HUGHES WINS THE G.O.P. NOMINATION

Chosen on Third Ballot as Republican Candidate

ROOSEVELT PLACED IN FIELD BY PROGRESSIVES.

C. W. Fairbanks Republican and Progressive Candidates for Vice President.

CHICAGO—Charles Evans Hughes, former governor of New York, and after his nomination by the supreme court of the United States, was nominated Saturday for the presidency by the Republican national convention.

Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana, elected vice president with Theodore Roosevelt in 1904, again was chosen for second place on the Republican ticket.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, presented by Roosevelt as a compromise candidate, received seven votes. Colonel Roosevelt himself received 18 1/2, scattered over several states.

The nomination ballot showed this count: Hughes 940 1/2; Roosevelt, 18 1/2; Lodge, 7; Dupont, 5; LaFollette, 3; Weeks, 3; absent, 1; total, 987.

The first ballot, taken before adjournment Friday night, showed Hughes far in the lead with 253 1/2 votes. The rest of the candidates scored as follows: Roosevelt 65, Root 103, Burton 76 1/2, Weeks 65, Sherman 60 1/2, Fairbanks 74, Brumbaugh 29, LaFollette 26, Knox 36, Ford 32, Taft, 14, DuPont 12, Willis 4, McCall 1, Borah 2, and absent 2 1/2.

Official count of the second ballot showed the Hughes vote increased to 328 1/2. Root had 98 1/2, Burton 76 1/2, Weeks 79, DuPont 13, Sherman 65, Fairbanks 82 1/2, Cummins 46, Roosevelt 81, LaFollette 25, McCall 1, Knox 36, Willis 1, Harding 1, Wamamaker 6, not voting 2.

The Progressive party Saturday nominated Theodore Roosevelt for president of the United States by acclamation.

Colonel John M. Parker of Louisiana was nominated by acclamation for vice president at the afternoon session.

Leaders of the Progressive convention said before the 3 o'clock session they had heard from Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay and that while he did not flatly refuse the Progressive nomination, he indicated reluctance to divide the opposition to the delegates.

A long telegram received Saturday morning from Col. Roosevelt to the Progressive convention was then read by Secy. Davis, who said a copy had been sent to the Progressive convention in this telegram. Colonel Roosevelt proposed the nomination of Senator Lodge by both conventions. Both declined to accept the suggestion.

The Hughes telegram of acceptance follows in full:

"Mr. Chairman and Delegates: I have not desired the nomination."

GREATEST SHOOT IN IDAHO HISTORY

Largest Gathering of Experts Meet Here

ALL PLEASED AND WILL COME AGAIN NEXT YEAR.

Mayor Sweeney Re-Elected President—Closing Events To Be Held Today.

"Pleased with the progress of the biggest trap shoot ever held in the history of the state, the members of the Idaho State Sportsmen's association last night voted unanimously to re-elect E. M. Sweeney as president and to meet again here next year when the affair will be planned on an even more elaborate scale. The shooters were all enthusiastic, the best of feeling prevailed, and it was agreed that there was not a single hitch anywhere. Officers elected were: President, E. M. Sweeney, of Twin Falls; vice president, J. E. Homan, of Boise; secretary-treasurer, L. T. Wright, of Twin Falls; directors: E. C. Rice, Boise; E. T. Fitzgerald, Burley; T. B. Fritcher, Buhl; R. J. Coats, Jerome, and Allen G. Fisher, Twin Falls.

The shooters began arriving at noon Saturday and continued to come in Sunday. At the practice shoot Sunday, F. J. Holohan, of Portland, the famous professional, won high bird, getting 97 out of 100, while his son, Dennis Holohan, of Burley, fell below him. Yesterday, J. J. Holohan again was high man on the regular events, hitting 147 out of 160 birds. As this did not count in the regular score, the highest scores made by those eligible to compete were 145 by Dennis Holohan and Anderson. In the shoot off Holohan won. The handicap trophy, which followed, Dennis Holohan won the Gooding Gun club trophy, won last year by J. E. Wade, and the U. T. C. trophy, won last year by John G. Croft.

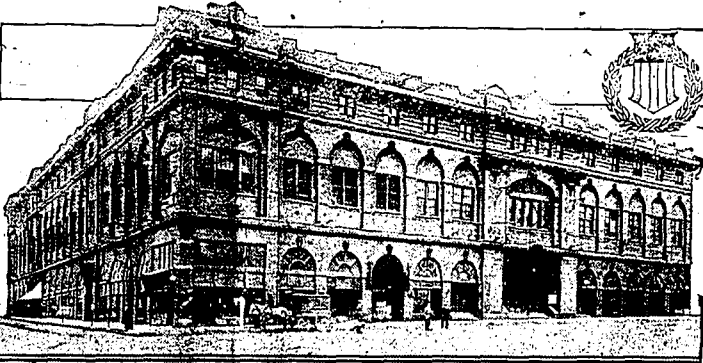

Today the Interstate Association Amateur championship contest is being held and trophy shoots are taking place. The trophy shoot is for the association, for the Holohan medal and for the Statesman trophy. The winner of the interstate championship will get $500.00. The trophy shoot is for the Statesman trophy. The winner of the interstate championship will get $500.00. The trophy shoot is for the Statesman trophy. The winner of the interstate championship will get $500.00.

Wall Street Millionaire Gives His Impressions

GREATEST BOONSTERS PROBABLY FAR TOO CONSERVATIVE.

Illimitable Possibilities In The Power Of Snake River and Its Tributaries.

"You folks here may think that Mr. Perrine is too enthusiastic about the resources of this country, but when I see the wonderful possibilities of your water power alone, I sometimes wonder whether he is not too conservative," said H. E. Babcock of Chicago, representing H. L. Daugherty & Co. of New York, the well-known Wall Street operators, who were here as a member of a party looking over conditions last week. "I remember that I visited the Blue Lakes farm some time ago," continued Mr. Babcock, "and after I had been there some time I discovered water power which was worth perhaps a million dollars, or perhaps a million dollars a year, if developed and placed in use. I found later that Mr. Perrine was aware of its presence. There is no use saying that all this power will not be eventually utilized. The Chicago & Milwaukee is being electrified now. Other roads will sooner or later adopt the same system, and it will also be used in factories. Then all this electrical power will be of immense value to your country. DR. SHEPHERD BACK FROM ASSEMBLY

Visited Washington While On Trip East

POLITICIANS FOR HUGHES TO DEFEAT ROOSEVELT.

Interesting Facts Relative To Presidential Progress Noted By The Pastor.

Dr. J. F. Shepherd returned Friday from the east, where he attended the national meeting of the Presbyterian church at Atlantic City and visited Washington and other points, returning through Ohio and Iowa, to Caldwell, where he attended the graduation exercises in the College of Idaho, where his daughter, Margaret, was one of the graduating class. Dr. Shepherd says that there are plenary prospects in the east but that there, as here, the season is late. In Ohio plowing for corn was going on as late as June 5. Dr. Shepherd said that it would be a number of congressmen and senators when in Washington and that the general sentiment among the Republicans at that time was that it would be necessary to unite on Hughes and take him from the bench in order to defeat Roosevelt.

