Heir to Fortune Dies in Poverty ELKO, Nevada, Feb. 2.—John Green, for many years in the employ of the United States government, died Thursday night in Carlin from unknown causes. His body was discovered in a frozen condition in a small cabin on Green's death as a paper carries a story pathetically but exemplifying of the strange change of the law in matters of business.

When a small boy, the Elko Independent says, John Green's mother took him to Carlin. The father had passed away. There the two worked, saved their money and Mrs. Green banked it away in a San Francisco institution, together with funds left by the father the fortune grew to the total sum of twenty thousand dollars. Mrs. Green married a man named Angus, a public set out to drift for himself and the little family drifted apart.

The next news from Mrs. Angus was that she had passed away shortly after the death of her second husband. The United States district court, San Francisco, ordered the executor to contact in the San Francisco bank the message said.

Mrs. Green set about to prove his heirship to the money. The bank's attorneys demanded, through the court handling the fund, that he produce proof of the fact that John and Mrs. Green and ready his mother. He searched every record where ordinary citizens might find the proof but it was not forthcoming.

Although he tried for years to bring evidence to light proving his right to possess the fortune, it was unsuccessful and when he died in Carlin Thursday night he was penniless. The bank will be called upon to pay his funeral expense.

Meanwhile the twenty thousand dollars, gathered together by father, mother and son, remains intact in a San Francisco bank, awaiting the proof that it was John's mother who owned it.

It is well known throughout the country, having followed the range here since the time he was big enough to throw a leg over a saddle.

Prospects for the marketing of butter look better than ever now because of the reduction in the amount of storage butter."

MAIL PILOTS IN NEW PLANES SET RECORD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Speeding up of the government's air mail service by the acquisition of new mail planes has enabled mail pilots to make a number of new records. These new records, if confirmed, would cut down the flying time from coast to coast in 18 hours and 15 minutes, not counting time for stops, changes of planes, or loading. The best actual record for a continuous trip was made on December 14, 1926, from San Francisco to New York, when the flying time was 19 hours and 8 minutes. The elapsed time was 20 hours and 16 minutes.

The best coast to coast time for a non-stop flight was made by Lynn Youngs Kelly and MacBride on May 20, 1925, from coast to coast in 26 hours 20 minutes and 28.2 seconds.

Clash of Opinion Opens Way
For Blow at Potato Industry

Clash of opinion in the Idaho potato industry over compulsory grade and marketing regulations has been made the occasion for broadcasting of highly colored stories that seem calculated to injure the market for the product of this state. The Idaho potato industry is the opinion of many impartial observers, are likely to prove damaging to the potato industry. One of the most extreme of these stories is set forth in an article published in a Los Angeles date published under the caption, "Idaho's Potato Problem." One of the most extreme of these stories is set forth in an article published in a Los Angeles date published under the caption, "Idaho's Potato Problem."

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—"Politics" of the rawest type, may cause Idaho potato growers and shippers to lose a big bunch of coin, reports from Boise state that there is a new class row on the market as the result of the new government firing committee. One of the most extreme of these stories is set forth in an article published in a Los Angeles date published under the caption, "Idaho's Potato Problem."

Commissioner Kjosness, who had been in effect for almost a year, is no favorite. When the growers and dealers called for strict grading rules and worked out a program which suited about 85 per cent of the trade. The Twin Falls bunch, whose Russia are in a class to themselves, the lowest known, so say potato men—enjoy a howl. They managed to get a limitation against the new proposed rules. Following this they brought reasons to bear upon the new governor to fire Kjosness.

Idaho has a potato dealers' association. Its members have worked hard and long to build up a reputation for Idaho tubers. When Commissioner Kjosness gave notice that all Idaho potatoes would have to be branded, practically all of the larger shippers ordered their marks in accordance with what they considered was a fair line. Each one knew that Kjosness had given his closest attention to the subject, and that out of all the tubers in the majority of the trade had, investigated, and then not until he had, investigated every single of the matter.

For Idaho Falls district any potato man will tell you that Twin Falls does not produce a Russet that was a fight to the name of Idaho. In plain English they say that the Twin Falls district does not produce a Russet worth a farmer's while as it is leaving that section billed as Russets are a slant at the fame of the Idaho potato.

