THE FINAL DEBATE

Xavier trustees keep seats

Board members back principal's request for independent panel

By Bradley Guire
Times-News writer

They can vote 'em in, but they can't vote 'em out.

At a special meeting of the Xavier Charter School board of trustees Thursday night, board members voted not to oust three of their own after facing accusations of violating the school's charter and creating a hostile work environment for teachers. Board Chairman Jeff Bulkley, Teresa Berry and Shawn Willsey found themselves in the hot seat but retained their positions.

The meeting was the latest chapter in an ongoing struggle between the board — consisting also of Emily Huber and Joan Hurlock, who weren't up for recall — and the backers of Principal Cindy Fulcher, who was placed on paid administrative leave in August. Fulcher filed a lawsuit in Twin Falls County 5th District Court in early October to prevent the board from possibly firing her.

Supporters of Fulcher subsequently compiled a petition of 60 to 65 parent signatures to have the three board members removed.

"There's a resounding amount of people that support the board and those who don't," Bulkley said after the meeting.

Though Idaho statutes allow for school district board trustees to be recalled by the same people who elect them, that is not the case with Xavier.

In the charter school's bylaws, the process for recalling elected board members is vague at best, leaving Thursday night's scenario open to interpretation. Section 4.5 of the bylaws addresses "resignation and removal" and only offers the following rule on removal: "A director may be removed from office by a vote of the directors."

"We have read the bylaws," Bulkley said. "We're bound by those and not state statute. I think that's part of the misunderstanding."

The board appointed school attorney Diane Tappen to orchestrate a process: the party who filed the petition had 15 minutes to address the public meeting, while the board member up for recall received 15 minutes to present a defense. The board members, barring the member up for recall, entered executive session and then returned for a public vote. A majority was required to remove a

All five gubernatorial candidates join lively fray

By Ben Botkin
Times-News writer

When it comes to Idaho gubernatorial debates, two is company and five is a crowd.

Such was the case for the final debate among the candidates for governor on Thursday night. It was the only debate of four in which all five candidates participated.

The 90-minute event, broadcast live on Idaho Public Television across the state, had a decidedly different mood than the three prior events.

In the first two, GOP incumbent Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter and Democratic rival Keith Allred went head to head against each other.

In the third, independent Jana Kemp participated. This time, independent Pro-Life, who changed his legal name, and Libertarian Ted Dunlap stepped up as well.

So when questions came about the budget, revenues and public education, the audience was treated to an array of vastly different answers beyond the ones from Otter and Allred.

When asked if they would veto any appropriation bills with more cuts to education, the answers varied.

"I will certainly draw a line in the sand," Allred said, adding that there were good options for keeping education whole, like fully staffing the state tax commission.

Kemp, a former state legislator, told voters that in 2006 she voted against legislation that shifted revenue for schools away from property taxes. Now that change is being at least partially blamed for the revenue problems schools face.

"If you want an education system that will work, I stand before you as your choice," Kemp said.

Otter said his opponents are relying on faulty math, saying that with the shortfalls

Idaho has experienced in revenues, there's no way to balance the budget without either making cuts or raising taxes. In the last session, no taxes were raised.

"That's the kind of magic they're using in Washington and it's full of change and hope," said Otter.

Pro-Life had a different take, saying that the state needs to get rid of its "Communist" public school system.

And Dunlap said he supports a $5,000 tax deduction for whatever school parents choose to send their children to.

"Education is far too important to leave to a government monopoly," Dunlap said.

When asked how they would make their decisions, they each had a different take.

Kemp said she would gather information from all sources, but make the final call as governor.

Gated community haggles over non-native swans

By Laura Lundquist
Times-News writer

The motto of the Kanaka Rapids Ranch near Buhl is "Where nature and people come together."

Now, some residents of the gated community are in a struggle with the Idaho State Department of Agriculture over the fate of some of that nature — mute swans, to be exact.

Imports from Europe, the birds got their name because they don't honk. Kanaka residents bought some in 1993 with pinioned wings

"Every day my heart sinks thinking (mute swans) are not going to be in the lakes anymore."

— Veronica Hoyos-Leonard, resident of Kanaka Rapids Ranch

— clipped back to the first joint, meaning they couldn't fly.

Four of those original birds remain, along with four unclipped newcomers, said Patty Beldon, on the board of Kanaka Rapids' homeowners association.

But because the birds aren't native and compete with native trumpeter swans, ISDA classifies them as "deleterious exotic animals" and requires owners to either clip the birds' wings or contain them.

In its October newsletter, the homeowners association stated that ISDA is requiring the association "to destroy all (mute) swans that do not have clipped wings," with a limited time for the homeowners to comply.

The announcement led a number of the 141 Kanaka landowners to voice opposition to killing the birds, said resident Veronica Hoyos-Leonard.

"The swans seem to be alive today," she said. "But every day my heart sinks thinking they are not going to be in the lakes anymore."

Beldon said board members looked at killing the birds because they couldn't enclose them and they didn't know adult birds could be pinioned. Adult birds can be

HE KEPT THEM LAUGHING

Burley resident was key part of 'Greatest Show on Earth'

By Laurie Welch
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Reactions to the recent passing of a famous circus performer just prove the saying that everyone loves a clown.

Former Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey clown Glen "Frosty" Little, 84, died Tuesday in Kimberly.

"I already miss him like crazy," said Little's wife, Pat Little, who described the man under the Ringling Boss Clown makeup as extremely kind and loved by people around the world.

Fans' love for her husband kept Pat's phone ringing Wednesday with calls from around the world as the news of his death spread.

The Littles settled in Burley after Glen's retirement from "The Greatest Show on Earth" 19 years ago. But he didn't exactly hang up his nose — instead, he settled in teaching another generation of clowns how to make people chuckle.

Today is deadline for Comfy Casserole Contest

Who makes the best casseroles in south-central Idaho? The Times-News wants to find out.

To enter our Comfy Casserole Contest, submit the recipe for your family's favorite casserole by 5 p.m. today. From the entrants, we will select the recipes that best fit the following criteria:

- Easy to make (not a lot of special equipment or techniques required)
- Uses commonly found ingredients (a few specialty ingredients OK)
- Versatile (substitutions can be made easily if an ingredient is unavailable)

We'll give extra points for casseroles that are unexpected in flavor or construction and those that have a good story (perhaps they were great-grandma's recipe from the old country, or you found the recipe in a cookbook you bought on your honeymoon).

Finalists will be selected based on recipes, and those chosen cooks will need to be available the week of Nov. 8 to demonstrate how to make the casserole for a reporter and photographer (and have a completed casserole available for them to sample). The winner will be announced Nov. 17.

Submit your recipes to reporter Ariel Hansen at ahansen@magicvalley.com (deadline 5 p.m. today), or drop them off in person at the Times-News offices, 132 Fairfield St. W., Twin Falls (deadline noon today). Include a phone number where you can be reached during the day.

CLARIFICATION

Crime spree story contained unclear details

Due to unclear information in court records, a Wednesday story on an alleged crime spree through Burley contained unclear details. A juvenile charged with crimes related to the spree is in the foster care of a former foster father of Cody Morgan, who was also charged with crimes related to the alleged incident.

The juvenile was not in the car driven by Jenifer Morgan when a witness claimed to see the Morgans throw stolen items out of their moving vehicle. Also, no homes were burglarized during the alleged thefts.

More U.S. Latinos cite discrimination

By Shankar Vedantam
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Nearly two thirds of Latinos in the United States think they are being discriminated against, and a plurality believe the backlash over illegal immigration is the central driver of such bias.

"More Latinos are seeing discrimination against Hispanics as a major problem," said Mark Hugo Lopez, associate director of the Pew Hispanic Center, which released the results of a nationwide survey of Latinos on Thursday.

The results of the survey — which was conducted in both English and Spanish among 1,375 native- and foreign-born Latinos from Aug. 17 through Sept. 19 — come just days before midterm elections in which Latinos are expected to play an important role, particularly in the Florida gubernatorial race and the Nevada Senate contest between Democratic Senate Majority Leader Harry M. Reid and tea party favorite Sharron Angle.

Angle has come under fire for running ads in recent weeks that paint Latinos as menacing interlopers. More than half of all Latinos told Pew pollsters that they were worried that family members, close friends or they themselves could be deported — a measure of how deeply the issue of illegal immigration cuts across the 47 million-strong U.S. Latino community.

Significantly more Latinos than in past surveys say that illegal immigrants are having a negative impact on Latinos, a measure of how the issue is simultaneously stirring and dividing the community. Lopez said the survey did not ask whether Latinos felt illegal immigrants were hurting the community by competing for jobs in a time of recession, or because the backlash against illegal Latino immigrants was affecting the wider community.

An overwhelming majority of Latinos — 86 percent — say that illegal immigrants should be placed on a path to citizenship once they pass background checks, pay a fine and show they are employed. Only 13 percent of Latinos believe illegal immigrants should be deported.

The survey had some good news for Democrats: About 51 percent of Latinos favor Democratic policies on immigration, while 19 percent favor Republican policies.

board member, and the trustee in question each time could not vote. Split votes would have resulted in no action.

This process happened three times, one for each member. Bulkley and Willsey fully abstained from voting; Huber backed all three trustees, while Hurlock voted to recall Bulkley, the only such vote against any of the three. Berry supported her two peers under fire.

In each hearing, Andrea Dayley presented argument for recall. After the meeting was adjourned, she expressed her frustration.

"We were not made aware of the voting process," she said, adding that she didn't know that the vote was to take place at Thursday's meeting.

Without specific bylaws to address the recall of a sitting board member, critics of the board are left with few options: wait until the next election to oust board mem-

As for the pending litigation from Fulcher, the Xavier trustees agree with her that a three-member panel should be put in place for making a decision about Fulcher's contract with the school, according to court filings dated Oct. 21.

The board members also agree that they should recuse themselves from making decisions in the due process hearing that could lead to Fulcher losing her job at the school.

Frosty

Clown Tricia "Priscilla Mooseburger" Manuel, who lives in Maple Lake, Minn., worked under Glen for several years at the Ringling circus.

"Frosty was a great clown, but more importantly he taught us all to be great clowns," Manuel said. "His purpose was to take young clowns and to push them to the front of the spotlight."

Manuel said many of the old-time circus greats learned from Glen, who was inducted into the Clown Hall of Fame in 1991.

He received his Master Clown title from Ringling while Manuel performed with him in the 1980s. Manuel worked with him again when she opened Mooseburger Clown Arts Camp.

"He was the first person I called," Manuel said. "I was so proud to have him be a part of my staff."

Glen was tough, she said — after all, clowning around was his life's work.

"He made sure we toed the line," Manuel said. "... Most of all he wanted us to have respect for the show and to know our place in it.

The show always came first. That was important."

Manuel said Glen was able to make a successful transition from a circus clown performing in front of thousands of people to a hometown clown performing in someone's living room.

Bruce "Abernathy D' Clown" Chenoweth of New Plymouth worked with Glen writing gags for his clown partner, Ann "Twinkles" Chenoweth.

Ann Chenoweth remembers Glen as an old-school clown and "a very nice man."

Glen passed along gags to the Chenoweths, including one tricking the audience to think they're about to get doused with a water bucket really filled with confetti.

"His basic clown skills that he taught were tremendously valuable and his makeup was magnificent," Bruce Chenoweth said.

Pat Little, who enjoyed a 41-year marriage with her husband, said that he above all loved to joke with people.

"I lived to make him happy and he lived to make me happy," she said. "After he retired he'd play tricks on me and then I'd get him back. There will never be another one like him."

Red Skelton never forgot him at Christmas, Pat said, and actor Iron Eyes Cody adored him.

"He was so well loved," Pat said. "I don't know anybody who didn't like Frosty."

Swans

pinioned, said ISDA State Veterinarian Dr. Bill Barton, but the surgical procedure is easier when the birds are young.

Beldon said she tried for many years prior to joining the board to point out that it was breaking the law by keeping the swans. But it wasn't until this summer that homeowner Dave Hanson found the ISDA law, she said.

"There just didn't seem to be any board that was willing to abide by the law," Beldon said.

Other homeowners, including wildlife committee members Tom Ragain and Shannon Besoyan, question whether the homeowners association can claim to own the unclipped swans. They argue the swans could be either transplants or offspring of transplants, in which case they're wild.

"That's what we're trying to figure out," said Barton, who noted that since 1993 other swans have traveled to and bred with the Kanaka swans. "We're working through it but don't how long it will take."

If the swans are wild, the law no longer applies because they fall under the jurisdiction of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game. Greg Wooten, the agency's state assistant chief of enforcement, said that while the department would rather not see the mute swan population expand, it has no policy on the birds.

Fish and Game has killed some birds along the Snake River, he said, but doesn't actively try to eliminate them.

Hoyos-Leonard questioned the sudden requirement to do something about the birds when most Kanaka residents want to be around nature and wildlife.

"I personally don't want our wildlife threatened or killed. This has never been necessary," she said.

Beldon disagreed. "I don't think we should need to have a ballot of the membership to see how they feel," Beldon said. "If you don't like the law, go change it."

Allred said he'd focus on getting information from competing perspectives and get the right facts first.

Otter said he'd go to cabinet members first, who go to their sources in turn. He reminded the audience of his 30 years of business experience and work as a lieutenant governor under other chief executives.

Pro-Life said he'd rely on his conscience, which "sees further than intellect."

For Dunlap, it would be talking with more than one person, he said, adding that no one person is as smart as all people combined in a group.

Twin Falls firefighters, storage company hold emergency drill

By Bradley Guire
Times-News writer

Firefighters, ghostly blue suits, fog machines — it wasn't a Halloween party.

The Twin Falls Fire Department conducted a hazardous material emergency drill Thursday in which a fictional ammonia spill overwhelmed the Henningsen Cold Storage Co. in Twin Falls. The scenario involved two employees becoming exposed to the chemical and only one escaping, prompting a rescue mission and decontamination.

Inside the building, employee Eddie Keyes played the overcome victim while fog machines gushed white mist into the air to simulate the chemical exposure of venting ammonia gas.

"The whole plant is refrigerated by ammonia," said General Manager Debra Rose.

Once fire engines and Battalion Chief Ron Aguirre arrived on scene, firefighters met with Rose and other employees to explain the situation. The fire department's special response truck arrived to deliver protective suits for working with hazardous material and decontamination equipment.

Firefighters Fred McDonald and Scott Seigworth donned dozens of pounds of heavy gear — including oxygen masks and tanks, communication units and hard hats — before enveloping themselves in blue contaminant suits, which covered them head-to-toe. In all, it took about 15 minutes.

Once suited up, the rescuers entered the building. Meanwhile, other firefighters built a decontamination area out of heavy plastic tarp, orange traffic cones and an industrial fan.

Within minutes, the rescuers brought out Keyes and rushed him to decontamination, then went back inside to address the spill.

Pete Lepschat, the engineering service manager at Henningsen's corporate headquarters in Oregon, explained that exposure to ammonia can burn the skin and mucus membrane areas like the eyes or nose. Inhalation is the most pressing danger, as it can cause death.

Also as part of the drill, a representative from Henningsen called the National Response Center in Virginia to run through the same procedures they would go through had this been a real disaster.

Run by the U.S. Coast Guard, the NRC handles reports of oil and chemical spills for the federal government.

went over notes to share with responders and company representatives for a response plan if an emergency should occur. He noted that even though some processes seem to take a long time — such as the suit-up phase, which is done cautiously to avoid any unwanted contamination of responders — the entire drill went smoothly.

"It's nice to get with these industries and see how they handle a situation so we can form a response to their needs," Aguirre added.

The Twin Falls Fire Department welcomes area companies dealing in hazardous chemicals to contact the department to arrange future meetings or emergency response drills. Call 735-7233.

Tancredo stays competitive in Colorado gov. race

By Steven K. Paulson
Associated Press writer

DENVER — Tom Tancredo is quick to admit he brings plenty of baggage to the Colorado governor's race.

Like the time he called Miami a "Third World country." Or when he got thrown out of the White House for suggesting then-President George W. Bush was soft on illegal immigration. Or when he refused to take part in a presidential debate because it was on a Spanish-language network.

This week, he added more fuel to the fire when he said President Obama is a bigger threat to the United States than al-Qaida or terrorism.

But despite all the baggage, the immigration hard-liner is running a solid campaign for governor as a third-party candidate and is within the margin of error in several recent polls.

Tancredo has successfully courted tea party groups, capitalized on anti-incumbent anger and parlayed his trademark blunt talk on the issues to become the de facto Republican candidate. Tancredo has also taken advantage of the collapse of GOP nominee Dan Maes, who is polling in single digits amid a series of character issues and campaign gaffes.

Tancredo is a former Republican lawmaker who left Congress in 2008 to mount a longshot White House bid that was largely based on an anti-immigration platform. He quit the GOP this year after saying that the Republicans in the governor's race couldn't win.

He got on the ballot as the American Constitution Party candidate — and has been surging in the polls ever since.

Democrat John Hickenlooper, the popular mayor of Denver, remains the favorite and a formidable candidate given his fundraising lead, but he has never made it above 50 percent in most polls.

The Canon City Daily

Record reported that Tancredo told a coffee shop crowd Tuesday that Obama posed a threat to the Constitution, saying: "It's not al-Qaida, it's the guy sitting in the White House."

Tancredo also said he believes Obama and Hickenlooper are "kindred spirits."

Tancredo has said Hickenlooper, a former brewpub owner, raised taxes by $290 million in Denver. He also criticized the Denver mayor for opposing state laws on illegal immigration.

"I'm fed up with elitist politicians who trash our values and jeopardize our economic future," Tancredo said.

Although he refuses to attack Tancredo personally, Hickenlooper has sought to portray Tancredo's policies as radical, including proposals to cut government regulation on issues such as oil and gas drilling.

"We need predictability, not volatility," Hickenlooper said.

Tancredo, who frequently rides around on a Harley-Davidson, recently suggested that drivers on the main east-west highway in Colorado pay tolls — an idea that flies in the face of his low-tax mantra.

Tancredo also drew gasps from a business crowd when he apologized during a speech if their lunch was cold. He joked that half the wait and kitchen staff usually leaves when he walks into a room because of his immigration stance.

Tancredo owes his rise to several bizarre developments involving the Republican candidates in the race.

Former Rep. Scott McInnis was favored to win the primary, but became engulfed in a plagiarism scandal and lost to Maes. Maes then became dogged by campaign finance violations and ridiculed for his views on U.N. global warming conspiracies involving bicycles in Denver, among other gaffes.

Psychiatrist and lawyer convicted in Smith drug case

By Linda Deutsch
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — A boyfriend and two doctors who were part of Anna Nicole Smith's inner circle in her final days and were charged with enabling her prescription drug use were acquitted of most drug charges Thursday, but two were convicted of conspiring to use false names to get her prescriptions.

Howard K. Stern, Smith's boyfriend-lawyer, and Dr. Khristine Eroshevich, her psychiatrist, were convicted of conspiring to get the former Playboy model and reality TV star painkillers and sedatives.

Prosecutors contended during the nine-week trial that the defendants were dazzled by Smith's glamor and filled her demands for prescription drugs to protect their insider status in her personal life and her celebrity world.

Defense attorneys countered by portraying the defendants as angels of mercy who were trying to help Smith cope with her chronic pain, particularly after she gave birth to her daughter by cesarean then lost her 20-year-old son, Daniel, to a drug overdose.

Smith eventually died of an accidental drug overdose in Florida in 2007, but the defendants were not charged in her death at age 39.

The jury convicted Stern of conspiring with Eroshevich to obtain drugs through the use of a false name and misrepresentation. Eroshevich also was found guilty of using a false name and misrepresentation to obtain prescriptions for the painkiller Vicodin for Smith.

Dr. Sandeep Kapoor, the physician who prescribed most of her pain medications, was acquitted of all charges in a verdict he called a triumph for the medical profession.

"This is not just a victory for me, but for patients everywhere who suffer chronic pain," an emotional Kapoor said outside court.

Grizzly numbers hit new high in Yellowstone region

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Grizzly bear numbers in and around Yellowstone National Park have hit their highest level in decades, driving increased conflicts with humans as some bears push out of deep wilderness and into populated areas.

