CITY IS ASTIR IN PREPARATION FOR CHRISTMAS

EVIDENCES ON EVERY HAND OF THE NEAR APPROACH OF HOLIDAY

STORES ARE FILLED WITH EAGER SHOPPERS--EARLY BUYING HABIT STARTED BY MANY--BUSINESS CONDITIONS BETTER THAN LAST YEAR--CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS IN CHURCHES

With Christmas day, but four days hence, and only two shopping days left, everything is astir with holiday spirit, and everywhere in Twin Falls and community. Even the sad-hearted and depressed feel the warmth of the holiday glow and are cheered and encouraged by the joy of the happy-hearted.

Every store is decorated in the holiday colors of red, green and white that make a pretty and attractive background for the display of gifts of every description to tempt the shoppers.

A visit to nearly all the different kinds of stores on Main street and to talk with the merchants brings out the satisfactory information that business in practically every line is better this year than was experienced last year, despite the fact that several new stores have entered the city and claimed a portion of the public patronage. The newcomers have done well and the old stores have had a satisfactory increase in trade, notwithstanding a number said their business had increased 35 per cent during the past year. Others said that by the first of November of this year their business had passed last year's mark, leaving the Christmas month of December as clear gain over last year's volume of business.

The store's offerings of the stock of Christmas goods from which shoppers might make their selections this year consists of many new and useful things and many familiar stock articles presented in newer and more attractive form. The buyer with only moderate means at hand finds pleasure and satisfaction in an array of varied and numerous articles that are practical, attractive and altogether pleasing, from which to choose gifts for family and friends. These are all too numerous to mention, but a glance at the various stores or a glance at the advertisements displayed in the papers will give the puzzled shopper many ideas.

The postoffice and express office are heaped every day by scores of bundle and box laden people sending their gifts of remembrance to friends and relatives in other towns, states and countries and receiving others in return.

Families here and there are preparing for family get-togethers and when happy groups assemble at the heavily-laden tables and about the glittering, glowing Christmas tree. Many who are far from home, or who, under yet, have no abiding place at all other than the one room which they call home, are invited by thoughtful friends to homes where cheer abounds.

Churches Observe Day

Practically every church organization in the community is planning some sort of program and entertainment either for Sunday or Monday night.

"The Nativity," a most beautiful representation of the events connected with the birth of Christ, will be given by the Presbyterians in the high school on Sabbath evening. This consists of four scenes--the temple scene, the announcement scene, the shepherds scene and the wise men scene.

The whole story of the annunciation and birth of Christ is graphically set forth in scripture narrative, accompanied by chants and sacred songs, led by the orchestra. About 45 young people will take part, most of them in appropriate costumes representing Zacharias, the Angel Gabriel, Mary, the shepherds, the wise men and the angels.

Boyd H. Fuller is superintendent, Miss Geneva Stafford has charge of the production, and Theodora Swenson leads the orchestra. The treat will be given out in the morning, and the school, believing that "it is more to give than to receive," will, through these gifts to the less fortunate, make many happy.

On Monday evening at 7:30 special Christmas exercises will be given in the Baptist church. Speaking, singing, music, a Christmas tree and gifts for the more unfortunate people of the city will be features of the evening's entertainment.

The Bible school of the Christian church will present "White Gifts for the King" in special exercises at the church on Sunday morning.

In the morning there will be a Christmas tree for the children, with recitations, drills and music. In the evening a special program will be given, at which time each department of the church will present a sum of money for the ministerial relief fund.

The gifts will be presented in the unique old Astorian building by each of the various departments.

Midnight Program

At the Methodist church a splendid program has been arranged for the eve-

"HELLO, CHICAGO!" "HELLO, TWIN FALLS!"

PERFECT LONG DISTANCE CONNECTION IS ESTABLISHED FROM LOCAL HOTEL BOOTH

W. E. Dudenbostel, Railroad Man, Talks to Northwestern Railroad Head Office in Chicago From Rogers Hotel--Three Minutes' Conversation Costs Him Twenty-three Dollars

"Hello, Chicago!" "Hello, Twin Falls!" With these words began a three-minute conversation one day last week between W. E. Dudenbostel, agent for the Northwestern railroad, talking from the telephone booth in the Rogers hotel, and the head office of the railroad in Chicago, a conversation which cost him $23.

Commenting upon the experiment afterward, Mr. Dudenbostel declared that the service given by the telephone company was perfect, and that the voice of the representative of the railroad in Chicago came to him as clear as though talking to a man in Kimberly.

During the past two weeks the telephone company has had occasion to furnish long distance connection with several comparatively distant points. Ed Ellison, agent for the railroad promotion syndicate in Kansas City, who is investigating the possibilities of the Boise, Twin Falls and Wells railroad, came to town one day last week entirely unannounced and some quiet investigations regarding old rights-of-way, and, without waiting to telegraph, talked by long distance to his principal in Kansas City, and likewise held conversation with St. Joseph men.

Alvin H. Harber, representative of the produce department at Guggenbuehl's, who was in town recently and used the telephone to talk to Fort Worth, Texas, for eight minutes. This was entirely a personal call and had no connection with business.

PLAN CODIFICATION OF CITY ORDINANCES

Plans are under way for the compilation in code form of the ordinances and amendments passed by the city council since the incorporation of the town. At the meeting of the council Monday night it was determined to have such code prepared for the use of the citizens and of the city clerk, who seldom has a day without having to turn through the ordinance files to secure information for someone. This work will be carried on under the supervision of the city clerk, but it will require a month or two of steady work, and will probably be employed for him.

SPECIAL MEETING ON DECEMBER 30

City Council Will Assemble on Saturday Night Before New Year's to Allow Wages

For the convenience and accommodation of those employees of the city who have taken to pay the first of the month, the city fathers will betake themselves down town on the night of December 30, the Saturday night before New Year's, and hold a special session at which they will allow the wages of the city employees. No bills will be allowed at this meeting, as its sole purpose is to enable the employees of the city who are depending upon their December wages to help pay taxes to get their checks in time to make their payments in Boise.

BOISE PREPARING TO WELCOME THE IDAHO REGIMENT

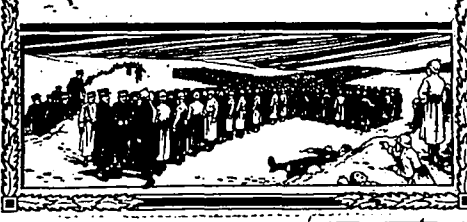

The Capital City is astir in preparation for a big demonstration to welcome the return of the 10th regiment from the Mexican border. The entire business population, as well as many civic and social organizations, are organized into various committees on decorations, entertainment, "entertainment," etc. Fifteen hundred dollars is being raised for the purpose of giving the boys and the general public will be one of the most comprehensive ever attempted in Boise.

Secretary James McMillan of the local Commercial club states that he has written the committee in Boise asking for instructions as to what they wish Twin Falls to do in the way of cooperation, and told them that, although Twin Falls is planning a reception for Company D, the people of this city would be glad to assist in the demonstration in Boise, if possible.

Some from Rowland Hall--Miss Thelma Conover returned Saturday noon from Salt Lake City, where she is attending school at Rowland hall. She will spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Conover.

The sergeant in the trenches
Said his rifle from its mound
And bared his aching forehead
Where a red-stained gap was wound.
"Tonight, somewhere beyond us,
There is holly on the door,
And children smile in sleep," he said,
"Unmindful of the war."
And somewhere there is laughter,
And hymns of praise are being sung,
Mistletoe and ropes of green
Are somewhere being hung;
Ye who stand on guard tonight,
Expectant, sleeve to sleeve,
Our hearts by battle hardened,
Forget it's Christmas Eve!
Thru miles of hostile distance
Where the tender home thought climbs,
I hear the frost-claimed echo
Of silver Christmas chiming.
Pardon, comrades, for my fancy
Runs wild and free tonight;
'Twas but a bursting shell I heard
Off there 'upon our right."
Then he shouted from the ramparts
Where life and death held tryst,
At the lines of hidden legions
Thru the settling powder mist.
'Must our presents be but leaden
Like the rest that you have sent?
Then may Christmas faith among you
Spill your aiming and prevent!
Unless you court a greater sin,
Than you or I conceive,
Ground arms and fly the true flag,
Make the password 'Christmas Eve!'
Let memory of days that were
The thirst of vengeance quench.
So the glory of the season
May invade each bristling trench;
Let every heart be softened,
Every war tense should receive
The silent, hallowed message
That is sent on Christmas Eve!"
Then, as his cry was answered,
Clear a bugle order rang
From far off in the distance:
"CEASE FIRING!" it rang,
And the War God loosed its fingers
At the mandate of the horn,
The Star of Bethlehem gleamed down
And Christ our Lord was born.

TENTH AVENUE WANTS PAVING

Property Owners Submit Paving Petition to City Council at Last Regular Session

That Tenth avenue north may soon become a paved thoroughfare is the wish of the property-owners of that street, as evidenced by a petition presented to the council by E. H. Gates. The petition asks that a paving district be made of that street its full length north from Shoshone street. As the petition was not in the right form to cover paving where all of the expense is carried by the property owners, no action was taken but it was placed on file at the request of Mr. Gates to await the joining of petitioners from other streets and a possible voting by the whole city on paving intersection boulevards.

Home From Rowland Hall--Miss Thelma Conover returned Saturday noon from Salt Lake City, where she is attending school at Rowland hall. She will spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Conover.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS IN SOCIAL SESSION

TWIN FALLS CHAPTER ENJOYS SPLENDID BANQUET AND PROGRAM AT MASONIC TEMPLE

Officers Elected for the ensuing Year--More than a Hundred Gather to Pay High Compliment to the Splendid Arrangements Directed by Past High Priest Urban Tracey

One of the most enjoyable social sessions which the Royal Arch Masons of Twin Falls chapter have enjoyed in a number of years was that of Tuesday evening, when upwards of 100 gathered in Masonic temple for a banquet and entertainment program, which lasted well into the close of evening.

Dinner was served in the temple at 6:30, after which the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: S. H. Korten, high priest; Dr. H. W. Wilson, King; R. A. Parrott, Scribe; Urban Tracey, Treasurer; Ralph Smith, Secretary.

The arrangements for the evening were under the direction of Urban Tracey, high priest for the year just closed, and left nothing to be desired in the way of material and intellectual refreshment. The program consisted of selections by the Hainbridge orchestra, solos by Wilton Peck and readings by Boyd Fuller. Each number drew hearty applause from the audience and the entire evening was voted one of the most thoroughly enjoyable in a long time.

ATTEND CONFERENCE OF "THE OLDER BOYS"

The Older Boys' convention, held in Pocatello December 15, 16 and 17, was attended by a delegation from Twin Falls, the members of which worked in harmony and won the promise of the interior work for the coming year. The following delegates were named from the local organizations: Harvance class, Carlyle Pickett, Fred Kelly, Harry Korten and Lawrence Carleton from the Boy Scouts, Gilbert Shadle and John Hughes were appointed delegates, and from the high school Donnan and Arthur Root. Harry Stearns, vice-president of the Barbers class, responded to the address of welcome at the big banquet held on Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. and gave a brief talk on the subject, "Home Work."

At the conference 136 towns and 73 organizations.

WANTS EXHIBITS FOR POCATELLO

M. A. Thometz of Twin Falls, one of the directors of the Idaho Seed Growers' association, is anxious for a good Twin Falls exhibit at the annual seed show to be held in Pocatello the second week in January, and asks that farmers having good samples of seeds express their desire to O. E. Selt at Pocatello or leave them at the Twin Falls Milling & Elevator company before the 4th of January. He hopes to be able to assemble at least half a carload of Twin Falls seed.

In connection with the seed show there will be held in Pocatello the annual conventions of the Idaho State Live Stock association, the Idaho Dairymen's association, the Idaho State Swine Growers' association, as well as the annual Farmers' and Housekeepers' week of the Idaho Technical institute.

