SAFETY DEVICE LIMITS TOLL OF MINE DISASTER

Emergency Fans Operated by Gas Engines Sweep Out the Gases Following Blast—
Death List Fixed at 84

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 23 (AP)—Eighty-four bodies, 20 of white men and 64 negroes, lay tonight in underground establishing the death toll of a coal dust explosion yesterday in Dolomite coal mine No. 3 of the Woodward Iron company, 16 miles west of Birmingham. The bodies were taken from the mine early today and of the 60 injured, two succumbed. Reports received by officials of the company indicated that all those remaining in hospital probably would recover.

Sixteen Still Undiscovered.
One white and 15 negro bodies had not been positively identified tonight, and persons interested in them besieged the establishing establishment. It was necessary to station police at the entrance and only those seeking the missing or relatives of those known to have been killed were admitted.

The explosion was declared by mining experts to have been a freak, and so far as local records show, only the explosion of its kind ever to have occurred in this country.

Dolomite No. 3 is a slope mine, opened in 1882 and operated until yesterday without a serious accident. The slope mine is a series of hills and at an angle of 60 degrees runs 800 feet before reaching the level of the workings. At the foot of the slope is the main shaft and where the mine is loaded with cars are assembled and drawn by cable to the entrance and up the tipples. A string of these dump cars broke loose on the incline, literally dropping 800 feet to the yard, where great clouds of coal dust arose with the impact, and a high tension electric cable severed in the crash ignited the dust.

Flame Spouts From Shaft.
Only 800 feet from the surface, the full force of the explosion and the accompanying flame went up the slope; the flash of flame projecting beyond the tipples several hundred feet and stirring wooden construction at the top. The tipples itself is of concrete and only a wooden roof elevated as a shelter, was destroyed. The mine and slope were underground and it was not until the tipples and hoist were made in time to resume operations Monday.

It is believed about 40 of the men were at their homes at the time of the explosion and were killed by the concussion.

Of these, six were foremen, the blast wiping out that of the mine. The dead were taken to the surface and accounted for the remainder of the victims.

Precautions Limit Disaster.
A peculiar feature discussed today by officials of the Woodward company was the fact that when rescue parties entered the mine, the carbide lamps on the caps of some of the dead still were burning.

Safety precautions observed by the Woodward company prevented an appalling disaster. Four hundred and seventy-five men were in the mine at the time. The breaking of the electric cables in the crash and blast threw the circuit breakers and the motors operating the ventilating fans came to a standstill. The mine is equipped with emergency fans operated by gasoline motors which once weekly have been operated for a period of eight hours to keep them in working order.

Three minutes after the blast, the emergency fans were in operation and 30 minutes later the first mine to emerge from the slope appeared. The mine was cleared of the after-damp within a short time and the miners still inside received fresh air.

The mine is connected with Dolomite No. 1, and although there were four exits to the surface. The miners in the inner workings sought the three outlets not affected by the explosion and nearly all of these unharmed emerged through those passages.

Dolomite No. 3 recently was inspected by company, state and federal officials and declared to be in perfect condition. It is known as a "gas free" mine, and precautions were observed to prevent the forming of coal dust by means of an elaborate sprinkling system.

It was the fourth great fatal mining disaster in the history of the Alabama field. In January, 1905, 712 miners were killed in the Virginia mine; 213 lost their lives in the Danvers mine in 1911, and 80 were killed in the Folsom mine, May 5, 1910.

Other accidents resulted in death tolls ranging from nine to 57, the total to date, including the Virginia, Danvers, Folsom and Dolomite disasters, being 690.

DEATH SUMMONS BARON SONNINO

Death of Italian Statesman, Twice Premier and Foreign Minister, Announced

ROME, Nov. 23 (AP)—Baron Sonnino, twice prime minister of Italy and also foreign minister during the great war, died tonight.

Baron Sidney Sonnino, "the silent statesman of Italy," died at his home in Rome. He was born in 1846. He was prime minister of Italy in 1901, and again in 1910. From 1914 to 1919, he was minister of foreign affairs. He also served as minister of finance, as minister of the interior and as member of parliament. He brought to the Italian government the reputation of "the first financier of Europe, the man who had probed the economic life of the world to the core."

