WIND STORM AT OMAHA DAMAGES MANY BUILDINGS

Crowds at Race Track Rush Madly Into Open Field as Cyclone Shaped Clouds Sweep Down; Several Injured.

OMAHA, Neb., June 3 (AP)—Several persons were injured, some seriously, many houses were blown from their foundations and large property damage caused by a heavy wind storm which struck Omaha today.

Several of the houses were blown down in the outlying sections. Hundreds of persons at the A-K-Bar race track were almost panic-stricken when the storm swept through the grand stand. A heavy hail storm and rain followed the high blow.

Scars of race fans show themselves face downward in a field of mud when two cyclone shaped clouds approached the grandstands, bringing with them a high wind.

Rain in Sheets The rain fell in heavy sheets and those people who were here in the spring of 1912 when a cyclone struck the city killing over a hundred persons, evidently feared a repetition of the disaster. Running from the stands the crowds raced for the open fields where they lay in deep mud with the rain pouring down upon them.

A curtain darkness was thrown over the city about 4 p. m. but it soon lifted.

Bathing Beauties Instead of a colorful procession of crack drill teams and bands, Broadway saw its first bathing beauty parade in the form of tubs, fat and thin, short and tall, who having a flexible sense of humor, are bathing beauties.

Red bathing caps replaced the fez. Some pulled top hats through the puddles; others fished from the curb and still others carried umbrellas bearing the legend "This is very unusual."

CHINESE RIOTS CAUSE CONCERN IN WASHINGTON

Trouble Started by Students in Shanghai Gaining Alarming Proportions, State Department is Informed.

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Conditions at Shanghai were described as "exceedingly serious" in a cablegram received by the state department today from Consul General Cunningham, with indications that the trouble would spread beyond the international settlement at that city.

The municipal officials in the international zone of the city were believed to have conditions well in hand and commercial interests, foreign citizens and individual Chinese were working for the restoration of order there.

Involving 50,000 The consular general estimated that the strike of Chinese workers at the time his message was sent involved probably 50,000 men in addition to the workers in the Shanghai cotton mills where the trouble originated.

All shops in the international settlement remained closed, he said. The message placed the number of American blue jackets landed June 2 to guard the light and power supplies at 200 with an equal Italian force also put ashore. It said two more British cutters were due at Shanghai today.

Wound is Slight The surgeon general reported only a slight wound in the chest of J. G. McMartin, an American volunteer who was the only American thus far known to have been injured during the disturbances at Shanghai.

The Chinese situation has been discussed by Secretary William and Secretary Kellogg. It was indicated today by Mr. Wilbur that, as a general policy heavy rollbacks is placed upon the judgment and discretion of rear Admiral Washington, commanding the Asiatic fleet.

According to records of the navy department there were today at Shanghai the gunboats El Cano and Villalobos, the minesweepers Pungolo and the destroyers Pope, Truxtun, Pillsbury, Stewart and Asheville.

SHANGHAI QUERT SHANGHAI, June 4 (AP)—The city was quiet this morning after five days of excitement caused by the riots of students protesting against the prosecution of strikers in Japanese cotton mills and their clashes with defense forces which were maintaining order. The strike, however, appears to be spreading.

The food control committee has announced that there is no need for hoarding, as sufficient supplies for the city are available.

AMERICA PRAISED FOR PART IN WAR

French Ambassador to United States Principal Speaker at Kentucky Celebration.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 3 (AP)—America's action in going to the aid of France during the world war without asking beforehand for any special privileges and recognition is the honor of France's support of the American revolution in 1778, Emil Cavert, French ambassador to the United States, said here tonight at the celebration of the centenary of Lafayette's last visit to America.

This similarity of action, he declared was a new proof of the common way of feeling the French and American people have about the way to behave in life and should maintain and foster more and more the feeling of friendship for each other especially since peace has been restored and there are no causes for antagonism.

The ambassador asserted that France "is now a new nation, in exchange for the help she extended to struggling nations."

NEW AIR ERA AT AMERICA'S DOOR

Chief of Army Aerial Service Sees Dawn of Commercial Transportation in U. S.

CHICAGO, June 3 (AP)—America is at the dawn of a new era of air transportation, Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of her army air service told the Chicago association of Commerce today.

