BORAH SCORES ACTIVITIES OF FARM RELIEF LEADERS

 lation's "political objectives" and urged orderly, co-operative marketing as the best solution for agriculture's economic ills.

His opposition to the world court was based upon what he declared to be the deliberate attempt to pull the United States into the league of nations through the medium of the world court. That the American taxpayer has borne his share of the world war burden, and that war debts of the United States are the property of the taxpayer, were factors urged by Senator Borah in his continued advocacy against cancellation of war debts.

PERLINE AND BOGERTSON HOTELS

"ZAMLOCH DAY" AT PARK WILL INCLUDE PROGRAM OF STUNTS

Today is Zamloch day at the ball park. The local directors have designated this day in honor of the Brain skipper. A program of field events has been arranged for members of the two ball teams with appropriate prizes for the winners.

The man who can circle the bases in the fastest time will be awarded one prize while the longest thrower will decide another event. The man who can hunt and get to first in the least time will also come in for a prize. And the two throwing contests are for the most accurate heave and the longest heave.

The two clubs are half way through a six game series and the Collegians have taken the first three games and the Bruins will have to take the next two games to break even in the series. The first games have been tight and well worth watching, the last two going to outings. The field events will start promptly at 3 p. m. It is not a ladies' day.

FOUL BALLS

That's about the most ball games the Bruins ever lost in a row. And they have all been fool games. The last two have gone 10 innings and the Bruins just didn't have the punch.

Too many stars out there yesterday. Phil Apperson got back in the headlines with two beautiful catches. Man it was worth the price to see him and that one off the fence.

Then King decided that hitting third in the league was not enough publicly so he snared a one-handed one off his shoe tops.

And then Eddie Gorman got into action and made a beautiful home run for a foul and mared it. Then Kunz robbed Thompson of a hit with a beautiful stop of Pete's seeming single over second.

And then we lost it. The Logan jinx has followed the Bruins since the opening day. The last time the Collegians were here they did all the most same thing.

The Collegians get more sacrifice hits than any team that has been seen on the local lot. Eight yesterday and five the day before. They get their runs in pairs.

This boy Schinski is quite a ball player. It's been our ambition all is expected from the 50,000 to 60,000 acres planted. Farmers from Idaho to the west are making a record of water and very satisfactory average returns are expected.

CROPS PROMISE AVERAGE YIELD, SURVEY REVEALS

"Timely rains in non-irrigated sections have worked off the surplus of short crops, due to the dry situation in the spring. June rains in the northern Idaho dry farming sections have given the full grain crop, spring seeded cereals, peas, alfalfa, sweet clover and grasses. Eastern dry farm lands did not receive rains until late but most of these lands will yield normal or better than normal crops, although in some instances, where rains came too late, yields will be anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent of normal.

"Cattle ranches, now having an important factor in farm production, are growing good crops this year. The livestock industry is in a favorable situation, with but little of the disturbing factor. Spring lambing percentages were high and returns from hams shipped to eastern markets were satisfactory. Hogs have brought good prices to the extent that expansion of the industry has resumed. The poultry and dairy industry are showing continued growth where they are the steadied source of income in many sections.

While the president and his secretary of state have not discussed the possibility of a conference with Canadian officials looking to a strengthening by joint action of the administration prohibition enforcement and anti-smuggling machinery along the Canadian border, it was indicated today that some such conference probably would be sought before long.

FAMOUS STORY FILMED

"Ransom's Folly," the new First National picture starring Richard Dix, is an adaptation of the famous story by Richard Harding Davis. On the stage, Lieutenant Ransom was originally played by Robert Edson, who also starred in "Classmates," which was later done by Barthelmew on the screen. The picture was directed by Sidney Olcott from the screen adaptation of Lillie Hayward. Dorothy Mackall plays opposite the star. At the Orpheum.

AT THE IDAHO

The tallest and the shortest comedians in pictures provide many laughs in "Chip of the Flying U." Eddie Gibson is in a starring production for Universal, which comes to the Idaho theatre today. The tallest is Mark Hamilton, who plays comedy roles in many feature productions. He is six feet and six inches tall. "Pee Wee" Holmes, star of Universal's latest western comedies, was Hamilton's buddy in the picture, drawing up to his majestic height of five feet and three inches. Both are skilled comedians, and give Gibson excellent support in the many humorous scenes in the picture.