In Iowa an interesting situation developed. The Democrats are hopelessly in the minority and are generally regarded as the whisky party. There was only one candidate for governor at the Democratic primaries and he was a radical prohibitionist. The Republicans, who are supposedly the dry party there, had the candidates for governor and nominated a strong anti-prohibitionist, which, in the opinion of Dr. Shepherd, is liable to create an anti-drying alliance.

Speaking of the meeting at Atlantic City, Dr. Shepherd said: "This great body, composed of nine hundred commissioners from all the world, met in Atlantic City, N. J., May 18-26. It corresponds to the general conference of the M. E. church, only that, meeting every year, instead of every four years. It is not necessary to remain in session so long. The church reports 1,543,000 members, 115,000 having been received on confession of faith last year. Over $5,000,000 was paid to missions last year, being more than was paid by any other church in America. Among the important resolutions considered were: The merging of the boards of aid for colleges and of education; the Negro and his enlightenment, north as well as south; and the question of lower teaching in theology by Union Seminary."

K. C. INITIATION IN MASONIC HALL

Lance Class Receives Three Degrees of the Order From Visiting Teams.

Thirty-two candidates were given the degrees in the Knights of Columbus in this city Sunday afternoon and evening by teams from the Boise and Pocatello councils. Twenty members of the Boise council were present. The work was put on in the Masonic hall by State Deputy John Reagan, of Boise. Following the initiation ceremony, a banquet was served by the Twin Falls council, followed by speeches from visiting members and from new and old members of this city. The affair continued until midnight when the gathering broke up.

WATER DISCUSSED AT COUNCIL BOARD

Canal Company Will Shut Off Supply Next Year

ENGINEERS ADVISE COUNCIL IN REGARD TO PROCEDURE.

Ordinances on Library, City Hall and Shoshone Street Paving Go Over.

Having listened for over an hour to much good, general advice from W. M. Jewell and O. H. Jewell of Chicago, relative to the different phases of the water situation, the city council in adjourned session Saturday night received the information that the canal company would cut off the low line canal water after next as far as Cedar creek and would continue to add to the country cut off until it was all off in the water. An ordinance, published elsewhere in this issue, governing the running of vehicles on the streets, was then passed, after which the council adjourned, without taking up the call for election on the library bonds, the city hall bonds or the pavement of Shoshone street, all of which had been prepared by City Attorney Herriott.

The substance of the advice given by the Messrs. Jewell was that the city should proceed with due caution to ascertain the facts by having an expert engineer make a survey and give advice, or, better still have two expert engineers survey the grounds thoroughly and make separate reports. They said that the use of chlorine would be sufficient to purify the water that the city might take reasonable time in getting the facts. In fact the chlorine would absolutely destroy the germs in the water and would itself disappear inside of an hour after its introduction so that no danger was to be feared. They advised that the city begin with the use of about $3 worth for each million gallons, and, if that proved more than needed reduce the amount. They are not at present interested in the California Jewell company from which the city has purchased its supply of machinery. The process used by the California company was bought from the Jewell company. Although they put in filtering plants at the present time, they are principally interested in the future purpose of endeavoring to learn the facts of the water situation. They said that they intended putting in a chlorine plant either in this city, in American Falls or Salt Lake City, depending on the results of the survey.

They added with reference to the water supply that it was unfortunate that the city was compelled to use water from the Great Salt Lake. The splendid supply of water existed at Blue Lakes. They would get at that if possible, and this would eliminate the expense of pumping but it might be advisable to put in a small quantity of chlorine to kill any germs that would possibly get in. They advised the city to meet every year, instead of every four years. It is not necessary to remain in session so long. The church reports 1,543,000 members, 115,000 having been received on confession of faith last year. Over $5,000,000 was paid to missions last year, being more than was paid by any other church in America. Among the important resolutions considered were: The merging of the boards of aid for colleges and of education; the Negro and his enlightenment, north as well as south; and the question of lower teaching in theology by Union Seminary."

Manager J. F. Porterfield of the Canal company, reported that while no change would be made next winter, the policy of the Canal company was to shut off water in the winter gradually and that on the low line canal in the winter of 1917. The council took the position that this would have an important bearing on the water situation. The city attorney reported that he had drafted ordinances for a bond election for the library, for the city hall and had drafted an ordinance for the paving of Shoshone street. All these were left over until next Monday night at the regular session of the council. Some discussion took place about the make-up of the budget, but nothing definite was done. Mayor Sweeney will submit this matter to the council with recommendations, probably at its meeting Monday night. The question of whether the city should pave intersections or not, has resulted in holding up the paving ordinance. The ordinance forbidding the driving on sidewalks and the hauling of heavy engines on pavement and making other driving regulations, was then taken up and passed.

HURT FALLING OVER STEEP EMBANKMENT

B. M. Thompson of Boise Plunges Down 30 Feet Near Owsley's Ferry on Way Home.

While hurrying home in an auto to Boise to see a sick child, B. M. Thompson, a life insurance agent, plunged over the steep embankment this side of Owsley's Ferry about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, as a result of a careless lighting and sustained a fractured leg and a number of severe bruises. The auto was utterly destroyed. Thompson left here late Sunday night in his car and was making good headway until he came to the embankment, when his lights failed. Attempting to proceed he miscalculated the distance to the edge and dashed over. The sheer fall was about 30 feet and he rolled about as much farther before stopping. The auto ran down a considerable distance, and was completely demolished. About 7:00 o'clock Mr. Thompson heard auto horns going past but was unable to attract the drivers. About 10:30 yesterday, Nels P. Ring, a farmer living near Buhl, came riding by on a horse, hearing a faint call and seeing the broken auto he investigated and found Thompson. He secured help and telephoned for medical assistance. Mr. Thompson was brought to the Physician's and Surgeon's hospital here, where he is now getting along nicely. The latest report from Boise is that the sick child is getting better. Mr. Thompson has charge of this part of the state for the Idaho Life Insurance company and spends much of his time in this city, which is his headquarters in southern Idaho.

KIMBERLY STILL AT BOTTOM OF LIST

Beaten by Rupert—Jerome Wins Game From Burley and Plays Here Next Sunday.

Kimberly still plays in bad luck and has as yet failed to win a game this season. Rupert won from the Kimberly nine Sunday by a score of four to two in a well played contest. Jerome won from Burley, which places her with the same per cent as Twin Falls has. This makes the prospects for the game here Sunday all the more interesting.

POWER PLANT FOR JARBIDGE EXPECTED

Wonderful Development Will Cause Its Construction.

GOOD MINERS IN DEMAND AND WAGES GO UP.

Grand Two Day Celebration of the Country's Birthday Is In Preparation.