Endures Common Sense.
"I do not shun. I do not glitter," he said on one occasion in the chamber of deputies. "I leave that sort of thing to my political opponents. I am satisfied if I can reveal an occasional gleam of common sense." At another time, he said "I propose to put a little knowledge of the state of the nation's revenues into your heads, whether you feel interested or not."

While minister of finance he was credited with having laid the foundation for his country's stability from the revenue standpoint, and for his establishment of budget surpluses. Baron Sonnino was one of the most ablest men in Italy in spite of his wealth. Even before the war, he practiced the most frugal economy. Italy could not borrow favorably in the London market by reason of her enormous public debt. Sonnino lowered it by vigorous taxation by reducing public salaries and expenditures and dismissing needless employees. The politicians, therefore, hated him.

A Jew by race, Protestant by faith and a native of Egypt, the man who was one day destined to handle the Italian ship of state, was born of an Italian Jewish father and a Scotch mother on March 11, 1847, on the banks of the Nile. He was educated partly in England and at the University of Turin.

Sonnino's grandfather migrated from the ghetto of Leghorn, Italy, to Egypt where he built up an enormous fortune as a banker, a fortune which the future premier of Italy enjoyed.

Serves as Editor.
Before entering politics he was editor of the newspaper "Rassegna," which he founded and in which for years he aired his political and economic views. He also wrote and lectured on Dante and Petrarch of whose works he was a close student. Later he became one of the proprietors of "Giornale d'Italia." Baron Sonnino was always interested in the welfare of the Italian farmers. His book, "The Peasants of Sicily," was a notable contribution to public knowledge of agricultural conditions in that country. One of his aims, he said, was to revive southern Italy economically and morally. He also built local railways, put isolated regions in touch with great lines, strengthened the farm banks and assisted villages, and towns in fighting illiteracy. He possessed a wonderful library. The baron never married.

SELECTION FOR SUPREME BENCH WINS APPROVAL

Chief Justice Taft, Associated with Nominee in Canadian Rail Case, Gives Unstinted
Recommendation to Butler

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The nomination of Pierce Butler of Minnesota, to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, to succeed William R. Day of Ohio, resigned, was warmly endorsed today by the senate. Mr. Butler is a practicing attorney of St. Paul, 50 years old and a democrat.

Endorses Political Equation.
Mr. Butler was admitted to practice before the supreme court on May 20, 1894, and since then frequently has appeared before that bench in the argument of important cases, including the Minnesota railroad cases in 1912, decided by Justice Hughes. The appointment will restore to the bench the political equation which existed when Justice Brandeis resigned. He, a democrat, was succeeded by Justice Sutherland, a republican, but by selecting a democrat to succeed Justice Day, republican, the court will again stand six republicans and three democrats.

Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Van Devanter are more intimately acquainted with the new associate justice than are their colleagues, but he is known to them all. With Chief Justice Taft he was engaged in the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad company arbitration. In the arbitration Mr. Butler won his contention as counsel for Canada; Mr. Taft dissenting.

Favorable Report Expected.
In the senate, the nomination was referred to the judiciary committee, where it will be considered next Monday. A favorable report is expected. The nomination will place upon the bench of the highest tribunal another lawyer who has not won the esteem by previous service upon the bench. Like Justices Holmes and Brandeis, the new justice never served in congress nor occupied a cabinet or other important federal office. Justice Sutherland, the second member of the court appointed by President Harding, was like several of his associates, at one time in congress, having been a senator from Utah, but Mr. Butler was distinguished strictly by his legal prominence, and not by any discharge of federal duties.

Taft Praises Appointment.
It was stated today in court circles that Chief Justice Taft gave the president an unstinted recommendation of Mr. Butler's qualifications when the chief executive advised him that Mr. Butler was being considered for the vacancy. Senator Kellogg, republican, of Minnesota, as well as others prominent in northwest affairs, also gave the president praise of Mr. Butler's abilities as a lawyer.

