

LIQUOR TREATY WITH ENGLAND IS SIGNED UP

New Measure Regarded as First of Series with Various Maritime Powers to Curtail Illicit Boze Traffic

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The double-barreled liquor treaty with Great Britain was signed today by Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Geddes, to become effective when ratifications are exchanged.

By tacit agreement, however, the two governments are expected to give the pact some measure of immediate application in dealing with rum smuggling and ship liquor matters which may arise before ratification is completed.

Under the treaty, suspected liquor smuggling craft under the British flag would be liable to search and seizure if intercepted anywhere within an hour's sailing distance of shore, the speed of the suspected vessel being taken into account in the case of a ship of war. In return for this aid in prohibition enforcement, the United States would grant to British ships the right to stop and search for ship liquor within American waters anywhere on the same terms that such liquor now passes through the Panama canal. It is to run for one year at the end of which period it can be terminated on three months' notice. A summary of the treaty made public at the state department shows a provision not previously disclosed under which British vessels improperly detained or searched would be compensated for any loss or damage resulting. Such cases would be referred to a joint committee for arbitration and award.

May Break Up Traffic.

Signing of the treaty, which officials hope will pave the way for breaking up the rum fleets off the American coast and also eliminate causes of friction between the two nations with respect to ship liquor matters and the seizure of British suspected craft, was the last official act of Ambassador Geddes. He called afterward at the White House to present his letters of recall and with the exception of one or two addresses he is scheduled to make in New York before he sails for London. His service in the United States is over. He left Washington tonight for New York.

The liquor treaty is expected to be sent to the senate immediately with the desire of the president for early action made known. Whatever question there may be as to its constitutionality will be thrashed out before the senate is introduced without question. A provision has been inserted to cover the contingency that judicial decision or subsequent legislative action might make it impossible for the treaty to be ratified. In that event the treaty would lapse.

Negotiations are already in prospect with The Netherlands and some other countries, and still others have indicated informally their willingness to participate in several treaties to cover special considerations, in general they are expected to follow the British treaty in form and substance.

PRINTING-HOUSE IS HIT BY DESTRUCTIVE BLAZE

Fire Caused by Ignition of Excess Gasoline About Burner Sweeps Kingsbury Plant

Fire caused by ignition of excess gasoline about a burner used in such operation resulted in a damage estimated at between $2000 and $3000 in the Kingsbury Printing company plant, main avenue north, Wednesday evening. Printing machinery was not damaged. The loss to plant and building which is owned by Charles Kingsbury, 1012 N. 1st, is believed to be fully covered by insurance.

Only the rear of the building in which the fire originated, was seriously damaged, although windows at the front were cracked. The cause of the fire was traced to the plant where the time escaped without injury. The firemen had the blaze under control in less than 20 minutes after they were called, and prevented spread of the flames to adjoining buildings, one of which is occupied by the Wagner bakery.

PROTEST AS TO GRAZING FEES IS SENT BACK

Arizona Delegates to Woolgrowers' Convention Oppose Resolution Against Proposed Forest Service Action

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—The resolution condemning the proposed action of the forest service to increase the grazing fee on the national forest was returned to the committee by the convention of the National Wool Growers' association and will be reported again tomorrow. The return to the committee followed a spirited debate in which A. John, president of the Arizona wool men, stated that "Arizona can never be a party to a resolution which takes such an attitude against the forest service."

The resolution, as first presented, sharply placed the convention on record as being "unilaterally opposed to the increase in fees. No substitute was offered nor was provision made for combatting the proposed action. This was amended on the floor to include the fact that the woolgrowers help carry the fight to Congress in case the forest service refused to deviate from the impending plan. The amendment led to spirited debate in which the Arizona delegates, for the time being at least, were triumphant.

Arizona's Problem Different

Mr. Johns stated that in his opinion Arizona's problem was different to that of some of the other states and that the money turned back to the counties by the forest service for the use of schools probably meant more to Arizona than to other commonwealths in the West.

M. L. Corey, member of the federal reserve board, discussed the workings of the intermediate credit banks and the agricultural act of 1923. He stressed the point that while these banks could not loan money to an individual they could to a co-operative marketing association.

Mr. Corey, connected with a local bank, stated that the livestock industry was the most unsystematically handled industry in the country. He stated that he had a formal request for the next convention.

