Barley producers across southern Idaho begin a chaotic harvest in July, taking advantage of long summer days to complete a monumental task. The harvest consumes the lives of more than 4,000 people in Idaho, who will provide barley to the nation's breweries. Day two looks at life in southern Idaho during the harvest.

Sheriff told to do more work in ZeBarth death investigation

By Andrea Jackson Times-News writer

Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loebs wants the sheriff's office to continue its investigation of the crash that killed banker and civic leader Tim ZeBarth three months

ZeBarth, 44, died in the early morning hours of July 18 in a single-vehicle rollover near 3000 East, 2650 North. The crash also injured his fiancée and fellow First Federal Savings Bank employee, Megan Ridgeway.

The sheriff's office sent the case to Loebs for review on Sept. 14, but it was sent back 10 days later, according to the

Gooding school to consider selling building

By Damon Hunzeker Times-News writer

The Gooding School Board will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the high school to determine what to do with the old elementary building on Main Street.

Most recently, the building was used as an alternative high school. The board will consider an offer from the North Valley Academy charter school to buy the building for $600,000. In June, the board rejected the charter school's offer of $470,000.

"The community is very attached to this building," said schools superintendent Heather Williams.

The district recently repaired a steam pipe in the facility but, Williams emphasized, additional renovation will be necessary if the district decides to retain ownership and use it as an alternative high school or an early-childhood development center, as has been discussed in the past.

"It could also be a combination of the two," Williams said.

Law Disorder...

... in Cassia County

From Sept. 23 police reports: Found property:

A 72-year-old Burley man brought a wallet that he found into the sheriff's office. The wallet, according to the report, contained an Idaho identification card, some miscellaneous papers, a Subway card, and a broken mirror. The owner was discovered to be an 18-year-old inmate at the Mini-Cassia Criminal Justice Center. Police returned the wallet to him at the Animal control:

A 13-year-old boy was bitten by a dog while he was walking along a street in Oakley. According to the report, the dog's name is "Bear" and is owned by a woman known as "The Bird Lady." While trying to contact the Bird Lady at her house, Deputy Brynn Blacker was allegedly chased away by Bear and two other dogs. "I went to the front door and knocked loudly several times. No one would answer. The dogs jumped out of an open window and came towards me barking and growling. I was able to safely make it out of the yard," the report reads.

The league is coached by Jim Siggaard, the engineering and technical-education teacher at Robert Stuart and Canyon Ridge High School. He explained that, while his team hopes to win, the competition is more relative than fierce.

"One of the things FLL stresses is gracious professionalism. What that means is that it's not as important to win as it is to instill a sense of teamwork and to help each other build on that," Siggaard said. "Sometimes that even means helping other teams."

Follow the barley

The storm begins in western Idaho during the first week of July, moving east like a cloud of insects stripping fields bare. Hundreds of grain haulers begin to move across southern Idaho in columns, shipping barley from fields to the elevator in Burley.

Ron Elkin, co-owner of one of the largest barley farms in the Pacific Northwest, near Hagerman, said frantic, 15-hour days are the rule.

"The days are pretty long until we get it done," he said, driving a tractor and loader on a dusty road through a sea of barley and wheat. "Everyone has seen or heard of someone who let their crop sit an extra day and a hail storm or something took it out - we don't let that happen."

But timing the threshing, transport and delivery to MillerCoors can be daunting; sometimes it can be downright messy.

More than 260 Idaho growers rely on fewer than 500 trucks suitable for hauling malt barley, some making a two-hour drive each way. While smaller massive growers often use their own trucks, larger growers like Elkin contract with trucking companies to rotate three or more trucks at a time.

Kris Smelser, regional manager for MillerCoors, said that during peak harvest the elevator will receive as many as 300 loads daily - about 15 million pounds. Coors previously operated a second elevator near Buhl, but consolidated operations in 2005 a fuzz of green five months to cut costs. Next up for the Barley

Day 3: Brewing up a profit

The harvest has ended, but the transformation from seed to suds is only beginning. The MillerCoors brewery in Golden, Colo., receives the barley and begins the complicated process of malting, brewing and shipping the nation's largest-selling consumer product. What goes into that can of beer? A lot more than you might think.

