ACUTE TONSILLITIS.

We have learned much about the organism and other less common complications of the body and of their use and function. Yet there are parts, the reason for which and the precise function of which, science has not been able to speak with definiteness. Down in the throat are two gland-like structures, about the size of an almond, situated one on each side. It is believed by many that they were an important excretory organ in some of our prehistoric ancestors. However, it is known that they usually degenerate into filters that become so clogged with debris that they really act as a sort of catch basin in which dead tissue and bacteria accumulate.

The normal tonsil is adapted to combat infection—to destroy disease-producing germs. These come to the tonsils from the mouth, some are taken in with the food, others become attached about the tonsil and in children the habit of putting things into the mouth make possible infection from this source. The tonsils attempt to filter these organisms out and destroy them, but they are so frequently overworked that the germs gain the ascendancy in the attack. This germ army increases in number and in disease-producing properties. Then we have tonsillitis.

Tonsillitis is not the simple thing that many believe, nor is it merely a few days' indisposition. While the usual attack will run its course without immediate serious trouble, there are many important complications. For instance, the most dangerous is an inflammation of the living membrane of the heart, known as endocarditis. This complication sometimes results in a leaky heart valve, especially if the patient is not kept in bed. Some cases develop rheumatism or acute Bright's disease. If the tonsils are chronically diseased, gotter, neuritis, chronic rheumatism may occur. It is therefore of vital importance to institute the right kind of treatment at all ages, particularly in children.

In children tonsillitis usually begins with a high fever. The child is languid and may complain of headache. The appetite is gone, but there is no particular complaint about sore throat, at least not at the first attack of the disease.

In adults the first danger signal is in the chilly sensation, followed by a fever ranging from 101° to 104 degrees. Aches and pains come to the back and calf muscles, and in the knees and elbow joints. Pain in the throat is not noticeable; there is a distressing headache and a complete loss of appetite. Inspection of the inflamed parts shows and, intensely red and grayish spotted membrane.

After the acute attack has passed on, it is generally recommended that the tonsils be removed. "Once a diseased tonsil, always a diseased tonsil." If they are allowed to remain, the continued poison absorption leads to many ailments and is the cause of many forms of ill health and invalidism.

NEW YORK SUITS BOURBONS; TURN TO 1924 PLANS

No Sore Spots Left Over Selection of Convention City; Wilson Approves; Recommend Women as Delegates

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—What ever may be the differences among democrats as to the party's standard bearer next summer and fall, there were no evident sore spots left over the award to New York City of the 1924 convention when the democratic national committee adjourned today. Members tonight were speeding home to gird the democratic hosts for the coming clash with their political foes and declaring for a vigorous intensive campaign.

Upon the adjournment of the national committee, when members visited former President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson at their home in New York City, Wilson added his approbation to the choice of New York.

"I am very glad the convention was given to New York," Mr. Wilson told Chairman Hull of the national committee, adding an expression of pleasure over the results of the committee's work here.

Commended Wilson
Mr. and Mrs. Wilson tendered an informal reception to the committee-men and women, shaking hands with the visitors as they passed in a long line through the Wilson library. Earlier the committee had adopted formal resolutions greeting Mr. Wilson and commending his administration and "its high ideals."

No movement developed today in the committee to change the two-thirds voting rule of the convention's choice of nominees. Neither was any change made in the convention roll of 1004 delegates and alternates, but the committee formally recommended that one-half of all the delegates at large should be women. The latter was adopted after sharp division over whether there should be a recommendation or only a suggestion. Senator Glass of Virginia, author of the original resolution designed to provide additional places for women in the convention, favored a suggestion, but amendment by Mrs. Leroy Springs of South Carolina, providing for a specific recommendation, was adopted.

Only Half Vote Dressed

Under the new plan as approved, four of the eight delegates at large from each state should be women, but all of each delegates would have only half a vote each. This will result in maintenance of the present convention voting strength of 1004, but with an increase in the number of delegates and alternates at large where states act to adopt the half and half policy. Another resolution adopted by the committee would prohibit states from sending to the convention more delegates and alternates than provided by their present quota. This would prevent crowding the convention floor with swollen delegations, with their members having half, fourth or even an eighth of a vote.

