

FEDERAL AID FOR ROADS DESIRED

Dollar For Dollar Assistance Proposed By Good Roads Advocates

SUCH ASSISTANCE A SAFEGUARD AGAINST POLITICIANS.

Plan Would Provide That Government
Expend Amount Equal to That of States In Constructing Highways.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"Gradually and insistently the federal aid in good roads question has approached a decided issue. The question of whether the proposed legislation adopted by the present congress," is the comment of Chairman George C. Diehl of a House subcommittee on highways, "has reference to the multiplicity of highway measures which are going through the nation's legislative mill in Washington."

The concern of the motor car owner, despite any assertion to the contrary, is the same as that of any other citizen. Because of greater opportunity of observation and a yearly mileage of 10,000 miles, the motorist knows the state line, the user of the self-propelled vehicle has realized in advance of other road-travelers that multiplicity of measures, the multiplicity of requirements of comprehensive intercourse have revolutionized highway construction and maintenance methods.

The state must now approach the problem from the viewpoint, first of all, of the motorist, and secondly, and most relieve the countries of those thoroughfares the cost of which has

"So great has this call from the counties accumulated that the states now approach the federal source for a co-operation essential to the healthful development of the nation. Soloborliness once restricted itself to localities within the ability of the muscle-drawn vehicle. But a new and economical form of transportation for humans and the exchange of commodities is astoundingly accelerating road commerce and social amenity."

NOT to reckon with the changed conditions, is worse than standing still.
"The bills now pending in congress very properly provide that only those highways shall be improved which are

WITH BUSY BUYERS

J. A. Sinclair Finds Many There From Country—Times Are Prosperous and Money Is Plentiful.

"There are more people in New York than ever before," said J. A. Sinclair, manager of the Idaho Department store, when asked in regard to conditions on the Atlantic coast on his return Saturday from a month in the east. "Many who heretofore spent part of the year in Europe are now at home," he continued, "and others who are abroad are anxious to get back. There are also more merchants and representatives of merchantile houses there than ever before, all buying in anticipation of still greater increases in prices. All the hotels are full. Everything and everybody is prosperous. More is being produced than ever before and there is more money in circulation than at any previous time in the history of the country. The effect of the foreign demand for goods and the increase in the volume of money due to the payment of balances in billions has had a natural tendency to force prices upward. Merchants anticipate still greater advances in the future. The immediate effect of this on the retail trade is not fully evident at the present time. For instance we have a large stock of silk and cotton goods on hand, which we will sell at the old prices, but the new goods now purchased by us will have to be sold at a higher rate than the stock on hand before the raise. Even since we have made the last purchases, wholesale

"Relative to the war talk and pre-perfectly frank with you; I did not talk to anybody about it while they were busy about the matters which caused me to make the trip and did not hear it discussed."

In another column Mr. Sinclair gives some interesting data relative to the prices at present in New York, compared with those prevalent at the time of the civil war.

SAW WAY OUT OF BANNOCK COUNTY JAIL

Four Prisoners Follow Precedent and Take French Leave of Pocatello's
"Tin Jail."

POCATELLO.—In a jail delivery at the Bannock county lockup last night four prisoners made their getaway and have not been apprehended. Escape was effected by sawing the rivets from a steel plate which covered a small hole in the floor of a cell, the plate was removed and a passage was then opened up under the cage to the east side of the large room which contains the cells, the prisoners then crawled back to the west side over the top of the cages, tore the wire screening from one of the windows and down a rope which had been made of blankets.

Those who escaped are Bill Kennedy, charged with the robbery of a merchandise cart, to identify the cart; Carl Anderson, charged with burglary of a store at Soda Springs; Walter Sampson, charged with burglary of a store at Soda Springs; and Jose Rosellita, a Mexican charged with bootlegging. The remainder of the prisoners refused to take advantage of the opportunity to escape.

Discovery of the occurrence was made by Night Jailor Bell who received a telephone call from South Fourth street stating that three men known to be prisoners, were in that neighborhood.

A small blade of a steel saw with an improved handle of heavy wire was the only tool which was discovered in the jail. How this was secured by the men the authorities have not been able to ascertain. The hole in the floor was one which was cut there about three years ago when another break was made. Pocatello Tribune.

MAD COYOTE PLUNGES THROUGH FARMER'S WINDOW

GOODING.—Habit coyotes are abroad on the Gooding tract and several attacks upon domestic animals, and even upon people, have been reported during the past week. The most sensational case was reported by D. W. Keany, on Torn creek, who brought in the head of a coyote to Dr. Cronwell, the county health officer. This animal, Mr. Keany reported, had entered the yard of one of his neighbors and sprang through the window of the house, to the terror of the inmates, but it was shot before it could bite anyone.