There are plenty of reasons why Twin Falls has assumed the role of favorite heading into this week's Great Basin Conference volleyball tournament.

It all starts with libero Mallory Jund, who is one of the state's leaders with 377 digs this season. Then there's Allie Johnson, the sensational sophomore setter who dishes out more than six assists per game. After that, the high-flying, hardhitting trio of Cheltzie Williams, Josie Jordan and Ariel Medina clean it all up. They've combined for them (earlier in the season)." nearly 600 kills this season.

Broncos hit heart of WAC schedule

BOISE - Say good-bye to nonconference play. The Boise State Broncos (6-0, 1-0 Western Athletic Conference), No. 4 in the BCS standings leased on Sunday, came away unscatchted through the first half of their season. Now they set their sights on their main goal: winning the WAC. The Broncos and Idaho Vandals (6-1, 3-0) are the only WAC teams with winning records, but don't think BSU will overlook its conference foes. Boise State head Coach Chris Petersen refuses to accept the praises heaped on his team. He knows they must continue to improve.

"In every game we look real good, but in terms of playing that high level — not perfect by any stretch, we know that's not going to happen — and being finishers ... we have opportunities to do that," Petersen said. "We're getting there, but we're not there."

This week finds the Broncos at the University of Hawaii Warriors (2-4, 0-3), who lost to the Vandals Saturday night in Moscow.

"Idaho is doing a great job of finishing," Petersen said. "That game was very close. It could have gone either way. Idaho made a couple more plays than Hawaii did."

Despite the loss, Hawaii played a good game and quarterback Bryant Moniz proved effective in his second start (30-for-42, 360 yards), replacing Greg Alexander, who will miss the rest of the season with a left knee injury.

BSU lost it's last two meetings in Honolulu, a 41-38 loss to East Carolina and a 39-27 loss to Hawaii, both in 2007.

"I know how it's going to be when we play," Petersen said of this Saturday's 9 p.m. MDT kickoff. "It will be another hard-fought game, to a tough place to play, a lot of distractions, let alone the team we're going to play."

Despite the Broncos' success, there are some troubling trends emerging as this season progresses. Eleven offensive linemen have mixed in and out of the starting five. The defense hasn't forced a turnover in two games.

"I think great defenses create (turnovers)," Petersen said. "Really good offenses don't let you have them. What are we? Are we a great defense or not? It's not acceptable. It's not okay, for us to not get turnovers."

Brady tosses six TDs in 59-0 rout

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. -This was the Tom Brady everyone expects to see.

Brady threw six touchdown passes – five in one quarter, an NFL mark – and the New England Patriots sent the hapless Tennessee Titans plummeting to a new low in their winless season with a 59-0 win on a snowy Sunday.

Brady had five TD passes in the second quarter, a record for one period. The six touchdown throws tied Brady's own Patriots record. And the 59-point margin matched the largest since the NFL-AFL merger in 1970, the Los Angeles Rams' 59-0 win over the Atlanta Falcons in 1976.

The Patriots (4-2) gained a club-record 619 yards with Brady completing 29 of 34 passes for 380 yards.

MINNEAPOLIS — Brett Favre's 58-yard completion to Sidney Rice set up Ryan Longwell's fourth field goal, and Baltimore's Steve Hauschka missed a 44-yard field goal as time expired. allowing Minnesota to remain undefeated.

Favre threw for 278 yards and three touchdowns, but the Vikings (6-0) nearly blew this one when they let the Ravens erase a 17-point deficit with 10 minutes to play.

Joe Flacco threw for 385 yards and two touchdowns for the Ravens (3-3), who scored twice on drives that totaled just 56 seconds to take a 31-30 lead with 3:37 to play.

SAINTS 48, GIANTS 27

NEW ORLEANS — Drew Brees ended his two-game streak without a touchdown throw by completing 23 of 30 passes for 369 yards and four scores Sunday, and Orleans easily remained unbeaten, torching the New York Giants' league-leading defense.

