Administrators for Most Counties Assemble in Boise to Confer on Situation Fronting Consumers and Producers

BOISE.—The county food administrators reduced the maximum price of a 15-cent loaf of bread in the state to 10 cents wholesale and 10 cents retail, unwrapped, and recommended an increase of 50 cents to farmers for sugar beets making a price of $15 per ton, at their meeting held in the federal courtrooms Saturday.

At the morning meeting, the Idaho State Board of Food Control, which has been in session since the outbreak of the 1918 wheat strike, was held in session to discuss the situation.

Wheat Moves in Great Volume There had already been 3000 cars in excess of last year in shipping this wheat, but he was now glad to announce that the embargo lifted under the permit system.

Big Crops for Next Year Mr. Bicknell asked the administrators to urge the farmers to study soil conditions especially this fall, and to plant next spring much more as will do better on their soil, not putting everything into wheat, as has been done this year, since most of the crop is going to ship a much larger supply of foodstuffs to the allies than this year.

A VITAL ISSUE

Daughters of American Revolution Disagree With Federation Head

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Twin Falls have gone on record as opposing the statement credited by the Christian Science Monitor, Boston, to Mrs. M. J. Seelye of Twin Falls, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, as follows: Mrs. Seelye expressed the opinion of the Republican women generally in her reply to a portion of the club women of northern Idaho who asked advice concerning what advice they should take regarding Senator Borah. She says, "As president of the Federation of Women's clubs, I cannot mingle in politics, but as a Republican I would stump the state for Senator Borah before I would see him defeated because of his refusal to vote for woman suffrage."

A communication from the Daughters of the American Revolution of Twin Falls says, "We wish to go on record as opposing the sentiments expressed by the president of the Federation of Women's Clubs of Idaho in the Christian Science Monitor of September 19, when she states that the women of Idaho are too big to oppose so great a man as Senator Borah for his disagreement with them on the subject of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the federal constitution. Rather do we hope that the women of Idaho will put behind them all state issues in favor of this great national issue, which is necessary to complete the democracy of our country."

CHICKEN COOP BUILDER
MUST GET WAR PERMIT

New Ruling Removes $2,500 Minimum Building Limit, Chairman is Advised

(Special to the News) BOISE, Oct. 5.—There can be no new construction of any kind irrespective of cost in this state except new farm buildings where the aggregate cost is under $1,000. The minimum limit of $2,500 heretofore established has vanished, advice received by the state board designated to take charge of the permits, of which O. C. Hage is chairman, has been advised. This board has not as yet held its organization meeting, although it met formally the other day and after taking up the matter of construction of two small school buildings in "Blaine county," authorized that permits be granted.

Under the ruling of the war industries board, absolutely no new construction work can be taken up in cities, towns and villages without a permit being first secured. Building operations are therefore definitely suspended. The minimum of $2,500, applies only to repairs and extensions. That is to say that if it is desired to make repairs and extensions to a building this could be done without first securing a permit and the parties so desiring could do so at once. The minimum of $2,500, however, in the case of erecting a new building of any kind, that is impossible without a permit being first secured. Some confusion has been caused by the fact that the explanation originating from the war industries board at Washington, it will be impossible in the future to even erect a garage or a chicken coop within the limits of a city or town without a permit.

Patience Will Be a Virtue, Says Herbert Hoover, National Food Administrator

If holders will have a little patience, what will all be moved, and the full price will be secured by every grower, says Herbert Hoover, national food administrator, announcing the temporary diversion of grain to the transportation of military supplies and consequent curtailment of the grain movement. Hoover's statement is given in the following telegram received through the state food administration by County Food Administrator C. E. Munson: "Enlarged demands by General Pershing for material resulting from progress on the western front, has necessitated temporary diversion of grain ships to this service. This temporarily curtails the wheat movement from the seaboard and has filled our seaboard and terminal elevators and thus checks the movement. It is reported that some farmers have become impatient to this service. The government price. There is no occasion for this. If the holders will have a little patience, wheat will all be moved and the full price will be secured by every grower."

JURY RETURNS VERDICT ON WOMAN'S DEATH

Finds Morphine, Not Naloxon Fatal Drug in Case of Mrs. May Young

That Mrs. May Young, 22, of Meridian, who was discovered fatally drugged Friday night in a barn on the country fair grounds at Elmer, came to her death as a result of morphine poisoning was the verdict returned Monday afternoon by the jury empaneled at Crooner C. J. Crosby at an inquest to inquire into the circumstances surrounding her death. The remains were taken Monday evening to Meridian by W. L. Young, husband of the dead woman, who had let her there two weeks before to go to Knapton, Idaho, where he said, he was to take charge of a store owned by his father, and where he expected to be joined by his wife and their five year old daughter.

