CO-OPERATION
ON HUGE SCALE

Nebraskans Form $2,000,000
Organization to Market the Grain of 40,000 Members
and Eliminate Middleman

LINCOLN, Neb., (AP)—What is said to be the largest co-operative organization of farmers in the United States has just been formed here. It will market the grain of the 40,000 members of the Nebraska Farmers' union and eliminate middlemen and brokers.

The organization, known as the National Co-operative company, with a capital authorized at $2,000,000, according to C. A. Gustafson of Lincoln, president of the state union and organizer and president of the company, has 1500 local, 300 grain elevators, 50 general stores, three creameries and two flour mills, besides nearly a hundred shipping associations.

The union also has a live stock commission office in the yards of Omaha, Sioux City, St. Joseph and Denver, and a big wholesale exchange in Omaha that carries everything from farm implements to groceries to supply its retail stores.

The corporation, Mr. Gustafson said, expects soon to build or lease a big terminal elevator in Lincoln or Omaha and negotiate with the railroads for seats on the Lincoln and the Omaha grain exchanges.

A regular commission, business will be conducted for local companies participating. Mr. Gustafson said, and not profits will be shared on the basis of business done, after the company pays 8 per cent dividend on its stock.

The corporation also plans to find a market for all farm products to local and build elevators and to give technical assistance in bookkeeping and accounting methods to participating members.

LATEST SCHEME
WILL GIVE CITY
21 PAVED MILES

If New Plans Go Through Twin Falls Will Be Fully
Surfaced

If the city adopts and carries through its paving program now in contemplation Twin Falls will have approximately 21.2 miles of surfaced streets when all contracts are completed.

This statement is made officially by W. L. Hoffeditz, engineer specially in charge of the city's paving. This mileage, however, is not computed on any fixed width of streets or avenues since thoroughfares do not run according to an definite width, the paving being from 10 to 60 feet.

The total mileage mentioned by Mr. Hoffeditz is distributed as follows:

Old pavement 3.3 miles
New under contract 11.94 miles
Proposed district 5.93 miles

Total 21.17 miles
At the present time Mr. Hoffeditz is employed preparing data, including a section roll, covering the contemplated new paving district. This statement will include a large number of streets and alleys left over where the greater contract was prepared for operation last spring. With the new contract completed Twin Falls will have practically all the streets within its natural bounds surfaced.

This record was made last Wednesday when the four banks cleared $389,000. This is more than $100,000 greater than the previous day's record.

By days the clearances of the week were:

MORE PAVING
MONEY NEEDED

City Up Against Necessity of Voting Bonds to Complete
Street Intersections

Need for more money to conduct paving operations has caused the city council to adopt measures looking to the immediate calling of a bond election to relieve a situation requiring early attention. The amount to be called for is $55,000.

Attention of the city administration was called Monday night to a condition of street intersection paving fund not altogether overlooked. In fact the council has for some time past known that the intersection fund was not sufficiently large to meet all the paving requirements, but no definite action to replenish this department of the treasury was taken until it became known that the fund was exhausted.

Monday night's order for calling of a bond election followed a report made by A. J. Hill, superintendent representing the Warren Construction company, an explanation of the money which brought the condition of the fund to direct attention of the aldermen. On view it was then decided to appeal to the voters for the needed money.

The special election will also be used as a medium for securing a fund sufficient to make purchase of a motorized fire fighting apparatus. This equipment is needed for the city and the council was asked to vote that amount. Explaining this latter call statement has been made that the Twin Falls fire apparatus is a valuable piece of equipment and animals now used to convey the machines past their time of usefulness.

Law Prohibits
Minors Driving
Autos in Town

City Administration Declines
Special Permits to Children
Under 16 Years

The city legislative body has declined to give special dispensations to minors under 16 to operate automobiles on Twin Falls thoroughfares. The traffic officer has been ordered to arrest all such persons found driving cars.

This action was taken at Monday's session of the city board following the presentation of two petitions, both from members of the medical profession, asking that permits be accorded their youngsters, both under the age of 16, to drive automobiles on city streets.

Sentiment was so strong against the petition that when the matter came to a test the vote was unanimously negative. Assertion was made that a great many children are allowed to operate machines in Twin Falls and that many of these are inattentive drivers.