The Giants (5-1) came into the game giving up averages of 210.6 yards and 14.2 points. The Saints (5-0) had 34 points and 315 yards by halftime, as Brees threw three TD passes to reach 100 since the Saints signed him as a free agent in 2006.

Eli Manning was 14 of 31 for 178 yards.

PANTHERS 28, BUCCANEERS 21

TAMPA, Fla. – A week after getting their first win by beating the struggling Washington Redskins, the Panthers got another by rushing for 267 yards and three touchdowns.

Williams DeAngelo gained a season-best 152 yards on 30 carries and scored twice, including the winning TD with 29 seconds left. The 1-vard dive capped a 16-play, 80-yard drive that took more than 8 minutes.

TEXANS 28, BENGALS 17

CINCINNATI - Matt Schaub tied his career high with four TD passes – two to tight end Owen Daniels – and Houston pulled away to deny Cincinnati another chance to win one at the end.

The Bengals (4-2) had won three straight games in the last 22 seconds, pulling off one improbable drive after another because an opponent failed to finish Torry Holt had 101 yards them off. They had one more escape on Sunday -Steve Slaton fumbled with the Texans (3-3) in fieldgoal range with 6:12 left.

STEELERS 27, BROWNS 14

PITTSBURGH – Ben Roethlisberger threw two touchdown passes before the Steelers' offense began itself stopping with turnovers, and Pittsburgh benefited from a curious first-down measurement to beat the rival Browns for the 12th time in a row.

Roethlisberger was 23 of 35 for 417 yards in his second career 400-yard game. He threw for 433 during a 31-20 loss to Denver in 2006. Hines Ward made eight end to preserve the win. catches for 159 yards and a touchdown and Santonio touchdowns for the Falcons. Holmes had five for 104.

New England Patriots quarterback Tom Brady (12) throws a touchdown pass to Randy Moss against the Tennessee Titans in Foxborough, Mass., Sunday.

RAIDERS 13, EAGLES 9

OAKLAND, Calif. Louis Murphy threw two key blocks to spring Zach Miller's 86-yard touchdown catch, Justin Fargas ran for 87 yards and Oakland's defense harassed Donovan McNabb all day.

The result was one of the more shocking ones so far this season as the Raiders (2-4) had lost three straight games by at least 20 points for the first time in franchise history and failed to reach 200 yards of offense the past four, while the Eagles (3-2) were second in the league in points per game.

CARDINALS 27, SEAHAWKS 3

SEATTLE - Arizona moved into a tie for the NFC West lead as Warner completed 32 of 41 passes for 276 yards and two touchdowns.

Kurt Warner tied an NFL record for being the fastest to throw for 30,000 yards in a career and Larry Fitzgerald tied his career high with 13 receptions for 100 yards and a touchdown.

BILLS 16, JETS 13, OT

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. – Rian Lindell kicked a 47-yard field goal with 2:44 left in overtime, making up for a miss at the end of regulation.

The Bills (2-4) took advantage of Mark Sanchez's fifth interception of the day to snap a threegame losing streak, and send the sputtering Jets (3-3) to their third straight loss.

PACKERS 26, LIONS 0

GREEN BAY, Wis. -Aaron Rodgers got sacked five times but still managed to have a big day against Detroit's defense, throwing for 358 yards with two touchdowns and an interception.

Donald Driver became the franchise's career receptions leader with a firstquarter catch and rookie outside linebacker Clay Matthews III had two sacks as the Packers (3-2) turned in a dominant defensive effort against an undermanned Lions offense.

CHIEFS 14, REDSKINS 6

LANDOVER, Md. – Ryan Succop's four field goals, including the go-ahead 46yarder with 3:36 to play, plus a last-minute safety were all the Chiefs needed.

up big plays and the offense struggles at times to put drives together, including last Wednesday's 28-21 win at Tulsa. Petersen emphasized the importance on playing sound defense on every play. "Our defense, played pretty well against (Tulsa's) awkward, tough offense, but we gave up a couple easy ones," Petersen said. "If they drive down the field and earn them and make tough catches on the back shoulder in the end zone, (we) tip our hat and move on. We'll live with that."

