STATE SCHOOLS CHIEF PROPOSES SWEEPING EDUCATION OVERHAUL

Science teacher Marvin Mumm talks to students about their equations in a chemistry lab Wednesday afternoon at Kimberly High School. Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna unveiled Wednesday a proposal that would bring sweeping changes to Idaho's public education system.

BOISE — State legislators got a classroom quiz on Wednesday.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna asked lawmakers on the House and Senate education committees to use electronic clickers to answer questions on a screen. When asked which Idaho town was the first state capitol, 85 percent correctly clicked on Lewiston.

Another 15 percent got it wrong: Idaho City.

M.V. educators: Mixed feelings on Luna plan

By Amy Huddleston
Times-News writer

Cautious optimism and a few requisite reservations were shared Wednesday as Magic Valley educators and parents digested Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna's sweeping proposal to reform

Idaho's system of public education.

Questions abound after Luna's two-hour presentation to state lawmakers in Boise. Proposals to change how teachers earn raises, increase class sizes and bring new technology to classrooms will be scrutinized in the coming months.

Luna's "Students Come First" proposal resurrected a controversial plan — rejected by lawmakers in 2008 — that would partially base teachers' pay on how well their students perform. On Wednesday, Luna said that component would be based upon "student academic growth" rather than data from tests like the Idaho Standards Achievement Test, but did not present an exact method.

"I've long felt the growth model would be superior. We have a lot of growth even though we haven't reached the benchmarks yet," Cassia

The blue-and-gold aeronautics of the U.S. Navy Blue Angels will swoop through the Magic Valley again in July 2012, the city of Twin Falls announced Wednesday.

The show squadron will fly in "Air Magic Valley" at Joslin Field, Magic Valley Regional Airport on July 28 and 29. Event details will be hashed out in coming months, Air Magic Valley Chairman Phil Hafer said. The Blue Angels gave their first Magic Valley show in 2008, drawing about 25,000 people to the airport.

"We had never had an event like that before and the community absolutely loved it and embraced it," Airport Manager Bill Carberry said.

The current Blue Angel model, the F/A-18 Hornet, speeds up to almost the speed of sound during the show and goes as slow as 120 mph. During the Diamond 360 maneuver, the $21 million jets get as close as 18 inches to each other, according to the Blue Angels website.

The Blue Angels serve as "role models and good will ambassadors for the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps," according to the group's website.

While about 25,000 people showed up to the team's 2008 two-day performance, the event finished $21,513 in the red, and organizers relied on taxpayers to cover the shortfall.

The city of Twin Falls and Twin Falls County — which co-own the airport and partnered in the show's production — split the difference.

The overall cost of the show was $466,000.

City and county officials in Twin Falls say the year-plus planning time and experience from putting on the last show will stop that shortfall

Proposed CSI trail expansion

A trail of service

T.F. Rotary pledges to build CSI-to-canyon walking trail

By Nick Coltrain
Times-News writer

Standing on a field still covered with ice and under gray skies, Rotarians Jim Ponzio and Chris Scholes talked about how nice their club's new trail will be — especially when temperatures rise above freezing.

The Twin Falls Rotary Club recently got the Twin Falls City Council on board with its project, a milestone in what has thus far been a two-year effort by the club. The final product will create a walking trail that follows the Perrine Coulee from the College of Southern Idaho to the Canyon Rim Trail at Pole Line Road.

"As soon as you get this part done, you can walk from CSI to the mall without hitting traffic," said Scholes, head of the Twin Falls Rotary Club's new projects committee. "That's pretty slick."

The project has no set completion date — the club still needs an OK to build on wetlands, final engineering approval and the blessing of CSI and its foundation, which

The Rotary Club proposes to cover 100 percent of construction costs for the trail, which is essentially the same path that the city's Parks and Recreation Department has sought grants for. Based on the city's grant applications, Scholes guesses the total cost will be about $250,000.

It would leave the city to

Jaquet will not run for 10th term

BOISE (AP) — Nine-term Democrat state Rep. Wendy Jaquet of Ketchum says she won't seek election for a 10th term.

The House minority leader tells the Idaho Mountain Express in a story published Wednesday that her decision not to run doesn't mean she'll work any less hard this term.

Jaquet has been in the Legislature since 1995 and says it could be time for someone else with new ideas.

She says one of her main goals this session is to oversee the reorganization of the Idaho Tax Commission, whose chairman resigned last week amid allegations he divulged privileged information to friends and family.

Jaquet says she made the announcement with almost two full Legislative sessions left in her term to give others time to raise money for campaigns.

Jaquet says she will remain in Ketchum after finishing her last term as a lawmaker.

Fire guts Twin Falls garage

Times-News

The Twin Falls Fire Department quelled a fire after it gutted a garage at 203 Ninth Ave. E. early Wednesday morning.

Fire personnel believe the fire started in the detached garage because a halogen light had been left too close to a rabbit cage lined with wood chips. Battalion Chief Jack Barnes reminded the public that halogen lights produce intense, localized heat and should be kept away from flammable materials.

The fire was put out after 45 minutes after firefighters responded at 1:30 a.m., but the garage was deemed a total loss. A nearby vehicle sustained moderate damage, and the house received minor damage. The losses were valued at around $35,000.

No one was injured but the rabbit perished in the fire.

Authorities continue to investigate CSI student deaths

The Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office continues to investigate a single-vehicle crash that killed two college students in September.

Sheriff's spokeswoman Lori Stewart said the department continues to examine the Sept. 12 deaths of College of Southern Idaho students Devon Austin, 19, and Ryan Reinhardt, 18. The two students from Coeur d'Alene were killed when their car went off the road and rolled east of Filer near U.S. Highway 30. Jessica Duran, 19 and also of Coeur d'Alene, was treated for minor injuries and released.

Sheriff's officials previously said that the trio was possibly chased by others after leaving a house party in the area, during which they were involved in a verbal altercation with others. Following the chase, Reinhardt, the driver, failed to navigate a curve on Clover Road and rolled his 1998 Toyota Camry several times. Excessive speed and alcohol are suspected to be factors in the crash.

Utah man who led police on chase scheduled for trial

A Utah man is scheduled to face a March jury trial on felony charges related to a December high-speed police chase through Minidoka County.

Joshua Andrew Sotomayor, 18, of Clearfield, Utah, is charged with felony grand theft, fleeing or attempting to elude an officer, and driving without privileges after he was arrested Dec. 20.

He pleaded not guilty to the charges on Monday and is slated for trial at 9 a.m. March 30 in Minidoka County 5th District Court.

Sotomayor remained in custody at the Mini-Cassia Criminal Justice Center on Wednesday on $5,000 bond.

Sotomayor allegedly fled from an Idaho State Police trooper after the trooper tried to pull him over on Interstate 84 near Exit 208 near Burley. When the trooper ran the vehicle's license plate, it came back as stolen out of Utah.

Several law enforcement agencies chased the car's driver through Paul and outlying areas, reaching speeds of up to 100 mph before a Minidoka County deputy was able to push the car off the road and end the chase.

Mild flu season still holds risk of H1N1

By Laura Lundquist
Times-News writer

Influenza viruses are beginning to make inroads into Idaho's population, but people can still shield themselves with a shot.

The first three months of the year are usually the peak of the flu season and that appears to be the case this year. According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, flu cases were just sporadic in Idaho until local outbreaks increased during the week after Christmas.

Health officials confirmed the season's first Idaho case of H1N1 on Wednesday in Canyon County. A woman in her 20s was diagnosed but has no complications.

Even so, influenza-like illnesses are still minimal in most of the nation and health officials have labeled the flu season as "mild" so far. The only exceptions are New York City and six southeastern states where the number of flu cases is high.

The CDC has identified the following influenza viruses this year: the 2009 H1N1, influenza A and influenza B. Among the 656 influenza A cases investigated, 41 percent were influenza A and 7 percent were 2009 H1N1. These viruses remain similar to the viruses chosen for this year's flu vaccine.

With more reports of flu-like activity coming in from around the state, state health officials are reminding Idahoans to get vaccinated against the flu. With cold temperatures, people spend more time together indoors, increasing the chances of transmission.

The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare reported a record amount of flu vaccine available this season — an estimated 160 million doses nationwide.

Flu vaccination is recommended for everyone older than 6 months. Infants shouldn't be vaccinated but are at high risk for flu complications, so family members are encouraged to protect them by getting vaccinated.

In addition to getting a flu shot, IDHW recommends that people:

- Cover a cough with a tissue or sleeve.
- Wash hands often, especially after visiting public places.
- Travel only when you are feeling well. If you have flu symptoms, wait to travel until at least 24 hours after you are fever-free without the use of fever-reducing medication.

Kimberly applies for grant for RV dump

By Emily Katseanes
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — The city of Kimberly may develop a new dumping ground.

Jeff McCurdy from Region IV Development and City Administrator Polly Hulsey updated the City Council on Tuesday about an in-process grant application that could pay for an RV dump. The current plan puts the dump, with parking and picnic benches, near the intersection of Ash and Main streets.

In order to move ahead with the application, the council had to decide whether it would charge for use of the dump. Public Works Superintendent Rob Wright estimated the dump would need to be pumped every 75 dumps for $600. The yearly cost would be about $7,200.

Some council members were hesitant to levy a required fee, worried a charge of $8 or less would drive people to use Twin Falls' free dump instead of stopping and spending money in Kimberly.

"Even if people don't stop, (the dump) gets them driving through and they see the Quilt Shop and make a note to come back," Councilman Brandon Hoobler said. "I do think there may be an ancillary effect."

Lowell Ihler, a Kimberly citizen who collected about 50 signatures in support of the project, suggested a donation box along the lines of dumps in Hansen and Sun Valley.

The council voted for Ihler's suggestion, except for Councilwoman Mitzi Cheldelin. She supported a required fee to prevent Kimberly taxpayers from eating the maintenance costs.

The proposed project originally came up in September, when Ihler brought the idea of the dump and the grant information to the council.

In other business, the council still has a few more questions to answer before making firm decisions on a tiered water rate and its implementation date.

Though there are no penalties for repaying the city's current water project bond early, Hulsey said, a more in-depth look at the budget may be needed before taking that step. More detailed numbers will clarify how much money in reserves is earmarked for other departments or other projects. "That might give you a better idea than just looking at a bulk amount in water reserves," Hulsey said.

Wright said he also wants to make sure there is enough money in reserves to cover failures or repairs.

"I hate to keep dragging this out but after this week, we'll have a lot more information. Then the next City Council meeting, we'll have some hard decisions to make," Cheldelin said.

The council also voted to adjust mileage reimbursement rates to be in line with Internal Revenue Service recommendations, and approved a bid to remove asbestos in the ceiling of the old City Hall building.

Trail

pick up a $4,000 tab for the trail's slurry seal every seven years or so, according to a city staff report.

The club's plan for the trail is about half permanent and half "permanent temporary," as Scholes put it, where it breaks away from the coulee near the Lazy J Ranch mobile home park and cuts between it and the Fawnbrook Apartments. When the mobile home park is developed into commercial property, which is probably years off, the entire trail will follow the coulee.

Scholes and Ponzio said they want it to look nice and be something the club and the community can be proud of, even if part of it eventually will be replaced. They also want it to fit the club's mission of service to the community.

"Sometimes service is as small as giving a scholarship to a girl so she can get child care and go to CSI," Ponzio, the club's president, said. "Sometimes it's a big project for the entire community."

Science teacher Marvin Mumm helps answer a question for Ethan Johnston, 17, during chemistry class Wednesday at Kimberly High School. Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna unveiled Wednesday a proposal that would bring sweeping changes to Idaho's public education system.

Education

Continued from Main 1 aimed at overhauling public education in Idaho with a three-pronged approach of technology, effective educators and transparent accountability.

It comes at a time when the public schools budget is lean, and budget cuts have led to everything from fewer class days to slashed field trips and music programs.

"We cannot continue down this path," Luna said. "That is why we must make tough decisions, but also systemic changes."

In short, it would mean a radical change for all those with a role in public K-12 education: students, teachers, administrators and parents.

For students, it would mean investment in technology and new classroom equipment — like those clickers and more — and increased virtual education options, with the Idaho Education Network playing a key role.

In a press conference with Luna, Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter stressed the value of the proposal. By providing every ninth-grader with a laptop, for example, the state would open students to more learning opportunities after school doors close.

Starting in the 2012-13 school year, all ninth-graders would need to take at least two online classes a year — eight by the time they graduate. They could take more if they wish. They could also take free dual-credit college courses during their senior year if they finished high school requirements early.

The trade-off: larger class sizes.

The current state-funded student-teacher ratio is 18.2 students, which would gradually increase to an average of 19.8 students, though not in kindergarten through the third grade.

Savings would come because the ratio is used in determining how much funding school districts receive. The savings — $100.6 million across a two-year period — would pay for parts of Luna's plan.

Luna's proposed pay-for-performance plan rewards teachers hired for hard-to-fill positions, those taking on leadership roles, and for student academic growth.

In that same vein, tenure for new teachers would be replaced with two-year contracts. Existing educators would keep their tenure.

"Right now the current system limits our ability to reward our great teachers and remove our poor teachers," Luna said.

He would also end the practice of paying school districts 99 percent of student-attached funding the year after that student leaves for another district. That would save $5.4 million.

In its place, districts could fire teachers when student enrollment drops, with the state providing money for severance packages.

"It will take some tough decisions but they are necessary decisions," Luna said. "Decisions that put students first."

Sherri Wood, president of the Idaho Education Association, said the state teachers' union always supports accountability. But she expressed concern about limiting contract negotiations to only salary and benefits, removing other traditional topics like parent-teacher conferences and professional development.

She said she still needs to see more details, like how a two-year contract could be in place and yet teachers still be terminated.

Rep. Stephen Hartgen, R-Twin Falls, said Luna's presentation was forward-thinking and has much potential.

"If he only gets 50 percent it will be great," said Hartgen, a member of the House Education Committee.

He said his impression was very favorable, though one concern is the impact of

ABOUT THE PLAN

"Students Come First" is a plan to overhaul education with three main components. They are:

- The 21st century classroom: Provide $50 million in the next two years for classroom technology; laptops for each ninth-grader starting in 2012; online course requirements for high school students; state covers dual-credit course costs in a student's senior year if they meet graduation requirements early. Public colleges and universities could operate charter schools.
- Effective teachers/principals: Restores the salary grid that was cut last year; raises minimum salary for new teachers from $29,655 to $30,000; ties pay to teacher performance; phases out tenure with rolling two-year contracts for new educators. Performance evaluations would be partially tied to academic growth. Seniority couldn't be the only factor in layoff decisions.
- Transparent accountability: Parental input would be used for teacher evaluations; salary negotiations would be public; school district financial information would be online. Bargaining in teacher contracts would be limited only to salaries and benefits, excluding items like school calendars.

removing the 99 percent safety net on school districts if enrollment plummets due to a major employer's shutdown.

Rep. Donna Pence, D-Gooding, echoed that same theme, noting that Gooding School District needed the safety net when a charter school opened in the community.

But she liked the emphasis on technology.

"This gives more opportunity," she said.

Ben Botkin may be reached at bbotkin@magicvalley.com or 735-3238.

Reactions

County School District Superintendent Gaylen Smyer said. "Right now we either reach it or we don't, which is frustrating for students who just miss the mark but have made significant progress. I need to study it more but I believe it will be advantageous to us."

But Larisa Alexander, president of the Twin Falls High School Parent Teacher Student Organization, doesn't like the idea of basing teacher pay on student achievement.

"They work hard and put in a lot of hours and students come from a lot of different backgrounds," Alexander said. "I hate to see pay depend on something that isn't necessarily in their control."

Kimberly High School teacher Darin Gonzales, the state teachers union's representative, said he needed more time to look over the new proposals.

"With this magnitude of change that he's talking about, you may need a week to learn the nuts and bolts of it all," Gonzales said. "The teachers haven't looked at it yet because everybody was working today but this is a big change. There are so many questions."

Luna's emphasis on placing new technology in classrooms was appreciated by Canyon Ridge High School Principal Brady Dickinson. He already encourages students to take at least one online course before they graduate to prepare them for college, and said Luna's proposal to give all ninth-grade students laptops and require them to take two online classes in 2013 was innovative.

"We have a population that don't have computers at home, so that puts them at a disadvantage at the beginning. This way it gives everyone a tool that today is almost a necessity," Dickinson said. "I think it is the way of the future. Live classes are better because of the face-to-face and class discussion and interaction but most classes in college have online components now."

Air show

"We were kind of budgeting on faith that it would break even," Twin Falls County Commission Chairman George Urie said of the 2008 show. "This time we can actually plan for it, budget for it."

Twin Falls City Councilman Will Kezele, the council's liaison to the airport advisory board, said he trusts organizers learned from the last show, though the books still need close watching. The economic impact of the 2008 show and the potential from this one are nothing to scoff at either, he said.

"They are a huge draw," Kezele said. "They get people from all over the West to come to the community."

Kezele said he was one who travelled to see the Blue Angels, watching the show probably yearly when he was a boy.

Organizers expect to need an army of volunteers similar to what was needed for the 2008 show, and also to solicit sponsors and help from the business community. But with the announcement just being made — and the show more than a year off — that planning has not yet happened.

Lessons from an Arizona tragedy

In the wake of the mass shooting in Tucson Saturday, reaction was swift and came from all sides of the political spectrum and all corners of the country. President Obama referred to the shooting as an “unspeakable tragedy” and “a senseless and terrible act of violence (that) has no place in a free society.” Republican U.S. Sen. John McCain of Arizona said those responsible for the shootings “deserve and will receive the contempt of all decent people and the strongest punishment of the law.”

Arizona’s Republican Secretary of State Ken Bennett said, “We have no room for violence in our political culture.” Democrat Janet Napolitano, Homeland Security secretary and former Arizona governor, echoed those remarks by saying “there is no place in our society or discourse for such senseless and unconscionable acts of violence.” Republican House Speaker John Boehner called it a “senseless attack” and GOP Rep. Ben Quayle of Arizona said he was “deeply shocked and saddened by the tragic shooting incident.” Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, a Democrat, said “this is a sad day for our country, and acts of senseless violence such as this one affect us all.” Our headline in the Times-News Sunday morning used the term “nation stunned.”

We wonder. After a few days — or at most a couple of weeks — how big an effect will this shooting really have on our lives and those of the other 300 million-plus Americans? How long-lasting were the consequences of the Fort Hood, Texas, mass shooting in November 2009? How about the workplace shooting that killed nine in Manchester, Conn., last August, or the domestic dispute in Kentucky last September that left six people dead? What about the campus shootings at Columbine High School or Northern Illinois or Virginia Tech?

We think that we should be affected; that some action could or should have been taken in the past to prevent these shootings. We want to be outraged and shocked — and for the briefest of moments we are — and then tomorrow happens and we move relentlessly on with our own lives. We rush to assign blame to those who should have done something, but stop short of taking action to prevent it in the future.

The Second Amendment, which we and most Americans cherish, means that those who choose to abuse the privileges the Constitution affords U.S. citizens can do so. Courts have determined that fully automatic weapons and explosives can’t be owned by everyone. But it’s still a difficult tradeoff between freedom and security.

If debate about a possible solution to the endless string of mass shootings occurs — and we think that it should — it must be a serious one. It needs to elevate above the naïve fortune-cookie wisdom of “Guns don’t kill people; people do.” The debate must be entered into by intelligent men and women who do not try to pretend that the those who authored the words protecting “the right of the people to keep and bear arms” in 1791 may not have imagined the day when those arms would include a Glock 19 semiautomatic handgun.

The debate must not be reactive, but must occur. The choices are to do something or to do nothing. Doing “something” is fraught with freedom issues that we don’t really want to consider, but doing nothing seems to relegate mass shootings to the “it’s the cost of doing business” category.

Following Saturday’s events in Tucson, no one was quoted as saying what we all know to be true but are secretly afraid to admit — that without change these shootings are inevitable and that there will be more of them.

Our view:

Americans need to be able to conduct a civil conversation about gun issues.

Tighter belts mean later bumps

The tighter belts being worn of late are leaving less room for baby bumps. According to data released in December by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, births for 2009 continued the downward trend begun in 2008, and 2010 data indicate more of the same. Falling birthrates often breed anxiety: Who will do the work; who will pay the Social Security taxes of the future? But in reality, the declining baby rates — prompted by the recession, many experts say — actually bode well for women, their families and the nation.