J. T. Patterson, living west of town, reported that a mad coyote entered his yard a few days ago and attacked the dog. Mr. Patterson procured a gun and shot the beast.

J. N. Nutt, living south of town, started out with an axe to cut a hole through the ice of a pond and when on his way to the pond a coyote came toward him and after a short fight, he dispatched the animal with the axe.

The heads of these three coyotes have been sent by Dr. Cronwell to the state board of health at Boise. The fury of these rabid animals and their extreme boldness in attacking people and domestic animals are causing some alarm among the settlers. Gooding Leader.

JUSTICE HUGHES NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON.—Rep. Slomp, chairman of the Virginia Republican committee has made public a letter from Justice Hughes declaring:

"I am totally opposed to the use of my name in connection with the nomination and to the selection or inauguration of any delegates in my interest directly or remotely."

Justice Hughes' letter, made public with his consent, was in reply to a letter from Mr. Slomp which informed the justice that Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster general under President Taft, had inaugurated a movement in the south favoring the justice for the Republican presidential nomination.

FEW INVOLUNCIES FOR PAST JANUARY

Dunn's Review Shows Highest List of Failures Among Agents and Brokers
Since January, 1909.

Owing to the straits incident to the annual settlements, some expansion in the number of failures is a mortality which invariably occurs during January, yet the numerical change in commercial failures last month was the smallest since 1909. In 1915, there were 2,999 insolventcies in January, and these supplied an aggregate indebtedness of $25,863,286 against 1,704 for $19,606,275 in December. There were 640,575 a year ago, 1,857 in 1914 for $39,374,347 and 1,814 in 1913, when the liabilities were $22,972,769. Apart from 1915, when the record was distorted by the effects of the economic disturbance caused by the war, the latest returns compare adversely in point of number with previous years, but the increase in defaults over the preceding month was less than at any time since 1909.

Analysis of the statistics according to occupation shows that there were 117 suspensions for $11,769,745 in manufacturing lines, as contrasted with 561 for $27,041,229 in 1915, 407 for $16,780,925 two years ago and 395 in 1913 for $8,762,357, while reverses in the trading division numbered 1,491 in 1915, as against 1,360 in 1914 for $20,227,896 in the previous year, 1,390 for $15,890,980 in 1914 and 1,361 in 1913 for $14,540,339. In 1915, there were $10,889,112. Among agents, brokers and other concerns not properly included in either manufacturing or trading, there were 413 in 1915 for $1,743,002, these figures comparing with no fewer than 413 in 1915 for $2,371,400, 60 two years ago for $6,702,428 and 68 in 1913 for $2,321,309. In this class the liabilities were the lightest for the period since 1909.

J. A. SINCLAIR OF THE IDAHO DEPT. STORE BACK FROM NEW YORK

Mr. J. A. Sinclair arrived home after an extended visit to the large eastern markets, including New York, Chicago, etc., and it is interesting to read his remarks in regard to recent prices and what the future may bring. Below he gives a list of prices compared with those which he obtained from one of the large wholesale concerns in the east.

PRICE COMPARISONS No Commensurate Advance Compared With Other Interesting Figures Showing Selling Prices of H. B. Claffin Co. During War Time— Other Interesting Comparisons.

Considerable comment on the comparative prices of cotton goods since the abnormal advance in the raw materials has occurred and more or less discussion has resulted in regard to the difference between the prices which have been high, says the New York Journal of Commerce. As a result of this interest in prices old schedules have been hunted up and the prices are then quoted compared with those which now obtain. A price list giving quotations during war times issued by H. B. Claffin & Co. is recently received considerable attention. While conditions are entirely different from those which exist today, the list being dated January 27th, 1914, it is interesting to note the effect which a cotton famine had on prices of piece goods. Cotton was being sold at 15¢ per pound, while the whole sale and the small supply left could only become available by blockade runners. The price of the raw material at the time of purchase was $1.00 over a dollar a pound, and the high point of the year was $1.50 per pound. When compared with 1915 cents it is fully natural that prices of goods should be much above the present level and while the comparisons appended in the price list are of little value, they are of interest in indicating possibilities. Many of the items in this old price list are now obsolete, but as far as comparisons of important and representative cotton fabrics are possible, they are given below:

Standard Brown
Sheeting	72 1/2	75 1/2
N. V. Mills 4-4 bleached	77 1/2	11c
Masonville 4-4 bleached	70c	8 1/2c
Adrococon 4-4	71c	8c
16-4 Popper sheetings	$1.60	22 1/2c
8-4 Popper sheetings	$1.50	21c
8-4 Popper sheetings	$1.32 1/2	19 1/2c
Colored Cambrics	50c	42c
Allen Prints	45c	35c
American Prints	45c	35c
and many other items too numerous to mention.

