

A good feed rack should last for years, provided that it be well built of suitable lumber.

But since each stick is exposed to the elements, it is best to use material which has been seasoned a bit in the lumber yard—this is a necessary precaution to minimize the tendency to twist and warp and "end-check".

PLAN TO ANNEX A PORTION OF OWYHEE COUNTY

WOULD AID CONSTRUCTION OF GOOD ROAD TO JARBIDGE CAMP

CONFERENCE HELD IN COMMERCIAL CLUB ROOMS—LOCAL CITIZENS MEET R. F. LEWIS OF SAN FRANCISCO, ATTORNEY FOR INTERESTS OF LONG HIKER PROPERTY—FAITH IN CAMP

If the plans of members of the Twin Falls Commercial club and others interested can be carried through, Twin Falls county will be enlarged by the annexation of some 12 townships of Owyhee county for the purpose of furthering the building of a proposed road between Twin Falls and the mining camp at Jarbridge. The construction of this road is made advisable and practicable by the past and present growth and the prospects of that gold mining camp.

These matters were taken up and discussed Monday afternoon of this week at an informal meeting at the Commercial club rooms, attended by a number of the local citizens and by R. F. Lewis of San Francisco, attorney for the owners and promoters of the Long Hike and other properties at Jarbridge. Over large maps of the proposed road and of the territory through which it would run, the matter was discussed by the interested parties present.

The need for such a road as proposed was emphasized both by Mr. Lewis and by those present, who have traveled to Jarbridge and are otherwise more or less interested. The condition of much of the present road, especially that beyond the boundary line of Twin Falls, was condemned and said to be practically impassible in some places during the winter and early spring months.

Has Faith in Jarbridge

The building and improving of a road from Twin Falls was encouraged by Mr. Lewis, who, in his remarks, showed the faith of various promoters in the future of Jarbridge. He was asked if it were not true that the Owyhees are back of much of the work, especially in regard to the Long Hike property. In reply he neither affirmed nor contradicted the question, but stated that great moneyed interests were promoting the properties and would do their share of the road building in Nevada.

"How useless girls are today. I don't believe they know what needles are for."
"How absurd you are, grandma," protested the girl. "They're to make the graphophone play."

THERMOMETER HITS LAST YEAR'S MARK

Four Degrees Below Zero Registered at J. A. Waters' Farm Sunday Night

Dropping rapidly after the snowstorm on Sunday, the thermometer very nearly touched bottom, so far as Twin Falls is concerned, Sunday night, and Monday morning found it down to four degrees below zero in the standard government thermometer at the J. A. Waters farm, one mile north of town. Varying estimates as to the depth of the freeze are hazarded, all the way from seven inches to a foot and a half being estimated.

Reports from over the tract generally credit the farmers with having harvested most of their crops, with the exception of sugar beets. These the freeze will not harm, but will undoubtedly hold up digging for a short time. Officials at the sugar factory were not greatly worried, as beets were still being brought in Monday and Tuesday, but the frozen ground must necessarily greatly hinder and complicate plowing them out, even where the work was not stopped altogether.

Potato growers universally report that their crops were shipped or stored before the freeze came. Great quantities of red clover are still lying in the shock and, unless there comes a full week of drying weather, it may have to remain until spring before the seed can be threshed out.

West-End Team Coming to Play Twin Falls High School on Local Gridiron

In a game that will wipe out old scores between the Buhl and Twin Falls high schools, the local aggregation will play their final game of the 1916 football season tomorrow afternoon with the west-enders on the local gridiron. The scores of the two previous games were 7-0 in favor of Twin Falls and 6-3 in favor of Buhl.

FURS

There are large quantities of garments on the market that are made from furs that are not desirable. The skins are tender, the fur wears off readily and the color "crops" or rubs off. This class of furs is sold under commercial names that do not give those who are not familiar with the manufacture of furs a correct idea of just what they are.

In the selection of the furs I handle special attention has been given to the kind, quality and make, and I can assure you good folks who have in mind buying furs that you can come here and feel assured of getting the right kind, and, as in other lines I carry, the prices will be right.

Come in and let us show you, even if you do not want to buy.

The Greatest Event in the History of Our Business Existence

A Proclamation

To the People of Twin Falls

Y INVITATION, we have become members of The United Jewelers. This is an association of several hundred leading jewelers of the United States who do an annual aggregate business of over twenty million dollars.

The largest, single jewelry store in the world has not one-tenth the outlet for general merchandise that the present hundreds of HALLMARK stores have. These HALLMARK jewelers in banding themselves together to produce special merchandise for sale only in their own stores, are establishing a standard of quality and minimizing price. Any article bearing the trade-mark "HALLMARK" reflects the combined judgment of hundreds of the leading jewelers in the United States. It is produced in quantities exceeding the total consumption of the ten largest stores in the world. The cost is less and the construction and quality must equal the best in its class.

Every piece of HALLMARK merchandise is guaranteed to give complete satisfaction.

To gain membership, a jeweler must satisfy high and exacting standards. He must be the leading jeweler in his community and have the sort of reputation that commands and maintains public confidence.

Each jeweler associated with this co-operative company was carefully investigated and approved by a capable committee of jewelers before being invited to join the organization. Financial responsibility was not sufficient, though one of the essentials, to gain the invitation. Each man must be proved to be of the highest integrity personally and as a merchant. Each member must stand high in his community with a store of dependable merchandise, honestly represented and moderately priced.

