RECORDS BROKEN AT YELLOWSTONE FOR YEAR 1924

Total Travel to the Park for Season Amounted to 144,158 Persons as Compared to 138,352 in 1923.

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Oct. 8 (AP)—Again, during the season of 1924, all Yellowstone national park travel records were broken, according to official statistics compilation which has just been completed.

The total travel was 144,158 persons compared with 138,352 in the season of 1923. Of the total 7,806 persons arrived previous to the official opening which occurred on June 20. The increase of 5800 or nearly 5 per cent, over last season's total travel is regarded by park officials as an excellent showing, taking into consideration the facts that cool weather prevailed in the eastern and middle western states during most of the summer; that in the farwestern states, exceptionally dry weather conditions detrimentally affected general business and farm conditions; that hoof and mouth disease in California, which state always sends thousands to the Yellowstone each year, retarded travel from this great Pacific coast section; and finally that European steamship rates were reduced to a degree as to induce travel to Europe that would ordinarily have come to the national parks, including Yellowstone.

Predict Greater Travel.

It is reasonable to predict that practically all of these travel discouraging influences will be absent next year, and that Yellowstone National park travel will exceed 200,000 individuals. Government authorities in charge of the park, the public utilities of the park, the railroads reaching its various entrances, and gateway cities and towns are preparing already for travel much in the Yellowstone region has never before experienced.

Of the total travel this year 41,054 persons came by rail, 100,185 by automobile, 285 by motorcycle and 1509 on horseback and on foot, and pre-season which was 112,738.

The rail travel of 41,054 persons compared with last year's figure of 44,808. The 100,185 automobile visitors came in 80,839 cars. Last year there were 91,284 automobile visitors in 27,359 cars.

The Cody gateway, or eastern entrance, proved the most popular for automobile tourists. Nine thousand nine hundred and thirty-five cars carrying 32,285 persons arrived there during the season, compared with 3558 cars with 31,580 persons at the same entrance. The automobile travel totals include 1178 cars and 2317 visitors who entered the park more than once during the season.

Visitors to the park came from every state in the Union, from Alaska, the Philippines, Hawaii and the Canal Zone, and from 23 foreign countries, including England, and seven other countries of the British empire.

Illinois again leads the list of rail visitors, 5993 residents of this state having been classified. New York is second with 3783 visitors coming by rail, Ohio third with 3115, and Pennsylvania fourth with 2908. One-fourth of all of the visitors coming to the park by train came from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

GERMAN TRADE WITH SOVIET ON DECREASE

Withdrawing From Commercial Field in Russia; Difficulties Encountered in Doing Business With Bolshevists.

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Germany's withdrawal from the Russian commercial field becomes more pronounced every day. The Stines interests make no concealment of the fact that they have practically ceased all effort to do business with Soviet Russia, and have very slight investments in that country. Every day the German press contains letters and articles narrating the difficulties which Germans have encountered in attempting to carry on business relations with the soviet government, and reflecting the disappointment that the Rapallo treaty did not bring the business in Russia promised by Rathenau, Wirth, Muller and other German political leaders responsible for the treaty.

Business Decreasing.

A German wholesaler who has just returned from Leningrad contributes a letter to the Berlin Zeitung an Mitting in which he says the ability of Russia to export decreases constantly. "It would be a crime," he says, "to export cereals from Russia now when famine is expected. There is no farther money coming into Russia through the sale of exports, and the importation of foreign goods is stopping. Why? Because the principle of the government is that everything needed within the country has to be provided by the state agencies."

Under Suspicion.

"Any foreigner is regarded as an intruder and is under suspicion," the writer continues. "Any business deal a foreigner handles may be classed as 'speculation,' and may be punished accordingly. The natives dread contact with foreigners because they know they are constantly watched. Hotels are state-owned, and guests under constant control. Every letter is censored. Russia is a country of dictatorship under which business is impossible."

Mrs. J. R. Hardin on East Madison street.

Mrs. W. G. Sampson, who was taken to the county general hospital Saturday night, with a fractured hip, as the result of falling in the cellar, is reported doing as well as can be expected, considering circumstances.

Roy Hudson, whose home is in Wisconsin, arrived in Kimberly Saturday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hudson, and sister, Mrs. Kitty Christian.

The Administration of Gov. Charles C. Moore

This is the first of a series of statements which will convince the voters of Idaho that Governor Moore deserves their endorsement.

GOVERNOR MOORE stands for strict economy and gets results. He has reduced the number of state employees to the absolute minimum required to properly transact the business of the state. He has reduced state expenditures over THREE QUARTERS OF A MILLION DOLLARS and in doing so has overshadowed the achievement of any governor of Idaho since shadowed.

GOVERNOR MOORE reorganized the Fish and Game Department and reduced the force of deputy game wardens from 48 to 33. He is in favor of the utmost protection to our fish and game resources. Under his administration more money has been spent for fish hatcheries and propagation of fish, and less for deputy game wardens than under any other administration.

GOVERNOR MOORE is in favor of full protection of bank deposits, but does not favor any of the plans which have been tried and failed in other states. He refuses to make an empty promise.

