

SETTING OF DRAFT DEFERRED CLASS LEGAL AND MEDICAL ADVISORY BOARDS TO ASSIST IN RE-EXAMINATION OF CLAIMS

In pursuance of instructions of the adjutant general, the local board for Twin Falls county has designated the week of June 24-30 as "Class One Week," during which time a thorough re-examination of questionnaires filed by registrants under the military draft in this county, together with their clerical efficiency and physical examinations will be made.

Appeal to Be Required

In this week the local board will be guided and assisted by the recommendations of the legal advisory board, say, one in which the local board's action is at variance with the recommendations of either of the other boards. County Attorney Frank L. Stephens, as official appeal agent for this county, is required to file and appeal for the government to the district board, which will pass upon the final classification.

The purpose of the re-examination and possible reclassification of the men now assigned to deferred classes is to bring about a uniformity of classification, and it is to be effected simultaneously in each district throughout the country.

Uniformity the Aim

In respect to this undertaking, the adjutant general has issued instructions, which have been transmitted through the several state adjutants general to the local boards, portions of which are as follows:

"When the new quota bill, appropriating quotas on the strength of Class 1 in the communities and before the House for discussion the strongest argument will be made against it was the charge of unfairness in making quotas on Class 1 because of inequality of the work of the boards showing wide variance in strength of Class 1 among counties and other jurisdictions where conditions were substantially equal."

This argument was met by the statement that the war department proposed adding corrective procedure, nation wide in its application, for the purpose of removing this inequality where it was not justified by unequal conditions.

After conferences with representatives of eight of the states adjacent to Washington, this office has reached the conclusion that the war department's plan will be adopted, and it is to be revised by the local board with the hearty and active assistance of government appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards.

Recommend to Local Board

You will, therefore, after having taken such preliminary steps as may be necessary to become immediately active and hearty cooperation on the part of government appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards issue instructions that they shall immediately proceed to a careful examination of all the questionnaires and records in the classes heretofore indicated and make such recommendations to the local board as they may deem necessary in all cases in which they are satisfied a reclassification should be made. They should make every effort to be objective and not be influenced by any special interest. It is necessary that they should give special attention to the following classes of cases:

Class 2-A and B, Class 3-A, B and C and Class 4-A. The thousands of registrants are now in class 4 who should be in Class 1. Government appeal agents

MEASUREMENTS OF SUBSTITUTES EQUAL TO ONE CUP OF FLOUR

These weights and measures were tested in the Experimental Kitchen of the United States Food Administration, Home Conservation Division, and of the United States Department of Agriculture, Office of Home Economics.

In substituting for one cup of flour use the following measurements. Each is equal in weight to a cup of flour:

Barley	1-5/8 cups	Peanut flour	1 cup (scant)
Black wheat	1-3/4 cups	Potato flour	3-4 cups
Corn meal (fine)	1 cup (scant)	Rice flour	7-8 cups
Corn meal (coarse)	7-8 cups	Roller oats	1-1/8 cups
Corn meal (fine)	1 cup (scant)	Roller oats (ground)	1-1/8 cups
Corstach	3-4 cups	Soy-bean flour	2-6 cups
		Sweet potato flour	1-1/8 cups

This table will help you to make griddle cakes, muffins, cakes, cookies, drop biscuits and nut or raisin bread without using any wheat flour. Everything else remains the same. You can change all of your recipes in a similar way.

You will not need new recipes. Just use the ones your family has always liked, but for each cup of flour use the amount of substitute given in the table. You can change your muffin recipe like this:

Old Recipe	New Recipe
3 cups wheat flour	1-3/8 cups barley flour
4 teaspoons baking powder	1 cup (scant) corn flour
1-4 teaspoon salt	4 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar	1-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk	1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg	1 cup milk
1 tablespoon fat	1 egg
	1 tablespoon fat

The only difference is the substitution for the wheat flour. Everything else remains the same. You can change all of your recipes in a similar way.

GOOD COMBINATIONS OF SUBSTITUTES

You will get better results if you mix two substitutes than if you use one alone. Some good combinations are:

Roller oats (ground)	Corn flour
Barley flour	Rice flour
Black wheat flour	Potato flour
Peanut flour	Sweet potato flour
Soy-bean flour	Corn meal

- CAUTIONS
- All measurements should be accurate. A standard measuring cup is equal to a half pint.
  - The batter often looks too thick, and sometimes too thin, but you will find that if you have measured as given in the table the result will be good after baking.
  - Roller oats, substitute mixtures more slowly and longer.
  - Drop biscuits are better than the rolled biscuits, when substitutes are used.

Do not crumb after do not roll well and have to be patted on to the pan. They do not need chilling before baking.

Led by the Hazelton band, all marched from the school house to the flag pole, where appropriate services were held. The band played the "Star Spangled Banner" while the flags were being raised, after which Rev. C. G. Babbidge offered prayer and Fred John Wilson gave a four minute talk. Mr. J. Sweeney of Twin Falls gave a very fine address. Hazelton's service flag contains 29 stars.

Edgar A. E. Redman. Preliminary examination in the case has been set for 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and bond in the sum of $500 was required. Officers who made the arrest state that eleven plants of booze were found in a blanket rolled up under the counter and that an additional quantity of whiskey was found in a bottle bearing the label of a non-alcoholic "near-beer." Admitting their use on Saturday evening and Sunday of an automobile without the owner's permission, three boys—Orell Paxson, 15, Vernon Constable, 17, and William Gandy, 16—pleaded guilty in probate court Tuesday afternoon, to a charge of grand larceny, which had been filed against them. They were admitted to bonds in the sum of $1000 each, which were furnished by relatives, to secure their appearance for trial in the district court.

The car was taken, according to the statement of Police Officer Frank Ham, who made the arrest, from in front of the business establishment of the owner, the Reynolds Brothers company, Second avenue north, on Saturday evening. Its loss was reported to the police and some search was made that evening without result. On Sunday afternoon it was reported to Officer Ham, that a car answering the description of the one sought had been seen standing on Third avenue north, near the Lincoln school. When the officer arrived there it was gone again, but going back at a later time than evening with U. V. Hinkle, who swore out the complaint, the missing car was found. They returned at first, to admit that they had taken the car on Saturday evening.

