PLATFORM REPORTED TO THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION BY SENATOR H. CABOT LODGE

Demands Adequate Army and Navy, Protective Tariff, Tariff Commission, Rural Credits, Ship Subsidies, Peace and Arbitration
With International Court—Suffrage Plank Weakened —Wilson's Mexican Policy Denounced.

G. O. P. PLATFORM.

CHICAGO, June 8.—The platform of the Republican party as reported to the convention by Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee on resolutions this afternoon, called for peace and absolute neutrality with a world court of arbitration; denounced the Mexican policy of the administration, called for adequate national defense, a reserve army and a powerful navy, a reasonable protective tariff; and a tariff commission; strict regulation of the business of the country; rural credits; mail subsidy to build a merchant marine; exclusive federal control of transportation; conservation of natural resources; federal child labor legislation; legislation and suffrage for women. The suffrage plank with reservation, with and when it was finished, Senator Lodge finished the plank with the following words: "Recognizing the right of each to settle the question for itself," which indicated the suffrage plank had undergone some change in committee after it had been tentatively adopted as a straight demand for woman suffrage earlier in the day. The amendment was greeted with loud derisive laughter and cheering. The mention of the name of Theodore Roosevelt during the reading of the platform causes cheering and applause which interrupted Senator Lodge for several minutes.

CHICAGO, June 8.—The adoption of a plank favoring woman suffrage by a vote of 58 to 23 by the platform committee, the announcement of the followers of Colonel Roosevelt that their leader would decline to come to Chicago to attend the convention, were the two most important developments in the political situation here today. The battle for the women's suffrage plank was not necessarily won, however, as the unexpected result in Iowa has made many of the delegates skeptical about the wisdom of incorporating it in the national platform. On the other hand on account of the firm stand maintained by most Progressives on this question those who hope to bring about a question between the parties are urging the placing of the plank in the platform, in the hope that they will thus eliminate a point of difference between the two parties. A large number of delegates in the convention that are favorable to women's suffrage, but desire to have it come through the independent action of the states, and the suffragists hope to bring these over to their way of thinking, in which case they believe the plank will be incorporated in the platform and the Progressives, Prohibitionists and both Socialist parties are in favor of woman suffrage, this would make it unanimous. The platform committee will report at 6 o'clock.

The declaration that Colonel Roosevelt will not come to the convention proved a great disappointment to that element in the Republican convention who believed that his presence would result in an agreement. Yesterday Former Senator Jackson of Maryland, telegraphed to the Rough Rider and asked him to come to Chicago. No direct reply was received to this telegram. Senator Borah had a talk with Roosevelt yesterday over the long distance telephone and after that time it was believed that he would not make public any of the conversation, he felt better satisfied over conditions and added that he thought that the Republican convention should proceed with its work. There are numerous rumors circulating in regard to the wishes of Colonel Roosevelt, one being to the effect that Senator Lodge would be satisfactory to him.

Senator Borah received a great ovation this morning when he arose to speak in response to calls from the convention. He was preceded by Former Senator Chauncey M. Depew of New York, who was also greeted with enthusiasm and was followed by Lincoln Joe Cannon, who was called to the platform by the long-continued shouts of the delegates.

So far, the convention has proceeded without a hitch, though with but little of the enthusiasm displayed in the Progressive convention yesterday, when the Progressives broke the record by electing for an hour and 33 minutes at the mention of the name of Roosevelt. When Chairman Harding called the convention to order again today after its adjournment, he took occasion to gracefully thank the committees in Chicago who had charge of the arrangements for the satisfactory manner in which they had performed their duties.

Senator Smoot in behalf of the committee on credentials then moved that the roll call be read at the opening of the convention be adopted as the membership of the convention. This was adopted without opposition. Later he moved the adoption of a supplemental report admitting two delegates each from Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. This was accepted as part of the main report without question.

Charles Warren, of Michigan, as chairman of the committee on rules and order of business, then reported in behalf of that committee and its recommendations were adopted without amendment.

The Republican national convention assembled in the Coliseum Wednesday, heard a keynote speech delivered by Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, perfected an organization and adjourned until 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Senator Harding seldom referred to his manuscript. His full voice carried to the farthest ends of the Coliseum.

Taking up national defense, Senator Harding brought applause when he said the Republicans believe sincerely and soberly in adequate national defense.

Senator Harding touched upon the Mexican situation extensively, to the apparent approval of the convention, as he scored the Democratic administration policy step by step. There was a wave of laughter as he declared the administration had "first coddled Villain."

"We ought to have a navy that fears none in the world," he said. This brought out most enthusiastic applause. There was another roaring demonstration when he declared that the Republican policy promised all the means for the expansion of defense.

He scored the Democratic administration for inefficiency, incapacity and extravagance and declared the Republican party's "allegiance to protective tariff and national defense."

Surface of the platform was steadily strengthened by the apparent spread of sentiment favorable to Hughes indicate his nomination unless the openly hostile Progressive leaders and the combination of supporters of "favorite sons" and stubborn bosses in the regular convention succeed in heading him off.

CHICAGO COLISEUM, WHERE THE REPUBLICANS MEET

CALVIN INTERESTED IN PROPOSED ROAD

New President of Short Line Will Visit Twin Falls

ASKS FOR FURTHER DATA IN LETTER TO J. H. SEAVEY

Story That Noble Interests Will Build Interurban Is Currently Reported.

President Calvin of the Oregon Short Line will come to the Twin Falls tract in response to the letter of invitation extended to him by the representatives of the Twin Falls and Castelford Commercial clubs and will investigate conditions and hear propositions of the people, according to a letter received by J. H. Seavey of Castelford, chairman of the joint committee. The date for the arrival of the new head of the Short Line has not been set as Mr. Calvin is a very busy man, and is unable to determine just now when he can come, but he wants all the information that can be presented bearing on the subject of the proposed road. The committee will be prepared to give him as much data as can be gathered when he does arrive.

That the Noble interests of Boise are contemplating the construction of a line of interurban roads connecting the Twin Falls tract with Gooding and with the central part of the state, and extending in part along the line of the grade to Hagerman from Tootle, has been the subject of much discussion. The motive of the quiet visit to the Twin Falls tract with Gooding and Twin Falls, is a story that is being circulated here this week. The story receives a measure of plausibility on account of a visit to the tract Monday by Robert Noble, Jr., Attorney E. J. Dockery and Henry Scholte. The Nobles were actively engaged in electric railroading a few years ago and at one time owned and operated the electric line from Boise to Nampa.

The real motive of the quiet visit to the tract this week was not made public by the men of the party, but a number of people have inferred that their presence was confirmatory of the rumor that they intended to soon begin the construction of the road along the grade, where they ceased work on the sale of the Nampa road and that they intended to extend the line as indicated above.

PLANS LAID FOR FINE INSTITUTE

County Superintendents in Meeting
Here Consider and Outline Work For Institute.

Plans were laid Tuesday afternoon for what promises to be the best institute ever held in the history of southern Idaho, by the county superintendents, who met with Professor John C. Werner, of Albion Normal, at the office of County Superintendent Bertha Noel. The institute will be held at the hotel in the last part of August, or early in September, the precise dates not yet being set. The institute will be conducted by Professor Werner, who will have charge of the rural work. The county superintendents present were Miss Mae Low, of Cassia; Miss Ida Sullivan, of Blaine; Miss Stella Cook, of Lincoln; Miss Myrtle Journey, of Gooding, and Miss Bertha Noel, of Twin Falls.

ALL IS READY FOR — THE GREAT SHOOT

Grounds in Perfect Condition—
Men of National Reputation Com-

"Billie, the boater."
Was a good shooter;
"The shot boys."
That "spray" out of pens."

Billie, and the whole boater family, with other crack shots, will be at the traps Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, according to the tale of the knowing ones, who say that the scores piled up are apt to be simply fabulous. The three traps are all just right for light and played so that folks can sit in their autos on the road and see the whole works. The practice shoot will be held Sunday. On Monday, beginning at about 11:30, there will be a trophy shoot ending at 2:00 o'clock. Monday night the state association meets and elects officers. Tuesday the state championship shoot begins at 10 o'clock, followed by the trophy events.

Among the famous slayers of clay birds coming, are E. C. Grice, present state champion; Wade Brothers, and others from Boise; "Dutch" Lebus; Bent Bean, and Winn Tatro, from Pocatello; Deserts Holcomb, Eddie Fitzgerald, former state champion, and enough others to make up two squads from Barley; from Dulh, Fritcher, Thompson, McCabe, Bowman, Morris, Oliver, Russell and a number of others. There is a good local bunch here, who hope to make a creditable showing against the big guns from the outside.

Noted professionals are: Pete Holahan; "Swede" Morris; E. L. Valdeen; J. A. Reed; E. J. Morgan; Al Cummings and others with national reputations.

CANAL COMPANY GETS VERDICT FROM JURY

R. P. Smith Falls to Get Judgment—
The McJoy Case, Is On Trial
Today.

The jury in the case of R. P. Smith against the Canal company, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff late Tuesday evening. The trial began on Friday. The plaintiff claimed that he had suffered damages by reason of discrimination in the distribution of water. The jury in the case of J. Young against M. H. Page gave judgment for the plaintiff. Page gave a promissory note which he claimed was part of a consideration of a land deal which he said did not go through and he therefore claimed that the note was without consideration.

Fay Cox and Harvey Standlee of Marsburg entered a plea of not guilty and on motion of their attorney the case was postponed until October. Cox is out on bond, but Standlee has not yet got surety.

The case of the state against James McCoy on the charge of embezzlement, was begun this morning.

GUARD OFFICERS TAKE NEW OATH

Members of the Company Will Be Sworn In at Boise at Encampment in July.

All of the officers of Company J, I. N. G. have taken the new oath prescribed by the law recently enacted by congress and are now subject to the regulations. The members of the company will have the oath administered to them when they go to Boise next month.

His method of operating is illustrated by the manner in which he proceeded at the Twin Falls Grocery. Arriving shortly before 6 o'clock he asked to have the check cashed and was recommended by Miss work in time to the bookkeeper. He made no effort to purchase anything and departed in an unheeded manner. On examination it struck Manager Huff that there seemed to be something wrong with the signature. She tried to get the Senior home on the telephone, but failed until nearly 6 o'clock, when Mrs. Senior arrived and informed her that Mr. Senior always signed checks "Alan P. Senior," instead of "Allen Senior." Miss Huff warned Mr. Zollman, the proprietor of the grocery, who was at his barn at the time, and the latter came County Agent W. N. Birch, who accompanied Deputy State Game Warden Inspector Brannon in the search for potato tuber moth as a specialist, is intensely interested in keeping this pest out of Idaho. "Speaking of the matter he said: "This is a serious pest, which as yet has not gained a foothold in Idaho. We should direct our efforts to keep it out on the principle that it is easier to keep water out of a basement than it is to put it out. I have seen this pest in California, where fine crops of potatoes are seriously that they were not dug. In parts of California it is difficult for a farmer to raise even enough potatoes for his own use. I think no one who has had experience with it would deliberately import potatoes from territory which harbors this pest. Its introduction into Idaho means not only that Idaho will have another difficulty to combat in growing potatoes, it also means that the pest is as near as possible to being outside of Idaho, and this of course, means the death of the potato growing industry in the crop."