GOVERNOR MOORE has maintained 1800 miles of highway and bridges, has built 330 miles outright, has reconstructed 35 miles and had 365 miles improved to standard through the Department of Public Works, with 75 per cent less employees.

INDIAN PLEADS FOR OLD RITES

Protests to Senate Committee Efforts to Abolish Ancient Customs Practiced.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—John Still Durya, "medicine man" representing 400 pagan Indians on the Bad Lake reservation near the Canadian boundary, protested against the efforts of the Indian bureau to abolish old tribal customs when he appeared before the senate Indian affairs sub-committee during its investigation here.

Mention had been made to the sub-committee that the tribal dances were detrimental to the Indians' crops, and that they interfered with the educational work among the younger members of the tribes.

Still Durya is a tall, handsome Chipewyan fullblood. He did not wear the garb of the tribal headdress, but appeared in the attire of the white man. Speaking through an interpreter he told the committee that he was not the chief nor the great speaker, but protested against "the white man's efforts to take away my religion."

To the statement that the pagan Indians' corn and potatoes "were the worst in ten years because there have been too many tribal dances," Still Durya replied that the Indians were "not responsible for the cold weather and the too much rain."

The pagan band lives in a place isolated from the rest of the Bad Lake Indians, and its members still indulge in the ancient tribal dances which frequently last two and three days.

Thomas entertained at cards in honor of Misses Della and Dolly Kenaley. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. McK Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Meeks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Webber and Misses Della and Dolly Kenaley.

Robert Fleming left Thursday for California, where he will visit with relatives for a few weeks.

Miss Kathryn Blackburn visited with her parents in Twin Falls over the week-end.

Mrs. O. E. Perkins left Saturday for Peiler, where she was called by the death of her brother-in-law, Mr. Hicks.

Babson Tells of Human Factor in Investments

Death of Company President Causes Statistician to Discourse on Values of Managerial Heads to Securities.

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 8.—(Special to the News).—The recent death of Andrew W. Preston, president of the United Fruit company, has again brought up the much discussed question of the human element in investment values. The business world has lost another leader. I, for one, believe that the investment world is poorer, in spite of the fact that book assets remain the same.

The business of the United Fruit company with all probability will continue to go on successfully. We should, however, consider the possible effect of the death of its president in the light of previous financial history. The company has suffered a severe loss, a loss impossible to estimate at this time.

Know Fruit Business
Mr. Preston not only knew the fruit business, thoroughly but had the confidence of both employees and stockholders. He was a real captain of industry, a man of great vision, power and judgment. Although the company may continue to increase its fruit business and its stock may yet sell at record high figures, it would be surprising, indeed if it does not ultimately suffer market-wise from Mr. Preston's death.

A vessel is always a vessel, and a crew is always a crew but the profits of both vessel and crew depend to a large extent upon the skill and ability of the captain in charge. Wage workers and stockholders are entitled to their fair share of the profits of every business, but in the last analysis it must be admitted that those profits are largely due to the character, judgment, vision and energy of some one individual.

Previous Effects
In discussing the possible effect of Mr. Preston's death several bankers and investment experts have recalled the effect of similar previous losses. They have cited the fact that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific reached their highest point under the personal management of James J. Hill and that since his death a decline in the prices of these stocks has been almost continuous. They have reminded concerning Harriman and what happened to the market price of Union Pacific and other railroad stocks after his death. Other instances in our business and financial history substantiate the general rule that industrial securities reached their peak previous to the death of retirement of the founder of the company.

Security Value.

These men still have confidence in the United Fruit company, knowing that it is a sound business and is well entrenched both as to the production and distribution of fruits. Most of them are optimistic on the market as a whole and believe that United Fruit will continue to go up with the others, but the situation does bring to mind the fundamental fact that the value of securities lies not in the real estate or buildings owned nor in the temporary earnings of the corporation, but in the character, judgment, vision and energy of the men in control. Moreover, this fundamental principle applies to all businesses, large and small.

This same idea has been brought out recently by Edna Ferber in her book "So Big". In her "Aug Hemptle" she draws a picture of the founder of the packing industry as it exists today in America. It shows how that great industry reached its peak before his death and that no son or relative has been able to put into it the vision and energy that this founder possessed. Quite by coincidence you can get a detailed picture of this same "Aug Hemptle" in George Horace Lorimer's book "Letters of a Self-Made Merchant to His Son." The present editor of the Saturday Evening Post was once his private secretary.

In Community.

We see this principle again as it works out in a community. American development is not dependent upon national resources, location, her laborer's wealth. Every city's worth while today owes its growth to some one or more men of character, vision and courage, who throw their energy in to the building up of a town. The great danger threatening most of our cities today is that after the community has secured a certain momentum of growth it is apt to think that it can run along without further leadership. This is a great mistake and the best thing that a chamber of commerce can do is to clearly recognize this fact. The men who are giving their lives to the building up of your city should be helped and encouraged.

Business is still dull. I have just returned from a trip to some of the leading cities in the eastern section of the United States and of Canada. The bankers, manufacturers and merchants with whom I talked seemed puzzled. They say that there is no surplus of goods on the shelves of the merchants, that fundamentally things are in pretty good shape. The most common expression I heard was that business seems to lack "gump" or seems to be "drifting." The actual situation is pictured on the Babsonchart which continues to show general activity at 7 per cent below normal.