Companion Testifies The testimony of Frank Pierce, a cook employed on the fair grounds at Elmer, who had made the acquaintance of Mrs. Young in Boise, and who had been in her company on the day she was found drugged, and who had drunk from the bottle containing the drugged liquor, was introduced at the inquest. He was unable to shed any light on where Mrs. Young had obtained the liquor or poison. He appeared to be deeply moved by the tragedy.

Sheriff P. M. Kendall also related his official connection with the case and told of medical attention given to the part of his office to treat the source of the poison. Dr. R. B. Doolay, graduate chemist, gave the results of his analysis of the contents of the dead woman's stomach. Dr. P. A. Doolay of Elmer, who attended Mrs. Young, and Dr. W. F. Pike of Twin Falls, were called upon to explain the effect of various kinds of poison, and both gave it as their opinion that morphine had caused the death of Mrs. Young.

ISSUES GOVERNMENT PLANS FOR MAIMED MEN

Professor Frank J. Laube Addresses Local Business Men at Luncheon

In the interest of a better understanding of the way in which the government proposes to go about caring for the wounded soldiers after the war, Frank J. Laube, professor of political science of the University of Washington, delivered an interesting address to a luncheon of a hundred local men at a dinner given in his honor at the Regency cafe on Tuesday evening.

Maimed Men Not Abnormal

Professor Laube dwelt at length upon the fact that there was nothing abnormal about a man with but one leg or one arm, and that any form of treatment or education provided for such men must keep this fact constantly in the foreground. The government's plan for the care of wounded men is comprehensive and wide. It will begin with the rehabilitation in a physical sense and then proceed to the work of education. Along this line, he calculated to make for useful citizenship on the part of all who are amenable for treatment. Professor Laube pointed out that one maimed man may become self-supporting with the assistance of the government. He pointed out that a maimed man is not a burden, but a man who can be trained to do useful and profitable work. He pointed out that there are over a dozen useful lines of occupation which can be engaged in by men who have lost both legs. He pointed out that a maimed man is not a man with but one leg or one arm, but a man who can be trained to do useful and profitable work.

Give Plans of Allies

Professor Laube outlined the plans which have been followed in this work in Canada, England, France and Belgium, and stated that the American program would include the best in all these plans. A plan has already been made in the work. Maimed American soldiers are already beginning to arrive at Atlantic ports.

He urged the necessity of a thorough appreciation of the importance of the subject upon the part of all in order that the work may be expedited and encouraged by a sympathetic attitude of the public generally.

The Red Cross will have direct charge of the hospital and instruction, institution management through its home service section.

Following the banquet an open meeting was held at the High School auditorium where the plan in detail was again gone into.

THE WAY THE WIND BLOWS

Politics, according to Webster's, is the science and art of government. A politician, in the same sense, is one versed and experienced in the science of government. Political parties spring from divisions that arise among the people on fundamental questions of government.

Politics have, and political parties have, as a matter of right, nothing to do with the larger portion of offices that are filled at elections.

As a matter of practice, however, the situation is frequently quite different.

A sheriff is elected because he happens to bear the brand of the political party that predominates in the election; but those who voted for him for that reason wouldn't even attempt to explain what connection the candidate's views on the science of government had to do with the running of the sheriff's office. The same is true of all the county and most of the state offices.

A bank searching for a cashier isn't much concerned as to whether an applicant thinks the nation should operate on a high or a low tariff.

That is what makes for efficiency in a banking institution.

The best man for the job principle is what makes for efficiency in any institution.

The neglect of that principle is what makes for inefficiency and maladministration in public offices.

Failure to apply this common-sense principle is the reason that men who have conspicuously failed to do anything for themselves, their families or anybody else, frequently find themselves ensconced in a lucrative public job.

They get on the ticket. Party leaders discuss the governmental issues at state and the candidates ride into administrative offices for which they are wholly unfit, because a majority of the people do or do not favor state-owned elevators, or something else.

Twin Falls county is hardly free, to quote an axiom, from the evil effects of this practice. The people who have settled in this section left their stone-age prejudices behind them when they immigrated to a country where things count for what they are worth—to a country where things are done for a reason instead of through habit.

