Incomplete returns of the seed survey taken by the Twin Falls county farm bureau last week show that the amount of seed wheat in the hands of farmers of the county falls short by approximately 1000 bushels of

The returns show an immense surplus of potatoes, although the acreage to be devoted to this crop this year is larger than anticipated. Oats and barley seedling are available in quantities double the amount required to sow the acreage indicated in the reports. The seed supply for sowings of alfalfa and red clover also is short, and the supply of beans is inadequate by about 2000 pounds for planting requirements. There is a surplus of clover seed.

The purpose of the farm bureau is to secure the distribution of the local seed supply, and to this end lists of those who have seed for sale and of those who want it have been prepared, and are placed on file in the office of the county agent for the Falls.

There are 1,000 bushels of 100 pounds of wheat for sale at various demands for 488,360 pounds; 63,000 pounds of oats for sale and 22,760 pounds wanted; 61,800 pounds of barley for sale and 20,400 pounds wanted; 360,950 pounds of potatoes for sale and 51,400 pounds wanted; 3110 pounds of beans for sale and 630 pounds wanted; 2,000 pounds of clover for sale and 9,321 pounds wanted; 1,340 pounds of rye for sale and 1,340 pounds wanted.

URGENT NEED IS FOR INCREASED
BUYING AND EARLY STORAGE
ON PART OF DEALERS AND CON-SUMERS IS DESIRED.

Utah mine operators will not advance the price at the mines of prepared and mine run coal, as authorized by recent order of the United States fuel administration, but they will comply with the required reduction in the price of slack and screenings. According to word sent to local dealers, this action is taken in the hope that dealers and consumers will avail themselves of an early opportunity to store coal, and it is the result of the present situation where demand for coal is considerably less than the available supply.

Shipments at Low Ebb

Fear is expressed over the danger that operators will be unable to hold their organizations together with shipments touching the low ebb in two or three weeks, and the disastrous effect of a situation that would result in the mine workers becoming scattered by lack of employment in the mines is pointed out.

Local dealers' bins are stored to capacity, and relief in the present situation will have to come from the purchases for storage of consumers, it is stated.

Effect of Order

The effect of the fuel administration order as transmitted by State Administrator J. B. Gooding and explained by him is to require reduction of 85 cents a ton in the price of slack, now selling at the mine for $1.95 a ton, and to authorize increase of 45 cents a ton on prepared sizes and of 5 cents a ton on mine run coal, now selling at the mine mouth for $3.75 and $4.10 a ton respectively.

The order made uniform the prices for coal at the mines in both Utah and Wyoming. In the latter state its effect was to reduce the price of prepared sizes 20 cents a ton and increase mine run 15 cents a ton, screenings 25 cents a ton.

Defrauding Bull Bank

Wearing the uniform of the United States army from which he was recently discharged, H. T. Jensen, 22, was arrested by Marshal Brynmiller of Buhl at Contact Monday on a charge of passing a forged check. He has been lodged in the Twin Falls jail. The accusation against Jensen is that he forged a check in the amount of $25 on the Twin Falls Bank & Trust company, which he cashed at the Farmers' National bank in Buhl. He was followed by the Buhl officer to Contact, and was brought to Twin Falls early Wednesday morning. Word from police officers at Shoshone is that Jensen is wanted there on charges of passing bad checks. Acquiescence to his being tried here, however, was given.

The former will have for his subject "The Conservation of Wildlife," and the latter "The Conservation of Our Natural Resources." These lectures are a part of the Lyceum course of lectures being given by local lecturers.

Both are practical subjects which affect our personal and social or national interests, and both speakers bring to the treatment of the subjects broad preparation and experience.

The public is cordially invited by the people of the Community church to be present and derive the benefit from these lectures.

Delays Departure One Day to Speak at Public Meeting Under Auspices of Council of Defense in Interests of War Measures

Delaying his departure one day in order that he might speak, in response to invitation, on the necessity of increased food production and conservation and in interests of other war measures at a public meeting on Wednesday evening in the parish hall under the auspices of the county council of defense, Rev. L. B. Frank, for three years pastor of the Episcopal church of St. George, left this morning for Atlanta, Georgia, where he will take up his work as secretary of either the religious or educational department of the Y. M. C. A. work at Camp Gordon.

In preparation for this work, Mr. Frank, during the month of January, attended the Y. M. C. A. war college at Chicago, and it was in compliance with the promptings of Dean Eubank of that institution as well as of others acquainted with Mr. Frank's adaptability for the work that he was persuaded to respond to this call into the service.

Owing to the number of men in the ministry entering the service as chaplains and in Y. M. C. A. work, it is stated, and because of the activity of the Episcopal church, Mr. Frank's departure for Georgia is a source of regret to the community.

In token of the leaving of their rector to enter the Y. M. C. A. service, the members of Ascension church have displayed a new United States flag from the parish hall. Members of the vestry accompanied Mr. Frank with a complete camp kit, and the Guild presented him with a private communion service.

DELIVER WATER FOR EARLY IRRIGATION

CANAL COMPANY DIRECTORS ADVISE FULLEST POSSIBLE USE OF AVAILABLE SUPPLY

Reports from Upper Snake River Basin Indicate That With Care, Adequate Delivery for Growing Purposes Will be Secured This Season

In view of the dry weather of the past three months, directors of the Twin Falls Canal company advise early use of irrigation water this spring, and turned water for this purpose into the canal system on Monday last. The system was closed Wednesday morning for two days, but water will be turned in again Friday for the entire irrigating season.

Accumulation of snow in the upper Snake river basin is reported to be less than last year, but assurance is given that there is sufficient quantity to supply needs for the greater part of the season from the runoff, and that thereafter water will be diverted from Jackson lake to complete the season. It is reported that Jackson lake will be filled to capacity this year.

With the co-operation of water users, and in view of improvements that have been made or are under way in the canal system, it is the opinion of the directors and General Manager J. C. Wheeler that an abundant delivery of water will result to every portion of the area under the system this year.

At a meeting of the directors of the Twin Falls Canal company here last week, Claude Brown of Castleford was elected a member of the board to fill the vacancy occasioned by resignation of C. J. Wertz of Buhl, who has moved to Nampa. Mr. Brown was one of the candidates for canal director on the farm bureau ticket at the election last December, being elected at that time. Pending decision of the supreme court upon the validity of that election, he with the others elected at that time was restrained from taking office.

Contracts for the construction of dormitories for the state normal school at Dillon, Montana, and for the state orphans' home at Twin Butte, Mont., have been let to the W. G. Bricks made by inmates of the state penitentiary are to be used according to the terms of the contract. Mr. Reed expects to supervise personally the work, which is to be started on both contracts in the immediate future.

In the meantime it will be occupied by the minister and his family, as the church manse. The consideration for the transfer is reported to be $500. Possession is to be given about April 1.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS
The condition of national banks show the deposits have reached the highest figures ever known—$1,564,079,000. This increase was to a considerable extent accounted for by deposits received in connection with the settlements for the second Liberty Loan, and it was thought that when the deposits which the government had made with the banks at that time should be withdrawn to meet the treasury requirements, there might be a large reduction in them.

URGENT PATRIOTIC DUTY

portant consideration in this country today is the winning of the war, and we must all fulfill our part wherever we can serve best, whether it be in the trenches in France or here in support of the boys who have gone to France. The world is facing starvation. Sugar is one of the vital requirements. And our duty in serving best where we can is to produce sugar up to the requirements set for us by the government. "I believe that when our people view this situation in its true light, and from a patriotic standpoint, they will respond in full measure, and I shall be glad to give any opportunity to say or do anything that I can to urge the movement along," Mr. Bracken said in conclusion.

Present Prospects

Discussion at the meeting brought to light the facts that out of 10,000 acres of beets asked for by the government of the Twin Falls district, contracts to grow only about 2500 acres have been signed.

This acreage will produce beets sufficient only for a three week supply at the Twin Falls factory and will produce an inconsiderable quantity of sugar, Mr. Budge said. "Unless this acreage is increased it will be impossible to operate the Twin Falls factory this year," he added. "So far as the profits of the business are concerned, the sugar factory operators would be glad to quit or turn the operation over to the government. The government cannot undertake the operation of the sugar mills, because it is already overburdened with care and responsibilities. The operators are continuing in the game only because of their appreciation of the need for sugar of the nation and of the allies who are fighting for civilization against the Hun."

"I don't know what could be more to the discredit of the district of the state than to allow our sugar factories to remain idle this year and during the war," he said.

from the standpoint of financial return of growing sugar beets and wheat was made at the meeting. J. M. Maxwell, cashier of the First National bank, outlined a comparison that was filled by other speakers to show that whereas the beet growers' responsibility for his crop ceases the moment he weighs it at the dump in his vicinity, and payment is prompt, the wheat grower this year is confronted with the necessity of holding his product until such time as requirements, as determined by the government, demand its movement.

C. D. Thomas, who addressed a meeting at Kimberly Monday, urging the importance of sugar production, stated the expression of these men in his audience lead him to believe that if the operation of the factories was taken over by the government, they would be swamped with beets. He expressed the opinion that if growers were permitted to place men designated by themselves in charge of beet weighing stations, a satisfactory result would result. It was pointed out that the factory operators already had agreed to an arrangement whereby men designated by the government would be put in such positions. Mr. Budge corroborated this statement, adding that whether a farm bureau man or another were selected, the operators would consent to the growers' supervision over the weighing.

W. F. Alworth, president of the state farm bureau, outlined some of the arguments he had employed in meetings

Neither Mr. Hochbaum nor Mr. Thomas addressed the meeting. The former said that he had attended to learn personally of the situation in order that he might gain information to spread elsewhere. Mr. Thomas, who has been appointed only recently to the position, he said, said that he is still outlining his plans for meeting the labor problem. He expressed the opinion that the labor situation in Idaho is encouraging and that there will be adequate supply to fill all requirements of the farmers.

That there is an available supply of labor adequate for every need of agriculture in the county this year is the message that is being delivered by speakers throughout the county this week. Arrangements for the delivery of this message were made at a meeting of Twin Falls business men in the farm bureau offices here Saturday afternoon. Action was taken after a full consideration of all of the elements entering into the local situation and in view of the imperative necessity for lending unstinted encouragement to the farmers in their work of fulfilling wartime production requirements.

Close Shops if Need Be
Promises was given at this meeting that if other sources of labor failed, business men of the city would close their offices and stores for as long as need be and give their services for the production of crops.

A principal purpose of the speaking campaign is to encourage signing of contracts to grow beets by removing fear of labor shortage, which is regarded as the main deterrent factor. The Twin Falls district is expected to produce 10,000 acres of beets this season.

This is the allotment made by the federal government. It is 3000 acres more than were grown last year. Of this amount on Saturday less than 3000 acres had been signed for. Review of the labor situation at the meeting Saturday indicated the conditions more favorable than they have ever been in the history of the state. Distribution of labor in Idaho this year is under the immediate supervision of G. F. Thomas of Twin Falls and Canada, recently appointed to the position of federal farm labor specialist for the state. In addition, there are to be three other representatives of the federal government in this work, to be situated, one at Lewiston, another at Boise and a third at Pocatello. Their business is to attend to distribution of the local labor supply and, if need be, to supervise the importation of outside labor as may be required. Work has been received from the commissioners of labor in the state of Washington that there are 10,000 idle men in the ship yards there who had come expecting to work in the shipyards. Being farmers, they are unfitted for the class of work needed there. The governor of California also reports a surplus of idle men, and calls upon Idaho to help absorb them.

The labor requirements of the Twin Falls district, except in the beet fields, are less than usual. Planting and seeding is practically completed. The potato crop will be less than usual. Hay lands have been converted in great amount into wheat fields, requiring less labor than the hay crop.

Completion of the farm survey in this county is showing where the local labor supply is and how it may be reached and distributed to the best advantage under supervision of the county agent and the farm bureau.

In view of these circumstances, the local business men feel justified in assuring growers of the abundance of the labor supply, and in calling upon them to proceed without fear of handicap on this score in the production of wartime maximum.

Meetings earlier in the week were addressed on Monday at Kimberly by C. D. Thomas, on Tuesday at Curry by Hal G. Blue, and on Wednesday at Deep Creek by C. O. Manning of Buhl and at Buhl by C. D. Thomas.

TAKE THIRD HONORS IN STATE CONTEST

TWIN FALLS BASKETBALL TEAM MAKES CREDITABLE SHOWING AT MOSCOW

Defeated Title Holders of Pocatello and Idaho Falls District and Is Eliminated by a Narrow Margin in Game With Nez Perce.