Elizabeth Gregory

That’s because, while the birthrate declined 3 percent overall, the underlying story is delay. And delay is good.

For the second year running, younger women are putting off kids in much greater numbers than older women. Births to teens declined 6 percent, and births to women age 20 to 24 fell a big 7 percent. After that, the decline diminished, coming in at 4 percent for those 25 to 29, 2 percent for the 30 to 34 group and 1 percent for those 35 to 39, while the rate for women 40 to 44 rose 3 percent for the second year running. This recession-induced delay piggybacks on a trend toward delay that’s grown steadily since the 1970s.

Most everyone agrees that the teen birthrate decline — to an all-time U.S. low — is great news. Fewer births to teens mean that more young women can finish growing up themselves, complete their educations and go on to better work, so they can better support and guide kids when they have them later.

Similar dynamics apply for people in their early 20s, but beyond that point analysts waffle on how much delay is good. We’ve heard for years about the risk of infertility as women age. What we don’t hear much about is why women wait. Just as recession has long been effective birth control, economics is a big factor behind delay even in good times. Like teens, women also face a trade-off between wages and babies.

For more than three decades, increasing numbers have addressed this problem through delay — into their late 20s, 30s and 40s. Holding off on kids, women have discovered, provides a shadow benefits system in a nation whose policies aren’t very family friendly. Waiting to have children until we’ve finished our educations and established ourselves at work translates into higher wages long-term. Gaining job experience and your employer’s trust pays off in more of the flexibility that helps families thrive. In addition, kids benefit from increased maternal education and clout. And, handily, the later your age at first birth, the longer you’re likely to live, so chances are good you’ll see your kids grow up.

and rising. Female college grads have first kids on average at 30, and women with graduate degrees start even later. Though financial concerns are not the only reason for delay, they’re significant. The new birth data confirm that older women feel both better able to afford kids and a sense of urgency about having them pronto.

The better wages linked to delay allow women to afford luxuries such as licensed child care for their kids, as opposed to the less-good care that most families rely on. That’s nice for them, but the bigger gain is at the broader level.

Delaying children has allowed a “trickle up” of women into policymaking roles in business and government. As a result, for the first time in history, women are getting a say in the shaping of the nation’s rules and priorities. Women’s presence in the business world has led to more family-friendly work options. Once a critical mass of female policymakers who support families is achieved, they should make it easier for all parents, at whatever age they start their families, to combine raising a family with fair wages and a career. The women delaying now could make it less necessary for women to delay in years to come. But we’re not there yet.

The current birthrate drop, rather than offering an occasion for anxiety, offers an opportunity to consolidate the gains for women, for their future families and for the nation. Looking forward, we need policies that make it more worthwhile for younger women to delay even in non-recessionary times, by, for instance, helping them succeed in school. In addition, we need to ensure that women at all levels are paid fairly so that they can afford families at the time that is right for them.

There is a silver lining in the economic clouds: More women will be in better positions to support their families when they have them down the line and will have more of the clout that gets their voices heard on all the issues that matter to them. The ripple effect of recession-induced delay will be that many of the women held back from having kids now will have them later, continuing the rise in the birthrate to later moms for some time. That’s a good thing.

The civil war in the Idaho Statehouse

Poignant, the House reading the Constitution as an “opening prayer,” a guiding star. Unique! Bravo!

We are a unique species: rich enough to afford permanent unemployment or adopt freedom from God as normal. We’re the only species that regularly kills its young or is capable of love and sin. We’re alone among species possessing living memory and creative futuristic imagination. We alone can destroy the earth or create heaven here.

We’re engaged in a great civil war, Lincoln said. It’s true today, a war of human spirit, slave or free. Ultimately, a god created in the image of man or God who created man in his image.

Choose: The “compassion” of a welfare state or a god who demands work as essential to human dignity.

Choose: The false unity of public education or a god who demands that parents “teach their children well.”

Choose: Granting civil rights to grouse, wolves and salmon or a god who grants such rights to humans alone.

The war rages between the military security god, who preys on fear, and another god whose right arm protects his own. Battles are fought between the god of self-indulgence credit card and the god of restraint that condemns usury.

The civil war of words, ideas and beliefs is the more confused as capitalists join socialists. Passing bailout after bailout, understandably trying to avoid the pain of “Judgment Day” looming ever nearer.

The civil war in our Idaho Statehouse is shaping up to be long and bloody. Compromise or “truce” is attractive. (Remember Korea!) No state can remain both slave and free. You 105 legislators will certainly earn your pay!

Avoid the tempting copout, “The feds made me do it.” I ask you to become fearless “rebels with a cause.” The abolition of slavery of the human spirit, whether from “federalism” or the capitalist right or socialist left. Don’t give up, “look up.” Know your cause is just. Restrain compromise.

Fight on, even through July, to “get it right.” The future of this nation is at stake. (Is it worth it?) God go with you! Este Perpetua.

‘Smart nuclear’ costs less than wind power

In the Dec. 28 editorial, the writer tells us nuclear added to the mix of Idaho Power’s energy sources would elevate our rates. Further, we are told we should look to wind and solar. Worldwide understanding put wind and solar as most expensive. Dependable wind energy is a misnomer and can be double “smart nuclear” cost.

Federal regulations cause us to use nuclear fuel that is 5 percent utilized as 95 percent passes to storage. We have demonstrated nuclear fuel that is 99 percent utilized and 1 percent to storage. France has 80 percent nuclear energy, recycling partially spent fuel. We store it! Their small nuclear facilities service small areas, cutting capital and transmission unit energy costs. Do we need $10 billion nuclear facilities generating more semi-spent fuel storage? Wind energy was largely replaced 100 years ago by steam and internal combustion engines as dependable energy sources.

The utility must adhere to the 2.5 percent constant production tolerance, 20 seconds is allowed to correct tolerance deficiencies. Thermal and hydro energy lack flexibility to track the varying rise and fall of wind. Redundant natural gas-fired “spinning energy” backup to wind energy facilities, plus transmission capital and operating costs from wind farms to the grid must be a part of wind generation net efficiency, which approximates 14.5 percent in Idaho. The Kw cost ranges from 17 cents to 26 cents. “Smart nuclear” is more than competitive compared to wind, as one includes the total wind energy costs. Without political subsidy, there would be no wind farms worldwide. Idaho Power billing does not include the federal subsidy funding of the wind farm. If it did, we may be paying for less “Washington Wind.”

The only thing dependable related to wind energy is redundant backup facilities.

OTHER VIEWS

Here's what Idaho newspapers are saying about ...

... the mess at ICA
Idaho Press-Tribune, Nampa

Idaho's only privately run prison, the Idaho Correctional Center, is facing some pretty disturbing accusations. Referred to by many as "Gladiator School," the lockup has been sued for failing to protect inmates from brutal violence.

Here's a quick refresher course:

- In 2009, inmate Marlin Riggs filed a civil case against the prison after he was beaten so badly in his cell that he suffered permanent facial deformities.

- Late last year, inmate Brian Robert Spaude filed a lawsuit accusing staff of dereliction of duty leading to his assault in the prison's dining hall.

- Attorneys for former inmate Hanni Elabed are negotiating a settlement regarding brain damage he suffered after being beaten by another inmate for several minutes while guards stood and watched.

- Three former guards at the prison provided sworn affidavits claiming that staff at the prison — from the warden down to the guards — failed to protect inmates, and in some cases put them in situations where they knew the inmates would be assaulted.

- A surveillance video released to The Associated Press late last year shows Elabed being attacked, begging for help, while guards stood and watched.

- The American Civil Liberties Union filed a motion last week claiming inmates who are assaulted are written up for trying to defend themselves during attacks. The group also claims guards may be deliberately opening the wrong cell doors, allowing inmates to attack each other.

The Idaho Correctional Center, run for profit by the Corrections Corporation of America, has of course denied many of the claims against it. And in America, any person or group is innocent until proven guilty in a court of law. These very serious claims need to go through the legal system and all sides must be given their chance to state their case.

But it's also true that the claims and evidence against the prison are mounting. It's hard to dispute video-tape ...

Once we get to the bottom of what's really going on at "Gladiator School," we need to either be absolutely sure such incidents aren't ever going to happen, or Idaho needs to end its contract with Corrections Corporation of America. Simple as that.

... 1-for-52

Idaho Statesman, Boise

In 1951, Nampa native Herbert Littleton died after throwing himself on a grenade to save the lives of fellow Korean War soldiers.

Fifty-eight years later, the 111th Congress paid tribute to the Medal of Honor recipient by renaming Nampa's post office in his memory.

The bill, sponsored by then-Rep. Walt Minnick, D-Idaho, is now notable for one somewhat less significant reason. Idaho's congressional delegation sponsored 52 bills in 2009 and 2010. Only this one bill passed.

A 1-for-52 track record does not exactly inspire awe. But the statistic requires some context. Federal lawmakers introduced 10,788 bills and joint resolutions in 2009-10, and 344 were signed into law — roughly a 1-in-31 success rate.

Instead of simply knocking Idaho's batting average, we're more interested in mourning a big opportunity that got away.

After nearly a decade's work, 2010 looked like it could be the year for Rep. Mike Simpson's Boulder-White Cloude wilderness bill. Having secured impressive, consensus support at home, the 2nd District Republican also had bipartisan backing on Capitol Hill. All four members of the delegation were on board, and on April 30, Idaho Republican Sens. Mike Crapo and Jim Risch introduced the bill in the Senate.

They signed on to a common-sense compromise to preserve grazing rights in wilderness areas; maintain off-road vehicle access on the popular Germania Creek trail; and provide land-rich but tax-starved Custer County with more than $2 million in grants for economic development, a community center, EMT services and health clinics. They supported a balance that would create 332,775 acres of Central Idaho wilderness, but allow multiple use on 131,616 acres that are now in public lands limbo and managed as de facto wilderness.

The bill was strong, but Simpson's political coalition went soft. After Gov. Butch Otter voiced 11th-hour objections, Risch bailed ... conveniently ignoring years of work on the ground and reneging on his own long-standing support of the bill ...

... the bill's future seems unclear. The delegation could be at an impasse; Minnick's successor, Republican Rep. Raul Labrador, has voiced opposition to the bill. Congress is at a partisan deadlock, and the 2012 presidential race is more imminent than non-political junkies would like to believe — simple realities that don't bode well even for an Idaho public lands bill that is unlikely to register on the national radar.

Political success is often about making the right use of the right opportunity, at the right time. Idaho wasted an opportunity in 2010. Will another one come along in the future?

... information is power

Idaho Mountain Express, Ketchum

The cities of Sun Valley and Ketchum have focused the new Sun Valley Marketing Alliance on marketing and the Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce on managing a visitor center.

The area now lacks any group designated to collect and disseminate local business data or to analyze it. For example, the cities collect local-option tax data.

The state collects lodging tax information and tracks employment.

Friedman Memorial

Airport tracks the number of flights and the numbers of passengers that pass through the terminal.

The Chamber of Commerce is still collecting current lodging and condo occupancy reports and putting out forecasts. It may also be tracking the number of visitors it serves and the number of calls it receives requesting travel information.

In its previous incarnation, the chamber assembled all the data and also acted as a clearinghouse for general information on tourist-based economies and what factors might be affecting them.

Today, the data aren't being assembled in one place and thus can't help inform decisions by local businesses or the cities ...

Because the cities are wholly dependent on the health of the local economy and are fully in control of the business-generated tax revenues that constitute half their budgets, they should fill the void and take on the responsibility of assembling important local economic indicators for public consumption.

Lawmakers wrong about 'don't ask, don't tell'

On the subject of "Don't ask, don't tell," I think our lawmakers have made a terrible mistake. They view this as a discrimination problem. I view it as an endangerment problem.

As an old Air Force pilot with many hazardous flights and a few emergencies, if I had a homosexual in my crew, I sure wouldn't want to know it.

When you are in the military, you have no choice of who will be next to you. You would hope that person would be reliable and have his mind on the business at hand. If you became aware this person is a homosexual, you would worry and your own concentration could be compromised.

BILL COFFEY

Do we want to give more power to the feds?

Before the Times-News does editorials on wolves, it needs to answer one big question: Do we want to give more states rights to the federal government?

Gov. Otter, along with the governors from Montana and Wyoming, did meet with Ken Salazar. The result was that he was sympathetic to the states' plight and would work on a solution.

The solution was that the government would do certain things if the state would do certain things. What the government wanted was control of Idaho's wildlife. This is taking away states' rights. The Times-News editorial seems to be in lockstep with the federal government. You want us to sit down with Salazar and cut a deal. Why do deals need to be cut? The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Interior Department set the rules when the wolves were brought here, 10 breeding pair or 100 wolves per state for the three states. Then, when we did state management plans, the number was 15 breeding pair or 150 wolves per state. Now they want to agree to 500 to 700 wolves per state. Idaho already has twice that many.

Biologically, we were supposed to maintain the 150 number for at least five years, then delist. This five-year period was up in December 2002.

Has the Fish and Wildlife Service kept its word? No. Have the environmental groups kept their word? No. They even backed out on paying ranchers for confirmed wolf kills. The environmental groups were always in on the negotiations and agreed numbers. They have never kept their word on any of the agreements on the wolf issues, so why do we trust them now?

State management plans were agreed on by the Interior Department. So why do we need to sit down and cut a deal? Each time we sit down, we lose more states rights. Salazar does want an agreement, but it leads to government control over states rights and Idaho's wildlife.

Also in your editorial, you state (the feds proposed delisting the predators in Montana and Idaho) when delisting takes place, the wolf becomes a big game animal by law. This then gives control to the states to manage.

Martelle Anita Ritz

Martelle Anita Ritz, 93, of Twin Falls, passed away Friday, Jan. 7, 2011, at Bridgeview Estates in Twin Falls.

Martelle was born April 7, 1917, in Westerville, Neb., the daughter of Henry Giles and Margaret "Metta" Boeltz Giles. She grew up and attended schools in Nebraska. Martelle furthered her education at the Kearney State Teachers College and taught school in a one-room schoolhouse for seven years.

Martelle married Arnold J. Ritz on Aug. 8, 1942, in Weatherford, Okla. Together they raised two children, Judy and Bradley. In 1955, Martelle and Arnold moved to Twin Falls, Idaho, where they had lived since. Martelle enjoyed painting, sewing and reading. Her love was her family and spending time with her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. She was active in her church, Our Savior Lutheran Church in Twin Falls.

Martelle is survived by her daughter, Judy (Brent) Hodder of Virginia; her son, Bradley (Jacqueline) Ritz of Maine; her four grandchildren, Cassandra Warfel of Maryland, Metta Smith of Texas, Molly Schalk of New Mexico and Matt Hodder of Texas; as well as her seven great-grandchildren, Kaitlyn, Emily, Blake, Alexis, Allyson, Garrett and Martelle. She is also survived by her four sisters, Jayne Ashworth of Utah, Carol (Warren) Ritz of Illinois, Bethel Gregory of Colorado and Beverly Jablonski of Arkansas. She was preceded in death by her husband, Arnold Ritz; her parents; three brothers; and two sisters.

A celebration of Martelle's life will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, Jan. 14, at Reynolds Funeral Chapel, 2466 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls, with Pastor Scott Berner of Our Savior Lutheran Church officiating. Burial will follow at Sunset Memorial Park.

The family suggests giving memorials in Martelle's name to Idaho Youth Ranch. Contributions may be given to funeral chapel staff or mailed to Reynolds Funeral Chapel, P.O. Box 1142, Twin Falls, ID 83303.

Condolences may be left for the family by visiting www.reynoldschapel.com.

Arthur F. Dalley

RUPERT — Arthur F. Dalley MD, long-time Rupert resident, passed away peacefully at home Tuesday, Jan. 11, 2011.

He was born Oct. 20, 1916, in Mobile, Ala., to Arthur T. and Julia Dalley. They later moved to Aberdeen, Idaho, where he was raised on the family farm. Dr. Dalley was a faithful member of the LDS Church. He married his life-long partner, LaVon "Bonnie" Loosle, in 1943, in the Little Church Around the Corner in New York City. Their marriage was later solemnized in the Salt Lake Temple by his uncle, President Ezra Taft Benson.

He is survived by his wife, Bonnie of Rupert; and three children, daughter, Diane (Jerry) Downs of Logan, Utah; son, Arthur II (Muriel) Dalley of Brentwood, Tenn.; and daughter, Marcia (Arlo) Decker of New Plymouth, Idaho; three granddaughters; five grandsons; and six great-grandchildren. He is also survived by three brothers, Winn of Arlington, Texas, Carl of Newcastle, Wash., and Vard of Pleasant Grove, Utah; and one sister, Dorothy Parrish of Provo, Utah. He was preceded in death by his parents; a son, Robert Brent; a sister, Julia; and two grandchildren.

After high school and fresh out of the CCC Camp at Riggins, Idaho, Dr. Dalley hitchhiked to Moscow to enroll at the University of Idaho. Even though he had little money in his pockets, he enrolled and worked at any job he could get to remain in school. He graduated with high honors with both bachelor's and master's degrees in pre-med. He received a scholarship from Columbia Medical School in New York City, where he received his medical training.

After his internship at the LDS Hospital in Salt Lake City, he went on active duty with the Air Force, attaining the rank of captain. During this time he was stationed in Florida at Eglin Air Force Base, where the pilots were trained for the bombing of Japan. At the end of the war, he came to Rupert and partnered with Dr. Moellmer. He remained practicing in Rupert until his retirement in 1986.

Dr. Dalley was a member and past president of the South Central Medical Society, Idaho Medical Association, the AMA and the Academy of Family Physicians. He was chief of staff at the Minidoka Memorial Hospital in 1962. He served on the board of Community Concerts and Mount Harrison Foundation Board. He was a long-time member of the Rupert Rotary Club and was honored with both the Rotarian of the Year and the Paul Harris Fellow International Award.

His hobbies included music, photography, family vacations, snow skiing, tennis and spending time with family, especially a friendly game of Joker. He loved the many cruises he and Bonnie took and their many travels to Europe. He and Bonnie attended 21 Elderhostel programs after retirement.

The family would like to thank Dr. Pates, Home Health, Minidoka Memorial Hospital and Hospice.

The funeral will be held 11 a.m. Friday, Jan. 14, at the Rupert LDS 4th Ward, with Bishop Bob Trevino officiating. Burial will be in the Clarkston, Utah, Cemetery at a later date.

A viewing for family and friends will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 13, at Hansen Mortuary, 710 Sixth St. in Rupert, and one hour prior to the service Friday at the church.

Ireta 'Reta' Conrad

BUHL — Ireta "Reta" Conrad, age 83, of Buhl, passed away Monday, Jan. 10, 2011, after a brief illness.

She was born Oct. 20, 1927, in Hagerman Idaho, the daughter of Dutch and Amanda Green. She attended school in Hagerman and Carey, Idaho. She owned her own restaurant in Buhl, "Reta's Café," for many years. After selling her restaurant, she worked with her husband, Chuck Conrad, managing a fertilizer company in Teton, Idaho, where they enjoyed snowmobiling, boating and fishing. She was active in the Moose Lodge for many years. The last years of her life, she volunteered at the Buhl Senior Citizens Center and also as a senior companion.

In 1943, she married Earl Baird. They had two girls and twin boys. They were later divorced. In 1971, she married Charles "Chuck" Conrad, who passed away in 1999.

She was preceded in death by her husband, her parents, two brothers and one son. Reta is survived by her children, Pat Kaes of Twin Falls, Connie Ray of Gooding and Kenny (Heidi) Baird of Buhl; 13 grandchildren and 39 great-grandchildren; stepchildren, Dennis (Joeva) Conrad, Susan Conrad, Barbara "Janie" (Earl) Aston and Amy (Farshid) Hessami; and five sisters, Emma (Neal) Stayley, Lee (Bud) Douglas, Dorian (Allen) Hopwood, Phillis (Carroll) Miller, and Vonnie O'Neal.

Viewing will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 13, at Farmer Funeral Chapel in Buhl. The funeral will be at 11 a.m. Friday, Jan. 14, at the First Christian Church in Buhl. Memorials may be made to the Buhl Senior Citizens Center.

