TROOP NOT TO BE WITHDRAWN

Will Remain In Mexico Until Badits Have Been Completely Dispersed

DE FACTO GOVERNMENT RESTIVE UNDER DECISION.

Scott and Finston Study Instructions From Washington Supplies to Forward by Freight.

WASHINGTON.—The cabinet held a brief session today, discussing the German and Mexican question. Secretary Lansing said afterward that no steps were in contemplation to hurry Germany's reply to his last note on submarine warfare. It is expected this week. Secretary Baker said he had no new information from Gen. Scott at Juarez and did not know definitely when the next conference with Gen. Obregon would be held.

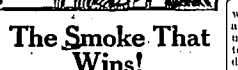

After the cabinet meeting officials reiterated there was no change in the plan of the American government to keep the troops in Mexico until the bandits were completely dispersed. The first fighting in the Carranza campaign against Zapata forces in southern Mexico was reported today in the state department dispatches. A considerable Carranza force attacked a Zapata band near Amoles, the coastal seaport of the state of Guerrero, but results of the engagement were not stated.

Killing of 12 cars of large and foodstuffs destined for Gen. Pershing's forces was reported today from Culman City. These cars were recently sent by private shippers at El Paso. Gen. Scott and Finston at the Mexican border today had further instructions from Secretary Baker on which it was expected they would resume negotiations with Gen. Obregon, Carranza's war minister.

These orders do not alter the administration's attitude toward maintenance of troops in Mexican territory it is assured.

Although no formal demand has been made by representatives of the de facto government for the withdrawal of American troops Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, discussed with administration officials here, is laying emphasis on the declaration that longer occupation by American troops is reducing the de facto government's authority.

ISSUES STATEMENT TO WATER USERS

Management of Salmon River Canal Co. Announces Allotment For Season. First Run Early In May.

The Salmon River Canal company has addressed a circular letter to all users of the Salmon river, making a temporary allotment of one acre foot for the season, and advising that further allotments will be made as the run-off of the Salmon river progresses. The notice follows:

"Notice is hereby given that water for the irrigation of grasses or other crops requiring early water will be turned into the Salmon river canal system about May 1, or shortly thereafter, the run to suit the weather, the time of starting the next run will depend on the weather, condition of crops and desire of the majority of the users, notice of which will be duly given.

"The average that will be in crop for the season of 1916 is not at this time definitely known, but a canvass of the tract to determine the cultivated area will be made as soon as possible.

"The available storage in the reservoir at this date is 35,500 acre feet. The gain in storage has been at the rate of 700 to 1000 acre feet per day for about four weeks, and it is likely that this run-off will continue for several weeks longer.

"The officers of the Salmon River Canal company, with approval of the board of directors, feel safe in making at this time an allotment of one acre foot per acre, subject to the reasonable restrictions and regulations for beneficial and economical use of the water. The wasting of water upon roads or into the sage brush will be considered evidence that too large a head of water is being delivered.

"Measurements of head will be made at frequent intervals, and the total quantity of water delivered will be computed and memoranda issued at the end of the run. The amounts used during the run will be deducted from each shareholder's total allotment for the season. When the full allotment for any entry is drawn the water for that entry will be shut off, but it is not expected that any user will draw his full allotment during this first run.

"Irrigation heads will be covered by the company, and the system and ability of the user to take care of the water efficiently, and as far as possible reasonable requests will be considered. Users are asked to give as much notice as possible in advance of their requirements so that withdrawals from the reservoir may be carefully regulated and water wastage prevented, as far as possible.

"It is urged that water users have their ditches cleaned, including devices in good order and land well prepared to receive water, and commence use of water at beginning of run in order to get the best results. During the period during which water is in the system. It is very important that diligence and care be used in handling water and every effort made to avoid waste. The co-operation of all water users is asked in the careful and intelligent application of water, in order that the most beneficial results may be obtained from irrigation.

"It should be borne in mind that water used now will lessen the available supply later, when it may be more urgently needed, and it is pointed out to users that it will be the part of wisdom to draw against their allotments only such amounts as will meet present necessities.

KING OF SPAIN MAY ARBITRATE SUBMARINE ISSUE

Movement On Foot For Mediation. Ex-Chancellor Von Buelow Is Urging Concussions.

LONDON, May 2, 1916. a. m.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Amsterdam today says that the King of Spain will be asked to arbitrate the submarine question between the "United States and Germany."

"Diplomatic circles in touch with Germany believe that the reply to the American note will be delivered on Thursday," the dispatch says, "but that in all probability it will not be in the nature of a final reply. They expect Germany will make counter-proposals regarding the establishment of new rules for submarine warfare."

"Ambassador Gerard arrived in Berlin early this morning."

PROPER USE OF BRAKES AND CLUTCHES SAVES TIRES

The effects of sudden use of the brakes day after day is bound to damage tires by wearing the tread too fast and straining the axle and side walls. The layers of canvas in the casings are thus overtaxed, and little by little reach the breaking point. Brakes should always be applied gently, and unless it is absolutely necessary to pull up your car within a short distance, the car should be stopped as gradually as possible.

CATTLE MARKET STILL STANDS AT STEADY

Sheep Somewhat Lower and Hogs Reported Weaker—Grass Steers Arrive.

Light cattle receipts had little effect on the general cattle market, says the Live Stock Reporter of Monday. Local transactions, owing to the light showing, were on a rather listless basis. Sellers and buyers claimed that the market was steady.

Outside of a few scattering sales on the best staff the market was inactive all afternoon. Cows rated active and firm. They were scarce. Veal calves are unchanged on light receipts today.

Stockers and feeders were in light offerings. The first California grass steers of the season arrived today, and were over the scales early at a pretty fair figure—seven ninety and eight ten. For first run of this class of steers salesmen contended them well sold. Top steers went at the old price of nine cents.