"Everywhere people are preparing for it," said General Patrick. The fact that Henry Ford has started an air line has focused attention on it. The federal government must map air routes and must speedily enact legislation for the air. Flying must be federally controlled as navigation in planes must be inspected and pilots licensed.

"Communists maintain police forces to insure themselves against certain losses. Armies are maintained for the same purpose and should be maintained at minimum cost, but with up to date equipment. I still hold that a plane can sink any surface craft that has not been designed. The army should have a reservoir of commercial planes and pilots to draw on."

Each a Soldier "We do not believe in, or wish to bear the expense to maintain large standing military forces," he said.

Believes in Preparedness Exceeding his belief in military preparedness, the president declared this was not "a sufficient guarantee of national or international peace. The navy, he said, must serve as an instrument of righteousness, as well as an arm of defense.

If we are to promote peace on earth," he emphasized, "we must have a great deal more than the power of the sword. We must fall into action the spiritual and moral forces of mankind."

Reduction of the standing military forces to a minimum, he declared is dependent on the attention every citizen gives to defense.

Witness for the Defense The chief justice worked indefatigably to the point that Shepherd was indicted and is now being tried.

No progress was made today in obtaining a jury to hear the case. The court will permit A. Ross Hoyt the first juror selected nearly three weeks ago, to attend a funeral. Along with Hoyt the other eleven men who occupied the jury box with him including three jurors and two veniremen temporary jurors.

Two new figures entered the case today, Judge Claude L. Chambers of the court here and Harry E. Rodgers, Grand Juror, Michigan attorney representing Bert Eaton, one of the McClintock cousins, fighting to break the court here and to have the case taken to the federal court in Chicago.

The jury reached its decision after deliberating for about three hours. It took the case at 4:25 P. M., divided 6 to 5 in an announced its readiness to report at 8:25. The verdict was read in court at 8:40 o'clock.

Seven ballots were taken according to R. D. Underwood of Lake City, Minn., foreman. The first four ballots were for the defendant and three for the plaintiff. On the fifth ballot the count switched to 11 to 1 in favor of the plaintiff.

Some of the remaining jurors, such as the seventh ballid to 11 to 1.

JOYS OF OCEAN TRAVEL ARE SET OUT IN VERSE BY FORMER LOCAL MAN

Under the impetus provided by the discomfort of ocean travel, Judge Frank E. Chamberlain, well known as a resident of this section for many years, writes "The Waves" enclosing a poem apparently selected as best in delecting his state of mind during the passage.

The verse follows, together with the introductory caption, "Written in moments of anguish on board the steamer Deutschland in the Gulf Stream, 748 miles from New York, May 10-11." Roll on thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll, Ten thousand lackless mortals are giving up their mite To swell thine already dangerous bulk. Thy turbulent and ceaseless swell e'er draws the last poor tribute from suffering wights; Thy very rugg'd and o'erweening strength Draw the unhappy traveler to the ship's rail There to offer up to thine insatiable maw The last poor remnant of his inner consciousness.

PROVE UNDOING OF WANTED MAN

Ernest Tadlock, Professed Participant in Hazelton Bank Robbery 18 Months Ago, Is Captured at Burley.

Ernest Tadlock, 25, for whom $500 reward is said to be offered in Nevada and who is alleged to have assisted in the Hazelton bank robbery, participants in the robbery of the Hazelton bank from which about $5000 was taken by robbers November 18, 1923, was arrested Wednesday evening at Burley by Sheriff Steve Mahoney of Cassia county, according to word received by the sheriff's office here.

Authorities here had not been advised Wednesday evening regarding the supposed offense for which Tadlock was wanted in Nevada.

Tadlock with a companion arrived in Twin Falls Tuesday afternoon from Wells, Nevada, and was introduced by his companion to G. C. Bell of this city, who was purported to take Tadlock in his car to a point 15 miles east of here, where Tadlock asserted he expected to recover a cash of $2500 which, he told Bell, was his share of the money stolen from the Hazelton bank.

The cash, Tadlock stated, was in a crevice about 15 feet back from the rimrock and a certain distance from a large ant hill.