Only one jeweler in any one town or city can gain membership in this association. Therefore, we consider our selection for this honor a great tribute to us.

The stores of the members of The United Jewelers are known as THE HALLMARK STORES. They own and control productions from many factories, all of which is standardized in quality and price. Thus, the middlemen's profits and excessive costs of distribution are eliminated and we secure the lowest, direct-from-factory prices.

This means that you can now obtain either a lower price on usual quality; or, a higher quality at the usual quality price. As an easy means of identification, this merchandise is all stamped with the name "HALLMARK." This mark not only guarantees quality and price—it also guarantees absolute satisfaction to the purchaser.

We are now able to secure better and larger assortments; newer, fresher stocks, and up-to-the-minute styles and designs—because of this direct-from-factory buying.

Through The United Jewelers' expert buyers in New York we can now procure anything to be found in any jewelry store in America. This provides our customers with the same merchandise, the same prices, the same quality of general service available in the largest stores in the largest cities.

So, whenever you need dependable jewelry store items give our store your careful examination—its goods, its service; its safeguards against disappointment—its hospitalities. Prices, of course, are as usual, notably moderate.

For further information in regard to this wonderful development in the Jewelry World, watch the local papers. But, without waiting any longer, see our windows. Come in and look around and you will be agreeably surprised, and, do you know, we are already laying articles aside for CHRISTMAS. People come in and look, seeing some superior article at a surprisingly low price, they wait no longer.

Come one, come all, we are ready for the greatest Christmas we ever had.

SCHEME COSTS DEPARTMENT
$11,000—PROMOTERS SKIP

What is undoubtedly the latest and probably the most "something-for-nothing" scheme is that originated by a firm calling itself the National Mail Order Brokerage Exchange, at 250 Globe building, Minneapolis, Minn. The affairs of this company has necessitated the employment of 20 extra men in the Minneapolis office, its mail containing 10 per cent of the business of the office and costing the postoffice department to date approximately $11,000.

Postmaster Strunk was in receipt of the first of the week of a department order withdrawing from the mails all letters addressed to the so-called National Exchange, in compliance with which he stated that the local clerks have already returned to the office scores of letters from Twin Falls people, although many others had been forwarded before the order came, and several are being sent to the local letter office for want of a return address.

Answers Are Baled

The scheme which has brought such an avalanche of returns as to necessitate the postal employees at Minneapolis doing the answers up in bales to keep ahead of the flood is a rather brilliant adaptation of the chain letter. Letters were sent out to women in all parts of the country, promising to send them a silk petticoat worth $1.75, provided the addressee will remit 10 cents to the concern, and send five exact copies of the letter received by her to five of her acquaintances. The scheme had been in operation for some little time before it was discovered and the sleuths of the department put on the trail of the promoters. These have, apparently left Minneapolis and cannot be found, but their work lives after them, and the

E. T. Meredith, the Dos Moines, Iowa capitalist, well known in Twin Falls county, and particularly at Elgin, by his connection with the Twin Falls West End Irrigation project, was defeated last week in the Democratic campaign for governor of Iowa, by Harding, the Republican party candidate.

According to reports received at this office, the fight was a bitter one, and the Idaho scandal was made a leading issue of the campaign in that state. One of the leading farm journals of the state came out with a complete expose of the affairs of the unfortunate Twin Falls West End project and Meredith's connection with it, and the farmer vote in Iowa had much to do with his defeat.

It is reported at Elgin that Meredith will be out this week to confer with the farmer voters and the members of the state land board.

EGG PRICES ARE ON THE UPBOND

Not to be outdone by other lowly commodities, such as flour, spuds and beans, which have lately graduated into the luxury class, the humble egg took a jump in the local market to 50 cents per dozen the latter part of the week and has remained there ever since. All over the country the lowly hen is having her inning, and a writer in the Saturday Evening Post of last week declares that there are practically no storage eggs in the country as compared with previous years, and that mid-winter will see a new level in the prices of hen fruit.

Compentent authority states that the highest-priced candy bars for Christmas gifts this year at the local candy stores will be filled with a choice selection of fresh eggs, in place of bitter sweet and chocolate-covered Brazil nuts which the swains of the town have been accustomed to present to the objects of their affection. Whether this is true or not, it is easy to believe that, should the prices continue soaring, many a young lady would prefer a nice fresh egg for breakfast to a whole box of sweets the night before.

MAN HELD BECAUSE OF A TECHNICALITY

Papers Signed by Both Governors for Return of G. A. Krueger Turned Down by Federal Court.

Deputy Sheriff Ormsby returned Sunday from Los Angeles, where he went, armed with extradition papers from Governor Alexander for the return to this city of Charles A. Krueger, formerly of Twin Falls, for trial. The requisition papers were honored by the governor of California, but Krueger appealed to the Federal court, which in due time considered the plea and refused to grant his extradition, on the grounds of a slight technicality which appeared in the papers made out at Twin Falls. When this trouble is righted, the officers expect to bring their man back to Twin Falls for trial.

Krueger had the contract for the construction of the Johnson Auto Sales company's garage, recently built, and he is charged by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty company with fraud in securing the signature of another to an instrument in writing whereby a liability was created and through which the bonding company lost some $2500.