BOYS ABSTRACT BUSINESS

By means of a deal closed the latter part of the week, Z. H. North, well known in Twin Falls as the agent for the New York Life, becomes the owner of the Fidelity Abstract & Trust company, one of the oldest abstract firms in the city, and now located in the Twin Falls Bank & Trust Company building.

North came to Twin Falls a little more than two years ago from Geneva, Ind., where he had had considerable experience in the abstracting business. Since his residence here he has distinguished himself for himself with his company and was one of their state leaders.

Associated with Mr. North will be Paul R. Labor, graduate of the Twin Falls high school, who has been in the employ of the Twin Falls Title & Abstract company ever since graduation.

FIRE IN SIOGINS HOME

C. C. Siggins, United States land commissioner, has a badly scorched and as the result of a small blaze in his home the first of the week. His son Edwin went to a closet to look for a toy, and finding the electric light switch, he pulled it and a match. As he was leaving the closet he looked back and saw a blaze. He called his father from the front of the house and the fire broke out and smoke pouring from the closet when he arrived on the scene. He hastily pulled down the burning clothing and carried them to the front hall, where he extinguished the fire. His right hand was severely scorched and some $75 worth of clothing burned, but the fire was put out without the aid of the fire department.

BACK FROM THE EAST

Dr. and Mrs. T. O. Boyd returned this week from an extended Eastern trip, during which they visited a number of cities. Their mission was one of combined business and pleasure.

ABSTRACT FIRM PLANS SPLENDID NEW STRUCTURE

TWIN FALLS TITLE AND ABSTRACT CO. WILL ERECT OFFICE BLOCK

GROWING BUSINESS NECESSITATES LARGER QUARTERS--CAPITAL IS INCREASED TO $25,000--SITE PURCHASED AT CORNER OF SHOSHONE STREET AND SECOND AVENUE EAST

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Twin Falls Title & Abstract company, Ltd., held Monday afternoon of this week, an increase in capital stock to $25,000 was voted and definite plans agreed upon for the erection of a building of their own to enable them to care for their growing business. The concern was incorporated in 1907, and the increase in capital has been made necessary by the increasing business scope of the company's business, including abstracts, loans and insurance, and the general growth of the community. An amendment to the charter providing for the increase in capital stock was filed in the county recorder's office on the same day.

A building site for the new and larger quarters has been purchased at the corner of Shoshone street and Second avenue east, where work will begin immediately upon a strictly modern office building, which will be up to date in every particular. Plans for the building have been prepared by Architect Burton E. Morse and call for a white terra cotta exterior, with the interior work fluted by using a plate glass front and big side windows. Included in the specifications are a large vault will be called for. Work on the construction will be started as soon as the contract can be let.

The Twin Falls Title & Abstract company is one of the pioneer business concerns of the county, having been coming established here in the days when it was necessary to go to Albion to inspect the county records. The company was organized by J. Peavey, president, and R. B. Smith, secretary.

SUNDAY THEATRES ARE VOTED DOWN

Without a dissenting vote, the city fathers, at their regular meeting on Monday night, denied the petition presented for the opening of motion picture parlors on Sunday. The petition contained approximately 900 names. Members of the ministerial fraternity were on deck to put in their objections and brought with them a petition containing about 1400 names. Dr. J. F. Shepherd asked permission to address the council and declared that if there were any more petitions, he would bring them in, and that he would be able to secure many more names to back their side of the case, and asked that the council withhold action until their next regular meeting.

However, after the ministers had retired, Dr. Shepherd returned to say that after a caucus with his colleagues, they had decided to drop the matter, and to act before more remonstrances were filed that they would have no objection. He also asked the council to compare the standing and signatures of those whose names were signed on the opposing papers.

After Dr. Shepherd had again left the room, Commissioner Branson withdrew his motion that the petition be tabled, and the question of permitting the theatres to be open on Sunday was put to a vote, with a unanimous vote in the negative.

COUNTY OF TWIN FALLS BECOMES MORE POPULAR

RESIDENTS OF KING HILL PROJECT WOULD LIKE TO BE ANNEXED

GLENN'S FERRY MAN WRITES TO COMMERCIAL CLUB, MAKING
SUGGESTIONS—DECLARES THAT THEIR PROJECT IS TOO FAR FROM SILVER CITY, COUNTY SEAT OF OWYHEE COUNTY

Declaring that if Twin Falls county should annex any part of Owyhee county, that he believes the majority of residents in the King Hill district would like to have that section also added to this county, and suggesting that the matter be looked into, A. P. Carnahan of Glenn's Ferry, in a recent letter to the Twin Falls Commercial club, asks if such annexation would be looked upon favorably here.

Mr. Carnahan's letter, addressed to "The Commercial Club, Twin Falls, Idaho," follows:

"Dear Sirs—Understanding that a move is on to annex a part of Owyhee county to Twin Falls county, I write to find out if Twin Falls county would care to take in King Hill segregation, south of the Snake river.

"We are too far from Silver City and have poor roads, so that we can never do business without a county seat. Elmore county would like to have us, but I fully believe that most of the settlers would rather be in Twin Falls county, as our interests are nearer alike. There are 12,000 acres of valuable land here and the people feel that the federal government will be favorable to taking the ditch over and completing it.

"The winter range for the stockmen from the Three Creek country and also for the sheepmen of the county is used from here to Three Creek, and if you are taking that country in, a slice across the Snake river would include the farming section.

"I talked the matter over with Mr. Dunn and W. P. Walters, cattlemen, last summer, but have not talked it much here. But if Twin Falls county is favorable, we will get busy down here. Very respectfully,
"A. P. CARNAHAN."

CHRISTMAS COYOTE COMES OUT FRIDAY

BIG QUANTITY OF MATERIAL FOR HOLIDAY NUMBER ALL READY FOR THE PRESS

Poems and Editorials, Brimming With Christmas Spirit, Will Be Plentiful—
Double-Size Business Men's Number
Scheduled for the Last Week in January

With an abundance of good editorials, bright, cheery poems and interesting stories, the Christmas number of the high school Coyote will be off the press by noon tomorrow and in the hands of the subscribers before night. As a well-written, neatly gotten-up high school monthly, the Coyote takes its place with the best in the country and is a credit to its editors, the present number being an excellent example of a well-balanced magazine of high school life and activities.

Leading the short stories will be Ruth Jester's "A Christmas Sacrifice"; "Christmas Among the Pines," by Jennings Bayliff; "My Last Thought," by Robert Hempleman; "Is an account of German Christmas customs, and "The Little Newboy's Christmas," by Zella Sawyer.

Among the poems, which are plentiful this issue, there are several exceptionally good ones, including "If," by Mary Carroll; "Christmas, 1916," by Raymond Butler; "Did You Ever?" an unsigned poem by the editor in chief, and a new version of "The Night Before Christmas," by Phillip Buck, 17.

Many interesting statistics are contained in the "Review of the Semester," by Professor Bowman. According to the figures contained in this summary of the first half year's work, there is a total of 450 students enrolled in the high school, registered in the various classes as follows: Freshmen 103, sophomores 106, juniors 87, seniors 55, and post-graduates 9. Girls apparently stay in school longer, as they outnumber the boys somewhat. There are 248 girls in school and 202 boys.

Much information regarding school activities is contained in this month's number, including an advance announcement of the junior class play, to be given some time in January, with the date not definitely settled as yet. A new innovation in the literary department is the "Fragments From the Real Diary of a Real Boy," by Hirsching.

The next number of the Coyote will be known as the "Business Men's Number," and will be out on the streets the last week in January. This number will be double the usual size, will contain a number of cuts of various business houses in town, together with descriptions and histories of the stores themselves. The editorial staff of the Coyote has already begun work on a special issue and expects to spend a good part of the Christmas vacation preparing material for it. The work it is put into the hands of subscribers and advertisers will be known as "Publicity week" in the local high school.

GIFT IS PRESENTED TO PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mrs. J. L. Daube, Former Twin Falls
Resident, Gives Beautiful
Silk Flag

Mrs. J. L. Daube, a former resident of this city, has presented the library with a beautiful silk flag, in memory of her father, Isadore Eisenstadt. Mr. Eisenstadt was a veteran of the civil war and in later years had traveled extensively abroad. He was a guest in the city while his daughter lived here, and the many who heard his interesting talks on different topics will be pleased to learn of his death. He suffered a stroke of paralysis in June, from which he never recovered.

Mrs. Daube has always been much interested in the library and through her efforts two fine collections of books have been donated in the past few years. Now the flag comes, and seems a most opportune gift at this time, when national patriotism is so aroused.

The flag has been placed in the library and adds materially to the interior attractiveness of this public building.

FAMOUS DANCERS TO BE SEEN ON THE SCREEN

The far-famed Apache dance, which was introduced to America by Maurice, the internationally popular dancer, will be one of the dances which Maurice and Florence Walton will perform on the screen when they make their photographic debut in the Famous Players-Paramount picture, "The Quest of Life." Maurice learned this dance in Paris and created a sensation when he first showed it to New York. In addition to this famous dance, the popular dancers will introduce other delightful numbers—some of which have never been seen on the stage. But that is not all—there is a big dramatic theme and no little spectacular work in "The Quest of Life," which is the feature at the Idaho next Monday and Tuesday.

A DANDY SHOW AT THE IDAHO FRIDAY & SATURDAY

HELPS TO SOLVE "HIGH COST OF LIVING" PROBLEM

MISS HUNGATE, DOMESTIC SCIENCE INSTRUCTOR, DEMONSTRATES
HOW MANY GOOD THINGS
MAY BE MADE WITHOUT USE OF EGGS—RECIPES GIVEN FOR CAKES, PUDDINGS AND COOK-
IES—ABILITY SHOWN IN MAN-AGEMENT OF CAFETERIA

That many good things to eat may be made without the use of the egg where it is generally thought to be necessary was proven last week by Miss Mary Hungate, instructor in domestic science at the Twin Falls high school. Miss Hungate made practical application of her statements in demonstrations which she gave at the office of the Idaho Power company on Saturday.

As manager of the high school cafeteria, Miss Hungate has proven her ability in the science of cooking economically by the fact that the cafeteria has been self-supporting, as well as a boon to hundreds of students and many teachers. Splendid menus are served, which at any time would be a low price, but which at this time of prevailing high prices everywhere and in everything, seem especially low. Everything is appetizingly cooked and attractively served, as a News reporter attests, having recently been the guest of Miss Hungate at the noon luncheon in the cafeteria. Generous serving are given of each article and the prices for each dish range from 3 to 7 cents, the latter price being for special dessert. Thus for 15 to 25 cents a student receives most satisfying and well-balanced meals.

At the offices of the Idaho Power company, Miss Hungate demonstrated the following recipes, illustrating an economical use of eggs in cooking. With eggs at 60 cents a dozen and butter at 45 cents a pound, the thrifty housewife is interested in learning how to prepare appetizing dishes without using these products.

Miss Hungate stated that the two chief uses of eggs in cooking are as leavening and thickening agents. In making cakes, eggs not only help to leaven the mixture by the amount of air that is entrapped in beating, but they coagulate at low temperature and hold in the carbon dioxide gas generated by the baking powder. If no eggs are used, the addition of hot liquid will stiffen the mixture enough to entrap this gas.

Corn starch or flour may be used to strengthen eggs in pudding, using two tablespoon of corn starch in place of one egg.

Cream of Wheat Pudding

One quart milk, ½ teaspoonful salt, 1-3 cup of cream of wheat, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoonful vanilla, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup dates. Scald milk, add salt and cream of wheat and cook in a double boiler until it thickens (about 20 minutes). Mix sugar with egg yolks and add slowly stirring constantly. Lastly, fold in beaten egg white, add vanilla and serve cold with cream and sugar.

Eggless Cake

One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups flour, 12 walnut meats, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons chocolate, 2 cups raisins, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream, butter and sugar, then add chocolate. Add raisins and walnuts chopped; add flour and baking powder alternately with milk. Bake in loaf.

