Among the teams are the 15 women representing the imaging center at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center in Twin Falls.

"We have a profession that requires expertise in what we do, but it also requires a great sense of compassion and concern for a patient," said team captain Anna Vines, a mammography technologist at St. Luke's Women's Imaging Center. "The Relay for Life is a natural extension for the work that we do."

Looking for a unique way to raise funds for the event, the team contacted Fran and Betsy Florence of Milestone Builders to see if they

Castleford schools to pursue levy continuance

Times-News

The Castleford School District will ask voters to approve a two-year continuance of its $300,000 supplemental levy on May 18.

Superintendent Andy Wiseman said the district had planned to seek the continuance before its school board on April 20 unanimously voted to opt into the statewide declaration of financial emergency for public schools.

The levy would help keep existing programs intact, maintain staff positions and help provide programs that aid in student achievement.

Wiseman said a supplehas been in place since a school library.

$58,000 levy was passed in 2004. It was extended at $116,000 yearly in 2006, before voters in 2008 approved the current $300,000 levy, which expires at the end of June.

The levy would assess $297 per $100,000 of assessed property value the owner of a $100,000 home would pay $148.10 per year after taking the homeowners' exemption.

Wiseman said the proposed levy extension won't increase taxes. According to information provided by Wiseman, the district expects to lose $175,000 in state funding in fiscal year 2011, which begins in July.

Obama: Begin work this year on immigration reform

Bv Erica Werner

Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON President Obama said Wednesday he wants to begin work this year on legislation overhauling the nation's immigration system, firming up his commitment on a key priority for Latino voters and lawmakers. Obama's comments at a Cinco de Mayo celebration at the White House reaffirmed his long-held support for immigration reform. He went a step further than he has in the past by calling for the work to begin this year.

Latino groups have been calling for Obama to deliver on his campaign promise of making immigration reform a top priority, with some activists and lawmakers in the Congressional Hispanic Caucus complaining he wasn't doing enough.

Obama clouded the issue last week by saying "there may not be an appetite" in Congress to deal with another hot-button issue immediately after grueling fights over health care and financial regulation.

Otter says Idaho to opt out of new insurance pool insurance pool program at a time of shrinking state budgets and revenue streams. Otter's announcement Tuesday means Idaho is one of 17 states opting out of the program.

BOISE - Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter says Idaho will not set up a temporary high risk insurance pool program recommended in the new federal health care overhaul.

The federal high risk pool is designed to help uninsured with pre-existing health conditions obtain coverage through 2014.

State analysts say the $24 million allocated in the federal bill for Idaho would only provide a month or two of coverage for the more than 33,000 people eligible to enroll.

Crews contain oil leaking into Boise River

BOISE - Boise fire and hazardous materials officials say crews have contained what appears to be an oily substance that was leaking into the Boise River.

Officials also say they have managed to block using booms.

Boise police spokeswoman Lynn Hightower says the oil was coming from a storm drain under the Americana bridge and the sheen on the water goes downstream for about a mile. But officials still don't know the source of the leak.

The sheen on the river was reported by a citizen Wednesday afternoon.

Allred targeted by business group in Web attack

BOISE – An Idaho business and industry group is targeting Democratic gubernatorial candidate Keith Allred with a critical website.

A political action committee funded by the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry has posted www.allredink.com.

The website says that if the 2010 Idaho demeanor resisting arrest. Legislature had listened to Allred, it would have set a budget for the current fiscal year that would have left the state facing an $82 million deficit.

Alex LaBeau, the business group's director, hired a Florida firm to conduct automated phone calls directing Idaho residents to the website to let people know Allred's position on the budget.

The Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry has given Republican Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter says the state simply can't afford another Otter $10,000 in campaign contributions during the current election cycle.

Nearly three years exposed to elements left her body badly decomposed when it was discovered April 23 by a wind turbine repairman.

Still, agents say evidence found at the scene near a popular eastern Idaho hiking trail - points to homicide

Eldredge, just 21 when she went missing, was identified using dental records.

Sergeant Phil Grimes of the Idaho Falls Police Department says his agency has a person of interest in its investigation, and is looking into several most of the substance from flowing downstream other people, too. Police say the person of interest was an acquaintance of Eldredge.

Olive Davis Osmond was born 85 years ago in a tworoom cabin in Samaria. She died in 2004.

Seven of her nine children joined fans from as far away as Japan to honor the singing family's matriarch and dedicate the log cabin as a museum. Items on display there include a sewing table that each of the Osmond brothers carved his initials into.

The cabin sits on property donated by local high school teacher Luke Waldron. Waldron says he restored the structure with "a lot of community involvement," including help from several Eagle Scouts.

Among the dedication attendees was Donny Osmond, who called the experience "surreal" and said, "You can feel her presence here."

Slimmed-down CIEDRA has a fighting chance in Congress

f the Central Idaho Economic Development and Recreation Act is ever going to pass Congress, this might be the year. Idaho's congressional delegation has introduced a revised version of the legislation that eliminates thousands of acres of federal land transfers in the Sawtooth Valley – most notably two parcels in Stanley. That was an effort to gain the support of environmentalists who opposed previous versions of the bill.

"We now have a piece of legislation that really has taken care of the most significant grievances opponents of the bill have had," Idaho Conservation League Executive Director Rick Johnson told the Idaho Mountain Express of Ketchum.

"This CIEDRA bill releases over 130,000 acres of central Idaho wilderness study land that has been managed as de facto wilderness," Sen. Mike Crapo, R-Idaho, said in a press release. "Returning it to multiple use will provide recreational and economic opportunities. It is also important to note that we will continue to work with all stakeholders to make improvements as this legislation moves forward."

CIEDRA still designates three separate wilderness areas in Custer and Blaine counties: Hemingway-Boulders (110,217 acres), Jerry Peak (131,670 acres) and White Clouds (90,888 acres).

In total, the new bill sets aside 332,828 acres of wilderness - about 14,000 acres more than in the previous version of the legislation.

None of the new areas added contain lands that are currently open to motorized uses, the Express said

Our view: It's not the bill that Congressman Mike Simpson had hoped for, but the revised Central Idaho Economic Development and Recreation Act still deserves to become law.

merica's homeland security amnesia never ceases to amaze. In the aftermath of the botched Times Square terror attack over the weekend, Pakistani-born bombing suspect Faisal Shahzad's U.S. citizenship status caused a bit of shock and awe. The Atlantic magazine writer Jeffrey Goldberg's response was typical: "I am struck by the fact that he is a naturalized American citizen, not a recent or temporary visitor." Well, wake up and smell the deadly deception.

Shahzad's path to American citizenship – he reportedly married an American woman, Huma Mian, in 2008 after spending a decade in the country on foreign student and employment visas – is a tried-and-true terror formula. Jihadists have been gaming the sham marriage racket with impunity for years. And immigration benefit fraud has provided invaluable cover and aid for U.S.-based Islamic plotters, including many other operatives planning attacks on New York City. As I've reported previously:

• El Sayyid A. Nosair wed Karen Ann Mills Sweeney to avoid deportation for overstaying his visa. He acquired U.S. citizenship, allowing him to remain in the country, and was later convicted for conspiracy in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing that claimed six lives.

• Ali Mohamed became an American citizen after marrying a woman he met on a plane trip from Egypt to New York. Recently divorced, Linda Lee Sanchez wed Mohamed in Reno, Nev., after a six-week "courtship." Mohamed became a top aide to Osama bin Laden and was later convicted for his role in the

• Embassy bombing plotter Wadih el Hage, Osama bin Laden's personal secretary, married April Ray in 1985 and became a naturalized citizen in 1989. Ray knew of her husband's employment with bin Laden, but like many of these women in bogus marriages, she pleaded ignorance about the nature of her husband's work. El Hage, she says, was a sweet man, and bin Laden "was a great boss."

• Lebanon-born Chawki Youssef Hammoud, convicted in a Hezbollah cigarette-smuggling operation based out of Charlotte, N.C., married American citizen Jessica Fortune for a green card to remain in the country.

waiting period for U.S. citizenship is cut by more than half for marriage visa beneficiaries. Sham marriage monitoring by backlogged homeland security investigators is practically nonexistent.

As former federal immigration official Michael Cutler warned years ago: "Immigration benefit fraud is certainly one of the major 'dots' that was not connected prior to the attacks of September 11, 2001, and remains a 'dot' that is not really being addressed the way it needs to be in order to secure our nation against criminals and terrorists who understand how important it is for them to 'game' the system as a part of the embedding process."