TWIN FALLS TO BE SEEN IN CHICAGO

Exhibit for Herald Industrial Show Being Gathered

WILL BE FORWARDED ABOUT JUNE 20 FOR IDAHO MONTH.

Moving Pictures of Tract Will Be Taken and Write-up of City Will Be Given.

Work on the assembling of a Twin Falls exhibit for the Union Pacific system lines in connection with the Chicago Herald's land and industrial exhibition in the Ashland block, Chicago, was begun this morning by H. C. Getters in behalf of the Twin Falls Commercial club and all kinds of seeds and products that can be handled as to make a good showing will be arranged and sent forward on or about June 20. Mr. Getters asks all who have anything that can be used to inform him or the club. There will be no write-ups given 20 Idaho cities by a special writer of the Herald during the month of July, which is Idaho month and number of moving pictures illustrating the beauty spots, the fields, the homes and the grandeur of the country will be taken and used on the exhibit during the month. An explanation of the show and plan of exhibit is given in a letter received today by Secretary J. McMillan, of the commercial club.

Omaha, Neb., June 6th, 1916.

Mr. J. McMillan, Secretary,
Commercial Club, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Sir: As you may, perhaps, know, the Union Pacific system, which maintains an exhibit in the Chicago Herald's Land and Industrial exhibition, Ashland block, Chicago, which will be open for two months.

During the entire month of July, next, our space will be devoted wholly to Idaho and its resources, and I understand that the Chicago Herald will inaugurate, during that month, a twenty weeks' campaign that will carry twenty big news stories about Idaho in twenty separate issues of The Herald.

I am also informed that, during this month, representatives of the Chicago Herald's picture department will be in Idaho for the purpose of making a series of motion pictures, which will be distributed through their service, reaching 1,000 towns in the central, eastern and northwestern States.

As the Union Pacific system lines, and the Chicago Herald, will put forth enormous efforts, during the month of July, especially, to advertise and to promote Idaho from the agricultural, horticultural, industrial and tourist standpoint, we believe that the various interests of your state will do all that they consistently can to aid in putting before the people of the United States, during the month of July, the opportunities and resources of their great state, by means of this newspaper publicity as well as by means of the motion pictures.

Will you kindly place this matter before the members of your commercial club, promptly, so that, when the Chicago Herald's representative calls on you, they may, at least, have some information on the subject, and be prepared to receive from him further details regarding it.

Yours very truly,
R. A. SMITH,
Colonization & Industrial Agent.

Proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners of Twin Falls County, Idaho.

2 P. M. May 1st, 1916.
Regular April Session.
The Board of County Commissioners met at this time, pursuant to recess, Present, O. E. Carlson, Chairman, T. E. Moore and D. P. Albee, and E. J. Finch, Clerk.

Whereupon the following proceedings were had to-wit:

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and approved.
At this time a delegation of Miller citizens appeared before the Board and verbally informed the Board that all the money for the purchase of the county fair site has been successfully raised and that the Idaho State Fair had decided to hold the fair at Twin Falls, Idaho, on the NW 30-10-16, and that they were presenting a deed to the same property to Twin Falls County, accompanied by an abstract for the same.

They further stated that it was the wish of the people of Miller that steps be taken immediately for making permanent improvements, that they might present the definite assurance that the county fair would be held in the fall of 1916.

The Board upon consideration, duly advised in the matter and deemed such action for the public good, accepted the deed to the Northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 8, township 10 S, range 10 E, B. M. for county fair purposes, providing the procuring authorities of Miller of delinquency, certificates were then made by T. E. Moore, seconded by D. P. Albee and unanimously carried, that the Board do the regular quarterly meeting in September make a levy of one-half mill for county fair purposes.

In the matter of the request of the Auditor to make compromise settlements of delinquency, certificates where an action has been brought for foreclosure by the County:

In this matter the Board being fully advised in the matter and deeming such action for the public good authorized the Auditor, wherefore proceedings had been brought on delinquency tax certificates by the county, to accept the amount on such certificate less $25 attorney's fees where judgment has not been entered and to cancel said certificate. The Board then proceeded to the examination of the claims against the current expense fund, and not having completed such examination request was taken until 10 A. M. May 2nd, 1916.

O. E. CARLSON, Chairman.
Attest: E. J. FINCH, Clerk.

Recess was then taken until 10 A. M. May 4th, 1916.

O. E. CARLSON, Chairman.
Attest: E. J. FINCH, Clerk.

10 A. M. May 4th, 1916.
Regular April Session.

The Board met at this time pursuant to recess. Present, O. E. Carlson, Chairman, T. E. Moore, D. P. Albee, and E. J. Finch, Clerk.

Whereupon the following proceedings were had to-wit:

In the matter of the report of E. J. Finch, Co. Auditor, in settlement with County Treasurer and Tax Collector on account of 1915 taxes:

In this matter the Board carefully examined said report and having determined it to be correct, ordered same approved.

In the matter of the petition of J. W. Bauckman, Assessor, requesting that compromise on the W. 10 acres of N. 14 NW 14 SE 1/4:

In this matter it was determined from the petition and the receipt that the above described land was doubly assessed through error. The Board considering that the rights of the property owners within the townsite of Kimberly will not be injured or abridged, and that the petition is signed by the owners of the property affected by said vacation, deeming such action for the public good the Board ordered that such portion of Harrison Street as lies north of and adjacent to blocks thirteen (13), fourteen (14), and fifteen (15) of the Townsite of Kimberly, Idaho, said land lying between said blocks and the right of way for the Oregon Short Line Railroad be vacated.

In the matter of the annual financial statement of the County Auditor of Twin Falls County, Idaho, for the fiscal year ending May 1st, 1916:

In this matter the Board after careful examination of the annual financial statement, having determined the same to be correct, and being fully advised in the matter, ordered same approved and spread upon the minutes.

In the matter of the annual financial statement of the County Auditor of Twin Falls County, Idaho, for the fiscal year ending May 1st, 1916:

In this matter it appearing from said petition and being signed by the records that the petitioner had, through his own error, paid taxes upon Lot 28, Block 81, Buhl Township, during the years 1910, 1911 and 1912, the Board ordered that the same be refunded to the petitioner.

O. E. CARLSON, Chairman.
Attest: E. J. FINCH, Clerk.

2 P. M. May 16th, 1916.

The Board met at this time pursuant to recess. Present, O. E. Carlson, Chairman, T. E. Moore, D. P. Albee, and E. J. Finch, Clerk.

Whereupon the following proceedings were had to-wit:

In the matter of the vacation of certain streets and alleys in the Village of Kimberly, Twin Falls County, Idaho:

In this matter the following petition was filed with the Clerk, to-wit:

We, the undersigned, hereby respectfully petition your honorable Board to close and vacate that part of a street in Kimberly, Idaho, described as follows:

Such portion of Harrison Street as lies north of and adjacent to blocks thirteen (13), fourteen (14) and fifteen (15) of the Townsite of Kimberly, Idaho, said land lying between said blocks and the right of way for the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

How do you buy coffee?

SOME women buy coffee by price,
some by looks, some by taste.

Of course, taste is the only right way to judge coffee. Looks may mean little, even to an expert. Price is no true guide.

Taste—flavor in your cup—is supreme because that's why you drink coffee.

Most women know that good coffee
tastes better than indifferent coffee.
But too few women know that fine coffee is not only good—but also economical.

For instance, a pound of Schilling's Best goes further than a pound of any other coffee we know of. You can prove this for yourself.
It is good coffee plus—
plus extra care in selection, handling and packing. This

British cruiser Hampshire, with Earl Kitchener, British minister of war, and his staff aboard, has been lost off the West Orkneys.

Four boats were seen to leave the Hampshire, but a heavy sea was running. Only a capsized boat and some bodies have been found.

Kitchener was on his way to Russia.
Admiral Jellicoe reports there is little hope that there were any survivors.

The names of the members of Kitchener's staff have not yet been learned. Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, is in London.
Accompanying Kitchener as his staff were Hugh James O'Brien, formerly commander of the British embassy at Petrograd and former minister at Sofia; O. A. Fitzgerald, Earl Kitchener's private military secretary;
Brigadier General Eilershaw and Sir
Frederick Donaldson.

The Hampshire has been in use as a scout boat and for carrying officials on various missions. She was too old to take a place on the fighting line.
When the war started she was in the far East and was reported to have been wrecked in a fight with Germans in the South China sea. She was one of the British squadron which was sent to this country for the Jamestown exposition in 1907.

Earl Kitchener was appointed secretary of state for war on August 8, 1914, a few days after Great Britain's declaration of war on Germany. He was regarded as England's greatest soldier and the decision of the government to entrust him with supreme direction of the war was received with unanimous approval.

As the war progressed and Great Britain's deficiencies in certain directions, particularly in regard to the shortage of artillery ammunition became apparent, Earl Kitchener was subjected to severe criticism, led by Lord Northcliffe. The secretary was charged with responsibility for failure in the extraordinary demand for heavy shells and as a result the ministry of munitions was formed with David Lloyd-George at its head.

Earl Kitchener's responsibilities were further lessened by the appointment of General Sir William Robertson as chief of the imperial staff in December of last year. It was reported at that time that friction had arisen between Earl Kitchener and Field Marshal French, then in command of the British forces in France.
Shortly after the appointment of General Robertson, Field Marshal French relinquished his command.

Notwithstanding the criticism directed against Earl Kitchener, his great accomplishments during the war are recognized universally. Foremost of his achievements is the creation from England's untrained manhood of a huge army. At the beginning of the war Great Britain had only a few hundred thousand trained men and day more than five million men are enrolled for the various branches of the service.

There have been no recent reports of Earl Kitchener's movements. He was last mentioned in the cable dispatches of Friday when he went to Westminster palace to be questioned by members of the house of commons who were not satisfied with the consent to this country for the Jamestown given that he intended to leave England.

PROF. SKOUGAARD WILL APPEAR AT CONSERVATORY RECITALS
Professor Ivar Skougard, formerly instructor of voice in the Twin Falls Conservatory of Music, will return to this city this week, according to word received by friends in this city, and will spend the summer here.

During the past year Professor Skougard has held the position of instructor in voice culture in the Arizona school of music in Phoenix, where he became well known not only as an instructor and soloist but also a composer. The school of music in Phoenix is recognized as one of the largest music conservatories and one of the music centers of the southwest.

Professor Skougard will appear as soloist in the recitals to be given on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week by the Twin Falls Conservatory of Music.