ALLY OR MENACE?

It would be strange indeed if through the fortunes of war the downfall of Germany should come about as a result of the growing weakness of her most important ally, and yet there is reason to believe that unless some unknown force should become an active factor in the present situation confronting the Dual Monarchy, a state of affairs will, probably result which will mean as big a drain on the resources of Germany as the upkeep of the German army.

According to current dispatches matters in Austria are going from bad to worse. Food is at a premium where obtainable at all, want and distress are seen on every hand. There is a discontent note in the attitude of the people towards the government which it is impossible to reconcile. Unrest has given way to violence at many points. The entire national fabric is threatened with disruption.

In the event of a revolution in Austria-Hungary, Germany has no choice of action. She must maintain the present ruling hand. There is no way which she can merely shake herself free of the clutches of her starving neighbor on the theory of the greatest good to the greatest number and in the hope of thereby unloading the whole burden of Austria's troubles. To do this would simply be to create another power to war with Austria-Hungary today is not in sympathy with the plans and ambitions of the Teuton war lords. A heavy percentage of the people are not Teuton at all. Thousands would actually welcome a chance to array themselves on the side of the Allied Nations, still others would remain absolutely indifferent to the outcome of the struggle if only the weight of German influence could be cast overboard and the people as a people given a chance to work out their own problems in a personal and democratic way, with an eye only to temporary relief from existing conditions. Eventually the same problem would present itself for solution just as it has in the case of the great majority of civilized countries. Are we for Germany or against her? And in the case of Austria-Hungary there is little room for doubt as to the eventual answer to the question.

In the case of Russia, Germany is now hard put to it to maintain the hold which she has upon the unfortunate country. To date she has profited to the extent of considerable quantities of supplies of all kinds, but unless the Russian people are quickly organized upon a productive basis, this same people will constitute but another power upraised to crush. A similar picture presents itself in the case of Turkey.

It is something of a far cry from the situation of a year or two ago to that which must inevitably come about unless some new and decisive factor should intervene in Germany's behalf. This factor might be supplied through a decisive victory over the Allies, or it might not, but such a victory is now beyond the hope of Germany and the German leaders know this all too well.

There will be no peace without victory, of that civilization stands assured but there may be victory without a decisive military decision. And the victory will be just as complete in either case.

JAPAN AND THE EAST FRONT

It is not altogether a far cry to point out the possibility of an early re-establishment of the East front. Not much is being said about it, but there can be no doubt that our government, ably supported by the allies, is moving heaven and earth to bring about that happy eventuality. And today the hope of meeting with success seems brighter than at any time since the Russian people fell before the deception of the Hun.

Our propaganda in Russia is having the effect. It has been propaganda of legitimate character. President Wilson's repeated declarations of sympathy with the purpose of the Russian people, even at the hour of the Allies' worst need, when Russia should have expected her former allies to desert her only with bitterness, is going a long way towards effecting the desired end, which German agents expected the Russian people to regard the Allies' Germany, too, must be thanked for the tempting change. This is what our railway administration bank again. The cadet party, in strong resolutions forwarded to our government, indignantly denied that Russia does not want the assistance of America.

The hour, indeed, seems to be rapidly approaching when she will welcome an Allied troop movement from the east to throw off the yoke which Germany has treacherously fastened upon many parts of her country and is rapidly extending to others.

While it may be going too far to say that all signs point to an early re-establishment of the east front, it is not exaggeration to say that the possibility of just that eventually becomes greater and greater every day.

Of course, such a troop movement would of necessity be largely Japanese. It is not impracticable, however, for America to send a substantial though comparatively small army across the Pacific to cooperate with the Japanese, and thus give assurance to the Russian people of the true allied character of such a movement. France and England, the latter country already having some forces at Vladivostok, would gladly join in such an expedition.

Japan would bear the brunt of the movement, while united Russia would recognize her forces, training and equipping them to again take their stand in the field. With Japan and Russia fighting back to back against a common foe, relieving the pressure on the West front, and America with her full strength thrown into the fight on the Western front, anticlimax could be crushed from the face of the earth forever, effectively and in short order.

It is a beautiful eventuality to hope for—a worthy object to work for—and, if accomplished, the master-stroke in the history of diplomacy for all time.

THE USE OF GAS

Probably in no single direction have such strides been made as in the manufacture and use of various poison gases, in the business of modern war. This matter of gas warfare according to military authorities is rapidly becoming a problem of first class importance to American as well as to French and British commanders.

Much of the German gains since the beginning of the present offensive have been directly traceable to the use of gas. Not only is gas fighting a matter of killing, the latest methods employed run clear down the line from the gentle art of complete asphyxiation to the simple production of tears which are said to put artillery men hors d'combat and permit of German infantry advances after the air has cleared on a scale of magnitude which has produced heavy results.

Territory over which the Hun wishes to advance is drenched with a gas which disappears quickly. Where no advance is planned the gas need linger over the field for days and weeks. Troop movements are gauged accordingly and there can be no question but what results have been accomplished in this way which could have been attained in no other manner.

For many months past British, French and American scientists as well as military men have been giving long hours of study to the gas problem and there is no question but what eventually the problem will be solved, but in the meantime thousands of lives are being lost and thousands of fighting men immobilized for periods sufficiently long to permit of the carrying out of German plans and offensives.

There is one point in connection with the matter of gas on the West front which is of more than passing importance. The use of gas depends upon the question of winds, and it has been found that the prevailing winds are from the Allied lines towards the Germans and not from the German in the direction of the Allies. This is not an established rule as to wind movement but in a general way the Allies have the better of the natural advantage of air currents. This fact alone forms an important factor in the final solution.

THE TWIN FALLS COUNTY FAIR

According to the plans of the Fair Board this year's County Fair promises to be a better, bigger, more constructive and more generally useful fair than any which have gone before. As a result of existing conditions the customary summer race meet opening July Fourth has been dispensed with and the attention of the management will be concentrated on the matter of providing a real county fair. The indications were never better. There is a healthy interest in the proposition on the part of former stockmen and evidence of a genuine desire to half manifested over the whole county. A county fair is a cooperative effort. It can succeed only by the agree to which it is supported by the people living in the country which it represents. It is a people's proposition pure and simple from one end to the other, and the most successfully managed fair in the world could not hope to succeed without the wholehearted endorsement of the public.