BROTHER WRITES FROM TRENCHES ON FIRING LINE

WITH BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCES IN EUROPEAN WAR

E. H. WARRINGTON SENDS INTERESTING LETTER TO BROTHER IN TWIN FALLS—SAYS RAINY SEASON HAS BEGUN THERE—NOT ALL PLEASURE AND INTEREST FOR SOLDIER—SPIRIT IS FINE

After six or eight weeks of anxiety at not hearing from her younger brother, Edgar, who is with the troops in Europe, Miss Jessie Warrington received a letter the latter part of the week from "somewhere in France," telling that her brother is still safe and in good spirits.

The letter is headed: "No Date—Nowhere—No Time—No Place." Below was the following: "Have learned the date since starting this letter—it is October 6, 1916." The letter is written on Y. M. C. A. paper, under the heading, "With the British Expeditionary Forces." A part of the letter follows: "Your most welcome letter and no-dak pictures received today. It sure did me a lot of good. Have not yet received the cigarettes you sent, but packages are sometimes a month behind the letter advising that they have been sent. This is the first letter I have received for several weeks and had almost given up hopes of ever getting any more letters from anybody.

"This is not all 'milk and honey,' now that the rainy season is on and everything is wet for weeks and no chance to dry out. I washed my socks five days ago and up to last night they were just as wet as when I washed them, so I put them on and slept in them, and that dried them out all right. The spirit of the men is sure fine. They don't care whether it is raining or not.

Good Falls

"My chum and I have been having a fine time for three or four days, as we are both cripples. We were on the move one night and had stopped for a short rest on the road. As the start was made again I was holding my horse and helping Major Mc-stole a blanket and made a dry place for me to lie in, then fixed me up all O. K. The next day he was looking after both me and my horse and everything was going fine all day. He would come and move me to a comfortable position and look after me like a mother. About 10 o'clock that night my horse came in and Gordon was going to tie him up, when Major Mc-

Mc's horse kicked him right on the point of the chin. I am sure it would have killed him if he had not been an exception. He is the best pal I ever met. We are both writing now. He is writing to his mother in Canada. You know, 'Gee,' there must be a lot of good in a man that writes every day to his mother, no matter what the circumstances are.

Has Lost Friends

"We were both drafted from the 51st to this battalion last spring. You can send mail to the address to which you sent the other and it will always find me. When some of these chaps that are on the Mexican border were over here for a month, they might change their views on what a man has to go through in a real war. I cannot tell you, and could not describe it if I were permitted to do so.

"Well, I am almost out of paper, so will close for this time. Please don't wait for me to write, but write whenever you can and I'll do the same. Cannot give you any news, but you can see by the papers what is going on and what we are doing. If I could write things as I see them, I could write a book. On what the French chaps are doing for this war while their men are away fighting, but I can't do it.

"P. S.—Tell them all to write, and they will be sharing outfit, under wear or anything like that would be appreciated very much."

BOYS OF U. S. E. SERVICE IN DEMAND

S. B. Williamson, former chief of construction of the U. S. R. E. S., and consulting engineer to the secretary of the war, is in all the papers doing for this war while their men are away fighting, but I can't do it.

"P. S.—Tell them all to write, and they will be sharing outfit, under wear or anything like that would be appreciated very much."

Last week George W. Byrnes, cost keeper for this project, and who came from the Elephant Butte dam, left for Chile as a member of Mr. Williamson's force. Mr. Byrnes goes by way of San Francisco, thence to New York and by water through the Panama canal to Chile.

All members of the force will have their expenses paid to the point at which they will work and if they stay with the company for three years their future expenses will also be paid. A pretty soft snap and one that most anyone would be glad to get.

UNLOADING LUMBER FOR CATTLE YARDS

Utah Construction Company Preparing to Feed 2000 Head Near Sugar Factory

Preparatory to shipping in 2000 or more head of cattle for feeding on sugar pulp and hay, the Utah Construction company is unloading lumber at the sugar factory for building pens and sheds in which to keep the stock. These pens will be built in Rock Creek canyon, a few hundred feet southwest of the factory and near the big pulp silo.

At all of the factories of the Amalgamated Sugar company the feeding of stock is made the most important side issue. At Burley the Portland Packer Co. ships in every fall from 2000 to 5000 head of cattle and from 5000 to 20,000 head of sheep. The pulp makes up only a part of the feed and the quantities of hay must be bought by the feeding companies, a feature which in Burley has made a big local hay market.

NEW INDUSTRY MAY SOON BE ESTABLISHED

In the Commercial club rooms is a sample of syrup made by L. Walton, living two miles east of town, from sugar beets. Mr. Walton obtained three quarts of syrup from ten sugar beets of ordinary size. He expects to make a test of 100 pounds and if a paying quantity of syrup is obtained from this amount, he plans to establish a small syrup plant in this community.

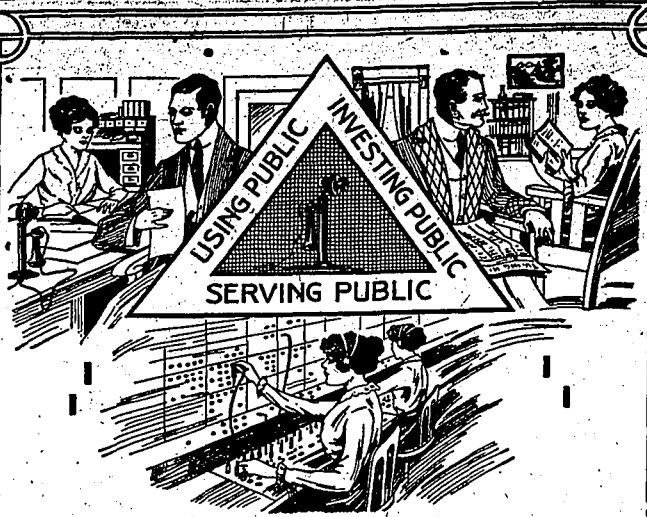

The quality of the syrup and the taste are highly satisfactory, the only objection filed at the Commercial club being that James McMillan, the secretary, does not eat of it, but his wife or waitress to go with the splendid syrup.

