NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVE
W. H. BAKER
611 Market Street, San Francisco, Calif.

SANBORN'S SUGGESTION

After a month-long visit in Idaho, Representative Sanborn will return to Washington this week-end, probably more convinced than ever that the people of the Pacific northwest should do everything in their power to block the proposed Columbia Valley authority.

There seemed to be no logical reason why the department of interior should prohibit the Idaho Power company from building a new transmission line over the public domain.

But the interior department brought injunction proceedings against the power company nevertheless, charging "willful trespass," as if that constituted the worst kind of a crime.

Before the government set up all its agitation for the CVA, it raised no issue over the power company building transmission lines on the public domain. But now it was a different story. The government had an ulterior purpose. It wants to get control of the power business and that is all there is to it.

But what was so wrong about the power company building a line over a barren desert waste? At first the government's attorneys were struck for an answer. Then they hit upon a bluff idea. It was to "embarrass the government" and "reflect against the dignity of the department of interior" if they lost their fight to "prohibit trespass" on public land!

So the temporary injunction was granted and now the case must go to court. Naturally Representative Sanborn is disgusted with this whole procedure which serves as a challenge in the light between proponents of the CVA and the advocates of free enterprise. More than that, he suggests that the people of this inter-mountain country do something about it.

In his own words, he hopes that "all corporations and individuals in the state who are opposed to the CVA make themselves heard by writing to me and to interior department officials in Washington, stating their views."

FISHING'S NOT SO GOOD
Hugh Sprout, field representative of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, has recommended that the state game department withdraw out-of-state shipping privileges immediately as a protective measure for fish and birds.

This is but one of several suggestions which have been advanced by sportsmen who are becoming concerned over recent developments. Some anglers think Island Park reservoir should be closed to fishing. Others feel that parts of Lemhi river and Conboise river should be closed to fishing. Reservoir on Lost river should be restricted territory for the remainder of the season.

If one can make judgment on conditions in Magic Valley, fishing is on the wane in Idaho and the state game department has a real problem on its hands. Many of the best and most persistent stream fishermen in this vicinity are agreed that fishing is far below par on such favorite waters as Snake river, Big and Little Wood river and Silver creek on this side of Galena summit and Salmon river and its tributary streams in the Stansbury basin country. In fact this has been about the poorest season that stream fishermen have experienced.

We can understand why drastic steps are being proposed to change this all too obvious trend. If out-of-state shipping privileges must be stopped and other restrictions enforced to curb this fishing decline, there should be no delay in taking such action.

Meanwhile the state fish and game department had better be scratching its head for the right answer as to how we are going to keep our streams well stocked. It is quite apparent that present methods are inadequate.

DIFFERENCE IN RANK
We were interested in that story from Detroit about a group of young businessmen wanting to launch a national youth program to give a new lease of life to the boys who during the war dreamed of being "my own boss."

We were particularly interested in the group selection for a national president. Max Arnold, secretary of Wichita, Kansas, because of his name was the one name as the boys were named after.

Odd 'Specter' Is Described By Stargazer

By J. HUGH PEUKERT
Astronomer, Extension Division
Oregon Higher Education Division
Early on Aug. 14, 1942, 22 mountain climbers on the Cascade, an out-door organization, left from their summer camp at Split Lake, Wash., and on their way to the mountain they topped off Mt. St. Helens. They planned to return before the close of the day and report the larger number who had not attempted the climb.

The ascent was successful, and late in the afternoon when halfway back from the rounded summit, the party unexpectedly came upon the rare (escaping from airplanes) and striking phenomenon long known as the Specter of the Broken.

Described by William A. Attelle, a graduate of the University of Oregon library staff, graduate of the University of Washington, described it as follows:

"We were on the summit Dog's head, a very steep, rocky, and precipitous, between two mountain glaciers. The ice below us to the east was covered with dense sheets of fog, the glittering, smooth top of which was probably 50 yards lower than we were.

"Distinct shadows of the western horizon, was casting distinct shadows of all members of our party on the top of the fog layer. But the amazing part of it, something I had never seen before, was that each person saw his own shadow surrounded by a complete rainbow.