Scientists from a multi-agency team said Wednesday that at least 603 grizzlies now roam the Yellowstone area of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho. That's more than three times the number in 1975, when hunting was outlawed and the species placed on the endangered list.

But more bears also means more run-ins with humans — although bear biologists are quick to point out that visitors to the region are more likely to die in a vehicle crash than a grizzly mauling.

Two people have been killed by grizzlies in the Yellowstone region this year: one west of Cody, Wyo., and another near Cooke City, Mont.

In the latest encounter, on Wednesday, a hunter in Wyoming reported to authorities that he was attacked by a grizzly that he shot and killed in self-defense.

The man, whose name was not available, suffered lacerations from a bite to the leg. The injuries were not considered life threatening.

The incident remains under investigation and the death of the bear was not immediately confirmed. It would mark the 46th grizzly killed or removed from the wild this year. Factoring in unreported killings, wildlife officials estimate at least 62 bears killed or removed so far this year.

The last time so many bears died, in 2008, the population dipped the following year.

But the head of the grizzly research team said only 11 of the known bear deaths were adult females, dampening worries that the species' long-term recovery could stall.

Mistake by governor’s office leaves farmers without aid

LEWISTON (AP) — Idaho Gov. C.L. “Butch” Otter and the state’s congressional delegation have contacted federal authorities to try to get some $10 million in disaster relief money for northern Idaho farmers possibly lost after Otter’s office failed to meet a paperwork deadline.

The Lewiston Tribune reports that hundreds of farmers in Lewis, Nez Perce, Idaho and Clearwater counties whose wheat crops were damaged in a 2009 storm could be affected.

“I acknowledge my office made a significant error in not sending the governor’s disaster declaration letter within the 90-day time frame outlined in the Farm Bill,” Otter wrote in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack. “This was our mistake, not Lewis County’s, so I’m asking you not to penalize farmers in that area for circumstances beyond their control.”

If a disaster is declared in one county, any contiguous county automatically qualifies.

Otter spokesman Jon Hanian said a misplaced fax led to the missed 90-day deadline on Nov. 23 to get the paperwork to the U.S.

“We took a major, major hit. We just found out it may have cost something in the neighborhood of $5 million in Lewis County alone. Farmers in this area are unhappy.”

— Lewis County Commissioner Don Davis

Department of Agriculture. In November, the governor’s office was relocating from temporary offices in the Borah Building to the newly renovated Statehouse.

Republican U.S. Sen. Mike Crapo and Democrat U.S. Rep. Walt Minnick said they hope to submit legislation so Idaho farmers will get the money. However, support from other lawmakers could be scarce, the newspaper reported, because only one or two other congressional districts in the country missed disaster deadlines.

“We took a major, major hit,” said Lewis County Commissioner Don Davis. “We just found out it may have cost something in the neighborhood of $5 million in Lewis County alone. Farmers in this area are unhappy. They’ve had some mediocre years — that’s the nature of the beast up here on the prairie — and that’s why these farm programs are in place.”

In 2009, heavy rain hit in the middle of the wheat harvest, causing county commissioners to approve a disaster emergency declaration.

“This isn’t just a Lewis County issue,” said Travis Jones, executive director of the Idaho Grain Producers Association. “Nez Perce County, Clearwater County and Idaho County would also have qualified. When you add them in, that ups the expected loss (from the missed deadline) to the $5 million to $10 million range. But that’s hard to verify.”

Karel Wemhoff, Lewis County executive director for the United States Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency, said a similar storm in 2008 led to about 240 producers qualifying for $5.1 million in relief payments. That doesn’t include producers in surrounding counties, she noted.

Labrador, Minnick clash over wilderness, health care in debate

By Jessie L. Bonner
Associated Press

BOISE — Republican state lawmaker Raul Labrador says if elected to Congress, he would not support U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson’s plan to create a new central Idaho wilderness.

The rift over whether Idaho should get a new federally protected wilderness cropped up Thursday at a public forum that pitted Labrador against Idaho’s other congressman, Democratic U.S. Rep. Walt Minnick.

Minnick supports Simpson’s plan to create a 331,616-acre wilderness in the Boulder and White Cloud mountains. Simpson is still trying to revive the proposal, amid opposition from Gov. C.L. “Butch” Otter.

Minnick said Simpson’s bill represents a “half-a-loaf” consensus solution that would be good for Idaho.

“Congressman Simpson did a great job, over seven years, of bringing these people together, he has presented a very good bill,” Minnick said.

Labrador also commended Simpson, who has stumped for him, for bringing various groups to the table but said: “Sometimes when you have half-a-loaf, it’s just a half-baked solution.”

“We need to fight the encroachment of the federal government, and we don’t need to have these ideas,” Labrador said.

Simpson has pointed out that the land is already wilderness study area that is treated as wilderness. Simpson’s proposal would also release 130,000 acres from wilderness study area to multiple uses.

The Central Idaho Economic Development and Recreation Act, called CIEDRA, was just one area where Labrador and Minnick clashed on the issues during the Boise City Club forum.

While Minnick and Labrador agreed on the need to limit federal spending, their similarities were few and far between as the pair traded jabs during the public forum.

The two clashed over health care reform — Minnick wants to change parts of the law, while Labrador has called for an outright repeal — and also lashed out at each other for negative ads launched from both sides.

When asked to name what their top priority would be in office, Minnick said he was focused on the economic recovery. Labrador, an attorney, touted his expertise in immigration law.

“As a freshman, I will be able to have a seat at the table,” Labrador said. “I will be able to actually help craft the legislation that will solve the problem of illegal immigration. I will be able to have input on that issue.”

AROUND THE STATE

IDAHO Kootenai County election chief must stop sharing write-ins

COEUR D’ALENE — The Idaho Secretary of State’s office has told the Kootenai County Elections Department to stop providing lists of write-in candidates’ names to voters at polling stations.

Tim Hurst, chief deputy secretary of state, said the directive on Wednesday puts the county back in line with state policy that prohibits the lists.

“That’s akin to electioneering at the polls,” Hurst told the Coeur d’Alene Press. “That’s the challenge that write-in candidates have, is getting the word out. People need to know before they go to the polls.”

Kootenai County Clerk Dan English said polling stations had been offering a single list of write-in candidates for voters to look at if requested.

“They look at them (the lists) and do their business, but they don’t take it away,” he said.

The county will eliminate the lists and follow state rules by providing only write-in candidates’ names vocally if a voter asks, English said.

Jeff Ward, president of the Kootenai County Reagan Republicans, complained Wednesday about the lists of write-in candidates.

Missing hunter, teen daughter rescued after 3 days in snow

AVERY — A helicopter crew plucked a hunter and his 14-year-old daughter from a mountainous and remote area of northern Idaho Thursday morning after the pair had been missing for three days following a snowstorm.

A spokesman at the Fairchild Air Force Base’s 36th Rescue Flight in Spokane, Wash., says 37-year-old Matthew Gering and his daughter, Kia, of Post Falls had no injuries when they were hoisted to the helicopter in a basket and flown to a command post in Avery, Idaho.

Staff Sgt. J.G. Buzanowski says the two were rescued in a rugged area where 2 feet of snow had fallen Monday night.

Authorities say Gering and his daughter went hunting Monday and were supposed to contact relatives in Post Falls that evening but did not.

Luna fan lauds math program, fails to disclose job

BOISE — A fan of public schools chief Tom Luna wrote Idaho newspapers this month to praise his math initiative, but the supporter did not disclose her role with a company hired as part of the program.

Marisa Alan identified herself as a “parent and educator” in her letter applauding Luna, a Republican running for a second term, and his efforts to improve student math skills.

But Alan failed to mention her role with Apangea, a company that Luna’s department has contracted since June 2008 to provide web-based math programs in grades 5-12 as part of the Idaho Math Initiative.

In her letter, Alan praised Luna for “wisely” choosing to continue funding the math initiative. The state is paying Apangea $1.3 million this fiscal year as part of the program.

Alan, who is listed as an Apangea contact on the state Department of Education website, did not immediately return a request for comment.

Supporters of Democrat Stan Olson, who is challenging Luna in November, first pointed out Alan’s role with Apangea.

Pumpkin stand out of its gourds

LEWISTON — When word got out that an Idaho State Tax Commission representative threatened to shut down a family pumpkin stand for lack of a state permit, Lewiston area residents responded by scooping up the stand’s inventory.

Kami Charais tells the Lewiston Tribune the stand made three times as much money as they expected, bringing in $600 to pay for wrestling and dance lessons for their children, ages 6 and 4. She figures they’ll have to turn over $36 in sales tax to the state.

Jacob and Sami-Lou Charais sold the squash from their porch, splitting the profits with the grower. Some people made donations and others drove from as far away as Spokane, Wash., to grab a gourd.

A representative of the tax commission has said the stop was meant to inform the family that they needed permits and to pay the state’s 6 percent sales tax.

Sometimes, CSI trustees must ask tougher questions

In the 45-year history of the College of Southern Idaho, the school's three presidents — James “Doc” Taylor, Jerry Meyerhoeffler and Jerry Beck — likely rank 1-2-3 as the school's most influential figures.

LeRoy Craig and Charles Lehrman, members of the board of the trustees since 1974, are probably fourth and fifth on that list.

Simply put, CSI — arguably Idaho's most successful institution of higher education after Boise State — wouldn't be what it is but for Lehrman and Craig's nearly four decades of exceptional service. They're responsible not only for setting the tone for the model of flexible, accessible, affordable education that is CSI's brand, for personally attracting an untold number of dollars to the college from private-sector donors, and for shepherding state-of-the-art campus facilities.

But now it's a time for a change.

And it's not because Craig and Lehrman aren't honorable, honest and still very capable men. It's just that any institution needs someone in a position of authority to question how things are done, and that hasn't happened often enough at CSI in the past few years.

In our opinion, the CSI board hasn't always done its due diligence:

- In June 2009, trustees approved a recommendation from the school's administration to hire builder Starr Corp. and architect/engineer CTA to oversee design and construction of a major new campus building. But memos, plans and other documents obtained by the Times-News showed that Starr Corp. and CTA were involved in the wind energy building project six months earlier and were being called CSI's “design-build team” well before the college opened the competition to other bidders. Subsequently, several contractors who had submitted proposals to CSI told the Times-News that they wouldn't have bothered seeking the work if the college had told them about the prior involvement of Starr Corp. and CTA.
- CSI's process of renewing the president's contract is kept out of the public eye. The board never takes a public vote on renewing the contract.

- In 2009, CSI hired Beck's daughter, Kristin, over 58 other applicants as director of the school's Mini Cassia Center in Burley. Craig said at the time he wasn't familiar with the institution's nepotism policy and didn't see any conflict of interest in hiring the president's daughter for the $44,000-a-year job.

- Board votes typically are unanimous, regardless of the issue. We believe that open, public debate and disagreement among board members is healthy.

The average tenure on the five-member CSI board is 23 years, and five of the last 11 trustee elections have been uncontested. Would the board have taken such questionable actions if there had been more turnover in recent years among the trustees?

Perhaps, but there's a clear perception in the community that the board is more complacent about actions by the CSI administration than it should be.

We think former CSI faculty member Karl Kleinkopf, who is challenging Lehrman, and Bob Keegan, a long-time fresh pack potato plant owner who is running against Craig, would help change that.

Kleinkopf retired in May from CSI after a 33-year career at the college, where he worked in the school's department of physical education and health education in a variety of roles. At various times, he was a department chairman, track and cross country coach and athletic director.

Keegan earned an associate's degree from CSI before getting a bachelor's degree from Regis College in Denver; he retired from the potato business two years ago.

Both are adamant that CSI's contracting process and its nepotism policy need more scrutiny.

At the very least, their presence on the board would likely mean that questions about how CSI does business would be asked that aren't being asked now.

The college is an innovatively run community treasure, a local economic development dynamo and a gateway to a better life that simply wouldn't otherwise be available to many south-central Idaho residents.

But that doesn't mean it couldn't be better.

ABOUT THIS RACE

Two seats on the College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees are up for election, and six candidates have filed for the four-year term.

In Position 1, 36-year incumbent LeRoy Craig, a 76-year-old co-owner of a Jerome insurance agency, is being challenged by Catherine Holston, 56, of Twin Falls, an attendance secretary at Twin Falls High School; Joshua Jackson, 25, of Buhl, who works in sales and service for Best Buy in Twin Falls and is a camera operator and technician at KMVT-TV; and Bob Keegan, 60, of Twin Falls, who is retired after a career as co-owner of a potato-packing plant.

In Position 2, 36-year incumbent Charles Lehrman, 83, a retired Buhl veterinarian, is being challenged by Karl Kleinkopf, 64, of Kimberly, a retired faculty member and coach at CSI. The CSI district includes Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

Pork for me, scraps for you

House Minority Leader John Boehner, R-Ohio, rails against government spending yet votes for a $485 million appropriation for the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter's alternative engine, which the Pentagon wants to kill. Boehner's district is near the General Electric plant that's building the engine.

Rep. Earl Pomeroy, D-N.D., is a member of the fiscally conservative Blue Dog Coalition. He got an “F” on his 2009 report card from the National Taxpayers' Union, which ranks members on the restraint they exercise in the areas of taxing and spending.

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., ranking member on the Appropriations Committee, has a lifetime rating of 80 from the American Conservative Union. Yet he secured $490 million of earmarks in 2010, making him the biggest Senate porker for the third consecutive year, according to watchdog group Citizens Against Government Waste.

With fiscal conservatives like these, who needs big spenders?

That lawmakers stand for one thing and vote for another isn't necessarily a reflection of a split personality or a duplicitous nature. They're just doing what the budget process incentivizes them to do.

Let me explain.

The framers of the U.S. Constitution devised a system of government known as representative democracy. We elect individuals to represent our interests in Congress.

Newly elected representatives may come to Washington with high ideals and lofty principles. Then they're confronted with a big pool of money that's there for the taking. If they don't claim it, someone else will.

In this world, thrift isn't a virtue. The meek don't inherit anything. The only question is which districts will win the jackpot.

Economist John Cogan, a

senior fellow at the Hoover Institution and professor of public policy at Stanford University, sees the budget process as an illustration of the “Tragedy of the Commons,” a concept first enunciated by biologist Garrett Hardin in a 1968 essay published in Science magazine.

Hardin showed how individuals, acting in their own self-interest, will deplete a commonly owned resource — a forest or grazing land, for example — even if it's in everyone's long-term self-interest to preserve it. “Freedom in a commons brings ruin to all,” Hardin wrote.

Two decades ago, Cogan looked at the history of government spending and the budget process and found “the powerful role the commons problem played in producing deficits.”

A centralized process, with spending authority concentrated in a single committee in each House, produced balanced budgets during the first 90 years of U.S. history except during periods of war and recession. Decentralized budgeting by numerous authorizing committees proved to be a ticket for deficit spending, on average, from 1886-1921 and 1932 until now.

Various measures have been introduced over the years to impose some accountability on the budget process. “Unfortunately, the committee itself was the accountant,” Cogan said.

The Congressional Budget Act of 1974 required the House and Senate Budget Committees to draft a budget resolution to serve as a spending blueprint. The resolution is nonbinding.

Paygo, requiring offsetting cuts for any new entitlement spending, was introduced in the 1990s and allowed to lapse.

The current Democratic Congress passed Paygo, proceeded to ignore it and never got around to passing a budget resolution.

So much for attempts at accountability.

The only solution, according to Cogan, is to centralize the budget process. The way things now stand, no one decides the total amount of money the government will spend. Various committees with jurisdiction over specific areas of the budget start to move legislation forward.

Under the current system, lawmakers aren't doing their job — they aren't “representing” their constituents — if they don't make a claim on the community till.

Once Congress could spend to promote the general welfare, courtesy of a series of Supreme Court rulings in the 1930s, Congress got to “decide what the general welfare is,” Cogan said. “It created demand from representatives for projects they wouldn't demand if they had to pay for it themselves.”

Tea Party candidates who ride into Washington on a wave of anti-incumbent fervor will face the same skewed spending incentives as their predecessors. In their zeal to represent the common man, they may just compound the common tragedy.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Yes vote for jail is a vote for the future

On Tuesday, the citizens of Jerome County will have the opportunity to ensure the safety and well-being of our community for not only our future but also the future of our children and grandchildren.

By voting in favor of the new jail and sheriff's office, we will hopefully avoid the inevitable closure of the existing dilapidated facility and the costly results.

After considering all sources of information, I am confident this is the right time for us to make this move. Interest rates are down, construction costs are down, the need is great, and if we delay, I am sure it will cost us a great deal more in tax dollars in the future.

I don't believe in wasting tax dollars, and I am committed to operating the sheriff's budget like it is my own money because, as a taxpayer, it is. I realize it's the property owners and taxpayers of Jerome County that provide the sheriff with the budget to complete the job.

Please vote yes for the jail bond on Nov. 2.

School community grateful for response

Tuesday, Oct. 26, was an extremely painful day for all of us who love children and serve them.

As you know, we lost one of our own in a very tragic car accident while one other student and a teacher were badly injured. Immediately on the scene that terrible morning were police and 30 emergency responders from Wood River and Carey.

On behalf of the school district and our entire school community, I wish to express my deepest gratitude to all of you who were there that morning providing assistance. Thank you. We are so very grateful.

Scheduling conflict wasn't governor's fault

To the Jerome Public Library staff:
I would like to publicly apologize to the Jerome Library staff about the problems the Republican Committee caused in the scheduling conflict last week at the library.

There was an apparent miscommunication on our part on who was responsible to reserve the meeting room. I arrived almost an hour early and there was no sign of any conflict with other users — no wedding cake, decorations or tables set up in the room. I tried to talk to the clerk in the library, but there were so many children crowding around the clerk, who was very busy, that I saw no reason to bother her. As the staff is aware, we cleared out immediately when we were told the wedding party was coming. Our group could just as well have met outside; it was such a beautiful day. All this aside, you can rest assured we will not make the mistake again.

The governor and the elected officials were not involved in the scheduling problem.

Republican voters are well informed

I am an informed voter who researches the candidates and seeks out the best choices. I am also a Republican. Many recent voters have suggested that this cannot be true, that Republican voters are uneducated and ill-informed or they wouldn't vote for Republican candidates. This accusation is arrogant and condescending.

I disagree with Democrats who say that I should vote for their candidates because party affiliation doesn't matter. It's important to vote for the most qualified candidate who will uphold my values and political beliefs. I am proud to vote for the Republican leader, and there is a reason why I identify myself with the Republican Party. I believe in reducing government control and wasteful bureaucracy. I support personal freedoms and family values. I don't believe government debt or increased taxes (which burden the working class) are the answer to state or local budget shortfalls.

We need strong leaders who will find ways to responsibly reduce spending in times of economic hardship. There are some who suggest that Republican candidates take voters for granted and don't care about their constituents. However, I have spent time working at the Twin Falls County Fair booth watching strong Republican leaders like Sharon Block, Steve Hartgen, Jim Patrick and Leon Mills talk to voters and genuinely listen to their ideas as well as their complaints. They have continually made themselves available because they care. The Republicans I know are not uninformed, uneducated voters; they are hard-working people that care about their communities.

So to all the Democrats who have written letters imploring Republicans to vote for Democratic candidates: Remember, Republicans are not stupid, lazy, "hard-headed" or "small-minded." We vote with purpose. And making such generalizations about us is not a very successful way to win our votes.

Idaho citizens need new state leaders

Voters of Idaho: It is time for a new state government. I recently read in the Times-News that the state Department of Criminal Investigation lab was behind recording DNA by 6,000 samples! Why? The Republican-led state government has one technician entering DNA data. Another technician has been hired to assist. Guess where that money came from? Stimulus dollars from the federal government that our current Republican politicians made a big deal of rejecting.

State auditors have revealed that our state is owed $280 million by individuals and businesses; $60 million of that could be collected this year if the Legislature would hire more auditors. If you are a regular Idaho citizen who pays their "fair share" this should make you angry.

Please vote for Keith Allred, Cindy Shotswell and other Democrats on Nov. 2.

Pence understands communities in district

I support Donna Pence's re-election as the District 25 state representative.

Donna will fight to make sure Idaho's children get the quality education they deserve. As a retired teacher with a master's degree in education, Donna believes the budget cuts to education have been too severe.

