RESOLUTIONS ON BRIDGE MATTERS

Commissioners Favor Rim-to-Rim Bridge.

REJECT PROPOSAL OF BRIDGE AT THE TWIN FALLS.

Resolution Voted Favorably by Commissioners Albee and Moore Charles Situation.

The bridge situation in the east end of this county was considerably clarified on Friday last week when the Twin Falls county commissioners met in joint session with the Hillsdale highway commissioners in this city. The meeting was called for the purpose of making arrangements for the joint bridge at Murtaugh, but during the session the whole bridge controversy was discussed at length. A number of citizens from the North Side of the river in the Hillsdale district were present likewise a number from Twin Falls and Hansen.

The question where to place the bridges along the various crossings of the river brought out sponsors for the rim-to-rim bridge in the following order: Geo. H. Day, a well known rancher of Hillsdale, was spokesman for that section and claimed that sixty-five per cent of the people on that side favored the rim-to-rim bridge. This sixty-five per cent also had more than that proportion of taxable property.

His statements were a matter for argument on the part of the commissioners for that district, who was avowedly unfriendly to the bridge at Hansen.

George Davenport and M. B. Provoost of Hansen, told of their interviews with the ranchers on the North Side and confirmed Mr. Day's statements as to the wishes of the majority. George Harlan acted as spokesman for the Twin Falls contingent favoring the rim-to-rim bridge and gave the most convincing arguments in favor of such structure.

A resolution by Commissioner Albee was then read, placing the county board on record as favoring the building of the rim-to-rim bridge at Shoshone Falls. The same resolution recorded unfavorable action on the Twin Falls bridge which has been proposed by Commissioner Albee. Money for the bridges can be raised either by direct levy or by a bond issue. The resolution which was voted by both Albee and Moore, is given below:

Whereas, a petition signed by some five hundred taxpayers of Twin Falls county, who assessed taxable property aggregated $5,000,000, were heretofore presented to this board asking that this county give the necessary financial aid to secure the construction of a rim-to-rim bridge across Snake river north of Hansen, which bridge can be built for sixty thousand dollars.

And, whereas, it appears from a like petition signed by one hundred taxpayers of Minidoka county, who assessed taxable property aggregated a large amount, that the same bridge is a part of the acreage of the Hillsdale highway district, that the people of that portion of Minidoka county favor the construction of such a bridge and the extending of financial aid by their district to that end. And, whereas, at a mass meeting of the citizens and taxpayers of this county held at the court house in the month of August, 1914, resolutions were adopted in favor of the construction of said bridge.

FLOWER SHOW AWARDS

The sixth annual Flower Show, given under the auspices of the Presbyterian ladies, was the center of attraction last week for the local florists and the display was of more than ordinary beauty. The church basement and the parlors were beautifully decorated with flowers and autumnal vines for the occasion and accentuated the offerings of the exhibitors and prize takers. Each year has shown an added interest in the Flower Show and an ever increasing number of exhibits and exhibitors. This year was no exception showing that the little ribbons denoting the prize winners are prized by the florists.

On the seventh and eighth of September a number of business men will go to Kimberly to get the co-operation of the Kimberly ranchers and business men. In the same manner the business men of the county will be invited to their fairs for the purpose of signing contracts.

In order that the ranchers may have the benefit of the success of the sugar beet industry from the standpoint of both ranchers and business houses, the following article is reprinted from the Longmont (Colo.) Call.

(From the Longmont Call) We in Missouri have a manufacturing enterprise which steadily employs 1500 people and pays $12,500 a month in wages, loans large in the industry, and is the fortune teller in which the plant is situated. Yet the Longmont plant of the Great Western Sugar Company has the same number of men and has the above payroll in what is popularly spoken and thought of as its "plant."

And this large number of men are employed throughout the spring and summer months on the county highway. In 1903 the big mill ready for the five months of actual manufacturing.

This year nearly $100,000 is being spent on repairs and replacements at the local plant. The greater part of this sum is for the machinery and buildings of the local factory itself, but twenty thousand is going into big improvements at the rear of the plant.

A 30,000-ton pulp mill is being constructed near the old pulp pit at a cost of $45,000, making it possible for the county highway. In 1903 the big mill ready for the five months of actual manufacturing. All dumps are being repaired and boat scales tested to assure absolute safety and accuracy during the campaign. At this time as the 12th and largest beet crop ever raised in the Longmont district is rapidly maturing, some comparisons between year-to-year crops are being made. In 1903 the county raised 1,317 acres, and the conservative estimate of the yield made by the sugar company officials is 228,962 tons. In 1905 the average

BEET FACTORY ASSURED

Amalgamated Sugar Company Makes Bona Fide Offer to Commercial Club.

Factory Will Be Located Near This City When Acreage Is Secured By the Citizens. Ready for 1916 Crop.

Secretary Taylor of the Amalgamated Sugar Company was in Twin Falls Saturday and in conference with the Board of Directors of the Twin Falls Commercial club over the proposed sugar beet factory. Mr. Taylor made his proposition in plain terms that if the Commercial club would go out and secure signatures to contracts covering five thousand acres per year for a period of three years, that the company would build a sugar beet factory near this city upon a suitable site.

The contracts which will be received here Thursday, are similar to those already in force in the section around Kimberly and Hansen and call for $5 per ton for the topped beets delivered at the nearest dump of factory. Contracts can be had from Secretary McMillan or from the following officers and directors of the Commercial club: President L. E. Ballady, Vice President C. L. DeLong, J. M. Maxwell, H. J. Felling, L. T. Wright, Samuel Hart, and W. H. Eldridge.

franchiser raised 3.5 tons of beets on each acre for which he received $4.50 making a total per acre of $38.57. While this year it is estimated that the average rancher will raise 12.5 tons on each acre for which he will receive $5.00 to $6.00 a ton. The Longmont mill as built in 1903 was rated at a daily capacity of 600 tons. Actual statistics show that the average 24-hour run for the first year was 408 tons. In 1908 the mill was greatly enlarged and has been improved since then until last year, the average tonnage of beets sliced daily was 2,133, the largest in Colorado and the second largest in the United States.

BORAH LEADS IN POLL

Idaho Senator Favored as Republican Nominee for President.

