CHAUTAUQUA NETS BALANCE TO CITY

Reports Shows Profit of $192.24
From Admissions

CONTRACT IS DRAWN FOR RETURN OF SHOWS NEXT SUMMER

Superintendent Erickson Is Greatly Pleased With the Hearty Reception Given Entertainers.

The results of the Chautauqua held here last week show a substantial balance of $192.24 in favor of the commercial club, which had the week's entertainment in charge. The total receipts from admission were $761.20, and $263.95 of this represented the advance sale of tickets, a showing made possible by a lively ticket-selling campaign conducted under the auspices of the Commercial club. Only $1800 was needed to assure the presence of the Chautauqua.

According to the contract drawn between the Chautauqua authorities and the Commercial club the club was to participate in 20 per cent of the receipts over and above $2800. This sum of $192.24, says E. L. MacVicar of the Commercial club, will be turned over to the Twin Falls. Rural club to be used for better rest-rooms.

The promoters, said Mr. MacVicar, are very well satisfied with the results of the Chautauqua this year and are pleased with the interest shown by the people of Twin Falls. That the Chautauqua entertainers are felt to be

GIPSON OPPOSED TO HUGHES CANDIDACY

Progressive State Chairman Declares Republican Candidate To Be Very Unsatisfactory.

CALDWELL.—That Chairman James
H. Gipson has not changed his opinion since the famous interview which he gave to the press before the Chicago convention in which he declared that Hughes was not a Republican boss, as evidenced by a statement issued by him on his return here last week in which he substantially repeats the same statement, declares that Hughes was nominated as a sop to German-American alliance, the pacifists of the Mississippi and the politicians great and small because unobliged where he stood on anything and had therefore offended nobody. Chairman Gipson praised Colonel Roosevelt and declared his opinion to be similar to Hughes in nature, which fact, Mr. Gipson assumed, would prove advantageous to the former, as in his opinion the people would not turn out one man of a certain type to put another of the same kind in office.

Mr. Gipson's statement in part follows:—Chairman Hughes will need all the support he can get to beat the president, particularly if we are at war with Mexico. My own conception of the justice, formed from an examination of his record as governor of New York, is that he has very many of President Wilson's characteristics.
Both are men of great ability along certain lines. Both are cold, calculating, able, politician and the worst fault of each is ingratitude and inability or unwillingness to consult with big men in national crisis. Neither is the type of leader necessary to arouse the sleeping national conscience of America or to lead the states study necessary to our continued existence as a nation.

The justice was nominated simply because no one knew where he stood on any great question. The German-American Alliance strangely favored him because they had reason to think that he would be friendly to Germany, and this alliance was a most potent factor in the Republican convention. The pacifist delegates from Mississippi valley states were for him because he had said nothing which would lead them to believe that he would support an extensive naval or army program. The politicians, large and small rather favored his candidate because he had offended no faction, race or creed by taking a decided stand.

"The justice is a most able politician. He conducted his pre-convention campaign so cleverly that he can go before the people claiming the position of one whom the nomination has brought—a most important advantage."

"His campaign, however, will be a difficult one unless he can show the American people that he will be forecast and aggressive where President Wilson has been friendly to Germany. The campaign will be fought out entirely upon personality of the two men, and if the voters decide they are much like Wilson will have the better of it."

"The Progressive convention was a most wonderful affair. Probably no gathering in the history of America has been so full of dramatic incidents, wild enthusiasm and bitter contests."

"The impression conveyed to one visiting the Republican convention was very different. The Republican delegates were cool, unemotional, calculating politicians. They were met with a single idea in view—party success. They, Justice Hughes was sufficiently neutral in tone, and that he had been selected by their leaders as the most likely to win. The idea of America First had but little place in their deliberations.
The success of the Republican party was uppermost in the minds of the majority of the delegates, and the secondary feeling was a desire to forever destroy Colonel Roosevelt as a political power. The demonstrations were very different. The Republican even those taking part in them. There was no enthusiasm for Hughes, but it was clearly understood by all that it was not understood by all. The favorite sons were not at any time a serious factor. Neither was there any misunderstanding of Colonel Roosevelt's position, which was far better understood by certain Republican leaders than by the Progressives generally."

WOOL PRICES ARE HIGHEST KNOWN

Immense Sales Made In Oregon
Market

HIGHEST PRICE PAID WAS TWEN-TY-FOUR CENTS.

Cattle Market Steady But Slow—Hogs Take Jump Upward—Sheep Somewhat Lower.

More than 125,000 pounds of central Oregon wool was sold at Bend, Ore., Friday, at prices ranging between 21 and 31 cents per pound, says the Portland Live Stock Reporter Monday. The average price paid was about 24 cents per pound, which is the highest price that has ever been offered for local wool.

The wool of the Williams Land & Livestock company brought the highest price for any clip of any size, being 23 1/2 cents per pound. With the exception of one small clip, all the wool was purchased by Charles H.
Green, of the Botany Woolen Mills of Bend.

About 80,000 pounds remain unsold, the owners refusing to sell at the prices quoted. More than 105,000 pounds remaining has been contracted at prices averaging about 21 cents per pound.

In almost every case, the sheepmen received prices averaging higher than last year, and are well pleased with the results of sales.

Two hundred thousand pounds of wool were sold at Pilot Rock the first eastern Oregon sale of the season.
Charles Green, of the Botany Woolen Mills, of Houston, paid the highest price of the day for coarse wool, giving 20 1/2 cents for the 3000 pound clip of Lida McDonald.

Hogs sold at steady prices at the close of last week. A pretty fair run Friday, which found a good demand.
One load of choice lights selling at $8.25. Bulk of sales were made at $8.00 to $8.15.

Hog receipts last week totaled 6693, against 4331 the same week last year.
Receipts the year to date are over 164,000 against 110,000 last year. This shows an increase of about 50 per cent.

Today's run of porkers, the smallest Monday opening of the year, with only 2200 received. There was a good demand and sales started off on a low higher basis. Tons went at $8.25, with bulk from $8.15 to $8.25. Late this afternoon one load of prime lights sold for $8.30.