Chocolate Cake Without Eggs

Two squares chocolate, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sour milk, ½ cup shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups flour. Melt shortening, add sugar and milk, chocolate. Add sour milk alternately with sifted dry ingredients, adding hot water last.

French Rice Pudding

2 cups milk, ¾ cup rice, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup cocoa, 1 tablespoon corn starch, 1-3 cup cocoa, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup seeded raisins, ¼ cup nuts, 1 tablespoon butter. Scald milk and cook rice until done in milk. Add dry ingredients, lastly add nuts, butter and vanilla. Serve cold.

Filled Cookies

One-half cup crisco, 1 cup brown sugar, 2½ cups oatmeal, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup water, 2½ cups flour. Cream butter, add sugar, then liquid and flour alternately. Roll out thin, spread half of this dough with date paste, cover with dough and cut. Bake in hot oven.

Date Paste

One pound dates, 1 cup sugar, ½ cups water. Stone dates and cook to a paste.

KELSEY TO PLAN NEW ELKO WATER WORKS SYSTEM

SATISFACTORY WORK IN SEWER CONSTRUCTION BRINGS NEW JOB

TOWN BOARD OF NEVADA CITY COMMISSIONERS ENGINEER KELSEY TO MAKE SURVEYS FOR MUNICIPAL SYSTEM—FOUR POSSIBLE SOURCES OF SUPPLY IN VIEW

Having recently completed a sewer system for the city of Elko, in Elko county, Nevada, and having received much favorable comment from the citizens and press of that city, Louis C. Kelsey was last week commissioned by the town board of Elko to make a survey of the several water sites in that locality, with a view to installation by the town of Elko of a municipal-owned water plant to supersede the present one owned by private parties. Mr. Kelsey is to make the plans and blueprints of the several localities where sufficient water can be obtained for the town, and is to submit the probable cost of the proposed plant.

Almost two years ago, says the Elko Free Press, complaint was made by the town of Elko to the state service commission, alleging excessive water rates by the Elko Water company, and poor and inadequate service. A number of hearings have been held, but the case has dragged so persistently that the people came to the belief that they could look for no relief from this source, as the case is still pending. It has been popularly supposed that the purpose of the public service commission was to promptly investigate all complaints against public utilities, but from the manner in which the Elko water hearing has been conducted, it is rather discouraging, in many and lengthy delays that the commission has granted to the water company.

Sewer Work Finished
Mr. Kelsey who has just finished the work on the sewer at the Elko yesterday and in an interview with the Free Press said that he was coming back to Elko immediately and personally supervising the sewer work. He will have several men as assistants, and they will investigate the several sources of water supply, among them being the Jacksons and Shermans creeks, eight miles east of town, the expense of piping in the water from Lemelle, 18 miles away, will also be submitted, as well as bringing in the water from the South Fork and from Spring creek, and the cost of a pumping plant.

Means Lower Rates
The expense of laying mains throughout the town, the number of feet, the size of the pipes, etc., will be thoroughly gone into, as well as the quality of pipe that will be necessary to bear the pressure for a stream strong enough to cope with a fire. Mr. Kelsey believes that he will be able to submit the report by the first of March, and if it meets with the approval of the people the work of installing a city-owned plant will be started. It is said that the revenues from the water consumed by the people of the town will pay for the plant, inside of a few years when the water rate would then become very low, just actual cost.

It is proposed to combine the several different positions, viz., sewer inspector, fire chief and water inspector, and thus bring down the cost of salaries to a minimum. Other towns own their own waterworks and supply the consumers with water at a greatly reduced figure from what the people of Elko are now paying. What they have done for us. Take the town of Fallon, for instance; they not only own their own water system but also the telephone and electric light plants, and at a great saving.

Mr. Kelsey is to receive $1000 for his services.

HANSEN MAN GETS BIG BEET YIELD

Takes 831 Tons of the Sugar-Loaded Mangels From Forty-five Acres of Land

With 31 acres of land, known as the Gentry Link field, yielding better than 20 tons to the acre, and with 14 more acres of reseeded land yielding 190 tons, making a total of 831 tons of sugar beets from 45 acres, C. L. Gentry of Hanson is pretty well satisfied with his sugar beet yield this year. At the regular price paid this year of $5.75 per ton, Mr. Gentry's beets will bring in $4,778.25.

GOODING RANCH IS SOLD FOR $40,000

The biggest deal of the year in Gooding farm property, says the Gooding Leader, was closed up a few days ago, when Lyman G. Taylor purchased from Fred W. Gooding the well-known "Red House Ranch," located on the Shoshone road, three and a half miles east of Gooding. This is one of the old ranches and consists of 400 acres, all under cultivation. The price paid was $40,000 and Mr. Taylor has already turned down an offer at an advance of $10 an acre over his price.

Mr. Taylor's this week sold an 80 four miles north of town to Albert Smith of Buhl at $70 an acre, and 160 acres of eight miles southwest of Gooding to Glenn M. Whitney of Twin Falls, at $45 an acre. The latter property has a paid up water right and was considered a great bargain.

JEROME SUFFERS FROM BAD FIRE

NIGHT BLAZE IN BUSINESS DISTRICT IS CONFINED TO ONE BUILDING

Fire Siren Does Effective Work in North Side Town—Firemen Quench Stubborn Flames in Independent Meat Market

At 1:15 o'clock Monday morning the siren fire alarm called the department as well as many of the citizens to a fire at the Independent meat market, owned by Mascher Brothers, on Main street. The alarm was given by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fiori, of the Jerome bakery, three doors west of the market, where the fire took New York, Boston and Chicago by storm, and making the most beautiful sight in the records on musical productions. It contained fully a score of brilliant songs. There are pretty girls by the dozen and they dance every kind of a dance that has any claim to grace and beauty, from the classic interpretations to the very latest society steps.

No less than five comedians keep the laughter bubbling over on both sides of the footlights. Art critics and the public in general are talking of the sunset scene over the Meilertmanns act in the second act, which is the work of a world famous Viennese artist. In it the blue waters ripple and dance in the sunset light, which gradually fades into evening and then into night, when the stars peep out one by one and the lights of the village appear. Even the color of the water changes with the changing lights of the dying day, just as it does in Nature.

Among the most popular songs are "Where Love is Waiting," "What I've Done You Never Can Undo," "Where Love is Waiting," and many others.—Adv.

This entire row of frame buildings was for a time threatened, but no damage was done there, although the contents of the Reed building were removed, but it was not even scorched. Two lines of hose were laid and the two streams vigorously applied. In addition two charges of the chemical were used. The firemen by cutting holes through the walls and roof were able to shoot out the fire. It broke through badly from the inside. This prevented the spreading of sparks and scattering the fire. The smoke from the burning fat of the market stock was dense and stifling.

Much Stock Ruined

As the fire was checked the firemen managed to enter the front room or sales room and get out the safe, cash register and some other furniture. Much of the stock appeared to be ruined, especially that not held in containers. A large quantity of hams and bacon are the biggest single items of loss to the meat firm. Mascher Brothers carried $700 insurance, but they estimate their loss at twice that.

Miss Hazel Howell was the operator on duty at the central telephone station when the alarm came in by phone and handled the electric alarm whistle in a very effective manner. Learning that there had a serious look she repeated the first alarm twice. This repeated screeching of the whistle at night nearly sent some of the small children of the town into a state of hysterics. A stiff southwest breeze prevented the sound being carried very far to the west, but east of town it awakened people living several miles out. Wilson brothers, one mile south and two and a half east, were roused by it, and it was heard even at Falls City, three miles south and four miles east.

Harry MacPherson, of the Pastime lunch room, had the coffee hot and a stack of sandwiches built by the time the fire was out and invited the fire-fighters in to refreshments, and not one turned him down. Harry declared it was a free lunch, but at the meeting of the department Tuesday evening, as an expression of appreciation, a vote of thanks was unanimously passed as well as a more substantial acknowledgment.

The building is owned by Joe Schloegel and it was partly covered by insurance, sufficient to cover the loss.

TORRY GUND WRITES FROM NEW MEXICO

North Side News Publishes Interesting Letter from Former Jerome Man Well Known in Twin Falls

The North Side News of Jerome has received a letter from Torry Gund, erstwhile known as a somewhat erratic contributor of a column of philosophy and humor to that paper. In opening a very interesting letter Mr. Gund says: "Just as I am from your former staff reporter, B. Tick (Torry Gund), who rejoices in a bit of life at Fort Bayard, New Mexico, where, by favor of the beneficent Democratic government, I am a patient at the U. S. army tuberculosis hospital. God bless our side." Mr. Gund says he has been in bed ten months, but one can hardly realize it after reading his cheerful and optimistic letter. "I hope to make a cure in another two years," he says. Then adds: "I am quite conservative about this T. B. business. Still lots of people are dying now that never died before." He promises that he some day will come out to visit Jerome, when the streets are paved and the population 4000 or 5000 people. Meantime, he implores the News to write him all about Jerome, Jere Gorman, Jere Martin, Hen Hall and a number of other boys, and hopes they are all well and real, real good.

Manager Lavering has landed the big musical comedy "Lilac Domino," for February 9th. This is the largest show that has ever played Twin Falls. This is the greatest musical comedy of beauty, fun and fashion, by Charles O. Miller, which took New York, Boston and Chicago by storm, and making the most beautiful sight in the records on musical productions. It contains fully a score of brilliant songs. There are pretty girls by the dozen and they dance every kind of a dance that has any claim to grace and beauty, from the classic interpretations to the very latest society steps.

BURLEY MAN GETS RECORD SEED CROP

The best yield of red clover seed reported at Burley this year was that of Allen M. Smith of the Marshfield neighborhood, says the Burley Bulletin. Mr. Smith has 15 acres which produced 171 bushels of seed, or a little over 11 bushels to the acre. At 10 cents per pound the seed brought $1650. He sold the chaff after threshing for $200, bringing the value of the crop from the 15 acres up to approximately $2000. The crop was grown on land which was slightly and was easily kept moist throughout the season.

On the market your oats bring you $1.80 per 100 pounds and your wheat $2.30 per 100 pounds. CITY CLERK MAKES SPLENDID REPORT

Municipal Employment Office Under His Direction Has Placed 302 Persons in Positions

During the eight months between its organization on April 1 of this year and the first of this month, the municipal employment agency maintained under the direction of City Clerk Reese M. Williams, has placed 302 persons in positions, and collected fees to the amount of $276. In the regular report of this bureau, which must be submitted yearly to the county recorder, the number of persons applying for positions is given as 488 and the number of requests for employes is given as 350.

An interesting phase of the work conducted by the city clerk lies in the fact that many of those for whom jobs have been found are still holding positions, giving good satisfaction, and are just the help greatly needed by the employer.

IDAHO GIRL WINS WORDS OF PRAISE

Miss Marie Pettygrove Gave Musical Recital in Twin Falls Last Spring as Pupil of Mrs. Guilbert

Much favorable comment for a former Idaho girl is contained in an article in a recent number of the Oxford (Nebraska) Standard, where Miss Marie Pettygrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pettygrove of Hanson, is attending school this year. Miss Pettygrove will be remembered as one of the youngest pupils ever graduated from the Twin Falls Conservatory of Music, her studies under Mrs. Guilbert being completed last winter, and her recital being given last spring at the high school auditorium.

The Standard says: "The program given by the high school orchestra, under the direction of E. O. Hensler, at the M. E. church Monday evening, was highly pleasing. Every number was heartily enjoyed. A description of a musical program is beyond our powers, suffice it to say that if you were not present, you missed the treat of the season. The evening was cold, which accounted for not many county people venturing out, but the attendance was good, and what was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm."

"Any account of this concert would be incomplete, however, without mention of Miss Marie Pettygrove, who presided at the piano. Her left hand solo showed wonderful execution and is pronounced by good judges to be something out of the ordinary."

LOCAL BOY IS ON UNIVERSITY TEAM

Ralph Morse, Son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Morse Is One of the Forensic Stars at State Institution

That Ralph Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton E. Morse of this city is one of the most able debaters at the state university, and was a member of the affirmative team which defeated Washington State college at Moscow last Friday night, was the information contained in the weekly news letter to the Boise Statesman from the first of the week.

