Forest Service hopes pheromones will drive off beetles

By Karen Bossick
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Flakes fell on Bald Mountain Thursday. But they weren't from Sun Valley's arsenal of snow guns, nor flakes from the heavens.

They were packets of pheromones dispersed by a helicopter that U.S. Forest Service officials hope will keep an army of Douglas-fir bark beetles from ravaging the trees lining Sun Valley's famed ski runs.

"The Bald Mountain view is cherished by many people. We'd have a lot of unhappy people — not just residents, but also people who come visit — if we lost those trees," said Ketchum District Ranger Kurt Nelson.

Douglas-fir bark beetles are naturally found in most Douglas-fir stands, but usually kill only a few trees a year in a 25-acre area. The beetle population exploded, however, following the 2007 Castle Rock Fire, as the fire and ongoing drought weakened hundreds of thousands of trees in a 48,000-acre area and left them as perfect hosts for the beetle.

The danger now is that the beetles emerging from those now-dying trees will kill otherwise healthy Douglas firs that weren't burnt in the fire, Nelson said, including hundreds in the ski area.

April rains help water outlook

By Ben Botkin

The cool, moist weather of April delayed mountain snowpack from melting and increased water supplies, but Idaho's water woes are far from fixed.

Although April's precipitation was above average throughout most of Idaho, irrigation shortages are still likely for users of the Snake River and basins including Big Wood, Oakley and Salmon Falls, according to the U.S. Natural Resources Conservation Service. "Another week or two of the

Knutsen guilty of patient sex abuse

By Andrea Jackson
Times-News writer

David Knutsen was unanimously convicted Thursday by a Twin Falls jury on four counts of sexual abuse of a vulnerable adult, stemming from incidents last year at St. Luke's Canyon View Behavioral Health Services.

Knutsen, 29, was accused of the four felonies after a now 23-year-old woman who has been described as developmentally delayed claimed that Knutsen touched her at Canyon View in a sexually inappropriate way on Jan. 30, 2009.

After Knutsen was charged, St. Luke's officials announced that 31 security cameras were installed inside the facility and also implemented new patient contact rules. Police testified at Knutsen's trial that video recordings from inside the facility weren't available during their investigation of the incident.

When finished, drivers following the highway south

"The construction is moving along extremely quickly," said Nathan Jerke, a spokesman for the Idaho Transportation Department. "They're ahead of our schedule."

Giant box lowered in Gulf to battle oil spill

By Harry R. Weber and Tamara Lush

ON THE GULF OF MEXICO — Workers late Thursday started lowering a giant concrete-and-steel box over the blown-out oil well at the bottom of the sea in a risky and untested bid to capture most of the gushing crude and avert a wider environmental disaster.

A crane lifted the box from the boat named The Joe Griffin and crews from a second boat started the box on its slow journey a mile underwater. It would take hours to reach the seafloor.

"We haven't done this before. It's very complex, and we can't guarantee it," BP spokesman David Nicholas warned earlier.

The 100-ton containment vessel is designed to collect as much as 85 percent of the oil spewing into the Gulf and funnel it up to a tanker. It could take several hours to lower it into place by crane, after which a steel pipe will be installed between the top of the box and the tanker. The whole structure could be operating by Sunday.

The mission took on added urgency as oil started washing up on delicate

MORNING BRIEFING

Pat's Picks

Three things to do today

Pat Marcantonio

There's no reason to be bored today.

• The Friends of the Jerome Public Library used book sale runs from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the library, 100 First Ave. E. I always find treasures there. The sale runs through Saturday.

• You'll find plant treasures at a spring plant sale hosted by the College of Southern Idaho Horticulture program from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the new CSI greenhouse on the west side of the Twin Falls campus. I've seen the offerings and they are beautiful. This event continues on Saturday.

• End the evening with music at the Battle of the Bands at 6 p.m. at the Twin Falls City Park. Ten bands vie for $1,000. Admission is free.

Thumper's mom was a Fairfield girl

Lots of starry-eyed south-central Idaho kids have migrated to Hollywood seeking fame and fortune over the years.

But none found a stranger gig than Margaret Lightfoot of Fairfield.

Lightfoot, under the screen name Margaret Lee, voiced Thumper's mother — Mrs. Rabbit — in the 1942 Disney animated megahit "Bambi."

Here's the sum total of her dialogue:

Thumper: (watching Bambi) "He doesn't walk very good, does he?"

Mrs. Rabbit: "Thumper!"

Thumper: "Yes, mama?"

Mrs. Rabbit: "What did your father tell you this morning?"

Thumper: (clearing throat) "If you can't say something nice ... don't say nothing at all!"

Those were her last words Lee ever uttered on screen. At age 33, she retired from the movies and moved to Alaska, where she died in 1989 at the age of 80.

So how do you get to be a rabbit's mother in Tinseltown?

It started out more promisingly for Lee, who fetched up in Hollywood in 1927 and quickly landed an uncredited role in a John Gilbert picture, "Man, Woman and Sin."

Gilbert was a superstar of the silent film era, and at the time was carrying on a torrid love affair with the leading actress of the day, Greta Garbo. Lee appeared the same year as "a blonde flirt" with Gilbert and Garbo in "Love."

It wasn't a bad way for an 18-year-old kid to start a movie career.

YOU DON'T SAY

Steve Crump

Lee made seven films in 1928 and 1929, including "Rose-Marie" with Joan Crawford. Her first talkie, "The 20th Amendment" with Jack Haley, was released in 1930.

"The Smart Set-Up" — by far Lee's biggest Hollywood role, co-starring with Walter O'Keefe — was released in 1931. In 1932, she appeared in a short called "Keep Laughing," directed by disgraced movie comedian Fatty Arbuckle (After three trials, Arbuckle had been acquitted of raping a woman in a San Francisco hotel room; she died two days after the incident).

"Keep Laughing" was Lee's last movie for 10 years. Like many other Hollywood starlets, she didn't make a successful transition from silent to sound films.

Ironically, audiences never saw the 5-foot-1 blonde in her most successful movie; they only heard her voice.

And when "Bambi" was released, her work didn't even get a screen credit.

In Tuesday's column about Twin Falls County Democrats, I neglected to mention that then-Democrat Dennis Maughan was elected to the Twin Falls County Commission in 1994, beating Republican Pam Dowd by 2,000 votes. In 1998, he switched parties and won reelection without opposition.

beetles out there now," said Forest Service entomologist Laura Lazarus. "One tree alone could have a thousand beetles."

This is only the third time aerial dispersion of pheromones has been attempted nationally. The Forest Service has fought beetles the past four years by manually affixing pheromone pouches to 30 acres of trees in Bald Mountain's Central Park area, between Upper College and Upper River Run. But that's a slow, labor-intensive process for the hundreds of acres that need to be covered now, Nelson said.

A salvage logging operation to decrease beetle habitat would have likewise been too slow and would have likely prompted public opposition, he said.

Aerial dispersion was 95 percent successful in a smaller operation near Lake Chelan, Wash. And there have been no reports of adverse effects to humans, animals or the environment. Even so, Forest Service workers established a buffer zone of 300 feet to ensure no flakes would fall in Warm Springs Creek or the Big Wood River.

On Thursday morning, two workers fended off 27-degree temperatures to load 170 pounds of flakes into metal "saddle bags" hanging from both sides of a Bell 206 helicopter. The pheromone would have likewise been too slow and would have likely prompted public opposition, he said.

Guided by GPS, the helicopter took off on half-hour jaunts, hovering between 60 and 100 feet above the trees as it blew the flakes on select areas of the mountain and above the old Warm Springs Golf Course. The operation was designed to spread 43,000 flakes per acre or about one flake per square foot.

The pheromones will tell beetles that they need to move on because nearby trees are already full of beetles, said Joe Miczulski, the district's recreation specialist. The flakes aren't biodegradable, but will turn brown so hikers shouldn't see them, he said.

The Forest Service will monitor the beetle kill with more than 60 traps placed earlier on Bald Mountain. More flakes will be dispersed in late June or early July, and at least once again in spring 2011 until the population of beetles crashes, Lazarus said.

Forest Service officials from around the country are watching the operation closely to see if it might help halt the march of Douglas-fir bark beetle across the West.

But at $90 an acre for flakes and application, it likely won't be used everywhere, Miczulski said.

"This operation here wouldn't be happening if this were not such a high-profile area."

Route

ITD originally estimated that the $26.6 million project wouldn't be done until March or April of 2011. It now appears it will be completed by the end of this year — late November or December, Jerke said. The mild weather has helped move work along.

The rocks that will make the base of the new road rest atop dirt at the construction site, and will be overlaid with asphalt later this year. Construction equipment on Thursday tamped down dirt where the future road will be.

Down in Rock Creek Canyon, a truck pumped out concrete. Tall metal forms are filling up with cement, and will gradually rise from the bottom of the canyon until they're level with the road project.

"They'll be just putting it together one step at a time over the next three or four months," Jerke said. "Seeing that start to rise up is extremely exciting."

Besides the bridge, supports are also rising for the overpass that will allow east-bound traffic to merge off of Pole Line Road onto the U.S. 93 alternate route. ITD found money for the $2.7 million project from savings on other projects.

"This way people won't have to stop on the main road," Jerke said.

The new two-lane highway will have a base designed for four lanes, allowing future expansion as the need arises. Existing rural roads will become frontage roads for property owners along the route.

At this point, there's no timeline for when the alternate route's lanes might be expanded to four, Jerke said.

W.W. Clyde of Utah is doing the project with about 100 workers.

After the bridge is built, environmental mitigation work will allow Rock Creek to naturally flow under the bridge.

History preserved, one site at a time

By Michael Cole
Times-News writer

A Twin Falls County commission that's set out to inventory historical structures hopes its efforts will preserve the county's rich history.

The Twin Falls County Historic Preservation Commission in 2009 started its multiyear project by gathering a list of more than 1,200 historical properties that date from 1919 or earlier and need to be surveyed.

The committee has hired historians from TAG Historical Research and Consulting of Boise to help catalogue the properties. "This will take a long time to inventory," said Shawna Robinson, the commission's chairwoman. "Making an official recording of these properties, we may be able to preserve them. These properties represent the history of the county."

TAG conducts historical research for government agencies, nonprofits, businesses and individual clients.

On Tuesday, TAG consultants and sisters Barbara Perry Bauer and Elizabeth

Jacox conducted their first survey for the county, roaming the grounds of Milner Dam.

In 1903, approximately 300 workers started a small community around the dam site. Relics of the town still exist. The team looked for old foundations, found broken bottles and old cans, and used maps to piece together a vital piece of Magic Valley history.

"We started at Milner Dam because without the dam a lot of these communities would not be here," Robinson said. "This is our birthplace."

"Agriculture made this area," said Jacox. "It is important to understand why we are here and where we are. With recent growth, things are changing."

Photos and written accounts collected by TAG will be sent to the state and county for examination.

Researching the past can be tricky, but it's something Bauer and Jacox said they truly love.

"Our work is like a giant puzzle," said Bauer. "Every time we go to work it is like finding another piece to the puzzle."

Assembling the puzzle that is Twin Falls County and preserving its treasures may prove tricky, but Robinson said it has to be done.

"Some of these properties are centuries old," she said. "As the population grows we can't help but lose some. We just want to bring public recognition to these historical sites."

Three Xavier students charged with drug crimes

Times-News

Three students of Xavier Charter School in Twin Falls were arrested Wednesday on drug-related charges, according to a city of Twin Falls press release.

Twin Falls Police discovered 14 bags of a substance that later tested positive for marijuana in the students' possession, the release stated.

Two of the students are charged with felony crimes for intent to deliver marijuana, while the third is charged with misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

The students, who remain unidentified because they are minors, are being detained at the Snake River Detention Center, the city stated.

The city said police had been advised by Xavier Principal Cindy Fulcher that the students were attempting to sell the drug.

One student was also charged with possession of a weapon on school grounds for allegedly possessing a knife at the school, the release stated.

barrier islands.

But the lowering of the box was delayed because of dangerous fumes rising from the oily water in the windless night, the captain of the supply boat hauling the box told The Associated Press. A spark caused by the scrape of metal on metal could cause a fire, Capt. Demi Shaffer said.

Deckhands wore respirators while workers on surrounding vessels took air-quality readings. Crews later were able to start the work. Black oil coated the white shell of the box as it was being lowered.

The technology has been used a few times in shallow waters, but never at such extreme depths — 5,000 feet down, where the water pressure is enough to crush a submarine.

The box — which looks a lot like a peaked, 40-foot-high outhouse, especially on the inside, with its rough timber framing — must be accurately positioned over the well, or it could damage the leaking pipe and make the problem worse.

BP spokesman Doug Suttles said he is not concerned about that happening. Underwater robots have been clearing pieces of pipe and other debris near where the box will be placed to avoid complications.

"We do not believe it could make things worse," he said.

Other risks include ice clogs in the pipes — a problem that crews will try to prevent by continuously pumping in warm water and methanol — and the danger of explosion when separating the mix of oil, gas and water that is brought to the surface.

"I'm worried about every part, as you can imagine," said David Clarkson, BP vice president of engineering projects.

IDAHO Allred, IACI exchange jabs after Web attack

BOISE — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Keith Allred and a business group that's attacking him over Idaho's budget are now exchanging jabs on the Internet.

In a YouTube video posted Thursday, Allred said the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry's www.allredink.com website is "politics at its worst."

Allred says the website — and accompanying robocalls created for the business group by a Florida firm — are sending "lies to homes across Idaho."

Allred

Meanwhile, Alex LaBeau, IACI's director, says he stands by claims that Allred would have left Idaho saddled with a deficit in fiscal year 2010, something Allred calls "flat wrong."

In a press release, LaBeau, whose group backs Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter, vowed the website "will continue to tell the truth about Keith Allred's agenda."

Missing woman's husband arrested on gun violation

LEWISTON — The husband of a missing Clarkston, Wash., woman was arrested Thursday at his business in Idaho.

The Lewiston Tribune reports Charles Capone was arrested in Moscow, Idaho, on a Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives warrant accusing him of violating federal firearms laws.

The 40-year-old Rachael Anderson is a mother of four who was in the process of divorcing Capone. She was reported missing April 16 after she failed to show up for work at her job in Lewiston.

Schools in Riggins going to 4-day week

RIGGINS — The school board in Riggins has voted to adopt a four-day school week beginning next fall.

Superintendent Marc Scheibe says the board voted 3-0 last week in favor of the change, which is expected to save the Salmon River Joint School District a minimum of $42,000 a year. The district serves 151 students.

Moving to a four-day school week involves adding 50 minutes to the class periods on the remaining days, the Lewiston Tribune reports.

Scheibe says the district expects to lose about $150,000 in funding because of statewide revenue declines, and the district is seeking approval of a $545,000 supplemental levy on May 18.

Forest mulls car camp ban along N. Idaho rivers

LEWISTON — The U.S. Forest Service is considering a ban on car camping along the banks of the North Fork of the Clearwater River and its popular tributary, Kelly Creek.

Forest Service Ranger Doug Gober says the agency is likely to place large boulders and other barricades to block vehicle access to beaches and riparian areas adjacent to the river and creek.

Gober tells the Lewiston Tribune some people take their vehicles close to river edges, causing damage to banks and beaches. The barricades will also deter campers from driving out on to gravel bars.

There are more than 40 undeveloped camping sites along the North Fork and Kelly Creek. The two streams are popular in the summer for their sandy beaches and swimming.

WYOMING Yellowstone's East Entrance to open today

CHEYENNE — The East Entrance to Yellowstone National Park is set to open for the season at 8 a.m. today.

The road from the entrance to Fishing Bridge and Canyon also will open, although drivers can expect delays along that route starting in a couple weeks.

Road work through Sylvan Pass is set to begin between May 15 and June 1.

There's still plenty of snow on the ground in Yellowstone. Park officials say visitors can still expect snowfall to cause temporary road closures.

MONTANA Two bull bison from Yellowstone shot outside park

BILLINGS — A state official says two bull bison from Yellowstone National Park were shot and killed after an animal disease study apparently went awry.

Steve Merritt with the Montana Department of Livestock says the bison were shot about 10 miles north of the park on Tuesday.

The bison had been tranquilized just outside the park by U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers who were collecting bison semen to see if the animals pose a disease transmission risk.

Merritt said Thursday the two bison woke up angry and traveled to an area of Yankee Jim Canyon where no bison are allowed because of concerns they could transmit the disease brucellosis to cattle.

A National Park Service official and a Department of Livestock official decided to shoot the bison after efforts to turn them back failed.

State reaches deal with tribe on tobacco cases

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Attorney General and a tribal company that peddles tobacco products have agreed to settle a pair of lawsuits over allegations the company sold products in Idaho without a permit.

