bonanza fourth.

Thirty-five thousand automobile licenses have been purchased for sale to car owners in Idaho this year, Mr. Dougherty said.

Last year the state disposed of more than 25,000 plates for which it received $415,000. The secretary of state is of the opinion that receipts from the sale of licenses this year will amount to $500,000.

Money Used on Roads

The money received from the licenses is used in building and maintaining good roads, but much of the money is being "frictioned away" by the counties, Mr. Dougherty says. He thinks the money should be spent by the state on certain projects to be determined upon before any work is done. He is a member of the state highway commission by virtue of his position.

The counties get three-quarters of all money accruing to them from the sale of licenses within their boundaries.

State Gets One-Fourth

The other quarter goes to the state. Ten per cent of the state's total is used in paying off the interest and principal on road bonds, the other 15 per cent going to the highway department, where it is spent in the construction and upkeep of roads.

Both Twin Falls and Ada counties are now receiving enough revenue from the sale of licenses to pay the interest and create sinking funds on the sale of county highway bonds in the sum of $200,000, the secretary of state pointed out, and he is an advocate of such a policy.

Means Better Roads

If the counties will anticipate their revenue from automobile licenses and road bonds they can build excellent highways, without resorting to the organization of highway districts," he said.

"More and more cars are being used annually and the increasing revenues from the licenses will not only pay the interest on the bonds but build up a sinking fund which will take care of the principal at the end of 20 years.

"The counties are now spending a few hundred dollars here and a few hundred dollars there—anything to please the taxpayers—and as a result the work done is not constructive. They are not working along fixed lines and for that reason too much of the money is being frittered away.

Where Counties Bank

"I would like to see the entire receipts from the sale of licenses expended on roads under the control of the state highway department, but of course I know the counties would never consent to such a policy. The counties would be credited with the money turned into the state and it would be spent within their boundaries with better results and greater satisfaction to the taxpayers than at the present."

WILL LOOK AFTER LABOR FOR FARMERS OF IDAHO

G. F. Thomets Returns From Canada to Take Up Important Work in This State

G. F. Thomets, formerly head of the state seed laboratory, has returned to Idaho from Canada to become federal farm labor specialist for this state. He will have quarters with the agricultural extension department of the state university at the capital.

Mr. Thomets will co-operate with the state farm market bureau and with the county farm bureaus of the state in providing the farmers with irrigators, hay bands and general farm hands. He will have the assistance of the federal government in getting labor for Idaho and in moving from one section of the state to another men who are seeking work.

The new labor specialist left Idaho four years ago to go to the Canadian Pacific railway. He was located at Calgary while in Canada. When here before Mr. Thomets was associated for a time with Don Bark, the well known irrigation engineer. He is a son of M. A. Thomets of Twin Falls.

These who know Robert W. Spangler, commonly known as "Bob," will permit with interest the following account of the career of a paper which well known club secretary, publisher and all-around booster, writes by himself and first given to the world through the Salt Lake Rotary Club Monthly, of which he is one of the bright and shining lights.

Few residents of Twin Falls have had a wider acquaintance in those parts than Mr. Spangler, and few have been of more genuine usefulness to the community.

ROBERT W. SPANGLER Magazine Publisher. (By Himself.)

South Plymouth, Ohio, was one of the coming towns of the '70's. When I was born there was a combined population of 23 people and nine dogs. South Plymouth had a future before it. But it quit growing as soon as I was born. Why continue when its mission was accomplished?

My father was a country physician, and, as I remember, people got sick from 1 to 3 a. m. on dark and stormy nights and they went for the doctor at once. Country doctoring in the good old days was a gay life—all work and very little play. When I was 14 my father died, so I had to help run the farm and things. My first bold dash into the financial maelstrom was the acceptance of a position as valet de chambre for Nellie, the little gray mare, who had out other town doctor to and fro. Nellie was not a fearsome beast. On the contrary, I could climb into the buggy, say "Giddy up," and instantly, or even after, Nellie would start for the office hitch post—to which she was never hitched. I scorned holding the lines, for urging with whip and hand had no perceptible effect on Miss Nellie. We grew to be great friends during the two months of my stable management, and I was almost ashamed to take the $20 of accrued salary—but I needed some new jeans pants.