In the first annual state high school basketball tournament at Moscow last week, the Twin Falls high school team won third place. In the preliminary contests in which five of the 11 teams entered were eliminated, Twin Falls defeated the Sugar City team, representing the Blackfoot and Pocatello district, by score of 9 to 3. The second game was against the Nez Perce team, which was defeated in the final contest against Moscow for the championship by score of 26 to 16. Twin Falls was defeated by Nez Perce by the narrow score of 20 to 18, the winning basket being made in the last half minute of play.

Commenting upon the trip and the performance of the Twin Falls team, Coach E. P. Nafziger said, "The team stood the long trip well and gave a good account of themselves in the contest. They found it rather difficult to play their best game on the large university floor, to which some of their opponents were accustomed, but the whole made a creditable showing among the 11 teams entered, and one sufficient to justify their claim to third place."

Members of the team while in Moscow were entertained at one of the fraternity houses. They were conducted among the various departments of the university and the enthusiasm over the opportunities and prospects afforded for college work.

At a meeting of the coaches of the teams attending the tournament a state high school athletic organization was formed to promote the athletic interests of the state. Mr. Bleasman, physical director of the university, was elected president and Coach Nafziger vice-president. The university authorities considered the tournament a very successful affair, complimenting the teams attending on their good sportsmanship and basketball ability.

DEPUTY SHERIFF NOW ENDORSES IT

J. D. PATTON SAYS TANLAC ENDS HIS TROUBLES OF TWENTY YEARS STANDING

"I suffered for twenty years with rheumatism, indigestion and a chronic liver trouble, and spent hundreds of dollars for different kinds of medicine trying to get well, but it is now over. Three bottles of Tanlac straightened me out and make me feel like a different man," said J. D. Patton, of Keeton, Okla., a man well known in that section and also in Rains county, Texas, where he served as deputy sheriff for several years. Mr. Patton is now deputy sheriff of Muskogee county, Okla., and holds large farming interests here. "It's an actual fact," he continued, "I was hardly ever free from rheumatism and was so full of misery most of the time I couldn't rest or sleep at night to amount to anything. The main trouble seemed to be in my shoulders and the neural pains were due, I think, to the condition of my liver. I wouldn't eat to my good and had to be very careful about it. Little that I managed to force down or I still have had of suffering afterwards. I fell off two or three pounds in weight and got into such a bad shape it was a burden to look after the work on the farm and attend to all of my other business. I kept getting worse all the time and had just about given up hope of ever getting anything to relieve me."

"But three bottles of Tanlac have done me so much good I haven't had an ache or a pain since I finished taking them, and honestly I do feel like the same person. I have a good appetite and I can eat anything I want and it all agrees with me. Too, I have gained back all of my lost weight, sleep like a log at night and when I get up in the morning I am full of energy and attend to my business without a bit of trouble."

"My wife is so pleased with the results that I have gotten from Tanlac that she bought a bottle for herself to-day. We know just what it will do and feel satisfied that there isn't another medicine in the world just as good."

Tanlac is sold in Twin Falls by City Pharmacy, in Rogersburg by Thompson Drug Co., in March by Murtough Drug Co., in Filer by A. B. Wood, in Buhl by C. D. Boring Brothers Co., and in Kimberly by W. A. L. Stowe—Adv.

DEFENSE AUXILIARY IS FORMED AT BUHL

An auxiliary of the Twin Falls County Council of Defense was formed in Buhl last Friday evening, says the Buhl Herald, and the committee was organized by the election of officers. It will be their duty to work in conjunction with the Twin Falls county defense council to handle all cases of sedition and disloyalty that are reported in the west end of the county. The committee is unlike the former Buhl defense committee in that they have legal authority to hear the evidence and to act on all cases reported. The members of the Buhl auxiliary of the defense council are C. H. McQuinn, chairman; J. W. Faris, vice-chairman; V. R. Laird, secretary; J. M. Shank, prosecuting attorney; Luke V. AND CONVENIENCE TO PUBLIC

The First National Bank of Twin Falls announces that it will occupy its new banking quarters beginning on Monday, March 25. The public is invited to inspect the banking rooms on Saturday, March 23, when they will be open between the hours of three in the afternoon and nine o'clock in the evening.

The remodeled home of the First National bank, which it will move into and start work in on Monday, March 25, is a thoroughly modern banking institution, fitted out with up-to-date appliances and equipment, fully adequate to meet the demands of the bank's increasing business.

The alterations to the banking room have practically doubled the available space. The old store which faced Main street has been thrown into the banking quarters, resulting in a room forty-eight by sixty-two feet. In addition, there are storage rooms and vaults in the basement.

Hogges Brothers, who are the recognized bank planning experts of the country, have given careful consideration to the layout of the banking room, so as to insure the greatest facility and economy of operation, while providing at the same time for the utmost comfort and convenience of the bank's patrons.

The alterations to the exterior include the remodeling of the entire first floor front on Main street, providing a suitable bank facade, with a handsomely designed central entrance of Boise sandstone. This entrance has a double vestibule with three sets of double doors. On the outside are heavy paneled, night doors, which give necessary protection during the hours when the bank is closed. Back of these are the double storm doors with single plate glass panels, and on the inside are the in-and-out doors dividing the traffic. The vestibules have marble floors with trim of the same material.

The interior of the bank is beautifully and tastefully decorated, and finished in marble, oak and bronze.

There is a commodious public space twenty by forty feet. The terrace marble floor is paneled and outlined by mosaic marble borders. The public space is enclosed by handsomely designed marble and bronze counters, the low portion of which is of Tarsusville Flouiri Italian marble with base of the same material. The upper portion of the counter is of delicately moulded and carved bronze pilasters, pierced with telescopic wickets of open brass grilles, through which public business may be transacted.

Special consideration has been given to properly lighting the banking room and waiting space. Most pleasing effect is obtained by the use of Linoleite reflectors back of the cornice of the counterpane, giving continuous lighting along the whole edge system. At each wicket is installed a Polaris sign of special design in glass on which is etched the designation of the wicket, by means of light from overhead, reflected through the glass, is thrown in distinct relief.

The special call for the officers back of low rail is to the right of the public space. Immediately to the rear of the officers' quarters is a cage for notes and collections and one for special business. Extending across the public space at its rear, and facing the entrance, are the three cages for the tellers. On the left hand of the public space for three cages for special business, statements and exchange and savings. At the rear, adjoining the tellers' cages and collections, is an open railing and enclosed office for the assistant cashier. On the Shoshone street side, where the best natural light is obtainable, and back of the cages, is the working space equipped with modern labor saving devices to expedite the routine business of the bank.

A concrete vault structure has been built from the foundation up through the building construction, all vaults resting on their own foundations. This concrete work affords space in the basement for storage of old books and records, and on the first floor for safe deposit boxes. The vault is eight inches thick, composed of tool resisting chrome non-burnable and open hearth steel for vaulting strength. The equipment includes modern actuating and locking devices, such as a continuous train of bolts, double pressure bar system, goose-neck pattern crane hanger, heavy bolt frames, glass cover case, double combination locks and three movement time locks. The vestibule to this vault has a heavy day gate to guard the vault during business hours when the door is open. The interior of the vault is divided by a heavy steel grille into compartments for the bank's funds, receipts and customers' safe deposit boxes. These compartments have an up-to-date equipment of heavy steel doors, bronze hinges, double master key guards and inside tin bond cases. The book vault has a full assortment of metal filing devices to accommodate the bank's checks, deposit tickets, books and record correspondence.

A large room for the directors and for committee meetings has been provided at the rear of the Shoshone street side.

Ample locker and retiring room facilities have been provided for the working force.

Special attention has been given to the women patrons of the bank. A private room has been provided for their use in the front of the bank at the left of the vestibule. This room is decorated in gray enamel to match the furniture, consisting of easy chairs, writing table and other conveniences.

The remodeled building, with its enlarged quarters, will afford ample accommodations for the steadily increasing volume of business of the First National Bank of Twin Falls.

In the equipment, appointment and conveniences it is equal to any like edifice in the west.

Help the suffering; have a bundle of used clothing ready for the men, women and children in the occupied territory of France and Belgium, says A. G. Gilbert, chairman of the relief commission for Twin Falls county, in a statement to the public, which continues:

The Red Cross is asking you to provide serviceable articles of wearing apparel which can be worn by men, women and children of France and Belgium, who are in great need under the German tyrant.

Please take your bundles to the Parish hall, or phone Red Cross headquarters, No. 950, if it is too large, and it will be called for.

Developments of the Week on the European Battle Fronts

Americans in Action
American troops now are in the front line trenches at five different points in France.

They are constantly in action and acquitting themselves creditably. It can now be revealed for the first time that in their raid on March 11, not only did they act on their own initiative, but they penetrated the enemy trenches to a depth of 300 yards. They had no French support in this movement.

The entente is losing hope of a sustained German offensive in the west. Only if compelled to by the exigencies of the general strategic situation will Germany try to break through on the western front.

The general situation is improving along the western front from the allied viewpoint. British and French successes took place during the last week.

Situation in Russia
With the ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany the soviet congress in Moscow has dissolved. But the Germans have not yet ceased their inroads into Russia's richest territory in the south. Nikolayev, the great navy yard city southeast of Odessa and headquarters of the high command of the Russian Black Sea fleet, is the latest prize that has been wrested from the Russians.

Up to the last some of the chief members of the soviet congress opposed the hard terms of the Germans, but to no avail. Warnings were issued by several of them of a further German attack and of the necessity for amalgamating resistance. Before adjournment the congress approved the removal of the capital from Petrograd to Moscow.

British Bomb Mannheim
Everywhere the airmen of both sides are keenly active. Particularly so are the British, who, in addition to numerous air raids behind the lines, bombing points of contact and landing in flights in the air with enemy aviators, since October have carried out 235 raids, or 38 raids, into German territory. The important town of Mannheim has been their latest target, explosive bombs exceeding a ton in weight having been dropped there. Both sides are claiming heavy toll in casualties shot down during combats in the air.

Germans Enter Odessa
Virtually unopposed in their advance through Moldavia and Bessarabia, German forces entered Odessa, the greatest Russian seaport on the Black sea and the center of a great agricultural section, the products of which are needed to feed the hungry peoples of the central empire. By securing control of Odessa, the Teutons gain access to vast stores of wheat which can be transported overland or by sea to points where it can be shipped readily into Germany and Austria. They also advanced over the route to Persia, Afghanistan and possibly India, which is to be followed now that the British have severed the Berlin-Bagdad route to the east.

Toll of U-Boats
For the third successive week the British admiralty reports the loss by mine submarine of 18 British merchantmen. The arrivals in ports in the United Kingdom last week numbered 2046; sailings, 2002. Eight merchantmen were attacked successfully.

Runs Demand Reparation
In reparation for the destruction by the British of 400 German merchant ships, the Berlin Tages Zeitung last week demanded the destruction of an equal number of English towns by Teuton airmen. "Softness and sentimentality are stupid in war time," it said.

Deaths

William D. Miles
Succumbing to sudden attack of heart disease in Seattle, where he had gone to work in the shipyard, William D. Miles, aged 40, father of Mrs. J. E. Cross of Twin Falls, died on March 22. The remains were brought here and interment was in the Twin Falls cemetery, following funeral services held on Monday afternoon from the Grossman & DeWitt chapel, conducted by Rev. D. T. Anderson. The Moore lodge, of which deceased was a member, attended as an organization.

Prior to going to Seattle, Mr. Miles was for many years a contractor and builder in St. Louis. He was born and grew to manhood in Nebraska. He is survived by his widow, their daughter, Mrs. Cross, and a son, Harry Miles, of St. Louis. Mrs. Miles was with her husband in Seattle at the time of his death, and came with the remains to Twin Falls, where she expects to make her home in the future. The son arrived here for the funeral services.

Abner B. Hill
As a result of appendicitis, Abner B. Hill, aged 46, well known ranchman of Kimberly and Hansen, died at 11 o'clock Friday night, March 15, at a local hospital. Two days before his death Mr. Hill was brought here from his home two and one-fourth miles southeast of Hansen, to undergo an operation. His condition was critical and the operation proved unavailing to relieve his health. Deceased came to Idaho ten years ago from Arkansas, residing until recently, when he purchased a farm near Hansen, on a ranch in the vicinity of Kimberly. He is survived by his widow and four children. He was a member of the Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges. Funeral services Sunday afternoon were held from the Christian church at Kimberly, being conducted by Rev. V. G. Backman and attended by a large number of neighbors and friends, who are saddened by his untimely death.

Philo Hilton Westney
The funeral of Philo Hilton Westney, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Westney, residing one and one-fourth miles southeast of Twin Falls, who died from pneumonia on Monday, was held Tuesday afternoon from the Crosby chapel, Mrs. Gertrude B. Harnan officiating. Mrs. Charles Hittler sang "Looking This Way." Interment was in the Twin Falls cemetery.