The university's forensic stars won both ends of the dual debate, which was on the literary test question, the Idaho team receiving unanimous decisions at both Moscow and Pullman. Ralph Morse, Richard Ott and Charles Darling were the members of the affirmative team, which debated at Moscow, while Frank Koch, Ernest Poe and Charles Taylor, orator for Idaho in Washington state's auditorium.

BUHL HAS SHIPPED 20,000 HEAD HOGS

A conservative estimate of the hog exports from Buhl during the past year places the amount at $250,000 for the 20,000 head shipped to market from this station, says the Buhl Herald. That amount is reached by adding that the hogs averaged 200 pounds each, when it is said that they have averaged nearer 250 pounds each. Were the average placed at 250 pounds, and the same price of an average of $7 per 100 allowed, the hog export from Buhl would exceed $300,000 for the eleven and one-half months in 1916.

This amount does not include the large number of cattle and sheep which have been shipped from Buhl. The cattle export has been less than that of the hogs, but it is estimated at better than $100,000 for the year.

A DANDY SHOW AT THE IDAHO FRIDAY & SATURDAY

1916 HAS BEEN A BIG YEAR AT OMAHA MARKET

NEXT TWELVE MONTHS WILL HAVE HARD RECORD TO BEAT

CERTAIN THAT THE YEAR'S RECEIPTS OF CATTLE WILL TOTAL ONE HUNDRED FIFTY THOUSAND HEAVIER THAN FOR ANY PREVIOUS YEAR IN THE 33 YEARS' HISTORY OF MARKET

OMAHA—Receipts of cattle this week have been pretty much the same as last, about 35,000 head, and some 7000 heavier than at this time last year, and it is now a certainty that the year's receipts of cattle will be fully 150,000 heavier than for any previous year in the 33 years' history of this market.

Western range cattle have made up a very respectable part of the supplies this week, the short winter range, who scarcity and high price of hay in some places and the present attractive prices leading stockmen to ship off rather more closely than usual. Fortunately for range men, the market continues in very favorable condition and prices for both fat stock and feeders have shown considerable strength. Packers seem to have an unlimited demand for cattle at this time, and since the disposition of the foot-and-mouth scare, the demand for feeder cattle has almost doubled. Nearly 12,000 head were shipped to the country last week and prices are all of $20 to $25 higher than they were three weeks ago.

Current cattle quotations are about as follows: Choice grass beefs, $8.50 to $9.00; good to choice grass beefs, $7.75 to $8.25; fair to good grass beefs, $6.75 to $7.25; common to fair beefs, $6.25 to $6.75; good to choice cows, $6.50 to $7.50; fair to good cows, $5.75 to $6.50; canners and cutters, $4.50 to $5.75; veal calves, $8.00 to $9.00; hologna bulls, $5.50 to $6.50; beef bulls, $5.75 to $7.00; prime feeding steers, $8.40 to $9.00; good to choice feeders, $7.75 to $8.25; good to choice feeders, $7.25 to $7.75; fair to good feeders, $6.50 to $7.00; fair to good stockers, $6.50 to $7.00; common to fair feeders, $5.75 to $6.50; stock heifers, $4.50 to $7.75; stock cows, $5.00 to $5.50; stock calves, $6.00 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs Higher

Prices for sheep and lambs have been working higher this week in the face of liberal supplies, and values are the highest they have ever been at this market. Choice corn fed lambs brought $13.10 this week, and, although the market has reacted some, values are still around $6 to $6.50 higher than they were a week ago. Aged stock has shown nearly as much improvement as lambs, but the supply of aged stock has been comparatively limited.

Feeder demand has not let up any and anything suitable for feeding or shearing finds a ready sale at very high figures. Wyoming lambs sold as high as $12.50 and even at these figures there is a keen demand all the time. In a word, the entire situation is decidedly bullish and an undertone to the market for both fat stock and feeder grades of all kinds is very strong.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $12.50 to $13.50; lambs, fair to good, $12.00 to $12.50; clipped, $10.50 to $11.50; feeders, $11.00 to $12.50; yearlings, good to choice, $9.75 to $10.75; fair to good, $8.50 to $9.50; feeders, $7.00 to $8.00; weathers, fair to choice, $8.25 to $9.50; ewes, good to choice, $8.25 to $9.50; plain to culls, $5.00 to $6.50; fair to good, $7.00 to $8.25; feeders, $6.75 to $7.25; breeders, all ages, $6 to $8.50.

Merry Christmas!

The Spirit of Christmas is making itself felt in this Christian land of ours.

Men, women and children are giving thought to plans for making others happy on Christmas Day.

Some will make costly gifts; some will give little remembrances, inexpensive, but rich in genuine Good Will; some will send written messages of loving thoughts; and many, very many will send the spoken word over the Telephone lines.

While homes resound with Christmas merriment and the very atmosphere is charged with Good Will to Men, the Telephone Operator will be at her lonely post, connecting the lines that will carry glad voices to distant friends.

Her duty is to serve, and right gladly does she perform her tasks, even while others are making festive holiday.

And you who use the Telephone on Christmas Day will detect in the operator's cheery "Number please," the notes of the "Merry Christmas" which we wish for all our patrons.

KANSAS CITY STOCKYARDS REPORT BIG DEMAND FOR FEEDER CATTLE

Plastering Outlook for Feed Cattle Stimulates the Demand for Stockers and Feeders—Prices Higher Than During the Low Time Immediately Following the Quarantine—Sheep and Lambs Up

KANSAS CITY STOCKYARDS.—A fair run of cattle this week was handled advantageously for sellers, except for some complaint on choice to prime finished cattle. Medium and cheap steers are a quarter higher for the week, cows and canners more, stockers and feeders 35c to 60c up. Hogs have advanced regularly, all weights and grades now selling higher here than at any of the other large markets. Sheep and lambs made new high tops for all past time during the week.

Beef Cattle
A sale of medium-weight steers at $11.50 was top for the week, good to choice yearlings $11 to $11.25. Short fed steers sold at $9.25 to $10.50 and show a good profit to feeders, regardless of the best feeders sold at $12.50 to $13.00. The big margin above cost price that feeders get is what does it. A few plain Western steers sold at $7.75 this week, and Colorado feeders brought $7.25 to $8. Canner cows sell higher relatively than anything else, at $5.20 to $5.75. Medium to good cows sell at $6 to $7, and choice weighty cows at $7.25 to $8.50. Plain Idaho cows sold at $5.75 to $6.50, good to choice Idaho $7.25 to $7.75, medium Colorado $7.00 to $7.50. Bulls sold up to $7.25, veals $11.25.

Stockers and Feeders
Country demand is much better and includes weighty feeders, which are stimulated by the flattering outlook for fed cattle. The best feeders sold at $6 to $6.75, this feeder $7.25 to $7.75, stock steers $6 to $7.75, stock cows and heifers $5.25 to $7.50. Prices on all kinds are 20 cents to $1 higher than the low time right after the lifting of the quarantine.

Hogs
Receipts were only 5000 today, but were large enough to permit the market to extend itself; sales 10c higher, top $10.20, bulk $9.75 to $10.15, medium weights up to $10.15, light $10. Low prices have been higher than St. Louis and Chicago since Tuesday, and sharply above other river markets. Receipts are 78,000 this week, 10,000 more than last week, and the same increase over the same week last year. Local packers are not getting as many hogs here as they want to kill in their plants.

Sheep and Lambs
After reaching $13 for best lambs, the market is holding steady. Receipts are slightly lighter than last week and 8000 under the same week last year. No Monte Vista lambs have been here this week, but some from the pen-feeders district are expected next week. Short fed lambs at $12.50 to $13.00 invariably show big profits for feeders. Yearlings went to $11.25 this week, ewes worth $9 for choice. Feeding lambs are selling at $11 to $11.60, choice light ones or half fat lambs worth $12.

THREE BUHL MEN HOME FROM BORDER

Lieutenant Landon and Sergeants Glen Taylor and Arthur Cuthbert arrived home from the border Thursday noon on a 30-day furlough, says the Buhl Herald. The boys are looking the picture of health and are glad to be home for a while. Glen Taylor has gained 20 pounds in weight since he left.

The boys said that the other members of Company K were expected to leave Mexico next week, to be mustered out at Boise. It will take four or five days in transit, so that they think Company K will not get home before the first of the year.

AND it was always said of him that he knew how to keep Christmas well, if any man possessed the knowledge. May that be truly said of us, and all of us. And so, as Tiny Tim observed, "God bless us, every one!"—From Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

Wednesday evening, December 27, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bobier entertained a number of friends with a pleasant party. The affair was in the nature of a farewell, as Mr. and Mrs. Bobier leave soon to spend the winter in Denver. In the game of 500 Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White captured the prizes, the former a cigar holder and the latter a Japanese vase. The house was artistically decorated in cut flowers and ferns. A two-course supper was served at 11 o'clock. The guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Johnson, Noun, Smith, Johnston, Garrow, Hollingsworth, Olson, White, Moore and Mrs. Husted.

Mrs. L. T. Moore, on Main street, entertained the Harmony club last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Henry Olson secured the prize in the card game, a sewing apron. Mrs. Charles Johnson was a guest of the club.

The regular meeting of the P. E. O. society was held Monday of last week at the home of Mrs. Nesbitt. Mrs. Charles Hill was also a hostess. Following the literary program, light refreshments were enjoyed.

Mrs. W. H. Burkholder and Mrs. H. A. Britton were hostesses last Friday afternoon at the home of the latter to the members of the Astoria club. The meeting was most enjoyable, for the ladies were entertained with a Christmas party, instead of the regular program. From a "mystery" box each guest drew a card, which informed her where to find a Christmas gift hidden somewhere in the house. The rooms were very prettily decorated in Christmas symbols. At the close of the afternoon a two-course luncheon was served at quarter tables, each covered with a miniature Santa Claus and decorated with Christmas ribbon. The place cards bore Christmas designs. Each guest was given a popcorn ball, contained in which was a joke. The reading of these caused much merriment. There were twelve members present.

Invitations have been issued by the Episcopal guild for a party at the Parish hall Friday evening, December 29.

Mrs. Jennie Bradley entertained 20 ladies Monday afternoon with a Christmas luncheon. An interesting feature of the afternoon was the story contest. Each guest was given a card and the ladies gathered in groups of four. From the literary material on the cards the groups wrote stories, which were read. A delicious two-course luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon.

A large crowd attended the club dance held in Elks' hall last Friday evening.

The formal ball given by the younger set will be held this year, on December 30.

Kolth Ferguson left Wednesday night for San Rafael, Cal., where his marriage to Alice May Barr will take place December 27. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will make their home near Twin Falls, at the Ferguson ranch. They will tour California before coming to Twin Falls.

A very pleasant afternoon and a good program were enjoyed by those who attended the Twentieth Century club on Tuesday afternoon. Little Georgia Paulino Blakeslee cried in such a natural way that all thought it a case of stage fright until it was found to be the introduction to "The Broken Doll." This called for a hearty encore, to which she responded. Miss McGinnis of Elletts then gave a very amusing reading, "When I Attended the Opera." Wilton Jack sang two songs, "Fear Ye Not, Oh, Israel," and "K. K. Task," by Dudley Buck; "The Night of the Twenty-fourth" was recited by Miss Williamson, and "John's Wife" by Miss McGinnis. These numbers were all enjoyed and enjoyed.

Mrs. Hart, who, with Mrs. John Costello, had charge of the afternoon, announced that they had procured a magic plate that responded most musically to the touch of silver, the most pleasing sound being produced by a dollar. Experiments were then made with different sized pieces of silver, and the result was very gratifying. After all had experimented, it was found that the plate could be made to "dollar." This will be turned over to the Associated Charities and it is hoped that many will receive a merry Christmas.

