RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Ministers' Union Ask People to Shop Early.

That thoughtfulness for others' happiness and the cheer and gladness of the Christmas time may be universal it is absolutely necessary that each "Look not every one on his own things, but also on the things of others." Phil. 2:4. To do this and thoughtful, big-hearted person, will seek to help to Christmas cheer the salesman and satisfaction who patiently seek to satisfy the wishes and confusion of the time. Thoughtful ones will shop early in the day so as to avoid the rush and over-exertion of the afternoons when brain and muscles are strained to the breaking point, they will finish their shopping before next Friday afternoon so that the salesman may have a little breathing spell before the dawn of the day of Christ's birth, and may not be compelled to go into the day with worn, hoarse and mind and with the complaints of the thoughtless who, because of the rush, could not be served promptly or with the care their selfishness demanded.

The Ministers' Union of the city of Twin Falls in a meeting on Saturday determined unanimously to make this personal appeal to all in the interest of universal Christmas enjoyment, and in the larger interests of sympathy for others in the strain and stress of life to shop early in the day and finish by Friday noon at latest.

For the ministers, J. F. SHEPHERD.

HAWK BREAKS WINDOW

Bird Takes Plunge Through Window of Laverling Furniture Store.

On Saturday afternoon a hawk took a plunge through one of the plate glass windows of the Laverling Furniture store. The bird must have become confused while making its way through the city and seeing the bright lights of the merry-go-round in the shop window of the store, made a dash for the lights. The employees of the store were busy engaged Saturday afternoon when they heard the crash of broken glass and saw a part of the big front window shatter into a thousand pieces. Seeing two little boys standing in front of the window one of the men went out and asked the little fellows who threw the rock. One of the boys said that he saw a man that a bird had flown through the plate glass. Upon investigation the hawk was found on the inside of the store and it will cost a law-yring about $150 to replace the window.

ASKED TO RESIGN

Probate Judge of Blaine County Short in His Accounts.

County Attorney Proctor K. Perkins last week asked Probate Judge Harry A. Adams to resign his office. The county attorney was asked to do this by the board of county commissioners.

Expert Accountant Clarence Van Deusen it is alleged, found Mr. Adams' accounts short several hundred dollars, and it appeared to the board that the shortage was sufficient to call him to resign.

Judge Adams has held the office of probate judge for 12 consecutive years, and was elected to his present term at the last general election. He maintains Van Deusen has made no errors in his checking and Adams with a force of clerical assistants are at present re-checking to see if the errors charged against him have been made. —Arco Advertiser.

Efforts Made to Sell Twenty Thousand Here.

LOCAL COMMITTEE IS ACTIVE IN PUSHING SALES OF STAMPS

Proceeds From Sales Used to Combat the Ravages of Tuberculosis in the United States.

The sale of Red Cross stamps being conducted by a committee from the Twentieth Century club is going very well considering the short time in which they have to sell. The committee consists of Miss Jessie Warrington, city chairman appointed by Henry L. Falk, of Boise, president of the Idaho Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis; Mrs. P. H. Smith, Miss Edna Graham, Mrs. C. A. Eames, Mrs. F. H. Ormrod, Miss Elizabeth Rogerson and Mrs. Ira O. Brown.

There has been no time to organize special committees as is the custom, the effort being made by attempting to sell all the stamps individually. A supply of 20,000 was sent from the headquarters in Boise and every effort will be made to sell the entire number. It is the desire of the committee that Twin Falls be at least second in the list of towns successful in the sale of Red Cross stamps.

The stamps sell at one cent each and are to be placed on letters and packages sent out of the community. The entire fund secured by the sale of the stamps goes to the national-wide fight against tuberculosis. Twenty per cent of the money received in Idaho for the sale of the stamps in this state is returned to Idaho by the National Red Cross society to be devoted to this work in Idaho. It is used to support hospitals, free clinics and dispensaries, and to support trained nurses who are sent into the homes of the poor to teach them how to live and how to care for those who are sufferers from the great white plague and to prevent the spread of the disease.