Jihadists have knowingly and deliberately exploited our lax immigration and entrance policies to secure the rights and benefits of American citizenship while Amir Abdelgani, Siddig Ibrahim Siddig Ali, Tarig Mohammed Haggag, Fares Khallafalla, Mohammed Saleh, and Matarawy Mohammed Said Saleh all obtained legal permanent residence by marrying American citizens.

A year after the 9/11 terrorist attacks, homeland

Rep. Mike Simpson, R-Idaho, who brokered the delicate compromises among stakeholders nearly a decade ago that are embodied in CIEDRA, made significant changes in the bill to gain the support of congressional Democrats. But the core of the legislation - which seeks to protect the Boulders and the White Clouds while ensuring recreational access - is intact.

The sponsors hope to attach CIEDRA to an omnibus lands bill in the Senate. That was the approach Crapo used last year to get the Owyhee canyonlands wilderness bill through Congress.

Let's hope the tactic works again.

What will happen to new refugees?

Several Eritrean refugees began attending our parish last July. Our parish welcomed them with open arms, provided transportation, furniture, clothing, food, household items and assistance with English. The single men readily adapted and were first to find jobs, due to familiarity with English and greater mobility.

Among Eritrean families, however, progress has been blunted by deficits in their own native language, rural culture and personal shortcomings. They remain virtually non-conversant in English and, therefore, next to unemployable, pitting them against Englishspeaking competitors.

We believe all refugees entrusted to College of Southern Idaho Refugee Center are deserving of the full resources of the center until the job of assimilation is achieved. The center's policy of terminating rental assistance when grant funding ends in eight months unfairly passes the burden of unfinished business on to an unsuspecting communi-

We are troubled by the approximate 300 refugees slated for arrival in the Magic Valley for fiscal year 2011 at a time of high unemployment, a protracted recession and diminished public services. In times of such scarcity, we wonder how the center expects additional refugees will improve their lives and our community. Rather, we fear greater numbers will place unprepared refugees at risk for exploitation, oppression and criminal activity - outcomes that stand in direct violation of the center's principles and mission. Therefore, we are calling for the CSI Refugee Center to finish the job, by providing rental assistance until gainful employment is achieved, by providing personal language classes for those still non-conversant in English, by ensuring the numbers of refugees coming here are based on economic realities of Idaho, not unfunded dictates of unaccountable bureaucrats in Washington, D.C.

We believe the CSI Refugee Center can and should do better for its clients and our community. HILBER NELSON Twin Falls

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF POLITICS

Candidates tread a fine line in judicial elections

ver the next month, the voters in Idaho will have the opportunity to consider and vote on two judicial positions on the Idaho Supreme Court, one Court of Appeals position and also on most of the district judge positions in the judicial district where the voter resides.

One of the Supreme Court positions and a district judge position in both the 2nd and 5th judicial districts will involve an election contest, while in the remainder of the positions, the incumbent judge or candidate is running unopposed.

Judicial elections are not like the typical statewide elected official or legislative elections voters are accustomed to because judicial elections are nonpartisan and are governed by a set of judicial ethics which regulate what can take place. As a matter of general background information, it's important to explain some of the ethical rules and standards which govern judicial elections.

Justices on the Idaho Supreme Court are elected in statewide elections, on a nonpartisan ballot, for a term of six years. A Supreme Court Justice or candidate for office must be a qualified elector, at least 30 years of age, who has resided in Idaho for at least two years preceding the election and been admitted to the practice of law for at least 10 years.

District judges are elected by the voters within the judicial district in which they will serve and are elected to a four year term. District judges must meet the same qualifications for election as Supreme Court justices and must reside in the county where their principal office is located. For the 2nd district position, that will be in Idaho County and for the 5th district position, that will be in Blaine County. These locations are established by the state Legislature. Because there are only two candidates for each of the contested elections this year, those elections will be decided in the May primary election.

Judicial elections are nonpartisan, they appear at the very end of the ballot, and should be voted on regardless of the voter's political affiliation.

READER COMMENT

Robert Bakes, Gerald Schroeder and Linda Copple Trout

The Canons of Judicial Ethics guide judges and judicial candidates during elections and, if violated, could result in disciplinary action being taken against the judge or judicial candidate.

Canon 5 of the Idaho Code of Judicial Conduct requires that candidates for judicial office refrain from inappropriate political activity, maintain the dignity appropriate to judicial office and act in a manner consistent with the integrity and independence of the judiciary. The Idaho Code of Judicial Conduct maybe found online at: www.judicial-council.idaho.gov/code.pdf.

Candidates for judicial office should not make pledges or promises of conduct in office that commit the candidate to a position on cases that may come before the court, including making statements or answering questions in a written questionnaire that commit or appear to commit the candidate to a particular position on cases or issues that are likely to come before them. A party in a lawsuit has a right to expect the judge to remain impartial and not commit to the outcome of the lawsuit before hearing all the facts and studying the law.

Application of constitutional and legal standards may require a judge to determine a case differently from a personal philosophy or viewpoint. Campaign statements by a candidate that suggest otherwise should be avoided.

So what should voters consider in determining for whom to vote in a judicial election?

Qualifications such as demeanor, wisdom, writing ability, ability to be fair and impartial, knowledge of the law and compatibility of activities outside working hours with the requirements of being a judge, are important for a well qualified judge. The Idaho State Bar Association has adopted a procedure for conducting a survey of judicial candidates' qualifications which is useful in informing the public about judicial candidates in contested elections. The Bar survey is sent to attorneys throughout Idaho asking for input based on each member's personal knowledge or professional experience with the candidates. The survey results are then made available to the public to help in making an informed decision.

These are important positions and can affect the livelihood, freedom and safety of our citizens.

In the coming month, we hope the people of Idaho will keep these considerations in mind and will exercise the constitutionally protected right to vote.

Robert Bakes, Gerald Schroeder and Linda Copple Trout served a combined 16 years as chief justice of the Idaho Supreme Court. Bakes served on the court from 1971 to 1993, Schroeder from 1995 to 2007 and Copple Trout from 1992 to 2007.

This is hypocrisy.

You do violence to Laura Silsby's reputation without having ever met her or having heard her side of the story, based on generalizations and preconceived ideas about her and "her kind." This is bigotry. You cite damage done by some missionaries in some places in an effort to discredit all Christian work in all places. This is disingenuous. Throughout most of the history of most of the world, the vast majority of hospitals, schools, universities, relief agencies, soup kitchens and yes, orphanages, were started by Christians. Study says older, unmarried, educated moms are on rise

By Leanne Italie Associated Press writer

New mothers in the U.S. are increasingly older and better educated than they were two decades ago, according to a study on the state of American motherhood released Thursday by the Pew Research Center.

But that doesn't mean women are waiting for just the right moment: The study also found that half of mothers surveyed said that parenthood "just happened."

While most women giving birth are doing it within the context of marriage, the study found a record 41 percent of births were to unmarried women in 2008. That's up from 28 percent in 1990, according to the study, "The New Demography of American Motherhood." The trend crossed major racial and ethnic groups.

Railroads report strongest industry growth since 2004

By Andrew Frye and Betty Liu Bloomberg News writes

NEW YORK - A top official of Burlington Northern Santa Fe, the railroad Warren Buffett bought this year for $27 billion, says the economy is growing as the industry posted its first across-theboard increase in freight volumes since 2004.

"It's striking," Matthew Rose, chief executive officer of the Fort Worth, Texasbased railroad, said in a Bloomberg Television interview on the sidelines of the Berkshire Hathaway annual meeting in Omaha last weekend. "We're seeing the economy grow."

The Association of American Railroads reported increases in U.S.-originated hauling of trailers, containers and each one of 19 carload commodity groups in the week ended April 24. It was the first time in more than five years that all categories rose, said Holly Arthur, a trade group spokeswoman. Berkshire swung to profit in the first quarter and Buffett, the firm's CEO, told shareholders the economy "picked up steam." "We are seeing an uptick," in businesses that serve broad industries, like railroads, said Buffett, who paid February in his biggest takeover. Ag lender reports higher earnings despite dairy losses

Bv Joshua Palmer Times-News writer

Northwest Farm Credit Services, one of the largest agricultural lenders in the northwest with offices in Twin Falls, reported an increase in first quarter earnings compared to the previous year despite mounting losses in dairy loans.

Northwest said in its quarterly statement that it achieved 2010 first quarter earnings of $41.1 million, compared to $17.1 million during the first quarter of 2009. Total capital increased 9.8 percent compared to the previous year to $1.25 billion.

However, it was offset by an increase in allowances for loan losses, which Northwest increased 71 percent to $105 million.

"The combination of our earnings and allowance positions the association to continue working with customers experiencing downturns in their respective agricultural industries," said Northwest President and CEO Jay Penick.