Donna Pence also will work hard to bring more technical education into high schools, including linking classrooms with local community colleges and ensuring a work force to support technology-driven businesses. Donna, with her husband, Lew, has had the opportunity to live and teach in many southern Idaho communities including Gooding, where they have lived since 1972.

For years, the Pences have run a tree farming business where Donna has gained an appreciation for the marketing, financing and labor challenges facing small businesses. This experience and Donna's six years in the Legislature form the basis for her support of fair and equitable tax policies and against special deals for a few.

Donna understands the communities of this district and has the experience to be an effective promoter for our kids and our future. Please join me in voting for Donna Pence, our state representative.

Don't vote for higher taxes, little experience

Everyone should be sure to vote this year. This could be one of the most important times you will ever have the freedom to vote.

We have some people in both parties, so find out all you can about the people and the bills that will change the state Constitution.

Look who has put the nation in the mess we are currently in and do you want to put our nation into a more socialist situation than we are headed?

We have been spoiled people but we need to change our future, and it can be done. Don't get "mind set" on getting rid of everyone presently in office. Vote out those that have put us in this situation. This nation was founded by immigrants from several nations and they came here to work and build a strong nation and a government of the people and for the people.

We have made so many people dependent on the government that soon we will have more people on welfare and unemployment than there will be working.

Mr. Allred is most likely a good person and speaker but he needs more experience and knowledge before we elect him as our governor. Butch Otter and his administration have done a good job of keeping this state out of debt like so many of our neighbors.

There is more about this election than schools and education. Don't vote for higher taxes and little experience. Vote for Butch Otter and the ones that have been doing a job. Also, if you don't feel it is important to vote, just stay home and gripe to anyone that will listen. You will deserve what you will get!

For a responsible assessor, vote Haney

To the 2,563 voting taxpayers of Twin Falls County who voted for assessor candidate George Haney III in the May primary election, I give a hearty and deep-felt sincere thank you for your support.

The 2,563 concerned taxpayers made their preference known when they voted for a change of the county assessor Gerald Bowden. Mr. Bowden, you better heed, take careful notice of and not ignore this very important mandate by the people.

These 2,563 good, critical thinking, concerned, caring, informed, voting, tax-paying people engaged with the property tax issue and voted to have an assessor who would represent the property owner and not the State Tax Commission. These 2,563 taxpayers are demanding accountability for their property tax dollars. Your office has set a deplorable example of financial management.

Almost everyone in Twin Falls County pays rent to the county in the form of property tax. Most pay at least $100 per month. Some pay $400 per month. Tax-paying people want to know how their assessor could irresponsibly let his budget increase more than 55 percent when his work load only increased 17 percent. These 2,563 hard-working people want an assessor available to them who has a reasonable answer to their polite and reasonable questions of obviously overly high assessed values, rather than having their intelligence and common sense insulted by him and his staff.

Remember, whether a property renter or an owner, almost everyone pays rent to Twin Falls County. You tax-paying, good people deserve the biggest bang for your buck and you (we) do not get that with the incumbent, Mr. Bowden.

For reasonable change, for an assessor responsible to and representative of the people, please write in conservative candidate George Haney for Twin Falls County assessor.

Please vote in the November election.
Twin Falls

Allred will evaluate input, find solutions

We would like to express our support of Keith Allred for Idaho's next governor.

While it appears to us that all of the candidates for governor have excellent qualities, we believe that Mr. Allred is most committed to quality education and to finding solutions to our state budget crisis. In addition, he has the knowledge and skills to seek out and evaluate public input on important issues and then build a consensus to make beneficial things happen.

A vote for Mr. Allred is a vote for positive change!

Kleinkopf's experience would be asset to CSI

We have an opportunity to vote for an outstanding trustee at the College of Southern Idaho.

Karl Kleinkopf is first a dedicated teacher with many years in the profession. As a department head at CSI, he has the background in administration to fulfill the duties. He has a strong bond with CSI. With his many years of experience and expertise, he would be a great asset to our college. Karl is a good, honest man and deserves the opportunity.

Please vote for Karl as trustee.

If bond election fails, it will cost taxpayers

As residents of Jerome County, we want to encourage our fellow citizens to vote yes in favor of the jail bond.

After considering all the facts, there is no doubt if the bond fails, a financial burden will be placed on the taxpayers for years to come. Just this week, our jail staff was indulged with finding out-of-county locations to house the excess number of inmates. Our current jail can now only house 30 inmates and, over the weekend, the jail received numerous inmates, bringing the total count to 70.

Please join us in supporting the law enforcement professionals in their job to make Jerome County a great place to live.

HERB ALLEN

Now is a good time to build a new jail

On Tuesday, Nov. 2, Jerome County will have an opportunity to pass a much-needed jail.

Last week, the Jerome County sheriff reported 72 detainees were held over the weekend at our 30-bed facility. That is 42 more detainees than the jail is able to accommodate. This places a huge liability on the shoulders of the county and the taxpayers.

I believe we have located a great piece of property on which to build a new jail. It is located across from our county airport with easy access to city water and sewer and access to the fiber line running through the county. This property will leave room for growth. Today, construction costs are down and the county has a good labor force. This makes it a great time to build.

Our county is poised for growth, and I urge you to vote yes!

JOE DAVIDSON
Jerome

New CSI trustees will bring new outlook

Keegan and Kleinkopf for CSI trustees:

Having known both of these gentlemen for a number of years as well as recognizing their backgrounds in business, civic affairs, management and family, it is difficult to consider anyone else for the position of College of Southern Idaho trustee.

Yes, the present trustees have done a good job. Yes, they have been there since Day 1, but that's no reason to keep them. Yes, it is time for a change. Let's move on with new people, a different outlook or viewpoint. This is called progress. Few things stay the same forever. These gentlemen are capable of working with people and various circumstances; they have exhibited that in the past.

Please join me in supporting Bob Keegan and Karl Kleinkopf in their bids for a CSI trustee position.

JIM OLSON

New jail will keep cash in Jerome County

On Nov. 2, you will be asked to vote concerning a new jail for Jerome County. The current jail was dedicated in 1975 and was built to house 34 inmates. The current average daily population is 60 inmates, causing the county to house an estimated 30 inmates out of our county at an average cost of $50 per day per inmate.

The question is simple. We can either pay now for a new jail or use the current cost savings to help offset the bond costs or we can continue down the same path of doing nothing and pay other counties to house our prisoners. Either way, our tax dollars are going to be spent to house prisoners; we might as well keep the money in our county and not give it to other counties.

As Jerome County continues to grow, so does crime and its inmate population and costs. A yes vote on Nov. 2 would give Jerome County commissioners permission to enter into bond for a new jail.

Please vote yes for the new Jerome detention facility on Nov. 2.

MIKE POHANKA
Jerome

Liberal programs are not working

The "Tea Party" movement and other concerned citizens are working hard to change the present direction Washington and the Democratic majority in Congress are headed. Less than two weeks remain before the election. On Nov. 2, we can send a strong message to Congress and President Obama.

Conservative fiscal responsibility and a need to follow the guidelines set down by our forefathers in the Constitution are just two of the concerns we have about the assault on our freedom as citizens. The disastrous liberal programs endorsed by our present leadership are not working.

If you are as concerned as I am, then please vote for Sen. Mike Crapo on Nov. 2.
FLORENCE M. SANDY
Hagerman

Kleinkopf is uniquely qualified to be trustee

These are difficult and challenging times for everyone. Funding for education has always been an interesting question and, with decreasing tax dollars, has become even more critical. The College of Southern Idaho is a major asset to the Magic Valley, and its continued success is important to all of us.

I have known Karl Kleinkopf for more than 50 years and believe his professional career (42 years) in education uniquely qualifies him to serve as a member of the board of trustees of CSI. His leadership skills and problem-solving capabilities will be a tremendous asset to the college. His background as a department chairman, athletic director and academic professor will bring a needed perspective to the board of trustees as they address the future issues of finding, growth and technology.

Please join me in voting for Karl Kleinkopf on Nov. 2 for the board of trustees of CSI.

HANDS OFF OUR POTASH!

Canadians wary of merger bid

By Rob Gillies
Associated Press writer

SASKATOON, Saskatchewan — A mile under the prairies of Saskatchewan lie the world's biggest reserves of potash, a fertilizer ingredient critical to the global food supply. It's why they call this Canadian province the Saudi Arabia of potash.

These days the question of who should own these buried riches is gripping Canadians' attention. Potash Corp, the company which has rights to more than 50 percent of the reserves, is fighting a hostile bid by Anglo-Australian BHP Billiton, the world's largest mining company, amid charges that a vital

Canadian industry is threatened with "a foreign takeover."

The government of Prime Minister Stephen Harper is expected to decide by Wednesday whether this biggest takeover bid in Canadian history can go ahead, and it faces a dilemma. On the one hand, it firmly believes in the free market. On the other, it's rare and risky for a federal prime minister to overrule a provincial premier, and Saskatchewan's premier, Brad Wall, is dead set against the takeover.

Potash Corp, the target of the $38.6 billion takeover bid, says the Australian offer is laughably low, but worries that if it goes forward it would foreclose on better offers at a time when demand from China and other developing nations for

"Consider what is at stake in terms of potash. This amazing nutrient we have in such great abundance in the province, this potash, is going to be in greater supply. It is a strategic resource. And we should act like it. The country should act like it."

— Brad Wall, Saskatchewan's premier

the crop-improving substance is sure to push up prices.

While the company hasn't specifically rejected a takeover, Wall's mind is made up regardless of whether the offer price goes up.

"Consider what is at stake in terms of potash," the Saskatchewan premier said in a speech when he formally rejected the bid. Urban spread and population growth are reducing farmland, populations are hungrier for protein-rich diets, and "this amazing nutrient we have in such great abundance in the province, this potash, is going to be in greater supply. It is a strategic resource. And we should act like it. The country should act like it."

Nevada mine expansion OK means 200 new jobs

Elko Daily Free Press

ELKO, Nev. — Federal land managers have approved plans to expand a gold and silver mine in north-central Nevada that stopped mining in 2007.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management determined there would be no harmful environmental impacts resulting from the proposed expansion of Coeur d'Alene Corp's Rochester mine, about 20 miles northeast of Lovelock, BLM Director Bob Abbey said Wednesday during an announcement in Reno.

Abbey, the BLM's former state director in Nevada, said he was glad the agency could expedite the environmental assessment because the project will "create new jobs and help stimulate economical support for the county and local community."

The expansion is expected to produce nearly 200 new jobs.

Officials for Idaho-based Coeur d'Alene said work will begin next month with new production to begin the fourth quarter of next year. They project annual production of 2.5 million ounces of silver and 30,000 ounces of gold over the next six years.

"We're very pleased," Rochester General Manager Cindy Jones said. She said Rochester plans a job fair Thursday at the community center in Lovelock from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Coeur d'Alene officials

"We have been working together for over a year to make this mine expansion possible."

— Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev.

stated that capital costs for expanding Rochester are estimated at $29 million in 2011 and $38 million over the life of the project.

Since it opened in 1986, the mine has produced more than 125 million ounces of silver and 1 million ounces of gold.

Gov. Jim Gibbons and Nevada Sens. Harry Reid and John Ensign backed the project in negotiations between Coeur d'Alene and BLM. Reid said annual salaries for the new jobs will average $86,000.

"We have been working together for over a year to make this mine expansion possible," Reid said. "These high-paying jobs will make a big difference to families in northern Nevada."

Ensign said the mine is "vital to the economic stability of Pershing County."

"People across Nevada are grappling with record-high unemployment rates, but in counties such as Pershing where one industry is the main source of employment, high unemployment is crippling," he said. "Right now, it's crucial that we protect and fight for private sector jobs in our state."

Economic, political climate make tax planning difficult

As the year starts winding down, accountants encourage their small business clients to make an appointment to discuss tax planning for the old year, and for the new one. The uncertainty of the economy, and whether Congress will extend tax breaks that affect business owners, is making that planning harder than usual.

Accountants say it's a good idea to hold those planning meetings as soon as possible. But Jeffrey Berdahl, a certified public accountant with RLB Accountants in Allentown, Pa., said owners should keep in mind that any decisions made now might need to be rethought depending on what happens in Washington with the economy during the next two months.

"You might have to do it all over in December," he said.

Still, owners should meet with their accountants to discuss how the business is doing, and to make at least tentative decisions based on where the company needs to go over the next year.

SMALL TALK
Joyce M. Rosenberg

"You can strategize what your options are," Berdahl said.

Accountants advise that owners don't make decisions solely for tax reasons. If you want to buy equipment or start a retirement plan, those actions should be taken because they're good for your business in general.

THE TAX QUESTION

Accountants are betting that taxes will go up next year. Even if federal taxes don't rise, some states that are hurting financially are likely to raise their taxes.

A big unknown is whether Congress will extend the tax breaks on capital gains and dividends that were passed during the Bush administration and expire at the end of this year. The capital gains tax is currently at 15 percent. Without an extension, it will become 20 percent on Jan. 1. That will affect businesses that sell assets.

Dividends are also currently taxed at 15 percent. Unless Congress acts, they'll be treated as regular income and taxed according to an owner's tax bracket. That affects the owners of what are called C corporations, since they receive dividends from the companies.

In more predictable times, CPAs recommend that businesses try to lower the current year's taxes by taking more deductions now and putting off income until January or later. "It's almost the opposite now," Berdahl said, suggesting that owners consider collecting receivables before Dec. 31 and delaying purchases until 2011, when they may need more deductions.

Edward Smith, a tax partner with the accounting firm BDO Seidman in Boston, noted that some states are changing their tax laws so they are less in conformity with the federal

Survey: Painfully slow economic gains into 2011

By Jeannine Aversa
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — The job market and the economy will improve only slightly next year, according to an Associated Press survey of leading economists whose outlook for 2011 has dimmed over the past three months.

The latest quarterly AP Economy Survey shows economists are pushing back their estimates of when key barometers of economic health — hiring, spending, expansion — will signal strength.

In their view, shoppers and employers will stay cautious. Households will keep saving. Inflation will remain tame. And unemployment will dip only a bit from the current 9.6 percent rate to a still-high 9 percent at the end of 2011.

In the previous survey in July, the economists predicted unemployment of 8.7 percent at the end of next year. In the survey before that, they foresaw 8.4 percent. Some now think unemployment won't drop to a historically normal 5.5 percent to 6 percent until at least 2018 — several years later than envisioned earlier.

It adds up to a grim picture for the new Congress that begins in January. Voter frustration over unemployment is threatening to cost Democrats their control of the House, and maybe the Senate, in the midterm elections Tuesday.

LIVESTOCK

JEROME – Producers Livestock Marketing Association in Jerome

The Dow Jones industrial fell 12.33, or 0.1 percent, to close at 11,113.95. The Standard & Poor's 500 index rose 1.33 point to 1,183.78, while the Nasdaq composite rose 4.11, or 0.2 percent, to 2,507.37
Not even a falling dollar could provide support for the market. Stocks and commodities have been very sensitive to the movement of the dollar in recent weeks. A decline in the dollar makes riskier assets priced in the currency, such as gold, oil and domestic stocks, more attractive to investors.
The dollar was broadly lower against other currencies, while commodities prices mostly rose. Gold rose $19.90 to $1,342.50 an ounce.
Bond prices rose. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury note, which moves opposite its price, fell to 2.66 percent from 2.72 percent late Wednesday.
Gaining stocks narrowly outpaced declining ones on the New York Stock Exchange, where volume came to 1 billion shares.

COMMUNITY

COMMUNITY NEWS

Indoor yard sale to benefit Senior Center

The community is invited to an indoor yard sale from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Twin Falls Senior Center, 530 Shoshone Ave. W. in Twin Falls.

Clothing, books, kitchenware and many more items will be available for purchase. Refreshments and fresh, homemade cinnamon rolls can also be purchased.

For those who would like to sell items at the yard sale, spaces are $15, including a table. The yard sale will help support the senior center.

Information: 734-5084.

Gooding students challenged to collect eyeglasses

The Gooding Lions Club has once again challenged the fifth-grade class at Gooding Middle School to collect used eyeglasses on Halloween night.

The glasses are recycled and distributed to those who cannot afford eyeglasses. The students will be rewarded with an ice-cream party after Halloween. Used prescription eyeglasses for children and adults and non-prescription sunglasses are needed.

Information: Tami Becker-Anderson, 934-4941.

Trade your candy for martial arts classes

Success Martial Arts, 1300 Kimberly Road in Twin Falls, is fighting obesity by offering a Halloween candy trade-in program.

The organization invites every child in the Magic Valley to trade in their Halloween candy rather than eat it, in exchange for martial arts classes. Every child who brings in both their candy and a card for the troops will be rewarded with a free three-week karate course. Current students will get three private lessons with Senior Instructor Brian Higgins.

The candy will be accepted from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Champlin earns Eagle Scout Award

Henry Champlin earned his Eagle Scout Award Aug. 16 at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Kimberly.

Champlin

He completed 21 merit badges. For his Eagle project, he designed, built and installed a handicapped-accessible ramp for the winter snow coach at Camp Perkins. He belongs to Troop 68 and his scoutmaster is Rob Werner.

Champlin, 18, is the son of Gary and Cindy Champlin of Kimberly.

He is a Kimberly High School graduate and is currently a freshman at the University of Idaho.

Driver safety class is back in Buhl

A Driver Safety Program class will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 4 and 5 at the United Methodist Church, 908 Maple St., Buhl. Attendance on both days is required for credit.

The class costs $14, and AARP members receive a $2 discount by presenting their membership cards. Insurance companies in Idaho give a discount to people over 55 who complete such a class.

Preregistration is required. Information: John Ellis, 420-5891.

Vendors wanted for craft show

Tables are still available for arts and crafts vendors at the annual Lea Owsley Post No. 31 American Legion Auxiliary craft show.

The show will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 4 at the American Legion Hall in Hagerman. Information: Peggy Erwin, 837-4433.

Seen here are Carolyn Cutler, her daughter and son-in-law Summer and Rick Bloyer, and their three daughters with the playhouse Cutler won in a raffle.

Playhouse raffle raised $2,200 for SILC

A playhouse originally built and donated by Milestone Builders to Relay For Life has again switched hands.

Dr. Jack Trotter won it in a raffle for Relay For Life. A longtime friend and supporter of the Southern Idaho Learning Center (SILC), he then donated it to that organization.

SILC then raffled the playhouse off at the Twin Falls County Fair. Carolyn Cutler won it and gifted it to her daughter and son-in-law, Summer and Rick Bloyer, and her three granddaughters.

SILC used the raffle proceeds of $2,235 for scholarships for children who are struggling learners, helping them get the specialized help they need so they can reach their full potential.

Idaho Horse Board seeks grant applications

The Idaho Horse Board awards yearly grants to projects that benefit the Idaho horse industry in areas of education, research and promotion. Grant requests are now being accepted.

The board is the first of its type in the United States set up to manage check-off funds collected by the state brand inspector. Each time a horse is inspected, $3 is collected and turned over to the board for grant purposes. Grants are given in January of each year.

Grants have gone to improve public horse facilities, for educational programs, to promote the Horse Expo held in Boise, for college research and teaching projects, and assisted in funding public television horse productions.

All grant requests must be typed or computer-generated, and received by Dec. 1.

For an application, call 788-7111, visit www.idahohorseboard.com, e-mail Hymas@cox.net or mail your request to Idaho Horse Board, 803 Canyon Road, Hailey, ID 83333.

SOMEBODY NEEDS YOU

Volunteers — River Ridge Care and Rehabilitation Center in Twin Falls needs volunteers to assist with activities for residents in the Solana Care Unit (Alzheimer's unit). Volunteers are needed for a few hours in the mornings and in the evenings. Information: Stephaney Osburne, 734-8645 ext. 142, or Stephaney.Osburne@sunh.com.

Drivers — Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center needs volunteer drivers for the home-delivered meals program for the homebound. Drivers do not have to be seniors to volunteer to drive one or two days a week for an hour to an hour and a half. The center needs reliable people for the appointed routes. Volunteers — St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center has several volunteer opportunities available. Qualifications include being friendly, compassionate individuals; the ability to set priorities, such as punctuality, dependability and responsibility; the physical ability to walk, stand and sit for a period of time; and the ability to take the initiative and be flexible, assuming different roles as needed to provide help or comfort to patients, visitors and staff. Information: Kim, 737-2006, or St. Luke's Volunteer Services Office, fifth floor, 650 Addison Ave. W., Twin Falls.