The settlement between the state and Washington-based Lil' Brown Smoke Shop awaits a judge's approval.

Idaho Deputy Attorney General Brett DeLange declined to share specifics of the deal Thursday.

If approved, the resolution would end legal battles that began last year.

The Lil' Brown Smoke Shop, licensed by the Yakama Tribe in Washington, sued in federal court in February 2009 after state lawyers accused the company in a series of letters of violating Idaho's Minors Access Act. The law was designed to regulate the sale of tobacco and required retailers to obtain a permit from the Department of Health and Welfare. It was later amended to include Internet sales of cigarettes and other tobacco products.

In its lawsuit, Lil' Brown Smoke Shop, which ships products to consumers in Idaho, claimed it's protected by federal law and tribal sovereignty and its own 1855 treaty from having to get a state permit or face any restrictions in getting goods to market.

The company also denied it was selling cigarettes over the Internet to Idaho buyers and claimed it used an age verification system to restrict sales to teens and had been doing business with state agencies for nearly two years without any mention of needing a permit.

Days later, the state responded by filing its own lawsuit in 4th District Court accusing the retailer of ignoring the Minors Access Act and conducting business in the state without being registered.

Utah Supreme Court to hear inmate's death penalty appeal

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Supreme Court said Thursday it will hear an expedited appeal from a condemned inmate scheduled to be executed by a firing squad.

Ronnie Lee Gardner, 49, was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to die in 1985 for the fatal courthouse shooting of attorney Michael Burdell that same year.

The appeal will be heard on June 3 — 15 days before Gardner's execution date of June 18.

Attorneys for Gardner sought the appeal after 3rd District Judge Robin Reese signed an "Order of Execution and Judgment of Death."

Gardner's attorneys will argue that he was denied state funds to pay for experts and investigators who could have provided mitigating evidence during the penalty phase of his trial. They believe the evidence could have influenced the jury's decision to impose the death penalty.

Under Utah law, if one juror objects to a death sentence then the convicted person is sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of parole.

Gardner's attorney Andrews Parnes said he had no comment Thursday. An e-mail seeking comment from Assistant Utah Attorney General Thomas Brunner was not immediately returned.

Arizona governor rejects Dems' request to delay immigration law

By Laurie Kellman
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — A prominent Senate Democrat asked Republican Arizona Gov. Jan Brewer to put off her state's controversial immigration law to give Congress a chance to act. Scant time passed before Brewer's answer came back: No.

The request by Sen. Chuck Schumer of New York was a long shot for getting a stalled Senate immigration initiative moving again. Even the White House thinks the Senate proposal is nearly dead. "There's not enough support to move forward," White House press secretary Robert Gibbs said Thursday.

Still, among Democrats, there's plenty of support for trying — at least in public — to advance immigration reform during this year of midterm elections. The party's control of Congress depends in part on Hispanics, a key constituency, voting Democratic.

Brewer

Hence, at a Cinco de Mayo celebration Wednesday at the White House, President Obama said he wanted to start work on immigration legislation this year. Days earlier, he had said there was no appetite in Congress for another big legislative fight.

Schumer set out an unlikely path to passage for the troubled immigration plan in his letter to Brewer on Thursday. Delay for a year the date the Arizona law takes effect, he proposed, and push one of Arizona's two Republican senators to support the Democrats' outline for an overhaul of immigration law.

The delay would give Congress a chance to pass a comprehensive federal law that would toughen borders and forge a path to citizenship for millions here illegally, Schumer argued, an outcome he contended would be more effective than the state law.

Even if Brewer had agreed to call the legislature back into special session to make the delay official, it was highly unlikely that either Sen. John McCain or Sen.

Jon Kyl would have changed their minds and supported the Democrats' proposal.

Schumer's short-lived idea was the Democrats' latest effort to look like they're not abandoning immigration reform in the face of Arizona's crackdown on those in the state illegally. It's true that no Republican senator is openly supporting the stalled effort, but it's not clear that all of the Democrats are behind it, either.

Arizona boycott announced

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The nation's largest Hispanic civil rights group announced Thursday that it has organized a boycott of Arizona in the wake of the state's new law targeting illegal immigrants.

The National Council of La Raza, along with 19 other labor and civil rights groups, will pull money and meetings out of the state and are asking companies and organizations to move major events and conferences planned there to other venues. Specifically, La Raza wants Major League Baseball to renege on its promise to hold the 2011 All-Star Game in Phoenix.

"No conferences. No travel," said Janet Murgua, president of La Raza. "We are looking at major events with big visibility, and we're asking all people to consider whether any purchase of goods from the state would further this unjust law."

“The way to fix our broken immigration system is through common-sense comprehensive immigration reform.”

— President Obama

Crapo, Sullivan deserve U.S. Senate nominations

In his 17 years on Capitol Hill, Mike Crapo has become a player. He sits on the Senate Banking, Budget and Finance committees — critical assignments in the wake of the passage of Obamacare, the battle over financial reform and the lingering impact of the Great Recession.

Idaho’s senior senator doesn’t yet have the clout of former Sen. Jim McClure — or ex-Sen. Larry Craig before his 2007 guilty plea for soliciting sex in a rest-room at the Minneapolis airport. But Crapo is a significant figure in the Senate GOP Caucus — and one of a minority of Republicans genuinely willing to work with Democrats.

Yet what sets the senator apart as a politician is his basic decency — Crapo is an honest and fair-minded man.

We think he deserves renomination in the May 25 GOP primary over Weiser Realtor Skip Davis.

Crapo has embraced the cause of Idaho wilderness — an issue that Craig wouldn’t touch. He’s a dogged protector of Idaho water, a forceful advocate for cleaning up radioactive waste at the Idaho National Laboratory and a knowledgeable voice for Idaho agriculture.

The senator heads into the primary election with a massive war chest — $2.8 million as of March 31, according to the Federal Election Commission. That’s about par for the course for veteran U.S. senators (Crapo ranks 49th among the 100 senators in seniority and 21st among the 41 Senate Republicans).

But in truth, that’s far more campaign money than he needs: Crapo is a prohibitive favorite over any other Idaho Senate candidate this year.

What disturbs us is not the size of his reelection bank account but where some of the money came from.

According to the Center for Responsive Politics, as of Dec. 31 Crapo had received $500,000 from the securities and investment industry, $387,950 from insurance, $169,428 from the real estate lobby, $159,256 from commercial banks, $151,320 from accountants, $66,617 from business services and $54,100 from financial credit companies.

Among the top donors to his campaign and political action committee, according to the Lewiston Tribune, were The Securities Industry and Financial Market Association ($49,000), Credit Suisse Group ($47,500), JPMorgan Chase and Co. ($42,732), Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu ($34,500), Ernst and Young ($33,400), Independent Insurance Agents and Brokers/America ($32,500), FMR Corp. ($32,300) and Goldman Sachs ($32,000).

That matters because Crapo is the ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Financial Institutions, meaning he has a lot of say about financial reform and how banks are regulated. We believe he should return the bankers’ contributions to his campaign.

That said, Crapo has the potential to become what McClure was in his 18 years in the Senate — a fiscal conservative who’s a powerful voice on environmental and public lands issues. The senators is a major asset for Idaho in Washington, D.C.

On the Democratic side, only one of the candidates — Tetonia small business owner Tom Sullivan — actually lives in the state. His opponent William Bryk is a Brooklyn lawyer.

Sullivan merits the nomination, and although unlikely to prevail in November he’s an intriguing figure in some ways. Only 42, Sullivan is a small-business owner has lived in eastern Idaho for 14 years.

He told the Idaho Statesman that he would make a priority of getting private equity back into the economy.

“Let small business create jobs ...” Sullivan said. “Positive momentum creates positive momentum.”

That’s not what you hear from a lot of Democrats, so Idahoans may hear from Sullivan in the future.

Who killed immigration reform?

WASHINGTON — Many in the media have written powerful and appropriate columns decrying the action of the Arizona Legislature and Gov. Jan Brewer in passing and signing a punitive law aimed at illegal immigrants.

If the law goes into effect despite promised constitutional challenges, local police in Arizona will be able to stop people they suspect may not belong here and require them to produce papers attesting that they are legal citizens. Jail terms for trespassing await anyone without the documentation.

David Broder

The law is every bit as bad as others have said — but it is hardly a surprise. What has been missing from the current discussion is any apparent recognition of those responsible for killing the last effort at comprehensive federal immigration reform that would have headed off the need for this kind of punitive state action.

It was only three years ago that the action was stymied by a Senate filibuster and the impatience of Majority Leader Harry Reid to move on to other topics. At the time, Sen. Edward Kennedy, then as always trying to fix the broken system, asked what opponents of the comprehensive legislation that died in June three years ago, were in favor of.

“What are they going to do with the 12 million who are undocumented here?” Kennedy demanded to know. “Send them back to countries around the world? Develop a type of Gestapo here to seek out these people that are in the shadows? What’s their alternative?”

Now we know. If it’s not exactly “Gestapo” tactics, the Arizona legislation certainly smacks of police-state methods that inevitably will involve racial profiling of Hispanics, no matter what preventive measures the governor says she will take.

The bill that died in Congress had been hammered out over many months by a bipartisan group of senators, including both the Hispanic members of the Senate and both the Republican senators from Arizona.

But once the bill hit the floor, it was attacked from both flanks. The most conservative Republicans — Jim DeMint of South Carolina, David Vitter of Louisiana and Jeff Sessions of Alabama — led the assault. They were joined by some civil libertarians and allies of organized labor who were dissatisfied with its protections for guest workers. Democrat Byron Dorgan of North Dakota repeatedly tried to gut the guest worker program before finally succeeding by one vote on his third effort.

With Reid showing increasing impatience over a debate that began on May 21, the Senate conducted three cloture votes on June 7 and each time came up short. Carrying out his threat, Reid pulled the bill off the floor, while Minority Leader Mitch McConnell protested.

“I think we’re giving up on this bill too soon,” McConnell said. “There are a number of Republicans who are prepared to vote for cloture as soon as they believe their colleagues on this side of the aisle have had a reasonable opportunity to have offered and voted upon amendments they think would improve the bill.”

The next week, President George W. Bush journeyed to Capitol Hill and made a personal plea to Senate Republicans to renew the effort. More bipartisan talks ensued and the result was a second bill, this one adding a mandatory $4 billion border security section to the previous provisions centered on tougher enforcement, plus a path to citizenship for the illegal immigrants already living here.

But when it came to the floor, cloture again failed, this time by 46-53 — 14 votes short of the 60 it needed. Democrats split 33-15 in favor of ending the debate while Republicans voted 37-12 to continue talking and amending, and the two independent members split.

That ended the last effort by Congress to meet the federal responsibility for managing immigration. The states — not just Arizona but all of them — are ill-equipped to solve the problem.

The blame for this mess rests with those who killed that bill.

Jail lease/purchase best option for Jerome County

Greetings to the citizens of Jerome County!

The Jerome jail lease/purchase option is again on the ballot for your approval May 25. The commissioners are asking for your permission to enter into a lease/purchase jail proposal not to exceed an annual payment of $985,000 over 30 years with a private firm who will finance and build a jail of approximately 165 beds, with sheriff’s offices and an emergency operations center included if funds allow.

The design, cost and preferred location have always been stated previously and are available at the Jerome Sheriff’s Office in the courthouse. There are two main reasons the commissioners are pursuing a lease/purchase:

1. A survey was conducted by a nationally recognized polling company and the majority of registered voters replying to that survey stated they preferred a lease over a bond.

READER COMMENT
Charlie Howell

2. Taxes associated with the jail construction will not have to be raised immediately to cover expenses as in a bond issue.

The budget issue was studied and figures provided by the consultant hired by the county. This does not mean that future costs associated with the new, or even the current jail, will not require a tax increase. If a new jail is not built and current numbers increase as predicted, or the jail is forced to close, overrun costs may require a tax increase or, at the least, cutting of other county services to cover costs, including transportation, vehicles and transport personnel. Beds will be rented to cover cost difference between the current budget and future proposed expenses.

Twin Falls County Sheriff Tom Carter has extended a letter of support and commitment for bed rental when this project is completed. Gooding and Lincoln counties have also expressed interest and a willingness to rent beds. The county commissioners did not have all the answers. Many citizens have contributed to this effort on both sides of the discussion, and that’s why a local consultant experienced in this field was hired with their numbers and direction scrutinized by citizens and local law enforcement officials alike.

Once approved, the work will really start, with selection of a financing agent, business plan to be formed to assure the budget will sustain the jail, contracts will be pursued to make sure the income will be there and if a sheriff’s office and emergency operations center are within budgetary constraints, they will be included.

Everyone agrees we need a new jail. The discussion is how to finance it. Once again, costs have been established; in fact, Jefferson County has built one for less money and included a new courthouse, design has been considered — including future expansion — and a preferred site established. These will all be finalized after the approval vote on May 25. Looking forward to a new jail.

Charlie Howell, a Jerome Republican, has served as a Jerome County commissioner since 2005.

Adopt a no-sort recycling system

Twin Falls' recycling program needs to change and should adopt Boise's no-sort system. Switching to a no-sort program has worked in Boise with a dramatic 94 percent household participation.

What are the benefits of switching? A no-sort system offers more. All plastics with recycle symbols numbered one through seven can be recycled curbside in Boise, while in Twin Falls you have to make the extra effort to drop them off at Magic Valley Recycling. Twin Falls' curbside is only for newspaper, while Boise accepts not only newspaper but also white paper, magazines, catalogs, junk mail, pastel paper and more.

Boise's program also provides a cart that holds much more recyclable materials vs. Twin Falls' little tote. What has made Boise's program successful? The city of Boise has a nice clean website that clearly lists both what can and can't be recycled. Curb It, a sustainable Boise program, has its own little identity, contests, calendar and Facebook page. There is clear thought, marketing and effort by the city to make its program successful.

So, city of Twin Falls, where do I find your recycling information? Buried in the "Frequently Asked Questions" section of the city's website. The information doesn't have a big presence or demand. Twin Falls' recycling program needs an identity and voice, a home of its own, with clear and accessible information. I've seen nothing on the current program other than the recent article in the newspaper and what I've sought out for this editorial.

I believe Twin Falls could see increased participation with a no-sort program that accepts more types of recyclable materials, has a large cart and a marketing force behind it. Twin Falls' recycling program will not be a success until someone, or a city full of someone, shows that they really care.

Smith, Coiner say Planned Parenthood should get tax dollars

Should we be forced to underwrite the Twin Falls Planned Parenthood Clinic with our tax dollars? Two of our local politicians, Mr. Smith and Mr. Coiner, feel we should.

As a matter of fact, according to projectvotesmart.org, Rep. Smith received a 100 percent from Planned Parenthood of Idaho Political Action Committee. The reason for my disdain for Planned Parenthood is based on three facts: It cuts the parent out of parenting; it is complacent about abortion and it is harmful to teens.

To be fair, its website has a lot of valuable information that can be useful to everyone including teenagers. My problem is my belief that Planned Parenthood has shaped their views on abortion based on politics and not the best interest of women. Planned Parenthood is openly hostile to Christianity and regularly mocks people of faith. It hurts women with misleading and dishonest medical information. Lastly, Planned Parenthood does all of this with more than $336.7 million a year of your tax money.

Thousands of Twin Falls County voters are fed up with this insanity! Take a stand and tell Rep. Leon Smith and Sen. Chuck Coiner that enough is enough!

Smith handling Internet sales tax problem

I am writing to thank Rep. Leon Smith for trying to look into effective ways of handling Internet sales taxes in the last session. He has worked very hard to streamline sales tax for four years and hope he continues to fight the battle if he should get re-elected. It is very disappointing to me that other representatives have stopped his efforts even to just look into the fact how much Idaho is losing in income.

I got interested in this since not a week goes by that someone asks me to lower my price since they can buy it on the "Net" and not have to pay sales tax. The role of the government should be a referee that levels the playing field for all. Currently Idaho gives our competitors a 6 percent advantage in price. By law, these businesses or individuals that buy on the Net are supposed to pay sales tax voluntarily in what is referred to as use tax. The problem is no one voluntarily pays taxes.

I even purchased stock into a startup company that deals in e-commerce to see if this is an issue. I went to California this last month to the stockholder meeting to be pleasantly surprised my stock has doubled and my dividend is approaching 10 percent. The company has grown 100 percent in sales in one year. One of the biggest concerns they have in the future is if states decide to tax their sales. They advertise the fact that you don't have to pay sales tax if you buy from them.

I love my returns but I believe that the only reason I am doing so well with this stock is because the referee (government) isn't doing its job.

