GRUBB DISCUSSES CROP ROTATION

Noted Agriculturist Praises Spud and Sugar Beet

SAYS THAT THEY ARE GREATEST CROPS FOR ROTATION.

Helioetes Declaration in Regard to Persian Walnut and to Its Great Possibilities.

"I have just received a letter from W. S. Gilford, known widely as 'Sunshine Gilford,' from California, in which he says that the recent story published in THE TIMES on the marvelous developments of the Persian walnuts grown on the I. B. Perrine ranch is the best advertising item ever which in regard to Twin Falls," said Eugene H. Grubb, agriculturist for the Southern Pacific Railroad company, from whom the data for the story was obtained.

"Mr. Gilford, as you know," continued Mr. Grubb, "was the agricultural manager for the vast Kuhn interests in this country and when those interests finally went into the hands of a receiver, his knowledge of their business and of the conditions of the country in which their investments lay was so thorough that he was retained by the receiver. That he testified to the importance of the Persian walnuts is an indication of the possibilities involved in their growth."

Mr. Grubb, who was in the country last week for the purpose of buying and making arrangements for the care of his real estate interests, turned from the subject of walnuts to the discussion of ordinary agricultural land, and urged the production of more sugar beets and potatoes as rotation crops.

"Recently I was at a dinner in Denver with Lord Ogilvy, a leading authority on agriculture, who has charge of that department on the Devon Post. Professor Kurt Grunwald, consulting agriculturist and vice-president of the International Irrigation congress, and Professor Alexander, the famous German expert and soil bacteriologist, who is the most highly-salaried consulting agriculturist in the world, and we all agreed that the most profitable and at the same time most educational soil crops for rotation are potatoes and sugar beets. They are the best crops to grow, the fact that they are loved crops and draw more particular attention to the best methods of irrigation, and that they are especially beneficial to the soil. Now, the country in southern Idaho is peculiarly fortunate in not having any of the bacteriological diseases or fungi which are so prevalent elsewhere developed, and with the knowledge now available it is possible to keep the country free from such pests forever. Those at the dinner agreed that these enemies of the potato were rapidly destroying the usefulness of southern California for that purpose, but in that country they rotate potatoes and barley, which is virtually no rotation at all. The sugar beet, by reason of the tap roots which extend in all directions, and both of the crops named add much organic matter to the soil. The crops are valuable, and will grow more so as time goes on, while their by-products are useful for the production of pork and sheep and beef and all kinds of live stock."

Talked in regard to the crops which should be used for rotating with potatoes and sugar beets, Mr. Grubb said that the subject was a vast one. On a visit to the leading potato experts of Germany, he saw a map marked out showing the system of rotation to be followed for periods of 10 years. This showed the system that prevailed in that empire in regard to agricultural matters and the painstaking care with which experts worked to secure the greatest results. He closed by again advising the raising of the sugar beet and the spud in rotating crops in southern Idaho, and insisted that, considering its uses, the potato as grown on the Twin Falls tract would prove more profitable than any of the ordinary agricultural products. The absence of the diseases referred to above, especially scab, of attention, he declared. "It has proven to be the greatest European rotation crop, not by reason of any positive quality that it has for the enrichment of soil, but because of the inability of deleterious bacteriological growths to feed upon it. Hence they die for want of nutrition and the soil is left free from them. The only problem here is to keep them out, and this, with available knowledge, will be no great task, if such knowledge is applied."

FORD WINNER IN MICHIGAN SENATE CONTEST

Manufacturer Selected For Senate in Michigan Gives Views on Preparedness.

DETROIT—Henry Ford Friday declared the result of last Monday's presidential preference primary, in which he defeated United States Senator William A. Smith by more than five thousand votes, was a victory for peace rather than for himself.

"I am glad," said Mr. Ford, "because I interpret the honor as an expression of a majority of the voters that they believe as I do against military preparedness and the exploitation of the working man by the moneyed munitions interests."

"I believe that, if the people urging us to prepare get into the state preparation that they desire, they will find us in a war in a short time. The primary vote leads me to believe that the majority of the voters of Michigan feel the same way."

"I'm not in politics. I know Senator Smith and like him. If I wasn't independent, I'm sorry I wasn't given him. On the other hand, I'm pleased to get an expression of sentiment from Michigan. The Michigan delegates to the Chicago convention may vote just as they please. It will make absolutely no difference to me."

STATE DAIRYMEN AND STATE SWINE RAISERS TO MEET

At the time the Idaho State Dairymen's association and the Idaho Swine Breeders' association met in Boise last winter, no place was selected for the next meeting, that matter being left to the coming year.

Word has just been received by Secretary Bradley of the Dairymen's association that the Idaho Swine Breeders' association has made an effort to bring the next convention to Boise, that the committee for both conventions had selected Boise. This suggestion, however, was met with enthusiasm, as it means that the leaders in all lines of stock industry who were present in discussing live problems pertaining to that industry. The fact that Boise held one of the largest and best farmers' institutes held in the state no doubt helped much to do with the decision of the executive committees of the two organizations.

It has been suggested that a mid-winter stock show be held here at the time of the conventions, and it is probable that the farmers' institute will be held at the same time.

MILWAUKEE ROAD MAY TAP TIMBER ON CLEARWATER

ORONO, Ida. The announcement made by A. J. Earlick, president of the Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, when he was in Spokane two weeks ago that his company would extend its line 25 miles south from Ellensburg, has just brought to light that it is more than probable the line will be built in a southerly direction, intersecting the north fork of the Clearwater river, then follow that stream to Ashakka, where it will intersect the Clearwater short line of the Northern Pacific.

The Milwaukee has a survey down the north fork, which is a feasible road along a water grade, and taps the body of white pine timber. The Clearwater timber company has cut buildings in this region and a well founded rumor is that this company is setting its powerful influence to get the Milwaukee to adopt the north fork route to Ashakka for its proposed extension.

The Episcopal Guild will meet Thursday with Mrs. Theo. Dorey, 250 Eighth avenue East. Members and friends cordially invited.

FRAUD CHARGED IN SALMON RIVER CASE

H. C. Hansen Alleges Conspiracy to Cheat in Sale of Lands

ASKS $21,287 DAMAGES FOR ALLEGED LOSS AND $10,000 EXTRA.