A good run of cattle continued for the week-end market. Seven hundred head of cattle were sold. All offerings at good, steady prices. Although the run of cattle last week was short of the previous one, 1550 head were received. Offerings were entirely of the common to fair grades.

With only a moderate run of mat-ton here Friday, buyers again put prices down another quarter. Over 8000 sheep received during week, with very light demand. Price less during the week was 75c on all classes.

With 1200 sheep on today's market, prices held up on most offerings. The market was very drab.

PORTLAND TO SEATTLE RECORD
BROKEN BY MAXWELL CAR

A new "unconscious" record for speed and endurance in an automobile was hung up during the past week when a stock Maxwell touring car was driven from Portland to Seattle and then back to Portland, in less than twenty-four hours. The "unconscious" feature entered into the event because no special effort was made for a hurry-up trip, and Jack Griffin, who handled the car, did not even know the Maxwell had added another performance to its long list of notable events until told of it by Portland newspapermen.

The fastest time ever made by an automobile—in this instance a regular passenger car—between the Oregon and Washington metropolises is approximately seven and a half hours. The Maxwell was sent over the ground in about an hour slower time. After dinner in Seattle it was decided to retrace the ground and return to Portland. The return trip was just a few minutes slower, but the fact that the Maxwell had made the round trip in the course of a full day was considered a most notable feat in the annals of northwestern motoring.

LEAP TO LATERAL MADE BY WILLIAMS

Kimberly Man Jumps Into Ditch During Runaway

CANDY FACTORY AND BAKERY FOR KIMBERLY.

Baseball Managers After Discussing Defeat, Decide That They Need a Pitcher and Sign One.

Taking advantage of a shift of his wagon which would give him the proper impetus, Mr. Williams, leader of the People's Meat & Grocery company, took a long leap to liberty during an exciting runaway about a mile east of Kimberly yesterday morning with the result that he found himself seated in safety in deep mud with three feet of water flowing around and over him, while the team, after clearing the railing off a bridge over the coulee, piled up against a bank, graining but uninjured.

Williams and Thomas Tallmadge started out from Kimberly with the delivery wagon yesterday morning to bring a supply of meat from the slaughter house about two miles east of town, but were running along nicely when for some unknown reason the tongue dropped. Williams, who was driving, tried to apply the break, as they were going down hill, but only to find that it would not work. When the horses tried to stop the wagon bumped and started at a mad pace, and the result was that the team was up the road. As they were approaching the bridge, Tallmadge either jumped out or was thrown out. It looked for a moment as if the rig would be upset in the lateral with Williams underneath it, so just before the bridge was reached, when the wagon gained a lurched toward the water. Williams took advantage of it to make a flying spring into the ditch, which was about three feet deep and running over a bed of easy sand. He struck on his feet but instantly set down quite forcibly and went to the bottom, coming up wet, dirty, cold and uninjured. The horse next to the stream suddenly leaped over the water and thus avoided upsetting the rig, but the rails of the bridge were swept off. The horses ran about 40 rods further crossing the coulee, where they switched off the road against a bank and one fell down, with the other on top of him. Williams found them and the wagon unhurt.

H. T. West and family, accompanied by Harold Stowe, left yesterday for Seattle, Wash., to visit.

The Kimberly meat market has ordered a new meat slicer.

Frank Williams shipped a carload of hogs to Seattle Wednesday.

Mr. E. A. Dalley will shortly open a candy kitchen and bakery in the store room now occupied by E. W. Tilley, the jeweler. Mr. Dalley came down from American Falls recently and decided that Kimberly would be a good place to live and that the candy factory and bakery would afford a good living, so he moved his family there. Mr. Tilley will occupy a place in the bank building when it is completed.

The Grill cafe has decided to cut out meals and serve only orders.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunsaker and J. T. Johnson of Utah, visited George H. Johnson last week.

Dr. C. H. Johnson, son of J. T. Johnson, is in Kimberly this week, from Utah, in the guest of his brothers, Frank, Howard and George H. Johnson.

W. A. Gill is suffering from a burned hand, caused by a gritty act whereby he prevented an explosion that might have greatly damaged his splendid new shop and garage. While a bicycle was being fixed Monday, the hot metal set fire to a tube leading to the oxygen tank. There was no time for securing an extinguisher and Mr. Gill grabbed the burning tube and put the fire out with his hand, which was painfully burned.

Having been defeated by a score of four to one in a close game at Jerome Sunday, the Kimberly baseball managers called a meeting for Monday to consider the situation and decided that the team needed strengthening. The upshot of the matter was that they signed H. L. Cook, of Anacosta, Mont., who is reported to be some pitcher having formerly twirled for Oakland, Calif.

The Stuebelcher headquarters has been moved to the shop recently vacated by W. A. Gill's blacksmith shop. This will give plenty of room. A large increase will be made in the stock. It is reported that L. J. Walker may open a newspaper office in the old stand shortly.

The boys returning Sunday from Jerome reported that one of the Jerome players, named Annett had been terribly injured while at bat by a ball that struck him squarely in the nose. H. W. Mund reported that Annett was not injured by the late frosts and that clover and alfalfa will yield heavily.

Work began Monday on the fine residence of Thomas M. Atkins in this town. The small residence of A. L. Ulrich was also commenced.

W. A. Gill and family were visiting friends south of Pile Sunday.

MAROA'S SCHOOL STUDENTS HAVE SUCCESSFUL GARDENS

Awards Made This Week to 18 Young Workers On Four Acres Plots.

Last spring the pupils of the Maroa school planted school gardens under the direction of the principal, Mr. C. Miller. Two pupils had charge of each garden and planted various kinds of vegetable and flower seeds.

These gardens have been cultivated and irrigated by the children and at present are looking fine, considering the cool weather that has kept things back. Maroa is fortunate in having a school for a fair number where school gardens and other agricultural experiments may be carried on. The school board have encouraged this work and offering prizes for the best gardens.

Mr. Munser, agricultural teacher in the Twin Falls high school, and the county superintendent of schools, Mr. C. Miller, looked over the gardens Tuesday and decided which gardens were best. These pupils expect to care for their gardens during the summer and exhibit some of the best products at the county fair at Piler in the fall.