Spokane, Sept. 10.—Senator W. E. Borah, of Idaho, first and Justice Charles E. Hughes of the supreme court of the United States, second, appear to be the choice of representative Republican leaders in Washington state for the presidential candidate of their party in 1916. In response to a letter of inquiry sent broadcast over the state to Republicans of prominence by the Chronicle, views upon the presidential candidates have been given with gratifying freedom.

In one letter in which Justice Hughes is indicated to be the choice of the writer, Senator Borah is regretfully remarked upon as the more favored man but geographical considerations are pointed out by the writer which make it improbable in his opinion that a western man can be nominated.

Cummins of Iowa, Burton of Ohio, Weeks of Massachusetts, Sherman, Deane of Massachusetts, Illinois, Governor Whitman of New York, for president Taft or others who have campaigned for the presidency started and who elsewher have enlisted support among Washington Republicans, seem to arouse little interest. Senator Root of New York is an exception here. That can be said of the responses so far received though not all of the leaders approached have answered as yet, and the statement may need revision as the poll attempted reaches a wider field.

GOOD YIELD OF WHEAT

Frank Palmer Threshes 68 Bushels to the Acre From 14 Acres.

The Twin Falls tract is still holding to the record of big yields of grain of all kinds. The latest to report is Frank Palmer, who reports an average of 68 bushels to the acre on 14 acres. Mr. Palmer cut 68 bushels to the acre or 952 bushels from the 14 acres. Mr. Palmer had another field of fifty acres which netted him 2900, or 58 bushels to the acre. While this yield is not so large as some reported, he says that the wheat was number one.

THINK ABOUT IT

Twin Falls Commercial Club

The Times wishes to compliment County Commissioners Albee and Moore upon their stand on the bridge situation for the east end of the county. Dr. Albee, one of the pioneers of the Snake river valley, and a man who has always stood high in the respect of the people of this country has understood the sentiment in favor of a rim to rim bridge, and has worked for it all these years. Commissioner Moore, after investigation, has decided that such a bridge is the best investment for the county and the taxpayers. The action of these two men will meet with the hearty approval from a large majority of the taxpayers. The Times does not believe that there is need for extravagant haste in the building of any bridges and that any action taken should be carefully canvassed. There is no question, however, but that the expenses of upkeep of grades in a few years will more than pay for the first cost of a rim to rim bridge and its maintenance. The fact that over seven hundred thousand dollars has been spent upon the Shoshone falls grade in the past four years should be carefully considered. At least another three thousand dollars more will be needed to put the lower part of this grade in shape. Then after all this has been done it is still a dirt road subject to rapid destruction from sliding wheels, and must each year be repaired. The same can be said of any grade on the Snake river. On the other hand the rim-to-rim bridge with concrete approaches will be practically indestructible with only a slight expense for minor repairs or possibly none for the first five years. If a business proposition and should be treated as such, rather than a pork barrel distribution of the county money.

There seems to be some misunderstanding concerning the earnings of the Twin Falls Waterworks company, which largely centers into the question of purchase. According to the resolution passed by the council offering sixty thousand dollars for the system, the earnings for a period of six months was slightly over ten thousand dollars, which would have been a yearly earning of much less than the twenty thousand dollars claimed by this paper. The Times believes, however, that the full truth in the matter was not made plain in the resolution. In the first place the six months taken as a criterion for the taxpayers, was at a time when something like twelve thousand dollars had been spent by the waterworks company for permanent improvements out of the gross earnings and charged to expense. Such a charge should rather have been noted as an improvement expenditure and not charged up directly to operations. The Times would suggest that a fair way to arrive at the earnings is to take a period of two years and take gross income and from this in segregated items take the actual expense for operation and up-keep and the money spent in improvements. The Times has no hesitancy in declaring that if this is done, that the real revenue net to the company will come very close to twenty thousand dollars per year. In fairness to the voters the council should secure this information if possible and give it without a tangle of figures to the public. After all it is said the water problem is not the affair of the council or a little group of business men, but of all the people. Every person who pays taxes or by his use of city water is in any way interested is entitled to final voice in the proceedings necessary to obtain

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

William Sproule

On the Employment of the Employer

The employment of the employer is a phase of the labor problem not so well exploited as the employment of the employee but a really as important as the prosperity of the country. The employer was never known to go on a strike nor to ask for a reduction in hours yet the trend of our legislatures has been to discourage his activities. The President of the Southern Pacific Company, when asked to discuss employment from the standpoint of the employer, said in part: "It is the habit of the time to speak of unemployment as if it related only to those who work for a wage hourly or daily, weekly or monthly, wage. It is thought of chiefly as relating to those engaged in the humbler duties of life. The facts run quite to the contrary. It is the employer who is first out of work. Unemployment begins only when the employer himself begins to be unemployed. When the employer is prosperous and his energies are profitably employed, the American has abundant employment and they also prosper. But why is this period of unemployment? It is because all business is bewildered and uncertain. It does not know whether it may proceed in safety. It does not know with what snare its path may be laid. This condition began with transportation and now extends to all business. The greatest trouble with this country today is that every business which has been developed by the genius of the American people has become the object of unforeseen attack from some quarter or feels the threat or danger of attack. Our laws, which formerly were precise and definite, have blanketed business with loose generalities called crimes which the men who drew the laws and the men who interpret those laws cannot themselves define with any precision. Even when they endeavor to expound those laws they make them more obscure and mystifying than before.

"There is nothing more distressing to an employer of labor than to turn away good men who desire to do good work; but until all wake up to the fact that unless the employer is prosperous the employee is falling in prosperity, we will have little improvement. When we have learned the lesson that the American man is simply a big industrial family in which we all prosper together or we do not prosper at all, we will then have promise of relief from the misunderstandings and jealousies which increase unemployment and destroy the comfort and the prosperity of the average man.

"I urge relief from the fads, fancies and fumes which have filled our streets with unemployment and the danger of a working man getting the shelter in the impoverished homes. I urge the restoration of confidence in the fact that American men of business are the peers of any in the world. I urge that the American workman cannot be prosperous unless the American man of business prosper. I urge that the American man come to us only with the full dinner pail. Finally I urge that the public interest in transportation is that it shall be prosperous in order that it may be a successful and energetic aid to all the business it is designed to serve."

a municipal system. The Times would suggest that the fullest publicity be given every act in the matter and that final referendum be made to the people. There is too much at stake in the welfare of the entire city, for anything save common sense to enter into the matter. The people expect that the city council will go about the business of buying the old plant like they would if it were their own private business. If they do this mistake made will be attributed to errors in judgment and easily forgotten. It is no time for politics or political scheming.