Claims That Not Merely Were Alleged Representations False, But That Sellers Knew Them To Be So.

Charging that he was induced by willfully fraudulent representations made on and prior to June 2, 1908, by the defendants, acting together for the purpose, H. C. Hansen has filed damages of $21,287 in a suit filed last week against The Twin Falls-Salmon River Land & Water company; The Twin Falls Investment company, limited; a corporation; D. C. McWaters; C. B. Hart; I. B. Perrine; H. L. Hollister; George F. Sprague; and R. M. McVulvin. The charge of fraud as cause of action, raises a new issue, as the claims heretofore did not include such charge. Of the amount asked, $9,000 is asked for punitive damages.

Mr. Hansen, personally and by his attorney, J. H. Wise, sets forth in the complaint in the case, alleged facts substantially as follows: That on or about April 30, 1908, the Twin Falls-Salmon River Land & Water company, entered into a contract with the state of Idaho in accordance with the terms of the Carey act, that they agreed to build the necessary dams, etc., for the reclamation and irrigation of the lands under the Salmon river project, all of which purposes were known to defendants and all of them; that in accordance with such contract they were to have the exclusive right to sell lands on such project for $40 an acre; that the Salmon River Canal company was organized to control the management of said system, all the stock in which operating, corporation was to be owned and controlled by the Twin Falls-Salmon River Land & Water company; that on June 2, 1908, and prior thereto on different dates, the defendants conspired and acted together for the purpose of inducing the state to buy 150 acres of land at $40 an acre; that they claimed that the Salmon river carried sufficient water to irrigate 150,000 acres, that there was then water enough available to irrigate 50,000 acres and that in no event would water rights be sold in excess of the amount which would insure two and three-fourths feet per acre; that the defendants represented that there were no other water rights on the Salmon river and no other land susceptible of irrigation; that the water rights were without flaw and not subject to contest; that the plaintiff at that time lived in Seattle, had no means of knowing the facts in the case, and relied on the representations of the defendants, with the result that he purchased 150 acres of land; that so cleared, fenced and improved the land so purchased which was worthless without water for irrigation, and planted crops relying on the representations of the defendants, suffering thereby a total loss of $21,287; that the said statements and representations of the defendants were made by them and each of them with the knowledge of their falsity and were made for the purpose of cheating, wronging and defrauding the plaintiff and to induce him to enter into the contract for the purchase of the land referred to, and which he entered without knowing the facts.

A copy of the decree recently filed in the federal district court by Judge F. S. Dietrich, in which the Clearwater Land & Live Stock Co. is awarded $12,500 acre feet is made a part of the complaint.

TWIN FALLS BANK & TRUST COMPANY

CATTLE ADVANCE WELL MAINTAINED

General High Prices—Hogs a Shade Lower—Sheep Prices Still Away Up

The advance in the North Portland market is very good evidence that fat cattle prices are soaring all over the country, and with suitable conditions very strong until grass cattle are ready.

The strength of the market has not been unhealthy and epidemic but all this season has shown a continued healthy growth with excellent price result.

Today the strength is very evident, although no actual higher price was recorded. Arrivals were not heavy outside of a few head of she stuff brought in with other stock. There was a consignment of steers from Silver Bow, Mont., over the Northern Pacific via Seattle.

During 1910 hogs sold at the record price around eleven cents, owing to the general hog famine all over the United States at that time. Prices this year are above the 8-cent mark at all recognized markets. The general conditions however, exhibit a paradox since this winter's marketing has been the biggest winter's run in the history of the trade.

The previous high mark showed a demand that was only normal, while this year the demand is abnormal both at home and abroad.

Buyers were very much averse to paying the price for hogs Tuesday and were liberal with the "take off." Tops selling for 3c. Quality was nothing to speak of, either. The receipts totaled nearly a thousand head.

A "skyhigh" sheep market still prevails. The past month was one of record prices and small receipts with all indications pointing to a duplication of the March market this month. If quotations are any indication of what a market would be if there were any arrivals so that an actual test could be made it is anticipated that prices would show up every week and in line with eastern markets.

The felt and wool of the sheep continues to help keep sheep prices on a high level. The average sheep sold and wool brings the killer very good money.

JENKINS & COMPANY

TALKS ON THIRTY

MARY'S KITCHEN SINK

Mary is the wife of a country storekeeper. She keeps the house, takes care of the children and helps wait on the store. She works hard—harder than her husband, and he works harder than she should.

Up to the present they have had few of the conveniences of life. Water came from a near-by spring, and the housework was done under distressing conditions, owing to the greed of the landlord. He finally agreed to put in the improvements so necessary to human comfort, and Mary's life promised to become easier. The problem was where to put the kitchen sink.

Now Mary had a favorite rocking chair that had a mortgage on the corner. Next came the stove, then her kitchen cabinet. To put the sink in the corner would disturb the rocking chair, and that would never do. The stove and the cabinet could not be moved, therefore, it was resolved, after much deliberation, to put the sink in an adjoining room. In a dark corner 30 feet from the stove. This, of course, meant miles of walking every day for Mary, but she could find no other way. But a kindly-inclined friend, who could study a job, suggested moving the cabinet just one foot and putting the sink between the stove and the cabinet, where it belonged. It was done, and, behold, Mary is a happy, rested woman.

Now, what is the moral of it all? Just this: Too many women wait too much on their jobs, which job consists in getting the housework done in the shortest time and with the least expenditure of energy. Why should Mary—why should any woman—wait half a mile in getting things? A pin in one place, a pot in another, flour, sugar and salt in another. Back and forth, to and fro, and for what? Wearing out shoes, carpets and nerves, just because the kitchen sink has not been put in its place. It's a fine art to have things handy. The thrifty workman studies his work to see how he can cut it down, keeping things in good condition, but near by.

A certain business man in New York cannot dictate a letter. He writes it out long hand, and has his stenographer copy it. His telephone is on the wall 20 feet from his desk, which is piled high with old letters and papers. He has to hunt to find things. He is wasting time, nerve force and patience, just because he can't get his kitchen sink adjusted right.