He could see the rainbow only around his own shadow and not around those of the others. I held my arms in a half circle as high as I could and the shadow of my head and my fingers on the fog just touched the rim of my personal rainbow."

As stated in this column July 31, when rainbow-forming conditions exist each person sees his own rainbow, since the center of the circle, of which the colored arc is the circumference, is the observer and also the observer from the sun—as in his shadow.

A straight line would run through the sun, the observer and the bow's center. That alternate on Mt. St. Helens, 10 visible Specters of the Broken were pointed on the gleaming white fog over the mountain seen by any one member of the party.

Not True Rainbow
This phenomenon is not quite a true rainbow but is more like colored circles sometimes seen on this globe enclosing the moon. Diffraction plays a role in the colored part, not refraction.

The name comes from the Broken, a mountain in Boulder County, Reason for which the observer's rainbow encircled the sun.

Many legends center around this mountain to "Wanderer Long" who saw it was thought that evil spirits and witches hid "high carnival" from the sun on the mountain. Some with light of the mountain still retain a slight superstition about the old-time stories.

1912 Store Was First of Magic Valley Group

Opened in 1912, at Burley, the store shown above was the forerunner of a group of five operated in Magic Valley by William Roper. Left to right are the late Jack Gaskill, the late Frank C. Becke, pioneer Oakley settler and stockman; J. L. McCarty, Roper, salesman with the concern until 1916; Noel Crabtree, salesman who left the concern in 1911 and is now manager of a J. C. Penney store at Boise, Idaho; and Roper. (Staff capturing)

Pioneer Burley Store Owner Has "Clothed" 3 Generations

By CARLITA STEELSMITH

BURLEY, Sept. 22.—Like the man in the moon, "Old Solomon Levi" William Roper, clothing dealer in Burley for the past 37 years, has handled everything from high-button shoes to underties in his job of clothing three generations of Burley people.

Opening the doors of his clothing store here one bleak February morning in 1912, Roper had no idea that his one small store would someday become a group of five stores, which it will be soon with the addition of a new men's clothing store in Twin Falls.

Back in Missouri in about 1900, Roper was teaching in a small rural school, leading youngsters of all ages, never dreaming of working in a clothing store and much less of ever owning one.

After two years of teaching, he went to Springfield, Mo., and worked in a clothing store for seven years. Later, he moved to Boise, where he worked for six months for Alexander's and during that time he scouted around and chose Burley for the place to set down his roots.

A small item in the Burley paper announced his arrival, dated Feb. 6, 1912. "William Roper has bought the Tuggerly store and will changing of the style, both men's and women's because for several years he handled both in his store here. "Men's clothing has gone through an interesting change as women's styles," he said, in recounting the evolution of "peg-top" pants through the "bell-bottom" stage, the collegiate "care-free" slacks to the present comfortable trousers.

In 1942, Roper closed out the women's apparel in the Burley store, and since that time has specialized in men's clothing. At the close of the war, the army and navy "liberally" doctored and took over Murray Jensen, former employe who went in the service with the national guard in 1916, returned

When Kidneys Work Too Often

When your kidneys are overworked, you will feel tired, nervous, and generally unwell. This is because the kidneys are the filters of the body, and when they are overworked, they cannot filter out the waste products of the body as efficiently as they should. This can lead to a variety of health problems, including high blood pressure, kidney stones, and even kidney failure.

There are several ways to help your kidneys work more effectively. One of the most important is to drink plenty of water. Water helps to flush out the kidneys and keep them healthy. Another way is to eat a healthy diet that is low in salt and fat. Exercise is also important, as it helps to improve circulation and keep the kidneys working properly.

and in August, 1942, was elected as a charter member and Burley manager of Roper's new Jerome store. In January, 1942, Lamont Parish, veteran and former employe at Burley, went to Idaho to manage the new store in Idaho.

Elmer Rosebrant, veteran from Rupert store, has been placed as manager position there, while Jack Roper goes to Twin Falls.