When these objects are once understood by the people practically every one will be glad to buy the stamps of the bright little stamps, so cheap in price yet so precious and valuable in the service they do.

For sale by all members of the committee, also at the Ladies' Aid Room, Skeels-Wiley Drug Store, Closs Book store, Majestic Pharmacy and the City Pharmacy.

They are good for use until January 1st, 1916. They give every package and letter a mark of distinction, by the board of county commissioners.

If I spend my Dollars out of Twin Falls and you spend your Dollars out of Twin Falls, and all the People spend their Dollars out of Twin Falls, WHAT IN THE THUNDER WILL BECOME OF TWIN FALLS?

THINK ABOUT IT Twin Falls Commercial Club

Now that Woodrow is safely married perhaps the world will recover its equilibrium and the daily papers will get down to something besides pre-nuptial tummy-rot.

Governor Moses is spending a great deal of the state's time in the wilderness of Idaho trying to round up the faithful to the fold. It is suggested that Idaho's governor should advertise an "At Home" day each month so as to get acquainted with the few details of that petty office.

With the letting of the contract for the bridge across the river at Murtaugh, the controversy which has lasted for the past few years, bids fair to be settled. The Murtaugh people are entitled to the bridge and every one is glad that they have won the contention. It is to be hoped that they will drop the fight and turn in and boost for the rim to rim bridge.

The Republican party of this state certainly has plenty of candidates for the governorship and a mighty good lot of men to pick from. It would look as though from the bunch a man of high type of character can be chosen who can lead the party to victory. The voters without exception in the two branches of the party are anxious to make concessions and wipe out the sting of last year's defeat. With a united front there is no question concerning the victory.

Republicanism today stands for more than the individual opinions of a rabid standpatter or a radical Progressive. It is apparent to those who think that neither has all of the virtues nor all of the faults. Republicanism should and does stand for America first and the protection of American industries, American farmers and American laborers. On this common ground the two factions should find enough to work together. The crisis is fast approaching when the Republicanism of Lincoln will have to be the platform of all the party. It is a platform of broader democracy than was ever dreamed of by the followers of Jefferson.

REPUBLICAN FORECAST OF THIS PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

The war in Europe has affected American business and sentiment in many ways since August, 1914, yet it touches no more intimate feature of our national life than the presidential campaign of the coming year. The "sins" of the Democratic administration are many and various, say Republican critics, ranging all the way from the Underwood tariff and the Mexican "middle-down to congressional Democratic "incompetency." Just the war returned the country from hard times by making the United States the chief market of the world for the purchase of war-munitions and supplies, and this prosperity and our success in keeping out of the Mexican and European troubles lead some Republicans to aver that Mr. Wilson has made such a success as a war-president that the important problem to be recognized in 1916 is how to beat Wilson rather than how to beat the Democratic party. "If the war is still on," has the Indianapolis Star (Ind. Rep.), "the issue will be the president's war-policy, and he will be re-elected easily. If the war is over, the issue will be our domestic policies and any Republican can be elected." Yet, although one Illinois editor claims that the Republicans could elect a "yellow dog" next year because of Democratic hard times, nevertheless he and not a few of his colleagues state that it behooves the party to pick a man who is of unimpeachable proportions on the stump and will not shrink in size before the grave problems the approaching years shall lay at the door of the White House.

The supreme issue of the campaign, according to the St. Louis Globe Democrat, will be the tariff, which, despite many other issues, is "more sufficient unto victory." The tariff is hailed as the dominant feature of the Republican platform, in fact, by 451 Republican editors out of 685 in response to the country-wide inquiry of The Literary Digest. Added to the tariff—which many editors urge should be taken out of politics and regulated by a non-partisan commission—are other issues, including preparedness, credit with 105 mentions. There are two kinds of preparedness, it appears, in the minds of our informants: the defensive, which is upheld by the majority and the emphatic, which is not exactly offensive, but would like to see any one not fit to the test. Prohibition and woman suffrage are not infrequently proposed; and among the rest we encounter the following: Mexico; our foreign policy; real neutrality; progressivism; a merchant marine; peace; the square deal to big business; prosperity, which is the Republican synonym for protection; the Democratic war-tax; the Philippine policy; America first; the war in Europe; the Panama Canal tolls; the Progressive platform of 1912; and the failure of the administration.