Mr. and Mrs. James McMillan have moved into their handsome new home, on Second avenue north, and as soon as some of the finishing touches are added here and there inside, and some beautiful old belongings have arrived from the East to complete the rooms, they will be at home to all their friends.

The old home, which was removed directly across and onto lots owned by Mr. and Mrs. McMillan on Third avenue north, is given over to Mr. McMillan's eldest daughter, Mrs. Marion Dunn, who has removed here from Soldier with her children. The new home of Mr. and Mrs. McMillan is one of the finest in the city in point of appearance, comfort and modern conveniences.

Mutual Interest

From a telephone standpoint the public is made up of three grand divisions, all equally interested in the growth, development and general success of our enterprise.

The telephone INVESTING public, our stockholders, who furnish money with which to build plant. They are interested because they seek assurance that their investment is safe and that a fair return will be forthcoming.

The telephone SERVING public, our employees, who operate the plant. They are interested because their lives are centered in their chosen vocation, and their material welfare depends upon a remuneration commensurate with the unceasing energy and sincere purpose which they are devoting to this public service.

The telephone USING public, our patrons, whom we serve. They are interested because the efficiency and adequacy of their service depends upon our ability to build plant in pace with the development of the several states, to maintain our plant at a high standard of efficiency and to pay salaries and wages sufficient to attract the most competent employees.

Here is a mutuality of interest involving obligations which must be mutually shared by the entire public.

HIS LAST WORDS
A detective was praising the truthfulness of women.

"If war bulletins were as truthful as women," he said, "we'd have a better idea of how this world struggle is really going."

"I remember a case the other day—it's interesting in its revelation of woman's truthfulness—the case of a husband who had disappeared."

"Questioning the wife, I said to her: 'And now, madam, tell me—this is very important—tell me what your husband's very last words were when he left.'"

"His last words," the truthful creature answered with a blush, "were, 'For heaven's sake, shut up!'"

This autumn we ordered the heaviest supply of photographic material that we have ever bought for one season's work. And we are going to need it all—of this we are reasonably certain.

Primarily, this seems strictly our own business, but on second consideration it is also your business if you intend to have us make your Christmas portraits. For if we use all the material that fills to overflowing the long line of cabinets in our stock-room, we are going to be very busy.

And here is where you are concerned. You want the best of our thought and our most careful work upon your portraits. We want to give you this, too, but we can more easily give it to you right now.

You may think there is plenty of time—there would be if you were our only customer; but it is not early, it is already late. December always means crowds and hurry, and December will soon be here. Make your Christmas plans today.

MANY HOME VOTES FOR JUDGE HANSEN

NEIGHBORS TURN OUT TO OBEY THE JUDGE'S ELECTION TO THE LEGISLATURE

Bridge Bonds Were of Special Interest to Hansen People—Bim-to-Bim Structure May Be Completed Before Another Winter Sets In—Will Provide a Scenic View of Incomparable Grandeur

HANSEN.—With all the excitement of election out of the way, the people of Hansen have settled down to the usual run of business, with that customary threat: "Just wait until the next time." Election day was quiet on the whole, although there were a large number of people in town. The total number voting was 236. Interest in the election, of course, was the height on Tuesday and quite a number of bets were made. Fresh bets were rather scarce; although one or two were heard of.

The bridge bonds, which were of special interest to Hansen, were passed in this precinct almost unanimously, and the fact that they carried all over the county by a special majority was a source of great satisfaction to those who have worked to make it a success, as well as to all those who voted for it. With the bridge under way, only waiting for Twin Falls county to get ready, it is possible to see the preliminary work started this winter and the completion of the bridge before another winter.

Chief Judge Hansen

Judge Lawrence Hansen, candidate for representative of Twin Falls county in the state legislature, was elected, and in the Hansen precinct received the largest number of votes cast for any one person. On Wednesday night a large number of townspeople gathered at the postoffice and there was a call in a body to greet the judge and congratulate him. When Mr. Hansen was escorted outside by one of the crowd, he was greeted by three cheers from his admirers by a special majority was a source of great satisfaction to those who have worked to make it a success, as well as to all those who voted for it. With the bridge under way, only waiting for Twin Falls county to get ready, it is possible to see the preliminary work started this winter and the completion of the bridge before another winter.

W. B. Summers of Kimberly Will Have Thirty Carcasses to Go East by Special Train

T. Lake expects to leave for Chicago next week, where he will visit friends and relatives until after the holidays.

The school board met Monday evening and granted the contractors 15 days extension on the erection of the new building. It has been impossible to get shipments of material promptly and the new building will be ready until about the first of December.

Bargains are listed in classified ads.

