

McCOY FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Jury Finds That As Agent of Ira Brackett He Converted Money—Case Unique Here.

After several hours deliberation, the jury in the case of the state of Idaho against James McCoy on the charge of embezzlement, brought in a verdict of guilty late Saturday night. This is the first conviction on the charge of embezzlement ever secured in the court here, and one of the comparatively few ever secured in Idaho. It is necessary to prove to the satisfaction of a jury in such a case that the person convicted obtained money for a lawful purpose and with lawful intent as agent of another and afterwards converted such money to his own use. If the defendant is merely in custody of the money and property and then converts it to his own use, larceny but not embezzlement, under the Idaho statutes.

The state claimed in this case that McCoy on April 22, 1914, obtained from Ira Brackett, $10,000 on a promissory note given to Judge Lawrence Hansen, and April 27, 1914, $3500 more on another promissory note given to the Idaho State bank. That this money so obtained was given defendant by Brackett for the purpose of going to New York and securing a controlling interest in the Jarbidge Allotment mine from a man named Van Vleck; that after he had received the money and had gone to New York, he notified Brackett of what he had done in the case of Van Vleck, and that from this time on Brackett heard nothing from him until he was brought here a prisoner from Seward, Alaska. That he had converted the money in his possession to his own use and that this money was the property of Ira Brackett.

The defendant claimed that he was a partner with Brackett and two others in the ownership of the mine and that he could not, therefore, be guilty of embezzlement under the law. He also claimed that he did not improperly convert any money to his own use; that it was understood by the company to also try to sell his own stock in order to put money into the mine for further development. The defendant produced a letter which he claimed he had received at Winston-Salem, N. C., from Brackett in which the latter purported to treat him as a partner and to confirm his mission to sell stock. He also claimed that on his return to Salt Lake City he had discovered that there were certain unpaid claims against the mine contracted during his absence and that he paid out the balance of the money which was left after the trip in the satisfaction of such claims. He claimed that he had made certain payments for the labor and supplies was introduced by the defense. He claimed that he made no undue haste in going to Alaska and made no effort to cover his tracks.

Mr. Brackett denied that he had ever sent the letter produced by McCoy and which the latter claimed he had received in North Carolina. He said that he had never written or signed such letter and that the signature which appeared on it was not his, but was a forgery. Expert testimony was not introduced in the case to substantiate the statement that the letter was a forgery.

This case was one of the most fiercely contested criminal cases ever tried in the court here. The prosecution was handled by County Attorney John E. Davies with whom was connected C. M. Booth, attorney for Ira Brackett. The defense was conducted by George E. Hansen of Twin Falls, associated with Dr. Van Pelt, of Seward, Alaska, a personal friend of the defendant.

REWARD TO BE OFFERED FOR ARREST OF BOOTLEGGERS
HOISE.—Prosecution of those engaged in the illicit traffic of bringing into Idaho intoxicating liquor in violation of the prohibition law is to follow actively on the part of the state. Reports placed in the hands of Governor Alexander that such a traffic is going on in Ada, Canyon, Twin Falls, Bannock, Bear Lake and other counties in this state. The governor is in receipt of an opinion from Attorney General Joseph H. Peterson to the effect there is available $2500 of the state money that can be used for offering rewards for the apprehension of those engaged in the traffic and the state's chief executive announced that he proposes to make use of the money and to start in on a campaign of running down the law violators.

"It has come to my knowledge that in Twin Falls, Canyon, Ada, Bannock, Bear Lake and other counties in this state a certain amount of liquor is being handled and sold in a process known as bootlegging," said Governor Alexander. "It is high time to stop this. The people of the state of Idaho, according to my opinion, demand that the traffic in the alcoholic beverage be stopped. I am giving public notice to those engaged in that traffic to obey the terms of the prohibition law forthwith, otherwise I will offer rewards for the apprehension of those so engaged for which there is an existing appropriation. I mean business."

MORE VICTIMS OF EXCESSIVE SPEED

Terrible Accident on State Highway Near Richfield, Caused by the Speed Mania—One Dead, One Badly Hurt.

Another automobile accident, the result of sheer reckless driving, occurred on the public highway about a mile and a half from Richfield, last Friday evening, says the Jerome News. One person was killed outright and another very seriously injured—so seriously that his recovery has been a matter of doubt and may still be so.

Robert Brown, driving a new high power car, with Mrs. George Brown, Sam Brown, Arizona, and three young girls as his passengers, undertook to turn a corner in the road at high speed, when one front wheel broke off at the axle. Mrs. Brown fell under the car with the fender across her, breaking her neck. Brown was generally smashed up, the report being that ribs were broken and a leg broken, his shoulder sprained and perhaps internal injuries. He was in a precarious condition at last reports.