That is why the county offices of this county are filled today with some men who are rated Republicans and others who are classified as Democrats, and the Republicans and Democrats alike, with one or two exceptions, have rendered a good account of themselves in the administration of their office.

It isn't apparent how the assessor's office would be improved by replacing the present incumbent with a Democrat. Nor is it apparent that the sheriff's office would have been better off with a Republican in office for the past two years.

Yet there are those who profess to think so. Not so many, perhaps, but a few who manage to make their influence felt.

Webster's has a definition for them, too. Those "primarily interested in political offices or their profits," to quote the dictionary, and their sort of politics is defined by the same authority as "artful and dishonest management to secure the success of political candidates or parties."

The success of governmental policies and principles for which parties exist, concerns them not at all. Their interest is in the by-products.

Practically all of the evils—and probably none of the benefits—of our governmental system come from this class—the professional politicians.

They are recognizable by their political machines, their newspapers and their patronage.

Eliminate politics from the public offices that are administrative and not political and you have eliminated most of the things in our political system for which we seek apologies.

Ignorance, indifference, neglect and venality—these are what has perpetuated the system in its present state.

Elimination of candidates and parties, and the consolidation of offices, are the only ways to bring activity and

We take it that in this country there is not a hopeless divergence of opinion as to what general trend legislation should follow in the next legislature.

First, any Governor, of course, any Legislature, any measure. Following these, in importance, is the enactment of legislation that will tend to bring the producer and consumer into closer touch.

We are not particularly frightened by some of the proposals along this latter line that have been made. We are not opposed to the development of the undeveloped resources of the state—by the state. It may be an experiment. But every lasting, worth-while, thing under the sun was at some time or another, an experiment. It may be Socialism; but our systems are becoming pretty well inoculated with it, and we are still living!

On these issues, we repeat, there is no wide divergence of opinion in this country, or between the people living in its cities or on its farms.

The difference of opinion will come as to the men and women—for we hope to see a woman among them—whom we send to the legislature, entrusted with the responsibility of wisely translating this program into fruitful legislation.

Of the two candidates for the state senate, we prefer Mr. J. H. Beaver, of Oatfield. Mr. Beaver is not the structure of any political machine. He is a progressive and substantial farmer, successful, so far as we know, in everything he has undertaken. Mr. Beaver was a few years ago one of the prominent business men of Twin Falls, having for several years occupied the position of manager of the power company. At present, we understand, he is interested with other men in the promotion of a mutual electric company in this county, along lines similar to the organization of the canal company. With the development of the undeveloped power resources of the state as one of the issues of the campaign, a more competent man of unquestioned integrity could not be found in southern Idaho than Mr. Beaver. His opponent is known only as the head of a new political party in this county. The public has not been informed of any particular qualifications he may have for the office of senator.

Of the six candidates for the assembly, we are somewhat skeptical of one—perhaps without just cause—and positively opposed to another. Both have heretofore been associated with the Socialist party.

We do not wish to see Twin Falls county represented in the next assembly by a delegation two-thirds Socialist, for the simple reason that the county is not even one-third Socialist.

We feel that it would be not only a misfortune, but an unpardonable crime and offense to the men we have sent overseas, to contribute to a Socialist-controlled assembly. If Twin Falls county sends a Socialist to the legislature, and as clean-cut a man as we understand Mr. R. L. Little—one of the candidates to be, and the Socialist, as represented in the assembly, she should have a right to be heard. We live in peace at home while they sacrifice their lives abroad for governmental ideals of which we are justly proud—granting their defects. Should we take a single step in the direction of substituting an entirely new code at this time?

But a much more potential objection is raised to Mr. Berger, who is running on the same ticket.

In a speech at Plummer last long ago, Mr. Berger offered what was, in effect, an apology for the German soldier. The German soldier, we believe, is the vandal who has committed practically every atrocity known to mankind through any of the ages. It was not the Hun War Lords who ravaged the Belgian and French women, of who cut the throats of captured American sentries. Couple with Mr. Berger's conception of the German soldier's position, the fact that Mr. Berger is himself a German, citizen by birth, a former German soldier, and an American who has been affiliated with a party that has been shattered to shreds because of its internal disagreements over the question of loyalty to American institutions, and our objection to Mr. Berger becomes apparent. Under all of the circumstances it is difficult to understand how Mr. Berger would consent to become a candidate for the legislature in such times as these, and having consented, it becomes all the more proper that he should be overwhelmingly rejected.