Two other price lists give a little better basis of comparison than fabrics during the war. They have been forwarded to this office by the Eagle and Phoenix Mills at Columbus, Ga. They are dated Nov. 15, 1913, and Oct. 15, 1913. The price comparisons follow on items which are made today:

	1913	1915
Rescue Florida	110	9 1/2
Cable Cottonades	26	18 1/2
French Cottonades	24	18 1/2
A O A Cottonades	18	14
Mid Upland Cotton	11 1/2	9 11-16 1/2

The above quotations are given so you may know what to expect. Mr. Sinclair says that his entire stock was made at reasonably low prices and that his advice to the buying public is to buy now, because prices on all lines of merchandise is advancing steadily day by day, especially on silk fabrics, ready to wear and many items in cotton materials.—Adv.

NOSE OF OBJECTS OF WORLD WAR REACHED

THE HAGUE, Netherlands.—The great Socialist Internationale is not dead but very much alive, according to a statement made to a congress of the Dutch Socialist party at Arnhem by M. Camille Huysmans, the Belgian secretary of the International Socialist Bureau, whose seat was removed from Brussels to The Hague on the German occupation of the former city. If the Socialists had been at the head of the governments of Europe, the war would never have broken out, he believed, and he expressed the view that the lines of the political movement were actually converging in a direction which would re-establish the unity of the proletariat throughout the world. He maintained that none of the objects of the war had been reached, and pointed out that on July 31 next some forty-one millions of dollars would have been thrown away, and millions killed and maimed as the result of an imperialism as opposed to the all-redeeming Socialist policy.

GEM STATE SPIRITS IN BIG DEMAND

"Chicago is just crazy about the big Idaho spud," said a man who has just returned from a trip to the Illinois metropolis. "It sounds ridiculous to us out here, but I actually saw Idaho potatoes wrapped in parchment and exhibited in a grocery store window with a sign Idaho Potatoes, Five Cents Each."

"I talking with a commission man who buys from 14 to 20 carloads of potatoes each year. I learned that potatoes from this section have won a great reputation in the markets of the east. The better trade is clamoring for the Idaho potato."

"This same commission man told me that nowhere in the country can he buy potatoes that compare in quality and appearance with the potatoes from the irrigated sections of southern Idaho."

TESTS RIGHT TO TAX IN EXCESS OF STATUTORY LEVY

IDAHO FALLS.—A test case will be instituted to ascertain the right of the board of county commissioners to levy a tax in excess of the maximum fixed by law for special school purposes. In school district No. 7, being the district located in the west end of Swan valley, the board of trustees submitted an estimate of the amount of money needed, which was in excess of the amount that could be raised by a ten-mill levy upon the property located in said district. The board of county commissioners, in order to raise for the district the amount of money which the trustees certified was needed for school purposes, levied a special tax of thirteen and a half mills on the dollar.

It places the district in an embarrassing position. If the levy should be declared void, it will leave the district without money to carry on the school for the ensuing year.

WILSON POPULAR IN NEW YORK

That people regardless of party are enthusiastic over Wilson in the Empire state, is the way Judge Shanklin sized up the situation on his recent trip to Buffalo. He says that while there is not much new feeling, there is more interest taken in preparedness than there is. He says that there is little talk of Hughes among Republicans, the issue with them being principally Teddy or anti-Teddy.

TRUSTEES MEETING AT BULL SUCCESS

County Superintendent Noel Tells About Excellent Results From the Gathering.

The following account of the trustees' meeting at Buhl last week was furnished to The Times by County Superintendent Noel, who is enthusiastic in his praise of the gathering and of the reception given the teachers by the people of Buhl.

The trustees' meeting held at Buhl, February 7 and 8, was a decided success from the standpoint of interest.

Only sixteen trustees were present to take part in the meeting, some probably being kept away by the condition of the roads. Though few in number, they were very interesting and practical.

NEW SCHOOL IS TO BE CONSTRUCTED

The Board Proposes to Erect Eight Room Grade School

BOND ELECTION CALLED FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 26.

All Schools Already Jammed to Extent That Best Results Cannot Be Obtained—Big Increase Soon.

An election for the purpose of voting on a $40,000 bond issue for the purchase of a site for and the erection of an eight-room graded school building at a point yet to be selected, has been called by the school board for Saturday, February 26, from 1 o'clock until 5 o'clock p. m., as a result of an investigation of present and pending conditions in the city for the next school year would open. With the erection of the sugar factory it is inevitable that there will be increase in the school population and the conservative estimates of from 150 to 200. The proposed building would probably enable the board to abolish "the shack" at school board and other school is popularly called. This annex, which is unsatisfactory, now accommodates in some fashion, 150 pupils and other children. So far as is seen that the eight rooms will be practically filled some time during the school year, which begins next September. The school board and other who have investigated the subject are convinced that conditions here will be hopelessly demoralized unless provision is made for the increasing number of children which is inevitable. It will be necessary to provide in this case for the purchase of a site, which is the first step in the program of the city that has been required as the townsite company donated all previous school sites. The qualifications for the school board are for orphans, school elections and include all freeholders and householders.