Why does Idaho spend so much of our tax money to advertise Buy in Idaho but it encourages out-of-state companies to do business by giving them an advantage? I suppose the smart solution is to sell some assets and buy more stock.

Dow plunges after Greece passes austerity bill

Market regains most of its 1,000-point loss

By Elena Becatoros
Associated Press writer

ATHENS, Greece — Greek lawmakers approved drastic austerity cuts Thursday needed to secure international rescue loans worth $140 billion and clashes briefly erupted in the streets outside parliament, forcing police to use tear gas.

In New York, the Dow Jones industrials plunged 1,000 points in less than half an hour on fears that Greece's debt problems could halt the global economic recovery. The Dow managed to recover two-thirds of its losses and close down 347 points at 10,520.

There were reports that the sudden drop was caused by a trader who mistyped an order to sell a large block of stock. The drop in that stock's price was enough to trigger "sell" orders across the market.

Still, the Dow was already down more than 200 points as traders watched protests in the streets of Athens on TV.

Greek lawmakers voted 172-121 to approve the austerity measures — worth about $38.18 billion through 2012 — that will slash pensions and civil servants' pay and further hike consumer taxes.

The rescue loans are aimed at containing the debt crisis and keeping Greece's troubles from spreading to other countries with vulnerable state finances such as Portugal and Spain. The money will come from the International Monetary Fund and the 15 other governments whose countries use the euro.

Fears of Greek default have undermined the euro, and while the current package should keep Greece from immediate bankruptcy, its long-term prospects are unclear. The country's growth prospects are weak, and the population's willingness to accept cutbacks may wane, leading some economists to predict an eventual debt restructuring somewhere down the road.

Opposition parties lambasted the government for imposing measures that are too harsh for the population to bear.

"The dose of the medicine you are administering is in danger of killing the patient," conservative opposition leader Antonis Samaras said.

Wireless provider seeks Lifeline funding

Times-News

TracFone Wireless, Inc., the nation's largest no-contract cellular phone provider, has asked the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for federal and state funding to provider service to low-income users.

The commission said in a written statement that TracFone is requesting that it be approved assistance under the Eligible Telecommunications Carrier Act, or ETC, which is known as the Lifeline program in Idaho.

TracFone offers pre-paid wireless service in Idaho, but seeks ETC designation so it can provide service to low-income customers under the name SafeLink Wireless. Qualifying customers would receive a free handset and up to 67 minutes of free time per month.

Any use beyond 67 minutes, would require customers to purchase a pre-paid card at 20 cents per minute. SafeLink says it will offer service to low-income, low-volume users and transient users who either choose not to enter into long-term service commitments or are unable to meet the credit requirements necessary to obtain service from major carriers.

TracFone does not build facilities of its own, such as cell towers, but enters into re-seller agreements with other wireless carriers to offer services wherever those providers offer service. In Idaho, TracFone obtains services from AT&T Mobility, T-Mobile and Verizon Wireless.

Idaho's Lifeline program is funded by a 6-cent charge on each residential, business and wireless phone line in the state.

According to the commission, nearly 27,700 Idahoans receive Lifeline assistance during 2009.

The public can comment on the program or TracFone's request through May 18 via e-mail by accessing the commission's homepage at www.puc.idaho.gov and clicking on "Comments & Questions."

Encouraging April retail reports add up to respectable spring

By Anne D'Innocenzio
Associated Press writer

NEW YORK — Americans gave retailers a respectable spring selling season, resulting in a slew of stores raising their earnings outlooks and providing an encouraging sign that the consumer rebound is continuing.

As merchants released April revenue figures Thursday that were more muted than March's torrid pace, discounters including Costco Wholesale Corp. and BJ's Wholesale Club Inc. as well as luxury retailers emerged as the biggest winners. Limited Brands Inc. and Macy's Inc. had solid gains. Teen merchants including American Eagle Outfitters Inc. and Abercrombie & Fitch Co. continue to struggle with declines.

"Consumers took a breather in April," said Ken Perkins, president of RetailMetrics, a research firm. "But overall, retailers have to be pleased with the spring selling season."

Still, Perkins added that the consumer spending recovery is still likely to be slow amid persistent high unemployment and tight credit.

Analysts had expected last month to see a slowdown because an early Easter had pumped up sales in March by as much as 5 percentage points while depressing business by the same amount in April. But the results came in weaker than expected, with many retailers missing Wall Street estimates, according to Thomson Reuters.

Retail sales mixed

The March shopping spree cooled in April, in part, due to an early Easter.

Percent change in major retailers' sales compared to April 2009:

April 2010
Costco Corp.	+11.0% ▲
Limited Brands Inc.	+4.0% ▲
Macy's Inc.	+1.1% ▲
Gap Inc.	-3.0% ▼
Stein Mart	-5.4% ▼
Target Corp.	-5.9% ▼
Abercrombie & Fitch	-7.0% ▼

NOTE: Sales include those from stores open for at least one year. Reporting periods vary slightly.

Worker productivity up more than forecast

By Shobhana Chandra
Bloomberg News writer

WASHINGTON – Worker productivity rose in the first quarter more than forecast, signaling employers will take time to boost payrolls in order to contain costs.

The measure of employee output per hour climbed at a 3.6 percent annual rate, Labor Department figures showed Thursday in Washington. Efficiency advanced 6.3 percent over the past four quarters, the biggest 12-month increase since 1962. Labor costs fell more than projected.

Employment may improve as companies such as Timken Co., which slashed payrolls and relied on becoming more efficient to lower expenses and protect profits during the recession, now look to expand as sales improve. The drop in labor costs is also helping limit inflation, giving Federal Reserve policy makers room to keep interest rates near zero. Economists projected productivity would rise at a 2.6 percent annual pace, according to the median of 64 forecasts in a Bloomberg News survey. Estimates ranged from gains of 1.5 percent to 3.9 percent. The Labor Department revised the fourth-quarter gain in efficiency down to a 6.3 percent rate from a previously estimated 6.9 percent.

The number of Americans filing claims for jobless benefits last week dropped to the lowest level in a month, indicating improvement in the labor market is taking time to develop, other figures from the Labor Department showed Thursday.

Initial jobless claims fell by 7,000 to 444,000 in the week ended May 1, the third consecutive decrease and in line with the median forecast of economists surveyed by Bloomberg News. Hours worked last quarter increased at a 0.8 percent pace, the most in almost three years.

the workplace.

Applied Leadership will be held April 29 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. and will continue for four sessions ending Thursday, May 20.

The cost is $410 if attending this class only, or $369 for other levels of training or if two or more people from the same company attend the session. For more information, contact the SBDC at 732-6450.

COMMUNITY

SOMEBODY NEEDS YOU

Volunteers — Guardian Home Care and Hospice needs volunteers in the Twin Falls, Jerome, Gooding, Glenns Ferry and Burley areas to assist with patient care: sit with patients, play games and read to patients, or help in the office. Information: Kerri, 736-0900.

Respite — The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program at the Office of Aging needs respite volunteers to sit with elderly homebound clients so their main caregivers can take a break for two to four hours per week. Mileage reimbursement; volunteers are covered by excess insurance. Information: Edith, 736-4764.

Volunteers — South Central Community Action Partnership needs a volunteer to pick up donated food items on Monday and Tuesday every week from two stores in Twin Falls. It takes about an hour to an hour and a half each day. These items supplement the emergency food program. Reliable transportation and liability insurance are required to be reimbursed mileage. Information: Leanne or Sandra, 733-9351.

Volunteers — Long Term Care Ombudsman Program needs volunteers to visit residents in skilled-nursing and residential care facilities. Volunteers can be advocates for residents and improve elderly care. A new training session will begin later this month. Information: Mary or Laurene, 736-2122.

Volunteers — Hospice Visions needs volunteers to help make a difference in the lives of caregivers and those experiencing end-of-life issues. Volunteers provide companionship, bring joy during difficult times and ease burdens by writing letters, singing, playing cards and games, reading, working with junior volunteers or being a friend. Information: Flo, 735-0121.

Mentors — The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program needs volunteers in Twin Falls and Jerome counties to mentor children with a parent in prison. Volunteers must undergo a complete FBI background check and be willing to mentor a child for a minimum of four hours each month for one year. Information: Ken, 736-2122, ext.

WANT TO HELP?

This public service column is designed to match needs in the Magic Valley with volunteer help. If you need a volunteer, contact the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) at 736-4764, before noon Wednesday for Friday publication. RSVP is a United Way-sponsored service at the College of Southern Idaho.

2394 or kwhiting@ooa.csi.edu.

Volunteers — Idaho Home Health and Hospice needs volunteers to help in the office, provide respite care, be companions and assist with the bereavement program in the Twin Falls, Gooding, Wendell, Jerome, Burley, Rupert and Buhl areas. Volunteers also are needed to hold positions on the Friends of Hospice Board of Directors. Information: Nichole, 734-4061, ext. 117, or nichole@idahohomehealth.com.

Donations — The College of Southern Idaho Refugee Center is in need of children's clothing, rugs, washers and dryers, and a keyboard for a Burmese musician. Refugees from the center will tend a community garden plot, with support from the Master Gardeners Club. The group needs seed packets of cucumbers and summer squash; seedlings of onions, garlic, cauliflower, eggplant, tomatoes and chili peppers; and garden items including markers and watering cans. Donated items can be taken to the center, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (closed noon to 1 p.m.), Monday through Friday, at 1526 Highland Ave. E., Twin Falls. Information: Michelle, 736-2166.

Drivers — Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center needs volunteer drivers for the home-delivered meals program for the homebound. Drivers do not have to be seniors to volunteer to drive one or two days a week for an hour to an hour and a half. The center needs people who can be relied on for their appointed routes and who care about the well-being of the elderly. Reimbursed mileage for gas is available. Information: Karen, 734-5084, or 530 Shoshone St. W., Twin Falls.

Medication caused potentially deadly reaction

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter, who lives alone, took the first pill of a new prescription while at work. She went into anaphylactic shock. Her co-workers immediately called an ambulance, and she got to the hospital with only minutes to spare. If she had waited and taken the pill at home, there would have been no one to help her. Please caution your readers to not take any new medication when they are alone just in case they have an allergic reaction.

DEAR READER: Allergies to medications are fairly common, but to be severe enough to cause anaphylactic shock is rare. Also known as anaphylaxis, this type of allergic reaction is severe and potentially life-threatening, typically occurring within minutes of exposure to the offending substance. In some instances, a reaction can occur within seconds or can take as long as 30 minutes. Unless treated immediately with epinephrine, the sufferer can become unconscious or die.

ASK
Dr. Peter Gott

Everyone, particularly those people with known allergies, is at risk of anaphylaxis, but certain medications, foods, food additives and insect stings are the most common triggers. In some instances, exercise, eating certain foods prior to the activity, or exercising in a vast variety of weather conditions can cause a reaction. Those who have had anaphylaxis in the past are at increased risk.

Symptoms include a weak, rapid pulse; dizziness or fainting; nausea; vomiting; diarrhea; skin reactions such as hives; itching or flushing; swelling of the tongue or throat; and constriction of the airways, leading to wheezing and difficulty breathing.

Treatment is by injection of epinephrine, which reduces the body's response to the allergen. Then oxygen, IV antihistamines and cortisone, steroid pills and/or beta agonists may be used to reduce throat constriction, ease or improve breathing and more. People with a history of anaphylaxis are often prescribed single-dose Epi-Pens by their primary-care physician or allergist for self-injection at the first sign of a reaction, decreasing the risk of worsening symptoms.

Depending on the allergen, immunotherapy with allergy shots may be beneficial. This treatment involves receiving multiple injections of slowly increasing "doses" of the allergen. In this way, the body may develop immunity to the substance and stop overreacting. This is not appropriate for everyone. Even in those who choose to undergo this treatment, taking steps to prevent a reaction — and being prepared should one happen — is still vital.

Your advice about starting a new medication only when others are around in case of an emergency is very good. Had your daughter been alone when she developed the reaction, she probably would not have fared as well as she did. The good news is that this type of reaction is rare, and most people do not need to be overly concerned. But, as always, it is better to play it safe, because there is no way of knowing what could happen. Thank you for writing and sharing this important issue.

To provide related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Allergies." ## Honofre Treviño Rodriguez

HEYBURN — Honofre Treviño Rodriguez, age 82, went home to his Heavenly Father on Wednesday, May 5, 2010, surrounded by his loving family.

Honofre was a loving husband, father, brother, grandfather and friend.

He is survived by his four children, Damian D. Rodriguez of Heyburn, Margie (Eddie) Lopez of Rupert, Honofre Jr. aka “Mico” (Diana) Rodriguez of San Antonio, Texas, and Teresa (Raul) Torrez of Heyburn; his siblings, Vera Gonzalez, Albert Rodriguez (Irma) and Abraham Rodriguez Jr. (Julie), all of Brady, Texas, Gilbert Rodriguez (Teresa), Nellie Balderas (Marcos) and Belia Peña, all of San Angelo, Texas, Linda Jacoby (Chester) of Melvin, Texas, and Janie Windes (Everett) of Dittmer, Mo.

In 1954, he moved his family to Burley, where he worked in the beet and potato fields. Later on, he worked at Farmers Equity as a foreman until 1969. He retired from Ore-Ida Foods and the United States Post Office in Burley in 1993. During the time he worked two jobs, Honofre found time to proudly and humbly serve as president and vice president at Overland School in the early 1970s. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Burley American Legion during the 1960s. He was an active member of the St. Teresa Little Flower Catholic Church in Burley since his arrival in 1954.

Honofre enjoyed a good wrestling match on WWE and the Dallas Cowboys. He loved listening to country and Tejano music and was ready to sing upon request. Honofre was a loving, caring and most humble man who always had time for visiting with family and friends. People were his passion. His favorite pastime was playing checkers with his grandchildren. To the end, he retained his fun sense of humor and quick wit.

James G. Lively

RUPERT — James G. Lively, 83, of Rupert, passed away Tuesday, May 4, 2010, at his home.

James was born Feb. 17, 1927, in Emmett, Idaho, the son of Mae Rainer and George Elliot Lively. He was raised and went to school in Declo, Idaho, until joining the Marines at age 17. He served in the U.S. Marines 6th Division during World War II in China, Guam, Hawaii and Okinawa. He was a corporal in charge of the color guards for burials.

He moved to Pocatello, where he met his first wife, Donna Jean McDaniel, and married in 1949. They later divorced. He married Elsie May Dixon on Feb. 11, 1995, and they were later sealed in the Las Vegas Temple. In 2001, they moved to Rupert.

He did interior decorating, was a Navy firefighter, insurance salesman for Farm Bureau and worked as a millright for Continetal Can Company for 25 years until he retired. He was a high priest in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, serving in many callings. He was a member of the American Legion. James enjoyed woodworking, hunting, fishing and metal work.

James is survived by his wife, Elsie May Dixon Lively; his children, David (Norleen) Capell, Annette (Craig) Davis, Deborah (Todd) Anderson and Richard (Dawn) Burns; seven grandchildren; and 10 great-great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, May 10, at the Rupert LDS 5th Ward Church, 324 E. 18th St. A graveside service will follow at 3 p.m. Monday at the Rest Lawn Cemetery in Pocatello. The family will greet friends from 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday, May 9, at Hansen Mortuary, 710 Sixth St. in Rupert, and one hour prior to the service at the church on Monday.

Thomas Edwin Anderson

HAGERMAN — Thomas Edwin Anderson, 67, passed away at his residence in Hagerman on Tuesday, May 4, 2010, after a short term illness.

Tom was born July 13, 1942, in Buhl, Idaho, to Oscar “Swede” Edwin and Leona Ruth Kiser Anderson. He graduated from Hagerman High School in 1960.

He attended Idaho State University in electronics and instrumentation, afterward residing in Lewiston, Idaho, and was employed by Potlatch Forests Paper Mills. Three years later, he joined Idaho Power and lived in American Falls prior to returning to Hagerman, where he farmed and worked for Idaho Power as a power station operator for nearly 30 years. Afterward, he farmed until his passing.

He is survived by his brothers, Tony (Linda) of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Lonnie (Mary) of Boise; brother-in-law, D.L. Alexander of Caldwell; eight nieces and nephews; and multiple cousins. Tom was preceded in death by his parents; and sisters, Juanita and Shirley.

The funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Monday, May 10, at Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. Burial will follow at Hagerman Cemetery. Viewing for family and friends will be from 9 a.m. until service time Monday at the chapel.

Donations may be made in his memory to the Hagerman Valley Historical Society, P.O. Box 86, Hagerman, ID 83332.

Wednesday, May 5, 2010, at her residence. Arrangements are under the care of Accent Funeral Home in Meridian.