The problem of all business—from running a home to running a railroad—is to cut out waste of time and material, to get kitchen sinks where they belong. Lost motion is costly. It racks the machine, human as well as inanimate. Mary would have carried her kettle from the stove to the sink in the dark corner a dozen times in washing the dishes. Now she doesn't carry it at all. She has solved her problem. Your problem is the same in essence. Learn how to use the telephone, the typewriter, the carbon sheet. Learn where to keep your tools as well as how to keep them. Study short cuts. Eliminate false steps. Do things the easiest (but the best) way. Save your strength for useful purposes. Study your job, whatever it be, for, whether it be big or little, it has the problem of Mary's kitchen sink, and lucky for you if you get it in the right place.

FILED HAPPENINGS

(From The Teller Journal.)

The Seventh Day Adventists have pitched their tent just east of Drake's furniture store and are preparing to take care of good-sized crowds. The Miller family has moved into the building an addition to the residence property they own near the mill, on North street. The property is rented by B. M. Atkinson, who works for the elevator.

Prayer young men should be careful about speeding their machines when in Twin Falls. Roland Graves, Dale Chipman and Harold Moore were called on the carpet Monday and contributed a small fine for this indiscretion.

Grover Davis has moved into one of his own houses, across the track, and Arthur Anderson, who has been occupying it, has moved into the J. W. Weaver house, on Yakima avenue. Mr. Weaver will return to his former home in Ohio.

Dr. Steffen A. Brannon, president of the University of Idaho, will deliver the commencement address for the high school this year. The date of commencement has not been definitely settled. Dr. Brannon is the peer of any speaker in the state, and the high school is very fortunate in securing him.

E. N. Stoughton of Polson, Mont., has rented the building recently vacated by C. A. Love and will come here and open a general store of dry goods and groceries. He expects to be here by the 15th and is ready for business thereafter as soon as he can open and arrange the stock. He is an old hand at the business and will actively enter into the business life of the city.

The editor of this paper let a contract yesterday to A. N. Holmes for a 25-foot addition to his brick building, occupied by the Elber pharmacy. Work will be commenced at once and pushed to a speedy finish. When completed, no other drug store in this section will be in the same class with this one. Messrs. Reeves and Hughes propose to fit up the place in a manner to offer the best service to the community in their line in the country.

The first effort looking toward organizing a central high school district in Elber for surrounding districts is a success. A meeting for this purpose was held Monday evening. Not only the district was organized, but all the surrounding districts are now organized and the central high school is being organized. The venture should be successful.

The organization has been organized and the district is now being organized.

WIDOW WISS-FROM MINDOKA TOWNSITE

MINDOKA—Mendla N. Brown has just been awarded 40 acres of land included in the Mindoka townsite. The townsites were located October 19, 1901, and included the land now claimed by Mrs. Brown, who did not enter it until 1907, when she personally cleared 15 acres with a grubbing plow. In 1909 she plowed another 10 acres, making 25 acres in cultivation, the remainder being a pasture, and otherwise improved. Mrs. Brown's improvements consist of six houses which she rented and she had a stable and corral, the improvements being valued at $360.

Register Williams of the Idaho Land Office, decided in favor of the town but holding that the town had slept upon its rights. The General Land Office reversed the decision.

Jerome Still Strong FOR PICKLING

The dill pickle industry started with a whim and is a sure go. The idea of the promoters was to secure about thirty subscribers to the extent of $5.00 per month for seven months, as a means of financing the undertaking. A paper to this effect was passed around and eagerly signed. In fact a number collected the price of dill pickling and were going to be off and on they did not get in on the movement.

More than thirty, and everyone has been in bed for several days, and more than $1200 is absorbed. It is not expected that all of it will be cashed in. The fact is that the money is being used for the purpose of the organization. The venture should be successful.

The organization has been organized and the district is now being organized.

GERMANS PUSH NEW OFFENSIVE

Crown Prince Throws Several Divisions Against French.

UNABLE TO BREAK THE LINE ANYWHERE.

Last Remaining Mine Crater Captured by Kaiser's Troops Retaken With Additional Trenches by British.

Without a pause, the German crown prince, taking advantage of the evacuation of the Bethincourt salient by the French and the occupation of that position by the Germans, has thrown several divisions against the new French line, but so far has been unable to break that line at any point.

The bombardment of the whole front west of the Meuse is of increasing intensity on both sides. Germans moving down along the Hancourt-Bethincourt line, attacked the French positions south of the Forges brook. Here they had to face the full fury of the French guns, which cost them heavy losses. The French front along the strategic sector extending from Le Mort-Homme to Cumières remained unmoved and further attempts to take French positions of the front line.

The French still hold their positions in the Callette wood, which has been the scene of heavy fighting, and against which German attacks have been directed daily.

From the Divina river to the lower Stria there has been sporadic fighting between the Russians and the Germans. Considerable activity by the armies of both sides also has been shown. Near Komorn, in the Priepet marsh region, a German "attack," launched by means of boats, broke down under the Russian fire, while on the lower Stria the Russians captured a German trench and held it against counter attacks, inflicting heavy casualties on the Germans.

The German troops, however, have penetrated to the region of Diarbekr, Armenia, while in the district of Billa several Turkish attacks have been repulsed. South of Leningrad the Russian region the invaders apparently are coming up with the Turkish main forces, the latest official report announced.

TO RE-ENTER THE PACIFIC STEAMER SERVICE

Pacific Mail Steamship Company Announces Re-establishment of Sailings Between Filer and the Orient.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Re-establishment of trans-Pacific service by the Pacific Mail Steamship company has been announced by the company's new line, Ecuador, is scheduled to leave this port for Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai, Manila and Hongkong.

Announcement of this effect was made here Monday night from the offices of the Pacific Mail Steamship company by J. H. Huester, vice-president and general manager. The decision which was reached Monday will restore to the Pacific sea lanes the house flag of the company, which was a familiar sight there until last August, when it was lowered from the forehead of the Mongolia, which, with four other vessels of the former fleet, was sold to the Atlantic Transport company, when the company decided it could not compete with the Oriental lines under the provisions of the new seamen's law.

RECRUITING OFFICE IS OPENED IN THIS CITY

Effort Made to Increase the Forces of United States Army—Many Advantages Suggested by Officers.

First Sergeant V. R. Bell of the United States Infantry and Corporal James Riley of the United States cavalry have opened a recruiting station in room 8 of the Bank and Trust building, and are prepared to tell the young men of the advantages of joining the army at this time, when there is a demand for 20,000 to fill the regiments now provided for, and when there promises to be a demand for 25,000 shortly to provide for the additional forces about to be added. Sergeant Bell has established four recruiting stations within the last three weeks, the others being in Pocatello, Idaho, and Ogden and Power, Utah.