Practical, Healthful, Economical Garments for Small Children.
Practical, because they are made in one piece, and can be slipped on and off instantly. They fit and look well, and yet are loose and com-

DISTRICT OFFICERS

ELECTED FOR W. C. T. U.

W. C. T. U. Declares Itself Against Name Implying Use of Alcohol—Is Against War.

The list of officers elected at the district meeting of the W. C. T. U. in this city has been announced and the official copy of the resolutions given to the press. The resolutions in addition to favoring national prohibition, the enforcement of laws against the manufacture and sale of liquor and against the selling of cigarettes and tobacco to minors; the abolishment of anything suggestive or immoral in picture shows, take a stand for peace, arbitration and the education of the young against war, and in favor of substituting the name fruit for punch in referring to fruit drinks. The resolutions read as follows:

Whereas, the temperance cause of Idaho having received strength and encouragement, because of the splendid victory won, and because of the increase of public sentiment for temperance, with an increase of membership, we the Women's Christian Temperance Union of South Idaho in this our first convention of the 2nd district assembled at Twin Falls, resolve:

First, That we thank our heavenly Father for guidance and blessing on the work of temperance, and renew our allegiance to the cause, and devotion to its principles;

2nd, That we make a strenuous effort to reach as many voters as possible and encourage them to be loyal to their privilege of the ballot, to register and vote this fall for state constitutional prohibition, and to elect men to office who will uphold the law;

3rd, That we strive to elect men to congress who will work and vote for national constitutional prohibition;

4th, That we will continue to stand back of our officers in their effort to enforce the law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicants, and the selling of tobacco and cigarettes to minors. We also urge that the law against gambling be enforced;

5th, That we encourage the use of the name fruit, for all fruit drinks instead of punch;

6th, That we use our influence to suppress anything indecent, or suggestive, in the picture shows;

7th, That we as an organization, standing for peace and arbitration, should endeavor to educate the young people against war and continue to work and pray for universal peace;

8th, That we extend our thanks to all who assisted in any way to the success of this convention, especially the girls and boys, of the local schools, for their contributions to the fine, educational prize essay contest; and to the nineteen young girls who represented the nineteen city states in their beautiful song drill;

9th, We also express our appreciation of the splendid addresses and talks by Mrs. Green, national organizer and chair talker, and Mrs. Chipp, our state president for contributing so largely to the success of the convention;

10th, Also that we extend our thanks and appreciation to the press, for advertising the convention;

11th, We kindly thank the pastor and officers of the W. E. church for granting us the use of their church for our convention, and thank the Twin Falls Union for entertaining the convention.

MRS. ALICE BEAUCHAMP,
MRS. MARY GRIEVE,
MRS. OLLIE McHENRY,

The following are the district officers: President, Mrs. May Blake, Twin Falls; vice president, Mrs. Sarah Blake, Twin Falls; recording secretary, Mrs. Clara Bowers, Twin Falls; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ollie McHenry, Burley.

The superintendents of departments are as follows: Evangelistic, Mrs. Mary Wall, Twin Falls; Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. Mabel Martyn, Twin Falls; Press Superintendent, Mrs. Sarah Deake, Twin Falls; Flower Mission, Mrs. Mary Grieve, Pleasant View; Mothers Meetings, Rescue and Parity and White Recruits, Mrs. Alice Beauchamp, Twin Falls; Sunday School, Mrs. A. ALBION NEWSPAPER

TO SUSPEND BUSINESS

The people of the Albion country were surprised to learn last week that publication of the Albion Nugget would be suspended permanently in a short while and notice had been given not to send any more legal notices for publication and that as soon as the advertising on hand at present should run out the plant would be removed to another town. It has been rumored that that plant will be moved to Malad City. It is thought that the other newspaper in that section can take care of all matter for publication.

AMERICAN BARITONE'S "HOBBY" IS GOLF AND HUNTING

Burt McKinnie of International Operatic Company Holder of Many Cups and Trophies

In a recent interview Burt McKinnie, the American baritone, said: "They say that every artist must have temperament to succeed, but I do not think I have any. Mine is mostly 'hobby.' I love to fish and hunt, and, more of all, I like to play golf. I have played in a number of tournaments throughout the United States, and I enjoy myself as much as though I am on the platform singing. Above all, singing is my 'hobby,' and I don't think I show any temperament in my appearance anywhere."

Mr. McKinnie is singing this year with the International Operatic Company, which gives two concerts at Chautauqua. He is the holder of about fifteen cups and trophies taken at golf tournaments and is one of the champions of the southern part of the United States.

CATTLE AND SHEEP STEADY HOGS LOW

The Wool Market, Taken As A Whole, Is Promising For The Coming Year.

Trade in the cattle division had rather a slow wind-up for the end of the week, says the Portland Live Stock Reporter. Saturday trade was rather disappointing. A shipment of ten cars of California arrived too late for the Saturday market and were held over for today's. Today's receipts were fairly large and were made up very largely of Californians. There were 10 cars of Mexicans and 21 natives in the bunch. Only one straight car of Oregon stuff was in the yards. A few scattering heads were among the arrivals of mixed loads.

Arrivals of sheep and lambs according to the early morning count were less than 700 head. Trading was not active. Lambs sold steadily, as was also the tone in the butcher sheep division. Receipts were all Oregon stuff.

Late this afternoon tops were advanced on two drafts of choice parkers to $8.50.

The morning count-out of hogs showed 200 and a little better. This is the heaviest receipts for hogs for a considerable time. Reports of last month's receipts at practically all American markets showed a decided increase in the marketing of swine as was the case at North Portland for the month of May. It is to be inferred from these heavy receipts that all the markets have a pretty fair supply in sight and there is no indication at present that there will be any shortage in the marketing of hogs. Receipts today were a little too heavy for a good market and together with a dull feeling that was in evidence at the end of last week.

Buyers, shippers and speculators held back during the morning and bought only a few loads early at 10c to 12c lower prices. On the close the market was dull without any regain in price.

Best hogs of all kinds were the best sellers. Hogs were slack.

A local wool warehouse company has the following to say concerning the Portland wool situation:

"We consider wool in a very strong position. London in particular is a tremendously strong, making advances of best merinos 3 to 4c, Capes 2c, and fine crossbreds 1c. Applications for wool licenses are refused, wholesale. Permits steadily denied, both Japan and France for several weeks. Cables from Australia states that embargo reimposed on all wools. We call your special attention to the fact that representative staple fine and fine medium look to us to be the best property. Long staple wools are scarce all over the world. Short, or French combing are in better supply, and we believe in keeping these moving when we can, but even French cape wools are in strong position because of the general shortage of wools. Defective wools will have to be sold at low prices as long as the war lasts."

Steer quotations are: Choice grass, $8.00@8.50; good, $5.15@5.50; medium, $7.00@8.00; ordinary, $7.50@7.00; common, $7.00@7.50.

Cow quotations are: Choice $7.25@7.50; good $6.75@7.25; medium, $6.25@6.50; ordinary, $6.00@6.25; common, $4.75@5.00.

Heifer quotations are: Choice spayed, $7.50@8.00; good, $7.00@7.50; other varieties, $5.50@7.00.

Stocker quotations are: Best selected, $5.00 to 1000 lbs., $6.50@7.50; best selected, 700 to 900 lbs., $5.75@7.00; choice stock heifers, $5.00@6.00; good to choice stock cows, $5.00@6.00.

A band of Gympies made considerable disturbance in Hansen Monday night of last week. It seems they were compelled to leave town in a hurry and claimed they had lost a child and $500. Sheriff Kendall was called and after a little investigation the child was found in another wagon which had left somewhat earlier than the rest. The five hundred dollars was evidently found also for they seemed satisfied to leave.

A FLAGRANT ABUSE OF BUHL

As a general rule THE TIMES will not comment on articles appearing in the news columns of contemporaries. We feel impelled, however, to violate this rule in the instance of the purported news article appearing on the front page of one of Twin Falls' weeklies this week; the story, disguised as a piece of news relating to the road election in the west-end last week, being nothing less than an editorial effort to cast reflection upon the motives of the citizens of Buhl in supporting the bond issue, and making other uncomplimentary references entirely unwarranted by either facts; in this instance, or the actions of Buhl people in the past.

Great as the provocation is, in this instance, this alone would not serve as sufficient reason for making an exception to the policy we endeavor to follow, were it not that a situation of misunderstanding already exists that continually threatens the harmony of the community. A deliberate effort to inject more trouble by the most flagrant misrepresentation into a situation already irritated by misunderstanding and lack of appreciation of the other's motives, deserves the most emphatic condemnation that we can give it, and general disapproval by the inhabitants of both ends of the county.

The county division squabble had no more to do with the bond election in Buhl the other day than it has to do with the Republican convention now in session at Chicago. To attempt to drag it in by the heels for the sole purpose of creating more trouble, is a reprehensible effort.

The imputation that the city of Buhl, more than intimidated in the article referred to, was attempting to unload a burden upon the farming community, adjoining, solely for Buhl's "individual" gain, is an assumption that we can not understand how anyone can arrive at in good faith. Not one cent of the $300,000 that would have become available had the bond issue carried, could have been spent to improve a single foot of highway inside the limits of the city of Buhl. Every dollar of it must necessarily be put into improvements on roads outside Buhl, on the country roads. To be sure the highways leading into Buhl would be improved, and traffic to that point encouraged. But who gets the more direct benefit, the people who use the improved highways, or those who profit by an increase of patronage?

Instead of the city of Buhl being taxed in the ratio of one to ten, as suggested in our contemporary's news-editorial, Buhl would have come nearer to paying one dollar out of every four that was expended on the country roads. We repeat our opinion, expressed Tuesday, that the people of Buhl are to be commended for their willingness to thus impose a tax upon themselves. A $300,000 bond issue for highways may look like a big amount of money to many people, and it is possible that it did look large to the people that voted against it, and yet, we are informed, this would only have meant that every forty acres in the highway district would have had to bear but six dollars a year for this purpose.

The assertion that "Buhl is strong for everything that don't cost them much," will not be echoed by the people of Twin Falls. It is not true in this instance, and we find nothing in the past that justifies any such derogatory remark.

The people of Twin Falls do not approve of such sentiments as those referred to, and are becoming impatient with the persons in this section that seek to brew strife and discord at every opportunity. The inhabitants of the west-end should realize this, and not condemn the people of Twin Falls on account of the misdirected efforts of a very few. Buhl, no doubt, entertains a similar few, and likewise, has a right to expect that judgment not be passed against the entire west-end on their account.

"THE BUSINESS MAN'S FALLACY."

That THE TIMES is not alone in its opinion that it is unwise to nominate a business man for president unless he has other qualifications for the office than is evidenced by mere success in accumulating a fortune in one particular line of industrial effort, is evidenced by the following editorial from the Boston Transcript which under the above heading discusses the subject at some length and asks some pertinent questions. It says:

A number of well meaning gentlemen have undertaken to organize a campaign for the nomination of a "business man," the Republican candidate for the presidency, and are widely advertising in the public press for recruits for their cause. In this we give them full credit for sincerity and disinterestedness. But we must regard them as misled and their course as quite mistaken.

