

THE TWIN FALLS TIMES

CHRISTMAS CHARITIES

Many Poor People of City Rejoice Over Donations

LITTLE FOLKS ARE NOT FORGOTTEN IN DISTRIBUTION

Associated Charities Aided by Generous Townspeople Bring Cheer to Number of Homes.

More people turned "Good Fellows" in helping make Christmas a time of rejoicing to those less fortunate than themselves, this year, than ever before since Twin Falls had its first general Christmas tree.

Besides the children of school age who were remembered by the Parent-Teachers Ass'n., over fifty children were made happy by generous hearts who donated to the Associated Charities everything necessary for a Merry Christmas.

These children received furs from a tree early Saturday morning at Mrs. Pickard's, while gay boxes and bundles and red stockings full of sweets and toys were left on Christmas eve at the homes of others.

Two families and sixteen men living alone and "bachelors" were furnished generous baskets from "coolest" chickens, apples, jelly, fruit, etc., etc.

One of the best-looking boys on the block, sleeping in a barn, and conserving their scant funds till work opens up again, said: "That's the first thing I've seen this year that made me think of home and mother."

In a good many instances a pair of warm mittens was added.

Four comforts and some overcoats were received the day before Christmas and brightened the hearts of some fellows who were suffering with rheumatism and cold.

Following are the names of those contributing food for Christmas dinners: Mesdames Evans, Howcliffe, Wallington, Jack, Stelnour, Bourke, Bristol, Miller, Jester, Walkington, Hinton, Packard, Unknown, mittens and scarfs; Baptist S. S. supplies, dried fruit, groceries; Methodist Sunday school, 5 sacks apples, 5 sacks potatoes; Mr. Stinson, 1 sack flour; Rural club, potatoes.

GIRARD-HOOVER NUPTIALS

The many friends of George Hoover the popular real estate man, were somewhat surprised on Christmas eve to Miss Claire Garrard of Burley. The newly weds will spend a three weeks honeymoon on the coast and will be at home in this city some time in January.

The groom is one of the bustling young business men of this city who has built up a splendid business reputation and his host of friends here congratulate him upon his new venture. The bride is one of the charming young women of Burley and has through her skill in this city made a large number of friends who will welcome her to this city.

SELL POTATOES

South Idaho Producers' Ass'n. Advise Sale of Rural.

Important Circular No. 25. Pocatello, Ida., Dec. 27, 1915.

We have advised holding all season, but now we want each local to ship from five to ten cars of Rural to the market as they can.

Every market is practically bare, and we are offered $1.15 for twenty cars. In our judgment growers may safely count on $1.20 Pocatello.

Now quick action in this matter will enable you to hit the market while the demand is strong, which is always a great advantage.

Whoever consented long forty thousand, straw and paper, and burry papers here.

We think perhaps the market will go as high this week as it will for a month. Growers who have a number of cars should certainly move a few on this market.

We advise holding Cema but ship your Rural.

Now, let there be a couple of weeks of unusual activity on your part to set shipments.

Yours truly, SOUTHERN IDAHO PRODUCERS' ASSOCIATION.

By S. J. Donaldson, Secy. and Treasurer, Mazzer.

The present reports indicate that every market is better than ever before. The country is still exporting some to the United States.

Conditions have resulted just as we predicted early in the season. A year ago in the East the price of Rural was $1.20 to $1.30.

A large Nebraska crop has stood in our way to some extent, but is now moving up and will no longer be a factor.

Two weeks ago Colorado was under selling our prices 20c per cwt. on the purchase of Rural.

Washington - Investigations to determine the cause of soaring gasoline prices probably will be conducted simultaneously by two government agencies.

MEMBERS CLUB OF KIMBERLY M. E. CHURCH HAS LARGE PLANS

Rev. Mr. Stewart Gathers Men of Neighboring Town into Organization at Luncheon.

The boosters of Kimberly are presenting a solid front to the world as the result of a get-together luncheon held last Monday evening in the Methodist church at that city.

The plan of the club according to Mr. Stewart is to promote in a broad gauge manner, the civic welfare of the town.

None of the men reside in New York. The majority live either in Chicago or Washington and are expected to appear Wednesday before United States commissioners in those cities to give bonds for their appearance in court here.

