WHO IS THE VICTOR?

The Times is delighted that the troublesome waterworks question is in a way to be settled by purchase instead of long and costly legal procedure. But it will not come amiss to set forth the facts in the case so that the voters may know just what is contained in the agreement made by the City Council and the Waterworks company. Eighty thousand dollars for the plant to be taken over at the end of six months looks like a concession on the part of the waterworks company, but when the real facts are carefully analyzed by the voters, they will find that Mr. Critchlow of the waterworks company, has gained every point for which he contended and the concession is merely that of the city meeting practically the first offer of $92,500 on the part of Mr. Critchlow.

Let's get at the facts. On September fifteenth or prior the city could buy the plant at $92,500.00. Through the council this was scornfully rejected and an offer of sixty thousand dollars in bonds tendered the company. In six months however, Mr. Critchlow will sell at eighty thousand dollars. He loses nothing by the deal. During the past thirty days that have elapsed since the offer of Critchlow expired, the net returns of the water company approximated $1600. In the six months time in which the company has to turn over the plant, it will take out at least $12,000.00. This will be possible for the reason that all kinds of upkeep or improvements will be avoided. Two men will run the system during that time where four are usually employed. If that six months the company will not have enough expenses and the balance of the money taken in will be added to the eighty thousand paid by the city. Totaled up this will bring the sum actually accruing to Mr. Critchlow and his associates a net $92,500 of one thousand dollars more than his first offer so scornfully rejected by the majority of the city council. It is a barren victory for the city as far as concessions are concerned, yet a victory for the people in that it gives them the open way to a municipal system.

The Times believed that the $92,500 offer was more than the actual value but contended that was the only way out and the cheapest. The stand taken by Mayor Sweeley and Councilman Parrott is also confirmed by the action of the city council taken Monday unanimously confirmed by those who did not act at first.

The water company will soon be out of the way and it is up to the citizens to proceed cautiously in deciding on the best system for this city. It is a time when all the people should get together and work intelligently toward the solution of a hard problem.

CHICAGO BEEF BARONS VERSUS THE BRITISH CROWN

Seven hundred years have elapsed since King John gave way to the barons at Runnymede, and in this interim the British Crown has increased in power so largely that now it defies the beef-barons of Chicago, whose rule has endured unshaken the efforts of more than one Administration at Washington. Our Government is not denied a part in the matter, however, for the British seizure of American meat is characterized by the London Times as "a compliment to American jurisprudence," since the doctrine of "continuous voyage," under which the ruling was made, was promulgated by the American courts during the Civil War. But this compliment does not seem to please our newspapers, whose criticisms of the decision range from denunciations of it as "a British outrage," and "robbery by prize-court" to dispassionate analyses and predictions that it will be reversed on appeal. Some editors, however, share the view of the Wall Street Journal, which sees no ground for questioning the British court's interpretation of the law, and remarks that "if its findings are correct, the decision would be approved even in an American court." Meanwhile those most immediately concerned—the Chicago packing companies of Morris, Armour, Hammond, Swift, and Sulzberger—intend to appeal the case before the British Privy Council, which meets this month. "Should this appeal fail," said a representative of these packers to a correspondent of the New York Sun, "then it will be necessary for the American State Department to conduct diplomatic relations concerning our products and if the two Governments are unable to agree it will probably be necessary to appoint an international commission." In this connection it is interesting to recall that Dr. Dumba in one of his intercepted letters, quotes a partner of the Armour firm saying that the packers still held in reserve a trump-card, namely, "a refusal to export meat to England under any circumstances." While this controversy as the New York Journal of Commerce remarks, "is not so serious a matter as the difference over the German submarine operations," it is nevertheless "so calculated to strengthen friendly relations with Great Britain."

The facts as gathered from press dispatches, are as follows: In November, 1914, four Scandinavian steamships bound from American ports to Copenhagen with American cargoes, including Unad meats, bacon, and rubber, were seized in transit by the British authorities. After innumerable delays the case of these ships came before a British prize-court, and on September 16, nearly a year after their seizure, the bulk of their cargoes was declared forfeited to the crown on the ground that its real destination was Germany, where it would be used by the Army and Navy. In handing down his decision Sir Samuel Evans, president of the court, complained of the bad faith of American shippers and declared that "belligerents are entitled to expect from neutrals a frank course of conduct." As evidence that the goods seized were for German consumption he pointed to the sudden and enormous increase in the number of such shipments to Scandinavia immediately after the outbreak of the war. These four ships when captured, he said were carrying more than thirteen times as much meat to Copenhagen as under normal conditions would be taken to that port. To rule otherwise than that this surplus was for German consumption, he said, would be "to allow one's eyes to be blinded by theories and technicalities."