BRITAIN'S 'MODIFIED' BLOCKADE Great Britain's aim to interfere as little as possible with American trade and yet maintain "any blockade at all" is again repeated, think some editors, by her modification of the Order in Council covering shipments of goods of German or Austrian origin through neutral ports to the United States. But there are those who sniff at the "so-called concession," which releases goods that were contracted for, but not paid for prior to March 2, when the British Order in Council went into effect. As the Philadelphia Record points out, a large quantity of the products affected have been lying in warehouses at Rotterdam for several months. Most of the goods have been paid for and are "no longer to be regarded as enemy property." So that even if the principle that a neutral flag covers the cargo were no longer recognized as part of international law, continues this journal, this merchandise would not be "lawfully seizable" on the high seas. Consequently the Record thinks that Great Britain "concedes nothing that was not due the expressionists as of right."

The goods chiefly affected by the new ruling are toys and articles for the Christmas trade, while dyestuffs and chemicals also will be helped. Considerations held at German factories are still the subject of negotiations. As to the practical working out of the "concession" idea, we read in a Washington dispatch to the New York Times that: "The plan is to have American importers submit proofs to the foreign trade advisers of the State Department at Washington, both as to identification of the cargoes and of American ownership and other necessary particulars, and thus establish a system by which the examination of the goods and claims of American importers can be carried on in Washington, through informal conferences between the trade advisers and Sir Richard Crawford of the British Embassy. "The purpose of this arrangement is to facilitate the procedure of procuring the release of those American-owned, German-made cargoes, now at Rotterdam, which the British Government may be willing to permit to be shipped to the United States. It is in line with Sir Edward Grey's note of June 23, in which he gave assurances of Great Britain's willingness to 'make reasonable concessions to American interests' and to accord special consideration in all cases where the enforcement of the British Order in Council might be causing undue hardship."

Granting that the so-called "concession" is one of Sir Edward Grey's "assurances," the New York Sun is moved to remark that "Great Britain is pleased to accommodate certain American importers who want the goods they ordered six months ago, but she stands on her policy of keeping up a 'blockade' of neutral as well as enemy ports without containing ships, thereby denying the freedom of the seas, but softening the blow by confiscating neither ships nor cargoes, except contraband cargoes, and paying the damage to neutrals from a well-supplied purse." In the judgment of the Brooklyn Eagle, American diplomacy is "gradually bringing the British government to an acceptance of the principle that sea-control does not mean sea-dictatorship, and that the neutral merchant has some rights which must be respected by every belligerent."

CHANGE IN TITLE

The title of the Douglas Fairbanks' Film Arts picture, "The New York Triangle" opening was originally announced as "The Man and the Text." Advice from the Film Arts Films Company, New York, notes that it is to be known as "The Lamb," the character being very similar to Mr. Fairbanks' "Bertie" portrayal in "The New Hearties." The other officers of the opening, as already announced are Raymond Hitchcock in "My Vale" and Frank Keenan in "The Coward."

MANY AUTOMOBILES

Almost every player employed at the Film Arts studio in the grand possession of an automobile. It is a common occurrence to see approximately fifty valuable automobiles lined up in front of the studio, which is termed "Automobile Row."

BLACKLEG OF CATTLE

Dangerous Disease Peculiar to Young Cattle. Germs Live in Soil.

Blackleg, also known as black quarter or quarter ill, is a disease of young cattle characterized by a swelling under the skin of the fleshy parts of the body. It is not a contagious disease; that is, animals do not contract it by contact with other animals. It is an infectious disease; that is, animals get it from soil or pastures in which the spores or seeds of the disease are present. The disease is confined almost entirely to young cattle, and other species of animals are very rarely affected. It is seen most frequently in animals ranging in age from 6 months to 2 1/2 years, and well bred, well conditioned animals seem more susceptible than scrub stock.

Blackleg is caused by a bacillus, called popularly the "blackleg bacillus." This organism produces spores which carry the disease such as the spores or seedling element of ferns spread ferns. The blackleg spores when once established in the soil remain ready to cause trouble for long periods, sometimes several years, until they gain entrance to the animal body; whereupon they grow and reproduce the disease. When this fact is understood, the persistence of the disease in pastures is easily comprehended. Blackleg is a pasture disease, the infective agent being found in the soil, and the germs are taken in with the feed and water. The most frequent wounds in the skin, such as briar pricks or barbed wire scratches.

The disease manifests itself by swelling under the skin of the fleshy parts of the body, usually the quarters, hence the name "quarter ill." The animal becomes lame and lags behind the herd. The experimentally inoculated animals, they frequently continue to eat as long as they can stand. The swellings, at first firm, hot and painful, later become cold and insensitive, while the skin becomes discolored and leathery. Gas accumulates underneath the skin so that when pressed with the fingers a crackling sound is heard similar to that produced by placing a piece of paper under the coat and rubbing with the hand. The animal finally goes down, and lies straggling upon the ground, catching its breath in gasps, and expelling it with groaning, grunting sounds. The head is frequently thrown to the side. After death the animal is found lying in distorted positions, and is usually bloated as "tightly as the skin will hold, which causes the legs to stick straight out horizontally in a characteristic attitude. Bloody fluid oozes from the natural openings, is forced in drops from the skin, and collects in large blisters under the outer layer.

On cutting into the swollen parts a sweetish, foul-smelling gas rush out, and a bloody frothy fluid runs from the opening, sometimes accompanied by the black, mushy, disintegrated muscle, which is forcibly blown out by the pressure of gas. The lower legs underneath the skin is filled with bloody fluid and bubbles of gas, which appear as a quaking gelatinous mass. The divisions between the ribs contain the same fluid and have a greenish metallic color, while the muscles are soft and black.

This condition is not general throughout the body but is confined to certain affected portions. The organs seldom show extensive changes. Treatment is inoperative after the disease is once fully developed, and death almost invariably results. Some have advocated cutting into the swellings, roweling, and dragging the animals about. Such measures can not be too strongly condemned. The fluids which are liberated contain the germs of the disease and as a result any infection is distributed over the soil.

Prevention consists in vaccination of the susceptible animals and proper disposal of dead carcasses. Vaccine is manufactured by various firms. It is also manufactured and distributed free of charge by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. Vaccine and directions for its use are sent direct to stockmen and to the proper State officials upon application by letter to the chief of the bureau.