Volunteers — Idaho Home Health and Hospice is looking for caring and compassionate people to volunteer three hours a week. Hospice volunteers provide valuable support to patients and families dealing with terminal illness. Information: Amanda Harman, 734-4061.

Volunteers — Hospice Vision's Teen Volunteer Program needs adults who have a passion for working with teens and hospice patients. Volunteers share their time by interacting with the elderly through crafts, playing games, recording life reviews and providing companionship during weekly nursing home visits. Information: Heidi, 735-0121 or hwalker@tevisionsgroup.org.

Volunteers — Girl Scouts of Silver Sage Council needs female volunteers to facilitate the Visions program at the fourth- and fifth-grade levels in schools and other venues. Visions is a short-term, once-a-week commitment of eight to 18 weeks, depending on the volunteer. Training and materials are provided. Information: 733-9623.

Volunteers — The AARP Tax-Aide Program needs

volunteers to provide tax assistance and preparation services from Feb. 1 to April 15. Volunteers with good computer skills are needed to help file electronic tax returns in the Gooding, Jerome, Burley and Rupert areas. Information: Jim Simpson, 733-1808 or simpsonjim@cableone.net.

Mentors/volunteers — The Easter Seals Goodwill GoodGuides program is part of a national mentoring program providing guidance to boys and girls ages 12 to 17. Volunteer opportunities in the Magic Valley include the lunchtime mentoring program at Wings Charter School, where mentors spend 30 minutes per week having lunch with a student. Teens are needed to be part of the Teen Advisory Board, which meets about every three months for one or two hours per meeting to provide input, feedback and guidance for the program. Information: LeWayne or Tristan, 736-2026, 2469 Wright Ave. in Twin Falls, or tristans@esgw.org.

Wash your hands to reduce the spread of germs

DEAR DR. GOTT: A few years ago, my mother read something in your column that led her to believe that because urine is sterile, she doesn't need to wash her hands after urinating.

Not having read that particular question and response, I don't know what information you conveyed. The problem for us now is that she is clinging to that "advice." She lives in an assisted-living community, and the hygiene issue affects many other people. So, between whatever it was she gleaned from your column and a false claim to being allergic to soap, we have a real problem.

She reads your column faithfully, so it would be of great benefit to all who are in similar living circumstances if you would revisit the necessity of hand washing and other hygiene issues for those who live in healthcare communities.

I'm a concerned daughter.

DEAR READER: Indeed, I must admit that in the past I indicated that hand washing wasn't vital following urination. Well, I got raked over the coals (and rightly so) for that one by my readers and quickly realized the error of my ways. My beliefs are exactly that — mine — and I should not have passed them to others.

Generally speaking, urine is sterile until it leaves the body — free of bacteria and viruses. However, it contains waste products, fluids and salts. Infection occurs when organisms from the digestive tract cling to the opening of the urethra and multiply. The urethra carries urine from the bladder to outside the body. The most common bacterium is Escherichia coli, otherwise known as E. coli. Any abnormality of the urinary tract that obstructs the flow of urine can trigger an infection. Furthermore, people with diabetes or disorders that suppress the immune system have a

Idaho Food Bank gives $78,000 in grants

The Idaho Food Bank Fund's first grant recipients will receive a total of $78,100. Among the 26 grantees are five Magic Valley groups:

- The Hunger Coalition in Bellevue will get $1,500 for a cooler.
- The United Methodist Church in Wendell will get $2,200 for shelving and a freezer.
- La Posada in Twin Falls will get $4,000 for Christmas baskets.
- The Community Council of Idaho in Twin Falls and Jerome counties will get $1,800 for shelving, transportation and a freezer.

• CCI's operation in Minidoka and Cassia counties will get $2,800, also for shelving, transportation and a freezer.

The Idaho Food Bank Fund was established by the 2009 Legislature as a cooperative effort among three well-respected statewide Idaho nonprofits: the Idaho Foodbank, Community Action Partnership Association of Idaho and Catholic Charities of Idaho. Idaho taxpayers could donate to the fund on their 2009 state income tax forms.

Grant applications were submitted between July 15 and Aug. 15, targeted at projects that would expand existing food storage or distribution capacities, or otherwise increase support services related to hunger relief in Idaho.

Qualified applicants had to be nonprofits, but were not required to have any connection with the three lead groups.

The next grant period will be July 1 to 31. Information: grants@idahofoodbank.org.

Where do celebrities go when they die? Steve Goldstein knows exactly

By Susan King
Los Angeles Times

A statue of Ramones guitarist Johnny Ramone tops his tombstone in Hollywood Forever Cemetery in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES — Steve Goldstein knows where all the famous bodies are buried. By day, he's a businessman who owns a payroll service. But in his off hours, he's one of Hollywood's best-known grave hunters. Author of "LA's Graveside Companion: Where the V.I.P.s R.I.P." and creator of the website www.beneathlosangeles.com, Goldstein knows all the stories behind the stars and their final resting places.

So with Halloween approaching, what better way to spend All Hallows Eve than to visit the cemeteries to pay your respects to cinema's legends? Recently, Goldstein led me in a personal tour of two of the most star-studded cemeteries: Hollywood Forever and Pierce Brothers Westwood Village Memorial Park and Mortuary.

Sitting outside the Cathedral Mausoleum at Hollywood Forever, Goldstein explains that growing up in Boston as a history buff he loved roaming the cemeteries and reading gravestones from the 17th and 18th centuries.

That fascination moved with him when he moved to Los Angeles 36 years ago and began visiting local cemeteries. "I came across Douglas Fairbanks and Rudolph Valentino here," he says. "Then I went to Westwood one day looking for Marilyn Monroe. Over time you see that Natalie Wood and Dean Martin are there."

The most popular tourist site at Hollywood Forever is Valentino's crypt at the Cathedral Mausoleum. It's tucked at the end of one of the aisles. On this day, the flowers next to his nameplate — Rodolfo Guglielmi Valentino 1895-1926 — had outlived their welcome; there was a fresh ruby-red kiss painted on the wall.

"It was meant to be temporary," Goldstein says of the crypt. "They were supposed to build an elaborate memorial. The money never materialized. His family eventually brought the crypt from June Mathis' family. Mathis was the screenwriter who discovered him and she died a year later and is now buried next to him."

West of the mausoleum is the Fairbanks Lawn, a valley that features a pool leading to a lavish memorial for silent screen actor Douglas Fairbanks, who died in 1939. Just behind the memorial is where Cinespia screens movies on the weekends during the summer. The sarcophagus in front of the memorial now also houses the remains of his son, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., who died in 2000.

Goldstein says he's heard from an eyewitness that when they opened the sarcophagus to bury Junior, Fairbanks senior was still perfectly preserved 61 years after his death. "He was so embalmed, they must have used stronger chemicals."

Walking across the road from the mausoleum, one finds a treasure trove of the famous, including the twin crypts of producer-director Cecil B. DeMille and his wife; the resting place of MGM musical star Nelson Eddy; a simple marker commemorating the grave of Charlie Chaplin's beloved mother, Hannah Chaplin. Marion Davies, the actress and mistress of publisher William Randolph Hearst, donated the grave site to Chaplin.

Nearby is a memorial for actor Tyrone Power, who died in 1958 of a heart attack while making "Solomon and Sheba."

Magic Valley Manor donates mobility supplies

Kathy Adams and Lee Estep of Magic Valley Manor in Wendell recently donated 12 wheelchairs, 21 walkers and many other assorted crutches, canes and other items for use in giving people in third-world countries mobility for the first time in their lives.

Wheels for the World, a division of Joni and Friends Ministries, for more than 15 years has given the miracle of motion to individuals of all ages who live in the poorest of conditions and cannot walk or move around. The group's collected items are renovated, sanitized and then shipped to desperately poor countries where teams of volunteers fit the items to the recipients.

To donate discarded items, call volunteers John Jensen, 420-6905 or Anna Dee Jensen, 720-1179. They will make the necessary arrangements to have your donation items picked up. In exchange you will receive a tax receipt for the items donated, as well as the satisfaction of helping others.

higher risk of UTI.

When we are young, we are oblivious and don't think about things like this. But as we age, we may become a little less diligent about personal hygiene. It doesn't matter whether we live alone, with an aging spouse or in a health care facility. We may feel that we are relatively inactive and don't need to shower daily, wash our hair, keep our fingernails trimmed, and wash our hands. After all, if we sit around all day, we can't get dirty and don't need to take such measures, right? Well, no matter what bacterial or viral infection is mentioned today, one of the key things to do is to wash our hands. If we take the time to think, we are exposed to an overwhelming amount of bacteria and germs on door handles, shopping carts and telephone receivers every day of our lives. The safest and best protection is to keep our hands clean, including washing our hands after using the bathroom.

Tell your mother that she has a special place in my heart because of her beliefs, but hand washing prevents the spread of germs, bacteria and viruses. She should find a mild soap that she isn't "allergic to" and wash her hands.

Lana Jo Taylor

HAILEY — Lana Jo Taylor, 53, of Hailey, Idaho, passed away Wednesday, Oct. 27, 2010, at St. Luke's Wood River Medical Center in Ketchum, Idaho.

Lana was born July 11, 1957, in Burley, Idaho, to Sally and Nalon Taylor. She was raised on a farm in Declo with her siblings, Jana, Mark, Kelly, Scott and Lance. Lana often shared fond memories of her childhood, especially her neighborhood friendships. Lana attended school in Declo, Idaho, and graduated from Declo High School. She continued her education, graduating from Idaho State University with a bachelor's degree and from Eastern Washington University with a master's degree in social work. Lana met Steve Begley on Sept. 9, 1984. They married on Lana's birthday, July 11, 1987. Lana and Steve had two children, Dillon and Alexandra, who were the light of Lana's life.

Lana was known for her amazing work ethic and devotion to helping families and children in need. Lana worked for the State Department of Health and Welfare until she began her life's work as a school social worker with the Blaine County School District in 1985. For 25 years, Lana worked unceasingly to help students succeed in every aspect of life. Lana provided a safe and trusting environment for children, often being the nurturing and caring adult that helped them develop resiliency in their lives. Over the years, Lana worked in every school in the district and served on many community coalitions and committees.

Lana had a wonderful love for life that included spending time with her family, golfing, yoga, fast cars, boating, fishing and gardening. Lana was known for her great sense of humor and ability to make people laugh and feel joyful.

Lana is survived by her husband, Steve Begley; children, Dillon and Alexandra; mother, Sally Taylor of Burley; sister, Jana Jarvis of Rupert; brothers, Mark Taylor of Basalt, Scott Taylor of South Carolina, Lance Taylor of Rupert; and nine loving nieces and nephews. Lana was preceded in death by her father, Nalon Taylor; her brother, Kelly Taylor; her nephews, Markie and Jeremy; her sister-in-law, Susan Taylor; her grandparents; and numerous aunts and uncles.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 30, at the Wood River Chapel, 403 N. Main St. in Hailey. A viewing will be held from 10 to 11 a.m. A graveside service will follow at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Rupert Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Lana Taylor Memorial Scholarship Fund at Wells Fargo Bank in Hailey to continue Lana's work of providing for the unmet needs of children in the Blaine County School District.

Friends may visit www.woodriverchapel.com to share memories and photos.

Osmer W. 'Bob' Smith

MALTA — Osmer W. "Bob" Smith, age 81, of Malta, passed away Monday, Oct. 25, 2010, at the Southwest Idaho Advanced Care Hospital in Boise.

He was born on Mother's Day, May 12, 1929, in Malta, Idaho, to Samuel N. and Vernice Rose (Osterhout) Smith. He was nicknamed "Bob" by his sister, Rose, and the name stuck. Bob received and completed his education in Malta. While in school, Bob excelled in football, basketball and track. He married Beverly LuDean Udy on Feb. 14, 1948. Their marriage was later solemnized in the Logan LDS Temple.

Bob and Beverly lived in various places in the Western United States, where Bob was a lineman and worked building power lines for CL Electric up Morgan Canyon, working in Bear Lake, Durkey and Pendleton, Ore. Upon returning to Malta in the early '50s, he began working for the REA. Later, Bob was employed for the State of Idaho Department of Transportation, retiring in July of 1994. He then joined hands with his son, Cregg, and grandson, Brandon, in establishing Smith Furs, a local mink farm. He was proud of this operation and, until his recent illness, spent time each day at the farm.

Bob was active in the community. He was on the committee that drew up the ordinances for the city of Malta and was a member of the city council for 18 years. During this time, he was acting mayor of Malta. He assisted in organizing the fire district and was the first fire chief. Also, he was part of the citizens that formed the Malta Ambulance District. Also, he was instrumental in starting the fireworks that were a part of the annual patriotic Fourth of July program.

He was an active member of the LDS Church. He had served as a Young Men's president, High Priest group leader, a counselor in the Sunday school and was a member of the stake high council of the Declo Idaho Stake. Bob's family was so important to him. He loved the time spent together and had a firm and strong testimony that through his and Beverly's temple marriage, their family will always be together.

Bob is survived by his children, Cregg (Carma) Smith of Malta and Michelle (Dennis) Harper of Hailey; a daughter-in-law, Annette Smith of Salt Lake City, Utah; two sisters, Beth Gunnell of Preston and Nel Dradge of Carey; 11 grandchildren; and 23 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents; his wife; one son, Robert Brad Smith; a great-grandson, Connor James; and his siblings, Jake Smith, Rose Galiher, Emma Smith, Samuel N. "SN" Smith, JoAnn Hill and Helen Bortz.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, Nov. 1, at the Malta LDS Church, with Bishop Brad Hutchison officiating. Burial will be in the Valley Vu Cemetery. Friends may call from 6 until 8 p.m. Sunday at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley, and from 10 until 10:45 a.m. Monday at the church.

Alan Roger Grout

PARKER, Colo. — Alan Roger Grout, 33, passed away as the result of a car accident in Parker, Colo., in the early hours of the morning on Sunday, Oct. 24, 2010.

He was born in Nampa, Idaho, on July 17, 1977. He lived in Vale, Ore., for a short time and, when he was 6 months old, moved to Burley, Idaho. He started and attended school in Burley at Dworshak Elementary until he was 10 years old. In July 1987, Alan moved to a small community outside of Burley called View, Idaho, where he attended school in Declo until 1991. He moved with his family to East Troy, Wis., and graduated from East Troy High School in 1995. He participated in the wrestling program for a short time in high school. He loved to water-ski and was a natural at the sport. The first time he tried it, he went off the dock and went around and around without falling, so his father stopped the boat so Alan would get his hair wet.

He went into the military shortly after graduating and specialized in electronics. He loved music and spent many hours playing his guitar and writing his own songs. He enjoyed creating electronic music on his computer and was planning on doing it professionally.

Alan lived in Middleton, Wis., which is a suburb of Madison, for most of his adult life and recently moved to Parker, Colo., with his cat, Monkey, looking for work. At the time of his death, he was living with his sister, Kristina and her family. He loved playing with Kris's nine children and had a passion for ice cream and popcorn. He also loved the Colorado scenery and took many pictures of the beauty around him.

Alan is survived by his parents, Richard and Verdella Grout of Driggs, Idaho; and six siblings, Robert and Jenny Grout of Hansen, Idaho, Kristina and Robert Tolman of Parker, Colo., Ryan Grout of Driggs, Idaho, Teresa and Adam Wehrheim of Waukesha, Wis., Randy Grout of Pewaukee, Wis., and Spring and Lars Shurilla, currently living in the People's Republic of China. He had 15 nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by an older brother, Ricky Grout; and his grandparents, Verdas and Bardella Reed and Kenneth and Louise Grout.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 30, 2010, at the View LDS Ward building, 554 S. 490 E. of Burley. The family will receive friends beginning at 9 a.m. prior to the funeral service. Burial will be at the View Cemetery. Services are under the care of Hansen-Payne Mortuary in Burley.

Gerald 'Jerry' Wayne Dauby

Gerald "Jerry" Wayne Dauby, 66, died Monday, Oct. 25, 2010, at his home in Twin Falls.

He was born Feb. 8, 1944, in Evansville, Ind., to the late Clarence J. and Josephine F. Dauby. Jerry grew up in Tell City, Ind., and graduated from Tell City High School in 1962. He served in the Navy during 1963 and 1964, mainly stationed in the Mediterranean. He then attended the University of Utah. Later he married Jeanne Pierce and had one son, Michael S. Dauby. They later divorced. He moved to Ketchum, Idaho, where he met and married Linda M. Hall. They had one son, Justin. The joys of Jerry's life were being a grandpa, golfing and gardening. Jerry was a loving husband, father and grandfather!

Jerry is survived by his wife, Linda of Twin Falls; sons, Michael (Diane) Dauby of Parawan, Utah, and Justin Dauby of Boise, Idaho; two granddaughters; and his brother, Lawrence J. Dauby (Sandy) of Evansville, Ind.

A graveside service will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29, at Sunset Memorial Park, with military rites by the Idaho National Guard and the Magic Valley Area Veterans. Family and friends are encouraged to share their thoughts and memories at www.rosenaufuneralhome.com.

Austin Roy Hennefer

CAREY — Austin Roy Hennefer, of Carey, Idaho, was taken "home to that God who gave him life" Tuesday, Oct. 26, 2010.

Austin was born in Hailey, Idaho, on July 7, 1995, to Dennis and MaryAnn Hennefer. Though his life was shorter than we wanted, he lived it to the fullest. He was an exemplary son, brother, uncle and friend throughout his life. Austin's nieces and nephews were naturally drawn to him and he to them, and their bond will continue forever. Pinned to the wall in Austin's room is a band that reads "Livestrong," and that is just what Austin did throughout his life. Austin was heavily involved in church and school activities. He was an active Teacher in the Aaronic Priesthood and a Boy Scout. In school he participated in drama, To the Max, Football, Basketball, and Track and was involved in 4-H for the past six years. He also loved camping, hunting, fishing, swimming and snowboarding with his friends and family. His favorite camping spot was Little Redfish Lake. Austin was a friend to many and was loved throughout the Carey Valley and Carey High School. Austin joined our family later than we all expected, and surprised us by leaving us sooner than expected.

He is survived by his parents, Dennis and Mary Ann Hennefer of Carey; brothers, Dustin, Nathan (Brandi), Jordan (Keri), Logan (Shalynn) and Shawn (Brandy); and sister, RayAnne; grandparents, Gerald and Lois Hildreth and Marie Simpson; nieces and nephews, Houston, Hagan, Ethan, Mialee, McKenzie, McKinlee, Hunter, Baylee and Tayven; and many aunts, uncles and cousins.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 30, at the Carey LDS Stake Center, followed by a graveside service at the Carey Cemetery.

The family would like to thank all who offered love and support and all emergency responders. We continue to offer prayers and support to the families still affected by the circumstances of Austin's death. Memories and messages can be left at www.woodriverchapel.com.

Louise Mason

BUHL — Louise Mason, 77, of Buhl, passed away Wednesday, Oct. 27, 2010, at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center in Twin Falls.

Louise was born March 8, 1933, in Las Cruces, N.M., to Solon and Cecilia Short. She attended school in Las Cruces, participating in athletics, especially basketball. Her senior year, the family moved to Buhl, Idaho. She completed high school and graduated from Buhl High School. After high school, Louise started work at the Times-News newspaper in Twin Falls. During this time she met Gene "Bud" Mason. On July 18, 1958, Louise and Bud were married. They had two children, Cynthia and Greg. The couple farmed and raised their children west of Buhl.

After her kids left home, Louise returned to school at CSI, obtaining her CNA license. She worked for several years as a home health nurse. She enjoyed caring for people and continued to assist others even when she was in a care center herself. She was always active in church activities and functions. In her later years, she enjoyed attending meals and functions at the Buhl Senior Center and loved to play dominos. She loved to tend to her garden and read all types of books.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband, Gene "Bud" Mason; sisters, Dora Jane Short and Amy Jones; and a brother, Solon Grady Short Jr. She is survived by her daughter, Cynthia (John) Stiegemeier of Buhl; son, Greg (Brandy) Mason of Castleford; four grandchildren, Samantha Stiegemeier, Dustin Stiegemeier, Zach Mason and Courtnie Mason; brother, Wayne (Charlotte) Short of Twin Falls; sisters, Annabelle Patrick of Washington, Betty (Jim) Rutherford of Boise, Charlotte (Doug) McDannald of Jerome and Verna (Gerald) Scarrow of Jerome.