Pharmacist accused of breaking conscience provisions

The Associated Press

BOISE — A nurse practitioner at a Planned Parenthood of the Great Northwest office in Idaho has filed a complaint with the state pharmacy board, contending a pharmacist abused a new health care conscience law to deny a patient medication.

Lawmakers during the 2010 Legislature passed a measure to allow health-care workers to opt out of providing assistance for abortions, emergency contraception or end-of-life care in some instances, if it violated their conscience.

In the complaint made public Wednesday, the nurse practitioner contends a Walgreens pharmacist in Nampa, Idaho, in November balked at filling a prescription for a drug that helps control bleeding after childbirth or abortions, then hung up the phone when asked for a reference for a pharmacist who would fill the prescription.

Last year's law defines "health care services" that could trigger conscience provisions as "an abortion, dispensation of an abortifacient drug, human embryonic stem cell research, treatment regimens utilizing human embryonic stem cells, human embryo cloning or end of life treatment and care."

The nurse practitioner, who wasn't identified, contends the drug in question — methergine — fits none of those categories.

"Methergine is not an abortifacient and it serves multiple purposes in postpartum care," the practitioner wrote in her complaint.

"I believe the pharmacist wrongly applied the conscience protections... Not filling the prescription could have placed my patient in grave danger," the complaint added.

The patient eventually received the prescription from another pharmacy.

Idaho revenue misses goal, but IRS delay may be culprit

By John Miller
Associated Press

BOISE — Idaho tax revenue in December missed forecasts for the first time in months, potentially complicating Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter's effort to craft a budget for the coming year if the trend continues.

Still, Otter's budget director, Wayne Hammon, said Wednesday it's possible the $10.7 million shortfall results from some taxpayers delaying filing while the Internal Revenue Service reprograms its computers to reflect a hard-fought but bipartisan tax agreement reached by Congress and President Barack Obama last month.

"Individual filings of income tax was off by more than 17 percent," Hammon said. "Even today, the IRS is still not accepting some form of returns. So people who might have paid taxes in December held off, is our belief. The fact that this category is down 17 percent in month tells us that something significant is going on in that area."

Idaho lawmakers had been buoyed by collections up to December, which were a combined $33 million ahead of projected collections.

In this latest reporting period, however, Hammon says low receipts from individual income, off the mark by $11 million, and sales taxes, off by $3 million, caused Idaho to miss the mark.

The lackluster December revenue leaves the state about $22 million ahead, but Otter's fiscal year 2012 budget that starts next July hinges on having a cushion in order to limit cuts to agencies to just $35 million, as he's recommended.

As a result, Hammon said his office will be following the ensuing months' tax receipts very closely to see if there's a "cascading effect" of taxpayers continuing to delay filing returns until April 15.

If Idaho's conservative lawmakers get worried about tax revenue missing targets — for any reason — they could opt for a revenue projection for the year starting in July that's even lower than Otter's. If that happens, expect even deeper cuts to the budget.

Officials: Rathdrum woman claims $190 million Mega Millions prize

The Associated Press

RATHDRUM — A 29-year-old mother of two and former bank worker from northern Idaho has claimed the remaining half of a $380 million Mega Millions jackpot, lottery officials and others said Wednesday.

Holly Lahti, of the small town of Rathdrum, will split the second-largest lottery jackpot in history with Jim and Carolyn McCullar of Ephrata, Wash.

The McCullars appeared at a news conference last Thursday to announce they'd won half the jackpot, or $190 million.

Lahti wasn't at Wednesday's announcement in Boise and officials released few details about her, saying she wished to stay out of the spotlight for now.

"She's requested that the media respect her privacy and not attempt to contact her until she's prepared to speak to you," Idaho Lottery Director Jeff Anderson said at a news conference.

He referred to Lahti as a "delightful young lady" and said he tried to persuade her to go public because there are "a lot of curious people out there." But he said she has a lot to get in order first.

"We expect she'll be coming forward shortly," Anderson said.

Public records show Lahti lives in Rathdrum, a town of about 7,000 in the scenic Idaho Panhandle. She had worked since 2007 as a customer service representative at Inland Northwest Bank in nearby Post Falls, but she resigned Monday, said Holly Poquette, the bank's chief financial officer.

Poquette works in Spokane, Wash., and does not know Lahti. But the manager of the Post Falls branch, Sussana Spencer, called Lahti an "amazing person."

Livestock research center still being pursued

By Blair Koch
Times-News writer

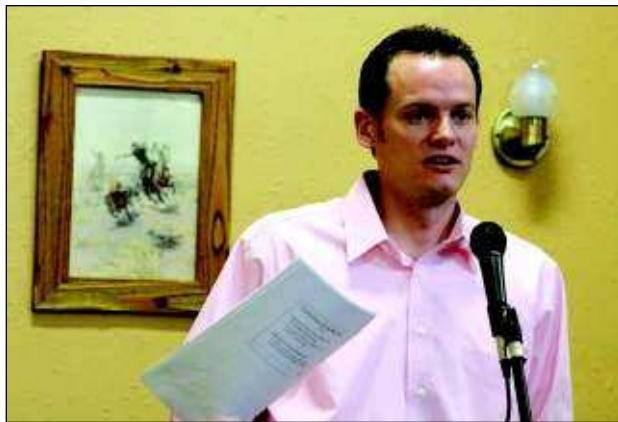

JEROME — Plans to build the proposed Idaho National Center for Livestock and Environmental Studies are still in the works but the project has been crippled — and delayed indefinitely — by the economy.

That was part of the message presented by Rick Naerebout, of the Idaho Dairymen's Association, to members of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce during the organization's monthly meeting Wednesday.

"Without the funding, we can't move forward," Naerebout told the Times-News. "We still are very committed to the project and plan on seeing it through."

Naerebout told the chamber a possible site in Jerome had been identified but said they are waiting on the University of Idaho, a project partner.

"It's just taken a lot longer than originally thought," he said.

BLAIR KOCH/TIMES-NEWS

Idaho Dairymen's Association Spokesman Rick Naerebout discusses the status of a proposed livestock research center during Wednesday's Jerome Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Although the U of I's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences was scouting possible center sites in southern Idaho in October, Rich Garber, the university's director of Industry and Government Relations, told the Times-News in a phone interview Wednesday that the school was waiting for property values to correct.

The university had planned on using land sale proceeds to help fulfill its $10 million pledge.

"We still need the center," Garber said. "We really need to upgrade our livestock research capabilities and the proposed center would certainly do that."

Simply put, the university just doesn't have the money to allocate, although Garber said it looks forward to the day when the center is built.

"The center will be a huge attraction for students and researching opportunities," Garber said. "For now, the center is simply on hold."

The center, expected to cost upwards of $35 million to build, would replicate existing Idaho dairies, Naerebout said, with about 1,500 milk cows.

The center also will feature several hundred head of rangeland cattle and be used for interdisciplinary research, education and outreach, with a partnership between the University of Idaho, state and private industries. The center is to be jointly funded, Naerebout said, with the IDA pledging $5 million, paid over several years.

Other funding pledges include $1 million from Greenfield, Ind.-based Elanco, an animal health company, $250,000 from Northwest Farm Credit, $250,000 from Glanbia Foods and several hundred thousand dollars from IDA's research foundation.

Businesses hiring in 2011 face a buyers' market

By Christopher S. Rugaber
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — Companies planning to ramp up hiring this year will have an added luxury: their choice from a flood of applicants, without having to pay a premium for top talent.

Unemployment remains near double digits, and there are nearly five unemployed workers competing for each available job. That is giving employers more confidence, while at the same time enabling them to keep wages low.

The lack of opportunities over the past three years means it's risky for job seekers to be choosy, particularly for those who have been out of work for more than six months. All that makes for a buyers' market, leaving hiring managers with little incentive to negotiate.

"They don't have to pay higher wages to get who they want," Heidi Shierholz, an economist at the liberal Economic Policy Institute.

Employers advertised 3.25 million jobs in November, the Labor Department said Tuesday. That's 39 percent higher than the number of jobs advertised in July 2009, a month after the recession ended. But it's still far below the 4.4 million openings posted in December 2007, when the downturn began.

Perhaps more important is the number of people competing for those jobs. With 15 million unemployed in November, the ratio was 4.6 unemployed workers for every open job. The ratio reached 6.3 in November 2009, the highest since the department began tracking job openings in December 2000. Still, in a healthy economy, it would fall to between 1.5 and 2, economists say.

Those figures don't factor in under-employed workers or people with jobs who may test the hiring waters.

While openings are up 39 percent from the low point during the recession, monthly hiring has risen only 4 percent to 4.2 million in the same period.

"It is disappointing that 17 months into the recovery, the hires rate still remained at depressed levels," said Henry Mo, an economist at Credit Suisse.

Altrua HealthShare gets cease and desist order

Times-News

BOISE — Austin, Texas-based Altrua HealthShare has been ordered by a hearing officer for the director of the Idaho Department of Insurance to cease and desist operations in Idaho.

The company has the option to go through the legal process and become a licensed insurance company in the state, as the state mandates.

Idaho considers companies that underwrite and assume financial risk for their members as insurance companies; as such, companies must be licensed to do business in the state.

According to a press release from the department, Altrua is a faith-based membership organization, utilizing an extensive underwriting process, including a comprehensive application form, to determine eligibility for coverage and coordinates payment of medical costs among its members.

The department examined Altrua's contract terms before making its determination.

The releases states Altrua "argued that it is operating as a charitable organization and does not assume any risk or guarantee coverage."

However, Deputy Attorney General John Keenan, attorney for the department, advised Altrua to comply with the hearing officer's order and give its members sixty days advance notice of the termination of membership and provide each person with a certificate of creditable coverage.

Altrua may continue doing business in Idaho only after filing for and receiving a certificate of authority from the department to become a licensed insurance company in Idaho.

CEO says GM a year behind on new product development

By Tom Krisher
Associated Press writer

DETROIT — A big cut in research and development spending while General Motors was in bankruptcy protection set the company's new product plans back by about a year, its top executive said Tuesday.

Chairman and CEO Daniel Akerson told reporters GM is working to accelerate vehicle plans that were postponed when R&D spending was cut to $5 billion per year as the company was trying to save money during its 2009 stay in bankruptcy protection. The spending has since been restored to $7 billion.

GM executives have been scrambling to get the new products back on track, trying not to fall too far behind competitors such as Ford Motor Co. as they update cars and trucks on a more regular basis. Newly redesigned cars and trucks tend to sell faster because they take advantage of new technology and are quieter, handle better and generally are more efficient.

Akerson wouldn't identify which vehicles have been fast-tracked for development. The company had delayed its next-generation Chevrolet Silverado and GMC Sierra pickup trucks during its financial crisis, and its Impala full-size sedan also is among its older vehicles.

The CEO also told reporters that new hatchback and small van versions of the Chevrolet Volt are in the works for 2012 or 2013. The Volt, a rechargeable electric car, is a hatchback. Akerson gave no more details about the new models.

"With the bankruptcy we lost roughly a year in terms of development, so that's why '12 and '13 are more pivotal here for us in the United States," Akerson said.

The delay affected engine development and other research, Vice Chairman Steve Girsky said.

"Because there were delays, we are behind in certain places and we need to catch up," Girsky said. "We'll have a lot more coming in 2013."

GM has enough momentum with its new smaller cars to carry it through the product hole, but it faces tough competition from Ford and others in the pickup truck and midsize car segments, said Jeff Schuster, executive director of global forecasting for J.D. Power and Associates. The Chevrolet Malibu, GM's top-selling entry in the midsize car market, is getting

Obama says polarized nation needs healing

By Julie Pace and Ben Feller
Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz. — Summoning the soul of a nation, President Barack Obama on Wednesday implored Americans to honor those slain and injured in the Arizona shootings by becoming better people, telling a polarized citizenry that it is time to talk with each other "in a way that heals, not in a way that wounds." Following a hospital bedside visit with Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, the target of the assassination, he said: "She knows we're here, and she knows we love her."

In a memorably dramatic moment, the president said that Giffords, who on Saturday was shot point-blank in the head, had opened her eyes for the first time shortly after his hospital visit. First lady Michelle Obama held hands with Giffords' husband, Mark Kelly, as the news brought soaring cheers throughout the arena.

Speaking at a memorial at the University of Arizona, Obama bluntly conceded that there is no way to know what triggered the shooting rampage that left six people dead, 13 others wounded and the nation shaken. He tried instead to leave indelible memories of the people who were gunned down and to rally the country to use the moment as a reflection on the nation's behavior and compassion.

"I believe we can be better," Obama said to a capacity crowd in the university's basketball arena — and to countless others watching around the country.

"Those who died here, those who saved lives here — they help me believe," the president said. "We may not be able to stop all evil in the world, but I know that how we treat one another is entirely up to us."

In crafting his comments, Obama clearly sought a turning point in the raw debate that has defined national politics. After offering personal accounts of every person who died, he challenged anyone listening to think of how to honor their memories, and he was not shy about offering direction. He admonished against any instinct to point blame or to drift into political pettiness or to latch onto simple explanations that may have no merit.

"At a time when our discourse has become so sharply polarized — at a time when we are far too eager to lay the blame for all that ails the world at the feet of those who think differently than we do — it's important for us to pause for a moment and make sure that we are talking with each other in a way that heals, not a way that wounds," the president said.

The shooting happened as Giffords, a three-term Democrat who represents southern Arizona, was holding a community outreach event in a Tucson shopping center parking lot Saturday. A gunman shot her in the head and worked his way down the line of people waiting to talk with her, law enforcement officials said. The attack ended when bystanders tackled the man, Jared Lee Loughner, 22, who is in custody.

Officer stopped suspect hours before rampage

The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz. — For Jared Loughner, the morning of the deadly shooting rampage was a blur of activity.

He hustled to Walmart twice. He ran a red light, with the officer letting him off with a warning. Back home, he grabbed a black bag from the trunk of a family car and fled into the desert on foot, his suspicious father giving chase.

Later, Loughner took a cab to a Safeway supermarket and began squeezing off round after round into the crowd.

The new details of the Walmart visits and the traffic stop emerged Wednesday, adding to the picture of the last frenetic hours the 22-year-old spent before the attack Saturday that gravely wounded his apparent target, Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, and killed six others.

"It sounds like he was pretty busy that morning," Pima County sheriff's Capt. Chris Nanos said.

As Giffords' condition improved in an intensive care unit Wednesday, all federal judges in the state recused themselves from the case to avoid any future questions about their impartiality, given that one of their colleagues, John Roll, was killed in the rampage.

The new details about the way Loughner spent the morning showed a harried young man dashing from store to store across this southern Arizona city in the hours before the shooting that shocked the country.

Nanos said Loughner made two trips to Walmart and made some purchases. He declined to specify whether Loughner purchased ammunition.

At some point, an officer with the Arizona Game and Fish Department saw Loughner run a red light on a road that runs parallel to Interstate 10 around 7:30 a.m. and pulled over his 1960s dark gray Chevy Nova, authorities said.

The stop was about 6 miles from the Safeway store, agency spokesman Tom Cadden said.

Wildlife officers don't usually make traffic stops unless public safety is at risk, such as running a red light. The officer took his driver's license and vehicle registration information but found no outstanding warrants and let him go.

Snowstorm buries parts of Northeast

The Associated Press

HARTFORD, Conn. — The third winter storm in three weeks buried parts of the Northeast in more than 2 feet of wet, blowing snow Wednesday, smothering highways, halting trains and plunging thousands of homes and businesses into cold darkness.

The storm, which iced over much of the South before sweeping up the East Coast, wreaked havoc on transportation across New England.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Deval Patrick declared a state of emergency and mobilized the National Guard. He said the storm brought more snow and a wetter kind of snow than officials expected, leaving more than 100,000 people without power or heat by noon.

Maria Rivera, 60, slept overnight in a food court booth at a travel plaza where she works on the Massachusetts Turnpike in Natick. She said the person providing her ride home to Worcester could not make it in the storm, and she had to be back for her Wednesday shift.

"I have to work," she said. "I have to pay my bills."

In New York, where city leaders took heavy criticism for their slow work after a Dec. 26 blizzard, officials rolled out a massive response that quickly cleared the streets. They also received some help from nature, with only 9 inches of snow falling in Central Park — well short of 20 inches in last month's storm.

This time, the deepest snow fell farther north.

The roof of an apartment building in Norwich partially collapsed under the weight of the snow, forcing 10 people from their homes. State troopers, working double shifts on orders of the governor, responded to about 900 spinouts, fender-benders and stranded vehicles.

By early afternoon, New Fairfield had 28 inches of snow, and Danbury had 24 inches. The 22.5 inches recorded at Bradley International Airport set a one-day record for snowfall in the Hartford area.

Quinn promises to quickly sign 66% Illinois tax hike

By Deanna Bellandi
Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Illinois Gov. Pat Quinn defended a massive increase in state income taxes passed by lawmakers Wednesday and promised to quickly sign the measure to help heal the state's ailing finances.

Lawmakers worked overnight to pass the increase to raise the personal income tax rate from 3 percent to 5 percent for four years — a 66 percent increase. Corporate income taxes also will rise, but Quinn rejected the notion that it would decimate businesses.

The rate increase might be the biggest any state has adopted in percentage terms while grappling with recent economic woes. Nevertheless, Illinois' tax rate would remain lower than in several other states in the region.

"It's important for their state government not to be a fiscal basket case," Quinn told reporters outside his Capitol office.

Legislative leaders rushed early Wednesday to pass the politically risky plan before a new General Assembly was sworn in at noon, taking a slice out of the Democratic majority and removing lame-duck lawmakers willing to support the tax before leaving office.

The tax increase would temporarily raise the personal tax rate to 5 percent, a two-thirds increase from the current 3 percent rate. Corporate taxes also would climb as part of the effort to close a budget hole that could hit $15 billion this year. Quinn's office said the higher taxes will generate about $6.8 billion a year — a major increase by any measure.

The tax increase will be coupled with strict 2 percent limits on spending growth. If officials spend above those limits, the tax increase will automatically be canceled. The plan's supporters warned that rising pension and health care costs probably will eat up all the spending allowed by the caps, forcing cuts in other areas of government.

Other pieces of the budget plan failed.

Lawmakers rejected a $1-a-pack increase in cigarette taxes, which would have provided money for schools.

Credit Card Debt? Solutions that can help you get out of debt.

Tom Hill
CGA STAFF WRITER

Every three minutes another person falls behind on credit card debt. It's no wonder, since every major credit card company has nearly doubled the minimum monthly payment on consumers' bills. Federal Regulators forced the change because of their concern about the growing mountain of consumer debt, which stands at $2.17 trillion. Many consumers can only pay the minimum payment, which can take up to 30 years to pay off. Now, relief is in sight for millions of Americans.

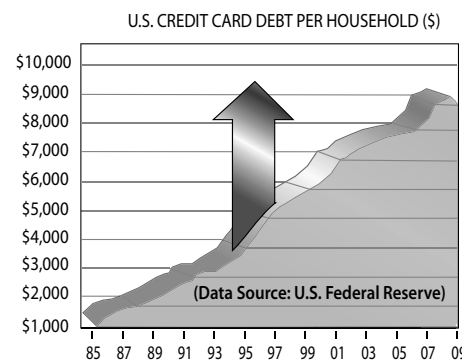

CreditGUARD of America, a non-profit licensed debt management service provider, is making a new program available to lower debt payments and become free of all credit card debt in only three to five years. Consumers need only $2,000 or more in total credit card debt and are falling behind on any account, to cut their payment by 35% to 50%, and reduce or eliminate interest charges altogether.

Over 200,000 families, located throughout the U.S. have regained financial independence with CreditGUARD's licensed, bonded and insured service. CreditGUARD of America has received high marks in consumer surveys showing high consumer satisfaction and confidence. The CreditGUARD debt management program can lower your monthly payments by hundreds and save you thousands!

One such case is Sandra L. who proclaimed "CreditGUARD cut my monthly payment by $656 and saved me over $29,206.53 in interest. They saved my way of life and gave me back my piece of mind! Now I can see myself on my way to becoming debt free." or Jeffrey C. who said "CreditGUARD of America helped me consolidate 3 of my credit cards into one affordable payment. They are now saving me nearly $200 a month. Now I will be debt free in 2 years or less"

AROUND THE WORLD

BRAZIL: Torrential rain, mudslides in Brazil kill 257

RIO DE JANEIRO — Summer rains sent tons of red mud and torrents of water rushing down mountainsides in towns outside Rio, enveloping homes of rich and poor alike and killing at least 257 people in 24 hours.

