FRUIT SITUATION IMPROVED
The fruit growers of the Twin Falls tract this year can find a great many reasons for thankfulness in the improved marketing situation. After last year's disastrous fruit marketing there were many growers who were ready to pull up their trees by the roots and sow the land to some other crop. However, Twin Falls, the year under the Fruit Growers' association came nearer to the ideal marketing plan than ever before. With practically its own independent agency the total output has been contracted for delivery here at a good price which will allow a clear profit of from sixty to seventy-five cents per box to the grower. This means the beginning of an influx every year of independent buyers who will in years to come, bid on the fruit crops. Heavy overhead expense of the bigger organization have been cut down to a purely local one with no cost in commission to jobbers. While of course the much smaller corps is responsible for the splendid prices this year, yet the fame of the local product in the coming years is going to maintain a much better price than has prevailed in years past. The fruit men after five years of struggle are coming into their own.

DISMISSAL OF THE AUSTRIAN AMBASSADOR

More than a rebuke to an indiscreet diplomatist is discerned by our press in President Wilson's request for the recall of Dr. Constantin Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Washington, because of his conspiracy to instigate strikes in American munition plants. Through the general chorus of editorial writers for the President's action Toss also the suggestion that the incident has a wider significance than appears on the surface. Thus the Chicago Herald, noting that Dr. Dumba destroyed his welcome at Washington by "plotting to destroy our industrial peace" and by "seeking to transfer the European War to our neutral land," remarks that his case should convey a lesson "to all and divers gentlemen in Washington who are here on sufferance." The incident says the Baltimore American, "should prove a salutary warning to other foreign representatives who have been just as active, but so far have been shrewd enough to prevent a full exposure of their acts." Let other diplomats who have been "endeavoring to meddle in our internal affairs" take heed, admonishes the Pittsburg Gazette-Times, and the same warning is sounded in varying accents by the St. Louis Globe Democrat, Philadelphia Record, and many other papers. Reminding us that the Lusitania, Arabic and Hesperian cases are still pending between this country and Germany, the New York Tribune remarks:

"Words of argument, of remonstrance, have hitherto failed to obtain from that country's representatives anything but a vague and indefinite assurance that hereafter the rights of our citizens shall be respected. It is not too much to hope that the dismissal of Dumba may carry to Germany the pointed assurance, as only deeds can, that the United States is determined to make its rights respected."

The pentecostal sentence of Stahl, the self-confessed perjurer who swore he saw guns on the Lusitania and the demand for the recall of Dr. Dumba, says the New York Times, serve notice "to Austrians, Germans and German-Americans" that "the cure for this plague of conspiracies is in our hands and we are going to apply it." And in the Washington correspondence of the same paper we read: "The dismissal of Dr. Dumba, for that is what it amounts in, has created a sensation in Washington. But diplomats and other interested observers are wondering whether or not a greater sensation is in store as an outgrowth of the Dumba case. Speculation in this connection is based on the statement in Secretary Lansing's instructions to Ambassador Penfield that Dr. Dumba was guilty of a flagrant violation of diplomatic propriety in employing an American citizen protected by an American passport as a secret bearer of official dispatches through the lines of the enemy of Austria-Hungary." Archibald, the secret dispatch bearer, also carried a copy of a communication addressed to the state department by Count von Bernsdorff, the German ambassador to the United States.

Even the German-American New Yorker Herald confesses that "Dr. Dumba invited the fate that befell him," but it qualifies this admission with the following comment: "The pro-British newspapers, embittered by the defeat of the Teutonic allies are inflicting on their adversaries, scattered upon this letter as a well come basis for a new campaign of hatred, and the President had to yield.

However, he went further than he might have gone. Instead of intimating to the Vienna government that to grant leave of absence to the offender, reserving his recall for a later date, would be a welcome way of disposing of the incident—a procedure usually followed in such cases—the President selected the rougher road to a curt dismissal. This mode of getting rid of Dr. Dumba is calculated to increase the tension between this country and the Teutonic allies.

The activities which made Dr. Dumba no longer acceptable to our government came to light when the British authorities seized certain papers carried by James F. J. Archibald, an American war-correspondent, who sailed from New York on August 21 on the Holland-American liner, Rotterdam, bound for Rotterdam. The Rotterdam was ordered into Falmouth where a search of Archibald's stateroom brought to light a number of confidential communications from the Austrian and German ambassadors to their home governments. One of these written in Dr. Dumba's own handwriting and addressed to Baron Durlan, minister of foreign affairs for Austria-Hungary, outlined a plan "most warmly recommended to your Excellency's favorable consideration" a plan for "the preparation of disturbances in the Bethlehem (Schwab's) steel and munitions factories as well as in the Middle West." In this letter Dr. Dumba went on to say:

"I am under the impression that we could, if not entirely prevent the production of war-materials in Bethlehem and in the Middle West, at any rate strongly disorganize it and hold it up for months, which according to the statement of the German military attaches, is of great importance, and which amply outweighs the relatively small sacrifice of money."