In a statement given to the press by the attorneys of the Chicago packers we read: "England's confiscation of four cargoes of American meat valued at $2,500,000 and the holding of thirty other cargoes valued at $12,500,000, as announced in press dispatches, are not justified by the facts or any principle of international law. It can only be construed as another step in England's policy to interfere with the trade of American citizens with the citizens of neutral countries."

"All these shipments were destined neutral countries, and the ships' papers at the time of their seizure clearly showed such fact. They were not destined to or for the enemy of Great Britain, and upon the trial of the case no evidence showing they were destined to such enemy of Great Britain was adduced and none could have been. This makes necessary further presentation of stronger protests to the Department of State for an equitable adjustment of the claim."

"From the start these seizures have been arbitrary and unwarranted, and in spite of vigorous protest on the part of the State Department to the representatives of Great Britain."

"It would appear from the brief dispatches that the court bases its right to seize these shipments on the theory that the amount of products being shipped to Denmark in these neutral ships is in excess of quantities received prior to the declaration of war. These neutral countries received large quantities of these products through German ports prior to the war and through other sources of supply which the war cut off. That these countries wanted more of our products than before furnished no justification for such seizure."—Literary Digest.

forming him that Mr. Gilmore had won the Idaho championship, the Top Notch club said that the medal would be sent to the governor's office and suggested that the presentation of it be accompanied by some sort of ceremony, to be observed at one of the fairs held in the state. Arrangements for some such observance will probably be made.

Credit to Idaho.

Mr. Gilmore's record for corn growing was such as to place Idaho ahead of a number of states, some of which have for years been noted as corn producers. Even the records of Kansas and Missouri were surpassed by Idaho.

States whose records were exceeded by Idaho in production per acre, were Ohio, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Washington, New Jersey, Indiana, New Mexico, Vermont, Delaware, New York, North Dakota, Arizona and Rhode Island.

The best records were made by the southern states, and the grand champion of the United States was won by Cecil Adams of Alabama, who produced 239 bushels to the acre.—Statesman.

FILED NEWS

(From the Filer Journal).

Dr. Allen returned last Friday from an extended vacation.

Mrs. L. C. Hill of Twin Falls, spent Field Day in Filer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lutz, of Murree, Ill., were visiting here Saturday.

Miss Strubbe and Miss Fancie of Twin Falls spent the week end as guests of Mrs. Geo. Leonard.

Frank DeKloz and a man by the name of Brewer have purchased new Oakland cars this week.

Steve Long contemplates an extended visit to Kansas soon to line up a lot of land he owns in the Sunflower state.

The Ladies' Aid will meet Wednesday, Oct. 6, at 2:30. There will be work for all, also election of officers.

All members are urged to attend.

A program of singing will be held at the M. B. C. church, at Filer commencing Oct. 9. Rev. Rich, of Weeping Water, Nebraska, as the evangelist in charge should insure him a good hearing.

Rev. Finley came up Monday from Burley to get his things packed ready for shipment. He reports a splendid reception at his new charge and thinks he will like it first rate in that thriving young city.

Rev. Crutcher preached his first sermon here Sunday morning, but owing to the stormy condition of the weather the attendance was not what it should have been. Had weather seems to effect church members more than any other class of people. All the regular services next Sunday.

Agent Truitt will return tickets to Twin Falls Saturday evening.

Miss Wolfe of Twin Falls was a guest of Miss Minerva Stevens last Saturday.

The little 25-year-old daughter of John Kueser fell and cut her face on a foot scraper last Tuesday afternoon, causing a very severe wound.

A son of E. F. Walter at Clovet sustained a severe laceration of the chin, exposing the jaw-bone, while playing letter-totter yesterday afternoon.

Fred Drake and Wm. Walters, accompanied by Fesse Bros., of Wyoming, Neb., who are visiting here, left yesterday morning for the Ketchikan country in quest of big game.

From time to time the Journal will publish papers prepared by students of the high school who are studying English. Papers where there seems to be exceptional merit will be handed in by the teachers. Two papers will appear next week.