Under the direction of Miss Jessie Fraser, a librarian, an essay contest was conducted in the junior high school during book week. The pupils of both the seventh and eighth grades wrote original essays on the topic "My Book Party." Miss Fraser presented a beautifully bound book, "Tales from Shakespeare," to Barbara Provost, the winning contestant, in the general assembly on Wednesday. Honorable mention was made by the judges of the

PROHIBITION CRUSADERS ASSEMBLE IN TORONTO

World Wide Campaign for Extension of Dry Law in Proposal of Anti-Alcohol Convention

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (AP)—A world-wide crusade for prohibition will find expression in Toronto during the next five days, for some 5000 delegates have assembled here to hold an anti-alcohol conference under the auspices of the World League Against Alcoholism. They have come from no less than 22 different countries, and their purpose is to attain "by means of education and legislation, the total suppression throughout the world of alcoholism, which is the poisoning of body, germ-plasm, mind, conduct and society produced by the consumption of alcoholic beverages."

Representatives of every known force in social reform, temperance organizations, churches, young people's societies and Sunday schools, the gathering will mark the beginning of a new and intensified campaign against the liquor traffic, and it is expected that it will perfect complete plans for carrying on the international work. While it is being held under the auspices of the World League, the gathering will be five conventions in one—the world prohibition convention, Dominion of Canada prohibition convention, Ontario provincial prohibition convention, the World Student Federation, and the International Enforcement convention.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.
During the fifth period Wednesday the class elections for representatives and officers on the Coyote staff were held. The votes have not yet been counted.

The Social Science club, the Freshman Latin club, the committee of the Big T club and the debating club held short business meetings Wednesday during the fifth period.

All the students of the high school took reading tests Wednesday. The object of these tests is to find out how intelligently a student can read silently in a limited time.

The committee and cabinet of the Freshman Triangle and Wednesday immediately after school. The chairman of the four different committees made their reports and other business was discussed.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL.
The seventh grade boys in the junior high school have organized the "Lincoln Debate Club." There are 24 members. At a recent election the following officers were chosen: President, James Bellows; vice president, Norman Alvord; secretary, John Maxwell.

Under the direction of Miss Jessie Fraser, a librarian, an essay contest was conducted in the junior high school during book week. The pupils of both the seventh and eighth grades wrote original essays on the topic "My Book Party." Miss Fraser presented a beautifully bound book, "Tales from Shakespeare," to Barbara Provost, the winning contestant, in the general assembly on Wednesday. Honorable mention was made by the judges of the essays of five other pupils—Margaret Johnson, Mary Provost, Ella Krueger, Marjorie Woods and Forrest Young. The judges were Mrs. C. H. Krueger, Mrs. Joselyn and Mrs. Zeuss Smith.

The second of the series of the departmental programs to be given in the junior high school was presented by Miss Baedman's mathematics department in general assembly on Wednesday. "Ye Olde Fashioned Ben" was the feature of the day. Miss Baedman handles in her work 7B, 8B and 8A classes.

During the regular class work each class had been eliminated to the ten best in accuracy and speed on the four fundamental arithmetical processes. These of each class appeared before the assembly and contested for first place. The 7B class was represented by Ray King, Ruby Thielen, Beth Filer, William Brown, Lela Young, Clarence Bodanab, Juliet Moe, Regna Jenkins, Lenora Ostlander and Cella George. Lenora Ostlander earned first place in this group.

The 8B class representatives were Myrtle Schwartz, Albert Kiefer, Marjorie Johnson, Lois Sparks, Ruth Van Gilder, Lyle Glah, Mabel Porterfield, Flora Ward, Ralph Cowham and Edw. Leese. Albert Kiefer was the winning student in this group.

The 8A group was made up of the following pupils: Barbara Noble, Beulah Selet, Ruby Bishop, Patricia Wilson, Betty Wilson, Russell Harvey, Linus Leishman, Beth Bowen and Jane Maxwell. Both Bowen rose to first place in this section.

The three class winners, Lenora Ostlander, Albert Kiefer and Beth Bowen, then contested to determine which of the three deserved the honor of first rating in the department of work. The final honor was won by Albert Kiefer.

Much interest and enthusiasm was shown by the entire student body during the contest.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cool cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist—adv.

What is useless to you may be valuable to others—advertise it in the classified columns.

How Not to Take Cold.
If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.—adv.