The BSU running game has been hit and miss, but both Jeremy Avery and Doug Martin have 100-yard games, and although the offensive line rotates each week, each drive, it has proved effective. "I think we made some progress with a little bit different lineup," Petersen said. "We are a work in progress across the board. It's solid, but we'd like to be better than solid."

Sometimes the middle of a season can start to drag on a team, especially approaching the fourth road game in the last five meetings. A spreading influenza has also gripped the Bronco locker room. Nine players and two coaches missed practice Saturday and a few others missed the trip to Tulsa. "Our trainers make the call," Petersen said. "When they feel like a guy is coming down with it, they send them home then and there. I have the opposite philosophy. "I think we should get all the sick guys and the whole team in one room and just get it over with."

Boozer's big night lifts Jazz to preseason win over Clippers

LOS ANGELES - Carlos Boozer made seven of his first eight shots and scored 22 points, leading the Utah Jazz to a 110-103 preseason victory over the Charlotte Bobcats on Sunday.

All five Utah starters scored in double figures. Deron Williams had 17 points and eight assists. Andrei Kirilenko returned to the Jazz lineup after missing three games and finished with 18 points and six rebounds in 27 minutes. He was in his native Russia with his wife to complete the adoption of a 2-month-old

D.J. Augustin played 33 minutes off the bench and led the Bobcats with 29 points after starting point guard Raymond Felton got into early foul trouble. Point guard Eric Maynor, Utah's first-round draft pick from Virginia Commonwealth, had seven points in 22 minutes and was 3 for 11 from the field with five assists.

Bobcats forward Boris Diaw, who sprained his ankle while playing for the French national team, played his second game of the preseason and had seven points in 20 minutes. No.1 draft pick Gerald Henderson sat out with a bruised left shoulder. Tyson Chandler, who underwent off-season ankle surgery, remained sidelined until either Tuesday or next Friday.

With center Mehmet Okur out of action with a sore lower back, the Jazz used a starting frontcourt trio of Boozer at in the pivot, Kirilenko at small forward, and Paul Millsap at power forward. Millsap had 12 points and seven rebounds.

Consolidating state services? Not a job for the faint-hearted he word "consolidation" is thick in the air these days, as Idaho legislators and state officials struggle to find ways to keep government running as the recession bottoms outs.

In a visit with the Times-News editorial board last week, Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter said he's asked cabinet members to look for agencies that can share people and resources. Otter declined to discuss specifics, but said that "in many cases they're very small but very important to the people they serve?"

With that type of consolidation, for example, agencies could share the same receptionist and copy machine, Otter said, adding that another benefit would be crosstraining of employees.

Good idea. But what about taking it a step further?

There are 21 different buildings in Twin Falls that house state agencies. What if there were, say, six?

Or what about transforming the biggest state building in Twin Falls, the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare's Region 5 headquarters on Pole Line Road, into a service center - sort of a onestop hub where the public could find services ranging from food stamps to tax forms to workers compensation information?

Most state workers don't need a retail-style facility in which to do their jobs. So what if the governor and the Legislature cut through bureaucratic regulations and actually made it possible for employees who don't deal directly with the public to work at home?

Bottom line: Does the way the state interacts with clients for its services make sense?

Probably not, but capturing efficiencies would mean a huge culture change for a workforce taught to do things by the book.

It's easy to talk about empowering workers, but not so simple to get it done. If the same receptionist were fronting for, say, Health and Welfare, the Idaho Department of Water Resources and the Blind and Visually Impaired Commission, he or she would require autonomy that many state bosses are unwilling to give.

In government, real reform means real discomfort. Are lawmakers and state officials willing to endure it to save taxpayers money?

Sooner or later, we're going to have an Osborne moment hat which can't continue doesn't. A nation can spend and spend, pile debt upon debt, but eventually there comes a reality moment when some leader emerges to say enough is enough and when decent people, looking around at themselves and their own best nature, respond by demanding a return to responsibility.