But there is an issue within the party that evokes conflicting opinions from our editorial observers. Will the Progressives run an independent ticket in 1916, or will they rejoin the Republican party? As we travel across the continent from Bangor to Los Angeles we shall discover that the farther East we remain the surer is the expression that the Progressives like the Prodigal Son, have "tired of a hunk-diet and are back in their father's house." Officially, they may run a ticket, but the rank and file will vote the Republican ballot, though some will vote with the Democrats—such is the greatest concession made to their influence in New England. In numerous sections of the Middle West we are informed that "there ain't no such animal" as a Progressive, or that he is "an extinct species." Yet from Ohio onward to the Pacific coast statements appear and reappear continually more thickly, despite contrary assertions, that the Progressives will vote with the Republicans if the latter name a Progressive candidate and platform; but that if the old stand-pat leaders and doctrines rule the convention, then the Grand Old Party will suffer rebuke No. 2 in 1916. As another editor expresses it, in such an event "there will be trouble in Iowa." We have an authoritative forecast of the action of the third party from Mr. George W. Perkins, chairman of its National Executive Committee, who, in a Chicago dispatch to the New York Sun is quoted as saying: "The Progressive party must and will have a national ticket in the field in 1916."

In the matter of candidates chosen in the poll it should be noted at the beginning that certain contributors to it who class themselves as Republicans speak rather as Democrats or advanced Progressives when they name President Wilson as their first choice and a Progressive Republican or Progressive as their second. Other observers pick possible candidates seemingly from a point of view of uniqueness. Thus Henry Ford would be the choice of one "if he is a Republican." Major-General Goethals also is mentioned once or twice because of his Panama achievement, and Major-General Leonard Wood, by an editor whose soul is tuned to preparedness.

TALKS ON THRIFT

The thrift habit is a sister to a good many other beautiful habits. It is of the industry, and of course, thrift, is economy, and economy means the care of things and their proper use. You do not waste anything that can be used. You save it, care for it, preserve it. Children should early be taught the savings-bank habit. Such children will grow up—at least most of them will—able to do a great deal of good and willing. The banks of this and other communities in their various campaigns for new saving accounts have done a great deal of service. The habit of thrift is one that should be cultivated and cost education. Our country, as a rule, were economical and saving in their habits. In many instances to be thrifty. In these latter days the saving habit seems to have fallen into disrepute in many quarters. Not how much can be set aside for future needs, but how much can be spent for present pleasures seems to be the thought.

This state of mind is all wrong. There is need of education along the line of saving, and this newspaper is willing to do its share to promote it. All good banks accept money from their depositors on a guaranty that their funds will not be risked in any way.

Good bankers believe that banking is trustfulness, and that their first duty to their clients is to safeguard deposits with more care and faithfulness even than they would their own money. Bank directors are trustees for stockholders, and stockholders as well as directors are trustees for depositors.

You must have money. There are very few worth-while things in this life that don't cost money. To enjoy them one must pay the price.

You—the average persons making up 99 per cent. of the population of this community—must earn money if you would get any lasting good from it.

There is no better place for you to save than in a savings account at some good bank. Do it now.—T. D. MacGREGOR.