"But even if the disturbances do not succeed, there is a probability at hand that we shall compel, under pressure of the crisis, favorable working conditions for our poor, oppressed fellow countrymen. In Bethlehem these white slaves at present work twelve hours a day seven days in the week! Alas, weak persons succumb, become compulsive. As far as German workmen are found among the skilled elements, provision will be made forthwith for their exit. There has, besides this, been created a German private (underlined) registry office for providing employment, and which already works voluntarily and well for such persons. We too, shall join and the widest support is contemplated for us."—Literary Digest.

E. D. Grinnard, a far-famed man in Shenandoah, Iowa, a former clown in a circus, has bought and paid for a small home in four years and made numerous improvements in that time. His payments each month averaged over fourteen dollars. This is a case of where it pays to be your own landlord.

When George Bailey arrived in Antwerp, N. Y., from England twenty-five years ago, he was just a poor boy looking for an opportunity. His first job was in a sawmill. Proving to be a good mixer he soon joined the local lodge of Foresters. By studying to increase his earning capacity, and by saving part of his income regularly he began to accumulate property. Now he occupies a high and well paid position as one of the main officers of the I. O. O. F. He is a director of the local bank and newspaper, a home owner, an automobile owner and a substantial citizen generally.

Fred is a Chicago boy who started out as a barber shop cashier at $7.00 a week. Later served as a mail carrier for several years and is now worth upwards of a quarter of a million from having invested his savings in good real estate. From the start Fred saved part of his wages. After three years in the barber shop, he had $200 in the bank. Then he started a carpentering business. Before he was 21 he had 12 men working for him.

Finally he sold the business for $4000, which he put into the bank. He passed the civil service examination and became a letter carrier in the northwest section of Chicago. He kept his eyes open for good real estate "buys." He made $1000 profit on a house he built on the first lot he bought. As his capital increased he began to deal in larger blocks of vacant property. Almost always his experience as a mail carrier helped him to buy in the right place. Presently the increasing burdens of this business made it necessary for him to resign his government job.

After looking into the waterworks situation as it now stands, there seems little hope for a municipal system short of three years at best. In the meanwhile the people of this city will be compelled to drink the same old impure water. The reputation of the city is given a black eye because of the water furnished. In the three years, fifty-five to sixty thousand dollars will go into the coffers of the waterworks company. As far as the city is concerned it is the loser at every turn. If at the end of three years the city does not gain its contention, there is no question but what the city must eventually buy the plant. Any conclusion advanced to the contrary is erroneous. Even with a writ of necessity on the part of the utilities commission, the water company by legal action can frighten away bond buyers. These facts must be faced by those who favor fighting the cost for a lower rate. The Times believes that if a fair offer had been made showing at least good faith on the part of the city to the Waterworks company, that some compromise could have been made between the price asked and the price offered. As it now stands, however, there is nothing but litigation ahead which will eat up city money and not advance the municipal ownership one iota.

The Times believes that today, if the matter was left to the waterusers and voters of this city, probably eighty per cent would vote to get rid of the old company even at a sacrifice of price and principle. The Times also believes that before entangling the city in legal action that a canvass of the wishes of the majority of the people should be made. It urges this in fairness to all concerned. There is no desire on the part of the Times to aid the Waterworks company. There has been no stronger opponent of that company and its methods than the Times, nor sturdier champion for a city system. But the situation demands that the city adopt a course that will not continually play into the hands of the Waterworks company, which is the ruler by every year of litigation and obstruction to a municipal system. Bitterness against the company is natural on the part of the citizens, but should not prejudice their reasoning. The Times contends that the only way to get at the desired result is to get the old company

STATES TO SHARE $850,000

Secretary of Treasury Approves Annual Division of Receipts.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The portion of the National Forest receipts for the fiscal year 1915 to go to the benefit of the various states in which the forests lie, according to the computation of the forest service just approved by the secretary of the treasury, amounts all told to more than $850,000. The gross receipts for the year ending June 30 were $2,481,693.25, of which under the law, 25 per cent is paid over to the states for county school and road purposes and an additional 10 per cent is made available for expenditure by the secretary of agriculture in building roads and trails for the benefit of local communities.

Montana gets the largest share, having contributed the largest amount of receipts for the sale of timber, grazing, and other uses of the forests, or more than $218,900. Of this amount, Montana is to receive $79,659.78 for county school and road purposes, while the forest service will expend $131,836.91 for improvements of special benefit to local communities and not included in the regular administrative and patrol is provided. Idaho comes second with a 25 per cent allowance of $75,651.15, and a 10 per cent fund of $30,260.46. California, is third, receiving a 25 per cent allowance of $67,611.87 and a 10 per cent fund of $27,044.74. The other National Forests states follow in the order of the size of their respective shares:

Arizona, $59,807.39 under the 25 per cent provision and $23,323.16 under the 10 per cent provision; Colorado, $59,215.60 and $23,657.44; Oregon, $49,675.34 and $19,879.33; Utah, $48,675.96 and $19,479.33; Wyoming, $43,086 and $17,234.75; Washington, $37,415.56 and $14,978.23; New Mexico, $31,736.46 and $12,714.58; Nevada, $16,244.53 and $6,497.91; South Dakota, $12,988.11 and $5,195.25; Alaska, $11,165.25 and $4,466.59; Arkansas, $8,738.84 and $3,495.57; Florida, $2,336.77 and $934.51; Minnesota, $1,971.60 and $788.64; Nebraska, $1,401.16 and $560.45; Kansas, $1,357.33 and $542.93; Oklahoma, $759.77 and $302.91; Michigan, $198.37 and $79.35; North Dakota, $81.93 and $32.75; Foster, $19.25 and $7.70.