Dr. Dwight had to vacate the parsonage for the new minister this week and as there is not a vacant house in Filer, was compelled to rent the Rev. Finley farm to get shelter. The doctor has rented the office building occupied by Dr. Allen and will be in town just the same.

While bragging about our great country for its wonderful productiveness along agricultural lines, let us not forget another great industry—the busy bee. The best honey the market affords is the honey from the Twin Falls country. The first car of honey from Filer was shipped last Friday, and the destination was Old Time Idaho Honey Producers' association.

The car, while it is O. Newberry, Geo. O. Gould, and E. G. Sherer furnished the honey. This car was the product of 700 colonies of bees. The car was in charge of C. H. Silmsen, the local secretary of the association. Six cars will be shipped from the Twin Falls tract this fall, cars averaging about $4,000 each. $24,000 worth of honey is not a bad showing and the industry only in its infancy.

JANE GREY ENGAGED FOR FEATURE PICTURES

J. C. Hillman, a partner with J. H. Leach in properties on Trout creek, left for a month's visit in Portland, Ore., after a short visit in Portland, Idaho. Mr. Hillman will take in the exposition at Fresno, returning to his home at Shafter, Nevada, after a few weeks in the California metropolis. Contact Almer.

The members of the Shamrock Club were very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Chas. H. Leach Friday night, September 29th. During the afternoon a little farce was enacted by the following members, Mrs. Dallas, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Mallory and Miss Alta McMillan. Miss Nellie McCoy gave a reading. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Robert C. Dooley, aged 28 years died in this city Friday after a lingering illness of typhoid fever. He is desired to mourn the death, a wife and baby. Mrs. Dooley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tryphel, who live near this city. The remains were shipped to the old home of the deceased at Keytesville, Mo., Sunday morning. Only a few months ago a brother of the deceased passed away from the same trouble.

NEW CALCULATING MACHINE Western Inventor Will Revolutionize Adding Machine Business. A neat compact little machine that will add, subtract, multiply and divide is the invention of a Californian, H. M. Merchant and which machine already has had a wonderful demand all over the country, there being over 1000 corporations using the machine.

A factory established two years ago at Oakland, Cal., is today working in overtime in order to turn out the machines fast enough to fill existing orders, as the company is way behind. The company is now building a factory that will represent an expenditure of over $300,000 so that they will be in a position to open up the Eastern Territory and supply the growing demand. The firm of Gross and Miller, Inc., a bonding house of Oakland, Cal., have bought out the issue of shares of the Merchant Calculating Machine company.

Gross and Miller are placing this stock on the market with the purpose of interesting private capital in the enterprise which last year earned nearly 12 per cent on the outstanding capital. With this in view Messrs. C. Falk and Roy K. Weston, of the Boise country, are in this city at the Rogerson Hotel. They have located their business headquarters in the Bedford-Fisher Drug company's store where they have wonderful little machines on exhibition.

Mr. Falk stated to the Times that the cost of selling and manufacturing was about $15 for each machine, which sell at $250. The profit will be a very handsome one as can be easily seen. As soon as the big factory is on a working basis the company plans to make a machine exact as to its ability to do the same amount of work for somewhere about $150, thus making it the cheapest portable computer on the market.

Messrs. Falk and Wilson will be ready to show the machine to all are not taking any orders and are busy solely for the purpose of interesting Twin Falls investors. They have splendid credentials and the company manufacturing the machine has a large number of testimonials from its manufacturing concerns who are using a number of the computers and saving the labor of three or four accountants.

The machines are not only accurate beyond that of human beings but is capable of quickly doing problems that will rack the human brain. The public should take advantage of the opportunity to see the little machine work and investigate the proposition.

CALIFORNIA'S SECRET!

Do They For Poor Farmer, Declares Writer.

The Editor of the Pioneer Press:—It is not said that settlers may eventually apply to the state of California.

Who has not read and delighted in the beautiful photographs here and there sent out by the California land agents to lure the unwary?

And, also, how many have snapped at the alluring lures and have gone to the land of promise only to find it another misery? Is it not true that truth were being told about this new western world? You may have already sunk their little me in this loss.

Therefore, after three years of personal experience and close observation, we would not the secret of California be known; to warn away the new settler, to let him know that California is for the millionaire only. Unfortunately, one cannot get either estate or scenery, much less live on them, and a man with but a few thousands would soon starve in "sunny California." What chance, then, for a poor farmer?