HOW TO USE THE RED CROSS SEALS

Red Cross Seals should be in accordance with Order No. 5,020 of the post-office department, "to be affixed to the reverse side of domestic mail matter" and not on the address side of any letters or packages that are going through the mail. They may be placed anywhere on matter going by express. As many seals may be used on the back of a letter or package as may be desired. Care should be exercised in sending merchandise through the mails not to place seals over the strings with which the package is bound. The seals should be placed against inspection and subject it to first class postage rates. Users of Red Cross Seals are cautioned against indiscriminate use on foreign mail. Red Cross Seals in normal times may be used on the reverse side of mail matter sent to Austria, Germany, Great Britain and most of the British colonies, except India and Australia. Guatemala, Uruguay and Portugal refuse to admit mail bearing nonpostage stamps. Certain European countries will return to the sender any mail bearing Red Cross Seals on the address side. Mail addressed to any of the belligerent countries in Europe should not bear Red Cross Seals on the address side. Red Cross Seals may be used on the face of checks, bills, on legal documents and on any commercial paper. The Christmas seals are not good for postage. They will not carry any mail matter, but any kind of mail matter will carry them.

BEST SUGAR BEET YEAR

Sugar Beet Production for 1915 Breaks All Records.

Preliminary returns from practically all operating sugar factories in the United States indicate a production of 386,200 short tons of sugar during the current campaign. The area harvested amounted to 624,000 acres, and the beets, 6,462,000 short tons. This is the largest acreage and tonnage of beets ever harvested in the United States and the sugar production exceeds the highest preceding crop, that of 1913 by nearly 133,000 tons.

Imported sugar, however, has been coming in smaller quantities. During the nine months ending September 30, 1915, imports were about 227,000 short tons less than during the corresponding nine months of 1914. Approximately one-half of the sugar consumed in the United States is of foreign origin, one-fourth comes from our inland possessions, and one-fourth from the beet and cane sugar industries of the United States proper. During the year ending June 30, 1915, about 3,546,000 short tons were imported from foreign countries, 1,008,000 came from Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippine Islands and about 909,000 short tons were produced within the United States, making a total of 4,613,000. Exports, which are usually little small, amounting to 275,000 tons in the year named, leaving a net supply of 4,338,000 short tons, yet counting stocks at the beginning of the season. In 1910-14 the yearly consumption of sugar in this country averaged nearly 83 pounds per capita.

Preliminary Estimate.

The beets were grown and harvested within the calendar years mentioned, but in both years sugar-making in some factories continued after December 31. The acreage and production of beets, as in former reports are here credited to the respective states in which the sugar was made.

CROP VALUE TEN BILLIONS

Banner Year in Most All Farm Products, Sum Total Exceeds Records.

Washington, Dec. 15.—This year's principal farm crops were worth $6,270,465,000 at December 1st farm prices, the department of agriculture announced today in its final estimate and review of crop production and values. That compares with $4,873,527,000 last year, $4,966,497,000 in 1913 and $4,757,458,000 in 1912. With the wheat crop passing the billion bushel mark for the first time in the nation's history, corn production reaching a three-million bushel total for the second time, and record crops of oats, barley, rye, sweet potatoes, hay and rice, the year has been an extraordinary one for farming. Prices paid farmers for some crops have been higher than in other years because of the European war and as a result the value of some of the crops is the largest ever recorded.

The value this year of each crop based on its farm price on December 1st, with last year's crop and the year was produced, is announced as follows:

Crop	1915	1914	Record value	Year
Corn	$1,755,359,000	$1,722,070,000	$1,710,000,000	1914
Winter Wheat	302,230,000	675,623,000	675,623,000	1914
Spring Wheat	308,290,000	203,027,000	231,708,000	1912
All Wheat	930,502,000	878,690,000	878,690,000	1914
Oats	555,259,000	499,431,000	429,431,000	1914
Barley	122,499,000	105,903,000	139,182,000	1911
Rye	41,295,000	37,018,000	37,018,000	1914
Buckwheat	12,498,000	15,592,000	16,812,000	1867

Sweet Potatoes	46,800,000	41,284,000	42,884,000	1913
Hay	912,320,000	779,005,000	855,595,000	1912

Sugar Beets	35,800,000	30,438,000

Olelala Learn Utah Concern Has Taken Steps to Protect Rights.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 19.—That the Utah Construction company of Ogden, purchaser of the Big Lost River irrigation project and its irrigation system, is taking steps to protect its rights against the threatened cancellation of the lands within that project by the government, has been learned by state officials.