The States of Arizona and New Mexico receive additional shares for their school funds on account of school lands included within the National Forests, yielding them $28,966.46 and $9,311.37, respectively.

On the National Forest Purchase Account in the Bank, a total of $7,377.59 was collected in Georgia, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia, these states thereby sharing $344.49 under the 25 per cent provision and $337.70 under the 10 per cent.

The total amount to be expended under this system, as shown in the 27th report receipts with the states to make up for the loss of local taxes due to public ownership of the land is about $1,609,999 greater than the previous fiscal year, as the receipts for the fiscal year 1915, exceeded those of the previous fiscal year by about $44,000. The provision of law making a portion of the receipts be turned over to the states dates from 1906, and the total payments reach, with this year's allotment, nearly $4,000,000. The 25 per cent provision for government-built public roads has been in force only since 1912, and has now made available for that purpose an aggregate of $299,000.

TO VINEGAR MANUFACTURERS

In order to better control the quality of vinegar on the market in this state, I am asking the manufacturers to send out no vinegar that does not meet the acid standard required by law. This department will test all vinegars for acidity sent in by the manufacturer and render report as promptly as possible.

We will expect all vinegar sold, by manufacturers, after October 1st, 1915, to have been tested by this department before shipment.

I will ask that every barrel or bottle of vinegar be stencilled or plainly marked with the date the goods leave the manufacturer and the State Laboratory number of the sample from a barrel or lot, which number will be given you by the Chemist.

The only way this vinegar question can be worked out without injury to our home product is through the true co-operation between the manufacturer and this department. The reason for requesting the date on all containers is, that we may know the barrel or bottle bearing this date has been sent out by the manufacturer, after receiving an official test on this vinegar.

Any vinegar found on the retail market not bearing this date will be placed under State Seal and held from sale until tests can be made to determine its standard.

Trusting I may have your co-operation in this matter, I am, Very truly yours, J. K. WHITE, Sept. 15, 1915.

$3.00 FOR SEAT IN MOVIE SHOW

Wisecracks predicted that $2.00 motion picture productions would never succeed, but their prediction was falsified by D. W. Griffith's notable "Birth of a Nation" triumph. Now come plays produced at the Griffith-Intertitles studios which are to be put forth by the Triangle Film Corporation, and for which in New York City $2.00 will be paid for some of the best seats. It is explained that the prices at the Kullerbocker theater will be the same as those charged now at the Liberty Theatre, where "The Birth of a Nation" is playing, except as to the so-called private boxes. President H. E. Aitken, of the Triangle Film Corporation, has ordered the entire balcony front reconstructed. Aided by the counsel of McElPatrick, the architect of the build-

LATENT TALENT IS DISCOVERED

Bessie Love, playing in "The Scarlet Band," in the support of John Emerson, is another demonstration of Mr. Griffith's ability to detect latent talent. Miss Love is a petite young girl with an appealing face and eyes, with no stage experience, and recently, while she was making application for "extra work" at the Film Arts studio, was discovered by Mr. Griffith, who questioned her as to her quest. Mr. Griffith took her into the studio, made a photographic test of her, and two days later she was made a permanent member of the Film Arts studio. Since then, each day marks a remarkable improvement in her work.

New Container Invented by British Columbia Grower.

Washington — A new container for shipping apples to market has been devised and patented by a grower in British Columbia, who does not like the American barrel, nor does he fancy the Oregon box that has become standard in the Northwestern states. Describing this new container, which is nothing more than a dividable barrel, Consul General F. M. Ryder of Winnipeg, says:

"Realizing that the ordinary barrel is unstable for safe and convenient shipping of apples and pears, and that boxing is an expensive form, a partitioned barrel has been invented by a fruitman in British Columbia, patents for which have been applied for in Canada and the United States.

"The container is similar to an ordinary barrel, divided in two equal parts by two partitions so adjusted as to permit the barrel being sawed in two, thus making two half-barrels. The advantage claimed for this container is that it can be made of cheap sawed lumber, shipped in the knock-down state, and easily assembled at the packing house; the fruit can be shipped without wrapping, owing to the firmness imparted by the several partitions; the fruit is said to arrive in perfect condition, while the convenience afforded by sawing the barrel in two enables customers to purchase a half or a whole barrel containing two varieties of fruit."—Statesman.