QUAKER TOWN BOUT ASSURED

Rickard Meets With Philadelphia Officials and Completes Arrangements for Tilt.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Arrangements for the world's heavyweight title bout between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney at the Seaside Athletic stadium September 23, were completed today. A conference among Dick Rickard, New York promoter; J. A. Antonino, Philadelphia associate; Mayor Kendrick, officials of the Pennsylvania athletic commission, and members of the Pennsylvania athletic commission.

Under the law, it will be ten rounds to a decision. Two judges and a referee are authorized to give decisions. In the event that the bout goes the limit, and the decision is against Dempsey, he would lose the championship. The referee must first hand in his decision. The decision of the judges is then received, and if they fail to agree the verdict of the referee decides the issue.

Battle of Century.

"Characterizing the fight as the battle of the century, Rickard said it would draw a crowd of more than 150,000 and that the gate receipts would be in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. He said the price for the seats would range from $27.50, and that the tickets would be placed on sale next Monday. The New York promoter said he had already posted $100,000 in two checks of $50,000 each, one with the boxing commission, and the other with the Seaside Athletic management, to guarantee the holding of the fight.

"The Dempsey-Tunney fight," said Rickard, "will draw the largest gate in the history of boxing at any other kind of sport. The crowd will far exceed the 90,000 who saw the Carpenter-Dempsey fight.

"A tour of inspection of the stadium and a luncheon with Mayor Kendrick and others, Mr. Rickard returned to New York, speaking at the luncheon. He says he was greatly pleased that the fight would be held here in conjunction with the Seaside centennial, the greatest exhibition ever staged."

Exposition to Fight.

E. L. Austin, director general of the Seaside centennial, said the exposition would receive the benefit of the gate receipts after taxes had been paid, and that the Seaside management had a minimum guarantee of $100,000.

Approval of the proposed bout was given by the state athletic commission by a vote of 2 to 1. Charles Fred White, state member, refusing to give his sanction, asserting that Dempsey should "first" be compelled to defend his title against Harry Wells.

Indications tonight were that the proposed bout would meet vigorous opposition from church organizations and other religious bodies, although no formal statements were issued. Governor Pritchard announced the state administration would interpose no objection on the theory that since boxing was legal in Pennsylvania, a championship match was no different from any other event. It will be the first heavy weight championship contest ever held here.

Indiana Burned Coal

Coal, as the advertisement says, may answer the burning question, but here is an oddity about coal known to few, remarks "Gerard" in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Results traveling westward through Canada as early as 1800, he found Indians burning coal instead of wood. In "The Jesuit Relations," edited by Edna Keeton, I discover the earliest record of coal as a fuel anywhere in America.

Describing the "Pondichy" nation, which was a fierce and warlike people, the Jesuits made this observation:

"The wood is heavy in supply and small in size in their country, nature has taught them to make fire with coal from the earth."

TIGER FLOWERS RETAINS MIDDLE WEIGHT CROWN; GETS JUDGES' DECISION

was punctuated with rough and tumble battling from start to finish. A crowd of 15,000 saw the fight. Flowers weighed 154 and Greb 150.

Round One—Greb was the first to land, leaning a left to the body but taking a counter to the head. Greb rushed Flowers along the ropes and they mixed in at a fast pace. Greb connected with a right to the head. Harry rushed the champion to the ropes and the crowd was in no error. At close quarters Flowers pounded Greb's body. They exchanged lefts to the stomach and Flowers connected with a vicious left hook to the ribs. The Tiger was set back on his heels by two lefts to the jaw and they were in a wild mixup at the bell.

Round Two—Greb jumped in with a left to the body. They clinched and slugged away with both fists. Both were wild with their rights, but the Tiger connected with a left hook to the body and sent Greb to the ropes. Flowers ducked a vicious right swing but took a glancing left to the jaw. Greb connected with a right to the chin. Greb pounded the champion to the ropes. Greb was punching the champion's body at the bell.

