planned to forget the Democratic tariff plank, and to forget the reckless extravagance of Democracy; I may forget sectional government; I may forget the invidious casaca plan of Democracy; I may forget that I shall not forget; I shall not forget that American men and American women on Mexican soil and on American soil are being killed by the bullets fired from American guns — guns that were manufactured in American factories, that were shipped to the border on American ships, that were sold in the ports of Mexico by virtue of the order of an American President. When you vote, vote for the flag. Vote for the firsade, for the firsade, for the firsade, in speech at Myttagub.

Mr. Booth opened his address with a sketch of the D. W. Davis plan for the increased sale of school lands, which, he declared, would have the result of settling into the state, affording a fund that might be loaned to farmers and would inure to the benefit of the taxpayers, and would give the institution a development of Idaho's resources. The speaker paid high tribute to Davis' ability as a business man and to his unswerving honesty. He charged Alexander with having opposed the plan, and with having deceived the governor inasmuch as the intelligence of the people when, in the opening speech of the campaign, he charged the legislature with being dishonest.

The speaker also referred to the fact that Alexander had expressed the regret that he did not veto all the laws passed by the legislature except one. Mr. Booth referred to the beneficial legislation that has been passed by the legislature, declaring that these laws stamped Idaho as one of the most progressive states in the Union. Taking specific cases, Mr. Booth referred to the mothers' pension act, the law relating to child desertion, the farm li-borer's lien law, and that advertisements state the truth, and said that these laws were beneficial and were morally necessary. "If Governor Alexander now regrets that he signed these laws, that regret must be based upon the belief that such laws are wrong," declared the speaker, adding: "Such condemnation brands the governor as a reactionary of the worst type."

Passing from state to national is-such, the speaker attacked the Democratic administration for its Mexican policy, declaring that the administration had wickedly interfered in Mexican internal affairs; that the battleship fleet was sent to Vera Cruz to make Huerta leave his native soil, and that the President sought to dictate who should act as head of the Mexican government.

"They say he kept us out of war," declared the speaker, "but the facts in the case say that the Democratic party fought a war—a base, needless, uncalled-for, ignoble war—a war without a purpose—a war without benefit. The only result to Mexico of the Vera Cruz expedition was 200 dead Mexicans and 126 writing in pain in the hospitals, and 19 dead and 53 wounded American boys. Then we sailed away. And the Democratic leaders have the effrontery to say that they kept us out of war."

C. D. THOMAS REPLIES TO RECENT CRITICISM

"I wish to inform my friends," said C. D. Thomas, this morning, "that if the full text of my remarks had

"I was elected temporary chairman of the Republican club (there has been no president elected), and upon my election I said that I would not scratch my ballot; that, as far as my vote was concerned, the worst Republican was better than the best Democrat. I did not refer in any way to any Democrat not running for office, and, as far as my friends are concerned, I never ask whether they are Republicans or Democrats. One looks at good as the other, except when they run for office, and it comes to my vote."

MRS. SWEETLEY OUTLINES PLANS FOR CLUB WORK

NEWLY-ELECTED STATE PRESIDENT ADDRESSES WOMEN OF CITY

COURTESY OF THE FLOOR GIVEN TO NEW OFFICIAL AT REGULAR TUESDAY MEETING—ENLARGEMENT OF UNIVERSITY LOAN FUND TO BE OBJECT OF NEW ADMINISTRATION

In courtesy to Mrs. M. J. Sweetley, recently elected to the office of president of the Idaho State Federation of Women's Clubs, the Twentieth Century club meeting of Tuesday afternoon was given over by the leader, Mrs. Kennedy Packard, to Mrs. Sweetley. An interesting and inspiring report was given by Mrs. Sweetley of her recent visit to Salt Lake, where she met Mrs. J. E. Cowles of Los Angeles, newly-elected president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The State Federation of Utah was in session at the same time in Provo and reports of that meeting were heard by Mrs. Sweetley and reported to local clubwomen. Of special interest was the fact that one of the principal topics of discussion at the Utah State Federation and among the individual club members was the Federation of Rural Clubs of the Twin Falls community. Mrs. C. H. McMahon of Salt Lake attended the recent State Federation meeting of Idaho, held in Twin Falls, and she gave a most complimentary report of it to the Utah women, giving special mention of the rural clubs in this vicinity and praising their team work with the local clubwomen and their wonderful exhibit of service. "Through all this," said Mrs. Sweetley, "I have touched the keynote of all successful clubwork, and it is 'union.'"

World Enlarge Loan Fund

As state president, Mrs. Sweetley spoke briefly of her plans, especially along the line of enlarging the university loan fund. "I expect to give practically all my time during my first year of administration to this phase of the state work. We must increase this fund. We had only $2500 this year. In comparison, Oregon has from $15,000 to $20,000, as do all the other neighboring states. I am pleased with the interest already shown in the matter. Several women have pledged $10 each this year. I pledged $25 and Addison T. Smith has pledged $50. But I would rather have 1000 women give a dollar each than have one woman give $1000, because I want everyone to take an interest in our state university."

As a courtesy to Mrs. Sweetley, the Twentieth Century club unanimously voted to give $50 this year to the university loan fund.

Many Brief Addresses

There being several women present from out of town, these were called upon and each spoke briefly, giving a word of appreciation of Mrs. Sweetley and pledging their support in her administration. Among the speakers were: Mrs. J. W. Paris of Buhl, Mrs. R. W. Paris of Boise, Mrs. H. H. Schildman of Piler, Mrs. T. E. Moore of Marsa and Miss Curtis of Buhl. The speaking was preceded by two beautiful solos, sung by Mrs. W. H. Dwight. Tea and wafers were served at the close of the afternoon.

The following resolution, proposed by Mrs. M. J. Sweetley, was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, The Twentieth Century club realizes that the most successful federation ever held in Idaho was the result of the co-operation of the splendid rural women of the Twin Falls Federation of Women's Clubs of the Marsa and Filer clubs, of the women of the Buhl club, who so generously assisted in all ways in carrying on this great work, and

"Whereas, We also realized that without the assistance of the citizens of our city, not members of our club—the men with their automobiles, the women opening their homes, the musicians giving us generously of their talents—this splendid entertainment could not have been extended to our distinguished guests; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be extended to those not members of our club for all courtesy given, what notes to this effect be sent to the Federated Rural club, also to the Filer, Marsa and Buhl clubs, and that copies of this resolution be published in the papers of Twin Falls, Filer and Buhl."

The musical department will meet on Thursday, October 26, at the home of Mrs. Gubert. The meetings will be weekly and the first work to be taken up is the study of the opera, "The Mascotte," by Edmond Audran.

The current events department will meet at the Commercial club rooms on Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at 8:30. The study of Alaska will be begun at this meeting.

The afternoon of October 31 will be in charge of Mrs. Wilfred McKay. There will be several novel and amusing features and the whole program will be well worth hearing.

TO PUSH HANSEN BRIDGE MATTER

Association Will Begin Campaign of Education to Insure Passage of the Bonds

At a meeting of Hansen bridge enthusiasts at the Commercial club rooms Monday night it was determined to begin immediately an active campaign of education to insure the passage of the bonds. The proposed plan calls for a suspension bridge, consisting of one long span 576 feet and two short spans at the ends. According to figures furnished by the Missouri Valley Bridge company, the cost is estimated at $60,000.

In addition of the voters will be called by the bridge association to the method to be used in marking ballots. An "X" mark after the word "Yes" will not constitute a vote, it being necessary to cross out the word "No" to give the vote force.

LOCAL PASTOR DECLINES CALL

W. E. Harman, Pastor of Christian Church, Declines to Accept Call

Rev. W. E. Harman, for several years pastor of the Christian church of this city, has recently declined a most flattering call to a large and influential church at Washington, Pa. The church has a membership of 1200 and a Sunday school of upwards of a thousand and offers a handsome salary. It being the largest church of any denomination in the county, yet Rev. Mr. Harman prefers to live in Twin Falls and complete the work he has begun here. During his Twin Falls pastorate the local congregation has more than doubled in membership and is now ready to begin a sinking fund looking toward the erection of a fine new home some two years hence.

BUHL PRECINCT TO VOTE BONES FOR GOOD ROADS

RESOLUTION CALLS FOR $350,000 FOR GRAVEL SURFACED ROADS

BUHL HIGHWAY COMMISSIONERS ADOPT PLAN SIMILAR TO ONE SO SUCCESSFUL IN ADA COUNTY—PROPOSITION GOES BEFORE THE VOTERS NOVEMBER 11TH—CONTRACTS WILL BE SURELY

The Buhl highway district commissioners have voted for a $350,000 bond election to be held on November 11, and which resolution will be advertised in a later issue, says the Buhl Herald. Since the previous election on the bond issue, which was defeated, the commissioners have received overtures from a number of the leading farmers asking that the issue be placed before the voters again. Many of the farmers have come to realize the value of good roads since having marketed their crops this fall, and the numbers are surprisingly large in favor of this issue who voted against the other.

The plan of construction of the roads, and plan as to where they are to be placed, will be similar to the one which has proven to be so successful in Ada county, near Boise, and it was largely due to an article which appeared in the Buhl Herald of the issue of August 31st, 1916, explaining the Ada county plan, that the Buhl road commissioners adopted it. Upon reading this article, Commissioners Wade and Childs went over to Boise to see the plan in operation, and concluded that it was a good one to use in the Buhl highway district.

The substance of the Ada county plan is that the expenditure is to be extended over a period of several years. A competent engineer oversees the work and contracts are let to the farmers who are paid according to the work they actually do.

The commissioners did not give out all the details of their plans, though the issue will provide for more miles of road than the other one, and also for the building of the Lilly grade. Gravel surface will be used, though where lava rock beds is cheaper a layer of crushed lava will be placed beneath the gravel. Many gravel pits can be found north and west of Buhl, and in quantities that will be large enough for the proposed work.

TWO EXCELLENT ACTS

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Matinee and Night

The Rath Brothers

Better known as DICK CAMERON and GEORGE MCHIG

Two Twin Falls boys who have more than made good. They appeared at our theatre nearly three years ago in their first performance. During their absence they have played many of the leading circuits, and the past year they have been featured in many of the largest theatres in the United States.

Clarice-Grogan Duo

Offer an instrumental act of decided merit, one that will prove thoroughly enjoyable to the most critical. Miss Clarice is a finished harpist. Mr. Grogan, who is totally blind, has remarkable musical talent.