He said most Pacific Northwest dairy producers' financial positions remain significantly stressed, as milk prices lag behind the cost of production.

"We expect many dairies will take several years to recover equity lost in the past 18 months," Penick said. "Dairy continues to be our most troubled industry impacting our credit quality and overall portfolio risk."

Total accrual loan volume owned by the association increased by 1.8 percent to $7.70 billion when compared to the end of first guarter 2009. Nonaccrual loans increased to 3.33 percent of the portfolio as of March 31, 2010. Northwest Farm Credit Services provides financing and related services to farmers, ranchers, agribusinesses, commercial fishermen, timber producers, rural homeowners, and crop insurance customers in Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Alaska.

Small business owners consider vacations again arena Nigale used to take time away from her hair salon in New York's financial district several times a year. Then the recession came, and some of her clients who worked in nearby banks were laid off.

Nigale had to let about half her staff go, and she had to take on more work. There was no way she could take a vacation.

Now, clients are getting jobs again. They're coming back, business is up at KK Salon and Nigale is going to Europe next month.

"I finally have a feeling of, 'I can go away; "Nigale said.

Vacations were among the sacrifices many small business owners made during the recession. But now that the economy is picking up, some are finally taking long-overdue trips. Others, though, are still uneasy about being away, or believe they can't afford a big trip.

Nigale, who didn't take a vacation for a year and a half, said she can go away for two weeks because she's been able to bring back two employees.

Darren Horwitz is going to San Diego in mid-May after forgoing vacations for two years. At first, he put off trips because he had a startup public relations business to tend to, a decision that is common among entrepreneurs in any economy.

Then the recession became the primary reason why he wasn't traveling.

"With the economy in bad shape the last two years, we felt that if our clients are struggling, then we need to be on the phone working every day," said Horwitz, owner of Dallasbased Imprint PR.

Horwitz found that clients needed more marketing help during the recession. He also stayed home because he needed to be prudent about spending when clients' marketing budgets were shrinking.

Still, he's a believer that vacations are important when you're running a small business.

"They give you a breather. They let you rejuvenate," he said.

But, like many owners, he'll be checking in with the office and clients during his upcoming trip. There are few owners who don't carry cell phones and/or laptops with them so they can keep up with e-mail and talk to clients and employees.

Suzan French recently returned from eight days in Spain. She also hadn't taken a vacation in about two years. "I just realized at one point that I was reaching the burnout stage," she said.

French, owner of FlackShack, a PR firm in Lehigh Valley, Pa., had just incorporated her business two years ago. She had high hopes for her company.

"Then, of course, the recession hit, and all of those plans went to the wayside," French said.

So she worked for the next two years nonstop, and then sensed that her motivation was "slowing down" and her work was suffering.

French said she knew she had to take a vacation "for the sake of my business."

Northern Idaho manufacturer Biketronics has a 'Fab' idea

Opening the door to general fabrication and manufacturing, owner Mike Meehan sees a whole new future for his plant in Moscow.

The future of manufacturing in Idaho may depend on the kind of peculiar moves like the one Mike Meehan is contemplating this summer, opening up his company's doors to anyone who wants to tinker on the firm's CNC, CAD and laser machines.

Meehan, owner of Moscow-based Biketronics Inc., plans to create a nonprofit, known as the Idaho Fab Lab, which he hopes will spark a do-ityourself wave of activity in northcentral Idaho and contribute to the creation of a new generation of small, dynamic manufacturing companies in the state.

The lab would offer safety training; classes from regulations on broadband

By Joelle Tessler Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON - Federal regulators plan to change how they govern broadband services to ensure they can pursue their plan to bring high-speed connections to all Americans – and can require phone and cable companies to treat all Internet traffic equally.

Federal Communications Commission Chairman Iulius Genachowski on Thursday plans to lay out a roadmap for regulating broadband. This step has been eagerly anticipated since a federal court ruling last month cast doubt on the agency's authority over high-speed Internet access.

The FCC now regulates "information service." It had maintained that this gave it the authority to implement a sweeping national broad-March. Among other things,

Late Wednesday, the agency said it will seek a "third way" - a balance between the "weak" rules for information services and "needlessly burdensome" rules for telecommunicaservices. tions This approach, the FCC said. would apply a "small handful" of telecommunications regulations to broadband providers and set "meaningful boundaries to guard against regulatory overreach."

The commission is trying to satisfy both big phone and cable companies that oppose additional rules and public interest groups that have broadband as a telecommunications service.

guilty of mortgage fraud

LEWISTON – A jury has found a 38-year-old Lewiston man guilty of mortgage fraud for filing documents with the Nez Perce County recorder's office stating he had paid off his loan and should have clear title to his house.

John G. Wright was convicted Tuesday of two felony counts of offering a false or forced instrument for record, the Lewiston Tribune reported. Sentencing was set for June 17.

Prosecutors argue that Wright's filings in May 2009 were an attempt to get out of paying his $161,000 mortgage with GMAC.

Wright actively resisted participation in the trial. When the judge asked him to go to the probation office and make a presentence appointment, Wright replied "I do not accept your benefit privileges." The judge ordered Wright into custody.

N.Y. car bomb suspect believed to act alone

By Colleen Long and Michael Rubinkam Associated Press writers

NEW YORK - The Pakistani-American accused of the failed Times Square car bombing is him buying a weak batch of believed to have been working alone when he began preparing the attack almost immediately after returning from his native land, authorities said Wednesday.

They said they have yet to find a wider link to extremist groups.

almost immediately after returning to his Connecticut home in February from the visit to his native personnel have laid 367,000 feet of boom and recovered over a million gallons of oil-water mix.

He did a dry run three days before trying to detonate the car bomb, said a law enforcement official who spoke to the AP on Wednesday on condition of anonymity because of the sensitive nature of the investigation.

Shahzad drove the SUV to Times Square from Connecticut on April 28 apparently to figure out where would be the best place to leave it later, then returned to the area April 30 to drop off a different vehicle, a black Isuzu, the official said. He then went back Saturday to leave the SUV with the car bomb but forgot the keys for both vehicles in the SUV and had to take public transit back home, the official said.

He returned to Times Square on Sunday with a second set of keys to pick up the Isuzu, which he had parked about eight blocks from the bombing site, the official said.

New York police Commissioner Raymond Kelly told a Senate panel that Shahzad bought the gun found in his Isuzu at Kennedy Airport in March, when he appeared to move ahead on the bombing plot.

"It appears from some of his other activities that March is when he decided to put this plan in motion," Kelly said. "He came back from Pakistan Feb. 3, 2010. It may well have been an indicator of putting something catastrophic in motion?"

While people anxiously wait for the slick in the Gulf of Mexico to wash up along the coast, globules of oil are already falling to the bottom of the sea, where they threaten virtually every link in the ocean food chain, from plankton to fish that are on dinner tables everywhere.

"The threat to the deepsea habitat is already a done deal – it is happening now," said Paul Montagna, a marine scientist at the Harte Research Institute for Gulf of Mexico Studies at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi.

Hail-size gobs of oil the consistency of tar or asphalt will roll around the bottom, while other bits will get trapped hundreds of feet below the surface and move with the current, said Robert S. Carney, a Louisiana State University oceanographer.

Oil has been gushing into the Gulf of Mexico at a rate of at least 200,000 gallons a day since an offshore drilling rig exploded last month and killed 11 people. On Wednesday, workers loaded a 100-ton, concrete-andsteel box the size of a fourstory building onto a boat and marine mammals like and hope to lower it to the dolphins. bottom of the sea by week's

NEW ORLEANS - A rule change two years ago by the federal agency that regulates offshore oil rigs allowed BP to avoid filing a plan specifically for handling a major spill from an uncontrolled blowout at its Deepwater Horizon project exactly the kind of disaster now unfolding in the Gulf of Mexico.

Oil rig operators generally are required to submit a detailed "blowout scenario." But the federal Minerals Management Service issued a notice in 2008 that exempted some drilling projects in the Gulf under certain conditions.

BP met those conditions, according to MMS, and as a result, the oil company had no plan written specifically for the Deepwater Horizon project, an Associated Press review of government and industry documents found.

In a series of interviews, BP spokesman William Salvin insisted the company was nevertheless prepared to handle a blowout at that project because it had a detailed, 582-page regional plan for dealing said.

Ace CSI pitcher most comfortable in his private world

By David Bashore Times-News writer

Don't take offense if College of Southern Idaho freshman Michael Renner comes across as aloof.

It's just the pitcher in him. Whether on the mound or off the field, the Golden Eagles' ace is most comfortable in his private world, where he controls things.

"I just like to keep to myself," Renner says.