John Marion Engel

John Marion Engel, age 78 (191½), beloved husband, father, grandfather, uncle and friend of Twin Falls, Idaho, passed away Monday, May 3, 2010, at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center.

He was born Feb. 29, 1932, to Eleanor Marjorie Barnhart and George Lennox Engel at the family home in Long Beach, Calif. John was the fourth of six children. He had four brothers and one sister. The family moved to Compton, Calif., where he lived until joining the Air Force at the age of 17. He retired after 22 years of service. His tours of duty took him to Germany, Korea, the Philippines, Vietnam, Thailand and Alaska. His last assignment was at Luke Air Force Base, Ariz., where he retired in 1971. He then joined the United States Postal Service in Twin Falls, where he retired after 20 years.

John met the love of his life and soul mate, Creta Fane Nelson. In 1958, they married. Together they raised five children, Terrie, Susie, Matt, Brian and Sharon. John was blessed to have 12 wonderful grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. He and his wife enjoyed many friendships and fond memories as members of the Twin Falls Travelers Good Sam's Chapter. John began every morning by working a crossword puzzle (in ink) and enjoyed playing games with family and friends. He also had a passion for growing a beautiful garden.

John is survived by his wife of 52 years, Creta; his sister, Anne Lloyd of Portland, Ore.; and his children, Terrie Smith of Littleton, Colo., Susie (Lyndon) Grunder of Boise, Matt (Laurie) Engel of Hailey and Sharon Engel of Bloomington, Ill.; his grandchildren; great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents; four brothers; and his son, Brian Scott.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Monday, May 10, at Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home, 2551 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls. The family would like to extend a special thanks to Dr. Patrick W. Desmond and the doctors and staff and the DaVita Dialysis Center for their compassionate and gentle care. In lieu of flowers donations can be made to the Twin Falls Humane Society or The Salvation Army.

Jewel M. Jackson

Jewel M. Jackson, 98, of Twin Falls, passed into the loving arms of her Lord and Savior on Tuesday, May 4, 2010, at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center.

Jewel was born July 9, 1911, in Rensselaer, Ind., to Laura and Henry Wiseman.

She spent 10 years traveling the world with the “Helen Reynolds World Champion Roller Skaters” (a professional roller skating act that performed at circuses, world fairs, night clubs and outdoor arenas). She married Philip H. Jackson on Nov. 30, 1944, in Inglewood, Calif., and had two children.

After her children graduated from high school, Jewel (Judy) worked at the University of Southern California as a supervisor for off-campus studies. Jewel loved it when she was able to travel to Hawaii, and then to Finland. However, a special smile came over her face each time she was able to see her children and grandchildren, and to meet, for the first time, her great-grandchildren.

Jewel was preceded in death by her parents; two brothers, Olen and Arthur; and her beloved husband, Philip. She is survived by her son, Bill (Chris) Jackson of Elk Grove, Calif.; and her daughter, Carole (Bruce) Stevens of Twin Falls. She is also survived by her sister, Louella Urbanczyk of Granite Bay, Calif. In addition, she leaves nine grandchildren, Andrew Bennett, Kevin (Sabrina) Jackson, Mike (Lori) Stevens, Chris (Melissa) Stevens, Jeff (Dayle) Stevens, Ashley, Phillip, William and Makayla Stevens, and 6½ great grandchildren.

A graveside service will be held at a later date at the Inglewood Park Cemetery. The family would like to thank the staff and residents of Alterra Wynwood and Birchwood Retirement Home for their loving care and friendship; to the staff of St. Luke's Home Health and Hospice for their continued support and care; and to Dr. Seppi and the 2nd floor nursing staff for their compassionate care of our mother and grandmother in her final days.

Tessa Bell

Tessa Bell, 26, of Twin Falls, passed away Sunday, May 2, 2010, at her home in Twin Falls.

She was born May 18, 1983, in Payson, Utah, the daughter of Stephen Wade Teichert and Julie Stephens Teichert. She was the third of seven children and their first daughter. Most of her youth was spent in Ruby Valley, Nev. Tessa graduated from Spring Creek High School in Spring Creek, Nev., in 2001. She moved to Twin Falls in 2008.

On Dec. 30, 2008, she married Shane Bell in Twin Falls. Tessa was a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She worked in Twin Falls for Wells Fargo Bank and previously worked for Newmont Mining and Corral West in Elko, Nev. She grew up on a ranch and loved returning home to help her father. Tessa enjoyed decorating her home, entertaining her friends and family, and was a wonderful cook. She greatly enjoyed spoiling her niece and nephews and loved her husband and family more than anything.

Surviving are her husband Shane Patrick Bell of Twin Falls; her parents, Stephen and Julie Teichert of Mackay, Idaho; brothers, Seth (Natalie) Teichert of Mackay,

Sage (Sarah) Teichert of Rigby and Wes Teichert, who is serving an LDS mission in Georgia; sisters, Gina Teichert of San Francisco, Calif., Calli Teichert, who is serving an LDS

Mission in South Carolina and Tayler Teichert of Mackay; grandmother, Lorraine Stephens of Henefer, Utah; and grandfather, Hamilton Teichert of Orderville, Utah; niece, Rylee Teichert; and nephews Dax and Flint Teichert. She was preceded in death by her grandmother, Shirley Teichert; and grandfather, LaVelle Stephens.

Tessa will be greatly missed by all who knew and loved her.

Friends may call from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday, May 7, at Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home, 2551 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls, and from 10 to 11:45 a.m. Saturday, May 8, at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 2085 South Temple Drive in Twin Falls. The funeral will be follow at noon Saturday at the church. Burial will be at 4:30 p.m. Saturday the Mount McCaleb Cemetery in Mackay, Idaho.

NEW HAMPSHIRE Passenger surrenders after Greyhound bus bomb scare

PORTSMOUTH — A nine-hour bomb scare aboard a Maine-to-New York Greyhound bus ended peacefully Thursday night when the lone remaining passenger walked off it with his hands over his head. The other 16 passengers and the driver had left the bus safely hours earlier.

Portsmouth Police Chief David Ferland said the man was being questioned and the incident was not terrorism-related.

"We do not believe this to be a terrorist event," Ferland said at a late-night news conference during which he refused to answer questions. "We are considering this to be a localized event only."

No details about the passenger were immediately released, and the bus remained parked in downtown Portsmouth being examined by the FBI and a bomb squad. The man could be a foreign national, as agents from the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement were on the scene and there were reports an interpreter was needed to speak to him.

The chief said more information would be released today.

The ordeal began around 11:30 a.m. Thursday when a passenger called 911 to report an explosive device on board, leading police to evacuate buildings and streets and call the passengers out under the watch of a sharpshooter in an armored vehicle. One man remained on board and did not walk out until just before 9 p.m.

NEW YORK Pakistani Taliban: Times Square bomb attempt a 'brave' act

The Pakistani Taliban on Thursday denied any role in the botched car bombing in Times Square but praised the suspect for a "brave job," as New York authorities pressed him on his claims of terrorist training.

U.S. law enforcement officials traveled to Pakistan to question four alleged members of another militant group. Jaish-e-Mohammad, about possible connections to Faisal Shahzad, who is charged with terrorism and weapons offenses in the failed bombing, which shut down Times Square and unnerved tourists and theatergoers on a busy Saturday night.

Scary headlines kept New York on edge Thursday and law enforcement agencies pounced on anything suspicious. The bomb squad was called out to look at a truck with a strong odor of gasoline that was abandoned on the Robert F. Kennedy Bridge, but nothing dangerous was found inside, and a flight to the Mideast on the same airline that Shahzad boarded before his arrest Monday was called back when a passenger's name was similar to that of someone on the government's no-fly list.

The 30-year-old Shahzad — an ex-budget analyst who had been living in a low-rent Bridgeport, Conn., apartment since returning from a five-month trip to Pakistan — is in custody and talking to investigators.

WASHINGTON Are cavemen still around? Genes say yes — in most of us

We have met Neanderthal and he is us — at least a little.

The most detailed look yet at the Neanderthal genome helps answer one of the most debated questions in anthropology: Did Neanderthals and modern humans mate?

The answer is yes, there is at least some cave man biology in most of us. Between 1 percent and 4 percent of genes in people from Europe and Asia trace back to Neanderthals.

"They live on, a little bit," says Svante Paabo of the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology in Leipzig, Germany.

Researchers led by Paabo, Richard E. Green of the University of California, Santa Cruz, and David Reich of Harvard Medical School compared the genetic material collected from the bones of three Neanderthals with that from five modern humans.

Their findings, reported in today's edition of the journal Science, show a relationship between Neanderthals and modern people outside Africa, Paabo said.

That suggests that interbreeding occurred in the Middle East, where both modern humans and Neanderthals lived thousands of years ago, he said.

"People are interested in the question: 'By what route did I get here?' And the idea that there is a faint echo of Neanderthals" is interesting, reflected Richard Potts, director of the Human Origins Program at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History.

"I'm really impressed by the nuance they've been able to pick up," said Potts, who was not part of the research group.

Finding the gems of Idaho's history

A man crosses Gooding's Main Street on Monday afternoon. Join a free walking tour of the historical street May 15; it's part of a month of activities around the region celebrating Idaho's history and archaeology.

GOODING

Walking tour of Gooding's historical Main Street

Contact: Betty Hare, 403-1696.

When: 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. May 15.

Free.

Where: Starts at the Gooding Hotel, 112 Main St.

...

Unlike some cities, Gooding's history can be followed just by walking down Main Street.

"Gooding is kind of a timeline; it starts at one end by the railroad tracks with an 1880 building, and goes clear out to the corner of the highways with some of our newest buildings," said Betty McLin Hare, director of the Gooding County Historical Society Museum & Research Center.

One of the buildings on the tour is the current Wilson Bates store.

"On the third floor it used to be a furniture store and a funeral parlor, and upstairs it's still a funeral parlor. I haven't been up there, but I hear it's really cool," Hare said. "The furniture makers, I guess, made the caskets."

And today's Get Inn, a bed and breakfast, used to be where nurses lived in a dormitory setting while they trained for a tuberculosis hospital.

"I hope (attendees) get a fine understanding of what a lot of history Gooding actually has," Hare said. The historical society's new research center, which has not yet opened to the public, will be another venue for this kind of understanding. Hare said the society hopes to make the history walk an annual event, each year focusing on different parts of town.

"This is an excellent opportunity for some of the people in the community to go and look at their historic buildings," Davis said.

More Idaho history gems

>>> Entertainment 3

By Ariel Hansen
Times-News writer

For one month a year, the Idaho State Historical Society pulls scientists out of labs and historians away from their archived documents to talk to the public across the state.

This year, the month is focused on celebrating the state Capitol, on which 12 years of renovations were completed this January. Taking the reopening of this "historic gem" as inspiration, the Historical Society is asking cities across the state to find their own gems of history in the cities and in the wilds, and show them off for their residents.

"The biggest thing for all of these events is that we just want people to be excited about their past, and excited about preserving it," said Mary Anne Davis, associate state archaeologist for the society.

Although the modern history of Idaho isn't very old, it is still being lost as historically significant buildings are destroyed by human and natural activities, and as people and time impact archaeological sites.

"We have a larger population who are out there recreating," Davis said, "and as archaeologists we need to do a better job of telling people why it's so important to preserve it for the next generation."

SHOSHONE

Walking tour of historical Shoshone, focused on Rail Street

Contact: Payson Reese, 886-7787.

When: 10 a.m. May 29. Free.

Where: Location to be determined. Visit lincolncountyhistorical.org for details, or call.

The route for this walking tour hasn't been decided yet, said Payson Reese, vice-chairman of the Lincoln County Historical Society, but he anticipates that it will be focused on the buildings that line Rail Street in Shoshone's historical district.

"We'd love to see a lot of people come out and learn the history of downtown Shoshone," Reese said.

Although some of the buildings are defunct, others have gotten continuous use since the early 1900s. One example, he said, is the 2nd Time Around antique store at the middle of town, where the historical society's offices are. It used to be a J.C. Penney's store until the 1950s, when it became Hansen's Department Store, and then in the 1980s the antiques took residence. "This is one of the buildings that is still in good use."

Davis said walking tours are a great way to see your hometown with new eyes. "It's an opportunity for the community to learn some tidbits about historical buildings that they pass every day and probably don't even look at anymore," she said.

This historical image of Rail Street in Shoshone shows buildings that will be described during a walking tour of the town on May 29. Many of the buildings constructed at the turn of the last century are still identifiable today, although some are no longer in use.

The excavators who discovered the earliest evidence of people in Idaho weren't looking for it. They were digging the foundation for a toilet.

"We found it, ironically, because we tested an area where they were going to put in a latrine, but we dug down and found this streambed and we could see in the sand where the people took flakes off of boulders for tools," said Idaho State University archaeology professor Ernest "Skip" Lohse. "It's a mundane context."

The "routine, everyday activity" that the dig discovered at Buried Beach in Castle Rocks State Park — which is part of a May 16 hiking tour — is the earliest dated archaeological site in Idaho, dating to about 13,000 years ago.

This is a different group of people from those featured in the May 20 talk in Ketchum about Owl Cave, Lohse said. "They have very different ways of making stone tools."

The discovery of the Buried Beach site is leading archaeologists to consider using remote sensing in areas that are now seen as promising but would previously not have been investigated, Lohse said.

"Idaho is rich in Paleolithic sites; we just have to look for them," he said.

Trip hop. Post-rock dance music. Experimental electronica improvisational jams, with a side of Phish.

Classify its music how you will, but Twin Falls band Alpenflow doesn't need labels to impress its audiences.

Alpenflow has Jeffrey Devey on keys, Pierre Tusow on guitar and vocals, Brady Devey on bass, and David Hanchey and Scott Kirkdorffer on drums and percussion. The band depends heavily on synthesizer set-ups, controlled by Hanchey, Brady Devey and Jeffrey Devey, which set their music apart from that of other Twin Falls jam bands. They bring their computers and synthesizers to live shows, helping them produce high-energy music that gets every body in the venue up and dancing.

But just because they're connected to computers doesn't mean anything is pre-recorded; loops, or repeating bars that play throughout a song, are recorded live during the set, and computerized sound files are controlled by keys on the synthesizer.

That can give the impression that the musicians aren't actually performing live music, Tusow said.

"Dave and Brady might not be playing anything," Tusow said. "They might be messing with their computers, and people might think they're not doing anything."

But the opposite is true. Hanchey might play the first four bars of a song on his synthesizer while his computer records it. The computer will then play it in a loop, and he can layer and add other sounds to that recording, play freely on his keyboard, or move on to an acoustic drum set.

"We don't just push play, so to speak," Jeffrey Devey said.

On recordings from their debut CD, "Synesthesia," the same music feels more mellow, with the electronic sounds getting more play than the percussion. Tusow said the polished, produced sound conveys the same vibe as live shows, but acknowledged it sounds different.

"It's just more of a studio feel," he said. "A lot more processing involved, basically."

Recording in a studio was different for the band, he said. Individual songs are structured with sections for group improvisation and solos. A song from the CD might be three or four minutes longer when played live. The band stays in tune with its audience.

"The more the crowd's into it, the more we're into it," Tusow said. It can be hard to connect with some audience members because of the band's lack of traditional vocals, he said.

Judging by the turnouts at their shows in Boise, Ketchum and Twin Falls, they navigate that disconnect well. Alpenflow has a group of loyal fans — friends and family — who follow the

Love cake? Vote online in Batter Master contest

Times-News

Who deserves the title of Batter Master of South-Central Idaho?

You can help determine the winner of the Times-News' decorated-cake contest by voting online for the photo of the cake you think looks the best.

Because technology hasn't yet been developed that would allow you to taste cake over the Internet, you'll have to rely on the appearance of the cakes, in photos submitted by the bakers (or by friends or family members of the bakers) to make your decision. When voting, consider creativity of design, skill of execution and overall appeal — which of these pieces of edible art would you most like to dig into with a fork?

Before 11:59 p.m. Sunday, visit magicvalley.com and look in the "What's New" section for "Batter Master cake contest." Cakes will be identified by number, but not by the name of the baker. One vote per IP address will be accepted.

The winner — chosen by combining the public's votes with the vote of a professional baker and the vote of the reporter writing our story — will be notified next week. Watch for an interview with the winner in the Times-News' Food section on May 19.

If you've never seen an Idaho pictograph, now's your chance. As the last stop on a one-hour hiking tour of Castle Rocks State Park, chief of cultural resources Kristen Bastis will take hikers to a site in the park where faded pictographs painted by indigenous people are still visible on rocks.