The inside details of the political row may come out this week, as the legislature is in session. It is probable that some member will call for all the cards to be put on the table. Governor Blair gave as his reason for asking Kjosness to step down and out that the fight between Kjosness and the Twin Falls bunch had started before he, Blair, came into office. However, he did not care to identify any troubles from the preceding administration. Up in Boise, around the capital, there is talk that Governor Blair had intended to take the side of the political pliers from the tree and hence had found the Kjosness bunch a hard nut to his liking.

Idaho potato dealers say that certain shippers have been buying potatoes which would just buy the top few No. 2 grade and have shipped these out to the South and East on orders for an Idaho stock. They say that this practice has played havoc with the Idaho market, so that Idaho dealers have practically passed up Idaho stock—at least for as long as this sort of juggling is permitted. Kjosness, in his latest report, reported that the No. 2 stock and, in addition, required that the name of the shipper be included in the name of the grade. More than that, he passed the matter on to Washington, with a request that the No. 2 grade be specified as Idaho. If this is done, it will be a set-back on the matter, nor will it probably, as long as the Idaho row continues.

Market Shot To Pieces

In the meantime, Idaho Falls shippers say that the Idaho potato market is all shot to pieces, with little chance for an early comeback. They put the blame directly on the Twin Falls bunch and say that Twin Falls has been the cause of the agricultural market that district. They see no hope for early peace. They say that fully 75 per cent of the growers and dealers in the Twin Falls district are in accord with the program that Kjosness inaugurated, particularly that part which required the branding of sacks with a name of shipper and grade. So far as tightening the No. 2 grade and making a lower or commercial grade, the Twin Falls dealers are also in accord with that program.

Governor Blair is quoted by the Idaho papers as suggesting that it is unwise to have one grade, No. 2, and only potatoes coming to that grade packed in branded sacks. He has asked the Twin Falls dealers and growers on one side and the Twin Falls bunch on the other to simply a family feud, which means nothing in his eye. The quicker a solution was to fire Kjosness and to put in Welch.

Latest Idaho Falls quotations show 1 1/2 No. 1 Russets, with light lightings on account of weather, market firm and demand moderate, on a basis of $1.85 to $1.90 with E. S. No. 2, mostly $1.30. Up in January 21 the Idaho Falls district had shipped 2,500,000 lbs. of potatoes, valued at $4,250,000. Caldwell-Sampa $2.50 and Lewiston $1.75, making the state's total for the season 11,200 cars, against 10,400 on the same date last year and 5,775 cars in 1925.

Idaho stands seventh in potato production. Shipping has made a steady gain, with 1926 production of 1,921,000 tons in 1922—18,304 in 1922—and 17,505 in 1923. In 1926 shipments reached 16,000 tons. With over 100 cars now out and prospects for another 800 to go, there is every reason to look for 19,000 tons, in the opinion of some. Last year, up to April 15, daily loadings were about 85 cars, when they dropped to 45 until May 30.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

The naval supply bill was sent to conference. Republican prospects for 1926 were discussed at the White House. The President declined to fill their seats for 21 months on the board was told. DR. SUN YAT SEN
MAN OF DESTINY

Principles Espoused by Late President Will Not Lead to Communism, Assertion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2 (AP)—The spirit of late President Sun Yat Sen, China's first provisional president, whose doctrines today are the inspiration of the nationalist movement in the former empire, is contained in the editorial offices of the Mid-West Daily News in San Francisco's Chinatown.

For it was there that Dr. Sun used to sit and dream of the "revolution" and visualize the major events now transpiring in China, where the "Kungmin" (people's party) which he founded, is developing the program he outlined in his "Three Principles of Democracy."

The small disarrayed office in which Dr. Sun spent much time in his three long visits to this country more than 10 years ago, is empty now. It was abandoned by the editorial staff of "Chung Hui Yat Pao" for use as a museum for the Sun family and the keeping of Poon Chai, editor of the former paper, Sun's closest friend and American adviser.

The Havelin, born Chinese is recognized now as a great portion of the Oriental race as "China's Man of Destiny." They are erecting a magnificent monument to him near Nanjing. Mr. Chew perhaps has become more conservative.