Spring lambs or any other kind of lamb are still scarce, and in consequence, shearings are not getting as wide a spread here as at some other points. A dollar and a half under is the rule.

The morning estimate of hogs showed 4257 had been unloaded over Sunday. This is the largest daily receipts for several weeks.

Early trading was brisk and best offerings moved at the start off on a $3.10 to $3.15 basis. Quality shown was rather spotty, some very good hogs were offered and also a considerable number of ordinary quality.

Before noon one load got over at a $9.00 price.

Telegraphic reports indicate a generally lower market in the east. Steer quotations are: Choice grain and mid-fed, $7.50 to $8.00; choice fat-fed, $8.00 to $8.50; good, $8.00 to $8.50; medium, $7.50 to $8.00; ordinary, $7.00 to $7.50; common, $6.50 to $7.00.

Cow quotations are: Choice, $7.50 to $8.00; good, $7.00 to $7.50; medium, $6.50 to $7.00; ordinary, $6.00 to $6.50; common, $5.50 to $6.00.

Heifer quotations are: Choice spayed, $7.00 to $7.50; good, $6.50 to $7.00; other varieties, $5.00 to $6.00.

Bull quotations are: Choice, $5.50 to $6.00; good, $5.00 to $5.50; medium, $4.50 to $5.00; common, $4.00 to $4.50; Star quotations are: Choice, $5.50 to $6.00; good, $5.00 to $5.50; other varieties, $4.50 to $5.00.

Feeder quotations are: Best selected, $5.50 to $6.00; good, $5.00 to $5.50; medium, $4.50 to $5.00; common, $4.00 to $4.50; choice stock feeders, $4.50 to $5.00; good to choice stock, $4.00 to $4.50.

Heifer quotations are: Jersey heifers, $4.00 and up; good grade Holsteins, $3.50 and up; good grade Jerseys, $3.00 and up; good grade Ayrshires, $2.50 and up.

Hog quotations are: Prime light, $9.00 to $9.50; prime, strong weights, $8.50 to $9.00; good to prime, $8.00 to $8.50; heavy packing, $7.50 to $8.00; pigs and skips, $7.00 to $7.50.

Sheep quotations are: Spring lambs, $10.00 to $11.00; choice lambs, $10.00 to $11.00; good to choice, $9.00 to $10.00; choice yearlings, $8.50 to $9.00; yearlings, $8.25 to $8.50; choice wethers, $8.25 to $8.50; good wethers, $8.00 to $8.25; choice ewes, $7.50 to $8.00; good ewes, $7.00 to $7.50.

INSTANTLY KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Pocastello Man Thrown From Rear Seat When Car Hits Dump. Skull Crushed.

POCASTELLO, Ida.—Sunday afternoon W. L. Sell, an old time resident of Pocastello, was thrown from an automobile on the road about one mile and a half this side of Idaho Falls, and instantly killed.

In the morning Mr. Sell left with Marney McGarvey, Jr., Aaron Elliott and Mr. Elliott's two children, for a trip to the Falls. After spending the day in that city they started back to Pocastello in the early evening. Mr. Sell was riding in the back seat with Mr. Elliott's little boy and girl, and as the car was on a smooth stretch of road, it is stated, was moving at a good clip. Mr. Sell rose in the back seat and leaned over the shoulder of young McGarvey who was driving the machine in order to look at the speedometer. It is said that he had his hand on the rod on the back of the front seat but the car struck a slight swell in the road about a yard wide and in some manner he was thrown out.

From the appearance of the body Mr. Sell must have fallen on his head, as the skull was crushed to a pulp.

OLD INDIAN CHIEF AND DOCTOR SURPRISED AT GROWTH OF CITY

Dr. A. J. Wahi, Wahio, Chactaw chief and doctor, who advertises that he will pay $500 to anyone who will prove that he is not the only chief and doctor of the Chactaw nation who travels the states, arrived in town yesterday. The old doctor says that he is 77 years of age, but does not seem to feel it, and remarks that he has a father 107 years old and a mother 106 years old, besides 19 brothers and sister all alive and well. Dr. Wahi dresses in the old time frontier style, wears numerous badges of historic interest and bears a large red cross on his arm. He says that he was one of the first to enlist in the International Red Cross society and that he has been in five wars; the civil war and the Spanish-American war, in this country and the Boer war, the Armenian trouble and the Boer war. He tells an interesting story of his work in connection with Buffalo Bill and the Custer massacre and relates incidents and anecdotes about scouts whom he personally knew, including Kit Carson, Wild Bill, Texas Jack and other celebrities, known to the younger generation only through story books. Incidentally, the doctor says that the growth of Twin Falls since he was in the five wars is something marvellous, and that it seems only yesterday when the pony express brought passengers to the old log hotel.

DAIRYMEN FIND SILOS INDISPENSIBLE

Building of Live Stock Increasing Use of Silos. Economy and Better Feeding Gained.

"We are feeding 60 cows and our 250 tons of silage has saved us 135 tons of hay in eight months, or $1,350.00." This is the report made by John Gott, proprietor of the Sanitary dairy this last season with his two veldt silos of one hundred and thirty tons capacity each. Mr. Gott figures that his silage cost him $2.20 in the silo, including rent of land at $10.00 per acre and all labor. His yield was about 15 tons per acre. Were it not for this silage Mr. Gott figures he would be paying $2.00 per ton for alfalfa hay, and hauling it nine miles.

"If B. Sherman, owner of the Blue Ribbon dairy, is also a silo user, his farm having two large silos. S. S. Neher has a sixty-ton silo on his ranch just south of the city, from which he is feeding sheep with unusual success. F. C. Boone and A. C. Boone, in the same neighborhood, each have sixty-ton silos. M. J. Wier, whose farm is near Godwin, is the owner of another large silo, as is W. O. Jackey.