The three girls in the rear seat of the car escaped without serious injury. It is reported that Mr. Brown was driving at a rate of sixty miles an hour and did not slacken speed at all on account of the turn of the road. Both Robert and George Brown formerly resided in Shoshone and both have paid damages for personal injuries to others on account of having run the victim down with their cars. Robert nearly caused the death of a young lad in Shoshone and paid damages at the cost of a court fight, and his brother ran down Station Agent, Walter Huck of Shoshone, on the street and also paid damages for personal injuries.

The deplorable wreck of Friday appears to be charged to nothing but the speed craze.

Rogerson Items

Times' Special Correspondence.
Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Russell returned Sunday from Arizona and California, where they went on a twenty day trip by auto, going mainly to Arizona to the bedside of Mr. Russell's father, who was seriously ill, but who is now some improved.

Miss Elva Haverrill, who has been ill is very much better now and able to go among her friends.

T. H. Thompson, head of the Rogerson department store, has gone on a business trip to Wayne, S. D., and other points in central U. S.

Dr. H. H. Dickerson, dentist, formerly of Star, Idaho, has located here for the practice of his profession. He has the diplomas, testimonials and reputation of being a man whom all people appreciate as a dentist of skill, giving satisfaction universally to his clients who need service in his line of treatment.

Recent reports as to the condition of the mother of Messrs. Jerome and W. F. Heisey, that she is seriously ill, perhaps fatally ill in Ogden, Utah, this being very disappointing to the children and grandchildren here who had heard that there were hopes for her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hiltand, formerly of Salt Lake, arrived here on the first. Mr. Hiltand becoming assistant agent, head, of the Oregon Short Line office here by transfer from the Salt Lake general office. The work of the Rogerson office serving such a vast territory compels the services of the men.

Mrs. Howard Gibbs and little son are spending several days with relatives and friends in Twin Falls.

Gay Peterson, who has been engaged in the carpenter trade here for a year, has moved to Twin Falls.

C. R. Warner, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hine for a month, left on the 10th to take a position as traveling salesman for a Salt Lake candy firm.

Children's day services were held Sunday morning and the whole service was an unusually interesting one. The church building was appropriately decorated, an orchestra of 100 pieces assisted in the music, the audience overtaxed the seating capacity of the church, the Sunday school committee program was carried out, and a goodly offering for Sunday school missions was given.

C. R. Dotweiler and children of Hotellerton, were the guests here Sunday of Rex and Mrs. J. D. Keith at the McMillan hotel.

Rogerson and all the territory about were glad to welcome the second season of wintering and over the track on Saturday, June 10th. Crops do not look so well because of continued cold weather, there being thin tiller throughout the Salmon tract territory Sunday morning, June 11th.

The Gem State Lumber Co. has the contract for furnishing the lumber for the new school building. H. F. Allen of Seattle, is the building contractor. This company is also furnishing the material for the fine new residence being built for T. M. Atkins on his farm near Rock Creek. A mass meeting held Monday night at the opera house, called for the purpose of changing the organization of the base ball team. It was decided to hire a coach and otherwise strengthen the team and a board of directors was elected, composed of A. J. Wilson, B. H. Atkinson and C. H. Upton. It was also decided to hire three men to strengthen the team. The boys have met up with a little hard luck so far this season and it is thought that with a little additional strength the team will make a showing before the season is over.

The three churches of Kimberly, the Christian, M. E. and L. D. S. have organized what is known as the "Kimberly Welfare League," which is composed of five men from each church. The object of the organization is to keep down the price of all kinds, including bootlegging, etc. It is the league's duty to report to the authorities any irregularities of the kind that come to their notice.

COST OF MATERIAL IN AUTOMOBILES SOAR

An interesting comparison of the prices of material before the great European war and at present has been announced by the engineering department of the Maxwell Motor company. In one instance a metal used in the construction of Maxwell cars has taken on the enormous jump of 718 per cent, and no metal on the list shows less than a 47 per cent. increase.

Iron and steel have also jumped in proportion, the lowest increase being 21 per cent, while the high figure, for plates, shows a rise of 104 per cent. The increases in the price of pig iron range from 31 to 46 per cent.

"If the Maxwell company had not contracted for materials in large quantities, due to its enormous production of more than 100,000 cars for the current year, it would be forced to follow the lead of other motor car manufacturers," said T. J. Toner, Pacific coast manager of Maxwell inc. "Even as it is overhead expenses must be carefully watched, because the policy of the company is naturally bent on keeping up its high standard as to product."