Chairman Hull was given a wide margin to plan for the New York convention. He will appoint an arrangements committee soon and hopes also to visit New York himself at an early date.

Mr. Hull conferred today with Tex. Richard, owner of Madison Square Garden, who is credited with responsibility for the increase of $55,000 offered by New York for the convention hall privileges. Mr. Richard will cooperate with the committee in placing the auditorium in condition for the convention.

NEWS LOSES TWO TO SUGAR SQUAD

Whirlwind Bowling by Selley Is Feature of the Evening; Factory Wins by 72 Pins

The printers seem to be taking a back seat in the bowling arena this week with the "Sugar" taking all three Tuesday night and The News taking a two-to-one beating from the Sugar men in Wednesday night's session.

"Bill" Selley pulled in the biggest score of the season with eight strikes in a row for 200 in the first game. Bill just got the printers' foot and the ball refused to roll straight after that first game. Even Steve felt its effect when the pins went 125 for him.

In the second game Percy Thompson saved the complete elimination of the printers' team by bowling 227 and consequently taking the game for The News, but in the last found the sugar factory again took the lead from the first and nosed out the printers with a difference of 72 for the three game total.

Two hundred scores were common occurrences in the season Wednesday, Selley, Self, Whitel and Thompson all going above the 200 mark. Selley was easily the hero of the evening with his total of 660 pins.

Higher education holds that a negative and a negative make a plus, but to Percy Thompson and Earl Self goes the credit of being one of the first supporters of bowling in Twin Falls. Percy, with Charles Larsen, opened the local alley last year and this year sold his interest to Larsen. Thompson is one of the strongest advocates of the league.

World's Laziest People

The laziest people in the world are said to be the Syrians, a race of mountain folks living in the almost inaccessible mountainous region lying between the Black and Caspian Seas. Their living conditions are approximately what they were 2000 years ago, save that they have invented new reasons for their laziness, having four holidays each week with a movable list of special holidays that can be declared any time they want another day off, while they live in aqueduct and fifth, in huts and caves with none of the conveniences easily within reach.

Alaskan Eskimos' Progress

In twenty years the Alaskan Eskimos have made great strides in the ways of civilization. They have churches and schools, many of them read and write, and owing to the reindeer herds that the United States government has started for them most of them are prosperous. Deer meat in the north sells at the rate of nearly $2 for 100 pounds, which is the weight of the ordinary caribou. The natives now own at least 200,000 reindeer, which are under government supervision.

TWIN LITTER CONTEST FOR IDAHO'S SWINE GROWERS

Trips to Portland Livestock Show to Be Awarded Winner of State Honor in Farm Competition

Idaho swine growers will compete this year in a state-wide "Twin Litter" contest, according to advices received by R. E. Brossard, county agricultural agent. Winners in each district will receive medals, while the winner of the state honors, with his litter, will be sent to the Pacific International Livestock show, with all expenses paid.

Attachment by the litter of an aggregate weight of 2000 pounds is prerequisite of the competition. Other factors include uniformity and true breeding.

Entry in the contest is to be made upon the payment of one dollar fee to the county agent within seven days after the litter is farrowed. Entrance fees will be pooled for purchase of medals for district winners.

With an official weight of 3898 1-2 pounds for a litter of 12 Duroc Jersey pigs, the Hill of Chalk Bluff, Texas, now holds the world's record for tonnage of pork produced by one sow and for an average weight per pig in six months' time, according to advices received by J. S. Edgusson, agricultural instructor of the Twin Falls high school faculty. These pigs averaged 324.9 pounds per head and made a daily gain of 1.8 pounds for the whole feeding period. The last 20 days the daily gain was 3 1-2 pounds for each pig. There were 14 pigs in the litter when it was farrowed, and 19 pigs included. The total value of produce, including pasture necessary to fatten the litter was $229.81, making the cost of each 100 pounds $5.89.

Nearly Missed It

The steamer was only a few feet from the quay when there was a sudden connection and a man came running madly from the dock gates, shouting to the officials to wait a moment. Without pausing in his stride, he flung his bag onto the boat, took a desperate leap and landed on the deck with a crash. "Good!" he gasped, as he was assisted to his feet. "Just did it. A few seconds later and I should have missed it." "Missed it?" exclaimed one of the passengers. "This boat is just coming in."