Prizes awarded to pupils of Maroa school by the Maroa school board for garden club work:

Primary Section—1st prize, Ted Slater and Luther Pierce, $3.00; 2nd prize, June Slater and Eva Moneley, $2.00; 3rd prize, Nava Moneley and Hazel Brown, $1.00.

Intermediate Section—1st prize, Cora, Rose and Gale, $5.00; 2nd prize, Ralph Brown and Chas. Buchanan, $2.00; 3rd prize, Chas. Diehl and John Holthman, $1.00.

Junior Section—1st prize, Lester Diehl and Willie Water, $2.00; 2nd prize, Rexford Blakeslee and Leasie Williams, $2.00; 3rd prize, Wilma Pirelli and Ruby Gambrell, $1.00.

Buhl News

(From the Buhl Herald)

Nine sheep were killed east of Buhl last Sunday night about 10:30, because the seven-passenger auto driven by C. L. Reynolds ran into a band of sheep belonging to Sonner brothers. The accident occurred just east of the Harley corner, and behind the rails where the culvert crosses the line. H. Reynolds said that he did not see the band of sheep because of the dust and because of the elevation in the high way, and was upon them.

Mrs. Lissa L. Kerr of Los Angeles, Calif., purchased the millinery stock of Mrs. E. L. Ward, who has been occupying an office room in the H. Reynolds building. The transfer was made last Friday, and Mrs. Kerr will continue the millinery business in the same location. She is expert in the art of millinery goods in a short time. Mrs. Kerr was formerly engaged in the millinery business at Twin Falls before going to California.

Moving pictures of Company K marching from the armory to the depot Wednesday morning, were photographed by V. J. Ascent, limbo operator at the Herald shop. The films were developed and will be shown locally at a later date. The films appear to be clear out, and show the company marching to the depot, and also includes the people who accompanied the boys to the train to see them off. A view was taken of the company as the train pulled out.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Otis Sykes of Clear Lake, every member of Company K will receive a full military ball on Monday evening. The date, which was to secure a mess fund for the company, was well attended, and everyone received a fine time. Company K wishes to express their appreciation to Thomas Clinton, who was so kind as to give the use of the company's mess hall for the full military ball on Monday evening. At the regular meeting of the Episcopal Guild which was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Paris, the following officers were re-elected for the coming year: Mrs. J. W. Paris, president; Mrs. E. C. MacDonald, vice president; Mrs. John Nason, secretary; Mrs. H. C. Coleman, treasurer.

J. M. Shank, formerly probate judge of Twin Falls county, was elected secretary of the Full Business Men's association to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. M. Bradley, who joined Company K in their trip to Boise Wednesday morning. Mr. Shank will devote his entire time to the work of the association.

Work on the Machack building adjoining the Herald office, is nearing completion, and is expected to be ready for occupancy by the first of July. James M. Gibbs, of Hufnott, and formerly proprietor of a cigar store at that place, has rented the building, and will conduct a similar business here.

Commercial Club Asked to Repudiate
Chronicle's Unwarranted Attack on Buhl

By John M. Bradley, Secretary of the Buhl Commercial Club.

In commenting on the failure of the bond election to carry to a successful issue last Friday, the Twin Falls Chronicle followed its usual line of vituperation and in an article ranking with untruths takes the following: "The Buhl Commercial Club."

"The proposition to bond the independent road district had surfaced $300,000 to construct hard surfaced roads fell 80 votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority at a special election held for that purpose last Friday."

"The Buhl Boosters are strong for the proposition, especially as it would cost them little while the benefit would be great, but the farmers, who pay nine-tenths of the taxes, felt they were not yet ready for this great outlay."

"According to reports from the west end, the county division issue will be influenced in a large measure by the stand of the farmers on the road bond issue. The farmers have come to realize that Buhl is strong for everything that does not cost much, and that in case the county was divided Buhl would not be slow in asking for a 'big bond issue' for a court house."

"It is fortunate, indeed, that most all of the intelligent people of Twin Falls county are familiar with the many touch of the editor of the Chronicle, a

A JUST REBUKE
(Editorial, Buhl Pioneer.)

In another part of this issue The Pioneer publishes an item taken from the Twin Falls Chronicle, dated last week, with a comment thereon by J. M. Bradley, of the Buhl Commercial Club. The Pioneer publishes the article from the Chronicle with a comment thereon reluctantly. First, because the Chronicle article is not worthy of notice, and second, because it has been the policy of the Pioneer to publish nothing that would tend to widen the breach between the communities of Twin Falls and Buhl.

For a number of years there has been a sheet in Buhl that has apparently vied with the Chronicle in stirring up strife between the two towns, attributing blame and selfishness to nearly every move made by the business interests of Twin Falls, needlessly attacking people of that town, and even going to the extreme of classing the school girls of the county as being generally immoral.

The sensible, intelligent and honest people of Buhl have deplored this conduct, and they have hoped for a time when the people of both communities might frankly understand each other and while being loyal to their town and community might still be loyal in working for the best interests of the whole tract.

There have been evidences the last few months of better understanding being reached, and that much of the bitterness that has existed between the two towns was being forgotten and the Buhl country to take a long step forward in the march of progress in this new and wonderful country, and a majority of 397 of those voting expressed their views in favor of the progressive step.

That the sentiment expressed in the article from the Chronicle is not the sentiment of the people of Buhl is shown by the following editorial comment in the leading paper of the county seat, the Twin Falls Times, under the caption, "A Lament Abuse of Buhl,"

Big Mill For Emmett.—The greatest enthusiasm prevails in business circles in Emmett over the announcement last week that the Boise-Payette Lumber company would start work within a week on a sawmill to cost approximately half a million dollars. C. A. Barber, general manager of the company, said that 200 or 250 men will be employed on the construction within six weeks. The mill will be the most modern plant for handling lumber of any size the entire northwestern United States has ever seen. Over 80 acres of ground, which have already been secured, will be covered by buildings and yards. A crew of from 50 to 60 men will be employed continuously when the mill is completed. —Parma Herald.