There is at present pending in the police court the case of a minor, the children, for whom special permit has been asked, charging violation of the traffic law by speeding. The alleged violator, a girl, whose paternal parents is alleged to have been in the car with her when the arrest was made. This case has been pending several weeks, the alleged offender having failed to respond to summonses sent out.

TWIN FALLS LED IDAHO STATE
MILK MILK AND MEAT INSPECTION

Dr. J. D. Adams Credits Administration with Inaugurating Certification Movement Along Sanitation and Certification Lines that is Being Followed by Principal Cities

Crediting the Twin Falls city administration with inaugurating one of the most desirable and beneficial betterment movements Dr. J. D. Adams, state director of animal industry of Boise, Saturday said the adoption of the milk and meat inspection ordinance here has caused a movement of this sort all over the state.

"Twin Falls took the lead in this matter in Idaho and to the administration I am sure will be a factor in the future," Dr. Adams declared. "Twin Falls has derived from this law, however small, a splendid move and must result in direct benefit to the entire state," Dr. Adams declared.

Dr. Adams was in Twin Falls today, conferring with Dr. H. R. Grooms, state deputy veterinarian; and Dr. A. K. Kuter, veterinarian in charge of the work of tuberculosis eradication in cattle herds. The conference had to do chiefly with the operations being carried out in this district for the eradication of scabies in sheep flocks. Dr. Adams expressed confidence that the disease would soon be taken care of and that the residents of Twin Falls would be free from the ailment. He said sheepmen generally have been liberal in co-operative methods, and says the regular flocking of sheep is helping in the eradication of the disease. He was taken to the ranges. The state veterinarian addresses a word to ranchers who have small flocks which flock to the feeding places.

About 100 dipping vats are located at various places on this district with four now in operation. The latter are at Elmer, Castleford, Kimberly and Nurtaun.

It is stated that if further violation prosecutions will follow.

CHURCHES UNION URGED IN PLEA OF ANGLICANS

Conference of Bishops at Lambeth Addresses Appeal to All Christian Denominations of World to Re-unite

LONDON, (AP)—Reunion of churches is urged in an appeal to "Christian people" framed by bishops of the Anglican church who attended the recent conference at Lambeth, which was made public today in connection with a statement by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The scope of the appeal, according to the archbishop's statement, is limited only "by the limits of the Christian churches of the world."

The appeal is "directed to the orthodox churches of the east and to the great Roman communion of the west, no less than to the free churches which have grown to maturity among the Anglo-Saxon races. Its scope is so wide that there can be no doubt large numbers of the bishops of the world will be in mind those of our kind and kin in the great Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Congregational communities with whom, although we are separated from the church, the Anglican communion has so much in common, both in faith and in practice."

Gives Plan of Union
Describing the plan of union, the statement says:

"The vision embodied here is new, even revolutionary. The plans of reunion whereby the Anglican churches might hope to achieve their unity are frankly abandoned. What is needed is a new structure, simple enough to begin at once, but large enough to include all."

The bishops summon all the Christians to look, not for an extended Anglican church, but for a truly catholic church of the future, and with every church should bring its own contribution of life and organization. No loose federation of independent churches is contended, but a new unity based on fundamentals, in which there should be ample room for groups with their own outlook and for methods as John Wesley originally contemplated.

Universal Ministry Needed
The appeal points out "universal ministry as the chief need, and claims that "an episcopate is the means for providing such a ministry."

Divisions among Christian peoples are deplored in the appeal. They are attributed to self-will, ambition and lack of charity, the bishops confessing frankly "our own share in the guilt." The bishops voice their belief that while unity will be achieved only by the acceptance of the Bible and of the Nicene and Apostles' creeds, the sacraments of baptism and communion, and "the future, to be developed by every church as possessing not only the inward call of spirit but also the commission of Christ and the authority of the whole body."

An episcopate, the statement continues, is the best instrument for maintaining the unity and continuity of the church. It is concluded that any one communion give its consent to be absorbed in another, but we do not ask that all should unite in a new and great confederation to recover and to manifest to the world the unity of the body of Christ for which He prayed."

Archbishop Approves
The Archbishop of Canterbury approved of the message, saying that the idea of it was to make the ministry of each church acceptable to all.

Other matters taken up by the Lambeth conference, according to the statement, were the ministry of women, and discussions on marriage law, the league of nations and relations between capital and labor. The results of these discussions will be announced later.