David Brooks

In the United States, we're not at that moment vet. Private debt is being replaced by public debt. New entitlements are being created, and the money that could be used to ward off fiscal disaster is being used for other things. Here, Democrats still get ahead by promising tax cuts for the bottom 98 percent and Republicans get ahead by promising tax cuts for all and Medicare cuts for none.

But Britain has hit its reality moment. The Brits are ahead of us when it comes to public indebtedness and national irresponsibility. Spending has been out of control for longer and in a more sustained way.

But in that country, the climate of opinion has turned. There, voters are ready for a politician willing to face reality. And George Osborne, who would become the chancellor of the Exchequer in the likely event that his Conservative Party wins the next election, has aggressively seized the moment.

In a party conference address earlier this month, Osborne gave the speech that an American politician will someday have to give. He said that he is not ideologically hostile to government. "Millions of Britons depend on public services and cannot opt out," he declared. He defended government workers against those who would deride them as self-serving bureaucrats:

"Conservatives should never use lazy rhetoric that belittles those who are appointing public-private investment partnerships." employed by the govern-

But, he pivoted, "it is because we treat those who work in our public sector with respect that I want to be straight with you about the choices we face." The British government needs to cut back.

GROWING

Osborne declared that his government would raise the retirement age. That age was scheduled to rise at some point in the distant future. Osborne vowed to increase it sometime in the next five to 10 years.

Osborne declared that there would be no tax cuts any time soon. He said that as a matter of principle he believes that the top income tax rate of 50 percent is too high. But, he continued, "we cannot even think of abolishing the 50 percent rate in the rich" while others down the income scale are asked to scrimp.

Osborne offered government workers the same sort of choice that many private sector executives are forced to make.

He proposed a public sector pay freeze in order to avoid 100,000 layoffs. He said that the pay freeze would apply to all workers except those making less than 18,000 pounds (nearly $29,000) "because I don't believe in balancing the budget on the backs of the poorest. Nor do you." There were other auster-capitalism. But Britain has discredited the center-left agenda with its unrelenting public spending, its public development agencies and disities. Osborne vowed to cut a program he once supported but which has not proved its worth: a baby bond program that was meant to help offset the costs of childhood. There would no longer be meanstested tax credits for families making more than 50,000 pounds.

Osborne's speech was not an isolated event. The Conservatives have treated British voters as adults for a year now, with a string of serious economic positions. The Conservatives supported the Labour government bank bailout, even though it was against their political interest to do so. Last November, Osborne opposed a cut in the valueadded taxes on the grounds that the cuts were unaffordable and would not produce growth. It is not easy for any conservative party to oppose tax cuts, but this one did it.

And the public has responded. The Conservatives now have a dominating lead over Labour, Overall, support for the Conservatives rose by 4 percentage points after Osborne's speech. The polls reveal that nearly 60 percent of Britons support the austerity measures. The Conservatives have a 21point lead when it comes to being honest about public finances and a 14-point lead on economic policy generally.

The key is that Osborne is not merely offering pain, but a different economic vision - different from Labour and different from the Thatcherism that was designed to meet the problems of the 1980s.

In the United States, the economic crisis has caused many to question capitalism. But Britain has discredited the center-left agenda with its unrelenting public spending, its public development agencies and disappointing public-private investment partnerships. Osborne and David Cameron, the party leader, argue that Labour's decision to centralize power has undermined personal and social responsibility. They are offering a responsibility agenda from top to bottom. Decentralize power so local elected bodies have responsibility. Structure social support to encourage responsible behavior and responsible spending.

If any Republican is looking for a way forward, start by doing what they're doing across the Atlantic.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Shine will be an advocate for Jerome

"The time has come, the Walrus said, to speak of many things." One of those things to be spoken about is the upcoming election for mayor of the city of Jerome. Charlie Correll has decided to lay down the gavel after filling, so ably, that position for many years. One who has thrown his hat into the ring to carry on the job of mayor is John Shine.