"THE MAN OF SORROWS"

TO BE SHOWN AT 10:15

"The Man of Sorrows," bearing the title of a "Pleasure Film," will be run at the Idaho Theatre in the near future. This film has the distinction of being Idaho's first photo-drama, and is in every respect a Twin Falls product, as only local characters were used in its production. A number of scenic spots of interest were photographed in the construction of this film, including a number of scenes in and about Twin Falls and the introduction of every film will be a picture using Twin Falls as a background. The "Pleasure Producers" have chosen the slogan "See Idaho First" and every member of the firm appears to be a booster.

"POLICE" SWEEPSTAKES, WHOLE NATION, MASHING RECORDS

Charlie Chaplin's "Police," which will be shown at the Idaho Theatre Monday and Tuesday next week, and at a special matinee Tuesday, commencing at 10:30 in the morning and continuing throughout the afternoon, is the latest Chaplin release, has not only broken records in New York and Chicago, but has swept the country in its popularity. It has already registered one of the most phenomenal runs in the history of the business, even though it has been on the market but a few weeks.

S. L. Hotelstad did an exceptional business at the Idaho Theatre in New York as did all Marcus Loew theatres. In all these houses the feature run for a week.

The reception by exhibitors and public of "Police" is herewith indicated in excerpts from the press of the nation.

"This mirth provoking comedy is pleasing all crowds at the Regent Theatre," Indianapolis (Ind.) Star.

"Exhibitors who want to give their patrons a real laugh should show this picture,"—Exhibitors Herald.

"Chaplin in 'Police,' if possible, is funnier than ever,"—Chicago Post.

"'Police' is funny in the extreme,"—Motion Picture News.

"Manager Field of the Colonial says Chaplin's 'Police' drew the biggest Sunday crowd he ever had. It is as good as the advertising would strive to make one think it, and moves the house to laughter,"—Kitty Kelly, Chicago Tribune.

"'Police' is a winner,"—Dallas (Tex.) Herald.

"Chaplin fans are delighted with this comedy which drew capacity crowds of this week,"—Des Moines (Ia.) Register.

"It is the most screamingly funny of all his funny comedies,"—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

"This new vehicle of tremendous laugh getting power ranks with Chaplin's greatest work,"—New York Dramatic Mirror.

ROMANTIC SOUTHERN DRAMA

REPRODUCED IN PICTURES

In "Kennedy Square" a picture of Twin Falls is shown, and the story is set south before the war, produced by the Vitaphone company, shown at the Idaho Theatre Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, and at a matinee Saturday afternoon at 2:15.

The story of the play, briefly told, follows:

St. George Temple, a typical Maryland gentleman, lives in luxurious style in an aristocratic home, respected by everyone. One of his warmest friends is Harry Rutter, who often comes to him for advice in his troubles. On one of these visits, young Rutter tells St. George of a quarrel between him and Kate Seymour, his sweetheart, because of his having been slightly intoxicated one evening. The old southerner gives Rutter a good scolding, then promises to act as peacemaker. His interview with the boy's father is productive of good results, inasmuch as the Colonel's former and estranged son-in-law won. Then the quarrel between Harry and Kate is patched up. Later their engagement is about to be announced, when Harry goes into a row with Willie, who is also in love with Kate. A duel is arranged and fought in one of the outbuildings by torchlight, during which Willie is severely wounded. The combatants are discovered by the horrified Colonel. He disowns his son and when Kate turns from him, Harry goes to his old friend, St. George. Kate remains firm in her refusal to see or speak to Harry and the Colonel cuts both St. George and Harry out of his life. Harry is obliged to mortgage his home to pay Harry's debts. Learning of this, the young man determines to be a hardy one to no one any longer, and leaves for South America. There, after many adventures, he does a good turn for St. George, an old miner for which he is given a half interest in a ruby mine. The claim turns out to be very valuable. He returns to his old Maryland home to find St. George living in extreme poverty. He buys back the old home on Kennedy Square, restores the old gentleman to his rightful position and fills his cup of joy to overflowing by his reconciliation with his father, Colonel Rutter. Kate and Harry meet, and with St. George's blessings are reunited in love and happiness.

DRAWING CARD EVERYWHERE.

In Douglas Fairbanks, the star of "The Good Bad-Man," the new Triangle-Fine Arts feature, shown at the Orpheum theatre Friday, the country has longed to see a man who has been the most popular screen light comedian since the beginning of the film industry. His constant good nature and rollicking Shakespearian plays. Then he landed in his services on an ideal subject. There never has been such demand through Triangle exchanges for Fairbanks' services made under supervision of D. W. Griffith as there has been for "The Lamb," "His Picture in the Papers," "The Habit of Happiness," and "The Good Bad-Man," successive Fairbanks vehicles.

It was that very American willingness to "try anything once" that led Fairbanks to enter screen work when he was asked to do so by Griffith. His speaking stage was greater than ever before.

His rise on the stage was quite as remarkable as his immediate popularity in filmdom. He has been acting only since 1901, when he made his debut as the lucky Francis in "Helen's Luck." In support of Frederick Warde at Ford's theatre, Baltimore, he remained with that eminent actor for nearly a year, playing a variety of roles in Shakespearian plays. Then he joined Herbert Kelcey and Eddie Shannon in "Her Lord and Master," which played for five months at the Manhattan theatre, New York. His resignation from the stage followed that he might begin as a broker in Wall street; but the lure of the profession was too strong for him. In 1903, Fairbanks yielded to persuasion of film managers when he was told they would let him do all the wild stunts he wanted to do. He had a number of erratic desires on his own, and the film managers were prepared to give him all he wanted. In fact it became a sort of camp where he and his troupe would hold out on a mountain for a few days, and then come to town for a few Indians armed with knives.

In an aeroplane and operating a machine gun, Fairbanks did not stop on question—as the westerners who work with him in some pictures say: "He likes his lips and asks for more."

As for the production of "His Picture in the Papers," Fairbanks had to go through a really dangerous automobile accident, box with a professional pugilist who had been instructed to put plenty of "pop" into his work, mess up a round dozen busy negro porters at Atlantic City, be thrown twice from a moving train, jump from an ocean liner and swim for shore, and do a variety of other feats.

In "The Habit of Happiness," he had to handle a flock of gamblers swarming up a stairway in a manner that made the "Good Thing," and in "The Good Thing" he has many traps and action on horseback than he ever had before in all his life.