Home-made candles and popcorn balls wrapped in red and green papers were then passed. The popcorn balls contained questions bearing upon Christmas. The answers were interesting and amusing. The club was then adjourned until after the holidays. It was announced that the next meeting would be an open day, and the members were all urged to bring friends. This meeting will be a New Year's reception in charge of Mrs. Ault, on January 2.

Little Willie was playing with the girl next door, when the latter exclaimed: "Don't you hear your mother calling you? That's three times she's done so. Aren't you going in?"

"Not yet," replied Willie, impatiently. "Won't she whip you?" demanded the little girl, awed. "N!" exclaimed Willie, "she's got company. So when I go in she'll just say, 'The poor little man has been so deaf since he's had the measles.'"

MAYOR GRANTED MORE AUTHORITY

Council Compiles With Swedley's Request for an Amendment to Poolroom Ordinance

Declaring that whereas the council had granted him full authority to withhold card table licenses when he so desired, an authority which he had found decidedly beneficial at times, but that regarding pool tables he had nothing to do but grant every request for a license, no matter how detrimental he considered it for the community's good, Mayor Swedley at the meeting of the city council Monday night asked that body to so amend the poolroom ordinance that he would have the same right of action as he did in licensing the tables.

By unanimous vote the council instructed City Attorney George Herriott to prepare the amendment.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO HAVE CHRISTMAS TREE

Turkey Dinner Will Be Served and the Evening Given Over to Pleasure

At the regular Tuesday evening luncheon and meeting of the Business Women's association this week it was decided that a Christmas tree be had at the next regular meeting, which will be the day after Christmas. The names of the members present this week were placed in a hat, shaken up and each member drew a name and one person for whom she is to buy an appropriate Christmas present, the cost not to exceed 10 cents. Miss Stella Riley has taken the responsibility for assembling the turkey and other good things for the dinner, which the young ladies having charge of the regular lunches will prepare and serve. A bountiful dinner is anticipated. It was requested that all business women of the city who can be present at this affair and who were not at the meeting this week phone their names to Miss Geneva Stiefand, chairman of the social committee, or to Miss Mary Hunsate. After the serving of the luncheon this week, the regular lesson of the week was taken up, with Miss Etta Riley serving as leader for the evening.

REAL MOVIE STAR TO COME TO THE IDAHO

Jack Gaines, Well-Known Actor, Will Appear in Twin Falls This Week

Jack Gaines, the well-known actor-author, is to appear in person at the Idaho theatre Friday and Saturday evenings in connection with the showing of a special picture in which he is the featured actor. Mr. Gaines is a most remarkably versatile actor and director and will be well represented by many of the "picture-prince" in the big aerial, "A Diamond From the Sky."

During his brief engagement in this city Mr. Gaines will willingly answer any question pertaining to the moving picture industry and also will be pleased to review any scenarios which are from the pen of local writers.

Lane & Howard, a world renowned act of music, dancing, singing and mirth, will follow. This is an act too full of good things to start to imitate, but you must really see them to appreciate them.

In addition to the foregoing, "The Vampires" will be shown in "The Red Note Book" in the evening. The order is deciphered by Philip Guard, the newspaper reporter, and his mother, who narrowly escape death at their hands. The stories are going to prove the biggest novelty of their kind. They are foreign made and of the high standard of the Gaumont studios.

THE DIFFERENCE

The photograph reproduced herewith is of a bungalow which was actually constructed from our house plan No. 82, the floor arrangement of which is also indicated by the accompanying sketch. It will be seen that in addition to the usual first-floor rooms, there are two bedrooms, each of which is reached from the dining room and the bathroom, with doors opening from each of the bedrooms.

The living room extends clear across the front of the house and has a fireplace at one end, with bookcases and built-in seats upon either side. The dining room has a built-in buffet and in the kitchen a built-in cupboard takes the place of the usual pantry. There is an enclosed rear entry in which the stairs to the basement are located.

As shown on the plans, the basement is excavated for the full size of the house, but as this makes a basement of unusually large size, a portion of it may be left unexcavated if desired, slightly reducing the cost.

The plans include, besides the usual architectural sections, full details for all the built-in features as well as for the beaming of ceiling in living room.

FOODSTUFF COSTS

WITH reference to the proposed embargo on the shipment out of America of foodstuffs, there is this much to be said on both sides of the question: If such an embargo would in any manner operate to bring about less than living prices to the farmers of the country, then such a movement can not be too strongly condemned.

But it is not apparent that any such result is to be anticipated, and even if this were the case to a limited degree, the result must be measured in comparison with the ratio of benefit which will be derived from such action by all the other classes of American citizenship.

At the present time the American workingman, and by this term is meant everybody outside of the capitalistic class, can just barely keep his head above water. In some cases he is submerged. Actual cases of want and starvation, too well authenticated to be questioned, exist in large numbers throughout the congested centers of population all over the country. Wages have not kept pace with increased costs of existence, and if prices go any higher the law of the land is apt to be disregarded in favor of the law of the empty stomach, and hungry men will take by force the things which they are not able to buy with their labor.

It is all very well to talk of cutting out the luxuries, but the men who are in want today are the men who have never known what luxuries mean. Their wants are elemental—real.

It is not likely that a complete embargo on foreign foodstuffs shipments has ever been seriously considered, notwithstanding all the discussion which has been had on the subject, but if a curtailment of these shipments will operate to prevent further increases in the cost of food to the consumer, such action is worthy of grave consideration. There is no question of the importance of the position occupied by the American farmer in the premises. As the controlling element in the source of supply of four-fifths of the food products of the country, whatever the result of the present discussion final action must be based upon the rights of the man on the land.

Then there is the element supplied by the food speculator—the nonproducer in the case—whose absolute elimination is demanded in the interests of American citizenship.

GREAT WORDS

OF all the tributes ever paid to Abraham Lincoln, or to any other American statesman within the history of our country, none outranks that of the British Prime Minister, David Lloyd-George, delivered in his epoch-making speech of Tuesday to the members of the British Commons, on the subject of England's attitude on the German peace proposals.

Here is the paragraph which contains the reference:

"Any man or set of men who wantonly or without sufficient cause prolonged a terrible conflict like this would have on his soul a crime that oceans could not cleanse.

"On the other hand, it is equally true that any man or set of men who, from a sense of weakness or despair, abandon this struggle without achieving the high purposes for which we entered it, would be guilty of the costliest act of poltroonery ever perpetrated by any statesman. I should like to quote the words of Abraham Lincoln under similar conditions."

"We accepted this war for an object, and a world object, and the war will end when the object is attained under God. I hope it will never end until that time."

Perhaps the most notable sentence is that which reads "I should like to quote the words of Abraham Lincoln under similar conditions." Notable because of the implied recognition of one of the great men of the world at the hands of one almost if not as great.

The tribute would not have been as striking had England's Prime Minister said "Abraham Lincoln, the biggest single figure in the history of America."

MODERN WORLD WONDERS
By Dr. J. F. Shepherd, Ph.D., D. D.

SPEED OR CONTENTMENT

"Better is a handful with quietness, than both hands full with vexation of spirit."

Sir Isaac Newton declared that it would never be possible for a man to fly in a heavier-than-air machine. To this Professor Helmholtz agreed, yet Professor Lilienthal of Germany doubted his German friend and undertook to fly in a machine of his own make, only to lose his life, in 1896. Sir Hiram Maxim had, two years before, flown 300 feet with a machine carrying three persons. Professor Langley of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington undertook flying, but the best he could do was to dive into the Chesapeake bay.

It remained for Wilbur and Orville Wright, whose father, a poor clergyman, had bought them a toy, as little boys, called a "Helicopter," or "Bat," as the boys named it in after years while running a repair shop for bicycles, to work out and perfect what others had only approached. In 1908 and 1909 they demonstrated their invention in America and Europe, where they were proud to take their sister with them. The wonders of the aeroplane are not yet fully realized for commerce and as an engine of death.

The Nautilus of Fulton, built in 1805, was the first diving boat, and the first use made of a submarine in war was when the Housatonic was destroyed by one in Charleston harbor, February 17, 1864. Since then the submarine as an engine for war has assumed tremendous possibilities and is now the dread of the world. Its possibilities as a ship of commerce are also demonstrated.

The gyroscope, invented by Dr. Schlick, shows untold possibilities in the realm of mechanics. On May 8, 1907, Professor Brennan exhibited before the Royal Society of London a car running on a single rail.

Watt, as a child, watching a boiling teakettle, discovered the power of steam. The Wright brothers, from a toy given at Christmas time, worked out their perfected aeroplane. Every child playing on the banks of a stream knows that light does not always go in straight lines, as is observed in a stick bent at the surface of the water.

Why have not we discovered the X-ray? Every child, trundling a hoop, which has to go fast to stand up, or spinning a top, has seen the principle upon which the gyroscope works. Why, then, have not we invented the gyroscope, with its unlimited possibilities?

The future of discoveries will likely be found in the field of electricity, in the application of the principles of the gyroscope and in the use of radium.

Centuries ago we traveled four miles an hour by stage coach; now at the rate of 120 miles by railroad or 142 miles by auto. Berman running a mile in 25.4 seconds. The aeroplane makes even better speed. But what is the use of traveling so fast or so far, if we are just as discontented at the end of the journey as when we started? Our inventions and discoveries should make us happier, wiser and better, or the reverse is true.

The seven ancient world wonders were the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Diana's Temple at Ephesus, the Colossus at Rhodes, the Pharos of Alexandria, the Statue of Jupiter at Olympia, the Pyramids of Egypt, and the Mausoleum of Artemesia. Seven hundred great world scientists, chosen from fifty-six subjects, have given preference in order to the following seven modern world wonders: Wireless telegraphy, the telephone, aeroplane, radium, antiseptics and antitoxins, spectrum analysis and the X-ray.

Will the world learn to use all these as not abusing them, knowing that all but God passeth away? Shall we remember Shakespeare's wise words—

"My crown is in my heart, not on my head;
My crown is called Content."

My Christmas Wish

GEORGE MATHEW ADAMS

This is my great, earnest Christmas wish—that the Christmas Spirit may enter me and that it may fill me, enthral me, and then that I may dip into its wealth of Love and give it away—to Everybody—everywhere. So that even War can never be again. And Peace shall eternally endure in the hearts of men.

DEMURRER GRANTED IN SALMON TRACT CASE

JUDGE DISTRICT OUTLINES PRINCIPLE OF LAW OF GENERAL INTEREST

Difference Between Special and General Damages Made Clear—Question of Permanency of Alleged Water Shortage Comprises Important Point in This and Future Actions

Of considerable interest to Carey act settlers generally is the principle of law set forth by Judge Dietrich in a decision handed down recently in the matter of a demurrer to complaint filed by the defendant company in the case of Frank Gaudle vs. the Twin Falls-Salmon River Land and Water company for damages for alleged lack of water.

The main point set forth is in effect that if the water supply of the Salmon tract is permanently inadequate damages must be sought and recovered in a single action and not a series of actions based upon the alleged damages due year by year in the case of each crop.

The language of the decision as to the demurrer covering this particular feature is as follows: "It may be that the defendant's construction of an inadequate system or sold water rights in excess of the capacity thereof. If in the one case there is no further available supply of water or in the other all the outstanding contracts are of equal validity and stand upon the same footing and call for an amount of water the defendant is unable to furnish, then the shortage is permanent and such damage as the plaintiff has suffered is to be measured by the difference between the value of the right he contracted for and that which he has actually received and the entire amount thereof should be sought and recovered in a single action. Such a cause of action cannot be split and made the subject of recovery in several successive suits. Nor after he once has knowledge of the defendant's permanent inability to furnish the water contracted for can the contract holder recover damages for the loss of crops suffered from year to year by reason of the known deficiency of the water supply. He has but the one action in which he may recover general damages measured in the manner already explained, and such special damages if any as he may have suffered in the loss of crops before he learned of the defendant's inability to keep its contract. The judgment in such cases will constitute a complete bar to all subsequent claims for damages for in theory it affords full indemnity."