On the mound he occasionally looks disinterested, but he insists it's just his way of keeping cool under pressure. When his teammates are off doing whatever it is college students do, Renner is content to relax and hang out in his dorm room, whether that entails homework, playing video games, or just sitting on the couch and watching TV.

The lefty from Chatsworth, Calif., has just a 6-5 record heading into this weekend's series at Eastern Utah, but he's stifled opposing hitters to the tune of a 1.59 ERA in seven complete games – both tops among full-time starters in the Scenic West Athletic Conference.

By Renner's own lofty standards it's no surprise. But to do what he's done in his freshman season namely, mow right through one of the toughest JUCO conferences in the nation – is no small feat.

"We thought he'd be a kid who could come in and help us. When the fall comes around, though ... it "He doesn't get caught up with never really comes as easily as it did for him. There wasn't really an adjustment he needed to make," says Walker. "The thing about Michael is he never gets outside of growing up in L.A., I always wanted to pitch there," says Renner, a lifelong Dodger fan. "I didn't know I'd be doing it in high school. In my career, nothing compares to that."

Renner's Chatsworth team played in three playoff games at Dodger Stadium, but the third rates so highly for him because he started, dominated the game, and Chatsworth won the sectional championship.

"He hates losing. Even at video games," says CSI second baseman Ryan Cooperstone, a teammate of Renner's since the eighth-grade travel team in Chatsworth.

"I hate losing period," Renner replies.

Walker says the CSI pitching staff has followed Renner's lead, an unusual thing to be said of a freshman. But the others have seen Renner stay within himself and ride it to a successful rookie year.

Not that it's finished by any stretch.

"In his career, it's seemed like he throws the best when there's the most riding on the game," says Walker. "Hopefully he's got a few more big games in him this season."

Players applaud Taser use for fan on field

The video of a 17-year-old fan being chased around the field and finally Tasered at a Philadelphia Phillies game drew laughs as it became an Internet sensation.

Around the major leagues, though, many players and managers aren't joining in.

Recalling the stabbing of tennis star Monica Seles in 1993, and the beating of Royals first base coach Tom Gamboa in 2002, they stressed the need to feel safe on the field.

Wendell (9-7) had Kimberly starter Seth Champlin on the ropes in multiple innings, but Champlin always found a way to minimize the damage.

Twice he picked off a runner trying to steal third, and another time he raced to the plate to catch a throw from Dame on a wild pitch to record an out at the plate.

"I just figured with a full count and two outs, they're running (on the bases) so I fell off to check on them," Champlin said. "We'll take a free out."

who hit 3-for-3 with two RBIs and four runs scored from the leadoff spot. "We're getting ready for the games yet to come."

Despite blustery conditions that kept the ball in the park all game, the Bulldogs were able to connect 13 times and take it deep more than once. Both Nellie Makings (2-for-2, three RBIs, three runs) and Alex Pfefferle (2-for-2, two RBIs, two runs) belted the ball to the fence for RBI triples. Whitney Carlton hit 3-for-3 with one RBI and three runs scored. Kimberly was also aided by multiple Wendell errors.

Makings picked up the win from the chalk circle, striking out a dozen Trojans in a fiveinning no-hitter. She allowed only one base runner when she walked Carli Andrus in the

Tebow jersey NFL's top seller

NEW YORK (AP) - Tim Tebow already leads the NFL in one category: jersey sales.

His Denver Broncos No. 15 was by far the most popular on the NFL's website for April. His celebrity clearly trumps the debate over whether he'll ever make it as an NFL quarterback after winning the Heisman Trophy and two national championships at Florida.

Tebow is, at best, third on Denver's depth chart at QB. But the 25th pick of the first round still had the best-selling rookie jersey since the NFL started keeping track in 2006. Thirty percent of the orders came from Florida.

The Broncos were tops in the league in merchandise sales on NFLShop.com in April after ranking 10th for the year ending March 31 - and without any other Denver player's jersey in the top 25.

The draft's top pick, the St. Louis Rams' Sam Bradford, was at No. 9, behind not just Tebow but the second selection, defensive tackle Ndamukong Suh. The new Detroit Lion, who ranked eighth, is the only lineman in the top 25.

Buhl pounded out eight extra-base hits in a 12-2 run-rule win over Filer on Wednesday.

Katherine Hunter allowed just two hits in going the distance for the win.

"Filer came out and played hard. We played very well defensively," said Buhl coach Shelly Hart.

Saints, Evans agree to 7-year deal

METAIRIE, La. – Once a fourth-round draft choice pinch-hitting for Ted Williams. out of Division II Bloomsburg, Jahri Evans is now the highest-paid interior lineman in the NFL.

The Super Bowl champion New Orleans Saints and Evans, who was both an All-Pro and Pro Bowler last season, agreed Wednesday on a seven-year contract worth nearly $57 million.

A person familiar with the contract told The Associated Press the deal was for $56.7 million, with $19 million guaranteed. The person spoke on the condition of anonymity because the financial terms were not disclosed by the club.

Evans' Philadelphia-based agent, Jerrold Colton, confirmed the deal was the richest contract ever given to an NFL guard.

Evans was a restricted free agent, meaning the Saints owned his rights after a deadline passed for him to sign offer sheets from other teams. However, Evans stayed away from New Orleans' first volunteer offseason workouts while general manager Mickey Loomis and Colton worked on a long-term deal.

Loomis announced the length of the deal on Wednesday.

MLB Kaline: Harwell greatest announcer of all time

NEW YORK - A choked-up AI Kaline recalled what Ernie Harwell said when he asked the Hall of Fame outfielder to accept the Vin Scully Lifetime Achievement Award for sports broadcasting on his behalf.

Scully was the greatest announcer of all time.

"We Tiger fans respectfully disagree," Kaline told the crowd Wednesday night at WFUV Radio's Spring Gala, one day after Harwell died at 92 following a monthslong battle with cancer.

Kaline said that standing in for Harwell was like

"After knowing Ernie for so many years, I feel his spirit is alive with us," Kaline said. "He'd want us to remember him with a smile instead of a tear."

Scully, in a video shot before Harwell died, quoted Shakespeare in describing Harwell: "This was a man!'

Bradley asks Mariners for emotional help

SEATTLE - Milton Bradley, baseball's selfdescribed bad guy, has asked his Seattle Mariners for help in dealing with what manager Don Wakamatsu says is "emotional stress" from personal issues.

Wakamatsu and general manager Jack Zduriencik said Wednesday that their fiery slugger is out indefinitely until he receives an outside assessment and a plan to address his issues.

"It's come to a head," Zduriencik said.

A day earlier, Bradley became angry for striking out twice and Wakamatsu removed him from a close game in the sixth inning because the manger thought he wasn't fit to play anymore. Bradley left the stadium soon after. Several Mariners players described his mind set Tuesday night as "not good."

Wednesday morning, Bradley called Wakamatsu to ask for a face-to-face meeting with him and Zduriencik. The 32-year-old then arrived at Safeco Field and told the leaders of his eighth team in 10 seasons, "I need your help."

It was a startling admission from a player who publicly blamed Chicago's fans and media for running him out of that city following his failed season with the Cubs in 2009.

'The fact he has stood up and asked for us to help him, I think, is an extremely important step for him

Reds walk off with win over Mets

CINCINNATI - Orlando Cabrera led off the 10th inning with a home run just inside the left-field foul pole on Wednesday, sending the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets.

Cabrera's fifth gameending homer, a drive off Pedro Feliciano (1-1), gave the Reds their second lastswing victory in the series.

Micah Owings (3-0) pitched one perfect inning after Francisco Cordero blew a one-run lead in the ninth, his second blown save in 11 chances.

PHILLIES 4, CARDINALS 0

PHILADELPHIA – Kyle Kendrick threw seven impressive innings, Placido Polanco hit a two-run homer and Philadelphia beat St. Louis.

In a return to normalcy, no fans ran onto the field at Citizens Bank Park after consecutive games were marred by unruly behavior.

Kendrick and Brad Penny (3-2) provided another pitchers' duel in a matchup of NL division leaders. Kendrick (1-1) allowed six hits, and Danys Baez and Jose Contreras each tossed a perfect inning.

GIANTS 3, MARLINS 2 MIAMI – Barry Zito pitched into the eighth inning before needing a rescue from the bullpen and San Francisco edged Florida.

Exciting course needs dramatic finish at The Players Championship

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) – Padraig Harrington would be among the thousands of fans surrounding the island green on the TPC Sawgrass if he came to The Players Championship as a spectator instead of a three-time major champion.

Is there any other place to watch?