"Recent advices from Pittsburgh show that prices are still on the upward trend." "A ton of steel, for instance, a steel alloy, was sold on the basis of $1,000 a ton, which is a record price. Forging billets were sold on the same occasion for $485 a ton, which was a jump of $42.50 a ton over the price previously reported."

Conserving Lost Motion.

Just a word concerning numerous inquiries relative to the operation of a great chautauque circuit—how, and why—a program of maximum profit can be presented at a minimum profit to patrons.

In a day of short cuts in business, swift service, compactness of organization, dispatch of detail, the chautauque comes to us a premier example of the universal watchword—"efficiency." In operation, a big chautauque circuit is so closely knit, that seven programs are running at the same time instead of one. "Talent" is hired by the year. Railroad fare per capita is reduced to a minimum. Round trip tickets are perforated with stop over privileges. The cost of three big tents are packed in one car. In the old days of the independent chautauque, this shortening of expense, taking up the slack, was impossible. It was a startling illustration of lost motion. "Talent" was brought across the continent at enormous expense, for one engagement and then turned loose, whereas now, on the same ticket, they cover a season, with only slight additional expense in transportation, the cost of a tent for one assembly was the same now paid for a tent that hits ten or more towns in a season. The same comparison obtains throughout. Programs were necessarily limited, both with respect to quality and variety. Notwithstanding, heavy deficits were the inevitable rule. Promoters staggered under the financial obligation heaped upon them. The chautauque could not go. There was no substitute for this all-American canvas college, concert hall and forum of the people. A few men of foresight set themselves to the stupendous task of building the labyrinthine not work of the great chautauque circuits of this country. Chautauque ensigns float from the mast heads of tent and auditorium assemblies, at one time or other during the summer season in the majority of towns and cities throughout the United States.

Of these circuits the Ellison-White Chautauque system represents the "western half."—Advertisement.

Telephone service enters more intimately into the lives of the public than does any other utility, for it affects, in a greater or lesser degree, practically every form of human activity.

We cannot afford to pursue any course, which, upon analysis, would prove to be contrary to the best interests of the public and a consequent betrayal of public confidence.

This condition imposes upon us grave responsibilities, which we cheerfully recognize and which we undertake at all times to discharge in a manner that will merit public favor.

Therefore, we shape our policies and build our rates to conform to the best thought developed in the telephone business up to the present day.

By pursuing such a course we believe we will always merit the confidence of the people we serve.

Our entire PLANT, which affords facilities for intercommunication in the cities, towns and rural districts of seven states, is built upon confidence. Confidence in the industrial and commercial future of the territory which our system covers; confidence in the fairness of the people we serve and confidence in our ability to serve the public well.

Our entire BUSINESS is built upon confidence. Confidence which the public has in our corporate character; confidence in the integrity of our policies and confidence in our ability to render efficient service.

The Reward of Careful Attention

There's no accident about successful cattle raising. Good buildings are a first essential.

A well-planned cattle barn soon pays for itself. You can almost see the difference in the condition of your stock. It is one more safe-guard against loss from disease.

In planning your cattle barn, you naturally have problems of your own to take into consideration. The size, location, and interior arrangement must be adapted to your needs.

Instead of putting up a separate building you might find it better to build an addition to your present barn equipment. In any event you will consider the convenience to yourself and your hired help of having a building of ample size.

Talk it over with us. We want to help you decide upon the one best building for your purpose.

A NON-PARTISAN INSTITUTION

The Pork Barrel is not a respecter of parties. The Chicago convention overlooked this fact when it condemned the Democratic administration on the grounds of "wasteful appropriations" and "shameless raids on the treasury." It speaks of the Democratic party's "opposition to and rejection of President Taft's oft-repeated proposals and earnest efforts to secure economy and efficiency through the establishment of a simple businesslike budget system," entirely unmindful evidently of a simple little fact that should have been remembered—that the Republican congress to which President Taft made his recommendations, rejected the suggestions.

We do not apologize for the Pork Barrel system. It is a bad one. We do not say it is impossible to eliminate it, or at least to reduce it to comparatively harmless proportions. It can, and should, and will be done, if not now—then eventually. And the sooner, the better.

But no party has a corner on the mystery of human nature. The people of Twin Falls, for instance, want all they can get in the way of a postoffice. So do the people of all cities throughout the United States. These people—all good people at heart; all opposed to the Pork Barrel in principle—all feel very indifferently towards the congressman who fails to deliver to them at least the substance of their requests. Just human nature, and their congressman, also quite human, supports other congressmen in getting a "big slice" for their constituents, in return for their home appropriations. And this it goes.