Blackleg tends to occur in seasons, usually spring and fall, and vaccination should be performed at least a month before the usual time for the outbreak. The best results have followed semi-annual vaccination beginning at six months and continuing until the animal is 2 1/2 years of age.

Too strong emphasis can not be placed upon the proper disposal of the carcasses. They should not be left for scavengers and buzzards to tear apart and distribute over the country, but should be buried deeply, without opening, which they do, using quicklime or strong antiseptics to disinfect the carcass and the place where the body has lain.

During the fiscal year 1915, 3,454,628 doses of blackleg vaccine were distributed to stock raisers and farmers in this country. This amount is approximately 45 per cent more than that distributed during the fiscal year 1914. While the per cent of increase of this year's output over that of 1914 is nearly half as great, it does not necessarily follow that blackleg in the United States is greatly on the increase. The difference is due in a large measure to the fact that stockmen in blackleg districts who heretofore did not vaccinate their animals begin now to recognize the practicality of vaccination.

ATTRACTS HUDSON TOURISTS

California Roads Appeal to Users of Popular Priced Car.

Hudson owners touring in California are finding the roads of the Sunny state an equal attraction with the two big fairs at San Francisco and San Diego, according to information received by Mr. E. S. Johnson, of the Johnson Auto Sales Co., the local Hudson distributor.

"Southern California enjoys the distinction of having more miles of roads of the class of the country," said Mr. Johnson. "The ability to drive in a few hours' time from sea level to mountain heights of over 8000 feet elevations, and of the many beautiful mountains in southern California, none are more attractive now than that wonderful range just north of San Bernardino, along which the Crest road was opened to motorists last year. Mountain motorists are being continually thrilled by the great pine forests and rugged grandeur of the scenery in this section of the state."

"California highway commissioners are taking a deep interest in extending and improving the roads through the mountainous regions of the state, and have designated as having 101 miles on the rim of this world and those who have motored from Pine Crest to Dixie Beach will appreciate the fact that the term aptly fits the road. It is indeed on the very ridge, as it were, of Southern California. Tremendous precipices, canyon depths and mountain peaks alternate from side to side, with the San Bernardino valley on the south and the wide stretches of Mojave desert on the north."

"The old road was one of steep grades, narrow width and rough surface, but was completely rebuilt last year and is now located with a maximum grade of less than 8 per cent. This puts this famous beauty spot of California within the reach of hundreds of motorists, not only of California, alone, but from all over the country as well, and as many Hudson owners are touring the west for the first time, this attractive tour has become the mecca for numerous Hudson owners."

"The especially effective cooling properties of the Hudson radiator makes the Hudson Six ideal for mountain trips, which is another reason for the popularity of this famous tour with many owners of the popular Hudsons."

General Passenger Agent D. E. Burley estimates that including the other four entrances, the number of visitors at the park to date, outside of the "age-brusters" and automobile parties, number 40,000. The nearest approach to this record was in 1909, when the total of visitors via all entrances was 39,113. Mr. Burley says the number of age-brusters and automobile tourists is purely speculative. However, the number will easily reach 15,000. —Pontello Tribune.

HOME OF ED COUSE BURNED

Wendell Man Has House and Contents Destroyed. Fire, which it is thought started from a defective fire burned Ed Couse's house and all its furniture, on his ranch two miles west of Wendell, Monday afternoon, while Mrs. Couse and their little boy were compelled to stand by and watch everything go up in smoke. Mrs. Couse had just finished a washing, and had taken the bread out of the oven a half hour before the fire was discovered. She had come out to the chicken yard to do some work and she knew nothing of the fire until the whole interior of the house but a part of the washing which was still hanging on the line.

Mrs. Couse was moving in the field about a quarter of a mile from the house and did not notice the blaze until his home was wrapped in a flood of flames. Neighbors, also came to the assistance, but they were too late to save anything. The loss was estimated at about $3000 and insurance of $600 was carried upon the house and furniture. It is not known just how the fire was started but it is thought that the stove pipe must have lighted the wall paper where the pipe entered the flue. Mrs. Couse had had a fire all afternoon baking bread and she had cleaned some clothing with gasoline on the porch, but she hardly thinks it is possible that gasoline could have set the blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Couse were in Buhl Tuesday purchasing clothing and furniture. Mr. Couse said that they were left quite destitute and could hardly fit themselves out to come to town. The house was built of stone, had four rooms and was well furnished inside. —Buhl Herald.

THINK WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

We Don't Sing the Praises of Player Pianos That Have Failed to Keep Abreast in the March of Progress.

We Are Selling Modern, Metal Tined, Five-Point Motor, Flexible Finger, Player Pianos, With Perfect Music Roll Tracking Device.

Instruments Equipped With Rubber Tubing, and a Set of Claptrap Pointers, Buttons, Levers, Etc., Are Obsolete. Study Them Carefully. They Are Near at Hand.

Free Music Rolls Included During the Great Sale Now in Progress.

Don't be misled by antiquated testimonials; a testimonial without date does not prove anything. A testimonial given many, many years ago for a cabinet piano cannot possibly apply to the modern piano player. A few years ago in the development stage of the wonderful player piano, a much advertised player, in spite of its many musical shortcomings, was of course, the best to be had. But the world moves, the player piano has progressed faster even than the automobile has progressed. What was considered a high point of perfection a few years ago is now practically obsolete. The necessity of buttons, pointers, emphasis attachments to player pianos has been overcome. The modern piano is a masterpiece of modern science, the modern piano is sweeping all before it. That is the kind of a player piano we now sell.

The modern substitute music roll positively makes pianists of the very highest order of every member of the family.

THE STROHBER PLAYER PIANO AND EVERETT BABY GRAND PLAYER PIANO.

In tone quality and an upright or Baby Grand pianos, each instrument represents perfection. All the exclusive and wonderful features, the flexible striking finger, the automatic guiding device, five-point motor, etc., are all to be found in this Player Piano, and the price is not $1000, but in this sale these instruments will be only $250, with $30 additional for alluring fancy cases and $50 more for the very finest. The liberal payment plan applies to these superb Pianos and Baby Grand pianos to all others.

PRICES THAT ARE ALMOST UNBELIEFABLE.