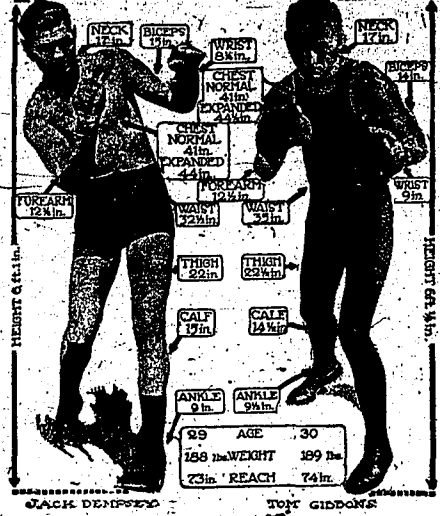

The Human Hair

The length of life of the hair varies with age, sex, character of hair and natural peculiarities. Each hair has its determined length of life, and this is not the same for every hair of the same sort. The rate of growth, especially in young women, is from 2 to 3 mm. or about 1/8 to 3/16 inch, during each of the first four months of growth, or about 1/2 to 3/4 inch a month. When it reaches a length of 10 to 14 inches its rate of growth is reduced one-half and later toward the end of its normal life its increase is hardly perceptible.

Dempsey to Fight Gibbons in May

It is considered certain that Jack Dempsey will meet Tommy Gibbons, the only man who ever stayed the limit with him since he became champion, in a championship 15-round bout in New York city the last week in May. Gibbons, meantime, will be brought east and matched with Gene Tunney and others to let the cash customers see what he can do, and to steam up interest in the fight with Dempsey. It is probable Dempsey will meet Luis Angel Firpo in New York on July 4 and take on Harry Wills, negro contender, in the same ring on Labor day.

ASSAULTS FALL AS CORRUPT IN DEALING

claimed the privilege of writing a letter.

"In this letter, since it had been positively proven that Mr. Fall left here about the time he let his friend Sinclair have the Teapot Dome, he said he left Washington with $100,000 and carried it down to Texas and deposited it. It seemed that he used the same kind of a conveyor for cash that 'Gas Dick' Addicks did when he came down to Delaware to try to corrupt that state and come to the senate; he brought his money in a suitcase. As I remember, when they were here, they had a conference in San Francisco, and was the means of carrying about their money."

"Anyways, Mr. Fall made a statement, rather recently, with reference to where he obtained his money. He remembered when they were here a ranch down in New Mexico and that the banking facilities were limited and therefore he just took along the cash. He wound up with a burst of indignation by saying:

"The gentlemen from whom I obtained it"—referring to the $100,000—"and who furnished the cash was the Hon. Edward B. McLean of Washington, D. C."

"Immediately after that the Hon. Edward B. McLean hired himself two lawyers and made a statement. He hired the Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, with whom he had been on very friendly terms, but this was an investigation that was being pushed very relentlessly by the distinguished senator from Montana (Mr. Walsh) and it was thought, I presume, that if a former democratic attorney general should come forward as the representative of Mr. McLean in his effort to remember where he got the $100,000 that he let Fall have, that would end the controversy and Mr. Mitchell Palmer said this: 'Mr. McLean is now in Florida for the winter, and is obliged to remain there owing to the condition of his own health and that of his wife.'"

"I observe that whenever a man does not want to go before a grand jury or other inquisitorial body, his health fails. I have known more robust constitutions to be ruined by criminal courts than by all the plagues put together. Any way."

"Mr. McLean is now in Florida for the winter and is obliged to remain there owing to the condition of his own health and that of his wife. He has repeated me to say that if you desire a complete statement from him in reference to said loan for the record of your hearings, he will be glad to give it. He has just telegraphed me as follows:

"In 1921 I loaned Fall $100,000 on his personal note. I have never met Harry Sinclair, nor have I ever met Doheny or any of the so-called oil crowd."

Denise Loan.

"That is the substance of the telegram. The investigating committee sent down to Florida and the senator from Montana (Mr. Walsh) took a first hand statement from Mr. McLean. Incidentally, Mr. McLean's real lawyer, Mr.