TWO ATTRACTIONS DIRECT FROM THE HIPPODROME CIRCUIT

Portland Oregonian: The headline attraction at the leading theatre features Ethel Clarice, a talented harpist. She is a past master on the harp. Clarice Grogan, the blind pianist, is a wonder, his work being startling and original. Pittsburgh Dispatch: Clarice and Grogan headline the bill. They are both finished artists in their line.

Republican (Springfield, Mass.): A variety of musical novelties is given by Clarice and Grogan. Miss Clarice is a harpist of great talent. Mr. Grogan, who is totally blind, is a marvel, playing several of his own compositions. The act is a novel one and should be seen by all.

Evening Times (Uniontown, Pa.): Headline the bill is the extraordinary offering of Clarice and Grogan. Here one finds the unusual combination of a phenomenal blind pianist and a wonderful harpist, both impressing their audiences by their true interpretation of real music.

Kansas City Post: Rath Brothers were the features of the Globe program, and they certainly are clean cut youngsters, performing seemingly impossible feats. They took several bows, closing an eight-act bill.

Chicago Tribune says: Rath Brothers start in where other athletic acts leave off, and we feel safe in saying that the two Western boys are two of the best athletes the vaudeville stage has known.

Hippodrome (San Francisco): Rath Brothers offer the best acrobatic act that has played Frisco. They perform seemingly impossible feats and never stall. Each trick is accomplished at first trying. Three big bows.

Sentinel Post: Rath Brothers were held over by popular demand. Dick, the smaller of the two, has the sense of working that makes one think he has power enough to move anything. George has a pleasing personality and handles Dick with the greatest ease. They are the feature of the bill at the Hippodrome.

This week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. THE ORPHEUM THEATRE
Always a good variety. Always your money's worth. First show 7 o'clock. Continuous till 11.

To The Motoring Public

The Johnson Auto Sales Co. does not manufacture or sell anti-freezing mixtures of any description, but, because of the damage a motor car suffers when the water in the radiator and water system freezes, I want to pass along a word of warning and precaution to all automobile owners—whether or not their cars be Hudson Super-Six or Maxwells. If an unexpected freeze catches your car unprepared, you can depend upon it that it will cost you time, inconvenience and a good sized repair bill.

Therefore, we strongly urge the necessity of using an anti-freezing mixture in the water of your radiator at the first indication of cold weather.

If you do not care to use an anti-freezing mixture until later, and keep your car in a cold garage, drain off all water in the radiator and cylinders whenever the machine is not in use. Let the motor run a few minutes to dry out whatever water is left in the low places of the radiator or the pockets in the cylinders.

The following solution of wood alcohol, glycerine and water will positively prevent the water in your radiator freezing at the temperatures given below and will not harm the water system of your car or any of its connections.

The Hudson Motor Car Company recommended their use and our own experience has convinced us that they are thoroughly reliable:

15 TO 8 ABOVE ZERO
Wood Alcohol.....	12 1/2%	Per Cent
Glycerine.....	12 1/2%	Per Cent
Water.....	75	Per Cent
8 TO 10 BELOW ZERO
Wood Alcohol.....	50	Per Cent
Glycerine.....	25	Per Cent
Water.....	25	Per Cent

As stated above, we do not make or sell these or any other anti-freezing solutions, and we have given publicity to them in this space simply as a matter of useful information to Automobile owners in general and the owners of Hudson Super-Sixes and Maxwell cars in particular.

A promissory note is an unconditional promise in writing, to pay on a certain date, or on demand, a specified sum of money absolutely, to a person named therein (the payee) or to "his order" or "to bearer," and is signed by the maker.

All persons capable of entering into a contract (not minors, or persons of unsound mind) may be parties to a note. There are two original parties to a note, the maker (one who makes the note and promises to pay), and the payee (one to whom the note is payable, or in whose favor the note is drawn). The delivery of a note by the person making, drawing, or indorsing it, is essential to completing the contract.

COCKETS

THE BECKONING

It's fine to have a blowout in a fancy restaurant, with terrapin and cancraback and all the wine you want; To enjoy the flowers and music, watch the pretty women pass, Smoke a choice cigar and sip the wealthy water in a high-toned joint to eat and drink your fill, But it's quite another matter when you PAY THE BILL.

It's great to go every night on fun or pleasure bent, To wear your glad rags always, and to never have a cent, To drift along regardless, have a good time every trip, To hit the high spots sometimes, and to let the chances slip, To know you're acting foolish, yet to go on fooling still, Till nature calls the showdown, and you PAY THE BILL.

Time has got a little bill, get wise while you may, For the debit side's increasing in a most alarming way, The things you had no right to do, the things you should have done, They're all put down, it's up to you to pay for every one, So eat, drink and be merry; have a good time, if you will, But God help you when the time comes and you PAY THE BILL.

Vot Is Dot Pitcher Posing?

"Is that Mary Pickford? Do you mean to tell me that that little Dutch kid is Mary Pickford?" Exclaimed the interviewer at the Famous Players studio as he saw a wooden shoo, red skirted, little girl clattering across the floor.

"Sure, that's Mary Pickford," rejoined the scene shifter.

"Pardon me, are you 'little Mary'?" Well, then, would you mind answering a few questions? I represent the press and through printers in the great public that worships you.

"By, by course. I am very much obliged to meet you," mischievously replied Mary.

"What is the name of the picture you are posing in?" inquired the delighted interviewer, beginning to reach for all the envelopes, letters and other miscellaneous papers in his pockets—for he knew he would need them.

"Dot play, she is called 'Hulda From Holland'."

"Who is the little fellow playing with you?"

ROBINSON'S

The New York Tribune, recognized as one of the leading newspapers of the country, and one of the best "Home" papers, has established a Bureau of Investigation, its object being to protect their patrons from advertisers who misrepresent, or make misstatements in connection with presenting the goods which they offer for sale.

The National body or association of advertising men are making a special effort to bring about more truthful statements from advertisers throughout the country.

It seems unfortunate, in fact, deplorable, that many business men, some who occupy prominent positions in the business world, should deem it necessary to resort to misrepresentations in presenting their merchandise to the buying public.

During the past week I have seen men's half hose (socks) displayed in a window and marked "Wool hose, 2 pairs for 25 cents" and there was not a particle of wool in them.

During the past six months I have read advertisements of a store claiming to be part of an organization having a number of stores (between thirty-five and forty) and stating that they buy their goods in large quantities direct from mills and factories, thereby enabling them to undersell competitors. While, as a matter of fact, the proprietor of the store making this claim has but two stores, one in Idaho and one in Montana, and much of his merchandise comes from St. Louis Jobbing Houses.

Not long since I saw a number of articles displayed in the window of a Department Store marked at special prices and giving the impression that they represented others of the same kind that were for sale on the inside of the store. As a matter of fact, they were samples sold by a traveling salesman for a jobbing house, and only one of a kind, and naturally were more or less soiled and mused. It is all right for a merchant to buy samples at a discount and sell them at less than regular prices, but it is misleading to display them in show windows, making it appear as if they were part of the regular stock in the store.

I make no claims in connection with my buying or the selling of merchandise that are not based on facts. The goods we sell are dependable, and the methods we use are those approved of by the best business men in the country. Any and every member of a family can come to this store and trade and be sure of receiving the right kind of goods at right prices.

MURTAUGH BRIDGE

ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Plans Made For a Celebration on the Day the North and South Sides Connecting Link Is Opened

MURTAUGH—Much interest is being taken in the new steel bridge which spans the Snake river half a mile north of Murtaugh, and which, according to the engineer, will be open to traffic about the first of November. This bridge will connect the prosperous Milner segregation of the North Side tract with the south side, and Murtaugh is already showing much activity in the building line.

Plans are being made to hold a celebration at Murtaugh on the day the bridge will be open for traffic and a large crowd from the north side is expected to be on hand.

ED S. JOHNSON TO VISIT FACTORIES

Ed S. Johnson of the Johnson Auto Sales company expects to make an Eastern trip soon for the expressed purpose of visiting the Hudson and Maxwell factories at Detroit. Mr. Johnson will go by train to Chicago and motor on to Detroit from there, going by Owego, Mich., his old home. Mr. Johnson will not leave until after election and expects to be gone about three weeks.

PARENTS' ATTENTION

Most gratifying was the interest shown by the parents at the children's program at the Idaho theatre last Saturday and the management desires that we make the following mention: Owing to the large attendance, many were unable to secure seats and consequently the management has deemed it proper to run two shows each Saturday matinee and ask the parents to co-operate with them in the following respects:

All who are able will confer a favor by starting the children from home in time to reach the theatre promptly at 2 o'clock, so that they may enjoy the entire program and be ready to give up their seats to those coming for the second show, which will commence at 3:30 o'clock.

The pictures which will be shown at these matinees will always be those of special interest to the little ones, and in nearly every case will be different from the regular evening attractions.—Adv.

We respectfully wish to announce to our patrons and anyone else interested that we have arranged an association to better care for our work in medicine and surgery.

Dr. Morgan needs no introduction to the people of this country. He has practiced here nearly nine years and has been maintaining the Physicians and Surgeons' Hospital for three years.

Dr. Oldham is a graduate of Northwestern University Medical School of Chicago, in 1906. Has had hospital training and has been practicing nearly ten years in Oakley, Idaho.

It is our purpose to take care of our cases on the highest plane of scientific and ethical service.

The Forum

PRINTED WITHOUT PREJUDICE IN THE INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC GOOD

SOUND THE ALARM!—IT STANDS FOR DOLLARS AND SENES

They tell us, in the dim and distant past, that a lad named himself by crying "Wolf!" on divers occasions, laughing in his sleeve at the shepherds, who rushed forth with alacrity to kill the wolf that was not there, but that when the wolf did come the shepherds were absent, and the flock suffered accordingly. We do not like to cry "Wolf!" but the shepherds apparently asleep, and there is no question but that the wolf is here, and very much awake. Is the worst and the best? Admit it, different? Or is it just simply going to commit the same fatal blunder that so many other communities have committed in the past, that of being so confident of the outcome that they think for a minute that they do not need your club out for the 7th of November? We say to you that if you expect or want to keep Idaho dry that you not only need a sharp bowie knife, a gutting and machine gun, and then have ready a few quick guns. You will need them all. Don't think for a minute that because the liquor interests are not parading with a brass band, fireworks, etc., that they have given up. You just go and watch a bunch of hogs feeding. Notice the few that run from end to end of the trough with loud squealing, and then notice that a few old sows are their noses in the trough and keep them there, and that they get what they want. Now, we don't like to insult the hog by comparing the liquor interests to it, but we do say that, like the hog, they intend to keep their noses in the trough and get what they want. How? Never mind. They are willing to work 12 months in the year, 30 days to the month, four weeks to the month, and, if necessary, eight days to the week. They will poll 95 per cent of their strength.