Round Three—Flowers met Greb coming out of his corner and landed both fists to the body. The referee struggled to tear them apart from a clinch in which the champion pummeled Greb severely. The Tiger hooked his left to Greb's jaw, and followed with a smashing left to the head. Greb was turned away from the negro's furious attack. Flowers turned completely around after taking a right to the nose. Greb was wild with a right that glanced off the champion's chin and danced away from the Tiger's counter rush just before the bell.

Round Four—Greb shot a straight right to the jaw but took four wallops to the head in return. They mixed away at close quarters, Greb with the champion out-reaching, the challenger at his own game. Flowers had a tattoo on Greb's ribs. Harry sparred and danced away from the Tiger's attack, occasionally leaping in to swing for the jaw. He laced Flowers with two straight rights to the head, one of which started a flow of blood from the champion's mouth. They were punning away when the bell sounded.

Round Five—Greb complained of holding by the champion but the Tiger countered with a request for Harry to come in and fight. Greb took a right to the chin and a two-fisted pounding in the stomach as they rushed together. Flowers complained that Greb stuck his finger in his eye. Greb missed a straight right and Flowers blocked a left. Flowers crashed a smashing left hook to Greb's stomach. He repeated the punch up against the ropes. Just before the bell the champion took a left hook to the head.

Round Six—As they were wrestling away from a clinch, Flowers stumbled and nearly fell, the ropes saving him from hitting the canvas. Greb followed up with a furious attack, shooting his right to the champion's head and body with a smashing effect. The Tiger mixed willingly and battered the challenger's body. The referee warned Greb for unfair tactics in a clinch. The challenger had opened a cut over the Tiger's nose. Flowers clipped Harry with two wallops to the head just before the round ended.

Round Seven—They started off at a furious pace, both slugging away from the top of the zone. Greb rocked the Tiger with a right swing to the head but took several lefts in return. Greb was wild with his right, Harry's straight right was finding its mark more frequently and slowing up the Tiger's rush. Flowers missed a right to the chest. Greb missed a right just before the bell and then complained to the referee that the champion was holding.

Round Eight—Flowers fought his way out of a clinch, but sat down with a thud as he tripped after bounding back from landing a left to Greb's chin. The champion bounded right up again before Greb could counter. Flowers landed his left to the ribs and drove Greb back to the ropes. The champion took two straight rights to the head, without yielding ground. Flowers took half a dozen blows on his arms and elbows but Greb connected with a right to the chin just before the bell. The challenger blunged after the Tiger to continue the attack and he was checked to his corner by the referee. They were punching away at each other in a hot mixup, exchanging stiff body blows. Both were shooting lefts from all angles but most of them failed to connect. They exchanged smacking lefts to the chin then locked in a clinch. They were punching away at close quarters when the bell sounded.

Round Ten—Flowers hooked his left to the stomach and then danced out of reach. Greb led in with both fists but the champion returned with his attack with a slinging left to the head. The champion landed with both fists heavily to the body but took an uppercut to the jaw in return. Flowers lacked Greb to a corner and punched away with both fists. Greb caught the champion with a backhanded wallop to the head. The bell broke up a wild exchange.

Round Eleven—Greb took a smashing left to the face as he rushed in but countered with a hard right to the head. Both were swinging freely but the Tiger was finding his body attack very effective, forcing Greb to pivot around. Flowers smacked both hands to the head and then hooked Greb's counter swing. Greb was snarling at long-range while backing away from the Tiger's drive when the bell sounded.

Round Twelve—Greb led with a right to the body and was then wrestled to the floor in a clinch. He was on his feet without a count. The Tiger battered Harry's ribs viciously as they came together. Greb was wild but mixed willingly. Greb landed an overhanded right to the head but took a hard left to the body in return. Greb was dying and clinched repeatedly. Just before the bell a left hook opened a cut over Greb's right eye.

Round Thirteen—The referee had difficulty prying them apart from clinches. With cuts over both eyes, Greb answered his opponent as they stumbled and went to his knees as he was pushed from a clinch. The Tiger snarled at Greb on the clinch with vicious chops. Greb swung both fists to the head but missed and took a pounding from Flowers along the ropes. A right to the head staggered Greb just before the bell.