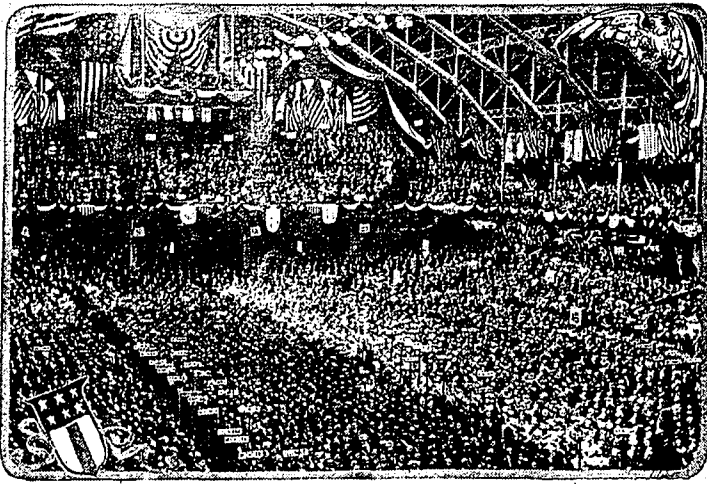

Business men are of many kinds. Which particular kind would they choose for the leader of the State? Should he be a financier, a banker or a successful stock broker? Is the head of a great department store their ideal? Or would they prefer the president of some railroad corporation or shipping line? Would a manufacturer best fill the bill? And if so, should he be a manufacturer of automobiles, of boots and shoes, of cotton cloths or of glass ware? These and others are all important questions. Which of them in the opinion of these gentlemen best fits a man to be President of the United States? We could scarcely expect to find a man who was engaged in and was an expert in them all.

We should like, too, to have it explained to us in what respect a business training fits a man to be President. We have had bankers who have made good Secretaries of the Treasury. We had a dry goods and department store Postmaster General. Of course we have had lawyers who acceptably filled the office of Attorney General. But would a lifetime at the head of a cotton mill enable a man more efficiently to deal with the Mexican troubles? Would an expert coal mine operator have any special fitness for negotiating a settlement of the submarine warfare controversy? Or would any specific business experience give a man special aptitude for solving any of the great problems of statecraft, foreign or domestic, which confront the President of the United States?

We think not. On the contrary, it is not improbable that such a training would prove a handicap. The President has a number of constitutional advisers and assistants at the head of the various executive departments. They may properly be experts in the special work of their respective departments. But the President's duties are far from the practical business details of the administration. That is what the members of the cabinet and the bureau chiefs are for. But the President, like the law, "de minimis non curat." It is for him to take a broad oversight of all the departments and of all the executive activities of the government. For this he needs, not technical training in some specific business or profession, not even that of a college professor, but rather proficiency in what is more fitting to be recognized as the science of statesmanship.

This fact is abundantly forced upon us by the example of the past. Our Presidents have not been business men, and the greatest and best of them have been farther removed from successful business careers. Washington and Jefferson were country gentlemen, who were interested in agriculture, but had nothing to do with business in the present sense. The Adams and Jackson were not business men. If ever there was a man who was conspicuously not a business man, save in the pettiest and least successful way, it was Lincoln. McKinley, Cleveland and Roosevelt were certainly not business men. Yet all these are held to have been pretty creditable Presidents. Instead of clamoring for a "business man" for President, it would be more profitable to demand a statesman; to recognize that there is such a thing as statesmanship, quite apart from manufactures, or commerce or pedagogy and to understand that the affairs of a great nation in its domestic economy and in its relations with the other sovereign powers of the world are not to be directed exactly as are the activities of a cotton mill, the transactions of a department store or the studies and lectures of a university.

INTERIOR OF COLISEUM DURING A CONVENTION SESSION

PARAMOUNT PICTURES SECURED FOR IDAHO

Allen & Williams Will Soon Announce Opening in the Salladay & Wilkinson Building.

Allen & Williams announced today that they had just closed a deal whereby motion picture enthusiasts in this section will be afforded opportunity of seeing the dramas and photoplays that are exhibited at such theaters as the Strand and Broadway, New York; the Stanley, Philadelphia; the Paramount, Empress, Salt Lake, and other leading motion picture theatres of every city of prominence throughout the country. The opening announcement will be made soon, as the Idaho theatre building is nearly completed.

By special arrangement they have secured the exclusive rights in this section to Paramount pictures, the big $10,000,000 corporation which handles the output of the Famous Players Film Co., the Joseph L. Mankiewicz Film Co., Morosco and several other leading producers. All of these companies produce or produce or adapt from famous novels and magazine stories with famous stars in the leading roles.

Indicative of the class of entertainment scheduled under the new order of things such stars as Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Hazel Dawn, Gaby Deslys, Elsie Janis, Pauline Frederick, Sam Bernard, Fritz Schertz and many others included on the roster each appearing in the play he or she made famous.

The proprietors of the Idaho announced that in the entertainment of guests the motto "Safety First" will be ever in mind. The new theatre is modern in all respects and will cost $50,000. Sanitation and comfort are thoroughly provided for.

claimed Wednesday night that he already has more than 300 votes pledged to the justice.

It will require 496 to nominate him. The Hughes manager apparently certifies little doubt of success in securing that number. The managers of the opposition concede to the justice 315 votes, but they assert with apparently sincere conviction that they will be able to hold to the other 676 against him.

It is one of the ironical developments on the contest that these same bosses would be utterly helpless to prevent the nomination of Justice Hughes without the help of Colonel Roosevelt and his followers. The Progressives are solidly against Hughes. The leaders of the party, trying to negotiate a truce with the managers of the regular convention, with fair prospects of success, have made it extremely clear that the justice would not prove acceptable to the Progressive party, even with the approval of Colonel Roosevelt.

The representatives of the colonel on the ground are having a trouble enough in keeping the majority of their followers from nominating the colonel out of hand. The Progressive convention literally "went wild" over the colonel.

National preparedness "in spirit, arms and industry" is the dominant theme of the Progressive party platform of which a tentative draft was completed Wednesday night by the executive committee appointed at Wednesday's session of the convention. It breaks party convention platform records for brevity, and consists of a broad statement of conditions facing and remedied needed by the nation rather than the usual formidable array of separate planks.

platform are reaffirmed: "full political suffrage" is endorsed; a permanent export tariff commission, high protective tariff, regulation of industries, conservation, and development of national resources are urged.

The platform declares that the present situation makes an issue of men rather than words and classes with the declaration that the Progressives "will meet any party which uses the nation's needs and puts forward a leader fit to meet them."

LEGALIZING THE WORD "KICK"

Eminent Lawyer Has Made the Expression Proper by His Use of It in Courtrooms.

Because Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme court of the United States used the expression, "the defendant kicked against this," a great deal has been made of along receiving recognition from high judicial authority. Mr. Justice Holmes, the distinguished soldier son of Oliver Wendell Holmes, is recognized as a purist in the use of the English language and any expression emanating from him will be accepted in "Boston town" as a standard.

The word kick has long been used, as one of the expressive and picturesque four-lettered words of the language. All the standard dictionaries define it: "To give a blow with the foot." It is frequently heard in ordinary expressions: To kick up one's heels; to kick up a row, or a fuss, or a rumpus; kick the bucket. An internal combustion engine kicker; a gun on its recoil kicks; so does the wheel or the rudder of a boat. Shakespeare employs it in Hamlet: "That his heels may kick at heaven." Tennyson introduces it in "The Princess," and no poet would scorn to use it. The justice in the selection of words "Make all women kick against their lords," George Eliot finds use for it in "Silas Marner": "If Godfrey kicked."

Literature overflows with the use of the word in general purposes. But it was Mr. Justice Holmes who first used it in the highest court of the United States.

REPORT DECREASE OF CRIME

British Prison Commissioners Have Recently Made Report That Will Be Read With Interest.

The prison commissioners of Great Britain have just published their annual report for the year ending March, 1915. The decrease of persons who were received under sentence during the war year of 1914-15 is another proof that employment is the great cure for crime. The total number of persons committed amounted to only 114,223, including debtors and those committed by courts-martial, a decrease of 37,320 as compared with the year of 1913-14, and the lowest number of convictions on record. The greater part of this decrease is attributed to circumstances connected with the war. Enlistment has given employment to many of the habitual petty offenders, the restricted hours for the sale of intoxicants has undoubtedly decreased the amount of crime, while the great demand for well-paid labor has given employment to the many.

A short time after the outbreak of the war orders were issued whereby many of the prisoners who had been previously ordered in the army were allowed remission of sentence on recommendation of the military authorities, with a view to rejoining their companies. There have been over 340 inmates released for this purpose. The report also states that drunkenness among women has decreased 7 per cent.

SHORT LINE BEGINS ERECTING SECTION HOUSE

Will Be For Minister Branch—Bunkhouse Will Also Be Constructed.

Work began yesterday on the new station house for the section foreman on the new section on the Hollister branch. E. D. Jones and a construction crew of seven men are now at work. The new residence will be speedily completed after which a large bunk house for the section men will be erected. It is expected that both buildings will be finished in about a month.

The buildings are going up near the coal chute.

Our Schooling Inexpensive. Twenty-two million persons were enrolled in educational institutions in the United States last year. And they required 700,000 teachers, of whom 566,000 were in public schools, to guide them in the paths of learning. About $34 apiece was what it cost a give them a year of schooling. Compared with some of our other expenses as a nation, public schools seem to be a decidedly inexpensive hobby. They cost less than one-half of the nation's expenditure for alcoholic liquors, and their expense is $300,000,000 less than that of running the federal government. Even for admission to the "morose" we spend a third of what the schools require.

Measured in terms of products of the soil, the United States spent a little more for education than the value of its wheat crop, and less than half the value of the annual harvest of corn. What the ultimate value of the educational harvest will be is another question.—New York Independent.

Coin Shower Deluges Workmen. Workmen employed on the site of the Rogue River Canal company set off a charge of dynamite under a stump and then the air was filled with dollars and half dollars. The blast uncovered a money cache that had apparently been buried there since the early sixties. Most of the coins were of the mintage of the fifties, and when the fall of coin began there was a wild scramble for it. The cache contained about $500, according to some; others placed the minimum as high as $2,500. Some Spanish coins were found among the United States coins. How the money came to be beneath the stump, or why or when is a mystery. —Ashland (Ore.) Dispatch to Los Angeles Times.

ROBINSON'S

Store Talk

THIS is not a department store, with all the attendant expenses. There are no department heads, with all the added expense. There is no credit department here, with its extra cost and its losses. There are no officers who are not active, drawing salaries. There are no partners to divide with, or stockholders drawing dividends. This is just a plain "everyday" store for the entire family, where any one or a whole family can come and trade, feeling sure of right prices and satisfaction.