HAWAII: Quake survivors lament 'day nobody can forget'

PORT-AU-PRINCE — Haitians spent the anniversary of the worst natural disaster in their country's history remembering the dead and thanking God or luck or strong cement for saving their own lives.

AUSTRALIA: Flood rebuilding task 'of postwar proportions'

BRISBANE — Floodwaters washing through Australia's third-largest city crested Thursday just shy of a record but high enough to submerge entire neighborhoods and cause damage one official likened to the aftermath of war.

TUNISIA: Riots reach Tunisia's capital, curfew imposed

TUNIS — Tear gas and stone-throwing youths reached the heart of Tunisia's once-calm capital Wednesday as rioters desperate for jobs defied their autocratic president in escalating unrest that poses his biggest challenge in 23 years in power.

The army deployed armored vehicles around Tunis, and the government imposed a virtually unprecedented curfew to try to quell protests over unemployment and political repression that began more than three weeks ago in a central Tunisian town.

The demonstrations have set off clashes with police as they spread around the country, leaving at least 23 dead. The rioting stayed outside the capital until Wednesday, when the interior minister was fired and clashes broke out hours later, intensifying an unprecedented sense of uncertainty about the future of Tunisia's government.

Nordic center offers snowshoes as way to see the outdoors

By Karen Bossick
Times-News correspondent

Visitors to the Sun Valley Nordic Center can strap on a pair of snowshoes and step back into time.

The Historical Snowshoe Treks are offered from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays at the Nordic Center a half-mile north of the Sun Valley Lodge.

There, Katherine Pleasants greets snowshoers with an admonition to close their eyes before they begin their trek along Trail Creek and through the wooded groves that dot the Sun Valley Golf Course.

"Now, pretend that you're just getting off the train that brought visitors to Sun Valley nearly 75 years ago in 1936," she said as she begins describing the tanned Austrian ski instructors that greeted guests then.

Pleasant is a yoga instructor and history buff who has led historical snowshoe tours at Galena Lodge and historical walks around Ketchum during the summer.

She began offering historical snowshoe treks at the Sun Valley Nordic area last winter.

"It's so accessible for the guests staying here. And it's so rich in history," she said.

That said, Sun Valley-area residents are beginning to take note of the snowshoe treks, as well. Among them, Inger Vida, Coleen Baldwin, Leslie Silva and Liane Mynatt, who joined Pleasants one sunny afternoon last week.

Equipped with ski poles for balance, the three followed Pleasants as she plowed through foot-deep snow along a snowshoe trail leading away from the posh Sun Valley Club restaurant.

"Look, there's a sleigh going through the trees, just as it would have done in 1936," she pointed, as the group watched a sleigh full of men, women and children decked out in lap blankets being pulled by Clydesdales to the historic Trail Creek Cabin.

Pleasants stops within view of Proctor Mountain, which boasts one of Sun Valley's original chairlifts.

She pulls some historical photos out of her pack and describes how Union Pacific Magnate Averell

Photos by KAREN BOSSICK/For the Times-News
Coleen Baldwin, left, Liane Mynatt, Leslie Silva and Inger Vida share a moment in the sun with Bald Mountain in the background.

IF YOU GO

Sun Valley's Historical Snowshoe Tours are held from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays and by request. Pre-registration is suggested at 622-2250. Cost is $35 for adults — free for children under 6. Snowshoes are available for rent at the Nordic Center ($15 for adults, $13 for children).

Harriman sent Count Felix Schaffgotsch throughout the West trying to find a setting for a destination ski resort to rival St. Moritz in Switzerland.

The Austrian count had all but given up on finding anything to his liking when someone suggested he check out an old mining town nestled under the craggy Pioneer Mountains of Idaho.

"This is the place," he exclaimed, pointing out that the snow and other conditions were even better than St. Moritz.

Union Pacific promptly purchased 3,888 acres of land for $39,000, Pleasants added, eliciting a chorus of amazed "Awwws" from the women in tow.

Just in time for the first season, Harriman had an engineer build what was to be the world's first chairlift modeled after the hook used to pick bananas up when loading them on ships.

"They tested it with a car in Nebraska before they ever built it here," Pleasants added, showing the group a photo of the testing.

The group continues their trek down a gentle hill past an old wooden water tank, past trees that look as if they're decked out in wedding dresses thanks to the snow that fell the day before.

"Oh, isn't this beautiful," murmured Vida, a Norwegian native who moved to Sun Valley 38 years ago, as she scanned a vista that topped out with the peaks to the north.

Pleasants prattled on about Sun Valley's early guests, which included Gary Cooper and Ernest Hemingway.

Then she described how Otto Lang traded filmmaker Darryl Zanuck ski lessons to learn about the film industry, eventually going on to become a filmmaker.

And how a Swedish hockey player named Leif Odmark decided he wanted to visit "this enchanted place" when he had a couple days off from playing hockey in Chicago.

Odmark had no idea that Sun Valley wasn't just a hop skip and jump from Chicago, Pleasants said. And to make matters worse, he found him stuck in a blizzard when he got to Twin Falls. He became the hometown hero there after he volunteered his long wooden skis to ski in search of a missing Twin Falls man.

Odmark eventually settled down in Sun Valley, founding one of the first Nordic touring centers in the United States.

Pleasants informs her trekkers that they can burn between 800 and 1,000 calories an hour snowshoeing — certainly enough to make up for the big chocolate chip Sun Valley cookie a couple of the women ate earlier.

Trekkers burn up bonus calories for trekking up a short hill to see Hemingway memorial, she added.

"These tours are wonderful for the curious," said Vida. "The weather, the company — everything is fabulous. And I like to be around Katherine — she's so up."

The outing also provides a nice way to meet new friends throughout something other than skiing, added Baldwin.

Silva agreed: "It's so wonderful for those who don't ski. And Katherine is just full of knowledge."

Safe sledding

By Danaline McPhail Bryant
Athens Messenger

ATHENS, Ohio — For some people, winter weather means it's time to suit up for winter sports such as ice skating, sledding, snow skiing and other activities. For others, winter means long months of navigating often-treacherous sidewalks and roads.

In 2009, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, more than 350,000 people were treated for winter sports-related injuries in doctors' offices or emergency rooms. Countless others were treated for falls caused by icy surfaces.

Dr. Rachel Rohde, spokeswoman for the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, said winter is often the time for accidents.

"We participate in different activities during this season than we do during the rest of the year," she said in a recent news release.

"Skiing, snowboarding and snowmobiling are fun sports but are not without some risks. Seemingly simple activities like carrying luggage or even walking outside to get your mail can be a disaster if there is ice on the ground."

Jim Schulz, unit manager of the emergency department at O'Bleness Memorial Hospital in Athens, Ohio, said the number of winter weather-related injuries has risen in recent weeks in the hospital's emergency room.

"Whenever it snows, it gets slippery, and that affects not just people driving but also people walking. For the people who have balance issues, it gets even more complicated. You can fight gravity with balance, but if you don't have balance, and it's slick, you can have a problem," he said on Monday.

While gravity may be the unavoidable enemy for people with balance problems, it's what makes snow sledding so much fun. According to Schulz, like any sport, sledding can be dangerous and injuries can result, so it's important to sled safely.

"Gravity works to the advantage of kids out there who want to enjoy racing down hills. They have a love of gravity so they hike hills to slide down," he said. "My advice is this: I suggest people view sledding like mountain biking.

"Another important safety tip is to know where you're sledding. "In sledding it is really critical that you know your course," Schulz said. "A couple of times a year we deal with people who don't realize that the dam at Dow Lake is not a very good place to sled. There's a big ditch at the bottom, and "I suggest people view sledding like mountain biking. The potential for head injuries, fractures and all of that can be negated somewhat by taking precautions."

— Jim Schulz, unit manager of the emergency department at O'Bleness Memorial Hospital sional and a mountain bike enthusiast, Schulz is no stranger to sports-related injuries, and he follows his own advice.

"When I was a kid, I went (sledding or biking) without a helmet. We all did then," he said. "But I've been racing for over 30 years, and I know when I fall off I am going head first so I wear a helmet. I wear a helmet when I ski, too. I love to play, but if you want to play and keep playing, you take the needed safety precautions to protect yourselves. We've had multiple sledding accidents this year, and we sent at least one that I know of to Columbus. The minute it snows we get lots of people slipping, falling, crashing."

He said many people seem to know it's better to wear protective gear.

"On the ski slopes we see more and more people wearing helmets. We're seeing more with helmets than without," he said. "There's always going to be a group of people, including motorcyclists, who view helmets as restrictive. I view them as protection for what is inevitably going to happen. I like to push the envelope. Every kid going downhill looks for the best possible speed but most can be talked into wearing protective gear. Even elbow and knee pads are important when doing dangerous tricks. They are a good way to protect yourself when learning new tricks." Whether on or off icy surfaces, it's a good idea to wear protective gear. He said skaters and skateboarders often seek treatment for injuries in the emergency room, too.

"A lot of kids ... will wear helmets, knee or elbow pads when they are learning a new trick, but then learn the trick and take off the protective gear. We've seen that a lot," he said.

Another important safety tip is to know where you're sledding.

"In sledding it is really critical that you know your course," Schulz said. "A couple of times a year we deal with people who don't realize that the dam at Dow Lake is not a very good place to sled. There's a big ditch at the bottom, and

Ice fishing: Frigid weather brings out the fishermen

By Julie Blum
Columbus Telegram

COLUMBUS, Neb. — The colder the temperatures the better for those who enjoy spending part of the winter on the ice.

Many have been waiting for ponds and lakes to freeze over so they can go ice fishing. The winter sport brings many to the outdoors, and now is a good time to enjoy the hobby, said Don Gabelhouse with the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

Several fishermen have been bundling up and heading outside with rods and tackle for the past several days. That will only gain steam throughout January, Gabelhouse said.

"If you have the right equipment, it's almost easier than open water (fishing) at times. It is almost mysterious, romantic, drilling a hole and watching the fish come through the hole," Gabelhouse said.

There are popular spots for the sport. Many are near.

"Farm ponds are real good, some pits and smaller lakes are too," Gabelhouse said. He suggests visiting website forums to find the waters that are producing the best and worst luck for area fishers. Fish that have been biting include pan fish like bluegill and crappie. In the Sandhills there are northern pike and yellow perch. Channel catfish have also been caught. A number of lakes were stocked with trout in the fall and winter, so there is a good chance at catching those, too.

GORDON KING/Yakima Herald-Republic

Ron Hatfield scoops ice from his fishing hole recently on Elton Pond in Selah, Wash. Several states' recent cold weather make for good ice fishing.

Much of ice fishing is about patience, because it involves trial and error when finding spots to drill holes.

"One of the good things about fishing is it makes you practice hopefulness," Gabelhouse said.

Ice usually is thickened up enough this time of year for fishing, but precautions need to be taken. A good barometer of ice safety is if the site is being used by others.

"One of the real safest ways is to see if there are other fishermen out there,"

Gabelhouse said.

Ice should be at least four inches thick, but six inches is better to support your weight. The ice should also be clear and there should be no moving water in the area. Moving water can create thin spots in the ice.

To check the ice for thickness, create a hole closer to the shore first by using an ice auger, chisel or a spud bar. Dress appropriately for the weather, especially if you aren't fishing in a shelter. Layers are best. Wearing cleats on boots will help prevent from slipping.

The biggest danger of ice fishing is the risk of falling in the water. That is why the Game and Parks Commission suggests fishermen should carry an ice pick around their necks. If you fall through the ice, the pick can be used to help pull yourself from the water. Also, all fishermen should keep with them a long piece of rope for emergencies.

A fishing permit is needed for those who are 16 and older. Permits can be obtained online at outdoornebraska.ne.gov or at sporting good stores.

How to gain peace of mind when going afield

Q: "I do a lot of backcountry hiking and hunting. Can you suggest some things I can do to help give my wife 'peace of mind' and prepare for a first-aid emergency?"

A: This topic area is huge but I will highlight a few suggestions. Backcountry survival is an area rich with educational opportunities as well as gadgets and technology. First, I would advise you to take one of the basic first-aid classes offered at the College of Southern Idaho, St. Luke's Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, or through the Red Cross. First Responder or Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) classes also are available. The Idaho Mountain Search and Rescue group as well as many others provide training in backcountry survival and first aid.

A backcountry survival or first-aid kit is another item everyone should carry. There are many commercial kits available for purchase at outdoor retailers, but I prefer to personalize my kit with items of my choosing. Kits can range in size from a Band-Aid box to a tackle box, depending on the availability of space and weight. I carry one contained in a small coffee can in my elk hunting pack.

With the advent of cellular telephones and additional cell towers, some weekend warriors can rely on cell phones to call for help when necessary. For serious backcountry visitors a satellite telephone, often referred to as "sat phone," is another way to stay in contact with the outside world.

Most commercial outfitters and raft guides carry a sat phone for emergency purposes. Fish and Game employees working in the backcountry or conducting aerial surveys always carry a sat phone. Remember these devices rely on batteries; spare batteries are as important as the phone itself. Sat phones cost around $1,200 and require a monthly fee similar to a cell phone. Calls utilizing the satellite service cost about $1 per minute — cheap for emergencies but expensive for social calls.

A less expensive innovation also using satellite technology is called a SPOT Satellite Personal Tracker. This small device costs about $150 at local sporting goods retailers. Two levels of tracking service are provided at an additional charge of up to $150 per year. With the premium tracking service the location of the SPOT device can be tracked using a personal computer by persons you select on Google Earth. In case of emergencies there are two levels of alerts the carrier can send to responders; an "SOS" for life-threatening emergencies, and a "need help" for non-life threatening emergencies. The units also have a "check-in, I'm OK" as well as a second message that can be set up in advance by the SPOT device carrier.

ASK THE OFFICER

A friend of mine relayed an experience one of his backcountry pilot friends had last summer. On takeoff from a backcountry airstrip, he experienced mechanical failure and crash-landed, destroying the plane and injuring the pilot. Within two hours of activating the "SOS" feature on the SPOT device the pilot was in a rescue aircraft being transported to a medical facility. This kind of response is something unheard of before the advent of SPOT and Global Positioning System (GPS) technology.

A couple of important reminders: the new technology only works when it's with you, so don't leave it in the truck. Also, these gadgets rely on batteries and can fail. Extra batteries and a plain old map and compass are cheap insurance.

Lastly, a couple of real simple "old-school" things that can be tremendously important: Tell someone where you're going, your route of travel, what vehicle you'll be driving, and when you expect to return.

A survival book I read some years ago said, "an important part of surviving a backcountry emergency isn't so much about being found by rescuers; it's about staying alive long enough to be found."

Upcoming outdoor events in south-central Idaho

F&G open house, chili feed today

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game will host a Trophy Species open house from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. today at the Magic Valley Regional Office, 324 S. 417 E., Jerome.

Proposed changes include:

- Increasing California bighorn sheep permits in Hunt Area 46 (Jarbidge and Bruneau rivers) from three to five.
- Adding a new antlered moose hunt with five permits to include Units 55, 56, and 57 in one hunt area.
- Eliminating the antlerless moose hunts in Hunt Areas 44 and 48.
- Combining antlered moose Hunt Areas 44 and 48 into one hunt area and reducing total permits from six to three.
- No changes are proposed for mountain goat seasons.

Fish and Game also will host its third annual Sportsmen's Chili Cook-Off, 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the office. Bring your favorite chili or just come and try the different flavors.

Afterward, department staff will provide updates and answer questions about Magic Valley fishing and hunting opportunities. A presentation on aging wildlife will round out the night's events.

Information: 324-4359.

Sun Valley opens cross course

Sun Valley's world-class cross course has opened on Dollar Mountain's Half Dollar Face.

The course features rollers, jumps and berms all linked together for an exhilarating ride for skiers, boarders and telemarketers. This new Terrain Park feature will challenge all ages and all levels of skiers and riders.

Dollar Mountain now has more than 40 features, including 15 progression park features, 10 medium features and 19 large features. Use of the Terrain Park features are included in the cost of a lift ticket.

BLM implements winter closures

The Bureau of Land Management Burley Field office will implement seasonal road closures starting Sunday through March 15 in the South Hills.

This annual closure, in place since 2000, is designed to prevent resource damage and to protect crucial mule deer winter range and sage-grouse habitat. Signs have been posted in the area notifying the public of the closure, and gates have been installed to prevent trespass.

The roads closed to motorized travel include Dry Creek, Cherry Spring, Indian Springs (closure begins 1.5 miles south of Foothills Road) and North Cottonwood Creek.

The seasonal closure applies to all motorized vehicles except those specifically authorized to access the area.

The BLM's Shoshone Field Office reminds the public of the annual closures (Dec. 1-April 30) to motorized use in the following areas in the Wood River Valley: Martin/Big Dry Canyon; Croy Creek to south of Townsend Gulch; Big and Little Beaver Drainages; South slopes above East Fork; Elk Mountain area, and Portions of Picabo Hills.

Sun Valley center plans events

The Sun Valley Nordic & Snowshoe Center has planned a Full Moon Nordic and Snowshoe Tour 7-9 p.m. Jan. 19.

Participants will have an opportunity to experience winter's beauty in a different light on the Nordic center trails. The guided tour ($15) will begin at 7 p.m. and the Sun Valley Club also will be open for dinner.

Additional moonlight tours are planned for Feb. 19 and March 19.

To reserve a spot on the guided tour: 622-2250 or 622-2800.

Pomerelle hosts Kid's Day competition

Pomerelle Mountain Resort will hold a special Kid's Day competition, Jan. 29.

The event, from noon to 4 p.m., is for skiers and boarders 12 years and younger and is open to all abilities.

Registration is 9 to 11 a.m. Cost is $15, plus a $10 bib fee that will be refunded when returned. A release waiver, which can be found at www.pomerelle.com or at the resort, must be signed by parents.

Information: 673-5599 or 673-5555.

M.V. Fly Fishers host annual banquet

The Magic Valley Fly Fishers will host their 42nd annual banquet and membership drive starting at 5 p.m. Jan. 29 at the Turf Club in Twin Falls.

The banquet will feature a no-host bar and catered dinner, plus numerous raffles, prize drawings, and silent auctions throughout the night.

Proceeds help support Trout in the Classroom, CSI Fisheries Program Scholarship and restoration projects.

Pat Dorsey, Orvis-endorsed fly-fishing guide, will be the keynote speaker. A native of Colorado, Dorsey has been guiding for more than 18 years. He spends 200 days a year on the water, enjoying a unique quality of life both personally and professionally. Dorsey is guide director and partner in the Blue Quill Angler Fly Fishing Guide Service and Fly Shop. He is the southwest field editor for Fly Fisherman Magazine and has authored several books, including Fly Fishing Tailwaters and Tying & Fishing Tailwater Flies.

Dorsey also will teach a special fly-tying seminar 9 to 11 a.m. Jan. 29 at the Evergreen Building, Room C74 on the College of Southern Idaho campus. The seminar is free and open to the public.

Information: Chad Chorney at 420-4096, Connie Herbert at 539-9334, or magicflyfishers@yahoo.com.

Learn to tie a fly

There's no better way to get into fly fishing than by learning to tie your own flies. Dry, wet, streamers and nymphs are just some of the different types of flies you will learn to tie in the CSI North Side Center course, "Fly Tying for Beginners," 6 to 7:30 p.m. Feb. 1 to March 1 at the North Side Center.

Local fisherman Scott Stanton will cover the types of tools and materials needed in this basic instructional course. Different tying techniques will be introduced and practiced in class.

The course fee is $30, plus a $40 fly-tying kit that must be purchased from the instructor at the first class session. Space is limited.

To register: 934-8678 or 202 14th Ave. E. in Gooding.

No electricity at warming shelter

Visitors to Howell Canyon will be a little colder this season as there will be no electricity at the warming shelter this winter, according to the Minidoka Ranger District.

Vandalism at the Howell Canyon Snowmobile Shelter has caused damage to the system and repairs will not be able to be completed until spring.

The parking lot restroom and warming shelter are all open for public use.

Information: Minidoka Ranger District at 678-0430.