COX GIVES HIS VIEWS ON ARMY UNDER COVENANT

Democratic Nominee Urges Honorable Prevention of War by "Arbitration of Reason Rather than of Force"

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, (AP)—Honorable prevention of war is "the arbitrament of reason rather than of force," was urged by Governor Cox today in an address opening the democratic presidential campaign speaking tour.

Speaking at the national rifle contest, he emphasized the toll of the war and declared that the people of the world now seek peaceful modes of settlement.

"I recognize," he said, "that in a sense you are assembled here for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of our military strength, and yet I am convinced that the great mass of our soldiers is united in purpose and prayer, to prevent wars in the future, if it can be honestly done."

Guard to be Perpetual
"There will always be a national guard in the states, if for no other reason than domestic defense, and the military arm of the federal government will be maintained, but the hope that war expenditures for armaments are a thing of the past, possesses every home in America, with the exception of those that move the great mass of people world wide, is inspired by the vision of peace and the settlement of controversy by the arbitrament of reason rather than of force."

Praising the national guardsmen's record in the war, Governor Cox said many had failed to receive commissions by bravery and declared that belated justice now should be accorded them.

Government Should Aid
Governor Cox elaborated on a theme in his acceptance speech, government aid to ex-servicemen, declaring many met obstacles on returning to civil life.

He said the government should assist wherever possible.

The governor also cited the value of American marksmanship in the nation's history and expressed the hope that America would continue "a nation of sportsmen, devoted to the propagation of wild life, and building habits and slowness in the sport."

The occasion of Governor Cox's address was the presentation of the "Governor's Cup" in the national rifle shoot at Perry.

He returned to Columbus tonight.

taking your time and doing things slowly but well. You get things pretty nice and damp, but you do take your time. And this was just to be a little surprise party.

"Well, I sent a messenger to the Star Children and to the Man in the Moon, and I said: 'Honorable Sir, the King of the Clouds greets you and sends his respects.'"

"What are they?" asked one of the little grandchildren.

"I meant by that," said the King of the Clouds, "that I sent him feelings of respect and honor which I felt for him. To be respected means to be polite, and not to think so much of oneself, but to respect or think well and highly of someone else."

"Well, I sent this message, and also I added to the message: 'Would Your Highness and Your Star Highnesses be glad to partake of a little supper behind the clouds? The Cloud King will attend to it all for you, and I will take your place in the moon with my Army of Raindrops.'"

"It was very valuable to call the Man in the Moon and the Star Children and Your Highness and Your Highnesses for me," said the King of the Clouds.

"Well, he sent back word that he would be delighted to accept my invitation and if I'd come and take his place at once he would come at once to the banquet. So I called out my children, the Army of Raindrops, and I said: 'Hurry, hurry, hurry.'"

"Well, the Man in the Moon, or Old Man Moon or Mr. Moon, or whatever you want to call him, and the Star Children had a fine banquet back here. The Cloud Fairies told me about it when I got back this morning early this morning."

"But oh, what fun we had! You see, we had hurried so fast that we were still in the market when they had left. We took Mr. Moon's place."

"And we had to dash down to the earth and upon the roofs with a terrible force. The raindrops rushed into bedrooms and scurried on window sills, and the children were surprised in the very rooms, hopping about on the carpet."

"Well, you should have seen the earth people. They woke up with a start, and such a start! They jumped out of bed, and they had such a fright that they had to wipe the windows and pull up the carpets and dry the floors around the windows."

"They had no idea it would rain, and we gave them such a surprise. But oh, what fun we had! We had such a surprise party to the earth people!"

Stocks were under pressure at the opening of the market because of the less satisfactory foreign news. Offerings were not large, but quite a number of the important shares registered a loss of 1 or 2 points.

Among the losers were American International, Canadian Pacific and Southern Pacific fell 1 to 1 1/2 and Mexican Petroleum 3 1/2. Some of the less active shares were higher including Famous Players, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Typewriter, American Sugar, Atlantic Gulf and Beagle Steel.

Many stocks yielded fractionally on realizing sales in the first hour but the movement in general was inconsequential. The closing was steady.

BE PRETTY, TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Now, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with water and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

GET RICH QUICK BUBBLE BURSTS IN PONZI CASE

Federal Authorities' Audit Shows Liabilities Over $7,000,000 as Against Claim of $500,000; Financier in Jail

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—Another get-rich-quick bubble burst today. Federal authorities who have been auditing the books of Charles Ponzi and the Securities Exchange company reported that the liabilities of the young financier were upward of $7,000,000. Ponzi had claimed that they would not exceed $500,000.