Pianos depend upon it that this sale of player pianos is of much and immense importance. A musical cabinet up-to-date automatic perfected player piano, usually priced at $600, is now offered for nearly half price, or $280. A player piano Player Piano is actually only $240. This is the cash price, but for more additional simple interest will deliver for $20 down (and interest will make the $200 payment) then you only pay the $3 a month, free music rolls included, nearly all new.

$10 a month will $420 in paid will buy a higher grade fancy Walnut Player Piano, 42" trend, new grade as in the sale usually priced at $650. We will give a bill of only when $420 has been paid for this beauty, and include a most liberal supply of music rolls.

A Weber Pianola Piano, widely advertised at $1,000 is now priced at $486, payments $9 a month, free music rolls included. Other Player Pianos, $418, $458, $478, etc., like new.

A very little more will buy a Weber Pianola Piano, the very highest priced one, but payments are to be arranged at $15 per month. Free music rolls, too. Superior Player Pianos De Luxe, the very finest yet constructed, and mechanically, instruments that excel any $1,000 piano to be had, possessing 5 points of superiority over the next best make. We are pricing one of these instruments at $585, and a player style for $545, payments $15 a month, free music rolls included.

Old style Pianos for $65 apiece. A liberal supply of music is included. We want them out of the way. Spare for the detailed mention of all of the instruments in this sale, but suffice it to say that every player piano on the floor is marked at corresponding low prices.

In a sale of this kind buyers come from all over and they act quickly. There are no duplicates except in a few instances. For this reason we say come at once.

We know of only one way to do business quickly, and that is to cut prices. Relentless, uncompromising price reduction, and thus this occasion is presented. Never have modern player pianos been offered for so little money and never again will they be had at such extraordinary savings in price. Any of these instruments will be shipped subject to examination and free trial.

HIGH FINANCE

Sensational Charges Made in Thousand Springs Power Suit.

A complaint abounding in sensational charges of fraud and allegations of crooked manipulations of a three million dollar power company, has been filed in the district court of Gooding county. It relates an interesting tale of high finance, involving equity of the most prominent and best known capitalists of Salt Lake. The plaintiff is A. M. Harris, who claims to be the owner of 600 shares of stock in the Thousand Springs Power company, with a cost him $1,000. The defendants are the Thousand Springs Power company and its officers and directors. The officers are: John DeLo, president; W. W. Armstrong, treasurer; and Lafayette Hanchett, secretary and general manager, who, with M. Myrnes, J. C. Rippen, Fred P. Dewoy and L. A. Newell, constitute the board of directors. A prior act of directors, who served while the company had its headquarters at Denver, are also included. The Thousand Springs company is incorporated for three million dollars and has a plant in the Thousand Springs power plant, in the southern part of Gooding county.

The plaintiff charges fraud in the sale of stock and bonds of the corporation through which control of the corporation was acquired by certain interests without adequate consideration, and alleges a fraudulent issue of $500,000 in bonds to the sum of $150,000 from the proceeds of the sale of said bonds was fraudulently and corruptly misappropriated by the former directors of the company. It is also charged that the controlling interest in the company was fraudulently transferred to Lafayette Hanchett of Salt Lake, for a consideration of $50,000, which was raised by him by hypotecating the property thus acquired, and that this transfer was fraudulently made for the purpose of depreciating the value of the stock; also that a large amount of stock was issued to the officers of the company without consideration.

It is charged that through the incompetent and inefficient management of the present officers the company has become insolvent and unable to pay its just obligations and that the excessive salaries paid to employees and agents caused a deficit of over three thousand dollars in 1914. Finally, it is alleged that the officers now propose to sell all of the assets of the corporation for $350,000, such sale to be confirmed at a special meeting of stockholders to be held on September 2nd, and that such sale will result in the total loss to the plaintiff of 408 shares of common stock now held by him.

The court is asked to issue a restraining order enjoining the consummation of the proposed sale and also to appoint a receiver for the company and to set aside certain transfers of common and preferred stock, disposed of without consideration.

DISCOVERY OF MESA VERDE

Our Most Wonderful Prehistoric Ruins Found by Chance.

It appears strange that the greatest of American prehistoric ruins, those now located in the heart of the national park in southwestern Colorado, should have escaped discovery until 1888. Years before, innumerable ancient ruins in the region were known by the ancestors of the Pueblo Indians had been described and pictured. They had been the subjects of popular lectures; they had been treated in books of science and books of travel; they had become a familiar American spectacle. Even the ruins in the Mancos Canyon in Colorado were explored as early as 1840 by W. H. Jackson, who led the government party, found there many small dwellings broken down by the weather. The next year he was followed by Prof. W. H. Holmes, later Chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology, who drew attention to the remarkable stone towers so characteristic of the region.

But these discoveries attracted little attention because of their inferiority to the better known ruins of Arizona and New Mexico. Here either the explorers followed up the side canyon of the Mancos they would have then discovered ruins which are in the words of Baron Gustav Nordenföld, the talented Swedish explorer, "so magnificent that they surpass anything of the kind known in the United States."

This explains why delvers in libraries find so little about the Mesa Verde. Most books and magazine articles were written when cliff dwellings were a novelty. Baron Nordenföld thus describes in his book "The Cliff Dwellers of the Mesa Verde" the discovery of the wonderful dwelling in this side canyon of the Mancos: "Moniment of Bygone Ages. The honor of the discovery of these remarkable ruins belongs to Richard and Alfred Wetherill. The Mancos family own large herds of cattle, which wander about on the Mesa Verde. The care of these herds often calls for long rides on the mesa and in its labyrinthine canyons. During these long excursions ruins, the one more magnificent than the other, have been discovered. The first was discovered by Richard Wetherill and Charley Mason one December day in 1888, as they were riding together through the dry river bed in the search of a stray herd. They had penetrated through the dense scrub to the edge of a deep canyon. In the opposite mouth of the canyon, by a huge natural vault of rock, there lay before their astonished eyes a whole town, with towers and walls, rising out of a deep ravine. This was the first monument of bygone ages seemed to them well deserving of the name of the Cliff Palace. Not far from this place but on the same day, another very large cliff dwelling, to this they gave the name of Spruce Tree House, from a great spruce that jutted forth from the ruins. "During the course of years Richard and Alfred Wetherill have explored the mesa and its canyons in all directions. They have thus gained a more thorough knowledge of the ruins than anyone. Together with their brothers, John, Clayton and Wynn, they have also carried out excavations during which a number of extremely interesting finds have been made."