Speaking of the increase in the use of silos, T. A. Harman says:

"The start of farmer must come to the silo. The farm must carry more live stock. Continued market grain growing will bankrupt the farmer and his soil in this as in other states. Successful growing of live stock necessitates better feeding and greater economy in feeding. In this the silo is supreme."

Through live stock we market our products at home in the finished product. We cannot market our corn stalks and hay in distant cities, but we can supply the world with meat and stock products. Live stock husbandry gives us year-round employment, continuing all the time during the winter season into profitable labor. We grow feed crops for live stock which do not exhaust the soil's fertility as do grains for the market. Cattle, horses, hogs and sheep grow nights and Sundays, every day in the year. Every portion of our state will grow feed abundantly. A portion of the state will occasionally grow grains for market in profitable yields. The harvesting and feeding and proper utilization of forage crops must in certain sections maintain our farmers.

The silo is the one farm building needed to successfully bring together our feed crops and live stock, and complete a trio which will increase our prosperity.

LIBRARY BOARD FOR A CARNEGIE LIBRARY

Think That It Can Be Built Before City Hall Could Be Erected.

Mayor E. M. Swooley met with the library board Tuesday evening and discussed the question of arranging for the public library. The mayor said that the question of providing for the library was a live one. If it was decided to have a Carnegie library the question still remained whether the money for such a library could be obtained in a reasonable time, and if not whether it would not be well to provide temporary quarters in the plans for a new city hall. The board members take the position that money can be obtained from the Carnegie fund more quickly than for the city hall, as soon as a deed for a site can be secured. They have an option on two lots behind the Christian church facing the park, for $2500.

CROWDS ENJOY OUTING AT ARTESIAN CITY

Burley Band Entertains Visitors Sunday With Concert. Many Auto Parties.

Five hundred people enjoyed a pleasant day at Artesian City Sunday, and from early morning until late at night, autos filled with merry-makers from all sections of the county, visited the natatorium and thronged the grounds. The hot wells were viewed by many sightseers during the day and happy family groups took advantage of the orchard bluegrass on which they might spend their noonday luncheon. During the afternoon fifteen machines came in from Burley, carrying 18 pieces of the Burley band, and for two or three hours a rare treat was enjoyed by the visitors at the Nat. William Schlick is leader of the band and the concert of Sunday showed conclusively that he is an able director. Since the opening of the natatorium at Artesian City, April 22, every day and evening has witnessed the coming and going of many auto parties, and on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, when dances are given, large crowds have been in attendance. Sunday was "Conference Day of the L. D. S. church at Oakley and 40 or 50 people from Twin Falls and vicinity stopped at Artesian City on their return from the quarterly event. One hundred and fifty persons availed themselves Saturday evening and Sunday of the opportunity to bathe in the hot wells. Four capacity-loaded cars filled with logskoon hotel people, and chartered by Mrs. Arratt of the cafe, arrived late Saturday night to spend a few hours at the "Nat."

The natatorium, with its natural hot water, seems to have answered the familiar question, "Where will we spend our outing?" It is the purpose of the management to give the people of southern Idaho an all-year-round pleasure and health resort of which they may be proud. The grounds about the "Nat." are now being seeded to bluegrass and a fine double tennis court will be laid out. Playgrounds for children, with the usual paraphernalia, will be in evidence shortly and many other improvements are promised for the entertainment of the public.

It is likely baseball games may be arranged during the summer between teams of the Twin Falls-Harley, etc. league and plans for other events to be staged at Artesian City are now in the making.

NELSON FOUND GUILTY SERVICES

NOTICE THAT HE WILL APPEAL.

Stephen Nelson was found guilty Monday by Judge A. W. Ostrom on the charge of assault and battery preferred by M. Wixom, and alleged to have been committed at the county hospital Sunday last week. Nelson, who served notice of appeal, was fined $25 yesterday. Mr. Wixom has been separated from his wife for some time and for a year. He says that on the day of the row he came to town and went to see the children, but did not speak to his wife. He claims that he then went to see an attorney, with a view of consulting him about divorce proceedings, but decided to consult his wife before taking any steps. He alleged that when he went to the hospital, where his wife was visiting relatives, he found her sitting alone and looking very sad. He then approached Nelson and they talked things, with the result that he was badly smashed up. He said that he had sent his wife and her three children about $100 during the time that they were separated.

REPORT OF PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR SHOWS LARGE GAIN

Rev. J. F. Shepherd, Ph. D.D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, finished his third year Sunday as pastor. His reports show an active membership of 606, besides 45 on the reserved roll and 75 baptized children. During these three years, 427 have been received into the church and 176 have been baptized; 71 couples have been married; 865 sermons and other addresses have been delivered, and 2816 pastoral visits made. The pastor's work among the boys is recognized over the entire state. Dr. Shepherd has been secretary of the Red Cross society in its strenuous work, and a member of the Federation of Churches. In addition to his work in the city he has fostered the work at Pleasant View from the beginning, has been the head of the home mission work in synod and presbytery. The local church is greatly prospering and the harmonious, not a communicant member of either the first church or Pleasant View died last year. At the congregational meeting of Wednesday, April 26, the church mortgage was publicly burned. Mrs. H. J. Wall and W. J. Young, two of the seventeen charter members of ten years ago, lighting the fire while the congregation sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessing Flow." Plans for immediate building were adopted.

Saves Money For County—174 fore-closure suits for delinquent taxes have been brought by this office without one cent extra expense to the county.

John E. Davies, prosecuting attorney, said yesterday. "The county commissioners in other counties have allowed the county attorney from $500 as in Power county, to $1000 in Bannock and other counties, for the additional work necessary to bring these suits." As the law allows $25 attorney's fee for each action brought, one county divided the cases among several attorneys. In Twin Falls county the fee will be collected, but paid into the county fund.