Idaho Falls is always pulling off something original, or at least changing its mind on some project, though, of course, changing one's mind is not particularly original.

Now it has eaten its zoo, according to reports.

PROMINENT MEN INDICTED

Charged With Conspiring to Foment Strikes

Now York-Eight men, including a congressman, a former congressman and former attorney general, of Ohio, were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiring to foment strikes in American war industries.

The men indicted were Congressman Frank Buchanan, of Illinois, former Congressman H. Robert Fowler, of Illinois, Frank S. Monnet, former secretary general of Ohio, H. H. Bourne, Herman Schwitzer, Frank Von Hintelten, David Lamar and J. C. Taylor.

All of the men except Von Hintelten and Lamar are officers or former officers of Labor's National Peace council. The government charged that this organization was financed by Frank Von Hintelten, a German agent, to instigate strikes in munition plants, while ostensibly working in the interests of international peace.

None of the men reside in New York. The majority live either in Chicago or Washington and are expected to appear Wednesday before United States commissioners in those cities to give bonds for their appearance in court here.

WESTERN PACIFIC TO REORGANIZE

May Mean Building to Southern Idaho in 1916.

OWNERS OPTIMISTIC OVER OUTLOOK FOR ROAD

Now Non Back of Road are Power in Financial World. Reorganization Will Take Place Soon.

What is taken by local financial and railroad men in touch with the situation to mean extensive railroad construction in southern Idaho by the Western Pacific Road Co. or its wholly allied interests, is the announcement in the Wall Street Journal, copies of which have reached Boise of the details in connection with the Western Pacific reorganization plan.

The plans are so far advanced and there are firms and men of such well known financial reputation as to seem as to leave no doubt that the money is at hand and that in 1916 there will not only be some important railroad news announced but better, more actual construction work which will mean a great deal to Boise and southern and southwestern Idaho.

The Wall Street Journal says: The reorganization plan for the Western Pacific, provides for the formation of an operating company and of a holding company, the latter to own the stocks of the operating company and issue in exchange thereof its own preferred and common stock in exchange for deposited bonds of the present Western Pacific Road Co. or its wholly allied interests.

The actual cash cost of constructing the Western Pacific amounted to approximately $77,000,000. The sources from which these moneys were provided were $46,242,120 from sale of 350,000,000 first mortgage bonds; $18,760,000 from sale of 25,000,000 second mortgage bonds; $163,000 from sale of $75,000,000 capital stock; $8,170,140 from interest on trust funds deposited.

Where Money Came From. The actual cash cost of constructing the Western Pacific amounted to approximately $77,000,000.

THINK ABOUT IT. Twin Falls Commercial Club.

The Times extends to its readers New Year's Greetings, with the sincere wish that nineteen hundred and sixteen may be the very best year for all. To the business men and patrons of the Times also wishes to tender its thanks for the splendid patronage of the past and to further enter into the New Year with the same cordial friendly relations which have characterized the dealings of the past nine years.

The Times urges that the taxpayers of the City of Twin Falls do not neglect to register and vote in favor of the waterworks purchase bond, on February third. Make the vote a big one in favor. Let's forget every other political claim for the time being and work for the first step in the final accomplishment. There should not be a single man in the City of Twin Falls opposed to the issuance of the bonds. It means lowered taxes for the city and the end of a useless warfare between the city and a private company.

But above all it means that eventually Twin Falls is to have pure water that will be a pulling power in bringing more people to this city to make their homes. It means that the reputation for poor water that has given this community a black eye is forever killed.

No matter what may be the individual opinion of the taxpayer about the right source of our water supply, there should be no divergence over the plan to get the private company out of the way, and to put the city the ownership of a revenue producing utility. Let's make the vote a big one.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 15.—THE BREAD LINE AND THE BANK LINE

Stretching clear around the block at Broadway and Eleventh street, New York, any night at twelve o'clock will be found a line of hungry, dejected, unkempt, homeless men. Some are old, some young, some middle-aged. But all are men, waiting for the cup of coffee and the roll which has been theirs for the taking every night at twelve o'clock for those many years and will be for many years to come. It is the famous bread line, with tragedy all its own.