Speaking of the matter to a TIMES representative, Sergeant Bell said: "The opportunities for advancement to the army are the best now and within the following months that the history of this country has afforded. The hardy western men inured to an outdoor mode of life have been found to make excellent soldiers, especially in the cavalry service, as they are used to riding. The exceptional inducements at the present time are bringing many ex-soldiers back to the service."

"The Salt Lake office sent out three men Monday and one on Tuesday. Another is waiting for authority to join the quartermaster's corps in Mexico, and still another had to give one week's notice to the bureau of mines, where he holds the position of government surveyor."

"Most of the applicants applying ask for service in Mexico, the government paying their transportation and other expenses, thereby giving the men an opportunity to see some foreign country. It is hoped that the Twin Falls office may furnish a number of applicants for the cavalry, as so many cavalrymen are being used in the chase after the bandit Villa."

Corporal Riley will be in charge of the local office.

PEACE MEETING FOR HIGH SCHOOL ON 17TH

General Invitation to Attend Meeting to Discuss Proposition to Pass London Measure.

Twin Falls, April 11, 1918.—Editor THE TIMES.—Dear Sir: A committee of Twin Falls citizens, acting in connection with the Socialist local, who are desirous of doing what little is in their power, is arranging to hold a mass meeting of our peace-loving population. The high school auditorium has been secured for the evening of April 17, 1918. The meeting will be called to order by the chairman of the committee at 8 o'clock sharp and then the matter of bringing about peace will be discussed in the form of a resolution to be introduced memorializing congress to act on the Meyer London measure, now pending before that body. All persons of the town and vicinity are urgently requested to be present and lend their aid in this undertaking.

London is the Socialist congressman from New York and has offered a resolution appropriating $100,000 to be placed at the disposal of President Wilson for the purpose of carrying on negotiations to settle the European war. The committee in charge of the meeting Monday night was appointed by the Twin Falls local.

DEMOCRATS MAKE BIG GAINS IN CHICAGO

Complete Returns Show That They Outnumbered the Republicans by More Than 20,000 Votes.

CHICAGO.—Complete returns in yesterday's alternate election show today that the Democrats made decided gains throughout the city and that they outvoted the Republicans by more than 20,000 votes.

The vote cast yesterday was 47,442, heavy for an "off" year. The women vote fell considerably below expectations. The Republican vote of 18,512 was 2,852 less than last year, while William Hale Thompson was elected mayor by a majority of 14,747. Democrats polled 219,028, 41,933 more than last year. Socialists received 45,773 votes, or 21,227 more than last year. Progressives and other scattering votes totaled 12,415.

The total women's vote yesterday was 24 per cent of registration and 116 men's vote 65 per cent of registration.

Almost complete returns of the optional elections held in various cities, towns and townships yesterday indicated today that between 400 and 450 saloons will be eliminated in the near future, and that former dry territory which has been the prohibition victories in 1912 sheltered about 250 saloons again will permit the sale of alcoholic.

SCHOOL BOARD BUYS THE ASHTON CORNER

Declines Difference in Price to Be Insufficient to Warrant Condemnation Proceedings.

The school board at its meeting last night decided to pay the price of $4250 set upon the Ashton corner by its owner, William Ashton, rather than go into court to endeavor to condemn the property for $4000, the price offered. A delay of one month would result in a greater loss interest than the difference involved, besides the inevitable delay in beginning construction and the uncertainty of the judicial decision.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Sheridan's attempt to make a business man of his son Bibbs by starting him in the machine shop and to make him go to a sanitarium, a nervous wreck.

CHAPTER II—On his return Bibbs is met at the station by his sister Edith.

CHAPTER III—He finds himself in an uncomfortable and uneasy position in the "New House" of the Shermans.

CHAPTER III.

It was gray stone, with long roofs of thick green slate. An architect who loved the middle "Gothic motives" had built what he liked it was to be seen at once that he had been left unhampered, and he had wrought a picture out of his head into a noble and exultant reality. At the same time a landscape designer had played so good a second, with ready-made accessories of green, approach and vista, that already whatever look of newness remained upon the place was to its advantage, as showing at least one thing very clean under the grimy sky.

Altogether, the new house was a success. It was one of those affairs in which the owners, which always the owners, yielded in privacy; it revealed nothing of the people who lived in it save that they were rich. In our swelling cities rich families, one after another, take title and occupy such houses as fortune else and fall—their mark the high tide. It was impossible to imagine a child's toy wagon left upon a walk or driveway of the new house, and yet it was—as Bibbs rightly called it—"beautiful."

What the architect thought of the "Gothic of Nepal," which hung in its vast gold-revealed of ruse from against the gray-wood of the hall, is to be conjectured—perhaps he had not seen it.

"Edith, did you say only eleven feet?" Bibbs pointed, starting at it, as the white-robed maid of a butler's porter helped him to get out of his overcoat.

"Eleven without the frame," she explained. "It's splendid, don't you think? It lightens things up so. The hall was kind of gloomy before."

"No gloom now," said Bibbs.

"This statue in the corner is pretty, too," she remarked. "Mamma and I bought that." And Bibbs turned at her direction to behold, amid a grove of tubed palms, a life-sized black-bearded Moor, of a plastic composition painted with unapproachable gloss and brilliancy. Upon his chocolate head he wore a red turban; and for the rest, he was red and yellow and black and silver.

"Hallelujah!" was the sole comment of the returned wanderer, and Edith, saying she would "And mamma," left him blinking at the Moor. Presently, after she had disappeared, he turned to the colored man who stood waiting. Bibbs' traveling bag in his hand. "What do you think of it?" Bibbs asked, solemnly.

"Gran?" replied the servant. "She might have said 'dus'. 'Tus' sit in all 'em wrinkles. Yessuh, she might have said 'dus'."

"I expect she must be," said Bibbs, his glance returning reflectively to the black ball forward for a moment. "Is there a place anywhere I could sit down?"

"Yessuh. We got one new spare room all fix up for you, sub. Right up stairs, sub. Nice room."