May Lose Interest.

I wonder if it is possible that our business men, owing to burdensome taxation, government interference, or some other cause apparently beyond their control, are losing interest in their business? If this is true it presents an exceptionally serious problem, a problem more vital than that of business depression or even a business panic. If statistics teach anything, they teach that men make values—and that souls make men.

Certain political leaders are preaching today that there should be a redivision of things. Perhaps there should be if such a redivision could come about in a natural way; but in attempting to divide things up we must be very careful that we do not sever the artery upon which business depends for its very life. It is possible that the uncertainty of the political situation is a contributing cause, but I return from this trip convinced that the country's business men are sorely in need of courage and confidence today.

They need this confidence much more than they need any more legislation or new rules. It may be good drama for certain politicians to berate and belittle men like Harriman, Hill, Armour and Preston, it may win them a few votes with the unthinking but before we discount these men—before we lend our support to "the under dog," just because, as a sporting proposition, it appeals to us—let us appraise these captains of industry. Let's figure what their initiative and vision meant in the development of America and just how much of the comforts, conveniences and living that we enjoy today is directly due or indirectly due to them. Then let us come out into the open and back the people we believe in, that confidence may again be restored and that we may go forward toward better times for everyone.

Doll's House for Czar

When a young man of twenty-four, Peter the Great of Russia went to Holland. He was working at different jobs so as to be better fitted to become ruler of Russia. In Utrecht he saw a miniature doll's house, furnished down to the minutest detail. In the library were paintings, two inches square. Cabinets were filled with thumb-high porcelain (from Japan. Special carpets were manufactured for this house, and the linen was woven in Flanders.

Peter the Great took a great fancy to this tiny palace and offered any price for one like it. The builder, a retired merchant, would not accept money for his handiwork, but offered to make one as a gift to the young czar. The Russian mansion, completed after 25 years of labor, is now in the royal museum, Amsterdam, says Mentor Magazine.

York games of the series were particularly vivid for Johnson. They checked him in the early part of the game, but as it wore on and Johnson's defeat seemed inevitable they became quieter, realizing that "Big Barney," one of the game's greatest idols, was taking the bitterest attack of his career.

Johnson took the punishment administered by the Giants' bats grimly, but it was a spectacle to those who recalled his greatness over nearly a score of years and his valiant struggle to reach the door that led to glory for him when he knocked. Yet probably on one realized the tragedy of it all more keenly than Johnson himself, when after "Goose" Goslin's third home run of the series had revived the Senators in the eighth inning, the Giants' pitcher, who had pitched for three runs and removed the last uncertainty over the outcome.

Share in Barrage.

Every Giant except "Hack" Wilson, shared in the barrage of hits that whistled past Johnson and had it not been for two double plays that checked the Giants in the midst of rallies the margin of victory would have been much greater.

The first of these double killings came in the third inning after the Giants had tallied once and retired the bases with one out. Jackson stretched an infield hit to Miller and scored on singles by Bentley and Lindstrom after Gowdy fanned. Miller's failure to touch third for a force out Frisch's bounder to Bludge, filled the bags, but Ross Young lined to Rice and Bentley, due largely to poor base running, was doubled at the plate on a relay throw by Johnson.

Again in the fifth after Bentley's homer had brought in Gowdy the Giants were halted by fast fielding. With Lindstrom out Frisch got a double on a Texas leaguer to right center and Young was hit on the knee by a pitched ball, but Kelly hit into a double play via Bludge, Harris and Judge.

Little Headway.

Meanwhile the Senators were making little headway against the southpaw shots of Bentley, although they threw away good chances to score in both the second and third innings before finally breaking through for a run in the fourth on Judge's single, a sacrifice by Bludge, infield out and Miller's single.

In the sixth Goslin registered his sixth straight hit when he beat out an infield blow, was forced by Bludge and Ruel walked, but Miller failed in the pinch. Three hits failed to produce runs in the third. Johnson's hard single to left was wasted when he ran over first and was caught on the return to the infield. It was a particularly bad break because McNelly and Harris followed with hits, only to be stranded by two or the club's heavy artillery, Rice and Goslin.

Encouraged by his home run blow, Bentley improved as the game wore on, allowing only one hit in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings and retiring the side on strikes in the sixth, including Goslin. But the "Goose" had his revenge in the eighth when his home run, followed by Judge's single, drove Bentley from the mound in favor of McQuillan, right hander, who held the Senators scoreless for the rest of the game.

But when Goslin's homer put the Senators within striking distance of the lead, the Giants fell on Johnson in the half of the eighth for the final, clinching attack. Singles by Kelly, McQuillan and Lindstrom, Jackson's sacrifice fly and a pass to Terry figured in their three runs.

Under this terrific bombardment it seemed foolhardy for Manager "Bucky" Harris to keep Johnson in the game, the outcome of which meant so much to the Senators' championship hopes, but the young Washington pilot apparently was willing to accept defeat rather than mar the climax of the veteran's last stand by taking him from the box.