"There's a series of zigzag lines, a set of what I think looks like antlers, and then what I think of as a rayed summer sun, like when a kid draws a sun and there are rays coming out of it," Bastis said. Archaeologists don't know when the drawings were made, she said. "Dating is a destructive process and we haven't wanted to scrape any of the paint off to get a date."
The hike will be on level but uneven ground, so good footwear is recommended. Another feature will be tours of Buried Beach and the Shock and Awe cave. Buried Beach used to be wetter than it is today, and native peoples about 6,000 years ago used it as a resting place. "We'll talk about the environment that may have been present 6,000 years ago," Bastis said. The cave sits below a climbing route named Shock and Awe when it was first descended around the time of the Persian Gulf War. Used by native people around 400 A.D. — not the same people who used Buried Beach — it is a rocky space that wasn't used as a permanent encampment, Bastis said. "We can go into the rock shelter, and think about how many people could have fit inside there and why that spot was used."

Bastis is fairly new to Castle Rocks park, Davis said, and the park is a perfect place for her because of all the human history that archaeologists know happened there. "She is really interested in reaching out to the community and sharing information that gets locked up in books," Davis said.

What is now part of the Sawtooth National Forest used to be in the Minidoka National Forest, said Mark O'Brien, south zone archaeologist for the forest — but before that, it was a headache for the U.S. government. The land was being over-used, by ranchers grazing their livestock and cattle barons buying up patchwork

As part of Idaho Archaeology and Historic Preservation Month, Mark O'Brien will speak in Burley about the history of grazing in the Minidoka District of the Sawtooth National Forest. This historical photo shows a spring cattle roundup in 1936 in that area.

pieces along waterways to dominate the industry. "It depleted the resource and damaged the landscape," O'Brien said, saying the land was on the way to becoming a dust bowl before the national forest was declared. "When the forest was created, a lot of people took it the wrong way; they saw the federal government stepping in and fencing off land. A lot of people have come to realize it was a good thing." O'Brien is hoping his talk will attract ranchers and those whose families have worked cattle on the forestland, to get oral histories of the land to add to the research, both document- and archaeology-based, that he has done.

"In this area, the history of the Forest Service is wrapped up with the history of grazing," he said. "Even today the primary use of the division is still livestock grazing, and that's a legitimate use of forest resources and we want to see that continue but at the same time recognize that grazing has this long legacy in the area."

In the 1960s and '70s, excavations were conducted in Owl Cave, west of Idaho Falls, that linked the site to Pleistocene-era humans hunting now-extinct animals like mammoths. But the data were never published, and the cave fell away from scientists' attention. "Owl Cave is one of our older sites in Idaho, and they're starting to re-evaluate and look at the collections from excavations that went on there in the late '60s," Davis said.

Suzann Henrikson stands in part of the collapsed lava tube near Idaho Falls called Owl Cave, where evidence has been found that may support the theory that Pleistocene-era humans hunted the nearly extinct mammoth.

This could lead to discoveries about the timing of large-animal extinctions in the Pleistocene, and how those extinctions altered diets of humans during that period, according to Henrikson's publishing abstract.

It could also lead to further exploration and excavation of sites like Owl Cave. "They (scientists) would like to get back there," Davis said. "There may be some intact deposits still there that can answer questions."

Apply now for CSI summer dance camp

Times-News

College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Center is taking registrations for its annual CSI/IDAA Summer Dance Workshop, held in July on CSI's Twin Falls campus. Tuition, with or without board, ranges from $80 to $735.

The workshop provides intensive training to students ages 12 and older who have had a minimum of two consecutive years of dance. Students take five to seven hours of class per day in ballet, jazz, tap, lyrical and modern techniques, plus musical theater, world dance, choreography and related areas. The camp features a guest faculty of professional dancers and dance instructors from around the country. Downtime activities include game night, movies, a canyon excursion, swimming parties, a fashion show, an ice cream social, a pizza and autograph party, barbecues, a carnival, a pampering night and an end-of-camp recital for family and friends.

A junior camp introduces students ages 9-11, regardless of dance experience, to the concept of an intensive workshop taught by the regular camp faculty in a range of classes over the weekend. Chaperoned dormitory housing and meals are available for all ages. Students 12 and older with two consecutive years' dance experience may choose between the one- and two-week workshops — July 18-23 or July 18-30. Junior Camp is July 24. Registration form and information: at the Fine Arts Center, www.csi.edu/dancecamp or 732-6288.

Books to give a mother the day off in her reading chair

In case you missed the Hallmark commercials, Sunday is Mother's Day. And the perfect gift to go with that perfect card is a book — which entitles her to take the day and delve right in. What could be better than that?

I have had the pleasure of reading some amazing stories this winter; here are two of my favorites:

"The Postmistress" (Putnam, $25.95) by Sarah Blake.

"What happens to a story around its edges? Will had asked. What happens after the part you gave us? If there is a question that falls at our feet, an unanswerable question, the one that we do not know we have picked up to carry forward through the years, then this was mine. A story like a snapshot is caught, held for a moment, then delivered. But the people in them go on and on. And what happens next? What happens?"

What happens to those stories is the story that protagonist Frankie Bard tells in this insightful, compelling and masterful novel set in Europe and the U.S. during the early days of World War II.

Blake's deft writing vividly brings alive three compelling women. There is Frankie, a radio journalist, broadcasting during the London Blitz with Edward R. Murrow; Iris James, a no-nonsense 40-year-old postmistress, softly trying to find her place among the entrenched locals of Cape Cod; and Emma Fitch, the fragile new wife of the town's young doctor. Their lives intertwine as the war in Europe ominously spreads.

But it is Frankie's stories that pull the reader in. The summer of 1941 finds her on a life-changing assignment, revealing to her the true faces of war. She rides the trains south through Europe, capturing the voices and stories of Jewish refugees trying to escape. Toting a new-fangled recording device, she gathers dozens of 'snapshots': a young mother accompanying her son as far as the border, then sending him off on his own; an Austrian engineer, unable to come to grips with what is happening; families traveling with no food, no water, no belongings. Periodically, she transmits the stories to America, but always wonders if anyone is listening, if anyone understands, if anyone at home cares.

Then decades later at a dinner party, she asks another question: "What would you think of a postmistress who chose not to deliver the mail?"

The answer forms a beautifully wrought and totally unforgettable book.

"The Earth Hums in B Flat" (Canongate, $14.00) by Mari Strachan.

I was intrigued from the moment I read the title. This debut novel from Strachan, a life-long librarian from Ceredigion, Wales, is magical, lyrical and deeply human. Twelve-year-old Gwenni Morgan, described by some in her village as an incorrigible and curious free spirit, is struggling to make sense of the world and her place in it. That she flies in her dreams each night only makes her story more complex and exquisite.

"Up here, far away from everybody, the night is peaceful; there's no sound except the hum of the Earth. At school, when I sang the note to Mr. Hughes he said it was B flat but he laughed when I said it was the note the Earth hummed. He doesn't know how the Earth's deep, never-ending note clothes me in rainbow colors and fills my head with all the books ever written. I could stay up here forever without the need for anything else in the whole world," writes Strachan.

When the village is rocked by the disappearance of her teacher's husband, Gwenni determinedly sets out to solve the mystery. Instead, she stumbles upon closely held and jealously guarded family secrets, and learns that all the lives of the people she knows are, for good or ill, interconnected.

Wise, charming and fresh, "The Earth Hums in B Flat" is an auspicious debut.

Judi Baxter owned and operated Judi's Bookstore in downtown Twin Falls from 1978 to 1992. From 2000 to 2004 she wrote a twice-weekly column for Publisher's Weekly's online edition called "Reviews in the News."

Learn about performing arts camp at Tuesday reception

Times-News

SUN VALLEY — St. Thomas Playhouse is inviting the public to a reception that will provide information about the Summer Performing Arts Conservatory Camp. The reception is at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at St. Thomas Episcopal Church on Sun Valley Road.

In the spirit of camping, attendees will roast marshmallows over a fire pit on the outdoor patio and make s'mores. Beverages and other platters of food will be available.

The camp is for youth entering grades five through 12 who have enthusiasm for singing, theater, dancing and rock band, and is held at Camp Perkins near Alturas Lake in the Sawtooth Mountains.

Campers have morning classes with Wood River Valley professionals and three guest artists from around the country. Afternoons are spent participating in outdoor activities, arts and crafts. Evening events include faculty talent/skit night, DJ dance night and an ice cream feast.

Tuesday's promotional party will have flyers, registration forms and a PowerPoint and photo display. Students who have attended the camp will be present to meet kids and talk to them about their experiences. Members of the St. Thomas Playhouse Committee — Sara Gorby, camp administrator and education director; Cherie Kessler, managing director; and Dick Brown, musical director — will give a brief informational speech and answer questions.

Anyone who registers at the party will receive $50 off camp tuition. Information: 726-5349.

The recital is open to the public. Admission is free, but organizers suggest a donation of $5 to the college's music scholarship fund. A reception will follow.

Sun Valley church hosts classical concerts

Times-News

SUN VALLEY — Anam Cara, the Chamber Choir of Idaho, is celebrating the 200th birthday of German composer Felix Mendelssohn with a concert featuring Mendelssohn's music Saturday evening.

The free concert will start at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 101 Sun Valley Road. Donations will be accepted.

The choir will sing "Mass for Double Choir," excerpts from "Elijah" and three sacred songs.

It will reprise the concert at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in Idaho Falls at 665 John Adams Parkway.

Director Dick Brown said the concert and others are part of Eastertide, a 50-day celebration of Christ's resurrection following Easter.

"It's a joyful time, and we celebrate it with lots of music," he said.

The 50-day music celebration will also feature David Tacher, who will present a harpsichord recital featuring music by Handel and Scarlatti at 8 p.m. May 16 at St. Thomas Episcopal. And

The Langroise Trio, artists in residence at College of Idaho in Caldwell, will perform music by Dvorak and Beethoven, as well as a new work by Boise composer David Alan Earnest, at 8 p.m. May 17. Both concerts are free.

Bruins rough up Wolverines

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

One down, two to go.

Twin Falls scored seven times in the bottom half of the second inning Thursday, taking advantage of erratic Wood River pitching to post a 14-3, five-inning win in the second round of the Great Basin Conference Tournament at Bill Ingram Field.

It was a night-and-day turnaround from last Saturday in Jerome, where Twin Falls (23-4) managed just two runs in a doubleheader split.

“Those two runs got in our heads and reminded us we need to be swinging the bats the way we were all season,” said junior outfielder T.J. Ellis, who reached base four times with a double, triple and three runs scored. “Anything can happen at a regional tournament like this.”

The Bruins clubbed four extra-base hits and took advantage of eight walks, four errors and three hit batters to pad their run total and take the easy win.

Cy Sneed made quick work of the Wolverines in his three innings on the mound, facing just two batters more than the minimum and allowing a run on two hits. He struck out six without a walk.

“You can’t just come in and say, because we did this and that in the regular season we’re just going to do it again,” said Sneed. “It’s regional time, you’ve got to be ready to go.”

Zak Slotten’s two-run infield single in the bottom of the first put the Bruins ahead to stay, and they chased starter Taz Lyons in the second inning. Colin Dean finished the final three innings for the Wolverines, allowing nine runs (eight earned).

“Against a team like that you have to put the ball over the plate and let them put it in play so your defense can help you out,” said Wood River coach Matt Nelson. “At the plate, we flinched. Sneed’s probably one of the hardest throwers we’ll see all season. We’ve got to learn to just cut it loose up there.”

Wood River (7-17) will next play Monday, either hosting Canyon Ridge or traveling to Jerome. Those teams play an elimination game Saturday at Canyon Ridge.

Twin Falls hosts Minico at 1 p.m. Saturday. The winner of that game clinches a spot in both the district championship round and the Class 4A state tournament, held May 20-22 at Rodeo Park in Nampa.

TFHS hosting first-ever Meet of Champions today

By Mike Christensen
Times-News writer

The idea is simple: Take the best of the best and let them compete side by side.

Today the idea becomes reality as the inaugural District IV Meet of Champions takes place at Twin Falls High School.

The meet will pit athletes from all four classifications against each other and arrives the week before state qualifying meets.

“I think it gives kids a chance to compete at a high level,” said Valley athletic director Brian Hardy, who organized the meet.

Area athletes with the top 16 individual times or distances in each event were invited to today’s meet. Twin Falls is the only 4A team participating, but the other classes are all well represented. It’s a chance to see 1A distance runners like Abby Burk of Bliss and Sasha Kent of Richfield challenge Twin Falls’ Amanda Ward or find out whose faster between Kimberly’s Alan Cazeau and Twin Falls’ Bobby Rios, who bring identical qualifying times of 11.44 seconds into the 100 meters.

Hardy hopes all six area 4A teams will participate in coming years.

“It’s something new and anytime you have something new it takes a while to get going,” said Hardy. “Hopefully we get good weather, and it turns out great.”

Field events start at 2 p.m., with running events at 4:30. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students. A list of qualifiers in each event is available online at http://web.me.com/valleyviks/Track/Meet\_of\_Champions.html.

Kirilenko to play in Game 3

By Doug Alden
Associated Press writer

SALT LAKE CITY — After more than a month of waiting for his strained calf to heal, Kirilenko expects to be playing for the Utah Jazz when they host the Los Angeles Lakers on Saturday in the Western Conference playoffs.

Already down 2-0 to the defending NBA champions, the short-handed Jazz can use even a limited version of Kirilenko.

“We don’t have that kind of luxury to wait, especially right now,” Kirilenko said before the Jazz practiced Thursday. “I feel way better than I was like a week ago so I have to get back and start playing the game.”

The undersized Jazz will welcome back the lanky, 6-foot-9 Russian, even if his calf is still a little gimpy and he’s out of condition after the long layoff. Kirilenko still has those long arms, which have blocked 1,306 shots in nine seasons and can pluck the ball out of a crowd of bulkier

SPARTANS ROLL

The Minico baseball team surrounds home plate to greet Casey Christiansen after his solo home run during the third inning of the Spartans’ 11-1 victory over Canyon Ridge Thursday at Minico High School.

Christiansen, Minico crush Canyon Ridge

By Ryan Howe
Times-News writer

RUPERT — It almost felt like Christmas amid Thursday’s snow flurry, but Minico pitcher Casey Christiansen wasn’t in a giving mood.

The Spartans’ junior ace struck out five, walked one and surrendered just two hits in Minico’s 11-1 six-inning win over Canyon Ridge at Warburton Field.

Although Minico swept its regular-season series with Canyon Ridge, the Spartans weren’t about to overlook the Riverhawks in the Great Basin Conference Tournament. After all, the first-year program played the Spartans tough in those losses, plus Canyon Ridge was coming off Tuesday’s upset victory over Jerome.

“Obviously they were good enough to beat Jerome, so we knew that if we showed up without a high intensity level, they could beat us just as easy,” Christiansen said. “Being districts, there’s no excuse for there not to be any intensity. We were able to come in and get the job done.”

Minico (20-9), which notched its sixth consecutive 20-win season, will travel to face Twin Falls on Saturday at 1 p.m. The winner will lock up a Class 4A state tournament berth and a spot in the district title game slated for next Thursday.

Twin Falls edged Minico two games to one in the teams’ regular-season series, and Spartan coach Ben Frank believes his team is ready for Saturday’s challenge.

“As far as intensity level, I don’t think that will be an issue,” Frank said. “If it is, then you don’t

Holmes, Allenby share lead at Sawgrass

Woods 4 shots back

By Doug Ferguson
Associated Press writer

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. — Tiger Woods hit one tee shot that went 190 yards and barely reached the fairway. He hit another shot smack into the middle of a sawgrass plant, the ball only seen by standing over it and suspended a few inches off the ground.

Both times, he scratched out a par and wound up with a 2-under 70 in The Players Championship.

That’s usually not a bad score to start out this tournament.

Just not on Thursday.

J.B. Holmes and Robert Allenby shared the lead at 66, which didn’t give them much separation. Twenty players were separated by two shots at the top of the leaderboard.

Conditions were so benign, and greens were so soft, that more than half the field broke par on the Stadium Course. And that’s not all. The 36 players who shot in the 60s were the most for the opening round since 1994, and the average score (71.1) was the lowest in 17 years in the first round.

“I only made three birdies today,” said Woods, who didn’t make a bogey until the final hole when his 5-wood took a hard hop into the water. “I had myself a few chances in there to make some putts, make some birdies, and didn’t really do it.”

Masters champion Phil Mickelson shot the same score, in much more conventional fashion.

He felt about the same way.

“Two under is not what I wanted today,” Mickelson said. “But there is a round in the mid 60s. If I can shoot that tomorrow, I’ll get right back in it.”

Holmes played bogey-free for his 66. The only time he came close to a bogey was at No. 10, when he hit over the green and did well to chip to 15 feet before making the par putt.