He led the way, and Bibbs followed slowly, stopping at intervals to rest, and noting a heavy increase in the staff of service, since the exodus from the "old" house. Maid and scrub-women were at work under the patient, nonchalant direction of another Pullman porter, who was profoundly enjoying his own affectation of being harassed with care.

"By-the-by, got look spick an' span for the big dols tonight," Bibbs' father explained, chuckling. "Yessuh, we got big dols tonight! Big dols?"

The room to which he conducted his luggage was furnished in every particular like a room in a new hotel, and Bibbs found it pleasant—though, indeed, any room with a good bed would have seemed pleasant to him after his journey. He stretched himself flat immediately, and having received "Not make" the attendant's offer to unpack the bag, closed his eyes wearily.

White-jacket, racially sympathetic, lowered the window shades and made an exit on tiptoe, encountering the other white-jacket—the luggage overseer—in the hall without. Said the emerging one:

"He mighty shaky, Mink' Jackson. Drop right down nu' 'bout his eyes. Eyeballs all black. Rich folks gotta go."

mother, gravely. "I've given up a little and take an interest in things. That's what papa was sayin' this morning, after we got your telegram and that's why he's so hungry for appetite. Too he was talkin' over his plans for you."

"Plans?" Bibbs, turning on his side, shielded his eyes from the light with his hand, so that he might see her better. "What?" He paused. "What plans is he making for me, mother?"

She turned away, going back to the window to draw down the shade. "Well, you better talk it over with him," she said, with perceptible emphasis. "He's got to be the one to decide. I don't feel as if I had any call, exactly, to go into it; and you better get to sleep now, anyway." She came and stood by the bedside once more. "But you must remember, Bibbs, whatever you do, do it for the best. He loves his children and wants to do what's right by all of 'em—and you'll always find his right in the end."

He made a little gesture of assent, which seemed to content her, and she resumed to the door, turning to speak again after she had opened it. "You get a good nap, now, so as to be all rested up for tonight."

"You—you mean—?" Bibbs stammered, having begun to speak so quickly. Checking himself, he drew a long breath, then asked, quietly, "Does father expect me to come downstairs this evening?"

"Well, I think he does," she answered. "You see, it's the house warming, and he said he thought all our children ought to be around us, as well as the old friends and other folks. It's just what he thinks you need—to take an interest and live up. You don't feel too bad to come down, do you?"

"Mother?"

"What?"

"Take a good look at me," he said. "Oh, see here!" she cried with brisk cheerfulness. "You're not so bad off as you think you are, Bibbs. You're on the mend, and it won't do you any harm to please your—"

"It isn't that," he interrupted. "Honestly, I'm only afraid it might spoil somebody's appetite. Edith—"

"If told you the child was too sensitive," she interrupted, in turn. "You're a pretty good-looking enough young man for anybody! You look like you've been through a long spell and begun to get well, and that's all there is to it."

"All right, I'll come to the party, if the rest of you can stand it, I want."

"I'll do you good," she returned, rustling into the hall. "Now take a nap, and I'll send one of the help to wake you in time for you to get dressed up before dinner. You go to sleep right away, now. Bibbs—"

He woke refreshed, stretched himself gingerly—as one might have a care against too quick or too long a pull upon a frayed elastic—and, getting to his feet, went blinking to the window and touched the shade so that it flew up, letting in a pale sunset.

He looked out into the lemon-colored light and smiled wistfully at the next house, as Edith's grandiose phrase came to mind, "the old Vertrees country mansion." It stood in a broad lawn which was separated from the Shermans' by a young hedge; and it was a big square, plain old box of a house with a giant salt-cellar atop for a cupola. Edith had been started for a long time, and no one could have put a name to the color of it, but in spite of that the place had no look of being out at heel, and the award was as neatly trimmed as the Shermans' own.

Directly opposite the window the Vertrees lawn had been graded so as to make a little knoll upon which stood a small rustic "summer house." It was almost on a level with Bibbs' window and not thirty feet away. Probably the "summer house" was pleasant and pretty in summer. But now in the thin light it was a desolate, color of dust, and hung with haggard vines which had lost their leaves.

Bibbs looked at it with grave sympathy, probably feeling some kinship with anything so abandoned; then he turned to a cheval glass beside the window and paid himself the dubious tribute of a thorough inspection. Throughout this cryptic seance his manner was profoundly impersonal, but finally he appeared to become pessimistic. He shook his head solemnly; then gazed again and shook his head

ROOT AGAIN TURNED DOWN

Empire State Delegation Will Support Hughes at Convention

REPUBLICANS LEAVING TOWARD T. R. AS CANDIDATE

Gardner-Cushing Move May Cause Disaster to Hanks of the G. O. P.—Weeks to Withdraw.

NEW YORK.—National political importance was seen here tonight in the defeat of William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, in his attempt to dominate the committee and the delegation to the national convention, and consequently a victory for Governor Whitman and his followers, who are "woefully" Hughes men.

The defeat of a second attempt to obtain an independent vote for the election of former Senator Edith Root, Defeat of William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, in his attempt to dominate the committee and the delegation to the national convention, and consequently a victory for Governor Whitman and his followers, who are "woefully" Hughes men.

Senator J. W. Weeks, Massachusetts, Republican aspirant for presidential honors, but who has never been seriously considered, may be ready to step aside in favor of Roosevelt. That was the construction placed by Roosevelt adherents tonight on the fact that Charles G. Washburn, generally known as Weeks' campaign manager, with George Von L. Meyer, former secretary of the navy, and known heretofore as Weeks' booster, had a lengthy conference with Colonel Roosevelt today. At its conclusion Meyer came out openly for Roosevelt as the Republican candidate.

"It is my belief," Meyer said, "that Mr. Roosevelt will be the best man for the job. He has the support of the great majority of the people, and his Republican sentiment is rolling up in that direction. His experience in the past, his extensive knowledge of the affairs of men, not only in this country but abroad, makes him the most available man for the Republicans."

"As to Massachusetts, I am not in sympathy with the Gardner-Cushing movement. As has been shown by Mr. Root's defeat, it was started without his knowledge and consent, and their activities have created a factional contest that might jeopardize the Republican candidate's election as governor, and even complicate or embarrass Senator Lodge's re-election, which is of vital importance to the state and even to the nation."

"Senator Weeks, preparing to withdraw in favor of Colonel Roosevelt," Washburn was asked.