Perhaps no other golf course is more defined by a single hole than the par-317th at the Players Stadium Course, which is not to suggest it's one of the great holes in golf or among the most beloved.

It is part of one of the more dynamic closing stretches on the PGA Tour, coming after the reachable par-5 16th with water framing the right side of the final 200 yards, and before the tough 18th hole, where the wind typically comes in from the left off a lake that runs down the entire side of the hole.

"But 17 is the one because there is glory and some horror shows there," Harrington said. "And we all, as spectators, that's what we want to see. We want to see the highs and lows and the emotions. You'll see a lot of them on 17."

Lacrosse killing suspect seemed to have it all

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) - Four years ago, Wednesday, Charlottesville George Huguely's prep school lacrosse coaches looked at him and found an easygoing prankster with a Huguely's apartment hours lighthearted attitude and after Love's body was disthe skills to earn him a spot covered, according to the on one of the country's top college programs.

On Wednesday, police said they had looked in the University of Virginia senior's apartment and found a crimson-stained Cavaliers lacrosse jersey and a letter to the woman Huguely is accused of beat-UVA's women's team.

The arrest of Huguely and the death this week of Yeardley Love, both 22, have struck the highly ranked teams as they prepare for the NCAA tournament and shaken some on the picturesque campus where students are studying for finals.

A memorial for Love was and her funeral was set for Saturday in Maryland. Huguely remained jailed on a charge of first-degree murder. The teams will compete in the tournament, director said Love's family supported that decision.

Love's roommate and the roommate's boyfriend found Yeardley's battered body early Monday. Police have said Huguely and Love were once involved in a relationship, but that it had ended. According to a search Michael, who is one year warrant affidavit, Huguely kicked in her bedroom door and told them her head hit a wall several times as he shook her.

His attorney, Francis Lawrence, called Love's death an accident.

In court documents filed police said they took the stained jersey, the letter to Love and other items from Charlottesville Dailv Progress. The court records were later sealed.

The 6-foot-2, 209pound Huguely was charged just days before he and Love were to graduate and play in the NCAA tournament for the Cavaliers, with both teams considered coning to death, a senior on tenders for the national title. Such an opportunity seemed like a done deal for Huguely as far back as 2006, when he was the star player at the $28,826-a-year, allboys Landon School in Bethesda, Md., which churns out players for top college programs like Virginia and Duke.

"Very frankly, this kind of set for Wednesday night, killing is so rare that there are few protocols in higher education to deal with it," University President John Casteen said.

Peter Preston and his family were neighbors of the and the university's athletic Huguelys for more than a decade, and their children grew up playing together. He said the allegations against Huguely, whom he knew as "Georgie," were baffling since he always seemed like "just a wonderful, charming, polite young man."

Preston said his son, older than George, had grown up playing lacrosse with him, but Michael and Huguely saw less of each as they grew older and went to different high schools.

"George is not a monster," Preston said.

Compounding pharmacies aid Armour Thyroid users

DEAR DR. GOTT: Recently, your column addressed the difficulty of obtaining Armour Thyroid.

I would like to tell your readers that they can still get porcine thyroid capsules. Have them made up by a compounding pharmacy. Unfortunately, the cost is about three times higher (about $1 a day), but for those of us who choose a more natural way, it is worth it.

DEAR READER: You bring up a point I neglected to mention in my original article. Becoming more and more popular, compounding is a method by which physicians can prescribe and pharmacists can produce tried-and-true medications. I congratulate you for thinking outside the box on this matter.

As a point of information, Armour Thyroid in 1 grain (60 mg) and 1/2 grain (30 mg) doses has been manufactured and shipped since February 2010, according to the manufacturer. They apparently selected these two doses because up to 70 percent of all people take the medication in one dose or the other, or through a combination of both.

As I previously indicated, Armour Thyroid underwent reformulation. There was a decrease in the amount of dextrose and an increase in the amount of cellulose, and cornstarch was added. As you might imagine, some users have reported problems with the new formula. Because the tablets are taken by many people sublingually, they don't appear to dissolve as easily (perhaps because of the cornstarch), and they aren't as sweet as before, making them unpleasant to taste. Other users report palpitations, fatigue, weight gain, hair loss and more.

Readers experiencing any unusual side effects not present prior to the reformulation should speak with their physicians to determine whether com-

Friends say goodbye to an Idaho original, Dugout Dick

By Joe Jaszewski Idaho Statesman

ELK BEND – A generous heart, an innovative mind, tireless hands and an independent spirit.

That's how Richard Zimmerman, known to just about everyone as Dugout Dick, was remembered on Saturday.

Dick died April 21 at age 94, having lived nearly his entire adult life in a cave above the Salmon River out side of Elk Bend.

A group of about 40 friends and admirers gathered at the Elk Bend Sports Lodge for a potluck to remember the man who, according to newspaper articles and television programs, personified Idaho's rugged individualism.

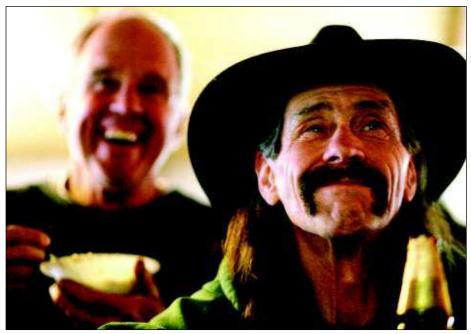

To those who knew him best, he embodied kindness.

"He did a lot more for me than I ever did for him." said Bruce Long, who rented a cave from Dick for the past seven years and moved in to care for Dick when his health started to fade.

Long marveled at Dick's ingenuity – like the time he figured out how to make yogurt starter from moldy goat meat. Or when he built a levee with his hands to protect a cave from flooding.

Other friends, like Billie Flynn, remembered the time Dick chased off a moose with only a rake.

Dick eschewed electricity and running water for life inside a cave and living off the land. Old windows from pickup trucks covered the front of his cave. He made what he needed - from the yogurt to a fly swatter. He raised goats and grew his those seeking a simple exisown food. He earned a few bucks by renting out nearby caves to those passing through, or those wanting to stay longer.

The walls inside his dark cave are still decorated with family photos and old newspaper articles about him. It was a lifestyle that attracted tence.

Between bites of deviled eggs, fruit salad and a hearty soup, those who were touched by Dick shared how they would remember him: "A tough old bird." "The spirit of a pioneer." "Eccentric." "A marvelous old man?" "A ladies' man?" "A great friend."

A boom box played cassettes that Dick recorded of himself playing the guitar. His famous red hard-hat sat on the pool table, next to old photographs and the ancient leather shoes he preferred to mend rather than replace.

On the Sunday before he died, Long carried Dick to bed. Concerned about his failing health, Long asked Dick repeatedly if he wanted him to go and get help.

"'They can't help me,' that was the last thing (Dick) ever said," recalled Long, who moved to the caves from Connecticut after reading about Dick in a magazine.

Dick never got out of bed again.

"He died where he wanted to," said Long.

"His sense of humor and his love for everybody is why he lived so long," said friend Jim Thompson.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a friend who has MS. She has a new problem that the many tests she has taken have shed no light on for the cause or remedy. Everything she eats tastes salty, and she has a salty taste in her mouth all the time. Needless to say, this has affected her appetite and is causing her much anxiety. She only takes medication for high blood pressure, as well as a monthly vitamin B12 shot and a recently added weekly vitamin D shot. Do you have any idea what would cause the new symptom? What can she do to get rid of it?

Online site is a gathering place for grieving

By Mara Rose Williams McClatchy Newspapers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The message to Thomas seemed no different than the thousands upon thousands logged onto social networks daily.

"Thinking about winter break," it read, "and how I would love to see you, talk to you ... '

The writer, however, wouldn't see Thomas, would not talk to him. Her friend was in a place where even electronic messaging cannot reach – the grave.

Thomas Fahey, a 26-year-old popular Johnson County horse trainer, died in 2006 when his Comair flight smashed into a hillside near a Lexington, Ky., airport.

The message came from a fellow rider. She wrote it four months ago in his online obituary guest book on Legacy.com, among the 100 most-visited website domains on the Internet, according to comScore, a leading Internet marketing research firm.

The site gets nearly 800,000 monthly visitors who write notes to the dead. Legacy.com, which began in 1998 and is one of several similar sites, allows a deceased's memorial to be posted free for 14 days and then charges a fee.

"It makes me feel like he is still here," said Kiera Anglewicz, 33, of Spring Hill, Kan., about Fahey. "I write stuff there, and I think he knows that I'm writing it."

Instead of standing in a tranquil cemetery talking to a headstone, many of the living communicate with the gone-but-not-forgotten in cyberspace.