The funeral will be at 11 a.m. Monday, Nov. 1, at the First Christian Church on Broadway and Poplar in Buhl.

A viewing will be from 4 to 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 30, at Farmer Funeral Chapel, 130 N. Ninth Ave. in Buhl.

Donations may be made to the Buhl Senior Center.

Death toll from Indonesian disasters tops 400

By Kristen Gelineau
Associated Press

MENTAWAI ISLANDS, Indonesia — The fisherman was jolted awake by the powerful earthquake and ran with his screaming neighbors to high ground. He said they watched as the sea first receded and then came roaring back “like a big wall” that swept away their village.

“Suddenly trees, houses and all things in the village were sucked into the sea and nothing was left,” Joni Sageru recalled Thursday in one of the first survivor accounts of this week’s tsunami that slammed into islands off western Indonesia.

The death toll rose to 370 as officials found more bodies, although hundreds of people remained missing. Harmensyah, head of the West Sumatra provincial disaster management center, said rescue teams “believe many, many of the bodies were swept to sea.”

Along with the 33 people killed by a volcano that erupted Tuesday more than 800 miles to the east in central Java, the number of dead from the twin disasters has now topped 400. Mount Merapi began rumbling again Thursday after a lull that allowed mourners to hold a mass burial for its victims. There were no reports of new injuries or damage.

The catastrophes struck within 24 hours in different parts of the seismically active country, severely testing

Indonesia’s emergency response network.

Aid workers trickling into the remote region found giant chunks of coral and rocks in places where homes once stood. Huge swaths of land were submerged. Swollen corpses dotted roads and beaches.

In a rare bright spot, an 18-month-old baby was found alive Wednesday in a clump of trees on Pagai Selatan — the same island where the 30-year-old Sageru lived. Relief coordinator Harmensyah said a 10-year-old boy found the toddler whose parents are both dead.

More than 100 survivors crowded a makeshift medical center in the main town of Sikakap on Pagai Utara — one of the four main islands in the Mentawai chain located between Sumatra and the Indian Ocean.

Some still wept for lost loved ones as they lay on straw mats or sat on the floor, waiting for medics to treat injuries such as cuts and broken limbs. Outside, some rescuers wore face masks as they wrapped corpses in black body bags.

A young woman named Adek sobbed uncontrollably as she tried to talk about her year-old baby who was washed away. “Oh, don’t ask me again,” she said, wiping her tears and turning away.

One of the hardest hit areas with 65 dead was the village of Pro Rogat, on Pagai Seatandug island.

Villagers there huddled under tarps in the rain and told how many people who had fled to the hills were now too afraid to return home.

Mud and palm fronds covered the body of the village’s 60-year-old pastor, Simorangkir. He lay on the ground, partially zipped into a body bag. Police and relatives took turns pushing a shovel into the sodden dirt next to him for his grave.

His 28-year-old grandson, Rio, traveled by boat to Pro Rogat from his home on a nearby island to check on his relatives after the quake and tsunami. He said he was picking through the wreckage when someone cried out that he had found a body.

Rio walked over and saw his dead grandfather partially buried under several toppled palm trees. “Everybody here is so sad,” Rio said, as relatives prepared to lay his grandfather in the grave.

Officials say a multimillion-dollar tsunami warning system that uses buoys to detect sudden changes in water levels broke down a month ago because it was not being properly maintained. The system was installed after a monster 2004 quake and tsunami that killed 230,000 people in a dozen countries.

A German official at the project disputed there was a breakdown, saying Monday’s 7.7-magnitude quake’s epicenter was too close to the Mentawai Islands for residents to get the warning before the killer wave hit.

Officials: Muslim source turned in terror suspect

By Matt Apuzzo and Adam Goldman
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The tip that led to the FBI’s subway bombing sting came from a source in the Muslim community: A Pakistani-born man from a middle-class suburb was trying to join a terrorist group, law enforcement officials said Thursday.

Farooque Ahmed, a naturalized citizen arrested Wednesday, was a married father who had a good job with a telecommunications company. Authorities say he also was eager to kill Americans in Afghanistan and committed to becoming a martyr.

Ahmed thought he had found what he wanted, a pair of al-Qaida operatives who would help him carry out an attack on the nation’s second-busiest subway, according to court documents unsealed Thursday.

But the operatives were really undercover investigators whose meetings at a local hotel room were all staged with the FBI’s cameras rolling, law enforcement officials said, speaking on condition of anonymity because the investigation continues.

What followed was an elaborate ruse in which Ahmed was given intelligence-gathering duties and coded information in a Quran by two individuals posing as al-Qaida operatives as part of the supposed plot to kill commuters.

Ahmed, 34, was taped discussing his firearm, martial arts and knife skills and offering to teach those deadly tactics to others, according to an FBI affidavit. Officials said they took guns and ammunition out of Ahmed’s suburban Ashburn, Va., town house during a search Wednesday.

Ahmed was arrested just weeks before, the FBI says, he planned to make the annual religious pilgrimage to the Islamic holy city of Mecca in Saudi Arabia. The case represents the latest in a recent string of would-be terrorist attacks that officials say were aided, hatched or carried out by U.S. citizens.

Ahmed

Like the accused gunman in the deadly Fort Hood, Texas, shooting and the convicted terrorist who tried to detonate a car bomb in New York City’s Times Square, officials said they believe Ahmed was radicalized inside the U.S. But they do not yet know what sent him down that path.

Like many would-be terrorists and sympathizers, Ahmed was potentially influenced by Anwar al-Awlaki, the radical Muslim cleric who preached in northern Virginia until 2002 and now lives in hiding in Yemen, officials said. But while Ahmed listened to al-Awlaki’s Internet sermons, officials said the two were not in contact and they’re not sure how influential those sermons were.

As they were mowed down with assault rifles, the girls shouted “There is no God but Allah,” said a witness who asked not to be named for fear of reprisals. A woman fainted, said Da’ud Ahmed, another witness.

Ayan’s father, Mohamed Jama, said she had gone missing for two days. Then a week ago relatives informed him that she was in the custody of al-Shabab. Jama said he went to try and see his daughter but was not allowed to.

Scientist: Dino ancestor's skeleton found in China

DENVER (AP) — Scientists say they’ve found the first complete skeleton of an ancestor of the sauropod, the largest creature ever to walk the planet.

The 30-foot-long skeleton, complete with skull, may help reveal the story of how the 120-foot-long, giant-necked sauropods evolved and became solely plant eaters.

The bones were found in southern China, Texas Tech paleontologist Sankar Chatterjee said Thursday. He planned to present preliminary findings of the discovery Sunday at the Geological Society of America meeting in Denver.

“It’s like a manuscript. Many pages are missing. We are still trying to piece it together,” Chatterjee said. “This is one of those missing links. Now we’ll know better how these dinosaurs evolved.”

The skeleton, estimated at more than 200 million years old, was found by one of Chatterjee’s colleagues in 2005 in flood plains around Lufeng in Yunnan province.

Somali militants execute 2 girls accused of spying; town horrified

By Mohamed Olad Hassan
Associated Press

MOGADISHU, Somalia — The two accused spies died amid a fusillade of bullets from a firing squad organized by a hardline Islamist militia. The condemned pair were only girls, aged 15 and 18, and their grieving relatives say they were uneducated, usually stayed at home and could not have spied for anyone.

Horrified residents of the town of Belet Weyne, in western Somalia, were forced to watch the execution by al-Shabab on Wednesday. One woman fainted as the girls were gunned down by 10 masked executioners.

“Those who watched the event could not bear the painful experience. Two very young girls were shot as they watched and no one could help,” said Dahir Casowe, a local elder.

Al-Shabab is linked to al-Qaida and has carried out whippings, amputations and executions to enforce its own strict interpretation of Islam. But this was the first public execution of girls in Belet Weyne, which al-Shabab took over just over a year ago.

Only shortly before the executions, Sheik Mohamed Ibrahim sentenced the girls to death for spying for government soldiers fighting al-Shabab.

The only qualifications Ibrahim needed to be appointed a judge by al-

Shabab were that he be male and know the Quran.

Abdiwali Aden, a witness, told The Associated Press by phone that al-Shabab militiamen had walked through Belet Weyne’s streets, using microphones and handheld speakers to order residents to attend the pending executions.

Later, Ayan Mohamed Jama, 18, and Huriyo Ibrahim, 15, wearing veils and blindfolds, were brought before the hundreds of gathered residents.

Make your heart pound with haunted house tour

By Ariel Hansen
Times-News writer

Halloween is all about being someone else for a while — for me, that means someone who likes to be scared. Despite my ordinary aversion to horror movies, the grotesque costumes and amazing animatronics at three of south-central Idaho's haunted houses reminded me that it can be fun to get freaked out.

There are spooky options in every neighborhood this weekend — check the Events Calendar in this section to find one near you — and here are my reviews of three.

If you dare to go, keep these warnings in mind:

- Many attractions include strobe lights, fake fog and heart-pounding startles, so there is additional risk for pregnant women and those with heart conditions, claustrophobia or epilepsy. Enter at your own risk.

- All the haunted houses the Times-News visited forbid smoking, open flames, drugs, alcohol, weapons and light sources such as flashlights, laser pointers and cell phone screen lights.

- Don't touch the actors or props, and they won't touch you. Remember that the haunted houses are designed to scare you, not hurt you — so keep control of your reactions.

THE HAUNTED VILLAGE

2862 Addison Ave. E., Twin Falls.

Ever since Ryan Anderson was a kid, he has loved creating haunted houses. From his childhood 8-by-8-foot clubhouse to a garage three years ago and a barn last year, Anderson has been building toward this year's Haunted Village.

"I was fascinated by scaring the kids; it gave me a rush," said Anderson, who likes answering questions about his creations and involving others in the process. "It can bring kids together; they're doing something fun and keeping out of trouble."

Last year, he donated $300 to local Boy Scouts, and he hopes to have more to donate this year after expenses.

Anderson uses many purchased costumes and decorations but also likes making or finding his own — like a graveyard zombie that twists and jerks thanks to a repurposed back massager found at Deseret Industries' thrift store, or a dilapidated dinghy that is the centerpiece of a pirate-themed room.

"I've been visualizing it for a long time," said

Anderson, who finds inspiration in his own imagination as well as on Internet sites and message boards. "There's always bigger and better animatronics."

Hours: 7-11 p.m. today and Saturday. No specifically kid-friendly times.

Cost: $7 for adults, $5 for age 11 and younger, $25 maximum for a family. Groups should be of six or fewer.

Number of people who will scare you: About 20.

Time for the tour: 20 minutes.

My favorite fright: The maze-like nature of the haunted house was disorienting, and the scares came fast and furious. Although I'm not one who finds clowns terrifying, the clown room, with its black-and-white scheme and strobe light, amped up the startle factor.

Other features: For families with small children, tour guides will ask the actors to remove masks and talk to the kids to temper the scares. Moxie Java next door will stay open during the haunted house and offer drink specials on apple cider, hot chocolate and coffee (99 cents to $2.99).

Additional rules: Don't touch the walls, as they are not permanent.

Information: Anderson, 316-5255. Proceeds benefit Boy Scouts of America.

The Times-News sent a reporter to three haunted houses last October, then chose three different ones to feature this fall. The attractions reviewed here are only a sampling of the haunted houses, spook allies, corn mazes, costume parties and other Halloween-themed fun this weekend around south-central Idaho. # Rocking with the Dogs

Dogs On The Lam makes mark on Magic Valley music scene

By Blair Koch
Times-News correspondent

Dogs On The Lam has been on the Magic Valley music scene for about six months, but its schedule is already filling with concert dates.

The band's four members have all played with other groups, but this is a fresh start, said Chris Otero, who plays lead guitar and goes by the stage name Otis. The others: lead vocalist Jerry "Ren" Ramirez, Kelly "Tank" Thompson on bass and Gary "Gargamel" Hernandez on drums.

The band has the chemistry that makes everyone feel like they've been playing together for a lifetime, Ramirez said.

"We all do our music as well as we can," Thompson said. "We pick music that sets off each our strengths, plus we all sing backup. We do a lot of harmonies, and you don't hear that around here very much."

"We all like music, and when we're together that's what it is all about: the music. When we get together we leave our egos at the door because there isn't time or room for any of that," Otero said.

Although each enjoys different genres, when they're the Dogs they do what the crowd wants to hear — and the crowd can change night to night, venue to venue.

"We are very diversified because we have to be," Ramirez said. "We feed off the crowd. If they aren't feeling it, we're changing our set very fast."

The approach seems to be working. They're building a solid fan base in the Gooding area, and their Facebook status rises each day. Over the past two weeks the band's friend network has jumped from just more than 100 to more than 1,300.

Kim McClure, owner of

The Oasis in Twin Falls, sums up their early success. After hearing the Dogs play in Gooding, McClure tracked down the band to get it into her bar.

"Simply put, they rock," McClure said before the band debuted at The Oasis on Tuesday night. "I hear a lot of groups and know what good music is. These guys are good musicians, and they play off the crowd."

McClure enjoys the band's wide repertoire — everything from modern and alternative rock to classic rock. You'll likely hear Godsmack and ZZ Top in the same set.

"I've never heard (Stone Temple Pilots) played by anyone else, but these guys know it and play it well," she said.

While the crowd at The Oasis watches the Boise State Broncos' matchup on the big-screen television, the Dogs watch the clock. As the minutes creep closer to halftime they get busy onstage. Instruments are ready and sound checks begin as the game breaks to commercial.

A few guitar riffs get arm pumps and hollers from the crowd. Ramirez grins back and soon begins the show. Hernandez enters with a few beats, followed by guitar and bass. As the melody strings together for their first song, "Hash Pipe" by Weezer, Ramirez closes his eyes and keeps time with his foot.

"When he closes his eyes

Dogs On The Lam lead vocalist Jerry 'Ren' Ramirez puts his heart and soul into every song. Here Ramirez and bassist Kelly 'Tank' Thompson, back, perform Tuesday night.

Festival's films suggest solutions to environmental problems

By Karen Bossick
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — Can people be persuaded to do something good for themselves or the environment if the fun factor is injected?

That's the question two short films pose in next week's 8th Annual Wild and Scenic Environmental Film Festival. The festival starts at 6 p.m. Nov. 5 at the nexStage Theatre in Ketchum.

One film, "The Fun Theory: Piano Stairs," asks whether we could get more people to take the stairs than the escalator by making stairs fun. Another, "The Fun Theory: Bottle Bank Arcade," examines whether more people would recycle glass if it became fun to do.

Adopting the format of the Banff Film Festival, the environmental film festival will feature eight films ranging in length from two minutes to 77.

Some are just plain beautiful, such as the three-minute "LadyBug Swarm," which examines the loveliness of nature through the eyes of a child. Some are funny, such as the four-minute "Get Up, Stand Up," which makes surfing in land-locked Wyoming look easy. And some are serious examinations of conflicts over the land.

"Flathead Wild," for instance, documents the scenic Montana beauty and wildlife that could be lost to mountaintop removal and methane drilling. And Debra Anderson's "Split Estate" examines conflicts that can arise between surface landowners in the western United States and those who extract the energy and minerals below, even as policymakers consider what needs to be done to conserve the health of the people and the land.

tive on Climate Change" humanizes the debate on climate change by exploring the delicate balance of winter and the intrinsic value of snow to people across cultures. Still another follows a veggie-oil-fueled van to examine the physical, social and environmental aspects of food.

The latter film, "Elements of Food," features Ketchum Ayurvedic practitioner Tona Leiseth as it looks at the local food system in Idaho.

"The film festival deals with topical issues that are current and compelling. And, more importantly, it shows how people are coming up with solutions for dealing with some of these problems," said Craig Barry, director of the Environmental Resource Center.

The center is hosting the film festival, along with The Elephant's Perch.

It's an opportunity for people to come together and be inspired to make change, said Kellie Rey, the AmeriCorps volunteer who organized the event and chose the films. Rey said the film festival was conceived by the South Yuba River Citizen's League. "In just a few years it's become the largest, most energized environmental film festival in the United States. In fact, it's being called 'the next Sundance'."

There will be raffle prizes, including a Nordic ski pass, and beer, wine and appetizers. Film goers are invited to a 5 p.m. pre-party hosted by a new, loosely structured group called the Ketchum Green Drinks and featuring hors d'oeuvres by Deb Gelet.

Ketchum Green Drinks is based on a national group that sprang up a couple of years ago, said Lisa Horton.

"They're basically environmental networkers who enjoy getting together to talk with like-minded people about green issues. We decided to hold what will be a third meeting locally in conjunction with the film festival," she said.

MAGIC MOUNTAIN RESORT'S HAUNTED FOREST

At Magic Mountain (from Hansen, drive south on Rock Creek Road for 28 miles)

The creation of this haunted tour is a yearlong labor of love for Suzette and Gary Miller and their five children, assisted by Wade and Bonnie Rast and their two kids.

And it shows. The forest features dozens of fantastic animatronics, many made by Gary and his son Brandon, from a leaping demon dog to the comic relief of a spraying skunk.

There are many scenes where apparent dummies turn out to be real actors. Optical illusions offer a break from the startles and vignettes and alter visitors' senses in a way that more traditional scares often don't.

"Why would people drive all the way up here?" Gary Miller said, echoing the question he has often heard during the two years the haunted forest has operated. The forest itself, of course, sets the scene for frights you can't get indoors, including a slide down a hill, a realistic graveyard and the moonlit atmosphere among the trees.

It's so frightening, Miller said, that even adults have had "accidents" or had to quit partway through. But some toddlers have enjoyed the scares, so the effect depends on the visitor.

Hours: dark to 11 p.m. today and Saturday. No specifically kid-friendly times.

Cost: $10 for adults, $5 for age 11 and younger. Maximum group size of 15; all groups are led by guides in witch costumes.

Number of people who will scare you: 45-60, depending on the night. The organizers are always looking for additional volunteers.

Time for the tour: 40-45 minutes. Guides will offer an option to end the tour halfway through for those who are too scared or too cold, but I recommend you stay to the end.

My favorite fright: The Abyss, for sure. I'm pretty good at keeping rational in haunted houses, but this optical illusion is so convincing that I grabbed photographer Ashley Smith's jacket in an attempt to keep from falling in. Keep your wits about you; past visitors have pulled the illusion apart and could have hurt themselves trying to escape it.

Other features: Hamburgers, hot dogs, marshmallows, hot chocolate, soda and candy are for sale in the lodge, where a stove can warm cold hands, and a bonfire and roasting sticks are available.

More rules and tips: No running, pushing or foul language. The path is uneven and occasionally steep, so those with mobility restrictions should ask for extra time or guidance from the witches. Wear warm clothes and sturdy shoes, as the air in the South Hills is colder than that in Twin Falls, and the tour is outdoors.

'We play music that you wouldn't normally hear on the cello,' says Douglas Jenkins, artistic director for Portland Cello Project. 'Our repertoire ranges from Bach to Britney Spears to Arvo Paert to Pantera to original music. We completely mix up every show.'

Portland Cello Project guarantees surprises on stage

Times-News

An indie cello orchestra — ever heard one of those? — will perform in Twin Falls next week for Arts on Tour's third show of the 2010-11 season.

The Portland Cello Project plays at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium. Tickets are $21 for adults and $15 for students in high school and younger.

"We're bringing a huge touring cast with us — full cello octet, percussionists and Portland's Justin Power, an Idaho native, as our collaborative musician," Douglas Jenkins, artistic director for Portland Cello Project, wrote in an e-mail to the Times-News. "We've played in Boise before, but this will be our first time in Twin Falls."

The orchestra has risen in the vibrant Portland, Ore., music scene, collaborating with a list of Portland musicians. Eight-cello PCP performances are eclectic, as likely to mix a Salt N Pepa cover with Bach and follow the medley with something sublime by Arvo Part or WEINLAND, as they are to enlist beatbox-comedian-playwright Reggie Watts to collaborate on stage, improvising a cover of a Britney Spears song.

"We collaborate whenever possible with other musicians," Jenkins said. "We've performed with everyone from The Dandy Warhols and Crooked Fingers to Mirah and Laura Gibson."