In Johnson's declaration after the game that he may retire from the game next season for all time, may lie the real reason for keeping him to the last. If it was to be the veteran's final battle, he wanted to be on the firing line to the last, even in the face of crushing defeat.

Johnson's famous fast ball, which had forced the Giants to ball bitterly contested innings before they won, the opening game, held no terrors today. The National league champions pounded "Barney" for 13 safe blows and bunched three of them in each of the third, fifth and eighth innings when they did all their scoring.

"Goose" Tim "Babe" Jank Bentley, southpaw star, opposed Johnson and held the Senators to one run until the eighth inning when he left under an outbreak that was started by Goslin's homer, a blow that gave the slugging "Goose" a tie with Babe Ruth for the greatest number of circuit outs made in a single series.

But before Bentley left the game his own bat gave the Giants a lead they held to the finish. He caught one of Johnson's curves in the fifth inning for a towering home run into the upper tier of the right field stands, scoring Hank Gowdy ahead of him. This proved the deciding punch of the game, although the Giants came back in the eighth with a three run rally that clinched their victory.

Lindstrom Stands Out

Bentley's was the crucial blow, but the most dynamic figure in the Giant attack was Freddy Lindstrom, 18-year-old Chicago school boy who was in the cradle when Johnson first broke into the big league in 1900. Lindstrom, who took the place of the veteran Heinie Groh, at third base, when the latter was injured, smashed out four hits in five times at bat. He drove in two runs, sparked in the field and established himself as one of the greatest sensations of the series.

OLD PARTIES DO NOT REPRESENT THE PEOPLE ASSERTS LAFOLLETTE

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Calling for new political alignment in the United States, Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent candidate for president declared in an address here tonight that the republican and democratic parties no longer represent the convictions and purposes of the honest conservative than they do those of the genuine progressive.

I deny that our government as it exists today is representative of the people of the United States. I challenge Calvin Coolidge, I challenge every defender of things as they are to refute that assertion. Those who now control the government at Washington do not represent the people of the United States, but those who exploit the people."

NELSON 'ANSWERS' ROADS

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—The statement recently issued by presidents of five western railways charging "reckless misrepresentation of the railroads by the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign handbook is at a par with the attack on the progressive candidates and platforms which was made at the convention of the American Bankers' association, last week," John M. Nelson, LaFollette national campaign manager declared today in a statement. "Both these occurrences," he added, "indicate how greatly alarmed the big business interests are about the prospect of success of the independent progressive candidates."

RED CROSS NOT CHARITY AFFAIR

Manager of Washington Division Warns Against Coalitions With Federations.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—A warning against lowering the efficiency of the Red Cross by coalition with local financial community chest federations was given today in an address by J. Arthur Jeffers, manager of the Washington division, at the society's convention here. He emphasized that the Red Cross was a membership movement and that financial federations might weaken the potential membership of the society unless the Red Cross officers pointed out to chest officials that membership as well as money, was necessary to the welfare of the Red Cross.

Since the Red Cross must be the first organization to respond in case of disaster, being the official organ of the government, he said that "it is imperative that this national and international work receive the careful consideration of every financial federation which Red Cross chapters join as a means of financing their work."

A resolution calling for a definite national policy towards financial federations was referred to the central committee for a report to be submitted to the next annual convention.

Among Distinguished Visitors at Sessions Here.

Delegates representing all of the Presbyterian churches of the Kootenai presbytery which includes Pocatello and Twin Falls arrived here Wednesday to attend a session of the Kootenai presbytery immediately preceding the opening Thursday evening of the sixteenth annual meeting of the Presbyterian synod of Idaho, which will continue for four days and in which Boise, Twin Falls and Kootenai presbyteries will participate. It is expected that at least 150 persons will attend the sessions of the synod and the synodical society, the latter organization being composed of women of the church.

Entertainment Plans Completed.
Presbyterians of Twin Falls have completed arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors, who will be provided with lodging and breakfast in homes of members of the local church. Luncheon and dinner will be served each day in the church parlors both for the visitors and members of the local church.

The visitors will be taken Friday afternoon for automobile rides to near by points of interest. Special music for the sessions has been arranged by James S. Hall. A banquet will be served Saturday evening in connection with a social hour for young people.

Invitation is extended to the general public to attend all sessions both of the synod and the synodical society.

Many Distinguished Leaders.

Members of the general board of the church and missionaries in foreign fields who will attend and take part in the sessions of the synod include Dr. Henry M. McNeely, secretary, board of foreign missions; the Rev. Paul G. Stevens of Los Angeles, secretary, board of national missions; the Rev. Grover C. Birchett, missionary to Colombia; Miss Margaret Hodge, of New York, president of the board of foreign missions.

Opening Session.

The Rev. Jesse H. Baird of Boise, retiring moderator, at the opening session of the synod this evening will deliver the moderator's sermon. He has announced as his subject, "One Basis for Optimism." Thereafter, following the constitution of the synod with prayer, the following officers are to be elected: Moderator, stated clerk, permanent clerk and temporary clerk. The Rev. G. William Barnum of Pocatello, stated clerk, will present the welcome and the Rev. Arthur G. Pearson of Twin Falls, will submit the report of the committee on arrangements.