Stretching not so far, a few blocks to the north, almost any day will be found another line of clear-eyed, well dressed and prosperous looking men and women, waiting to put their savings in the bank. It is the bank line. It has no fame, for no one has ever written it up. It has no tragic, no pitiful side.

The bank line stands erect; the bread line droops. The bank line moves fast; the bread line slowly. The bank line has something else to do; the bread line hasn't.

Ask the men of the bread line; how came you here? and they will answer, poor training, bad environment, bad companions, idleness, shiftlessness, drink! Some may have been unfortunate, some misguided, or unguided, some inherently bad, some weak; but as a rule thriftlessness in some form brought them here.

Ask the bank line: What brought you here? and they will answer, good home influences, proper training, good management, economy, care, though, hard work, sobriety, honesty, integrity, thrift.

Ask the bread line: What of the future? and they will tell you that they don't know—the park, the poorhouse, potter's field, when the bread line no longer finds them able to stand in line for a sip of coffee and the little roll.

Ask the bank line: What of your future? and they will tell you peace, comfort and contentment. The rainy day has no terrors for them; let the bread line worry about the weather.

The bread line's good times are in the past—gone. The bank line's good times may not have as many thrills as the bread line's good times have had or be quite so hilarious, but they will last longer and be more satisfying.

The bank line has worked on the proposition that 2+2 equals 4, while the bread line has worked on the theory that 2-2 equals 0. Both are mathematically correct; but the minus proposition has more hurts in it than the plus. And the hurts last a long time.

The roll and the coffee of the bread line are as near nothing as a man can get; but the bankbook in the hands of the bank line is the best thing that a man can have. It will never desert him. It will stick by him in any kind of weather. It will feed him, nurse him, and pay his rent.

It will bury him and the bread line never does that. Humanity divides itself into these two lines, the bread line, going down hill and the bank line going up hill; the bread line, whose future is behind them, and the bank line whose future is before. It is to choose between them.

On and after January first, 1916, the present advertising rates of the Times will become cancelled and an increased schedule go into effect. ORDINANCE NO. 171.

FOR THE SUBMISSION TO THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF THE CITY OF TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, AT A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON THE 31st DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1916, THE QUESTION OF AUTHORIZING THE CITY COUNCIL OF SAID CITY TO ISSUE $80,000, IN BONDS OF SAID CITY, OPTIONAL AFTER SAID CITY HAS BECOME 20 YEARS FROM DATE TO BEAR A RATE OF INTEREST NOT EXCEEDING 6 PER CENT, FOR THE PURPOSE OF ACQUIRING BY PURCHASE THE EXISTING WATER SYSTEM OPERATING IN SAID CITY, TO BE OWNED AND OPERATED BY SAID CITY AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE PAYMENT OF THE INTEREST AND PRINCIPLE THEREOF BY LEVY OF THE NECESSARY TAX THEREFOR.

WHEREAS, in the opinion of the City Council of the City of Twin Falls it is necessary, in order to furnish to its citizens necessary protection from fire and for the furnishing of water for domestic and commercial purposes, that the City should own its system of water works, and that it is for the best interest of said City, that the same should be owned and operated by said City, and that the question of the acquisition of said water works system and the issuance of bonds therefor should be submitted to the qualified electors of the City of Twin Falls;

STORE NEWS

The custom of having special sales, marked down sales, semi annual sales, and the many other sales, that are held by some stores, is one that causes many complaints, and much dissatisfaction, particularly among the regular customers of those stores.

Those who buy early and pay the regular prices, do not like to see goods offered later in the season at big reductions from the prices that they have been asked. There is a feeling, and a natural one, that some one has not been treated fairly, particularly when the goods offered are of the most staple kinds.

Has it ever occurred to you that when you buy goods of one of these stores, during the regular season, that you are contributing towards the reductions that they may make later on, and if you are not a regular customer there, and buy only when they have sales, that you are paying about the same prices that you should have been charged during the regular season.

The prices of all kinds of staple merchandise are much higher now, and will be for the coming season, than during the past year, and if a store sells its staple merchandise now, at big reductions it will be obliged to raise his advances when you want goods later on.

Please do not understand that I am not a believer in buying special or closing out lots of goods, provided they are desirable, and giving my customers the benefit of such purchases, and as evidence of this, be on the watch for some of the special lots that I shall soon offer you good folks, as a mark of appreciation of the splendid support you have given me during the past six months.