TRAVELING IN A PRIVATE TRAIN

De Wolf Hopper, who has been engaged at an enormous salary under contract for one year, to be starred in Fine Arts Films productions, is scheduled to arrive at the California studio the early part of September. The comic opera star is traveling from his summer home at Sitonsnet to California in a private car accompanied by his wife and son. De Wolf Hopper will make his film debut as "Mr. Pickwick" in Charles Dickens' "Mr. Pickwick."

THE AUDACITY OF BEGGAR

Lillian Gish tells of an amusing experience she encountered recently while participating in a scene of "The Lily and the Rose." She was approached by a poor middle-aged woman for aid. Miss Gish quickly responded and gave her some money. At this the poor woman sneered, and concluded that Miss Gish should at least give her one of her diamond rings, as she had three on her fingers.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR ROZSIEKA

A farewell party is being planned for Rozsiek Dolly at the Fine Arts Films studio, where she is playing a featured role in "The Lily and the Rose."

Miss Dolly, who has engaged specially for this feature picture, will soon complete her part and complete leaving for New York to start rehearsals for a new play to be produced by George M. Cohan, which will open in the fall at the Astor theatre.

THE RAISER'S PRAYER

(The Last Ultimatum).
Gott, Gott, Dear Gott, attention please
Your harbiner Wilhelm here
Und has a word or two to say
Into your listening ear;
So durn away all udders now,
Und listen well I ome,
For vat I say concerna ME much,
Myself and Shermany.

You know dear Gott, I vas your friend,
Und from my hound or hirt,
Inquietly let you rule der Heffon
Vile I rule o'er red eart,
Und ven I told my soldiera,
Of his-son's battle days,
I gladly split der glory
Und giff you half der-praise.

In efery way I tried to brave,
Alme heart to you vas true,
Und only claimed mein honest share
In great deeds vat VE do.
You could not hat a better friend
In sky or land or sea
Den KAISER WILHELM Number Two,
Der LORD of Shermany.

So vat I say dear Gott in dis,
Dat ve shouldt still be friendz
Und you shouldt help to send mein foes
To meet der bitter endz.
If you dear Gott vill dis me do
I'll nodding ask again,
Und you and I vill barners be
For efery more. Amen.

But listen Gott, it must be quick,
Your help to me you sendt,
Or else I haf to stop attack,
Und only blay defendt;
So four und twenty hours I gif
To make der Allice run
Und but me in mein probber place
Der middle of der sun.

If you do tell, I'll do my hart,
I'll dis der world der fact,
But if you don't den I must drink
It is an hostile act
Den vat at once I will declare
Und let mein anger rise,
Und send mein Seppelita ships to vage
A fligt up in der skies.

Der ultimatum dear Gott,
Is von of many more:
Mein mind is settled up to clean
Der whole world off der floor,
Because you vas mein barnier, Gott.
An extra chance las-giffen,
So help at voice or else I'll be Der Emberor of Heffon!

"THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY"

The American Film Manufacturing Company's Picturized Romantic Novel in Chapters.

This contest is open to any man, woman or child who is not connected, directly or indirectly, with the Film Company...

You are advised to see the continued photo-plays in the theaters where it will be shown...

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTER

A feud had existed between Colonel Arthur Stanley and his cousin, Judge Lamar Stanley, over an inheritance, the diamond from the sky...

For Blair had assured him this had been the effect of sudden excitement on an old man's weakened heart...

The impulses of youth are generous. Laying aside even his plans for his future realization of power and distinction...

Then he would save Stanley hall, the proud old place his profligacy had imperiled, from the hands of greedy strangers...

Whom should he employ as his trusted agent in these matters? He thought of the factious and intractable Tom Blake, the Richmond detective...

Arthur resolved to trust Blake. Reaching Los Angeles with the outlaw loot, the first thing Arthur did was to wire the Richmond detective...

Of the money, some hundred thousand dollars, he had found under the skeleton of the horse in the desert...

He could save Stanley hall from strangers and aid Esther and his gypsy mother, both penniless and on the bounty of strangers...

But it was a bitter thought to Arthur that even in this he was using means not rightfully his...

Here's the latest member of the "old-time" family... P. A. is sold everywhere...

"P. A." spells tobacco all over the world

Men of all tastes take to Prince Albert pipe and cigarette tobacco like it just about answers all questions!

PRINCE ALBERT the national joy smoke is the one brand of tobacco you can take liberties with, firing away 24-hours straight without a tongue-kick!

Cut out lamenting for that old jimmy pipe stored away in the rafters; stop fretting about how you'd like to roll 'em, but you don't!