Taft wanted to eliminate it and establish a budget system, putting all appropriations on a business basis. Congress, Republican at that time, did not see it that way. Congress, Democratic now, has not seen it that way.

We eagerly to the Convention the right to point with pride to what a Republican president urged; and we concede to that Convention the privilege of keeping him with reference to what the Republican Congress did; but the inconsistency of charging the Democratic party with all the faults of that historic and non-partisan institution known as the Pork Barrel, is too glaring to be passed over in silence.

By all means the Pork Barrel should be eliminated. Such an effort, if made in Congress today, would have the support of both Republicans and Democrats—some of them; it would have the opposition of both Republicans and Democrats—most of them.

The job of eliminating the Pork Barrel is one for the people to undertake. They must watch their congressman, and moderate their own demands. Their congressman from the stump will tell them that the Pork Barrel must go. The people must see that that same congressman stays in the same frame of mind after he is elected. The Pork Barrel enjoys a continued existence because congressmen change their minds.

EUROPEAN WAR PICTURES AT THE LAVERING SATURDAY

A bird's-eye view of the great struggle of nations in the war that is being waged at an enormous cost in men and money, is what residents of this city will have the good fortune of witnessing in "The European War Pictures," a series of films was taken in Europe on the battlefields when the German armies were invading Belgium and triumphantly storming some of the greatest fortresses in the world.

While soldiers were armed with rifles bent on death dealing missions, brave moving picture operators were capturing the scenes in the case of shells and bullet, running every known risk to accurately record the battles and war incidents that followed one another in rapid succession. These are what will be seen in "The European War Pictures." They are history recorded only as the movie eye can record it, for the camera never lies.

The panoramic effect of "The European War Pictures" is startling and spell-binding. Thousands of miles away from the seat of the war the people of the United States are able to see before their eyes the early stages of the struggle. So clear are many of the scenes that returning to them one who had witnessed the pictures could identify them. From a historical standpoint the pictures have a value difficult to estimate. Even a child can see them with profit. For two hours and one-half the war pictures are unfolded before the audience, narrating history as it actually took place. Spectators are carried away by the startling effects produced. First hand they see what the enemy armies, building up their bombardment and driving forward in their efforts to bring about victory; men and children struggling to save their own lives and others dear to them, together with some of their meager household effects; sons rushing to the colors of their country, eager to engage in the terrible combat in which millions have been murdered.

If only from an educational and historical standpoint no one can afford to fail to see "The European War Pictures." When they are shown in this city they will be the only opportunity given you to do so and no one can afford to miss it by. The pictures are easily worth a paid admission as high as $2 but the Williams Feature Film Company, through which the pictures will be shown in this city, is able to announce the admission will be but within the reach of everyone, or fifty cents. The program is arranged with special music. An evening is occupied in giving the program.

DOLLARS AND THE WOMAN.
"Dollars and the Woman," the latest photoplay feature produced by the Lubin company from Albert Payson Terhune's story, "Dollars and Cents," is the latest in the series of last two nights of the week, has for its foundation a subject of perennial interest.

At the outset the hand of Madge Boyton is being sought by rival suitors. One of them, Dan Hillyer, is a poor inventor; the other, Arthur Crews, a wealthy young man. Madge bestows her heart and hand upon the poor inventor. The rejected suitor drowns his sorrows in dissipation. Money and love are in the air. Dan is pining when Dan meets a man whom he interests in his new invention and Dan is invited to go to California. Madge goes to the bank to withdraw their scanty savings for his expenses, and on her way home loses the money. In desperation she applies to Crews for a loan. He is unable to require for Dan's trip. While Dan is away the approaching birth of her child draws her into the care of a charity hospital. Here she is discovered by Crews, who has her removed to a private ward. Crews continues his pursuit of Madge, who finally is brought close to the door of death by the birth of a child. Crews now really alarmed telegraphs this news to Dan whose coast trip has turned out disastrously and who has taken a job as a porter in a cheap hotel.

Finally Dan counters a stroke of luck in the disposal of his patent for a large sum and sends Madge some money and later returns to her. Although she has received this money he finds her living as though she were a pauper. She is trying to repay Crews, but not knowing the circumstances, Dan quarrels with her and now he learns for the first time of the money she received from Crews. He leaves her and thereby gives Crews an opportunity to resume his pursuit of Madge's affections. And it is while Crews is striving to persuade Madge to divorce him that Dan makes his opportune return, and the story ends in reconciliation.