How about you dries? Are you going to poll 95 or 99 per cent of your strength? And yet it means "dollars and sense" to this state. They will have workers who are apparently dry, and they will be asking the voters, "Do you want saloons—yes or no?" And if dry, then they will advise that you vote "No." That is not the question for you to decide. The question is: Do you want the manufacture and sale of liquor in Idaho prohibited? If you do, if you realize that the saloon is the nation's greatest menace and curse; if you feel that it is the most expensive weight about the neck of every man, woman and child that we have to carry; if you know that it is the foe of clean manhood and womanhood, and of the church, home and school, then you must certainly want the sale prohibited, and you will see that you are given the right slip for the amendment, and that you place your cross after the word "Yes."

Fifty years ago this fight was waged along moral lines only. Men and women wept and prayed and prayed and wept, and the saloon kept on doing business the same old way, and but very little was accomplished until "big business" began to realize that rum was mighty expensive, and that it was a dollar as well as a sense proposition. Most of you realize it also, but do you realize the importance of your vote and the fact that the fight never ends? We helped vote, North Dakota, when a 30 years ago. We remember when a mass arose in the constitutional convention and said, "I am against prohibition." He did not need to tell us. As a rule, you can see it, and, if blind, you can smell it. Then he added, "That saloons do not injure a state; I can prove to you by our own great state, for in it we only have nine poor bones." And then we saw the state grow from 100,000 to 500,000 population. We saw it prosper under prohibition as few states have prospered, natural resources considered. We saw the poorhouses dwindle away, until to day there is not one in the whole state. We saw the bank deposits in dry Fargo grow to $250 per capita against $13 in wet Milwaukee, and, above all, we never saw a year that the liquor interests did not work day in and day out, hoping against hope, that some day they could drive in the entering wedge that would one day repeal the prohibitory law. Don't you dries think that you have your work cut out for you? When meetings are called to consider ways and means for united efforts, can the ministers and leaders afford to stay away? Don't you think that they who asked her mother if it would help if she prayed that Willie would not catch the little birds, and when mother asked when she did, replied: "Well, I went out and prayed, and then I went out and snatched the trap." Supposing every one of you get out and not only snare the trap but also every variety of a foundation for it. Supposing that you not only get out to vote, but that you get someone else out, and on the amendment you vote "Yes," "Yes," "Yes," and don't forget to impress upon your mind—

"I am only one, but I am one; What I can do, I ought to do; And what I ought to do, by the grace of God, I will do."

Respectfully submitted,

Labor Strains—Where two weeks ago men were begging for jobs, the City Employment agency reports that for several days they have been unable to send out a single man to the many scores of farmers who have filed applications for help. It is expected that the next two weeks will see the windup of the crop harvest in the Twin Falls country, with the possible exception of sugar-beet hauling, which will continue longer and detain for a while the usual of farm hands to town, which usually occurs about the first of November.

Lends Hearty Endorsement

Editor Twin Falls News: Dear Sir—I take this means of giving to the candidacy of Miss Britton-Wolfe as our County Superintendent of Schools my hearty and unqualified endorsement.

She has every qualification for the office in my judgment. She has had a wide and thorough training for the work, holding both State and Life Diplomas, granted by Dr. Sisson. She has had valuable experience in affairs of the office, helping to organize the School System of the then new County of Twin Falls, with our first County Superintendent, and she has been active in church and literary circles, having been an earnest worker in the Baptist Church and Sunday School. It is with particular pleasure that I mention her as a teacher in the Twin Falls Schools when I was a member of the School Board. She was one of our most earnest and successful teachers, having good methods, tact, and discipline without harshness, thorough in her work and with a personality that could not fail to have a beneficial influence upon the young mind entrusted to her care. I know she will make a splendid officer and I bespeak for her the loyal support of all voters, regardless of party affiliations. Yours truly,

—Adv. F. E. CHAMBERLAIN.

New Nurse at Hospital—Miss Agnes Burns, a graduate nurse from Portland, has joined the force of nurses at the Twin Falls hospital and will remain here for the winter.

Hardware Company Moves—With the completion of the new Smith building, on North Main street, the Peterson Hardware company moved from old quarters, on South Shoshone street, to the splendid new store building, which was built especially for their needs. E. E. Peterson is one of the pioneers of the Twin Falls country, and the splendid prosperity which has attended his hardware business is the direct outgrowth of his wide acquaintance among the farmers of this section.

Young Couple Leave—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Simpson left Tuesday for their home in Wray, Colo., after spending two weeks visiting here at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Simpson. The young couple were married in Wray October 7 and came almost directly to Twin Falls for a visit. Mr. Simpson is a druggist in Wray and his bride was Miss Marie Maginnis, daughter of a prominent banker in that city.

A Prodigious Booster—The following appeared in the Southern Idaho Advocate October 20, published in Burley, concerning Rev. J. K. MacGillivray of this city, who recently removed temporarily to Burley. "J. K. MacGillivray, Presbyterian Sabbath school missionary for six counties in Southern Idaho, had not been in Burley five days before he was marching in a booster parade. 'Burley beats them all,' was his comment, meaning anything he had seen during his travels over the territory that his duties take him, being the counties of Twin Falls, Cassia, Blaine, Lincoln, Gooding and Blaine. Therefore and thereafter it was a short time only until he had moved his home to Burley. He is a native of Twin Falls, while to show their active interest in the affairs of the community, Mrs. MacGillivray accepted a position with the Burley Commercial club as office secretary."

Lutheran Conference—The Southern Idaho conference of the Lutheran church met at Salt Lake City in the Evangelical Lutheran church. All members were present, but the Rev. H. A. Kahle was summoned home on urgent duty by his congregation at New Plymouth, Idaho. New members, Rev. O. Bernthal of Paul, Rev. O. Braun of Irwin, Rev. W. Dannesfeldt of Clover City and Prof. Dubberstein of Salt Lake were welcomed by the chairman, Pastor Schmook, as new members of the conference. This addition means a growth of 300 per cent since his beginning, ten years ago. Expected increase was shown in the various missions and a number of fields have become self-supporting within the past year. Pastor Schmook read a paper on "Pastoral Theology" and Pastor Traub of Eden, Idaho, discussed on "The Essence and Use of the Lord's Supper." The next meeting is to be held in April at Clover City, Idaho.

FIGURES OF SPEECH

Little Bob was playing at quilts in the yard when he hurt his hand with one of the irons. "Oh, the devil," he exclaimed impatiently. "I—I—" His mother, who heard the ugly exclamation, interrupted him. "No more of that, young man," she commanded, "no more such exclamations. Never use that word again." Bob, a dutiful son, promised never to use it again and had his hand bandaged and went on playing. Sunday came and he went to Sunday school as usual. When he returned home his mother asked him what the lesson was about. "It was about when our Lord was tempted by—by—by," Bob explained hesitatingly, "the—the gentleman who lives down below."—Louisville Times.

To Our Customers— (and others who are planning to be our customers)

Here are a few facts which directly concern you if you intend to order portraits in our studio between now and Christmas.

On the twentieth day of October, 1918, our portrait business passed the amount which we did during the whole year of 1915. In other words, the two most active months of the year are before us and our volume of portraiture now exceeds the total volume of last year.

Another

Comparison

The month of August, 1916, shows the largest portrait business for a single month that we have ever had in Idaho, with the exception of one December. This is a phenomenal experience, one that we did not expect or plan for.

It indicates beyond a doubt that more and more people are sending photographs as gifts; it proves, too, that the portraits we make are held in high esteem by an increasing number of people.

We want to make your holiday pictures—yours—and yours—and yours; we want the business of every one who has confidence in our ability. But, in simple justice both to you and to us, we must have a reasonable amount of time in which to do your work.

So many neglect to arrange for sittings until December comes. That will be a very crowded time in our studio this year. Why not plan for your Christmas sitting now—right now? It is not a day too soon. "Quality first" is our aim, you know, and workmanship of quality can not be too hurriedly done. Come early—it's to your advantage.

FIRST NUMBERS LYCEUM COURSE ARE DELIGHTFUL

"THE MELTING POT," IN- TENSE DRAMA, PROVES EXCELLENT PLAY

SECOND FOLLOWS CLOSELY—MAR-
GUR A. KILGERMAN AND COM-PANY, MUSICIANS, ENTERTAIN WITH HYPERLID PROGRAM—
FOUR OTHER EQUALLY STRONG
ATTRACTIORS TO FOLLOW

Highly entertaining and satisfactory in every way was "The Melting Pot," the opening number on this year's Lyceum course. The drama is typically American and deals with the phase of the immigrant problem in this country.
It is a play of intense feelings and emotions, and cold, indeed, is the heart that does not thrill with patriotism over the fervid acclaim of David, the Jewish musician, who in speech and music idolizes America and the great ideals and principles of liberty and justice for which America stands.

Each member of the cast was splendid and interpreted the drama in an able manner. The part of David Quis-nan, the young Jewish musician, and an exile, was taken by Theodore Doucet, a French Canadian, who in his ten years of theatrical life has risen rapidly in the profession through his natural ability and the remarkable qualities of his voice. After appearing in various plays, he was chosen by Walker Whitfield to head "The Melting Pot," company. The part of Mendel Quisnan, uncle of David, was taken by Dore Davidson, who began his career with Edwin Booth at McVicker's theatre, 80 years ago. He starred during several seasons under Charles and Daniel Frohman and has played in support of a number of the country's leading actors and actresses.

One of the most interesting members of the cast was Herman Gerold, who took the part of the orchestra director, Herr Papendomeier. Mr. Gerold was born in Vienna in 1864, making him now 69 years old. He began his career in the imperial conservatory when 20 years old. He came to America many years ago and has sung in some of the leading operas in this country. Jean Bras, who played the double role of the maid, Kathleen, and the Baroness Revendel, has played in support of Richard Manfield and other well-known actors and actresses. William J. Kolghely, who played the part of the millionaire, Quincy Davenport, Jr., was for several years a prominent member of the New York Grand Opera, and with other well-known companies. Isabella Withers, who took the part of Vera Rendel, David's sweetheart, Howard Bonden, who played Baron Rendel, her father, and a Russian official who took part in the persecution and death of David's family in Russia; Louise Muldener, who played the part of Mrs. Quisnan, all displayed the talent and ability of professionals of a high order and shared alike the applause of an appreciative audience.