Engineers in the employ of the company have been busy on the project for the past week investigating the Lost river by settlers who have taken up lands along the stream and built ditches by which the water has been diverted. The project and the company claim a priority right to the bulk of the water of the Big Lost river, and every effort will be made to maintain that right.

The Big Lost river project is offering a knotty problem to the state as well as to the company. Hope has not been given up by state officials that they can meet the company on common ground so that it can go ahead with its plans for the expenditure of a million and a half dollars to reclaim the project. There are approximately 100,000 acres of land in this project.

The original Big Lost River company entered into its contract to irrigate this land with the state April 30, 1907. The cost to provide a system to irrigate the land was to be $3,500,000. There were 60,745.17 acres of land filed upon by 664 settlers. A bond of $175,000 was given to the state by the company to assure completion of the contract.

The company became financially embarrassed. Suit was never instituted on behalf of the state to recover under the bond. The project was finally sold at public auction to the Utah Construction company.

For some time this company has been making a thorough investigation of the project. It finally decided to reclaim it by replanting the Mackay dam and making certain improvements to the canals. A proposed contract with the state was submitted to the land board and by that body refused.

as it did not, in the opinion of the board, come up to the requirements of the state nor did it guarantee the water. Since then the company and board have not been able to get together on a contract.

The commissioner of the general land office notified the state land department that unless something was done on the Big Lost river project the lands would be turned back to the public domain. January 1, 1916, was the date named for the required showing to be made. In the meantime settlers have squatted along the Big Lost river taking land for homes and have appropriated such water as was needed for irrigation purposes from the river.

This appears to have complicated matters in relation to the project, although the register of the state land board has ruled that the squatters are without rights to the water or any of the land in the project under the present status.—Statesman.

The balance of the fund is being held in trust until sufficient amount can be gotten together to really do some good.

Many Needs for Funds. "There are a great many ways that this money can be used. If I have the proper influence over the state board, the money we raise will be used solely for educational work and not for any particular charitable case that might come up, as it will be at least several years before Idaho can do direct work of this sort. As may be readily seen, if we were to take five or six individual cases up, it would take away from the general fund of our next year's work. Our duty to expend this money for educational work. While at this time I cannot promise any definite plan, a visiting nurse, I think, should be sent from town to town, particularly the towns that have contributed so that they may call on the tuberculosis sufferers, explain to them preventative, etc., give lectures to the women's clubs and try to organize city relief work. I think, should be sent to this work, the whole state can get the good and not any single individual.

Will Make Report

"When the campaign is over, an itemized expense account will be made up and sent to every city chairman.

This report will also contain the amount of stamps that each town has sold. The planning of our next year's work will probably be deferred until about the first of next August, so the work that is done will be of assistance to our sale of stamps next year. It is my idea to have every community see the direct benefits that we shall try to give them."

Theda Bara in Great Production at the Isis Thursday and Friday.

At that time the management will introduce the "Galley Slave" to the theatre goers of Twin Falls. In this production Theda Bara the great Parisian actress will take the title role of Francesca, the vampire woman. Miss Bara admits that one striking feature of her impersonation of Francesca is due to the careful schooling she underwent to adopt a peculiar serpentine walk which she uses with great effect in playing the part.