"I have not been in Washington lately and most of the news comes from there," the former Massachusetts legislator said.

"I have nothing to add to the 'Truth' statement," Colonel Roosevelt said. "In that statement I said that I disapproved of any factional fight in either my district, Massachusetts or elsewhere, and that any such factional fight was begun without my knowledge and would be continued without my acquiescence."

"I have stood and now stand on that statement in Massachusetts as well as all other states. While in Boston I did not see any man interested in either side in the primary contest."

The famous Root-Barnes-Roosevelt dinner was held at the Hotel Hamilton foundation for the belief among Roosevelt's followers that Root, who presided at Chicago four years ago and was among those charged by Roosevelt with the "theft of the Republican nomination," had renewed fealty to his former enemy. To Weeks' aspirations for a Massachusetts delegation at Chicago next June seriously menaced by a recent statement from the four candidates for delegates at large announcing their support of Roosevelt, the meeting of the Weeks forces with the colonel took on the aspect of "another healing" movement between the Bull Moose and the Republicans.

NEW RESUSCITATION SERUM DISCOVERY AT JOHN HOPKINS

BALTIMORE, Md.—Experiments are being made by specialists at Johns Hopkins university hospital, which, if successful, will greatly aid in the resuscitation of persons apparently dead from drowning or asphyxiation. The new treatment is the injection of a serum to stimulate the blood to such an extent as will form a reaction on the heart. This will keep the person alive until the apparatus perfected some time ago to clear the lungs can be put in use.

The serum, the experimenters will not divulge at the present time, has been tried on dogs, and a number of experiments have proven successful.

However, there have been after-effects, such as high blood pressure or bulging of the arteries.

According to the physicians, if the serum can be perfected, and there is every indication that it can, the serum can be injected several hours after the drowning.

The physicians are now engaged in trying to overcome or prevent the excess of blood pressure.

ADJUTANT GENERAL CONFIDENT DEMOCRATIC VICTORY IN STATE

Adjutant General P. H. Crow was in the city for several days last week on business. He said to THE TIMES while here that he was confident of the re-election of General Alexander and the carrying of the state of President Wilson. General Crow stated that he was not on official business and therefore not here at the expense of the state, so, while he talked with members of the National guard, he did so informally. While here he said his residence to P. R. Cox.

ATTORNEY L. CALHOUN GOES TO R.I.

Attorney L. Calhoun will move to Build this week to live. The return of L. W. Munhall from active practice and the appointment of A. W. Ostrom as probate judge leaves but one lawyer, W. R. Green, in business in the west-end city.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Surgeons state men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. Twin Falls people should know that a few cases of simple backache, dark, greenish, etc., as noted in Ad-ler-ka, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This mixture removed such surprising toll matter that ONE SPASMOTIC, followed almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. The INSTANT, easy action of Ad-ler-ka is surprising. SATURDAY, APRIL 8, the Great KING 8, with SEVEN PASSENGERS, easily pulled the Buick Hill, on Rock Creek, in "low gear." With only the driver in the car, the KING 8 pulled over the same hill on "intermediate gear."

The performance of the KING 8 in this test was so wonderful that the truth is hard to believe. Even those who witnessed the hill climbing events were amazed.

CONFESSES RAPE CHARGE IS ACQUITTED BY JURY

Confession in Gooding Case Is Barred Because It Was Not Given Voluntarily.

GOODING, Ida. — Glenn Sayre, charged with the crime of rape, was acquitted by a jury of 12 men, most warmly contested criminal trials ever held in Gooding county, says the Gooding Leader. The crime with which Sayre was charged was committed on October 28th, since which time he has been confined in the Lincoln county jail at Shoshone.

Mr. J. B. Burton was the victim of this assault. Sayre, whose parents lived near the Burton place, was employed as a farm hand on the Burton place. He was committed to the county jail on the temporary absence of Mr. Burton.

After an arrest Sayre made a confession, in which he admitted that he was the man who entered Mrs. Burton's room on the night of October 28th, and on the strength of this confession and the other evidence he was held for trial in the district court.

In the district court, however, this confession was not admitted in evidence, the court holding that it was not a voluntary confession. This confession weakened the case of the prosecution.

Mr. J. B. Burton, who was the victim of this assault and the only evidence of Sayre's identity as the criminal was entirely circumstantial.

DEMOCRATS SELECT STATE DELEGATION

upon to make recommendations, for appointments, and often also to advise in other administrative or even legislative matters.

"I have certain definite views in regard to party policies and the duty of a national committee which I believe in and which I would endeavor to follow if I am chosen. I have no hesitancy in declaring myself, for if I am not in accord with the Democrats of Idaho on these matters I do not want to represent them."

"In matters of appointments the responsible party machinery should be the county committees. Upon them rests the responsibility and they best know who are loyal, competent and trustworthy. No party, especially a majority party, can hope for success except upon the basis of good government and public service. And in your federal appointments, your local committees are best able to pick out these local men. Men should not be given recognition because they have rendered service to factions or groups of individuals, but on their merit as active and worthy servants of our cause. Democracy stands today as the representative of the highest type of patriotic American statesmanship, and the man who in his precinct or his county is a loyal worker for the party's success is the one upon whom we must trust for national and state success."

"I do not know what the chances of my success may be. It is easy to make large claims, but claims amount to nothing. Most of the delegates to the state will be uninterested and their attitude cannot be known now. I have received assurances of support from many sources, some of them surprising—from friends of Mr. Elder as well as others."

"We frequently hear of factions in the Democratic party, but I hope such is not the case. Of course we have rivalries, but rivalry is a long distance from factions. In Idaho we are unanimous for President Wilson and unanimous for his policies, and his program. We are unanimous for Governor Alexander. These are the main things."

"I am in the fight to stay. I am in it at the suggestion of my friends of Twin Falls county, and because I feel that I can be of service to the party and the state. If I am chosen I will be the servant of the party and not any group, faction or individual. It will be a new deal and a square deal. I will use every effort to bring all Democrats together—to encourage the organization of active committees—to drive no Democrat out of the party—to devote my political activity to making Idaho Democratic, not for one year but for years to come. I have no new policies, new policies, and above all, a new lead—and I can come only by Democratic success. If I am defeated—well—I still will be a democrat, and my home will be in Twin Falls, Idaho."