The ancient Pueblos built their homes in the side walls of great valleys which prehistoric floods washed to the depth sometimes of thousands of feet in the great plateau of the American Southwest. Such a valley for example, is the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, but the Grand Canyon was not frequented by the Cliff Dwellers. Under overhanging cliffs, great and small, they lived, protected and from human enemies below, they perched their valleys and cities, approachable only by difficult trails and starting of ladders. In many cases the word dwelling is misleading, for most of these buildings were villages. Spruce Tree House, for instance, was undoubtedly of great importance, or, if you please, it was America's pioneer apartment house, harboring at least 350 inhabitants.

HOTEL TO REMAIN CLOSED

State Supreme Court Holds Down Order Denying Writ of Mandate.

The Bannock hotel at Pocatello, once the leading hostelry of the Gate City, will remain dark. The supreme court has denied the writ of mandate, thus denying the application of its proprietor, W. F. Kalska, for a writ of mandate directed against Judge J. J. Gubeen of the district court to compel him to modify his injunction order closing the hostelry. This is the second time the supreme court has refused the writ in the case. Apparently if relief is given to Kalska and his hotel it will have to come from Judge Gubeen.

This case is one of the most interesting and peculiar in the history of the Idaho courts. The Bannock hotel was closed because of alleged persistent violation of the terms of the local option law operative in Bannock county by Kalska in the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors. The sale of these liquors was ordered by the court to be obnoxious to the authorities, after gathering sufficient evidence, went into the district court, where they secured an order of injunction branding the hostelry a common nuisance. So far as is known this is the first case of its kind. The sheriff took charge of the hotel and padlocked the doors and windows, and it was closed to business and has since remained closed.

Kalska has persistently endeavored to secure a modification of the court's order. He carried on appeal to the supreme court, but that tribunal in a subsequent opinion refused to interfere, and the case went to the lower court. In his appeal Kalska alleged that his property had been confiscated without due process of law in that the place of business had been closed without an opportunity for him to be heard in the courts. It seems the issues involved were never threshed out in the justice courts, but the injunction action was taken in the district court to which application was made by the county attorney.

The other day Kalska filed an application for a writ of mandate to compel the lower court to modify its order of injunction, setting forth that the sheriff had padlocked the doors of the hotel, and that there was great danger of heavy damage to it by fire, prowling tramps and those criminally inclined who might rob the place. He asked the court to set aside the hearing before Judge Gubeen but has been unable to do so, with the result the hostelry remains closed at a great loss to himself and his family. His application to the traveling public of Pocatello. The court, however, refused to issue the writ.—Cantail News.

LAND BOARD WILL RETRENCH

At Least This Is the Reported Plan for the Immediate Future.

Boise — There promises to be some official decapitating in the state land department with the result that heads will fall among some of the subordinate employees as well as the head of the department in the removal of Ned Jenness, if the plans of the state land board discussed at some length at the meeting are carried out to the letter. The board seems to be determined to retrench in this department if it is within its power to do so. The reorganization is going to take place that will mean, it is said an annual saving of at least $2500 a year if not more.

The secretary of the department of state and had before it Heber Q. Hale, now acting registrar, who has assumed the work that former Registrar Jenness was making $2500 per annum for. Mr. Hale is not drawing any more salary. He is to have charge of the department in the future. At least this is the plan outlined by the board and it will be carried out unless there is a decided change overlooked for now. The board took no action toward letting the successor to Jenness aside from recognizing Mr. Hale as in charge. If W. L. Gifford is to be installed as registrar there was no time left for the coming. The pruning is to be made in the reorganization. The tentative but not the definite plans for this were discussed at some length at the morning session of the board, but no definite action was taken. The board is in session again this afternoon and expects to take up some concrete plans which the acting registrar will be directed to put into effect and effect. Discussion of the tentative plans with the board members brought out the fact that he believes the department can be pruned down consistent with efficiency and along the line of economy.

ment can be handled, with not so many clerks on the payroll. The reorganization, it is said, is to extend to the Carey act department, which for two years has been without an official head, and it is possible it may include the commissioner's office. It is hoped to prevent duplication of work in all departments and to have the work they have been doing performed in the future by practically one clerical force.

Front Rank Steel Furnace

To be an economical heater, a furnace must have a large amount of radiating surface in comparison with the size of the fire pot, and this surface must be arranged so that the air in passing upward must come in close contact with every part of it.

It will be observed that the FRONT RANK STEEL FURNACE is built on STRAIGHT VERTICAL lines, thus causing the air in its ascent to pass directly over its entire surface.

FIND THE WAY TO PROFITS

Experts to Look Into Problems of Farmers in Sections of Idaho.

A farm management survey of some sixty farms in the vicinity of Mountain Home is being made by federal and state agricultural experts. H. W. Hochbaum of the University of Idaho extension department, will represent the state and Montana. The survey will be completed Thursday night to commence the work. There he will be joined by Byron Hunter, federal expert from Twin Falls, and Professor Canavan of Roseman, Montana.

The object of the survey will be to learn whether the settlers are making money, and if not, why not. Contributory causes and general conditions, including markets, will be studied and detailed reports made.

Other Surveys Planned.

Similar surveys may be made later of other sections. Localities will be chosen wherein it seems that the farmers are not making as good profits as the quality of their lands would permit.

Mr. Hochbaum was in Boise but a few hours, having just returned from Berkeley, Cal., where he attended the annual conference of the agricultural colleges and extension department workers of the west, with more than 200 delegates in attendance.

"The county agent movement was the principal topic presented," said Mr. Hochbaum. "I found that Idaho is considerably behind many of the western states along that line. Some valuable suggestions were given as to ways and means of furthering the movement."

Idaho Exhibits Good.

Mr. Hochbaum said the agricultural college of the University of California, where the federal investigators are studying 100 instructors. He saw little of the fair, but praised the Idaho exhibit.

"The agricultural and horticultural exhibits of the state are splendid," said Mr. Hochbaum. "The only criticism I might make would be to say that the Idaho exhibit was not distinctive. It did not stand out and tell you 'This is Idaho.'"

"As an instance of distinctive exhibit, take that of Iowa. It was just a large cornucopia of things, and feet from the ground, and pouring out what looked like a million bushels of corn. Around it was placards telling of Iowa's wealth. It was the only exhibit that left a definite impression on the mind of the visitor."

Credit Men Have Established a National Rogues' Gallery.