COMMODORE TOM AT LAYERING

Clover Little Horse to be Seen Last Three Nights of This Week.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week Manager Layering has made arrangements for one of the greatest hits in vaudeville, Commodore Tom the educated pony will be seen on these evenings. Perhaps never in the history of vaudeville has anyone been able to see such an intelligent animal. The clever little horse goes through his tricks with a display of intelligence that is marvelous. He adds, spells, plays music, picks colors, two-steps and tangoes in a very human way. He shows his appreciation of the applause, just like a real actor should by making his bow to the audience. Along with Commodore Tom will be several other first class vaudeville acts direct from the Western Managers Vaudeville circuit, of which the Layering is a member.

scenery and special lighting effects make this act one of the finest on the circuit. This is a big feature and is pleasing the Twin Falls theatre-goers. "The Mad Millionaire" is chapter 24 of "The Diamond From the Sky". This marks the beginning of the end of this great photoplay, only six more chapters to be seen at the Orpheum. In "Seeing America First" the traveler is taken on the Maid of the Mist for a trip around the great falls of Niagara. "Keeping Up With the Joneses" is still pleasing the public. "The Mystery of Eagle Pass" is a drama featuring Helen Hodge, the Thannhouer child actress. "The Sting of It" is a drama, showing how a misunderstanding was overcome and all ended happily. The Orpheum program is a good one from start to finish.

The great popularity of the Schubert soloists is not altogether an account of their grand voices, but in part because they study to please the people. All their encores are either amusing, or artistic arrangements of those sweet old melodies so dear to the American hearts. Hear them at the Layering Theatre, Tuesday evening, December 28th. Admission $1.00, 75c and 50c. Children, 25c. On sale at Skeels-Wiley Drug store on and after December 22, when reservations will be made.

LOOP TRAIN DERAILED

Boils Placed on Railroad Track Near Rexburg.

Monday afternoon the train on the belt line was crossing the bench back of Rexburg and near the community of Kruger the engine was thrown from the track by some bolts which had been placed on the track and fastened down. The engine and train was not moving rapidly and the engine thought it left the track was soon stopped and none of the train crew were injured. It is not known whether the placing of the bolts on the track was malicious or the work of boys. Special agents of the company are making an investigation of the matter, and every effort will be made to locate the guilty parties that it may be impressed on them the nature of the offense. If boys, conviction of placing the obstructions on the track would send them to the reform school, and if men, they could be sent to the penitentiary.
It is stated by the roadmaster and others who use small motor cars on the belt line that they have several times narrowly avoided injury when they happened to see objects just in time to stop and remove them from the track. The matter has become serious and with the derailing of the engine yesterday the railroad officials have decided to go into the matter thoroughly. —Hibey Star.

SEALS HELP HIMSELF

A lad of eleven entered the Anti-Tuberculosis society's headquarters yesterday. He had left school some time ago. Yesterday he saw some of the boys and girls who had been in his school room carrying Christmas seals, and he thought he would like to help contribute to the relief of the tuberculous patients in the city. He got some seals from one of the children and sold a hundred of them.
Enthusiasm with success he thought he'd try to sell some for himself. When he reported at headquarters the nurse looked at him and then took him into the clinic. There in a few minutes an examination showed marked signs of tuberculosis, and today little Tony is in the sanatorium starting on a bigger fight for health. His hundred seals helped to give him his chance for life.

CHANGES IN STATE LAND OFFICE

Reorganization 'Along' Conservative Lines Due at Capital Jan. First.

Boise, Dec. 16.—Changes of an important nature are scheduled to take place in the state land office on or about January 1. The state's land office will be moved into the new capitol building and the work centralized. At the present time the land office work is divided among three departments, in the office of the Registrar, the office of the Land Commissioner, and the State Treasurer's office. It is claimed that by concentrating several clerks and stenographers can be dispensed with, effecting a considerable saving. Just what the amount of the saving will be cannot be foretold until the system is put in operation. It is claimed that by having the offices of the Registrar and Commissioner in one room, one set of clerks and stenographers will answer for both offices where two sets are now required. The same claim is made of the treasury clerks now employed in land office work.

The work of reorganizing the land department was started while Lieutenant Governor Taylor was acting Governor and is the outgrowth of a movement started at that time for economy, efficiency, convenience and economy in handling the work of the land office, which has grown to be one of the greatest institutions in the state.