Interpreted with addresses of visiting officials and routine business during the sessions, reports of the several synodical committees will be submitted, one by a special committee on legislation regarding Sabbath observance to be submitted Saturday morning by Rolling Elder Harry S. Kessler.

College Head to Report.

Saturday morning is to be devoted to an educational conference at which Dr. William J. Boone will submit the report of the president of the College of Idaho, and representatives in the Idaho council of religious education will be elected.

Synodical superintendent and members of the Idaho home missions council are to be elected during the national missions conference to which Saturday afternoon's session will be devoted.

Devotional Bible study at the opening of the morning sessions each day will be conducted by the Rev. R. Lloyd Roberts of Jerome, who has arranged a series on "Christ the Intimate."

EXPERIMENTS MADE TO PREVENT MALADY

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Experiments which are hoped to be of of importance in the study of the fatal human sleeping sickness of Africa are being carried out by W. H. Talliaferro of the University of Chicago. Working with rats infected with parasites closely related to those causing African sleeping sickness, Dr. Talliaferro finds that rats produce immune bodies in their blood which render the parasites harmless.

Whether such immune bodies can be developed in the human sickness is the next step. Dr. Talliaferro explains, after which some serum that will remedy the disease in humans may be developed.

What the World Is Doing

Automobile Replaces Royal Coach for Maharajah in India

Mounted on a chassis that has a wheelbase of 178 inches, one of the world's most luxurious automobiles has been delivered to the Maharajah of Alwar. It is designed after the pattern of the formal horse-drawn landau used by the ruler and takes its place as a state coach.

The body seats four persons and is suspended on Ceyrings, the lower extremities of which are continued to meet the underside of the carriage and thus prevent excessive swing or rolling while giving complete isolation from road shocks and bumps.

There is said to be no sense of mechanical propulsion, the feeling being more that of floating than of riding on wheels. Four side lamps are lighted by electricity.

Hole Ten Miles Deep is Suggested to Utilize Earth's Heat

Utilization of the internal heat of the earth as a source of power is worth undertaking as an international scientific enterprise, according to E. W. Washburn, secretary of the board of directors of the General Electric company, at the meeting of the World Power conference in London. He suggested the boring of a great hole, ten or twelve miles deep, in some convenient or suitable place to use this heat.

The cost of this experiment, he said, would be trivial compared with the value of the possible information which might be gained by the investigation into this unexplored region of the earth.

Making Use of the Shark

Formerly regarded as an undesirable inhabitant of the deep, feared when alive and useless when dead, the shark lately has come into esteem in commercial circles. Oil from its liver is said to have the same medicinal qualities as that from the cod, shark-fin soup is appreciated by the Chinese and its eyes, after they have been boiled and treated with a special residue which forms a sort of opalescent substance for making ornaments and jewelry.

The outer skin is used for polishing hardwoods and ivory, while the inner layers are tanned into scabbard leather of different shades and qualities. It is practically waterproof and does not crack, and is being employed extensively in the manufacture of purses, traveling bags and belts.

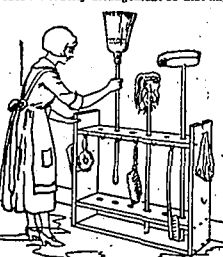

An eastern room fan has made use of a 25-foot "man eater" in a novel way by utilizing its head as a loud speaker for his roving act.

A Broom and Brush Holder for the Kitchen Porch

Brooms and brushes are usually set up in a corner on the porch when not in use, but this causes the bristles or hairs to bend over permanently, which greatly impairs the usefulness of these articles. This can be prevented by providing a brush and broom holder of the kind shown in the drawing.

This holder adds considerably to the neat appearance of the porch and provides an orderly arrangement so that any brush, broom or mop can instantly be found, when needed. The construction of this holder is clearly shown in the drawing. It is made of 1/2-in. boards about 8 in. wide. The length should be about 3 ft. and the height about the same.

A number of holes are drilled through the two sides, from the upper edge, being directly above those in the lower shelf, permitting the handles of brooms to be set up vertically. Hooks, driven into the edge of the shelves and sides as indicated, hold the smaller brushes.

Oil or vasoline, rubbed on the hands before starting a dirty job, will keep the dirt off of the pores, and enable the hands to be cleaned much more easily afterward.

CHOOSING TIMBER.

Who are the sharpest critics of incumbent public officials? Who lead in furnishing prejudicial feeling against those who are in office?

It is usually the man or group of men who are themselves seeking office or political power.

As we hear in the heat of the campaign adverse criticisms against those who hold office, let us ask ourselves as good citizens, "What do I actually know about the situation, and what has been the record for service of those who seek my endorsement?"

We owe such a situation careful analysis.

Outstanding in the state campaign is the fact that the rather insignificant opposition to Governor Moore and his ticket is founded on the very smallest of points. The Governor's opponents are dealing in insignificant issues. They have not produced one solitary, well-grounded, reasonable fact, why he and his ticket should not be approved. The whole gamut of ridiculous assertions, from "represents Wall street," to "pseudo-farmer," has been tried, but not once has there been raised a concrete statement that the Chief Executive lacked in honesty, courage, patriotic impulse, devotion to principles for which he has stood, or that he has deviated from his purpose to be a just executor for all classes. The significance in this is that the election of a State ticket in Idaho should be based upon something bigger than the mere calling of names.