Roper's two sons, Jim and John, also are associated with the business now. John was graduated from Burley high school in 1927, and from Northwestern University with a degree in commerce in 1931. He served as a lieutenant commander in the U. S. navy during the war, and has recently rejoined the firm after working with an insurance company at Boise.

Jim Roper was graduated from Burley high in 1941, and received his master's degree in business administration from Stanford University in 1947. He was a lieutenant in the navy, while John and his wife, the former Bette Isenberg Roper, live in Burley while John and his wife, the former Alice Gaskill, Burley, now live in Twin Falls.

Aside from a busy business life, Roper has found time to be active in both the Rotary club of which he is a charter member and Burley Chamber of Commerce, serving terms as president of both. He served as chairman of the school board here, and for 10 years has been on the board of trustees of the Shrine Crippled Children's hospital, Salt Lake City.

Roper vows that men are just as style-conscious and "fad susceptible" as women. He remembers that for several months following Lindbergh's flight to Paris in 1927, every man and boy wanted an aviator-type helmet.

Lower Age in Scouting May Enroll 1,000

Approximately 1,000 additional boys in the Boise River council may be enrolled in the Scouting program as a result of the recent reduction of the age levels by the Boy Scouts of America, it was announced Saturday by Andrew F. James, council committee president.

The new age limits are now in effect in all but 14 of the parent institutions in the council territory.

Public Forum Draftees at Ft. Bliss Asking For Return to Civilian Status

Editor, Times-News: Between November, 1948, and January, 1949, 30,000 men, most of them 25 years old, were drafted into the United States army for 21 months. Many of them had been repeatedly rejected for physical disabilities when they had attempted to enlist during the war, others were merchant seamen who had risked their lives for their country, and still others had been drafted who could best serve by remaining on the farm.

Now, having completed our military training, with almost a year in the service, we find that we are in almost no better position than when we were drafted. All opportunities for personal advancement on merit have been closed, and we are given jobs, not to come with the tremendous logic of its meaning.

It aings to heaven, to the four corners of the earth with its dazzling definition of force, which is the force of the universe, a force which is the human soul.

Read it my friends, and ponder on its meaning. There is power in the human soul, said the Lord. When you break through and set it free. Like the power of the atom. More powerful than the atom. It can control the atom. The only thing in the world that is greater than the atom is the spirit.

For in the world save one. That one is the human soul! EDITH MACDONALD O'BRIEN (Twin Falls)

Read Book About "Bomb" in Verse, Resident Suggests

Editor, Times-News: In these hurried and hasty years one rarely finds a book of contemplative writing that stirs the soul. "The Bomb that Fell on America" is a book—and a small one—that every thinking American should read. If there be those who read slowly and absorb thoughtfully, another should read it to him.

Dealers said the emphasis would be on cowboy paraphernalia for boys this Christmas.

Something new are the toy automobiles, which for the first time will be scale replicas of full-size cars of all popular makes.

Repairs Start On Collapsed Jerome Store

Jerome, Sept. 24—Workmen today began removing debris from the Frank Judd Auto Parts store at the first stage of reconstruction of the building which caved in Friday morning. The structure will be built of cinderblock.

Meanwhile estimates of damage reached $15,000, most of which was to the structure. However, the damage to tools and equipment was estimated between $2,000 and $4,000.

Build is 1923

The one-story brick collapsed while workmen were attempting to brace the foundation. Two men in the building escaped serious injuries. The structure was built in 1923 by William Booth who sold it to Judd in 1924.

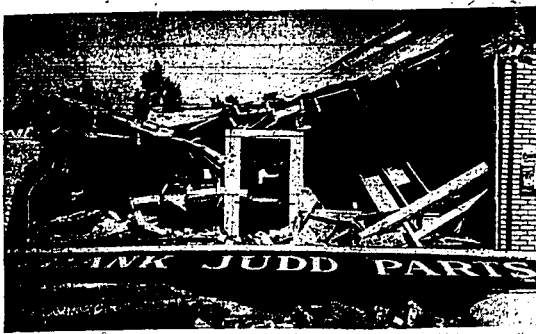

Reconstruction of the building is expected to take three weeks during which an office will be set up in another building. The roof will be supported and merchandise rearranged. It is under police guard now.