MOORE FOR RECOGNITION OF OLD OREGON TRAIL

BOISE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Congressional recognition of the Old Oregon trail was endorsed Tuesday in a letter from Governor C. C. Moore to each of Idaho's senators and congressmen. The governor gave his support to the idea several days ago when it was brought to his attention by the board of directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. The letter follows:

"May I be permitted to call your attention to the matter of federal recognition of the Old Oregon trail. There is no denying the fact that this name is highly significant and that it would only perpetuate the memory of the pioneers who built up the west, but that it would also attract thousands of others to follow the original pathway. This means much to Idaho and to the great northwest and gives us with its connection a coast to coast arterial highway."

Solons Cross Swords Over Peace Award

Read and Caraway Engage in Sharp Exchanges at Investigation of Bok Plan; Alleged Jury Had Been "Packed"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The house of nations was brought prominently to the fore by Senator Read of Missouri, a league irreconcilable, in the senate committee investigation today of the Bok peace award. The discussion resulted in sharp exchanges between Senator Read and his democratic colleague, Senator Caraway of Arkansas, and frequent protests from Miss Fisher Everett Lape, member in charge of the policy committee of the award, and the only witness heard.

Miss Lape objected to what she regarded as intimations in questions by Senator Read that the selection of members of the policy committee and the jury of award had been influenced by their attitude toward the league. Senator Read asserted there were no such intimations, but Senator Caraway agreed with him, saying he thought there was a hint that the jury had been "packed."

Senator Read took up the league question after Miss Lape had gone into the organization and operation of the award in great detail. He first wanted to know what the league question was and was told that she did not favor the league in its present form. Then the senator took up the attitude of the other members of the policy committee, one by one.

Miss Lape asserted and several times reiterated that the league question has in no way entered into the selection of the members either of the policy committee or the jury of award.

LICENSING OF DEALERS IN ALL FARM PRODUCTS URGED ON DELEGATES

Re-enactment of War-Time Laws Providing for This Together with Extension of Federal Inspection Basis of Strong Argument at Idaho Irrigation Congress

MORE MONEY FOR IDAHO PRODUCERS POINT AIMED AT IN PROPOSED MOVE

Endorsement of a movement for re-enactment of a war-time federal statute requiring licensing of all dealers in farm products, together with extension of federal food products inspection, to the end that marketing operations may be facilitated, was urged upon the Idaho Irrigation Congress at the onset of its eleventh annual session opened here Wednesday to continue for two days.

Plans for endorsement of this measure were made by Carl L. DeLong, Twin Falls, as spokesman for a group of Idaho producers who, he said, have agreed upon the necessity for this legislation to provide needed relief from serious conditions induced by wholesale rejections at the destination of produce shipped from this region. The proposition was declared to be in line with the announced purpose of the congress at this session to stress effort to secure more money for Idaho producers.

Large Attendance Present

This phase of the congress' deliberations was emphasized by Will H. Gibson, Boise, president of the congress, in his annual address delivered after Twin Falls mayor, Sh. L. Hoggan, had welcomed to Twin Falls approximately 200 persons representing practically every irrigated section of the intermountain region in attendance at the opening session of the congress.

The congress, Mr. Gibson declared, was committed to and will ever contend for a program of betterment of Idaho's agricultural industry embodying these three principles:

"Let Idaho realize that it is not alone her duty to plant and to husband, but that her products must be orderly disposed of through a properly organized marketing medium."

"Let Idaho, in these days of keen marketing competition, diversify her output so as not to be caught in the slump of an overproduced commodity."

"Finally, let Idaho condense her output wherever practicable, into higher priced commodity and thus reduce the present cost of marketing."

"Let these things be accomplished," Mr. Gibson said, "and Idaho will grow and prosper—meet her every obligation with a smile of new hope and take her proper place among the commonwealths of the great republic."

MORE CHARGES ENTER IN OIL LEASE SCANDAL

Teapot Dome Wrangle Is Aired on Floor of Senate; Suggest Resignation of Denby; Will Ask Full Source of Big Fund

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Teapot Dome discussion was brought out of committee today to the floor of the senate, where charges even more sensational than those made by witnesses at the inquiry were lodged by senators.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, who has had the lead in developing the inquiry, concluded the more than three hours debate with the formal notice that he would ask the committee to recommend a resolution advising the president to institute proceedings for the appointment of the Wyoming naval oil reserve lease to the "Sinclair interests" by former Interior Secretary Fall.

Moreover, the senator said he would ask the committee to include in the resolution a provision for the appointment of a special commission to present the case independently of the department of justice by reason of the widespread suspicion throughout the country against Attorney General Daugherty.

Senator Walsh said he was not prepared to say whether this suggestion was a feint or a misfortune of the attorney general. He added, however, that he felt certain Mr. Daugherty would be glad to have his department relieved of the matter in view of his long friendship for Fall and their association together in the cabinet.