The next few months will probably be the most important in the history of the Jarbridge mining district, the development of the past winter on several of the mines has proven beyond any further doubt that the veins and ore-deposits of the Jarbridge mineral system are permanent and of great value. The wonderful developments of the Long Hill, the O. K., the Buckeye, the Blister, the Starlight, and the Legitimate mines will probably carry up the building of a power plant on the river to supply power and light to the mines and the town. Surveys have been made for power plants at several points on the river both above and below the town. The necessity of cheap power has long been a drawback to the development of the camp. Everything in this camp is now run by gasoline, which, owing to the distance from the railroad and the great expense of transportation, makes the present cost of power almost prohibitive. There are large bodies of ore and the average values have been $12 to $15 per ton, although the deeper workings are showing up better average values. Amalgamation only saves about one-half of these values which with the high cost of power leaves relatively little to the profit side of the ledger. But with greater development, larger ore-bodies to work, larger and more complete equipment, it is expected that before long there will be much more bullion produced and that good profits will be shown.

The camp is now enjoying most perfect weather and an era of prosperity seems to be at hand. There are over one hundred men at work and probably as many more will soon be put on if they can be had. There will be a call for good miners from now on and there will be several new prospectors started up and those now working will be adding men from time to time. Owing to the scarcity of good miners, the wages were raised fifty cents a day, to try to induce enough to come in here to fill up the quota necessary to push on the work.

Jarbridge expects to celebrate July 4th with a very extensive program of races, drilling matches, and children's games. Lots of cash prizes will be offered for all kinds of stunts and a rattling good time is promised. Some of the best fancy riders will be here with a string of fine horses. It is expected that the sports will cover two days and be very interesting. Last year there were a number of visitors in town and a most interesting time was enjoyed by all. This year it is expected that many more will be here, and it is proposed to furnish a big barbecue for their entertainment. A general invitation is extended to all to come and see it the big camp and have a good time.

Twin Falls county commissioners have been doing considerable work on the wagon road from Twin Falls towards Jarbridge and that part of the road is now in fine condition. The Elko county commissioners have a large force of men and horses at work on the road between Jarbridge and Charlton. They are showing out this snow and repaving the road generally so that in another week it is expected that this road will be open for travel again. Work has not been started yet on the new piece of road down the river from the Jarbridge Hot Springs, but the road officials of both Idaho and Nevada are working on the plans and this road will probably be built this summer. The Jarbridge road for this section of road to be finished as soon as possible as there are so many autos coming into camp now and the road over the Flat is a great strain on the car bodies. The Jarbridge road is being built by the Jarbridge Hot Springs company. Mr. L. L. Thompson, the owner, who has just come into camp to locate, said that he expects a run of the creek and his car landed in the creek, a complete wreck. He lost a lot of his dental work, so that he had to wait for new ones and is waiting for them to arrive before he can start work. Frank Newman, who is a meat market in Jarbridge, has opened a shop in town. C. H. Thompson, who has been in the Jarbridge camp in the past, says that if he ever attempts to come over the grades between Jarbridge and the Hot Springs, among other things, he will bring the freight from the Rim to town by teams. If the new road was finished he would be able to come right on into town in one day. The Jarbridge mine, the big seven-passenger Buick, is kept by Mr. Southard, manager of the camp, with good success and can make the trip to Twin Falls in about six hours and the return trip in less than seven hours.

Another miner has been taken to his last resting place in our little cemetery. His name was Phil Scott, and he was a native of Scotland. He had worked in the camp before but this time had been here but a short time. He had recently been in the hospital in Salt Lake for treatment and came here from Elko. He died at the Alpha boarding house May 20, at 4:00 p. m. Southard was called, although not altogether unexpected, and was due to disarrangement of the stomach, ulceration or cancer of same, and had been giving him much trouble for some time. Deceased was 41 years old and by his own words before death, was a single. He leaves a wife in Scotland, but as yet no other relatives have been located.

BUHL FANS PLAN BASEBALL CLUB

Find That They Have Pennant Winners and Want to Get In the Game.

The baseball bug has permeated the atmosphere and some of the local fans and supporters have been talking freely for the past few days, says the Buhl Herald. They believe that the possibilities for a baseball team are better than ever before. Three new men who have made good in the Oregon league are in Buhl and are willing to get into the game. It is believed that with the best of those who were on the team last year, together with the young high school "hopes," and the Oregon league recruits, Buhl can put out a winning team. It is understood that Kimberly is about to give up her place in the league, on account of lack of local support. Kimberly is at the bottom of the list in league standing. If a baseball ground can be secured, or a promise of one, it is probable that Buhl will take the place of Kimberly, should the latter withdraw.

The available men for the Buhl team who have been practicing the last few evenings on the high school grounds are: Ed Eulford, Roy Norman, Ed Barry, Ed W. Hubbard, and he also, there is John Hubbard, Frank Carlton and Lucian Shedd, who are available for infield position. John Hubbard, Lucian Shedd and Frank Carlton have been working in the outfield and it is thought that the others who can be found should be organized.

FAIRVIEW SCHOOL HAS FINE RECORD

The Three Highest Averages Made in the State Examinations, Made in This District.

Careful investigation by the county superintendent, Miss Nott, reveals that the highest average in the state examinations was not in the 1st, 2nd or 3rd district, as was stated in the June 1st issue of the paper, but that this honor belongs to Miss Jennie Craner, of the Fairview school, says the Buhl Herald. Miss Craner's average was 96 and 95, while Miss Patton's was only 96 and 95. A mistake had been made in averaging up the grades.

Miss Craner's grades are as follows: History, 99; grammar, 99; English, 95; penmanship, 89; reading, 95; spelling, 100; civics, 99; geography, 96; physiology, 94. She made the only perfect mark which was made in the school.

Miss Craner ranks highest in Twin Falls county, Miss Patton, second, and Miss Ruth Massey, of Fairview, fourth. All of these are from the Fairview school.

The Reputation of the Maxwell

"WHAT is the bore and stroke of your motor," was asked a Maxwell owner not long ago.

"I don't know," he replied simply, "I don't buy cars on figures any more. I buy them on what they've done."

For this man, and for many others like him, it was enough that during the thirteen strenuous years the Maxwell record for performance, reliability and economy had swept it to the front.

Figures—engine speed figures, horse-power figures, wheel-base figures—they meant nothing to him. The name "Maxwell" carried more weight than all the technical description that could be offered.

Maxwell cars have achieved this great good will and this priceless position with the public only by their unequalled record of things done. What is said of an automobile in its specifications is one matter. What the car actually does in the hands of owners, year after year, is another matter.

The Maxwell car has won its position through sheer merit. It has set record after record in competition with cars of all prices and classes.

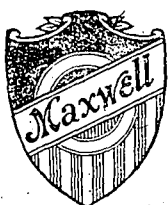

Everything considered, the Maxwell is the safe investment. It is a known, tried and proved product. It will serve you as it is serving and has served countless others.

Let us arrange for a demonstration today. You will be under no obligation. We want to give you a chance to convince yourself.

Filer Items

(From The Filer Journal.)

Mrs. Beem left for Livingston, Mont., last Friday morning in response to a telegram announcing the death of her father.