In the midst of great wars and political happenings we must continue to pay our bills for every day's life, and in order to keep things moving it is necessary for people to pay their debts to one another. Normal people might suppose that this would be done quite naturally, but it appears that there are so many persons who neglect to pay their bills that it has become necessary to take some action in the matter. So the Retail Credit Men's National Association, which has just concluded its sessions in Duluth, has resolved to create a national rogues' gallery of deadbeats.

All business men know how distressing it is when payments are slow. That is bad enough, but it is usually caused by conditions over which the customer has no control. But with the deadbeat it is quite different. He never has any intention of paying, and when he has sucked the honey from one creditor's concern he proceeds to another without fear of punishment here or hereafter.

Every community suffers from this pest. They are a dead weight upon the progress of business, and the only wonder is that they have been tolerated so long.

If plans which have been mapped out by the retail credit men can be put into operation, the deadbeat will be as easily identified as the bank burglar or any other criminal who is known to the police. Their records will be gathered and will be at the disposal of the members of the organization and of others. This information will be exchanged from city to city until the professional deadbeat will be forced to pay his bills or will be refused credit.

The worst feature of the work of the deadbeat is the harm it does to honest men. In spite of assertions to the contrary, the great majority of the rogues are not the cause of depression and thereby cause inconvenience to all. The new kind of rogues' gallery is to be welcomed, and should prove to be a great benefit to all men engaged in legitimate business.

IDAHO DAY BIG FEATURE

Ballrooms Co-operate in Extensive Advertising Campaign for Occasion.

San Francisco — The "exposition idea" has met with great success far greater than its fondest promoters anticipated. The attendance has over-run the eleven million mark. Already the seven million dollars necessarily incurred during the early months of preparation of the fair has been paid off at the bank. On September 3 it is proposed to have a gala day for the fair. It is expected to turn out when there will be a dramatic burning of the mortgages. At present the fair association is one and a half million dollars in debt. Two September months, September and October, yet to come. Visitors are pouring in from all parts of the United States in large numbers. While the leading hotels are much crowded, yet San Francisco has an abundance of hotels and apartment houses for the accommodation of visitors. The cities in the United States could accommodate such crowds as this. Hospitality and courtesy are the leading features of the fair.

Executive Commission (Zizek) has made arrangements with the Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, and Oregon Short Line to feature Idaho Day, September 29. The two former roads have arranged to put out large posters, one throughout the entire state of Idaho, and the other along its patronizing territory, to advertise Idaho day with the view of bringing as large a number of Idaho people to this city as possible to participate in the festivities. Indications are that Idaho will be well represented from Los Angeles, Long Beach and other southern California points, and in fact, in various other points in California. There are large numbers of former Idahoans who will be present here and who will get together and meet former friends and associates, both of the pioneer and modern days in the Gem state. Your earnestness to send the word of Idaho upon the attention of all Idahoans intending to visit the fair as it will furnish an opportunity of a lifetime not only to see the greatest show on earth as the world has ever seen, but to also enjoy meeting with old-time friends and renewing of precious and tender memories.

All cigarettes are pure but—purity alone doesn't make a cigarette SENSIBLE. We don't know of a single one of our competitors who doesn't make his cigarettes of pure tobacco.

But a pure cigarette that didn't taste just right wouldn't do for you, would it?

And to be really sensible a cigarette must give you more than purity and a good taste.

It must be cool and friendly to your throat and tongue. And it must leave you feeling fine after smoking all day.

Fatimas are not the only cigarette that measure up to all these requirements. There are other sensible ones.

But Fatimas seem to have a big margin in their favor on their good taste. Otherwise they could not outsell all other cigarettes costing over 5c.

You can't tell whether they will just suit your taste until you try them.

At the same time, you can easily prove how sensible they are by these two tests.

Most men who try Fatimas say "Good Bye!" to all other cigarettes right away. That's why Fatimas sell so fast.

Why don't you try Fatimas today?

Two Tests for ANY CIGARETTE

The taste of the cigarette—according to the leading tobacco journal—is up to the maker. But there are other qualities that you should look for in the cigarette. They are: 1. The taste. 2. The texture. 3. The color. 4. The smell. 5. The burn. 6. The ash. 7. The wrapper. 8. The price.

Why don't you try Fatimas today?

Slip out these tests and try them on Fatima

LOGGING OVER BIG DAM

Problem of Getting Out Timber Solved by Government at Arrowrock.

Buhl, Idaho, Sept. 6.—Above Arrowrock dam, in the basin of the Boise river, it is estimated that there is 5,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber. Swept into lumber worth, say $12 a thousand, it would represent a value of $360,000,000. It is owned by the United States government, the Boise-Pulaski Lumber company and a number of others with smaller holdings.

This timber is to be cut in the immediate future, driven down the Boise river and into the lumber at the mill 14 miles below the Arrowrock dam and just outside the city of Boise.

Here at the big dam, then is presented a knotty little problem—to lift these logs from the reservoir, carry them over the crest, 200 feet above the bed of the river, and deliver them in good condition in the stream below.

Nothing would be permitted of course to interfere with the subject of the dam—the impounding of the 244,000 acre-foot of water demanded for the irrigation of 240,000 acres of rich soil in the valley. But as the dam backs the water for a distance of 18 miles, converting the river channel into a reservoir, and including both the stretch of stream, provides ideal means for the driving of logs. It was early agreed that some scheme must be devised for lifting them over the dam.

Under the direct supervision of Engineer Charles H. Paul, his assistant, Walter H. Young, designed an equipment which would consist of a cable lift and deposited on the concrete deck on the top of the dam. From this deck they will be fed by a stop and start gear-driven cable-rope one at a time, the speed under control of the operator. These rolls will carry the logs across the dam and turn them over to a built chain with spurs or teeth to prevent slipping. The chain will take them down a 6 1/2 per cent slope at a speed of 100 feet per minute.

This equipment located at the extreme southern end of the dam, logs of any size or length will be taken out the reservoir by means of a cable lift and deposited on the concrete deck on the top of the dam. From this deck they will be fed by a stop and start gear-driven cable-rope one at a time, the speed under control of the operator. These rolls will carry the logs across the dam and turn them over to a built chain with spurs or teeth to prevent slipping. The chain will take them down a 6 1/2 per cent slope at a speed of 100 feet per minute.