ROBINSONS

Talk

There are some men who have the courage to say OUT LOUD so they can be heard two feet away, that we are to have warm weather. Once in a while a real brave man says "it will be hot soon." I hardly dare venture an opinion. However, we are ready for the courageous, the brave, in fact any or all of you men who may be, or will be, wanting warm weather or hot weather things, such as Shirts, Underwear, Hosiery, Ties, Suspenders, Belts and the many other things needed when the mercury begins to "Rise Up."

By the way of reminder, I would just mention Men's Soft Collar Shirts at 45 and 60 cents, better ones at a dollar and a dollar fifty.

Men's band shirts with soft cuffs, a big line of new and stylish ones at a dollar and one fifty.

Men's band shirts, with starched cuffs, in the better grade of percale, at $1.00, or three for $2.75. A better grade than are usually sold at the price.

A man's ecru color union suit, tailor made, with military shoulder, elastic neck band, long cuffs on sleeves and legs, at 75 cents, 2 for $1.45. Those who have bought this number think it is a remarkably good one for the money.

A man's bleached, fine yarn union suit, made with closed crotch on Cooper machines, making it very comfortable and elastic. These are splendid value at 95c a suit, or 2 for $1.85.

The men's nainsook union suit we are selling is made athletic style. No sleeves, knee length, with elastic set-in piece at back giving added comfort. We have them in regular, stouts and stubs cut. Wash like a pocket handkerchief and wear splendidly. The price is but 90 cents.

::: History of the American Flag :::

By C. D. THOMAS

Read at The Elks Flag Day Program Wednesday Evening

On June 14th, 1777, the "Stars and Stripes," by act of congress, became the official flag of the United States. Previous to this at different times and on different occasions, numerous flags—nearly seventy in all, in number—had floated over the colonies.

The flag of the thirteen United Colonies, which was first raised at Washington's headquarters in Cambridge, Mass., January 2nd, 1776, had thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, the union being the crosses of St. Andrew and St. George on a blue field; and this flag, undoubtedly, carried something of a suggestion of the "Stars and Stripes."

In response to a request from General Washington that a flag be adopted which would enable the American vessels to recognize each other, a committee was appointed by congress to take into consideration the design of such a flag. Every school boy knows the story of how this committee, of which Washington was a member, called on Mrs. Betsy Ross, the widow of John Ross, an expert needlewoman who conducted the upholstery business at her home, the house is now 219 Arch street, below Third street, Philadelphia, and arranged with her to make a flag. A design was shown her, and she suggested that Washington re-draw it, which he did. You remember how she suggested that the stars be five-pointed, and taking a piece of paper, she folded it deftly, and with a cut of the scissors, showed how readily these five-pointed stars could be made. From the design as re-drawn, was made the first "Star Spangled Banner."

On the date mentioned, June 14th, 1777, the committee reported to congress, and the following resolution was passed: "Resolved, that the flag of the Thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen states, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

At the time of the adoption of this resolution, Washington said: "We take the stars from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the blue stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

It is said that the order following the adoption of the new flag was not official promulgation until September of that year, although on August 6th the new flag was probably first hoisted over troops at Fort Mifflin, and on the 17th it was hoisted on a vessel by Paul Jones, on the "Ranger." In November, 1777, The first record of its being carried by the army in battle was September 11th, 1777, at the Brandywine.

This flag of thirteen stripes and thirteen stars remained without change, the flag of the country until 1794, when, on account of the admission of Vermont and Kentucky, it was ordered by congress that on and after July 1st, 1795, the flag should be fifteen stripes, alternate red and white, and the union fifteen stars, white in blue field. The growth of the country gave assurance that in time to come there would be many states—too many to admit of a star and stripe for every state, and so, April 4th, 1818, congress passed the following act:

"That from and after the 4th of July next, the flag of the United States be thirteen horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be twenty stars, white in blue field; and that on the admission of a new state into the union, one star be added to the union of the flag, and such addition take effect on the fourth day of July next succeeding such admission."

Since this act was passed, from time to time, new states have been admitted and new stars have been added to the union of the flag, and today the union contains forty-eight stars, six rows of eight stars each, with the corresponding stars of each row in vertical line.

Judge H. C. Robinson leaves tonight for his home in Washington, Kansas, after attending to the appointment of an administrator for the estate of his son, the late Frank A. Robinson, who died here a month ago. E. L. Ashton was appointed.

It is interesting to note that during the war of the revolution, the number of stars was thirteen; in the war of 1812, fifteen; in the Mexican war, twenty-nine; in the Civil war, thirty-five; and the Spanish-American war forty-five.