WATCH OUR SHOW WINDOWS EACH DAY AND BE SURE AND WATCH FOR THE CHANGES IN PRICES EACH DAY. YOU WILL BE OFFERED SOME REAL BARGAINS.

Those stores that pay big rent; those who do a credit business, with all of the cost and losses that go with it, and have all the many expenses incidental to that way of doing business, must necessarily charge enough for their goods to cover all this extra cost of doing business, and then add enough more to show a profit.

Do not believe in the high cost of doing business that is indulged in by so many stores now-a-days. It is really an indulgence, in fact, it has almost reached the stage of dissipation, the sort of dissipation that is very costly; it is an extravagance that the purchaser pays for, and pays for most dearly.

I am out of the high rent district. I have no partners to share with, no stock holders to provide dividends for, no store managers or buyers, that add so much to the cost of doing business, and who are not vitally interested in the success of the business, and do not have your interest as a customer so much at heart as the sole owner of a business naturally would.

I keep no books of account, and consequently have no losses. I make all my own purchases, and enjoy peculiar advantages in making them. My cost of doing business is much less than others. In fact I can sell goods, and make a profit, at what it costs other stores and the mail order houses, to do business. You can readily understand that I can afford to do business for less than others, and I give my customers the benefit of this saving.

I provided against the advances that have been made during the past few months, by making my purchases a long time back, and am in a position to continue to sell you goods at lower prices than others will be obliged to ask you.

I shall continue to give you remarkable values in Hosiery, Knit Underwear, Calicos, Neckwear, Suspenders, Gloves, Shirts, Night Gowns, Aprons, House Dresses, Waists, Skirts, Petticoats, Muslin Underwear, Cotton Blankets, Bed Comforts, Bed Spreads, Counterpanes, Towels, and other lines.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Manager Mangel of the Isis theatre will present another of those splendid Fox pictures, "The Two Orphans," one of the "greatest" of photographs taken from the immortal play by Adolphe D'Ennery, is staged with Theda Bara, Jean Sothorn and Wm. E. Shay taking the leading parts.

The scene showing the prison of Balpatrie, the most infamous place of captivity that ever existed, is equally elaborate. It consumed a week's work to erect, but so immense is the open air stage utilised by William Fox that room was found for it on the same boards as the streets of Paris scene, which the latter its construction was carried out with as much care as if it was really being built as a place of incarceration. The result of this care are two marvelous scenes unequalled heretofore in the history of motion picture making.

VAUDEVILLE AND PICTURES

For the first three nights of next week the Lavering theatre will have a splendid attraction in vaudeville and motion pictures. The Karuz will be seen in something new and startling, called comedy shadow-graphs. Young and Gilmore will also be seen in novelty dancing.

"Exploring Ephraim's Exploit" is a typical funny cartoon, marked by humor. "Giving Them Fits" is a one reel farce comedy good for the blues.

During construction and $12,215,918 from money borrowed, income from operating, etc., or a total of $34,242,774 the difference between this sum and the amount of actual cash expended being represented by payment of first mortgage bond interest after the completion of construction. In round figures the Western Pacific now owes the Denver & Rio Grande railroad or its subsidiaries $55,500,000 which includes money advanced with accumulated interest to February 28, 1915.

The plan requires cash of $16,600,000 which will be distributed as follows: $2,000,000 to distributive shares of non-assenting bondholders; commissions and reorganization expenses, etc.; $2,575,750 for betterments to the existing road and $2,514,000 for the purchase of new passenger and freight equipment and $10,506,250 for the acquisition and construction of extensive new equipment. The plan also provides for cash trust notes for new working capital, etc.

It is estimated that on March 1, 1916, the receivers will have on hand for use by the operating company, $300,000 in cash available for the plan and that the balance of the $18,500,000 cash requirement will be secured by sale of first mortgage bonds, $10,000,000 by an underwriting syndicate of $20,000,000 par value new bonds together with certain stock of the holding company.

The $20,000,000 first mortgage bonds and defaulted coupons to March 1, 1916 amounting to $3,750,000 will be refunded into stock. Unsecured obligations of $10,250,000 and "contingent" obligations of $500,000 will be paid off in cash. There will be eliminated by foreclosure $25,000,000 par value secured mortgage bonds, $25,000,000 par value floating claims for interest on second mortgage bonds and unsecured debt owned by the Denver & Rio Grande and $750,000 in cash.