As this structure must withstand the shock of 100 years of water of the best concrete and steel. It is unique in government construction. Power for its operation is now derived from the dam. One four-cent power plant is to be established at

This dam, the highest in the world, 248.5 feet from the bottom of the foundation to the top, is being completed with a barbecue and harvest home in Boise, October 4. It is finished more than a year in advance of the time specified at the beginning and at a cost of $2,000,000 less than the estimate. By storing water this season, the driest in history, it saved the crops on 100,000 acres and practically paid for itself.

HEALTH BULLETIN

From the Idaho State Board of Health.

"My baby's sick. What shall I do?" That's a very common question from mothers, particularly at this time of the year. It is a very important question, and one that is hard to answer fully, in general the chances are more than ten to one that the trouble is from some digestive disturbance. For this reason it is always advisable to stop feeding the baby at once. He won't starve if he misses a few meals or even if his ration is cut off for a few days. Of course, the baby should be given all the water he cares for and that will be considerably more than the hot weather. All drinking water for babies should be boiled, then bottled and served cool but not iced.

The next thing to do for a sick baby after stopping the food supply is to empty the intestines of all fermenting, decomposed food. In general the mother will be justified in giving not over a teaspoonful of castor oil or simple enemias by injection. If this does not bring relief the next thing would be to call in the best physician available, and place the case fully in his hands.

As with many other health matters, prevention is much simpler, cheaper and better than cure. In the case of babies, the use of mothers' milk as food is the first and most important single item to be considered. In summer the baby should be kept cool and should live in the fresh air at all times, and carefully screened from mosquitoes.

WAR IS ON!

Babies Vs. Flies and Dirt.

WHO WILL WIN?

What Happened to One Thousand Babies.

One thousand babies were placed under careful observation last summer by the health department of hygiene, A. I. C. P., and the department of health.

In the Dirty Home A. Twelve as many babies had diarrhoea as in the clean homes. 2577 babies died of diarrhoea in New York City last year.

Birt and flies played their part in the baby's death.

A well-used broom and mop and a yard of netting may save your baby's life.

If You Love Your Baby.

1. Keep your house clean. 2. Keep your floor covered. 3. Cover your garbage and make your neighbor do the same. 4. Keep netting over the baby. 5. Eat no food that flies have walked on.

6. Buy no food from stores where you see many flies. 7. Remove fly-breeding stables to the health department.

8. Clean your baby's face with clean water, scrub the baby, clean the house, starve the fly, save the baby.

STORE NEWS

In calling your attention to Dr. Denton's Sleeping Garments, one of the first and most important items I would mention is the material used.

The yarn from which these garments are made is absolutely clean and free from all impurities so that there is no danger of irritating the skin of the child who wears them and at the same time it is soft and warm.

The yarn is not put through a chemical process often used in producing yarn for garments to be worn next to the skin.

After the material is woven it is put through a steaming process of cleaning and purifying but this is done with such care that the fabric is not stretched and pulled out of shape as is the case in many instances, but is really improved.

The feet of these garments are made without seams at the bottom. The pockets are neatly finished. The facings are securely stitched and tacked to keep them in place. The cuffs are made extra deep so they can be turned down over the hands and tied with a cord. The buttons are genuine bone with reinforced facings underneath. The button holes are securely made so they do not tear out readily.

This wonderful little garment already popular is growing in popularity every season, and is one of the best things that has ever been brought out for children.

We have them in all sizes in the best style in the original make as illustrated by the cuts on either side. You will find our price on these are right and lower than you can buy the same goods in many places.

BEEF FACTORY ASSURED

of this district. The constant advice of Professor H. H. Simpson, our county agriculturist, to increase fertility by carrying stock would be valueless without the thousand tons of beet pulp to be had at the local factory at a price little if any above the cost of hauling it. To sum up the sugar beet crop means cash in the pocket of the farmer right before the holidays; second, successful rat-toe feeding; and third, the maintenance of fertility on the farms, where the crop is raised. At first glance it may seem ridiculous to speak of an immense sugar factory as a scenic attraction, yet it is a fact that every visitor to this city involuntarily looks around for the big plant which he has heard of as the second largest of its kind and if he is fortunate enough to enjoy a week's visit in our midst, he at least gets a comprehensive view of the exterior of the big mill.

Big Institution Is Managed by Broad-Minded Men. The company officials are at great pains to keep the big plant in shipshape order, and the perfectly kept with the sparkling clean appearance of the drive ways and lawns are a pleasant surprise to people on the Atlantic seaboard who associate factories with confusion and general confusion and disorder. The company also opens the factory doors once a month during the sugar campaign when the exposure is a great deal of patience and time a large number of women and children as well as men are piloted through the big mill. Even a superficial view of any big industry is unsatisfactory unless it includes at least a glance of the men closely connected with its destinies.

N. H. McCreery, manager of the Longmont sugar factory is a man well worth close study. In 1903 he came to Longmont, a youth of less than thirty years, as assistant to A. V. Officer, then manager of the local plant. In 1908, he became acting manager for the Longmont factory, and since that time, to Longmont people he has stood as the personification of the Great Western Sugar company. During his seven years as manager his subordinates have found him a firm but sympathetic chief, a rancher with whom he deals as the representative of the sugar company. He has taken every possible measure to insure the farmer fair and impartial treatment in all the dealings with the company, and the city of Longmont has come to look upon Mr. McCreery not only as the local representative of its biggest industry but as the leader in its most important move in recent years, the park improvement and the Boulder county fair. Mr. McCreery led in the organization of the St. Vrain fair of 1914, and has been probably the leading organizing force of the Boulder County Fair, initiated this year.

Practically everyone in Longmont and the Longmont district knows W. P. Hogarty, and the best of us have a mighty friendly feeling for the man with the big voice and the big heart. During his eleven years of service as agricultural superintendent of the sugar company, Mr. Hogarty has become the friend and advisor of the farmers of the entire district. In the new notes of "Through the Leaves," and by personal visits he keeps in close touch with every best grower and is never too busy to find a fellow job, help a tenant adjust disputes with an arbitrary landlord or give his advice and aid to any rancher perplexed by the numerous troubles which pursue the farmer even in northern Colorado.

Mr. Joseph Maudru, superintendent of the Longmont factory, gets little publicity, first because he sticks closely to the big plant, and there is no reporter in Longmont who ever succeeded in getting Mr. Maudru to talk, but it can be truthfully stated that the men of the United States who have the complete technical