Montana lawmakers consider bill that would allow spear hunting

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A Thompson Falls lawmaker wants Montanans to have the option of hunting with a hand-thrown spear.

The Independent Record reports the Senate Fish and Game Committee discussed Republican Sen. Greg Hinkle's bill on Tuesday, and nearly voted to approve it. However, they decided the bill needed to clarify the hunting season in which the practice would be allowed. The committee is expected to consider the bill again on Thursday.

Hinkle says about a dozen other states have legalized the use of spears in hunting. Senate bill 112 would also allow the use of an atlatl, a spear thrown with a separate device to increase power.

Sledding

every year we get someone who has been injured there. Jeff Hill is another place — there are a few metal pipes there and it's open to cars, so it's a double whammy. People don't realize if you are going to slide down a hill it is not a bad idea to take a look when walking up. You need to know where you are going to be going. ... Mountain bikers don't jump off a cliff if they don't know where they are going to land. ... It might look impressive on YouTube, but people need to remember that most people have looked over the site carefully and rehearsed their landing."

He said the best advice he can give a sledder is to look at the place you're planning to slide down.

"Look at it. Walk it out before sledding down a hill," he said. "You have to start at the bottom so look at what you're going to be sledding over on the way up. It limits the injuries — there's no guarantees but it can limit the injuries. When you check out where you are going before you do it, you have a better chance of doing it right and then doing it again and doing it better."

Some people think they will be safe if they follow the tracks of someone else. Not so, Schulz said.

"Just because someone went that way before you, it doesn't mean they weren't hauled out by an ambulance," he said. "Following someone else's tracks is not a guarantee."

Study: Helmet use lags among snowboarders, skiers

By Seth Augenstein
New Jersey Herald

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — As a veteran snowboarder, Todd Yankus knows the ugly feeling of a hard wipeout, head meeting snowpack at jarring speeds. He's had two concussions to prove it.

And as a surgical assistant at Valley Hospital in Ridgewood, the 36-year-old Bergen County man has seen his share of head injuries from the other side of the gurney.

Yet there he was at the Mountain Creek Ski Resort in Vernon on Thursday, taking on the slopes without a helmet, which he acknowledges would offer some protection in a crash.

"I should," Yankus said, "but I don't."

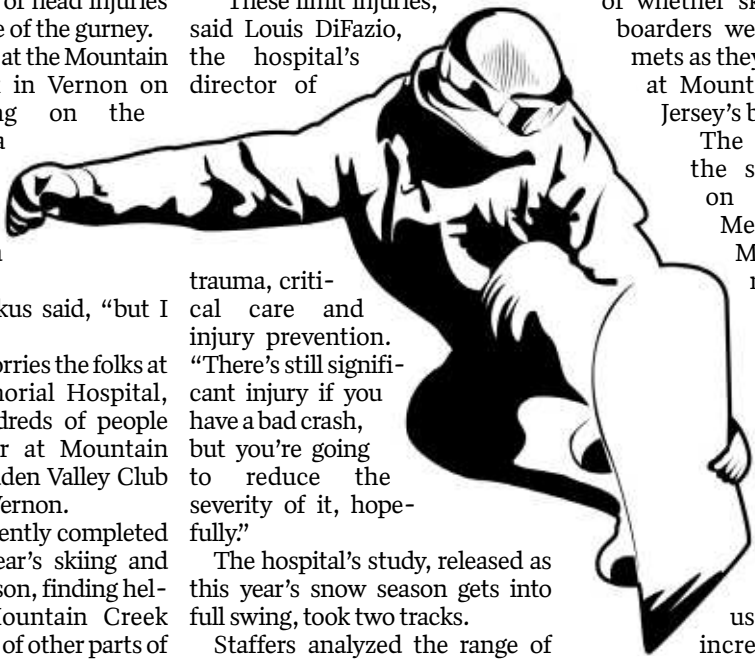

That attitude worries the folks at Morristown Memorial Hospital, which treats hundreds of people injured each year at Mountain Creek and the Hidden Valley Club ski resort, also in Vernon.

The hospital recently completed a study of last year's skiing and snowboarding season, finding helmet usage at Mountain Creek lagged behind that of other parts of the nation, at 41 percent and 57 percent, respectively. Young men, especially risk-takers, were least likely to wear helmets, the hospital found.

While helmets won't prevent serious injuries in high-speed, catastrophic crashes, the hospital's analysis found the headgear prevents between 30 and 50 percent of injuries in wipeouts at moderate speed.

"These limit injuries," said Louis DiFazio, the hospital's director of trauma, critical care and injury prevention. "There's still significant injury if you have a bad crash, but you're going to reduce the severity of it, hopefully."

The hospital's study, released as this year's snow season gets into full swing, took two tracks. Staffers analyzed the range of injuries they treated, finding that snowboarders were at greater risk of hurting themselves than those on skis. The hospital's trauma center treated 152 snowboarders from the two resorts, compared with 78 skiers.

Younger males were the likeliest to suffer traumatic injuries, perhaps because of risky maneuvers, DiFazio said.

Separately, observers took note of whether skiers and snowboarders were wearing helmets as they entered the lifts at Mountain Creek, New Jersey's biggest ski resort.

The resort disputes the study's findings on helmet usage. Meagen Connelly, Mountain Creek's risk administrator, said a separate survey found 64 percent of those on the slopes used helmets, well above the national average of 57 percent.

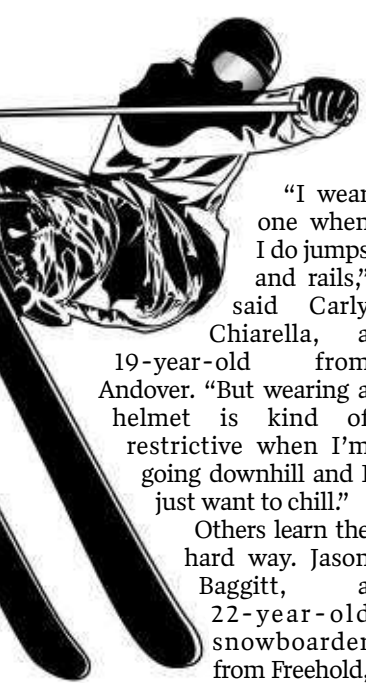

In general, the use of helmets has increased each year, according to the latest surveys by the National Ski Areas Association.

Part of that increase can be attributed to education and awareness. Helmets also may be getting a boost by the likes of extreme sports superstars such as Shaun White, who wears headgear while performing aerial acrobatics, and by the skiing deaths of celebrities, most recently actress Natasha Richardson.

According to the Morristown Memorial Hospital study, not a single state in the country mandates helmet use on the slopes.

On Thursday, skiers and snowboarders at Mountain Creek could be seen with and without helmets. Some said they selectively strap up, depending on where they are on the mountain.

"I wear one when I do jumps and rails," said Carly Chiarella, a 19-year-old from Andover. "But wearing a helmet is kind of restrictive when I'm going downhill and I just want to chill."

Others learn the hard way. Jason Baggitt, a 22-year-old snowboarder from Freehold, said he received a head injury after missing a jump off a rail five years ago. He still does extreme jumps — and has occasional mishaps — but now has some protection up top.

"Every so often, I hit my head, and I'm glad I wear my helmet," Baggitt said.

STUCK IN DOORS? Nothing like a good adventure to get you inspired

By Roger Phillips
McClatchy Newspapers

Books about the outdoors and our favorite activities can be a great way to wait out a long winter.

We're still getting out when we can, but cozying up in a comfortable chair and cracking a book can take us on adventures far away and share the experiences and insight of others.

We can live vicariously through their stories, or use their words and images to motivate us to launch our own outings.

These are books I've read through the years that stand as either classics, favorites or unexpected treasures. They cut through a lot of literary territory, but share one thing in common; they are all interesting to read.

Some may be challenging to find, but searching can be a great experience because you never know what other books you will find.

Check them out from a library, comb bookstores or find them on the Internet.

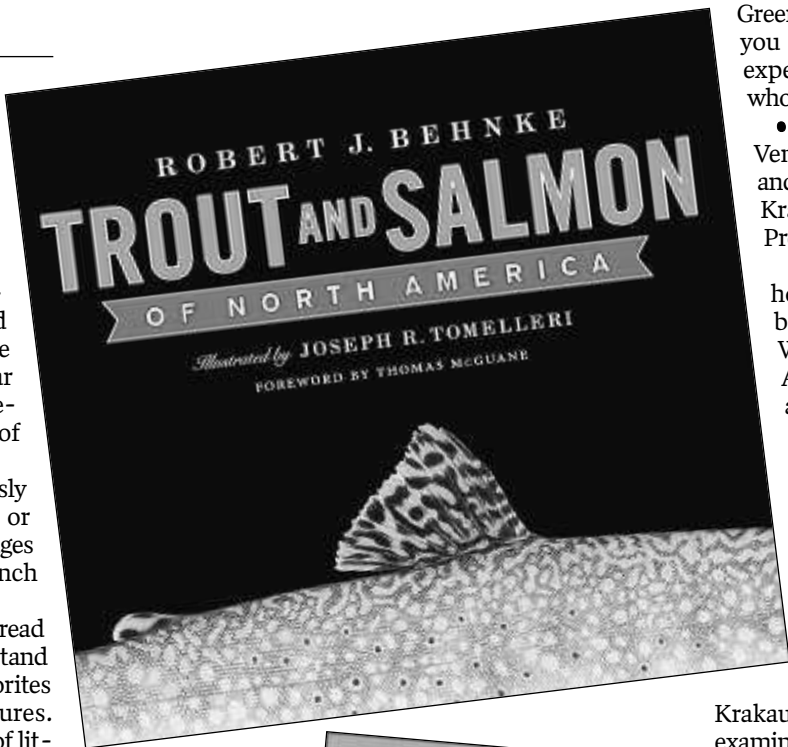

In no particular order:

- "Never Turn Back: The Life of Whitewater Pioneer Walt Blackadar" by Ron Watters, Great Rift Press.

This ranks among the great adventure books as it captures the larger-than-life Walt Blackadar, a doctor from Salmon who walked point for generations of Idaho kayakers who have challenged the frontiers of whitewater boating.

His irrepressible spirit and bravado shines through in this celebration of Blackadar's life, but Watters doesn't grovel in hero worship. He portrays all sides of Blackadar, which ultimately makes you appreciate his accomplishments that much more.

Bonus points: You can run the same rapids where Blackadar learned to paddle, and pay homage to him on your next trip to the South Fork of the Payette.

- "Idaho's Greatest Mule Deer" by Ryan Hatfield, Idaho's Greatest Big Game.

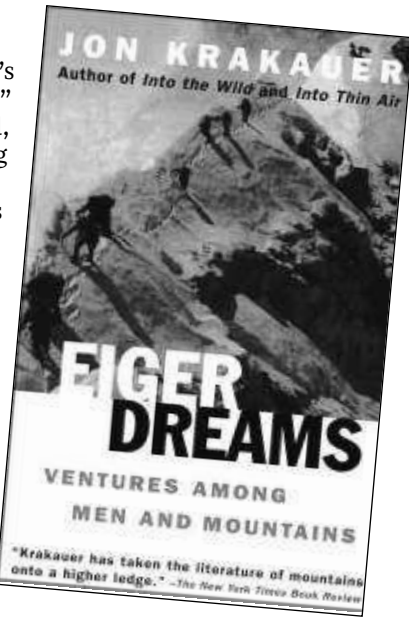

This book speaks to me as a mule deer hunter on several levels. First, there's over 400 pages of great Idaho mule deer bucks. I like to thumb through it and pick out my favorites (Patrick Sinclair's on page 276).

Second, there are stories behind the bucks, most of which are told by the people who shot them. It's like being around the campfire at hunting camp and hearing story after story about the big ones that didn't get away.

Most of these bucks were taken by average, every day hunters, not the guys who spend thousands chasing the scarce big mule deer left in the West. Those stories will give any hunter the hope that it could happen to them, too.

- "Salmon without Rivers" by Jim Lichatowich, Island Press.

- "They Lived to Tell the Tale" edited by Jan Jarboe Russell, The Lyons Press.

This book chronicles 41 stories of modern adventures from members of The Explorers Club. They range from space travel to deep sea exploration to recovering Iraqi artifacts during the war to visiting ground zero at the World Trade Center shortly after 9/11.

Like any compilation book, chapters sometimes range from soaring to boring, but overall, this is a fascinating book for an arm-chair adventurer.

You might never cross

Greenland by dog sled, but you can read about the experience by someone who has.

- "Eiger Dreams: Ventures Among Men and Mountains" by Jon Krakauer, The Lyons Press.

Krakauer is a household name thanks to books like "Into the Wild" and "Into Thin Air," but once he was a young dirtbag climber with a reverence for the adventurous spirit of climbing.

This book features stories about great mountaineers and their feats. But what makes it a standout is Krakauer's unflinching examination of himself and what drives him to climb mountains. It's brutally honest, intimate and at times hilarious.

If you've read his more famous books, consider this book like an early EP of your favorite band before it hit the big time.

- "Trout and Salmon of North America" by Robert Behnke, Simon and Schuster.

If art and biology had a love child, it's this book. Robert Behnke has a Ph.D in fisheries and conservation, and illustrator Joseph Tomelleri has done for trout and salmon what James Audubon did for birds.

Chapters are devoted to all of North America's trout and salmon with details on biological history, distribution, life history, diet and other facts.

It's informative without being dry, despite the depth of information. For example, they devote 14 chapters to subspecies of cutthroat trout.

What gets it on my list is it pleases both the mind and the eye, and provides a wealth of data for any fish geek.

Bonus points: The book's forward was written by Montana novelist Thomas McGuane.

Get your daily dose of astronomical splendor

Of all the sciences, astronomy offers some of the most beautiful images of the natural world. And, as technology and telescopes improve, eye-popping space scenes are becoming available at an accelerating pace.

While there are numerous sites across the Internet to satisfy the web-surfing astronomy fan, one of the best is the Astronomy Picture of the Day (apod.nasa.gov).

The World Wide Web was not quite four years old in the summer of 1995, when NASA astronomers Robert Nemiroff and Jerry Bonnell launched APOD.

Since then, the site has featured a daily celestial image that combines the beautiful with the intriguing, accompanied by a short description. APOD also holds the distinction of being one of the first websites to make extensive use of hyperlinked text; its concise captions, written for non-experts, are loaded with useful links.

A given day's entry might feature the latest shot from space telescopes like Hubble, Spitzer (infrared), or Chandra (X-ray), surface views from Mars rovers, or stunning photos of terrestrial landscapes crowned by auroras, meteors, or atmospheric ice crystal displays capture by talented amateurs.

You can subscribe to APOD as an RSS feed for your home page or mobile device, and if you miss a day, every entry is archived back to day one.

Question: Can I file bankruptcy without an attorney to save money?

Answer: Federal law does not require you to have an attorney to file a bankruptcy. However, your creditors WILL be represented by attorneys. You will also have to deal with the Bankruptcy Trustee, an individual paid a commission to take your property away for the benefit of your creditors. The new bankruptcy laws are so complex that no debtor should be without legal representation in my opinion. In fact, there are very few non-lawyers, no matter how smart, that could prepare and file a bankruptcy case on their own that complied in every respect with all the bankruptcy laws and rules of court. BEWARE! The consequences of saving money by representing yourself could be far more expensive than the cost of retaining a first-rate bankruptcy attorney. On your own, you could unnecessarily lose some things you own AND possibly have your bankruptcy discharge denied.

Slow down to avoid wildlife collisions

Times-News

'Tis the season ... to watch out for wildlife while on the road.

Vehicle collisions involving wildlife are a perennial problem on eastern Warm Springs Avenue and Highway 21 near Boise, especially during the winter when deer and elk are congregated on lower winter ranges, according to the Idaho Department of Fish and Game. Use caution if traveling through the area.

Special patrols, in a cooperative effort among the Idaho State Police, the Ada County Sheriff's deputies and Idaho Fish and Game officers, have slowed drivers and raised awareness of the role of speed in relation to deer-vehicle collisions.

Officers work in teams of two, combining a Fish and Game officer with a state trooper or sheriff's deputy. The teams patrol two target areas: Highway 21 from Lucky Peak Dam to Hill Top, and Warm Springs Avenue from Star View road to the Highway 21 junction.

Patrols will coincide with peak deer activity during peak traffic times.

The speed limit in the Highway 21 target area is 55 mph. The Warm Springs target area has a daytime speed limit of 45 mph and a night time speed limit of 35 mph.

Blind students put their skills to the test

Blind students from around Idaho will participate in the National Idaho Braille Challenge this week, starting with an event today at the Idaho School for the Deaf and the Blind in Gooding.

The national challenge is a two-part contest for students ages 6 to 19 who read Braille. It is designed to encourage and reward students to fine-tune their Braille reading skills.

During this preliminary round of the state competition, participants will compete in five challenging categories, which require them to transcribe type and read Braille using a device called a Perkins Braille. Each category is designed to test their Braille skills in several areas: reading speed and comprehension, Braille spelling, chart and graph reading, proofreading, and Braille speed and accuracy.

The top 60 students from across the U.S. and Canada will be invited to Los Angeles in June for the national finals. They will compete for prizes, including savings bonds and adaptive devices for the blind and visually impaired.

Besides today's event, students will compete in Boise and Idaho Falls on Saturday.

North Valley Academy accepting students

North Valley Academy Charter School is now accepting applications for fall 2011. Letters of intent to enroll are available at www.northvalleyacademy.com or at the school office, 906 Main St. in Gooding.

Two open house and general information meetings are planned for 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Feb. 1 and March 1.

The lottery will be held on April 9. Students currently enrolled do not need to reapply.

A bus will stop at one site each in Wendell, Jerome and Shoshone. Full route service is available in Gooding.

NVA offers a rigorous and patriotic education for grades K-12. A traditional five-day week schedule is observed. The school year runs from after Labor Day to Memorial Day.

Information: 934-4567.

CSI offers non-credit photography course

The College of Southern Idaho's Community Education Center will offer a non-credit enrichment course, "Digital 411: Point and Shoot Cameras," taught by John Berglund, from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays, Jan. 18 and 25, at the CSI Mini-Cassia Campus in Burley. Registration is $20.

Designed for students who want to become more familiar with their point-and-shoot cameras, this course will teach how to get the most out of such a camera by understanding its capabilities and uncovering its functions. Students may register online, and class size is limited so early registration is suggested.

Information: community.education.csi.edu or 732-6442.

Driver safety classes available for seniors

The Twin Falls Senior Citizens Center will host an AARP Driver Safety Class from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

This program is the first and biggest driver safety program in the nation, helping older drivers compensate for normal physiological changes that may make driving more difficult.

Many insurance companies allow a discount for people who attend the class. There is no driving or a graded test.

To register: 308-1670.

Kasworm celebrates 90th birthday

Fredrick Paul Kasworm will celebrate his 90th birthday with local family members on Wednesday.

Kasworm was born on Jan. 19, 1921, in Taylorville, Utah, the youngest of eight children.

He graduated from Granite High School in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1938. He joined the Army Air Corps in 1942, and attended flight training school near Hemet, Calif.

Kasworm served on the A & B Irrigation Board and as a representative on the West Side Fire District. He has been a lifelong member of the Lutheran Church where he has served as elder and trustee, helping the church grow in membership, as well as adding onto the church buildings over time.

He married Lenora Seim, the love of his life, Sept. 21, 1941, in Chapman, Neb. They will celebrate 70 years together later this year. They are the parents of four children, Patricia (Kevin) Ferry of Pocatello; Pamela (Joe) Redington of Manley Hot Springs, Alaska; Susan (Bob) Donnelly of Forked River, N.J.; and Wayne (Debe Vanderlip) Kasworm of Libby, Mo. The couple also has seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Kasworm's family would like to wish him a happy birthday and express their love and appreciation for all he has done.

Around-the-clock blood-pressure monitoring?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My doctor has indicated that he wants a 24-hour blood-pressure reading on me. I just returned from my ophthalmologist's office for a routine visit and asked him about this. I am uninformed but was surprised a specialist would not have heard of it, either. Can you fill in the blanks?

DEAR READER: The use of ambulatory blood-pressure monitoring (ABPM) for 24 hours has gained greater acceptance for several reasons. A situation known as white-coat hypertension occurs in up to 32 percent of patients, and this particular testing unit can monitor the condition. It can also delineate circadian variations in readings and pick up on drug-induced orthostatic hypotension and episodic primary hypertension.