DEBTS VALIDITY OF NOTE

Liability for payment of a note for $500 for which suit has been instituted against him by the Minneapolis Threshing Machine company, is denied by J. T. Robertson in an answer filed in district court here through his attorney, S. T. Hamilton. Robertson admits executing a note for $4514.74 to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and giving a real estate mortgage as security, declares that note was paid prior to September, 1922, and that the mortgage which the plaintiff corporation claims as security for the note on which it sues, should have been released or recorded.

No Wool on Wild Sheep

Wild sheep are not clad in wool like the domestic animals of that name, but have their coats resembling those of the deer family, says Nature Magazine. Those who are unfamiliar with the appearance of the wild species are very apt to mistake the wares for goats. The skin of the "Big Horn" is thin and porous and does not make good leather.

Landlord, went along to advise his client, to enable him to remember just exactly what did occur and when he got with his real lawyer, he remembered that he never loaned Fall a dollar in his life, but he said that Fall came to him and wanted to borrow some money, and he gave him some checks and that afterwards Mr. Fall gave him his note, and that these checks were in a day or two returned to him un cashed, with the statement by Mr. Fall that he had gotten this money from some other source, and therefore, did not require it.

"The senator from Montana then wrote to Mr. Fall—who is now also down in Florida for his health, putting up at the same hotel with that other invalid, Mr. McLean, and called his attention to the fact that Mr. McLean had repudiated the statement he made to the committee and asked him, if he would care to make a further statement and he declined to do it, except that he wrote a letter in which he said:

"McLean told the truth. I never got any money from him."

SALMON CANAL CUTS CHARGES; MAKES SAVING

Auditors' Report Shows Practically Same Balance on Hand at End of Year with Reduced Revenue

With a maintenance assessment reduced in 1923 to 90 cents an acre from $1.20, an acre in 1922, the Salmon River Canal company met extraordinary expenditures amounting to more than $200,000. It finished the year with a cash balance of approximately $8000 on hand, which is practically the same amount as was reported on hand at the beginning of the year, according to the report of an auditing committee made to the stockholders at an annual meeting at Telford last Monday.

In spite of the 25 per cent reduction in the maintenance charge and the heavy expenditures that had not been anticipated, the report said, the delivery of water during the season of 1923 was one of the most satisfactory in the history of the Salmon River tract, and the crops were especially good.

Charges Paid Up

Practically no maintenance charges are delinquent, according to the report. This is attributed to the company's policy inaugurated at the beginning of the year of refusing to deliver water until the charges are paid. The delinquent charges at the end of the year amounted to $1000, the amount being assessed against lands for which no application for water delivery was made.

Approximately one-sixth of the wooden headgates in the canal system have been replaced during the past year with steel and concrete structures.

Cash on hand on January 1, 1923, amounted to $7064.72, according to the report, as compared with $332.91 on hand January 1, 1922. The balance for the latter year, however, is to be credited with $200 in a cashier's fund which is not shown in the bank balance.

Annual maintenance charges are not due until April 1, the report says, and it is considered probable that there will be an additional carry over.

Extraordinary Expenditures.—Extraordinary expenditures during 1923, which were not provided for in the budget and which amounted to $5080, included: Litigation, $1000; water license fee paid to the state, which has heretofore been considered a liability of the land and water company; stock claims and damage, $291; permanent repair in the floor of the main canal made necessary by collapse during the irrigation season, $2750. Members of the committee which submitted this report to the stockholders' meeting, were Nelson Maynard and T. J. Johnston, both members of the company's board of directors.

HELD FOR SALE OF LIQUOR

Arthur Johnson, Former Thresherman, Must Answer to Law for Alleged Vending of Alcohol to Youth.

Illegal sale of liquor, on two counts, is charged against Arthur Johnson, who has operated a threshing machine here last fall, who was arrested here Wednesday by Chief of Police P. O. Herlihan and turned over to the county authorities. Johnson entered a plea of not guilty to the charge when arraigned Wednesday afternoon before Judge O. P. Duvall in probate court. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $500 which he did not furnish and was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

In one affidavit Johnson is charged with selling a quart bottle of liquor, and in another with selling a half-pint of liquor. Johnson's patrons in both instances are said to have been boys under legal age.