A county fair is a co-operative activity fair should become more and more of a factor in the communal life of the county and of the surrounding towns outside the county. It must do this or go out of business. There is no middle course. The fair is either a success or it isn't, and if it isn't, the sooner the proposition is given up the better for all concerned.

But there is little fear of such a result here. There has been a steady though gradual growth in public confidence and esteem from the first. Last year's fair was better than the year before. This year it is hoped to offer an even better fair than last year.

It is not too early for all to begin to plan the part they intend to play in helping to make their fair a success. Those who can do nothing beyond attend and thus lend the moral support of their presence during one or more days are helping to build a better and stronger fair just as surely and certainly as the biggest exhibitor.

GOOD WORKS

The National Security League is the name of an institution organized for the general benefit of America in war times, with Elmer Root honorary president, and Judge Alton B. Parker honorary vice president. The chief weapon of the League is publicity, and unfortunately there are times when the weapon is not as effective as might otherwise be the case if there were not quite so many similar institutions employing similar weapons. But there are times when we could wish for a wider degree of publicity than is sometimes possible for certain of the utterances of the League. For instance: The conduct of the war and, in fact, the very future of America, are dependent, not only upon the election of a war Congress that will enact necessary laws, but upon the presence in the National Legislature of men of wisdom, ability and broad experience, who are the best qualified of our citizenship to correctly solve the great internal and international questions which will come before the next Congress.

The National Security League, pursuant to unanimous action of its Executive Committee, has taken upon itself the grave duty of impressing these matters upon you and asking you to pledge your service for prompt action to prevent disaster which might follow the election of incompetent or disloyal men to Congress. This can be prevented through definite and concerted action on the part of loyal citizens who are in the vast majority. Neglect and indifference may prove fatal.

The people of your district will undoubtedly take the right stand if awakened to the political situation in time to secure the highest type of candidates to vote for in the primaries. Every citizen can directly influence results to that end, and we earnestly hope that you will recognize the responsibility of so doing.

(Signed) FRANKLIN REMINGTON, Secretary.

BOARD DEADLOCKS OVER FOOD PRICES

Committee to Name Rate Basis For Substitutes Lays Problem Over Until June 24

For several hours Saturday afternoon, says the Idaho Statesman, the members of a state price interpreting board just appointed, met with Food Administrator R. F. Rickard in an effort to agree upon a fair basis on which the prices of substitutes and other commodities should be regulated through price interpretations. Failure of the board to agree upon a plan resulted in an adjournment until Monday, June 24, and in the interim the members will make independent investigations and gather additional data concerning wholesale and retail costs of substitutes.

Members of the Board

Following is the personnel of the board: Mrs. Raymond Hoover and Mrs. S. M. Briggs, representing the consumers; Betty Atkinson, representing the wholesalers and jobbers; Alvin Regan representing the retailers. They are all of Boise.

Administrative Rickard said Saturday that as soon as the state board has decided definitely upon a plan of procedure, price interpreting boards will be named for each county in the state.

The same classes will be represented on the county boards and the fifth member of each will be the county administrator. Idaho's administrator will constitute the fifth member of the state board.

After the committee was deadlocked for some time as to the basis upon which the price publications were to be made, upon motion of Mrs. Hoover seconded by Mrs. Briggs, the adjournment until Monday, one week, was voted by the committee.

President Wilson Indorses Chautauqua

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

14 December, 1917.

My Dear Mr. Flowers:

It has been on my mind for some time to thank your organization for the very real help it has given to America in the struggle that is concerned with every fundamental element of national life. Your speakers, going from community to community, meeting people in the friendly spirit engendered by years of intimate and understanding contact, have been effective messengers for the delivery and interpretation of democracy's meaning and imperative needs. The work that the Chautauqua is doing has not lost its importance because of war, but rather has gained new opportunities for service.

Let me express the hope that you will let no discouragement weaken your activities, and that the people will not fail in the support of a patriotic institution that may be said to be an integral part of the national defense.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

Hay Wanted

The following letter has been received:

Mr. Donald McLean,
County Agricultural Agent,
Twin Falls, Idaho.
Dear Mr. McLean:

Will you be able to provide ten or fifteen cars of good alfalfa hay for Portland market during the months of August and September? I just received the following letter of inquiry from that point, and thinking that you might possibly have a surplus from that already baled, some of your farmers would like to fill this order.

Portland, Oregon, 6-8-18.

"State of Idaho,
Farm Markets Dept.,
Boise, Idaho.
Gentlemen:

Kindly quote us, basis No. 1, Oregon State Inspection as to weights and grades, baled alfalfa hay to the extent of 10 to 15 cars strong along during August and September.

Very truly yours,

J. H. KLOSTERMAN & CO.

By Klosterman.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) HARVEY ALLED,

State Director Farm Markets Dept.

Hay

Many growers and feeders of Idaho alfalfa are, asking a forecast of crop and prices that should prevail. Because of the lateness of the season, our reports are not all in from adjacent states that produce hay entering into competition with Idaho's alfalfa. For that reason our forecast will be delayed until about July 15. Until that time I would advise the farmers not to contract their hay unless they are satisfied with the price offered.

In order that there may be full understanding between the producers and consumers, and a price fixed that will be just to both, we will hold a meeting at Caldwell at 2:00 p. m. July 12, and at Twin Falls at 2:00 p. m. July 13, and at Idaho Falls at 10:00 a. m. July 14. I desire to meet the county agricultural agents, presidents of county Farm Bureaus, representatives of Farmers' Societies of Equity, Farmers' Granges and Farmers' Unions, and representatives of sheep and cattle men who buy and feed within the state. The place of meeting in these towns will be announced later.

HARVEY ALLED,

State Director Farm Markets Dept.