Can you straggle and get that P. A. aroma from somebody else's friendly old pipe or rolled cigarette?

day and a free picnic. Dog agents and the presence of the eccentric English lawyer, Marmaduke Smythe, calvinized the proceedings.
As no purchaser of the whole had come forward, the auctioneer was prepared to sell the historic and proud old place and all the fine old furnishings it contained, in separate lots. Pictures, ornaments, most had been brought out upon the broad piazza to make the auctioneer's work the easier.
Among all these furnishings and chattels nothing so took the eye of the English lawyer as a fine mounted deer head that he was informed had been at Stanley hall for over a century. In fact, some knew how old it was. To the lawyer about to return to England from what he and his friends deemed the wilds of America, nothing appealed so much as this. In just his aimed his gun at the trophy as though it had fallen to his prowess as a hunter.
He resolved to purchase the deer head and take it to England as a trophy of good hunting in "the jungles of Virginia." At his request it was put up as first thing to be sold, and he bought it. The jokes and mockery of the crowd settled Marmaduke Smythe beyond endurance, and so, taking his purchase, he mounted his horse and awkwardly bore it away.

He had hardly gone when Detective Blake arrived, driven over from the Fairfax depot, followed in another station carriage by Blair Stanley and his suite. He mounted his horse and took the thing, upset her, and she would tell you—Mrs. Randolph.

Blake asked that the house and the furnishings be offered as a whole, and tendered an opening bid of $2,000. Mrs. Stanley drew her thin lips together, and Blair nervously handed himself to a suppressed and murderous anger. The Stanley's had not expected competitive bidding. Blake admitted acting for an unnamed client.

Neither Blair nor his mother dared openly affront the auctioneer, as they deemed him. But they bid desperately to the limit of their resources only to see Stanley hail and all its furnishings, save the deer head already purchased by the English lawyer, go for $2,000 to Thomas Blake, the agent of the unknown highest bidder.

They dared not vent their cold anger upon the smiling and inscrutable Blake, but Mrs. Stanley turned with a torrent of bitter, contemptuous gibes upon poor Mrs. Randolph, who happened to remark that her poor nerves were shattered and that she wanted to faint. In consequence Blake and his mother went to their house in Fairfax and did not return with Mrs. Randolph to Richmond.

Earlier reached the gypsy rendezvous worn and exhausted, not knowing of the sale of Stanley hall. The gypsies received her with wild delight, but she only stayed with these sincere though bumble friends long enough to make another unavailing search for Hagar's missing hoard.

Meanwhile what of the diamond from the sky?

It gleams upon the breast of a paopose nursed by its stolid mother, in the glare of the California sun, outside an adobe hut. Luke Loggill, it is fated, is to see and gain again the diamond from the sky. He has bluffed and has become a bootlegger, or illicit whiskey peddler. With a companion of his own ilk he has crossed the desert Indians' but and sees the diamond the squaw has found gleaming in the sunshine, a paopose's plaything.

It is only a bit of glass and tinsel in the mind of the sullen, drink craving Indian father. Despite the angry protests of the squaw, the glistering ornament is bartered for the vile whiskey of the eager white man.
And so the diamond moves on again. Santa Barbara, on the seacoast, resort for rich tourists, is not far away, and thither Luke Lovell and his cronies bear it, seeking a purchaser able to pay the sum of price.

With Arthur Stanley that was, who is John Powell now, how fares he? How have his fortunes, fortunes to be counted on stolen means, prospered? Not well.
Arthur has fallen into the hands of oil sharks and has invested the outlaw plunder in the Good Hope wells. The Good Hope wells have been a joke of these oil fields. But who is to warn a glib-tongued young investor?
John Powell has played with high stakes in a crooked game and has lost. His men who laughed at him behind his back for his stupidity now feel for him. Jack Wilson, his foreman, seeks his despairing young employer and finds him in the slumby that is the office of the Good Hope wells.
"I am sorry, boss," says Jack, "but I'll tell you something. There's oil in the Good Hope. We've struck every indication. If you only had money to drill deeper the oil is there. That money you sent east would save you!"
"It's too late now, Jack; that money saved something more to me than these wells."
"I'm from Pennsylvania," says Wilson. "I believe if we torpedoed the big well we'd start the oil. I know it runs as well if, the oil doesn't start, and already the shysters are coming to take the bait the way you can't be caught we didn't strike oil, and the last payment is due. So let's do something desperate, boss; let's torpedo the big well!"
John Powell is desperate, and he agrees. The man of law representing the union owners loses of the plan and arrives with an injunction.
But the desperate John Powell defies law, as when he was known as Arthur Stanley he defied all order. The lawyer's held back waving the "scrap of paper," the injunction. The nitroglycerin charges torpedo is lowered to the bottom of the well, the fuse ignites, the dynamite is dropped, and all run for their lives. A tremor shakes the earth, and the derrick rocks. Then arises a geyser of mud and a spuming fountain of roaring oil and gas!
The big Good Hope well has "come in" a gusher! John Powell is a millionaire!
No such gusher has ever been known in those fields, as the long dry and long despised Good Hope becomes. No oil millionaire gets rich so quickly as popular young John Powell.
His associate, Jack Wilson, wearing impressively his three dress suits, gives him "the swellest banquet with cabaret trimmings" that Los Angeles leading restaurant has ever known.
Vivian Marston dines with an elderly admirer at this same restaurant the night of the banquet.
John Powell's associates toast and praise him for the pluck and resolution that snatched victory from defeat, and ever Vivian's dark eyes are on the dashing and handsome feted oil magnate.
Her elderly admirer testily endures the pangs of jealousy.
But it is not love or sudden infatuation that draws the dark eyes of Vivian Marston to the young millionaire at the head of the festal board. Where has he seen this lauded young favorite of fortune before?
John Powell's secretary enters deferentially with a telegram. It has come to the offices of the Good Hope Oil company, and the secretary, thinking it important, brings it to the feast.
Arthur opens it and reads:
"Either Harding departed parts unknown. Hagar Harding better. Bought in Stanley hall for $20,000 you sent. Will keep everything until you call."
Either departed for parts unknown. Arthur crushes the telegram in his nervous grasp. Mechanically he hears the friends that honor John Powell clout joyfully, "For he's a jolly good fellow!" As one dazed he rises and departs with his happy, felicitating associates and is hardly aware of the dark eyes of a luxurious woman fastened upon him.
Walled by the green high hills and the gray and higher mountains at its back, beautiful Santa Barbara slopes down to the sea.
Fair as the gardens of the Lord seems the steep to desert, burned eyes of Luke Lovell and his fellow bootlegger as they stand upon the hill near the old mission and gaze upon a panorama as of paradise below them. Far off at anchor on the sparkling waters of the bay a great white yacht rides like a swan upon the tide.
"A guy rich enough to own a skiff like that can afford to buy the diamond from us," growls Luke Lovell. "That night they unite a rowboat at the water's edge, and Luke Lovell dulls upon the oars to bear them out to a purchaser for the diamond from the sky.