ASK DR. GOTT
Dr. Peter Gott

There are instances where high-blood-pressure readings appear to have no known cause; however, with the capability of 24-hour monitoring, it stands a better chance of identification.

Primary hypertension, as indicated above, is defined as that which occurs with no known cause. It occurs in up to 95 percent of people with high blood pressure. Secondary hypertension with a known cause occurs in up to 15 percent of people with high blood pressure, and may result from a kidney or hormonal disorder, the use of specific drugs, hyperthyroidism and other conditions.

Blood pressures vary and increase with age. Systolic pressure (the first number) increase until about the age of 80. Diastolic (the second number) increases until the age of 55 or 60. Then these levels stabilize or perhaps decrease. Smoking, a sedentary lifestyle, stress, eating too much salt, obesity and numerous other conditions can aggravate the condition.

My guess is that your physician is attempting to zero in on whether you have white-coat syndrome, whether your readings are consistently lower at home, or whether extenuating undefined circumstances cause the problem. The monitoring device is harmless and should provide the answers the doctor is seeking. Go with it, and get to the bottom of the problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT: How do I get rid of nail fungus? Is there a home remedy? I have had it on my big toenail for years, following a pedicure, and it's now on two of my fingernails.

DEAR READER: Home remedies include soaking the toes or fingers in warm water to make the nails softer and easier to cut. Trim the nails, and remove as much of the debris as possible. Apply a petrolatum/menthol salve around the top and under the tip of the nail twice daily. The process may take a month or more but is worth a try.

Apply decolorized iodine to affected dry nails twice daily. Again, this will take some time but offers another option.

Oregano oil applied to affected clean, dry nails once or twice daily with a cotton swab has been reported to work.

Consider purchasing over-the-counter Miranel, an antifungal remedy that permeates nails and promotes faster eradication of the fungus.

To provide related information, I am sending you copies of my Health Reports "Compelling Home Remedies" and "More Compelling Home Remedies." # TWO YEARS OF TEACHING

Twin Falls woman enters Peace Corps assignment

By Nate Poppino
Times-News writer

A Twin Falls native has just started two years with the Peace Corps in Costa Rica, serving as an English teacher.

Hannah Evans, a 2006 graduate of Twin Falls High School, left for Costa Rica in October for 10 weeks of training. Then, on Dec. 17, she and 43 other Peace Corps volunteers were sworn into service by Anne S. Andrew, the U.S. ambassador to Costa Rica.

Evans' main project will now be helping with English programs in three high schools in and around San Vito, a town of about 10,000 people, she wrote in an e-mail to the Times-News. She plans to teach students, community members and other teachers.

"I have always had a strong desire to serve abroad," she wrote about why she joined the Peace Corps. "I am so blessed with all that I have been given and fully believe that my privilege obligates me to fight for social justice."

The length of service attracted her as well.

"I was looking for a program that would allow me to really know and understand the people and culture of the country — I wanted to feel like a resident, not a visitor," she wrote, adding that she hoped a long-term project would teach her more about grass-roots development and provide insight for her future.

Evans, who studied Spanish and studied abroad in Mexico and Cuba in college, was able to pick Latin America as her preferred region to be sent to. She's part of the first Peace Corps group to teach English in Costa Rica, a task she suspects she may have been picked for because she helped organize a program in college to teach English to Mexican migrant workers in San Diego. Her group expects to move Costa Rica closer to a previous president's goal for a bilingual population by 2017.

Taking on a Peace Corps assignment is never easy, but Evans seems excited and energized. Of her host nation, she wrote, "I love it. The people are warm and welcoming. The food is delicious (although, quite greasy). My home is surrounded by the greenest of greens, coffee fields, rivers and orchids."

She'll begin her work with a few months of community interviews, discussion groups and similar efforts. Her resulting analysis will help her figure out how to best assist San Vito, including in projects other than teaching English.

Evans applied for the Peace Corps, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, after graduating from the University of San Diego in 2010 with bachelor's degrees in sociology and Spanish. She is the daughter of John and Linda Evans.

Teaching mental toughness aim of workshop

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

MENTAL TOUGHNESS SEMINAR

A free Mental Toughness/Sports psychology seminar for athletes, coaches and parents will be offered Saturday at CSI. Dr. Nicole Detling Miller will present six different sessions throughout the day. Topics include building a foundation for mental toughness (9 to 9:45 a.m.), coaching mental toughness (10 to 11 a.m.), how to support your athlete (11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.), managing performance anxiety (1:30 to 2:15 p.m.), improving concentration skills (2:30 to 3:15 p.m.) and how to use the power of your mind to succeed on and off the field (3:30 to 4:15 p.m.). Those wishing to attend must pre-register at <http://www.twinfallsrapids.com>.

Mental toughness is the reason a pitcher can wriggle out of that bases-loaded, no-out jam in a tight game. It's the reason Michael Jordan always wanted the last shot, even after he'd missed.

It's also the subject of a daylong workshop to be held Saturday at the College of Southern Idaho.

Dr. Nicole Detling Miller, a renowned sports psychologist who is currently tied to two universities and works with the U.S. speed skating team, will conduct the workshop on the mental side of sports. The workshop has six sessions and is free to the public, although pre-registration is required at the Twin Falls Rapids' website.

While the workshop is sports-oriented, the principles can also be applied to everyday life.

"Every day is a performance, as a parent, in your job, even driving down the street. We all have those situations where we're distracted or stressed or have a lot of anxiety, and because of that our level of performance isn't where it wants to be," Detling Miller said Wednesday in a phone interview. "That's where mental skills can enhance their performance. ... Mental skills and training is pretty much the same, it's just how to provide those skills to your performance."

Detling Miller earned a Ph.D. in sport psychology from the University of Utah, where she is currently a visiting professor. She is also the chief instructor and subject matter expert in the sports psychology department at Norcross, Ga.-based Ashworth College. Friday she'll provide her expertise to the CSI athletic department, as well as the Twin Falls Rapids soccer club, before the public event on Saturday.

The workshop is part of an effort by the Rapids to promote athletic growth across the region, not just in their own ranks.

"We've seen in watching a lot of youth sports, it seems

No. 1 and ready to prove it

The first wrestling rankings were released Wednesday by Idahowrestlingnews.com, and not surprisingly Declo is ranked No. 1 in Class 2A/1A.

"Now we just need to go out and prove it," said Declo coach Lawrence Gillette.

The good folks at IWN admit that their rankings "have no bearing on district or state seedings, officially. They are for entertainment purposes only." Historically, though, the rankings have been fairly accurate in gauging the top wrestlers in the state.

Declo, which last won a state wrestling team title in 1998, seems to have the mat men to make a run at this year's state tournament, which will be held Feb. 24-26 at the Idaho Center in Nampa.

Individually, Declo has eight wrestlers ranked in the top six of their respective weight classes, including Jaime Alonzo (first at 103 pounds), Alex Alonzo (second at 103), Stirland Zollinger (first at 112), Troy Adams (fifth at 119), Josh Phillips (sixth at 119), Justin Cameron (fifth at 135), Jacob Miles (fifth at 145), Jason Gillette (third at 160), and Mark Knobbe (fourth at 215).

Many factors must come together for a team to win a state wrestling title. All the work a wrestler has put in for 365 days comes down to the three-day event. Have one bad match — or round, even — and it can all be for naught. Seeding is vital. Being healthy and avoiding injuries is crucial. Depth means everything — a few unexpected points scored by an overachieving wrestler can be the difference.

It's too early to make space in the trophy cabinet, but Declo has a legitimate shot. The Hornets return nine state qualifiers from 2010, plus added some quality newcomers.

While Declo was solid at the lower weights last season, the Hornets struggled to fill their upper weights. Coach Gillette recruited a couple of football stars, Jared Patterson (285) and Knobbe to fill the holes.

Knobbe was a successful wrestler in junior high, but quit after his freshman year. Gillette took him to a wrestling camp at Boise State last summer, and Knobbe only lost one match in the heavyweight division. Now, he's knocked off the rust and is using his strength and athleticism to earn a fourth-place IWN ranking.

For Patterson, who has never wrestled before, the learning curve is steep. But he has the body for it, and Declo hopes that by the end of the season he'll have enough experience to make some noise at state.

"Jared is so athletic and quick on his feet for a heavyweight," Gillette said. "He's one of the most athletic heavyweights we've ever had in our wrestling room. He learns quick, he's really intelligent and he's KIMBERLY — This was not the run-n-gun Kimberly Bulldogs.

They can thank Markus Lively and Mark Montgomery for that.

Buhl's two towers controlled the paint, combining for 10 blocks and keeping the driving and streaking Bulldogs at bay in the Indians' 57-49 win.

"Our guards did a great job on the perimeter harassing them and getting them out of tempo," Lively said. "By the time they drove into the paint, they were out of control, which made it easy for me to block them."

A week after scoring 88 points in a win over Canyon Ridge, Kimberly was shut down Wednesday, scoring a paltry nine points in the first half.

"I told my team I jinxed them," said Kimberly coach Marvin Mumm. "I said there was no way all 12 guys could go cold shooting the basketball. We couldn't hit anything that first half."

And they weren't missing deep 3-pointers either. Point blank shots in the post, layups and mid-range jumpers went awry for Kimberly as Buhl built a 21-9 halftime lead.

Kimberly sharpshooter Brian Crane was held to nine points and Derek Maloney scored 14, with 10 coming in the fourth quarter as Kimberly tried to mount a furious comeback. The Bulldogs pulled within four with seven minutes remaining on a Crane steal and layup, but then Lively went to work in the post.

The 6-4 forward poured in two straight layups and the Bulldogs never threatened again. Lively finished

Golden Eagles face 'trap game' against Colorado Northwestern

By Mike Christensen
Times-News writer

Defending Region 18 Tournament champion Eastern Utah may be on the horizon, but there is another hurdle the No. 12 College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team must clear first.

The Golden Eagles (16-2, 2-1 Scenic West Athletic Conference) host Colorado Northwestern Community College at 7:30 tonight. While the Spartans (5-10, 0-3 SWAC) are winless in league play, CSI head coach Steve Gosar hopes the visitors have his team's full attention.

"This is a real trap game," he said. "You overlook these guys and keep looking to Saturday and these guys have done it every year to somebody in our league. Look past them and they'll sneak up and get one.

"We can't look ahead even as much as our guys are looking forward to playing (Eastern Utah) and love those big Saturday games."

CNCC returns its leading scorer from last season in sophomore guard Jon Henderson, who is averaging 14.4 points.

"They've got a few more pieces around him and a little more depth," said Gosar. "They're definitely a much-improved team and they just continue to get better."

Those pieces include 6-foot-7 freshman center Brent Aga, who is averaging 12.2 points and 7.4 rebounds, and freshman guard Sean Edwards, who chips in 8.2 points and 3.0 assists.

Gosar said his team is improving each week in some facet of the game and wants to approach today's matchup as a chance to get better. CSI will need to seize that chance with a talented Eastern Utah squad coming to town for a 5 p.m. game Saturday.

CEU (14-3, 2-1) is ranked No. 25 and boasts a talented lineup led by 6-6 sophomore Jonathan Mills, who

Steady Mechela Barnes fills Brown's shoes for CSI women

By Mike Christensen
Times-News writer

Mechela Barnes was all set to sign with Seattle University when the phone call came: The school had signed another guard instead and no longer had a spot for her.

When the phone rang again a short time later, it brought another surprise. Her former AAU teammate, College of Southern Idaho guard Daidra Brown, called to say she'd just signed with Seattle U. and wanted to know if Barnes was still planning to play there.

That's when the realization hit: Brown had taken Barnes' spot.

The consolation prize: Brown told CSI coach Randy Rogers about Barnes, and it wasn't long before the 5-foot-6 Tacoma, Wash. guard signed with the Golden Eagles.

One door closed, another opened.

"She took my place there," said Barnes, "but it's all good."

It's all turned out good for CSI as well. While Rogers would love to have Brown back after an all-conference freshman season that saw her average 13.4 points, 4.5

assists and 5.1 steals, he's getting similar production from Barnes.

The Bellarmine Prep product leads CSI in scoring (11.4) and steals (3.1), while adding 2.8 rebounds and 2.3 assists.

While Barnes' numbers are akin to Brown's, their games are very different. Where Brown was more about speed, pushing the ball up the floor with near reckless abandon, Barnes takes the slow and steady approach.

"I'm more cautious," said Barnes.

But that's OK with Rogers, who described Barnes as "very knowledgeable. She knows our offense so she knows how to set things up. She does a good job of getting the ball to the right person at the right time."

Jerome exacts revenge on Burley

By Ryan Howe
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Jerome's 50-37 win over Burley Wednesday night was all about one thing: Revenge.

Earlier this season, Burley traveled to Jerome and beat the Tigers 50-46, ending the Jerome girls basketball team's 40-game home winning streak. It was the first time the Jerome seniors had ever lost at home, and it left a sour taste in their mouth.

"We didn't play like the JLT can when we played them in Jerome," said senior Carrie Thibault. "We've improved a lot and everybody contributed tonight."

Thibault led Jerome with 17 points, seven rebounds and seven assists. Frankie Carey and Haylee Burnham each scored 10 for the Tigers, who improved to 10-3 (4-2 Great Basin Conference).

"We had a better rhythm, a better flow to our game tonight than we did earlier in the year," said Jerome coach Brent Clark. "I think a lot of it was our mental focus."

Since that night when Burley upset Jerome, the Tigers have gone 7-1. Meanwhile, the Bobcats have gone 1-6.

"This is our revenge week, with Burley and Twin coming up," Clark said. "They are two of our home losses this year. We've been really focused in our practices. We had to come over here, get a lead and kind of put them away so that they didn't have any inkling that they could hang with us. And we about did that."

Jerome began to pull away in the second quarter as back-to-back 3-pointers by Thibault gave the Tigers a 10-point advantage.

Jerome's biggest lead was 16 points, midway through the third quarter. Burley couldn't get closer than eight after that.

"We set some goals in the locker room at halftime and we just had to rebound and play JLT basketball," Thibault said. "We just had to buckle down on defense and we controlled the boards and had a really good inside game."

Jerome's Jasmine Branch drives the ball to the hoop as Burley's Aubrie Vale defends Wednesday at Burley High School.

Burley (3-11 overall, 2-4 GBC) got a team-high 14 points from Chelsea Baker and Brooke Bowers scored 11. The Bobcats shot 35 percent from the field, to Jerome's 48.8 percent.

"Over there they played us man (defense) a lot. Here they played zone and we couldn't execute as well," said Burley's Delta Jones. "The last four games we've been so close, but we just can't pull out a win. At least we're getting closer, and during districts we're not going to be the team that all the other teams can just push out. I think we're going to be tough if we keep moving forward and working hard."

Williams, Miles help Jazz top Knicks

SALT LAKE CITY — Deron Williams and reserve C.J. Miles scored 24 points apiece, leading seven Utah players in double figures as the Jazz beat the New York Knicks 131-125 on Wednesday night.

The game was a battle of 3-pointers, with the Jazz hitting 10 of 22 and New York making 14 of 29.

Reserve Shawne Williams was 7 of 8 from behind the arc and scored 25 points for the Knicks, who made it close after trailing by as many as 16 before finishing 2-2 on their western trip. Al Jefferson added 19 points for Utah, Raja Bell had 18, Paul Millsap 17 and Andrei Kirilenko 14.

SUNS 118, NETS 109, OT

PHOENIX — Steve Nash had 23 points and 16 assists, Vince Carter also scored 23 points, and Phoenix erased a 15-point, fourth-quarter deficit to beat New Jersey in overtime.

HORNETS 102, MAGIC 89

NEW ORLEANS — Emeka Okafor had 18 points and 14 rebounds, and the New Orleans Hornets held off Orlando 92-89 in overtime on Wednesday night, snapping the Magic's nine-game winning streak.

THUNDER 118, ROCKETS 112

HOUSTON — Kevin Durant scored 30 points, Russell Westbrook added 23 points and 13 assists, and Oklahoma City snapped the franchise's 11-game losing streak in Houston.

Thabo Sefolosha grabbed 13 rebounds, and Serge Ibaka and Jeff Green added 16 points apiece for the Thunder.

SPURS 91, BUCKS 84

MILWAUKEE — Reserve Matt Bonner scored all 17 of his points in the second half, Manu Ginobili added 23 and San Antonio picked up its fourth straight win.

BOBCATS 96, BULLS 91

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — D.J. Augustin had 22 points and 12 assists, outplaying Derrick Rose in the Bobcats' victory.

GRIZZLIES 107, PISTONS 99

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Zach Randolph had 34 points and 17 rebounds for Memphis, and Rudy Gay scored 26 points.

The Pistons debuted a new starting lineup — and benched Richard Hamilton. Ben Wallace (ankle) missed the game and was replaced by rookie Greg Monroe, while Tracy McGrady and Chris Wilcox came in for Ben Gordon and Charlie Villanueva.

CELTICS 119, KNICS 95

BOSTON — Paul Pierce scored 25 points and Rajon Rondo had 10 points and 13 assists, leading the Celtics to the victory.

PACERS 102, MAVERICKS 89

INDIANAPOLIS — Brandon Rush scored eight of his 20 points in the fourth quarter to help Indiana get the victory.

HAWKS 104, RAPTORS 101

TORONTO — Mike Bibby made a go-ahead 3-pointer with 8.2 seconds left, Jamal Crawford scored a season-high 36 points and Atlanta earned its fifth straight victory.

team with an unbeaten 2-0 record.

Breyana Burk scored 25 and pulled down 16 rebounds, but it wasn't enough for the Canyon Ridge girls to overcome Kaitana Martinez and the Wood River Wolverines, who won 40-34 in Twin Falls on Wednesday.

Martinez went without a field goal in the second half but got to the foul line often in order to pile up a 21-point night. Wood River (12-1, 5-1 Great Basin) hit just 10 shots from the floor and WAS outrebounded 44-31 but still found a way to keep pace with Twin Falls atop the Great Basin Conference.

"Our defense was very poor tonight," Mumm said. "We didn't play as a team at all. This was by far the most physical team we've played all season."

The Bulldogs' (8-1, 2-0 Sawtooth Central Idaho), who lost their first game of the season, return to action Tuesday against Wood River.

Buhl (5-5, 2-0) is in the driver's seat in the Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference at 2-0 — a place not many predicted they'd be.

"We definitely have a bull's-eye on us now," Hamilton said. "I think at the beginning of the season people didn't expect us to be leading this conference. Kimberly is a good team and they'll be gunning for us next time."

Boise State, Washington agree to home-and-home series

The Associated Press

SEATTLE — Washington has announced its first opponent for when Husky Stadium reopens in 2013: Boise State.

The Huskies and Broncos announced a home-and-home series on Wednesday. The Broncos will be Washington's first opponent when Husky Stadium is finished with a $250 million renovation.

The teams will meet on Sept. 7, 2013, in Seattle, and the Huskies will make the return trip to Boise on Sept. 19, 2015. Washington will become the fourth current Pac-10 team to play the Broncos in Boise, joining Washington State, Oregon and Oregon State.

"This is a natural series for the two schools," Boise State Athletic Director Gene Bleymaier said in a school release. "I know are fans will be excited about being able to see a quality opponent like Washington play on the Blue Turf, and I'm sure we will have a large contingent of fans making the trip to Seattle."

The teams have met only once before, with the Huskies taking a 24-10 victory over Boise State during the 2007 season.

Washington is coming off a 7-6 record, including a 19-7 win over Nebraska in the Holiday Bowl. BSU went 12-1 this past season, beating Utah 26-3 in the MAACO Bowl Las Vegas.

The Broncos open the 2011 season Sept. 3 against Georgia in the Kickoff-A Kickoff Game.

Seattle's 'Beast Mode' finally shows its teeth

RENTON, Wash. (AP) — The run should never have reached epic status.

New Orleans linebacker Scott Shanle was there, shedding a missed block and squared up on Marshawn Lynch in his only running lane. At best, Lynch should have gained a couple of yards to bring up a key third-down with less than 3½ minutes to go last Saturday.

Then "Beast Mode" showed up, and what seemed to be a nominal short-gain suddenly became the greatest run in Seattle Seahawks history.