Senate discussion came upon a demand by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, for immediate action on his resolution proposing cancellation of the Teapot Dome lease. A vote on his motion to discharge the investigating committee from further consideration of the resolution went over, however, on a point of order by Chairman Lenroot, of the inquiry committee.

Caraway Renews Charge
Senator Caraway renewed his charge of corruption against Fall and related that Edward B. McLean, Washington newspaper publisher, knew he was "not telling the truth" when he advised the committee that he had loaned Fall $100,000, the sum the former secretary said he had taken from Washington. "Thank you for using in carrying his New Mexico ranch holdings."

Turning his broadside on G. D. Wahlberg, secretary to Harry F. Sinclair, Senator Caraway declared he had made more the expectation which Archie Roosevelt, son of the former president, said Wahlberg had expressed to him that "they would let him lie" about certain matters. As the debate proceeded there were suggestions from Senators King, Utah, and McCallar, Tennessee, democrats, that Secretary Denby should be asked to resign because he signed the leases. Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, renewed his notice that he would not be a "whitewash" in the Teapot Dome matter and declared he was ready to vote now on the Caraway resolution.

Lenroot Opposes
Senator Lenroot opposed the resolution on the ground that it would hamper the inquiry, but Senator Walsh disagreed with him. The Montana senator and Senator King agreed with Senator Lenroot, however, that many serious questions were involved in the cancellation. Senator Walsh said the question of the validity of the lease was a judicial one and that he did not believe congress could determine it.

As the debate proceeded republican members of the investigating committee made it known privately that when Mr. Fall appears before them Friday, they will insist that he disclose the source of the $100,000 fund he took from Washington after his resignation from the cabinet. Moreover, they said they would follow the subject to its conclusion by calling as witnesses those from whom Fall testified he obtained the money.

These members said the committee would not be content until it had fully substantiated all statements regarding this fund by corroborating evidence including an examination of the checks and securities used by Fall in raising the money as well as the notes or other securities given by him for the loan.

Faithful Jessie to Get Her Reward for Many Years Service

Haven of Rest and Toothsome Food Provided for Her by Walla Walla Prison Officials

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Jan. 23 (AP)—Jessie, a Missouri mule, believed to be more than 33 years old, and who is as prominently identified with the state penitentiary as the wall itself, has been paroled.

Officials of the institution decided that Jessie, after many years of faithful work, had served her allotted time and from now on she will have nothing to do except loaf around the stables, eat oats or hay and romp in the field.

Mrs. or Mrs. of famous interest story is involved, according to officials as the parole will mean the parting of Jessie and "Never Sleep," her negro master, who is confined in the prison. The two have worked together over a long period, hauling coal about the grounds.

The mule was formerly used at Fort Walla Walla, making an appearance there in 1893, as the leader of a six mule team, which was used to haul freight between the fort and Walla Walla. When the fort was abandoned in 1910 the state purchased her for use at the penitentiary and she has remained there since.

POLLOCK URGES CHEAPER MEAT

Tells of Projected Campaign to Swing Buying Public Away from Expensive Steaks

SALT LAKE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Housewives these days are ordering more of the so-called choice cuts of meat, such as sirloin, tenderloin, porterhouse and lamb chops, and the National Livestock and Meat Board is trying to convince them that cheaper cuts should also be bought as they are just as appetizing, nutritious and palatable.

This was the information conveyed to delegates attending the annual convention of the National Wool Growers' association here today by R. C. Pollock, managing director of the board, who gave a comprehensive talk on meat, which he characterized as the "king of foods."

"The National Livestock and Meat Board is the only organization of its kind in the world," he said. "With a membership of seventeen, eleven of whom are men engaged in the production of cattle, sheep and hogs, two coming from the ranks of commission men, two from the packers and two from the retailers of meat, the board is vigorously engaged in promoting better co-operation, not only within the industry itself, but also for the benefit of the consuming public, in order that closer relationship may be established with the great mass of people, who, it may be said, make the livestock and meat industry possible.

"Consider the vast volume of business conducted by the industry during the year of 1923 just closed. In the previous year of 1922, a record had been set for meat consumption in the United States. But 1923 came to the front and snatched the honors of consumption by a wide margin.

While complete official figures are not available for the latter year, it is estimated that the American public consumed in excess of 17,000,000,000 pounds of meat. This tops the figure of 1922 by approximately 1,600,000,000 pounds and represents a marked increase in the demand made on livestock production. The year was especially a prosperous one from the standpoint of sheep growers, according to a recent statement coming from the Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

"An increase in meat consumption such as has occurred in recent years, if continued, should bring about greatly improved conditions in the livestock industry. It is shown that the industry is winning its battle against cranks, fanatics and other radical factions that have been a nuisance for years, with their insidious propaganda against the eating of meat."