ARTICLE BY PRIEST FREELY CIRCULATED

Oregon Short Line Gives Story Published in New West Magazine Widely.

The Twin Falls country gets a large share of the space used in the recent article, entitled "Grain Does Not Gilt," but it's Gold in Idaho," by Joel L. Priest, published in the December number of the New West Magazine of Salt Lake City. The article has just been republished in pamphlet form by the Oregon Short Line, and thousands of copies are being spread broadcast over the country. With the result that it will doubtless attract many to the south side tract during the next few months. The article relating to this city and surrounding towns tell about the operations of the Twin Falls mill, the vast profits of clover yields and the big potato crops. The following are sample excerpts:

"An industry that has grown into prominence in the last few years, and that is steadily pouring money and more of that desirable commodity—ready cash—into the bank accounts of the farmers, is that of seed growing. Some of the seed yield on the Twin Falls tract this year read like fairy stories. Some, alas, on investigation, have proved to be fairy stories. I propose to tell nothing that has not been carefully verified, for the plain truth will be sufficient enough for those unfamiliar with conditions to believe."

"A few weeks ago F. A. Bukholder drove up to the office of the Twin Falls Milling and Elevator company with a wagon load of white clover seed. It was good, clean seed, grown on 35 acres of land. When Mr. Bukholder drove away, his wagon was empty, he had earned his money and walked a check for upwards of $3000."

"William Vogel, living near Buhl, last spring bought 160 acres of improved land for $115 per acre. Eighty of the 160 acres were in alfalfa clover. A. H. Vogeler of Salt Lake bought the seed from that 80 acres and he gave Mr. Vogel a check for $10,500. Fairly good return on the investment, was it not?"

"Amos Howard of Buhl went into the seed-growing business with all his might. He owned 325 acres, half in red clover, the other half in alfalfa. His seed check this year was $16,500. A remarkable feature about Mr. Howard's seed was that it was found in the fact that this was the first crop harvested on his land. It was cleared of sagebrush and broken a year ago last fall. The seed was planted in March and covered the Twin Falls south side and the north side projects that at the time this was written, November 1st, had yielded a total of $16,500. It was the first crop harvested this year. By the time the entire crop has moved the total will be augmented by at least $20,000 more. It is a remarkable fact that the farmers in this favored territory are becoming enthusiastic over their seed possibilities."

"The movement of potatoes from Idaho is just beginning. Due to various causes, such as the late wet spring, which caused some of the seed to rot, the increased acreage in potatoes and other causes, the potato crop will not be as large this year as in other years. Still, not less than 8000 car loads of potatoes will be sent out to the markets of the country within the next few months."

"Idaho Falls, as usual, will be the principal potato shipping point. In this side of the Arthur grade, on the other stations, such as Blackfoot, Shelley and Twin Falls and Rigby, will come in with large quotas."

BUHL NEWS

(From the Buhl Herald)

The Buhl highway district completed the fill at the Deep creek bridge on state highway at noon Monday. Messrs. Smith & Green, one of the contractors on the high line enlargement, did the work under the supervision of Road Overseer Harry Smith. W. A. Holt supplied the material. Approximately 2000 yards of earth were moved (some of it being hauled from a distance of over one mile) at a cost of a little less than 17 cents per cubic yard. The contractors generously donated $25 toward the work. The greatest grade is 20 feet and the fill will be protected by rip-rap before water to prevent damage by the spring floods. The state highway authorities wished to remove the central bridge. This will be strenuously objected to by the Buhl highway commissioners, as experience has shown that the greatest danger is under the bridges is hardly sufficient during the spring floods.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Flumer of Pocatello arrived in Buhl the first of the week with a view to locating here in business, and it is more than likely that they will open a restaurant and hotel rooming house. At least, that is their intention if they find a suitable location, or if they can purchase the property of one of the present owners.

Mr. Flumer formerly lived in Pullman, Wash., and he is a contractor and builder. Mrs. Flumer has had considerable experience in the hotel and cafe business.

Allie Gross, a sheepherder for the Bob Rogers band of sheep, was arrested last Sunday evening on complaint of Mr. Baxstaller, who lives on the side of the Arthur grade, on the side of the river, and the herder was brought before Judge Milner, where he was released on bond. The complaint was for trespassing on the Baxstaller land with the sheep. However, Mr. Rogers came down the following Wednesday and settled the case by paying for the damage claimed to have been done by the sheep.

E. L. Goodsell, who attended the stock auction meeting at Twin Falls a few months ago as a representative of the Fruit Auction company of New York, wrote a letter to the secretary of the Twin Falls Men's association, and he said that apples were selling from $2 to $2.50 per bushel. That includes the fancy grades of Winona and Spitzbergen and other varieties.

Many Prefer to Raise Beef Cattle, Though Demand for Milkers Also Increased.

(By JOHN BRADLEY.)

Nig, the grade Holstein owned by A. A. Stauffacher, the same cow who in the February work won first place in the honor roll of the association, held her place again in March, but in the vernacular of the street she only held it by the "skin of her teeth," as Buttercup, a new member of the association, a grade Jersey owned by C. E. Smalley, came within eight-tenths of one pound of wresting first honors from her grasp. As it was, Nig's record for the month was 60 pounds of butterfat for the month, while Buttercup produced 59.8 pounds of butterfat, landing on second place with just one point to spare. A member of her own herd, Princess, also a grade Jersey, having 69.7 pounds of butterfat to her credit. Ruby, a grade Jersey owned by A. C. Coen, was a close contestant for top honors, her production being 58.1 pounds of butterfat for the month. This was the first month in which Mr. Smalley's roll in been there in the association, and, needless to say, he is well pleased with the results. The other new member of the association was a young bull named Bower, who entered 21 cows and taking the place of the Chatter herd, which was sold. The race for first place in March between the Holsteins and the Jerseys was a pretty one and will put every one on their mettle for the April records.

Silos Empty—Records Go Down.