J. V. Nicholl is the name of the new manager of the Nibbel-Channel Lumber yard here. He will become a permanent resident in a short time.

The newly elected officers of the Odd Fellows are as follows: John Blass, N. G.; George Trull, V. G.; Norman Barker, treasurer; Mark Musser, secretary.

Melvin Hughes cut one of his fingers clear to the bone last Sunday. Neglecting to care for it at the time has resulted in blood poisoning.

Word came last week that F. C. Graves had had trouble with his car somewhere in Wyoming, which delayed them a short time only. The right, housing on the rear axle broke.

Picnics and fishing parties are the order of the day. Tuesday morning C. C. Small, Jake Burdett, Frank Kennedy and George Ellenwood decided to try their luck.

Wm. Bunce, manager of the Filer Milling & Elevator company, is having a new seed house and more coal shoots built at the mill to better enable them to take care of their business.

Mrs. Wilderfelt, formerly of Filer, but now of California, has a position as stewardess on a vessel sailing between San Francisco and South America. Mrs. Wilderfelt is a sister of Mrs. McCrory.

A lawn tennis court is being built between the M. E. church and parsonage so that the young people will have a nice court on which to amuse themselves. A very commendable move on the part of the church to furnish amusement for the young folks.

Elmer E. Haug, vice president of the Filer State bank, left this morning for Cullon, Ill., where on the 14th inst. he will be joined in marriage to a young lady of that place. Later in the month he will return to Filer and go to housekeeping in the house he recently purchased from H. E. Austin on South Yakima avenue.

The directors of the Twin Falls county fair have decided to hold the fair the week commencing Sept. 18. The state fair follows. Monday will be the entry day and Tuesday will be school day, when an effort will be made to have every scholar in the county and the teachers present. A fine competitive display of the children's work will be a feature. Free admission for the scholars and teachers is also being arranged.

The Woman's club met in regular session yesterday afternoon at the Masonic hall with thirty members present. Plans for the coming year were discussed and all business matters of the year were closed. Mrs. Childs and Miss Telford gave splendid reports of the Federation meeting at Pocatello in May. A report was given on the recent fund showing that $64.50 was taken in from the entertainment and luncheon. A motion was made and carried that all members be assessed twenty-five cents to help toward paying the expenses. This, however, will not cover all the amount of checks already issued so an exact statement of what was made cannot be made at this writing.

Buhl News

(From the Buhl Herald)

Joseph B. Smith, farmer on the Salmon tract near Hollister during the summer time, and student in the Twin Falls high school during the winter months, visited Buhl last week with a view of leasing a farm on the Twin Falls tract near town. He reports that the water supply will be large enough this year to mature the crops, though he thinks that it will hardly be as plentiful as in the past. Mr. Smith is hardly 21 years of age, though he is running a farm for himself, and has been attending high school at Twin Falls during the winter months after his crop is harvested.

A hot cut rug was taken from the front porch of the Dr. Wetherbee house Tuesday morning when Mrs. Wetherbee was working in another part of the house. Mrs. Wetherbee prized the rug highly as a birthday gift, and is surprised that it was taken from her porch in broad daylight. There was a rug made from a coyote hide on the porch at the same time, but it was not molested. Dr. Wetherbee's home is on Broadway, and the front porch is about 20 feet from the sidewalk.

The city council recently authorized the building of macadam streets from the corner of Broadway and Main street, and the surface soil was removed last Friday and Saturday. It is probable that four blocks of crushed rock material will be laid from the intersections of Broadway and Main, though definite action will be taken at the council meeting Monday evening. A solid concrete gutter will be placed at the edge of each curb. The gravel is to be seven inches thick in the center of the street and then diminished in thickness to five inches on each edge.

J. W. Taylor, of Dietrich, Idaho, but formerly of Chicago, opened a law office in the Murphy building on Broadway Monday morning. Mr. Taylor came here Friday to look over the town as a business location, and decided to remain. Mr. Taylor has practiced law in Dietrich and in the east. His family will move here as soon as he can find a house to rent.

Work will be begun this week on the erection of a new lumber yard building by the Home Lumber company operating eight or nine yards in many towns in Idaho and Oregon. Mr. Ferguson will be manager of the local yard and the sheds and warehouse will be erected on the lots across the street from the high school building.

Messrs. Nevin and Vogel of the Buhl Meat Market, opened a meat market in Jarbridge the first of the week, which they will conduct in connection with their Buhl business. L. H. Schneider, meat cutter in the Buhl market, will have charge of the Jarbridge shop. He went over there Tuesday.

H. R. Senten has a curious pig which is attracting much attention among the farmers and others. It has six toes on each foot, and except for that irregularity it looks like other members of the swine family. The pig is about three weeks old.

Gustav Kuza is improving the cheese factory by adding a new building for a separator house. He is also repainting the new barn, applying a white coat of paint.

CATTLE STEADY ON

PORTLAND-MARKET

Sheep Still Unchanged—Hogs Are Lower, and Wool Prices Are Keeping Up.

No change was in evidence in the cattle division this morning. Receipts this week have been quite liberal and buyers have taken all offerings on a steady basis. California has not been represented since Monday, but a good run is expected next week. Today's receipts estimated at about 200 head, but quality lacks in all classes.

This week's trade in the sheep market has been quiet, but at unchanged prices. Most of offerings are from the valley. Plain and excessively heavy stuff is handcarried and buyers are scrutinizing against this class of stuff.

The market for wool is showing a fairly active tone in the Pacific northwest, and with practically no recent change in quotations. Business in the Yakima section is still being done below the parity of other American centers, and this keeping the other markets from showing climbing values.

Hog prices continued to meet reverses today when buyers hummed prices 10 to 15 cents lower. Prime lights sold at $8.25. In the past two weeks prices have dropped a big 75 cents. There is little call for pigs from mountain buyers, but pickers continue to cut them from 1 to 1 1/2 cents.

Today's receipts estimated at about 1200 head, making total for the week 6700 head against 3000 a year ago.

Eastern markets continue a see-saw game with a generally lower tendency all around the market.

Of the 48,000 receipts of hogs up to last night at North Portland for the present year the 48,000 represents the gain in marketing here over last year.

Kimberly Building in all directions.

Hotels Are Crowded and Every Body Optimistic—Many New Homes Being Built.

Kimberly is now in the midst of a real building boom, says the Call. Hotels are crowded and the citizens are optimistic.

The total cost of the buildings now in course of construction, including dwellings, will approximate $15,000. The walls for the new bank building and Odd Fellows hall are completed for the first story and the masonry work is well along on the Jones & Turner building and also E. W. Taylor's new store building. Gil's new garage and shop is nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy.