The need of more room was effectively demonstrated by the delivery of Superintendent Hal G. Blue at a dinner given at the high school Monday evening to the school board, the board of directors of the Twin Falls high school and representatives of the local press. Professor Blue showed that while the best results could be obtained from the normal retarded pupils where there were 32 pupils to the teacher, it was already necessary to crowd 43 into each room. There were some retarded pupils as they are called in each room, that in pupils who are behind through natural causes and who require extra attention and those cannot under present conditions of crowding, receive proper attention without neglecting normal pupils. The failure to give the best possible service to retarded pupils causes a heavy economic loss to the community, far more than balancing any slight expense involved in securing plenty of room.

The dinner was a five-course affair, was served by the domestic science department of the school at a cost of sixteen and a half cents a plate, and was declared by the guests to be the highest tribute that could be paid to the efficiency of the schools, from the culinary point of view. The high school orchestra gave musical selections throughout the dinner which was every way an enjoyable affair.

The guests at the dinner were equally appreciative to their host, Superintendent Blue, to the musicians and to the domestic science department.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Times' Special Correspondence.

Saturday evening about eighty students of the Twin Falls high school were present at the basketball game, to visit and attend the basketball game to be played that night between the Filer and Twin Falls high school teams. The game was a repetition of the game played here about two weeks ago, and the Twin Falls team won easily by a score of 43 to 14. After the game, everybody danced until about twelve o'clock, when the merry bunch returned home. Everyone reports a high time, and other similar trips are expected.

Last Wednesday, C. L. Longley, a veteran of the civil war, addressed the students in assembly. Inasmuch as the birthday of Lincoln was near, the subject of Mr. Longley's address was President Lincoln's early life, and the later events more briefly. Mr. Longley related the many stories which the great American was forced to contend with, and how he overcame them. The audience played a number of patriotic songs, and the program was greatly enjoyed by all.

The basketball team will play here this week. Support is considered one of the fastest, if not the best team in the state, and as our boys have not yet had a real beating are displaying such good form, we look forward to a very interesting game.

The Freshman number of the Copy will appear next Tuesday.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION COMES

Twin Falls the Place and April 20 the Time for the Meeting—Delegates Will Number 202.

The Republican state convention to elect delegates to the national convention at Chicago June 7, will be held at Twin Falls, April 20. The representation at this convention will consist of delegates from each of the 37 counties in the state on a basis of two delegates to each county. The county has in the legislature. This was the decision reached by the Republican state central committee. The representation given to counties in the last state convention to elect delegates to the national convention in 1912 was five to every representative by each county in the state. The state committee cut down the representation. There will be 202 delegates in the next state convention where four years ago there were close to 400.

It was left optional with the county committees as to how the delegates to the state convention shall be elected. The state committee then proceeded to whether the delegates should be hand-picked by the county organizations. The state committee did not go on record as favoring a preferential primary election for the naming of the delegates.

In the selection of Twin Falls for the site of the next state convention, the committee acted unanimously. A number of other cities were discussed, including Boise, Pocatello, Lewiston, and Caldwell. After a long session, the committee decided on Twin Falls. When the committee assembled Evan Evans was elected chairman and E. L. Dampier of Rupert, secretary. The committee then proceeded to business and without a high place for the next convention was decided upon and representation in that city of delegates was given to it until after the committee had finished its business and some of the committees reached the lobby of the Owyhee hotel and discussed the matter. So far as could be learned from committee men no particular reason was assigned for reducing the representation.

The members of the committee recognized as entitled to deliberations in its proceedings were as follows: Peter Canavan, Ada county; E. A. Burroll, Bear Lake county; G. Johnston, Blaine county; I. E. Rockwell, Blaine county; Fred Huston, Bonneville county; N. Jones, Canyon county; J. H. McCall, Cassia county; I. N. Naah, Franklin county; W. L. Flint, Fremont county; John Thomas, Gooding county; Evan Evans, Idaho county; J. H. McCall, Madison county; E. L. Dampier, Minidoka county; David Burrell, Power county; W. P. Guthrie, Twin Falls county; Victor Hockett, Teton county; Hartlett Sinclair, Boundary county.

JOHN F. HANSEN TO SEEK OFFICE OF COUNTY ASSESSOR

"I have just made up my mind this morning to enter the race for the office of county assessor, subject to the will of the Republican party of Twin Falls county," declared John F. Hansen of Rock Creek to a Times reporter this morning.