It will be observed in a study of the records of the 70 cows which made the honor roll in March that there is a decided falling off in butterfat production all along the line, and this is explained undoubtedly by the fact that the silos are running empty and that a number of the dairymen have reached the poor hay in the stacks. If there has been wanting any argument for the silo situation, the fact that argument has certainly been produced by this falling off in the butterfat production, and there is now no observing stockman but who is willing to admit the extreme value and importance of having a sufficient capacity and well-filled silo, and I might remark right now that the silo situation planned by County Agriculturalist Birch for April 19th next, should be taken in by every farmer who can possibly arrange to do so. The silo is the certain need in this tract of the stockman, whether he be a dairymen or whether he be producing beef cattle. Jacob Schneider will plant 30 acres of corn for ensilage purposes and tells me he considers one acre of corn in the silo worth three acres of sugar beets. Mr. Schneider will fill his ensilage feed feeding sheep. With all due respect to the wonderful alfalfa grown in the Twin Falls tract, it is folly to not give consideration to better balanced ration. I can recall quite well that my grandmother baked a most excellent quality of cornbread and I liked it, but I can recall how much I enjoyed the "light" bread which I ate when I visited some of the better-fixed homes where "light" or wheat bread was baked. The silo provides the supply of succulent feed at the time of year when it is not available in the growing pastures, and ensilage connected with root crops will not only lower the cost of feed per animal but will also increase the flow of milk; produce the better-flavored beef and pork. So the silo is a necessity. I believe it is a perfectly safe prophecy to say that the day of alfalfa has passed forever in the Buhl country. There are a great many more men taking up the production of beef cattle and there has been a decided increase in the demand for Shorthorn breeding stock. This is as it should be. Our dairy business is a big business, and a good business for the man who is not naturally adapted to dairying problems—well—he had far better be raising Shorthorns and doing his own marketing. But for the man as a producer of first-class beef stock, as well as the leading dairy section of the west. There are a great many men just now who are raising a very full howl about the price of butterfat, and there is no question but that the situation offers an excuse for howling. But the men who are raising beef cattle might afford them more satisfaction.

Fifteen Herds Make 30-Pound Records.

Fifteen herds made the 30-pound record in March, being just double the number of herds in February. There is one official A. R. O. test being made, a better in the Styler herd. A. Carlson and C. H. H. Shively have discarded their grade sires and have placed registered sires at the head of their herds. Nine registered herds in the herd of C. E. Smalley pulled down the high herd record with 40.2 pounds of butterfat per head to their credit. F. Smalley holds the record with 15 grade Jerseys. The herd list follows:

C. E. Long, 9 registered Jerseys, 40.2; 15 registered Jerseys, 39.8; and Shorthorns, 39.1; H. H. Styler, 14 registered Holsteins, 36.5; A. A. Stauffacher, 15 registered and grade Holsteins, 36.0; C. E. Smalley, 15 registered and grade Jerseys, 35.6; H. H. Payne, 11 grade Holsteins, 35.3; C. H. Smalley, 7 registered and grade Holsteins, 35.1; C. E. Smalley, 16 grade Jerseys, Guernseys and Holsteins, 34.9; M. P. Dau, 19 registered and grade Holsteins, 34.9; Bower & Hatfield, 18 grade Holsteins and Jerseys, 33.9; J. R. Long, 10 registered

FUNERAL OF LULU FRANKS HELD SUNDAY AFTERNOON

One of the largest funeral processions in the history of Twin Falls followed the body of Lulu Franks, the nurse who was found dead in the canyon Thursday, to her last resting place at the Twin Falls cemetery Sunday afternoon. The services were held at the Christian church at 2:30 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. W. E. Harnisch, who spoke in a most appropriate and feelingly in regard to the sad event. People from all parts of the city who knew the faithful girl by the following her vocal in the city, joined with many from Three Creek, Rogerson and other parts of the county in showing the last honors to her memory.

There have been no new developments since last week. The stomach of the dead girl was taken during the postmortem examination and sent to Boise for further examination. From there it was forwarded to San Francisco for further test. Pending the result of the San Francisco tests, Mr. Crosby has decided to take no further action. The assumption that it was a case of suicide is still retained by the people generally, but the officials make no statement of their opinions in the case.

CUTS OFF HAIR IN SLEEP

High School Girl While Dreaming Uses Shears on Her Own Locks.

Hiawatha, Kan.—Miss Walfrid Lonnberger, a seventeen-year-old high school girl of this city, while dreaming that someone was trying to cut off her hair, got up in her sleep one night recently and went into the dining room of her home, where she got the scissors and cut off her hair. Two years ago Miss Lonnberger had the same thing on it until someone had to cut it in a long braid, and she cut it off. Her hair has not grown long since then, but in her last waking in her sleep she cut off all there was.

NEW GRADE AT SHOSHONE

"FALLS FINISHED LAST WEEK" The new grade on the north side of the canyon at Shoshone falls was completed last week, according to the foreman who has been in charge of the work and who was in Twin Falls Monday.

The completion of this highway was made difficult and somewhat more expensive through the necessity of keeping the highway open for travel, the Shoshone road being the only passage of automobiles between the north and south sides of the river. The grade from the ferry on this side of the canyon to a point about half way up the hill has had comparatively little work done on it until recently when the difficult nature of the work. The upper portion of the hill was put in good condition last summer and Automobiles experience no difficulty in crossing the canyon at this point, now that the new bridge has been constructed on both sides of the canyon.

MAY RAISE PRICE OF PAPERS

Provincial Journals in Great Britain Are Hardest Hit by Pulp Shortage.

London—Owing to the increased cost of print paper, due chiefly to high freights, a number of English newspapers, particularly in the provinces, are considering the question of coming to an agreement to raise their prices. They state that unless there is an increase of the price at which newspapers are sold a great many of the provincial newspapers will cease to exist, or at any rate will be suspended for the duration of the war.

Added to the high price of paper is the increased cost of many accessories in connection with newspaper production, great shortages of labor owing to the number of men who have gone from the printing trade into the army and the munition factories and the great increase in the wages of boy and other labor.

WOULD GO BACK TO PRISON

After Pardon, Aged Man Declares the Outside World Has Treated Him Badly.

Davenport, Ia.—Gus Eisenberg, seventy-four years old, pardoned six months ago after serving 28 years in Fort Madison penitentiary on a murder charge, has asked the local police to return him to the penitentiary. "I'm lost. I don't know where to go," he told the police. "I want to return to prison, for I spent all of my life that was worth while there. Warden Sanders was good to me and nobody out in the world is. I want to go back to the only friend I have."

The local police will probably ask the state board of pardons to revoke Eisenberg's pardon and return him to prison for the remainder of his life.

Time want ads bring results.