THE KETTLE VS. POT DISPUTE.
A controversy has broken out between the Pocatello Tribune and the Boise Statesman relative to the exhibition of bossism in the recent Republican state convention.
The Statesman chides the Pocatello paper for "apparently lending itself to the schemes of the professional politician and the practices of time serving combinations," which it clearly intimates controlled the convention in this city. On the other hand the Tribune says that it has taken the position that the party could clear its skirts better by eliminating the professional politicians that have infested Boise, "the job-holders, pensioners, time servers," etc., and charges the Statesman with being necessary of these undesirable elements.
This makes it pretty clear that there were two sets of politicians in the convention, the Boise kind, and the rest, and that for the moment the Boise bunch were the under dogs.

Of course, the Statesman is right in saying that the convention was controlled by politicians, which does not mean that Colonel Hammer was inconsistent in his prayer for a boss of the Mark Hanna stripe, of whom none were present.

Never was there such a flash in the pan as the resolutions adopted. Somebody took the resolution out of them and in view of fervid oratory that preceded their introduction it must be apparent that the dominating elements lacked the stamina that was possessed by the two chairmen, who were clearly not fully in touch with the controlling factors. The men who ran the convention were more interested in hand picked delegates than they were in party principles. They got the national delegates whom they had decided on before the delegates to Twin Falls went into final matters.

In view of all the circumstances, the tribute of the Tribune to the Republican party of Idaho as "the party of the people rather than of puppets; of broad, square fighting principles rather than of quibbling on little affairs," is a peculiarly brilliant bit of unconscious humor. It was safe to denounce Democrats so long as it did not put on paper what it thought the derelict Democrats should have done.

All that the Tribune says about the Boise politicians, the time servers and the like, is true. They were and are a bad lot. They "took things easy," too much so for their own or the public's good, and the old mouthpiece of the crowd is sore and grouchy for the reason that it has been separated from the accustomed provender. But at the same time to give the old crowd their due, they were not unduly coddled. They would have given some specific reasons for their denunciation of the Democratic party; it would probably have been a bad reason, but they would have given it. They would have had plenty of fighting principles whether good ones or not.

SHOULD INVESTIGATE.
The intimations contained in the testimony offered in the case of the State of Idaho against Stephen Nelson, were of such a character that an investigation into conditions existing at the county hospital should be made in the interest of all concerned. That witnesses can be mistaken as to what they believe that they saw under certain conditions is undoubted, and too much credence cannot be placed on statements, however honestly made, which are susceptible of explanation.
Much less can weight be given to loose talk from irresponsible persons who get information incorrectly at third and fourth hand and fill in details from their imaginations in a way that makes innocent incidents appear harmful. But gossip is dangerous to the reputation of a public institution. The public should be reassured in the case under discussion. If any wrong has been done and if the people are being misled by false impressions and untrue insinuations the more quickly that this fact is proven, the better it will be for all concerned. The county board owes it to the people and to the managers of the hospital to investigate.

YOUR DAILY NEWS.
(Boise Statesman.)
Dear Reader: Your daily news can no longer be printed on white paper with jet black ink, for until the war is over the chemicals necessary to give a good white and a deep black cannot be obtained. The paper manufacturers say: "Do not growl about the quality of the paper, as you are lucky if you get any."
The newspapers may soon have difficult problems to solve, as prices of all material used in the making of a newspaper are rapidly advancing, while the selling price of the paper remains unchanged.
In the old files of the Statesman in the "sixties" at different times for several weeks the Statesman was printed on a kind of wrapping paper. It would be strange, indeed, if the same old yellow paper should appear again after 50 years.

Many publishers are now contemplating a reduction in the size of their papers or a material cut in their subscription lists or both.

THE STORY OF "THE 'CHALLENGE OF COURAGE'" Louise Newbold, fearing a former suitor, James Armstrong, begs leave to accompany her husband on a trip to the mountains. While on a lonely trail, Louise's horse slips and both rider and horse fall over a high cliff.
Louise's injuries are so unbearable that she implores her husband to end her life, and through his love for her he fulfills her wish.

Five years later James Armstrong meets Enid Mattland, who comes out of the east, and falls in love with her.
The two go camping in the mountains.
One day while on a fishing trip Enid is caught in a tornado and while trying to make her way home, is blown over a cliff into a torrent. She is rescued by a recluse of the mountains, no other than the Newbold who figured in the early part of the story. He takes her to his camp in the mountains and the rain, which has been coming down in torrents, turned into snow and imprisoned the two in a lonely camp for the entire mountain winter. Enid is believed to be dead by her relatives, but Armstrong has a premonition that she still lives, and in the spring when the mountain trail began to open, organized a searching party. They find their old camp and discover that the recluse, who had left a note of Enid's rescue and directions as to how to find the camp. Armstrong is the first there and Newbold recognizes his former enemy. A fight ensues that is interrupted by the appearance of Armstrong's party. While others are interested in their own affairs, he quietly leaves the camp and goes out into the snow and shoots himself. Enid and the rest return to the city where she and Newbold are married. The return of the mountain recluse, through many adventures, they found and learned to love each other.
"The Challenge of Courage," in size part, with the return of the recluse Friday and Saturday evening and at Saturday's matinee, at 2:15. The program includes a comedy in which Frank Daniels stars. Mr. Daniels recently made a "hit" with Twin Falls theatregoers in "What Happened to Father."

NEW BARRISCALE ROLE
"BULLETS WITH ROMANCE" Although many photodramas have been written around plots dealing with the dollops of royalty in mythical kingdoms, J. G. Hawks of the Thomas Edifice staff of photo playwrights, the author of "Bullets and Brown Eyes," the Triangle Kay-Bee feature to be shown at the Odeon one evening only, Monday, in which Besse Barriscale is starred, is declared to have set a new standard for this kind of production.

Though the production is said to be replete with thrills and the tragedy of battle, the author has laid stress on the fact that it is a romance, and in preparing his script for production, did so with the idea of making the love story paramount.