INVESTMENT EDUCATION.
The Investment Bankers' Association of America has decided to embark upon a tremendous advertising campaign costing approximately a quarter of a million dollars. By this means the bankers hope to make more widely known the difference between good and bad securities and the value of sound investments. It is to be a campaign of education against the fake promoter.

The carping critic may say, truly enough, that the bankers stand to gain largely from this campaign and that it is therefore not a wholly altruistic plan. But what of it? If the bankers plan by attracting more patrons to their banks and to the sound investments they offer, the patrons gain, too. If one has one thousand dollars to invest, how much better to spend it through safe and honest channels where both parties to the investment will profit than to send it through unscrupulous channels where only the fake promoter profits.

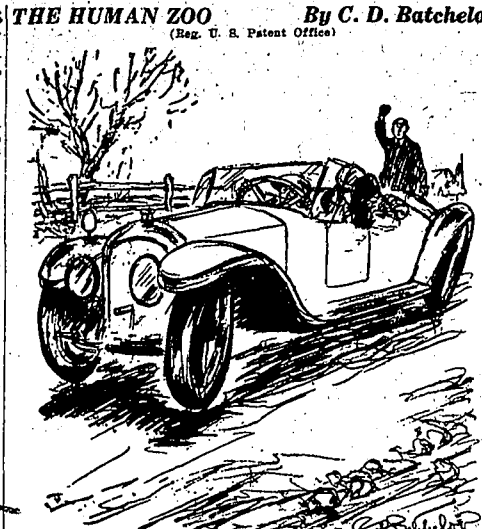

Education of the public in this regard has long been recognized as almost the only way to protect the gullible through from their own foolishness. Federal authorities have pointed out again and again that postal officials are handicapped in dealing with fraudulent schemes to get people's money because often they can not detect the fraud nor act until after money has been lost and complaint made by the loser. Effective blue sky laws will help a great deal. But they alone can not do the work.

Pay that matter, neither will education and publicity do it. All together, however, should make a big improvement and reduce considerably the five hundred to one thousand million dollars now estimated as lost to the blue sky promoter annually.

THE SABBATH.

"No age has ever been tempted to dissipation of its energies like this rich and complex age of ours," says Henry Churchill King, president of Oberlin College. "No age over needed a more determined and thoughtful use of its Sundays. Even for one day of the week to rid the mind of lesser cares and keep the soul open to the uplifting and refreshing tides of life."

This may be, after all, the best argument there is for old-fashioned Sunday observance. The Sabbath was meant to be literally a "day of rest." There is a story of a pioneer who a century or more ago traveled west from New England, in an ox cart, to settle in the Middle West. It was a long, hard journey, and the other people in the caravan were eager to get ahead. So they kept right on, over Sunday. This particular pioneer decided that he would neither labor himself nor make his ox labor on the Sabbath, so he always made camp on Saturday night and did not start again until Monday morning. And that was the first to reach the new settlement. If that pioneer were living today, he might be beating his competitors in business or professional work or art, by the same procedure, not only winning in the race, but preserving his peace of mind.

"You just missed that pedestrian, Jack."
"Sorry! My oculist told me I needed new glasses."

BORAH THANKS THIRD PARTY FOR ITS FAVOR

TWO DISTRICTS SHARE COST OF BRIDGE REPAIR

Senator, Opening Campaign in Idaho, Voices Appreciation of Nomination by Progressives; to Stay in Party Ranks.

The progressive party in Idaho when it nominated Senator W. E. Borah, republican, for re-election, "understood perfectly that I was a member of the republican party and expected to remain a member of such party," Senator Borah declared Tuesday night at Idaho Falls in a speech that marked the opening of his campaign in this state. "My nomination at the hands of the progressive party," Senator Borah continued, "was generous, unambiguous and free from pledges. Here in this public place I thank them most sincerely. I am greatly honored by their gracious approval. I have no apology for their endorsement; on the other hand, I point to it with the utmost satisfaction."

Prepares Statement.

Senator Borah's statement regarding his own position in the campaign had been prepared in advance of his Idaho Falls speech and a copy was left open by him Monday evening on his way to Idaho Falls. He expects, he stated, to deliver only three or four campaign speeches in Idaho, and intends to make one of these speeches in Twin Falls next week. Thereafter, at the request of Chairman Butler of the republican national committee, he will take an active part in the campaign in Washington, Oregon and California.

"I am not unkind of the feeling upon the part of many of my political opponents," Senator Borah said at Idaho Falls, "that I am unkind of party ties. This feeling arises, I presume, out of the fact that there are times when I vote and express my views out of harmony with the supposed, or temporary, party policies. It would be inaccurate upon my part to apologize for this. I vote and express my views to lead you to expect anything different in the future."

Tells Ambition.

"I would rather have the people of my state believe that I have the courage to vote as I think I ought to vote regardless of passion or party, than to have any office they can give me or help to give me. I would rather have you believe that I am a man who is content against his horde of wreckers, and often in the name of the party, that I would be loyal to the underlying principles of the constitution than I would have you believe that I am a man who would have betrayed you and cheated myself."