HOG CHOLERA RESTRICTED

Malady in Idaho Now Confined to Few Herds in Upper Snake River Valley, Says Chief Federal Inspector

Hog cholera in Idaho is confined to the present time to the vicinities of Pocatello, Triahee, Blackfoot and Idaho Falls, where owners of affected herds have been slow to recognize and report the presence of the malady, but where the situation now is under control of federal and state veterinarians, according to Dr. W. A. Sullivan, inspector in charge for the federal bureau of animal industry in Idaho, who will return today to Boise after a brief visit here. Dr. Sullivan, who came to Idaho ten years ago to stamp out the hog cholera plague that had undermined the swine growing industry in this country, issued a warning to swine growers here to maintain constant vigilance against recurrence of the malady.

"The Twin Falls country," he said, "is contributing heavily to the swine markets of Portland and Ogden. An epidemic of hog cholera in this country would result in a severe setback to this important industry."

"Continuing shift of population in the middle western states to California is a growing cause for concern," said E. L. Ashton, who has just returned from four weeks' vacation trip to southern Pacific coast points.

"It seems as if everybody east of the Rocky mountains is going to California," Ashton said, "and the movement continues," he added, "until roads between Idaho and California will need to be double tracked to carry all of the Idaho products that will be required to maintain California's population."

ASSESSORS END ANNUAL SESSION

Creation of Tax Commission Urged; Will Put All Property on Tax Rolls

BOISE, Jan. 16 (AP)—Creation of a non-political tax commission to be elected by the people, opposition to the state gasoline tax as it now stands and the unanimous decision to see that all classes of property are included in the tax rolls, are a few of the thoughts left by the Idaho assessors as they closed their three-day convention in Boise Wednesday night.

They believe that a non-political tax commission to be elected by the people and given the power now vested in the state board of equalization would solve Idaho's problem of determining how property should be assessed. They think the gasoline tax law as it now stands is unjust because it deprives the counties of any apportionment of the money collected. They left with the determination to put forth a diligent effort to see that all classes of property, but especially household goods, furniture and fixtures, diamonds and jewelry, were put on the tax rolls. These have been somewhat neglected in the past, they said.

IDAHO'S SENIOR SENATOR

The thought of war I do abhor
With feelings strong and fervent
And any plan to end it can Attract your humble servant.
"The League? Why, I detest it!
But I'll endorse a plan of course
Provided I suggest it."

I disapprove of any move
Resembling an alliance.
I'll not support a league or court;
I view them with defiance.
I care not for the cannon's roar;
In fact, I rather dread it.
So any scheme is good, I deem,
For which I set the example.

PEACE AND THRIFT

The anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth, January seventeen, has come to be observed as the principal day of an annual "Thrift Week" during which the nation's attention is called to matters of private and public economy.

Benjamin Franklin is one of our national heroes worthy of a great deal of study. Kites and keys and lightning rods and wise sayings compose the average school child's knowledge of Franklin's usefulness. That he was one of the greatest statesmen this country has ever had is less common knowledge. Important as was his part in our War of Independence he was deeply interested in promoting peace. In 1792, when living in Paris, Franklin printed a pamphlet entitled "Conciliation of the Nations of Europe, or a Project for Perpetual Peace."

Consideration of this fact suggests the thought that perpetual peace and thrift are, not at all unrelated subjects. Disarmament, such as has at last been undertaken with regard to certain types of battleships, represents a very practical sort of thrift—and peace promotion—which the nations would do well to study further and expand to include the army and air services.

MODERN PRAIRIE SCHOOLBOY

The real "prairie schooner" lives only in western pioneer stories, and in such work of the fillet's art as "The Covered Wagon." An interesting modification of that equipage is about to set sail from Ohio to California. It is a "lunar descendant of the tented wagon, but might be termed more accurately a "land yacht."

Horses and oxen give way to a fifty-horse-power engine. There are pneumatic tires instead of the steel tires that used to fall off as spokes loosened and rims shrunk in the desert stretches. The vehicle is twenty-eight feet long, built on a wide motor bus frame, with aluminum body and plate glass windows protected by bronze screens. It is a snug little ship on wheels, with roomy cabins, staterooms, galley and lavatory and everything else needed for a long, comfortable voyage, including a radio set.