"What these new online social networks provide is an outlet to express two very ancient human desires," said Nicholas A. Christakis, a Harvard doctor and social scientist. "First is to conexpress grief." Fahey's friends write often, some-

Writer explores the royal wonder of Kings Crown

Bv Mike Cothern Times-News correspondent

Hikers are often impatient during spring as they wait for snow to recede from their favorite hills and mountains.

Plenty of unique opportunities currently exist, however, in the zone where civilization blends into wildness. One such destination is Kings Crown, a small butte located only a few miles behind the town of King Hill northeast of Glenns Ferry.

Standing just west of the rimrocked point where the canyon the Snake River's north rim, the small promontory possesses a certain appeal even from a distance. The pull becomes stronger as one nears its table-flat summit, while the final ascent rewards the hiker with a surprising encounter.

No formal path leads to Kings Crown – the scramble can be made from any number of directions. The simplest approach requires a wade across King Hill Creek at the canyon's mouth, followed by a northeasterly climb basalt cliffs, hikers are confront-

Sheldon Bluestein's book, "Exploring Idaho's High Desert," directs hikers to the north side of the crown's seemingly impenetrable circuitous wall. Although at least one other route supposedly exists, I could not find any chinks in the basalt that might facilitate a safe climb. Bluestein's across several hillsides. Once on top, the experience is unparalleled. The flat top of Kings Crown, measuring only 200 yards long by 50 yards at its widest spot, gives the impression of an island in the sky. The landmark presents a fine view of the canyon to the north as it drains from an area in the Bennett Hills classified as a wilderness study area.

IF YOU GO

The simplest route to Kings Crown requires a one-mile hike from King Hill Creek. To reach this starting point, drive one mile west from the town of King Hill to Montgomery Road. Drive 3.4 miles, following the road as it heads north, then west across the creek, and finally north again while paralleling the creek until public land under Bureau of Land Management control is reached. The BLM's 1:100,000 Mountain Home topographic map is helpful, as the public land along the road is only present for 1/4 mile and is not signed. To find the Oregon Trail and reach the high desert west of King Hill Creek, turn onto the Sugar Loaf Road at 2.2 miles and follow the winding road up the hillside. Plan.

"The present lot was never intended for a parking area," said Wallace Keck, park superintendent. It is the road to Overlook Ranch access and an emergency access. It was turned into a parking area by rock climbers. The last survey taken showed that most of it is still on private property."

In the proposed action, minor disturbance of vegetation is expected; however, vegetation from the old parking area will be restored. No other impacts to natural or cultural resources, scenic views or visitor experiences would occur. Federal law requires, and National Park Service policies encourage, public comment on developments that effect natural and cultural resources. Written comments will be accepted through May 19.

"Once the period is over we will analyze the comments and determine if we need to make any changes," Keck said. "If we determine the finding of no significant impact, we will proceed with the project."

He said the design work would begin immediately, with the actual construction starting in August. Some of the work will probably be contracted, he added.

"Our plan is to have it finished in three weeks. The new parking lot will accommodate 18 vehicles," Keck said. "Another reason for the new area is to improve the view. Where it is located now you can look down and see a bunch of parked vehicles. The relocation will solve that problem."

Funding for the project will come from the National Park Service Fund.

"Probably from monies generated from national parks for entrance fees. Twenty percent of that revenue is set aside for parks that don't charge entrance fees," Keck said.

The .22 handgun: ideal hiking hardware

e may still be fac-ing several weeks of unsettled weather, but to my way of thinking, spring has arrived and its time to head for the hills. My weekend walkabouts began in earnest on Saturday.

What I love about these forays is that they require very little in terms of time or equipment, but work wonders for clearing one's head of the daily clamor and help pre-condition winter-softened muscles for summer activities.

Since packing light is the order of the day, I subscribe to the minimalist philosophy. Within my day pack are water bottle, high energy snack foods, extra socks and overnight emergency supplies. A collapsible walking stick, GPS compass, belt holster and a .22 pistol round out my kit. Although many outdoorsmen favor a large-caliber, concealable handgun, I consider a .22 pistol ideal for these brief jaunts. Generally light weight and fairly compact, .22 handguns offer ample accuracy and power for plinking, small game hunting, close range varminting as well as personal protection from twoand four-legged predators. Three of my perennial favorites are Ruger's series of Mark I, II, III pistols, their classic Single Six convertible revolvers, and Browning's stylish Buckmark. Let's have a look at

Some of Rich Simpson's favorite .22 handguns.

Ruger's first. With well more than 3 million units sold since the model's introduction in 1949, this is America's No. 1 selling rimfire handgun. Here is a nailtough 10-shot semiauto that points naturally, is utterly reliable, and priced within reach of the average working man. So resilient is the basic design of this autoloader that with continued upgrades in safety and functional features, the pistol has kept pace with the everevolving demands of hunters, trappers, plinkers, informal and competitive target shooters as well as individuals interested in a rimfire handgun for selfdefense. The model is now in its third incarnation the Mark III, which hit the market in 2004.

With the Mark III, a sportsman can have his cake and eat it too. You can choose between blued- or stainless-steel actions with a tapered, heavyweight or full-blown bull barrel of varied lengths. Sighting options include fixed, adjustable steel and Hi-Viz fiber optic sights. Weaverstyle bases allow mounting of optical or red dot sights. Check'em out at www.rugerfirearms.com. The Browning Buckmark family of pistols is a slightly more refined handgun. I believe that it sports a crisper trigger and more ergonomic grip, making it easier for me to shoot accurately. Styled to imitate the classic Colt Woodsman, the 10-shot Buckmark also offers a number of specialty options that you can see at www.browning.com.

For versatility, few handguns match Ruger's six-shot revolvers - the Single Sixes. By switching cylinders, you can choose between a multitude of .22 LR loadings or step up to the potent .22 Magnum cartridge. In snake country, .22 Mag. birdshot loads right under the hammer.

So the next time you hear the call of the wild, why not holster a .22 pistol, shoulder your day pack and head for the hills. You'll thank me for it. Good hiking!

Free Fishing Day set for June 12

Veteran and novice anglers will have the chance to fish for free come June 12.

On that day alone - Free Fishing Day - people across Idaho, residents and non-residents, may fish without a license. All other rules, such as limits or tackle restrictions, remain in effect.

Free Fishing Day allows people who've never fished before to give it a try, in the hopes of developing a lifelong love for the recreation sport. Parents are especially encouraged to bring their children.

At special locations around the southwest region, equipment will be available for use and fishing experts will be on hand to help novice anglers learn the ins and outs of fishing. In addition, all these locations will be stocked with hatchery rainbow trout prior to the day.

Mount Everest Base Camp. The 17.500-foot tent city. which sits in a glacial field at the base of the world's tallest peak, would serve as the launch pad for the climbers' lofty 29,035-foot goal in the sky.

Though I was officially working – I was hired as the communications director for the first leg of Expedition Hanesbrands' climb - the trip followed a similar trajectory that trekkers traditionally take to reach Base Camp, including a flight from Kathmandu to Lukla, and then eight days of hiking uphill village to village to acclimate to the increasingly thinner air en route to Base Camp.

Between my duties of blogging, posting videos and shooting photos for the expedition's web site, Climbwithus.com, I had time to do day hikes, climb an 18,600-foot peak near Base Camp, and hang out with local Sherpas in lodges and tents along the route. In mid-April, I stumbled into Mount Everest's Base Camp, a slight altitude headache accompanying me to my tent in the middle of a sea of ice and jumbled stone.

Climbing Mount Everest is an obvious achievement. But just trekking to Base Camp is a feat that requires strong lungs, leg muscles that can go for hours uphill, and a physiology that will adapt to air that suffers a significant deficit in the oxygen department.

Altitude, not distance or terrain, was the main hurdle on my journey.

The trek began at about 9,000 feet in the village of Lukla. It topped out at Base Camp with stops to sleep at 11.000 feet. 13.000 feet. 16,000 feet, and higher along the way.

Trekkers sweat and breathe hard on the trail, the thin air resulting in headaches and fatigue. You move slow. You stop often. In some villages, a planned rest day keeps you at the same lodge for two nights in a row.

The right equipment keeps you going. For gear, I used mainly common backpacking items, including a mid-size pack and trailrunning shoes, not boots, most of the way. One thing I did not bring, a dust mask, is highly recommended. Trekkers, porters and yaks kick up clouds of dust on the dry trail. Inhaling the particulate results in something known locally as the Khumbu cough.

Mount Everest Base Camp as seen in mid-April.

Instead of a mask, I wore a Buff scarf pulled up over my face. The thin Buff fabric did a good job filtering dust, though it was often too warm and would fog my sunglasses if I breathed too much out of my nose.