Other theories suggested by the complaint are set forth by Judge Dietrich bearing upon the classification of general and special damages and the demurrer is sustained with leave to amend within 30 days. An order to this effect is made in the cases of Peter Christensen, Arthur Dodd, Merchants' Trade Journal, Robert Bayl, R. L. Stewart and W. J. Truchlood against the Salmon River Land & Water company.

Free for Children

The people of the city have responded generously this year to the calls of the less fortunate and are giving of money, clothing, food and gifts. Practically every church and organization in the city is giving something to the cause this year. Some are taking care of families, some are giving to needy individuals and others are turning their gifts and donations over to the Associated Charities.

One of the most interesting events will be the Christmas tree for the poor children of the community who otherwise would have no gifts or holiday pleasure. Last year Mrs. J. W. Craven cared for nearly 50 children with the aid of the children and women in her vicinity. This year she wished to include all the little folks in the community who did not expect Santa Claus to come. Several individuals, however, were able to get a goodly sum of money for the tree, presents and candy and a canvass of the community was made to find all the first who were to be invited. Each child will be given a toy costing 50 cents and some candy and nuts in pretty green stockings made by pupils of the high school. The Idaho Power company gladly offered to furnish the lighting for the tree. Miss Grace Hornaday offered to tell Christmas stories to the children gathered about the tree, and the high school orchestra desired to furnish the music for the affair.

Mrs. Kennedy Packard reports generous responses and donations turning in to the Associated Charities, of which she is president, and many families will receive good Christmas dinners through this source.

With the probability of snow for the day, homecoming of home folks, happy reunions, Christmas exercises in the churches, and with everyone in the city, so far as is known, receiving some gift in remembrance of the season, Christmas day will be appropriately observed in Twin Falls and community.

'Shadows and Sunshine'

A FIVE-PART STORY
STARRING BABY MARIE OSBORNE

CAST

Little Mary Marie Osborne
Her Mother Lucy Peyton
Gilbert Jackson Daniel Giffether
Amelia Jackson Mollie McConnell

One of the most wholly delightful photoplays is "Shadows and Sunshine," a five-part Pathé Gold Roster Play, which will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre on Monday. The star is Baby Marie Osborne, who scored such a hit in her first multiple-reel feature, "Little Mary Sunshine." Wherever Little Miss Osborne has played in this picture, her appearance has caused unstinted praise from press and public. Remembering the popularity of the little star and the big success of her former vehicle, we have planned a treat for our patrons in presenting "Shadows and Sunshine." In her second feature, "Little Mary Sunshine," supported by an excellent cast and the photoplay throughout is fine. The baby heroine will take your hand in her chubby one, lead you through a mighty icy winter tale and show how she chases the shadows away and brightens up everything within the radius of her sunny presence. The plot is unique, with a big surprise at the end.

"I'm married, dad," are the only son's words a few minutes after his arrival home from college. "And, although she is a working girl, you'll agree that I've a jewel of a wife when you see her."

The home made joyous by his return is suddenly transformed into the center of a paternal storm. The father bitterly disowns the boy and says he never wants to meet his wife. The cruel act turns the mother's heart to hatred and she tells him that until her son returns she will never speak to him again.

One day, a "Hello" awakes the old man, wrapped in bitter memories, and he turns to face a wee bit of femininity. "Who are you?" he asks, gruffly. "My mamma calls me Little Mary Sunshine, so God found a lot of sunbeams and put 'em all together at that!" Then the heart hungry old man learns to look for his daily ray of sunshine and eventually he asks the mother to bring the child and live at the House of Silence.

Little Mary's sunny presence brightens everything. Remembering her mother's saying that girls with black faces never went to Heaven, she attempts some missionary work by trying to remove the fast-black from a little darkey by giving him a compulsory bath.

The end is too good to tell. Suffice it to say that you will remember this play long after you've seen it as an example of how clean and enjoyable moving pictures can be.

A PRODUCTION WE CAN PRAISE VERY HIGHLY—A DELIGHTFUL PHOTO FANTASY, SO FITTING FOR THE DAY, WITH ITS CHEERY BRIGHTNESS THAT IT WILL CAUSE A TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE PLANET GLOOM.

Bobby Bear, the Investigator.

A comedy reel, beautifully hand colored. The antics and actions of a bear cub on his busy day are very interesting. The excellent photography and the natural colors makes a feature worth while seeing.

While the location may affect property values more or less, it will not in any way militate against the town which is bound to be prosperous.

Prizes Awarded for Grain.—Many a farmer is sorry now that he did not compete for the special prizes offered by the Twin Falls Local & Water commission. The best crops of grain and vegetables. Walter B. Gorgan took the $15 prize for oats. His measured acre yielded 106 bushels and his grain averaged 35 per cent in quality. F. Lee Johnson of Marneburg, the winner of the first prize for sugar beets, obtained a yield of 29.5 tons to the acre on virgin land. The first prize for alfalfa went to the only competitor, John Ericson of Twin Falls, whose field averaged nine tons to the acre.

Miss Klertied Is Promoted.—Miss Grace Klertied of Twin Falls has been selected by Miss Belle Chamberlain, state superintendent of public instruction, as her assistant. Miss Klertied is particularly well fitted for the position which she will occupy. She is a graduate of the normal college in New York City, where she taught school. The news will be gratifying to the many friends of Miss Klertied, who will feel complimented at the recognition of her ability.

Coal in Great Demand.—The Nibley-Chamuel Lumber company received two cars of coal Tuesday. So urgent is the demand that the company kept men and teams at work on the shipment until 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning, by which time more than 100 families had been supplied. A bountiful supper was served to the men at the Star restaurant at 1 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Those who applied for coal on the morning following its arrival were chagrined to find that the supply had been exhausted, but the precious fuel was placed where it was needed the most and it afforded great relief.

Visits Old Friends.—Harry F. Allen is in the city greeting his old friends. The Allen has been busy shipping fresh fruit since he left Twin Falls and has had a very successful season. Incidentally, he found time to do some effective booting.

Loose Valuable Horse.—P. H. Smith lost his most valuable draft horse on Wednesday. The animal was taken sick on the ranch and died of some unknown disease after heroic effort had been made to save it.

THREE ELK APPEAR NEAR ROOK CREEK

Recent Storms Drive Animals Down From the Foothills—Are Seen Near the Foothills Corral

ROCK CREEK.—Last Thursday morning C. Peterson discovered three elk near his corral, just south of town. The recent storm had evidently driven them down for food. Although several of them have been almost a nuisance to John Jones and George Crockett all during the summer, none has ever ventured this far down before.

Robert and Alex Gray were in Twin Falls last Wednesday to consult Dr. Davis and attend the play, "Every woman."

Archibald Bowman, superintendent of the Utah Construction company, spent Thursday looking after the interests of the company here. After the interests of the company here.

Grandma Sooter, mother of Matt Sooter, was taken to the county hospital at Twin Falls the first of the week. She has been living with Matt for some time, but with the approach of cold weather she was no longer able to help herself, and as there was no help to be obtained to take the regular care of her, it was thought best for her to be taken where she could be properly taken care of.

Mr. and Mrs. George Crockett spent the last of the week at Cottonwood, packing up their household goods, which they moved to the home ranch Saturday. Report of the Buhl Pioneer Cow Testing Association for the Month of November

ONE COW SOLD FOR "STEAK" DURING THE MONTH—FIFTY COWS ON THE HONOR ROLL FOR THE MONTH, AND ELEVEN HERDS AVERAGE OVER THIRTY POUNDS OF BUTTERFAT PER COW—HOLSTEIN HERD OF M. P. DAU BRINGS GOOD PRICES AT PUBLIC SALE, DUE TO ITS RECORD IN THE ASSOCIATION

There were 360 cows on test for the month, with an average butterfat production of 23.54 pounds, a slight decrease since last month, but better than the average one year ago.

Skim-milk tests from 36 separators show an average test of .0193 of 1 per cent butterfat in the skim milk. There were 50 cows on the honor roll for the month and 11 herds averaging over 30 pounds butterfat per cow. Alban Little De Kol 159,213, high for individual production in October, is again in the lead.

One year ago there were 42 cows on the honor roll, seven herds averaging over 30 pounds butterfat per cow and the association average was 37.02 pounds. The Holstein herd of M. P. Dau was disposed of during the month at public auction, everything bringing very good prices, again convincing proof that cows with records of production outsell those with no record. A cow with a yearly record of her butterfat production is a producer's safe buy, while a cow with no production record is of times a gamble. More than half of the herd will remain in the association. Five purebreds were purchased by H. H. Payne. "Gardner," the herd sire, was purchased by Gustav Kunze.

Christmas Is Dying Out, Say Birskey and Zapp

New Everybody Says Presents Out of Season and Holiday Sales of "Sticker" Goods Are Doomed. — J. J.

By MONTAGUE GLASS

CHRISTMAS isn't what it used to be," Barnett Zapp remarked, as he sat opposite Louis Birskey in Wasserbauer's restaurant.

"Sure I know," Birskey said, spreading a slice of rye bread with mustard as he waited for an order of kreplach soup, with gefilte tebeches to follow. "Former times it a retail dry-goods concern didn't get half their salesmen's faint on 'em every night for two weeks before Christmas, their creditors would come down on them and ask them to discount their bills. Nowadays if a cash girl gets a headache, that's big already."

Birskey nodded sadly. "Christmas is dying out," he declared. "The people is getting too wise, Zapp. It used to be that if you wanted to push your stickers, whether it was handkerchiefs, socks, neckties, over gloves, all you had to do was to wait till the first of December, mark 'em up 50 per cent over the regular retail price for fresh goods, put 'em in red paper boxes, 'n' understand, and your customers practically used blackjacks on each other to get at the counter where the goods was displayed. Christmas silver, 'n' understand, also good sales. I seen butter dishes go like hot cakes, which the salesladies was warned not to dust them of salt feathers even, on account it might scratch the silver plate and show the brass underneath. But that's a thing of the past now. And who done it, ies is decorating graves on the thirtieth of May."

"Still, in a way, it's a good thing that Christmas is near or much a thing of the past," Zapp said, "because when you tried to collect a bill from somebody around Christmas time, it didn't make no difference if he was retired from business except for a 10 per cent interest in a bathing suit factory, he would wait to wait till his Christmas rush was over. Also people didn't give no orders because it was around Christmas, Birskey, and just because it was near Christmas and they claimed they could use all the money they could get, your creditors wanted you to pay bills which you hardly knew you owed on account of not receiving the second monthly statement yet. Furthermore if you owned a tenement house, you'd get difficulty collecting the November rent because the tenants said it was so near Christmas, and that's the way it went, Birskey. People treated Christmas not as a holiday, but as an excuse. The wonder is it ain't died out altogether."

"The wholesaler wouldn't miss it if it did," Birskey commented. "Believe me, Zapp, for every child that lays awake the night before Christmas thinking what his parents are going to hand him the next morning, there is fifty manufacturers, counting sheep jumping over fences, trying not to think what some of their customers in the retail dry-goods trade is going to hand them after the second of January. It don't require much water to drown a shabby dry-goods retailer. He can sink like a stone in two days' rain during the week before Christmas."

"Don't I know it?" Zapp said. "If the Christmas presents that the wholesaler gives by mistake to shabby retail dry-goods men was put on trees this of July, all the frankfurter factories and trolley companies go quick me-chullah."

"Aber, what's that got to do with Christmas?" Birskey asked. "I'm coming to that," Zapp said. "People are commencing to figure averages on Christmas sales. Take Miss J. T. Morgan, and she figures that out of every million Christmas presents displayed in stores a certain percentage of people buys something which they couldn't afford and gives it to a certain percentage of people which ain't got no use for it at all. So she goes to work and gets up a Society for the Prevention of Needless Giving, and consequently a certain percentage of dry-goods stores loses a certain percentage of customers which formerly had a rotten bank account and a good disposition, and has now got a good bank account and a rotten disposition."

"But Miss Morgan done this for a lot of salesladies which used to spend their money so foolishly at Christmas, Zapp, that they had nothing left to take a vacation with in the summer time."