Why Not Reorganized Before?
The question may be asked why these changes were not made long ago if there be room for a reduction of expenses and an opportunity for greater efficiency. The answer is that the business of the department has grown so enormously that any organization attempted has outgrown itself every few years. Now divisions were added from time to time as the business increased, and these had to be added as the years went by, and arrangements that seemed adequate a few years ago have been entirely outgrown.

The following figures will give some idea of the great volume of business that is transacted by the state's land office:

There are 1204 farm loans in force, representing $2,664,390.74. During the current year 154 mortgages have been completed, representing $262,470.

The value of the school bonds held is $2,397,241.63.

Money received to date from the sale of timber lands, $1,417,300.

Land sales, most of which are upon time contracts now running, amount to over $5,000,000.

The acreage under lease now in force amounts to 1,049,072.

The actual cash receipts of the state land office for the current year amount to $1,317,432.40.

The land grants from the Federal Government to the state amount to 3,318,000 acres, and the land office has the care, maintenance and disposition of these enormous holdings.

The land department has selected classified and cruised the state land. It has devoted a great deal of effort toward securing clear titles from Washington. It conducts sales of land and timber from time to time and relinquishes title proceeds in farm loans and school bonds. It looks after the collection of deferred payments on lands sold, and the collection of interest on sold lands and upon mortgages. It leases other lands and collects the rentals. It buys school bonds and collects the interest and payments when due. The care of all these matters requires business judgment, executive ability, and a vast amount of clerical labor.

The volume of business done is far in excess of that of any financial or banking institution in the state, and is rapidly increasing. The work is accomplished with a fewer number of employees and at less expense than any business institution of like magnitude in the country.

Notwithstanding this record, the Land Board desires to bring the land office up to the highest point of efficiency and at the same time practice every economy that good service will permit. The changes ordered to take place on January 1st have these ideas in mind.

WILL NOT BE APPOINTED

Governor Alexander Refuses to Appoint Saloon Man to Office.

Governor Alexander was indignant this morning and did not hesitate to so express himself. His impatience was caused by the action of the Democratic county central committee of Blaine county in asking him to appoint Wesley Broshers, a resident of that county, commissioner. Successor W. F. Horne, the alleged defaulting county commissioner, who disappeared some months ago and whose whereabouts is said to be unknown. The governor made it plain he has nothing personal against the man, the committee recommends. But what he considers most objectionable is that he has been and is said to be still engaged in the saloon business and has been recommended for appointment as such chief executive at this time, when Idaho is on the verge of entering a protracted dry period which will call for the most rigid anti-liquor enforcement. The governor will not follow the committee's recommendation.

After Commissioner Horne had mysteriously disappeared, the governor had been making warrants as alleged, and he would not return, the office of county commissioner was held vacant until immediately thereafter when William Rember and S. J. Benson entered the race to succeed Horne as commissioner. Both were active, both received strong and favorable endorsements, in fact they were recommended so highly it was difficult to select the lucky man for the appointment.

To solve the problem the Blaine county Democratic committee met last Saturday. The committee eliminated both Rember and Benson. It selected an entirely new man, an endorsed Wesley Broshers, recommending that the governor appoint him and today their recommendations arrived.

The governor considers it highly improper to ask him to appoint a man engaged in the liquor business at the present time with the statewide prohibition law effective a less than a month. He fails to comprehend why the committee did not follow this, it is said. The commissioners of the various counties will have much to do with enforcing the laws especially in making appropriations of funds to accomplish this. It was very evident from the governor's attitude that he feels keenly the action taken and will not follow the recommendation of the committee when makes the commissionership appointment.—Capital News.

HUDSON PREPAREDNESS

Last year we doubled the capacity of the Hudson factory. The Hudson was then by far the best selling car in the field. We anticipated a still greater demand for the new Hudsons with their added refinements. But their popularity exceeded our fondest expectations. Even with our increased capacity, we were not always able to keep up with the request for cars. So some who wanted Hudsons had to wait for them.