ELECTION QUIET AT ROCK CREEK

Vote Cast About Normal and Count Was Finished Early—Telephones Out of Order

ROCK CREEK.—Election day passed off very quietly here with about the usual vote, and the count was finished before 10 p. m. The interest in the national election was so great that a number went in to Twin Falls after the returns were given out here, to be near a telegraph, but received no definite news. The telephones went out of order here Wednesday at noon and no news was forthcoming except by messengers from the railroad, and the people realized to some extent the isolation of twenty years ago, when elections were in doubt for many weeks after the day of casting the ballot. Service of a kind has been established again, but it is still rather uncertain.

Whatever Your Line of Business—You Can Use a Burroughs

Saving Money by Preventing Errors

YOU know from experience that an error of a penny or so can easily occur in the hastily added figures of your clerks.

Each loss may be small in itself—may even fail to impress you as being of particular importance. But suppose this happens several times a day. A daily loss of 10-cents each for two clerks amounts to more than $60 a year, which is equal to 6% profit on $1,000 worth of business.

Errors Can Be Prevented

You want to prevent errors and you can prevent them—with a Burroughs Figuring Machine. Instead of adding cash and charge sales mentally, add the items with the machine. Your clerks can learn to use the Burroughs in a few minutes' time. It will handle your other figure work, as well as cash and charge sale additions. There will be no more errors, for the Burroughs never makes mistakes.

Customers Like the Plan

When a cash purchase is made of several articles the clerk runs off the items on the machine, tears off the machine-printed slip and hands it to the customer. The slip shows each item of the purchase neatly printed and a printed total. The customers can verify the individual amounts at a glance and he knows that the machine-added total is always correct.

Compare this method with the old way of scribbling items on a piece of wrapping paper, adding them mentally and often wrongly! The clerk tells the customer the amount of the purchase, as he has figured it. If the customer add the figures mentally and finds an over-charge error he will resent it—may even quit trading at your store.

Are You Giving This Service

Using a Burroughs to protect your customers against figure errors is a business-building service. Protecting yourself against possible under-charges will save you many dollars. Customers prefer to trade at the store that gives this service. You will see the advantage of being one of the first merchants in your neighborhood to adopt the plan.

If you will write to the address given below, we will gladly show you how advantageously a low-priced Burroughs can be used right in your own store.

THANKS CONSTITUENTS FOR THEIR SUPPORT

Hon. Addison T. Smith Pays High Compliment to People of Idaho

"The generous support given my candidacy for re-election by the people in Twin Falls county, and, in fact, all over the state, affords me the greatest satisfaction, and inspires me to renewed efforts to serve them to the fullest extent of my time and ability," remarked Congressman Smith to The News, before leaving for Boise, where he has been called to confer with Republican leaders before returning to Washington for the opening of congress.

"No congressman ever represented a people who are more loyal, more thoughtful in their commendations for efforts in their behalf and more tolerant in their criticisms than are the people of Idaho. I most deeply appreciate the evidences of confidence and esteem as indicated in the splendid vote which I received, and which, I am glad to say, is not confined entirely to the members of the party to which I belong."

"As the people who have had occasion to call upon me in person or by letter with reference to matters in which they are interested know, I make no distinction in attending to their desires, but endeavor to give the very best service possible regardless of their party affiliation or station in life."

ODD FELLOWS WILL DEDICATE NEW HALL

KIMBERLY.—The Odd Fellows will dedicate their new hall on Friday evening of this week, November 17. The wives of the members are also invited and a lunch will be served. A pleasant evening is anticipated in their new fireproof lodge hall, which is one of the best in the state.

BOY SCOUTS PLAY FOOTBALL

We have 100 scouts in the city, meeting in the high school gymnasium on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The boys had a great game of football with the Buhl scouts last Saturday, but not having their strongest lineup were compelled to take the short end of the score. But watch them step up things at the ball park next Saturday at 3 p. m. The parents and all friends of the boys are urged to be present and enjoy such clean sport as Boy Scouts furnish, but a battle royal.

"Do you mean to tell me you never went to a circus in your life?"

"Never."

"But your business is designing the pictures they put on billboards."

"That's why I never go to a show. It might hamper my imagination."

OMAHA MARKET EXPERTS BUT LITTLE MORE RANGE STOCK—ELECTION AFFECTS MARKET

Beef Steers of All Grades Show Advance—Sheep Market Similarly Affected, With Receipts From the Range Dropping Off—Aged Stock and Lambs Sell 50 to 60 Cents Higher Than a Week Ago

OMAHA—The season for Western range cattle is fast drawing to a close. It is shown both in the quantity and quality of the receipts of late. There were about 25,000 cattle here this week, and, judging by the character of the bulk of the offerings, it was largely a cleanup run. Stockmen are sending in some very choice heavy beefs, but the big share of the arrivals consist of steers that they do not want to carry through the winter. Fortunately for shippers, the demand from packers has been of the broadest character and there has been a good outlet for any stock of all useful in the way of killing stock. Beef steers of all grades are selling around 25c higher than a week or ten days ago, and the advance on cows and heifers has been 2c to 3c. Prime heavy range beefs are quoted at $9.50 to $10 and good to choice 1100 to 1300-pound beefs are selling at $8.50 to $9. The fair good kinds are moving largely at $7.50 to $8.25 and on down. Strictly good to choice cows and heifers are selling readily at $6.50 to $7 and upward, while the bulk of the fair to good beef cattle and stock in going at a range of $5.85 to $6.50. The common fair canners and cutters bring from $6.25 to $6.50 and on down. Calves continue to be strong at $8 to $10 and bull stags, etc., are bringing better prices than a week ago, $5.25 to $6.50.