BANK SITUATION IS SUBJECT OF SPECIAL MESSAGE

President Asks Congress for Quick Action Looking to Relief of Financial and Economic Conditions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Moved by the increasing seriousness of the economic situation in the northwest, President Coolidge today sent to congress a special message outlining steps for relief and quickened efforts of the federal government to prevent further bank failures in that section.

The chief executive in his message proposed five methods for "organizing co-operation on the part of the federal government and the local institutions of that territory."

Congress, he declared, should extend financial assistance through a federal agency to promote diversification in farming by the wheat growers and livestock raisers from March 31 to December 31, 1924, the period during which the War Finance corporation may make loans. The diversification proposal, embodied in the Norbeck-Burness bill, is under study by senate and house agriculture committees and the president's message is expected by administration leaders to give it impetus.

The executive branches of the government working in co-operation with private interests, Mr. Coolidge asserted would seek to bring about refunding of the pressing past due indebtedness of the farmers, to restore the impaired capital of banks and confidence in those banks, and to promote creation by private capital of new financing agencies, such as have been organized by the livestock interests, to work in co-operation with the War Finance corporation.

Work Now Under Way
The work of restoring the impaired capital of banks had already been started with the sending of a federal mission headed by Comptroller Dawes to the northwest. The president conferred on this problem today with W. R. Ronald, publisher of the Mitchell (S. D.) Tribune, and was told the situation calls only for assistance through the usual banking channels and the finance corporation. The finance corporation has been directed to extend all aid it legally can give and Mr. Coolidge has determined to call bankers in Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul to Washington for conferences in the event that they hesitate to accord the co-operation asked by the Dawes mission.

Farmers Hard Hit
The president told congress the welfare of large business concerns, railroads, mercantile establishments and agricultural supply houses was immediately connected with the welfare of the farmer and announced that he had directed Secretaries Hoover and leaders, the heads of the trades unions and others who made up a chosen party, had a chance to see the face of the dead, the great crowd waiting outside the building was permitted to enter. At 5 o'clock this afternoon, notwithstanding the extreme cold lines, eight persons abreast, were standing a half mile long, on each side of the house of unions and were growing in extent hourly.

Villagers Pay Tribute.
The tribute to Lenin started early this morning when the peasants of the village of Gorky, where the premier died in a big two-story house, which once belonged to a wealthy merchant, gathered about the gates and doffed their hats as the body was brought out and carried on the shoulders of his followers from the railway station. It continued as the train slowly made its way over the 20-mile route into Moscow and while the casket was being conveyed on the shoulders of his followers from the railway station to the house of unions, from Gorky to Moscow the people stood along the railway line with heads bare, notwithstanding the bitter winter weather.

In Moscow the flags of nations which have recognized the soviet government, or have established relations with it, on half-mast over embassies, legations and the headquarters of the missions. Throughout the city perfect order marked the day and there was a marked lack of excitement.

Up to the last few days before his death, Lenin took an active interest in politics. He is said to have been always the dominant spirit of those with him this notwithstanding the fact that the autopsy revealed that it was remarkable how he had survived so long, for he had been ill 20 years.

RULES FOR BEAN GROWER

The Southern Idaho Bean Growers' association's claim against Witt Brothers for $1800 damages because of alleged sale of a bean crop through another marketing agency was denied by Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here Wednesday in sustaining a demurrer interposed by Bothwell and Chapman, attorneys for Witt Brothers. The demurrer was based on contention that contract between the association and Witt Brothers was not binding, and further, that the association did not have a legal existence at the time the contract was alleged to have been made.

Wallace and Managing Director Meyer of the War Finance corporation, to confer with representatives of these interests to bring about refunding of farmers' indebtedness. Applications were given at the commerce and agricultural departments and the finance corporation that such conferences shortly would be held.

Reading of the president's message in the senate and house brought no immediate reaction except a declaration from Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, that he had pointed out six months ago the coming of such a situation as now existed. Administration leaders, however, expressed the view that the message would hasten action on agricultural legislation.

EXPORTATION OF CAPITAL CHECKED

Investigation of Disposition of German Assets Being Prosecuted by Committee

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—The second committee of experts investigating Germany's financial and economic situation today had before it Karl Bergmann, former under-secretary of the German treasury, who answered questions with regard to the exportation of capital from Germany.