Vern Saunders
Vern Saunders, one month old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Saunders, died Tuesday after a brief illness. Funeral services under direction of the Christian Science church were held Tuesday afternoon from the home of the mother's parents in this city.

SOCIETY

ONE of the most prominent weddings of the season was solemnized on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Wilson, became the bride of A. Wilton Peck. The wedding was beautifully decorated with a profusion of small and pink and white roses. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Helene Allmendinger sang two selections, "Beloved, It Is I" and "The Years at the Spring." Miss Zelma Larmore played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Mr. Peck entered first, taking his place before the Rev. Brand of the Presbyterian church, followed by Miss Wilson on the arm of her father. The bride was exquisitely attired in a white satin gown, beaded with pearls and overlaid with tulle finished with a long fish tail train. The veil was held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses, orchids and lilies of the valley. The young couple were unattended. An exquisite parrot ring was the groom's gift to his bride. Forty guests witnessed the impressive ceremony, which was followed by a wedding supper. The bridal table was charming with its Chouy lace cover and crystal vase of pink roses. Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Granville Haight, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Bailey. The bride wore a charming suit of tulle with hat to match. Both young people are popular in the younger set and have a host of friends who wish them joy. They will make their home at 207 Eighth avenue east.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Bailey entertained at a seven o'clock dinner on Sunday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Peck. The entire color scheme was pink and white. Caricatures of the same colors in a glass basket tied with tulle centered the charmingly appointed table. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alexander, and Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Bailey.

Miss Burd Wall has issued invitations for next Saturday honoring Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Peck.

Mrs. T. A. Reed was hostess to the M. C. club on last Wednesday. Mrs. F. R. Cox, a guest of the club for the afternoon, captured the prize for high score, a box of chocolates.

On Friday evening Mrs. H. W. Sawyer, Mrs. E. B. Helnecke and Mrs. Ernest White entertained at bridge at the White home. Mrs. Martin, who is the house guest of Mrs. W. H. Dwight, won the prize for high score, a book of Thrift Stamps. Dainty refreshments were served to the Mademoiselle Gotti.

Some Coffee is too much one way—Some too much the other—

Golden West Coffee is "Just Right"

Mrs. Thomas Bowberry was hostess to the members of the Thursday Bridge Club at her Addison avenue home last week. At five o'clock a dainty two-course luncheon was served to the Mesdames Karis, J. C. Moore, Crow, Conover, White, Leopold, Alana, Parsons, Putnam, Miss Cashion, Mrs. Pharis Bowberry, Mrs. L. T. Moore and Mrs. S. Jeffz.

Miss Nellie Sanderson and Miss Marjorie Metcalf were delightfully surprised by the other members of the Alpha house Friday evening. At six o'clock the guests were seated at a table charming with its color scheme of green and white, with motifs of "Auld Ireland." The Alpha dinner guests were the Mesdames Marjorie Metcalf, Nola Sanderson, Anna Scott, Hazel Bailey, Oral Anderson, Ruth Millard, Jessie Warrington, Margaret Edwards, and Nalle Jones. Ruth Warrington and Maud Schneck, guests. Following the dinner several friends were invited in for the evening. They were the Mesdames Betty Dunn, Harriet Biggs, Mary Benson, Ellen Goshel, Geneva Stafford, Alice Crane, Ethel Mussel and Ruth Mussel.

A most unique and pleasant affair was the St. Patrick's dinner which the members of the Winodulac club and their husbands enjoyed Monday evening at the A. B. Ostrander home when Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Young were hosts and hostesses. Decorations bore the emerald hues and the guests were received with true Irish hospitality, the occasion especially honoring Mr. and Mrs. Piteclair, who leave soon for California, where they will make their home, and L. E. Breckenridge, who gives his services to his country and expects to leave next week for the same destination. Mr. and Mrs. Piteclair were all had assembled at 10 o'clock. Mr. Ostrander appeared in costume and taking a "Cafeteria" sign on the door leading to the dining room, proceeded to deliver a speech of welcome and to explain the intent of the printed menus which Miss Zelma Larmore and Miss Eloise Spaford distributed to the guests. It was some time before the hidden meaning of the various viands could be deciphered. In the meantime the head chef, Billy Mulligan, had been introduced also Mollie Mulligan and Maggie Murphy. Lining up in the dining room, trays were loaded with an abundance of good things, which soon disappeared after they had been carried to tables spread in the parlors. During the evening Miss Larmore played the popular Irish ballads, not overlooking the "Irish Washerwoman," so enthralling her audience as to make them hilarious for the remainder of an evening which proved one of the very best of many such occasions enjoyed by the Winodulac club.

BUILDERS AND UNION LABOR IN WORD WAR

EMPLOYERS REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE ORGANIZATION'S DEMANDS

EACH SIDE EXPLAINS ITS ATTITUDE IN APPEALS TO PUBLIC OPINION—POSSIBILITY OF TIE-UP IS REMOTE

Branding as an unwarranted attempt to take advantage of existing conditions the demand of the Twin Falls Building Trades Council that non-union labor should not be employed after March 15 on construction work in this city, the Twin Falls Builders' Exchange composed of 20 employing contractors, at a meeting Friday night voted to refuse recognition to the laborers' organization or its demands, and issued a statement to the public explaining its position. The council has replied.

On Saturday two workmen employed by one of the exchange members declined for themselves that the action of the exchange justified a strike and they quit work. At the headquarters of the council, however, they were instructed to work and not to quit until ordered to do so by the council authorities. Typewritten statements setting forth the attitude of the exchange toward the council's demands were posted at a number of places where council members are employed.

Statement was made Monday at the council's headquarters that the probability of calling strikes was slight and that no test of the situation would be made unless provisions of the council's demands were actually violated.

Following is the statement of the council to the employers:

"Twin Falls Building Trades Council of Twin Falls and Vicinity to Contractors and Builders of Twin Falls and vicinity:

"Under the present conditions of our country, we deem it advisable to work in harmony and avoid all discord with all building firms and contractors who are fair to organized labor.

"Pursuant to an agreement entered into by the unions affiliated with this body, I am instructed to notify you that on and after this date (March 15) our members will not work on any job where unfair labor has been or will be employed.

"Our business agent can be reached by phone or at our hall in the old Commercial club, between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock a. m. and 12:30 and 1:30 p. m., and will be glad to furnish you with men at any time.

"B. F. HENRY,

"Rec. Sec."

Statement of the Exchange to the public under the heading, "So the People May Know," is as follows:

"The Twin Falls Builders' Exchange wishes to inform the public that it has received notice from the Building Trades Council conveying the information that after March 15th, 1936, the labor affiliated with the Council would refuse to work on any job where non-union labor of any kind was permitted.

"On the evening of March 15th all contractors associated with the Builders' Exchange met and considered the notice and the demands indicated by it, and after a full discussion unanimously agreed:

"That because of the present conditions caused by the national crisis, the scarcity of labor in all branches and the need of conserving it in every possible way, the granting of the demand with all that it means and leads to would be unwise.

"The contractors are not opposing the principles of unionism as such, but they refuse to consider at this time or to recognize any demand or any principle which can be used to deny any American citizen the right to perform needed work, or to receive needed benefit for his work, no matter what other persons may be also employed.

"The contractors feel that under the present conditions every restriction which tends to limit the labor supply in any direction, or to impose on any man any condition under which he will be permitted to work, is essentially un-American; and such restriction, if insisted upon under present conditions, can only result in forcing a greater and unnecessary burden on the public. This the contractors are unwilling to agree to.

"There have been no financial difficulties between the contractors and labor. All just demands have been freely met by the contractors; and in this connection is set out the present going scale of wages for an 8 hour day:

Lathers—$7.50, or 7 cents per yard piece work.

Carpenters—$6.00. About to ask increase to $6.50.

Painters—$5.00. About to ask increase to $6.00.

Laborers—$3.50 to $5.00. About to ask increase to $4.50 to $6.00.

Electricians—$5.00. About to ask increase to $6.00.

"Because they believe that in these times the question of what labor affiliations a man may have is of vastly less importance than the work to be done, the contractors have refused to accede to the demands made by the notice, and take this means of informing the public of their action and of their reasons for taking it.

TWIN FALLS BUILDERS' EXCHANGE.

By Ernest S. White,

By Harry M. Myers, Secretary.

The Building Trades Council on Tuesday gave out the following statement: At a meeting last Friday (March 13) an organized body of contractors known as the Builders' Exchange refused to recognize the right of labor to organize and affiliate.

"They state that because of the present conditions caused by the national crisis, the scarcity of labor in all branches and the need of conserving it in every possible way, the granting of our demand with all that it means and leads to would be unwise.

"The Building Trades Council of Twin Falls and Vicinity, which organization the Builders' Exchange refuses to recognize, consists of all building trades chartered from the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, and is recognized and endorsed by the United States government.

"In view of the fact that the Builders' Exchange has fit to try to impose upon the public the idea that we were trying to restrict labor through our demands, we wish to inform the public that we are only reserving the right to work where and with whom we please, a right that any free man ought to have.

"Instead of restricting labor we have affiliated our trades in one large body and by so doing have been able to rent an office and hire a business agent to look after work and keep our men employed as steadily as possible.

"Our working men in Twin Falls has the privilege of using our office to register when he is out of work and we will do our best to put him in touch with men needing men of his trade."

"In doing this we believe that we are conserving labor by making it possible for the contractor to get help and the working man to get work with the least possible loss of time to each party.

"We deny the right of any contractor or body of contractors to call us un-American and we seriously doubt their nerve to make it personal.

COUNCIL CALLS FOR BIDS

No License for Drink Vendors

Soft drink vendors were relieved of the liability of having to pay municipal license when the council Monday voted to kill an ordinance that had been introduced providing for that assessment. Opponents to the proposed measure were represented at this meeting by A. Benoit of the Benoit Bottling works, and T. C. Macaulay.

Plumbers Protest on Sanitation

Rumor that the council intended rescinding the provision of the ordinance providing for collection of a plumber's license fee of $100 valid so long as the plumber to whom license was issued continued in business, and to substitute in lieu thereof a measure providing for collection of $25 annual license fee, reached the ears of J. A. Campbell of the Home Plumbing & Heating company, who appeared before the council at this time to protest against such change. He was assured that such action was contemplated by the council at this time and that the plumbers would be given due notice in the event any such change were considered.

Engineer's Pay Fixed

Provision of the ordinance enacted in 1909 was produced at this meeting to show that the city engineer's compensation had been fixed at $7.50 per day except when he was employed on isolated and casual jobs, when he should collect a fee of $3 per lot for establishing grades for sidewalks. The question was in dispute because the city engineer had insisted that he was entitled to his fee of $3 per lot for his services in connection with the extensive sidewalk building campaign of last year. It had been argued frequently at previous meetings of the council, but the provision of the ordinance discussed and prevented Monday quieted the discussion. The assessment against property owners for sidewalks built last year, based on estimate compiled by the city engineer, included compensation for his services on the basis of $3 per lot. The difference between the compensation on this basis and that of the per diem basis reverts to the city treasury, it is stated.

Members of the second committee are M. J. Swooley, C. J. McCormick and L. T. Wright.

IN THE NAME OF PATRIOTISM

SUGAR BEETS! Who is going to raise them? The farmers of this section have a grievance against the Sugar Company. They are not enthusiastic about raising beets. On the other hand the Nation, its allies, and their combined armies need sugar. The supply in prospect is not nearly enough. The cane fields cannot increase production on less than two years' notice. Beet growers alone can solve the situation.

So much for the problem. It is not a matter of dollars and cents. The farmers of this section are not merely penny loyal, or dollar loyal. They have no price to put on their patriotism. Their present attitude is not designed to take advantage of the present critical situation. It is the outcome of experience of the past.

Nor is the question of labor. Labor will be imported, or else supplied by the townspeople of the cities in this section.

For the farmer the question is that of downing a bitter dose—for the good of the cause.

The farmers believe, rightly or wrongly, that in the two years during which the big Twin Falls factory has been in operation, the Company has taken as its share of the profits enough to pay for its huge initial investment, while the farmer has had only work, worry and scant if any margin for his portion.

His demand has been that the government take over the sugar factories.

This the government has not seen fit to do. Why? We do not know. Perhaps Uncle Sam has all he can handle as it is, without branching out more until what he has is better assimilated. Or perhaps the officials in charge are misinformed as to facts.

The Sugar Company can be hit by the growers refusing to raise beets this year. But at what a cost! Sugar is the crying need. Volunteers are needed. Will they respond?

A beet patch this year is another kind of service flag; it is a mark of honor just as the little Red Cross button, and the Liberty Loan emblem. This year it stands for patriotism as few other things do. It marks the man who will, in these critical times, brush aside the things of the past for the sake of the boys over there.