In regard to the rumor that he might be a candidate, "I never allow grass to grow under my feet when I start after anything," declared Mr. Hansen, one of the earliest settlers in what is Twin Falls county, having lived here 40 years. He was a member of the first board of commissioners in the county.

WHY GERMANY BALKED AT A WORD.

The difficulty experienced in getting together by the United States and Germany in regard to verbal construction in the negotiations regarding the settlement of the Lusitania case, is thought of by many in this country as quibbling and this state of mind has been encouraged by the utterances of many newspapers and some magazines. Critics of President Wilson have been especially prone to point out the alleged utility of what they have termed "more exchanges of words." They do not hesitate to intimate that the president has virtually agreed in some way to barter away the interests of the American people and speak deprecatingly of taking a "cash payment for American lives."

The debate over the wording of the agreement involves vital principles. Germany, at first denying, has at length accepted the American attitude in regard to the killing of Americans on board the Lusitania, but she does not wish to concede that she was equally wrong in regard to killing of citizens of Great Britain, which was incidental to the sinking of the ship. Hence her care relative to the wording of the agreement, and her refusal to use the word "illegal" to describe the transaction. The point of view from which she approached the matter is indicated in the leading article for "Case and Comment," the key-note magazine, in its January issue, written by Charles W. Russell, former United States assistant attorney general and at one time envoy extraordinary to Persia. Mr. Russell, who is an authority of international standing on the subject, touches the question of the controversy with Germany only as an incident to his main purpose of showing the difficulties in the way of adjusting claims against foreign nations, but what he says goes far toward clearing popular misapprehension in the case at hand. He says: "Another fundamental mistake seems to me to be made, namely, not regarding the law of nations as what its name implies, a law dealing with nations as such, and not with individuals as such, but with individuals as subjects of the state, property of the sovereignty. By way of illustration, I venture to remark upon the general failure of our newspaper writers to see the point, when the German foreign minister alleged that the conduct of the British government had a bearing upon the question of the obligation to make visit and search. In other words, it seemed not to be understood that the foreign minister was contending as a matter of law, that the British government could and did absolve British ships from the correlative duty of peaceful submission to visitation and search, and thereby, as a matter of law, absolved Germany from making visit and search to be made. It seemed rather to be supposed that this was an argument outside the law and a mere excuse for evasion. In fact, the law being supposed to govern the individuals, and whether it was violated or not to be determined only by what occurred between those at sea in the particular case, regardless of the alleged attitude of the British government to its subjects about arming and arming or fleeing from German vessels. I do not, of course, mean to express any opinion in regard to the facts alleged by the foreign minister in support of his argument."

Mr. Russell is not taking sides in the controversy, with which his paper is not, indeed, directly concerned, and the differences about verbal construction have arisen since the article appeared, but the explanation makes clear why the difference is considered important. Applying this rule to the difference over verbal construction, Germany in effect says, "Great Britain by her orders of council made rules which absolved us in dealing with her subjects, from observing rules which it would otherwise be illegal to break. Therefore, the act of sinking the Lusitania even with British subjects on board, was not illegal. But American citizens, not British subjects, even though they were on board a British vessel. We are sorry that they were killed, but we are willing to acknowledge that we were wrong insofar as they were concerned, to disavow the act, to promise not to do it again and to make such restitution as it is possible to make, but we want to do so in words that do not imply that the act was illegal so far as British subjects were concerned." As the protection of Americans is the duty of this government it is quite right that the United States should not go to war with Germany over a word so long as its own dignity is protected in the construction of the words used, regardless of whether it thinks her right in her attitude toward Britons on the Lusitania or not. Relative to taking money in recompense for lives lost through violence of foreign citizens or officials every government on earth has done that where the act has been disavowed officially by the nation whose subjects have been offended. Even helpless China has been persuaded to settle by indemnity with all civilized nations. Citizens killed by Chinese troops and Great Britain accepted like terms from Russia when the great Muscovite fleet fired on and killed a number of hapless fishermen near the English shore during the Japanese war. This alleged argument against the administration, which appears to presume on the ignorance of those to whom it is addressed, can hardly be considered worthy of serious reply.

GARRISON'S RESIGNATION.