It may seem uncouth, but on the trek I wore the same clothes for several days straight. Look for wool and other antimicrobial fabrics that can accommodate multiple days between a wash. This kind of clothing is a good way to cut the bulk from the gear you bring.

It's not really gear, but medications can be essential along the Mount Everest trail. To be sure, ask a doctor junkie.com.

for anything health related. But for me, ibuprofen aided with headaches. A stomach illness early in the trip prompted me to do a course of azithromycin antibiotic. I was better in one day on this drug. For altitude, Diamox (genericallv. acetazolamide) seemed to help my body adapt to the thin air.

Other small essentials I brought included sunscreen, lip balm and handwash sanitizer. I kept a pack of tissues and some baby wipes handy.

Sunglasses are mandatory, too. Get a good pair. At Base Camp, at 17,500 feet, you are higher in the sky. In Nepal, near Mount Everest, you are truly closer to the sun.

The rules about spotlighting coyotes and jack rabbits

Question: "I see a newly highlighted area in yellow in the big game hunting brochure, referring to spotlighting unprotected and predatory wildlife. Did the rules about hunting coyotes and jack rabbits with a spotlight change?"

Answer: The short answer is no, nothing has changed.

The highlighted area is an attempt to clarify the existing rule as a result of a legislative change to the status of raccoons from a furbearer to a predator. Idaho Code 36-1101 (b) 5 is a fairly lengthy statute defining the acts that constitute hunting with artificial light and exemptions for livestock producers protecting their property.

This law also includes language that allows licensed hunters to use artificial light to hunt unprotected and predatory wildlife on private property with written authorization from the land owner, and on public land with a permit from the Idaho Department of Fish and Game.

The portion of this law that allowed hunting raccoons with artificial light didn't change even with a change in status from a furbearer to a predator. In summary, the law about spotlighting coyotes, jack rabbits unprotected and predatory species - and raccoons did not change. "Spotlighting" is allowed on private property with written permission from the landowner or a permit from the department on public lands.

BIRD EVENTS

Idaho birders will catalog the number of bird species they see this Saturday for International Migratory Bird Day. Local birders, including Poo Wright-Pulliam, Jane Seymour, Kathleen Cameron and Dave Spaulding will cover an area that encompasses the Wood River Valley, Minidoka, American Falls, Cherry Springs near Pocatello and Massacre Rocks State park.

In conjunction with their count, they'll be raising money for the Idaho Non-Game Wildlife Fund, which supports habitat for nongame wildlife. Bird lovers can donate to the cause by pledging a penny, a nickel, a dime or more for each species seen. If the birders spot 100 species, for instance, a donor pledging a dime would donate $10. For information: Wright-Pulliam at 788-3903 or Seymour at 788-1185 or go to www.birdday.org

Prairie Falcon Audubon members will celebrate International Migratory Bird Day with a bird walk starting at 7 a.m. Saturday at Auger Falls. Meet at the Auger Falls parking area below the Waste Water Treatment Plant. Bring binoculars, water, hat, sunscreen and good walking shoes. PFA will provide scopes, snacks, bird books and a little bird-watching expertise. Information: Sarah Harris at 732-6813.

In addition, Mike Munts will lead a guided bird walk at Craters of the Moon National Monument in honor of International Migratory Bird Day. But he'll do it on Saturday, May 15, rather than Saturday, since many of the birds show up a bit later in higher elevations. For information: Munts at 527-1353.

Montana considering reservation system for camping

HELENA, Mont. (AP) -Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks is considering a plan to allow campers to make reservations at 21 of the state's 54 state parks.

"This is the top publicservice request that we receive," said Chas Van Genderen, FWP state administrator. parks "Judging from the hundreds of telephone calls and other forms of inquiries each year, the camping public fully expects the ability to plan ahead with the peace of mind of knowing exactly where they'll be staying when they camp."

A reservation will cost campers an extra $10 on top of the regular campground fee. The agency said 25 percent of the sites at campgrounds that allow reservations will remain on a first-come, firstserved basis.

If approved, the reservation program could be in place by 2011. The agency is accepting public comment on the proposal through May 18.

The Wisconsin DNR began implanting sonar transmitters in 2002, but the early devices wore out after four years. Now they last 10 years. By the end of this spawning season, about 100 of the latest longer-lasting transmitters will be in lake sturgeon – roughly 85 females and 15 males. In total, about 350 sonar transmitters have been implanted since the program started.

Biologists believe females, which don't that look like small black flashlights, the begin to spawn until their mid-20s, procreate every three to five years. Males are believed to spawn yearly. A senior fire department official said demonstrators prevented firefighters from reaching the burning building.

"Several crucial minutes were lost," the official said on condition of anonymity pending an official announcement. "If we had intervened earlier, the loss of life could have been prevented."

Fifteen civilians and 29 police were injured in what Civil Protection Minister Michalis Chrisohoides called "a black day for democracy." Twelve people were arrested in Athens and another two in the northern city of Thessaloniki, which also saw clashes between police and demonstrators.

"I have difficulty in finding the words to express my distress and outrage," President Karolos Papoulias said. "The big challenge we face is to maintain social cohesion and peace. Our country came to the brink of the abyss. It is our collective responsibility to ensure that we don't step over the edge."

IAEA chief focuses on Israel's arsenal

VIENNA (AP) - The head of the U.N. atomic watchdog is asking for international input on how to persuade Israel to join the Nonproliferation Treaty, in a move that is sure to add to pressure on the Jewish state to disclose unacknowledged its nuclear arsenal.

In a letter made available Wednesday, Yukiya Amano asked foreign ministers of the International Atomic Energy Agency's 151 member states to share views on how to implement a resolution demanding that Israel "accede to the" Nonproliferation Treaty and throw its nuclear facilities open to IAEA oversight.

The letter was shared with The Associated Press amid renewed Arab criticism of Israel during an international conference at U.N. headquarters in New York. Islamic nations used the second day of the nonproliferation meeting Tuesday to call for a nuclear-free Middle East, while criticizing Israel for not divulging its nuclear capabilities and refusing to sign the nonproliferation treaty.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On August 12, 2010, at the hour of 12:00 o'clock PM of said day, in the lobby of the Lincoln County Courthouse, 111 West B Street, Shoshone, ID, JUST LAW, INC., as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Lincoln, State of Idaho, and described as follows to wit:

Lot 7 of Shoshone Fruit Tract No. 3, Lincoln County, Idaho, according to the plat filed August 14, 1997, as Instrument Number 162676, and re-recorded October 15, 1997, as Instrument Number 162952 Lincoln County Records.

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113 Idaho Code, the Trustee has been informed the address of 62 E. Huyser Dr., Shoshone, ID, is sometimes associated with the said real property.

This Trustee's Sale is subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other conditions of which the Trustee is not aware that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, this sale may be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Trustee and the Beneficiary shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possessions or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Lon E. Montgomery, a married man as his sole and separate property, as Grantor(s) with Vanderbilt Mortgage and Finance, Inc. as the Beneficiary, under the Deed of Trust recorded July 22, 2008, as Instrument No. 185358, in the records of Lincoln County, Idaho. THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE

NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION. The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay the amount due under the certain Promissory Note and Deed of Trust, in the amounts called for thereunder as follows:

Monthly payments in the amount of $484.83 for the months of October 2009 through and including to the date of sale, together with late charges and monthly payments accruing. The sum owing on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $49,368.83 as principal, plus service charges, attorney's fees, costs of this foreclosure, any and all funds expended by Beneficiary to protect their security interest, and interest accruing at the rate of 9.99% from September 1, 2009, together with delinquent taxes plus penalties and interest to the date of sale

The Beneficiary elects to sell or cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy said obligation.

Dated this 6th day of April, 2010.

ORDINANCE NO. 2985

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, AMENDING THE TWIN FALLS CITY CODE BY THE ADDITION OF A NEW SECTION 19 OF CHAPTER 7 OF TITLE 10 PROVIDING FOR CITY SERVICES. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE

CITY OF TWIN FALLS, IDAHO:

That the Twin Falls City Code is amended by the addition of a new Section 19 of Chapter 7 of Title 10, providing for City Services, as follows:

"10-7-19: CITY SERVICES:

- (A) Intent and Purpose: It is recognized that property development within all zoning districts necessarily requires supporting infrastructure for the provision of city services, including, but not limited to, streets, utility services, emergency services, recreational facilities, etc. It is also recognized that many city owned and/or operated facilities existed without zoning approval, and were considered non-conforming under the zoning ordinance. The purpose of this ordinance is to declare that municipal services are permitted uses in all zoning districts, but to require notice, public hearing, and City Council approval before the establishment of new municipal services uses
- (B) All uses on real property owned and/or operated by the City of Twin Falls are permitted uses.