The new operating company will issue $20,000,000 par value first mortgage gold bonds of an authorized issue of $50,000,000; $27,500,000 6 per cent preferred stock and $47,500,000 common stock. The holding company will issue $27,500,000 6 per cent non-cumulative 6 per cent preferred stock and $47,500,000 common stock. Securities outstanding in the hands of the public, therefore, will be represented by the $27,000,000 new preferred stock and $47,500,000 preferred stock and $47,500,000 common stock of the holding company, except that the preferred stock to the extent of $500,000 for each $1000 of old bonds as shall not become subject to the plan and also common stock to the extent of $750 for each $1000 bond, will be returned to the treasury of the holding company.

which has underwritten the sale at 90 and accrued interest and which will receive for each $500 cash, $1000 par value in new bonds of the operating company; $125 of preferred and $500 of common stock of the holding company.

The Equitable Trust Co., Blair & Co., William Saloman & Co., and E. H. Rollins & Co. have agreed to form the syndicate for a commission of one-half of 1 per cent or $500,000. The underwriting syndicate, in consideration for underwriting the sale of $20,000,000 bonds and the offer to loan funds to depositors, is to get a cash commission of 2 per cent, or $400,000.

Total capitalization, unsecured debt, miscellaneous claims, etc., outstanding against the old company, amounting to $175,954,000, will be reduced to $55,000,000 under the plan and represented by $20,000,000 bonds and $75,000,000 stock, preferred and common. Annual fixed charges of approximately $470,000 against the old company will be reduced to $1,000,000 against the new company.

No provision is made in the plan for the allotment of any property, securities or money provided by the plan, to unsecured creditors, or to stockholders of the old company.

After this date I will not be responsible for any debt contracted by my wife, Mrs. A. J. Curtis, as she has left my bed and board, without just cause or provocation.

Each guest received a Christmas toy.
A large crowd attended the Christmas club dance last Friday night. Many of the college students who are home for the holidays attended and the affair was unusually delightful.

One very enjoyable dance of the holidays was that given by the guests at the Justamere Inn last Wednesday night. The rooms at the Inn used for dancing were very artistically decorated in Christmas garlands. Punch was served in the dining room from a table laden with ropes of smilax and red crepe streamers. A twelve o'clock light refreshments were served. Among

THE IRON STRAIN

Ed Markley, Louise Glum and Truly Shattuck with Dustin Farnum.
In putting forth the Alaska love story, "The Iron Strain" as his first contribution to the new Triangle program, Thomas H. Ince has brought together the most talented women of his studio in the company of Dustin Farnum, who plays the part of Ed Markley's leading woman is Miss Edna Markley, who is associated with "social butterfly" types, and knows the part of Edna's mother. Ince entrusted the subtitle role to Louise Glum, ordinarily a leading woman but here playing a subordinate part, to provide a perfect complement. Even Truly Shattuck, the former star of musical comedy and prima donna of light opera appears in the role of Edna's mother. The strength of the cast on the masculine side is indicated by the fact that Charles H. French plays the Alaska miner, King, and that there are also two Indian characters, which are splendidly enacted by real Redskins.

MABEL NORMAND WELL AGAIN

Famous Keystone Comedienne Will be Seen on the Screen in "My Valet."
Mabel Normand has 11,000,000 friends, for there are 11,000,000 people attending the motion pictures in this country daily. All of them will be delighted to see that the comedienne has recovered her health after the recent accident to her in the Los Angeles studio, and that she will soon be making pictures again for Mr. Sennett's Triangle-Keystone combination.
Meantime there is the most lively interest in Miss Normand's first appearance in the Triangle plays, which for this city will take place at the Orpheum, Saturday. The name of the vehicle is "My Valet," and it was a great success in New York when played at two dollar prices with other Triangle offerings at the Kniekerbocker Theatre. Miss Normand's role in it is that of a girl who has been afflicted by a boy since her infancy, although the boy and the girl have never met.