"That may be so, Birskey," Zapp said, "and while I ain't exactly a certified public accountant, Birskey, I figure that if 90 per cent of Christmas shoppers followed Miss Morgan's advice, Birskey, the dry-goods stores would shut down around Christmas, and all them salesladies would not only take a vacation in the summer time, but in the winter time also; and then the question is, how is them salesladies going to raise money for their winter vacations?" "Miss Morgan would get up a subscription maybe," Birskey suggested. "And the proceeds after the expenses of collection were deducted would support twenty-three six hundredths of a saleslady for 6,008 hours, Birskey," Zapp concluded, "which the trouble with them people that figure out the averages is that they don't consider human beings as men and women, but as feeble-minded automatons to be humiliated thousands of times. Also it's a good thing to figure out the averages on the percentages of people that set off fireworks and don't get burned, and the percentage of people that it wouldn't do in a bit of harm to if they bought once in a while for somebody a present, useful or otherwise. In other words, Birskey, if you're going to reckon up the averages on anything, the best way is to figure how it will affect one hundred one hundredths of the people twelve months out of the year, and then go to work and get up the Society for the Prevention of Prevention Societies and limit the membership to one hundred million Americans. Most of us would join it."

"Gots Magnanance From Eating Frankfurters."

WHY do we say that the New Edison is NOT a "Talking Machine"?

Here is the answer

THERE ARE NEARLY 100 DIFFERENT MAKES OF TALKING MACHINES AND SO-CALLED PHONOGRAPHS ON THE MARKET. EACH DIFFERS FROM THE OTHERS IN CERTAIN MECHANICAL DETAILS, BUT ALL HAVE A COMMON CHARACTERISTIC IN VARYING TONE, VIZ.—A STRIDENT AND UNNATURAL TONE, SO MUCH FOR ALL TALKING MACHINES.

Now with reference to THE NEW EDISON

BY actual comparison with more than a score of great singers and instrumentalists it has been demonstrated that the New Edison re-creates all forms of music with such literal fidelity that the original cannot be distinguished from the Re-Creation when both are heard in direct comparison. The truthfulness of this statement is not open to question. These comparisons were made in public before more than 300,000 people and are chronicled in nearly 300 of America's principal newspapers.

No talking machine could sustain such a test and no talking machine manufacturer would dare to submit his machine to such a test in public. Therefore, you will understand why we say the New Edison is not a talking machine.

"People Treated Christmas Not as a Holiday, but as an Excuse."

Zapp? It was the fellow that invented the saying: 'Do your Christmas shopping early.'"

"Who did invent it?" Zapp asked. "I should know who invented it!" Birskey exclaimed. "But whoever he was, Zapp, he put a bigger crimp in the cheap handkerchief business than the fellow who invented rhinestone tablets, because if you are doing your Christmas shopping around the first of October when all them poor fellows that runs summer hotels and bathing pavilions is saying to themselves: 'Now it gets warm,' Zapp, handkerchiefs for colds are the furthest from your thoughts. Also children whose mothers do their Christmas shopping in September is apt to get school supplies

"Thinking What His Parents Are Going to Hand Him Next Morning."

instead of sleighs, because a shopper ain't got no imagination, Zapp. She buys what's in season, and if she was doing her Christmas shopping early as the Fourth of July, 'n' understand, she would come home with fireworks."

"Say," Zapp said, slipping the fingers of his right hand at Birskey, "storekeepers ain't allowed to sell no more fireworks around the Fourth of July. It's against the law."

way other Christmas presents get, they would cover all the railroad groves in California! But it ain't the retailers' fault, Birskey. Sometimes the fellow is playing in hard luck like a merchant like I used to sell goods to by the name Felix Immerglek out in Cincinnati, which a couple of years ago, last Christmas he specialized on sleighs, skates and cheap furs, and from December 15 on they got such a warm spell in Cincinnati that the hotel keepers figured should they or should they not open the roof gardens again. So the following year Immerglek cut out the sleighs and skates and laid in bicycles, children's books and a very attractive line of umbrellas, and Immerglek says that it's a wonder with his luck he didn't also buy stock in a chain of artificial ice factories, because on the day he received the goods in November the thermometer spelt down to zero on him and stays that way till a week after his next spring tailinery opening. Can you blame such a fellow that he settles with his creditors 30 cents on the dollar?"

"Listen, Zapp," Birskey said, "a 30-cent-on-the-dollar fellow could always play his butt-up on either a warm Christmas, a cold Easter or an invalid wife, whereas the figures show that the average of real cold Christmases ain't no more than the average of real sick wives."

"Still, I know, Birskey, but figuring out the average is what has done the most harm to poker, pinochle, the Fourth of July, Christmas and all them things that former time people enjoyed running chances on. Take, for instance, the Fourth of July, and let's see, the Fourth of July, and let's see, matches gefahrlich goes to work and figures that out of every million people that shoots off fireworks, one and seven hundred and fifty-two one thousandths people gets burned, so they put the fireworks manufacturers out of business, and now instead of setting off fireworks people goes to the shore or trolley parks on the Fourth; and as soon as it gets figured out that of every million people that goes to trolley parks and Coney Island, six and nine-tenths three thousandths gets a Magnanance from eating frankfurters and run over by trolley cars on the Fourth

CHAPTER XII.

Lorelei exploded her bomb at breakfast Sunday morning, and the effect was all she had dreaded. Fortunately Jim had gone out. The girl's humiliation at Merkle's disclosure and her merciless accusations left little to be said in self-defense. Of course, the usual tears followed, likewise repetitions of the time-worn plea that it had all been done for Lorelei's own good and had been prompted by unselfish love for her.

"I'm beginning to doubt that," Lorelei said, slowly. "I think you all look upon me as a piece of property to do with as you please. Perhaps I'm displaying an ungrateful, but—I can't help it. And I can't forgive you yet. When I can I'll come home again, but it's impossible for me to live here now, feeling as I do. I want to love you, so I'm going to run away."

Tragically, through her tears, Mrs. Knight inquired: "What will become of us?—We can't live—Jim never does anything for us."

In Peter's watery stare was abject fright. "Lorelei wouldn't let us suffer," he ventured, tremulously. "I'm sick. I may die any time, so the doctor says." He was indeed a changed man; that easy good-humor that had been his most likable trait had been lost in habitual pessimism.

"I'll keep the house running as before," his daughter assured him, "and I'll manage to get along on what's left. But you mustn't be quite so extravagant, that's all. I shan't be—and you wouldn't force me to do anything I regret, I'm sure." She choked down her pity at the sight of the invalid's pasty face and flabby form, then turned to the window. Her emotion prevented her from observing the relief that greeted her words.

The moment was painful; Lorelei's eyes were dim, and she hardly saw the dreary prospect of fire escapes, of whitewashed brick, of bare, gapping back yards overhung with clotheslines, like nerves exposed in the process of dissection.

"Yes, things will go on just the same," she repeated, then clenched her hands and burst forth miserably: "Oh, I know how badly you need money! I know what the doctor says, and—I'll get it somehow. It seems to me I'd pay any price just to see him walking around again and to know that you were both provided for. Money, money! You both worship it, and—I'm getting so I can't think of anything else. Nothing else seems worth while."

Two hours later a dray called for

A MERCILESS JUDGE.

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Twin Falls resident has withstood this sternest of all tests.

C. W. Secord, carpenter, Fair Ave. Twin Falls, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for pains in my back, caused by weak kidneys and they gave me great relief."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER, Mr. Secord said: "Continued use of Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cured me of every symptom of kidney complaint." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply take for a kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Secord has twice publicly recommended. Foster-McIlburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

her trunk and took them across town. The Elegance apartments looked down on her with chill disapproval as she entered: the elevator man stared at her with black, hostile eyes until she had made herself known; and even the superintendent—in a less pretentious structure than the Elegance he would have been the janitor—now that "No. 9" was rented, did not extend even a perfunctory welcome as he delivered the keys. On the contrary, he merely tossed the archaic chamber of the house in such a pointed manner as to offend her.

Lina was out, she learned, which probably meant that she was still asleep. Lorelei ascended to her new home in low spirits. Now that she was in the strong daylight, she was vaguely disappointed. She was very lonely, very friendless, and very much discouraged. Then she noticed the telephone and sprang toward it.

Adoree was at home; her voice answered cheerily, and her interruptions of amusements and duties caused Lorelei message to spin itself out unduly. Without waiting for an invitation Adoree cried:

"Let me come and help. Please! We'll use both the poodles for mops, and I'll be there in ten minutes. You're a perfect dear to say that, for I know you want to do it all yourself."

"Come now—quickly. I'm scared!" Lorelei begged, in fearful tones. "I'll drive right up in my chariot of flame; I was going out, and it's waiting for me!"

"You're sure everything is good and dandy? Good! We'll do it ourselves. Good-by!" Side by side the girls worked; they forgot their luncheon, then sent the sad-faced footman in search of a doll, catenese store, and ate ravenously with a newspaper for tablecloth. By evening the place found itself for once in its life clean and orderly, and the two occupants dressed and went out to a nearby hotel for dinner. Returning, they put the final touches to their task.

When Adoree laid late that night, she kissed her friend, saying: "Thank you for the loveliest Sunday I ever had. It was splendid, and I'll come again tomorrow."

The theatrical profession is full of women whose lives are lawless; hence it had not been difficult for Lorelei to build up a reputation that insured respect, although her connection with a Bergman show made the task more difficult than it would otherwise have been. During the two years of her stage experience no one had dared to sneer at her name, and she had therefore begun to feel secure. In that period she had met many men of the usual types that are attracted by footlight favorites, and they had pressed attentions upon her, but so long as she had been the "Lucky Girl" she had been able to obtain them without their forcing their unwelcome advances. Now, however, that a scurrilous newspaper story had associated her name with that of a wealthy man, she began to note a change. Bergman's advances "unpleasantly" surprised her, and she had to make a conscious effort to suppress her unbecoming advances. Now, however, that a scurrilous newspaper story had associated her name with that of a wealthy man, she began to note a change. Bergman's advances "unpleasantly" surprised her, and she had to make a conscious effort to suppress her unbecoming advances.

Nobel Bergman's commercial caution steered him wide of the moral women in his employ, but the other kind, and especially the kind of the inexperienced, had cause to know and to fear him. In appearance he was slender and foppish; he affected a pronounced waist line in his coats, his eyes were large and dark and brilliant, his mouth was full, and he raised his voice, he never appeared to see plain women; such girls as accepted his attentions were sure of advancement, but paid for it in other ways.

On Monday evening Mr. Blosson, the press agent, thrust his head through the dressing-room door and announced to Lorelei:

"Bergman says Mrs. Thompson-Bellaire is giving a box party, and she told him to fetch you around for supper. She owns a piece of this show, and the theater belongs to the estate, so you'll just have to go."

"Naturally the Thompson-Bellaire, the college boy's giddy grandmother," Lina mocked. "I suppose she's out slumming, with her kindergarten class."

Blosson frowned at this levity. "Will you go?" he inquired. "Yes or no?"

"You must learn to say 'yes,' it seems."

"Good. I'll phone Bergman."

When the press agent had gone Lina regarded her companion with open compassion. "Geel! But you're going to have a grand time. That bunch thinks it smart to be seen with show people, and of course they'll dance all night."

"And I did so want to go straight back to my new home." When she joined her employer after the show she was in no very agreeable frame of mind.

Mrs. Thompson-Bellaire was a vermillion-haired widow with a chest like a blacksmith, who had become famous for her jewels and her social eccentricities. She and her party were established at one of the prettiest "trottoirs," when Nobel Bergman and Lorelei arrived. Three examples of blushing boyhood devoted themselves to a languid blonde girl of thirty-five, and the hostess herself was dancing with another "trottoir" youth, but she came forward, patting:

"So good of you to come, dear," she cried. "This is Miss Wyeth, and these are my boys. Mr.—" She spoke four meaningless names, and four meaningless smiles responded; four wet, combed heads were bowed. She turned to her blonde companion, saying "She is pretty, isn't she, Alice?"