That Secretary of War Garrison should resign when he found himself irrevocably committed to a plan which would prevent the carrying out of his continental army scheme, was not surprising. A strong man, imbued with the justice and feasibility of his plan, he could not lay it aside to adopt another which he considered diametrically opposed to it. It is evident that the congressional plan, in the opinion of the retiring secretary was primarily wrong because it did not admit of extension into a system of universal national military service on which he had set his heart, and toward the ultimate realization of which he believed that all plans should be directed. Several years ago in retiring, denouncing congress as ignorant, and as being led in its ignorance by Chairman Hay of the house committee on military affairs. The ignorance of congress in regard to this subject may be taken for granted, and it may further be admitted that it is hopeless, since the military experts who ought to instruct it are all at sea, not merely as to what ought to be done to remedy certain conditions, but also in regard to what conditions are. Half a dozen different estimates by experts have been filed with congress relative to the degree of increase imperatively needed in the regular army. The congressional continental army plan was first endorsed by General Leonard Wood and afterwards rejected by his officer. The possibility of a successful invasion by a foreign force large enough to do us serious damage is a moot question. Turning from the army to the navy the same divergence of expert opinion appears. Two admirals in active service and one retired admiral unite in saying that the United States has the second most powerful navy in the world. A Japanese naval expert, probably urging an appropriation at home, reports that our navy is twice as strong as theirs. On the other hand an American naval expert, differing from the Nipponese expert and from the three admirals referred to, says that the Japanese navy is stronger than ours. To view of all this, it is quite easy to understand why it is true that Garrison says, that the "proposal of settling this matter by voting the direct, personal, political interests of the members."

It does so appeal, because the people want the money voted that way, since the experts themselves cannot get together on any other definite, practicable plan of national defense. The people are like the congressmen, they are ignorant in regard to the details of a feasible plan. If all the military experts were united on a definite plan, the voters would support their congressmen in supporting that plan. But when the military experts are engaged in a wordy battle, and are united only in demanding an increased military force, the people inevitably turn to a strengthening of the historic military organizations of this country. In this they are governed by a perfectly sound principle of conservatism, indeed, of conservation. The burden of proof lies on those who would adopt any specific new plan in place of an old one. The Garrison plan may be right, but because of lack of united support on the part of experts it has failed to win popularity either with the people or their representatives. In this case it is impracticable and whether the alternate plan of strengthening the national guard is inferior or not, it is, as confessed by Garrison, a more popular one.

A FAIR FIELD AND NO FAVOR.

Salt Lake Desert News.

President Wilson's reversal of practice and precedent in the selection of Louis D. Brandeis as a member of the supreme court of the United States, is now to be supplemented by a senate innovation whereby committee hearings for and against Mr. Brandeis's confirmation will be held openly. This will be the first time in history, the dispatches say, that inquiry as to a nominee's fitness has ever been conducted outside the hushed precincts of executive session. Whether this is true or not, there is no reason why the innovation is not a good one, nor why it should not become the rule for the future. Certainly the candidate who may happen to be under fire should welcome the opportunity of knowing who are opposing him and what their grounds are. As the world progresses in human liberty and in the conception of justice as between man and man, there is less and less favor for the secret and anonymous accusation, which flourished under the Venetian Council of Ten, the Rhenish Vehmengicht, the Spanish Inquisition, the English Star-chamber, and which to some extent persists in the American "grand jury." The tendency of such sessions always was and always will be, not to weigh critically and fairly all that may be offered, but to search out especially that which may be construed to the injury or detriment of the person under discussion. It were better for all such hearings to be held in the open—that a man or his friends may face his accusers, and that he be not judged upon ex-parte evidence.

Mr. Brandeis should regard it as a compliment that his case is deemed unusual enough to require this new treatment. His career gives evidence of a courage which will not shrink from the inquiry, but on the contrary will welcome it. As to his learnedness in the law, there has been no suggestion of doubt. Some critics say he is a radical; but every reformer at some stage of his life and work is deemed a radical. Others say he is lacking in the judicial temperament, whatever that may be; but perhaps he possesses it without having had occasion in his profession thus far to show it. He might carry new ideas and methods to the august bench; but perhaps there would be no great peril, there might even be benefit, in that. The committee hearing cannot be expected to demonstrate the qualifications which are not known to possess, except as this may be gathered from alleged proof of unfitness. If the latter is established of course he should be rejected. But the open session gives him a chance for self-defense and offers him what every American claims as his right—a square deal.

OPTIMISM GROWING AMONG BUSINESSMEN.

Salt Lake Desert News.

No man can pass among businessmen of the city, talking with them about their own operations and endeavoring to learn how they regard the business outlook, without being much impressed by the lively feeling of optimism that prevails generally. In all lines of business the immediate future looks bright. Real estate men are especially hopeful. Almost without exception they regard the coming of spring as certain to witness a widespread awakening in their line. They report inquiries coming in much earlier than is usual. Real estate activity is a dependable barometer of business conditions. When "times are good" the real estate business is always good. Many real estate dealers declare that the fruits of last year's unprecedented travel east and west through this city are already manifesting themselves. What is more, they are anticipating a volume of travel through this city next summer very nearly equal to that of last year. While the stimulus of the two great expositions on the Pacific coast will be lacking, there still will be the San Diego exposition in full swing, bigger this year than before, and that will draw heavy tourist patronage, and thousands of eastern travelers who have been habitual voyagers to Europe and who never dreamed of the lure that California has to offer in summer will again take their way to the shores of the Pacific. The wonderland of the Yellowstone is just beginning to gain the fame it has for long been entitled to, and the invigorating air of Utah's mountain retreats is winning its way with those who never thought of the west when they were seeking the mountains, but always turned their steps toward Switzerland and Italy. All these will draw travel this way. Thousands who want to escape the crowding of the eastern centers will also seek the free western country. Added to these causes, many others which businessmen have at the tip of their tongue, point to prosperity. The prevailing optimism is a healthful sign and its foundations are more than the mere longing "for better days."