Election Affects Business

Tuesday's election was largely responsible for a decrease in both supply and demand for stock cattle and feeders for the week has been of very moderate proportions. Tons to the market have been strong, however, and closing quotations are from 10c to 25c higher than a week ago. Strictly good to choice feeders are selling at $7.50 to $8, the fair to good grades going largely at $6.75 to $7.40, and on down. Good to choice staff and odds and ends selling at $6 to $6.75 and on down. Stock heifers are stronger at $5.75 to $6.25 and so are calves at $4.75 to $6.25. Stock sheep are selling at $6.25 to $8. A good clearance for the week was made and the feeling in the trade was rather strong at the close.

In the sheep market it has been much the same as in the cattle. Receipts from the range are dropping off and there is a gradual increase in the average of covered ewes, as well as a considerable improvement in the character of the offerings. Competition from feeder buyers continues brisk and there has been a decided advance in prices all along the line. Both aged stock and lambs are selling around 50c to 60c higher than a week ago and there is a very strong undertone to the market for the killing and feeding stock.

Current quotations for sheep and lambs are about as follows: Lambs, good to choice, $11.25 to $11.55; lambs, fair to good, $10.75 to $11.25; lambs, feeders, $8.75 to $10; yearlings, good to choice, $8.50 to $9.25; yearlings, feeders, $7.75 to $8.75; yearlings, fair to good, $7 to $8.25; yearlings, fair to good, $7 to $8.25; ewes, fair to good, $6.75 to $7.10; ewes, plain to culls, $4 to $5.75; feeding, 4.50 to 4.75; ewes, breeding, all ages, $3 to $3.50.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty. It is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life the body is like a neglected clock, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-cleansing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid weakness. Write to Scott's.

UNIVERSITY HAS A SCOUT COURSE

Boston Institution's Broad Program of Thorough Training for Boys' Work

A special foundation has been created in memory of Arthur Howe Pingree of Newwood, Mass., for the purpose of training leaders of boys, particularly scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters who are preparing to render service among boys in the interest of a high quality of manhood and citizenship. This foundation is to be held by the trustees of Boston university and expended by them in accordance with the judgment of a board of directors consisting of three members: Mrs. Arthur H. Pingree, representing the family of Arthur H. Pingree; Charles C. Jackson, representing the Greater Boston Council, Boy Scouts of America; and Professor Norman E. Richardson, representing Boston university.

Mr. Pingree, Harvard 1890, was a Christian minister of broad community interests, an enthusiastic scoutmaster and a faithful friend and advisor of boys. He gave his life on July 19th, 1915, in a heroic effort to save drowning two of the young people confided to his care.

The board of this foundation has arranged for five courses of lectures during the winter of 1916 with indoor and outdoor practice work, much of it with boys, for the training of recreational leaders.

Pretty and Costly
A sweet little girl at a party was being questioned about a beautiful doll she had just received for her birthday. The mother was leaning with delight at the attention her daughter was receiving, when the little girl said: "Why, do you know, the hair on my doll's head comes off just like mommy's!"

SCOUTS RECOGNIZED REGULAR OFFICERS

Joplin Boys Made Regular Members of Department of Public Safety

The Boy Scouts of Joplin, Mo., have become recognized as members of the city department of public safety as a result of their efficient handling of a big campaign crowd.

Hugh McIndoe, mayor of Joplin, sent a letter to Marvin H. Black of the Boy Scouts saying that Boy Scouts may consider themselves members of the public safety department. The letter to Scout headquarters follows:

"The Boy Scouts gave efficient service yesterday at the Hughes meeting in assisting the police department in handling the crowd at the Frisco station and the Convention hotel. They may hereafter consider themselves as members of the department of public safety and will be called upon when over unusual events may bring through to our city."

"My thanks are hereby extended to you and to all the boys who participated in the crowd at the occasion."

"With regards, I remain, yours truly, 'HUGH MCINDOE, Mayor.'"

Secret service men with Mr. Hughes said that the Joplin meeting was handled better than any other at which the Republican nominee has spoken.

POLICE TALKS FOR BOYS
The co-operation of the Scout movement and the police department is ever present in the minds of the police. The plan proposed in Denver, Colo., of having representatives of the various city departments address the Boy Scouts is one which many other cities might find advantageous.

Officer Troy McKelvey of Denver delivered the first address of the series on the subject of "Methods used by the Denver Police in Handling Boys."

It is planned to have many addresses on similar subjects.

We respectfully wish to announce to our patrons and anyone else interested that we have arranged an association to better care for our work in medicine and surgery.

Dr. Morgan needs no introduction to the people of this country. He has practiced here nearly nine years and has been maintaining the Physicians and Surgeons' hospital for three years.

Dr. Oldham is a graduate of Northwestern University Medical School of Chicago, in 1908. Has had hospital training and has been practicing nearly ten years in Oakley, Idaho.

It is our purpose to take care of our patients in the most complete and ethical service.

CHAPTER VII.

By the time Lorelei had completed her recital of those occurrences that had excited her suspicions the car was rolling out the roads leading toward the Long Island place, and with headlights ablaze, was defying all speed laws. Merkle had drawn the conversation abrid rearward, and in its shelter leaned back with eyes closed. He seemed asleep, but after a time he spoke abruptly:

"Another a shrewd man. He wouldn't tackle a blackmailing job of this size without protection; otherwise I could put him out of the way very quickly. I dare say Miss Lynn herself doesn't know who is behind him."