Excavating Nearby

The roof fell in after the front and side walls collapsed. The workmen are excavating near the front and side walls to construct a retaining wall.

A member of the contracting company is expected to be in the Associated General Contractors and Southern Idaho contractors association, and is covering insurance against such damage.

Mrs. Hayes Announces PTA's Theme for Three-Year Period

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 (Special)—Mrs. Hayes, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, announced today that the theme for the next three-year term of office of the PTA will be "Citizenship for the Child."

Mrs. Hayes, elected at the parent-teacher convention held in St. Louis in May, will preside over the annual fall meeting of the PTA at the Congress hotel this week. It is expected that the program for the year will be formulated. Special committee meetings will open Sunday and continue through Wednesday, with board sessions Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Newton P. Leonard of Providence, R. I., first vice president, is chairman of a steering committee that will meet to translate the theme into action.

The agenda of other special committees and the board will include expansion of the parent-education program, the national parent-teacher publications, procedures for the administration of the PTA, and the budget for the year.

The action committee on committees, budget, international relations, will meet Tuesday morning, while a national PTA relations convention will be held Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

The board of directors of the National Parent Teachers, the PTA magazine, will meet Tuesday morning.

In the administration theme we recognize that a new concept is in the making, Mrs. Hayes said. "We are looking ahead to the day when every child shall realize within himself the gifts of grace and power to meet his needs as a capable citizen, both at home and in the total world."

"We believe that society is indebted to the child for his citizenship."

his home, a social attitude that makes of him a more willing and responsible citizen in his school," she said. "And the school, democratic in its character, offers avenues of growth through widened horizons of interest, opens for him many doors of adventure. Here, too, he gains an awareness of his latent talents and a knowledge of the perspective of opportunities waiting for us in the new day, the day of citizenship in a free world."

"We believe in citizenship and that the fundamental elements of citizenship for a child must be built in his home. There he first learns to respect the rights of others and the need to give of himself as he accepts from others. There also he learns respect for property, for people, and for God; and the love, sympathy and understanding which a good home furnishes him with a confidence and fortitude necessary to the expanding citizenship outside the family circle."

"The citizen child devotes his life to the basic values of citizenship: a social unit and to accept therein every other child. It will help him to find new knowledge and use it for the benefit of all people everywhere. It will help him to find kinship with folks of other lands, other cultures, and other faiths in a great family under one Father, one God."

"He will develop patriotism and joy in his own country and in his culture, without bigotry or prejudice—nationalism—then will learn to appreciate the value of individual enterprise without encroaching on the rights of others; also that he must respect existing laws, if he would make laws for other people; and as he accepts responsibility for others he will have responsibility for himself."

"These concepts he will learn only if there is complete agreement upon goals of living and learning between his home and his school, only if the teachers in his school and the teachers in his family share an interest in his well-being," she said.

"The adequate school for the citizen child will find opportunities to widen his concepts of belonging to a social unit and to accept therein every other child. It will help him to find new knowledge and use it for the benefit of all people everywhere. It will help him to find kinship with folks of other lands, other cultures, and other faiths in a great family under one Father, one God."

ful citizenship law integrates securely within the home and the school, the child will walk forth into manhood and womanhood—the community, the nation, and finally the world—bearing the supreme wholeness of his teaching into a society ready for justice and truth. Then he will truly be at home as a citizen of the total world," Mrs. Hayes added.

From the HENRY J. TRUCK. A.C. Newark, early Buick design.

Guess who's losing sleep over this one?

For years, folks have talked about the "low-priced three" in the car business. For a generation these have been the same three cars, unchallenged for position simply because they were lowest priced.

But take a look at the beauty pictured here and ask yourself: How would you like to sell against it, with its wealth of Buick features?

How would you like to compete with it when it wears a price tag only new-car buyer can reach, gives you straight-eight performance for less than many sizes?