ATTRACTIONS FOR THE THEATRE GOERS

"ROBIN HOOD" LIGHT OPERA

COMING TO LAYBERING

"Robin Hood," which will be produced at the Laybering theatre, February 23rd, is acknowledged to be the greatest masterpiece of comic opera ever written by Americans. The charm of Reginald de Koven's music is as fresh today as when it was first sung 23 years ago, and the dialogue of Harry D. Smith is as sparkling now as it was then. It has won the acid test of time because it is a real work of art, and the genius which inspired it commands the gratitude of every American.

Nothing could be more fascinating than the story upon which the opera was founded. The old English tale of Robin Hood and his band of outlaws is a famous one, and their merry pranks in Sherwood forest have supplied Sir Walter Scott and other writers with stories which will live as long as our language.

An opera of such merit as "Robin Hood" demands a singing cast of the highest order, and the company production fully meets this requirement, as the principals are all of grand opera caliber.

Heading the cast is dainty Ivy Scott, who made her debut at the grand opera in Australia where she made an instantaneous success. In America she has won fame as Madame Butterfly and as the girl in "The Girl of the Golden West."

Other popular members of last season's company are Cora Tracy, who sings Alan-a-Dale and Ralph Brainerd, who continues in the title role. James Smith, of the Chicago opera, sings Little John, Carolyn Andrews, sings Anabel and the part of Will Scarlett goes to Herbert Waterous, the noted baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company.

The comedy roles are admirably cared for by Phil Branson as The Lord High Sheriff, Tully Salinger as Sir Dame Durden, and Sol Solomon as the wily Sir Guy of Gisbourne.

The thirty girls in the chorus are not only pretty, but can sing and they are accompanied by handsome, manly men, also with voices.

The de Koven Opera company is a superb organization, with its personality carefully polished by the company itself and Fred Walker, who can always be depended upon to send out something first class.

HUMOR AND THRILLS IN

"A SUBMARINE PIRATE"

There is a happy combination of humor and thrills in the Triangle-Kaystone "A Submarine Pirate." Syd Chaplin supplies the humor in big doses, but it is owing to the enterprise of the Triangle force and the permission of the navy department, headed by Secretary Daniels, that a real, sure enough submarine and a gunboat were used in the pictures. There is accordingly an educational value and interest and thrill to spare in seeing an actual submarine in operation. It is seen plowing its way through the waters of the Pacific, then submerging, and then rising to the surface. The complicated interior, with all its machinery and its torpedo firing apparatus and also the means by which its small surface guns are fired, are shown in completeness. It is just as thrilling as it would seem, as actually taking a trip in a submarine.

Of course there are secrets that the government must keep from foreign nations, but the Secretary Daniels and his ship commanders had to pass the screen at a special exhibition at Washington, arranged by General Manager John M. McKenna of the New York Motion Picture Corporation. These officials instead of censuring the film, gave it their own enthusiastic approval. In fact, they are going to use the film to show at navy recruiting stations throughout the United States to "encourage" enlistments.

PREPAREDNESS SURE

OF CLEAR MAJORITY

New Work Herald Poll Shows Congress Wants Bigger Army and Navy and Increased National Guard.

That the measures for an increased navy proposed by the national administration are certain of passage and that the continental army project is doomed to failure, and that the plan to increase the army and militia are proven by the poll taken by the New Work Herald. In the lower house 152 Democrats, 123 Republicans and Progressives and two Independents declared themselves for the proposed increase in the navy. Sixty Democrats and 103 Republicans and two Progressives wished the elimination of two of the battle cruisers proposed: the one favoring the increase was against any increase, while the Democrats and four Republicans and Progressives were doubtful.

In the senate 59 Democrats and 35 Republicans favored the administration plan; two Democrats and five Republicans wanted the two battle cruisers left out and four Democrats were doubtful.