Perhaps you do not know that the American flag, the "Stars and Stripes," is among the oldest of national banners. It is older than the French Tri-Color; older than the flag of Spain; and many years older than the flag of Germany or Italy.

It is said that Americans are particularly demonstrative toward their national flag and give it especial prominence. It is a national flag and belongs to the whole people, not only collectively but individually, and each citizen feels that it is his flag, while the flags of many other countries are personal flags, flags of the reigning family, or flags of some particular arm of service.

Our national emblem, the "Stars and Stripes," stands for American ideas and ideals—it is the flag of liberty and freedom. To quote from Henry Ward Beecher, it stands "the right of men to their own selves and to their liberties." It is not a painted rag. It is a whole national history. It is a condition. It is the government. It is the free children of a people who stand for the government, on the constitution. And most of us feel and believe that it is the flag of God's own chosen country. The very names on it to indicate the depth of feeling toward it, "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Flag of the Free," "The Banner of Liberty," "The Stars and Stripes," and the best "Old Glory."

The flag has an etiquette of its own, and it is a disgrace to the dignity of the Revolution, are in effect as follows:

It should not be hoisted before sunrise and should be allowed to remain up after sunset.

At sunset, the civilian spectators should stand at attention and uncover during the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

When the national colors are passing in review or in parade, the spectators should, if walking, halt, or, if sitting, arise and uncover.

Much attention has been given to instilling into the minds of children respect and reverence for the flag, and at nearly all schools over the country, in the "Salute to the Flag," the children stand at attention, salute, and recite the following: "I solemnly pledge allegiance to my flag, and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." This teaching respect and reverence for the flag to school children it would be well for both teacher and parent to teach by example, and it has been suggested to me that we set a poor example when we use our flag and our national colors for decorating purposes and then trail them in the dust and tramp them under our feet after the decorations are torn down.

It is interesting to note that the territory over which "Old Glory" now floats is more than 3,700,000 square miles; that the people who claim the "Stars and Stripes" as their flag number over 100,000,000.

In its history, the thirteen colonial stripes and one star for each state, as the flag represents the American nation as it was at its birth, as it is at the present time, and hereafter what it may be in the future when other stars shall have joined the constellation.

A song for our banner? The watchword of our people?

Which gave the Republic her station: "United we stand—divided we fall." It made and preserved us a nation. The Union of takes—the Union of lands.

The Union of stars none can sever; The Union of hearts, the Union of hands, the Union of wills.

And the flag of our Union forever!

Nomads of the Desert.

The Tuaregs are of the purest Berber stock, the noble families unmingled with other blood, and, in their own language, they call themselves the Noble People. Nominally, they are Mohammedans and some of their number compose the most intolerant and warlike sect in Islam, the Senusists. Their hatred for the foreigner is greater even than that bred by their religion, and so they are more exclusive than ever were the Chinese or Japanese. Their social organization divides them into five classes, the nobles, the priests, the warriors, the cross-breeders and the slaves. All of these classes have this that is democratic—they form together the Tuareg family, which holds itself superior to all the other peoples of the earth.

it, somehow. He saw the ugly roofs of cheap houses through a haze of smoke, and he does smoky sunsets and smoky sunrises, and he has other things with the heavy, solid, slow columns of smoke going far out and growing more ethereal and mixing with the hazy light in the distance; and he has others with the broken skyline of downtown, all misted with the smoke and with puffs and jets of vapor that have colors like an orchard in mid-April. I'm going to take you there some Sunday afternoon, Bibbs." "You're showing me the town," he said. "I didn't know what was in it at all." "There are workers in beauty here," she told him, gently. "There are other painters more prosperous than my friend. There are all sorts of things." "I didn't know." "No. Since the town began growing so great that it called itself 'greater,' one could live here all one's life and know only the side of it that shows." "The beauty workers seem buried very deep," said Bibbs. "And I imagine that your friend who makes the smoke beautiful must be buried deep of all. My father loves the smoke, but I can't imagine his buying one of your friend's pictures. He'd buy the 'Bay of Naples,' but he wouldn't get one of those. He'd think smoke in a picture was horrible—unless he could use it for an advertisement."

"Yes," she said, thoughtfully. "And really he's the town. They are buried pretty deep. It seems, sometimes, Bibbs."

"And yet it's all wonderful," he said. "It's wonderful to me."

"You mean the town is wonderful to you?"

"Yes, because everything is, since you called me your friend. The city is only a rumble on the horizon for me. It can't come any closer than the horizon so long as you let me see you standing by my old zinc ester all day long, helping me. Mary—" He stopped with a gasp. "That's the first time I've called you 'Mary!'"