STRIKING A BALANCE

IN THE solution of the farm labor problem of the coming year, the fact survey that is being completed under the auspices and direction of National, State and County agencies is performing an invaluable service. Investigations of these agencies already show that the problem is one not of supply but of distribution.

While the farm survey is the means of collecting information to show the actual requirements for labor, it is also the means of securing information relative to the available farm labor supply and the solution of the problem, after the survey is completed, becomes simply a matter of striking a balance.

Left without direction of the sort provided by the Government for the assistance of agriculture in meeting the requirements of the present crisis, labor plunges headlong into what it considers its best market, with the inevitable result that these markets are glutted and industry as a whole, as well as the individual laborer, loses.

Word from Pacific Coast shipyards is that thousands of farm laborers, attracted by reports of high wages being paid to skilled workmen there, have gone thither to find that they are of use only as common laborers and that their wages will be less than they are qualified to make on the farm.

Such men must be put to work where they are economically most efficient. This is one of the purposes of the Government agencies that have been created to deal with the labor problem. In the event that the farm survey discloses the fact that the local labor supply is inadequate to meet local requirements, men will be drawn from points of congested supply and sent where they can work with most profit to themselves and industry.

Results of the investigations so far sought to exert a reassuring influence on the agricultural industry so that crop acreages will be increased in full confidence of the ability to secure labor as needed.

THE SENATORSHIP

Gradually the Senatorial situation in Idaho seems to be narrowing down to a point where it is possible to gain at least a clear idea of the field up to date. Fred T. Dubois is finally and fully eliminated as a factor. Senator Borah is getting ready to make up his mind as to whether he too would not find a change of scenery of benefit to his political health.

Former Governor Hawley and Senator Nugent appear on the one hand, the Democratic side, and on the other there is but one figure of commanding importance in the State discernible upon the political horizon at the present time.

That man is former Governor Frank R. Gooding. With all his faults, real and imagined, no one has yet succeeded in impeaching his honesty, sincerity, singleness of purpose in any cause which has ever seriously engaged his attention.

It is not known definitely that Mr. Gooding intends to be a candidate for Senator. In fact, should it fall out that such candidacy would be in opposition to Senator Borah at the primaries, it is altogether likely that he would not.

Nor more than ever the need of the country is for strong men. Men who are not afraid to battle to the last ditch in support of their convictions. Men to whom opposition has no terrors and who are ready to make any sacrifice in the cause of Right.

There may be men in Idaho of ability and experience who are just as capable as Mr. Gooding, but in the past they have not been seen to find, not in the judgment of The News, will they be this year.

WARMING UP

NOW COMES the big debate—Farmers' Non-Partisan League against the field.

President Townley of the League fired the first gun in Twin Falls County several weeks ago. Since then his lieutenants have been "consolidating positions," until now they are ready, apparently, for the big offensive. While the exact strength of the League here is not known to the outsider, yet it is known that in some parts of the County their organizers claim to have converted ninety-two and even as high as ninety-seven per cent of the farmers. In addition to this spread of the Non-Partisan propaganda, members of the League now own the Filer Journal, and probably, by this time, the Buhl Pioneer too.

To insist that the League is not a political factor in Twin Falls County is to wink at the facts. The air in the pulpit is causing more than one political aspirant to stick to the bank, hoping that the water may soon clear. Never before were there fewer hats in the ring.

The first strenuous opposition to the League came early in the week in the form of a long distance bombardment of anti-League literature mailed out from Portland—and the donors promise more of it from time to time.

The pros and cons of the question will be discussed later—during the lull. For the present the innocent spectator had better take to the tall timber or bomb-proof cellar—because there is some scrap in sight.

LOW HIDES AND HIGH SHOES

WHILE everybody's attention is centered upon the war there are some mighty funny things going on in this country. And if there aren't some scraps removed when it's all over it will be still funnier.

Some of the trusts have been behaving fairly well, but others have been sitting up nights taking advantage of the nation's preoccupation. The law of supply and demand has been meddled with again, and in some instances, it is entirely out of whack. This crowd, if not watched, is some day going to upset the law of gravitation.

A striking example of this class of outrage is the oppressive price the people of this country are forced to pay for footwear. Recent investigations disclosed the fact that there has been no raise in the price of hides; that, as a matter of fact, hides have seldom been lower.

But there are other commodities that enter into the manufacture of shoes. Besides the hide, there is the workmanship, and last but not least—the unmitigated gall of the manufacturer.

Hides are low; labor is doubtless somewhat higher; but the stiff advance that makes the wearing of shoes in these times seem like a luxury one can ill afford, has been in the last named commodity.

Some day this outfit—and others similarly engaged—are going to wake up and find themselves out of a job.

AT WAR WITH GERMAN PEOPLE

38 N. Goodman St., Rochester, N. Y., March 14, 1918.
Twin Falls News, Twin Falls Idaho.

Gentlemen: A friend sent me a copy of your edition of February 28 containing an editorial, "We Must Kill Germans."

This is, so absolutely right, and the only utterance I have seen that meets my views, that I am led to express my appreciation of it.

To the writer of that article I wish to extend my thanks as a red-blooded American, for sweeping away some of the cobwebs that dim the vision of our Chief Executive. We are at war with the German people, always have been, and always will be. Even after the end of this unholy war we must resist their encroachments.

And I think we are a nation of fools to "naturalize" any German. It is only giving them further opportunity to work their nefarious schemes. Send them all back to their beloved Fatherland, I say, and allow no more to come.

If you should have three or four copies of that edition I would like to send them to friends. On hearing from you will remit accordingly.

Your truly,

THEODORE O. HAMLIN.

(I wish I knew of some way to get that article in the New York Times or Tribune.)

PEOPLE AWAKENING

Editor Twin Falls News, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Sir: I wish to congratulate you and commend your editorial in the February 28 issue. How anyone can follow this war and not, long ago, have come to the same conclusion, I cannot understand.

There is no use rehabilitating the broken faith, the "scraps of paper," the barbarities, the ravaging of women and children, the willful, useless murder of helpless babies. All that is burned in our souls. Our senses stupefied at first will waken—and already we know that a people so utterly abandoned must be destroyed. The demand you make is becoming clear to the thinking world.

"Kill Germans," for verily with us, as with Rome, "Carthage must be destroyed."

Training Little Children

Article 2.—Kindergarten Activities Afford Profitable Amusement to Little Folks at Home

(By Mrs. Alice Wingate Frary)

The mother of small children, who does not live within reach of a kindergarten need not feel compelled to deprive her little ones of the pleasures and benefits of systematic training. It is true that the stimulus of co-operative work and play, so vital a feature of the kindergarten, is not so apt to be found in the smaller group at home and is entirely lacking in the case of the only child. Nevertheless, many of the activities provided in kindergarten can be carried on not only by the small group but by the lonely child as well.

"Come let us live with our children!" is the old familiar Froebelian slogan. We might paraphrase it by saying, "Come, let us sing with our children!" Why shouldn't children sing morning greetings to father and mother as well as to a teacher? Even 2-year-olds that I know can sing them and delight in doing so. The good morning songs to various members of the family, to the new day, to sun or clouds, sung while dressing, do much to create a sunny morning atmosphere. There are songs to accompany many of the home duties, besides a wealth of nature songs. At bedtime the devotional spirit of the evening prayer may be found in "Gathered Music of Froebel's Mother Play" and in other kindergarten song books. Any good library would have some of these, or it would be possible to buy copies through a bookseller.

A kindergarten calendar may easily be made at home. For this purpose, a sheet of white card-board is ruled off into a sufficient number of blank squares for the days of the month. The children mark the calendar each day with a suitable emblem. Yellow circles should be provided for sunny days and gray for cloudy. They umbrellas denote rain; a gray circle partly covered with white indicates snow. Advertisements furnish pictures for special occasions—a little church, a toy, a birthday cake, a Christmas tree, etc. The particular emblem is less important than the children's pleasure they take in attending to the calendar regularly, and the fact that they are being helped to a realization of divisions of time. The card should be large enough to allow for a suitable picture for the month to be mounted outside of the ruled portion. Landwehr's "Squirrel and Pair of Nutcrackers" may be used for the October sheet. Coraggio's "Holy Night" for December, Washington's or Lincoln's portrait for February.

Dinner train the scenes at the same time that they afford keen pleasure. A mother can play many games with her child without interrupting her work. Dramatization is a wonderful stimulus to the imagination, and numerous stories lend themselves to this form of recreation.

get it where the chicken got the ax, when the teachers rendered judgment in the morning.

I believe it was one of our minor American poets who said:

"You can't expect much of no one man Nor blame him for what he don't know."

So we are not blaming you, Dan, only we suggest that you stick to subjects you may know something about and leave school matters to those who are acquainted with them. When a Daniel comes to judgment he should know at least something of the subject matter under discussion. Of course so much the better if he could have a full and complete grasp of it, as did that other famous advocate of right and justice in Venice. Then could we say not in irony but in sincerity, "How much more kider art thou than thy looks!"

Seriously, however, Mr. Editor, the writer has children in both the grades and high school here; he has been in close touch with our schools since their organization to the present time; he has had some experience in school work, and he desires to say that the present management is maintaining the high reputation which the schools of Twin Falls have always justly enjoyed.

Editor News:

I see by your paper that this community is to lose one of its leading lights; that he is going to Russia where he can talk. Well, here's your hat, Dan. Must you go so soon? Close the door when you go out. The safest route to the Bolshevik country in the present unsettled times is via San Francisco, Yokohama and Vladivostok. You had best have your passport vised at Harbin. Give our love and brotherly affection to Louisa, Frutsky et al. and tell them we shall allow some more of our liberty loving citizens to visit them to enjoy the blessed privilege of free speech.

I have been wondering what that noise was that I have been hearing of late. I thought at first, Dan, it might be your Canal company meeting voices, but now I see it was freedom shrieking. And we have a Kaiser in our midst! Baus mit him! In plain English, let him "Avaunt and quit our sight!" Throw him over the outer battlements! Shall the palladium of our liberties be ravished from us! "Forbidden it," etc. "Give us liberty or give us death!" If we don't get one or the other we must expect to see Hector in the mangled form of Free Speech, dragged sixteen times around the chariot wheel of bloody minded Achilles in the guise of Supt. Blue.

On second thought, Danny boy, don't go. We need you here to defend the three-four square feet of our tender mantles and diffident and helpless youths who go to make up our school faculty, from the grinning heel of brutal despotism. "Where, where was Rod, erick then. One blast upon his bugle horn," etc.

And those unappreciative pedagogues. They came in bands, lurching and heaving, and declared that they did not know that they were the objects of brutal force and unmitigated tyranny and actually denied that only the abject fear of losing their jobs kept them from disclosing the awful truth. They even intimated that someone had departed from the wisest path of truth.

Some of your cylinders must have been missing, Dan. You evidently misunderstood the situation and inadvertently mistated the facts; your logic was so rotten one could see through all the cracks; and you were very sure to

WHY WE SEND OUR WHEAT TO EUROPE

No question is more frequently asked than why we send wheat to Europe and stint our own people. The first answer is that we send wheat to furnish a foundation for the million for whom the allies have eaten for three years and a half, and not to supply them with a straight wheat bread.

Dr. Alton Taylor, representative of the United States food administration to the recent allied conference in Paris, and an expert on the food needs of the world, answers the question in this way:

"We receive many letters at Washington as to why we want to send so much wheat to Europe when we are told that corn, oatmeal, rye and barley and rye are just as good. They ask, 'Why don't we keep the wheat and send them the corn and rye and barley and rice?' I will answer that: We want to send wheat to Europe because you can make bread of wheat, and you can't make bread out of rice and oats and corn. And nobody bakes domestic bread in Europe. You can go to any town in France and you will find that there are no individual bakers there. There are only bakeries, and these are run by one in one place, who will have one large hearth, who will be able to bake 2000 loaves of bread together, with a minimum amount of coal."

"The bread is delivered to the home—and this is one-half of the diet of that home. It is in peace time and it is now. In peace times there was considerable sugar, and dairy products were plentiful. Now these things are scarce and the bread largely takes the place of these foods. So the bread becomes of added importance from every point of view. Now just visualize this present home. Remember that the people in France live in villages, not on farms, and they subsist on the small local store and bakeries."

"Please remember that the coal in France today is $10 and $15 per ton, and they have a good coal supply this year.

"Just visualize an American woman saying: 'If the corn, rye, oatmeal and barley are just as good, I will accept the wheat and send the wheat substitutes to Europe.' Remember that bread is made from wheat."

"How much work is it for her to procure rice or oatmeal or make corn bread? How much of a burden does it impose upon the overtime of the American woman today, either with or without servants? Very little. But it is a burden to a French woman, who is working sixteen hours a day, and taking care of a maimed soldier, or a tubercular child, or a child who has been in an hour and a half on her day at boiling rice or making corn bread. Shall we put this burden upon her? This is the concrete situation."