Truth is, this one sets a lot of standards that are going to be hard to match. This styling is certainly something to stir other designers tossing in their sleep.

This handy size—a dream in traffic, yet generous in interior room—is a "must" for cars yet to come. The lift of high-pressure Fireball power—the leveling comfort of the Buick ride—the luxury of Dynaflow Drive, here optional at modest extra cost—all these are wanted things others just can't overlook.

So why not do the obvious thing and go see the car that's causing sleepless nights in Detroit? Study its smartness, test its room and comfort, try its handling, note the precise figures of its delivered prices. You can do all that on a single trip to your Buick dealer—can make your selection of a wide choice of equipment and colors at the same time.

Canine Policeman Helps Night Patrol

Canine Patrolman Makes Night Rounds in Warehouse District

Night rounds in the Twin Falls warehouse district are up to find intruders with 75 pounds of sharp-tipped dynamite in the form of "Brick," canine officer of the Twin Falls police department.

"Brick" is a pure bred doberman pincher, grown silently at the home of night policeman James Crist ready and almost eager for trouble. The doberman, naturally a one-man dog, is being trained to distrust everyone except Crist and to bark at the slightest sign.

"Brick" believes so well that no one can force or entice him away from Crist's heels when they are on duty. The animal is trained to run ahead of his master and circle corners there wait. At warehouses, "Brick" enters alone and prowls the building with his sharp nose searching for any hidden intruder.

The doberman stands rarely three and one-half feet tall and is 16 pounds old. He has a smooth dark coat that makes him practically invisible at night. Any sudden movement is noticed by "Brick."

Solons OK Boost For Payments to Veterans and Kin

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The senate finance committee has approved a bill which would boost payments to disabled war veterans and to widows and children of veterans.

The increase, already approved by the house, are estimated to cost $1,200,000 a year.

Major changes made in the present law would:

1. Give World War I veterans 100 per cent disability payments for disability presumed to be connected with their wartime service. The present payment is 75 per cent.
2. Increase payments to veterans having tuberculosis.
3. Give war widows with one child increased compensation from $100 to $118 a month plus $25 for each additional child. The present payment for each child is $14.

Valley Delegation Asks New Bridge

FAIRFIELD, Sept. 24—Barraging here Wednesday from a bridge project meeting at Mountain Home were Sen. Leavell, Don Baskette, John Balf and Stanley Ramsey.

The meeting was called regarding a bridge on the new road being built around Anderson dam by the bureau of reclamation. The bridge, an old 10-ton steel structure over a portion of the backwaters of Kings crack, is considered hazardous by heavy loads of timber and logs.

Because the present structure is too light—for reclamation—the bureau of reclamation was asked to build a heavy 30-ton structure or relocate the road around a portion of the backwaters.

Others at the meeting were federal representatives and the highway department men, a delegation from Wendell, Rep. John Baskette, and Kinney county commissioners.

New Drug Might Stretch Japanese Into Six-Footers

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 24—A mysterious "growth chemical" might be able to make six-footers out of the Japanese, Chinese and other Orientals, a scientist speculated today.

The growth substance is a mixture of several potent vitamins, or things called vitamins, it is called the animal protein factor or APP complex for short.

It is found in meats, fish meal, yeast, and fried skin milk, and now it also has been made synthetically. Chickens and pigs must have it in order to grow well, and for chickens eggs to hatch.

The possibility that APP might make Oriental people grow taller was advanced by Dr. Stefan Ansbacher, scientific director of the Vit-D-C, Marion O., speaking before the American Chemical society.

Oriental, unlike the taller western races, usually eat foods that contain little or no protein obtained from animals, he said.

YOUNG'S DAIRY WINS IDAHO'S HIGHEST RATING

August Report Notes Highest Rating for Milk Supply Here

The city of Twin Falls has received the highest grade A shed and pasteurized milk rating for the past nine months.

Dr. Sanitarian W. K. Mott stated after completing a report submitted by the city council says the survey is complete in all details and rated the plant to standards recommended by the department of public health in the United States public health milk ordinance and code.