This committee, which is headed by Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the British exchequer, announced in an official communication, at the end of the day's session, that it proposed to go to Berlin soon to continue its investigations in the German capital. The communication said:

"The committee on evasion of capital has made a close preliminary survey of the problems submitted for its execution and interviewed Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, and Karl Bergmann on the general lines on which a practical investigation can be pursued in Germany. It will meet again in Berlin on Thursday, January 31."

"Meantime it will be necessary for the secretariat of the committee, working in Paris, to prepare a considerable amount of statistical information which the committee feels will be necessary for further pursuit of its labors."

Gold Bank Planned

The first committee, headed by Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, was engaged today in a continuation of consideration of plans for the formation of a gold bank in Germany.

The essential features for the German gold bank designed by the experts have been taken from a plan proposed by General Dawes and Owen D. Young, the American unofficial representative. The plan is to draw into the service of the new bank, gold or the equivalent in foreign monies, now in Germany, and also a portion of the German deposits abroad. Dr. Schacht, it is understood, estimates the value of foreign currencies now in private hands in Germany at one billion gold marks.

The purpose of the committee of experts is to mobilize these non-productive monies into the public service and to induce German funds outside the country to return by offering them adequate guarantees for the safety of the capital and profitable dividends.

MINERS SEEK SETTLEMENT

SYDNEY, N. S. Jan. 23 (AP)—A sub-committee of union local miners and employers went into session at Glenelg today with instructions to exhaust all means in search of a settlement of the wage controversy which has thrown 12,000 miners and 2,000 steel makers out of work in the Cape Region district.

FOREST FIRES KILL GAME. HUGHES DEFENDS MEXICAN POLICY

MISSOULA, Mont., Jan. 23 (AP)—Forest fires that swept throughout the Deep creek country, west of here, last year, took a heavy toll of wild bird and animal life, according to a recent survey of the territory, which has revealed more clearly the effect than any previous investigation.

Game fish also suffered in the locality, trout having been reduced 50 per cent due to lack of shade, lack of vegetation and other causes, it was stated.

An abundance of deer has been reported and there is no evidence that their ranks have been depleted. Bird life apparently suffered the most, the investigation proved, the fires having wiped out numerous birds besides nests and vegetation necessary to their habitat. A scarcity of pheasants and blue grouse is reported.

men, who were rewarded with a pie as a reward of merit.

The Highland View club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. R. A. Junke. A handkerchief shower on the hostess and quilting formed the afternoon's pleasure. The next meeting will be on February 6, with Mrs. Wed.

The Elks gave one of their popular dances Tuesday evening which was attended by the usual large number of members who enjoy this form of amusement. Delicious punch was served throughout the evening and music was furnished by the Benoit orchestra.

Play Mah Jongg

The Game of a Hundred Intelligences

Also known as Mah Chong, Mah Cheuk, Sparrows, etc.

The game of Mah Jongg has been played in China for centuries, but only recently became popular in America. Essentially a game of skill, it involves elements of chance, making it the most appealing and fascinating game of today. It is fast supplanting bridge and poker from East to West.

The rules are very simple. To master the game in all its fine points is a matter of little practice and study. Its gripping intensity "gets you" the first time you play and you become enthusiastic.

The game is usually played by four persons, designated "East," "South," "West," and "North" Winds. The object of the game is to get certain "Sets of Threes" and an extra pair. Really if you do not know how to pung and chow you are out of date.

We are today in receipt of some very special genuine Chinese sets, all hand-made and hand-carved on the original bamboo. Complete set in attractive box, dice, markers, counters, and complete set of rules. This set will sell regularly for $6.50. All this week specially priced at

THE RIGHT OF PETITION

The United States Senate has worked itself into an interesting state of mind on the subject of "propaganda." From the point of view of a calm, average American citizen, its sudden order for a probe of propaganda activity, and the animus inspiring that action, are rather hard to understand.

The Senate, without much regard to partisan lines, is especially upset by two things—the Bok peace plan and the Mellon tax plan, with their attendant publicity and their by-product of appeals to Congress for legislative action. The house, too, plays a part.

As a merely personal, human proposition, it is incomprehensible that senators may be annoyed by a deluge of letters and telegrams, from all points of the compass, urging them to follow some particular plan. But it is surely a strange innovation for senators, singly or collectively, as public men and servants of the nation, to take the position that publicity efforts made openly, to influence the opinion of Congress on any pending issue are necessarily illegitimate and reprehensible.

The public regards a "lobby" or a "propaganda" as good or bad, defensible or indefensible, according to the spirit and purpose animating it. The Senate fails to distinguish in such matters, as if it had other standards of judgment than those of the public. But it fails most notably in regards the principle involved.