"More people have been talking to me about the run than the win," Lynch said.

Days after Lynch's game-clinching, tackle-breaking, 67-yard touchdown against the Saints in the first round of the NFC playoffs, the run is still being discussed. Talk radio is full of it, asking listeners to give a name the electrifying dash. YouTube has hundreds of varieties of the film, some with more than a half-million views in just a handful of days. The video has been set to the sound effects from "Super Mario Bros." and imitated using the 1980s video game "Tecmo Bowl."

Seahawks at Bears

11 a.m., Sunday, FOX

Heck, Lynch's run even caused a seismic event to be recorded by sensors just outside of Qwest Field.

Suddenly the Seahawks, set to face the Bears in the NFC divisional playoff Sunday in Chicago, are getting a little notoriety, and not because they're sticking around the playoffs even with a losing record.

"You just knew when it happened, everybody that was there, this was really a unique thing that just happened in front of us and we're grateful for being around it when it happened," coach Pete Carroll said.

When Lynch arrived in Seattle back in October after a trade with Buffalo, he brought along the "Beast Mode" moniker. It was a symbol of his rugged, run-at-all-costs style that resonates with fans. His ability to run between the tackles was also the perfect complement that Carroll was looking for in his run game, countering Lynch's bruising with the edge speed of backs Justin Forsett and Leon Washington.

But for most of the season, Seattle's run game was a joke. Unable to find any consistency with its offensive line, Seattle averaged just 89 yards per game in the regular season and for much of the year was on pace to have the worst run game in franchise history.

Their success running started to turn in the season finale when the Seahawks rushed for 141 yards as a team and Lynch rambled for 75 yards after having six carries for (minus)-1 yards in the first half.

That performance was muted by what Lynch did with just one carry against the Saints.

"Not to take anything away from the run, but the biggest highlight for me was that we won the game," Lynch said.

Michigan's Hoke hopes to hang onto QB Robinson

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Denard Robinson's high school coach heard from so many coaches trying to recruit the dual-threat quarterback by Wednesday afternoon that he was on his third cell-phone battery.

"Every school wants Denard — trust me," Art Taylor, who coached Robinson at Deerfield Beach (Fla.) High School, said in a telephone interview. "I've heard from at least 10 to 15 schools already."

"Denard loves Michigan, but he has to do what's best for him because this is a big decision."

Robinson chose to play for college football's winningest program because it was led by spread guru Rich Rodriguez.

The first player in NCAA history to throw and run for 1,500 yards hasn't commented since Rodriguez was fired last week and replaced by Brady Hoke.

"I talked to Denard this morning and told him, 'You have to ask the new coach questions about the offense and what your role will be,'" Taylor recalled Wednesday afternoon shortly after Hoke met with the team and media. "I've told him what a great education he'll get if he stays at Michigan, but if they want to turn him into a drop-back quarterback and waste his 4.3 speed (in the 40-yard dash) that might not be the best place for him."

Hoke hopes to persuade Robinson to return for his junior season.

LONG INTRODUCED AS SDSU'S HEAD COACH

SAN DIEGO — Rocky Long had a chance to follow Brady Hoke to Michigan. Instead, he stayed at San Diego State and was promoted from defensive coordinator to head coach.

"This is a much better deal," Long said during his introductory news conference Wednesday. "And I'm not talking about anything about being a head coach. We've got things started here. They've got a lot of work to do there."

The two schools will find out for sure when San Diego State visits Michigan on Sept. 24.

LES MILES HAS A NEW CONTRACT AT LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. — Les Miles made it clear, in his own particular way, that he is living in the present.

His nostalgia for Michigan, where he played, and his enduring pride in his alma mater could not outweigh the relationships he's built in the past six seasons at LSU, where he's won 62 games and five bowls, including the 2007 national title.

"I'm one of those guys that believe where you are at is where you live your life," Miles said Wednesday shortly after LSU announced that the Tigers' coach had agreed to a new contract that would keep him living down on the bayou for the next seven seasons.

The announcement of Miles' new deal came two days after Michigan Athletic Director Dave Brandon flew to Baton Rouge to meet with Miles about the Wolverines' coaching vacancy that has since been filled by Brady Hoke.

FLOYD BACK FOR SENIOR SEASON AT ND

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Michael Floyd, Notre Dame's leading receiver this past season and one of the top pass catchers in school history, has decided to return to the Fighting Irish for his senior season instead of declaring for the NFL draft.

Floyd announced his decision Wednesday.

athletic enough that I think he's going to do really well. Patty wrestles Mark in the wrestling room and he gives Mark all he wants. That's a pretty good indication to me that I think Jared can be the top four at state, just seeing what he can do right now?" Although Gillette is a first-year head coach, he's been around Declo wrestling since 1986 as a varsity assistant, junior high coach and a referee.

"There's a lot of excitement with the new coaching staff," Gillette said. "I have two great assistants who have come on board. I have Lance Gillette, who placed at state four years in a row for Gooding and wrestled at Western Wyoming. And then I have Ian Webb, who was a state champion for Declo in 2002."

Declo is the only local Class 2A/1A team currently ranked by IWN. Buhl is ranked third in 3A and Jerome is ranked fourth in 4A.

No school from the Magic Valley has won a state wrestling team championship since Minico earned the 4A title in 2006.

Here's hoping that drought ends soon.

Barnes

"It seems like every year I have that one player I can just count on that's not going to make a lot of mistakes — not going to be flashy, but just steady and consistent."

The amazing thing is Barnes, like Brown, never played point guard in high school or AAU ball. Both were wing players who transitioned to the point at CSI.

"It's so different," said Barnes. "It's really tough, but I think I've got it down."

Barnes said the biggest challenge of running the point is being vocal on the court. But she's putting in the work to get better and excelling at the thing she does best: driving baseline and finishing inside.

"I don't really go at people, I kind of find a way and go underneath them," said Barnes. "I'm really long and that's how I finish it — find a way around."

"She has a real knack for getting her shot off around the basket," added Rogers. "She either gets fouled or she makes the shot. Where other kids seem to get caught and just throw something up, she seems to be able to know where she is and keep her body in such a good balance that she has good ability to finish shots around the basket in traffic."

Barnes hopes to finish a few more baseline drives today as No. 25 CSI (14-4, 1-2 Scenic West Athletic Conference) hosts league foe Colorado Northwestern Community College (6-11, 0-3 SWAC) at 5:30 p.m. The Spartans are led by 5-9 sophomores Yateria Wilson and Tamekia Hunt, who each average about 10 points per game.

"They are a dangerous team for us," said Rogers. "Right now, I think any team is dangerous for us because it seems like as our outside shooting goes, we go. We didn't shoot well against Salt Lake or North Idaho and we didn't win those games."

With CSI scheduled to host the Region 18 Tournament in March, Rogers said establishing a home-court edge is vital as CSI hosts CNCC today and Eastern Utah on Saturday in the midst of a five-game home stand that started with last Saturday's loss to No. 18 North Idaho.

"We've got to start letting teams know that they can't come in here in the region tournament and have confidence that they can beat CSI at CSI," said Rogers. "That's what it means more than anything. North Idaho's already got that taste."

ORDINANCE NO. 1076*BILL NO. 560

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JEROME, IDAHO, REPEALING SECTION 13.28.050 RULE 4 OF THE JEROME MUNICIPAL CODE; AMENDING THE JEROME MUNICIPAL CODE BY REQUIRING ALL OWNERS OF REAL PROPERTY TO HAVE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY FOR PAYMENT OF FEES AND CHARGES FOR UTILITY SERVICES; AND PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, the City of Jerome operates potable water, and wastewater collection and treatment systems for the benefit of its residents and property owners; and

WHEREAS, user fees, including deposits, are assessed by the City to defray costs related to the operation of those systems; and,

WHEREAS, current provisions of the Jerome Municipal Code ("JMC") require that the users of water and/or waste water collection and treatment services from the City bear the entire financial responsibility for such fees; and

WHEREAS, a review of delinquent payment records for water and wastewater collection and treatment accounts has demonstrated that many delinquent and uncollectible accounts have been incurred by users who were occupying the real property being served, but who were not the owners of the real property; and

WHEREAS, making the owners of the real property being served with water and/or wastewater collection and treatment ultimately responsible for such accounts will provide a more effective means of collecting fees for such services, thereby promoting the general welfare of the residents of the City.

BE IT THEREFORE ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JEROME, IDAHO, AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: Section 13.28.050, Rule 4, of the Jerome Municipal Code, is amended to read as follows:

13.28.050: RULE 4; BUILDING OWNER HAS ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY FOR WATER SERVICE CHARGES:

Owners or lessees of buildings containing one or more stores, apartments, or any other division of like or similar character, all of which divisions are served from one tap, are held responsible for the entire water charges. If the owner or lessee desires to cease being responsible for the water bills for such places and desires that the occupant of each division shall be responsible for his respective water bill, such transfer of responsibility will not be accepted or recognized by the city until the plumbing arrangements of the building are so arranged by the owner, lessee, or their agents, as to permit the city, to its satisfaction, to serve each division or occupant, separate from the other occupants, in the same building. Where the owner, lessee, or consumer, declines to pay the water charges, and also refuses to make the necessary plumbing changes to conform to the above requirements, water service will be discontinued until the provisions of this rule are complied with. Owners of real property being provided domestic water service by the City shall be ultimately responsible for all deposits, fees and charges for such services, irrespective of whether the owner is the occupant of the real property or is otherwise a consumer as referenced in this chapter. All applications for domestic water service may be made by the owner or occupant of the real property to be provided the services. Monthly bills shall be sent to the person who has made the application for domestic water service, irrespective of whether he is the owner. If the account was opened in the name of a person who is not the owner, and has become delinquent, the owner of the real property to which the services have been provided shall be mailed a notice of termination of services at least ten (10) days prior to actual termination, which notice must also set forth the amount of all delinquent charges and fees. All fees and charges not paid by the date of termination shall be the responsibility of the owner of the real property. This section shall not be construed to alter provisions of this title which require notices of termination to the person who has made application for the services.

Section 2: Section 13.24.010 of the Jerome Municipal Code is amended to read as follows:

13.24.010: DEFINITIONS:

For the purposes of this chapter, the following words and phrases shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to them by this section:

CONSUMER: When used in these rules and regulations or in the application for service, means the person using or desiring to use water service.

DELIVERY OF WATER SERVICE: The maintenance by the city at the point of delivery of service pipes at the approximate pressure in the form specified in the application.

EXTENSION: A branch from, or continuation of, an existing main or service pipe, or both, including any increase of capacity of any existing extension, or the changing of any main or service now installed.

HAULERS AND CARRIERS: When used in these rules and regulations, and in the application for service, refers to any person receiving water "from any premises", as defined in this section, other than the premises so occupied by such person, by hauling, carrying, or by any other means or device; provided, however, that the city is at all times ready and willing to serve the premises occupied by the haulers and carriers under the rules and regulations set out in this chapter.

MONTH: (Except where the calendar year is stated) means the approximate monthly period intervening between meter readings, upon which the consumer's demand and consumption are computed and bill rendered.

OWNER: The person or entity who owns the fee simple title of real property being provided water service.

POINT OF DELIVERY: The point where the city's taps or pipes are connected with those of the consumer. Unless otherwise specified in the application for service, or in the city's schedules, such connection will be at the property line of consumer's premises.

PREMISES: As contemplated in these rules, means a property which cannot be completely divided in its present utilitarian condition through sale; as:

- A building under one roof, owned by one party and occupied as one business or residence; or
- A combination of buildings owned by one party or one common enclosure, occupied by one family or business; or
- The one side of a double house having a solid vertical partition wall; or
- A building owned by one party, of more than one apartment, and using in common one hall and one entrance; or
- A building owned by one party having a number of apartments or offices, and using in common one hall, and one or more means of entrance.

RULES ON FILE: These rules and regulations are obtainable at the offices of the city, and are a part of the schedules, rates and tariffs of the city, and apply without modification or change to the city and each and every consumer whom the city serves, and are subject to change only by amendment in the manner provided by law.

WATER SERVICE: The furnishing of water for the purpose specified in the application for service.

YEAR: (Except where the calendar year is stated) means each year, the period intervening between the date corresponding to the effective date of the contract and the same day the following calendar year. (Prior code §27-1)

Section 3: Section 13.20.020 of the Jerome Municipal Code is amended to read as follows:

13.20.020: MONTHLY CHARGES; SCHEDULE:

The monthly wastewater collection and treatment service charges for each property owner or user of real property, or user, domestic, commercial, or industrial in nature, shall be determined by the cubic feet of water used plus a fixed administrative fee. Monthly bills shall be sent to the person who has applied for water service to the real property, irrespective of whether they are the owner. The owner of real property to which wastewater treatment and collection services are provided shall be ultimately responsible for the payment of all deposits, charges and fees required by this chapter which are not paid in full at the time water or wastewater treatment services are terminated to that real property. Each owner of real property to which wastewater treatment and collection services is provided shall receive written notice of termination of water service to such real property at least ten (10) days prior to the termination of such services, which notice shall also contain the amount of all delinquent charges and fees. This provision shall not replace the requirements elsewhere in this title for notices to be provided to the person who has made application for such services. The following rate schedule shall determine service charges and fees:

A. The city administrator, or his designee, shall classify all residential, commercial, and industrial users into appropriate user classes according to the user's wastewater strength. Service charges for residential and commercial users shall be derived from the rate schedule stated in this section:

SERVICE CHARGES AND FEES RATE SCHEDULE

User Class	Wastewater Strength Classification (Biochemical Oxygen Demand Plus Total Suspended Solids)	Unit Water Charge Per 100 Cubic Feet
I	0 - 400 mg/l	$2.46
II	400 - 600 mg/l	3.71
III	600 - 800 mg/l	4.96
IV	800 - 1,000 mg/l	6.17
V	1,000 - 1,500 mg/l	8.39

FIXED RATE

Use Per Month In Cubic Feet	Fixed Rate Per Month
0 - 400	$1.75
400 - 800	2.25

B. The monthly wastewater collection and treatment service charge for each property owner or user, domestic, commercial, or industrial in nature, whose water consumption is not metered shall be fixed by the city council based upon the rate established in the rate schedule above and the cubic feet of water discharged into the collection system as determined by the city administrator; provided, however, that in the case of single-family residential dwellings, with unmetered or unavailable water discharge data, cubic feet discharge shall be deemed to be four hundred (400) cubic feet per month for dwellings with less than three (3) permanent residents, and eight hundred (800) cubic feet per month for dwellings with three (3) or more residents.

C. Each nonresidential property owner or user not serviced by a public water supplier with water, but having a private well or water supply, shall install and maintain at his or its own expense a water meter capable of measuring the total gallons per day of water being used. The meter shall:

- Be approved by the city administrator prior to installation;
- Be installed within sixty (60) days of the receipt of approval for installation;
- Be situated on property accessible to the city, its agents or employees daily between the hours of eight o'clock (8:00) A.M. and six o'clock (6:00) P.M.

D. Industrial user fees shall be computed on a monthly basis using the average monthly flow from a city meter if all water used by such facility goes through the city meter and the average monthly BOD developed by Jerome wastewater treatment sampling schedule (minimum 3 composite samples per week), to establish classification.

1. In the event that all water used is not metered, then the monthly average flow based on the required continuous flow monitoring system at outfall of user and monthly average BOD will be used.

Section 4: Section 13.04.04 of the Jerome Municipal Code is amended to read as follows:

13.04.010: DEFINITIONS:

For the purposes of this chapter, the following words and phrases shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to them by this section:

BOD: The quantity of oxygen utilized in the biochemical oxidation of organic matter under standard laboratory procedure in five (5) days at twenty degrees centigrade (20°C), expressed in parts per million by weight.

BUILDING DRAIN: That part of the lowest horizontal piping of a drainage system which receives the discharge from soil, waste, and other drainage pipes inside the walls of the building and conveys it to the building sewer, beginning five feet (5') outside the inner face of the building wall.

BUILDING SEWER: The extension from the building drain to the public sewer or other place of disposal.

CITY ADMINISTRATOR: City administrator or representative of the city administrator.

COMBINED SEWER: A sewer receiving both sewage and surface runoff.

COMMERCIAL USER: Any place of business, manufacturing facility, or other enterprise not primarily used as a residence, connected to the city sewage collection system, and which does not meet the definition of an industrial user.

GARBAGE: Solid wastes from the preparation, cooking, and dispensing of food, and from the handling, storage, and sale of produce.

INDUSTRIAL USER: Any user connected to the city's wastewater treatment facility which meets or exceeds one or more of the following criteria:

- A flow rate of 0.025 million gallons per day during any one day or a flow that will average over 0.025 million gallons per day for a monthly period.
- A five (5) day BOD discharge rate exceeding thirty (30) pounds in any one day.
- A TSS discharge rate exceeding thirty (30) pounds in any one day.

INDUSTRIAL WASTES: The liquid wastes from industrial processes as distinct from sanitary sewer.

NATURAL OUTLET: Any outlet into a watercourse, pond, ditch, lake or other body of surface or ground water.

OWNER: The person or entity who owns fee simple title to the real property being provided with wastewater collection and treatment services.

PERSON: Any individual, firm, company, association, society, corporation, or group.

pH: The logarithm of the reciprocal of the weight of hydrogen ions in grams per liter of solution.

PROPERLY SHREDDED GARBAGE: The wastes from the preparation, cooking and dispensing of food that have been shredded to such degree that all particles will be carried freely under the flow conditions normally prevailing in public sewers, with no particle greater than one-half inch (1/2") in any dimension.

PUBLIC SEWER: A sewer in which all owners of abutting properties have equal rights, and is controlled by public authority.

RESIDENTIAL USER: Any single- or multiple-dwelling unit connected to the city sewage collection system.

SANITARY SEWER: A sewer which carries sewage and to which storm, surface, and ground waters are not intentionally admitted.

SEWAGE: A combination of the water carried wastes from residences, business buildings, institutions, and industrial establishments, together with such ground, surface and storm waters as may be present.

SEWAGE TREATMENT PLANT: Any arrangement of devices and structures used for treating sewage.

SEWAGE WORKS: All facilities for collecting, pumping, treating, and disposing of sewage.

SEWER: A pipe or conduit for carrying sewage.

SLUG: Any discharge of water, sewage or industrial waste which in concentration of any given constituent or in quantity of flow exceeds for any period of duration more than fifteen (15) minutes and more than five (5) times the average twenty four (24) hour concentration or flow expected during normal operation.

STORM SEWER OR STORM DRAIN: A sewer which carries storm and surface waters and drainage, but excludes sewage and polluted industrial wastes.

SUPERINTENDENT: The city, or its authorized deputy, agent, or representative.

SUSPENDED SOLIDS: Solids that either float on the surface of, or are in suspension in water, sewage, or other liquids; and which are removable by laboratory filtering.

USER: The person occupying or in possession of the real property to which wastewater treatment and collection services are provided and/or the person who has made application for the domestic water services provided to that real property.

WATERCOURSE: A channel in which a flow of water occurs, either continuously or intermittently.

Section 5: This ordinance shall be effective following passage and publication as required by law.

PASSED BY THE COUNCIL this 4th day of January, 2011.

SIGNED BY THE MAYOR this 5th day of January, 2011.

ORDER, NOTICE, AND SUMMONS FOR HEARING
In the Interest of:
SAMANTHA HANSON
d.o.b. 9/15/98
A Child Under Eighteen Years of Age.

A Petition under the Termination of Parent-Child Act has been filed by the Department of Health and Welfare. The merits of the petition will be examined in an evidentiary hearing on February 23, 2011 at 3:00 PM in the Magistrate's Court, Cassia County Courthouse, Burley, Idaho.

The following individual shall personally appear at the hearing:

JASON ANDERSON

The above-named individual is further notified that he is entitled to be represented by legal counsel. If he is financially unable to retain an attorney, he may apply to the Court, prior to the hearing, for appointment of counsel.