GRAIN PRICES

(By Raymond Pearl, Chief Statistician U. S. Food Administration)

There is considerable misapprehension in the country as to the return which the farmer is getting for his different grains. Which now, having the highest return to the farmer per bushel of any cereal crop, as it usually did in pre-war times.

The following tabulation of the prices received by the farmer for the different cereals has been compiled from data published by the United States department of agriculture, and available to anyone who cares to verify the facts for himself.

Cereal	Average price received by farmer during year ending June 1, 1917 (per bushel)	Price now (per bushel)	Percentage increase or decrease of present price
Wheat	$0.869	$2.000	131
Corn	.683	1.388	100
Oats	.404	.787	105
Barley		1.319	103

From these figures it is clear, that the price of no other grain has advanced so much respecting net return to the farmer as compared with pre-war conditions, as has that of wheat. Corn comes the nearest, with 100 per cent increase to the farmer, as against 131 per cent advance in wheat. The transportation difficulties now operated to create high prices for the consumer because it has not been possible for the railroads to get grain to primary markets as fast as the demand for export and domestic use could and would have absorbed. This has resulted in maintaining an artificially high differential between farmer and consumer.

POTATOES IN THE DAIRY COW RATION

Present Surplus of Potatoes May Be Used as Part of the Succulent Ration

"What can we do with our surplus potatoes? The inquiry is received from many farmers at this time. These culled and even the larger potatoes, if properly cut up, may be used as a part of the succulent ration for dairy cows."

They may be fed either raw or cooked. If fed raw a smaller amount should be used than when cooked. Grated or sliced potatoes should be fed in the amount of potatoes fed and 30 pounds per day should be set as the maximum limit, and ordinarily the cows will eat the potatoes readily. When potatoes are fed too heavily the resulting butter will be quite easy in body, and again, excess potatoes will tend to dry up the animal rather early.

We do not wish to go on record as encouraging anyone to buy potatoes as a dairy cattle food, but for anyone with a surplus supply of potatoes and some dairy cows, we would recommend that the potatoes be utilized as a part of the dairy ration.

CLEAN WHEAT CROP

POSSIBLE THIS YEAR

The farmer who plants properly treated seed this spring should get a almost-free crop. Why? Because the smut spores which were scattered over the fields by the wind last harvest time could not withstand winter conditions and the soil is now practically free from smut spores.

For spring planting the formaldehyde treatment and the blue stone treatment give equally good results, but for fall planting in smutted ground, blue stone has proven much superior.

Further information along the line of plant diseases may be secured by writing to the Plant Pathologist, Moscow, Idaho.

How to Eliminate Smut

The ordinary smut killing solution of one pint of commercial formaldehyde mixed with forty-five gallons of water. The wheat should be soaked in this solution for ten minutes. The most convenient method is to soak it in an open tank where it can be stirred and the smut balls skimmed off. The poison does not kill the spores on the inside of the smut ball, but it should now be dumped in a pile and covered up for two hours to thoroughly distribute the formaldehyde gas. At the end of that period it should be spread out thinly to dry until it can be sown with the seed. All tools used in the handling of the seed must be disinfected with the formaldehyde solution. This includes thoroughly disinfecting the sacks and the drill before using them.

More seed must be sown than if it had not been treated. The berries absorb moisture and hence become larger. This necessitates heavier planting. A certain percentage of the berries will also fail to germinate as a result of the formaldehyde treatment. No rule can be given for the increased quantity to sow.

Seed handled with clean tools and planted in clean ground is the only sure prevention of stinking smut.

MARCH CROP REPORT

Estimate, in bushels, of the amount of grain on the farms March 2 are as follows: For Idaho—Corn 41,000, wheat 1,798,000, oats 2,104,000, barley 937,000; for the United States—Corn 1,292,905,000, wheat 11,272,000, oats 585,185,000, barley 45,404,000.

The amount of the crops which is shipped out of the country where grown is estimated as follows (10-year average): For Idaho, corn 3 per cent, wheat 62 per cent, oats 45 per cent, barley 68 per cent; for the United States—corn 22 per cent, wheat 58.5 per cent, oats 29.6 per cent, barley (8-year average) 49.2 per cent. These beets to make a commercial supply of sirup are urged to use sweet sorghum instead of beets but for making sirup in a small way the sugar beet will be the best. For one or two pounds of seed will be sufficient to produce enough beets to supply a family with sirup, and the work may be undertaken as a garden enterprise with

WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT

"The housewife in England who is found throwing away an edible slice of bread may be imprisoned or fined as much as $300. There are similar fines for wasting eggs by making cakes that is too rich for wasting sugar in frostings and for feeding crumbs to a canary. In France the baking of pastry or biscuits from flour that is fit for bread is prohibited. The person who is found eating pastries in a public eating place is liable to imprisonment or fine."

American Women on Honor
"But in America the housewife is put on her honor to conserve food and abolish extravagant habits. She is her own policeman.
"A shining example of how quickly and enthusiastically the housewives of America have responded to this honor system in conserving food is to be found in the garbage collection in the principal cities of the country. The last November garbage collection was 11 per cent lower than the November collection of 1916. The housewives of Galveston, Texas, broke the record for any individual city by reducing their garbage collection to two-thirds less than what it was last November."

Get Splendid Results
"This shows what splendid results may be obtained when American women put on their shoulders a task. There is hardly a woman in the country who has not stopped the leaks in her kitchen through which edible, wholesome food formerly found its way into the garbage can."

"There are, on the other hand, many women who are scrupulous in most ways about saving food, but who are unconsciously wasting a considerable amount of the most needed food for the allies—wheat."

Must Conserve Wheat
"Wherever wheat flour is used when rye, cornmeal, or barley might have been substituted for it either in whole or in part, the wheat is being wasted as much as if it were thrown into the garbage can. At any rate it isn't going to feed a soldier as it should."

This applies to the making of cakes, puddings, or pastry as well as to the making of bread. It is unfair for any housekeeper to make these more or less fine dishes out of all wheat and so use up the flour that her neighbors are carefully saving by eating Victory bread."

Give Up the Cakes
"It is unnecessary on the other hand to give up cakes and puddings altogether for all of these may be made with combination flours with only a

THE SUGAR BEET AND ITS RELATION TO GOOD FARMING

(By E. J. Idings, Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Idaho)

The sugar beet is doing a great work in agricultural education. It comes to an agricultural district, that is suited to its culture, bearing the message for better farming and, as the primary incentive sooner or later in the development of a live stock feeding industry.

Beets Mean Better Farming
In order to be highly successful year after year with sugar beets the farmer must employ cultural methods that are essential to maximum production and must plan definite measures for retaining soil fertility. Soon after the arrival of the more thorough cultivation, more careful use of irrigation water, careful conservation and application to the soil of farm manure, and the seeding of legume, not essentially for hay, but primarily for fertilization as a part of a well planned and balanced system of crop rotation.

Ordinarily we think of the sugar beet as grown for its sugar yield alone which is now a very definite and highly valuable contribution to the needs of America and her allies for the period of the war. From the standpoint of good farming, however, the by-products of the industry are of greater importance to a sugar beet growing district than is the sugar itself. These by-products which are of chief value to the live stock man are the beet pulp, the molasses, and the sugar beet tops.

Sugar Beet Pulp
Sugar beet pulp is a highly valuable succulent feed used in fattening beef cattle and sheep and has been found, when properly handled, to be of value in milk production. Pulp, when given ample time to go through the silage process, furnishes quite cheaply a large portion of the bulky live stock ration; is succulent, and, in fulfilling that function in the ration, carries with it much of value that the chemist does not find upon analysis. It serves out of the fundamental needs of the live stock farmer by cheapening the ration and increasing the net profits. Higher appreciation is had, year by year, of the value of sugar beet pulp in animal feeding and unequally as the beet can be made in the many fields of live stock husbandry as compared with the practice in the past.

The Pit Silo
A trench is dug four to five feet deep, twenty to thirty feet wide and long enough to take care of the entire crop of sugar beet tops. The tops are hauled and spread in a pit of this kind, making a solid mat. The new pit silos are of alternate layers of tops and straw.

Beet Top Silage Value
This pit, therefore, in the silo and its contents go through a silage process and result in a highly palatable feeding material that can be utilized for both sheep and cattle with little waste. The beet growers tell us that a ton of beet tops is equivalent to about one-half ton of a hay crop. Some feeders have claimed such returns from siloed tops as to give them a value of approximately one-half ton of hay by weight as compared with alfalfa hay. If this estimate is correct, it means that the return from the sugar beet tops of a heavy crop is almost equivalent to a full year's crop of the same acre of alfalfa hay. If it is granted that it requires three tons of the tops to equal a ton of hay, still the showing is very satisfactory and the relative value of the by-product as compared with the main crop is very great.

A Valuable Industry
Those interested in the future of Idaho agriculture, therefore, feel that the introduction of sugar beet culture into Idaho, extending over considerable areas, is a movement that means for good farming, better probably than has existed before, and that in addition to the direct value of the beets, the by-products will make a larger investment be held of very great value. Utilized the sugar beet industry will assist in the development of a feeding industry which will mean a larger interest in animal husbandry and greater prosperity to the districts in which this development takes place.

EARLY POTATOES IN THE GARDEN
(By E. R. Bennett, Field Horticulturist)
The backyard garden in America grew many hundreds of bushels of potatoes last year. Many people who commonly buy their family supply of potatoes now have potatoes to sell with little or no market for them. Planting potatoes in the garden should be continued this year. Seed will be cheaper and there is much more probability that the potatoes will be wanted and high priced next fall. In any case, it will help insure sufficient food in the country if the family supply of potatoes is produced in the backyard garden. For this work quality should be considered first. The Netted Gem is undoubtedly the highest quality maincrop potato produced in Idaho. For garden planting, however, an early maturing variety is more desirable. For early potatoes planted in early spring with maturing in July before the hot, dry weather comes, hence there is a greater probability of securing a well developed crop. Early Ohio and Bliss Triumph have been found to be excellent varieties for garden planting in Idaho. Both the varieties are round or cylindrical—not flattened—usually red-skinned in case of the Bliss—though there are white strains of each variety. Both varieties also have many eyes, most of which are compound. Because of the popularity of these varieties, it is suggested that the grower of potatoes should have a few of each.

CONFERENCE OF PACKERS, WHERE PRICES HAVE BEEN DISCUSSED, HAVE BEEN HELD AT THE URGENT REQUEST AND IN THE PRESENCE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF EITHER THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION OR THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE. AND YET THE PACKERS HAVE BEEN ACCUSED OF COMMITTING A FELONY BY ACTING IN COLLUSION ON GOVERNMENT BIDS!

We have done our best, with other packers, large and small, to comply with the directions of the United States Food Administration in all particulars, including the furnishing of food supplies for the U.S. Army and Navy and the Allies, now being handled through the Food Administration.

We will continue to do our utmost, under Government direction, to increase our production and assist the Food Administration. We consider that the opportunity to co-operate wholeheartedly and to our fullest powers with this branch of the Government is our plain and most pressing duty.

The Trade Commission, Attorney has, by false inference and misplaced emphasis, given to disconnected portions of the correspondence taken from our private files and read into the Record, a false and sinister meaning with the plain purpose of creating antagonistic public opinion.

The services of the packers of the United States are most urgently needed, and I regret exceedingly that we should at this time have to spend our efforts in defending ourselves against unfounded, unproved, and unfair assertions such as are being daily made public.

tion in the ration, carries with it much of value that the chemist does not find upon analysis. Higher appreciation is had, year by year, of the value of sugar beet pulp in animal feeding and unequally as the beet can be made in the many fields of live stock husbandry as compared with the practice in the past.

Molasses
The molasses may be utilized in many ways in animal feeding. Alfalfa hay, straw and other roughages, when given in molasses coating are rendered more palatable and the molasses may be fed with concentrates to steers and other cattle and gives excellent returns in comparison with its cost.

Beet Top Silage
Another highly valuable product of the sugar beet growing industry is the beet top. The writer has seen hundreds of acres of tops in various beet growing districts handled in the usual careless way and thereby a large part of the real feeding value lost. In a climate that can be depended upon for a large number of dry days in fall, the tops give excellent returns when piled up and left for the use of cattle and sheep. The new pit silos are of alternate layers of tops and straw.

The Pit Silo
A trench is dug four to five feet deep, twenty to thirty feet wide and long enough to take care of the entire crop of sugar beet tops. The tops are hauled and spread in a pit of this kind, making a solid mat. The new pit silos are of alternate layers of tops and straw.