This is a free country. Opinion is free. Speech is free. The press is free. The mails are open to all honest men. The right of petition is guaranteed by the Constitution. Some of the senators forget these facts occasionally, under the stress of personal and factional grievances.

GAS BARS IN STORMS

The crew of the Shenandoah covered themselves with credit when the big dirigible broke loose from her moorings in a blow, bringing the crippled ship safely back to port. Whether the Shenandoah herself did so is open to question.

The dirigible had her nose-pole torn off, her two forward gas bags torn and emptied and her steering gear partially wrecked when she left the mooring mast. It was almost a miracle that human skill, coolness and good fortune could save her from suffering the same fate as the French Dixmude, recently carried away across the Mediterranean and lost with all her crew, or of the Roma and the Zeppelin, likewise lost within recent memory.

Naval officials profess satisfaction with the test. That may be professional pride. The observant public, which has no personal or professional feelings in the matter, is likely to be more dubious than ever of the practicability of the Zeppelin type of aircraft.

They do possess great lifting power, and in theory they are wonders. In practice they have a strange way of disappointing expectations. The Germans were forced to abandon their Zeppelins during the war, in favor of heavier-than-air craft. All of these giant airships built since the war are only so many more Zeppelins, and with no enemy but the weather they suffer disaster after disaster.

The scientific citizen is inclined to favor the airplane, which is far easier to maneuver, and has speed enough to make headway against a gale instead of being carried away by it.

COVE AGAIN

Cove, the "getting-better-every-day" druggist from Nancy, France, is in this country again spreading his cheerful gospel. But there is less to be made about him. For one thing, the novelty of his teaching has worn off. For another, he himself has learned from experience, and is not seeking the limelight and courting failure by too ambitious efforts.

He does not address very large audiences any more, and does not give public exhibitions of his powers. He refuses to broadcast his teaching or treatment by radio. He is more particular than before to insist that it is not he who heals sickness, but the patients themselves who practice his method.

Cove is all right, and his method is.

QUICK, CAL, THE SOAP AND HOT WATER BEFORE HE TRACKS IT ALL OVER THE HOUSE

all right. Both may be narrow and one-sided, but narrowness and one-sidedness often succeed where full knowledge of both sides of a thing brings indecision and failure. The men who move the world along are mostly narrow specialists, who see, each in his own speciality, a panacea for the world's ills.

The Cove method and formula are excellent, as open-minded doctors and psychologists admit as long as the patient does not abuse them. When the sufferer says to himself, with conviction, "Every day, in every way, I am getting better and better," he helps himself to get better. Not as a lie, in defiance of facts, but as a dose of self-encouragement and an expression of hope, he stimulates his own mental and physical powers and promotes recovery.

But the remedy is not all-powerful. The revolutionary soldier "trusted in God and kept his powder dry." Coveism is safer when allied with professional treatment from a good physician.

THE MARKETS

CORN AND OATS RISE TO SEASON'S HIGH RECORD

Scarcity of Offerings Together with Speculative Buying of Corn Held Responsible for Advance

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Corn rose briskly today to a new high price record for the season and lifted oats to a fresh high record. Scarcity of offerings together with speculative buying of corn was chiefly responsible. Wheat sympathized, but only in a slight transient way, closing unsettled at 1.5c lower to a share higher, May $1.08 7/8 to 1.09, and July $1.07 1/4 to 1.08 1/4 to 1.07 3/4. Corn finished 1/4 to 3/8 up, oats at 1/8 to 3/8 gain and provisions unchanged to 1/4 down.

Corn showed an upward tendency almost from the outset but the advance began in earnest about the middle of the trade season. At that stage brokers began usually to get a big trade here took to the buying side of the market. Previously, the surplus in the pit had been absorbed by commission houses, and as a result the market temporarily was bare of sellers. On the ensuing advance, May rose to $1.08 7/8 to 1.09 a jump of more than a cent a bushel above yesterday's finish. Then heavy profit taking sales yet in and a lively reaction took place, but considerable of the grain was still held as the day came to an end.

Country offerings of corn were said to have increased a little after the bulge in price. To the buying side, however, the amount of corn obtained by Chicago handlers was relatively small. Reports that re-sellers were offering corn cheaper in the east failed to have any apparent influence on the market here.

Throughout most of the day wheat lagged owing to lower quotations at Liverpool and to slackness of domestic milling demand. Besides, the banking situation in the northwest was a bearish factor.

Least active foreign demand had some depressing influence on the provision market.