It is an established fact that the cost of doing business by department stores and mail order houses has increased enormously during the past few years, and that it has been necessary for them to raise their prices to such an extent that about double the amount is now added to the cost of their goods to meet these conditions, and the end is not yet in sight, as their expenses continue to increase each year. I can sell goods at the same margin of gross profit that it costs them to do business, and have a satisfactory net profit left, or in other words, my entire or gross profit is no greater than their cost of doing business. You will understand from this why I can, and do, sell goods at lower prices than they do.

The condition under which I buy goods, and by buying in liberal quantities, puts me in a position to offer you goods at right prices all the time. I have no bargain sales of out-of-style or shop-worn goods. We have no basement sales where the grade, poorly made goods are offered at seemingly low prices, but that really are not cheap. But we have a nice, clean stock of goods, carefully selected as regards quality, make, fit, and all that goes for satisfaction.

I buy large lots of staple goods that do not change in style, and small lots of goods where style, colors, and patterns count so much, and in this way keep a clean, fresh stock at all times, so do not need to mark my goods at a big profit to start with to cover "mark down" sales later on.

Bisbee Portraits

The Best

Many times when our show-windows are filled with pictures of beautiful young ladies, people have said to us "You make a specialty of portraiture of women—don't you?" And during one month when we had only pictures of men in our windows, a number of men remarked "This is a man's studio, all right."

And when we displayed our Mother's Day pictures last year, ever so many ladies, with the softness of age in their voices and the touch of white upon their hair, said to us "I see you give special attention to pictures of old people. Can you make me a picture as good as those in the window?"

The fact is we have no specialty. We try to give every one value received for his money. We try to take equally good care of all classes of people. But, though we make a great many more pictures of grown people than we make of children, we have known for several years that our studio is generally conceded to be the children's studio. Nearly every week proof comes to us of this from fifty miles away. And it is this statement we hear most often: "I understand you make a specialty of babies' pictures."

Now we never intended this condition to arise, yet—
When we take our studio records and count the number of children who have come to us every year of their lives—
When we make a list of the number of children whose baby books are filled with our pictures of them—
When scores of mothers say to us "You have made every picture my children have ever had"—
Well, maybe baby portraiture is our specialty; a great many people say it is though we hardly agree; we do know, however, that you will be delighted with the pictures we can make of your baby.

Monday—One Day Only
LILLIAN GISH
Starring in a Five-Part Triangle Fine Arts Feature, Entitled

SOLD FOR MARRIAGE

The story of a Russian peasant girl, whose rare beauty lends her unscrupulous need to bring her to the United States to be sold into marriage to a rich old man she has never seen. This presents American immigrants in a rarely sympathetic light; and, if for no other reason, should carry home a valuable lesson to all who witness it—that of friendship for the helpless peasant with his queer costume and heavy carpet-bag. It also conveys a truth too often lost sight of in constant airing of corrupt politics that the American public are not the poor man's oppressors, but his friends.

Wonderful scenes in a cloudburst, with frightened horses, fleeing people, and terrific lightning displays, stamp the film as a rare piece of photography. Lots of heart interest, lots of thrills and tears, scenes in winter, scenes in summer, scenes in Russian scenes in America, on land and on the sea. A remarkable feature release on a remarkable program.

LILLIAN GISH
Will be remembered as playing the part of Elsie Stoneman, in "The Birth of a Nation." Other choice subjects shown in connection with this feature Monday: CHARLIE IN INDIA—A cartoon comedy; DREAMY DUD COMEDY, and a beautiful scenic, entitled A HINT WORTH REMEMBERING.

"The Barn Will Help Build the House"
but the house will never help build the barn," is a common saying amongst farmers. It's good business when making the first permanent improvements on the farm, to put up first the buildings that help most to make money.
Every dollar put into a good modern barn is returned many-fold to the farmer. Cow comfort and horse comfort mean more profit. Live stock kept well and vigorous pays handsome dividends.
There is no need to argue the case for the modern barn. Most farmers admit the necessity of it. Anything that we can do to help you obtain the right sort of barn for your farm, we will gladly do. Let us get together on it.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Sheridan's attempt to make a business out of his ill-brother's starting him in the machine shop ends in his going to a sanitarium, a nervous wreck.

CHAPTER II—On his return Bibbs is met at the station by his sister Edith.

CHAPTER III—He finds himself in an unfavorable and unconsidered figure in the "New House" of the Sheridans. He sees Mary Vertrees looking at him from a summer house out door.

CHAPTER IV—The Vertreeses, old town family and impoverished, call on the Sheridans, newly rich and afterward discuss them. Mary puts into words her parents' anxiety over the fact that she marries one of the Sheridan boys.

CHAPTER V—At the Sheridan house—Bibbs' languor—Sheridan spreads his self. After frankly encouraging Jim Sheridan's attention, and Bibbs learns he is to be sent back to the machine shop.

CHAPTER VI—Mary tells her mother about the banquet and shows her nothing by taking of Jim as a matrimonial possibility.

CHAPTER VII—Jim tells Mary Bibbs is not a lunatic. She then, in a promise to Mary, who half accepts him.

CHAPTER VIII—Sheridan tells Bibbs he must go back to the machine shop as soon as he is strong enough, in spite of Bibbs' plea to be allowed to write.

CHAPTER IX—Edith and Bibbs, Roscoe Sheridan's wife, quarrel over Bibbs' Laminum. Styl goes to Mary for help to keep Laminum from marrying Edith, and Mary leaves her in the machine alone.

CHAPTER X—Bibbs' Jim's sudden death. To his father the news of Jim's sudden death.

CHAPTER XI—All the rest of the family help in his grief. Bibbs becomes temporary member of the household. At the funeral he meets Mary and rides home with her.

CHAPTER XII—Mrs. Sheridan plays with Bibbs to return to the machine shop for his father's sake, and he consents.

CHAPTER XIII—Bibbs purposely interrupts a tele-tele to return to the machine shop. Bibbs purposely interrupts a tele-tele to return to the machine shop.

CHAPTER XIV—Mutual love of music produces an intimate friendship between Edith and Bibbs.

CHAPTER XV—Mary sells her piano to help out the finances of the Vertrees family.

CHAPTER XVI—Roscoe and his wife quarrel over Laminum.

CHAPTER XVII—Sheridan dies. Roscoe and his wife quarrel during office hours and takes him home.

CHAPTER XVIII—Friendship between Edith and Mary ripens into a more intimate relationship. Bibbs decides to return to the machine shop.

CHAPTER XIX.

When he came into the new house, a few minutes later, he found his father sitting alone by the library fire.

"Papa?" she exclaimed, drowsily. "Why don't you go to bed? It must be going on twelve o'clock."

She yawned, and seated herself near him, stretching out her hands to the fire. "What's the matter?" she asked, sleep and anxiety striving sluggishly with each other in her voice. "I knew you were worried all afternoon. You got something new on your mind besides Jim's being taken away like he was. What's worried you now, papa?"

"Nothing."

She leered feebly. "You tell me that! You went up to see Bibbs, didn't you?"

"He starts in at the shop again to-morrow morning," said Sheridan.

"Just the same as he did before?"

"Just precisely."

"How—long you got to keep him at it, papa?" she asked, timidly.

"Until he knows something."

The unhappy man stirred his palms together, then got to his feet and began to pace the room, as was his wont when he talked. "He'll go back to the machine he couldn't learn to tend properly in the shop, and he'll tell me to learn it. That boy's whole life, there's been a setting-up o' something nullish that's against everything I want him to do."

"I don't know what it is, but it's got to be worked out in time. Now, Bibbs, ain't any more a simple question than what it was when we were young. My idea is that, outside o' union troubles, the man that can manage workin' men is the man that's been one himself. Well, I set Bibbs to learn the men and to learn the business, and he set himself to balk on the first job! That's what he did, and the balk's lasted close on to three years. If he balks again I'm just done with him! Sometimes I feel like I was pretty near done with everything, anyhow!"

"I knew there was something else," said Mrs. Sheridan, blinking over a yawn. "You better let it go till to-morrow and get to bed now—less you'll tell me!"

"Suppose something happened to Roscoe," he said. "Then what'd I have to look forward to? Then what'd I depend on to hold things together? A lummox! A lummox that don't earned how to push a strip of zinc along a groove!"

"Roscoe?" she yawned. "You needn't worry about Roscoe, papa. He's the strongest child we had. I never did know anybody keep better health than he does. Don't believe he's even had a cold in five years. You better go up to bed, papa."

"Suppose something did happen to him, though. You don't know what it means, keepin' property together these days—just keepin' it alive, let alone makin' it grow the way I do. I tell you when a man dies, if that dead man's children ain't on the job, night and day, everything he built 'll get carried off. My Lord! when I think of such things as that to me, I don't seem like I never'd 'll—no man ever tried harder to raise his boys right than I have. I planned and planned and planned to bring 'em up to be hearty to drive the wolves off, and now the next best thing to hold, and hold bigger. I tell you this business life is no fool's job nowadays—a man's got to have eyes in the back of his head. You hear talk, sometimes, 'd make you think the millennium had come—but right the next breath you hear some body hollerin' about the 'great unrest.' You bet there's a 'great unrest!' There ain't any man alive smart enough to see what it's got to do to us in the end, nor what day it's got to set to bust loose, but it's frothin' and bubblin' in the boiler. This country's been built 'll up with it from all over the world for a good many years, and the old camp-meetin' days are dead and done with. March ain't what it used to be. Now it's a matter of life or death—everything's turned up from the bottom, and the growth is so big the roots stick out in the air. There's an awful ruction goin' on, and you got to keep hopin' if you're goin' to keep your balance on the top of it. And the schemers! They run like bugs on the bottom of a board—after a pool o' money they hear is loose. Fool schemes and crooked schemes; the fool ones are the most and the best. You got to fight to keep your money after you've made it. And the goods are that 'll mighty indigestible man that's only got one motto: 'Get the other fellow's money before he gets yours!' And when you built good and strong, and made good things grow and prosper—these are the fellows that lay for a chance to slide in and sneak the benefit of it and put their names to it to before I did—pretty close to the eleventh hour! All right. Start in to-morrow. It's the first of the month. Think you can get up in time?"

"I'm Cured, Father," He Said.

you over there by the collar. Last night I made up my mind I'd give you just one more day. Well, you got to it before I did—pretty close to the eleventh hour! All right. Start in to-morrow. It's the first of the month. Think you can get up in time?"

"Six o'clock," Bibbs responded briskly. "And I want to tell you—I'm going in a cheerful spirit. As you said, I'll go and I'll like it!"

"That's your lookout!" his father grunted. "They'll put you back on the clippin' machine. You get nine dollars a week."

"More than I'm worth, too," said Bibbs, cheerily. "That reminds me, I didn't mean you by 'Midas' in that nonsense I'd been writing. I meant—"

"Makes a hell of a lot of difference what you meant!"