Before many years the western highways will probably be filled with such craft, big and little, traveling in both directions. It is a natural and obvious development of the motor car, for touring purposes.

DOCTRINOUS FOREIGN FINANCE

The American members of the International committee appointed to study German finances and suggest a practical reparations program have met with a very favorable reception at the committee is stilling down to work this week, in a atmosphere which is described as "more favorable than at any time since the signing of the peace treaty."

The failure of all previous plans of settlement has made European governments humble, especially the German and French governments, the two most directly concerned. Germany, who, equipped cheerfully in a program of inflation that destroyed their currency and credit, in order to dodge payment—and some of the Germans, at least, appear to have done so—realize that they oversteer the mark. All German expenditures either for paying reparations or for sustaining German business and keeping industry alive have failed. So the German government and public are in a rarely tractable mood.

The French government and public are almost as much so, lately, because of the menace of bankruptcy overhauling their country, despite its superficial prosperity. The franc has fallen to its lowest point in history, because of continued military expenditures and the drying up of reparations payments. There is a growing realization that Poincaré's policy of bluffing and force has failed, and that economic facts have to be reckoned with and some kind of working agreement patched up with Germany, if both countries are not to go down in ruin together.

The American representatives, applying to the situation, disinterested minds, sympathetic hearts and sound business sense, may control the findings of that committee and exert a big influence for the salvation of Europe, with big indirect benefits to America.

COMMERCE BODY URGES BUILDING OF FOREST ROAD

Completion of Rogerson-Oakley Route Would Serve 75,000 Persons Within Radius of 45 Miles, Says Request

Completion of a road through the Minidoka national forest from Rogerson to Oakley would make accessible on last winter roads and playgrounds to not less than 75,000 persons residing within a radius of 45 miles of the proposed improvement, and would serve a greater number of persons than would the building of a similar road in any other Idaho region, according to statement contained in a letter dispatched Tuesday by the Idaho chapter of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce roads department, to the supervisor of the Minidoka national forest, requesting that provision be made for completion of this road this year.

Persons who would be served by this road, the letter says, "are now required to travel over a route of 100 to 150 miles northward in order to enjoy the pleasures of forest scenery. The text of the letter follows:

"Office Reasons
It is about the time of year when the annual budget and allotment of forest money is made up in the district forester's office, hence we wish to state to you that we are endeavoring to secure completion and improvement of the forest highway through from Rogerson via Shoshone Basin, Boy Scout's cabin, Rock Creek and the Oakley road. It is a matter of general knowledge that this highway may be entirely completed and put into good condition for general use at a cost of not to exceed $10,000.

We offer the following as reasons for the necessity of completing this highway over the route which we have suggested, just as we have before, to the advantage of the forest service in reducing fire hazard and allowing better supervision of the timber.

"The largest body of timber which will furnish the heavy poles, posts and wood materials lies to the eastward of the proposed highway. The completion of this highway, along the headwaters of several creeks and both sides of the proposed road and end of the complete area, at present, is the best part of the timber of the Minidoka forest is excluded from the use of farmers and citizens residing toward the west end of the forest, who are in the territory of Rogerson and Twin Falls.

"The completion of the gap will make a shorter route from Rogerson to Oakley, and such a highway would be a scenic attraction that could be enjoyed by not less than 75,000 people residing within 45 miles of the Minidoka forest and at each end of the proposed highway. On the west end of the highway, the road is so badly broken that it is hardly possible to give much scenic beauty or attractiveness, but with the completion of the road, it is possible to connect with the Oakley road a better scenic drive would be completed which would only a few miles from our driving farming communities as well as being close at hand for the citizens of our many towns and cities within those irrigated tracts.

"We believe that the completion of such a main strip of the forest highway would make accessible the forest products and playgrounds to such a large number of people who are now required to travel not less than 100 to 150 miles northward in order to enjoy the pleasures of forest scenery.

"Coddish Artistic."
The "sacred codfish" is an emblem of an important activity in Massachusetts. The expression "coddish artistic" was first used by Senator Butler in the United States senate, July 1, 1924. Referring to New England influences in politics, he said, "We should regret it as somewhat artistic to keep us in order." The term is now sometimes applied to those who make a hobby of recently acquired wealth.