"Yes," she laughed, a little tremulously. "I thought I wanted you to."

"I said it without thinking. It must be because you came there to walk home with me. That must be it."

"Women like to have things said," Mary informed him, her tremulous laughter continuing. "Were you glad I came for you?" "No—not glad. I felt as if I were being carried straight up and up and up—over the clouds. I feel like that still. I think I'm that way most of the time. I wonder what I was like before I knew you. The person I was then seems to have been somebody else, not Bibbs Sheridan at all. It seems—long, long ago. I was gloomy and sickly—somebody else—somebody I don't understand now, a coward afraid of shadows—afraid of things that didn't exist—afraid of my old zinc ester! And now I'm only afraid of what might change anything."

She was silent a moment, and then, "You're happy, Bibbs?" she asked.

"Ah! don't you see?" he cried. "I want it to last for a thousand, thousand years, just as it is. You've made me so rich, I'm a miser. I wouldn't have one thing different—nothing, nothing!"

"Dear Bibbs!" she said, and laughed happily.

Bibles on Watch Chains.

The devout in all lands have their own particular way of giving outward demonstration to their piety. In Russia it frequently takes the form of wearing miniature Bibles as charms on the watch chain. They are got up in attractive form about an inch square and three-eighths of an inch in thickness, and contain the first five books of the Old Testament. The text of the book is in Hebrew and the titles in Latin. It is true that the book could not be read without the aid of a powerful magnifying glass, but that does not trouble the Russian "unco" guild; he places great reliance on the fact that he carries the "Word" on his person.

TO J. C. FOX:

BURGLARY CHARGE FILED AGAINST R. E. GREGG

Claimed That He Broke Into the Residence of R. H. Lee and Cleaned Up the Whole House.

R. E. Gregg of Hollister, was arrested last night on the charge of having entered the residence of R. H. Lee in Shoshone Basin about June 1, by breaking the lock and having stolen therefrom everything that it contained in the way of wearing apparel and groceries. The technical charge is burglary. Lee, who spent the winter near Publ, moved on his claim in May and put in a full stock of groceries for the summer, after which he went back to Publ to get his stock and close up his business there. Returning on June 7 he found that the door had been broken open and that everything he had brought to the claim had been stolen. He suspected Gregg, who recently moved from the Shoshone Basin to a place near Hollister, and on his suspicions being strengthened he took steps to search the premises of the latter, where he found numerous articles of clothing for both sexes which he identified. Gregg denies the charge. A sad feature of the case is that a baby was born to the Gregg family Monday and that the mother is still unable to be around. There are two other children in the family.

BAPTISTS END WORK AT THE CONVENTION

Will Meet at Jerome Next Year—Resolutions Thank the Twin Falls Church.

Having carried out the program outlined in the Tuesday issue of this paper, elected officers, selected Jerome as the next place of meeting and adopted resolutions, the annual meeting of the Idaho Baptist Central association closed last night with a song service, addresses and sermon by the following committees were appointed Tuesday and went to work at once:

Nominations—J. H. Wreck, Miss Ethel Shotwell, H. E. Holloway. Place and Preacher—Mrs. J. M. Rogers, Mrs. Robert McMahon, Mrs. H. E. Scott. Officers—Rev. F. H. Harris, Mrs. L. M. Holloway, Mrs. W. S. Hyde. Enrollment—Mrs. William Lakey, Miss Alice Gibbs, Mrs. J. Fringle. Resolutions—Rev. W. L. Kyles, Miss Marie Goodman, Miss Electa Davis. The committee on nominations recommended the election of Rev. L. Caldwell for Moderator, Rev. W. L. Kyles, for clerk, and Robert McMahon, of Shoshone, for treasurer. The report was adopted. Reports from all parts of the district were satisfactory and encouraging. The resolutions committee reported in favor of the five-year program for the church in which an effort will be made to increase the membership by 1,000,000 baptisms, the missionary home and foreign workers by 5000 and greatly increase the number of students in institutions of higher learning in schools and colleges, besides securing an endowment of $5,000 in endowments for educational institutions and an annual income of $5,000,000 for missions and benevolence. The resolutions also thanked the Twin Falls church memorably for their hospitality and thanked Dr. A. M. Petty and Dr. J. D. Sprague for their presence and work. Prohibition was endorsed and Governor Alexander urged to assist with all his power in its enforcement.

SOCIETY NOTES

The Wednesday Auction Bridge club met at the home of Mrs. L. C. O. Tuesday on account of the P. E. O. reception. Mrs. H. A. Hamilton captured the prize for the day.