The picture directors are beginning to think they can't give him anything too difficult. As for Fairbanks, he declares he has only just begun.

JAPANESE ACTRESS WITH FANNIE WARD AT IDAHO THEATRE.

Fanny Ward, the celebrated American actress, will be seen at the Idaho Theatre on Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening, in "The Good Thing," a production of Hecitor Turnbull's thrilling society drama, "The Cheat."

It is a Paramount picture. Miss Ward made such a pronounced success as the little country girl in "The Marriage of Kitty," that her friends and acquaintances who have seen her were essentially a comedienne, but in "The Cheat" another side of her wonderful versatility is shown and she commands the play as never before. The wonderful dramatic force and technique.

Sessue Hayakawa, the distinguished Japanese actor, who made such a pronounced success playing opposite Fannie Ward in "The Cheat," again gives one of his finished performances opposite Fanny Ward. Mr. Hayakawa is considered one of the most eminent artists on the Japanese stage and those who have seen him in this country can readily observe why he merits the consideration. Hecitor Turnbull, the playwright, wrote "The Cheat" especially for Miss Ward and Mr. Hayakawa, and it is safe to say that it will be one of the most thrilling and unusual photodramas ever seen on the screen.

The scenes of the play are located on fashionable Long Island. The big society lawn and ball afford great

HART WORKING ON NEW PLAY.

Work on the production of the new Triangle play by Monte St. Katherine in which William S. Hart will appear as star, was begun this week at Inceville. The drama goes to the international boundary line between United States and Mexico for its locale and will therefore result in the protracted absence of Hart and a large company of players.

Those who have used it in Twin Falls are astonished at the INSTANT action of simple buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-Lika. Because it acts on BOTH lower and upper bowels, OXE SHONOL Adler-Lika relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that

BESSIE BARRISCALE.

A Thomas Ince Production in Five Parts, Entitled

"Not My Sister"

Scene after scene delights the eye because of real emphasis and contrast through effects of light and shade. Audiences feel a sense of pleasure in looking at such pictures without knowing exactly why, and there are even critics who do not know why. The picture composition in "NOT MY SISTER" is an improvement on any previous Ince production.

All this artistry is subtle in its effect. More direct is the fine acting of a well-selected cast and the superb interpretation of Bessie Barriscale. In making the spectator aware of the condition of her mind and heart during her varied interpretations, all with sweet dignity and fidelity to her work, Barriscale stands well up in comparison with any screen actress I have had the good fortune to see perform. She is a powerful factor in a combination of author, director and interpreters working in harmony of purpose, with good taste dominating even the most delicate situations. "NOT MY SISTER" is a fine example of the highest motion picture art.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Mrs. Sheridan, in a wrapper, noticeably opened the door of her husband's room at daybreak the next morning, and peered within the darkened chamber. At the "old" house they had shared a room, but the architect had chosen to separate them at the new, and they had not known how to formulate an objection, although to both of them something seemed vaguely reprehensible in the new arrangement.

"No. You Can't Have Your Way."

Sheridan did not stir, and she was withdrawing her head from the aperture when he spoke.

"Oh, I'm awake! Come in, if you want to, and shut the door."

She came and sat by the bed. "I woke up this" about it," she explained. "And the more I thought about it the more I'm not sure I must be right, and I know you'd be torn between yourself if you were awake, so—well, you got plenty of your trouble, but I'm just sure you'd go to have the worry with this it looks like."

"You bet," he grunted.

"Look how blabber he was about gold back to the works," she continued. "It's a right good house, really, and sometimes I honestly have to say he seems right smart, too. Now and then he'll say something sound right bright. 'Course, most always it doesn't, and a good deal of the time, when he says things, why, I have to feel glad we haven't got company, because they'd think he didn't have any gumption at all. Yet, look at the way he did when Jim—when Jim got hurt. He took right hold of things. And Doc or Gurney says he's got brains, and you can't deny but what the doctor's right considerable of a man. He acts sleepy, but that's only because he's got such a large practice—he's a pretty well-swinging kind of a man some ways. Well, what he says last night about Bibbs—that's what I got so thickin' about. You heard him, papa; he says, 'Bibbs' he's a bigger business man than what Jim was, and I guess we put together—if he ever wakes up,' he says. Wasn't that exactly what he says?"

"I suppose so," said Sheridan, without exhibiting any interest. "Gurney's brother 'n' Bibbs, but if he wakes up what he says was true—what of it?"

"Listen, papa. Just suppose Bibbs took it into his mind to get married. You know where he goes all the time—"

"Oh, Lord, yes!" Sheridan turned over in the bed, his face to the wall, leaving visible of himself only the thick curl of his hair. "You better go back to sleep. He runs over there—every minute she'll let him, I suppose. Go back to bed. There's nothin' in it."

"Why ain't there?" she urged. "I know better—there is, too! You wait and see. There's just one thing in the world that'll wake the sleepiest young man alive up—yes, and make him jump up—and I don't care who he is, or how sound asleep it looks like he is. That's when he takes it into his head to pick out some girl and settle down and have a home and children of his own. Then, I guess, he'll go out after the money! You'll see. Now, I don't say that Bibbs has got the idea in his head yet—or else he wouldn't be talkin' that fool talk 'bout nino dollars a week and stock he's got out after to live on. But it's comin', papa, and he'll jump for whatever you want to hand him out. He will! And I can tell you this much, too: he'll want all the salary and stock he can get hold of, and he'll hustle to keep gettin' more. That girl's the kind that a young husband just goes crazy to give things to. She's pretty and fine-looking, and she'll look nice on her, and I guess she'd like to have 'em about as well as the next. And I guess she ain't gettin' many these days, either, and she'll be pretty ready for the change. I saw her with her sleeves rolled up at the kitchen window the other day, and Jackson told me yesterday they'd left two weeks ago, and they haven't tried to hire another one. He says her and her mother been doin' the housework a good while, and now they're doin' the cookin', too. 'Course Bibbs wouldn't know that unless she's told him, and I reckon she wouldn't; she's kind of sly—Bibbs, and Bibbs is too up, in the clouds to notice anythink like that for himself. They've never asked him to a meal in the house, but he wouldn't notice that, either—he's kind of innocent. Now I was thinkin'—you know, I don't suppose we've hardly mentioned the girl's name at table, since Jim went, but it seems to me maybe it is—"

"Why am I?" she demanded, crossly. "Why am I larkin' up the wrong tree?" "Because you are. There's nothin' in it."