Some idea of the humor of the situation can be imagined when it is stated that Raymond Hitchcock plays the affianced bachelor opposite Miss Normand's affianced girl. Of course Hitchcock in the most romantic manner, Hitchcock saving Mabel's life during a runaway accident in the park, but neither knows who the other is.
Later that evening they learn the truth at the home of the girl's parents. But in the meantime Hitchcock has changed clothes with his valet, played by Mack Sennett, and has gone off with a whole lot of embarrassing complications. Toward the close Miss Normand, persecuted by a French admirer, is washed into the Pacific ocean and half drowned. Again the noble Hitchcock effects a thrilling rescue.
Billions of film fans speaking myriads of languages know Mabel Normand simply as Mabel. Her appearance on the Keystone screen is always hailed with shouts of joy. She is petite, graceful, an expert athlete and gifted with a rare sense of humor. It is said she has never been seen to better advantage than in this present offering.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A feud long existing between Colonel Arthur Stanley and his cousin, Judge Lamar Stanley, over an inheritance, the diamond from the sky, found its bitter end in an ancestor. Also, the succession to the Stanley fortune in England may come to an American. When a diamond is torn to the column and the matter dies the column buys a gypsy toy and substitutes three false diamonds in its place, not having had part in this bargain, steals the girl, Esther, married in secret, and she is understood as the heir. The gypsy has obtained possession of the diamond from the sky, and a document with the Stanley name. When the gypsy woman, returns to Virginia with the diamond, Dr. Lee, the late Colonel Stanley's physician, falls in love with Esther, and so does his emigration and cousin, Blair Stanley, rich man and doctor of Stanley. In stealing the diamond Blair causes the death of the doctor and tries later to put the blame on Arthur, who takes the gem. Arthur Stanley studies his pursuers and John Hagar, who reveals his identity and informs him for his wild life. Seeking money, he pawns the diamond in Richmond. At a ball, at which an adventurer, Victor Hagan, wears the borrowed gem. Luke Lovell, Hagar's gypsy guard, steals the diamond. Arthur leaves Richmond and goes to the States, Canada, or any grinder, betrays Esther.

Tom Blake, a detective of Richmond, who is hired by Hagar, produces finger prints connecting Blair. Hagar proposes silence to Mrs. Stanley as the price of Hagar's silence being revealed in Fairfax County. Blair strikes down Hagar and steals the diamond, leaving the gypsy woman, returns to Virginia with the diamond. CHAPTER LI.

The Gypsy's Lair.

TRACING back the great bronze built on the ornate front door of the Powell mansion, Blair Stanley darted from the vestibule and around the house to the back, closely followed by Vivian Marston and the shaking master of the mansion.

There, beneath the high window, lay the battered logo of Frank Durand, physician, arch crook—the erstwhile King of Diamonds. His neck was broken, and the already congealing blood upon his forehead marked where the cruel blow of Blair's stung shot had struck.

But the grasp of Durand's right hand had relaxed and the diamond from the sky lay free.

Art's finger closed and then he turned his eyes to keep out the gruesome sight as Blair screamed: "He is dead!"

have been De Vaux who killed him?" Arthur had been too dazed from the effect of the sleeping powder that Durand had secretly administered during the card playing and the drinking earlier in the night to have anything but a confused recollection of what had really occurred.

Then Blair spoke up: "I heard the fight in your room and rushed in," he said. "De Vaux was beating Durand with a slingshot, I think. Yes, here it is!" and he picked up the ugly weapon from where it lay beside the dead man.

"I found the switch by the door and turned the lights on full, and it was all over. De Vaux passed me and ran down the stairs and out," chimed in Vivian.

Then she sobbed and tore at her hair, hanging down her shoulders. Her grief and hysteria were not feigned.

"He is dead!" Blair screamed.

"The diamond, the diamond from the sky! The murderous little thief De Vaux got it! Who would have thought that little sneak would have the pluck?"

Then she turned on the shaking man who was known as the mad millionaire in fury. "Why didn't you give it to me, as you promised?" she cried.

And in futile rage of disappointment she beat and tore at herself till Blair grasped her by the wrists. "Quiet, you sea devil!" he hissed. "De Vaux will not get away with the diamond. People are coming. Remember, now, not a word that we suspect Durand! We don't wish too much proof. That's the curse of it. There is where De Vaux has us. Fortunately he may suspect much about us, but he knows little."