Mr. F. U. Woodruff we hope to see elected. His standing as a citizen is of the highest grade, and Mr. Woodruff is supposedly the candidate of the labor element of the county. Organized labor is to be congratulated in having put forth so generally acceptable a man.

Mrs. J. E. White has always been a tireless worker in the interests of the farmers, and with her husband, Captain White, until he joined the colors, gave most freely of her time and ability in furthering every patriotic effort which the county undertook. This is entirely aside from the consideration that, in a state where women have long exercised the right of franchise, it is only fitting that when so capable a woman, as Mrs. White becomes a candidate for the legislature, she should be heard. We live in peace at home while they sacrifice their lives abroad for governmental ideals of which we are justly proud—granting their defects. Should we take a single step in the direction of substituting an entirely new code at this time?

NOT YES

It is always the mistake that our developments must be represented thick and thin. Austria's situation, one of almost complete isolation, Germany, holding back in a desperate effort to get the best possible terms in the situation, is a particularly anxious Turkey constitutes a good example of the advantage of splendid isolation. Her part in the future of the war need give no particular concern in the light of the importance of the developments which will ultimately spell the end of the war.

From all indications it is perfectly safe to assume that events of momentous importance are in the making in Austria and in Germany. Austria is compelled to take some sort of definite steps in the direction of peace or face a revolution by her people. Germany would prefer to gain time. Today, the Central powers are closer to actual military defeat than the Allies ever have been since the beginning of the war, but it must be remembered that there has been not one particle of fighting on German soil since 1914 with the single exception of the St. Mihiel advance and at no point except in the extreme south are the Allied armies within striking distance of German soil.

Germany has not accepted President Wilson's fourteen points of peace, but she has announced her willingness to debate them. She has not asked the Allied powers for an armistice, but she has made a bid for the intervention of America in the interests of an armistice. Prince Max has performed the precise part for which he was appointed. He has put over a cleverly camouflaged bait for a breathing spell. In this he is abetted by the Kaiser and the rest of the war lords as well as by Austria and possibly Turkey.

Saturday night's dispatches clearly bring out these points and these points only. Germany has surrendered nothing, offered nothing, pledged nothing. She has given evidence of being sorely pressed but not more so than has been the case at intervals during the past month or so.

When the end comes it will come quickly, definitely and surely, but it has not come yet.

PROPAGANDA

The Central Powers, desperately placed as they find themselves at the present time, can be expected to bend every effort toward securing peace. In this effort the best brains of the enemy countries will be devoted to ways and means of obtaining peace and yet retaining the spoils of war in great or lesser amounts. We can look for a very clever campaign of propaganda. Germany knows that she cannot hope to attain her arrogant peace demands of a few months past or anything like them. She will, therefore, advance through her propaganda suggestions for peace that would, with an honest enemy seem reasonable. It is for that very reason, the fact that Germany is utterly unscrupulous, that the Allies will demand a complete victory by arms. Germany must be placed in a position where she will be absolutely helpless, where she will be, by reason of her helplessness compelled to observe her agreements. As the Allies demand, for the safety of the world, a complete victory of arms, it behooves each of us that no thought of anything less than complete victory be permitted to cross our minds. We should read articles on peace with these points in mind—that German propaganda is at work, that it is naturally directed toward an advantageous peace for Germany and that its cleverness makes the poison more venomous. The World's Work offers the following formula for judging propaganda:

"Of propaganda, one simple test is possible: does it look toward a negotiated peace, a half-way peace, any peace except by the route of a decisive victory of arms? If it does, it is German."

then to the west in Champagne.

Both sides are trying to get advantage of the wedge formations. The Americans and French are the first to score.

Slightly west of the main railway, the Americans are moving toward Vouziers, where the Germans are now pocketed. The front of the pocket is scarcely five miles long, but the position held by the Germans gives them an opportunity to bring a flanking fire to bear on the Vouziers railway. This threat must be eliminated for advance along the side of the Argonne massif to continue.

On the eastern side of the massif, the Americans yesterday captured several villages. These defensive positions were held by the Germans on the outer fringe of the forest.

They will permit a flanking fire against the Germans concealed in the Argonne, but more important than this, the capture of the towns represents the vigoriveness of the movement to pinch out the Argonne massif by forcing it to take a pocket formation.

The progress of the French-Americans on the west side of the Argonne has been more rapid than on the east side. General Pennington is now seeking to equalize this advance.

CAN NOW EAT AND SLEEP IN COMFORT

If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headaches, was unable to digest my food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach. I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleaned my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."—Adv.