Each show is a one-time affair; the group writes almost entirely new arrangements for every performance cycle. You might see symphony-loving old ladies nodding their head to cello hip-hop, young children playing air cello, hipsters too-cool-for-school mesmerized by Arvo Part or members of the Decemberists playing late 19th century Russian compositions.

"We try to bring the cello places you wouldn't normally see it," Jenkins said. "This puts us on stage with heavy metal guitarist Buckethead one night, to a dive bar in Fargo the next, to classy venues like Millennium Park in Chicago the next."

Learn more about the octet: portlandcelloproject.com.

Purchase tickets for the Twin Falls show at the CSI Fine Arts Box Office from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, online at csi.edu/artson-tour or at 732-6288.

SCARE AT THE FAIR

Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, 215 Fair Ave., Filer, Merchant Building No. 1

Although few scenes were fully set up when I visited, the amount and evident quality of construction work was impressive — creators Dave Overlin and James Holt and their assistants put up 200 walls in just a few days in the 8,000-square-foot space (up from 1,500 square feet last year).

The layout includes many dead ends, which will ratchet up the tension once the maze and its decorations are complete. "It throws you for a loop; we think you lose your sense of where you are," Overlin said.

There is a neat homemade optical illusion in one of the hallways, and a section that requires visitors to get down on hands and knees to crawl (there's an upright alternative for those with mobility restrictions).

A "torture" room with realistic bloodstains and cannibalistic beverages (fruit punch served from what looks like an antique blood bag) offers one of the few gory elements in any of the haunted houses I visited.

Also featured are rooms playing scary movies, including "It" and "Saw." And because there are fewer actors here than in the other haunted houses, when they do appear it is less expected.

Hours: 3-5 p.m. for non-scary version (lights on, no actors), 6 p.m. to midnight for scary version; today and Saturday.

Cost: $3 per person for non-scary version. For scary, $8 for adults, $7 for students with ID, $5 for ages 10 and younger, $25 for a family pass (up to two adults and three children). Scary version not recommended for children under 7. Maximum group size of 10.

Number of people who will scare you: eight to 12. Time for the tour: 15-20 minutes.

My favorite fright: A strobe-lit hallway sets the scene for a scare straight out of the movie "The Grudge," with actor Gracie Prescott approaching visitors in what could be the most creepy way imaginable.

Other features: Glowsticks are available for $1; recommended for families with small children who are exploring the scary version.

Also available for $1 are hot dogs, soda, coffee, hot chocolate, smoothies and candy.

Rules: Do not come in costume (you'll probably lose pieces of it in the maze), and don't punch the actors (it has happened more than once, Overlin said).

A nerdy night of laughs ‘The Nerd’ cast learns to bring the funny

By Melissa Davlin
Times-News writer

OAKLEY — When you’re looking for a laugh, it’s not enough to dress up in silly costumes and recite funny lines.

At Monday’s rehearsal, actors for Oakley Valley Arts Council’s “The Nerd” exercised their comedic muscles while preparing for the Nov. 4 opening.

“The Nerd,” written by Larry Shue, is about a Willum Cubbert, an architect unexpectedly reunited with Rick Steadman, the man who saved his life in Vietnam. Because he feels indebted, Willum has vowed to be hospitable to Rick, even though the guest is excruciatingly awkward and socially inept.

The script provides hilarious scenarios — a mild-mannered schoolteacher with an inventive anger management technique, Willum’s cranky best friend with an acerbic wit — but it’s up to the cast to bring those scenes to life.

Delivery is crucial. The rapid-fire, back-and-forth lines must be delivered in order or the whole effect is lost.

“If one person forgets, it kind of throws things off,” agreed Brenda Pierce, who has the role of Tansy McGinnis.

Timing is also important. The worst thing a cast could do is rush the audience as it’s trying to have a laugh.

“You have to let them have their moment,” Davis said. Otherwise, listeners lose the next lines.

The hard part about that, though, is predicting when

the audience will laugh. Audiences react differently; sometimes they laugh at things the cast didn’t think was funny, and sometimes they don’t laugh after a punch line.

Another challenge: The actor who originally played Axel, Willum’s best friend, had to drop out of the production, leaving Joyce Merrill to take over the role.

Axel was written for a male actor, Merrill said, so the cast had to change a few pronouns and jokes. The original play indicates Axel and Tansy once had a fling, but they changed the line to indicate the two are old friends.

The actors were still ironing out the kinks at rehearsal earlier this week, but director Walt Robberson is thrilled with the cast. Everyone from acting vet-

Faulkner Planetarium debuts new show

Without equipment upgrade, options are narrowing

By Melissa Davlin
Times-News writer

The Herrett Center for Arts and Science is about to get a little more spacey.

On Tuesday, the Faulkner Planetarium will debut its new planetarium show, "Oceans in Space." The program is one of just a handful left in the world that are compatible with the Faulkner's projection equipment, but the center still has other options for keeping a fresh schedule.

"Oceans in Space" explores the search for water on other planets, an important aspect in the search for life elsewhere in the universe.

"Everywhere on earth that we find water, we find life," said Faulkner Planetarium manager Rick Greenawald. "As far as we know, water is a prerequisite for life."

It's a topic that is in the news lately, thanks to the recent discovery of Gliese 581g, a "Goldilocks planet" where the weather isn't too hot or too cold. If there is water on the planet, it could exist in a liquid state, Greenawald said. The show was produced before Gliese 581g hit the news but addresses similar issues.

"Oceans in Space" is a great show, Greenawald said, but one of the major reasons the planetarium staff chose it was that it's one of the few available to the Herrett Center. "Essentially, the planetarium field is in a state of change."

Many theaters are upgrading to full-dome video, which immerses the viewer in graphics. The Faulkner Planetarium has used a Digistar II projector since its 1995 opening, said College of Southern Idaho public relations director Doug Maughan.

The projector is a generation or two behind full-dome technology, to which many theaters across the country have upgraded. As a result, production companies aren't making planetarium shows that are compatible with the Digistar II anymore.

"It is a fervent desire" to upgrade, Maughan said.

But that might take a while. According to Herrett Center director Teri Fattig, upgrading to full-dome would cost $650,000.

"It would be quite an investment, and at this point, it's just on our wish list," Fattig said.

A few dozen productions made for Digistar II equipment which Faulkner audiences haven't yet seen are still available worldwide, said production specialist and observatory coordinator Chris Anderson. That's a narrower selection than full-dome planetariums have, but it could keep Twin Falls audiences happy for a while.

"It's relative numbers here," he said.

"It's important to understand that many of the programs that might be produced for a theater that does not have a Digistar II are perfectly presentable in a theater that does have a Digistar II," he added. Although the Faulkner can't do full-dome programs, it can take advantage of programs made for traditional star balls, which are hollow globes in the center of the planetarium that project light onto the ceiling.

The Faulkner Planetarium can also produce in-house videos. Previously, it has done solely entertainment productions, like this summer's U2 music show. Now, Fattig and her colleagues hope to branch out and tackle educational programming. Currently, they're planning one about the Bonneville Flood of 15,000 years ago which helped shape southern Idaho's terrain.

"To us, it seems like kind of a no-brainer," Anderson said. Every time the Herrett Center has a guest speaker who lectures about the flood, the house is packed, he said.

Declo jazz band joins Magic Philharmonic for fall concert

By Judy Albertson
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Magic Philharmonic Orchestra will kick off its 2010-11 concert season with a fall concert at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12 at the King Fine Arts Center, 2100 Park Ave. in Burley.

Cost is $8 for adults, $3 for students and $20 for a family. Purchase tickets at Welch Music or the Book Plaza in Burley and The Book Store in Rupert.

The Magic Philharmonic was the brainchild of Bob Dean, now a director and organizer, and performed its first concert in the spring of 1983. It now consists of about 70 members.

"It's all local talent. We just have fun. We practice every week at the high school and just enjoy playing together and having fun. And we try to use all local guests," Dean said.

concert is Roger Turner, and guest artists are the Declo High School Jazz Band.

Turner started playing trombone at an early age. He studied music at Ricks College and later at Brigham Young University, where he played in the BYU Philharmonic, Synthesis, Wind Ensemble and Cougar Band. He also played in several pit orchestras for operas and musicals, brass quintets, jazz combos and other small groups. He has spent more than 27 years teaching secondary bands, orchestras, choirs and elementary music, and more than 20 years playing French horn with the Magic Philharmonic.

"The fall concert has its standard classical and pops selections. Beethoven's Fifth Symphony opening movement is always an exciting number, and Roger's experience and training will bring these numbers to life," Dean said.

Turner also instructs Declo's longstanding jazz band, a coed group with 20 members.

"We play standard jazz, some rock, some Latin American and fusion, which is jazz and rock," Turner said. At this concert the band will play "Birdland" and "Until I Met You," a Count Basie piece of swing and jazz.

The orchestra's fall concert program includes selections from "Oliver," "Colonel Bogey March," the first movement of Beethoven's Fifth, "On a Hymn Song of Philip Bliss," "The Chronicles of Narnia" and "Tatarian Dances."

REDEMPTION

Declo's Zollinger puts bad break behind him with big senior season

By Ryan Howe
Times-News writer

DECLO — Kyle Zollinger was in the wrong place at the wrong time.

With eight minutes remaining in last year's Class 2A state championship game, Declo trailed by one point and was set to get the ball back on a Parma punt.

Hoping to make a block to spring a big return, Zollinger ran downfield chasing Parma's gunner. But the ball took an awkward bounce on the Holt Arena turf, touched Zollinger's foot and Parma pounced on the turnover at Declo's 13-yard line.

One play later, Parma was in the end zone and Declo never recovered.

While the muffed punt was certainly a momentum-swinging sequence, no game is won or lost on a single play. After all, Declo had struggled to contain Parma's option offense all night, plus there were more than seven minutes remaining when the play happened.

Still, some of Declo's sideline and fanbase made Zollinger the scapegoat.

"One of the problems with America is we look for somebody to blame for misgivings. We feel better if we can find somebody to blame," said Declo head coach Kelly Kidd. "Kyle blames himself, but he shouldn't. We were behind when that occurred. Who knows, maybe we would have fumbled on the very next play."

The miscue was devastating for Zollinger, who has high expectations for himself and is a borderline perfectionist with a 3.99 GPA and a 35 ACT score. He wouldn't come out of his room for days afterward.

"I felt like I let everyone down," he said. "I cried."

Soon after, Zollinger received a letter from a neighbor, Neil Harper, which helped raise his spirits. Zollinger still keeps the letter by his bed.

"He wrote how he's enjoyed watching me grow up, watching me through the years in football and basketball. He wrote that I should keep my head up because I was trying my hardest, that the game wasn't lost on one play, that I shouldn't be hard on myself. It really touched deep for me."

Eventually Zollinger turned his disappointment into motivation.

"After Christmas break I came back and started lifting weights really hard. I was thinking, 'That's never going to happen to me again. I'm not going to let my team down again.' This year I've worked harder than any other year in football."

Now a senior, Zollinger has gone from goat to go-to guy. He's one of the main reasons Declo went undefeated in Canyon Conference play and will host McCall-Donnelly in the first round of the state playoffs tonight.

In fact, it was Zollinger's interception return for a touchdown in last week's 10-0 win over Gooding that cemented Declo's third straight conference title.

"It felt pretty good. It was my chance to step up and do something for my team that really mattered," Zollinger said.

As a starting running back and linebacker, Zollinger has played a brilliant Robin to Mark Knobbe's Batman.

"Here we are, back heading in the same direction, and he's been an instrumental part of us getting there," Kidd said. "No one will ever know how much it tortured him. I'm proud of him. He's turned into a great young man. A measure of a person isn't whether they are first, it's how you react when bad things happen."

Part of what made last year's state title loss so hard to swallow was the high expectations placed on the team's shoulders. Declo was ranked No. 1 all season and the words "state championship" circulated liberally around the community before two-a-days even began.

But that's not the case this season.

"No one talks about a state championship here at

McCall-Donnelly (4-3) at Declo (5-3)

"One of the problems with America is we look for somebody to blame for misgivings. We feel better if we can find somebody to blame.

Kyle blames himself, but he shouldn't.

We were behind when that occurred.

Who knows, maybe we would have fumbled on the very next play."

— Declo head coach Kelly Kidd

STATE CROSS COUNTRY

Harris, Bruins aim for state titles

Chojnacky set for big day in Soda Springs

By Stephen Meyers
Times-News writer

The Twin Falls harriers have 3.1 miles of sweat, grit, pain and determination to show they're the best team in the state.

The Bruins run Saturday at Kelly Park in Soda Springs at the cross country state championships, aiming to build on the dynasty they've established the past three years, winning two straight Class 5A titles before winning the 4A crown last year.

Harris heads a deep Bruin squad including Karl Lundgren, Tyson Warth, Matt Shenck and Nate Goss, which will battle Bishop Kelly for the team title.

Harris is also chasing an individual championship.

The junior will have steep competition from Hillcrest's Tyler Croft, the reigning 3,200-meter state champion.

"I would love that," said Harris of winning a state title. "It's going to be a great

Jerome's Mackenzie Chojnacky is also staring down a state title.

The senior has whooped up the competition this season and will go stride for stride with two-time state winner Emily Nist of Bishop Kelly, who best Chojnacky by nine seconds earlier this season.

"Everyone has been telling me about Emily Nist. I definitely think it's possible. But in races, it isn't all about me beating a person, but more of me just achieving my best to myself," Chojnacky said. "It's going to be a huge race of heart. It's definitely about just giving it all I have, not necessarily just physically, but mentally as well."

Nist leads a strong Bishop Kelly team that won the 2009 state title and is in the running for the championship again this season. But Twin Falls will pose a threat.

Carey honors fallen teammate with win

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

RICHFIELD — On their jerseys and in the Carey Panthers' captain line, Austin Hennefer was not forgotten. Wounded and still grieving, the Panthers gave their fallen teammate a fitting tribute.

Carey's offense scored the first six times it touched the ball and the Panther defense held Richfield without a first down in a 60-6 mercy-rule rout.

The win came two days after Hennefer, a sophomore running back and defensive back, was killed in a car accident west of Carey.

The Panthers (8-1, 5-0 Sawtooth North) wore patches with the Hennefer's name and number, 37, on the left front of their jerseys with the phrase "Always a Panther" included. They also announced him as one of the team captains for the coin flip.

Cenarrusa

"It's been really tough, but we used it to increase our intensity," said Carey quarterback Caleb Cenarrusa, who connected for touchdowns on all five passes he completed. "(Hennefer) was one of the toughest kids on the team — he hit hard and no matter how bad he was knocked down he always got back up."

"It hit us hard. We were crying in the locker room before the game and crying when they brought the flag out tonight, just knowing that he can't be with us any more. We're dedicating the entire season to him."

Often times athletic arenas serve as a sanctuary from the grief, and from the opening kickoff — an onside attempt from Richfield (2-6, 1-4) — it looked like Carey needed to be on the football field.

The Panthers were ready too, dialing up the pressure on Richfield's freshman quarterback Zak Wood early

"You hate to beat up on a team like that, but we had a job to do and get ready for the playoffs. This was a good tribute to Panther football and to Austin."

Nevada, Fresno St. to join MWC in 2012

By Scott Sonner
Associated Press writer

RENO, Nev. — Nevada and Fresno State have agreed to play one more season in the Western Athletic Conference before transferring to the Mountain West Conference in 2012 and will pay significantly less to make the move than the WAC had demanded, the league said Thursday.

The two schools wanted to make the change next year, but WAC officials filed a lawsuit that said they failed to provide proper notice to leave the league and would owe the WAC a $5 million departure fee.

WAC Commissioner Karl Benson announced Thursday they reached an agreement that allows the schools to make the jump effective June 30, 2012, for a buyout of $900,000 each. That means both of their football and basketball seasons will begin in the Mountain West with the 2012 season.

Benson said the fee was considerably less than what the WAC felt was warranted but the league decided to settle the dispute now rather than risk being tied up in court for several more months.

He told reporters during a teleconference Thursday

"I don't think I'm prepared to say if it was a good deal or a bad deal. It's time for all parties to move on."

— WAC Commissioner Karl Benson morning that the league can now move forward with scheduling for 2012.

Benson described the negotiations only as "businesslike" and declined to characterize the deal in terms of winners or losers.

"I don't think I'm prepared to say if it was a good deal or a bad deal," he said. "It's time for all parties to move on."

Nevada and Fresno State announced in August that they had accepted invitations to follow fellow WAC member Boise State to the Mountain West. Boise starts play there next season and both Nevada and Fresno State had indicated they wanted to do the same.

Benson earlier lashed out at Nevada and Fresno State for being "selfish" in deciding to abandon the league to

PREP RALLY

High School High Five

A look at this week's prep football playoff games

Shelley at Minico
7 p.m.
Radio: 970 AM
Webcast: idahosports.com

The skinny: The 2009 Class 3A state champs, Shelley (6-2) has reached the state semifinals every year since 2005. Minico (6-2) has reached the semifinals just once, and the Spartans have a 4-7 postseason record under coach Tim Perrigot. On offense, Minico QB Kade Miller (1,099 yards passing, 12 TDs) can spread the ball around, but the Spartans' workhorse is junior RB Brady May, who averages 7.7 yards per carry and 147 per game. He could find tough sledding as Shelley's defense holds opponents to just 91 rushing yards per game. Offensively, Shelley's senior RB Aaron Adams (5-10, 200) has rushed for 1,288 yards and 17 TDs.

Minico linebacker Jordan Roland: "Our mentality is to best the 2008 team that made it to the semifinals. We're pushing harder than we ever have before. We have the talent to do it, and we definitely have the work ethic. With everybody doubting us, it just adds fuel to the fire."

Minico center Trevor Blincoe: "The key for us is to keep getting better every week. It is huge for us to play on our home field. Defensively they change up the fronts a lot, so we've been working on adjusting for that."

Twin Falls (6-2) at Preston (6-2)
7 p.m.
Radio: 102.9 FM

The skinny: After riding high in the polls all season, Twin Falls' home loss to Minico last week forces the Bruins into a difficult road trip to O.R. Cutler Field in Preston in the Great 8 playoffs. The two teams' only common opponent this season is Pocatello, to which the Bruins narrowly lost 22-21 in overtime, while Preston crushed Pocatello 44-3. While those numbers don't bode well, the Bruins did advance to the Class 4A semifinals last season and will put a veteran lineup on the field tonight. Quarterback T.J. Ellis will spread the ball around to playmakers Ricky Akridge, Robert Sanchez and Jayson Welker, while Josh Settlemoir anchors the ground game for the Bruins. Preston is led by quarterback Baker Ward and senior running backs Landon Shepherd and Ryan Visser. It'll be up to Twin Falls' linebacker Brady Barton and company to slow down the Indians, while the Bruin offense has to avoid turnovers.

Twin Falls receiver Robert Sanchez: "We're just all going to have to come together as one. We're going to have to capitalize on offense, which we didn't do last week and our defense will have to make key stops."

Jerome at Blackfoot
Radio: 1400 AM

The skinny: The Tigers (3-5) faced an uphill battle all season with a young team that couldn't catch a break with injuries. But still they find themselves in the Great 8 playoffs against defending state champion Blackfoot (6-2). The Broncos are the most physical and athletic team Jerome has faced this season and the Tigers' defense will have to slow down a powerful offense that is multi-dimensional, mixing up the run and pass. Simon Espinoza leads the Jerome offense at quarterback and coach Gary Krumm said the sophomore has improved the most of any Jerome player this season. Espinoza will get help from running back Dylan Downton and receiver Jake Lammers as Jerome's looks for a balanced attack. If the Tigers are to advance in the playoffs, they will have to be road warriors like they were in 2008 when they advanced to the state title game by winning every playoff game on the road.

Jerome coach Gary Krumm: "I'm really proud of our football team. They've endured a lot this season and have improved all season long. We're not afraid of (Blackfoot). We're going to leave it all on the field."