"Why don't you warn Mr. Hammon at once?"

Merkle rolled his head loosely. "You don't know the man. He would laugh at the idea of a plot against him."

Merkle dozed again, half buried in the cushions. They had passed Jamaica, but it was not until he had swept into the Motor Parkway that the chauffeur felt the machine out. Over the deserted plains it tore, cometlike, a motor preceded by a streamer of light. The causeway leaped into view and vanished beneath the wheels, like a tremendous ribbon of smoke.

Merkle lay back inertly, jolting and swaying to the side-thrust of the cushions, but Lorelei found her fists clinched and her muscles hard with the nervous strain. Finally she pushed the shield forward, and, leaning over the front seat, stared at the tiny dash-light. The finger of the speedometer oscillated gently over the figure "60," and she dropped back with a gasp. They had been running thus for a long time.

Merkle roused to say, "Is this too fast for you, Miss Knight?"

She laughed nervously. "No, no. I'm sorry I woke you."

Merkle inquired the time of his chauffeur, then tried hard to turn homeward along the North shore.

"I shan't be selfish and keep you out any longer, Miss Knight," he said. "If you don't mind, I'll doze on the way in, and try to figure out the next move in this business."

The return trip was another harrowing rush through the night, in a silence broken only by Merkle's demand for more speed whenever the machine slackened its labor. The miles whirled past; the sound lay in the right.

They were sweeping over a rolling North shore road when suddenly out of blackness ahead blazed two blinding headlights. With startling abruptness they appeared over the crest of a rise; Merkle's driver swung to the right. The strange car held its course; there was a blast of horns, a dazzling instant of intense illumination, then a crash as the luscious mud-guards met. Merkle's car seemed to leap into the air; there was a report of an exploding tire; the automobile was bucking and bumping, as if the pavement had been turned into a corduroy road; then it came to a pause, half in the ditch. The other car held its course, and whizzed onward, leaving in its wake a drunken outburst of mockery and defiance.

"Narrow shave, that. I wonder we weren't all killed," Merkle eyed the suspect, and growled and running back, then directed his driver to ascertain the extent of the damage. The motor was still throbbing, but a brief examination disclosed a broken steering knuckle and a bent axle in addition to an injured wheel.

"I'm terrible," cried the Knight; but I'll have to send for another car," apologized Merkle.

"Is this splendid machine ruined?" He shrugged. "That's the curse of these roads. Somebody is always driving recklessly. Lorelei smiled at the memory of the sales they had covered so swiftly; but she saw that he was serious and in a sour temper. "One risks his life on the whim of some drunken idiot the moment he enters a motor car. Now for a telephone."

A terse question to his man served to fix their location.

"We're not far from the Chateau," Merkle interpreted the answer. "That place is always open, so if you don't mind the walk we'll go ahead. It will take an hour to get one of my other machines, but meanwhile we can have a bite to eat." At her cheerful acceptance his tone changed.

"You're all right. Some women would be hysterical after such a shake-up. I swear, I think I feel a bit more than you. If you were a man I'd like to have you for a chunk."

The Chateau was the quest-roadhouse, unsurpassed by any city restaurant, and, being within an hour's run by motor, it received a liberal patronage. Tips were large at the Chateau; its hospitality was famous among those who could afford the extravagance of midnight entertainment; and it was a quiet place. No echo of what occurred within its walls ever reached the outside world. Spa-food, waffles, and discretion were its recognized specialties, and people came for miles—mainly in pairs—to enjoy them.

As the pedestrians neared the avenue of maples leading up to the house they espied in the road ahead of them first the dull red glow of a tail light, then a dusty license plate.

"There's luck," Merkle ejaculated. "I'll rent this car."

In the gloom several figures were standing, facing in the direction of the Chateau, and when Merkle spoke they wheeled as if started.

"No, you can't hire this machine. What do you think this is, a cabstand?" answered a gruff voice.

"Jim!" cried Lorelei, and ran forward.

Her breathless amazement at the meeting was no greater than her brother's. "What the devil are you doing here?" he managed to say.

One of the men who had been kneeling over a case of some sort, dimly outlined in the radiance of a side light, rose and placed his burden in the tonneau.

"I'm ready," he announced.

Young Knight showed some nervousness and apprehension—emotions which his companions, judging by their alert watchfulness, fully shared. Jim seized his sister by the arm and led her aside.

"How the deuce did you get here, and who is this guy?" He jerked his head toward Merkle.

Lorelei introduced her companion and made known the cause of their present plight.

"Humph!" grunted Jim. "What do you suppose I'll say to this—you all out at night with a man?"

"What are you doing? Who are those people?" she retorted.

"Never mind. But say—I don't like the looks of this affair."

For a second time Merkle appealed to Jim. "If you can't take your sister home I'll have to telephone for another car."

Jim's tone was disagreeable as he replied. "You two don't look as if you'd been wrecked. Where's your driver?" Merkle's fist clenched; he muttered something, at which Jim laughed harshly.

"Now don't get sore," said the latter; "I'm not going to make trouble, only I want to know where you've been."

A bareheaded man came running across the lawn and flung himself into the car, shouting excitedly. One of Jim's companions called him sharply.

"Will you take me home?" his sister implored.