Bell gives information search for the cache was made after dark in a drilling rain and after some time Tadlock induced Bell to return to Twin Falls, stating that he himself would continue the search and meet Bell in the morning in the vicinity of the supposed cache.

Before setting out with Tadlock Tuesday evening, Bell conferred with the sheriff here and it was agreed that he should take Tadlock to the supposed cache in view of possibility that the money might be recovered to be used as evidence in prosecution of Tadlock for robbery of the Hazelton bank. It was also agreed that information given by Bell led directly to Tadlock's arrest at Burley.

First negotiations between Tadlock and Bell were carried on through Tadlock's companion who Bell had known in Nevada while engaged in road construction in that state.

Tells Detailed Story.

Tadlock, according to Bell, told a detailed story of his supposed part in the Hazelton robbery which included Russell Smith and Roy Smith of Burley, and James E. Rivermate of Aberdeen, who he said had been in the district court in July of last year.

The men took part in the robbery, Tadlock said, himself and one other talking the principal part and dividing the loot. The other man, Tadlock said, took his share of the money and escaped to Montana.

Tadlock was suspected, he said, and partners were close on his trail when he decided to cache his share of the money. Thereafter, he said, he went to his father's home which he said was in Hazelton, but which authorities here say is at Oakley, and provided himself with a butcherknife, a loaf of bread and some salt and made his way into Nevada, where he has remained until this time.

Tadlock told Bell nothing of any offense for which he might be wanted in Nevada, but his companion stated that on the road from Wells Tuesday evening the motor stage in which they were riding told Tadlock that he resembled the man for whom a reward had been offered and whose picture and description were posted in the postoffice at Wells.

This circumstance, Tadlock's companion told Bell, caused Tadlock to become apprehensive and when the stage neared Twin Falls he insisted on leaving the stage and reëntering in hiding while his companion negotiated

MAYOR ASHTON TALKS TO CLUB

Twin Falls Executive Tells Rotarians of His Idea on City Government.

The problems of city government in Twin Falls might have been the title to the address of Mayor Edgar L. Ashton before the Rotary club at the regular weekly meeting held Wednesday night. Mayor Ashton spoke at length, with detailed reference to a number of questions before mayor and council. He made an earnest plea for co-operation in the work of enforcing the laws and making Twin Falls a better place to live and did not mince words in his summing up of some of the graver aspects of local conditions with respect to the young men and women of this city.

The mayor's remarks were frequently interrupted by applause and upon conclusion his hearers signified their warm approval of his views as outlined.

The mayor advocated the disposal of a part of their garbage by householders by means of burning, stating that it was not possible for the city to haul away everything which people saw fit to dispose of by combustion to the fillys. He told the club members that firecrackers would not be sold in Twin Falls nor would their use be permitted except with certain restrictions on the Fourth of July. He pointed out the difficulty of enforcing such a law because of the fact that these were sold and used freely in adjoining towns and expressed his intention of endeavoring to secure a similar regulation in these towns, in the interests of safety to life and limb among all.

He declared that altogether too many young people, boys and girls in Twin Falls were in need of a strong restraining influence if the advantage of a blameless life were to continue to theirs and urged his hearers to assist in the work of keeping Twin Falls clean, morally and in every other way. He promised a rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws in so far as this lay within the power of the administration.

Dr. A. A. Lowrey of Filer, who has recently opened offices in Twin Falls, was the guest of Homer J. Weaver. Nelson Hayward rendered a number of vocal selections, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. D. L. Alexander, which were highly enjoyed.

TWIN FALLS

Half the town was cheering as he rode to breakfast

"THE streets were lined with cheering people as the procession moved to the historic hotel"—this is how the southern newspapers years ago pictured the arrival of President McKinley in Nashville. Breakfast at the Maxwell House was the first big event of the day. At this fine, old southern hotel, long celebrated throughout all Dixie for its delicious food, Mr. McKinley drank the coffee that has brought it the greatest fame of all. The news of its coffee, a special blend wonderfully full-flavored and mellow, has gradually spread to all parts of the country. Today, blended and roasted in just the same way, this same coffee is on sale in sealed tins. Your own family can enjoy the rare flavor and fragrance that first won fame in the old South years ago. Ask your grocer for one of the blue tins of Maxwell House Coffee.