UNEMPLOYMENT CASTS SHADOW ON PARLIAMENT

Work Shortage Situation, Figuring in King's Speech, is Paramount Issue, Apart From Irish Questions

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The opening of the business session of parliament today quickly revealed what is likely to be the paramount question in both houses, apart from Irish legislation, for which the session was especially called. The keynote of the debate struck in the king's speech—unemployment.

As soon as the time-honored ceremonies incident to the state opening of parliament were concluded and the new parliament had been sworn down to its duties, it became evident that the government's hope of limiting the discussions to the Irish bill would now be abandoned. Labor, through its new parliamentary leader, J. Ramsay MacDonald, immediately fastened onto the governmental discussion in the king's speech that it has no new policy with respect to the unemployment question, but depends only upon an examination of the late coalition government's proposed remedies.

Would Interview Premier.

The tenor of the opposition speeches in the debate on the address was to press the prime minister to resign as "unemployed" deflator. This, however, Mr. Bonar Law seems determined not to do. In a further reply to a renewed request that he should give an interview tonight, he refused again on the same ground, namely that orderly administration would become impossible if every group of agitators raised a departmental question ignored by the responsible minister.

Lord Birkenhead, in the house of lords, referred to the extreme gravity of the unemployment question, for which no statesman yet had devised a remedy. This, perhaps, may be taken as an indication of the line which criticism from the Lloyd George party will follow.

John Robert Clynes, former parliamentary labor leader, will move an amendment to the address, expressing regret that the government has no proposal for adequate treatment of the unemployment problem, nor any indication of a change of policy towards European customers, to buy British goods again, and so restore international trade and stabilize international exchange.

Long Session Likely.

Phillip Snowden, laborite, will second the amendment, but as the house now will take up the Irish bill, it is not expected that the debate on the address will be resumed before next Thursday. The labor and liberal groups are preparing a number of other amendments to the address, dealing with unemployment, housing, the safeguarding of industries, and foreign affairs, including Mesopotamia; so that the session may be longer than previously expected.

While the debate in the house of commons today focused mainly on unemployment and social problems, in the house of lords it concerned for the most part foreign policy. Viscount Grey, laying stress on the danger of Germany, Turkey and Russia forming a combination together against the allies, pleaded that everything should be done to maintain a strong, united entente.

The premier in the commons was able to give no information about the Lausanne conference and thought it was not the business of parliament or the house to interfere in the conference negotiations.

Comments in Lismaght.

The new communist members, J. T. W. Newbold and Edwin Schynge, who defeated Winston Spencer Churchill in the recent election, got themselves early into the limelight with somewhat violent speeches. Mr. Newbold came into conflict with the speaker in his first speech, in which he described today's state of affairs as "a total show," the cost of which would better have been devoted to the unemployed.

Lloyd George is silent.

Mr. Lloyd George was present but did not speak. Rumors that he intended to return for the time appear to be unfounded, for he was unanimously elected leader of the national liberals at a meeting of that party today and is expected to be a prominent part in parliamentary life.

SUSPECTED SLAYER OF COLLINS IS CAPTURED

Significance is Seen in Arrest of Tom Hales, Chief Irregular Leader of Upton District of Cork

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—Tom Hales, chief irregular leader of the Upton district of Cork, was arrested yesterday. His capture is regarded as important, for he is said to have been the commandant of the district where Michael Collins was assassinated last August. Hales is a brother of Zeas Hales, a member of the Dail parliament, who is a supporter of the Anglo-Irish treaty and a brigadier general in the national army in Cork.

A dispatch from Cork after the assassination of Collins declared that Tom Hales accepted responsibility for the ambush in which Collins met death. Hales had been a bitter opponent of the treaty and he and his sister were alleged to have set fire to the platform at Brandon last St. Patrick's day while a demonstration in favor of the treaty was being held.

John Collins, brother of Michael, said that the irregular troops under Hales captured and held him over night while he was on his way to Dublin to attend the funeral of Michael, and that Hales boasted to him that his men had killed Michael.

Good Health.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom get one. A cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in warm room, avoid over-crowded rooms, sleep with a window open, or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting feet wet. Then, when they feel the first signs of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over—adv.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat often too much red meat and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when you have backache or the is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headaches or nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the best of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful after-dinner drink, water, beer, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time—adv.