"Can't do it. I'll see you later, and you, too, Merkle." His last words, delivered as he swung himself upon the running board of the car, sounded like a threat; a moment later, and the machine had disappeared into the night.

"Ham!" Your brother has a suspicious mind," Merkle said. "I hope he won't make you any trouble."

He placed they saw their mistake. Resigning Lorelei, Hammon's father changed instantly.

"John!" he cried. "By God! you're just in time."

"What's happened?"

"Blackmail, or worse, I hardly know, myself. These ruffians are up, something on me—they're all in it, even the manager."

The latter, a sleek Frenchman with ferocious mustaches and frightened eyes, wrung his hands in supplication.

"Listen, Hammon," he pleaded, "you ruin me. Such a situation is terrible. But wait. Calmness. The man will be caught."

"Caught!" roared the steel magnate. "You know who he is. Give him to me."

A uniformed doorman appeared with a smoking lantern in his hand, and Hammon wheeled upon him.

"Well? Did you find him?"

"We can't find nobody. There was a car outside the grounds, but it's gone now."

Merkle interposed. "Will you tell me what has happened?"

"It is terrible, incredible, terrible," wailed the manager.

"Same old story, John. I came out here for a quiet dinner with a lady. These ruffians came regularly. They got us into a private room, then took a flashlight, and—there you are. I got a rush for the waiter as soon as I realized what had occurred, but he'd skipped. Everybody's skipped, photographs and all. Nobody knows anything. Blackmail bunch of idiots I ever saw."

Lorelei, who had remained in the background, turned suddenly, sick at memory of that mysterious party at the gate; she understood now the significance of the meeting with the box and of the feeling figure that had come through the darkness.

The terrified manager continued his heartbroken lament, and Hammon seemed about to destroy him when Merkle drew the latter aside, speaking in an undertone.

Hammon listened briefly, then broke out:

"Nonsense. I'd stake my life on her. Why, she's prostrated. It's either pure blackmail, or it's my wife's work. She's had detectives on me for some time."

Merkle shrugged; his next words were audible and they were both sharp and incisive.

"The harm's done. They got away clean. Now we've got to kill the story and kill it quick in case they intend it for the papers."

"My God! Newspapers—at this time!" groaned the other. "It couldn't be worse."

"Right. We must move fast. Is your car here?"

"Yes."

"Get it. We'll go in with you. I had an accident to mine."

"You'll see for yourself you're wrong—about the other," Hammon jerked his head meaning toward the house, then strode away to order his motor.

Merkle favored his young companion with a wintry smile.

"It seems we're too late."

Lorelei nodded silently. "Don't tell him who spoke to us out there. Not yet, at least. I can't see him go to jail."

"Jail? There won't be any jail to this—there never is. Jarvis will have to settle for the sake of the rest of us."

Hammon's limousine rolled in under the porte-cochere, and a moment later the owner appeared with Lila.

Lorelei stared at her friend in genuine surprise; for it was obvious that Lila was deeply agitated. Her face was swollen with weeping; she verged upon hysterics. No sooner were the four in the car and under way than she broke down, sobbing wretchedly.

"It's all my fault. I might have known he was up to something; but I didn't think he'd dare—" she managed to say.

"What? Who?" Merkle asked her.

"Max Melcher. He as much as told me. If I hadn't been a fool I'd have guessed, but he—Oh, I could kill myself!" She burst into strangling sobs, and hysterical laughter.

few years of happiness and companionship before I die. I'm selfish—I'll pay the price."

They rode on in silence.

the ten days, or a total of $150,000, in payment for a little less than 30,000 tons of beets.

Estimates of the field agents of the company place the total yield of the Twin Falls district at 70,000 tons, and it is confidently expected that in 1917 the same district will produce 200,000 tons. This production is made in view of the rapid signing of next year's contracts by the farmers.

In addition to the splendid yields obtained by the beet growers in the Twin Falls country this year, the signing of contracts is further aided by the announcement of the sugar company of an increase of 25 cents in the contract price. Where the farmers this year received $2.75 a ton, their contract for 1917 will call for $3 a ton.

Large Initial Run

In comparing the Twin Falls factory with other plants of the concern, the officials of the Amalgamated Sugar company express great satisfaction with the first year's campaign. An initial run of 70,000 tons is considered phenomenal for a new factory. In 1912 the first year of operation of the Durley factory, only 11,000 tons of beets were produced in that district. In 1913 35,000 tons were ground into sugar, in 1914 the yield was 46,000 tons, in 1915 89,000. This year the run at the Durley factory will be 150,000 tons.

While the Twin Falls district is restricted to the territory between Murtaugh and Buhl, Durley draws on territory from Minidoka to Kootenai and as far west as Jerome on the north side. The Amalgamated Sugar company has announced definitely that it will build another factory next summer at Paul, six miles west of Rupert, and take care of the beets from the north side.

READ CLUB INSTRUCTS BOYS

The Audubon Bird club of Minneapolis, Minn., has offered the services of its members as instructors for Boy Scouts. The club will furnish lectures and guides for hiking parties who are familiar with the Minnesota birds.

Clubs and societies in increasing numbers all over the country are becoming interested in the Boy Scout movement, and this offer of the Audubon Bird club of Minneapolis is only one among many similar proposals. Many professors who for years have been interested only in their specimens or their microscopes or their books are deserting these old friends and taking to the open with the boys, to the very great benefit of both the professor and the scout.