But the evil men do who fall beneath the great jewel's baleful spell is not yet at an end. Luke's companion rises stealthily behind him and strikes him down.
There is a hoarse cry in the night, a death struggle on the water. The boat goes over a drowning man, gasps in agony, and the diamond from the sky is sinking in the deep, cold waters.

GOTHAM NOTES

New York State Working on New Constitution.

New York, Sept. 11, 1915. Out of a discord of voices of diverse interests there has come a draft of a new constitution to be submitted to the voters of New York state at the November election. It is not a Barzans constitution, for the boss of the Chicago steam roller of 1912, was beaten at almost every turn, but it is not a progressive document; rather is it a hybrid, a compromise forced upon a reactionary convention by the dominant ability of Elihu Root, who made the pygmies of standpatism accept some measures that look like the reforms that the people are demanding. The short ballot is denied, but it will be far shorter than heretofore, with four elected state officials. There is to be a state budget, some measure of judicial reform and limited home rule for cities and counties, but the provision for an appointed judiciary was defeated. Altogether the proposed constitution is an improvement over the present one, but falls far short of what was expected. Whether it will be accepted on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread remains to be seen. It is easily within the power of New York City to defeat the proposed constitution, which, besides denying real home rule to the municipality, maintains the present arrangement by which the city, with 5,800,000 inhabitants, exceeding the population of the rest of the state by a full million is kept a minority in each house of the legislature.

While England's financial envoys are here to prop up their nation's credit, the idea is put forth that England is the buyer it is for the vendor (America) to see that the loan market is kept stable, and it is surely rested England does not really care about the fall in the value of the pound sterling. But England has to reckon with the fact, she needs America too much. If America does not choose to sustain British credit with loans, England will have to settle, as she insisted upon America doing less than a year ago, when the shoe was on the other foot. It is not to the advantage of England to have sterling depreciate. The heavy gold shipments, $30,000,000 more this week, show that she realizes the plight that she is in.

The New York "swell" set at Lenox whittled away the tedium of an exclusive function by dressing up as babies.

Now we are favored with a new word. "Jiney," we are called upon to maulinate "Jiney," which leads the "Times" to ask whether we are coming to "wagoneer" and "car detour." A futile effort was made some years ago to condemn the innocent motor-man to the title "motorer."

Under one roof in Yonkers, right over the city line, the census enumerators have found a family of 32 persons—mother, eight children, five daughters-in-law and 18 grandchildren. It must grieve the Colonel of Oyster Bay that he didn't discover them.

Again it is Magistrate Hines who generalizes thus: "No woman should be allowed to operate an automobile. She hasn't the strength, and she is very apt to lose her head." You can't blame a police judge for going off on a tangent, when he gets a real case after checking off a dismal lot of drunks and disorderlies.

The talk of peace now has both financial and religious basis. In the first place the fall of the value of the pound sterling is significant, as England was supposed to be the strongest financial power among the belligerents and the one to supply money to all the Allies. It is impossible to fail to see in this situation a factor making for peace.

With regard to the efforts of the Pope to bring the warring nations to a discussion of terms of peace, it was pointed out here this week that he is highly interested in the restoration of Poland, which is a Catholic country. As a matter of fact the Allies are anti-Catholic, Russia being completely in opposition to the Holy See, while anticlericalism rules in France and England has its own state church in opposition to the Roman body. On the other hand, America is a Catholic country, and in Germany there are 20,000,000 Roman Catholics who enjoy equal rights with the Protestants and share in the dignities of state.