The Kollerman Trio

Music lovers were delighted with the program given Tuesday evening by the Marcus A. Kollerman Trio, a group of accomplished musicians. The numbers given included a pleasing variety of songs and instrumental selections that elicited hearty response from the appreciative audience. Mr. Kollerman is rated as one of the greatest dramatic baritone of the country. He has been prominently identified as soloist with several large symphony organizations, including New York, Minneapolis, Boston and Theodore Thomas orchestras.

The quality of his work in Twin Falls fully maintained his reputation as bassone soloist.

Miss Sara Gorovitch, Russian violin-cellist, is considered one of the best in her line now appearing on the Lyceum platform. She is well known in Europe, as well as in this country, as a most capable musician and was awarded the Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdi prize in Berlin in recognition of her ability.
William Albinet, French pianist, added full measure to the success of the trio and proved himself a master of the piano. He is a musician of recognized ability, both in this country and in Europe, where he studied under some of the most prominent teachers.

The third number on the course will be given December 30 by the "Kilbury Girls" and promises to be one of the most delightful on the program.

A large number of season tickets were sold before the Lyceum course opened. The talent secured for this year by the local management is probably the highest priced ever brought to Twin Falls, and because of the popularity of the opening numbers it is thought practically all the tickets will be sold before the third number comes.

Members of Business Women's Association Will Gather, Masked and Costumed, for Good Time

At the luncheon and business meeting held in the beach hall Tuesday evening by the members of the Business Women's association, further plans were discussed for the big Halloween party to be held by the organization on Tuesday evening. All business women and business girls in the city were extended a general invitation to attend.
Branches Hill was elected treasurer and Miss Jane Hobbs assistant treasurer of the association. It was also announced that, through the courtesy and generosity of the city of Boise, who had been granted the use of the high school gymnasium for each Thursday night, the members of the Business Women's association were granted the privilege of this night, the acrobats arranging to take the gymnasium on Monday, to accommodate the association. The first meeting of this department of the association will be held in the high school gymnasium tonight and on each Thursday night hereafter at 8 o'clock.

At the next meeting of the club the leader for the library department will be chosen by ballot and the department organized. Other departments not already established which may be desired by the members are to be arranged as requested.

HULDA FROM HOLLAND STARS MARY PICKFORD

Superb Dutch Girl in Famous Players
Production Comes to the Idaho
Friday and Saturday

Forsoaking Japan and Italy, versatile Mary Pickford has turned her golden smile upon Holland and stars in her newest Famous Players production as the little Dutch girl in Hulda From Holland," by Edith Barnard Deland, which will be the Paramount picture at the Idaho theatre Friday and Saturday. In this delightful tale of the land of the tulips, Miss Pickford is more appealing. If possible, than in many of her previous appearances, a fact which, coupled with the picturesqueness of the Dutch settings and costumes which mark the opening of the picture, makes it an unusual production even for Miss Pickford and the Famous Players.

"The House of the Golden Windows" Little Billy Jacobs, the clever 5-year-old actor who created such a success in support of Marie Dore, in "The Heart of Nora Flynn," will be seen at the Idaho Monday and Tuesday, in support of Miss Pickford. Edgely and Wallace Reid in the Jesse L.
Lask production of "The House of the Golden Windows," a Paramount picture.

In addition to Billy in the cast supporting the two stars are James Neill, Mabel Van Buren, Horace B. Carpenter, Margery Daw and other prominent members of the organization.

LOCAL BOYS RETURN AFTER LONG ABSENCE

Dick Cameron and George Meigs in Athletic Act at the Orpheum
Theatre

After an absence of three years, two Twin Falls boys have returned and will appear at the Orpheum theatre in an athletic act, which is said to be the best on the vaudeville stage. These boys are Dick Cameron and George Meigs, who travel under the stage name of the Rath brothers.

The first appearance of these two boys at the Orpheum nearly three years ago, and since that time they have played many of the leading circuits and have been featured in many of the largest theatres in the country. From here they go direct to New York City, where they will open on November 6 at the Fifth Avenue theatre.

Meigs is a nephew of C. O. Meigs and Cameron has a mother and sister living here.

Masonic Installation.—Newly elected Grand Master Smith of Boise, being unable to come deputized Mr. Lounsbury of Albion to act in his stead in the installation of officers of Twin Falls lodge No. 45, which has heretofore been known as Twin Falls lodge, U. D. A.
E. and A. M. The charter having been granted at the last meeting of the grand lodge. Mr. Lounsbury installed the officers last evening, they being the same as those who have been acting under the dispensation.

First Fire Department.—At Wednesday night's meeting of the city council lots 17 and 18 in block 71 were given to the town by the Twin Falls Township company for a fire station, and accepted by the trustees. The board also purchased the building on these lots for a fire station, and the same is being remodeled so as to serve the purpose of a station. The horse cars will be kept in the front on Tomb avenue and the remaining portion of the building will be fitted up for the apartments of the home town. Everything will be done to equip the town with as efficient fire protection as is possible. Some of the boys made a preliminary run on Main street on Monday evening and did very well for a preliminary.

OLIVER P. DUVALL

Qualifications and efficiency are the qualities upon which O. P. Duvall bases his candidacy for Probate Judge. Mr.
Duvall studied law for three years and practiced in the county district courts for two years. He was elected clerk of the district court and judge, pro tem, of the Probate Court of Smith county, Kansas, where he also served as prob-venile cases exclusively. Mr. Duvall has a wife and two children and has lived in Twin Falls county for six years. During the past year he served as deputy county treasurer, without bond. He is competent to interpret the law and asserts that if elected he will,

to the best of his ability, apply just and legal decisions in all matters arising in the office to which he aspires.—Adv.

MURTAUGH FARMERS WANT BEET DUMP

Mass Meeting Held to Present Demand to Sugar Company for Fulfillment of Promise

MURTAUGH.—A mass meeting was held here Saturday night and a "note" framed to the Amalgamated Sugar company insisting on a beet dump, was signed up last night. Last year the beets were shovelled into the cars, causing too much unnecessary labor.

A portion of the machinery for an elevator to load beets is here, but it is expected the farmers to shovel them into the cars and on the ground for shipment later.

A large force of men is at work on the new school building. Lathers, plasterers and finishers are rushing the structure to completion.

Professor Davis was a Twin Falls business visitor Saturday.

O. B. L. Agent West is off duty for a few days. The Burley agent is filling his place.

W. C. Hall will soon occupy his new storehouse. It is 25 by 80 feet, with 12-foot ceiling. The building is of native stone and well constructed. Mr. Hall will also install a gas "contry" at the front of the storehouse.

Mr. Oakley has purchased the blacksmith shop formerly operated by O. W. Fredrickson. The shop has been rushed with orders for best racks. Mr. Oakley comes from North Idaho, well recommended. Success to the new machine.

G. A. Dillon has his building completed. It is divided into two rooms. His butcher business and meat market occupy one room and the other has been leased to Mr. Walker, who will move his barber shop there.

Our general druggist, Mr. Hoover, has added to his stock and is now able to supply the demands of the community.

Harry Applebaum has a new store-room and dwelling combined, also an up-to-date stock of groceries.

Barber Walker recently returned from his auto trip East and can be found every day now at his new tonorial shop.

The Hotel Murtaugh is a new structure, recently completed, and the proprietor, Mr. Williams, reports a good business.

Rawlings & Hatmaker have added more shelving in their store-room, to make room for a heavy stock.

The bridge across Snake river is about completed and traffic from the north side will soon head toward Murtaugh.

The Mountain States Telephone company recently put in an exchange here and connected up many of the farmers, business houses and also extended their line south to Artesian City.

The potato crop has begun to come in, but car shortage has delayed shipment.

The Oregon Short Line has just completed a new steel bridge over Dry creek.

A rousing political meeting was held at the schoolhouse Thursday night. Committee man Hall presided at the meeting and Attorney C. M. Booth was the orator of the occasion. He handled the democratic administration with gloves. A good audience was present.

Mrs. W. B. Hall is very sick at Boise. Miss Hall and Brosie were called there a few days ago.

Howard Brothers of Oakley have leased the building formerly occupied by the barber shop and will conduct a real estate office.

SELL CATTLE FOR WINTER FEEDING

Artesian City Beavers Sent to Burley for Fattening on Sugar Beet Pulp

ARTESIAN CITY.—Frank Terrill sold his cattle last week and delivered them at Burley. Jack Birks was the purchaser. The average was 1500 and sold at $5.30 per hundred pounds. This bunch of steers were ranged in the forest reserve during the summer season at a very small cost and wintered on alfalfa grown on Mr. Terrill's ranch. At the present price of feeders this shows the cattle business a good investment if one is prepared to winter them and can get the range. Mr. Terrill states that the cattle would be finished for market on the sugar beet pulp from Burley factory. No doubt Mr. Birks will make a good cleanup also in the deal.

H. E. Pickett also sold a bunch of steers to the same buyer and delivered them with the Terrill cattle at Burley.

The funeral services of Mrs. Gwin were held at Twin Falls Monday and interment made in the Twin Falls cemetery.

Many Artesian City friends and neighbors attended the funeral. Mrs. Gwin and her husband came here from Iowa last spring for the benefit of Mrs. Gwin's health. She and Mr. Gwin were making their home with their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Porter, on a ranch here, with the Twin Falls soldiers.

When Mrs. Gwin became seriously ill, a message was sent to Lieutenant Porter. He secured a leave of absence and at once started for home. He arrived too late, coming in on Wednesday and his wife's mother was laid to rest the Monday before. The family have the sympathy of this community.

J. B. Hestler and family of Twin Falls have moved to their new home here, on the William Goodman place, which they recently purchased.

Those from here who were county seat visitors Saturday are as follows: B. H. Stevens, Mrs. Wells, L. O. Callan, Tex Stevens and T. T. Rutledge.

W. M. McIntyre and family of Brigham City, Utah, are visiting at the Jensen home. They may decide to locate here if a suitable location can be secured.

Joseph Adamson is assisting the carpenter on the Murtaugh schoolhouse this week.