I know of no other person who can bring the veracity, the integrity, the enthusiasm and wisdom to this position more than John. John, with his immediate knowledge of the many facets of city government in Jerome, will bring an experience and a continuity of success to the programs of Jerome for immediate and future plan-

I believe that John Shine will be an intent advocate for the city of Jerome. His technical skills will allow the city to be informed of new and innovative programs allowing the government to run more efficiently and, one would hope, more economically. John has exhibited a very strong interest in people. He is one to listen to both sides of any situation and respond in a very equitable manner. That is not to say that John will not be firm in his beliefs and convictions; he will! But that conviction will be for the better good of any situation. I think that John could put Harry Truman's sign on his desk that stated "The buck stops here." John is not going to take the mayoral position

Jerome jail too much for taxpayers right now

I attended the meeting held Oct. 8 by Rocky Mountain Corrections and our three commissioners for Jerome County. We had no opportunity to address any of them without going around the room and talking to each individual on a particular subject.

I had previously been escorted through our jail, and I agree we need more space. Rocky Mountain Corrections has previously been paid $87,500 for its efforts to convince the voters to approve it being approved for the building of a new jail for possibly $30 million! Rocky Mountain Corrections will not build it!

It would facilitate a new jail. It wants us to vote on this before knowing where it will be built and no architectural plans or contractor or definite final cost to taxpayers!

be no increase in taxes because of the jail. But we all know only the commissioners control the need for increase in taxes. If Rocky Mountain Corrections decides the contractor, they can go bankrupt and our money already paid would be long gone.

In the present economy, we taxpayers simply cannot afford such an expensive undertaking (and pig in a poke). Please be very careful in reading the ballot and vote your pocketbook.

Understanding, not judging needed now

I am writing in response to your front-page story on Eric Lee. Eric and his family

April Lee said there would have been friends of mine for 10 years. I met them at the fair in the horse barns. I had miniatures, they had the Belgians. They invited me to join the Southern Idaho Draft Horse and Mule Association. We have been active in club activities and family fun every since.

> Eric and Joanne are always helping others. I've seen them adopt people that are down and help them back on their feet. I need a kidney transplant and the club put on a fundraiser. Eric and Joanne did not take a shift, they were there for two days all day long.

I just want people to think in these hard times maybe we should put a understanding hand out, not a judgmental mouth.

get an energetic start to their day. "You can sprint, you can run, you can jog," she shouted as they sweated and panted on stationary bicycles Wednesday morning. "You just can't stop."

Last year, the class, held in College of Southern Idaho's physical education building, had more than 200 Twin Falls High students and multiple daily sessions. Because of this year's scheduling changes at the high school, it now has fewer than 20 students.

Wills hopes to change that. The physical education teacher and students in her F.I.T. Club are writing grant applications and planning fundraisers to purchase their own spinning bikes, which would enable them to hold the popular class at their own school.

"It's one of the most challenging classes that you can take at school," Tilley said.

Now, though, the workout isn't the only challenge. Just getting to class presents a headache. This semester, the high school changed to 50-minute blocks for its classes, eliminating the time students had to shuttle between the high school and CSI in a bus. A school district policy prohibits students from driving their cars off the campus grounds during school hours, Wills said.

disease progression THE QUESTION

In people who face the possibility of hospitalization or death from heart failure, might two implanted devices — a defibrillator to shock the heart back into action should its beat falter, and a device to resynchronize its contractions — work better than a defibrillator alone?

THIS STUDY

It involved 1,820 adults in their mid-60s, mostly men, with diseased heart muscle, known as cardiomyopathy, and mild heart failure. They were randomly assigned to have a defibrillator or both devices implanted. In about the next 2 1/2 years, 372 people died or were hospitalized with serious heart failure symptoms -25 percent of those with only a defibrillator, compared with 17 percent of those with a defibrillator and a resynchronizing device, for a 34 percent reduction in risk.

WHO MAY BE AFFECTED?

People at risk for heart failure, which occurs when the heart is unable to pump enough blood through the body. Coronary artery disease, high blood pressure and diabetes are among the leading causes of heart failure. Cardiomyopathy also can diminish the heart's ability to pump blood.