Frank DeKoltz of Filer has all kinds cherry trees. These slugs are now appearing in injurious numbers. They can be destroyed by spraying with arsenate of lead solution prepared as follows:

Arsenate of lead (paste) _____
Water _____ 25 gallons
Arsenate of lead (powder) _____
Water _____ 50 gallons
Where water under pressure is available the slugs may be washed off the leaves.

If there are only a few trees, spraying thoroughly with a strong soap solution, 1 pound of laundry soap to 4 gallons of water, will prove practical.

Cassfield Demonstrations

Mrs. Frank Kline, the Farm Bureau chairman of that district has arranged with Miss Dencke, an afternoon of demonstrations at the Poplar Grove School House on Friday, June 21, at 2 o'clock. Miss Jennings, a government cottage cheese demonstrator will show the process of making cheese and also demonstrate various dishes, as pudding, pie, sausage, that can be made from cottage cheese. In this case the work of the Extension Department will make wheatear yeast bread, muffins and cake. All ladies interested are urged to be present.

Club Meetings

At the Every Woman's Club at the Poplar Grove School House, Miss Dencke suggested that records be kept this year of the number of quarts of fruit and vegetables, canned and the women show co-operation and interest in this work.

Deep Creek Meeting

Great interest is being taken in conservation and wheatear breads, cakes and cookies. Miss Dencke met with the Deep Creek women and finds that some are making successful wheatear yeast bread. The use of all barley was very interesting. In this case the sponge was mixed in the morning and when light, stiffened and molded into loaves, and put in the pan and baked. This process was completed by 10 o'clock and in other respects the bread made like white flour yeast bread. Too long rising will have a tendency to make the bread sour. A tiny bit of soda may be added to take away the disagreeable flavor that some people connect with barley flour.

Rock Creek

The Red Cross ladies of Rock Creek met with Miss Dencke and talked over the problem of county cooperation in conservation and the use of substitutes on Wednesday, the twelfth. Recipes were exchanged and the request for bulletins made.

The same afternoon Miss Dencke met at Kestler meeting with the ladies at Mrs. Newman's home. An interesting discussion was carried on about wheatear bread and the problem of successful war time meals for thrashers. The women decided that suggestions would be helpful along this line if the women would cooperate in simplifying them. Can we eliminate part of the bread? This was the question they asked and Miss Dencke believes that we can gradually do this. A discussion also arose whether we can train the children to like most foods, especially all vegetables which are very necessary at this time and the majority decided that it is possible through training.

Boys' and Girls' Clubs

The meeting of boys' and girls' clubs held at the Hansen school, Monday evening was well attended and the spirit shown speaks well for the success of club work in that locality. Mr. H. Smith, local Club Leader, has a very successful experience in club organization and club members are assured of a profitable summer's work. The work in Pig Garden and Canning clubs is being given special interest.

Mortuagh

The boys' and girls' of Mortuagh have unfortunately been placed at a great disadvantage through the lack of leadership. Only in the canning club has effective work been done this year. Mr. Smith, County Club Leader, expresses his confidence that the boys' and girls' here will respond to the call of production and conservation as well as they have in other localities. Announcement of leaders will be made at an early date.

Amsterdam

The members of the Amsterdam club were entertained at the home of Mr. Kunkel. A delightful hour of play, an interesting and profitable hour of club work, and excellent refreshments served by the hostess, were enjoyed by all.

Rogerson

The members of the Rogerson club met with the Local and County Leaders at the school house Saturday evening and enjoyed a profitable meeting. The boys' and girls' in this neighborhood will give a good account of themselves in both live stock and crop production clubs.

Cassfield

Probably no community in the county is doing more effective club work than Cassfield and the associated districts. The members under the leadership of Mrs. Beaver and her assistants are doing excellent work with all kinds of club work. The County Leader spent Thursday and Friday in visiting about projects and reports an excellent spirit in this patriotic service on the part of nearly every member.

Labor Office at Buhl

In order to be of more service to the Buhl farmer the Commercial Club will actively conduct a labor office in connection with the Farm Bureau. The plan is as follows:
Phone your requirement to Buhl. The office will be open between 1:00 and 5:00 o'clock. Any farmer is open to the service free. Mr. Combs will be actively on the job and will furnish you help at the Farm Bureau Scale.
In case help cannot be secured at Buhl, the request will be sent over to Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, who have an arrangement with the U. S. Department of Labor to supply all calls for help.

Wheat Storage

The lumber company and grain bin agencies are all following up the good work started by the County Agent in regard to wheat storage. The circular letter prepared and given publicity by the Farm Bureau is a strong agent for improvement on the part of the farmer. It is imperative to secure the grain in a safe place, to store the grain in a safe place, to protect the grain from the weather, and to protect the grain from the weather. The public safety started by the County Agent on wheat storage is a strong agent for improvement on the part of the farmer. It is imperative to secure the grain in a safe place, to store the grain in a safe place, to protect the grain from the weather, and to protect the grain from the weather.

Notes
W. F. Alworth spoke at Gooding Friday p. m. and at Jerome Saturday evening, on the Labor Scale and was received with enthusiasm. The North Side farmers are appreciating the benefits of a fixed scale for farm hands. Reports of high wages on the other side of the river are false.

Farmers at Grandview are securing hay bams from Boise at $3.00 per day and board. They also report considerable damage from the aphid.

Miss Charlotte Lewis is spending the week in the county on food demonstration work.

A. B. Pike from the Western Office of the U. S. Dairy Division Salt Lake and P. B. Cammack, State Dairyman, are investigating the alfalfa situation this week.

The County Agent addressed the Farmers' Society of Equity at Hansen, Monday evening on wheat storage. Mr. Alworth and the County Agent will speak at Blackfield June 23, on Wheat Storage and Labor.

TRANSFERS FROM RED CROSS WORK TO THE Y.M.C.A.

L. L. BROCKENRIDGE OF TWIN FALLS, IN FOR- EIGN SERVICE, SEES GREATER NEED

Loyal L. Brockenridge, manager of the Twin Falls Milling & Elevator company, who left March 25 to serve in an executive capacity in the Red Cross work in France, has transferred to the Y. M. C. A. work abroad. In a letter, written May 25 in Paris, received this week by Mrs. Brockenridge, Mr. Brockenridge says regarding his new work: "I have transferred to the Y. M. C. A. work now and am to leave this point for another part of France the first of next week. No doubt this will be somewhat of a surprise to you, but I found what seems to be a larger work, or at least a work that needed doing more, and went at it."