Tetotalism has a new ally in the fighting spirit of Hudson County, N. Y. Now Kinkaid has taken making rounds of the prisons and making the prisoners swear to abstain forever from the use of intoxicating liquors. And it can be denied that he is striking right at the chief root of crime.

"What can one man do?" This is often asked hopelessly. Well, one man saw twenty-four years ago that babies were being killed by being fed on milk that gave them tuberculosis or other infectious diseases. He set about saving the lives of the babies of Manhattan by pasteurizing milk for them (keeping it free from germs) and he has supplied 39,000,000 bottles of pasteurized milk at less than cost, besides 21,600,000 glasses of pasteurized milk for the children playing in the parks and on the recreation piers. More than this, he has convinced pretty nearly the whole world that milk must be pasteurized to make it safe as a food and this process is now required here and in a number of other cities. And he has cut in half the death rate among babies in this city. Of course you know his name, for who does not know of the great work of Nathan Straus?

Dr. Edwin J. Clapp, professor of economics at New York University, has written a searching volume on "Economic Aspects of the War," from the strictly neutral and American point of view of the necessity of vigorously maintaining all our neutral rights against all belligerents. He points out the menace to the future of supremacy permitting the establishment of a world government toward the one conclusion that is dominant in sea power may adopt in restraint of commerce any measure it sees fit.

He instances Great Britain's seizure within eleven months of 2,000 vessels with American cargoes, and he points out that while cotton has been the chief sufferer this year, because Russian wheat had next to be bottled up, it may be wheeled next time. Here is something new in belligerent conduct to think about.

The "World" which cannot be accused of any pro-German bias, is strictly in favor of the British blockade of Britain exporting six times as much American cotton as usual, as noted in these letters. The "World" says: "It is something new in belligerent conduct to harass the trade of a friendly nation on the plea of necessity and then seize upon the opportunity to supply the world with a new kind of some such desperate brokerage as this was all that was needed to place the so-called British blockade wholly beyond the pale of law and right."

There is really no use trying to emancipate woman from her bondage. Numbers of them have heroically discarded their corsets on the plea that this armor cramped, confined and weakened their bodies, but here comes the U. S. Public Health Service with a resolution that all the women of 3,000 New York women garment workers, declaring that the corset is a protection, a help to good posture, a rest for the back, that "stump" that is as unhygienic as it is ugly, even though it was recently proclaimed fashionable.

In a year or two the visitor who wants to get up in the world can count on the thirty-first floor of a city hotel to be built in this city skyscrapers.

The release of the American-owned goods still held in Rotterdam by virtue of the British orders in council is still vexing New York importing clerks and driving the owners of the goods closer to the wall, while the State Department optimistically counts upon securing their release by "friendly" negotiations with Great Britain.

But nothing has occurred to justify such hopes, for England has several times repudiated the physical offer to those set off this week and shows no sign of modifying her orders in council. There is a growing insistence upon the part of the War Department to deal more vigorously with the illegal obstructions put in the way of the transportation of American goods.

To make up the numbers of passengers carried on the subway and elevated lines of one company in this city in the year 1914, a plucky man, woman and child in the United States would have to take seven rides. Is it any wonder that the interborough earned "25 cent" is a real little business that brings in 647,378,256 nickels in 5 year.

How many cities are there that spend so much as $18,914,313 in a year for all municipal purposes? Well that is just the amount that Commis-

Woods has asked for the police alone for 1916. As a sentence of events how is this? There was a big strike at the Standard Oil plant across the harbor in Bayonne, N. J., but Sheriff Kinkaid, pounded the strikers into submission and bluffed the office in the granting higher wages. Then the great trust comes along with a resolution directing the managers of all its plants to grant an eight-hour day to all its 25,000 employees. And the price of gasoline goes up from 16 cents to 20 cents!

Talking about the value of plenty of porchroom, here's an Idahoan who evidently has firm convictions on that point.

We'll venture that the medicine cabinet is just that much the smaller.

The more porch and the more it's used, sleeping and awake, the better for health and happiness. And the cost of adding a porch is not excessive.

DELEGATES ARE DIVIDED

Waterpower Conference to Split on Ferris Bill.

Portland, Oregon. — Delegates from 13 states attending the Western States Waterpower conference, who began a three-day session here Tuesday, were divided into two distinct camps Tuesday night on the question of federal control of natural resources.

The conference was called in opposition to the Ferris bill providing for a leasing system of waterpower sites within the public domain, but the meeting was hardly under way before it was indicated that the larger subject of state control versus federal control was to occupy most of the attention of the delegates.

The question involved in the settlement of who shall control the development of the resources of the states is, in the judgment of many, the most vital and important question to our country that has been raised since the civil war," declared Clyde C. Dawson, in sounding the keynote of those opposing federal control.

"The proper solution of this question is for the federal government to turn over to the states the title to all the remaining lands within their borders."

Those opposing the Ferris bill and federal reversion of the public domain were in complete control of the convention and elected Governor William Spry of Utah, as presiding officer.