Today is Monday, Oct. 19, the 292nd day of 2009. There are 73 days left in the

Today's Highlight:

On Oct. 19, 1781, British troops under General Lord Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, Va., as the American Revolution neared its end.

On this date:

In 1765, the Stamp Act Congress, meeting in New York, drew up a declaration of rights and liberties.

In 1812, French forces under Napoleon Bonaparte began their retreat from Moscow. In 1864, Confederate Gen.

Jubal A. Early attacked Union forces at Cedar Creek, Va.; the Union troops were able to rally and defeat the Confederates.

In 1951, President Harry S. Truman signed an act formally ending the state of war with Germany.

In 1959, the William Gibson play "The Miracle Worker," starring Patty Duke as Helen Keller and Anne Bancroft as Helen's teacher, Annie Sullivan, opened on Broadway.

In 1960, President Dwight D. Eisenhower imposed an embargo on exports to Cuba covering all commodities except medical supplies and certain food products.

In 1967, the U.S. space probe Mariner 5 flew past Venus.

In 1977, the supersonic Concorde made its first landing in New York City.

In 1987, the stock market crashed as the Dow Jones Industrial Average plunged 508 points, or 22.6 percent in value. In 1994, 22 people were killed as a terrorist bomb shattered a bus in the heart of Tel Aviv's shopping district. Entertainer Martha Raye died in Los Angeles at age 78.

Ten years Legislation to overhaul the nation's campaign finance laws fell to a filibuster by Senate Republicans for the fourth straight year. The Atlanta Braves won the National League pennant by beating the New York Mets, 10-9, in Game 6 of their championship series.

Five years ago: Insurgents in Iraq abducted Margaret Hassan, the local director of CARE International, from her car in Baghdad. (Hassan is believed to have been slain by her captors a month later; her body has never been found.) Thirteen people killed were when Corporate Airlines commuter turboprop crashed in northeast Missouri. Former arms control adviser Paul H. Nitze died in Washington, D.C. at age 97.

One year ago: Retired Gen. Colin Powell, a Republican who President George W. Bush's first secretary of state, broke with the party and endorsed Democrat Barack Obama for president, calling him a "transformational figure" during an appearance on NBC's "Meet the Press." The Tampa Bay Rays held off the defending champion Boston Red Sox 3-1 to win the American League championship series in Game 7. Mr. Blackwell, the acerbic designer famous for his annual worst-dressed list of celebrities, died in Los Angeles at age 86.

IF OCTOBER 19 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You may be wise to maintain a low profile and avoid criticism and censure for the next several weeks, but your hard work and attention to your responsibilities will pay off soon. Bide your time because throughout next January and February you might feel like the golden boy(or gal and everything you have always wanted may be handed to you on a silver platter. February is absolutely the best month in which to make major changes, decisions or commitments. Because people will admire you and appreciate your talents, it is a good time to seek a new position or to find the soul mate you have always dreamed of meeting.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It is wise to perform a few reality checks when considering career, business, or job related concerns.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Following a dream can be a compelling incentive. What you hope to be or to have might not be anchored completely in reality.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your words can have the desired effect so hold a heart-to-heart discussion or make an important phone call. Treat others fairly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may make a fabulous traveling companion. How you get there is more important than the destination.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Insecurity about financial matters can fuel additional difficulties. Anchor yourself by partnering up with a trusted friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If salesmanship is your game you may hold the winning hand. This is a good day to apply your common sense in financial matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's getting better all the time. Use your own good judgment or obtain advice from someone who is an expert in the subject.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pay attention to advice and local gossip. You learn something that will throw up a red flag well in advance of a problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Aim for the best and highest. Take special care to make wise choices about people and your future under these stars.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Two heads are better than one. Teamwork is the key to achieving a swift resolution of numerous loose ends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are most comfortable with the familiar. Serendipity could bring you the info you need just in the nick of time.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Worrying about something that may never happen could be like paying interest on money you did not borrow. So relax.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"Yabba dabba doo!"