Works With Rhodes
"I shall be with Mr. Rhodes quite a little of the time. He was general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Portland for the northwest and came frequently to Twin Falls in the interest of the work. He is doing a great work over here, and is loved by the workers, by whom he is commonly known as 'Dusty' Rhodes from the fact, I presume, that he moves, for he surely is working and going some. He seems to think that I can at least keep up or in sight of his dust."

At Business End
"I will have the business end of the sector he is looking after. This is regarded as the most important sector at this time, and has been somewhat disorganized during the past two months, but is getting going again in fair shape and is growing at a wonderful rate. I shall have to look after and oversee the securing of supplies for the post office changes and the transportation of them from the exchanges to the canteens."

LUCKILY MISS HURT IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK

Attorney C. A. Bailey and Companions at Fairfield Have Fortunate Escape From Injury

Attorney Clare A. Bailey, who is associated with the firm of Walters & Hodgins, Twin Falls, was one of a party of three which narrowly escaped serious or fatal injury in an automobile accident near Fairfield, Idaho, Monday evening. The car, which was being driven at a considerable rate of speed over a poor road, struck a bridge, throwing Mr. Bailey, who was alone in the rear seat, violently against the seat, with the result that his face was bruised and lacerated. The other occupants of the car, George Hollier, cashier of the First National bank at Fairfield, and Attorney Boyle of Hail, who were in the front seat, escaped without injury. The car was considerably damaged.

Mr. Bailey was in Fairfield appearing in the trial of a law suit. He returned to Twin Falls Wednesday.

MINE OFFICIAL IS OUT WITH FACTS

EVERYBODY OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT TANLAW'S WORK. DEEPLY, SAYS PETERSON

Statement after statement is now being made in connection with Tanlaw, the "Premier Preparation," who has accompanied such remarkable results throughout the United States and Canada. Arthur Peterson, general manager at the mines of the Seven Stars Gold Mining Company, Unionville, Nev., who is spending the winter at the company's office, 218 Main street, Salt Lake City, Utah, in relating his experience with the medicine said:

"I can recommend Tanlaw as the best medicine I have ever tried, and I since taking it I feel better than I have in years."

Mr. Peterson was born in Salt Lake City, but lived for six years in El Paso, where he was captain of companies five and six of the fire department, and it was there he realized the wonderful powers of Tanlaw.

"When I began taking Tanlaw," Mr. Peterson continued, "it was all out of shape, suffering from stomach trouble so I couldn't eat anything scarcely without it hurting me. I had very little appetite, and the gas on my stomach would bloat me up and keep me in misery for hours after meals. I was constantly taking something for constipation, had fearful headaches, and was very nervous. My rest was very poor, I was tired all the time, and would get up in the mornings feeling as worn out as if I hadn't gone to bed. The condition had been going on for three years, and I had gotten to where I never felt like doing anything."

"I was then living in El Paso, and so many people were talking about the good Tanlaw was doing that I got a bottle, and from the very first I began to feel better. My stomach stopped bloating in a short time, my head quit aching, and my constipation and nervousness disappeared. I have not been sick since I finished my third bottle of Tanlaw a year ago. My sleep, my appetite, and digestion are all perfect. I sleep good and am feeling fine. Tanlaw made a new man of me, and anyone wishing to do so may call me over the phone, Watsch 2610 or Watsch 2101-2, and I will take pleasure in verifying my statement. Everybody ought to know about Tanlaw—it is wonderful."

Tanlaw is sold in Twin Falls by City Pharmacy, in Rogers by Thompson Drug Co., in Murtagh by Murtagh Drug Co., in Carey by J. A. Wood, in Carey by C. D. Bag Brothers Co., and in Kimberly by W. A. L. Stowers—Adv.

Fascinating Screen Facts

A prize fighter whose sole conversational asset is the terse phrase "Let's Go"; a chorus girl; a millionaire's son; a domineering old valet;—these and many others make up the amusing cast of Charles Ray's newest Paramount picture, "The Family Skeleton" which is to be shown at the Idaho Theatre the first of next week. Sylvia Bremer plays the leading feminine role in support of Mr. Ray while clever Billy Elmer is the ex-prize fighter. Other players in the cast are: Andrew Arbuckle, Otto Hoffman and Jack Dyer. Under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince himself, Victor L. Scherzinger directed the entire production.

According to announcement just made, William S. Hart is expected to marry in the near future. The Artercraft star will wed Margaret Evans, daughter of a cattle man of Butte, Montana.

Edid Bennett's latest Paramount picture, "A Desert Wooling," gives the Ince star a role in which she does her best work.

Chinatown, as it was some years ago, with the big dance-halls of the Barbary Coast and the motley crews from the fleets of the world anchoring in the Golden Gate, making the most of their time on shore, is shown in Mary Pickford's latest Artercraft picture, "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley," which will be shown at Idaho Theatre beginning Thursday. The entire scene was filmed on the streets of San Francisco and scores of slant-eyed Mongolians added "atmosphere" to the picture.

"Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley" was adapted by Frances Marion from the novel by Belle K. Maniates, and presents "America's Sweetheart" as a product of the slums, who has some amusing and exciting experiences. Among her admirers are two favored ones—a bartender and a glitzy society youth. She meets the latter when he gets knocked out in a brawl which takes place while he is on a slumming tour.

The production was directed by Marshall Neilan, who has been responsible for a number of "Miss Pickford's" recent successes, including her last picture, "Stella Maris."

Promises Story From Here
The statement of former senator M. J. Sweeney, recently elected member of the Republican state central committee from Twin Falls county, when asked in Boise recently in regard to politics, that there may be a story from his part of the state after the platform conventions, may be interpreted with various meanings. He declines to elucidate further.