In the great Sacramento valley the land is subject to the most disastrous floods, which come, rarely as fate, at least every third year, overwhelming, sweeping everything, even the flowers and young fruit trees. The water stands twenty-five feet deep, rising to the very roofs of homes and covering the great stretch of land like one vast sea, the waves rolling and beating ruthlessly, snatching one being after another from its foundation to cast it into a thousand pieces.

These floods remain on the land for six or seven months, preventing the possibility of a crop for that year. And yet they will tell you that there is a "reclamation board" which sees that the levees along the river banks are built so high that "there is no longer danger of flood." You are assured from $25 to $50 an acre, annual "reclamation tax" and you have your land.

Last winter there had been an unusual fall of snow up in the mountains and in February when that snow melted, swelled the rivers to raging torrents which fairly laughed at the levees considered so all-sufficient by the reclamation board, there followed one of the worst floods in the history of the valley, account of which was suppressed that prospective buyers at the exposition "might not be scared out."

This was an event which should have been a chuckle by old settlers. For you must know, no matter that the state may say, the fact remains that new settlers have discovered to their sorrow that the old Californian does not extend a glad hand of welcome to the intruding new settler. This attitude toward the small hydra of the present day; those many small items which go to make up comfort; this reclamation, which does not reclaim, yet which takes so heavily; none of these things is mentioned by the California real estate men. The lawyer of moderate means, yet with brains to dream, thinks he has found the reclamation of his dream, and with glowing heart crosses the continent to this "land of golden delight" to discover too late that "all is not gold that glitters" for a very.

Thus, between floods, sandstorms and sun-baked desert land, which reduces a fortune for the irrigation absolutely demanded in order to make it produce, the new settler goes down into the black depths of utter despair. "TWICE STUNG"

DUMBA RECALLED

Baron Dumba, Foreign Minister, Announces That Action Is Final.

Washington — Dr. Constantia T. Dumba, Austrian minister to the United States, formally has been recalled by his government and the state department is arranging with the British and French embassies here for his safe conduct on a steamer sailing from New York October 5.

This announcement was made Tuesday by Acting Secretary Polk after receipt of a cablegram from Ambassador Pentfield at Vienna telling of his conversation with Austrian officials and a message from Dr. Dumba asking safe conduct in accordance with instructions from his government. The incident is considered closed.

State department officials explained that when the original notice asking for a recall was presented by Ambassador Pentfield, the Austrian foreign news contemplated recalling Dr.

Dumba "on leave of absence." Dr. Dumba received word to that effect and asked for safe conduct.

No Leave of Absence.

Ambassador Pentfield, however, was instructed to make clear informally to the Austrian foreign office that Dr. Dumba's official relation with this government must be severed and that a "leave of absence" would not be satisfactory.

Baron Dumba, the Austrian foreign minister, then sent instructions to Ambassador Dumba to return to Vienna and at the same time told Mr. Pentfield "the recall is, as a matter of course, final."

Verified at Vienna.

A record of this conversation was shown to Baron Durlan and verified before being transmitted by Ambassador Pentfield, and when the state department received the copy was sent to Dr. Dumba for his information.

It had been thought at first a formal answer to the note asking for the recall of Dr. Dumba on account of his plans for interfering with American munitions plants might be awaited before safe conduct was obtained, but the assurance of the Austrian foreign minister, even though given in conversation, was regarded as sufficient, because it later officially was verified by him and made a matter of record between the two governments.

BETTER THAN A BATTLE SHIP

Arrow Rock Dam Will Add Wealth to State and Nation.

Boise, Ida., Sept. 29, 1915.

When a great battleship is launched a bottle of wine is broken and there is much shouting. Details of the affair are sent broadcast over the land. Stress is laid on the size of the guns, the thickness of the armor, the speed, the superiority of the ship as an engine of destruction.

Arrowrock will present a different picture October 4 when the great dam is dedicated. Settlers will gather by the thousand, but instead of breaking a bottle of wine they will release a flock of pure white pigeons to carry greetings and good cheer to every community on the Boise project.

the dedicatory address; Governor Alexander will speak on behalf of Idaho, and J. H. Lovell will give a brief history of the project. Hand music, the singing of "America" and the release of the pigeons will complete the program.