"I just wanted you to know. Good night, father."

"Goodnight!"

The sound of the young man's footsteps ascending the stairs became audible, and the house was quiet. But presently as Sheridan sat staring angrily at the fire, the shuffling of a pair of slippers could be heard descending, and Mrs. Sheridan made her appearance, her oblique expression and the state of her toilette being those of a person who, after trying unsuccessfully to sleep on one side, has got up to look for burglars.

"Papa?" she exclaimed, drowsily. "Why don't you go to bed? It must be going on twelve o'clock."

She yawned, and seated herself near him, stretching out her hands to the fire. "What's the matter?" she asked, sleep and anxiety striving sluggishly with each other in her voice. "I knew you were worried all afternoon. You got something new on your mind besides Jim's being taken away like he was. What's worried you now, papa?"

"Nothing."

She leered feebly. "You tell me that! You went up to see Bibbs, didn't you?"

"He starts in at the shop again to-morrow morning," said Sheridan.

"Just the same as he did before?"

"Just precisely."

"How—long you got to keep him at it, papa?" she asked, timidly.

"Until he knows something."

The unhappy man stirred his palms together, then got to his feet and began to pace the room, as was his wont when he talked. "He'll go back to the machine he couldn't learn to tend properly in the shop, and he'll tell me to learn it. That boy's whole life, there's been a setting-up o' something nullish that's against everything I want him to do."

"I don't know what it is, but it's got to be worked out in time. Now, Bibbs, ain't any more a simple question than what it was when we were young. My idea is that, outside o' union troubles, the man that can manage workin' men is the man that's been one himself. Well, I set Bibbs to learn the men and to learn the business, and he set himself to balk on the first job! That's what he did, and the balk's lasted close on to three years. If he balks again I'm just done with him! Sometimes I feel like I was pretty near done with everything, anyhow!"

"I knew there was something else," said Mrs. Sheridan, blinking over a yawn. "You better let it go till to-morrow and get to bed now—less you'll tell me!"

"Suppose something happened to Roscoe," he said. "Then what'd I have to look forward to? Then what'd I depend on to hold things together? A lummox! A lummox that don't earned how to push a strip of zinc along a groove!"

"Roscoe?" she yawned. "You needn't worry about Roscoe, papa. He's the strongest child we had. I never did know anybody keep better health than he does. Don't believe he's even had a cold in five years. You better go up to bed, papa."

"Suppose something did happen to him, though. You don't know what it means, keepin' property together these days—just keepin' it alive, let alone makin' it grow the way I do. I tell you when a man dies, if that dead man's children ain't on the job, night and day, everything he built 'll get carried off. My Lord! when I think of such things as that to me, I don't seem like I never'd 'll—no man ever tried harder to raise his boys right than I have. I planned and planned and planned to bring 'em up to be hearty to drive the wolves off, and now the next best thing to hold, and hold bigger. I tell you this business life is no fool's job nowadays—a man's got to have eyes in the back of his head. You hear talk, sometimes, 'd make you think the millennium had come—but right the next breath you hear some body hollerin' about the 'great unrest.' You bet there's a 'great unrest!' There ain't any man alive smart enough to see what it's got to do to us in the end, nor what day it's got to set to bust loose, but it's frothin' and bubblin' in the boiler. This country's been built 'll up with it from all over the world for a good many years, and the old camp-meetin' days are dead and done with. March ain't what it used to be. Now it's a matter of life or death—everything's turned up from the bottom, and the growth is so big the roots stick out in the air. There's an awful ruction goin' on, and you got to keep hopin' if you're goin' to keep your balance on the top of it. And the schemers! They run like bugs on the bottom of a board—after a pool o' money they hear is loose. Fool schemes and crooked schemes; the fool ones are the most and the best. You got to fight to keep your money after you've made it. And the goods are that 'll mighty indigestible man that's only got one motto: 'Get the other fellow's money before he gets yours!' And when you built good and strong, and made good things grow and prosper—these are the fellows that lay for a chance to slide in and sneak the benefit of it and put their names to it to before I did—pretty close to the eleventh hour! All right. Start in to-morrow. It's the first of the month. Think you can get up in time?"

"Six o'clock," Bibbs responded briskly. "And I want to tell you—I'm going in a cheerful spirit. As you said, I'll go and I'll like it!"

"That's your lookout!" his father grunted. "They'll put you back on the clippin' machine. You get nine dollars a week."

"More than I'm worth, too," said Bibbs, cheerily. "That reminds me, I didn't mean you by 'Midas' in that nonsense I'd been writing. I meant—"

"Makes a hell of a lot of difference what you meant!"

"I just wanted you to know. Good night, father."

"Goodnight!"

The sound of the young man's footsteps ascending the stairs became audible, and the house was quiet. But presently as Sheridan sat staring angrily at the fire, the shuffling of a pair of slippers could be heard descending, and Mrs. Sheridan made her appearance, her oblique expression and the state of her toilette being those of a person who, after trying unsuccessfully to sleep on one side, has got up to look for burglars.

"Papa?" she exclaimed, drowsily. "Why don't you go to bed? It must be going on twelve o'clock."

She yawned, and seated herself near him, stretching out her hands to the fire. "What's the matter?" she asked, sleep and anxiety striving sluggishly with each other in her voice. "I knew you were worried all afternoon. You got something new on your mind besides Jim's being taken away like he was. What's worried you now, papa?"

"Nothing."

She leered feebly. "You tell me that! You went up to see Bibbs, didn't you?"

"He starts in at the shop again to-morrow morning," said Sheridan.

"Just the same as he did before?"

"Just precisely."

to listen, but I'm goin' to find out what's the matter with you, and I'm goin' to straighten you out!"

"You can't straighten me out!"

"See here!" said Sheridan. "Can you go back to your office and stay sober today, while I got my work done, or will I have to hire a couple o' hunkies to follow you around and knock the whiskey out o' your hand if they see you tryin' to take it?"

"You needn't worry about that," said Roscoe, looking up with a faint resentment. "I'm not drinking because I've got a thirst."

"Well, what have you got?"

"Nothing. Nothing you can do anything about. Nothing, I tell you."

"We'll see about that," said Sheridan, harshly. "Now I can't fool with you today, and you got up out o' that chair and get out o' my office. You bring your wife to dinner tomorrow. You ain't come last Sunday—but you come tomorrow. I'll talk this out with you when the women-folks are workin' the photograph, after dinner. Can you keep sober till then? You better be sure, because I'm goin' to send Abernethy here to your office every little while, and he'll not be knowin'."

Roscoe paused at the door. "You told Abernethy about it?" he asked.

"Told him," and Sheridan laughed hideously. "Do you suppose there's an elevator boy in the whole dam' building that ain't on to you?"

Roscoe settled his hat down over his eyes and went out.

TALKS ON THIEF

RECONCILING YOUR BANK ACCOUNT

If you keep a checking account with a bank it is important both to you and to the bank to know that your accounts agree. Errors are liable to be made on both sides. A deposit that should have gone to your account may have been credited to your wife's similar name, and likewise a check may have been wrongly charged against your account. Forgeries may have been committed through your check and errors incidental to keeping a large number of accounts, therefore, to frequently adjust your balance with that of the bank, both for the sake of protection and for the sake of accuracy.

A great many banks balance the pass book when left for this purpose, by listing on the machine the paid checks, deducting the amount from the total of the deposits, the difference representing the amount on deposit. Other banks now issue a monthly statement in the form of a typed sheet, containing all deposits made and checks paid, with the balance struck. This obviates the necessity of balancing the pass book, which becomes merely a memorandum of deposits made.

Whatever the method, you should not delay reconciling the balance. It is easily to be seen that the bank's balance will not agree with your check book, by reason of the fact that you have issued checks which may not have been presented for payment. It is a good plan to consider every check issued as immediately paid, and deducted from your bank balance. If you do this, you will never be deceived as to the condition of your account.

Number all checks consecutively and when returned from the bank arrange them numerically, and check them as to amount with the check book stubs.

If you have ascertained what checks you have issued that have not been paid, subtract the amount from the balance shown by your own book, which should agree with your bank balance.

If any difference occurs, after assuring yourself that you are right, report the matter at once to the bank. It is well to examine the checks returned to see that they are all signed by you, and that the amounts have not been raised, the latter being proven from the checking process above noted. If you will follow these simple directions, and see that your account is reconciled at least every sixty days, it will help both you and the bank officials, for they desire frequent reconciliations and do not care to have vouchers accumulate for a long period.

PAINTS WAR HORROR

"Death Stalks Everywhere,"
Writes Bernhard Kellermann.

Men Only Parts in Great Machine—
All the Time Their Thoughts Are of Home, but They Do Not Shrink Duty.

Berlin.—Bernhard Kellermann, well known German novelist and correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, who became serious ill while in the trenches in France in December, now has recovered and is back on the western front. His first contribution since his illness is a graphic word picture of war conditions now existing on the western front:

"Along the whole front of hundreds of kilometers extending from the North sea to Switzerland the faithful are in their trenches," he writes. "They are there day and night and at this very moment.

"Up in Flanders the water reaches to the knees. The pumps are working, but the water does not subside. Despite concrete, beams and sandbags, the trenches daily collapse and the soldiers have to be replaced again and again with much labor. If they leave the trenches the soldiers have to wade in water. In the Champagne region the mud is ankle deep, also in the Argonne. Here, too, the pumps are working to free the country of the water.

"In mud and water, behind the sandbags, the soldier stands with his gun in the narrow labyrinth of trenches. Thousands of men are doing this, from the coast where the wintry sea rolls on the beach to Switzerland, where the Alps rise to the sky. Day and night they stand, a few feet apart, and day and night the machine guns spout and send out their deadly fire. In damp inclosures are the reserves, ready at a moment's notice to spring to their guns and charge if need be. The water keeps trickling from the walls of the trenches. There is deep silence among the men; they are thinking of home. As long as they stand at their guns, in muddy mud and rain and boots, they do not think but as soon as a few hours' rest comes then they think of home and family.

"Remnants of burst shells, rain water, barbed wire and bodies that have lain out there for weeks, and over there the enemy's trenches, that is all the men see. That is their entire world. It is always the same—a monotony to drive men mad. Thousands of fine, healthy men who could be doing good work are thus engaged.

"Death is doing a fine business here. The rats, too, from wrecked French villages near by, are adding to the troubles of the men in the trenches. Added to this is the horrifying shriek and cry of the ravens. The war is without mercy.

"And here death stalks everywhere. The rifle bullets, the shells and the hand grenades—all do their deadly work. Officers and men all feel the hand of death upon them. Even in the tired soldier's week a rest, in the woods, in the air or under the earth, everywhere is death. There is no safe place here.