The new bakery and restaurant building will be occupied by Milo Andrus, of American Falls, probably the last of this week. Brick work on Swearingen & Wilson's new store building was begun Monday morning and a large force of men are at work on this and Wilson Brothers' store building. W. R. Summers is reconstructing the O. K. barn and converting it into a business house. Excavation for the new $40,000 school house is completed and laying, forms for the concrete work was begun this week. The Idaho and Produce Co. has completed the basement excavation for their new warehouse and cement work for the foundation has begun. This company will also build a grain elevator just east of the warehouse that will have a capacity of about 15,000 bushels.

The warehouse and seed cleaning department will have a frontage of 70 feet and will be 30 feet in depth. A siding will be built to the warehouse and elevator and a complete apparatus installed for handling grain in bulk. The cost of sacks is becoming almost prohibitive and this method of handling grain is being adopted all about the line. The cleaning establishment will be the most up-to-date of any in this section of the country.

Work on the addition to the M. E. church is progressing rapidly. The old church building has been raised and will have a full basement and a new foundation. The excavation is now complete and cement work has begun.

Besides the buildings mentioned a

Such tobacco enjoyment

as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold in tippyred bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and that corking fine pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in each case in trim—always!

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

number of residence buildings are in course of construction. All the business houses mentioned are of a substantial nature, most of them of brick or brick and tiling, and would do credit to a much larger place.

The Comus Players

Players like chautauqua because it is full of variety. One may hear the best of the best, prominent speakers and lecturers; entertainers and the latest chautauqua innovation—drama.

The Comus Players are to appear on the opening day of the chautauqua in a program of Shakespearean drama and a play written especially for this country—The title of the play is "Carson of the North Woods."

The Comus Players are four dramaticists of long experience in productions of chautauqua character. Janet Young, who takes on of the leading parts in the productions, has appeared with Archibald Fieldie in a number of dramatic productions. Their team work has elicited much from leading dramatists and critics and it is something of a "scoop" to have secured them for chautauqua. The Comus Players will carry with them complete curtain and stage equipment to give the plays as realistic appearance as though presented in a modern opera house. Costumes will be used especially made for the Comus Players and no expense will be spared in the presentations of the productions.

The Comus Players will appear on the opening day of the chautauqua—Advertisement.

Get Under The Big Canvas

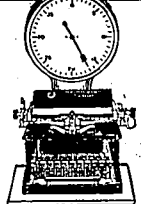

Chautauqua is bringing this year a greater program than has ever before visited the West. From the opening program by the Comus Players to the grand closing concert of the Singing Kafir Boys the program is teeming with "pep."

Season tickets admitting to every attraction will be on sale from now until opening day at two dollars and fifty cents each. On opening day at noon, the price will positively advance to three dollars. Buy your season tickets now and be prepared for the big week with the lower priced tickets.

Save that fifty cents. Programs at all stores.

For God Was With Our Flag!!!!

(TUNE: "JOHN-BROWN'S BODY.")

My heart must sing the glory, of "The Red, White and Blue"
While my pen tells the story, that is wonderful and true,
How our flag defied the Tory, when the Colonies were new!
For GOD was with our Flag! ! !

CHORUS.

Glory! Glory! Hallelujah! Glory! Glory! Hallelujah!
Glory! Glory! Hallelujah! For God was with our Flag! ! !

When the Continentals brave on the field of battle died
Our fair land to win and save, boys in blue lay side by side,
Watching o'er each soldier's grave, stary eyes were open wide,
For GOD was with our Flag! ! !

CHORUS.

Our stars from Heaven were given and must never fall to earth,
Such the mandate that was given, on the day of our flag's birth
And thus our foes was driven, o'er the whole earth's girth.
For GOD was with our Flag! ! !

CHORUS.

To each soldier's heart so true, on the field of battle lying,
That stary flag of blue, takes away the sting of dying,
As he bids it fond "ADIEU," content to the just sighing,
FOR GOD WAS WITH OUR FLAG! ! !

CHORUS.

YOU AND I

(By Hattie Brown)
A little brook, in a shady nook,
With a home, in its shades close by,
That smiles a welcome at close of day,
A welcome to you and I.

Its roof is old, and covered with mould,
Of the other years gone by,
Its walls are here and mossy,
But it welcomes you and I.

It stands in the sun, when day is done,
And its guardian shadows lie,
In the twilight hours of peacefulness,
Welcoming you and I.

A symbol of rest, a tired heart's nest,
With its benediction high,
Blessing a pair of weary hearts,
The hearts of you and I.

About twenty-five couples enjoyed a dance given in the Cotton hall Friday night.

The Wednesday Auction Bridge club met last week with Mrs. C. A. Burton, Mrs. Alan Senior won first prize.

The Pricella Sewing society met last week with Mrs. Herman Reesent on the Kimberly road. The ladies passed the afternoon very pleasantly with their needlework and at the close the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. A. J. Peavey entertained Saturday evening, complimentary to Mrs. Otis of Wallace. A pleasant session of bridge was enjoyed, in which

A. Cockerell was up from Buhl Monday at which time his daughter, Mrs. Ina Mae Kaiser, underwent an operation.

CENTRAL BAPTIST

MEETING IS HELD

Many Delegates Attended Gathering of the Association in Twin Falls.

The Idaho Baptist Central association met in this city at the Baptist church at noon yesterday. The program was to have been in the morning but owing to the late arrival of some of the delegates, it was not called to order until afternoon. Rev. A. B. Minaker presided. Delegates were present from the Wood river country, Shoshone, Gooding, Jerome, Rupert, Hagerman and from points in this county. Following the devotional by Dr. J. D. Springation, secretary of school and young people's director, came report of the B. Y. P. U. by State President W. R. Jewell, of Blackfoot, and Dr. F. A. Johnson, of Gooding, associational superintendent, reports were received from the several unions. At conference, Miss Ida Grisham, of Boise, discussed "Our Weaknesses." A symposium on consecration followed. Consecration of Time was discussed by Rev. William Lickley, of Fairfield; of Talent, by Miss Ethel Shattwell, of Gooding; of influence, by Rev. F. H. Harris, of Jerome; of money, by Miss Marie Goodman, of Buhl. "The Task Ahead," was the subject of a thoughtful talk by Miss Alice Gibbs of this city. E. E. Cox, colporteur, delivered an address, which was followed by a discussion of the subject of a summer assembly.

The annual session in the evening was delivered by Rev. H. L. Knoll, of Caldwell. This morning, following the devotional, reading of church letters took place. This was followed by a talk on "Seeding the Associational Field," by Rev. Minaker, and a sermon by Rev. E. H. Tetwiler, of Hagerman. The program for the rest of the meeting follows:

Tuesday Afternoon.
2:00 Devotional meeting. Dr. A. M. Petty.
2:30 Conference: "The Five-Year Program." Mrs. U. M. Over, Cambridge.

The name of His Umps, shall be nameless in this description of the game Sunday, but the first of Twin Falls fans shall be aroused still further—whether justly or unjustly, is another matter not calling for newspaper decision. The critics generally attribute the trouble to an alleged bad eye rather than to bad intentions, and speaking of intentions, they say that wisdom of the final disposal of good cases in the locality where they are proverbially declared to go, cannot be doubted since the events of Sunday afternoon. Well, anyhow, whether as a result of the superior playing of the Shoshone bunch, or the inferior playing of the Twin Falls aggregation, or the alleged evil-eye of the umpire, or the change in the moon, or the late spring, or something, the visitors Sunday walked off with the game to the tune of 14 to 1, and the grand stand was in mourning. Next Sunday, the game will also be played here and Jerome will be the victim or the victor as the case may be.