Inspired again by this final tragedy of the diamond, the newspapers printed the stories of John Powell's rapid rise to wealth, the accident that had shattered him in a riot at his mines in the mountains, the skillful treatment of the stranger physician, Durand, that had restored the young millionaire.

Then had followed accounts of the triple tragedy in the deaths of the woman lion tamer, Santley, the circus proprietor and the clown husband of the Lady of Lions because of the great diamond from nowhere.

The recovery of the diamond after it had been stolen by Stanley, the stableman, following the panic at the circus, and the sale of the diamond were items that further spiced the sensational stories that were printed at Durand's death.

Physician M. Powell was in fair health, the papers said, but mentally as and regards his nervous system his condition gave great concern in his associates.

Hagar and Esther, With Smythe, Journeyed to Fairfax.

Blair Stanley, who was in the center of an auto tour from California to Colorado. Meanwhile De Vaux had found shelter in the gray of dawn at Sigmund Solari's cafe. La Bella Napoli, a young girl, had just arrived from the States, and she had hurriedly turned to her credit card, which she had just received from her father's estate.

The cunning De Vaux, dwelling in hiding under the name of Lanette, had carefully peeped the key to the safe in the pocket of the man who had been seen in the building, and so he was able to find the diamond.

glance and search for him passed over and by the cafe of La Bella Napoli, while he lay in a mean room and chafed at the confinement and drank heavily to stifle his fears.

In faraway Virginia Hagar and Esther journeyed from Richmond down to Fairfax, escorted by their new but firm friend, that eccentric bachelor English barrister and legal representative of the earls of Stanley, Marmaduke Smythe.

The tender affection between the devoted Hagar and the loving Esther had grown the stronger through their mutual sorrow and disappointment at the wild and profligate conduct of Arthur, flourishing and in luxury, yet surrounded by evil associations, in the far California city.

Answering the great door of Stanley Hall, Hagar led the way through the hall and into the old library. The windows were unlatched and thrown open to air the long closed old mansion.

Smythe examined the portraits curiously. "It is over a generation ago," he said softly. "Since I was in this room. There is Colonel Stanley's portrait just as he looked in the flesh the night I attested the heir of Stanley over twenty years ago."

And the good-hearted lawyer sighed and thought of old age that comes like a thief, yet slowly, to rob us of youth, of hope, of vigor and of those we love whom death has called before us.

"To Hagar also the place revived dull old memories. There at that door she had stood in her young despairing motherhood, to be dragged away ere she could cry in her agony that she was being robbed of her offspring like Rachel of old.

Then Hagar kissed Esther and shook off the gloom of these and memories.

Esther Hoped to Find the Rest There—before Denied Her.

In her Virginia home Esther hoped to find the rest there she denied her. Smythe understood now the reasons that unaccounted Arthur and Blair in their strange diffidence in claiming the earldom of Stanley that awaited the American heir. Arthur Stanley, as Hagar's son had been known here, could not claim it because he knew he was not the rightful heir.

Blair could not claim it because he was in the dark in this and thought his supposed cousin stood in his way. Besides, there hung over Blair the shadow of the murder of Dr. Lee. He feared to bring himself into any promiscuity while yet Hagar lived and knew. All Blair could hope for was the death of the supposed heir, Arthur Stanley and of Hagar Harding, the gypsy woman, who had had the proofs of his guilt.

Hagar was first to break the silence as these thoughts fitted through all their minds. "Well," she said, "let us try to be cheerful though we lose you, our good friend, today."

"You do not lose me, I trust," said Marmaduke Smythe, with quaint gallantry. "True, I must return to England to attend to matters of the estate of the late Earl of Stanley."

"The matter of the succession must lie in abeyance for the present. But you may come to England with the fair Miss Esther here before long, or I may return to America again. Who knows?"

"And now," said Hagar, "I understand that there was some alarm manifested by the late Mrs. Judge Stanley regarding the expenses my stay at the sanitarium in Richmond brought about. I told you—here she turned to Esther—'that I was a wealthy woman. I am moderately speaking. Gypsylike, I would never trust a banker. After I leased Stanley Hall I hid my wealth in a secure place in this very room, an old hiding place that perhaps even Colonel Stanley knew nothing of.'