IN PER CENT CAR SERVICE IN 1924 PROMISED

American Railway Association
Official: Predicts Transportation
Betterment; Raps Radical Elements

The belief that Idaho will be afforded 100 per cent car service for movement of perishable crops this year, barring strikes or other serious labor disturbances, was expressed by Donald D. Conn, manager of the public relations section of the car service division, American Railway Association, in an address to the high school auditorium Wednesday evening in connection with the first day's program of the Idaho Irrigation congress.

"This improvement in shipping service is in accordance with the hopes of the American Railway association," Mr. Conn said, in referring to legislative regulation of railroad rates. Mr. Conn stated that the general opinion of the association is clouded by what he termed the desire of "radical elements" to substitute new legislation for orderly regulation of rates.

Good Cause of Shortage.
Mr. Conn attributed car shortages in the west, in a large measure, to the fact that a great percentage of the available freight terminals through contracts that permit the receiver to hold the cars on the tracks or to refuse them entirely.

Unequal distribution of freight and refrigerator cars is the answer to the problem, the speaker held. "I am hoping," Mr. Conn pointed out, that in the past the western producers or perishable products have given their attention too closely to production and have not studied sufficiently the importance of the factors of markets and transportation available to them.

The work of the regional advisory board is a vital factor in connection with the shipping situation and the boards are so decentralized as to be in a position to keep in close touch with the needs of the shippers and producers," Mr. Conn said.

He placed much confidence in the joint meeting of regional advisory boards to be held in the east on February 13, and predicted that, probably as a result of this meeting, favorable legislation will be taken to improve the transportation problem for crops before this spring's perishable crops begin to move.

Sympathy With Growers.
Mr. Conn gave the American Railway association, which is sympathetic with the growers and shippers, and "will take the growers' producers" at the forthcoming joint committee meeting if necessary. "The American Railway association will go right along with you in any reasonable plan for the distribution that can be worked out," he said.

As to railroad legislation, Mr. Conn said: "I don't know of a railroad that objects to sensible regulation, but the sooner the matter is taken out of the hands of the legislators and governed according to a sound basis of economics the sooner will you see rates reduced. Over 100 bills have been introduced in congress for railroad rate regulation but the matter is not taken out of the interstate commerce commission, not with congress. It won't do any good to pass a law reducing rates when 85 per cent of the present rates is taken up by overhead."

Conservation of Transportation.
During 1923 the railroads carried four and a half million more cars than ever before. The progress in the operation of the roads in the past year was due to better cooperation among the railroads, with the shippers and the public. But there is a considerable saving about and it is up there at the end of Pennsylvania avenue—in both houses of congress.

Mr. Conn opened his address with a tribute to the development of reclamation in Idaho which he attributed to what he called the "American way," or the voluntary cooperation of all concerned. He traced the development of railroads in the United States and gave a short resume of the organization and purpose of the American Railway association.

Mr. Conn was introduced by Will H. Gibson, president of the Idaho Irrigation congress, who presided. The audience at the meeting included numerous out-of-town representatives, attending the irrigation congress, besides local farmers, business men and others.

Childs' Obstruction.
If a child should put a peg or a bean up in his nose, a little cayenne pepper on his upper lip will cause him to sneeze and thus remove the obstruction.

State Seed Show Gives Name of Idaho Wonder to Quality Bean

Influence of the Idaho State Seed show has been enlisted in a campaign to secure adoption generally of the name Idaho Wonder for the bean grown most successfully in southern Idaho, which has secured conquests in every market in which it has been offered. It has been known variously as the Idaho Wonder, Great Northern and Montana White Bean.

The present time is deemed particularly favorable for the adoption of the chosen name, since dealers now are placing their orders for branded bags for the next season's crop.

Dealers to whom adoption of the chosen name has been suggested have expressed readiness in all instances to adopt it. Mr. M. J. Thompson, of Twin Falls, newly elected president of the State Seed show.

Use of the chosen name, it is believed, will result in immense advantage to Idaho producers and facilitate marketing of their product by years to come.

The favorable attitude of the State

Seed show toward the proposition is expressed in resolutions adopted at the show lately held in Jerome, which are as follows:

"Whereas, Considerable confusion exists regarding the name of a certain variety of bean grown in Idaho, variously known as Great Northern, Montana White or Idaho Wonder, and

Whereas, Idaho is particularly adapted to the production of this high quality product and possesses the variety of bean to a greater extent than any other section of the country.