SHOWMEN IN PATH OF GREEK MOTORIST HURT

Driver Plunges into Grasp of Seven, Knocking Down and Injuring Three

Three men out of a group of seven walking up from the Short Line depot were knocked down and hurt by a Ford car driven by Joe Georgopoulos on Shoshone street south at about 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. The injured men were W. A. Miller, over whose body the car passed inflicting internal injuries; M. D. Slaton and Curley Jackson, each struck by the side of the car receiving flesh wounds and bruises about the legs. All are employees of the Hammond Cattle company, which showed as Filer Junior fair week and which is here this week.

The driver of the car explained that he was in a hurry to reach the depot to meet his brother who was coming in on the train due at that time. Witnesses state that the men who were struck were walking toward the car on the left side of the street, and that the car swerved from its course and plunged into them.

SHERIFF WILL RESIGN TO SELL IMPLEMENTS

Frank M. Kendall to Turn Official Position Over to Successor-Elect

Sheriff Frank M. Kendall, who will resume his work in implement business November 10 after serving two terms as official of Twin Falls county, has announced that he will resign his official position to sell implements.

Sheriff Frank M. Kendall has secured from Governor Alexander the statement that his resignation as chairman of the Twin Falls county board of draft board will be accepted to become effective November 10. On or about that date Sheriff Kendall will resign his office as sheriff with the understanding that the county commissioners will appoint the successful candidate in the forthcoming general election to fill the vacancy.

Sheriff Kendall, upon quitting his official position here, will move to Burley, where he will be associated in the farm implement business with the Reynolds Brothers company. In returning to this field of activity, Sheriff Kendall is resuming an occupation in which he has spent many years and with which he is thoroughly familiar. He quit the employment of the Moline Plow company four years ago when he was the successful candidate on the Democratic ticket for sheriff of this county. He was rejected to this office in 1916.

Sheriff Kendall considered resigning his official position and reentering the implement business a year ago, but decided, on account of existing war conditions, to serve during the remainder of the term for which he was elected.

HOLD CANAL COMPANY TO BLAME FOR LOSS

Landowners Base Action for Damages on Alleged Failure of Crops Lacking Water

Demanding damages in the sum of $2,500 for crop failure resulting, it is alleged, from the failure of the Twin Falls Canal company to deliver adequate irrigation water throughout the season to the lands on which the crops were planted, Mary Alice Damman and Frank B. Damman, brother and sister, and their tenant, L. P. Annis, through their attorneys, S. T. Hamilton and T. E. Hadden, filed a suit on Monday in district court here against the Canal company. The crops affected include 42 acres of wheat and alfalfa, it is alleged. The complaint recites that Edwin Damman, brother of the plaintiffs Damman, requested the transfer of water from the canal and awarded him which were not cultivated this year to the lands in question in the suit. It is alleged that the Canal company, up until sometime in July, furnished this water.

FIX IS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

Strong Football Team Is Developed by Coach D. A. Hile—Games Only Lacking

Members of the Twin Falls high school football team, as made up by Coach D. A. Hile, Tuesday afternoon, elected Philip Fix, end, captain of the team for the coming season. Under the leadership of Coach Hile, a strong football eleven has been developed in the high school this year, and the only serious lack is not games with the teams of neighboring schools. Buhl high school will not place a team in the field this year, it is understood, but hopes are entertained of scheduling games with Superior, Belfry and Jerome.

Ice Boxes on Wheels

Refrigerator cars for carrying meat are ice boxes traveling on wheels.

Most people in America would have to go without fresh meat, or would have to pay more for what they could get, if it were not for these traveling ice boxes.

Gustavus F. Swift, the first Swift in the packing industry, saw the need of these traveling ice boxes before others.

He asked the railroads to build them. The railroads refused. They were equipped, and preferred to haul cattle rather than dressed beef.

So Gustavus F. Swift had to make the cars himself. The first one was a box car rigged up to hold ice. Now there are 7,000 Swift refrigerator cars. Each one is as fine an ice box as you have in your home.

Day and night, fair weather and foul, through heat and cold, these 7,000 cars go rolling up and down the country, keeping meat just right on its way to you.

Thus another phase of Swift & Company's activities has grown to meet a need no one else could or would supply, in way that matched Swift & Company ideas of being useful.

When you see one of these Swift & Company cars in a train, or on a siding, you will be reminded of what is being done for you as the fruit of experience and a desire to serve.