Miss Agnes Swanson, who is attending school in Twin Falls, spent Sunday here with her parents.

Turner & Webster are working their tractor early and late seeding fall wheat.

C. E. Edminster of Rock Creek was in this locality Thursday looking for hay lands.

Those in position to know say that 15,000 acres have been signed up under the proposed canal to cover this and adjacent country. This will be the beauty spot of Idaho, when covered with water for irrigation.

Why not be fair? Vote for John O. Rice for the Supreme Court.—Adv.

MOUNTAIN VIEW NOTES

Mrs. G. H. Glendon's mother, Mrs. McAuley, is visiting a few days at her home.

GET BIG RETURNS FROM POTATO CROP

Brown & Savage Will Get More Than $10,000 From Their Twenty Acres of Spuds

KIMBERLY.—The potato crop promises to bring the record this year, from present indications, for cash returns per acre. Brown & Savage have sold their crop for $2.25 per hundred cash.

L. F. Fawley and family have returned from a trip to the East in their auto. They were gone several weeks and visited relatives and friends in Iowa and Nebraska.

The Ladies' Pioneer club will celebrate their annual festivities on Halloween in the basement of the Christian church, at which time a program will be rendered and box lunches served to the members and the husbands of the ladies.

D. W. Davis will speak in Kimberly at 11:30 a. m. Thursday. The Kimberly band has been secured to play at this meeting and a good crowd is expected to be present.

The Democratic candidates will speak at the Star theater on Wednesday evening of this week. The band will play and the Democrats are expected to turn out in force and hear the issues of the campaigner discussed.

The bank fixtures are being installed this week and as soon as complete the bank will be moved to its new location, where the corner that was destroyed by fire last December.

Stall Swearingin has sold his barber shop to G. O. Bremer and will leave town for a lower altitude, on account of the health of Mrs. Swearingin. Their many friends are sorry to see them leave Kimberly.

Charles Upton has returned from his trip to the Old Fellows' convention at Coeur d'Alene.

W. B. Fawley will hold a public sale two miles north of Kimberly on October 31, at which time his farm implements and other things will be disposed of and he will quit farming on account of ill health.

COMES NEAR LOSING ALL OF HIS HOGS

Bull Man Finds That Small Mixture of Spray Is Dangerous Swine Feed

That a small portion of spraying compound which contains arsenite is a mighty dangerous thing to feed hogs is the experience of M. D. Woods, who came to losing his whole bunch of porkers Friday night in a most unexpected way, says the Buhl Herald.

The experience of Mr. Wood may prove of value to other hog raisers.

With a bucket that contained a little bit of the spray that had dried to the bottom, Mr. Wood milked a cow that had just freshened, not thinking that a small portion could be dangerous.

After milking, he emptied the milk into a barrel of swill and from this barrel he fed a few pigs of the swill to his hogs. In the morning he found four of them dead and the rest moving around, refusing to eat at all. It was several days before the rest of the hogs would eat again in their former hearty manner.

Mr. Wood states that he believes it is because the hogs were fat and in splendid condition that he did not lose every one. "I have learned something by this experience," says Mr. Wood, "and I hope it will prove valuable to all the readers of the Herald, too."

DOROTHY GISH IN BRAND NEW ROLE

Newest Part That of Dutch Immigrant Girl, Who Falls Prey to Counterfeitters

Seven is said to be the perfect number, which ought to be a satisfaction to Dorothy Gish, the Triangle-Fine Arts star, who completed her seventh Triangle picture when she played the last scene of "Gretchen the Greenhorn," in which she will be seen at the Odeon theatre.

First in her list of Triangle appearances was "Old Heidelberg." Then came an entire change of character, in "Jordan Is a Hard Road," followed by the quaint New England romance, "Betty of Graystones." Her impersonation of a Pennsylvania Dutch heroine in "Little Men of the Range" came next. Then she appeared in "Susan Rocks the Boat" as a society girl who tried to set things right in a sphere where her methods were sadly out of place.

Next she was "The Little School-ma'am" in a play of American rural life, and now she is seen as a Dutch immigrant girl, who finds peril, adventure and ultimate happiness in the new world.

ATTENTION, W. O. W. Regular meeting Wednesday, November 2. Initiation. All members urged to be present.

It has been found that the Supreme Court of Idaho is best balanced by having one member from the North, one from the Southeast and one from the Southwest. The only way to continue this arrangement is by electing John G. Rice of Caldwell.—Adv.

HOW TO MANUFACTURE GOOD CIDER VINEGAR

University Bulletin Outlines the Best Methods of Vinegar Making on the Farm

The following from the University of Idaho news letter may prove useful to those farmers who have a larger apple crop this year than was expected, but consisting in the main, of wormy and unsuitable apples:

In the manufacture of vinegar on the farm, it is necessary to understand the actions which take place in the conversion of sweet cider into vinegar in order to obtain good results year after year.

Cleanliness is an important factor in the extraction of the cider from the apples. The extreme of burning a hose upon the apples or dipping them into a tub of water before grinding will be more than repaid in results obtained.

After coming from the press, pour the cider into a clean barrel and allow to stand until the solid matter settles. Pour off and discard the solid matter. For a clean barrel full of clear liquid, put a cotton plug into the bung, and then place in a room as near to 70 degrees Fahrenheit as possible. The addition of yeast to the cider at this time will hasten the action. The alcoholic action or the changing of the sugar in the cider to alcohol caused by yeast will now take place. The progress of this action may be observed by the bubbles which rise to the surface of the cider. When the bubbles no longer rise, the action is complete unless the temperature is so low that the yeast cannot work. The length of time necessary for this alcoholic action to become completed depends upon the temperature of the room and whether yeast was added. If yeast was added and the room temperature is about 70 degrees Fahrenheit, the action will probably be complete within three weeks. If the temperature is much lower than this, it may be three months before the bubbles quit rising to the surface. The bubbles are carbon dioxide gas and it is very desirable that this gas be allowed to pass away from contact with the cider; hence the reason for the cotton plug instead of a wooden plug.

ADD OLD VINEGAR.

When the alcoholic action is completed (which is determined by the fact that bubbles no longer rise) draw off the clear liquid, rinse the casks and then fill the barrels only half full. Now add about one-eighth of a barrel of good old vinegar and place some of fine quality "mash" of this old vinegar in a room at a temperature of about 70 degrees Fahrenheit as possible, and leave all holes in the barrel open, or take the head out of the barrel, covering it with this mash to keep out insects. The action by which the alcohol changes to acetic acid will now take place. This is accomplished by bacteria which must have air in order to work, and which thrive best at a temperature of 70 degrees Fahrenheit. The time necessary for this action to become completed varies from three to nine months, depending upon the temperature at which it is kept and the ratio of the amount of surface exposed to the air to the volume of liquid. If the liquid is in a large cask, but only a few inches in depth, the action is much more rapid than if the barrel is full. When the action is completed fill the barrels, cork tightly and store in a cool cellar.

H. COGGINS

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Twin Falls County:

Proper attention to official duties will not permit me to make a personal appeal for support to any great number, hence I am taking this means of reaching you. It should not be expected or desired that a public official neglect his office to further his candidacy.

I believe that the time is now at hand when a candidate for a county office will be supported according to his fitness for and ability to handle the office he seeks, and not because of political or other affiliations.

Having had the privilege of serving you as treasurer and tax collector for the past eleven months, I am willing that you should make my efforts in this capacity the basis for your decision as to whether I or someone else can and will serve you better during the next two years.

Appreciating the fact that taxes are high, I have endeavored to conduct my office at the minimum expense consistent with proper service, with the result that the outlay for clerical assistance has been cut nearly one-half.

I ask your support on my record and my promise that, if elected, I will continue to handle the office in a business-like manner and extend to each and every one good service and due courtesy.

—Adv.— H. COGGINS.

Fred Nihart

Is a candidate on the Republican ticket for the State Legislature. He was nominated by the aid of Buhl Democrats for the purpose of dividing Twin Falls county—he has declared that his best efforts will be devoted to this end.

¶ Twin Falls County is one of the most important, both politically and financially, in the State. Because she has grown so rapidly and is becoming so strong other sections of the State are jealous and would be glad to help divide her.

¶ Do not be deceived by the statements of politicians who for selfish reasons will tell you that Nihart's candidacy is not a menace—you cannot run two counties without doubling your county tax.

¶ HIGHER TAXES mean LOWER PROPERTY VALUATIONS.

¶ Fred Nihart was not loyal to the interests of Twin Falls County when he was a member of the Legislature four years ago. He is not loyal now, and is not entitled to the support of loyal residents. He was not nominated by REPUBLICANS and is not entitled to REPUBLICAN support.

¶ Let all who are opposed to county division with its attendant evils vote against Fred Nihart on November 7.

THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET

JUST a word as to the personnel of the Republican ticket in Twin Falls County. From start to finish down the entire list of the men who are this year making a bid for the various offices of the County, is there a single man or woman the people as a whole have any reason to be ashamed of?

We think not. In fact, it is a question if a more representative group of men were ever selected to run for office within the history of the County than those who comprise the Republican ticket this year.

The News has faith in the ability, the honor, the honesty and integrity of each and every one. All are men of sound judgment, ripened by experience along general business or professional lines. All are sincere in their efforts towards better things for Twin Falls County and all are making an honest, clean-cut campaign in the interests of party harmony and party success at the polls.

The appeal of these candidates is not directed towards the members of the Republican party alone. Each stands upon his or her record in a personal and a business sense, in addition to the claims of party affiliation. These people are progressive, enterprising and competent and the candidacy of each is entitled to consideration and support.

WHY NOT RAISE THE STANDARD?

IT is unfortunate that men who hold to and practice praiseworthy ideals in professional, business and private life do things in politics that in any other connection they would scorn to do and that they countenance and approve actions affecting politics that they would be quick to condemn if directed to other channels.

It is unfortunate, because politics is so inseparably a part of the science of government and because government can never approximate a proper standard so long as its most essential ingredient is polluted.

It is said that the people are to blame for the degeneracy of politics and inevitable decadence in government because they are almost criminally neglectful, narrowly prejudiced and distressfully gullible.

It is not fair, however, to jump at such conclusions, for the people are surely justified in believing that they will be correctly and safely led by those entrusted with public affairs.

The people, therefore, have a right to feel that they have been deceived, if not betrayed, when any of these leaders so conduct themselves as to set a lower standard of citizenship in public life.