Situation Abnormal

Under normal conditions, the crop of candidates at this season of a campaign year should be a bounteous one, but with two or three exceptions no new aspirants for political preference have disclosed their ambitions, and no formal announcements have been made.

It is practically certain that the four Republicans county office holders will be candidates for re-election. George W. Wilborn, who twice previously led the Republicans, is slated to run again, undoubtedly will run for re-election for a second term county treasurer. Announcement also is given Frank H. P. Davis, prosecuting attorney; Oliver W. Wilborn, county superintendent of public education, to make the race for public school. No opposition either in their own party or among the ranks of the Democratic party has yet appeared in any of these races.

Sheriff Faces Struggle
There are apparently no aspirants for the office of sheriff among the Republicans, although Frank M. Randall, who has held the office to the general satisfaction of the public for five years re-election, may be opposed in the primary campaign by John M. Beck, a deputy sheriff for several months past, and by Joe Fitzsimmons, deputy state game warden.

CLARE FIELD FOR FILER MAN

E. J. Finch, who is completing his second four-year term as county auditor and clerk of the district court, is emphatic in his denial that he will be a candidate for re-election, and the support of the county Republican party will be dedicated to J. M. Maros of Filer, the candidacy of P. E. Hrow, a former deputy, and at one time adjutant general of the state, being abandoned. It is reported, by himself, Mr. Maros is a member of the county fair association, being born superintendent superintendent of the Buhl and Maros schools and being now secretary of the county fair association. No aspirant for this office has appeared among the Republicans.

A Possible Candidate
Harvey Coggins, Democrat, elected treasurer two years ago, probably will be a candidate for re-election, and as yet no opposition to his candidacy in the primaries has developed. There is a possibility, however, that in the general election, he may have to make the race against William O. Smith, assistant cashier in the Idaho State bank.

Discount Commissioner's Statement
There appears to be no candidate for county commissioner from the central district. O. E. Carlson, Democrat, who is completing his third term as commissioner from this district, states that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for the position again. In the light of a similar statement made by Mr. Carlson two years ago before the primaries, his announcement this year is not as convincing as it might have been.

T. E. Moore of Filer, Republican, commissioner, from the west district, now completing his second term is making no statements in regard to whether he will or will not run again. C. H. Taylor of Buhl, a former commissioner, is mentioned as a possible candidate on the Democratic ticket.

W. F. Brewer, of Hansen, Democrat, appointed nearly two years ago as commissioner from the east district to succeed Dr. D. T. Albee of Beek Creek, resigned, probably will be a candidate for reelection to that office, although he has made no public statement to this effect. There has been as yet no one among the Republicans mentioned as a candidate for commissioner from the east end.

First Shoshone Falls Host On Visit to Hailey Revives Bits of Twin Falls History

CHARLES WALGAMOTT, CREDITED WITH INQUIRING I. B. PERRINE TO LOCATE BLUE LAKES RANCH IN INTERVIEW WITH PIONEER COMPANIONS PROMPTS VETERAN IDAHO JOURNALIST TO REVEAL INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS ON BEGINNING OF EMPIRE BUILDING

The story of the first hotel keeper at Shoshone Falls, the man who induced Bert Perrine to locate in that region, and who was therefore directly responsible for the wonderful development of that tract, Charles Walgamott, visited his old stamping ground, Hailey, recently, and the Wood River Daily Times has the following story which pioneers will read with interest:

Charles Walgamott ran up to Hailey Wednesday in his car to visit his old-time friends here. He found but four: viz. E. M. Mallory, J. J. Tracy, Dan Kingsbury and T. E. Picotte.

Whiskey For Everybody
The rush to Wood river proving too tiring, Mr. Walgamott sold his store in the fall of 1880 and came to Hailey, arriving there just as Owen Riley was opening his stock of general merchandise. Among the stock were two barrels of whiskey and Owen stood them up outside his tent with a tin cup on each and everybody helped themselves free of charge until the last drop was gone.

Mr. Walgamott was recently married in those days and the tents and mud shacks did not seem good enough for his bride, so he built a log cabin in which he and his wife resided. In the spring, Hailey being laid out, Mr. and Mrs. Walgamott moved to Hailey and Mrs. W. Riley also. There being no houses, no lumber and few logs cut, Mr. Riley built a log foundation and laid a slab floor in it, at the south-west corner of River and Bullion streets and Mr. Walgamott did likewise for himself and wife. On top of each they spread canvas tents.

Stage Kids Prosper

From Hailey the Walgamotts moved to Shoshone on the completion of the O. & N. to that point. There Mr. Walgamott played the violin at dances for $25 per night and also in a dance hall every evening for $4 per. Locating the Shoshone Falls he gave a half interest to Joe Salloway and agreed to divide his earnings 50-50, and they bought an old Concord wagon and put on a stage line to the Falls. For three months they did not get a passenger and money was so tight with them that they could buy no feed. Grass was shoulder high to a horse in those days, however, so when about half way between the Falls and Shoshone the stage was stopped for an hour or two while the horses grazed.

In the following spring a comfortable cabin having been built at the Shoshone Falls, Mrs. Walgamott made home there and visitors soon compelled the building of a hotel of a dozen rooms which was well patronized until Senator W. A. Clark, the Montana multimillionaire, bought the Falls.

Bert Perrine Is Interested

The second spring that they were at the Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Walgamott, wishing neighbors, induced Bert Perrine and a partner to locate the Blue lakes, which have since become famous. Mr. Perrine and his partner owned a dozen or so of cows and money was not as plentiful with them as it has since become with Perrine, so he waited on the table at McCall's hotel, which was then leased by Don McKay, while the partner looked after the Blue lakes ranch. In three or four years, his partner getting sick of the slow growth of fruit trees, Perrine bought him out at his own price, married Miss McKay and became one of the empire builders of Idaho.

Since leaving the Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Walgamott have lived in Great Falls and Butte, Mont., mostly; but they are now settled in an elegant home of their own in Twin Falls.

SUFFRAGE AS WAR MEASURE IS PRESENTED

LOCAL CLUBS CONGRU-

ATOR BORAH AS OPPO-SITION IN WEST

TELEGRAM SENT TO
SENATOR W. B. BORAH

Three hundred members of the Federated Clubs of Twin Falls still feel confident that you are big enough to change your mind and vote for the national suffrage amendment.