Two trains will be run from Boise to the dam on Monday and the exercises will be held immediately upon the arrival of the second train. Time will be given all visitors to inspect the work. One excursion train will also be run every day during the week of the Gem State Fair.

FEDERAL GAME LAWS FOR 1915

A Summary of the Provisions Relating to Seasons, Limits, and Licenses.

The present bulletin, containing the sixteenth annual summary of the game laws of the United States and Canada, has been prepared on the same general plan as those issued each year since 1902. It includes a summary of the more important features of the new legislation, a brief synopsis of the new laws enacted by each state and province, and a series of tables showing the provisions relating to seasons, export, sale, limits and licenses. It differs from other publications of game laws in several important points: (1) Inclusion of a brief review of the measures enacted; (2) arrangement of provisions by subject instead of by states; and (3) adoption of a uniform statement and order of the various details to facilitate comparison of similar provisions in different states. Its chief objects are to present in convenient form the restrictions on hunting which affect the enforcement of the Federal laws; to present interstate commerce in game and protection of migratory birds; and to show the condition and trend of legislation from year to year. Provisions relating to methods of capture, game refuges, enforcement of laws, disposition of fines and fees, and matters of special or local application are omitted. These can be found only by reference to the laws themselves or to the pamphlet editions of the game laws, obtainable in most states from the proper officials.

Review of Legislation of 1915.

More than 240 new game laws were enacted during 1915—a larger number than in any previous year except 1911. Forty-three states have regular legislative sessions, and in all of these states except Arizona, Georgia and Nebraska some changes were made in the statutes protecting game. The largest number of new game laws passed in any one state was 51, in North Carolina; but in California, Connecticut, Maine, New Jersey, Oregon, and Wisconsin the number of laws enacted was ten or more. Several measures were vetoed, including the general game bill in Idaho, the first bill appropriating to the game fund in Pennsylvania, a bill protecting bears in California, and three sections of the game bill in Washington. A number of bills were introduced for the purpose of harmonizing the state laws on migratory birds with the federal regulations. In California, Tennessee and West Virginia the bills were introduced which brought the seasons into substantial agreement, viz., California, Connecticut, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, Tennessee and West Virginia; in Illinois the seasons for all migratory birds except coot and waterfowl; and in Washington for the smaller shore birds were made to conform with the regulations under the Federal law. Uniformity was also secured by provisions in the laws of Connecticut, Maine, New Jersey, North Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin, prohibiting between sunset and sunrise. On the other hand, Delaware adopted a resolution opposing the migratory bird law, and Ohio, through its legislature in 1914, changed the laws on waterfowl this year.

As a result of the decision of the Supreme court of the United States on January 19, 1914, sustaining the alien hunting law of Pennsylvania, protection against alien hunters on hunting or owning shotguns and rifles was enacted in at least four states—Massachusetts, New Jersey, North Dakota, and West Virginia. Certain exceptions based upon property qualifications were made in Massachusetts and New Jersey.

Changes extending for several years were provided for certain kinds of big game and also for game birds. Hunting mountain sheep was suspended in Idaho, Montana and Washington, and goats were protected until 1918 in Montana. Moose were protected for four years in Maine, the first such protection for this species for 35 years—since the suspension of hunting from 1878 to 1890. Antelope were given absolute protection in New Mexico and Montana; in Michigan, New Mexico and Oklahoma, prairie chickens were protected for several years. Michigan extended complete protection also to quail, imported pheasants, grouse, and wood ducks for five years. Minnesota protected doves, woodcock, plover and wood ducks until 1918. New Jersey gave protection to pheasants, bobwhites, pigeons, and swans. Oklahoma protected doves, grouse, wood ducks and curlew until 1919.

Tennessee declared ring neck pheasants, bulbates, robins, and meadowlarks to be nongame birds. In a few cases protection was removed from certain species—namely, turkey buzzard in Delaware, Florida, and North Carolina; owls and starlings in New Hampshire; and cormorants in Illinois and North Dakota.