The people of Idaho ought to feel that in their Governor—not the Republicans' governor nor the Democrats' governor, but their Governor—they have a man who will in his private and official life set an example worthy of emulation; that in point of honor and honesty, of judgment, of mentality, of poise and dignity, they have in him one to whom they can safely point their sons and daughters as an example.

There have been such men in the high position of Governor of this state, but not all of our governors have measured up even part way to that height to which the people could point with genuine pride and satisfaction.

What an example for the younger generation, or the older, when a man at the head of state government adopts the tactics of a mountebank or circus barker!

What an example when a man in that position becomes the cunning thief of the results of the efforts of others and publicly voices his claim to the stolen property!

What an example when a man in such a position resorts to charlatany and spitefulness and deception and premeditated lies to gain his political ends!

What an example in good citizenship to set before those who will soon take over control of affairs!

How may we expect better things to grow for the future from soil saturated with vicious elements?

We all have our political preferences, and it is well that we have honest differences of opinion as to the principles of government, but this is a question that goes to the roots of all principles of government and a condition that rots them all.

Irrespective of the success of any party or any candidate, all thinking people should with their votes place the hot seal of disapproval upon those men and agencies that tend towards a lowering of reasonable standards and a deadening of the public conscience to common decency, to intellectuality, to sound judgment and to correct deportment in public affairs.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

THE THIRD TERM

ORDINARILY aspirants for political office may be roughly divided into two classes. Those in which the candidate seeks the office and those where the office seeks the candidate. There are not many of the out and out office seeking type to be found on either ticket this year, and this is notably true of the Republican ticket, where there is not a single candidate asking a third term, and only one or two before the people for re-election.

As a working theory in elections, the third term practice is generally and properly frowned upon. No matter how competent a man may be for the work in hand, there is generally someone else to be found just as well qualified. And the spirit of American government is very apparent in the public attitude towards those who, usually for selfish reasons, demand re-election to positions which they have already filled for two previous election periods.

If the makers of the Constitution had had in mind the proposition of an indefinite succession in public office, the National term of office would have been more than four years, just as in the case of the State of Idaho, a safeguard against this very thing was written into the organic law in order that the people might have a chance to govern, and not delegate to a few men such right, year in and year out, to the actual destruction of the true theory of simple democracy.

The National leaders of both parties have long recognized the operation of the principle involved. No Republican President and no Democratic President has ever yet aspired to a third term of office. Down in the lower strata of matters political the principle operates just the same, although in isolated cases it is sometimes in danger of being forgotten.

Speaking generally, the third term should be frowned upon by Democrats and Republicans alike. The constant occupation of any position by one man or woman does not make for better service. It may ensure a continuance of good service, but not to a greater extent than would be provided through the election of a new incumbent. Public offices within the gift of the people should be divided up for the benefit of the people. No individual is so much bigger than his fellow individuals as to command the right of indefinite succession, and no possible good could come out of such practice even in the case of those with positive genius for positions in public life.

A sound, healthy and democratic tone is imparted by reason of the public prejudice against the third term, whether it be in Nation, State or County and the American public is to be congratulated that this is the case.

BETTER ROADS

AGAIN the progressiveness of the West End City of Buhl has been demonstrated. Already possessing some of the best roads in the county, the Commissioners of the Buhl Highway District last week voted a three hundred and fifty thousand dollar bond election for the construction of good roads in the Buhl Country. The plan of construction will be similar to the one which has been proven so successful in Ada county, and was adopted by the Buhl Commissioners after a personal inspection of its operation.

This plan calls for gravel surfaced roads throughout the district, the expenditure to be extended over a period of several years, a competent engineer oversees the work, and contracts are sublet to the farmers. Some time ago a similar bond issue was defeated, but since that time the marketing of crops has brought the farmers to a realization of the value of good roads, and many of the leading property owners in the district have made overtures to the Commissioners asking that the issue be placed before the voters again.

Perhaps the most attractive feature of the plan lies in the fact that farmers and their teams will be employed, the gravel will be obtained from pits north and west of Buhl, and practically all of the money will be kept at home, furnishing employment for the farmers themselves during the idle winter months.

PULITZER'S OPINION OF HUGHES

THE NEW YORK WORLD, most rabid of Hughes haters, is much perturbed because Republican papers are quoting from the will of its former owner, the late Joseph Pulitzer, naming Hughes as one of the executors of his estate.

The World says that Pulitzer may have considered Hughes a good man for executor of his estate, but that does not indicate an opinion that he would make a good President.

Now comes the disclosure that Pulitzer not only wanted Hughes to serve as an executor, without bonds, in managing an estate that included the World property, but also predicted that he would some day be President. And Pulitzer was a far wiser man than the present managers of the World.

LIGHT IN DARK PLACES

SOME people do not agree with The News in its attitude towards Governor Alexander. There are those who have gone out of their way to chide us gently when we referred to him as the cheapest political trickster of the age and otherwise called attention to his political ground and lofty tumbling in terms of dignified reproach.

For this The News is deeply sorry, but if Moses Alexander is not actually the most blatant political demagogue who ever disgraced the administration of a State, why is it that so much uncontroverted evidence to this effect continues to pour in?

Will not our readers sit down in calm, cold reason and study out with us the details of just one incident out of dozens which we offer in support of our belief that his election in the first place was a mistake and his re-election would be a crime. The facts offered are incontrovertible—if the conclusion differs from our own conception of it, well, we are never unwilling to listen to reason.

Everybody in Twin Falls has heard of the Twin Falls West End project. That graveyard of buried hopes, conceived in graft and nurtured on buncomb. It lies not far from Twin Falls. It consists, or did consist, of fifty thousand acres of desert sagebrush, of which twenty-three thousand acres were actually allotted to purchasers of water, notwithstanding the fact that the then State Engineer reported the water supply insufficient for more than fifteen thousand acres, and the cost of getting the water over even this limited acreage was practically prohibitive.

Prospective settlers were bilked out of two hundred thirty-nine thousand dollars. A large amount of the water rights were actually sold before the segregation was approved by the State.

These are all facts of common knowledge. The project is the most complete failure of any in Idaho, yet, when a few weeks ago, the chief promoter of the project, E. T. Meredith, of Des Moines, Iowa, now running for Governor of Iowa on the Democratic ticket, was called upon to reply to charges of fraud and deception in connection with the project, Governor Moses, always willing to oblige a brother in distress, promptly mailed him the following letter:

State of Idaho, Governor's Office, Boise, Sept. 27, 1918.—Hon. E. T. Meredith, Des Moines, Ia.—Dear Sir: I understand that the partisan press of your state is attacking your personal character in regard to your connection with the West End-Twin Falls Irrigation company in the state of Idaho.

Since my connection with the state land board as chairman, your company has done what has been required of them, giving a new bond for the faithful performance of its contract in place of an old one which we believed to be obsolete and not valid in law. You have also spent money in rehabilitating the project, and that the bona fide settlers can live upon the tract.

Previous to my membership on the board, the attorney general, who was a member, informs me that you acted in good faith and put your own money into the project to protect contract holders, and it therefore gives me pleasure to write these few lines to you in order that you may protect yourself and satisfy your constituents that there is nothing in your connection with this project that reflects upon your integrity, honesty and good intentions. Yours very truly,

M. ALEXANDER, Governor.

The News charges Governor Alexander with deliberate falsehood of the most vicious kind in connection with the writing of this letter.

Not even on the plea of ignorance can such an act be justified. There has been no work of any kind done upon the project for more than five years, nor has there been a single bona fide settler upon it within that time.

Now, what conclusion is one to reach regarding the "integrity, honesty and good intentions" of a man who, in the face of the facts, would be willing to write such a letter? If this act alone is not sufficient to nullify his right to the Governorship, in Heaven's name, what will!

IDAHO'S RIGHTS

IN the face of the fact that every single regiment mustered into Federal service at the same time the members of the Second Idaho took the oath has now been returned to civilian life, it is difficult to comprehend the reason of a lack of similar action in the case of the latter.

Apart altogether from what the boys themselves may think about it, we of Idaho want them back. We object to their continued use as policemen for Uncle Sam while the regular force is employed upon other matters.

In common with other towns in the State, the people of Twin Falls are preparing to petition the Governor to use his good offices to see that immediate action is taken looking to the return of the Second Idaho, and if ever presentation was made of a cause of action close to the hearts of Idaho people this is it.

If a condition of war obtained along the Border, Idaho would be the last State to object to a full measure of service on the part of her sons, but Idaho, with her four electoral votes, is entitled to just as much consideration in a matter of this kind as is any other State with four times as many—and Idaho demands that she receive it.

DEFEAT SHOSHONE BY IMMENSE SCORE

THIRTY-THREE POINTS FILED UP
BY TWIN FALLS HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL HUSKIES

Shoshone Is Never Given a Chance—
Fake Kick Spring by Local Team Works Well—Opponents Are Completely Baffled and Helpless—Line
Plunges Also Score for the Boys
From the Gem City

That two or three big men do not make a football team was the important fact discovered by Shoshone in their game with Twin Falls Friday, which the local boys won handsily by the comparatively big score of 33 to 0. Important factors in the victory of the Twin Falls boys lay in their strict observance of training rules and discipline of their coach's orders. Although their average weight is not extremely heavy, Coach Neffinger states that his team sacrifices opportunities for individual starting and playing time for teamwork, an important point in the making of the modern football team. In the game with Shoshone, Twin Falls scored on the first play and missed goal twice. Three of these came in the first half and two in the last half. Gains were made principally by means of the line. The fake kick working wonderfully well.

Backfield Changes
Patton at fullback and Glasgow at center played their first games at Shoshone. Scott, second center, played his first game in the backfield. This change of lineup gives Twin Falls practically two separate backfields. The advantage of making a change in the backfield in the middle of a game is obvious, and if that had been possible in the Buhl game the local team would probably have scored another touchdown.

There are two more games registered on the local schedule, one on the local gridiron tomorrow afternoon with Rupert and one with Buhl on Friday of next week. Manager Hoover is writing for another game before Thanksgiving. Payette and Blackfoot have both been scheduled for this season, and it is hoped to close the season with a game with one of them.

SCHOOL BOYS WANT TO WORK SATURDAYS

In order to help the farmers in the present shortage of labor, the Twin Falls high school has devised a plan to furnish school boys for Saturday work. Ralph H. Musser, instructor in agriculture, has charge of this work and already has on hand applications from a number of boys experienced in farm work who are able to work Saturdays picking up spuds, haying or beet topping, any sort of work needed in harvesting the crops.