(Signed)
CARRIE HARPER WHITE,
President

(By Jessie Warrington)

The annual picnic of the Federated Rural Clubs of this vicinity, held in the city park Wednesday afternoon, was made the occasion for a presentation of the subject of the National Suffrage amendment, by Miss Margaret Whittemore of Washington, D. C. Two hundred of the 300 members belonging to the 12 clubs in the federation were present and at the conclusion of the splendid address by Miss Whittemore, by vote of the members present the above telegram was sent to Senator Borah, to be followed by a similar telegram from each of the twelve clubs represented.

The speaking followed a bounteous picnic dinner served at noon. Immediately after the dinner Mrs. John E. White, in a brief talk to the club, gave an account of some of the work accomplished by the clubs and outlined a few plans for future work. She then introduced the various clubs which, in turn, gave some "status" as a club or by one of their representatives.

Mrs. H. W. Clouchek also gave a brief talk.

Miss Whittemore was graciously introduced by Mrs. White, and opened her splendid address with the statement that twenty million women have no voice in their government. Miss Whittemore's charming personality and manner of presenting her subject held the intense interest of her audience throughout. The fact that the weather forced her to deliver her address in three sections, the first in the open, the second under the bandstand out of the rain, and the third out in the open again, under the trees, did not in the least detract from the interest of her audience nor lessen the interest of her audience.

Served Jail Sentences

Miss Whittemore wears an interesting brooch that brings both a lump in the throat and a smile. It is a perfect reproduction of a jail door. In miniature, signifying that Miss Whittemore was one of the women sentenced to jail in the history-making campaign for national suffrage.

With quiet dignity and without bitterness or boastfulness, Miss Whittemore, after presenting the subject of the impending suffrage bill and urging the support of voting women of fatherhood, told some of the experiences of the "pickets at the White House." She told of the repeated visits of groups of women of national note and their unavailing efforts to win the president's approval of the groups of women who stood for seven months in quiet dignity and silent application about the White House with their significant banners asking for national suffrage; of the friendliness of the policemen who gave them useful information as to the best cathodes to be used in keeping warm on their long vigils. She told of the first arrests and how the women were sentenced to and served their sentences of three days in jail and that after they had served their time they were informed by legal authority that their arrest was not legal.

The Nation's Disgrace
There were smothered exclamations of dismay and indignation from her audience as Miss Whittemore quietly told of how sixty splendid women from among the best homes in Washington and other cities were sentenced to a long term of hard work and solitary confinement in a southern penitentiary; of how indignant that stand as a disgrace to this country were heaped upon them in their being forced to scrub the quarters of the negroes, eat food that was infested with sleep within two feet of vermin-infested negro women of the lowest type.

From this description she led her audience into the sunlight of hope in store for the women who shall have the vote. Along this she told of the great handiwork experienced in the present war by the women from this country who go to Europe without the rights of citizenship. This she stated was a real detriment to this country, and should be remedied at once. Already, she stated, more than 700,000 women have been killed in this war and thousands have suffered and worked as citizens and yet have not been recognized as citizens.

Classed With Germany
"But now," said Miss Whittemore, "these splendid countries that have the United States in alliance with two others that have refused national suffrage to women—they are Japan and Germany."

"Yes," a woman in the audience said, "and if the United States does not hurry, those eight countries will be sending missionaries over here to us."

"The French government," Miss Whittemore resumed, "granted their women the right of suffrage until after the war. The women of France were indignant and sent this reply to their government:

"Suffering from the mismanagement of a man's world, the women of France demand a voice in their government without further restriction. And they got it."

Concentrate on Borah

Summing up her address, Miss Whittemore again urged the importance of the passage of the bill and the great necessity for getting Senator Borah's vote. Miss Whittemore stated that President Wilson has finally been persuaded to take the stand for national suffrage and is now advocating it and asks for support in getting it through. "Many people," Miss Whittemore stated, "think the president should not be bothered with matters regarding this matter at this time of crisis in national and world affairs. But this is a mistake. They do not bother him. He is working for the passage of the bill. It is generally conceded by practically all men of affairs at this time that national suffrage is a beneficial war measure that will not increase the power of this country. And why shouldn't it? Since the first of the year 30,000 women have taken men's places in industry. Women war workers are as important to the winning of the war as are the men in the trenches, and they should be as completely equipped as the soldiers at the front for their work. The vote is a most necessary part of their equipment."

Telegrams Sent

At the close of her address, Miss Whittemore repeatedly appealed to the platform to answer questions and give further information on the matter discussed. The leading subject after the address, during an informal reception for Miss Whittemore, was that of the stand taken by Senator Borah. Both surprise and indignation were heard on every side and a determination expressed to bring to bear upon Senator Borah every influence possible in the effort to change his determination not to take the passage of the amendment. Miss Whittemore gave the names of scores of prominent individuals and organizations that are now working in behalf of the bill and, in this state, urging Senator Borah by letters and telegrams to reconsider his decision to vote against the passage of the amendment. Besides those sent by the federated

OVER THE TOP

AN AMERICAN SOLDIER WHO WENT

ARTHUR GUY EMPEY

MACHINE GUNNER, SERVING IN FRANCE

QUINT BY ARTHUR GUY EMPEY

Atwell was a good companion and very entertaining. He had an utter contempt for danger, but was not foolhardy. As a soldier he was a wonder. A cavalry regiment would have been proud of him. Though born in England, he had spent several years in New York. He was about six feet one, and as strong as an ox.

We took up our quarters in a large dugout of the royal engineers, and mapped out our future actions. This dugout was on the edge of a large cemetery, and several times at night in returning to it we got many a fall stumbling over the graves of English, French and Germans. Atwell on these occasions never indulged in swearing, though at any other time, at the least, he would turn the air blue.

A certain section of our trenches was held by the Royal Irish rifles. For several days a very strong rumor went the rounds that a German spy was in our midst. This spy was supposed to be dressed in the uniform of a British staff officer. Several stories had been told about an officer wearing a red band around his cap, who patrolled the front-line and communication trenches asking suspicious questions as to location of batteries, machine-gun emplacements, and trench mortars. It was said that he was a machine gunner or even near a dugout, this spy was blamed.