With Besse Barriscale ever in mind, the author has written a sympathetic role in which she appears as the heroine of many stirring adventures. These scenes with William Desmond, who plays the chief supporting role, one which portrays him as a reckless young leader of light cavalry who ter-rorizes the people of the enemy's country, and finally brings him face to face with the star in a situation charged with dramatic possibilities.
Hawks, before becoming a photo playwright, passed through stirring adventures in many of the outposts of the world, as soldier, actor and explorer.

DESTRUCTION OF MINED VILLAGE INJURES ACTORS A score of photoplay actors and several actresses were injured during the making of the William Fox photo drama "The Serpent," in New Jersey.
The play deals with Russian life and includes several battle scenes.

In order to make the engagements between the Russians and the Germans as realistic as possible, Director R. A.
Walsh employed two military experts to supervise the maneuvers. A large plot of ground was mined and the mines were to be exploded just after a detachment of retreating soldiers had passed over them.

Because of a mistaken signal the man operating the electrical connections opened the switch too soon. In the premature explosion which followed, actors, guns, swords and munition wagons were hurled several feet into the air. Theda Bara, star of "The Serpent," who was watching the battle scenes, fainted. Ambulances from Fort Lee and surrounding places removed thirteen actors and supernum-aries, whose injuries ranged from lacerations to broken bones.

COMMENT ON "THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"
A spectator at a moving picture is a callous sort. He has had sudden death and destruction served up to him too often to have it rattle his calm exterior. Besides he knows all this is essential to and furnishes the price of admission. Thus in general he is able to sit unmoved, while the dramatic personae struggle in the midst of fire, or flood, or famine. It is not because he is hardhearted. It is because there has become firmly ingrained in him the belief that somewhere in the last reel there will be tucked away a happy ending. Be it said to the credit of "The Battle Cry of Peace" produced last night at the Majestic, that everyone in the crowded house waited for the happy ending with strained attention. They read with general excitement the moral of unpreparedness the film is supposed to teach. And their attention changed to horror when the happy ending, after hovering about for some time as a remote possibility, vanished beneath the rules of the city of New York.—Boston Transcript.

The Merry Month of May

We wanted to do something especially nice for our little friends this May time so we invited over so many dolls from Fairy-Town to come and wind the May-poles in our studio windows. They came and you would say they are having a very good time.

Any little boy or girl can look right into our windows and see our pretty May-poles; around them dance bewitching little kewpies, stately little Boy-Blues, sturdy little Hollanders, and tiny, fair-faced ladies in pink dresses, all gaily holding their May ribbons of pink and blue.

See Our May-poles

Then our windows suddenly bloomed with pink and blue forget-me-nots and of course there should be pictures of babies among the flowers. So we put two hundred pictures of little children—just exactly—in the windows.

Indeed the whole display is like a song of spring, a song as sweet as the meadow larks have been singing, and we want all the children to come and see it. Don't forget the name—Bisbee's. It is not a hard name to remember, but if you should happen to forget it, just inquire for the children's studio, and almost anyone would direct you straight to our windows anyway. Ask your mamma to bring little brother and sister down to see the pretty things too; they would like it all, we are quite sure.

Collects Large Fund—$7,225,000 was turned over to the county treasurer Tuesday by Assessor Beauchamp, the proceeds of the collection of taxes on automobiles and motorcycles. One-quarter of this fund must be paid over to the state, while the balance goes into the road and bridge fund to be expended by the county commissioners.

Not Melting In Hills—Practically no snow in the high hills is melting as yet, is the information brought to the city by Theodore Parks, who has just come in from Jarbridge. In some of the canyons Mr. Parks says, the snow is fully fifty feet deep, while on the level in the higher mountains, he says there is about ten feet of snow on the ground.

Officer Stops Runaway—Those who saw Police Officer Ham stop a runaway at the intersection of Main street and Shoshone avenue Monday afternoon, say that that officer deserves a medal for his bravery. The team which was attached to the McNichols transfer, came tearing down Main street, and when they neared the intersection the policeman rushed out and grabbed them, holding on until they stopped.

Corbett Opening May 18—Work on the old Smith Furniture company building is being rapidly completed, and the purchaser, A. H. Corbett, says that he will be able to open up in about 10 days, probably on Saturday, May 13. Mr. Corbett has just returned from Portland, where he purchased a stock of furniture, some of which has already arrived. The walls have been re-enclosed in the building, and the whole reupholstered and improved. Mr. Corbett says that he will maintain an exchange department in connection with his furniture business.

Has Figures On Running Car—The big cholera station includes in its annual report the cost of operating and maintaining the Ford car that is used by the bureau. From July 1st, 1914, to April 28th, 1916, the car at the local station has travelled 162,000 miles, at a cost of twelve cents per mile for gas, oil, tires, castings, repairs and labor. The cost of gas and oil totals $347.48, or a cost per mile of 21.44 cents. Tires and castings, $182.00, or 11.23 cents per mile; while parts and repairs has cost the government $283.20, or 17.48 cents per mile. These results were obtained under the same condition as the individual owner experiences; all expenditures being made at the local garages without advantage.

County Agent Active—County Agent W. N. Birch has been on the move during the past two months. During March, according to the reports on file in his office, he traveled 194 miles by rail and 602 miles by road; was in the office four and a half days and in the field almost a half day; held four demonstrations himself, attended 19 other demonstrations and eight other meetings of various kinds; visited 81 farms, received 49 personal calls and 13 calls by telephone at his office; had six articles published in local papers and sent out 482 circulars and 28 bulletins. During April, his figures were: Miles traveled by road, 818; by rail, 20; letters sent, 92; letters received, 62; circulars sent, 1104; bulletins sent, 10; personal calls, 102; local papers, 9; telephone calls, 71; telephone calls, 33; farm visits, 21; days in field, 25; days in office, three; demonstrations given, 12; demonstrations visited, 25.