Round Fourteen—Greb took a right to the chest and countered with a left uppercut to the chin. Harry rushed in and connected to the head and body with, telling

Both bubbled around looking for an opening. Flowers nearly fell as they wrestled along the ropes. Flowers hooked his left to the jaw and danced out of range. They crashed together both landing to the body. They were in a furious exchange and had to be pried apart when the bell rang. The Tiger did a hand spring before going to his corner.

Weekly summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho for the week ending Tuesday, August 17, are set forth in a report received here Wednesday from Charles F. Marvin, chief, of the United States department of agriculture weather bureau, whose headquarters are in Boise.

The text of the report follows: "The weather in Idaho the week continued dry and the temperatures moderate throughout the week. Threshing and harvest proceeded without interruption and are about completed in most sections. Head lettuce is coming up well and the work thinning is under way. The harvest of peaches, plums, and pears is in full swing. Melons are being picked and marketed in quantity. Corn is suffering for moisture, particularly in the lower valleys, and other growing crops are badly in need of rain. They cover are being given supplemental feed.

In southwestern Idaho fair and moderately warm weather continues during the week. Cooler nights were the rule during the last few days. All crops are making good progress in sections where irrigation water has been ample. The third crop of alfalfa is being cut in some sections and will soon be ready to cut in others. Threshing continues in all parts of the district. Where water has been restricted, crops are not doing well and in some localities will not be harvested. Ranges continue dry, but stock are doing well.

In southeast Idaho moderate temperatures and cool nights prevailed during the week with light showers in most parts of the district. Harvest is about finished in some sections and threshing is making rapid progress. The second crop of alfalfa is being cut in the sections and the third crop of hay is making good growth. Potatoes are being picked and marketed in quantity. Fruits are doing well. The range is dry, but is somewhat improved by the showers.

Idaho ranks fifth in the United States in the production of wool for 1925, according to statistics compiled by George A. Scott, federal livestock statistician, which are contained in the latest edition of the Wool Growers' Bulletin, the official organ of the Idaho Wool Growers' association.

Texas ranks first in production, having credited with 25,924,000 during the year of 1925. Wyoming is second with 24,125,000 pounds, Montana third with 23,100,000 pounds, Utah fourth with 20,722,000 pounds, Idaho fifth with 19,444,000, Oregon sixth with 18,400,000 and California seventh with 18,180,000.

The report states that the western states showed 1,500,000 more sheep in 1925 than in 1925, and adds that the fleeces were heavier, due to the cold, and other climatic conditions.

OFFICERS FIND LIQUOR CACHE

Harvey Williamson Taken Into Custody for Violation of Dry Laws; Second Offense.

Harvey Williamson was arrested Thursday night at 11:30 o'clock at his residence a short distance from the Fire Points filling station on the state highway, by members of the sheriff's office and Twin Falls city police department. Officers discovered ten quarts, one pint and quarter pint of moonshine whiskey hidden under a false bottom in a colonnade. Williamson was taken into custody and lodged in the county jail, charged with his second offense against the prohibition laws, a felony in Idaho. If convicted, the law prescribes one to fourteen years imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

Deputy sheriffs E. F. Prater, H. E. Davis and C. E. Jones and chief of police R. E. Lightfoot searched the Williamson residence for more than an hour before they finally discovered the cache with its contraband contents. Williamson was convicted nearly three years ago on a similar charge.

SMITH REVIEWS INVESTIGATION OF PARK LINES

Congressman Returns From Trip With Senatorial Investigating Committee; Favors Boundary Changes.

Congressman Addison T. Smith returned Thursday from a trip through the eastern part of the state and the southwest corner of the Yellowstone park with the senatorial committee authorized by the United States senate to consider the advisability of modifying the boundary lines of the park so as to exclude about 12,000 acres upon which it is proposed to construct a reservoir to furnish a supplemental water supply for land in Madison and Jefferson counties, aggregating over 170,000 acres.