"I'll bet you," she said, rising—"I'll bet you he goes to church with her this morning. What you want to bet?" "Go back to bed," he commanded. "I know what I'm thinkin' about; there's nothin' in it, I tell you."

She shook her head perplexedly. "Then—do you know something about it that you ain't told me?"

"Yes, I do," he grunted. "Now go on, maybe I can get a little sleep. I ain't had no sleep."

"Well—," She went to the door, her expression downcast. "I thought maybe—but—," She coughed pretentiously. "Oh, papa, something else I wanted to tell you, I was thinkin'—Bibbs over the phone last night when the telegram came, so I forgot to tell you, but—well, Bibbs wants to come over this afternoon. They expect to get off by the end of the week, and I reckon she wants to feel she's done what she could to kind of make up. Anyway, that's what he said. But what I thought was, no use bein' rough with her, papa—I expect she's suffered a good deal—I don't think we ought to be, on Bessie's account. You'll be kind of polite to her, won't you, papa?"

He mumbled something which was smothered under the coverlet he had pulled over his head.

"What?" she said, timidly. "I was just thinkin' about you, treat Bibbs all right when she comes, this afternoon. You will, won't you, papa?"

He threw the coverlet off furiously. "I presume so," he roared.

She departed gallantly. But if he had accepted her proffered escort that night, he would have shared with Mary Vertrees that morning, Mrs. Sheridan would have lost. They meant to go to church. But it happened that they were attentively preoccupied in a conversation as they came to the church, and they had some of the number of blocks beyond it before they discovered their error. However, feeling that they might be embarrassingly late if they returned, they decided that a walk would do them good as good as it was a wilderness winter morning, with an inch of crisp snow over the ground. So they walked, and for the most part they were silent, but on their way home, after they had turned back at the corner, they began to be talkative again.

"Mary," said Bibbs, after a time, "am I a sleep-walker?"

She laughed a little, then looked grave. "Does your father say you are?"

"Yes—when he's in a mood to flatter me. Other times, other names. He says quite a lot."

"You mustn't mind," she said, gently. "He's been getting some pretty severe shocks. What you've told me makes two pretty good ones for him. Bibbs' I've always been sure he's very big."

"Yes, big and—blind. He's like a Hercules without eyes and without any consciousness except that of his strength and his purpose to grow stronger. Stronger for what? For nothing."

"Are you sure, Bibbs? It can't be for nothing; it must be stronger for something, even though he doesn't know what it is. Perhaps when he and his kind are struggling for is something so great they couldn't see it—so great none of us could see it."

"No, he's just like some blind, unconscious thing heaving under ground."

"Till he breaks through and leaps out into the daylight," she finished for him, cheerily.

"Into the smoke," said Bibbs. "Look at the powder of coal-dust already flying the decent snow, even though it's Sunday. That's from the little place; the big ones aren't so bad, on Sunday! There's a deck of soot on your cheek. Some pig sent it out into the air; he might as well have thrown it on so. It would have been better for them he'd have taken his chance of my whipling him for it if I could."

"Is there soot on my cheek, Bibbs? Is there?"

"Is there? There are soot on your cheek, Mary—on each cheek. One landed since I mentioned the soot."

She halted immediately, giving him her handkerchief, and he succeeded in transferring most of the black from her face to the cambric. They were entirely matter-of-course about it.

An elderly couple, it chanced, had been walking behind Bibbs and Mary for the last block or so, and passed ahead during the removal of the soot. "There!" said the elderly wife. "You're always matter-of-course about it. I've been seeing you two young people aren't honey-mooners at all—they've been married for years. A blind man could see that."

"I don't know who says that soot on you," said Bibbs, looking up at the neighboring chimney, as they went on. "They arrest children for throwing snowballs at the street cars, but—"

"But they don't arrest street cars for shaking all the pictures in the houses crooked every time they go by. Nor for the uproar they make. I wonder what the cost in nerves for the noise of the city each year. Yes, we pay the price for living in a 'growing town,' whether we have money to pay or none."

"Who is it gets the pay?" said Bibbs. "Nobody gets it. There isn't any pay; there's only money. And only some of the men down town get much of that. What's that your father wants me to get?"

"Yes," she said, smiling to him, and nodding. "And you don't want it, and you don't need it."

"But you don't think I'm a sleep-walker, Mary?" He had told her of his father's new plans for him, though he had not described the vigor and picturequeness of their setting forth. "You think I'm right?"

"A thousand—times!" she cried. "There aren't so many happy people in this world. I think—do you say you've found what makes you happy. If it's a dream—keep it!"

"The thought of going down there—into the money shuffle—I hate it as I hate hell. I think—do you say you've found what makes you happy. If it's a dream—keep it!"

I do. And—I don't know just why—but it's seemed to me that it was one I'd always remember. And you," he added, rafterly, "you look so—so beautiful today!"

"It must have been the soot on my cheek, Bibbs," she said.

"Mary, will you tell me something?" he asked.

"I think I will."

"It's something I've had a lot of theories about, but none of them ever just what you said. I don't know if you fall, but now it's so much colder, you don't—never wear them at all any more. Why not?"

"Her eyes for a moment, and she grew red. Then she looked up gayly. 'Bibbs, I tell you the answer will you promise not to ask any more questions?'"

"Yes. Why did you stop wearing them?"

"Because I found I'd be warmer without them!" She caught his hand quickly in her own for an instant, laughed into his eyes, and ran into the house.

Hollister Items

Times' Special Correspondence.