For the first time in 12 years moose hunting is permitted in Wyoming; and for the first time since 1907 prairie chicken shooting is permitted in Indiana. Among the novel features in the laws this year may be mentioned the denial of Florida law to the ownership of game in the respective counties; the provision in the California law protecting spike butts, or deer with unbranched horns instead of deer with horns of a certain length; and the Wyoming experiment of allowing the killing of 50 bush moose under $1000 instead of an indefinite number during a limited season. Methods of hunting were restricted in Michigan by prohibiting the use of snares on deer, and in Indiana by prohibiting the use of search lights or other artificial lights attached to autos for the purpose of hunting deer. Several new restrictions on shipment appeared for the first time; Illinois prohibited importation from points outside of the state of game which had been illegally killed. Pennsylvania prohibited shipment of game by parcel post, and Wisconsin, shipment under express, without the authority of the commissioners of fisheries and game to grant permits to bring in game lawfully killed out side of the state provided such game is not offered for sale. The more important changes affecting big game included the closing of the season for four years on moose in Maine; authorization for the killing of 50 bull moose in Wyoming; lengthening the season on elk in Montana two weeks; closing the season on moose in Montana; sheep in Montana; changes affecting deer in 4 states including the removal of protection in Florida, New Jersey and Wyoming; establishment of a limit in Arkansas and decrease in the limit in Alaska, Michigan, Montana and Nevada. Under the present conditions deer hunting is permitted in 36 states, in about one-third of which the hunter is limited to one deer a season and in most others to two. Seventeen states protect deer at all seasons and allow only bucks to be killed—namely, Alabama, Arizona, California, Georgia, Idaho, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Pennsylvania requires that deer killed shall have horns 2 inches above the hair, New York and Vermont at least 3 inches long, and West Virginia 4 inches long, while California prohibits entirely the killing of spike bucks. Substantially the same regulations in favor of protecting quail for several years in some sections, no bills of this kind were passed this year and 35 states still provide quail shooting. The seasons were shortened six weeks in Oklahoma and two weeks in Nevada. Limits were established for the first time in Arkansas and Connecticut, reduced in Oklahoma from 25 to 10, and in Minnesota from 15 to 10 and increased in Nevada from 15 to 20. All but fourteen states which permit quail hunting now have a limit of 20 birds or less per day.

All the states now allow waterfowl hunting but the water duck is prohibited for several years throughout the northern zone and in the southern zone in the states of California, Kansas, and West Virginia. Daily bag limits were established for the first time in Arkansas and Connecticut, reduced in Oklahoma from 25 to 10, and in Minnesota from 15 to 10. Most of the states now have a limit of 25 or less per day. Open seasons were lengthened in Montana on elk and deer two weeks; Florida on deer and birds three weeks; in Minnesota on quail 20 days; and in Nevada on sage hens four and a half months, on grouse one month and on quail two weeks. In West Virginia the former plan of hunting deer for four consecutive Wednesdays instead of five consecutive days.

Seasons were shortened a number of states. In the case of big game the deer season was curtailed in Arkansas three months; in Oregon and Washington two weeks. In Nevada the seasons were generally shortened and arranged in two districts divided at latitude 35 degrees. In California the deer season was made later and in Minnesota shortened 20 days; in Oklahoma the quail season was curtailed six weeks, and in Michigan and Wisconsin the seasons on Wyoming, spring shooting of water fowl was abolished.

Three important changes have radically altered the seasons on waterfowl in Mississippi valley during the present year. In February the supreme court of Arkansas held that a local law which prohibited the sale of game in the Chickasawba district of Mississippi county, Ark., was unconstitutional, and that the general law prohibiting shipment of game imported from other states as well as in other parts of the state. A little later the legislature of Tennessee prohibited the sale of all protected game within the state, thereby cutting off the market for ducks killed on Redfoot lake. Finally, in June, a new game law was passed in Illinois, which prohibited the sale of all game, native or imported, except rabbits. For 20 years or more Illinois has permitted the sale at certain seasons of game imported from other states. Illinois now not only prohibits the sale but also the export of all protected game except rabbits. Missouri has strengthened its export law by a provision prohibiting export of quail for any purpose.

A bag limit law was passed for the first time in Arkansas—applicable to deer, bear, turkey, quail and ducks. Limits were established in Connecticut on squirrels and waterfowl; in New Hampshire on quail, ruffed grouse and woodcock; and in Pennsylvania on bear. Indiana opened the season on prairie chickens for the first time in several years and provided a limit of five birds per day. Reductions in limits were made on deer in Alaska from 6 to 3, in Montana from 3 to 2, and in Michigan and Nevada from 15 to 10. Only a few increases were provided: in Illinois on shore birds, in Missouri on birds (except turkeys) from 10 to 15, and in Nevada on quail from 15 to 20.