Features of the game Sunday were the striking out of 14 by Alexander of Shoshone, and five each by Hart and Christian for Twin Falls; a double play by Alexander to Presker; a home run by Shaw; three-base hits by Mitchell and C. Graves, two two-base hits by Pierce, two base hits by Chapman and Snapp.

WATER IN SALMON RESERVOIR
314 FEET ABOVE THE TUNNEL.
On June 10th the water in the Salmon river reservoir, reached the highest point it has attained since 1914, when the gate height was over fifty feet. This year the water stands 31.5 feet above the level of the outlet tunnel, the highest in two years.
The second run of water of the season was started Thursday, and will probably continue until after the 20th. Despite the fact that 2487.7 acre feet was drawn off during the week, the reservoir retained 1200 acre feet, the rise in the reservoir being .6 feet.

The Shamrock club met and enjoyed a pleasant session with Mrs. Swift Thursday afternoon. Following a short business meeting an especially pleasing musical entertainment was rendered, consisting of piano solos by Miss Florence Taddiken and Mrs. Shouse, and violin solos by Joe Swift, accompanied by Mrs. Shouse. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the club adjourned to meet June 22 with Miss Florence Taddiken.

On the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the Ladies' Pioneer club, June 8th, about forty members and five visitors were highly entertained at the home of Mrs. Ed Koke, she being assisted by Messadams Churchill and Irwin. The house was decorated appropriately in the club colors, purple and white. Following a short business session an interesting program was rendered. It consisted of instrumental music by Mrs. Lewis followed by the club song rendered and composed by Mrs. Mabel Wilson. Mrs. Gill presented the club history and Mrs. Simpson gave a reading which was

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Sheridan's attempt to make a business man of his son Bibbs by starting him in the machine shop ends in Bibbs going to a sanitarium, a nervous wreck.

CHAPTER II—On his return Bibbs is met at the station by his sister Edith.

CHAPTER III—He finds himself in an intolerable and undignified figure in the "New House" of the Sheridan. He sees Mary Vertrees looking at him from a summer house next door.

CHAPTER IV—The Vertrees, old town family and impoverished, call on the Sheridans, newly-rich, and afterward discuss them. Mary puts into words her potent dislike to the machine shop.

CHAPTER V—Mary tells her mother about the banquet and shocks her mother by talking of Jim as a matrimonial possibility.

CHAPTER VI—Jim tells Mary Bibbs is not a lunatic, "a queer." He proposes to Mary, who half accepts him.

CHAPTER VII—Sheridan tells Bibbs he must go back to the machine shop as soon as he is strong enough, in spite of Bibbs' plea to be allowed to "write."

CHAPTER VIII—Edith and Roscoe Sheridan's wife, quarrel over Bobby Lamm. Mary goes to Mary for help to keep Lamm from marrying Edith and Mary leaves her in the room alone.

CHAPTER IX—Bibbs has to break to his father the news of Jim's sudden death.

CHAPTER X—All the rest of the family helps in their grief. Bibbs becomes temporary master of the house. At the funeral he meets Mary and rides home with her.

CHAPTER XI—Mrs. Sheridan pleads with Bibbs to return to the machine shop and to his father, and he is content.

CHAPTER XII—Bibbs purposely interrupts a tea-table between Edith and Roscoe Lamm, making love to Roscoe's mother.

CHAPTER XIII—Mutual love of music arouses an intimate friendship between Bibbs and Mary.

CHAPTER XIV—Mary sells her piano to help out the finances of the Vertrees family.

CHAPTER XV—Roscoe and his wife quarrel over Lamm.

CHAPTER XVI—Sheridan finds Roscoe in an intoxicated condition during one of his visits to his home.

CHAPTER XVII—Friendship between Bibbs and Mary ripens into a more intimate relationship. Under Mary's influence, Bibbs decides to return to the machine shop.

CHAPTER XVIII—Sheridan finds his son Roscoe's affairs in a muddled condition, owing to his intemperance habits.

CHAPTER XIX—Who looks a mustang in the eye? Chancery, change, change! Bash! Bang!

CHAPTER XX—So sang Bibbs, his musical caprices furnished to his fellow workmen because of the noise of the machinery. He had discovered long ago that the uproar was rhythmical, and it had been intolerable; but now, on the afternoon of the fourth day of his return, he was accompanying the swing and clash of the metals with jubilant fragments, mingling improvisations of his own among them, and mocking the zinc eater's crash with vocal imitations.

Feathers and bold, Change! Bash! Hehold! With a leap from the ground To the saddle in a bound, And away—and away! Ho-ay!

The long room was ceaselessly thundering with metallic sounds; the air was thick with the smell of oil; the floor trembled perpetually; everything was unchangeably in motion—nowhere was there a rest for the dazzled eye. The first time he had entered the place Bibbs had become dizzy instantly, and six months it had only added increasing nausea to faintness. But he had never now. "All day long I'll send my thoughts to you. You must keep remembering that your friend stands beside you." He saw her there beside him, and the gray, restless place became suffused with radiance. The poet was happy in his machine shop; he was still a poet there. And he told his old zinc eater, and sang:

Away—and away! Ho-ay! Change! Bash! Hehold! With a leap from the ground To the saddle in a bound, And away—and away! Ho-ay!

Change! Bash! Hehold! With a leap from the ground To the saddle in a bound, And away—and away! Ho-ay!

"I like the machine," said Bibbs. "I've made a friend of it. I separate it and talk to it, and then it talks back to me."

"Indeed, indeed? What does it say?" He was unaware of a sensation that passed along the lines of workmen. Their great master had come among mentally, and wrung his hand, sending a shower of red drops over his head and Bibbs, but Gurney grasped his wrist and said, sharply:

"Come out of here. Come over to the lavatory in the office. Bibbs, fetch my bag. It's in my machine, outside."

And when he thought the bag to the washroom he found the doctor still grasping Sheridan's wrist, holding the injured hand over a basin. Sheridan had lost color, and temper, too. He glared over his shoulder at his son as the latter handed the bag to Gurney.

"You go on back to your work," he said. "I've had worse snips than that from a pencil sharpener."

"Oh, no, you haven't!" said Gurney. "I have too!" Sheridan retorted, angrily. "Bibbs, you go on back to your work. There's no reason to stand around here watching old Doc Gurney try to keep himself awake working on a scratch that only needs a little contemplation. I slipped or it wouldn't have happened. You get back on your job."

"All right," said Bibbs. "I'll go!" "I'll go!" Sheridan bellowed, as his son was passing out of the door. "You watch out when you're running that machine! You hear what I say? I slipped, or I wouldn't get scratched, but you—yourself, Bibbs, to get your whole hand cut off! You keep your eyes open!"