On Saturday, June 24, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon, occurred the wedding of Mr. Fred P. Bates and Miss Ruth M. Hazard. The ceremony was by the church, of which both are communicants, was that of the Presbyterian, and the officiating minister was Rev. J. D. Keith, who had baptized the bride at her reception as a member of the Hollister church. The wedding was simple, quiet and beautiful. The relatives of the bride, besides her parents, her brother, Neale, and Miss Nina, were her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. M. Dudley; their daughter, Mrs. Wiley Hilt and Miss Jennie Dudley; Messrs. John and George Dudley. The relatives of the groom present were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Bates, of Wendell; their married daughters, Neidams Easton, with their husbands, two single sisters of the groom, one sister being unavoidably absent, and three brothers of the groom. Others present were Mrs. J. D. Keith, wife of the officiating clergyman, Messrs. C. E. Nelson and Thomas O'Brien, those being fellow-employees with the groom of the Salmon River Land and Water Co. Mr. Thomas O'Brien was the groom's best man, while the bride's sister, Miss Nina Hazard, was her only attendant. The ring ceremony was used. The bride wore a cream tulle silk suit, coat effect, and carried white bridal roses. The groom wore a light blue suit and conventional tie and collar. And then a rather unusual occurrence took place. While the bride's mother and sister assisted by her aunt, Mrs. J. M. Dudley and daughters, were serving delicious cake and cream, the new wife changed quickly to her blue serge traveling costume, and being assisted by friends well coached for the time, the four slipped quietly out of a window and as relatives and guests looked out they saw them speeding a mile away in their auto to listen to the railway, thus escaping goodbyes, rice and shoe misdeeds and other articles of like nature used on wedding occasions. They will visit Ogden, Salt Lake and Pocatello and on their return will reside at Berger, where their new home awaits them. Miss Hazard as she was here, is a rare character of beauty, womanliness, and pose of practical life; the daughter of Supt. Hazard and wife of the Hollister educator Co. The groom is a young man of most sterling qualities, whose parents are among the prosperous, cultured ranchers of Wendell. Under their happy marriage and promising auspices, we wish them the best of all to be found in life and home.

The mother of our friend and neighbor, Mr. J. P. McGaffin, passed away on the 18th at her old home in Kansas, and his return here after this bereavement is expected about June 27th. The sympathy of all go out to these, our fellow soldiers of life, in one of the greatest trials of man, the death and burial of mother.

Rogerson relatives and friends learned on the 20th, of the marriage of W. F. Healey and Hattie L. Garner at Twin Falls.

Mrs. Lewis Harrel and sons left on June 24 for a visit of several days at Twin Falls and Rock Creek.

"Day" Skilern, of Idaho, who has purchased the holdings of the Owyhee Sheep company, was here on June 23-24, looking after the management of his business. This company recently shipped eighty tons of wool, and will make other shipments of wool and sheep at an early date.

Additions to buildings and the construction of new ones are going on here, and thus Rogerson continues to grow.

A 4th of July picnic and dinner is being planned for the people in and around town, with features social and athletic, thus giving recreation, amusement and an opportunity to be thoughtfully patriotic as we recall the foundational facts of our great country.

The Twin Falls-Jarvis highway through here has been finished beyond Cedar creek, 12 miles west, and the weather is favorable for a continuation of the work on an improvement greatly noted.

TALK ON BANKING.

YOUR BUSINESS CHARACTER.
In all business operations involving credit, certain qualities are essential if the risk is to prove satisfactory to the one who extends the credit. These qualities are best expressed in what has well been termed the "Three C's of Credit," namely, Character, Capacity and Capital. This will cover the first.

In order to possess a business character, a man need not have what is ordinarily known as business honesty, for business honesty is not as big a thing as business integrity. Neither need a man say long prayers, and pass the plate, however admirably these traits may be. He must have more than a semblance of religion; he must carry the religion of the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount and the Golden Rule into his business life. He must do no tricky thing;—he must be on the level. He must give the square deal. His word must be better than his bond. He must mark goods fairly, advertise honestly, rectify any error, correct any misunderstanding, and never forget that his best advertisement is a satisfied customer, and satisfied customers are made only by business integrity.

The underlying reason why some men have become great merchants is to be found in the "spirit of the house." There are great stores in every large city whose greatness is due to the single fact that they have back of them business character. Their good will, worth millions, is a good will of integrity. It has taken years to build it up.

The buying public soon finds out the spirit of the house. You can catch a sucker but once. It doesn't pay to try the second time. You do well to inquire how this element of integrity came into your business life, for if the banker does not believe in you, you can get no loans from him. You can lose this priceless asset by a single lapse for business virtue, and once it is lost it is hard sledding to regain it.

A certain bank made a large sized loan to a builder for a specific operation, with the understanding that the funds were to be used to purchase material and pay labor for that one job.

Soon developed that in spite of the fact that the contractor claimed to be progressing well with work, nothing had been done—he used the money somewhere. It was a breach of trust. The banker had checked him up as bankers generally do. He has lost his character in that bank, and his word no longer counts.

Another concern was buying automobiles with the bank's money, giving the bank a trust receipt whereby cars could not be delivered without obtaining release from the bank and paying on the loan. The banker became suspicious that something was wrong and checked up the cars presumed to be in stock on the trust agreement and found that four had been sold without accounting to the bank. Result—a hasty calling of the entire loan, loss of confidence, loss of a profitable business arrangement, friendship.

You cannot play fast and loose in business and win out. You cannot deceive your banker for long. He has a knack of finding things. "Gosh," he gets to him fast. He has a second sense that smells danger. He is a detective.

Therefore, build your business structure with character as the first of three supporting piers. Be as active in the church as you like; be as good as you pretend to be, but remember always, that in business it is not what you seem to be, but what you are that counts, and your true nature will soon become manifest to those who are in position to find things out and can help you if they trust you, but cannot if they don't.

A Circus Story.

A pretty good idea of the high esteem and reverence in which the negro element of the south holds the John Robinson Ten Big Shows may be gained from an incident that occurred last fall in Columbia, S. C., and which was subsequently related by one of the leading daily newspapers of that city.

The John Robinson Circus had not yet paid Columbia its annual visit and a rival tented outfit had just completed the Robinson date by arranging for a local exhibition. The flaring posters of the competitor were being put up so plentifully and conspicuously as to arouse the curiosity of a very old and gray-headed darkey who chanced to be passing along while the energetic billposter was at work and who stopped to view the descriptive announcements.