"Because of an insufficient water supply in drouth years the farmers in Madison and Jefferson counties lost about $7,000,000 in 1919, over $2,000,000 in 1924 and the loss this year will amount to about $1,500,000," Mr. Smith stated. The text of the report made by Mr. Smith follows:

"The farmers have been endeavoring to secure authority to construct a reservoir at their own expense, in which to store the flood waters of the Beecher river in the southwest corner of the park, and I have initiated legislation to transfer the jurisdiction of the reservoir site from the park to the national forest in order that they may secure a permit from the government to build the reservoir. It will cost the farmers about $1 per acre, which with the water right they now have will furnish them with ample water to mature their crops in drouth years.

"The lands for which the supplemental supply of water is required were visited on Monday in the vicinity of Ashton, St. Anthony and Rexburg. In many instances large fields of grain, peas, sugar beets and potatoes had been abandoned. Some of the canals were dry as early as the fourth of June, and there was evidence of a shortage of crops on every farm we visited.

"On Tuesday an early start brought up to the corner of the park about 10 o'clock, where we abandoned the automobile and made the trip to the reservoir site in wagons. The remainder of the Inspection was made on horseback. "The reservoir will cover about 5,670 acres of low swampy land which until about August 1 cannot be driven over. It is covered with a dense growth of saw grass unfit for stock, and during the winter is covered with snow on an average of six feet in depth, and of course has no scenic value. The outer rim is covered with medium sized pine trees, which probably have no marketable value. We went up the Beecher river to the Colonnade and Iris falls, which will in no manner be disturbed, as they are at least 150 feet higher altitude than the water line of the reservoir and a mile or more to stream.

"The entire day on Wednesday was devoted to a hearing at St. Anthony as to the necessity of the water line, in addition water, and at least 500 farmers were present, many of whom made pathetic pleas to the committee for relief in order that their farms might be made productive. When a vote was taken of supporting the plan to secure legislation to enable them to build a reservoir every one in the vast audience rose as an evidence of their anxiety to secure relief.

"I am an ardent supporter of the national park policy and recognize that the parks are a great asset to the western country. I would not favor any plan to commercialize the parks, or to detract in any manner their beauty and popularity; but as there is a desperate need for the water which is now going to waste, and the land which it is proposed to eliminate has no scenic value, is low and of a swampy character, I have urged the enactment of legislation to eliminate the extreme southwest corner of the park and place it in the national forest. The necessity of saving this water and the urgent need of the farmers for a supplemental supply, which cannot be secured elsewhere, impelled me to exert my best efforts to secure the legislation which will permit its use.

"I cannot understand how anyone can find opposition to the legislation in view of the great economic loss which will inure to any thing of the nature of the problem by several thousand human beings, as well as livestock on these lands.

"The problem has been in controversy for over six years and I am pleased that those who are to determine the matter, so far as the committee on public lands under Senate is concerned, have visited these farms and the reservoir site, and show speak from observation rather than hearsay when congress convenes in December."

The investigating committee consisted of Senator Stanfield, chairman of the committee on public lands; Senators Norbeck of South Dakota, Kendrick of Wyoming, Ashurst of Arizona, Senator C. G. Swendsen, commissioner of reclamation, represented the state and G. Clyde Baldwin of the United States geological survey represented that branch of the federal service. Paul S. A. Bickel, well known as the chief engineer of the Twin Falls project when it was being constructed, represented the irrigation companies who desire the water. Representatives of the chambers of commerce in that locality and the fish and game associations of eastern Idaho also accompanied the committee.

HANSEN BOYS PAROLED DURING GOOD BEHAVIOR

Hudgin here Thursday afternoon. Sentence was suspended during good behavior, and the boys' years noted because of their youth and past record. The youths are alleged to have taken $1 from the till of the Hansen store.

Filmom's Canine Star Is Visitor Here With Master

White Fang and his master called into the Magic city shortly after noon yesterday by motor from Ogden. The famous dog was the lone occupant of the back seat of his master's powerful machine.

The canine celebrity who has won an everlastingly place in the hearts of the boys and girls who have witnessed his work in the silent drama is on his way to Death Valley, California, where he is to begin work in a few weeks under the sweltering rays of a scorching sun.

White Fang, who has just passed his second birthday, is one of the most handsome specimens of the police dog family.