"Yes, sir," and Bibbs returned to the zinc eater thoughtfully.

Half an hour later Gurney touched Bibbs on the shoulder and beckoned him outside, where conversation was possible. "I sent him home, Bibbs. He'll have to be careful of that hand. Go get your overalls off. I'll take you for a drive and leave you at home."

"Careful?" Bibbs asked, as he stuck to my job till the whistle blows."

"No, you don't," the doctor returned, smothering a yawn. "He wants me to take you down to my office and give you an overhauling to see how much he has done. I guess you folks have got that old man pretty thoroughly upset, between you, up at your house! But I don't intend to go over you. I can see with my eyes ball shut—"

"Yes," Bibbs interrupted, "that's what they are!"

"I say I can see you're starting out, at least, in good shape. What's made the difference?"

"I like the machine," said Bibbs. "Well, sir," the doctor stretched himself and stamped his foot repeatedly. "Better come along and take a drive with me. You can take the time off that he allowed for the examination, and—"

"Not at all," said Bibbs. "I'm going to stand by the zinc eater till five o'clock. I tell you I like it!"

"Then I suppose that's the end of your wanting to write."

"I don't know about that," Bibbs said, thoughtfully; "but the zinc eater doesn't interfere with my thinking, at least. It's better than being in hospital; I'm sure of that. I don't want anything to change. I'd be content to lead just the life I'm leading now to the end of my days."

"You do beat the devil!" exclaimed Gurney. "Your father's right when he tells me you're a mystery. Perhaps the Almighty knew what he was about when he made you, but it takes a lot of faith to believe it! Well, I'm off. Go on back to your mauling old machine."

He climbed into his car, which he operated himself, but he refrained from setting it immediately in motion. "Well, I rubbed it in on the old man that he had warned him not to slide his hand along too far, and that he got hurt because he didn't pay attention to my warning, and because he was trying to show you how to do something you were already doing a great deal better than he could. You tell him I'll be around to look at it and change the dressing tomorrow morning, if possible."

But when he paid the promised visit the next morning he did more than change the dressing upon the damaged hand. The injury was severe of its kind, and Gurney spent a long time over it, though Sheridan was restless and scornful, being brought to a degree of tranquillity only by means of horrible threats and talk of amputation. However, he appeared at the dinner table with his hand supported in a sling, which he seemed to regard as an infirmity, while the natural inquiries upon the subject evidently struck him as deliberate insults. Mrs. Sheridan, having been unable to contain her solicitude several times during the day, and having been checked each time in a manner that blanched her cheek, hastened to warn Roscoe and Sibyl upon their arrival at five, to omit any reference to the injury and to avoid even looking at the sling if they possibly could.

WIND AFFECTS CONSUMPTION OF GASOLINE IN AUTOS

Motorists who complain of the high price of gasoline should have a few harsh words to say for Old Boreas. The god of the winds, as shown by tests conducted during the past week, increases the gas consumption fully forty per cent when he is at work with ordinary velocity; when he is really trying, Mr. Wind doubtless makes his biting average much higher.

E. E. Thompson, president of the Thompson-La Crosse company at Fresno, kept a careful check on wind and rain when he made the run from the Balsin City to San Francisco. The trip north was made on Tuesday, and the return journey Thursday, and in order to learn if the wind velocity was anywhere near the same Mr. Thompson inquired at the government weather bureau regarding the average wind velocity for the two days. The official report was that the wind speed was approximately the same.

Coming up the valley from Fresno the Thompson Maxwell touring car showed what its owner thought was a mighty poor gasoline average. On the 197-mile run nine and a half gallons of fluid were used. This meant that the carburetor took a gallon of gasoline for each 20.7 miles of the road covered.

Going home the "fuel consumption" was no absolutely different, that Mr. Thompson paused to inquire and finally placed the blame with Boreas. However, road conditions were south from the Bay City were also forced to shoulder part of the blame for the "roll" is all, in favor of the south-bound run. The Maxwell used up just five gallons and one gill of gasoline.

Motorists looking for high gasoline averages want to consider the wind as a mighty strong factor," said Mr. Thompson. "I have made the Fresno-San Francisco run hundreds of times, but not until recently did I pay much attention to fuel consumption. The difference between the northern and southern runs was so pronounced that it could hardly be laid to the grade conditions, and not until I thought of the wind was I able to place the blame."

Motorists will find that the above conditions are quite similar in Idaho, as E. S. Johnson of the Johnson Auto Sales Co. has made several tests of this nature.

Chauntiqua On Business Basis

Until a person looks over the list of chauntiquas that are being held in all parts of the United States this summer, the magnitude of the chauntiqua business is hardly grasped. The chauntiqua has probably shown a greater growth than any other institution of modern times and each year the total chauntiqua attendance has increased two hundred per cent over the preceding year. 1916 will see a great or increase than ever and the five thousand two hundred American chauntiquas, it is estimated, will be attended by no less than fifteen million people.

To keep these chauntiquas in operation requires the services of many hundreds of people and the list of men and women who devote all or part of the summer months to this kind of work, includes many of America's notables. Besides the hundreds of musical attractions, lecturers and entertainers, there are many hundreds of advance men, college crew boys and other assistants who manage the immense detail of the chauntiquas.

The chauntiqua of today is operated on a strict business basis and unlike many other movements of the present day, the chauntiqua pays its bills and financially is a success. When it is understood that fifteen millions of dollars were spent last year in promoting the chauntiquas of the United States, it will be readily understood that the chauntiqua is exerting an influence not only in hundreds of communities but throughout the nation as an institution that is bringing good on a business basis. —Advertisement.

MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE NEAR IDAHO FALLS

No Clue to Identity of Stranger Who Resorted to Suicide—Photograph and Finger Prints Taken.

IDAHO FALLS—Much excitement was caused in Idaho Falls Wednesday of last week by the strange appearance of the body of a dead man wrapped in blankets and strapped to the running board of an automobile occupied by Mr. Klockentzger, special deputy sheriff and four other men. It was generally thought that the man was one wanted in either the Brucke, Caridge or Empey case, but conjecture to that effect proved wrong and no one as yet has been able to identify the man. The body is still in the morgue of the Idaho Falls Undertaking company. A photograph was taken and finger prints will be taken and a description of the man sent broadcast in an effort to identify him. The body will be held a while longer and if not claimed will be buried by the county.