“It was a fun day, one of those rounds where everything was going pretty good,” Holmes said. “It’s kind of one of those rounds where it’s not easy, but it felt pretty easy.”

Allenby played in the afternoon, when the breeze kicked up, and only had one lapse with a three-putt on the par-3 eighth.

CSI softball on deck

This weekend: The No. 12 College of Southern Idaho softball team (42-17, 31-12) hosts the College of Southern Nevada (32-17, 28-15) for the final Scenic West Athletic Conference series of the regular season at Eagle Field (1 p.m., Friday; noon, Saturday).

CSI last week: The Golden Eagles took three of four from Western Nevada College (W 8-0, L 6-5, W 6-3, W 14-7).

Southern Nevada last week: The Coyotes won three of four in a series against Snow College (L 3-1, W 5-1, W 5-4, W 8-7).

Last meeting: The Eagles swept the Coyotes (W 11-2, W 18-12, W 7-2, W 8-0) in March.

Poll position: The NJCAA polling is done for the season, and CSI will remain No. 12. Salt Lake Community College is No. 1.

Injury report: Head coach Nick Baumert received a tetanus shot after putting a screwdriver through his hand Thursday. He is good to go to wave runners home this weekend.

Head coach Nick Baumert says: “One thing we talked about at our scout meeting is that Southern (Nevada) is a quality opponent and that we have to win at least one (to avoid losing second place and the No. 2 seed to the Region 18 Tournament). (The Eagles) understand what they have to do to get No. 2 seed. I would think (Southern Nevada) would use that as motivation to come in and get that seed and get momentum going into the tournament.”

On deck: CSI travels to Salt Lake City next week as the Bruins host the Region 18 Tournament.

CSI baseball on deck

This weekend: CSI visits the College of Eastern Utah for a four-game set in Price, Utah, to close the regular season.

CSI last week: The Golden Eagles (31-20, 20-15 SWAC) swept Colorado Northwestern without yielding a run (10-0, 12-0, 4-0, 7-0).

Eastern Utah last week: CEU (15-34, 9-27) were swept by league champion Southern Nevada in Henderson, Nev. (5-3, 8-1, 5-0, 7-1).

Last meeting: CSI took three of four from Eastern Utah in Twin Falls April 2-3 (L 4-0, W 2-1, W 4-2, W 6-0).

CSI coach Boomer Walker says: “I really hope our guys don't just show up (and treat the games as meaningless). I don't think they will. We're playing really well right now, with a lot of confidence. It's a big weekend for us to make sure we're still playing well next week.”

Up next: CSI treks to the Region 18 Tournament in Henderson, Nev., starting on Wednesday. Barring a strange combination of events, CSI will be seeded fourth and play No. 5 Eastern Utah to open the tournament at 5 p.m., MDT, Wednesday.

deserve to be there anyway.”

Intensity was never a problem on Thursday as Minico jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and didn't look back. K.J. Redder was 3-for-4 with three RBIs, Suede Denker drove in three runs, Shay Chandler was 2-for-3 and Christiansen hit a solo shot for the first home run of his high school career.

“We swung it pretty well,” Christiansen said. “We had a couple down innings in the middle, but we were still hitting some balls hard and for the most part hit the ball in every inning.”

Minico played aggressive offensively with eight stolen bases.

“We had the right guys on base and we were able to take advantage of that,” Christiansen said. “Anytime you can advance runners without having to bunt or get hits it helps you out.”

Canyon Ridge (3-22) will host a rematch with Jerome in an elimination game on Saturday.

JEROME 3, BURLEY 1

Nolan McDonald's two-run sixth-inning double broke a 1-1 deadlock and capped a three-run rally as Jerome stayed alive by eliminating Burley 3-1 Thursday.

The Bobcats (13-17) scored their run in the second inning and held the Tigers (13-13) in check before two errors led to three unearned runs in the decisive inning.

“It was a good game. Both pitchers were going ... we played our hearts out. I'm proud of these kids,” said Burley coach Devin Kunz.

Jerome visits Canyon Ridge on Saturday in another elimination game.

Magic pull away late against Hawks

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Maybe all the Orlando Magic needed after a slow start was a slap in the face.

Dwight Howard came back from a bloody nose to finish with 29 points and 17 rebounds, and the Magic beat the Atlanta Hawks 112-98 on Thursday night to take a 2-0 lead in the Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Vince Carter had 24 points with some big shots late and Rashard Lewis finished with 20 points, leading Orlando's 19-2 run in the fourth quarter. The perennially poor free-throw shooting Howard also was 13 for 18 from the line.

The Hawks avoided embarrassment but not another road playoff loss.

After a 43-point loss in the opener, the Hawks led early but head home still searching for a way to stop the Magic's 12-game winning streak. Al Horford led Atlanta with 24 points, and Joe Johnson had 19 points.

Game 3 is Saturday in Atlanta.

The Hawks finally drew first blood, it just wasn't a hard enough hit.

Howard made a layup as he was slapped in the face inadvertently by Horford to start the third quarter, the blood pouring from the Magic center's nose. Howard shot the free throw — and missed — with plugs in his nostrils, holding back laughter, and then left for about 2 minutes so trainers could stop the bleeding.

The Hawks could only stop it temporarily.

The play started an 11-2 run that erased Atlanta's early nine-point lead and put the Magic ahead 62-59. The topsy-turvy starts by the two centers — Howard had 18 points in the first, and Horford scored 14 points in the second — were merely offsetting.

CELTICS GM AINGE FINED $25K FOR TOWEL TOSS

NEW YORK (AP) — Celtics general manager Danny Ainge was fined $25,000 by the NBA on Thursday for tossing a towel to try and distract Cavaliers forward J.J. Hickson as he shot a free throw.

Ainge, who was sitting courtside under the Cavs' basket, flipped a white towel over his head during the third quarter of Monday night's playoff game between Boston and Cleveland. The Celtics led by 23 points at the time, and Hickson made the free throw anyway.

Franzen's hat trick helps Red Wings avoid sweep

DETROIT — Johan Franzen had a natural hat trick in a 3:26 span of the first period, scored a fourth goal in the third, and set a Red Wings playoff record with six points as Detroit stayed alive with a 7-1 rout of the San Jose Sharks on Thursday night in Game 4 of the Western Conference semifinals.

San Jose will host Game 5 on Saturday night with another chance to advance to hockey's final four for the second time in franchise history.

Franzen was originally credited with scoring the first goal 5:40 into the game, but a scoring change gave the goal to Todd Bertuzzi. That prevented Franzen from tying the NHL playoff record with four goals in a period.

Valtteri Filppula put Detroit ahead 5-0 late in the first period on a shot that went off San Jose defenseman Douglas Murray and effectively ended goalie Evgeni Nabokov's night.

Nabokov made just four saves in the first period and was replaced by Thomas Greiss, who let the second shot he faced get past him off Brian Rafalski's one-timer.

San Jose took advantage of a 5-on-3 power play when Dany Heatley scored with 48.5 seconds left in the second period to make it 6-1.

Jimmy Howard made 28 saves for Detroit.

CANADIENS 3, PENGUINS 2

MONTREAL — Maxim Lapierre and Brian Gionta scored 1:33 apart early in the third period to lift Montreal over Pittsburgh in Game 4 and into a tie in the Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Jaroslav Halak stopped 33 shots, and Tom Pyatt also scored for Montreal, which trailed 2-1 through the first two periods while being outshot 25-9.

Maxime Talbot and Chris Kunitz scored 1:51 apart early in the first period to put Pittsburgh ahead. Pyatt had netted his first career playoff goal 2:34 in to put Montreal in front.

Lapierre drew the Canadiens even at 2 with a wraparound goal 2:20 into the third.

Game 5 is Saturday night in Pittsburgh.

Sawgrass

"Greens were a bit slow out there, definitely quite soft after the rain that we've had the last couple of days," Allenby said. "It definitely made it very accessible, some of those flags. I'm happy with the start, just happy to be amongst it."

It was a big crowd.

Francesco Molinari of Italy had a chance to join the leaders until he chopped up the par-5 ninth hole for a bogey and joined the large group at 68. Those at 69 included Jim Furyk and Vijay Singh, along with Davis Love III, who showed that even a benign Sawgrass still has some bite. He was tied for the lead until making bogeys on the last three holes.

With scrutiny higher than after the worst tournament of his career, Woods settled down after a shaky start and eased speculation that he could miss consecutive cuts for the first time in his career.

A week ago at Quail Hollow, Woods had his second-highest round (79) and the worst 36-hole score (153) of his career to miss the cut by eight shots. Then came practice rounds that didn't look much better.

"I've felt like I've done some good work this week, even though reports are I was hitting all over the lot,"

Woods said. "But I was working on a few things. I was very comfortable with what I was working toward, and I was very excited about what was happening. It was just a matter of doing it in competition. And I did it today."

A few pars saved the day — one after a hooked tee shot into the trees, another when he fanned a shot to the right into the bunker on No. 4, then made an 8-foot par putt after hitting another bunker.

And nothing looked worse than a 3-wood that he popped up on No. 7, barely reaching the fairway and having to hit a 5-wood for his second shot on a par 4. He got up-and-down for par, and two holes later, gave a light but meaningful fist pump when he hit 5-wood to a tucked green on the par-5 ninth to 18 feet for a two-putt birdie.

He only hit one bad shot the rest of the round, but it led to a recovery shot that his caddie opposed.

Woods pulled his 5-wood on the short 12th hole smack into a sawgrass bush, the ball suspended a few inches off the ground. Steve Williams suggested that he declare an unplayable lie and take a penalty shot.

"That was a hit-and-hope," Woods said.

Halladay, Phillies top Cards

PHILADELPHIA — Roy Halladay had another impressive outing, Jayson Werth hit a three-run homer and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-2 on Thursday.

There was a moment of silence before the game for former Phillies pitcher Robin Roberts, who died Thursday morning. The Hall of Famer's No. 36 jersey was hung in the Philadelphia dugout and will remain there the rest of the season.

Halladay (6-1) allowed two runs — one earned — and seven hits in seven innings. He tied a season high with nine strikeouts.

NATIONALS 3, BRAVES 2

WASHINGTON — Scott Olsen took a no-hitter into the eighth inning, pinch-hitter Willie Harris delivered the winning RBI single in the ninth for Washington.

After reliever Eric O'Flaherty (1-1) walked Adam Kennedy leading off the ninth, Peter Moylan came in and gave up a double to Ryan Zimmerman, then intentionally walked Cristian Guzman to load the bases with no outs. Harris then grounded a single past diving second baseman Martin Prado.

GIANTS 6, MARLINS 3

MIAMI — Matt Cain held Florida hitless until the sixth and worked into the eighth inning as San Francisco completed a three-game sweep.

Cain (2-1) held Florida without a hit until the sixth. He gave up four hits and two runs in seven-plus innings, and four relievers completed a five-hitter. Brian Wilson came on to strike out pinch-hitter Wes Helms with one on for his sixth save in seven chances.

PIRATES 11, CUBS 1

PITTSBURGH — Lastings Milledge drove in four runs, Garrett Jones added three RBIs and Pittsburgh earned its first sweep of the Cubs in nearly four years.

Brian Burres (2-1), roughed up in three consecutive appearances before pitching 5 1-3 scoreless innings in a spot start April 29 against Los Angeles, allowed three hits over seven shutout innings to win his second in a row. Before that, he hadn't won in nearly two seasons.

DIAMONDBACKS 6, ASTROS 3

HOUSTON — Dan Haren struck out nine in his first complete game this season and Tony Abreu had a career-high four hits, leading Arizona, which won three of four in the series.

Kelly Johnson led off the game with his 10th home run, giving him the National League lead. Haren (4-1) allowed seven hits and walked one for his 10th career complete game and first since July 10 against Florida.

AMERICAN LEAGUE RANGERS 13, ROYALS 12

ARLINGTON, Texas — Josh Hamilton and Vladimir Guerrero hit back-to-back homers in the eighth inning and Texas pulled out a win over Kansas City after blowing an early eight-run lead.

The Royals had finally taken their first lead of the game in the top of the eighth and brought in closer Joakim Soria (0-1) with two outs in the bottom of the inning. Hamilton homered and Guerrero followed with his second go-ahead homer of the game, a shot that landed in the Rangers bullpen in right-center field.

RED SOX 11, ANGELS 6

BOSTON — Victor Martinez homered and drove in four runs and the Boston Red Sox completed a four-game sweep of the Los Angeles Angels with an 11-6 win Thursday night.

Martinez's two-run homer in the third cut the Angels lead to 4-2 and his two-run double in the fifth tied it. The Red Sox added three more runs in the fifth, breaking the tie on Jeremy Hermida's two-run single and making it 7-4 on Darnell McDonald's RBI double.

BLUE JAYS 2, WHITE SOX 0

CHICAGO — Dana Eveland allowed two hits in seven scoreless innings and Toronto extended its winning streak to five games.

Eveland (3-1) was in control throughout on a chilly 45-degree night and outdueling another lefty, John Danks (3-1). Eveland gave up a leadoff infield single to Juan Pierre in the first and single to Alexei Ramirez in the fourth, while walking four and striking out three.

ORIOLES 2, TWINS 0

MINNEAPOLIS — Ty Wigginton hit his 10th home run, just one short of his total last season, and Brad Bergesen had his best outing of the season.

Carl Pavano (3-3) lost his second straight eight-inning, two-run performance. He went right at the free-swinging Orioles, throwing 70 of 97 pitches for strikes, but Wigginton spoiled the outing. With the homer, Wigginton moved into second place behind Chicago's Paul Konerko (12) on the American League home run list.

players vying for a rebound.

"AK brings a lot to the table. If he can get a blocked shot, get a couple of rebounds let his presence be known, it'll help us," forward Carlos Boozer said. "I know he's been out for a while so everybody's going to be interested to see how he does, but he's up for that challenge. His length will help us against their length."

The Lakers dominated inside in the first two games, using 7-footers Pau Gasol and Andrew Bynum and bringing 6-10 Lamar Odom off the bench. The Lakers averaged 50.5 rebounds and 10 blocks while winning both games in Los Angeles.

How much Kirilenko can really help won't be apparent until Saturday, but even if he can only disrupt the Lakers a little bit inside, that's more than the Jazz have been able to do so far in the series.

Utah has used only nine players and young centers Kyrylo Fesenko and Kosta Koufos have a total of six points and eight rebounds combined in the first two games. Adding Kirilenko to the rotation will allow coach Jerry Sloan to go with three forwards and spell Boozer and Paul Millsap more than he's been able to in eight playoff games.

Kirilenko missed 15 of the last 17 games of the regular season and hasn't played at all since March 26.

The Jazz survived the first round without Kirilenko and center Mehmet Okur, who ruptured his left Achilles' tendon in the playoff opener at Denver, but the lack of depth, experience and size have been the Lakers' most obvious edge in the series.

The Lakers returned to practice Thursday after a day off, knowing of Kirilenko's plans and the difference he can make for the Jazz.

"It gives you another player you have to concern yourself with," Lakers star Kobe Bryant said after Thursday's practice. "He's great around the ball. You have to watch him coming from the weak side to block shots. He gives them a great effort."

Sloan said he will probably keep Kirilenko inside rather than add stress to Kirilenko's calf by having him guard Bryant, who is averaging 30.5 points in the series.

None of the options Sloan was mulling Thursday sounded particularly appealing.

"We've still got to do a better job of trying to help each other. Obviously they've hurt us a great deal on the boards with their length," Sloan said. "We've got to do a better job of going back to the fundamentals and blocking guys off a little better and helping guys defensively. That all sounds so simple and easy but this is a great team we're playing against."

Kirilenko spent much of the last few seasons coming off the bench, but returned as a regular starter in January and the Jazz went on a 16-2 run before back spasms kept him out of two games in late February.

He averaged almost 12 points this season and any offense he could provide Saturday and Monday in Game 4 would be a bonus for the Jazz, who were able to hang with the Lakers in the first two games before losing 104-99 and 111-103.

"We just hope we can get some minutes somewhere along the line and give us some help," Sloan said. "We'll take anything we can get. We'll just have to wait and see."

Raiders release former No. 1 pick Russell

ALAMEDA, Calif. — Three years, more than $39 million and only seven wins as the starting quarterback for the Oakland Raiders.

The verdict is in on JaMarcus Russell's career in Oakland and he just might be the NFL's biggest draft bust.

The Raiders released Russell on Thursday, just three years after making him the No. 1 overall pick in the NFL draft.

The decision came less than two weeks after Oakland acquired Jason Campbell from Washington to take over at quarterback. It signifies that owner Al Davis finally lost patience with the immensely talented but unproductive player he drafted in 2007 against the wishes of former coach Lane Kiffin.