Now, therefore, be it resolved, That every grower, association, dealer or other concern handling or dealing in this bean use the name Idaho Wonder, and, further, that all such in which such beans are shipped to be sent out in branded bags bearing conspicuously the name Idaho Wonder; and be it further resolved, that this association officially adopt this name for this variety of bean, and, further, that the secretary of the State Seed show send out to all dealers in this commodity a circular informing them of this action.

SUPREME COURT DECISION ASKED

Validity of American Falls Bond Issue Involved in Appeal to High Tribunal

Deputy Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here, confirming proceedings of the American Falls reservoir district relative to appointment of a trustee and cost involved in the district's participation in construction of the American Falls reservoir; and denial of appeal on the part of J. B. Thrall, Jerome, from this order to the state supreme court were filed Wednesday at about the same time in the office of the clerk of the court here.

Directors and counsel for the reservoir district are contending in the appellate proceedings, in order that questions raised in the petition for confirmation, approved by the court here may be passed upon by the supreme court. Favorable decisions by the higher tribunal, it is believed, will enhance the value of the district's $2,700,000 bond issue voted last spring for participation in the reservoir project.

Questions raised in this proceeding are believed to cover all possible issues for settlement. The petition filed in the district and subsequent acts of its directors. One of the most important questions raised has to do with the directors' adoption of the position that the district as a whole becomes liable for delinquent assessments against any subdivision of the district.

The district includes lands under five canal systems in seven south Idaho counties.

ALIEN VETERANS MUST TAKE PROMPT ACTION

Special Law Granting Privileges to Former Service Men Applying for Naturalization Soon to Expire

Naturalization discharged war veterans who are not citizens of the United States, but who wish to become naturalized and avail themselves of the advantages made available to them by a special federal law, should take immediate steps if that direction, since the law will become ineffective March 3, 1924, according to advice from the commissioner of naturalization received here Tuesday by the clerk of the district court.

Benefits of this law are to continue in force only for a period of one year after the return of all American troops to the United States, March 3, 1923. Under its provisions war veterans may be naturalized without complying with many of the usual requirements for naturalization, such as declaration of intention, proof of five years residence in the United States, payment of the customary $4 filing fee and the usual 90-day wait from the date of filing petition to the date of final hearing. As a condition of naturalization under this special statute, the applicant must appear before a naturalization examiner with his honorable discharge and two identifying witnesses for preliminary examination.

Opportunity for meeting a naturalization examiner for this purpose will be afforded in this district February 16, when Del Sullivan, examiner with headquarters in Salt Lake, will be in Twin Falls to attend scheduled hearings on petitions for naturalization in district court here.

BUILDING AND LOAN DISPUTE GOES TO COURT

Former Manager and Secretary
Sue for $12,219 as Compensation
Due, While Association
Sues on Official Bond

Dispute between directors and former employees of the Mutual Building and Loan association over an alleged deficit reported to have been disclosed by an audit of the association's books got into the courts Wednesday, when K. S. Peters, formerly general manager, and Frank G. Leichter, formerly secretary of the association, instituted suit in district court here against the association for $12,219, claimed as compensation due under their contract with the association.

Cite Contract Provisions.
Under provisions of this contract, according to the complaint, Peters and Leichter were to receive a commission of 25 per share for sale of the association's capital stock, regardless of when the stock was sold, and a commission of effecting said sales, and additional compensation in the amount of one per cent of the total of all loans made by the compensation. Peters and Leichter, according to the complaint, engaged into the contract of which Peters and Leichter are the plaintiffs, and continued the employment of the association under this contract until November 10, 1923, at which time their release from official position with the association was announced.

Peters and Leichter are represented in this action by Roy L. Black, Boise, former Idaho attorney general, and Homer C. Mills, Twin Falls.

Sues on Official Bond.
At about the same time this complaint was filed, the building and loan association, through its attorney, H. C. Hazel, instituted action in district court here against the United States Realty and Trust company to recover a total of $14,285.19 on two bonds aggregating $25,000 issued by the company to insure the association against loss through "fraud, dishonesty or criminal act" on the part of F. G. Leichter as secretary.

While these bonds remained in force, according to the association's complaint, the association "sustained loss of money, securities and other property including that for which it was responsible, occasioned through acts of fraud and dishonesty on the part of the employee directly or through connivance."

Directors to Give Position.
Previously the association had instituted, a similar action to recover $3000 from the Lion Bonding company, a defect institution, on bond issued for Leichter as secretary. In this case Leichter and Babcock in district court here Wednesday overruled a demurrer interposed by Homer C. Mills as attorney for Leichter.

The position taken by the association's directors with respect to the alleged deficit and acts of the former employees is expected to be set forth at an adjourned meeting of the stockholders to be held here next Monday afternoon.