The man committed suicide in Canyon valley, east of Idaho Falls, by taking cyanide of potassium while a prisoner in the hands of Constable Tom Weeks of Swan valley. A note at the scene was broken into and robbed early in the week and a description was secured of the man, who broke through the crowd which saw him at work. After shooting several times he succeeded in getting away. The sheriff's office was supplied with a description of the man and the constable of Swan valley. The latter reported that he noted the appearance of a stranger in the vicinity who answered to the description given and took up the hunt for the man who made for the brush. Weeks followed him for eighteen hours over the mountains, finally losing him, and looking about where he would emerge from the brush the constable did behind a point of rock, waiting for the man to come out, and finding him with a gun when he appeared. The man upon being caught, submitted readily and without inquiry but instead followed meekly to the home. The man asked if he might have a drink and with his handcuffed hand, drew forth a paper from his pocket, explaining to the officer that it was medicine. He then got into the vehicle and it was during a conversation with the officer that he asked to be released and that he was dying. Weeks, however, did not as the man requested, supposing of course that the man was trying to work some scheme on him and it was but a few minutes until the man had sunk to the bottom of the vehicle. At this point Mr. Weeks came upon Deputy Klockentzger, who was on his way to Swan valley, in company with two or three other men. The party then took the dead man's body and returned to Idaho Falls, making an examination of the effects but nothing was found with the exception of a few trinkets and another package of poison.

He was heavily clothed, having on six shirts, two pairs of trousers and heavy underwear. Nothing by which he could be identified could be found. Among the scores which have viewed the body there were none who had ever before seen the man.

The officers of Idaho Falls say that it is not at all reasonable to suppose that a man would commit suicide on so small a charge as the robbery of a store or that he would carry poison for that purpose.

The man had, supposedly, no knowledge upon what charge he had been arrested, and the supposition is that he evidently thought he had been taken up for some serious offense and committed suicide rather than face the charge. Some are of the opinion that this man must have been the man who committed the well-known crime against the Empey child. The case is a mystery and will never be solved unless the man is identified.

SIEBOLD SEES STRIFE SIGNS IN POLITICAL SKIES

Democratic Writer Declares Developments Augur Well For Victory of Bourbons.

(Louis Siebold in The Statesman)

CHICAGO—Intense bitterness and emotional strife that augurs well for the cause of the not former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks to be the running mate of Justice Hughes, both of whom have accepted the honor conferred upon them with unanimity, but without the enthusiastic approval that ordinarily characterizes the designation of a presidential ticket in a political campaign.

The Progressive ticket is only half completed. The nomination for vice president was given to and accepted by Woodrow Wilson, a sugar producer of Louisiana, and an ardent supporter of Colonel Roosevelt.

The presidential nomination was given to the ex-vice president of the United States, until he finally decided whether to accept or decline it will remain in the possession of the Progressive-national committee which was empowered to fill vacancies by one of the last acts of the convention, despite the storm of protest made against this procedure even before the full significance of it had been revealed.

Some of the leaders of the Progressive party, who had been advised in advance of the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt to withhold his acceptance, succeeded in resisting the impulse that moved them to denounce the action of the leaders upon whom they had conferred the highest honors in their power.

Others were not so discreet and tactful, and made fiery addresses to their fellow delegates that closely approached sedition and treason to the Progressive cause. Some idea of the temper of the Progressive party was given by a speech from William Jennings Bryan, the three-time Democratic candidate who sat with the reporters on the platform observing the proceedings.

Mr. Bryan was openly complimented by Victor Murdock who expressed the hope that the Nebraska Commoner and Henry Clay, a big motor car maker, might organize a fourth party and help the Progressives to make war on the older ones.

Murdock also seemed to reflect the view of the majority of his fellow delegates, declared it to be his purpose to keep alive the Progressive cause even if some of its most important leaders decided to abandon it.

He frankly criticized the efforts of the personal representative of Colonel Roosevelt to negotiate a treaty with the regular Republicans for the purpose of securing the nomination by them of the Progressive chief. He even directed a bitter volley of criticism at George W. Perkins, who, almost completely worn out by his energies during the past nerve-racking week, sat within a few feet of him. Perkins made no reply.

It was apparent from the enthusiastic reception given Murdock that a great majority of the delegates and spectators in the picturesque auditorium, which was packed to the doors, endorsed the sentiments uttered by him.

Following the adjournment of the convention under abrupt circumstances, the Progressive delegates from many states assembled at their various headquarters to try to grasp the significance of the unexpected difficulty of Colonel Roosevelt in the face of a direct challenge issued by the regular Republicans, who had not only conferred upon Governor Hughes the practically unanimous nomination for president on the third ballot, but who utterly ignored the suggestion offered by Colonel Roosevelt at the eleventh hour that Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts be nominated by both conventions.

The Lodge suggestion came from Oyster Bay after the conference representing the two parties had made a final effort to reach an agreement for the annihilation of the two parties on Hughes, Root, some other man. The reports of the conference were in process of preparation when the colonel dropped his bomb into both conventions.

It seemed to arouse the resentment of the friends of Senator Lodge at what they described to be a "gratuitous humiliation" of him at the hands of his personal friend Colonel Roosevelt, speeded the calling the roll that resulted in the nomination of Justice Hughes, and caused much bitterness among the leaders and delegates to the Progressive convention. There was indeed more open criticism of the colonel indulged in by his own followers than by those in the regular convention, grimly determined to reject him.

The Republican candidate even though they were compelled to nominate a man that few of them personally favored, and accepted only because of their conviction that he could help them elect their own local tickets.

FUTURE BRILLIANT SAYS H. E. BABCOCK

try has a wonderful future. It may take 20 years to work it out, but it will develop in time. I hope that I am good for at least 21 years yet, so that I can be in on the prosperity if it takes 20 years to come.

"Our company had a deal on with the Kahns when they went to the rocks. The deal, which involved the Great Shoshone Light & Power company and other properties fell through. We are not interested in the question of electrical lighting now as we have no fight to make on the company in possession. About the time that the Kahns went on the rocks money was hard to get. I am a protectionist and think that the tariff policy of President Wilson was responsible. The president had a theory, and while I do not agree with him, it may have been the right theory, but while the change was being made and the experiment going on business had to wait. That is why I favor a tariff commission. Outside of that I have no active interest in politics. The tariff will never be handled intelligently while it is being juggled by a bunch of politicians in congress. I would like to see a tariff commission so that such changes as might be required could be made scientifically after due examination.

"But the future of this part of the country is safe. There ought to be several Twin Falls in southern Idaho and if you had enough of the right sort of bonstors you would have them. There is the Brunau tract, for instance, and there are others. There are several great railroad systems that should have lines in southern Idaho with a Twin Falls on each of them. All that is needed is someone with some appreciation of the possibilities who will begin boosting. I. B. Perrine is regarded by the Union Pacific as its greatest asset. They will buy The Wizard of the Rocky Mountain States, back there, because he believes in this country and has some appreciation of what it will develop into. If other men on other undeveloped tracts will enter into the spirit of the thing, the growth of southern Idaho will astonish the world."

Mr. Babcock is a representative of the firm of H. L. Daugherty & Co., the noted Wall street operators. The party which consisted of H. E. Babcock, W. M. Jewell and G. H. Jewell of Chicago, and Mrs. Frances E. Pryor, of New York, left Sunday morning after spending several days in the city, the estate of I. B. Perrine and family. While on their way here they visited the heads of the Mormon church in Salt Lake city and enjoyed the Salt Air summer resorts near the Utah capital.