Hanna and Barbera

In this deal from last summer's first qualifying session of the Von Zedtwitz Life Master Pairs, the field generally defended spade contracts, with four spades requiring the spade queen onside, and rather more.

However, with a fairly friendly lie of the cards, 10 tricks were made more often than not. At our featured table, North-South stopped in two spades after North had made a cue-bid of two hearts as a takeout of the red suits. When South bid two spades, North saw no reason to jeopardize his plus score. And that turned out to be a good idea because West, Dick Hanna, led his singleton club. Declarer won in dummy to run the spade jack.

Dick now kept his partner from error by immediately underleading the heart ace. If he had cashed the ace before leading a heart to the king, his partner might have shifted to a diamond, even though any diamond losers were relatively unlikely to get

The immediate underlead left Larry Hanna on lead with the heart king, and he knew that if his partner was that desperate to get him on lead, it must be because he wanted a ruff. A club return left declarer needing to take a second spade finesse just to get back to plus 140.

While this was not a complete top for East-West, since some pairs had defeated their opponents' game, it was the best that they could do on this deal.

For details of Bobby Wolff's autobiography, "The Lone Wolff," contact kay19072 @taol.com. If you would like to contact Bobby Wolff, e-mail him at bobbywolff@mind-

ANSWER: It is better to lead the diamond two, suggesting you have only a four-card suit, than an honest diamond four. Since your partner has a Yarborough, confusing him will not matter. But if declarer believes you have only a four-card suit, he may take an unsuccessful line by knocking out your aces, rather than taking a heart finesse, which he might do if he thinks you have five diamonds.

DEAR ABBYJeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: When our first grandchild was born, my son, "Vie," and his wife bought the first video camera in the family. I often asked them to bring it to family get-togethers, and to help out, I purchased dozens of long-running, high-quality tapes. We didn't buy a lot of toys for the kids. We made memories instead — a trip to the circus, renting out the roller rink for the entire family, and holding "sports championships" in our yard. All of the fun was captured on tape. Our family grew, babies became teenagers, and we had a growing pile of tapes.

Two years ago, my husband died unexpectedly. I felt as though my life had been torn to shreds. I was slow getting over the shock.

Recently I finally felt strong enough to watch the tapes again. ("Grandpa" was always in the middle of the action.) When I asked Vic to bring them over, his response was, "Mom, we don't have those videos anymore. We taped Junior's softball games over them." I said, "How could you?!" He replied, "Get over it, Mom! It's all in the past."

I was so angry, I walked out. I haven't called them since, and they haven't contacted me. I am so hurt. How could anyone have so little feeling?

- RE-RECORDED IN MIAMI DEAR RE-RECORDED:

Your son's response was brutal. He owes you an apology for his rudeness and insensitivity, but he's right about one thing - the tapes are gone. He was put on the defensive, and that's why he tried to dismiss your feelings. Obviously, he thought the family would go on forever just as it was. That's why he didn't think it was important to preserve the videotaped family album. Of course, by sacrificing the past for the present, he ultimately cheated his own family and any siblings of his generation who might be interested in sharing the family history. Fortunately, you have many happy memories in your heart of your happy marriage and the experience of raising your family. And no one can ever take those away

DEAR ABBY: I have been married two years to a wonderful man, but we're having problems in the bedroom. Both of us are very uncomfortable talking about our feelings, especially when it comes to sex, and I just can't explain to him what I want him to do and vice versa. I have tried many times to say things indirectly but have never been successful. I can't talk to him directly because I am very embarrassed. This has started to destroy our marriage, and now we generally prefer to sleep alone so that we don't have to have sex. S.O.S. IN THOUSAND OAKS, CALIF.

DEAR S.O.S.: If you want to save your marriage, you will need the assistance of an "interpreter" so you and your husband can communicate more fully. Please talk to your doctor and ask for a referral to a licensed, experienced therapist. sex (Because you find the topic of sex embarrassing to discuss, I recommend you consult a woman.)

Believe me, you are not the only couple to have this problem. In fact, so many others do that sex therapy is a specialty unto itself.