"Very," Alice agreed, without removing her eyes from the youth at her left. Bergman invited Lorelei to finish the dance; then he inquired: "What do you think of her?"

"Her hair fascinates me," she looks as if she had just burst out of a thicket of beech leaves," Bergman laughed, and Lorelei, who had been waiting for the "I told her,"

"I told her,"

"You?"

"I knew you'd refuse if I asked you."

"So? Then I'm really your guest instead of host."

"We'll leave whenever you say."

Throughout the rest of the dance Lorelei was silent, offended at Bergman's deception and uncomfortable at her own situation; but the hostess had ordered a supper of the unsatisfactory kind usual in such places; little as she liked the prospect, she could not leave at once.

The meal was interrupted regularly each time the music played, for dancing was more than a fad in this sort of amusement and dollars and cents nothing was allowed to interfere. There was considerable drinking. Bergman, who devoted himself assiduously to his employee, showing more effect from it than the others. As the night wore on he became more and more of a "buddy" with Lorelei in a friendly, tentative manner, as if feeling his ground. He changed the manner of his dancing, also, until Lorelei could no longer tolerate him.

"Getting tired, my dear?" he queried. When she declined to join the whirling throng:

"Yes. I want to go."

"Still on Amsterdam avenue?"

"No, I'm living alone—now."

Bergman started, his eyes brightened. "Ah! Then you've come to your senses finally. Merkle fixed it—eh? I can do more for you than Merkle can." "Merkle?" She eyed him coolly.

"Oh, play your game with strangers, but don't put me off. Weren't you caught with him at the Chateau? Well, then—"

"You needn't finish. I'm going home now."

He held a detaining hand upon her arm. "You never learned that speech in one of my shows," he said, "and you're not going to say good night to me. Understand?" He grinned at her with disquieting confidence, and she flung off his touch. The returning dancers offered a welcome diversion.

Lorelei dreaded an open clash with the manager, knowing that the place, the hour and the conditions were ill suited to a scene. She had learned to smile and to consider swiftly, to cross the thin line of an embarrassing situation with light steps. Quickly she turned to Mrs. Thompson-Bellaire, who was bowing effusively to a new-comer.

"My word! What is Bob Wharton doing here?" exclaimed the widow. "Bob Wharton? Where?" Miss Wyeth's languor vanished electrically; she wrenched her attention from the wire-haired fraternity man at her side. Lorelei felt a sense of great thanksgiving.

Mrs. Thompson-Bellaire beckoned, and Wharton came forward, his eyes fixed, gloomily upon Lorelei.

"You recall? So this is how you waste your evenings. I am surprised, but, now that we've caught you, won't you join us?"

Wharton glanced at the four pawns and hesitated. "It's long past nine; I'm afraid the boys will be late for school."

Miss Wyeth flattered; the sophomore with the bristling pompadour uttered a bark of amusement. Meeting Bob's questioning looks, Lorelei seconded the invitation with a nod and a quick look of appeal, whereupon his demeanor changed and he drew a chair between her and Nobel Bergman, forcing the latter to move. His action was pointed, almost rude, but the girl felt a surge of gratitude sweep over her.

There was an interlude of title chatter, then the orchestra burst into full clamor once more. Much to the chagrin of her escort, Lorelei rose and danced away with the newcomer.

"Why the distress signal?" queried Bob.

"Mr. Bergman has been drinking."

"Rum is poison," he told her, with mock indignation. "He must be a low person."

"He's getting unpleasant."

"But I take him by the nose and run around the block?"

"You can do much a favor."

He was serious in an instant. "You were nice to me the other night. I'm sorry to see you with this fellow."

"He forced—he deceived me into coming, and he's taking advantage of conditions to—be nasty."

Bob missed a step, then apologized. His next words were facetious, but his tone was ugly: "Where do you want the romances sent?"

"Will you wait and see that mine are safely sent home?" She leaned back, and her troubled twilight eyes be-sought him.

"I'll wait, never fear. I've been looking everywhere for you. I wanted to find you and I didn't want to."

"I've been to every cafe in town. How in the world did you fall in with the old bell-cow and her calf?"

When Lorelei had explained, he nodded his complete understanding. "She's just the sort to do a thing like that."

Wharton ignored Bergman's scowls; he proceeded to dominate the manager's favorites with an arrogance that secretly delighted her; he displayed the assurance of one reared to selfish actions, and his rival writhed under it. But Bergman was slow to admit defeat. Dawa was near when the crowd separated and the hostess was driven away, leaving Lorelei at the door of a taxicab in company with two or her admirers. The girl bade them each good night, but Bergman ignored her words, and, stepping boldly in after her, spoke to her.

Bob had imbued with a magnificent regard of consequences, and as a result he was unsteady on his feet. His hat was tilted back from his brow, his slender stick bent beneath him, and he was about to put upon it "Naughty, naughty Nobel!" he hid. "Come out of that cab; you and I journey arm and arm into the swirling east."

"Drive on," cried Bergman, forcing Lorelei back into her seat, as she half rose.

Bob leaned through the open cab window, murmuring thickly: "Nobel, you are drunk. Shocked—very, very shocked—as I am at seeing you thus, I shall take you home."

"Get out, you!" Lorelei snapped the manager, understanding to slam the door.

"I'm tired of your insolence. I'll—"

Bergman never finished his sentence, for in his rage he committed a grave blunder—he struck wildly at the flushed face so close to his, and the next instant was jerked bodily out of his seat. Lorelei uttered a cry of fright for the whole side of the cab seemed to go with her employer.

There was a brief scuffle, a whirl of flying arms, then Bergman's voice rose in a strangely muffled howl, followed by nasal croaks. With a bellow of anguish he suddenly ceased his struggles, and Lorelei saw that Bob was holding him by the nose. It happened to be a large, unhandsome and fleshy member, and, securely grasping it, Bergman's conqueror held him at a painful and humiliating disadvantage.

Bob was panting, but he managed to say: "Come! We will dance for the lady."

A muffled shriek of pain was the answer, but the street was empty save for some grinning chauffeurs, who offered no assistance.

"Be a good fellow. I insist, my dear Nobel."

"Drive on, quickly," Lorelei implored, but the chauffeur cranked his motor reluctantly. A moment passed, then another; he cranked once more. Bergman was sobbing now like a woman.

Bob paused and wheeled: "Bravo! You done noble, Nobel. We've learned some new steps, too, eh?" All power of resistance had left the victim, who seemed under the verge of collapse. "I say we've learned some new steps; haven't we, Henry?" He tweaked the distorted member in his grasp, and Bergman's head wagged loosely.

"Oh, please—please," Lorelei cried, tremulously. "Don't—"

"Center for the kind lady," Wharton insisted. Bergman capered awkwardly.

"Mr. Wharton! Bob—" Lorelei's agonized entreaty brought her admirer to the cab door, but he fetched his prisoner in tow. "Let him go or—we'll be arrested."

"I'll let go if you insist. But it's a grand idea—I love it. Never was there such a noise."

Bergman, with a desperate wrench, regained his freedom and staggered away with his face in his hands.

"It—actually stretched," said Bob as he regretfully watched his victim. "I dare say I'll never find another nose like it."

Lorelei's cab got under way at last, but barely in time, for a crowd was assembling. Not until she was safely inside her little apartment, with the chain on the door, did she surrender; then she burst into a trembling, choking fit of laughter. But her estimate of Wharton had risen, and for the first time he seemed not entirely bad.

DANGER SIGNAL

If the fire bell should ring would you run and stop it, or go and help to put out the fire? It is much the same way with a cough. A cough is a danger signal as much as a fire bell. You should no more try to suppress it than to stop a fire bell when it is ringing, but should cure the disease that causes the coughing. This can nearly always be done by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many have used it with the most beneficial results. It is especially valuable for the persistent cough that so often follows a bad cold or an attack of the grip. After Thomas Beach, Andrews, Ind., writes: "During the winter my husband takes cold easily and coughs and coughs. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine for breaking up the attack and you cannot get him to take any other." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

KIMBERLY IS AGAIN VISITED BY BAD FIRE

BLACKSMITH SHOP AND GARAGE SUFFER $5000 BLAZE

EXPLODING GAS TANKS IN BURNING AUTOS BRINGS FIRST WARNING OF EARLY MORNING CATASTROPHE — REBUILDING WILL BEGIN WITHIN A FEW DAYS

KIMBERLY.—Kimberly has again been visited by another severe fire. Monday morning, about 12:15 a. m., the alarm of fire was given and it was found that the garage and blacksmith shop belonging to W. F. Swearingen and Ed Newcomb was found to be in flames. The fire department was soon on the scene, but it was too late to save the building or contents, and only the other buildings in the neighborhood and some cars and machinery outside the building were saved.

The first known of the fire was the alarm given by the gasoline exploding in the tanks of the autos stored in the building. Five cars were destroyed in addition to the tools and equipment in the shop and the accessories and supplies in the garage, making a total loss of over $5000 to the owners of the garage. Two of the burned cars belonged to outside parties, one to J. A. Dunn of Hazelton and the other to a sheep man from Burley.

It is understood that both of these cars were insured, so the owners need not have a heavy loss. Only $1200 insurance was carried on the garage and contents. Work will commence in a few days on the foundation for a brick or concrete garage to go up on the old location, and Kimberly will be glad to see the firm stay in business in Kimberly.

WISHBONE NOT NEEDED

They were dining off fowl in a restaurant. "You see," he explained, as he showed her the wishbone, "you take hold here. Then we must both make a wish and pull, and when it breaks the one who has the biggest part of it will have his or her wish granted."

"But I don't know what to wish for," she protested.

"Oh, you can think of something," he said.

"No, I can't," she replied; "I can't think of anything I want very much."

"Well, I'll wish for you," he exclaimed.

"Will you, really?" she asked.

"Well, then, there's no use fooling with the old wishbone," she interrupted with a glad smile; "you can have me."

WILL INVESTIGATE COST OF WATERING HANSEN BUTTE

The following resolution was passed by the board of directors of the Twin Falls Canal company at a meeting held December 15th. "Resolved, That this board of directors take immediate steps to secure data as to the probable cost of developing power at the drop of the Low Line canal and installing a pumping station for lands known as 'the Hansen Butte'; and, further, that if it is found practicable and beneficial, to secure the necessary water. The net proceeds arising from the sale of water rights to said lands to be used in improving the canals of this corporation. "Provided, that the furnishing of water to the above mentioned lands shall not in any way jeopardize the rights or interests of any stockholder of the Twin Falls Canal company; and that a competent engineer be employed to prepare estimates of the cost of said construction, and that this proposition shall be submitted to the stockholders of this company at the annual meeting, January 9th, 1917, for their approval. TWIN FALLS CANAL CO. W. O. TAYLOR, Secretary.

NOT SO "LOONY" AFTER ALL

Although the notice plainly stated that fishing was prohibited there, the angler sat placidly dangling his line over the stream.

The irate keeper, who approached him, was surprised to see that the line was baited with a potato. In an amused voice he asked the intruder what he was doing.

"Fishing," was the reply. "You see, my health has been upset by financial worries, and I came down here to see if fresh air would help me."

Thinking that perhaps the poor chap was mentally afflicted, the keeper went away without discomfiting him.

That evening the keeper was in the local tavern, telling his friends about the potato-baited line, when in walked the intruder.

"Any luck?" said the innkeeper, kindly.

"Oh, fair!" was the reply, as the fisherman opened his basket and displayed a fine catch.

"Look here," stormed the infuriated keeper, "you didn't catch that lot with a potato."

"Oh, no!" said the angler, coolly. "That was what I caught you with."

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT THE ORPHEUM

In the photograph "Boss" Love will be featured in "The Sister of Six."

BARBERS SHOPS TO CLOSE

Shave yourself or grow whiskers, will be the slogan for those who depend on the barbers during Christmas and New Year's, as all shops in the city will be closed on both of those days. Being closed on Sunday also, there will be two days at a stretch on each occasion when the man who can't shave safely and easily manipulate a straight razor will be put of luck.