Easter Thank Offering.

There will be a special meeting of the Auxiliary to the C. W. B. M. of the First Christian church in the church parlors Friday, May 5th. It will be the occasion of the opening of their thank offering envelopes for the special week of Easter. A cafeteria luncheon will be served at the noon hour, to which all members are requested to bring a contribution, and the program will be rendered later in the afternoon. The program has been carefully prepared and will be an appeal to every member fortunate enough to be present. There will be a halcyon quartette. Every member of the Auxiliary and any friend who may wish to come will please to attend. An urgent invitation to be present.

Christian Revival Closes.

The special evangelistic services which have been in progress at the Christian church for the past four weeks came to a successful close on Sunday night with a special reception for the new members on Monday evening. All told there were seventy-six decisions for Christ in the meeting, all of whom have been added to the membership of the church. About half of the additions were men and only twelve were children, none of whom were under eleven years of age. Better than thirty new homes were entered in the meeting; many of them the whole family or household becoming Christians. Everything considered, the local church holds this revival to have been one of the most successful it has ever held. Previews to the beginning of the special effort, better than forty members had been received already this year, which number, taken together with these new members, makes better than one hundred twenty added since the first of January, 1916.

Frank M. Howe showed himself to be able and competent musicians in every way and made fast friends for themselves while here. They left Thursday morning for Alton, Iowa, where they begin their next meeting.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Sheridan's attempt to make a business man of his son Bibbs by starting him in the machine shop ends in him going to a sanatorium, a nervous break.

CHAPTER II—On his return Bibbs is not at the station by his sister Edith.

CHAPTER III—He finds himself on an inconsiderable and unexpected figure in the "New House" of the Sheridans. He sees Mary Vertree looking at him from a summer house next door.

CHAPTER IV—Mary Vertree, old town family and unpurified, call on the Sheridans, newly-rich, and afterward discuss them. Mary puts into words her parents' unspoken wish that she marry one of the Sheridan boys.

CHAPTER V—At the Sheridan housewarming banquet Sheridan appears himself. Mr. Farver encourages his son's attention, and Bibbs hears his life change as he is strong enough, in spite of himself, to be allowed to write.

CHAPTER VI—Mary tells her mother about the banquet and shakes her head at talking of Jim as a matrimonial possibility.

CHAPTER VII—Jim tells Mary Bibbs is not a lunatic—just queer. His proposal to Mary, who has accepted him.

CHAPTER VIII—Sheridan tells Bibbs he must go back to the machine shop as soon as he is strong enough, in spite of himself, to be allowed to write.

CHAPTER IX—Edith and Bibbs, seeing Sheridan's wife, Mrs. Vertree, and Bibbs' girl, Mary, go to help to keep himself from missing Edith, and Mary leaves her in the room alone.

CHAPTER X.

Sheridan had decided to conclude his day's work early that afternoon, and at about two o'clock he left his office with a man of affairs from foreign parts, who had traveled far for a business conference with Sheridan and his colleagues. Herr Favre, in spite of his French name, was a gentleman of savoir. It was his first visit to our country, and Sheridan took pleasure in showing him the sights of the country's finest city.

They arrived at the Pump Works, and for an hour Herr Favre was personally introduced and personally instructed by the founder and president, the buzzing queen bee of those buzzing hives.

"Now I'll take you for a spin in the country," said Sheridan, when at last they came out to the car again. "We'll take a breather. But, with his foot on the step he paused to half a neat young man who came out of the office smiling a greeting. "Hello, young fellow," Sheridan said, heartily. "On the job, are you, Jimmie? Ha! They don't catch you off it very often, I guess.
I thought I do hear you automobile ride in the country sometimes with a mighty fine-looking girl settin' up beside you!" He roared with laughter, clapping his son upon the shoulder. "That's all right with me—is it with her? So, Jimmie! Well, when we go to move into your new warehouses Monday?"

"Sunday, if you want to," said Jim.
"No!" cried his father, delighted.
"Don't tell me you're going to keep your word about dates! That's no way to do contracts! Never heard of a contractor yet didn't want more time!"

"They'll be all ready for you on the minute," said Jim. "I'm going over both of 'em now, with Links and Sherman, from foundation to roof. I guess they'll get inspected, too!"

"Well, then, when you get through with that," said his father, "you go and take your girl out ridin'. By George, you've earned it! You tell her you stand high with me!" He stopped this, for, waving a wasteful hand well, and, when the wheels were in motion again, he turned upon his companion a broad face literally shining with pride. "That's my boy Jimmie!"

"That young man, yes," said Herr Favre.

"I got two of the finest boys," said Sheridan. "I got two of the finest boys God ever made, and that's a fact, Mr.
Favre! Jim's the oldest, and I tell you they got to get up the day before if they expect to catch him in bed!"

Mr. other boy, however, he's always to the good, too, but Jim's a wizard. You saw them two new-process warehouses, just about finished? Well, Jim built 'em. I'll tell you about that, Mr. Far-ver. And he pulled this history, describing the new process at length; in fact, he had such pride in Jim's achievement that he told Herr Favre all about it more than once.

"Fine young man, yes," repeated the good Mr. Marchener, three-quarters of an hour later. "They were many miles off in the open country by this time."
"He is that," said Sheridan, adding, as if confidentially: "I got a fine family, Mr. Farver—two children. I got a daughter now, you take her and put her anywhere you please, and she'll shine up with any 'em.