Ponzi Is Prisoner

Ponzi is a prisoner at the office of the United States marshal having been unable early this afternoon to furnish bonds of $25,000. He was arrested, charged with using the mails to defraud after he had surrendered soon after 1 o'clock. Subsequently a warrant for his arrest for larceny in three counts was issued in the municipal court on application of the attorney general's office. The state authorities expected to gain custody of Ponzi if he obtained bonds releasing him from the federal officers.

Bank's Funds Wiped Out

Bank Commissioner Allen today declared that the capital of the Hanover Trust company, a Ponzi depository which was closed yesterday, probably was wiped out.

After a wait of several hours for a bondsman, Ponzi obtained his release at 4:30 p. m. His bondsman is Morris Butchick, a real estate dealer of Boston, who furnished surety of $25,000. On leaving the federal building it was understood that Ponzi would go to the municipal court to answer to the warrant charging larceny.

From the federal building Ponzi went to police headquarters where he was photographed and his finger prints taken. He was to be arraigned before Judge Bennett of the municipal court.

Cultivated Chestnuts

Southern Californians are wondering whether the growing of the sweet chestnut is not destined to be one of the coming industries of the state. The appearance of a fine row of chestnut trees on the outskirts of the city of Santa Ana, in Orange county, California, suggested to a recent eastern visitor the fact that the chestnut as a future crop for California may rival before many years the enormous walnut output.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S Latest and Greatest Story of the Frozen North

"THE COURAGE of MARGE O'DOONE"

The Story As Others See It—

The New York Tribune

"The Courage of Marge O'Doone" is a northwest classic. Mr. Curwood has given us a great treat and a great book in this latest volume of his. This is a triumph in fiction of the Canadian Northwest."

The Philadelphia Press

"The Courage of Marge O'Doone" is a story that never flags, that abounds in unexpected incidents, that is rich in the deep colors of the glorious country in which its scenes are laid. If you want to read a story that travels straight on like a bird on the wing, with a swift series of unforeseen and thrilling episodes and all of its painted against the splendid hues of the wide, generous westland, read 'The Courage of Marge O'Doone.'"

Philadelphia Evening Telegraph

"Those who like a story brimful of red-blooded adventure, who revel in the life of camp and trail, will enjoy 'The Courage of Marge O'Doone.'"

New York Times

"There is plenty of incident, plenty of fighting, and some love-making in the book, with a heroine of that extraordinarily beautiful, courageous, innocent and trusting type."

Minneapolis Herald

"Mr. Curwood has caught the very spirit of the vigorous life of the north woods, and never has he made that fact clearer than in this romance. It is on the whole a 'rattling good story.'"

Cincinnati Enquirer

"The Courage of Marge O'Doone" is a stirring novel of the far Northwest. It is a tale of mystery and of love, with a heroine unusual in fiction—young, brave, and very naive, as she has lived all her life away from civilization."

New York World

"The romance is written with great spirit. Mr. Curwood obviously knows the forest, and his descriptions of it are very vivid. He is a dauntless fighter, too, and never fails to give some stirring scraps. It is Mr. Curwood's best story and hard to beat."

The Times-Picayune (New Orleans)

"The Courage of Marge O'Doone" is a man's story, full of fierce excitement and thrilling adventure."

SCENE FROM VITAPHONE'S
"THE COURAGE OF MARGE O'DOONE"

BY JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
A VITAPHONE SPECIAL PRODUCTION

Oakland (Cal.) Tribune

"A fighting tale. If you like strong, vigorous, red-blooded fighting stories, where blows and blood, hatred, show themselves, together with the great wild wastes of the frozen north, grizzly bears, fierce malcontents, primitive men, and tender and beautiful women, you will like 'The Courage of Marge O'Doone.' It is a graphic tale, stirring, thrilling and unusual."

It breathes the breath of life into the stanch and sturdy men and the courageous and beautiful women of this story. And in the deep rich colors and splendid hues, that the printed word could never find, it has painted a background for the romance and tragedy—the villainy and valor, the stirring mystery and the startling surprise.

The magic of the motion picture turns the warm and glowing pages of a masterly story into a pulsing, living drama, whose sheer charm and realism carries one away to that vast white country "up there", with all its grim glory and grandeur.