The minority, however, was active and won a point when they forced a compromise on the appointment of the resolutions committee. It was decided that each state should name its representative to the committee.

All resolutions must be submitted by Wednesday afternoon and the report of the resolutions committee will be made not later than Thursday noon.

Henry S. Graves, chief of the United States forest service, and O. C. Merrill, chief engineer of the forest service, were the speakers at Tuesday's session, when a general federal control. Mr. Merrill, with the aid of assistants, sought to correct certain erroneous ideas about the water power problem, which he declared had been circulated. He said:

"If we disabuse our minds that unresolvable conditions that can be seen readily water power within this generation, at least, will more than partially displace steam power; if we know as we should, that these Western states have developed their water power resources until there is now a large surplus of unused power, and if, with confidence that existing laws should be improved, we recognize that the greater part of the water power development of the West has been done on public lands under existing laws, limited only by the growth of the markets; if we start with the data on our statement of fact, we shall be in a position to discuss intelligently the means by which even greater development may be made, and need not be stampeded, as some would have an attempted into a course of action which we would be certain to regret."

Rights of Public.

Mr. Graves, chief forester, said: "A little while ago it was contended that the public had no right to regulate railroads, that it was the beginning of anarchy even to suggest that they did not have the right to use them as they pleased. Now we are discussing the absolute right of the public to regulate railroads now."

"A little while ago the men who built street railways contended that the corporations who furnish the capital should own the ground upon which the tracks rested. Now no one is permitted to take private ownership of city streets. The day of uncontrolled perpetual grant, or even 99-year franchise, is past, never to return. The day of public ownership, but also for light and water companies and kindred public service enterprises. Water powers are now passing through a similar process, as I firmly believe."

Mr. Graves stated that one of the main difficulties encountered in the development of water power sites was the limitation of authority, which prevented the granting of permits giving a satisfactory security of tenure.

"If the principles in the Ferris bill are incorporated into law," he asserted "I am confident that the difficulties still remaining in administering the public power sites will be removed and I base that opinion both on the development now taking place under a defective law and on the assurances of men in the power business."

It was demonstrated that the federal administration will not be content with anything less than a measure to come before congress embodying the principle of federal control of state owned water power. This was brought out in the addresses of Clay Tallman, commissioner of the general land office and representative of the secretary of the Interior, Mr. Graves and Mr. Merrill. Governor Lister of Washington declared for compromise, and Commissioner Tallman urged the same thing.

The feeling of the delegates opposed to the Ferris bill, in their attitude that the interests of the West will never permit of compromise with the principle of federal control was expressed by ex-Senator Samuel H. Piles of Seattle, who said:

Piles Makes Protest.

"Of course we protest against the Ferris bill. This is not a question of feeling."

"I am quite sure it will be interesting to all of you to observe in the flesh," he said, "one of the gentlemen, so picturesquely described as a Washington bureaucrat by Mr. Dawson in his address."

"I am not a member of this conference, but I assure you I am as intensely interested in its work as any one of the delegates here. I have come, to the conclusion since the opening of the conference that it was called to formulate a protest against the Ferris bill."

"Before the conference opened, I had formed the idea that it was called to consider the facts as to the best method of handling the waterpower question. Serve Warning.

"I must say at the outset that if it is called to protest against the principles of the Ferris bill, I shall be in harmony with its purpose. If, on the contrary, it is called with the view of changing the Ferris bill, or even changing it in its entirety after a square and honest consideration of the facts, then I shall be glad assailing any officer. It is not a question of impugning any man's motives. There is no parsimoniousness or personalism in our attitude. It is simply a question of our fundamental rights.

"It must be admitted by well informed lawyers that the states do own the waters within their boundaries. This right has been upheld by the supreme court of the United States more than once."

Tallman is Editor.

Mr. Tallman spoke with evident to consider all you have to say.

"I think I am perfectly safe in saying that the proper solution of the interior problem should be determined by the interests of the people, of the government, or of the states themselves, grant any proposal, and that seems to be the crux of the whole affair."

"A telegram from Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the Interior, J. L. Craig, of Stockton, Cal., chairman of the board of control of the National Drainage congress, was read to the convention. The telegram read:

"The drainage of our lowlands is one of the great problems of this country which must be undertaken in the near future. I should be pleased to learn that you have formulated a businesslike proposition under which this work can be undertaken."

FOREST FIRES RAGING

Pocastello City Officials Asked to Aid in Fighting Flames.

A heavy forest fire is raging today along Mink, Rutlesnake and Morser creeks in the Pocastello National Forest reserve. The fire is not under control, and may prove very disastrous as thousands of new trees have lately been planted by the government in that district.

It is rumored that a large tract of both the old and new forest has been destroyed. Fire Chief Hanger A. J. telephoned to Mayor Williams and Chief of Police Smith to send a gang of men to fight the fire as soon as possible. A hot fire was reported rounding up a squad this afternoon.

It is also reported that a big fire is raging east of town, near the head of Pocastello creek--Pocastello Triangle.

ORDINANCE NO. 164.