Reasons for the various divisions of the shed are: raw to plant (90.17 per cent); pasteurized (91.28 per cent); pasteurized (92.58 per cent) and raw (93.18 per cent).

The shed consists of 87 producers of milk for Young's Dairy.

Young's Dairy pasteurization plant and Gley Park dairy.

Colton's report points out producers and plant managers and those responsible for the education and selection of producers are to be congratulated on the record of the city milk shed.

Not only is the Twin Falls pasteurization plant one of the largest in output of grade A milk in the state, but it is the best yet in compliance with the U. S. public health service milk ordinance and code standards in the state, according to the report.

Less than 19 per cent of all dairies under the U. S. public health service milk ordinance and code rated above 80 per cent, but the Twin Falls pasteurization plant and producers rated 92.58. —Reprinted from the Times-News.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By Times-News Correspondents and Staff Writers:
Rare bean fields and frost-free weather that fall is here and the peak of potato harvesting is near at hand. Among the first to start digging early russets were FALSBURY while many another farm couple threshed beans or ate fish which somehow were caught on a saghen hunt.

Meanwhile at FILER, which has one house for every 120 inhabitants more or less, some 150 housewives flocked to the warehouses to sort peas and beans. Can any other town of 1,450 claim its beanhouse? Filer draws peas and beans from Bull, Twin Falls and the Salmon tract as well as its own territory.

Three concerns there clean contract peas and beans. The 11 warehouses employ 150 men to receive and clean the beans and peas. Truckloads of beans average 15,000 pounds in bulk or 12,500 pounds when sacked.

The days just aren't long enough for the farmer who begins leaving his truckloads of beans at the warehouse at 7 a. m. and continues on until midnight or later.

And now that all the grand chumpans have posed for posterity, here's a little bull:

Yup, that's Ferdinand, the midget bull, now about 18 months old. His owner, a DIEPRICH fellow who identifies himself only as Big Red Maisey, figures Ferdinand will be fine for starting a herd of midget cows which will produce plenty of milk. Ferdinand eats little and his mother gives lots of milk.

There's nothing like it in Europe or anywhere else. That's what Ed Robinson said, after surveying the scenery at the top of Mt. Baldy following his first all-hill ride up the mountain. And that comes from a gal who has toured Switzerland and used all-hill trails. HAPPY TRIP!

Jacuzzi SUBMERSIBLE TURBINE PUMPS
If your problem is pumping more water while keeping costs down, the answer is the Jacuzzi Submersible turbine pump. Both the electric motor and the pump are mounted on the well below the water level. Pumping is then a PUSHING action instead of a PULLING action. High efficiency means more water from greater depths at less cost. Ask for literature today!

HACHEMAN, she spins the Justice ranch, an early-day landmark which to the despair of her southern father—she was just a girl and woman's place was in the home—she trotted off on her horse to the depot and a career in telegraphy.

What kind of people were those 20 blooders who toured Magic Valley? Most of them were farmers retired from small acreages. Some had never been on a train and some had never been out of their hometown, county or state. Their average age was 41.

On the business of bagging grain, are the stories of a couple of Magic Valley gals who had luck—good and bad.

Despite a total lack of cooperation from antelope which stayed out of the range as well as the crack of a rifle, Mrs. Lee Johnson, a hired hand from KETCHUM, got a running start or two at a buck and dropped him. Lee had the chore—cleaning, dressing and cooling the animal. He's an old-time waterer who delighted in reminding his wife that he now learned for three years from participating in another antelope hunt.

Wesley Nielsen, who spends most of her time hunting files in district court here blame her deer-hunting had luck a season or so ago on the movie. Friend husband advised her always to lead a running animal. She did but the deer was coming almost straight for her.

Her previous experience was in movie hunts where the animal drops dead almost before the first shot is fired. Her script didn't read that way. So surprised she missed him, she just lay there laughing while the deer kept coming. Brother-in-law Howard Cline ran over a hill and dropped the deer.