Mr. Musser states that he may be reached at the high school building any time during the day and can furnish boys in almost any number.

A MERCILESS JUDGE.

One Who Shows No Favor.
A merciless Judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following advertisement from a Twin Falls resident has withstood the sternest of all tests.

C. W. Secord, carpenter, Fair Ave. Twin Falls, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for pains in my back, caused by weak kidneys and they gave me great relief."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER, Mr. Secord said: "Continued use of Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cured me of every symptom of kidney complaint."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Secord has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED TENANT FARMERS

for 40, 80, 120, 160 Acre Farms or larger at Dietrich, Richfield and Shoshone.

WE have a number of partially improved farms, principally on the Richfield and Dietrich Tracts, upon which we will place tenants for terms of from three to five years. Will lease these places under agreements providing for completion of improvement under the direction of the Company and an equitable division of expense and income. Terms and conditions can easily be met by men of small means. We are prepared to enter into mutually profitable arrangements with the right parties. Applicants who have not had farming experience on this or the Snake River projects will not be considered. Men with families will be given the preference. Both husband and wife must like the country and have ambitions to eventually own a farm of their own here. We will require from applicants references as to honesty, industry and farming experience, unless they are known to us personally. The more capital, livestock and farm tools a man has the more profitable arrangement he can make. While we are not offering this as an inducement, it is an excellent opportunity for the man of small means to gain a foothold which may enable him to become an owner at the end of the lease period. A few farms are ready for occupancy now. Others will be ready early in the spring.

Applications IN WRITING should state fully extent, character and location of farming experience; size of family and age of children; amount of capital, livestock and farm tools; kind of crop and livestock with which applicant has had most experience. Applicant must furnish names of at least three references (not relatives) who have personal knowledge of his standing and reputation, at least one of which must be a banker or merchant with whom he has done business. Applications will be received up to Nov. 1st, for immediate consideration and up to January 1st, 1917, for consideration in the spring. The first applicants will be in line for the best places. FINNEGAN'S PHILOSOPHY

On the Merry-Go-Round.

"Faith an' now Wilson's for protection. For a good while ago he was agin it, for it was agin the constabulary. Now that he is for it, that immortal instrument has also changed its mind. He makes me head shewin'.

"But I've good company. Bryan an' Garrison, the civil service dynamite, and the vulgar sows that's none 'Too Proud to Fight'—they've all been on the Merry-go-round. Some iv them turned sick.

"'God bless ye—ye're a good man, but ye make me dizzy,' says Bryan, leppin' from the Hobby Horse and runnin' for the woods. 'Twe a givin' me a right at last,' ye, says Wudthrow throwin' him a Coked-Hat iv the vintage of 1900.

"'Here's the Army bill,' says Garrison. 'How does it suit?' he asks.

"'Fine,' says Wudthrow, barrin' a few changes. 'Ye'll redraw it,' he says, 'to provide,' says he, 'voluntary universal military service for the states,' says he, 'controlled by the spiritual compulsion,' says he, 'it shud be neither too large nor too small,' says he, 'for maybe both,' he says; 'an' the ammunition,' says he, 'must be neither too much nor too little,' says he. 'Twe to see Hay, be he's the dearest the daytals, for 'tis me 'footy to kape an open mind,' says Wudthrow.

"'Stop the music and lave me off,' says Garrison. 'Are ye crazy or am I?' Garrison muses, 'agin' on the back an' 'agin' wildly at th' sky. 'God bless ye,' says Wudthrow. 'Twe a near-rugger at last,' you, he says. And as Garrison bows to it to Jarney the Merry-Go-Round plays a side step.

"'What iv the Navy?' says Kitchin. 'It shud be thruly adequate ivrywhere,' says the Great Idealist, 'except in Montana, where we need no Navy,' says he, 'and in B. E. where it shud be the biggest in the world.' 'We'll be none extravagant like them Haypublicans,' says he, 'no heres' the Dymert bill ye'll pass,' says he.

"'But this same is the Haypublican's bill,' says Kitchin startin'. 'Ye'll go an' pass it,' says Wudthrow, poundin' the desk with th' key. 'Says the black 'niggers the daytals for the bill. 'Do I dream,' says Kitchin. 'If I iver drink, I'd tink I was 'booted,' says Kitchin in a thremblin' vice. And he falls off.

"'How about the Army bill?' axes Hay.

"'Thorough an' instant preparation for defense must be the word,' says Wudthrow, wid heroic riasation in his eye.

"'I have here a bill,' says Hay, 'providin' for an increase iv five hundred men a year for twelv' year,' he says; 'an' anywhish for six hundred a year,' he says. 'Twill make us safe from Maddyknacker, meentes, muckrakin', millitiam and marital infidelity,' he says, 'an' I shud be th' first to say, 'he dies av he don't die before we catch him,' says Hay.

"'Embrace me,' says Wilson. 'Oh Hay—after all preparedness is a making iv the heart an' not of gums or forte. Did Cleveland foud the bill, ye a job?' he axes, stoppin' short like.

"'Divil a wan,' says Hay. 'Thin,' says Wudthrow shakin' the both iv Hay's hands confid' like, 'for ye patriotic service in so bravely supportin' me policies,' he says, 'I make a judge iv ye,' says he, 'as well as yer frind that ye put in the Joke,' says the President. 'Howly Salute,' says the preparation Silnters.

"'Th'what does this mean at all at all?' they axes. 'Twe the wan thrack mind,' says the President, 'say ye go all through me train iv thought before ye come to the pork can,' says he. 'Are ye an' axes the Apostle iv Common Councils.

"'We're on,' says the Silnters, fallin' off. An' the Merry-Go-Round plays a Wilson Waltz, (which ye know, Jawn, is wan step forward, two steps back, hesitate, in consequence), an' Timothy, coes out to spread the glad tidin's that the preparation 'rade will be led by the President in person.

"'How does he save his face?' asked Malumphy.

"'Wid his mouth,' responded Finnegan dryly.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." When Mr. Hughes was Governor of New York he did not pay political debts by filling the public offices with unskilled men. He did not champion certain principles during his campaign and repudiate them after he entered office. An Governor, he did not resort to big and beautiful words as a substitute for firm and consistent deeds. He was careful in his use of words but he backed his words with deeds. He did not promise what he could not perform. He did not plaster the people with compliments they did not deserve. He was not a rhetorician, he was not a flatterer, he was not "too proud to fight" for labor or for capital, for the strong or the weak, when the right was on their side.

Mr. Wilson's spokesmen seek to divert attention from the attacks Mr. Hughes is making upon the record of the Administration by asking him: "What would you do?" They are unconsciously helping Mr. Hughes. They are recalling to the memory of the people the record he made throughout his two terms as Governor of New York. It was then that he first said "public office shall not be a private nap under my administration," and made performance square with promise. There is this about Mr. Hughes that makes him so different from Mr. Wilson: "Hughes means what he says." So it is that the campaign is really a contest of character between two men, with sincerity as the differentiating and deciding factor.

Opportunism has claims that every statesman must respect. But never has there been an opportunist in the White House of greater willingness to change than the present incumbent. The country feared it had placed power in the hands of a doctrinaire school master incapable of bending. It finds that it has a man of remarkable plasticity of judgment, who one moment stands for states' rights and the next for nationalism, who one day is a pacifist, and the next is out-shouting Col. Roosevelt for arms and ships, who one week is for a barren neutrality and the next for war in behalf of general righteousness, who one night is for collective wage bargaining and arbitration of industrial disputes and the next is waving the flag of decreasing wages up or down as the vote of the larger number can be controlled.—New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser.

ACHIEVEMENTS ASSURANCE BLUNDERING IS NO HABIT

Winning Democrats Trying to Run Away From the Record of the Administration and to Inveigle the Voters Down the Rhetorical By-Paths, All in the Thinly-Disguised Effort to Change the Subject.

When Mr. Hughes criticizes the record of the Administration the spokesmen of Mr. Wilson cry: "What would you have done?" They forget that it is Mr. Wilson and not Mr. Hughes who is on trial. They forget that four years ago Mr. Wilson criticized Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt throughout the campaign and Mr. Hughes and Mr. Roosevelt defended their respective records, instead of crying "What would you have done?" They forget these things and they refuse to confess them. They are trying to run away from the record of the Administration and induce the people to follow them down some by-path of rhetorical hypothesis, all in the effort to change the subject.

CHAPTER IV.

The hand-clapping ceased as the dancer reappeared, smiling and bowing.

"I will dance again, if you wish," she announced, in perfect English, "introducing my new partner, Mr.—" she glanced into the wings inquiringly—"Senior Roberto. It is his first public appearance in this country, and he will endeavor to execute a variation of the Argentine tango."

Mr. Wharton was still talking. "That's my way of raising a son. I taught Bob to drink when I drank, to smoke when I smoked, and all that. My father raised me that way, and so."

The opening strains of a Spanish dance floated out from the hidden musicians. Lorelei, who was seated in the arms of a young man in evening dress, was still laughing, but her partner wore a grave face, and his eyes were lowered, he followed the intricate movements of the dance with some difficulty. To Lorelei he appeared disappointingly amateurish. Then a ripple of merriment, growing into a guffaw, advised her that something out of the ordinary was occurring.

"The—second!" Hannibal Wharton cried.

Merkle observed dryly: "He's won your thousand. I withdraw what I said about him; it requires a gigantic intelligence to outwit you." To Lorelei he added: "This will be considered a great joke on Broadway."

"That is Mr. Wharton's son?"

"It is—the most dissipated lump of arrogance in New York."

"Bob," the father shouted, "quit that foolishness and come down here! But the junior Wharton, his eyes fixed upon the stage, merely danced the harder. A few moments later he sank into a chair near his father, saying: "Well, dad, what'd you think of my educated legs? I learned that at night school."

Wharton grumbled unintelligibly, but it was plain that he was not entirely displeased at his son's prank.

"You were superb," said Merkle warmly. "It's the best thing I ever saw you do, Bob. Now could almost make a living for yourself at it."

The young man grinned, showing rows of firm, strong teeth. Lorelei, who was watching him, decided that he must have at least twice the usual number; yet it was a good mouth—a good, big, generous mouth.