The bustling "knight of the brush" had just stuck up the last sheet of a big date reading "Sept. 1," when the elderly culled, gent asked a passing ebony-bred acquaintance to read to him the bold lettering on the papered sign.

"Circus, eh? Huh—well, read it to me, son; what's dat dey say about dis new show?"

The obliging interpreter then proceeded to give the wording in the clearest manner that his limited knowledge of the English language would permit and finally concluded with the impressive line "greatest show on earth," and the date, of course.

"There; dat will do," commandingly interrupted the reverend "son of Ham," as he was observed to muse thoughtfully for a second or so.

"Sept one; yea and I knows who dat one is, too; dat's de ole John Robinson Circus what I've been gwine to see dese last fifty years or mo; can't fool dis ole chicken noweh."

This is the same identical John Robinson Ten Big Shows that are billed to appear in Twin Falls on Tuesday, July 4.—Adv.

LONG HAD REAL MESSAGE.
It is a great fact, now, in announcing a lecturer, to say that he brings a "message." Usually the "message" proves to be merely story-telling "stuff" in the line of entertainment; and, in case the fun furnished is bright, new and obvious, everybody is satisfied. But when the manager of last week's Chautauqua said that on Saturday Mr. Sylvester N. Long would have a "message" for those who heard him, for once he told the truth. Mr. Long brought the concept of service—intelligent service such as alone can get anywhere in this era of fierce competition, generous service on behalf of others, and service based on principle, undeterred by temptations and difficulties. It was a forceful, eloquent and effective presentation of "The Problem of the Hour," and can not fail to have left its hearers benefited by at least generous promptings and good resolutions. To the mind of the writer it looms as the strongest and best lecture heard in a lifetime.

Furniture must be disposed of by Saturday 12 M. at a good discount. See ad. in this paper for particulars.—Adv.

MANGY COYOTE HAS

FRIEND IN MOTORIST

No longer is the lowly coyote, scourge of the desert, enemy of the thrifty farmer, bold in universal contempt as the most despicable animal on four legs. Instead he is looked on, at least by one man, as a friend in need and indeed, a wonderfully efficient auxiliary to the road department in various counties in the Pacific coast states.

All this beautiful "boost" for the little "mangy varmint" follows the visit to this section of Charles Gould, director of service for the Maxwell Motor company of Detroit, and John Pinner, sales manager of the same big concern. Following a tour of the district with T. J. Toner, director of Maxwell affairs on the coast, Mr. Gould discovered redeeming traits in the coyote which have always escaped the trassible eyes of "us natives."

"The coyote is certainly the best friend a road cleaner has or out of captivity," said Mr. Gould on his return to Detroit the other day. "He takes care of all the dead animals along the road in not half as bad as he is painted."

Mr. Gould's enthusiastic eulogy of the coyote will be noted with interest by farmers and stock raisers, who have in the past regarded that animal with anything but friendly feeling. Also, students of animal life everywhere will inquire into the snake eating proclivities of aforesaid coyote, as in the past reptile bodies have been exhumed, even from the majestic buzzard.

TWIN FALLS TAKES GAME; LANDS IN SECOND PLACE

Game, Is Featured By Good Fielding and Rupert Player Hits Home Run.

Burley	2	6	.250
Kimbrelly	0	8	.000

By taking a closely played and exciting game from the Rupert club Sunday, the Twin Falls boys landed in second place in the percentage column. The score was Twin Falls, 4; Rupert, 3.

The game was featured by good fielding on both sides and though Twin Falls was in the lead throughout the game, at no time did she have the game safely tucked away. Although Ansell, pitching for Rupert, struck out 12 men facing him, the Twin Falls batters landed for nine hits, while Hart, of Twin Falls, allowed only four. The home team made their scores in the second, fifth and seventh innings. Frankbach, for Rupert, provided a sensation when he landed on one of Hart's deliveries for a home-run.

The box score follows:

GRASSHOPPER PEST TO BE

KEPT UNDER CONTROL

County agent Birch is receiving daily reports of clover fields infested with grasshoppers. As yet he has found no fields where the damage is severe enough to warrant immediate treatment. If treatment is given too early, more hoppers will hatch later and may make a second treatment necessary.

The county agent would be glad to meet with any farmers organizations in the county and explain the method of treatment to them evenings, or will arrange day field meetings in any locality where a spraying machine is available, and grasshoppers are numerous enough to warrant such meetings. He is anxious to get in communication with owners of spraying machines who can put them out to do custom spraying. "To get best results," Mr. Birch says, "this should be community work. While any farmer can keep the pest off his farm by spraying, he will have less difficulty if his neighbors join in and kill their hoppers."

GREATER VALUE GIVING

IT TAKES time and money to produce good fabrics—more time and money to fashion those fabrics into high-grade garments. Such garments are scarce nowadays and not to be obtained by anyone anywhere at one cent less than they are actually worth.

GUARD READY TO GO SOUTH SOON

Equipment Arrives Wednesday and Rolling Stock Is Expected by Saturday.

HOISE—With all physical examinations completed and equipment in camp for the men of the regiment, the Second Idaho will soon be prepared to move south toward the Mexican border, but the actual movement of the guardmen awaits the pleasure of the O. S. L. railroad and the war department.

Equipment for the regiment arrived Wednesday morning from California by express. A few hours later Major Tukey of the medical corps announced the doctors had finished with the men and officers of the 12 companies making up the Idaho contingent. Instructions to start the regiment south have not yet arrived from Washington, but are expected hourly.

A message to Joel L. Priest, general agent in Idaho for the Short Line, received Wednesday, inquired the date on which rolling stock for the regiment would be gathered here by the railroad. He replied that it was promised for Saturday. Pullmans and tourist cars are being gathered at different points and will be brought to Boise this week.

In many quarters it is now believed that orders to move the Idaho contingent Saturday or Sunday will reach Adjutant General P. H. Crow shortly. The regiment now has 1000 men—camp, the arrival of new recruits Wednesday bringing the Idaho contingent up to that strength despite the failure of some to pass the physical examination. In all 1114 men and officers had been examined by the doctors up to Wednesday afternoon. Of that number 136 were rejected for one cause or another, making a total of 978 passed, 50 of whom were officers.