Beet Top Silage Value
This pit, therefore, in the silo and its contents go through a silage process and result in a highly palatable feeding material that can be utilized for both sheep and cattle with little waste. The beet growers tell us that a ton of beet tops is equivalent to about one-half ton of a hay crop. Some feeders have claimed such returns from siloed tops as to give them a value of approximately one-half ton of hay by weight as compared with alfalfa hay. If this estimate is correct, it means that the return from the sugar beet tops of a heavy crop is almost equivalent to a full year's crop of the same acre of alfalfa hay. If it is granted that it requires three tons of the tops to equal a ton of hay, still the showing is very satisfactory and the relative value of the by-product as compared with the main crop is very great.

A Valuable Industry
Those interested in the future of Idaho agriculture, therefore, feel that the introduction of sugar beet culture into Idaho, extending over considerable areas, is a movement that means for good farming, better probably than has existed before, and that in addition to the direct value of the beets, the by-products will make a larger investment be held of very great value. Utilized the sugar beet industry will assist in the development of a feeding industry which will mean a larger interest in animal husbandry and greater prosperity to the districts in which this development takes place.

EARLY POTATOES IN THE GARDEN
(By E. R. Bennett, Field Horticulturist)
The backyard garden in America grew many hundreds of bushels of potatoes last year. Many people who commonly buy their family supply of potatoes now have potatoes to sell with little or no market for them. Planting potatoes in the garden should be continued this year. Seed will be cheaper and there is much more probability that the potatoes will be wanted and high priced next fall. In any case, it will help insure sufficient food in the country if the family supply of potatoes is produced in the backyard garden. For this work quality should be considered first. The Netted Gem is undoubtedly the highest quality maincrop potato produced in Idaho. For garden planting, however, an early maturing variety is more desirable. For early potatoes planted in early spring with maturing in July before the hot, dry weather comes, hence there is a greater probability of securing a well developed crop. Early Ohio and Bliss Triumph have been found to be excellent varieties for garden planting in Idaho. Both the varieties are round or cylindrical—not flattened—usually red-skinned in case of the Bliss—though there are white strains of each variety. Both varieties also have many eyes, most of which are compound. Because of the popularity of these varieties, it is suggested that the grower of potatoes should have a few of each.

CONFERENCE OF PACKERS, WHERE PRICES HAVE BEEN DISCUSSED, HAVE BEEN HELD AT THE URGENT REQUEST AND IN THE PRESENCE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF EITHER THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION OR THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE. AND YET THE PACKERS HAVE BEEN ACCUSED OF COMMITTING A FELONY BY ACTING IN COLLUSION ON GOVERNMENT BIDS!

We have done our best, with other packers, large and small, to comply with the directions of the United States Food Administration in all particulars, including the furnishing of food supplies for the U.S. Army and Navy and the Allies, now being handled through the Food Administration.

We will continue to do our utmost, under Government direction, to increase our production and assist the Food Administration. We consider that the opportunity to co-operate wholeheartedly and to our fullest powers with this branch of the Government is our plain and most pressing duty.

The Trade Commission, Attorney has, by false inference and misplaced emphasis, given to disconnected portions of the correspondence taken from our private files and read into the Record, a false and sinister meaning with the plain purpose of creating antagonistic public opinion.

The services of the packers of the United States are most urgently needed, and I regret exceedingly that we should at this time have to spend our efforts in defending ourselves against unfounded, unproved, and unfair assertions such as are being daily made public.

ALL The Conquerors of The Road had the tires that triumphed in the bitterest struggle ever staged between roads and tires, a conflict of 4178,746 tire miles. Hall Goodrich Tested Tires.

Hear the story of a good fight well won. One year ago Goodrich, challenging the roads of America to a test of strength, sent forth six Test Car Fleets to beat America's roads in every region of the country.

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

The roads did their worst. East, west, north and south, as the Test Car Fleets whirled from state to state, the teeth of the road gnawed at Goodrich Tires.

But the tires conquered with phenomenal mileage that doubled Goodrich's pride. From that testing covering millions of miles, the Test Car Fleets came back with a new tire standard, the TESTED of Goodrich Tested Tires.

Tested Tires mean certainty of service, proved service, and that means a lot to a tire user. It means long life in a tire, and dependability on the road, for no hidden weakness could conceal itself in that year long test of Goodrich's Test Car Fleets.

DATE SET FOR ELECTION ON NEW DISTRICT

COMMISSIONERS PROVIDE FOR SUBMITTING ROAD QUESTION

PETITIONS QUICKLY CIRCULATED ARE ORIGINATOR OF SEPARATE DISTRICT FOR COUNTY OUTSIDE BURL AND FILER AREAS

Saturday, April 6, is the date set by the county commissioners for an election on the question of the creation of a third independent highway district to include all of the county outside the Buhl and proposed Filer highway districts.

Represent Ten Per Cent Area

The election is called in accordance with the request of petitions filed with the commissioners March 13 by Arthur L. Swim of Twin Falls. The petition leaves the signatures of persons who are residents of the proposed new district and who hold title or evidence of title to more than 10 per cent of the entire area of the proposed district, which will be assessable for the purposes of the district.

The movement for creation of the new highway district was launched quietly, active work being started only three days before the petition was filed. The petition was circulated for the most part about communities of the Salmon river tract, although a number of signatures were secured in the vicinity of Twin Falls. The work of securing signatures was halted as soon as a sufficient number to justify calling of the election were secured.

Election Officials Hold Over

For the purpose of the highway district election, the judges and clerks named for the last general election will serve, and polling places will remain without change except in precincts that would be divided by the creation of the new district. In such cases the electors who are residents of the proposed district will be directed to new polling places. Voters at this election in the Kearsy district will vote at the school house in district No. 8; those in the Thometz precinct at the school house in district No. 3; those of the Clover precinct at Berger, and those of the Casford and Lerner precincts at the school house in district No. 29.

Plead Guilty to Charge and Must to Spend Time in Jail in Lieu of Fine

Interrupting a card game in which seven young men were engaged in a room in a Buhl hotel one evening last week, Marshal Baymiller took the participants in custody and brought them to Twin Falls for trial. Before Justice of the Peace W. J. Smith they entered pleas of guilty to the charge of gambling and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, the minimum penalty under the statute in such cases. They elected to serve time in jail in lieu of payment of the fine. WAR AMERICANIZATION JOB, IDAHO

The National Americanization committee gives the following summary for the state of Idaho regarding aliens:

Immigrant population—Total foreign born, 40,427, an increase of 84.7 per cent over that of 1900. The three nationalities most numerous are German, Swedish and English.

Citizenship—Foreign born males of voting age 25,844; unaturalized, 6215. Only 49.6 per cent are naturalized, while 10 years before 67.7 per cent were naturalized.

Education—Foreign born whites 10 years of age and over, 35,019; unable to speak English, 3505; illiterate, 374. Of the 819 who were attending school only 81 were 21 years and over; only one city, Boise, reported evening schools but no classes for immigrants, yet it had 2283 foreign born. State aid is not given to evening schools.

Industry—Analysis shows that 84.7 per cent of the persons engaged in the state's manufacturing industries in 1914 were wage earners. There are no large alien employment industries.

Miscellaneous—Aliens between 21 and 31 registered for draft, 4064; no alien can get a teacher's certificate; non-resident alien heirs must sell their land within five years.

Idaho Labor Sufficient if Mobilized by Co-operative Effort

DIRECTOR OF FARM MARKETS URGES EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYEES TO WORK IN ACCORD WITH RECOMMENDATIONS OF STATE AGENCIES DURING PRODUCTIVE PERIOD AT HAND

Idaho's labor supply is sufficient to fulfill requirements of the state without drawing upon outside sources, in the opinion of State Director of Farm Markets Harvey Allred. In a recent statement he analyzes the situation, saying:

"From personal observation and information at hand, I am convinced that if all labor within the state can be mobilized and by co-operative effort employed with a minimum amount of loss we will have sufficient within our borders to handle the crops of this year with little loss."

In order to obtain this co-operation, organization has been effected, through the farm bureau, county agricultural agents, councils of defense, and farm markets department, and by these agencies we will have sufficient within our borders to handle the crops of this year with little loss. In order to obtain this co-operation, organization has been effected, through the farm bureau, county agricultural agents, councils of defense, and farm markets department, and by these agencies we will have sufficient within our borders to handle the crops of this year with little loss.

Wage Offered Is Just

The wage recommended is as nearly just as it is possible to make it and have it apply to the agricultural part of the state as a whole. While it may be true that local conditions could probably have been better served with slight variations from this recommended scale, yet it is imperative that the same wage be paid in every part for like service. If we are to expect the laborer to be contented and give reasonable satisfaction.

The wage offered is all a farmer can afford to pay, and it is better than that obtainable in almost any other section of the United States for common labor. We frequently hear men say that rather than work for the wage recommended, they will enlist in the ship building service and go to the coast. Men who make such remarks do not know, or are ill advised regarding the wages paid at the shipyards. They are perhaps led to believe that because skilled laborers of vocations adapted to the requirements receive a big wage, they too can "strike a snap." The wage paid common laborers at the shipyards is only $3.27 a day, and from this they must pay all expenses incidental to living in a large city. There is now assembled on the Pacific coast in the vicinity of the ship yards, hundreds of men without special training for the labor required. These are now seeking ing the productive period of the year.

Boys to Help

The national director of this reserve and Governor Alexander, by proclamation, have set apart the week beginning March 18 as a special enrollment week, during which we hope to enroll, through the efforts of the school teachers, city and county superintendents of schools, the county agricultural agents, and other duly appointed enrolling officers, all boys of the state eligible to membership.

I desire all boys of this age to acquaint themselves with this great national organization and become active members of it in the recognized service of our country. Any person desiring further information regarding the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve should apply to the county superintendent of schools, your city superintendent of schools, the county agricultural agent, the libraries at your nearest public library, those in charge of your branch of the Y. THIS THIRD COMEDY IN THE "SUB-DEB" SERIES is believed by those who have seen it to be the most laughable as well as the daintiest of the trio.

Both its predecessors, "Bab's Diary" and "Bab's Bungalow" have served to set an entirely new standard in film comedy of the polite sort. Public press has unanimously agreed that there has never been anything more delightfully whimsical, more daintily original, or more perfectly suited to Miss Clark's talents and charm, than the "Bab" pictures.

"Bab's Matinee Idol" tells how the irrepressible sub-deb, after failing in love, quite violently, with a hero of the "boards," tries to aid him show on the road to success by enlisting the co-operation of her doting father in a press-agent "stunt" that is worthy of an experienced artist in this work. But the advent of a British millions buyer, who gets intricately mixed up in the proceedings and is mistaken for the actor, results in a series of complications which result in a veritable fiasco for Bab's scheme.

Theodore Roberts, the beloved "old man of the screen," in once more to be seen in "Hidden Pearl," which is Senae Hayakawa's latest Paramount picture. Having played every kind of a role from that of a kindly American consul in Mexico to a bearded Russian Cossack, Theodore Roberts has returned to the screen in the role of Hayakawa's Hawaiian uncle. Hayakawa, the star himself, has not fallen short of his usual high standard.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO MEET AT LUNCH

TO INSTILL MAXIMUM OF ENTHUSIASM FOR RE-JUVENATED CLUB

COMMITTEE IN REPORT RECOMMENDS EMPLOYMENT OF MOST EFFICIENT SECRETARY POSSIBLE TO SECURE

Serving a double purpose in enlisting enthusiastic general support of the work of the organization during the ensuing months and in securing the largest possible expression of choice for its guiding heads, a luncheon for Commercial club members on the occasion of the annual election of directors, April 2, is being provided for.

The election is to be held in the office of the secretary, Stuart H. Taylor, on Main avenue east, and the ballot boxes are to be open during the afternoon.

Designation of candidates for directors, as usual, is to be delegated to two nominating committees to be named in the immediate future by the present directors.

Decision to give the luncheon was reached at a meeting of club members in the farm bureau office Monday evening, when the report of a committee of twelve members suggesting the luncheon was received. As a committee to arrange for the luncheon, L. E. Salladay, D. W. Updegraff and Stuart H. Taylor were named by L. C. Cline, director, who presided at this meeting. It was provided by motion adopted that a list of the members of the club should be divided among several of those present with instructions that each should deliver personally to those on his list, notice of the luncheon and election.

Committee Outlines Plans The report of the committee to suggest policies for the club was delivered verbally by M. J. Sweetley. It voiced unanimity of opinion among members consulted that the organization should be continued and that its field of usefulness to the members and community should be increased. To this end it was proposed that employment of the most efficient secretary possible to secure be recommended to the new directors. The report advised securing adequate office rooms for the secretary, but advised against fitting up club rooms at the present time.