"This circle of death extends through France, Belgium and Alsace, and there are particular spots where hell breaks loose. Now it is at Verdun, then at Saarbrücken and Vimy, then in the Champagne region or the Argonne. Often for days there is a bombardment, when thousands of shells come crashing into our lines with the regular movement of a siege engine. It is then that the trenches are smashed to dust. We are driven from our trenches, but the reserves are ordered forward; they charge in the deadly fire, and the trenches are again ours.

"This is not a war of man against man. The telephone, the automobile, the railway, the big guns—all have changed the method of warfare. It is now a war of science against science, of brains against brains. The soldier of today is a skilled mechanic who simply aids in operating the gigantic machine of modern warfare.

"A trench is captured, lost and won again. That is all that happens here and the siege continues.

"The roaring of the shells is constant. Even when lying on his bed of straw the soldier hears them, and then the picture of his home, his wife and family quickly fade away.

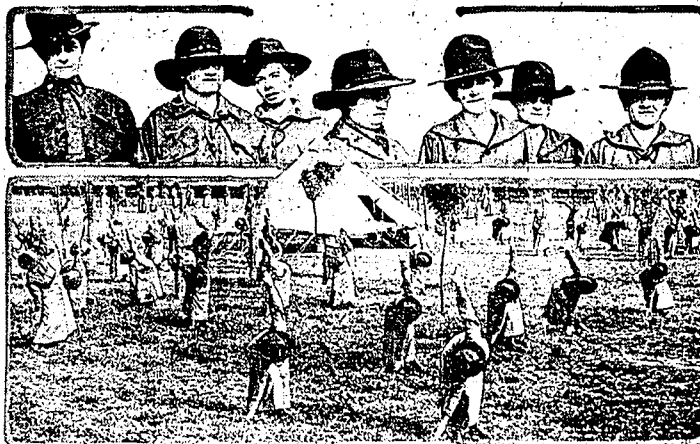

"The siege continues, and the soldier is at his post, keen, alert, faithful and true."

TIED SLED TO TROLLEY CAR

Three Indiana Youths With Bobbed Outdo Peer Gyn's Sensational Ride on a Deer.

Elkhart, Ind.—Peer Gyn's sensational ride on a mountain deer was a Pullman coach trip compared with the ride of three Elkhart lads on a bobbed which they attached to a southbound interurban car the other evening. The rope caught and they could not unfasten it. The car gained speed and the boys accumulated chills as they passed Prairie street and Indiana avenue and some other things they could not describe. Near station No. 10, and after a wild ride of a mile, the sled upset and the boys were skidded over the ice-covered ground. Marion Schooley, son of J. W. Schooley, of No. 222 Hickory street was injured, the ligaments of his right shoulder being badly torn. His companions escaped serious injury.

PIONEER ROOMING— HOUSE IS SOLD

Baker Rooms Built Eight Years Ago, Sold This Week to Man From Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Baker this week sold the Baker rooms on South Main street to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee, of Ellensburg, Wash., who took possession at once and will continue the business at the same old stand. Mr. and Mrs. Baker built the house eight years ago when the town was small and have won an enviable reputation for the high character of service given during the time when the city was building and up to the present. Mr. Baker is now in Fort Worth, Texas. Mrs. Baker will leave the city in about a week and spend a month in Montana, the guest of a daughter there. She will then go east and meet her husband in Iowa, where he will be on business, and together they will go to Chicago to visit another daughter, after which they will take a trip before returning to Twin Falls. They will probably locate here permanently, as they have a ranch near town and also city property.

The new proprietors have had experience in the business and expect to conduct the house along the same line as heretofore.

Suggestion.

We Believe the Maxwell is Greatest Motor Car Value on the Market

BUT our opinion would not be of any particular importance to you if it did not coincide with the facts. We only want you to look the market over carefully. Then we absolutely know that you will agree with us.

In the first place there is the remarkable Maxwell engine. No four cylinder motor of its size has more "pep" or go to it regardless of the price of the car it drives. It will climb hills on high gear in a manner that will astonish you. It is quiet and works day in and day out with a sound, business-like hum that is good to hear.

Any engineer will compliment the design of the chassis. And those who are not engineers cannot fail to note its simplicity and staunch construction. As for what it is made of, we can truthfully say that better material cannot be bought.

The operation of the car is simplicity itself—the brakes are powerful—the springs are long and flexible—the axles are strong and the steering apparatus, like the rest of the chassis, is built to stand the most severe service the car may ever have to face, wherever or however it is used.

Then if you consider looks important, and most people do, you will not find a more attractive car than the Maxwell at anywhere near the price.

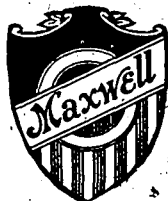

And it comes to you fully equipped with all the attachments you will ever want or need; electric starter and lights, demountable rims, one man top, self-ventilating, rain-vision windshield, etc. All for $655 (five passenger touring car) or $635 (two passenger roadster).

We know you can't beat it.

Touring Car $655

Roadster $635

SWEETLEY ORATOR AT MEMORIAL SERVICES

Twin Falls Lawyer Speaks at Buhl Decoration Day—Other Live West End Notes.

Senator M. J. Sweetley of Twin Falls gave the address of the day, says the Buhl Herald. It was a masterpiece, a beautiful tribute to the veterans of the Blue and the Gray, both of which were represented on the platform. Mr. Sweetley discussed the custom of observing the day from origin, and in the course of his address expressed the belief that while the country would do all in its power to keep away from hostilities with any country, it would always be willing to take its stand for what was just and good, and should war come, hosts of young men would answer the call as they did in those trying days of the civil war. Following the speaking on the lawn of the Frank H. Buhl school, the procession formed and marched to the cemetery where services over the dead were conducted by Rev. Van Putten. The national guard company fired the salute, and "taps" was sounded by Muscatel Sies.

Mr. Siesumiz, who with her parents moved from the Lucerne district northwest of Buhl, to Elmer, made a high average in the eighth grade examination for county diploma a few weeks ago. She averaged 93 and 5-6, and tied for second place from the Elmer schools, and ranked high in the county. Mary was a student of the school last fall until Thanksgiving time, and had it not been that she took a part of the examination soon after entering, her teachers believe she would have been the first in the county. Mary will enter the Elmer high school in September.

Five valuable cattle dogs belonging to E. E. Brooks, manager of the Big Springs ranch, had to be killed last Friday because of having rabies. There were three puppies and two old ones. The dogs were bitten about two weeks ago by a dog which was affected with rabies, and which attacked the puppies at first, and then turned upon the older ones. Mr. Brooks kept the dogs chained, thinking it possible that they would not become affected, but they showed signs of rabies the latter part of the last week.

The Buhl Grain & Produce company began this week to add another story to their concrete warehouse and to put a new 50-foot concrete grain elevator. The grain elevator will be about twenty-five feet square and fifty feet high, built from the basement up through the present warehouse. It will be divided into bins for the different kinds of grain. A set of scales are being put in in front of the side door of the warehouse so that grain may be weighed from the wagons at the warehouse.

J. J. Brennan, who has been employed as janitor of the Buhl high school since the building was erected, has invented and is now manufacturing a dustless sweeping compound which he is putting on the local market at such a figure that the outside concerns cannot compete with his product. Mr. Brennan discovered the elements now used in making the compound about a month ago, and since that time he has made several varieties. He has supplied the local market, furnishing most of the business houses with sweeping compound since then.

J. M. Selzer, who lives in the Catholic country, had his left ear bitten off by a horse last week. Mr. Selzer was sitting in the barn yard, and on a stand just in front of the horse when the animal suddenly reared forward and took a piece from his ear. The pain was painful, though Mr. Selzer said that it might have been worse, and he is thankful that the animal left part of his ear.

One of the prettiest and most palatable banquets which has ever been given in honor of the senior class, and was the first social school function which was prepared by the students, without the aid of a teacher.

The Alumni association of the Buhl high school gave the second annual reception to the graduating class with a formal dinner at the Buhl opera house Monday evening. There are about 45 boys and girls who have graduated from the Buhl high school since the school was organized, and most of them were present Monday evening.

J. L. Dayler, who has been with the Elmer Drug company for the past eight months, purchased an interest in the store. The transaction took place about the first of the year, though there had been no public announcement of it until recently.

The Intermountain Concrete company, of Ogden, Utah, will put a factory in Buhl about the first of June for the manufacture of concrete blocks for building silos. A plant is expected to be in operation soon after June 1, according to information received the first of the week.

A. R. Anderson, who has been manager of the New York store, here in Buhl, resigned from that capacity and disposed of his interests Monday. David Berntsen, of Boise, arrived and took charge of the store the first of the week.

S. C. Kearley, who arrived ten days ago from Tennessee, will open an office for the practice of law in Buhl within a few days. Mr. Kearley is a son of W. O. Kearley. He has secured an office in the Citizens State Bank building.

SUGAR BEET SEED FROM RUSSIA

Shipment Amounting to $1,000,000 Is to Be Shipped to Seattle From Vladivostok.

SEATTLE—Large quantities of sugar beet seeds shipped from Vladivostok, Russia, for use of the American farmers, have begun to arrive here. The Japanese steamer Yuki Maru, which arrived Saturday, is discharging shipment worth $507,000 and the British steamer Princess Edda, which arrived Monday, has 800 bags of seeds for this port. In addition, maritime underwriters announced today, shipments valued at more than $1,000,000 have been ordered at Vladivostok and will be shipped to Seattle soon. Heretofore, meat and rubber have been the most important imports received here from the far east.

PROFITABLE MARKET FOR RABBIT SKINS

BERLIN—The Prussian ministry for agriculture, domains and forests, has issued an appeal to all the agricultural associations and organizations in Sigmaringen urging that special attention be paid in the coming months to the breeding of skins for bits in order that as many skins as possible may be obtained for leather purposes, and that the fat of the little animals may be available.

Already in Berlin there has been established a "Company for Making Use of Skins, Inc." To which anyone may send his lunny skins. The desirability of raising the animals in numbers is enhanced by the fact that they require little or no food that human beings need, and yet can in part be fed with scraps. The skins and bones would go to waste. The appeal says that oils and fats obtained from rabbits are already very scarce, probably will become more so, and will probably be short for a period long after the war.

ONE HALF OF RUBBER BEING USED FOR TIRES

The census bureau has issued a preliminary recognition of the chaotauqua platform as the people's forum. In Sylvester A. Long, noted scholar, author, orator and educator. He is president of the International League of Nations, of which great body is a relief support and armament. Mr. Long has done much to impress upon the public mind the importance of candid discussion of the epochal problems which confront us at the present time. He will deliver at the chaotauqua his most famous lecture, excerpts from which have been widely quoted in the press and leading periodicals of the country. It is a masterpiece of address, packed with the significance of the contemporary whirl of events. This speech is a gem of analysis which takes into account the mistakes of the nations, at the same time pointing out the counter forces at work. He sounds the note of the universal hunger for a new idealism, and shows whereby this vain sincerity of desire is slowly but surely moulding events to its end.