Parma at Kimberly
7 p.m.
Radio: none

The skinny: Kimberly (6-2, 2-0) rolls into Class 3A's sub-state playoffs as SCIC champions and hosts defending 2A state champ Parma (5-2, 1-2 Snake River Valley) which jumped up to the 3A ranks this season. Cody Casperson and Seth Champlin lead the prolific rushing attack for Kimberly, but the key to the matchup is how the Bulldog defense slows down Parma quarterback Trevor Kramer, the 2009 2A All-Idaho player of the year. The Bulldogs play at home for the fifth time this season, forcing Parma to make the two-and-a-half hour drive to Kimberly, where the Bulldogs have enjoyed great home crowds all season and should have another one tonight. That edge could be pivotal.

Kimberly coach Kirby Bright: "We saw them play the past two years in the Class 2A state championship game. They are a physical team with a great quarterback. It's that time of year. Anything can happen."

Offensive lineman Brock Hulsey: "We have to bring it every play. We know we have the players to win state, we just have to execute. ... We want (Parma) to have a long bus ride home."

Buhl (5-3) at Weiser (5-3)
7 p.m.

Radio: none

The skinny: It's a sub-state rematch from a year ago, though the roles are reversed as Weiser hosts Buhl in 2010. The Indians and Wolverines are both guaranteed a winning season no matter what happens tonight. But with a winnable trip to Timberlake awaiting the winner, there's not going to be much comfort in going 5-4. Buhl revamped its scheme midseason and it paid dividends as the Indians only lost the conference championship to Kimberly on a field goal at the final gun. Weiser won last season's playoff tilt 21-7 to hand Buhl its first and only loss of the season, and revenge is definitely on the Indians' minds.

Buhl coach Stacy Wilson: "They've got some physical linemen and a couple big backs that run hard. We changed up our scheme from last year, and we've got some wrinkles we'll throw at them offensively and defensively. Our kids are excited about the opportunity. They all remember last year, and we said it's time to pay them back. They came down to our place and beat us ... it's in their minds."

Butte County (6-1) at Gooding (4-4)
7 p.m.
Radio: none

The skinny: These two teams played in the first week of the season, with Butte County winning 15-8 in Arco. But it'll be two different teams on the field tonight as they battle for the right to face No. 1 Malad in the state quarterfinals next week. Gooding turned the ball over five times in the first meeting, including losing possession three times inside the Pirates' 5-yard line. With a new look and better execution, the Senators are optimistic about their chances of picking up a first postseason win in four years. And Gooding's ground game has steadily picked up steam throughout the season.

Gooding coach Cameron Andersen: "We went and scouted that three-way playoff, not knowing who we would have played. We felt Butte was the best team there, even though they didn't win it, and our guys really wanted Butte. Not taking anything away from them, but we felt like we left a lot on the field up at their place and our guys believe they're better than that. They wanted another shot and they're going to get it. Confidence is high, which is where we want it, and they're excited to play."

Glenns Ferry (2-6) at West Side (7-1)
3 p.m.
Radio: none

The skinny: These two teams played in this playoff round a year ago, with Glenns Ferry surviving 25-22 on the way to a third-place state showing. But there are few characters left over from that cast. A much younger, less experienced Pilots squad had to battle through a three-way playoff Monday for the conference's final sub-state berth, while the Pirates strolled through conference play to earn a playoff berth well before getting stomped by No. 1 Malad a week ago. West Side is the clear favorite but Glenns Ferry made an unheralded run in the playoffs two seasons ago after struggling through the regular season. The Pilots hope to capture more of that magic in 2010.

Glenns Ferry coach Rob Spriggs: "We're feeling good and confident. Obviously you never like the short week but we're blessed to even have a playoff shot. We're looking forward to face a really good opponent. They're fundamentally a sound team. We're going to have to be able to control the line of scrimmage and slow down a run attack that's been effective all year, and offensively we're going to have to play ball control and keep it out of their hands."

school," Zollinger said. "This year we're just going out and playing and it's a lot more fun. Last year, football wasn't fun."

With the amount of talent that graduated last year, expectations lessened and many are content with Declo's 5-3 record and Canyon Conference title. No one anticipates Declo will do much in the postseason.

"Maybe sliding under the radar is OK," Kidd said. "We've grown as a team light-years since Week 3. With these kids' potential, we don't know how far they can go."

Don't forget: The 2008 Hornets also entered the playoffs as underdogs with a 5-3 record and wound up one point shy in overtime of winning a state championship.

"Every game we play to win," Zollinger said. "We're preparing as hard as we can and we expect to win it."

Sounders ready for L.A. in MLS playoff opener

TUKWILA, Wash. (AP) — In just a few months, the Seattle Sounders went from being one of the biggest flops in Major League Soccer to the opponent everyone was trying to avoid.

Gone are the questions about how a team considered a preseason favorite in the MLS could be so dysfunctional for the first three months of the season. The Sounders begin the playoffs on Sunday night against Los Angeles as the hottest team in the league during the second half of the season.

“Anytime you can in the middle of a season totally change your fortune, that is impressive,” veteran Seattle goalkeeper Kasey Keller said Thursday. “That takes a strong mindset through your whole organization. Guys picked it up. We weren’t achieving what we were capable of doing. Ownership and management made some tough decisions, put the pressure on the players to perform and the guys stepped up and made it happen.”

Los Angeles finished with an impressive 59 points and claimed the league’s Supporters Shield for the best regular-season record but no one has been hotter than the Sounders. The Sounders went 10–2–3 over their final 15 league matches, seven points better than any other playoff team.

The home-and-home aggregate total playoff series starts in Seattle with the second half being played Nov. 7 in Los Angeles. The Galaxy swept the season series, posting a 4– 0 rout at Seattle in May that prompted the Sounders management to give season-ticket holders a one-game credit on their 2011 season tickets as a “refund” for the Sounders’ poor play.

“We’re a much different team than when we played them in the last two league games,” Seattle coach Sigi Schmid said. “The composition of our team plays is a little bit different as well. So from that standpoint I think we are a lot different.”

How bad was it for Seattle? During a 10–game stretch starting in late April and continuing into early July, the Sounders went just 2–7–1 and earned a mere seven points in the standings. Swedish midfielder Freddie Ljungberg, the Sounders’ first designated player, was disgruntled and looking at options elsewhere as he trained away from his teammates while trying to recover from an ankle injury. Meanwhile, the rest of the Sounders were trying find the answer for an on–field turnaround.

Heimerdinger, Weber lead Dietrich past Mackay

Times-News

Alex Heimerdinger rushed for 169 and three touchdowns on 19 carries as Dietrich beat visiting Mackay 30-28 on Thursday.

The win gives the Blue Devils a Class 1A Division II state quarterfinal berth as the No. 2 seed from the Sawtooth Conference North Division. Dietrich will open the playoffs at Sawtooth South champ Castleford next week.

James McDaniel caught a 72-yard pass from Brody Astle for Dietrich's other score.

Linebacker Gray Weber, who wasn't expected to play after a pitchfork went into his knee on Wednesday, had 19 tackles and an interception to lead Dietrich's defense.

Caden Betzer rushed for all four Mackay touchdowns. The Miners will face Murtaugh in a half-game on Monday to determine the Sawtooth Conference's fifth and final berth to the state quarterfinals.

That game will take place in Carey at 6 p.m., with the winner traveling to Salmon River in the playoffs.

Favre sheds walking boot, hasn't ruled out playing

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. — The signs of progress are small but noticeable for Brett Favre and his injured left ankle.

Favre missed his second straight day of practice for the Minnesota Vikings on Thursday, but walked around the facility without the oversized boot which had been protecting an injury that is putting his league-record 291-straight starts streak in jeopardy.

The 41-year-old quarterback limped through the locker room with a heavy wrap on his ankle, which was injured in the loss to Green Bay on Sunday night.

Asked if he thought he could play against New England, Favre said, "I wouldn't put anything past me, to be honest with you."

Favre has a stress fracture in the ankle as well as an avulsion fracture in the heel bone, where a fragment has been torn away by a tendon or ligament. He consulted with the doctors who performed surgery on his ankle this summer to get him ready for a 20th NFL season, and was told that the injury would not get any worse by playing on it.

"He's been a little better every day," coach Brad

Childress said Thursday. "Whether it's good enough to play in an NFL football game remains to be seen. Just have to take it a day at a time."

Giants' Kiwanuka out for season with neck injury

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Defensive end Mathias Kiwanuka's season is over, and there is a chance his career with the New York Giants could be at an end.

The Giants have placed the five-year veteran on injured reserve on Thursday with a herniated cervical disk after waiting more than a month to see if rest would fix his neck.

With his contract up after this season, it's unknown whether the Giants are willing to re-sign a player with a neck problem.

"It's painful for us to go this route with Kiwi, but we've exhausted all of our options," general manager Jerry Reese said. "What's most important is for him to get healthy. We're praying and hopeful that by next fall he will be back at 100 percent and playing for the New York Giants."

Kiwanuka was having an outstanding season, with four sacks in the first three games. He was diagnosed with a cervical disk problem before the Giants played the Chicago Bears early this month and missed the last four games.

Titans WR Kenny Britt denies throwing punch in bar

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee wide receiver Kenny Britt denies throwing a punch during a bar fight in a downtown Nashville night club last week.

Britt said on Thursday he was falsely accused by 26-year-old Harold Pointer, who told police Britt joined in a fight and struck him several times during an altercation at the Karma Lounge nightclub in the early hours of Oct. 22. A police investigation into misdemeanor assault remains open.

"We probably had some words throughout the time we were there, and probably the person that did touch him was probably with me, and he probably thought so, and now he's falsely accusing me. That's what happens in my life," Britt said.

"I told the police. I'm telling the police, I'm telling you and everybody out there that's accusing me (and saying) that I touched him," he said.

Lawyer: 'No offer on table' for NFL great Taylor

NEW CITY, N.Y. — Lawrence Taylor's lawyer says there's no plea offer on the table, at least now, in the rape case against the pro football great.

Taylor appeared Thursday in a suburban New York court on charges of having sex with a 16-year-old prostitute. He remains free on bail.

The ex-NFL MVP is accused of paying $300 to have sex with the Bronx runaway in a suburban hotel room in May. He has pleaded not guilty to third-degree rape, patronizing a prostitute, sexual abuse and endangering a child.

The linebacker led the New York Giants to Super Bowl titles in 1987 and 1991.

finishing third as a freshman and never finishing worse than seventh. The senior leads a Bruin team that includes Alyssa Brann, Hailey Gomez, Abby Biedenbach and Stephanie Filas

"I'm really excited. This is my last chance to run all out," Ward said. "We have to run well as a group. Bishop Kelly is really good, they are going to be tough."

Wood River and Burley will also represent District IV on the boys side and Jerome and Wood River's girls teams will travel to Soda Springs as well.

Dunia Emmanuel of Canyon Ridge, Blake Orchard (Jerome) and Megan Mabey (Burley) qualified as individuals.

Class 3A

Kimberly swept both the boys and girls titles at districts last week and hope to contend in Soda Springs.

Dylan Jacobson leads a Buhl team which qualified, while Jessica Boda heads the Filer girls team.

Nikkaila Bain from Buhl qualified as an individual.

Class 2A

After two straight state runner-up finishes in Class 3A, Gooding's Mike McHan is poised to win a state title Saturday with the Senators' move down to 2A this season.

Team wise, Declo, Gooding and the Community School qualified.

On the girls side, rivals Ellie Dalton of Dietrich and Sasha Kent from Richfield are serious threats for the individual title after qualifying individually.

Gooding and the Community School qualified as teams.

Brian John of Camas County, Jacob Dalton (Dietrich), Michael Mullen (Oakley), Aaron Rooney (Hagerman), Zarek Tupper (Hagerman), Abigail Burk (Bliss), Sierra Zollinger (Declo), Gretchen Hale (Oakley) and Jasmine Fowler (Richfield) also qualified as individuals.

seek their fortunes elsewhere. He characterized the two schools at the time as partners in crime who — practically overnight — caused the WAC to go "from having a secure and prosperous future to once again not knowing what the future will hold."

Benson said Thursday that the premature loss of the two could have left the WAC with only six schools, jeopardizing bowl ties and automatic bids to NCAA tournaments.

"To have allowed Fresno state or Nevada to leave early would have put the WAC at a tremendous disadvantage," Benson said. "There was substantial financial risk"

Benson said the three driving financial factors were the league's contract with ESPN for football games, potential BCS money and NCAA basketball tournament revenue. Especially in the case of ESPN, he said they believed the WAC would bring in more money with the two schools still in the league in 2011.

"It was critical to the WAC that we continue to be an eight-team league in 2011-12," he said. "It was something we just could not afford to move off of. It was paramount"

Benson said he expects decisions over the next month regarding the addition of up to five new schools to the league in the coming years. He said the WAC is determined to field at least eight teams for football each season. He said they are not considering any schools beyond those already discussed — Montana, Denver, Seattle, Texas State and Texas-San Antonio.

"We have a feel about all five schools and what they have to offer," he said. "Now we have to determine what our final structure will look like"

Besides the $900,000, Nevada and Fresno State will forfeit whatever would have been their share of league money for the 2011-12 season, Benson said. Boise State is forfeiting an estimated $750,000 at the close of the 2010-11 season before it leaves, but will keep its share of whatever BCS bowl money it should generate this year, he said.

Nevada athletic director Cary Groth said earlier the Wolf Pack preferred to make the leap to the Mountain West in fall 2011 because lame duck conference members do no one any good. But she said Thursday the agreement provides for a "graceful transition" that removes uncertainly and allows all parties to move forward.

Benson said he anticipated the transition would go smoothly.

"This is a lame duck year right now and I certainly haven't seen any issues thus far," he said. "It's part of the process of changing conferences. It can't happen immediately, overnight. There is a reason we establish notification dates"

A Magic Opening: Orlando routs Wizards

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dwight Howard had 23 points and 10 rebounds to lift the Orlando Magic to an easy 112-83 victory over the Washington Wizards on Thursday night, giving the NBA's newest arena a grand opening and spoiling No. 1 overall pick John Wall's debut.

Vince Carter had 18 points and Jameer Nelson scored 16 to help the Magic cruise to another blowout victory after a perfect pre-season.

Wall had 14 points and nine assists — much of it in cleanup duty — on 6 for 19 shooting in his first meaningful professional game. He showed flashes of stardom but became just another spectator on an emotional night in Orlando.

Not that the Magic have much time to savor the Amway Center's opening. They get their first shot at LeBron James and the new-look Miami Heat down south Friday night.

Magic owner Rich DeVos

then walked to center court, a cane in his right hand and a team official balancing him on the left, and gave a teary-eyed speech seeing the Amway Center finally realized.

"This is a Magic building. But it's your community center. It's your place for many adventures to take place," said DeVos, 84, his voice quivering. "So we know that this place will be a place of comfort and joy, and that everybody who comes here will be honored and loved and cherished."

"When something like this happens, you can respond one of two ways, and one of those is to play even harder and better," said Richfield coach Garr Ward. "That's what they did. They're a well-oiled machine, a very good program."

Richfield's only touchdown came when Tyler Cenarrusa recovered a Jordan Dilworth fumble at the Carey 1 and tumbled into the end zone.

"You hate to beat up on a team like that, but we had a job to do and get ready for the playoffs," said Carey coach Lane Kirkland. "This was a good tribute to Panther football and to Austin."

Matt Cain gives Giants 9-0 win

S.F. holds 2-0 World Series lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Matt Cain shut down the Texas Rangers with the type of suffocating pitching that put the San Francisco Giants in the World Series.

Two more games like this and they'll win the World Series.

Cain was sharp, the Rangers bullpen was not and San Francisco broke away for a 9-0 win Thursday night. The Giants headed to Texas with a 2-0 lead that looked to come way too easily.

Edgar Renteria reprised his October success with a go-ahead home run, and the Giants broke away with seven runs in the eighth, the biggest inning in their postseason history.

San Francisco Giants second baseman Juan Uribe reacts after throwing out Texas Rangers batter Mitch Moreland during the seventh inning of Game 2 of the World Series Thursday in San Francisco.

owner Nolan Ryan probably wants to grab a ball himself and get on the mound.

Texas set a record for most runs allowed in a franchise's first two Series games.

"You take all the runs you can get," Giants manager Bruce Bochy said. "It's nice to have a cushion going into the ninth."

After scoring just 19 runs in the six-game win over Philadelphia in the NL championship series, San Francisco has outscored Texas 20-7 and outlived the Rangers .314 to .227.

C.J. Wilson allowed Renteria's fifth-inning homer, then left the mound accompanied by a trainer with a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand following a leadoff walk in the seventh.

Juan Uribe added a run-scoring single against reliever Darren Oliver.

San Francisco pulled away as Rangers manager Ron

Washington again made bullpen moves too late. Derek Holland relieved with a man on and forced in a run with three straight walks, the last to Aubrey Huff, and Mark Lowe forced in another run with a walk to Uribe.

Renteria, whose 11th-inning single won Game 7 of the 1997 Series for Florida against Cleveland, followed with a two-run single to left.

Pinch-hitter Aaron Rowand hit a two-run triple against Michael Kirkman, and Andres Torres doubled in a run.

Cain allowed four hits in 7-2-3 innings, struck out two and walked two — one intentional.

With the Giants ahead 2-0, left-handed specialist Javier Lopez retired Josh Hamilton on a lazy flyout to strand a runner on second in the eighth.

As fans stood cheering, Guillermo Mota completed the four-hitter.

Forty of the previous 51 teams to take a 2-0 lead have gone on to win the title, including seven straight and 13 of the last 14. The last to overcome a 2-0 deficit was the 1996 New York Yankees against Atlanta.

The Giants have won each time they took a 2-0 lead: in 1922, 1933 and 1954.

San Francisco improved to 11-0 against Texas at AT&T Park and got its third shutout in nine postseason wins. The Giants sent the high-octane Rangers offense to its first shutout since Sept. 23.

But after a day off, the Series resumes for the first time in Arlington, Texas. Colby Lewis starts Game 3 for the Rangers on Saturday night against Jonathan Sanchez.

Much of the pitching buzz coming into the Series was over Texas' Cliff Lee, who had been unbeaten in postseason play before getting hit hard Wednesday.

Cain has been even sharper, pitching 21 1-3 innings in three postseason starts without allowing any earned runs. Sparking but not surprising, given the Giants led the major leagues in ERA during the regular season.

Cain credited rookie catcher Buster Posey.

"I think it's a little bit of everything," Cain said. "Buster's doing a great job of putting down the right fingers. He's been calling the right pitches."

Cain pitched out of trouble a few times against Texas, which went 0 for 9 with runners in scoring position.

Ian Kinsler's drive on an 0-2 pitch leading off the fifth hit flush off the top of the fence, just to the left of the 399-foot sign in center field, bounded up and was caught by Torres, who held him to a double. At first it was unclear whether the ball had gone over the wall, but relays showed umpires got the call correct.

Duke No. 1 in AP's preseason Top 25

The Associated Press

Defending national champion Duke was a runaway No. 1 in The Associated Press preseason Top 25 men's basketball poll.

At the other end of the Top 25 there was big news Thursday with San Diego State entering the rankings for the first time ever.

Duke, on top for a seventh time, has two starters returning to a roster featuring highly touted freshman Kyrie Irving and transfer Seth Curry, Stephen's little brother.

Hall of Fame coach Mike Krzyzewski doesn't think it's fair to say a team is trying to repeat when there have been so many changes since the Blue Devils beat Butler for their fourth national championship.

"To repeat is a bad word (to use)," said Krzyzewski, who spent the summer leading the U.S. national team to the gold medal at the world championship. "... What you want to do is have the same result, of winning the national championship, but figure out what journey you're going to be on along the way. And so pursue is a good word for me, and develop. We're going to be a developing team throughout."

They're also a team that garnered 55 first-place votes from the 65-member national media panel, easily outdistancing Michigan State, which had eight No. 1 votes. Kansas State was third, followed by Ohio State and Pittsburgh.

Kansas State, which matched its highest ranking since 1962, got the other two first-place votes.

Pittsburgh, Villanova, Kansas, North Carolina, Florida and Syracuse round out the top 10.

"Anytime a team is voted No. 1, it is an honor," Krzyzewski said. "We've been fortunate to be in that position several times at Duke, and we are appreciative when people think so highly of us. However, we have a lot of work to do to get ready for the regular season. We have a talented, but developing, team. As always, our defense needs to be constant throughout the year in order to succeed at the highest level."