Diverging Twins.
The old story has been revived of the Hildtown editor who printed among his "social items": "Miss Mabel March, an Albany belle of twenty summers, is visiting her twin brother, aged thirty-two."

HOPPLY-HOP RABBIT AND THE WOLVES

BY HADDT

Jack and Janet came upon Hopply-Hop Rabbit who is clad in jumping clothes and carries a gun. He is a little fellow, but he is a good one, which run so when they find his gun cannot shoot.

CHAPTER IV.

Hopply-Hop Rabbit dodges. Hopply-Hop Rabbit ran like a cyclone through the woods. After him ran the wolves—all except Crafty Wolf, who was nursing his smarting nose, which Hopply-Hop had banged with his wooden gun.

Jack and Janet watched anxiously from the pine tree where they were hidden. They were afraid Hopply-Hop Rabbit would be caught.

And, indeed, it seemed that the wolves were too much for Hopply-Hop Rabbit. They were hungry and their hunger made them run with the speed of the wind. The maddest of Hopply-Hop Rabbit with outstretched paws, their fangs gleaming white.

Bravely Wolf went to Hopply-Hop Rabbit. He layed along at a terrific rate, gaining a bit on Hopply-Hop at every leap. Finally he made a last frantic leap, and it seemed that he would grab the scurrying rabbit.

But when Bravely Wolf grabbed Hopply-Hop, he found that the rabbit was not so easy to catch. Hopply-Hop was dodging and skidding through the snow. He tried to make as sharp a turn as Hopply-Hop.

The other wolves, following close on Bravely Wolf's heels, banged into Bravely Wolf, piling up in a snarling, bit and tear heap.

While the wolves were untangling themselves Hopply-Hop Rabbit might have escaped to a safer distance. But he did not do any such thing. He stopped and sat grinning as he watched the wolves snarling and snarling at each other.

"Why don't that foolish rabbit run and get into his hole?" whispered Janet impatiently.

"The silly fellow will be caught by the wolves and gobbled up," whispered Jack.

Indeed, that seemed about to happen, for as soon as the wolves picked themselves out of the heap, they started after Hopply-Hop Rabbit again. And they gained on him by leaps and bounds. Just as they were about to catch him, a voice was heard.

"Oh, he is a good one," cried Janet, as the wolves, howling and snarling, moved after Hopply-Hop Rabbit.

Suddenly Jack gave a gasp of dismay. He saw the place Hopply-Hop was making for. It was a sharp cliff above a deep hole. The wolves were following him, and the cliff was so steep that Hopply-Hop kept going the way he was, he would fall over the edge and be smashed on the stones far below. He was in grave danger. He would either be caught by the wolves or go tumbling over the cliff.

Jack and Janet were both in a state of great excitement. They were so close to the edge of the cliff, trembling to the stones far below.

And then Hopply-Hop Rabbit, sitting on the edge of the cliff and chuckling down, grinned and chuckled. He had tricked the wolves. He knew that they could not get out of the rocky hollow.

Jack and Janet thought Hopply-Hop Rabbit very smart, but both they and Hopply-Hop had forgotten all about Crafty Wolf.

(What Crafty Wolf does will be told in tomorrow's chapter.)

Breakfast Food "Matrimonially Speaking"

BY HUGH McCLAY

My wife can't keep off the subject of a new car. She has been saying, "Now, our car is only four years old, and it looks to me as though it ought to be good for about four years more. Or three, at least."

But to hear my wife talk about it you'd think it would look more at home in a junk yard than in a garage.

She shows me all the pictures of the new models that she sees in the newspapers and magazines; and she begins to draw unfavorable comparisons.

She seems to be under the impression that all I'd have to do would be to go to some agency and tell them that they can have my old car if they'll give me a new one and a couple of hundred to boot.

Whereas there are other people around who always refer to our car as "Old Faithful," or "General Grant," or some other pet name like that.

She'd do better to call it "Jack Dempsey," because it's going to be champion of our garage for a good many years to come.

Tomorrow—My husband expects me to agree with everything he says.