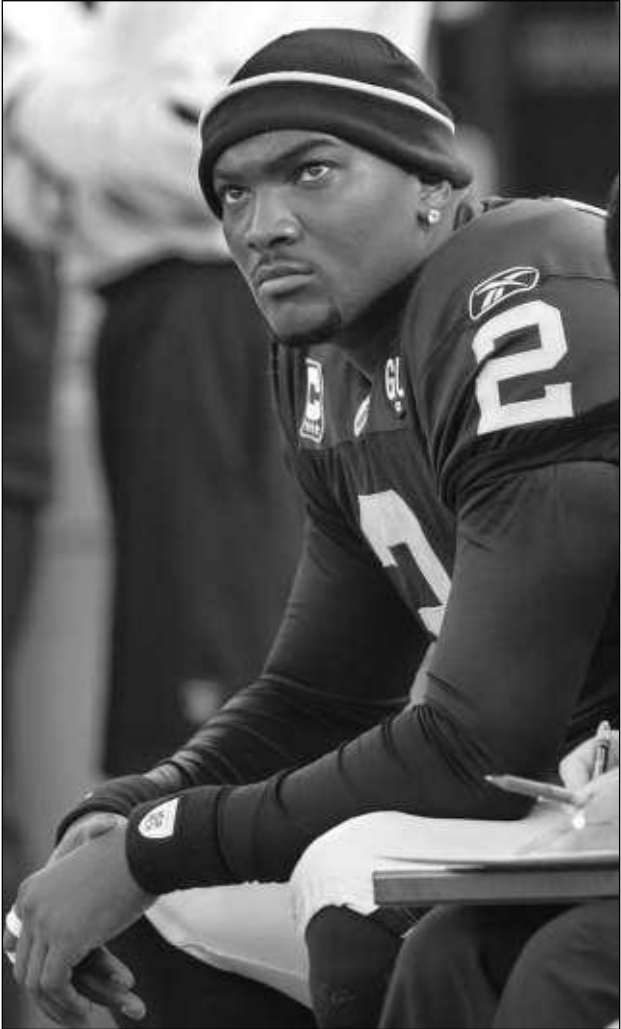

"We wish him well," senior executive John Herrera told The Associated Press.

Russell will now be considered one of the biggest busts in NFL draft history, joining the likes of Ryan Leaf, Ki-Jana Carter, Akili Smith, Tony Mandarich, Charles Rogers, Heath Shuler and Blair Thomas on that list.

Russell showed up at last week's minicamp, saying he would keep coming to work until told otherwise. He looked decent in the first of five practices last weekend, but got less work as the weekend went on, and the decision to cut ties finally was made.

The Raiders paid Russell about $36.4 million through last season. They still owe him $3 million more, putting the final tally on his earnings at about $39.4 million. But the team saved $6.45 million by not having him on the roster in 2010.

Since the start of the common draft in 1967, only one other No. 1 pick was released this quickly in his NFL career. Indianapolis cut 1992 top pick Steve Emtman after three seasons, but that was more because of injuries than production.

The Oakland Raiders released quarterback JaMarcus Russell Thursday, ending a three-year tenure marked by his high salary and unproductive play on the field.

EX-NFL STAR LAWRENCE TAYLOR CHARGED WITH N.Y. RAPE

SUFFERN, N.Y. — Pro Football Hall of Famer Lawrence Taylor was charged Thursday with raping a 16-year-old runaway who police said was forced into prostitution by a man who had beaten her up.

Taylor, a 51-year-old former New York Giants star who has faced drug and tax evasion charges in the past, paid the girl $300 for sex in a Holiday Inn, where he was arrested early Thursday, said Christopher St. Lawrence, supervisor of the town of Ramapo.

The man who'd beaten the girl drove her to Taylor's suburban hotel room while she texted her uncle for help, police said.

Ramapo Chief of Police Peter Brower said Taylor was cooperative when police woke him up around 4 a.m. Taylor was arraigned Thursday on charges of third-degree rape and patronizing a prostitute.

"I'm not that important," Taylor told a scrum of media after being released on $75,000 bail.

His attorney, Arthur Aidala, said Taylor is a "loving family man" who did not have sex with the teenager.

"My client did not have sex with anybody," Aidala said. "Lawrence Taylor did not rape anybody."

BENGALS AGREE TO DEAL WITH PACMAN JONES

CINCINNATI — Adam "Pacman" Jones agreed to a two-year deal with the Cincinnati Bengals on Thursday, putting the troubled cornerback on a team with a history of giving players second chances.

Jones, who was released by the Cowboys after the 2008 season and didn't play last year, worked for the Bengals twice this offseason, including Tuesday. He was selected by Tennessee in the first round of the 2005 draft, but has struggled to stay on the field because of his repeated arrests.

"There is going to be a two-year deal," Tom Hunter, Jones' agent, told The Associated Press on Thursday night. "It's going to be signed (today) or Monday. We don't have in hand yet but we will."

A message was left Thursday seeking comment from the Bengals.

Jones, 26, was suspended for the entire 2007 season and for six games with the Cowboys in 2008 for violating the NFL's conduct policy.

VIDEO, AUDIO RECORDINGS LOOM OVER SAINTS CASE

NEW ORLEANS — A lawyer who says he has recordings showing that the New Orleans Saints tried to cover up prescription Vicodin thefts from team headquarters says the NFL has not asked to see any of the evidence that has already been sent to federal authorities.

"We're not adverse to letting the NFL know what we know," said attorney Donald Hyatt, who represents former Saints security director Geoffrey Santini. "That's the governing body for the sport. Maybe they need to know what's going on."

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello has said the league is aware of the case against the Saints and is following developments, but Aiello declined on Thursday to address specifics, including any knowledge of the tapes.

Santini, who says he resigned last August over the club's handling of the alleged Vicodin thefts, filed the lawsuit late last week.

Saints spokesman Greg Benseal has denied the allegations and said the club is prepared to vigorously defend itself in court.

Hyatt said video and audio evidence collected and copied by Santini indicates otherwise.

"The notion that they're false allegations, that there was no wrongdoing, based on my review of video and audio recordings, is absurd," Hyatt said.

Santini, a retired FBI agent, gave federal authorities evidence he collected at team headquarters before he resigned. Santini worked for the FBI for 31 years and was the lead agent in a gambling corruption case that resulted in the conviction of former Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards.

The federal Drug Enforcement Administration told The Associated Press last weekend that the agency is aware of the matter and that an investigation is pending.

MINN. JUDGE SIDES WITH NFL IN STARCAPS CASE

MINNEAPOLIS — A Minnesota judge chastised the NFL on Thursday and said the league broke state law even as he handed the league a significant victory in a closely watched lawsuit by two Minnesota Vikings challenging their suspensions for taking a banned substance.

Hennepin County District Judge Gary Larson said the NFL failed to notify the two players of their test results within three days, as required in Minnesota, and said an NFL official played "a game of 'gotcha'" with them. But he said that wasn't enough to block the NFL's plan to suspend the players for four games each.

The decision doesn't necessarily clear the way for the NFL to suspend Kevin Williams and Pat Williams for part of next season, however. The judge put off a decision on whether to extend an injunction blocking the suspensions pending an expected appeal by the players. A decision isn't expected for about two weeks.

The NFL first attempted to suspend the defensive tackles in December 2008, a few months after they tested positive for a banned diuretic that was in the StarCaps weight-loss supplement they were taking. They were not accused of taking steroids and said they had no idea the diuretic was in the supplement.

The players challenged their suspensions while their lawsuit played out in federal and state court. They got to play for the entire 2009-10 season, helping Minnesota reach the NFC championship game, where it lost to eventual Super Bowl winner New Orleans.

UK exit polls: Tories win most seats, not majority

By Paisley Dodds and Danica Kirka
Associated Press writers

LONDON — David Cameron’s rejuvenated Conservatives captured far more seats than Prime Minister Gordon Brown’s battered Labour Party but failed to win an absolute majority Thursday in Britain’s national election, according to television projections.

The exit polls did not bode well for Brown, Britain’s prime minister since 2007, and triggered uncertainty over who will form the next government. The country’s top three parties — the Conservatives, Labour and the Liberal Democrats — immediately began jockeying to form alliances.

An analysis by Britain’s main television stations suggested the Conservatives will win 305 of the 650 House of Commons seats, short of the 326 seats needed for a majority. Labour was seen winning 255 seats and the Liberal Democrats 61, far less than had been expected after their support surged during the campaign.

If the results bear out these projections, a period of political wrangling and uncertainty is ahead for one of the world’s largest economies — a prospect that could unsettle global markets already reeling from the Greek debt crisis and fears of wider debt contagion in Europe.

A period of instability — or a weak government — would also likely depress investors who are hoping for a leadership strong enough to make the tough decisions needed to resolve Britain’s huge budget deficit.

In New York, the British pound sank to its lowest point in a year to trade at $1.4715.

Conservative leaders were adamant that the results

Election exit poll results are projected onto the Palace of Westminster in London on Thursday. Millions of people voted Thursday in Britain’s general election. The vast majority of constituencies were to conduct their counts overnight.

meant Brown must go — but senior Labour figures lost no time in reaching out to the Liberal Democrats in hopes of blocking Cameron.

Business Secretary Peter Mandelson of Labour noted that in a “hung parliament” — one in which no party has a clear majority — the sitting prime minister is traditionally given the first chance to form a government.

He extended an olive branch to the Liberal Democrats, who have called for an end to the existing system in which the number of districts won — not the popular vote — determines who leads the country.

“There has to be electoral reform as a result of this election,” Mandelson said. The current system, he said, “is on its last legs.”

But such a coalition might still not work because the projections showed those two parties combined might still fall short of a majority. The gambit would also risk alienating many in Britain, a country without a constitution where political maneuvers are often governed by informal convention.

The projections showed the Labor Party with its smallest number of seats since 1987. The Conservatives appeared to gain 95 seats, all but one at the expense of Labour.

Russian forces storm oil tanker, kill one Somali pirate

By Katherine Houreld
Associated Press writer

ABOARD THE CARLSKRONA — A Russian warship hunted down an oil tanker hijacked by Somali pirates and special forces rappelled on board Thursday, surprising the outlaws, who surrendered after a 22-minute gunbattle. Twenty-three Russian sailors were freed.

The dramatic Indian Ocean rescue came a day after pirates seized the tanker, which was heading toward China carrying $50 million worth of crude. One pirate was killed and 10 others were arrested, officials said.

The Russian destroyer Marshal Shaposhnikov had rushed to the scene following Wednesday’s seizure of the Liberian-flagged tanker, Moscow University.

After spotting the hijacked vessel early Thursday, the warship fired warning shots from its large-caliber machine gun, undeterred by the tanker’s flammable cargo of 86,000 tons of crude.

Oil tankers don’t even allow crew members to smoke on board because of the risk of igniting the cargo, but the Russian navy decided to move in with weapons after determining the crew had taken refuge in a safe room.

“The Marshal Shaposhnikov came near the tanker and after establishing contact with the crew, who were taking cover in the machine area of the ship, opened warning fire from large-caliber machine guns and a 30mm artillery complex,” the Russian Defense Ministry said.

Special forces troops then rappelled down to the tanker from a helicopter, Rear Adm. Jan Thornqvist, the EU Naval Force commander, told an Associated Press reporter aboard the Swedish warship Carlskrona, which was patrolling 500 miles west of the rescue site.

The startled pirates opened fire and a gunbattle ensued that killed one pirate and wounded three before the hijackers surrendered, the Russian state news channel Rossiya-24 said. Russian Defense Ministry spokesman Col. Alexei Kuznetsov said a large weapons cache was seized.

2010 MERCURY MARINER SUV MORE SAFETY FEATURES!

Roadworthy!
By Ken Chester, Jr.
Motor News Media Corp.

For 2010, the Mercury Mariner adds a host of new features that improve safety and make driving more convenient. The compact Mariner SUV also becomes one of the first Ford Motor Company vehicles to feature SYNC® with Traffic, Directions and Information – helping reduce distractions while accessing important route and traffic information.

SYNC with Traffic, Directions and Information leverages industry-leading voice-recognition software, integrated GPS technology, and a customer's Bluetooth®-capable mobile phone. SYNC's new applications provide simple hands-free access to personalized traffic reports, precise turn-by-turn driving directions and up-to-date information including business listings, news, sports, and weather.

Safety upgrades and enhancements include Integrated Spotter Mirrors, MyKey™ and an available Rear View Camera System to an already extensive list of family-friendly safety features. Additionally, newly available Active Park Assist allows Mariner owners to parallel park with the touch of a button, while Pull-Drift Compensation aids driving confidence.

The new MyKey™ system is designed to help encourage safer teen driving.

Parents simply program the vehicle key through the message center to incorporate features such as: a limited top speed of 80 mph, a traction control system that limits tire spin cannot be deactivated, the audio system volume is limited to 44 percent of maximum volume, and a speed alert chimes at 45, 55 or 65 mph.

Offered in Base and Premier trim levels and available in front wheel drive or Intelligent AWD, base power for the Mariner is generated by a powerful and fuel-efficient 2.5L four-cylinder engine with intake variable cam timing (i-VCT) and electronic throttle control (ETC). A 3.0L V6 engine with i-VCT and ETC is an available option. While a five-speed manual is the standard gearbox for the four-cylinder engine, a 6F mid-range six-speed automatic transmission is an available option. The six-speed automatic is standard with the V6 engine.

The six-speed automatic is calibrated for cruising fuel efficiency without sacrificing launch feel and performance feel in lower gears. A wider range of gear ratios is key to the six-speed's ability to deliver this combination of performance and fuel economy.

Mariner's unibody construction and four-wheel independent suspension contribute to its carlike ride and handling. Last year, the Mercury SUV's suspension was revised and retuned, with the addition of a new rear stabilizer bar and revised shock absorber tuning, to help deliver a balance of enhanced ride comfort and handling confidence. The steering system has also been retuned for better control and tighter cornering capabilities.

Inside the cabin, comfort-designed seating includes soy-based foam that substitutes for petroleum-based products to conserve limited resources and reduce CO2 emissions. The Mariner features the automaker's first use of a "top of dash" display positioned at eye level on the dashboard, which shows ambient temperature, radio functions and climate-control readouts. This simple, efficient design puts much of the vehicles' information in one place at the top of the dashboard, making it easier to reference when driving.

The Mercury SUV is also equipped with Ice Blue interior lighting. The cool blue lighting replaces the traditional green on the instrument cluster, center console, steering wheel controls and the door lock and window switches. Ice Blue presents a cool, crisp, easy-on-the-eyes light for night driving and enhances the overall feel of the interior.

Mariner's center console boasts best-in-class storage volume with space for a laptop computer. Two innovative storage bins fit snugly inside the center console, or can be removed and hung on dovetail mounting points on the front passenger side and rear of the console for additional storage.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"The serpent, subtlest beast of all the field."

— John Milton

Sometimes imagination is called for when your contract seem hopeless. Some positions are difficult unless you have seen them before, so maybe reading about this one will help you make an apparently impossible hand in the future.

Cover up the East and West hands before reading on.

You, South, reach four spades after electing to open one spade. (A strong no-trump is a viable alternative despite the small doubleton heart.) You don't expect to have any problems making your game, since your partner responded two no-trump to your opening spade bid, showing a game-forcing hand with primary spade support.

West leads a club, which you win in hand. However, when you play a spade toward dummy, West shows out, discarding the club two. It now looks as if you are going to lose one trick in each suit. Can you think of any way to avoid this?

Would you be surprised if I told you that, assuming clubs to be 5-2 (which West's discard has strongly suggested), all you need is for East to hold the heart ace?

Win the spade ace and duck a diamond, the idea being to cut the defenders' communications. Say East wins and plays another club, which is as good a defense as any. You win and play a heart. East wins and continues with, say, another heart. You win, cash your red-suit winners, and play king and another spade. East must win and give you a ruff and discard.

ANSWER: Your partner has strongly suggested at least six hearts, and thus a hand better than a weak-jump overcall. Imagine he has six hearts to the ace, the king-queen-third of clubs, and two doubletons: only a nine-count! You are still heavily favored to make game since any minor-suit finesse rates to succeed. Accordingly, up and bid four hearts.

WARNING: When purchasing a vehicle, make sure that the title is in the name of the seller. Under Idaho motor vehicle code a vehicle cannot be sold unless the title is in the name of the seller (exception: Idaho licensed dealer). The seller shall provide the new purchaser a signed bill of sale showing the following: Full description of the vehicle, vehicle identification number, amount paid and name(s) and address of the new purchaser. The bill of sale must be signed, dated and show actual mileage at the time of sale. If you have any questions, please contact your local assessor's office.