There's culture and refinement and society in this town by the earload, and here lately she's been gettin' right in the thick of it—her and my daughter-in-law, both. I got a mighty fine daughter-in-law, Mr. Farver. I'm goin' to get you up for a meal with us before you leave town, and you'll see—and, well, sir, from all I hear the two of 'em been havin' their own with the best. Myself, I and the wife, never had time for much of that kind of doin', but it's all right and good for the children; and my daughter she's always kind of taken to it. I'll send you a poem she wrote when I got her the dicker of it—her and my daughter-in-law, both. She wrote it in school and took the first prize for poetry with it. I tell you they don't make 'em any smarter 'n that girl, Mr. Farver. Yes, sir; take us all round, we're a pretty happy family; yes, sir, I haven't got any children yet, and I haven't ever spoke to him and his wife about it—it's kind of a delicate matter—but it's about time the wife and I saw some grand children growin' up around us. I certainly do hanker for about four or five little curly-headed rascals to take on my knee. Boys, I hope, of course; that's only natural. Jim's got his eye on a mighty splendid lookin' girl; lives right next door to us. I expect you heard me joshin' him about it last yander. She's the girl, the old blond-haired beauty, and I guess it was a mighty good 'lock to raise her! She's one these girls that stand right up and look at you! And pretty! She's the prettiest thing you ever saw! Good size, too; good health and good sense.
Jimmie'll be just right if he gets her.
I must say it tickles me to think of the way that boy took hold of that job back yander. Four months and a half; yes, sir—"

He expanded this theme once more; and thus he continued to entertain the stranger throughout the long drive.
Darkness had fallen before they reached the city on their return, and it was after five when Sheridan got loved Herr Favre to Westcott at the door of his hotel, where boys were shrieking extra editions of the evening paper.

"Now, good night, Mr. Farver," said Sheridan, leaning from the car to shake hands with his guest. "Don't forget I'm goin' to come around and take you up to—'Go on away, boy!'"

A newsway had thrust himself almost between them, yelling, "Extra!
Seen! Extra! Extra! All about the horrible accident. Extra!"

"Get out!" laughed Sheridan. "Who wants to read about accidents? Get out!"

The boy moved away philosophically.

"Extra! Extra!" he yelled. "Three men killed! Extra! Millionaire killed!
Two other men killed! Extra! Extra!"

"Don't forget, Mr. Farver," Sheridan called, his interrupted face well. "I'll come by to take you up to our house for dinner. I'll be here for you about half-past five tomorrow afternoon. Hope you enjoyed the drive as much as I have. Good night—good night!" He leaned back, speaking to the chauffeur. "Now you can take me around to the Central City barber shop, boy. I want to get a shave 'fore I go up home."

"Extra! Extra!" screamed the new-sways, zigzagging among the crowds like lightning. "Extra! All about the horrible accident! Extra!"

It struck Sheridan that the papers sent out too many "extras"; they printed "extras" for all sorts of petty crimes and casualties. It was a mistake, he decided, critically. "Woe!" too often wouldn't sell the goods; it was bad business. The papers would "make more in the long run," he was sure, if they published an "extra."

"How Good Night, Mr. Farver."

only when something of real importance happened.

"Extra! All about the horrible accident! Extra!" a boy squeaked under his nose, as he descended from the car.

"Go on away!" said Sheridan gruffly, though he smiled. He liked to see the youngsters working so natively get on in the world.

But as he crossed the pavement to the brilliant glass doors of the barber shop, a second newsway grasped the arm of the one who had thus cried his war.

"Ray, Yallan," said this second horse with awe, "n't chow know who that is?"

"Who?"
"It's Sheridan!"
"Jest!" cried the first, staring in-nately.

At about the same hour, four times a week—Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday—Sheridan stopped at this shop to be shaved by the head barber. The barbers were negroes, he was their great man, and it was their habit to give him a "reception," his entrance being always the signal for a flurry of jocular hospitality, followed by general excesses of briskness and gaiety. But it was not so this evening.

The shop was crowded. Copies of the "Extra" were being read by men waiting and by men in the latter stages of treatment. "Extras" lay upon vacant seats and shivered from the pocket of hanging coats.

There was a loud chatter between the practitioners and their recumbent patients, a vocal chatter which stopped abruptly as Sheridan opened the door. His name seemed to fix in the air like the last sputtering of a firework; the barbers stopped shaving and clipping; lathered men turned their prostrate heads to stare, and there was a moment of amazing silence in the shop.

The head barber, nearest the door, stood like a barber in a tableau. His left hand held stretched between thumb and forefinger an elastic check of his helpless customer's cheek, while his right hand hung numb above it, the razor motionless. And then, roused from trance by the door's closing, he accepted the fact of Sheridan's presence. The barber remembered that there are no circumstances in life just after it—under which a man does not need to be shaved.

He stepped forward, profoundly grave. "I be through with this man in the chair one minute, Mist' Sheridan," he said, in a hushed voice. "Yessuh." And of a solemn negro youth who stood by, gazing stupidly, "You goin' resign?" he demanded in a fierce whisper. "You gona take Mist' Sheridan's coat?" He sent an angry look round the shop, and the barbers, taking his meaning, averted their eyes and fell to work, the murmur of subdued conversation buzzing from chair to chair.

"You sit down one minute, Mist' Sheridan," said the head barber gently. "I fix nice chair fo' you to wait in."

"Never mind," said Sheridan. "Go on get through with your man."

"Yessuh." And he went quickly back to his chair on tiptoe, followed by Sheridan's puzzled gaze.

Something had gone wrong in the shop, evidently. Sheridan did not know what to make of it. Ordinarily he would have shouted a hilarious demand for the meaning of the mystery, but an inexplicable silence had been imposed upon him by the hush that fell upon his entrance and by the dead look upon every man in the shop had bent upon him.

Vaguely disoriented, he walked to one of the seats in the rear of the shop and looked down the two lines of barbers, sitting quickly shifted, furtive glances here and there. He made this brief survey after wondering if one of the barbers had died suddenly, that day, or the night before; but there was no vacancy in either line.

The seat next to his was unoccupied, but somehow he felt a copy of the "extra" there, and, frowning, he picked it up and glanced at it. The first of the swollen display lines had little meaning to him:

Partially faulty. New process roof collapses hurling capitalist to death with invulner. Seven escape when crash comes.
Death claims.