The continental army measure fired badly with all parties in both houses, though the overwhelming majority were for the plan to increase the militia. Almost all small elements in both houses wanted to increase the national guard alone without adding to the continental army. The increase of the regular army and the strengthening of the national guard in the house consist of 80 Democrats, 123 Republicans and two Progressives and two Democrats, and 32 Republicans. Those favoring militia increase alone, 75 Democrats, and those doubtful 84, Republicans and Progressives 55 and one Socialist. In the senate 24 Democrats and 23 Republicans favored the increase of the standing army and the strengthening of the militia; 18 Democrats and two Republicans favored the continental plan, four Democrats and two Republicans favored the strengthening of the national guard without increasing the regular army and 18 Democrats and 13 Republicans were in doubt. The wide difference of opinion is noted by the Herald, which adds that many members of both great parties opposed the five year program originally proposed by President Wilson who favored adopting the first year's program. More Republicans than Democrats in the lower house favored the continental plan. In the senate the Democrats in the lower house favored the plan of increasing the national guard without a regular army increase, making a larger percentage of Democrats than Republicans for some form of aid to the national guard. There were more Democrats in the upper house favorable to the continental army plan, one more Democrat than Republican in favor of strengthening the militia and the army together, two more Democrats than Republicans in favor of strengthening the militia alone. There were four more Republicans than Democrats in the upper house in favor of the continental plan, and five more Democrats than Republicans in the lower house.

U. S. MINISTER HORNIBROOK

WRITES FROM FAR EAST

W. H. Hornibrook, formerly in the newspaper business in this city and at present in the house of Representatives in a letter received by his brother, E. J. Hornibrook, this week says that he is enjoying his work in the far east. He could not get peace and everything is pleasant. There is much detail work to attend to, but nothing exciting. The annual reports are much of the occasion about them, the only difference between the movies here and there is that here a couple of months ago the film across the Pacific and the motion weeklies are a little old when they get there.

SEEK TO THROTTLE PARCEL POST SERVICE

(Chairman Moon of Postoffice Committee Says Express Companies Are Backing Greatest Lobby Ever Known)

WASHINGTON—The charge that the greatest lobby ever known to the American people is seeking to prevent the substitution of the space-for-weight payment system in the railway postal service was made in the house yesterday by Chairman Moon of the postoffice committee, in presenting the annual postoffice appropriation bill. He declared the real object of the opposition was to throttle the parcel post service in the interest of the express companies, whose profits are shared equally by the companies and the railroads.

In urging the establishment of a government guarantee fund, proposed in the bill, the chairman asserted that a combination of surety companies

ABUNDANCE OF WATER ASSURED FOR IRRIGATION

Reports From All Sections of Southern Idaho Indicate Greatest Show-up in Years.

Since February 1, this section of Idaho has experienced the heaviest fall of moisture at this season of the year in her history, says the Burley Bulletin.

The snow storm of February 2 and 3, brought promises of great prosperity to the Minidoka project and to Cassia county generally.

Since February 4, there has been approximately four-tenths of an inch of moisture fall, making the rain-fall for the month to date two inches. Most of the moisture has found its way into the ground, which is now in an excellent condition.

The forestry service at Oakley reports a heavy snow fall over the Minidoka national forest reserve.

As this includes the water sheds of Goose creek, Marsh creek and Raft river and its tributaries, the settlers on those streams are assured of an abundance of water for irrigation purposes, while the live stock interests of the country are rejoicing over the bright prospects for good summer ranges.

The snowfall in the upper Goose creek or on the water shed supplying the Oakley reservoir in fully two and one-half times the amount of last year. This means that in all probability the big reservoir will be filled to capacity by the spring run-off, and we will have no complaint over a shortage of water this coming summer.

In the mountains above Albion, Elba, and Alma and at the head of the Raft river and the Black Pine, Sulist and Heglar mountains, the snow is even deeper than in the Goose creek mountains, and an abundance of water is assured on the second and third while it was snowing on the project, and the ground being frozen, much of the water ran off.

The dry farm districts of the country are also in excellent condition as a result of the storm, with the possible exception of a strip of the (66th) section just south of the project, where it rained on the second and third while it was snowing on the project, and the ground being frozen, much of the water ran off.

A CHEW OF
"SPEAR HEAD"

That Means the Supreme Degree of Rich, Luscious Tobacco Flavor

NO OTHER CHEW EQUALS IT

The delicious fruit flavor of a Chew of Spear Head is a revelation to a man who has never chewed or smoked heavy chewing tobacco.

For chewing is the one way to get all the wholesome, healthy, appetizing flavor of the tobacco leaf—precisely as you chew a high-grade fruit-flavored Chew.

No other tobacco can compare with Spear Head in the wholesome satisfaction it gives.

You get more savory sweetness in a Chew of Spear Head than in a whole plug of ordinary tobacco.

And you get in its purest flavor for Spear Head is made amid the most wholesome surroundings, in a "new factory" that's kept absolutely clean and sanitary.

Try this rich, mellow, satisfying, pure Chew. Such a Chew cannot be obtained in any other tobacco than Spear Head in 5c and 10c cuts.