"Thanks for those glorious words of praise; that's more than we're doing on the Street nowadays. Whew! Got my grape-juice for a growing boy? He helped himself to his father's wine—" glass and drained it. "You can't settle now, dad—me thousand iron mep. I owe it to Robert."

"What do you mean?"

"Debt of honor. I heard he was due here with some kind of an electric thrill, so I offered her my share of the sweepstakes to further disgrace herself by dancing with me." He caught Lorelei's eyes and stared boldly. "I tell you, I believe in fairies, too, dad. Introduce me to the Princess."

Merkle volunteered this service, and Bob promptly hitched his chair closer. Lorelei saw that he was very drunk, and worried at his control during the recent exhibition.

"Tell me more about the 'Parti-color Petticoat' and 'Dental Chewing Gum,' Miss Knight. Your face is a household word in every street car," he began.

She replied promptly, quoting happily from the various advertisements in which she figured. "It never shrinks; it holds its shape; it must be seen to be appreciated; is cool, refreshing, and prevents decay."

"How did you meet that French dancer?" Hannibal Wharton queried, sourly, of his son.

"I stormed the stage door and waylaid her in the wings. She thought I was you, dad. Wharton is a grand old name." He chuckled at his father's exclamation.

"Where did you learn those Argentine wiggles?"

"Hard times are to blame, dad. The old men on the exchange play golf all day, and the young ones turkey-trot all night. I stay up late in the hope that I may find a queer little sub-urbanite has dropped."

The elder men rose and sauntered away in the direction of their host, whereupon Bob winked.

"They've left us flat. Why? Because the wicked Mrs. Demorest has finally made her appearance as a guest. My dad is a splendid shock absorber. Naughty, naughty papa!"

"It's probably well that you came with her; fathers are so indiscreet."

Young Wharton signaled to a waiter who was passing with a wine bottle and a napkin.

"Tarry!" he cried. "Remove the shroud, please, and let me look at poor old Rodger. Thanks. How natural he tastes." Then to Lorelei: "The governor is a woman hater; but no man is safe in range of your liquid order, Miss Knight. Wouldn't mother enjoy reading the list of Hammon's guests at this party? Among those present were Mr. Hannibal O. Wharton, the well-known rolling-mill man; Miss Lorelei Knight, principal directress of the Bergman Revue, and Mlle. Adoree Demorest, the friend of a king. A good time was had by all, and the diners enjoyed themselves very nicely." He laughed loudly, and the girl stirred.

"She'd be pleased to read also that you came late, but highly interested."

"Ah! Salvation Nell! Bob took no offense. 'It the hour was late, she'd know my intoxication followed as a matter of course. I am a derivative of alcohol, the one and infallible argument against temperance, Miss Knight."

"You talk as if you were always drunk."

"Oh—not always. By day I am frequently sober, but at such times I feel company for neither man nor beast; I am harsh and unapproachable, and I connive. With nightfall, however, there comes a metamorphosis. Once I am stocked up with ales, wines, liquors and cigars, I become a living, palpitating influence for good, spreading happiness and prosperity in my wake."

"Do you consider yourself in such a condition now?" queried Lorelei, vaguely amused.

"I am, and, since it is long past the closing hour of one and the tango party is in full swing, suppose we blow this 'Who's Who in Pittsburgh' and taxi-cab out to a roadside where the bass fiddle is still inhabited and the second generation is trotting to the 'Robert R. Lee'."

Lorelei shook her head with a smile. "I don't care to go."

"Strange!" Mr. Wharton helped himself to a goblet of wine, appearing to heap the liquor above the edge of the glass. "No, if I were sober I could understand how you might prefer these 'pappy guys' to me, for nobody likes me then, but I'm agreeably pickled. Merkle won't take you anywhere, for he's full of distilled water and has a director's meeting at ten."

"Why don't you ask Miss Demorest? She came with you."

"Wharton sighed hopelessly. "Something queer about that Jane. D'you know what made us late? She went to mass on the way down."

"It was a special midnight service conducted for actors. I sat in the taxi and waited. It did me a lot of good."

Some time later Merkle returned to find Bob still animatedly talking; catching Lorelei's eye, he signed a desire to speak with her, but she found it difficult to escape from the intoxicated young man at her side. At last, however, she succeeded, and joined her supper companion at the farther edge of the fountain, where the timeless cupid still poured water from the cornucopia.

Merkle was watching his friend's son with a frown.

"You have just left the personification of everything I detect," he volunteered. "I've heard what his father said about raising him—how he taught Bob to drink when he drank and follow in his footsteps. But that isn't what I want to say to you. Help me feed these foolish goldfish while I talk."

"Do you think anybody would understand if I said that you and I, I fancied you and I were the only sober ones left?"

"Some of the girls are all right," Merkle eyed his companion closely. "Don't you drink?"

"I have nothing but my kinks."

"You seem to be sensible, Miss Knight. Something tells me you're very much the right sort. I know you're trying to get ahead, and I can help you if you'll help me. I need an agent, and I'll pay a good price to the right person."

"How mysterious?"

"I'll be plain. That acting teacher—she nodded toward Jarvis Hammon and Miss Lynn—strikes you as a well as a flirtation. It is something very different, for he's in earnest. He thinks he is injuring no one but himself with this business, and he is willing to pay the price; but the fact is he is putting other people in peril—me among the rest. Nobody outside of a man's family has the right to question his private life so long as it is private in its consequences. But when his secret conduct affects his business affairs, when it endangers what interests in which others are concerned, then his associates are entitled to take a hand. Do I make myself clear?"

"Perfectly. But you don't want me; you want a detective."

"My dear child, we have them by the score. We hire them by the year, and they have told us all they can. We need inside information."

The girl's answer was made with her habitual self-possession.

"I've heard about such things. I've heard about men prying into each other's private affairs, pretending to be friends when they were enemies, and using scandal for business ends. Miss Lynn is my friend—at least in a way—and Mr. Hammon is my host, just as he is a conventional party, and I'm not here as a conventional guest—inside the little coin purse he gave me is a hundred-dollar bill—but just the same, I don't care to act as your spy."

Merkle's grave attention arrested Lorelei's burst of indignation.

"Will you believe me," he asked, "when I tell you that Jarvis Hammon and Hannibal Wharton are the two best friends I have in the world? This is more than a business matter, Miss Knight."

"I can hardly believe that."

"It's true, however; I mean to serve Hammon. At the same time I must serve myself and those who trust me. I fear—in fact, I'm sure—that he is being used. I've learned things about Miss Lynn that you may not know. What you have told me tonight adds to my anxiety, and I must know more."

"What, for instance?"

"Her real feeling for him—her intentions—her relations with a man named Melcher."

"Maxey Melcher?"

"The same. Do you know his business?"

"No."

"He is a gambler, a political power; a crafty, unscrupulous fellow who represents big people. By helping me you can serve many innocent persons, and, most of all, perhaps, Hammon himself."

Lorelei was silent for a moment. "This is very unusual," she said at length. "I don't know whether to believe you or not."

"Suppose, then, you let the matter rest and keep your eyes open. When you convince yourself who means best to Jarvis—Miss Lynn and Melcher and their crowd, or I and mine—make your choice. You may name your own price."

"There wouldn't be any price," she told him, impatiently. "I'll wait."

Merkle bowed. "I can trust your discretion. Thank you for listening to me, and thank you for being agreeable to an inebriated old dyspeptic. Will you permit me to drive you home when you're ready?"

"I'm ready now."

But as Lorelei made her way unobtrusively toward the cloakroom she encountered Robert Wharton, who barred her path.

"Fairy Princess, you ran away," he declared, accusingly.

"I'm leaving." She saw that his intoxication had reached a more advanced stage. His eyes were glazed; his eyes were wild and unsteady.

"Good night! The night is young; we'll watch it grow up."

"Thank you, no. I'm going home."

"A common mistake. Others have been so fooled. With extreme grace he focused his gaze upon her, saying, 'Home is the one place that our mayor can't close.'

She extended her hand. "Good night."

"I don't understand. Speak English."

"Good night."

Wharton's countenance darkened unpleasantly, and his voice was rough. "Where'd you learn that line? It's country stuff. We'll leave when I'm ready. Now we'll have a trot."

The music was playing; other couples were dancing, and he seized her in his arms, whirling her away. In and out among the chairs he piloted a dizzy course, while she yielded reluctantly, conscious, meanwhile, that Adoree Demorest was watching them with interest.

For an interval Lorelei said nothing; then, with a change of tone, he murmured in her ear: "D'you think I'd let you spoil the whole night? Can't you see I'm crazy about you?"

Lorelei endeavored to free herself from his embrace, but he clutched her the tighter and laughed insolently.

"Nothing like a good 'turkey' to get acquainted, is there? We're going to dance till we're old folks."

She continued to struggle; they were out of step and out of time, but he held her away from himself easily, bending a hot glance upon her upturned face. She saw that he was passing a dangerous line with her.

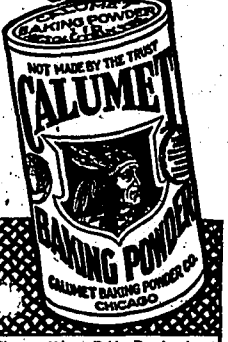

"Don't get it, I've got you."

She was smiling faintly, out of habit, but misinterpreting her expression, he drew her close once more, then buried his face in her neck and kissed her just at the turn of her bare shoulder.

Then she tore herself away, and his triumphant laugh was cut short as she slapped him resoundingly, her stinging fingers leaving their imprint on his cheek.

Her eyes were flaming and her lips were white with fury, though she continued to smile.

"Here! What'd you mean by that?" he cried.

She silenced him sharply. "Hush! Remember you broke in here. I'd like to see you in that fountain."

There was a swish of garments, a musical laugh, and Adoree Demorest was between them.

"I'm really jealous, Senior Roberto," she exclaimed. "Come, you must dance once more with me. We'll finish this."

What? She swayed toward him in sympathy with the music, napping her fingers and humming the words of the song.

"She—walloped me—like a sailor!" the young man stammered, incoherently. "She—wants to see me in the fountain."

"Then jump in like a gentleman," laughed the dyspeptic. "But dance with me first." She entwined her arms about him and forced him into motion.

As she danced away she signaled over her shoulder to Lorelei, who made haste to seek the cloakroom.

When she emerged John Merkle was waiting in the hall. A shout of laughter echoed from the banquet hall, and she started.

"That's nothing," Merkle told her. "Bob Wharton is in the fountain. He says he's a goldfish."