Mrs. L. F. Morse presided over a pretty dinner party Wednesday evening with covers laid for seven. A color scheme of yellow and white was artistically carried out in the decorations for the table.

The Misses Thelma and Vivian Conover were hostesses at a delightful week-end party last Saturday and Sunday at their home near Rock Creek. Their guests were Misses Jessie Joyce, Carmen Cox and Fannie Hirt.

The pretty home of Mrs. T. F. Warner was thrown open yesterday to the members of the P. E. O. and this being guest day of the P. E. O. each member was given the privilege of inviting a guest. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion in yellow and white, roses predominating. A delicious two-course luncheon was served by the Misses Nellie Tuesday, Margaret Wilson, Lealey Williams, Helen Pitcairn and Mrs. Wilbur Bolton, each of whom, upon leaving, were presented with marigolds growing in small flower pots. Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Grace Bryant presided at the punch bowl, while Mesdames Cliff and Sprague assisted at the coffee urn. A pretty musical program was heartily enjoyed by all and consisted of a solo, "When the World is Young," by Mrs. Bell, and "I Adore," by Miss Margaret Wilson. Miss Nellie Teasdale sang "Land of the Sky Blue Waters" by Cudman, and "At Dawning," while Miss Thelma Pitcairn sang "Mighty Like a Rose." The hostesses were Mesdames Thompson, Warner, Dunlap, A. R. Ostrander, E. H. Williams, R. H. Hutton and Cliff. The presidents in the receiving line were Mesdames Warner, G. F. Baker, Sprague, C. C. Bedford and Miss Jane Maxwell.

The chicken dinner and musical entertainment given Friday evening at the Parish hall of Ascension Episcopal church, proved to be all that the most sanguine friends hoped it to be in the way of culinary accomplishment, amusement features and size of audience. The new and attractive stage, equipped in the most approved fashion, proved a satisfactory field on which to display the artistic ability of those participating in the program. Following a welcome overture by the orchestra came a piano solo by Miss Katherine Beebe, which was deservedly applauded. Reading by Mrs. Wilfred McKay-Olsen in her usual happy vein, was followed by a vocal solo with violin obligato by Mrs. Sell C. Schetter, which received the recognition from the audience which was richly merited. The reading, "Gentlemen, the King," by Ralph Morse, was considered by many the feature of the evening. This is the reading with which Mr. Morse won the state inter-collegiate contest at Seattle last winter. A vocal duet by Mrs. Marion Tucker and Mr. D. C. Watson, and a piano, violin and cello trio by Miss Viola Alfano, Miss Pauline Alfano and Mr. William Coburn, both of which fully sustained the high reputation of those by whom they were given, closed the first part of the program. The second part consisted of the comic operetta, "Penelope, the Milkmaid's Bride," in which Mrs. M. Bowen as "Mistress Cradock," Miss Alice Taylor, as "Penelope," Ralph Morse as "Chalks," Dr. C. A. Leigh as "Pier" and John Hayward as "Tosser," all acted their respective parts in faultless manner.

FATTY ARBUCKLE

ANOTHER AMUSING TRIANGLE KEYSTONE, ENTITLED

THE OTHER MAN

Fatty Plays Two Roles in this Comedy, One as a Tramp and the Other as the Polished Suitor For the Hand of the Rich Girl.

On the Evening of April 21, THE RIALTO THEATRE of New York City, opened its doors. This Picture Palace cost TWO MILLION DOLLARS, and is considered the finest Picture Theatre in the world. The comedy feature on their opening program was ROSCOE ARBUCKLE in the two-part TRIANGLE KEYSTONE, entitled "THE OTHER MAN."

This does not mean that this particular comedy was better than the last Arbuckle feature we showed, but it proves that the New Yorkers think very highly of Roscoe Arbuckle.

THE RIALTO FEATURES TRIANGLE PROGRAMS.

S. L. Rothapel, manager of the Rialto, is considered the best authority on the picture business in the United States. He says in part: "While there are other good pictures made, we are convinced after due comparison, that the Triangle Plays maintain such a high standard of picture-art that they are not excelled."

ISIS INSTALLS A

PURE AIR SYSTEM

The Isis theatre is installing a modern system for the supplying of pure, cool air, which will be in operation during the latter part of the week. The new system insures a complete change of air every three minutes. An immense blower is put into operation having a capacity of 6000 cubic feet of air per minute. There are 15 openings in the floor for the admission of the air under a proper system of distribution, while the surplus is sucked up through the ceiling. A regenerator for a direct current is also being installed and this will be ready for use inside of two weeks. In addition to the above improvements, a new screen is being installed.