In discussion of the report after its submission it was suggested that the name of the organization might be changed to its advantage. In line with this suggestion it was proposed that a list of possible new names be submitted on the ballot together with the names of the candidates for directors, and that members be requested to make known their preference as to the name of the organization at the election.

Shows Unity of Opinion

The report of a committee of three members previously appointed to collect dues in arrears was delivered by J. A. Barrett, who stated that in a few hours time out of $600 given to collect, the sum of $200 was secured and that no refusal to pay had been met with. He expressed the opinion that the committee would encounter no difficulty in completing the task assigned to it, thereby placing the club in a position where its debts would be discharged and a substantial balance left in the treasury. In connection with their work, members of the committee had taken it upon themselves to inquire of the members interviewed as to their ideas relative to the usefulness and future policies of the organization, and Mr. Barrett reported that desire for the continuation of the club had been expressed unanimously.

The following women have completed the course in surgical dressing and are now qualified to teach this work: Mrs. C. H. Scott, Mrs. All, Mrs. L. Cline, Mrs. R. R. Spafford, Mrs. Spafford, Mrs. C. C. Higgins, Mrs. C. L. Hart, Mrs. McAttee, Mrs. P. F. Baker, Mrs. G. W. Baker, Mrs. Alan Senter, Mrs. E. C. Leavering, Mrs. L. P. Morse, Mrs. E. M. Sweetley, Mrs. Ernest Gates, Miss Gates, Mrs. George Easley, Miss Jane Maxwell and Mrs. E. J. Ostrander.

There are still Red Cross buttons at headquarters for those who did not receive them during the Christmas drive.

Two new students have been added to the class in dietetics. It is not yet too late to join the class if Red Crossland is noted at once.

The DeLoe-Light company has donated the use of three motors to operate sewing machines used in the Red Cross work and the office of the company is open daily to any one wishing to sew.

Mrs. J. E. White visited the Red Cross auxiliary last Monday last week. This auxiliary has been recently organized and the following officers have been elected: Mrs. Matson, chairman; Mrs. McGee, secretary; Mrs. E. J. Ostrander, chairman of sewing committee, and Mrs. Scott, chairman of knitting.

The classes in surgical dressing are at work again, gauze having been received the first of the week. The reasons for the gauze shortage are very clearly explained in a letter written by the general manager: "In the past when our supply service could not meet the demand for gauze, chapters, led by their desire for production at any cost, have supplied themselves from jobbers, middlemen, wholesalers and retailers, and have offered very high prices. Such prices enable these companies in turn to offer high prices to the cotton brokers which have filled such orders ahead of those placed by national headquarters. As a result, artificial market was created where thousands of dollars could have been saved by proper control. Using the new arrangements, such control is now possible. All orders for gauze sent direct to manufacturers will be referred to the national headquarters, which in turn will refer them to divisional headquarters for attention. All gauze delivered to the Red Cross under existing arrangements with the government will be allotted equitably to the divisions. They must see that a proper distribution is made to their chapters."

Refugee circles have recently been organized at Bergen, Milner, Hollister, Russell Lane, Eden, Curry, Amsterdam, and Hazelton. The call is given to circle leaders to gather in the layettes as soon as possible. Only a few days remain before the final shipment. The material has arrived and work will be gladly given out to all those making the first application. Swaddling blankets and hooded capes and wash cloths and bags for sundries are the articles most needed to complete the allotment. Circles and individuals are invited to assemble odds and ends of donations into complete layettes. Gather up all fragments that may be used for the refugee babies and push the layettes to completion, is the slogan adapted at refugee headquarters for the next week.

The following articles have been shipped from the sewing and surgical department this week: 14 suits underwear, 75 suits pajamas, 132 bed covers, 38 convalescent robes, 28 baby bandages, foot socks, 65 pairs bed socks, 10 operation leggings, 33 layettes, 33 washcloths, 141 pairs socks, 31,000 Red Cross buttons, 500 9x9 compresses, 18 elastic pads, 1180 4x4 gauze compresses, 1850 folded gauze strips, 1850 sponges.

CHAPTER X.

"The Day's Work."

I was fast learning that there is a regular routine about the work of the trenches, although it is badly upset at times by the Germans.

The real work in the fire trench commences at sundown. Tommy is like a burglar, he works at night.

Just as it begins to get dark the word "stand down" is passed down the trench to traverse, and the men get busy.

The first relief, consisting of two men to a traverse, mount the first step, one man looking over the top, while the other sits at his machine, ready to carry messages or to inform the platoon officer of any report made by the sentry at his observations in No Man's Land.

The sentry is not allowed to relax his watch for a second. If he is questioned from the trench or asked his orders, he replies without turning around or taking his eyes from the exposure of dirt in front of him.

The remainder of the occupants of his traverse either sit on the first step, with bayonets fixed, ready for any emergency, or if lucky, and a dogout happens to be in the near vicinity of the traverse, and the night is quiet, they are permitted to go to sleep and try to catch a few winks of sleep.

Little sleeping is done; generally the men sit around, smoking fags and seeing who can tell the biggest lie. Some of them, perhaps with their feet in water, would write home sympathizing with the "governor" because he was laid up with a cold, contracted by getting his feet wet on his way to work in Woolwich Arsenal.

If a man should manage to doze off, likely as not he would wake with a start as the clanging, cold feet of a rat passed over his face, or the next thing he would find himself snoring while stumbling on their way to relieve the sentries in the trench.

Just try to sleep with a bait full of acidulated solution, your rifle bolt biting into your ribs, interlocking your hands sticking into the small of your back, with a tin hat for a pillow and feeling very damp and cold, with "cooties" boring for all in your armpits, the air from the trench or from grimey human bodies and smoke from a juicy pipe being whiffed into your nostrils, then you will not wonder why Tommy occasionally takes a turn in the trench for a rest.

While in a front-line trench orders forbid Tommy from removing his boots, puttees, clothing or equipment. The "cooties" take advantage of this order and mobilize their forces, and Tommy swears vengeance on them and mutters to himself, "Just wait till I hit rest billets and am able to get my own back."

Just before daylight the men "turn to" and tumble out of the dugout, climb the first step until it gets light, or the welcome order "stand down" is given. Sometimes before "stand down" is ordered, the command "five rounds rapid" is passed down the trench. This means that each man must rest his rifle on the top and fire as rapidly as possible five shots aimed toward the German trenches, and then duck (with the emphasis on the "duck"). There is a green rivalry between the opposing forces to get their rapid fire off first, because the early bird, in this instance, catches the worm—sort of gets the jump on the other fellow, catching him unaware.

We had a sergeant in our battalion named Warrick. He was old dirt with his platoon in the fire trench one afternoon when orders came up from the rear that he had been granted seven days' leave for Blihty, and would be relieved at five o'clock to proceed to England.

He was tickled to death at these welcome tidings and regarded his more or less nervous mates beside him on the fire step with the good times in store for him. He figured it out that in two days' time he would arrive at Waterloo station, London, and then—seven days' bliss!

At about five minutes to five he started to fidget with his rifle, and then suddenly springing up on the fire step with a muttered, "I'll send over a couple of souvenirs to Fritz so that he'll miss me when I leave," he took his rifle over the top and fired two shots when, "crack" went a bullet and he knocked the step, fell into the mud at the bottom of the trench, and lay still in a huddled heap with a bullet hole in his forehead.

At about the time he expected to arrive at Waterloo station he was laid to rest in a little cemetery behind the lines. He had gone to Blihty.

In the trenches one can never tell—it is not safe to plan very far ahead. After "stand down" the men sit on the first step to repair to their respective dugouts and wait for the "run in" to materialize. Immediately following the run comes breakfast brought up from the rear. Sleeping is then in order unless some special work turns up.

Around 12:30 dinner shows up. When this is eaten the men try to amuse themselves until "tea" appears at about four o'clock, then "stand to" and they carry on as before.

While in rest billets Tommy gets up about six in the morning, washes up, answers roll call, is inspected by his platoon officer, and has breakfast. At 8:45 he parades (drills) with his company or goes on fatigue according to the orders which have been read out by the orderly sergeant the night previous.

Between 11:30 and noon he is dismissed, has his dinner and "on his own" for the remainder of the day, unless he has clicked for a digging or working party, and so it goes on from day to day, always "loping the loop" and looking forward to peace and Blihty.

Sometimes, while engaged in a "cooties" hunt, you think "Strange to say, but it is a fact, while Tommy is searching his shirt, serious thoughts come to him. Many a time, when performing this operation, I have tried to figure out the outcome of the war and what will happen to me.

My thoughts generally ran in this channel:

Will I emerge safely from the next attack? If I do will I skin through the following one, and so on? While your mind is wandering into the future it is likely to be rudely brought to earth by a Tommy interrupting with, "What's good for rheumatism?"

Then you have something else to think of. Will you come out of this war crippled and tied into knots with rheumatism, caused by the wet and mud of trenches and dugouts? You give it up as a bad job and generally saunter over to the nearest sentry post to drown your moody forebodings in a glass of sizzling French beer or to try your luck at the always present game of "house." You can hear the sing-song voice of a Tommy drowning out the numbers as he extracts the little squares of cardboard from the bag between his feet.

CHAPTER XI.

Over the Top.

On my second trip to the trenches our officer was making his rounds of inspection, and we received the cheerful news that at four in the morning we were to go over the top and take the German front-line trench. My heart turned to lead. Then the officer called us with his instructions. To the best of my memory I recall them as follows: "At eleven a wiring party will go out in front and cut lanes through our barbed wire for the passage of troops of the morning. At two o'clock our artillery will open up with an intense bombardment, which will last until four. Upon the lifting of the barrage the first of the three waves will go over." Then he left. Some of the sentries, first getting permission from the sergeant, went into the machine gunners' dugout, and wrote letters home, saying that in the morning they were going over the top and also that the letters reached their destination at two o'clock. The writer had been killed.

These letters were turned over to the captain with instructions to mail same in the event of the writer's being killed. Some of the men made out their wills in their play books, under the caption, "Will and Last Testament."

Then the nerve-racking wait commenced. Every now and then I would glance at the dial of my wrist watch and was surprised to see how fast the minutes passed by. About five minutes to two I got nervous waiting for our guns to open up. I could not take my eyes from my watch. I crouched against the parapet and strained my muscles in a deathlike grip upon my rifle.

At two o'clock a blinding light flashed up the sky in our rear, then thunder, intermingled with a sharp, whistling sound in the air over our heads. The shells from our guns were heading on their way toward the German lines. With one accord, the gun sprang up on the first step and looked over the top in the direction of the German trenches. A line of bursting shells lighted up No Man's Land. The din was terrific and the ground trembled. Then, high above our heads, we could hear a sighing moan. Our big boys behind the line had opened up and 9.2's and 15-inch shells commenced dropping into the German lines. The flash of the guns behind the line, the screen of the shells in the air, the roar and the flare of their bursting, was a spectacle that put Paul's greatest display into the shade. The constant pop, pop, of German machine guns and an occasional rattle of rifle firing gave me the impression of a huge audience applauding the work of the batteries.

Our 18-pounders were destroying the German barbed wire, while the heavier stuff was demolishing their trenches and blasting in dugouts or tank holes. Then Fritz got busy.

Their shells, whistling screaming overhead, aimed in the direction of the flare from our batteries. Trench mortars started dropping "Minnies" in our front line. We clicked several casualties. Then they suddenly ceased. Our artillery had tapped or silenced them.

During the bombardment you could almost read a newspaper in our trench. Sometimes in the flare of a shell-burst a man's body would be silhouetted against the paradise of the trench and if, in passing, he saw you, you would be likely to hear yourself think, "When this order was to be passed down the trench you had to yell it, using your hands as a funnel into the ear of the man sitting next to you on the first step. In about twenty minutes a gorgeous sunset scene was done out. After detailing the rum, which tasted like varnish and sent a shudder through your frame, you wondered why they made you wait until the lifting of the barrage before going over. At ten minutes to two the word was passed down, "Ten minutes to go!" Ten minutes to live! We were shivering all over. My legs felt as if they were asleep. Then the word was passed down, "First wave—get on and near the scaling ladders."

These were small wooden ladders which we had placed against the parapet to enable us to go over the top on the lifting of the barrage. "Ladders of death," we called them, and verily they were.

Before a charge Tommy is the perfect of men. There is never any pushing or crowding to be first up these ladders. We crouched around the base of the ladders waiting for the word to go over. I was sick and faint, and was neither any at all unlighted fag. Then came the word, "Three minutes to go! Upon the lifting of the barrage and on the blast of the whistles. Over the top with the best of luck and give them hell." And the famous phrase that we have heard so often, "The Jews phrase of the western front. To Tommy it means if you are lucky enough to come back you will be minus an arm or a leg. Tommy hates to be wished the best of luck; so, when peace is declared, it is over in and you meet Tommy on the street, just wish him the best of luck and duck the brick that follows.