(C) Any proposed new use to be established on real property owned and/or operated by the City of Twin Falls, not already permitted by other provisions of this zoning ordinance or already approved as required utility improvements in new developments, must be approved by the City Council after a public hearing at which interested persons shall have an opportunity to be heard. At least fifteen (15) days prior to the hearing, notice of time and place and a description of the proposed use shall be published in the official newspaper or paper of general circulation within the jurisdiction of this City. Additional notice shall be provided by posting the property; by mail to property owners and residents within three hundred feet (300') of the external boundaries of the land being considered; and any additional area that may be impacted by the proposed use, as determined by the Zoning Administrator.

1978.) In 1994, Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and French President Francois Mitterrand formally opened Channel Tunnel the between their countries. In 2002, right-wing Dutch politician Pim Fortuyn was killed in Hilversum, Nether-lands. (Volkert van der Graaf was later convicted of killing Fortuyn and was sentenced to 18 years in prison.) Ten years ago: Jack Mazzan, who'd spent 20 years on death row for the murder of a judge's son, was released on bail, three months after the Nevada Supreme Court reversed his conviction. (Before he could be tried again, Mazzan pleaded guilty to killing Richard Minor Jr. and received a life sentence; Mazzan has since sought parole, unsuccessfully.) Fusaichi Pegasus became the first favorite to win the Kentucky Derby since Spectacular Bid in 1979. Five years ago: President George W. Bush arrived in Riga, Latvia, as he opened a fast-paced, four-country journey to mark the 60th anniversary of the defeat of Nazi Germany. British Prime Minister Tony Blair unveiled his Cabinet, changing leadership in defense and health but keeping mostly familiar faces after a third term victory dampened by a reduced majority in Parliament. One year ago: After a day of meetings at the White House, President Barack Obama declared he'd gotten the commitments he wanted from the leaders of Pakistan and Afghanistan to more aggressively fight Taliban and al-Qaida militants. Gov. John Baldacci signed a bill making Maine the fifth state to legalize same-sex marriage (however, the law was later overturned by a public vote).

Classifieds 12 Thursday, May 6, 2010

IF MAY 6 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Cast off worries and take dynamic action. You have a helpful reprieve from concerns for the next few weeks and may have the opportunity for travel, to take up a new study or to hook up with benevolent and charitable partners. This is an excellent time to do long range planning or to make commitments. In August and early September, you must avoid being distracted by get-rich schemes and romantic escapades that can endanger your progress. Make major business or financial decisions in November when you have the vision and wisdom to make positive, profitable choices.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Sincerity can thaw out a cold shoulder. Experience the thrill of meeting new people who instantly admire you but keep in mind that there might be no strings attached. Play it footloose and fancy-free.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Pick and choose. There is the thrill you experience when you try something unusual or meet someone new. There is also a deep satisfaction found by being reliable and seeing signs of long-term affection.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do the enjoyable thing first and get it out of the way. You may have an attraction for the exotic and unusual today, but don't be sidetracked from following through on important family obligations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Ugly ducklings can turn into swans from at least one viewpoint. Beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder. Burn the midnight oil, but know someone's waiting in the wings with eyes only for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Prayers can be answered. Focus on areas that hold great promise or opportunity. You may be luckier than usual when playing hardball in the business arena. You have the energy to meet high expectations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accept a challenge to improve yourself. Find ways to get back in shape through exercise or sports. You could find that a congenial companion or old friend has the same ideas and will come along.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

"We will now discuss in a little more detail the struggle for existence.'

– Charles Darwin

The trump coup is a way to recover from a bad trump split by reducing your own trumps. Consider declarer's line from a match between two U.S. teams in a recent Bermuda Bowl - and what the defense might have done about it.

Declarer for the USAII team ducked the spade-queen lead against four hearts. West now led a diamond to East's ace and East continued the suit. Declarer won his king, then drew two rounds of trump to find the bad news.

The winning line is now to cash the top clubs (pitching a dia-mond), ruff a club, then go to the spade ace to ruff a diamond. Declarer exits with his spade loser at trick 11 and is left with the A-10 of hearts for the last two tricks.

In fact, declarer tried to ruff a diamond at trick six before ruffing a club, and East, Nick Nickell, astutely pitched his spade king. Nickell could now ruff away the spade ace, leaving declarer with a spade loser at the end.

Even if Nickell had reverted to spades at trick three, thus removing an entry from dummy, declarer could still have succeeded by playing three rounds of clubs at once, then cashing the diamond king and drawing two trumps to finish in dummy. Now declarer ruffs another club and exits with his spade loser, taking the last two trump tricks.

A spade continuation at trick two might have been more challenging, but declarer could still have prevailed with perfect play.

ANSWER: Your nonforcing threespade bid showed 12-14 points and three or four trumps. Your partner's cue-bid then suggested slam interest and short diamonds improving your hand. In context, you have a moose. Cue-bid five clubs now and consider whether you have enough to move on to slam, even opposite a sign-off in five spades. The answer may depend on how much you trust your partner!

Enjoy the thrill of the chase. Keeping home fires burning brightly may be a compelling incentive, but harmless flirtation spices up the day. Don't be bashful about sharing enthusiasms with TWIN FALLS For lease or sale others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some people have money, some have faith in the future, some have powerful friends - and some have luck. You are fortunate to have a little bit of each. You have the ability to make major improvements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Judge Judy may give you a thumbs-up. Your judgment is a bit better than usual, especially with matters to do with home and family. You may receive praise for a job well done or for sound thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It is time to enjoy the fruits and rewards of your labors. Fight the urge to be a moody loner and instead hook up with a warm and ardent companion. Don't be concerned if you don't see immediate results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may get a reputation as a whiz kid when you mingle with new people. You make others feel dizzy when you speed through the day. Your enthusiasm and a cando attitude are impressive.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do what you love best and you will love what you do. You must be enthusiastic to give a superlative performance. Be pleasantly surprised by how much your ardor affects a certain someone.

time so it let him off the hook. My husband used to tell me the only reason he didn't worry too much about me at work was because I wore steel-toed boots, and he suggested I buy steel-toed flipflops and slippers. I can walk through the house and trip over nothing at all. I once broke all the toes on one foot sliding off an exam table in a doctor's office.

Tell "Clumsy" to hang in there. She's not alone. Lord knows there are a lot of us klutzes out there and she's in good company. As long as she can keep a sense of humor about her condition, she'll be fine.

- ANOTHER KLUTZ INUTAH

DEAR ANOTHER KLUTZ: I received many responses regarding being accident-prone. While many readers shared their "graceless" moments, others pointed out that it could be caused by a medical problem. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I have an inherited neuromuscular disorder called Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease, also known as CMT. It is also called motor sensory neuropathy or peroneal muscular atrophy.

CMT affects the peripheral nerves. A common symptom is short wide feet with very high arches, weak ankles, and tripping over our own feet. Falling UP the stairs is what we do best. At family reunions, we sit around comparing our funny feet and the bruises from our frequent falls.

"Clumsy" should see a neurologist for nerve conduction testing. The extent of her frequent "accidents" and bruising is not normal, and she needs to know what the problem is.

- ESTHER, ANR.N. IN IDAHO

DEAR ABBY: You were right to tell "Clumsy" that she shouldn't avoid her friends as that would only increase their suspicions. However, she also needs to include her fiance more in their social activities. If her friends get to know him and discover that he is a kind and compassionate person who respects boundaries and knows how to control his temper, their suspicions of abuse will be allayed. - CARLA IN VIRGINIA DEAR ABBY: As a child, my mother always chided me to "watch out, pay attention and look where you are going." I had bruises all over from bumping into things. At 45, I learned from an ophthalmologist that I had NO depth perception. Now I understand why I must look down when stepping off curbs or drive five car lengths behind other cars, etc. "Clumsy" needs to get a thorough eye exam and have her depth perception measured. - MADE SENSE OF IT DEAR ABBY: I am 31 and have been clumsy all my life. I have fallen on ice a few times this winter, even though I tried to be very cautious. Thankfully, I have sustained only some bruises and a few pulled muscles no broken bones. I, too, have seen the looks, rolled eyes and heard the sighs of concerned friends. It's hard not to become defensive when your friends might have a negative perception of your husband. I just smile and make playful reference to the fact that this has been going on far longer than I've known my husband. "Clumsy": Drink To plenty of milk to keep your bones strong, and maintain a lighthearted attitude when the subject comes up. - NOT-SO-GRACIE IN NEW YORK