The party principles he espoused and which occasionally would result in "Sun's" being stoned as a radical by hostile elements in Chinatown will not lead China to communism, Mr. Chew believes. "China will not become bolshevistic," the older and more conservative influences in China will prevail and some place between the extremes of Russia and the reaction of the Manchu monarchy China will find its rolling path as a united nation, modern and progressive. It will become a strong but not a militant nation."

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS
FORECLOSURE ON ROAD

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (AP)—Foreclosure against the Chicago Railway company which yesterday defaulted on the principal of $55,655,000 in first mortgage bonds was ordered today by Federal Judge James H. Kilgore, but he refused to act upon a petition for sale of the properties pending a hearing on the legal aspects of the foreclosure. Judge Kilgore directed that the issue be joined with that of the Washington Electric company, upon whose receivership he recently passed receivership for the companies operating the North and West Side street car lines. He compensated the same receivers, John J. Mitchell and Frederick A. Lawson, bankers, and Henry A. Blair, head of the company operating the unified surface lines.

Death of Officer Saddens Home Here

E. R. Hubert, manager of the Twin Falls Lamy Wagoning, Marine company, has received word of the death of his cousin, Harley E. Bennett, of the Los Angeles police force, who was shot and killed by a bandit when he attempted to frustrate a holdup.

The bandit walked to the cashier's window and compelled her to give him the cash—$75—and a number of checks. In the meantime the president of the establishment had rushed to Seventh and Los Angeles streets where Bennett was observing traffic. Officer Bennett's approach was met by the bandit who fired three times at point-blank range. Bennett's gun exploded as he was falling to the ground. The bandit escaped through the door the bandit dashed into the street and disappeared. Despite the efforts of the entire available police force and a large reward he is still at large.

BURLEY GROWERS FOR SUSPENSION

Meeting Votes Against Enforcement of New Potato Grade and Marketing Regulations.

Potato growers and dealers of the Burley, Burley, and Haswell districts, at a meeting in Burley Wednesday voted almost unanimously in favor of suspension of potato grade and marketing regulations promulgated by A. W. B. Kinsman, former commissioner of agriculture. The vote, according to Earl L. Johnson, Burley who attended the meeting, was 129 to 4 in favor of suspension of the rules.

The meeting was one of a number of similar meetings called by John S. Welch, commissioner of agriculture, to be held at a number of centers in Idaho to obtain the opinion of growers relative to grade and marketing regulations. At the meeting, which was held at the Burley club, chief inspector, attended and addressed the meeting.

Under terms of a temporary injunction issued in a suit instituted by Joe Marshall and other Twin Falls district growers, the commissioner of agriculture is restrained from attempting to enforce the new regulations.

Commissioner Welch, at a meeting of potato growers in Twin Falls recently, stated that he would not promulgate grade and marketing rules for the 1928 season until after he had opportunity to ascertain the sentiment of a majority of Idaho growers.

Hearing in district court here in the injunction suit on an order of the commissioner to show cause why the temporary restraining order should not be made permanent, was assigned by Judge W. A. Babcock to be held here today.

Attorneys for the growers in this action were restrained from attempting to enforce the new regulations.

Leniency Shown To Erring Mother

The fact of her motherhood stood Mrs. Effie Stevens in good stead Wednesday when she pleaded guilty in district court here to a felony charge of receiving stolen property. Judge W. A. Babcock, presiding, withheld judgment and liberated the accused woman, during good behavior, requiring only that she report to the sheriff at regular intervals.

Mrs. Stevens is 32 mother of five daughters ranging in age from a few months to 13 years. She was accused of receiving property that has been identified as having been stolen during the past two years from seven business houses and residents in this region. The stolen property was found by officers in her residence here where Clyde Hinton, 19, had been a roomer for some time. Hinton assumed sole responsibility for the thefts and is now serving a term of from 1 to 15 years in the state prison for larceny.

Guardsmen Prepare For Military Ball

Arrangements are complete for the annual military ball of the Twin Falls unit of the Idaho national guard. The cleaning and pressing establishments have been kept busy all week getting the guardsmen's uniforms in shape and spin order for the annual event. The members of the unit will all appear in uniform and all ex-service men are invited to wear uniforms if they desire. Members of the Kismet club, which is sponsoring the local unit, will attend with their ladies and a large crowd is expected. Any surplus funds derived from the sale of tickets will be used for the jaw fund at the annual summer camp and it is hoped that considerable amount will be realized for this purpose.