We do not intend to have this happen again. Last year's experience with rising popularity has taught us the necessity of thorough preparedness. The new cars will be still more sought after. They show still further progress. So we are once more doubling our capacity this time at a cost of $1,500,000. No one who wants a new Hudson will have to wait for it after the first of the year.

As we have previously announced, we shall continue to use the six-cylinder type of motor. Our engineering department has explored the field to see whether other types should be adopted. The search left us convinced that the six-cylinder type, as developed in our engineering department, remains supreme for pleasure vehicles.

Purchasers of Hudsons may be sure therefore, that they are receiving the benefits of the most advanced knowledge and experience in motor engineering.

They may be sure also of enjoying the latest artistic developments in the seven Hudson bodies, which we shall continue and which have already achieved a fame equal to the fame of the Hudson Motor.

U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

Summary of Annual Report of Surgeon General.

The annual report of the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service records the largest amount of work performed in the history of that service. Since the passage of the law of 1912 the public health functions of the Service have materially broadened, thereby increasing the number of cases of communicable diseases.

Perhaps the most important achievement of the year was the discovery that pellagra is a deprivation disease, resulting from a faulty diet containing an excess of carbohydrates. While the final experiments which led to this discovery have only recently been completed, the interest itself is the culmination of investigations extending over a period of seven years.

The work has consisted of epidemiological studies, actual field experiments conducted at numerous places in Georgia and Mississippi, and experimental studies at Spartanburg, South Carolina and other places.

A new national quarantine station was opened at Galveston, Texas, and the department of the Public Health Service was transferred to the State Health Service. A great reduction in immigration has been observed during the year, a corresponding increase in the number of alien certified.

At the port of New York, the percentage has risen from 2.23 previous to the present year to 3.77. This increase largely being due to the fact that with the decreased immigration more time is available for the examination of the number of cases treated at Marine Hospitals and relief stations exceeded 25,000, 15,000 of which were hospital patients, a considerable increase over previous years.

The Coast Guard Cutter "Androscoggin" was fitted out as a hospital ship and now affords relief to deep sea fishermen on the Banks of Newfoundland.

On the occurrence of plague at New Orleans, the first outbreak upon the Gulf coast, the State and local health authorities requested the Public Health Service to take charge of the situation. Extensive rat-proofing and other sanitary measures were undertaken, resulting in the eradication of the disease from among human beings, and the practical extermination of the rodent infestation.

Great reduction in the incidence of malaria was obtained in localities where surveys were conducted. Drainage projects, rice culture studies and the conditions surrounding the impounding of water for power purposes were investigated in order to eradicate as far as possible the disease in these areas. Scientific investigations of malarial infection showed that in the latitude of this country the most important agent in carrying the infection through the winter season is man, and not the infected, hibernating, Anopheles mosquitoes as was previously supposed.

From the standpoint of prevention this is a discovery of considerable value. Studies of occupational diseases and industrial hygiene were instituted at several places during the year. A survey of the industries of Cincinnati was made to determine the cause of the prevalence of tuberculosis among industrial workers. The investigations relating to the migration of persons from tuberculosis were completed.

Upon the request of the health authorities of five states the organization and the respective boards of health were studied and recommendations advanced for improvement in the powers and duties of these boards. The same organizations in several cities were likewise investigated.

Investigations of the pollution of water were also conducted. Trachoma was combated in the Appalachian Mountains, where it is most prevalent, and a means of eradication. Surveys in certain states during the year showed that the disease is not an uncommon infection.

Additional studies have been imposed upon the service by extension of relief benefits to the newly organized Coast Guard and a national program of seamen applying for the rating of "able seaman." For this reason, and because of the greatly increased health care of a national program in the commissioned personnel is recommended. An additional building for the hygienic laboratory and the establishment of a national dispensary for the proper segregation and care of cases of leprosy are also recommended.