Thus far had he read when a thin hand touched the door, and, turning the print from his eyes, and looking up, he saw Bibbs standing before him, pale and gentle, immeasurably compassionate.

"I've come for you, father," said Bibbs. "Here's the boy with your coat and hat. Put them on and come home."

And even then Sheridan did not understand. So secure was he in the strength and wisdom of everything that was his, he did not know what a family had befallen him. But he was frightened.

Without a word, he followed Bibbs heavily out through the still shop, but as they reached the pavement he stopped short and, grasping his wife shame with shaking fingers, swung him round so that they stood face to face.

"What—what—?" His mouth could not do him the service he asked of it. he was so frightened.

"Extra!" he screamed a newsway straight in his face. "Young North side millionaire instantly killed! Extra!"

"Not—Jim!" said Sheridan.

Bibbs caught his father's hand in his own.

"And you come to tell me that?"
Sheridan did not know what he said.
But in those first words and in the first anguish of the big, stricken face Bibbs understood the unuttered cry of accusation.

"Why wasn't it you?"

VICO Automobile OIL

Oil is looked upon by some inexperienced motorists as a detail of small importance. Sooner or later, however, when their attention is directed to the rapid deterioration of their cars, they realize that the life of any motor depends on correct lubrication. A thoughtful selection of a perfect oil for this climate will naturally lead you to VICO AUTOMOBILE OIL. Three consistencies—light, medium and heavy—make good at all temperatures.

MANY GOOD OPENINGS IN ARMY SERVICE FOR MECHANICS NOW

Corporal Riley, who is in charge of the United States recruiting station in this city, says that he expects enlistments to increase materially by reason of the adoption of a system of vocational training for three and a half hours a day for soldiers. The idea is to give a soldier a fairly thorough training during his term of enlistment so that should he desire to return to civil life at the end of his term of enlistment he can do so, with the ability to make his way. The necessity for immediately increasing the army by 25,000 men, as a result of the trouble in Mexico is making the recruiting service department exert itself more strenuously than usual. Moreover, this department offers peculiar inducements to cooks, carpenters, clerks, barbers, bakers, blacksmiths, horse-shoers, musicians, pharmacists, electricians, translators and to mechanics generally, to fill the places in their lines created by the increase. As soon as these are filled these opportunities for new men proficient in these lines will largely have disappeared.

TALKS ON THRIFT

WHISKY'S DECREASING TAX ON THRIFT

Whatever may be the consensus of opinion as to the necessity for and desirability of alcoholic liquors as beverages, no thinking man will deny that drinking is an expensive habit, costly both to the individual and to the state. A dollar can be spent quicker and with less to show for it at the bar than in any other way, and the man who is a "good spender" and keeps pace with the crowd around the social glass must keep a pace that kills.

Of late years the production and consumption of liquors and beer has increased enormously, and from observation one would conclude that everybody drinks a little and most people too much. The resultant evils are widespread and far-reaching, even to the third and fourth generation, for the cost does not end with the waiter's check, but with the bills for police, almshouses, prisons and Potter's fields.

The man who indulges this habit must realize that he is putting a self-imposed tax upon his thrift, as well as a tax upon his energies. Of what avail to work hard and then spend to no useful end? Why work for the man who stands behind the bar? Why spend a day's wages in half an hour and get nothing for it but a thrill? If the state should put the same tax upon his income that he puts upon himself, he would rebel. Then, too, he who spends his money thus must realize that he is simply putting money in the bank for the other fellow. If he may take circuitous route to get there, but eventually it will find lodgment in some bank, where it will work for somebody, perhaps harder than he works for it. And the simplest way to get it in a bank quicker to the other fellow's account—is to buy the drinks for the crowd.

Checking news along this line comes from government reports on the consumption of liquor for the past year. Alcohol is lessening its tax upon thrift. The consumption of liquor in 1914 was 143,220,050 gallons. In 1915 it was 139,138,501 gallons; while in 1916 it was 125,155,178 gallons, a net decrease of 18 million gallons in two years. Likewise, in the matter of tobacco, in 1915 we burned up six hundred million less cigars than heretofore, in a single year. And the government's tobacco revenues decreased $2,500,000. One hundred and eight distilleries went out of business in 1915 and forty-one breweries ceased to brew. Forty per cent of our government revenues have been derived from liquor taxes, and in 1915 these revenues fell off over twenty-two million dollars.

Whatever may be the cause for this commendable showing—whether because of the thoughts of war and what it might mean, or whether as a people we are beginning to realize that this is a tax; or whether it is because in many places you can't get a lawful drink, the fact remains that we are drinking less and saving more. "Whether a man figures that drinking is expensive, or that it is a matter of little as long as he stops. This conclusion is very apt to fatten his pocketbook somewhat and pad his purse, and make him a better citizen. When he concludes that indulgence in any form of extravagance can get him nowhere but downwards, and that he will surely get his upwards, he has chosen well; for thrift consists not only in doing some things, but refraining from doing others, the chief of which is that habit which takes your all and gives nothing in return but regret, and regrets are costly emotions.

AL HINGLING COMES TO GRIEF AT IDAHO FALLS

Miss Hunsinger closed her speech with the following:

A health to the girls who can like a dream
And the girl who plays the piano;
And here to the girl who writes verse by the beam And toys with high C in soprano;
To the girl who can dance, To the girl who cannot;
To the saint and the sweet little sinner, But here to the cleverest girl of the lot—To the girl who can cook a good dinner.

How many times we hear that question asked?
Knowledge of music is as much a part of a child's education today as mathematics or grammar.
Are you going to give your child the education she requires to fit her to hold her place in society, or will she be a "wall flower"?
Spring is here, school will soon be out and your child will be ready to take music lessons.
Don't put it off any longer. Buy that piano now from