I glanced again at my wrist watch. We all wore them and you could hardly call us "ladies" for doing so. It was a minute to four. I could see the dead move to the twelve, then a dead silence. It hurt. Everyone looked up to see what had happened, but not for long. Sharp whistling blasts rang out along the trench, and with a crash we were scrambled up the ladders. The bullets were crackling overhead, and occasionally a machine gun would rip and tear the top of the sandbag parapet. How I got up that ladder I will never know. The next ten minutes front was agony. Then we passed through lanes in our barbed wire. I knew I was running, but could feel no motion below the waist. Patches on the ground seemed to float to the rear as if I were on a treadmill and scenery was rushing past me. The Germans had put a barrage of shrapnel across No Man's Land, and you could hear the pieces slap the ground about you.

After I had passed our barbed wire and gotten into No Man's Land a Tommy about fifteen feet to my right turned around and looking in my direction, put his hand to his mouth, and yelled something which I could not make out because of the noise from the bursting shells. Then he crouched, stumbled, pitched forward and lay still. His body seemed to float to the rear of me. I could hear sharp cracks in the air about me. These were caused by pieces of shrapnel flying in my right and left. Little spurts of dirt would rise into the air and a ricochet bullet would whine on its way. If a Tommy should see one of these little spurts in front of him, he would call it a "bullet" and duck. The crossing of No Man's Land remains a blank to me.

Men on my right and left would stumble and fall. Some would try to get up, while others remained huddled and motionless. Then smashed-up bodies would be carried on a side to the rear. Suddenly, in front of me loomed a baahed-to trench about four feet wide. Queer-looking forms like mud turtles were scrambling up its wall. One of these forms seemed to slip and then rolled to the bottom of the trench. I leaped across this intervening space. The man to my left seemed to pause in midair, then pitched head down into the German trench. I laughed out loud to my delirium. Upon alighting on the bottom of the trench I came to with a sudden jolt. Right in front of me loomed a giant form with a rifle, which looked about ten feet long, on the end of which seemed seven bayonets. These flashed in the air in front of me. Then, through my mind flashed the admonition of our bayonet instructor, back in Blihty. He had said, "Whenever you get in a charge and run your bayonet up to the hilt into a German the Fritz will fall. Perhaps your rifle will be wrenched from your grasp. Do not waste time, if the bayonet is fouled in his equipment by putting your foot on his stomach and tugging at the rifle to extricate the bayonet. Simply press the trigger and the bullet will free it." In my present situation this was the logic, but for the life of me I could not remember how he had told me to get my bayonet into the German. To me this was the paramount issue. I closed my eyes and lunged forward. My rifle was torn from my hands. I must have gotten the German bayonet stuck in his chest. About twenty feet to my left front was a huge Prussian nearly six feet four inches in height, a fine specimen of physical manhood. The bayonet, from his rifle was missing, but he clutched the barrel in both hands and was waving the tip around his head. I could almost hear the swish of the butt passing through the air. Three little Tommies were engaged with him. They looked like pigmies alongside of the Prussian. The Tommy on the left was waving the tip of his rifle to the rear of his opponent. It was a funny sight to see them duck the swinging butt and try to jab him at the same time. The Tommy nearest me received the butt of the German's rifle in a smashing blow to the right temple. He smashed his head into an eggshell. He pitched forward on his side and a convulsive shudder ran through his body. Meanwhile the other Tommy had gained the rear of the Prussian. Suddenly about four inches of bayonet protruded from the throat of the Prussian soldier, who staggered forward and fell. I will never forget the look of blank astonishment that came over his face.

Then something hit me in the left shoulder and my left side went numb. It felt as if a hot poker was being driven through me. I felt no pain—just a sort of nervous shock. A bayonet had pierced me from the rear. I fell backward on the ground, but was not unconscious, because I could see dim objects moving around me. Then a flash of light in front of my eyes and unconsciousness. Something had hit me on the head. I have never found out what it was.

I dreamed I was being tossed about in an open boat on a heaving sea and opened my eyes. The moon was shining. I was on a stretcher being carried down one of our communication trenches. At the advanced first-aid post my wounds were dressed, and then I was put into an ambulance and sent to one of the base hospitals. The wounds in my shoulder and head were not serious and in six weeks I had rejoined my company for service in the front line.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR CLUB WORK IN TWO SCHOOLS

TWIN FALLS AND Buhl PROVIDED FOR IN AP-PORTIONMENT OF FUND

PURPOSE IS TO ENLIGHTEN INTEREST AND WORK OF STUDENTS IN PRODUCTION AND CONSERVATION OF FOODSTUFFS

Out of $10,000 appropriated by the federal government for boys' and girls' club work in Idaho this year, there has been set aside a fund to provide for employment of club leaders for the schools of Twin Falls and Buhl. Each school system is to have two club leaders, a man for the boys' clubs and a woman for the girls' clubs, provided the district administrations provide for the maintenance of their offices from July 1 until the beginning of the next school year.

Under the provisions of the appropriation, the Twin Falls school directors have engaged the services of George E. Doman, well known agricultural teacher, and Miss Margaret Crossland, instructor in sewing in the high school domestic science department, as club leaders in Twin Falls during the coming season.

The work of the school club leaders is to be conducted under the supervision of the county commissioner, and club leaders in Twin Falls during the coming season.

Twin Falls Antidote
County Agent Donald McLean has advised the superintendents of the Twin Falls and Buhl schools of the availability of the funds and early action is expected. The Twin Falls school at its own expense last year provided for both a man and woman club leader.

Fifteen or more counties, and as many cities and towns, are to have club leaders, and every effort will be made to get several thousand boys and girls interested in the production and conservation of foodstuffs.

The appropriation to be given the state this year will come out of the war emergency fund set aside by congress last August for increased crop production. It will be supplementary to the money given the state club leaders in the different counties appropriated by the federal department of agriculture through the state university.

The club work is directed from the agriculture extension department of the state university. Last year 2075 boys and girls were enrolled. This year 8000 or more school children, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years, will be engaged, can fruit and vegetables, and grow live stock.

Each county or city or town having a large number of the work will be paid expenses, from $450 to $700 for a season.

The federal government expects to bring under cultivation a large acreage through the use of the boys and girls which would ordinarily lie idle. Cities and towns which help the children in the work will be enabled to crop hundreds of vacant lots.

IDAHO'S QUOTA GIVEN AS 380
Idaho's quota of children's lives to be saved during Children's Year—April 6, 1918, to April 6, 1919—is 380, the chairman of the Idaho division has been informed. Plans for the celebration of this year, of which the saving of 100,000 lives is one feature, are being developed by the Children's Bureau in co-operation with the Children's Welfare department of the woman's committee of the council of national defense.

The saving of lives is the primary objective of the children's welfare department of children is looked upon as a patriotic duty in view of the unavoidable waste of human life incident to war. It is expected that the 380 lives more local committees of the Child Welfare department will be able to carry the campaign to every community in the United States. This is based upon an essential to the success of the movement, for in the last analysis, every community must save its own babies if they are to be saved at all. State and federal agencies, either official or voluntary, can make plans and offer suggestions, but each community must bear its full share of responsibility in making the campaign a success. Idaho is given a quota of children under five years of age to be saved. The state figure of the 380 lives to be saved is taken.

DISCUSSES PLACE FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENT

STATE HIGHWAY ENGINEER CONFERS WITH COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ON WORK TO BE DONE

Arrangements Are Made to Provide a Motor Sprinkler—State Is Short of Funds But Promises to Reimburse for Its Share of Expense

Taking up with the county commissioners the matter of the maintenance and repair of the state highway through Twin Falls county, H. G. Allen, state highway engineer, and District Engineer Horneman were here Saturday. Mr. Allen expressed the opinion that a motor sprinkler such as was operated here last year would be available again this season, and arrangements for dividing the cost of operation between the county and state were entered into.

While emphasizing the necessity for hard surfacing roads and particularly the state highway, Mr. Allen said a proportion of the expense of such improvement on state roads would be defrayed by the state, but that for the present on account of shortage of state funds, counties would have to advance the money and wait for reimbursement from the state when its funds for this purpose should be augmented.

There are under consideration two bills increasing the state funds, he said. The first is to secure legislation whereby the bonding power of the state will be raised, and the second is by direct state tax levy.

Institution Affords Recreation to Boys in Intensive Training Abroad

The Army Y. M. C. A. affords to Twin Falls soldiers in France almost their only opportunity for recreation during the present period while they are in intensive training abroad. According to word from Lawrence Carlson, member of Headquarters company of the One Hundred Forty-Sixth artillery regiment, received last week by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Carlson. His letters received at that time bear dates of February 12 and February 19. Since his arrival in France, the soldier says, he has had an opportunity to see only one French city of any size, and passes for the men to leave camp are issued infrequently. Under such circumstances the usefulness of the Y. M. C. A. is very apparent to the Twin Falls boys. Many noted entertainers appear at the Y. M. C. A. "huts" and the conveniences afforded in them are much appreciated.

EDWARDS MAY GO TO SOCIETY OF EQUITY

Farm Bureau Commercial Secretary Considers Management Offered at Hansen

Resignation of W. F. Edwards as secretary of the county farm bureau commercial committee to become manager of the Farmers' Society of Equity at Hansen is a probability. "I have had several conferences with the board of men, and it is extremely probable that I shall accept their proposition," said Mr. Edwards Tuesday. Mr. Edwards has been with an income of $1000 a year salary to the position he holds here.

Buhl Is to Devote DAY TO RED CROSS

Plans Auction Sale of Donations With Other Attractions for Benefit of the War Fund

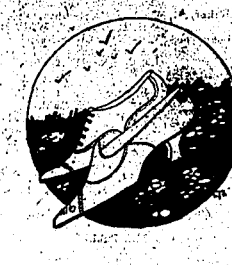

With an auction sale of live stock and other articles donated for the cause, an industrial parade in the forenoon, patriotic speaking in the afternoon, dancing in the evening and music by the recently organized Buhl band during the day, Buhl will devote Saturday to a community Red Cross drive. Arrangements are being made to enter 5000 visitors on that occasion. All of the live stock donated during the year will be sold during the day. Committees appointed to solicit donations for the auction sale report contributions of live stock, farm machinery, furniture, and farm products. Former Senator M. J. Sweeney of Twin Falls has accepted an invitation to deliver an address.

ELMAN'S FIRST GREAT SUCCESS

In October, 1904, Mischa Elman, the famous violinist, was in St. Petersburg, the star pupil of Leopold Auer, whose reputation as a teacher is now world-wide. It happened that a much advertised young virtuoso was to give a concert and Prof. Auer was asked for his opinion. "He is a brilliant player," said Auer, "but he is far superior," said Auer, "This, naturally, was taken as a slight against all who heard it, and the news spread. Auer determined to back up his remarks, and designed an opportunity for Mischa Elman to appear at the opening concert of the Deutscher Liedertafel—the most important musical society of the city.

Elman refused to play, but at the last moment he sent word that he was too ill to appear, but that his youngest pupil would take his place. Consequently Elman, a lad of 16, played the Mendelssohn concerto, Paganini's "Moto Perpetuo," and a Chopin "Nocturne" with such terrific success that the audience refused to let him leave the stage until he had played half a dozen encores. The following day, the name of Mischa Elman was on everyone's tongue, and from that day on, he appeared the young virtuoso went from one city to another, and today he has played in practically every country on earth.

This year Elman is again in America, booked for concerts from the Atlantic to the Pacific. His list of engagements includes one in this city, Friday evening, March 22.

On last Friday night a concert and box supper was given at Community church which proved a complete success both financially and socially. The program, given by Twin Falls talent, was arranged by Mrs. Chas. Butler and was as follows: Ladies' quartet—Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Cora Biggs, Mrs. F. B. Ball, Miss Lois Stewart. Piano solo—Mrs. Jerry Higgins. Vocal solo—Mrs. Chas. Butler. Ladies' Quartet.

Vocal Solo—A. K. Evans

Male Quartet—Mr. Williams, L. L. Patrick, A. K. Evans and Ed George. Double Quartet. Mrs. Jerry Higgins was accompanied for all the vocal numbers. To Mrs. Butler and the musicians who so kindly assisted her in the program is due much of the credit for the success of the evening, and also to Mr. Winkle, who, in an exceptionally happy manner, conducted the auction of the boxes.

JURY AWARDS NOTHING

At the conclusion of a trial that occupied practically all day, jury in probate court here Tuesday returned a verdict against H. C. Hansen, plaintiff, in a suit against Peter Christensen for recovery of $13 for alleged injuries to his fence resulting from Christensen's stock being permitted to run at large. Hansen conducted the trial of his own case. The parties to the action are neighbors residing in the vicinity of Hansen.