Sylvester A. Long is a thinker and orator of democratic power and great vivid, determined, inclusive, forceful, he talks with, not at an audience. His eloquence is the spontaneous glow of his thought. He takes rhetorical flights of emboldened fancy but rather pins his aptitude of example to such illustrations as will fit like a steel cut engraving. His humor is distinctive, and lends a sauce like flavor to the meat of his discussion. Mr. Long fills the stage, exudes confidence and holds it. He possesses a charm of voice and manner, wholly refreshing, and he brings a message that accompanies your thoughts long after he has been forgotten.

Mr. Long is in the Union, appearing in more than 250 towns for from two to five days in each place. Every city, town and chautauqua that has heard him has demanded his return.

rushing up and with Miss Huff went hastily to the depot anticipating that the man would try to leave on the evening train. "When we arrived at the depot," said Mr. Zollman, describing the incident, "we saw a man sitting alone in the men's waiting room. Miss Huff thought he was the same man and said, 'Good afternoon, Mr. Huff,' to which he replied, 'Good afternoon.' Then I told him that we were having trouble with the check and he said that the check was all right. I told him that Mr. Senior had not signed the check and he asked to which Senior we referred. We said that it was the man who lived on Sixth. He said that it was not that Senior but was a man who lived on a fifth and a half in the country, who signed the check. Miss Huff said, 'Why you said it was Mr. Senior who lived on Sixth.' Then he told me that rather than have any trouble he would take back the check and pay me. He handed out $15 for the check. Then I told him that he had given other checks and would have to wait until he had settled for these. I called to Miss Huntington to telephone for the police. When he heard this he made a rush for the door and I jumped on his back. He rushed out and stumbled over a rail and I caught him around the neck as he went down. I called for help and a number of men outside the depot ran up to assist. Attorney Asher B. Wilson, who was there, said, 'Pick him up. We will take care of him. He will not try to get away.' The others stood back then and I turned him loose. He told me that he had no money but not for me and I told him to go ahead. He insisted that he had done nothing wrong. Then he walked into the ladies' waiting room and sat down and around to the east end of the depot. I kept after him and he finally told me to stop following him and I said that I would not. Then he drove his hand into his hip pocket and told me that I had better stop. Seeing that I would not he walked as fast as he could toward the freight depot and on east and I followed. I was pretty badly winded by that time, while he, being a young man of 20 years or less, was fresh. I pursued him until I was behind the Harder wholesale establishment, when I called out 'Harder, Harder, hoping that someone would be about. When the man heard me call he rushed toward the ball park and ran around it turning north and I was unable to keep track of him further.

The police and sheriff's office had been notified a short time before the mix-up at the depot that a check artist was at work and were given to understand that he was still busy. Being on the lookout about town, the officers missed the call from the depot at first. They intended going to the depot just before train time if their search in town proved fruitless. When they arrived there the man had taken flight. Mr. Zollman describes the man as being about five feet ten inches in height and weighing about 200 pounds. He had a round full face and black hair. He was dressed in a dark suit, with white or light shirt and wore a new, flapping tie. Mr. Zollman, adding, however, that others who saw him described him differently and that one man said he wore a kinked suit.

TALKS ON BANKING.

WHEN YOU BORROW MONEY.

In the course of human events it becomes necessary for most people to borrow money. Business men who can make ten per cent. or more out of trading find it profitable to borrow in order to carry on business on a larger scale, discount their bills and carry complete stocks. Others find it desirable at times to borrow for various purposes, and some find it necessary to borrow because they have either failed to save, or have been unable to save and are confronted with an emergency that requires money.

Should you at any time find yourself in such a condition, do not borrow from your friends, go to your bank. That is what banks are for. They live by their loans, and no banker will refuse a loan that meets certain requirements and is in his estimation good. It is proposed in the next two or three talks on banking to tell you what the banker wants to know when you offer him your note. Whether the loan is large or small the same rules apply.

In the first place the banker will expect you to be a depositor. Most banks make it a rule to lend to only those who are customers and customers means depositors. If you favor the banker with your account, giving him profit from the use of your money, he will be glad to reciprocate and let you use his money when you need it and offer the proper security. The rule is well established to lend in the proportion of not over five to one; that is, if you keep a balance of $100, the banker would lend you $500, if he thought well of your credit standing. The greatest mistake business men make is to keep little or no balance in the bank and then expect the bank to accommodate them with loans.

Take an actual case that happened recently within the experience of the writer of these talks. A business man wanted a note of $100 discounted to meet his payroll. The banker knew him. His moral standing was good. In looking up the account his balance was but fifty cents. Now what did that indicate? Just this: That the would-be borrower had trusted everybody until his capital was on his books, here, there and everywhere, and he was not collecting his bills. He had no "free money" to carry on his business. He had no working capital. He was "strapped." The banker was perfectly justified in asking the borrower either to make better collections, or get his affairs in such shape that when pay day came he would not have to depend upon borrowed money to pay his men.

Nothing so hurts an application for a loan in a well-managed bank as a low average balance, and all good bankers give heed to this factor. Therefore, as a starting point, do your business through a bank, depositing your receipts and making your payments by check, and keep a balance large enough to gain the banker's good will when he looks at his ledgers to see how much of your own money you have available when the needs of business require. Don't do all your business on borrowed money, for if the banker finds it out, he won't discount your note.

Special Announcement

A TALK WITH OUR PATRONS REGARDING THE NEW CHAPLIN COMEDIES PRODUCED BY THE LONE STAR FILM CORPORATION.

The big demand and high quality of these new comedies makes Chaplin more popular than ever. Unprecedented in the annals of motion picture history are the bookings throughout the United States and Canada for the new Chaplin features. One hundred and thirty prints of "The Floor Walker" are being shown throughout greater New York. It can be stated, that with a few exceptions, every representative theatre throughout this country and Canada, has secured bookings on these new features. Up to this time, a total of $1,300,000.00 in bookings on these comedies alone, has been reached, establishing a new record for similar operations. In addition to this $175,000.00 in royalties for the year's releases were paid by Henry J. Brock, a film exporter. This did not include the royalties received from the Australian market, which figures were not made public by the corporation.

When John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, paid the versatile Chaplin, $670,000 for one year's services, he opened a lead which looks very much like a $2,000,000 profit before it is worked out. Next to the war in Europe, Chaplin is the most expensive item in present day history. As Mr. Chaplin was twenty-seven years old, April 18th, he is doing reasonably well for his age.

There is something peculiar about this Chaplin craze. A prominent minister of Boston based a sermon on the question, He said in part—If Chaplin had lived in a Puritan times, he would have been burned as a witch. But he is doing good, because he is provoking laughter and bringing sunshine into souls.

A personal friend of mine—a jolly, jovial sort, one whom I would gamble on would like Chaplin's work immensely, says he don't want to see Chaplin at all. Another friend of mine, whom I judge as serious and therefore would not like Chaplin's style—thinks he's "simply great"; which only shows how a person's likes and dislikes vary.

Occasionally do we hear the expression that a certain picture, vaudeville act or song, is "rotten." Usually this is wrong and very unjust, as the one making the remarks bases his criticism on his own personal tastes. Such remarks, however, are quickly going out of style, as they are a reflection on the other fellow, who enjoys the same numbers, immensely, and considers them mighty good; and it is only a case of a person's likes and dislikes, anyway.

While I shared Mr. Chaplin in Keystone comedies for nearly two years, I personally like Roscoe Arbuckle far better of the two. They both received their first schooling in picture work through the great Triangle Keystone Comedy Directors, Mack Sennett.

The first Chaplin comedy to be shown here is named "The Floor Walker." In this picture, Chaplin has much opportunity to be funny; he accepts a job as floor walker in a department store, using all the available material for comedy business a department store boasts, and adding a few of his own strokes. Chaplin succeeded in producing a comedy that will make his admirers yell with delight. "Just what the floor-walker is all about, does not make any difference. Its two parts are filled with laughs and quality to suit the fans.

"The Floor Walker" Comedy will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday next week, June thirteenth and fourteenth.

The franchise for showing these comedies costs us a stiff price—far more than it should be. A new Chaplin comedy in two parts will follow every four weeks, and same will be shown as part of our regular program at our usual schedule of admission. Therefore, if you are a lover of Chaplin's work, rejoice, and bring all your friends. On the other hand, if you don't like him—well, then—close your eyes and wait for the next number.

The dominant notes of our policy has always been that you may at all times derive full value in personal pleasure and satisfaction for the amount of admission paid. We have been building with the point in view of always giving a program of pleasing variety—every program "not a feature program," but a "consistent quality" of good variety attractions, motion pictures of clean, bright plays, the best to be obtained from literature, art, science, travel scenes and comedy, which are enjoyed by the entire family, young and old.

Monday nights only, we specialize exclusively on "choice picture" subjects; Saturdays, we usually show all comedy. The Triangle plays we feature because they have set the standard for upward progress in picture plays, with clean stories, superb photography and perfect direction, which means you are rarely disappointed, and we all get full value quality entertainment.

Very cordially,

A. R. ANDERSON, Mgr.,

The Seniors enjoyed an informal party in the high school last evening. Dancing was indulged in to the gym and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hill last Friday entertained the Friday Evening Bridge club. Three tables were used for cards and Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Peavey won guest prizes, while Mrs. Booth and Mr. Allen won the club prizes.

Mrs. M. C. Putnam was hostess to the Euchre club Tuesday afternoon. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. Seligman, Misses Fannie Hart and Marguerite Putnam served a dainty two-course luncheon. Present were Messrs. J. T. Evans, Wm. Southworth, F. H. Cox, S. Hart, W. H. Karia, B. A. Baker, and Miss Mary Cushman.

The Penechie club met last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bulles last Thursday evening. The hostess, assisted by Messrs. H. Skeels and L. F. Morse, served a delightful luncheon. H. M. Skeels captured the prize for high score. Present were: Messrs. James and Messrs. H. R. Spafford, C. A. Bulles, L. F. Morse, L. T. Wright, H. M. Skeels, A. N. Sprague, E. C. Lavington and C. H. Burton. Miss Nellie Bulles was a guest of the club.

Little Helen Warner was hostess to about twenty small friends last Friday on the occasion of her sixth birthday. The little ones spent some time in playing games and in enjoying the refreshments, which were served by Mrs. L. A. Warner, the little lady's mother. Pink and white decorations were used effectively in the decorations and a birthday cake surmounted by six tiny candles adorned the center of the table, while similar candles with pink shades were used at the plate of each little guest.

PLEASURE PRODUCERS BEGIN PRODUCING

Production was started last week on the Pleasure Producers first film, "The Man of Sorrows." Two days were spent in getting the scenes which were laid in Snake River canyon. The remaining scenes will be taken in and about Twin Falls. A number of local residences will be used as well as some of the ranches in the community. The completion of the film will be in the near future and according to the belief of the director the popular