In my fifteenth year a pair of youngsters of about my own age eloped from the city and wrote their names on them and sent it to the Saturday Blade, Chicago. By some oversight, it was printed just as I wrote it—and my future career began cresting. I knew the Blade newspapers for starting me on the downward path.

The next summer I got a job sticking type on the county paper. I was soon convinced the "old man" I was needed in the editorial department to fetch in the personals, hotel arrivals and other big news items. On my twenty-first birthday I assumed charge of a weekly news. Cincinnati, held that down for four years, at the end of which time I owed the darned thing. A man with money came along, and we got through he owned the paper and I owned his money.

The Cincinnati Enquirer heard of this change and asked for it. I answered the call, and for two years upheld the reputation of that newspaper as being the greatest on earth—and it was. I "shook" it. I busted into the editorial page with a department similar to B. L. T.'s—only better—before B. L. T. got wise to the possibilities. Then, one lovely day in June, John R. had a scrap with the managing editor, and the next day twenty-five of the best and brainiest newspaper men in the world—from the M. E. down to me—found ourselves without a job to lay out heads on, while a like number of "journalists" were changed overnight into "newspaper men." (A fairer name is a newspaper man out of a job.)

Next stop—Chicago. Hooked onto the job of associate editor of Motor Age when I told Sam Miles, the owner, I knew "nothing" about automobiles. Sam grinned and said, "You haven't got anything on the rest of us." But I was determined to make good. Later I started the first "automobile department" for the Hearst papers, and for a year or more had the proud satisfaction of knowing that at least ten million people every day read the department down as far as my name and then turned hastily to some other page. As secretary of the Chicago Automobile club I came in contact with the leading citizens of the "I will" city, and gradually acquired that gentlemanly demeanor which even yet sometimes bursts forth.

In 1907 Denver began to have growing pains. The Denver Motor club was organized and they wired me to come. I came. Took pains to get all the available motorists in the club. Then I passed on to Twin Falls. Here, among other things, I learned the inhabitants of this big city were not so big as I had imagined. I learned that the breakfast celebration.

The New West Magazine was born in Twin Falls, and was outgrowing the local printing office, when a leading railroad man of Salt Lake City said: "Come to Salt Lake and publish a magazine that will tell the world of the development of the intermountain west. Salt Lake is destined to be the big city of the west." I believed him and came. Three years later I sold him the paper, stronger than ever and consider him a man of rare vision.

When Salt Lake City does become "the big city of the west" the Rotary club may honestly and conscientiously take a goodly part of the credit. I have an abiding faith in the Rotary club and consider it the "one bright spot" in Zion.

Why Not Drive Poison Out?

Do you realize that the kidneys never have a moment's rest? They work all the time, day and night, year in and year out, filtering poisonous waste products from the blood. Is it any wonder the kidneys get out of order, weak, or too tired to keep the blood stream clear of impurities?

When the kidneys fail, trouble begins. The waste matter accumulates in different parts of the system, and backache, swollen joints, aching muscles, pains inside, biliousness, blurred vision, puffiness under eyes, or rheumatic pains result.

Foley Kidney Pills

Help weak, tired, disordered kidneys to do their work. They cleanse and heal the kidneys, soothe and soothe the bladder and have a wonderful tonic action on the liver.

Mr. Louis Fitch, 121 Jefferson Ave., Battle Creek, Mich., writes:

"For years I suffered from kidney trouble. The doctors told me I was an old man and gave me medicine which did me no good. A friend told me of Foley's Kidney Pills and I tried them. In a few days I felt better and in a week I was able to do my work. I had a permanent cure. I am now 65 years old, a veteran of the Civil War, and I feel like a new man. I can do my work and I feel like a new man."

You can take your kidneys back to normal with Foley's Kidney Pills. They are sold everywhere.