DEAR ABBY: My co-workers and I would like your opinion on the following question: Is it appropriate to ask about the salary during a job interview? Half of us say, "Yes. When better to ask what the pay will be?" Others say, "No, it's in poor taste." What do you think?

— ALL BETS ARE IN

DEAR ALL: Of course the subject of salary should be discussed during a job interview. Usually, when an interview is nearing its end, the interviewer will ask, "Do you have any questions?" If the topics of salary and benefits haven't come up before then, it's perfectly acceptable to inquire about them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of more than 20 years decided that the grass was greener on the other side, and now I find myself on the dating scene again. I had breast reduction surgery, thinking I would be with my husband for the rest of my life. Now I don't know how to bring up the subject if I find a man with whom I want to be intimate.

I know a man should love me for who I am on the inside, but I can't help but feel that the scars I carry on the outside will make him turn and walk away. Not a day goes by that I don't regret having had the surgery, but there is nothing I can do about that now.

When do I tell the guy about my scars? I don't want this to get in the way of sharing my life with someone.

— SCARRED IN ARIZONA

DEAR SCARRED: Many women have had breast reductions — some for aesthetic reasons, but others because nature blessed them with such an overabundance of tissue that it was creating painful back and shoulder problems. The surgery is neither shocking nor particularly unusual.

The time to discuss it is when you have gotten to know someone well enough that you can talk frankly with him and explain that you feel self-conscious. No gentleman who cares about you will ever walk away. And any man who does, you are well rid of before investing your heart — or anything else — in him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Rick," and I have been married 20 years. He's a veteran who is completely disabled. We live in a very secluded area. The nearest town is 60 miles away, and I can't be gone long because of Rick's needs.

Abby, I'm lonely. My family lives in another state. Rick said years ago that we would move to where my family members are. But now he refuses because he doesn't want to leave his comfort zone.

Some days I am more down than others. Our home is on the market, but we won't be going far — just a bit closer to the town where Rick's family is. When I bring up the subject of missing my relatives, Rick gets angry so I don't say anything anymore. I long for my family — and for many other things as well. Could you share your feelings on this, please?

— NOWHERE IN MONTANA

DEAR NOWHERE: Gladly. Because your husband refuses to move to where your family members are, keep your fingers crossed that it won't be too long before you find a buyer for your current home. Do move closer to his family. At least then you won't be so isolated. And once you're closer to his family, THEY can look out for him while you schedule some visits to your family. If you go a couple of times a year, it could make a big difference in your outlook.

Avail. for Adoption:
If you would like to make a donation to the shelter please give us a call. All donations go towards feeding and medicating our furry friends.

Chase is a young adult black Pomeranian mix. He is very friendly and affectionate. He does well with children and would make a good family dog. Come on in and meet this great little guy.

Duke is a young adult Rottweiler mix male. He is very handsome and loves to romp around with his sister Melody. He does well with children and other dogs. Come meet Duke today!

Melody is possibly a Pointer/Heeler mix. She came to the shelter with her brother Duke who looks like a Rottweiler mix, so who knows what breed they really are. Melody is very pretty with dapple markings and patches on her eyes. She does well with other dogs and children.

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

LOST Rolled up 8' awning off our motorhome. Approx mile post 70 between Shoshone and Twin Falls on 504. Call 208-699-3230.

Today's Highlight:

On May 7, 1945, Germany signed an unconditional surrender at Allied headquarters in Rheims (France), ending its role in World War II.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 1789, the first inaugural ball was held in New York in honor of President George Washington and his wife, Martha.

In 1833, composer Johannes Brahms was born in Hamburg, Germany.

In 1840, composer Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky was born in Votkinsk, Russia.

In 1915, nearly 1,200 people died when a German torpedo sank the British liner RMS Lusitania off the Irish coast.

In 1954, the 55-day Battle of Dien Bien Phu in Vietnam ended with Vietnamese insurgents overrunning French forces.

In 1960, Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev announced that the pilot of an American U-2 plane shot down over Sverdlovsk had been captured alive along with proof the aircraft had been on a spying mission. Leonid Brezhnev replaced Marshal Kliment Voroshilov as president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

In 1963, the United States launched the Telstar 2 communications satellite.

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford formally declared an end to the "Vietnam era." In Ho Chi Minh City — formerly Saigon — the Viet Cong celebrated its takeover.

In 1977, Seattle Slew won the Kentucky Derby, the first of his Triple Crown victories. (On this date in 2002, Seattle Slew died.)

In 1984, a $180 million out-of-court settlement was announced in the Agent Orange class-action suit brought by Vietnam veterans who charged they'd suffered injury from exposure to the defoliant.

Ten years ago: A second fire was set to contain an earlier blaze that was begun to clear brush on the Banderier National Monument in New Mexico; the second fire blew out of control, destroying more than 200 homes and damaging part of the Los Alamos National Laboratory before it was controlled. President Vladimir Putin took the oath of office in Russia's first democratic transfer of power. Actor-producer-author Douglas Fairbanks Jr. died in New York at age 90.

Five years ago: During a visit to Riga, Latvia, President George W. Bush said the United States had played a role in Europe's painful division after World War II — a decision that Bush said helped cause "one of the greatest wrongs of history" when the Soviet Union imposed its harsh rule across Central and Eastern Europe. Giacomo, a 50-1 long shot, won the Kentucky Derby. Former congressman Peter W. Rodino Jr., who'd led the House impeachment investigation of President Richard Nixon, died in West Orange, N.J., at age 95.

One year ago: A federal jury in Paducah, Ky. convicted a former soldier, Steven Dale Green, of raping and fatally shooting a 14-year-old girl after killing her parents and younger sister while he was serving in Iraq. (Green was sentenced to life in prison without possibility of parole.) Former Illinois police Sgt. Drew Peterson was indicted for murder in the death of his third wife, Kathleen Savio. Mickey Carroll, one of the last surviving Munchkins from the 1939 film "The Wizard of Oz," died in Crestwood, Mo. at age 89.

IF MAY 7 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Things should go your way for the next several weeks and your energy and enthusiasm will be given plenty of opportunity to shine. Relationships of a lasting nature may be formed this month that vastly improve your happiness in the year ahead. Pay close attention to any offers or providential assistance that come your way, as chance encounters can lead to long-term improvements and create permanent abundance. In August and early September, it is easy to be misled by a new love interest or the terms of a contract, but in November your focus could shift and your business shrewdness grows by leaps and bounds.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Leave your rut behind. It is a good time to explore new places, new faces and spaces. The person who grabs your attention might only have friendship in mind, but friendships can grow into other things.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What once seemed eccentric or brashly unconventional could become acceptable. Accentuate the positive. There is room in your life and heart to be tolerant of different views and cultural diversity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get back in circulation. Enjoying the journey is very often more important than getting to the destination. You possess the power to put everyone at ease and can enjoy the fruits of your labors, too.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Out with the old and in with the new. Your knack for originality can be highly entertaining, so don't sit on the sidelines this evening. This is a good time to rub shoulders with the rich and famous.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Go star trekking. You might need a copy of your own personalized version of "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" to explain all of the new and unusual people and experiences you are willing to try.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): When the cat's away, the mice will play — and there is plenty of cheese waiting for your tastebuds. You don't have to clip coupons every day. Accept casual invitations without worrying about consequences.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pick your way along a daisy chain of excitement. This is a perfect evening to meet the jet set at the flashiest watering hole. One thing could lead to another and a casual encounter could turn into a lasting friendship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Follow a whim without a whimper. Spend your time and perhaps your money, too, appreciating life's simple pleasures. Overcome objections by agreeing that others have the right to their own opinions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be respectful of the old order, but willing to embrace the latest upcoming trends. Although things change, you can seek familiar faces and safe patterns. It is safe to overstep familiar boundaries.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Impulses can sometimes be good things to follow. Listen to your instincts and you will most likely charm the type of people who can do you the most good. It is time to let your hair down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Extra hands make light work. Invite new friends to help with a project or to come along to lunch or to a community event. Singles might find the hookup of their dreams through a lucky chain of events.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The wolf at the door may have distracted you from seeing the fairy godmother waiting patiently for your attention. Don't be too proud or too shy to ask for help or assistance when you need it.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASED FEES

The City of Rupert proposes to increase swimming pool fees effective May 15, 2010, by amounts that exceed one hundred and five percent (105%) of the respective fees from the previous fiscal year.

The fee increases are due to the additional costs of operation and maintenance of the City Swimming Pool. For information about specific fees and amounts, please contact Parks and Recreation Director Mary Andersen at 208 434 2400 at 624 F St. Rupert, Idaho.

All citizens are invited to attend a public hearing on the proposed fee increases on May 11, 2010 at 7:00 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers, 624 F St. Rupert, Idaho.
City Hall is accessible to persons with disabilities. Anyone desiring accommodations for disabilities related to the documentation or access to the hearing, please contact, the City

JOHN DOE

YOU ARE NOTIFIED THAT:

A Petition, a copy of which is attached, has been filed in the above-entitled matter in the Magistrate's Division of the District Court of Twin Falls County, Idaho, by the Prosecuting Attorney, alleging the above-named children come within the Court's jurisdiction under the Child Protective Act.

You are hereby directed to appear personally for a Review Hearing at the Twin Falls County Courthouse, 425 Shoshone Street, Twin Falls, Idaho, on July 29, 2010 at 9:30 AM.

You are notified that service of the attached Petition upon you, as the parent(s), guardian, or custodian of these children, confers personal jurisdiction of the court upon you and subjects you to the provisions of the Child Protective Act.

You are notified that if you fail to appear without reasonable cause, the Court may proceed in your absence or you may be proceeded against for contempt of Court.

You are notified that the parent(s), guardian, or a custodian may be financially liable for the support and/or treatment of the children.

You are further notified that the children and parent(s), guardian, or custodian have the right to be represented by an attorney of your choosing, or if financially unable to pay, have the right to have an attorney appointed by the Court to represent the children or the parent(s), guardian, or custodian at county expense. If you request to have an attorney appointed at county expense, you must appear before the date of the hearing given above, at which time the Court shall consider appointment of an attorney for the children and inquire whether the parent(s), guardian, or custodian require the separate appointment of an attorney.

You are further notified that there shall be a rebuttable presumption that if a child is placed in the custody of the IDHW and was also placed in out of the home care for a period not less than fifteen (15) out of the last twenty-two (22) months from the date of Adjudication, the IDHW shall initiate a Petition for Termination of Parental Rights. This presumption may be rebutted by a finding of the court that the filing of a Petition for Termination of Parental Rights would not be in the best interest of the child and their family, or that the child is placed permanently with a relative.

WITNESS MY HAND AND SEAL of said Magistrate Court this 3rd day of May, 2010.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Thursday, August 19, 2010 at the hour of 11:00 o'clock A.M., of said day, in the office of Alliance Title & Escrow Corp. located at 1411 Falls Avenue East, Suite 1315, Twin Falls, ID 83301,

Alliance Title & Escrow Corp., as trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, cashiers check, certified check or tellers check, (from a bank which has a branch in the community at the site of the sale), money order, State of Idaho check or local government check, or cash equivalent in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the same time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to wit:

Lot 7 in Block 3 of College Park Subdivision, according to the official plat thereof, filed in Book 11 of Plats at Page(s) 6, Official Records of Twin Falls County, Idaho.

THE TRUSTEE HAS NO KNOWLEDGE OF A MORE PARTICULAR DESCRIPTION OF THE ABOVE-DESCRIBED REAL PROPERTY, BUT FOR PURPOSES OF COMPLIANCE WITH IDAHO CODE, SECTION 60-113, THE TRUSTEE HAS BEEN INFORMED THAT THE STREET ADDRESS OF: 418 Meadows Lane, Twin Falls, ID 83301, MAY SOMETIMES BE ASSOCIATED WITH SAID REAL PROPERTY.

If the successful bidder cannot provide the bid price by means of one of the above means of payment, the sale will be postponed for 10 minutes only to allow the high bidder to obtain payment in a form prescribed herein above. If the high bidder is unsuccessful in obtaining payment as directed within 10 minutes, the sale will be re-held immediately and any bid by the high bidder from the previous sale, will be rejected, all in accordance with Idaho Code 45-1502 et. Sec.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the deed of trust executed by Virgil Horner, an unmarried man, as Grantor to Alliance Title & Escrow Corp., as Trustee, for the benefit and security of Homesales, Inc. as Successor Beneficiary, recorded June 29, 2007 as Instrument No. 2007-015984, Mortgage records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is failure to:

Make principal and interest payments as set forth on said Deed of Trust and Promissory Note. The original loan amount was $139,500.00 together with interest thereon at the rate of 8.8750% per annum, as evidenced in Promissory Note dated June 20, 2007. Payments are in default for the months of February 2009 through and including October 2009 in the amount of $1,197.22 per month and continuing each and every month thereafter until date of sale or reinstatement. The principal balance as of October 6, 2009 is $138,907.00 together with accrued and accruing interest thereon at the rate of 8.8750% per annum. The per diem is $33.78. In addition to the above, there is also due any late charges, advances, escrow collection fees, attorney fees, fees or costs associated with this foreclosure.

The balance owing as of this date on the obligation secured by said deed of trust is $138,907.00, excluding interest, costs and expenses actually incurred in enforcing the obligations thereunder or in this sale, as trustee's fees and/or reasonable attorney's fees as authorized in the promissory note secured by the aforementioned Deed of Trust.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, Bureau of Land Management

Notice of Realty Action: Proposed Sale of Public Land, Idaho and Termination of a Multiple Use Classification on a portion of these lands

SUMMARY: The following described public land in Jerome County, Idaho, has been found suitable for disposal by direct sale to Todd Buschhorn, under the authority of Sections 203 and 209 of the Federal Land Policy Management Act of 1976 (FLPMA), at no less than the appraised fair market value: Boise Meridian, T. 10 S., R. 19 E., Section 25: Lot 10. The area described contains 7.45 acres in Jerome County. The 1985 BLM Monument Resource Management Plan, as amended, by the 2003 Amendments to Shoshone Field Office Land Use Plans for Land Tenure Adjustment and Areas of Critical Environmental Concern identifies this parcel of land to be within the adjustment area of land tenure Zone 4. The general management philosophy of Zone 4 is to allow disposal of public lands through sale or exchange. Revenues generated from the sale or disposal of lands will be deposited within the general treasury. Conveyance of any mineral interests pursuant to Section 209 of the FLPMA will be analyzed during processing of the proposed sale.

The patent, when issued, will contain a right-of-way thereon for all ditches and canals constructed by the authority of the United States under the Act of August 30, 1890, 43 U.S.C. 945. On the date of publication of the Notice of Realty Action in the Federal Register the above-described land will be segregated from appropriation under the public land laws, including the mining laws, except the sale provisions of the FLPMA. Until completion of the sale, the BLM is no longer accepting land use applications affecting the identified public land, except applications for the amendment of previously-filed right-of-way applications or existing authorizations to increase the term of the grants in accordance with 43 CFR 2807.15 and 2886.15. The segregative effect will terminate upon issuance of a patent, publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a termination of the segregation, or 2 years after date of publication in the Federal Register unless extended by the BLM State Director in accordance with 43 CFR 2711.1-2(d) prior to the termination date.

The land will not be offered for sale until at least 60 days after the date of this notice. For a period of 45 days from April 29, 2010, interested parties may submit comments.

COMMENTS: Interested parties and the general public may submit in writing any comments concerning the land being considered for sale to Lisa Claxton, Natural Resource Specialist, BLM Shoshone Field Office, at the following address. In order to ensure consideration comments need to be received by June 14, 2010. In the absence of timely objections, this proposal shall become the final determination of the Department of the Interior. Comments transmitted via e-mail will not be accepted. Comments, including names and street addresses of respondents, will be available for public review at the BLM Shoshone Field Office during regular business hours, except holidays. Individual respondents may request confidentiality. Before including your address, phone number, e-mail address, or other personal identifying information in your comment, you should be aware that your entire comment including your personal identifying information may be made publicly available at any time. While you can ask us in your comment to withhold your personal identifying information from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so. If you wish to have your name or address withheld from public disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act, you must state this prominently at the beginning of your comments. Any determination by the BLM to release or withhold the names and/or addresses of those who comment will be made on a case-by-case basis. Such requests will be honored to the extent allowed by law. The BLM will make available for public review, in their entirety, all comments submitted by businesses or organizations, including comments by individuals in their capacity as an official or representative of a business or organization. (Authority: 43 CFR 2711.1-2).

ADDRESSES: Address all comments and request for further information concerning this Notice to Lisa Claxton, Realty Specialist, Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Shoshone Field Office, 400 West F Street, Shoshone, Idaho 83352; (208) 732-7272.