Since the preseason poll began in the 1961-62 season, Duke's seven No. 1 nods are tied with North Carolina and one behind all-time leader UCLA.

The six previous preseason No. 1 rankings turned into one national championship (repeating in 1991-92), one national runner-up (1998-99), one other Final Four appearance (1988-89), two regional semifinal losses (2001-02, 2005-06) and one second-round exit (1978-79).

Kentucky, which had five underclassmen taken in the first round of the NBA draft, was 11th followed by Gonzaga, Illinois, Purdue, Missouri, Baylor, Butler, Washington, Memphis and Georgetown.

The last five ranked teams were Virginia Tech, Temple, Tennessee, BYU and San Diego State.

The Aztecs return five starters from last season's team that won 25 games and earned the school's sixth NCAA tournament bid, all of which resulted in first-round losses.

"I didn't know San Diego State had never been ranked until someone mentioned it to me earlier this week," said Aztecs coach Steve Fisher, who led Michigan to one national championship and two other title game appearances. "This is nice surprise but makes me — and I believe all of us — proud of the fact we now have national recognition for San Diego State that's always had a good basketball program. It's not just Orange County now, a lot of places will be surprised and pleased we're there. It's another first for our program and hopefully not the last."

Notre Dame investigates death at football practice

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — As the Notre Dame football team drilled on its practice field, Declan Sullivan stood high above the turf in a hydraulic lift, videotaping the session so players could get an aerial view of their performance.

Suddenly, the wind, already whipping so much that Sullivan tweeted that it was "terrifying," surged as high as 51 mph.

The lift toppled over, crashing through a fence before coming to rest in a street just behind a goal post.

"Things started flying by me that had been stationary for all of practice — Gatorade containers, towels," Athletic Director Jack Swarbrick recalled Thursday. "I noticed the netting by the goal post start to bend dramatically, and I heard a crash."

Sullivan, a junior film student from the Chicago suburb of Long Grove, Ill., was taken to a hospital, but Swarbrick said he received a call from the ambulance before it arrived saying that the 20-year-old was not breathing. The young man was soon pronounced dead.

Dame film student who had friends in common with Sullivan, told The Associated Press in an e-mail that she was "horrified" by the "eerily prophetic nature" of the tweets, which she captured in a screen shot and later described in a contribution to the Huffington Post.

Within hours of Sullivan's death, his family made his Facebook profile, and the messages, private, Hall said.

Swarbrick said he was aware of the tweets and promised to look into "all the dynamics" that preceded Sullivan's death.

A safety consultant with Workplace Group LLC, a Chapel Hill, N.C.-based consortium with expertise in occupational safety, said wind gusts of 50 mph are much too high for the safe outdoor use of any scissor lift.

Some manufacturers make lifts that can be used in winds up to 25 mph, but W. Jon Wallace said he would recommend against using a lift in winds above 10 mph because the higher the winds, the more unstable the equipment becomes.

"Having 50 mph winds with someone inside the scissor lift, it's just an accident waiting to happen in my professional opinion," he said.

Other schools said they are careful to follow safety instructions from the manufacturers of the hydraulic lifts, some of which can extend to 40 feet high.

Penn State and the University of Michigan said their lifts are grounded if wind gusts reach 28 mph. On Tuesday and Wednesday, when much of the Midwest was being swept by winds much higher than that, the Wolverines football team practiced with lifts at 15 to 20 feet.

Athletic officials at the University of Wyoming and the University of North Carolina said they would look at adopting specific policies for video lifts. Ohio State coach Jim Tressel said he checks wind conditions when preparing for practice, even though the school installed permanent video towers last year.

"You try to get as safe as you can," he said. "The wind is a scary thing when you're up there."

Barnes shoots 63, leads in Malaysia

SELANGOR, Malaysia — Ricky Barnes shot an 8-under 63 Thursday to take the lead after the first round of the inaugural Asia Pacific Classic, the first PGA Tour-sanctioned event in Southeast Asia.

The 29-year-old American, seeking his first professional victory, had what he called a "stress-free" round sprinkled with eight birdies.

"I got off to a good start by making some good swings and had a 10-foot look at eagle on three which kind of got my round started," Barnes said.

Ryan Moore (64) trails by one stroke, while Canadian Open winner Carl Pettersson (65) was two back along with Brian Davis and Charlie Wi.

Moore, who arrived in Malaysia on Friday to acclimatize to the time change and humid weather, had seven birdies. He has earned more than $2 million this season on the PGA Tour but has no victories.

Larazabal leads in Andalucia, as Kaymer struggles

SOTOGRADE, Spain — Spain's Pablo Larazabal shot a 5-under 66 to take the first-round lead Thursday in the Andalucia Masters, while Germany's Martin Kaymer struggled in his attempt to overtake Tiger Woods in the world rankings.

Kaymer needs to win or finish in a second-place tie with no more than one other player to supplant Woods at No. 1. Kaymer shot a first-round 72, leaving him six shots off the pace and tied for 28th at Valderrama.

The 27-year-old Larazabal broke two shots clear of the field with birdies at the 16th and 17th holes during his a bogey-free round. Northern Ireland's Graeme McDowell shot 68 to share second with Ireland's Damien McGrane.

Kaymer said before the tournament that his priority was winning the second Race to Dubai as the top money-winner on the European Tour, but that could be in jeopardy after McDowell's strong opening round.

The Northern Irishman is second in earnings behind Kaymer, and if the U.S. Open champion wins Sunday he would close the gap with four lucrative events remaining.

North Carolina State's George Bryan (84) celebrates against Florida State in Raleigh, N.C., Thursday. North Carolina State won 28-24.

Wilson, Irving lead as N.C. State beats No. 16 FSU

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Russell Wilson threw a fourth-down touchdown pass to George Bryan with 2:40 left to help North Carolina State rally from a big halftime deficit and beat No. 16 Florida State 28-24 on Thursday night.

Wilson also ran for three scores for the Wolfpack (6-2, 3-1 Atlantic Coast Conference), who trailed 21-7 at the break before ending a three-game losing streak to the Seminoles (6-2, 4-1). With the win, N.C. State surpassed its victory total for last season while earning a key victory in a matchup of Atlantic Division contenders.

Trailing 24-21, the Wolfpack drove to the FSU 1-yard line and appeared to have a winning score within easy reach. But the Seminoles stopped Wilson on a pair of sneaks, then stuffed James Washington's leap over the line on third down. The Wolfpack appeared ready to kick a field goal, but called timeout and sent the offense back out on the field.

This time, Wilson rolled to his right on a play-action fake, then found Bryan alone near the back of the end zone for the 28-24 lead.

Still, Christian Ponder — who ran for a pair of scores and threw for one — nearly rallied the Seminoles, driving Florida State all the way to the N.C. State 4 in the final minute. But on what looked like a play-action fake, Ponder fumbled when tailback Ty Jones appeared to bump him as he ran by.

RoadWorthy!
By Ken Chester, Jr.
Motor News Media Corp.

Unveiled originally at the New York International Auto Show in April, 2009, GMC introduced its all-new premium "Professional Grade" Terrain SUV last year. GMC's all-new Terrain is a front-drive five-passenger crossover SUV that blends bold styling with fuel efficiency and premium features.

Terrain has a balanced, athletic stance and offers a commanding view of the road. Its design is characterized by bold, muscular fender flares, representing GMC's aesthetic. Surfacing is angular yet refined, with a strong and capable front-end appearance that features precise, squared-off edges. Additional design features include a unique, three-element grille that is accented by a prominent chrome surround and projector-beam headlamps mounted in large, rectangular housings with chrome accents.

Offered in SLE and SLT trim and front or all-wheel drive, base power for the Terrain is generated by a 2.4L four-cylinder engine that features direct injection is expected to deliver best-in-segment highway fuel economy. Maximum fuel economy is achieved in part with an "eco" mode that is activated via a console-mounted button. For 2011, the optional 3.0L direct injected V-6 engine is now E85-capable. The four-cylinder engine is joined to a Hydra-Matic 6T45 six-speed automatic transmission, while the optional V6 is mated to a Hydra-Matic 6T70 six-speed automatic transmission. Both efficiency-enhancing automatic gearboxes feature electronic range select for a refined, confident driving experience. All-wheel drive is optional. The Terrain rides on a rigid, body-integral structure, with single-piece body side stampings and targeted applications of high-strength steel. It is the foundation of a confident driving experience that is both smooth and responsive that features a four-wheel independent suspension system, with wide front and rear tracks that enhance ride and handling. GM's first application of Active Noise Cancellation (ANC) technology is used on 2.4L-equipped models. ANC uses microphones to detect booming sounds inside the vehicle and sends counteracting sound waves through the audio system's speakers, ensuring a quiet driving experience at almost all vehicle speeds.

Inside the passenger cabin, Terrain's rich, premium interior is influenced by industrial sculpture and exudes refinement exemplified by contrasting stitching and fine materials that create a structured look throughout the cabin. A "floating" center stack, highlighted by warm ambient lighting, houses ergonomic comfort and convenience controls. The Terrain also features great attention to detail, with smart use of storage space and compartments that are suitable for a variety of items. They include an oversized glove box, a closed storage area in the instrument panel above the center stack, a closed storage compartment under the center armrest large enough for a laptop computer, and two-tier storage in the doors.

Terrain's seats were developed to provide outstanding comfort. The standard MultiFlex sliding rear seat can be moved fore or aft nearly eight inches, providing increased passenger comfort or greater rear cargo capacity. The 60/40-split rear seatback offers additional configurations for passengers and cargo.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"Faint, faint and clear,
Faint as the music that in dreams we hear
Shaking the curtain-fold of sleep,
That shuts away
The world's hoarse voice."
— Mary Ainge de Vere

After East's pre-empt, North-South had an intelligent auction to slam. North's jump to five spades asked South to bid on with a heart control, and South could hardly refuse, despite his minimum hand. (Incidentally, had he held the guarded heart king, the right call now would have been five no-trump.)

Against six spades West led his singleton heart. South won and felt he had to draw at least two rounds of trump at once in case of a bad side-suit break. Take a moment to consider how you would protect against a bad trump break.

The winning line is to cash the trump ace and queen — by no means obvious, is it? Now South took the two top diamonds, crossed to his spade jack, and led out a low diamond. Had West followed (or discarded), declarer would have ruffed, come back to hand with a club, and drawn the trump, conceding a heart at the end.

In fact, West ruffed in, so declarer pitched a heart from dummy and could win the club return, discard both of dummy's hearts on his two high diamonds, and ruff his losing heart in dummy for the 12th trick.

Without the weak-two bid, it is far from clear whether this would be the best line, but because West was known to have no more hearts, it made it the indicated play.

South can also succeed by unblocking dummy's diamonds before touching spades, but that would be a needless risk.

ANSWER: What an impossible problem! Partner has hearts and a strong hand; other than that you know very little about his shape. A case can be made for a natural two clubs, but this may not be so easy for your partner to work out. Alternatively, you could pass and hope to buy some spade length opposite. If you don't trust your partner to understand a call of two clubs, passing would be your best guess today.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

"Numerous politicians have seized absolute power and muzzled the press. Never in history has the press seized absolute power and muzzled the politicians."

— David Brinkley, American broadcast journalist (1920-2003)

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping a journal for my son since he was born 22 years ago. I have never missed a single day. I write about him regardless of whether I see him or not. Sometimes I'll jot down a verse I remembered, or something happening in his world or an item of newsworthy information. I have also written my thoughts about his life and decisions.

My dilemma is when I should give these writings to him. I don't want to keep them indefinitely because they are meant for him. He is married and has a son on the way. My inclination is to give him the writings of his life on the occasion of his son's birth. He has no idea I've been doing this, so it will be a complete surprise. I'd appreciate your input.

— BLOCKED WRITER

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR BLOCKED WRITER: What an amazing gift those journals will be. However, allow me to caution you against giving them to your son when his child is born. There will be a lot going on at that time, and you do not want to distract from that momentous occasion. My advice is to wait until his next milestone birthday and present them to him when he's 25. And because you enjoy journaling, consider starting one about your own life then.

DEAR ABBY: I have always enjoyed Halloween. I like seeing the children in their costumes and, for most of the little ones, it is a fun and magical time.

In our neighborhood, a group of 15 to 20 parents escort their trick-or-treating children from door to door. Sometimes there are 25 to 30 kids. When they approach a house for their treats, the parents remain on the sidewalk, apparently oblivious to what's going on when the door opens.

We have a small front porch that rises about 8 inches above the sidewalk. The kids push and shove, jockeying for position to get their "loot." Last year, a 5-year-old fell off our porch. Fortunately, she was not hurt. The parents did not issue any directions to their children to take turns accepting our candy because they were too busy chatting among themselves.

Because of the inherent danger to unsupervised children (and the possibility of a lawsuit if there should be an accident), I will not be turning on my porch light this year — the signal in our area that alerts kids that the home is participating in trick-or-treat.

I hope my letter will remind parents to practice mindfulness and make this Sunday a Happy Halloween!

— LIGHTS OUT
IN HARRISBURG

DEAR LIGHTS OUT: So do I, and that's why I'm printing your letter, which arrived just in time for me to include it in today's column. Last year your neighbors were lucky the child who fell didn't break a wrist or an ankle. Parents, when escorting your little ghosts, goblins and vampires, please remain vigilant. Common sense must prevail.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love with my best friend. It seems so simple when I say it, but when it comes to telling him, the words never come out right. I don't know if I should even say anything. What if it ruins the amazing friendship we already have? Is it worth risking it all?

— HESITANT IN FLORIDA

DEAR HESITANT: Yes, it is, so tell him how you feel. If he has feelings for you, you'll get what you're angling for. If he doesn't, it does not mean your friendship must end. It will let you know that if you want a romantic relationship you are free to look elsewhere. Better to know it sooner than later.

IF OCTOBER 29 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You can build a solid reputation as a leader during the year to come and may climb the ladder of success through good luck and helpful friends. Make a positive change of direction in the next few weeks and again in February when a chance opportunity can lead to bigger and better things. Your popularity grows by leaps and bounds — but you must not abandon loved ones or your most treasured principles next spring. In March, you may receive the rewards you richly deserve if you simply persevere and remain true blue.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Mixing business and pleasure could be toxic to your head or heart. This isn't a good time to make investments or major purchases. On the other hand, it is a fine time for creative endeavors and conversation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Suspend plans for a shopping spree. Temporary celestial aspects make this a poor time to make major purchases or investments. A lunch date with a potential new hookup could fall flat or fall through.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dreams can come true. Your thoughts may revolve around an upcoming event, some entertainment or the beginning of an exciting hobby this weekend. It may be difficult to focus on business as usual.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be flattered if someone shows an interest in your personal life. Take no offense if asked to explain your actions or thoughts. Intense probing questions may indicate a sincere desire to know you better.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Turn back the hands of time. Developing situations could make you feel like a kid again or remind you of the days of younger days. Maybe it is time to revisit a hobby from the past or childhood haunts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Invest time in learning about a valuable subject. It may be difficult to spend quality time alone with someone you want to know better when others compete for attention. The best take time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Sort the wheat from the chaff. A choice between new friends and long-term companions may put you in a quandary. If you hold fast to high ideals and solid principles, you can't make mistakes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Once you have counted all your blessings, you will feel secure enough to share. Bending over backward to please someone can easily put you off balance. Common sense should be your guide.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Like Peter Pan, you don't have to grow up quite yet. Clap your hands and believe. When Tinker Bell's bright light was flickering and failing, it was the support of her fans that helped her recover.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The anticipation of ghostly thrills might give you chills. You are likely to make some spooky plans for the weekend ahead. Don't back away from an invitation because you are suspicious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Watch the road signs. If you follow the herd, you might end up somewhere you didn't intend. Groups, organizations or community events could eat up time leaving you starved for personal fun.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Volunteer some time, some money or some opinions. Halloween weekend might offer an opportunity for a public appearance at the local church, community center, or the chance to participate in neighborhood festivities.

Guido is a young adult Chihuahua. He is brown and about a year old. Come meet him today. He will go fast!

Sophia is an 8-month-old Chihuahua mix female. She is very pretty with tri-colored markings. She will not last long!

Conrad is a very handsome 10-week-old lab mix puppy. His coat is a unique silvery black shade. Conrad came in with his sister Tess. They love to wrestle and play! He also loves to give puppy kisses and play with his human friends. He hopes to find a forever family with lots of love to give him!

Tess is a beautiful 10-week-old Rottweiler shepherd mix puppy. She has the rottweiler markings on her face and paws, but has bigger floppier ears than a rottweiler. Tess is very affectionate. She loves to give kisses and have her belly rubbed. Come meet Tess today!

Cricket is a black and white Labrador Shepherd mix puppy. She is about 9-weeks-old and is black with a little white. Cricket came into the shelter with 2 of her sisters she was abandoned with. She is very cute!

Sierra is a tan and black shepherd mix. She is 9-weeks-old. She came to the shelter with her sister Cricket and molly. She is very cute and snuggly.

Maddie is an adorable 9 week old lab border collie mix puppy. She had been abandoned and was brought to the shelter by a citizen who found her. Maddie is black with a little white on her chest and paws. She is very cute and would make a wonderful addition to a family with kids.

Misty is a darling boxer/pit bull mix. She is mostly black with a little white. Misty does have a docked tail and is very affectionate. She came into the shelter dragging a leash with the name Misty on it, so we kept that name. Come meet her today.

Mick is an 8-month-old male red heeler. Mick is a great dog with lots of personality! He loves to romp and play with kids. Mick is so handsome! He is very observant and will cock his head to one side if there is something curious. Come meet him today!

Adoption fee is $75, incs spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Concepts Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

PUBLISH: October 22, 29, November 5, 2010

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE: The following described property will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, payable in lawful money of the United States, in the office of First American Title Company, 260 3rd Avenue North, Twin Falls, ID, 83301, on January 24, 2011 at 11:00 AM, (recognized local time) for the purpose of foreclosing that certain Deed of Trust recorded 08/31/2007 as Instrument Number 2007-021906, and executed by BRANDY L. HILL AND JOHN HILL, WIFE AND HUSBAND, as Grantor(s), in favor of MORTGAGE ELECTRONIC REGISTRATION SYSTEMS, INC., as Beneficiary, to RECONTRUST COMPANY, N.A., the Current Trustee of record, covering the following real property located in Twin Falls County, State of Idaho. LOT 8, DAVIDSON'S SUBDIVISION, TWIN FALLS COUNTY, IDAHO, ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIAL PLAT THEREOF RECORDED IN BOOK 5 OF PLATS, PAGE 14, RECORDS OF TWIN FALLS COUNTY, IDAHO. The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above reference real property, but for purposes of compliance with Idaho Code, Section 60-113, the Trustee has been informed that the street address of, 235 MADISON ST, Twin Falls, ID, 83301-5119 is sometimes associated with said real property. Bidders must be prepared to tender the trustee the full amount of the bid at the sale in the form of cash, or cashier's check drawn on a state or federally insured savings institution. Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the certain Deed of Trust. The default for which this sale is to be made is: Failure to pay the monthly payment due March 01, 2010 of principal, interest and impounds and subsequent installments due thereafter; plus late charges, with interest currently accruing at 6.750% per annum; together with all subsequent sums advanced by beneficiary pursuant to the terms and conditions of said Deed of Trust, and any supplemental modifications thereto. The principal balance owing as of this date on said obligation is $71,152.73, plus interest, costs and expenses actually incurred in enforcing the obligations thereunder and in this sale, together with any unpaid and/or accruing real property taxes, and/or assessments, attorneys' fees, Trustees' fees and costs, and any other amount advanced to protect said security, as authorized in the promissory note secured by the aforementioned Deed of Trust. Therefore, the Beneficiary elects to sell, or cause said trust property to be sold, to satisfy said obligation. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THIS FIRM IS ATTEMPTING TO COLLECT A DEBT AND ANY INFORMATION OBTAINED WILL BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE, AND THAT THE DEBT MAY BE DISPUTED. THE ABOVE GRANTORS ARE NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506(4)(a) IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION. DATED: September 15, 2010 RECONTRUST COMPANY, N.A., Name and Address of the Current Trustee is: RECONTRUST COMPANY, N.A., 1800 Tapo Canyon Rd., CA6-914-01-94, SIMI VALLEY, CA 90028-1821, PHONE: (800) 281-8219.