"Declaring that 'I believe I can be of vastly greater service to the people of the state—if I am to serve them at all—by remaining in the party,' Senator Borah said that he expected a great party to be always free from extravagance, to be free at all times from those who would use it for sinister or selfish ends, and to be a mirror of the inevitable trend of all things political."

"The men who have compromised, if not betrayed, the republican party, who have sent hundreds of thousands from its fold, who have placed it to fight in a position of defense," the senator declared, "are the men who, while crying 'regular, regular,' have defended Lorrimerism and Newberism, have piled taxes upon the people in order to create wealth for themselves, have tolerated in the departments of government the miserable spawn of broken-down political machines. I expect the first thing that will dynamite the last one of them, if I could. I look upon them as imperiling and humiliating the greatest political party in the annals of political history."

Hillsdale and Twin Falls Highway Commissioners Enter Into Agreement for Re-flooding Hansen Span Over Snake.

Hillsdale highway district and Twin Falls highway district will co-operate in repairing the Hansen bridge spanning the Snake river canyon north of Hansen and connecting the two districts. Decision as to details of the undertaking was reached at a meeting here Saturday afternoon of the commissioners of both districts.

A joint meeting of both boards, it was decided, will be held October 18 in Twin Falls for reception of bids on the work, which will consist mainly in re-flooding of the structure. Engineers estimate that the expense involved in the undertaking will be about $2000. Hillsdale district will pay two-fifths of the expense.

Hillsdale district board members who took part in the meeting here Saturday were J. R. Seelye, L. E. Pool and C. T. Haddock.

Hansen Road Project Put Over.

The Twin Falls district Saturday postponed opening of bids on contract for improvement of two miles of road north and east of Hansen, and decided to open bids on this work at the regular meeting two weeks hence.

The road which it is proposed to improve extends north one mile on the section line east of Hansen and then goes east one mile. Residents affected have contributed more than $500 toward the cost of the improvement.

Contract for 310 yards of gravel on Sebecke avenue north, which is the continuation of Buchanan street in Twin Falls, was awarded by the commissioner to William Harkness, whose bid of $134 was deemed the lowest and best among three bids submitted.

Kret-Wilkinson-Strook Lumber company was awarded the contract for a carload of bridge lumber to be delivered to the district at a cost of $900. b. Twin Falls. Four bids were received.

FINDS IDAHO SENTIMENT STRONG FOR COOLIDGE

Judge E. A. Walters, Returning From Campaign Trip With Congressman Smith, Predicts Republican Triumph.

Prevailing disposition in southeastern Idaho is toward return of President Coolidge to the White House and endorsement of the republican ticket, according to Judge E. A. Walters, who returned Monday from a speaking tour on which he accompanied Congressman Addison T. Smith to Arden, Aberdeen, Blackfoot, Idaho Falls, Rich and Dubois.

In contrast at the polls in Idaho next November, Judge Walters said, seems to lie between the republican and "progressive" parties. In a number of counties, he said, there are no democratic tickets.

Addressing remarks by Congressman Smith and Judge Walters were largely attended and a high degree of interest was manifested. Judge Walters expects to devote another week later in the state of the republican cause.

MINSTREL SEES HIGH MARK FOR AMATEUR SHOWS

Mirth, Melody and Color Distinguish Elks' Offering That Scores Hit With First Night Audience.

Gorgeous costumes, new and pleasing songs, numbers and much really excellent acting with first-class direction combined to render Monday night's, the opening night of the B. P. O. E. Minstrel Frolic, one of the most enjoyable amateur performances ever witnessed in Twin Falls.

In spite of a drizzling rain there were present nearly a hundred guests in the body of the house and but few in the gallery. Applause was frequent throughout the whole performance. The entire show was of a high order of merit and reflects the highest credit upon the B. P. O. E. Minstrel Frolic. The show was well as upon the Elks' lodge under the auspices of which the performance was given.

Old Favorites at Best.
Many of the old-time favorites with Twin Falls audiences were seen and heard at their best. Naturally, some were better than others but the effect of the entire show was highly pleasing and apparently fully appreciated.

The minstrel section of the performance has a right to claim a place in the very front rank of minstrel performances in Twin Falls. The numbers were all well rendered, the comedy was clean and more than usually funny, while the local hits, as ever, were received with salutes of applause. Arthur Beckwith never gave a better performance than his life, with the two Fats, Flynn and Dady, carrying their full share of the job. Bob Logan and Mervyn Rydick were in their usual good form while Lou Herriman, Connie Magel and Carl Edwards gained frequent applause. Many of the songs were well sung and well received. Nelson Hayward, W. P. Mikesell, Bob Logan and Carl Edwards were heard to advantage. Pat Flynn and Douglas Salomon were in splendid voice. Mr. Beckwith's number was on a par with the balance of his performance which secured a clean hit throughout the whole show.