The rumor gained such strength that an order was issued for all troops to immediately place under arrest anyone answering to the description of the spy.

Atwell and I were on the qui vive. We constantly patrolled the trenches at night, and even in the day, but the spy always slipped our net.

One day while in a communication trench, we were horrified to see our brigadier general, Old Pepper, being brought down by a big private of the Royal Irish rifles. The general was walking in front of the private with a fixed bayonet was following in the rear.

We saluted as the general passed us. The Irishman had a broad grin on his face and we could scarcely believe our eyes. The general was under arrest. After passing a few feet beyond us, the general turned, and said in a wrathful voice to Atwell:

"Tell this G—n fool who I am. He's arrested me as a spy."

Atwell was speechless. The sentry butted in with:

"None of that gasin' out o' you. Back to headquarters you goes, Mr. Atwell. Open that face o' yours again, an' I'll put in your napper with the butt o' me rifle."

The general's face was a sight to behold. He was fairly boiling over with rage, but he shut up.

Atwell tried to get in front of the sentry to explain to him that it really was the general he had under arrest, but the sentry threatened to run his bayonet through him, and would have done it, too. So Atwell stopped aside, and remained silent. I was nearly bursting with suppressed laughter. One word, and I would have exploded. It is not exactly diplomatic to laugh at your general in such a predicament.

The sentry and his prisoner arrived at brigade headquarters with disastrous results to the sentry. The joke was that the general had personally issued the order for the spy's arrest. It was a habit of the general to walk through the trenches on rounds of inspection, unattended by any of his staff. The Irishman, being new in the regiment, had never seen the general before, so when he came across him alone in a communication trench, he promptly put him under arrest. Brigadier generals wear a red band around their caps.

Next day we passed the Irishman tied to the wheel of a limber, the prisoner of the sentry. It was several days, field punishment No. 1. Never before have I seen such a woebegone expression on a man's face.

For several days, Atwell and I made ourselves scarce around brigade headquarters. We did not want to meet the general.

What was the matter, when he put his finger to his lips for silence and whispered:

"Get on your equipment, and without any noise, come with me."

That greatly mystified me, but I obeyed his order.

Outside of the billet, I asked him what was up, but he shut me up with: "Don't ask questions, it's against orders. I don't know myself."

It was raining like the mischief. We splashed along a muddy road for about fifteen minutes, finally stopping at the entrance of what must have been an old barn. In the darkness, I could hear pigs grunting, as if they had just been disturbed. In front of the door stood an officer in a Mack (muckintosh). This R. E. M. went up to him, whispered something, and then left. This officer called to me, asked my name, number and regiment, at the same time, in the light of a lantern he was holding, making a notation in a little book.

When he had finished writing, he whispered:

"Go into that billet and wait orders, and no talking. Understand?"

I stumbled into the barn and sat on the floor in the darkness. I could see no one, but could hear men breathing and moving; they seemed nervous and restless. I knew I was.

During my wait, three other men entered. Then the officer poked his head in the door and ordered:

"Fall in, outside the billet, in single rank."

We fell in, standing at ease. Then he commanded:

"Squad—(Shun) Number 1!"

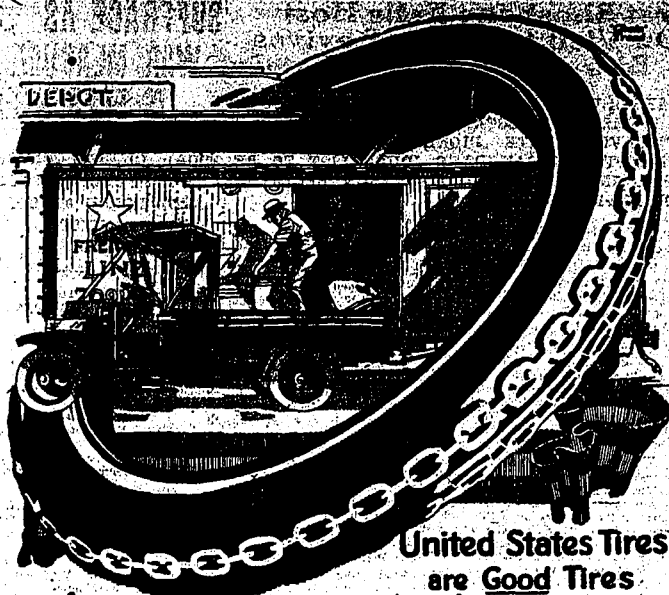

"Right—Turn! Left—Wheel! Quick—March!" And away we went. The rain was trickling down my back and I was shivering from the cold.

With the officer leading, we must have marched over an hour, plowing through mud and occasionally stumbling into a shell hole in the road.

We fell in, standing at ease. Then he commanded:

"Squad—(Shun) Number 1!"

"Right—Turn! Left—Wheel! Quick—March!" And away we went. The rain was trickling down my back and I was shivering from the cold.

FLAG DAY PARADE BRINGS OUT HUNDREDS OF CITIZENS OBSERVING OCCASION WITH ELKS

War workers from practically every section of Twin Falls county were represented in the parade which was a central feature of the Flag Day observance held here Friday under the auspices of the Twin Falls Elks lodge. Particularly noteworthy features of the parade were the floats bearing members of the Twin Falls Red Cross branch in nurses' costumes, and the appearance of nearly 200 members of the trades union members of the city. The Boy Scouts bearing along with the American flag recently presented to them by business men of the city, the flag of France, Great Britain, Belgium and Italy, as usual, elicited applause along the line of march.

Through Flag Lined Avenues The parade formed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon under the direction of Sheriff Frank M. Randall, marshal of the day. It passed through lines of spectators along the principle streets which were decorated profusely with the national colors, and dispersed at the city park, where a concert was given by the Twin Falls band until 6 o'clock. The march was headed by Sergeant William B. McCracken of the local marine corps recruiting station, bearing a big American flag, and attended by Private G. B.