Dance Pretty Feature.
One of the prettiest and most artistic features of the second section was the opening number following the minstrel section. This consisted of a clever and carefully worked out dance which was carried through in splendid shape. Those taking the parts of boys were Helen Fisher, Audrey Brannin, Magdalen Shaefer, Jeroma Krivanek, Vera Wynn, the girls being Flo Cook, Naomi White, Edna White, Marguerite Harrison, Catherine Newman.

Enthusiasm for the Forest, was a more or less spectacular presentation of an Indian romance with a dramatic ending which in turn was relieved by a cleverly adapted touch of comedy at the end. The trials and tribulations of a novel by John, Glen Wilkins, and his colored assistant, Mr. Beckwith, were led into in an unique manner, the two numbers together constituting one of the pleasing features of the show.

Miss Suzanne Taylor, Lem Chapin, Douglas Salomon and Bob Logan had perhaps the most difficult parts of the evening in the Indian romance and all proved fully equal to the demands placed upon them.

Audience Shows Appreciation.

"West Goes East" gave an opportunity for some clever work on the part of Wilkins, Beckwith, Edwards, Nelson Hayward and last, but by no means least, Miss Pauline. Miss Ware, a chorus leader, demonstrated more than usual ability and was warmly applauded as was her entire support in a more than usually difficult musical ensemble effort. Members of the chorus in this number were:

Court dancers—Jeroma Krivanek, Flo Cook, Helen Fisher, Catherine Newman, Naomi White, Edna White, Audrey Brannin, Marguerite Harrison, Vera Wynn, Magdalen Shaefer. Vocal members—L. E. Pool, Helen Gray, Vera Wynn, Douglas Salomon, Glen Wilkins, the girls mentioned, consisted of Bill Stearns, Glen Sears, Wynne Hollenbach, Holman Gray, Pat Brannin, King King, Tom White, Ray Holvig, Carl Hahn, Hector Rydick, Chet Skinner, John Robertson, Ken Krivanek, Leonard Mee, Judson Timm, Lee Logan, Harold Stranley and Edward DeLois. Cap Eick officiated at the piano.

The performance will be given again tonight at the Orpheum. Reservations may be secured at the Majestic Pharmacy.

Beginning of the Button.
The Elizabethan era gave voice to the button and buttonhole, two inventions which did much to revolutionize dress. The button and buttonhole, a product of newwork, which was soon improved by the use of a wooden mold. The brass button is said to have been introduced by a Birmingham merchant in 1650. It took 200 years to perfect the button, which is the cloth upon the covered button. Then an ingenious Dane hit upon the idea of making the button in two parts and clamping together with the cloth.

Disagree Over Dollar Sign.

Writers are not agreed as to the origin of the sign "$" to represent dollars. Some say it came from the letter "S" which after the adoption of the federal constitution were prefixed to the federal currency, and which later, in the hurry of writing, were run into each other. The U being made first and the S over it. The other explanation is that it is a modification of the figure 8, and denotes a piece of eight cents, or the dollar, which formerly was divided into eight parts. It was then designated by the figures 8-S.

Not Human Nature.

It is hard to admire the man who makes a success out of what you gave up in despair.

COMMERCE BODY BACKS WORK ON JABBIDGE ROAD

Designates Committee to Raise Fund Here to Match Subscriptions of Nevada Citizens and Oregon Short Line.

Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors, at a meeting Wednesday evening, authorized appointment of a committee composed of Frank Magol, William Simpson and A. D. Adams to take charge of a campaign to raise in Twin Falls $2500 for co-operation with Nevada citizens who have contributed a similar amount, and the Oregon Short Line, which has contributed $500, for improvement of the road between Twin Falls and Jabbidge, Nevada.

The directors' action in this regard, which followed receipt of reports of the action of the Nevada citizens and the railway company, marked a forward step in a project that was entered upon several months ago, in connection with which a delegation of Twin Falls business men last summer went to Jabbidge for a conference that had immediate results.

Important trade relations with the Jabbidge gold mining center that would be stimulated by betterment of the road have been a principal factor in furtherance of the undertaking.

The meeting was presided over by D. D. Alvord, president of the chamber, and was attended by Directors T. J. Lloyd, E. Hollingsworth, W. T. Leslie, Kenneth Beach, J. E. White, C. E. Lind and D. L. Alexander.

TALKS PLAN FOR TEXTILE CENTER

Wool Growers' Secretary Tells Rotarians Conditions Favor Manufacture Here.

The possibilities of a wool manufacturing plant in Twin Falls similar to those at Provo, Utah, and Oregon City, Oregon, were dealt with at length by Donald McLean at a regular meeting of the Rotary club on Wednesday. Mr. McLean gave a number of interesting figures tending to show the entire feasibility of the plan. He pointed out that Twin Falls was practically the center of the sheep and wool industry of the west. Sixty-five per cent of the total wool crop of the country is produced in the west, according to Mr. McLean, and 75 per cent of that is grown in Idaho and the immediate surrounding states.

Only about 35 per cent of the raw Idaho wool which is now shipped out of this section for manufacture consists of wool, the balance being grease and dirt upon which the shipper pays the freight across the country. The importance of geographical location with respect to raw products from the standpoint of manufacturing was discussed at length, investigation tending to show that the most important factors in the growth of any section in a manufacturing sense being the proximity of that section to the raw material area of production.