Said father is further notified that pursuant to 16-1513 of the Idaho Code that he may register his claim as father of a child born out of wedlock with the Department of Health and Welfare, Bureau of Vital Statistics, on forms available for such purposes from the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Department of Health and Welfare. Said father is further notified that he shall mail the completed form to the Bureau of Vital Statistics, and it shall be signed and witnessed before a Notary Public. Your failure to so register can result in your being barred in your maintaining an action to establish paternity of the said child and constitutes a prima facie case of abandonment pursuant to section 16-2005 of the Idaho Code.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Tuesday, the 10th day of May, 2011, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock a.m. of said day at Land Title and Escrow, 211 W. 13th St., Burley, in the County of Cassia, State of Idaho, Ryan M. Fawcett, as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property situated in the County of Cassia, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to wit:

THE EAST 32 FEET OF LOT 12 AND THE WEST 56 FEET OF LOT 13 IN BLOCK 3 OF SUBURBAN PARK ADDITION NO. 1 TO THE CITY OF BURLEY, CASSIA COUNTY, IDAHO, AS THE SAME IS PLATTED IN THE OFFICIAL PLAT THEREOF, NOW OF RECORD IN THE OFFICE OF THE RECORDER OF SAID COUNTY.

The Successor Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113, Idaho Code, the Successor Trustee has been informed that the street address of 803 E. 17th St., Burley, Idaho, is sometimes associated with said real property.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by SILVIA NOVOA, an Unmarried Person, Grantor, to Ryan M. Fawcett, Successor Trustee, for the benefit and security of IDAHO HOUSING AND FINANCE ASSOCIATION, recorded May 15, 2008, as Instrument No. 2008-003038, Mortgage records of Cassia County, Idaho. THE ABOVE GRANTOR IS NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506 (4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT SHE IS, OR IS NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay when due, monthly installment payments under the Deed of Trust Note dated May 13, 2008, in the amount of $1,096.00 each, for the months of July through December, 2010, inclusive; and for each and every month thereafter until date of sale or reimbursement. All delinquent payments are now due, plus accumulated late charges, plus any costs or expenses associated with this foreclosure. The accrued interest is at the rate of 6.00% per annum from June 1, 2010. The principal balance owing as of this date on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $124,074.01, plus accrued interest at the rate of 6.00% per annum from June 1, 2010.

APPLICATION FOR INFORMAL PROBATE AND APPOINTMENT OF PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE FIFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF IDAHO, IN AND FOR JEROME COUNTY MAGISTRATE DIVISION
Case No. CV-2010-1110

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF EMERY J. DEROSEAR, Deceased

Petitioner, Vanderbilt Mortgage and Finance, Inc., states and represents to the Registrar as follows:

1. Petitioner, Vanderbilt Mortgage and Finance Inc.'s ("Vanderbilt") interest in this matter is that of a creditor of the estate of Emery J. DeRosear.

2. Decedent, Emery J. DeRosear, died on October 23, 2009, at the age of 69.

3. Venue is proper because at the time of death, Decedent was domiciled in Jerome County, Idaho.

4. The name and address of the spouse of the decedent, is as follows:

Name and Relationship	Address
Jeanette C. DeRosear, Wife	236 North 300 East Jerome, Idaho

5. No personal representative has been appointed in this state or elsewhere.

6. Petitioner has neither received nor is aware of any demand for notice of any probate or appointment proceeding concerning the decedent that may have been filed in this state or elsewhere.

7. The time limit for informal probate and appointment has not expired because not more than three years have passed since the decedent's death.

8. Upon information and belief, the decedent died intestate.

9. Jeanette C. DeRosear has priority of appointment as personal representative and it is believed she is qualified to act as such.

10. Bond is not required

11. That total assets in the above estate are exempt from State of Idaho and Federal Estate Taxes. The total value of Decedent's estate is less than $1,000,000.00 which does not require the filing of State of Idaho tax returns or a Federal estate tax return.

12. The assets of the estate should be identified. Petitioner has a Deed of Trust on real property owned by the Decedent and seeks administration of the estate in order to judicially foreclose on the Deed of Trust.

WHEREFORE, PETITIONER REQUESTS THAT:

1. The Decedent's estate be informally probated.

2. Jeanette C. DeRosear be informally appointed Personal Representative of Decedent, to act without bond.

3. Upon qualification and acceptance, Letters of Administration be issued.

Dated this 30th day of September, 2010.

/S/ Kipp L. Manwaring
Attorney for Vanderbilt Mortgage

NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the hearing on Petitioner's Application for Informal Probate and Appointment of Personal Representative has been scheduled for the 17th day of February, 2011, at 11:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, before the Honorable Jason Walker, in the Jerome County Courthouse, Jerome, Idaho.

ORDINANCE NO. 1275

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BURLEY, IDAHO, AMENDING TITLE 10, CHAPTER 3 OF THE BURLEY CITY CODE RELATING TO PENALTIES FOR FAILURE TO LISENCE; AMENDING THE PENALTIES ASSOCIATED WITH FAILURE TO LISENCE DOGS; SETTING FORTH THE PROCESS OF PROVIDING NOTICE TO VIOLATORS; PROVIDING FOR A REQUIRED KENNEL LICENSE FOR THE KEEPING OF MULTIPLE DOGS AND FOR PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS THEREOF; AND, PROVIDING THAT THIS ORDINANCE SHALL BE IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT FROM AND AFTER ITS PASSAGE, APPROVAL, AND PUBLICATION ACCORDING TO LAW.

WHEREAS, the City of Burley does recognize the value of promoting and protecting public health, safety, and general welfare by providing for the regulation of dogs and cats within the City of Burley; and,

WHEREAS, the City of Burley desires to amend the penalties and provide clarity regarding the process association with penalizing noncompliance with tag and collar license registration requirements in City Code;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BURLEY, IDAHO AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: That Section 10-3-3 of Burley City Code shall be amended as follows:

10-3-3: TAG AND COLLAR; REGISTRATION DATE AND RENEWAL; PENALTIES:

Upon the payment of a license fee the clerk shall issue to the owner a license certificate and a tag of a metallic, plastic or other similar substance for each dog or cat so licensed. The size and shape of the tag shall be as determined by the animal control supervisor<sup>1</sup>, and shall have stamped thereon the number corresponding with the number of the certificate. In case a tag is lost or destroyed, a duplicate will be issued by the clerk upon presentation of the receipt showing the payment of a license fee and the payment in an amount established by a resolution adopted by the Burley city council for each such duplicate. The dog or cat tags shall not be transferable from one dog or cat to another and no refund will be made on any license issued because of death of the dog or cat or the owner's leaving the city. The tag must be affixed to a collar on the dog's neck at all times. Display of cat tags shall be in the discretion of the owner. Licenses shall be purchased when ~~the a dog or cat~~ is two (2) months of age and shall be purchased annually prior to January 1. Licenses shall expire December 31 of each year. If a dog license is not purchased or renewed within thirty (30) days from the date required herein a penalty of twenty five dollars ($25.00) in addition to the license tax ~~would~~ shall be imposed by the city clerk at the time of registration. It is the duty of the owner or keeper of the dog ~~or cat~~ to prove the age of the dog ~~or cat~~ and in cases where the animal control supervisor or officers cannot determine by examination the age of the dog ~~or cat~~, or absent competent proof to the contrary, all animals shall be presumed to be over two (2) months of age.

Any owner of a dog ~~or cat~~ who fails to license his or her animal and/or display said license as set forth in Section 10-3-2 and this Section 10-3-3 shall, in addition to being required to purchase or renew a license and pay any applicable late penalty, be in violation of said City code and shall be notified by a citation or notice of violation personally served or posted at the residence of the offender. The notification will require the owner of the dog ~~or cat~~ to appear at the Burley city clerk's office on or before a date set forth on the notice. The owner may appear by mail or in person. At the time of appearance the owner may admit the violation and pay a fine of twenty five dollars ($25.00), to the City of Burley, as part of the administrative collection of animal control violation penalties, or may deny the violation. If the owner fails to appear, the owner of the dog ~~or cat~~ shall be sent a written notice requiring appearance within a period of ten (10) days. Thereafter, any owner failing to report or denying the violation, shall be charged with an infraction. If an infraction is charged, any owner violating said sections shall be guilty of an infraction and shall be punishable by a fine of fifty dollars ($50.00) excluding court costs and fees. All other violations of Title 10 Chapter 3 herein shall constitute a general misdemeanor as set forth in Burley City Code 10-3-9(I).

Section 2: That there is hereby added to Burley City Code a new provision to be titled 10-3-10:

10-3-10: KENNEL LISENCE; APPLICATION; KENNEL RESTRICTIONS; PENALTIES:

A. Kennel License; Application: It is unlawful to keep, maintain or possess upon the premises of any one household more than five (5) canines two (2) months of age or older in an incorporated area of the city unless the owner, or person in charge thereof, first obtains a kennel license. Such kennel license shall only be permitted and issued in accordance with the terms and provisions of the City Zoning Ordinance; provided, however, that notice of any public hearing required on any application for a kennel license shall be mailed to all abutting property owners within the boundary line of an area determined by the intersection of lines drawn six hundred feet (600') at right angles out from and parallel to all sides of the tract whereupon such kennel is to be erected or maintained. Where dedicated street rights of way are encountered, they shall be included in establishing the six hundred feet (600') boundary line around the tract.

B. License Fees: A kennel license shall be issued when the applicant pays the annual kennel license fee as established by the Board plus the annual tag fee for each canine two (2) months of age or older to be kept in the kennel, provided the requirements established in this Section have been fulfilled.

C. Location: No kennel shall be established within one hundred fifty feet (150') of any dwelling house other than that of the kennel owner; provided, however, that a kennel license may be issued to establish a kennel within one hundred fifty feet (150') of a dwelling house other than that of the kennel owner upon consent of all property owners within three hundred feet (300') of the kennel.

D. Condition; Noise: Said canine kennel shall be kept at all times in a clean and sanitary condition and the canines shall be reasonably restrained from annoying the neighborhood or the general public by loud, frequent, or habitual barking, yelping or howling.

E. Penalties: Any violation of the provisions of the requirements of Burley City Code 10-3-10 shall constitute a misdemeanor.

Section 3: This ordinance shall be effective upon approval and publication as required by law.

PASSED AND APPROVED This 21st day of December, 2010, by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Burley.

LEGAL NOTICE

Public Comments Sought on Weatherization Assistance Program Plan

The State of Idaho will accept public comment on its Program Year 11 funding plan for the U.S. Department of Energy's Low-Income Weatherization Assistance Program. The PY 11 State Plan is available for review at Community Action Partnership Association of Idaho, located at 5400 W. Franklin Rd., Suite G in Boise, Idaho. A public hearing on the plan will be held from 10:30 - 11:30 am on Monday, January 31, 2011 at Community Action Partnership Association of Idaho, located at 5400 W. Franklin Rd., Suite G in Boise, Idaho.

The Weatherization Assistance Program assists low-income families through the installation of weatherization measures in their homes. The measures include insulation, air sealing, and heating systems improvements that improve the energy efficiency of the homes. Program services help eligible families reduce their heating costs, promoting the health and safety of the family and conserving energy resources.

Summary of changes to the 2010 DOE State Plan:

- Average cost per unit is $6,572
- Description of identified Training and Technical Assistance Priorities for the grant period
- Amendment of agency allocations and production estimates

Public comments for written testimony on the State Plan will be accepted from January 20-January 30, 2011. Send or deliver comments to:

ORDINANCE NO. 1077
BILL NO. 561

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JEROME, IDAHO, REQUIRING A DELINQUENCY PENALTY OF TWENTY PERCENT (20%) TO BE PLACED UPON ALL DELINQUENT DOMESTIC WATER AND WASTEWATER COLLECTION AND TREATMENT ACCOUNTS; ESTABLISHING A $75.00 RECONNECT FEE FOR RESTORATION OF DOMESTIC WATER SERVICE; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY OF PORTIONS OF THIS ORDINANCE; DEFINING TERMS; REPEALING EXISTING CONTRADICTING PROVISIONS OF THE JEROME MUNICIPAL CODE; ESTABLISHING THAT FUTURE PENALTY AND FEE MODIFICATIONS MAY BE AMENDED OR REVISED BY RESOLUTION PASSED BY A MAJORITY OF THE FULL CITY COUNCIL; EXTENDING THE TIME PERIOD FOR RETENTION OF DEPOSITS FOR WATER OR WASTEWATER SERVICES; REVISING THE METHOD UPON WHICH SUCH DEPOSITS SHALL BE COMPUTED; AND PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, the City of Jerome operates domestic water and wastewater collection and treatment systems for the benefit of its residents and its service area; and

WHEREAS, the City of Jerome has historically experienced a substantial number of domestic water accounts which become delinquent, requiring such services to be terminated, which in turn has required an increasing amount of City resources to process and collect delinquencies and to provide the turn off for such water services; and

WHEREAS, it is deemed necessary to provide penalties and termination fees to generate revenues to defray the costs being incurred and further to discourage late payment, thereby promoting the general welfare of the City's residents by making the funds for the operations of the systems self-sustaining.

BE IT THEREFORE ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JEROME, IDAHO, AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: That the Jerome Municipal Code ("JMC"), is amended by the addition of a new Section 13.56.010 as follows:

"13.56.010: PENALTY OF 20% PLACED ON DELINQUENT ACCOUNTS: A delinquency penalty computed as twenty percent (20%) of any outstanding Jerome City domestic water or wastewater collection and treatment account balance which is delinquent as of the 15th of each month shall be placed upon any and all delinquent such accounts. For purposes of Title 13 of the Jerome Municipal Code, the terms "delinquent" or "delinquency" shall mean any amount billed for water or wastewater collection and treatment services that has not been paid within twenty-five days of the date of billing for such services. The date of billing shall be the first business day of each month.

Section 2: That the JMC is amended by the addition of a new Section 13.60.010 as follows:

"13.60.010: RECONNECTION FEE OF $75.00 SHALL BE PLACED ON UNPAID ACCOUNTS: A reconnection fee in the amount of $75.00 shall be required from the responsible party, as provided elsewhere in this Title, for reconnection of water services terminated, for non-payment of a domestic water or wastewater collection and treatment account."

Section 3: Section 13.28.530, Rule 52 of the JMC shall be amended to read as follows:

"13.28.530: RULE 52; BILLS; SERVICE RESTORATION CHARGES:

Where service is discontinued terminated for nonpayment of delinquent bills, the city, as a condition of restoring the service, shall charge the consumer responsible party as provided in schedule 9 on file in the office of the city clerk other provisions of this Title, a reconnection fee. No employee or officer of the city shall have the right to waive the charge provided for in this rule."

Section 4: Section 13.20.090 of the JMC is amended to read as follows:

"13.20.090: BILLING; WATER SERVICE DISCONNECTION UPON NONPAYMENT OF DELINQUENT CHARGES; RESTORATION RECONNECTION FEE:

The city clerk treasurer shall bill each sewer user at the same time each such user is billed for domestic water consumption and such charge shall be included on such water bill and shall show the amount due for sewer service for the preceding month. If any person neglects to pay his sewer charge within the time provided for payment of water bills as provided by Chapter 28 of this Title, limited for the payment of water bills, or shall fail or refuse to pay such sewer charge the city shall cause the water supply to such person by the city to be turned off from the premises of such delinquent being served, and before the water shall be again turned on all delinquent sewage charges must be paid in full, together with the sum of one dollar, in addition to the charges provided in schedule 9, a copy of which is on file in the office of the city clerk, for the expense of turning the water off and on, a new deposit as required by Section 13.28.410, and the reconnection fees and late penalties required by Chapter 28 of this Title."

Section 5: Section 13.20.025 of the JMC is hereby amended as follows:

It is established that a deposit charge shall be paid by all new users of the wastewater treatment system. A "new use", for purposes of this section, shall be deemed to be any person or entity being serviced by the Jerome wastewater treatment system for the first time. A deposit charge as fixed from time to time by resolution of the council shall be collected from each new user with a classification of two (2) or less, prior to service being provided. Users with a classification of three (3) or more will be charged a deposit equal to one and one-half (1½) times the estimated monthly bill. Upon a user ceasing to be serviced by the system, any balance remaining of the deposit shall be returned to the user upon proof of payment of all charges and fees through the date of final use; provided, however, that the deposit shall in any event be returned to the user upon timely payment in full of all user charges for six (6) twelve (12) consecutive months. (Ord. 937 §2, 2003; Ord. 875 §1, 1999; Ord. 722 §5, 1990; Ord. 668 §2, 1984; Ord. 643 §2, 1981; prior code §23-41)

Section 6: Section 13.28.410 of the JMC is hereby amended as follows:

The city shall require deposit from all consumers, except those referred to in section 13.28.400 of this chapter, rule 39, to secure the payment of all bills as they mature. Such required deposit for consumers shall be a sum as fixed from time to time by resolution of the council. Deposits for all other classes of service shall not exceed the amount of an estimated sixty (60) ninety (90) days' bill of the consumer. Upon a user ceasing to be serviced by the system, any balance remaining of the deposit shall be returned to the user upon proof of payment of all charges and fees through the date of final use. The deposit shall also be returned to the user upon timely payment in full of all user charges for a six (6) twelve (12) consecutive month period. In the event the water service to an account is shut off for reason of non-payment and the deposit has already been returned, a new deposit shall be required at the time services are restored. (Ord. 937 §1, 2003; Ord. 875 §1, 1999; prior code §27-6)

Section 7: Section 13.28.460 of the JMC is hereby repealed in its entirety.

Section 8: Severability. If a part of ordinance is invalid, all valid parts that are severable from the invalid part remain in effect. If a part of the ordinance is invalid in one or more of its applications, the part remains in effect in all valid applications that are severable from the invalid applications.

Section 9: Future Rate Modification. All rates and fees established under Section 13.20.025; Section 13.56.10 and 13.60.010 of the Jerome Municipal Code may be amended or revised in the future by a resolution passed by a majority of the full City Council.

Section 10: This ordinance shall be effective following passage and publication as required by law.

PASSED BY THE COUNCIL this 4th day of January, 2011.

SIGNED BY THE MAYOR this 5th day of January, 2011.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE Bobby Wolff

"We all have a few failures under our belt. It's what makes us ready for the successes."
—Randy K. Mitholland

When this deal came up in a local duplicate, several North-South pairs tried to cash in on four spades by East-West, doubled. This was hardly unreasonable, but with the heart suit lying beautifully for East-West, there was no defense to the game.

Of course, North-South could do much better than that. Say you reach five diamonds after West overcalled in spades and East made a pre-emptive raise to three spades, leaving you room to explore the hand more fully. Plan the play on the lead of the spade king.

Many declarers won and immediately tackled clubs while they still had entries to the dummy in trumps. A good idea, but it did not work today. East won an early club and knew that continuing spades was fruitless. His heart shift let West cash two winners in that suit, for down one.

Could South have done better? Yes, if he had ducked the opening lead! Now he can discard a club on the spade ace and establish the clubs without letting East get the lead to play a heart through. Best defense is a trump at trick two, but declarer has enough entries to the board in diamonds to bring home 11 tricks. He wins the diamond shift, plays off the black aces, ruffs a club high, goes to the diamond 10, and ruffs a club high again. Then he goes back to the diamond queen to run the clubs and discard three of his four heart losers.

ANSWER: If your partner cannot double four spades, you are unlikely to collect any sort of penalty. It looks sensible to compete in a minor now, and the best way to do that is to bid four no-trump. This cannot be Blackwood, given your previous pass. It suggests a real club suit and diamond support (an extension of the "unusual" principle) and gets partner to pick a minor.

EMPLOYMENT

200 Work Wanted

HIRE STUDENTS TO WORK FOR YOU! Our Workable, Honest, Diligent, Friendly Students are available to work for you after school & weekends. Magic Valley High School Contact David Brown Cell 293-2062 School 733-8823

DEAR ABBY: My wife went on a diet a year ago and lost a tremendous amount of weight. The problem now is she won't quit. Every time I suggest she stop and put a few pounds back on, she gets angry and won't speak to me.

My wife isn't anorexic, but I have a feeling she may be headed in that direction. She has no health concerns that either of us is aware of, and when I say anything she just says, "You wanted me thin, so now I'm thin!"

Please tell me what I should do before her dieting gets out of control and becomes a serious threat to her health.

- DISTRAUGHT HUSBAND OF A VERY THIN WIFE

DEAR DISTRAUGHT: Your wife may have worked so hard to lose the weight you urged her to lose that she hasn't figured out how to stabilize and maintain it. Because you are worried that she may have gone off the deep end, the two of you should make an appointment with her doctor to discuss what a healthy weight is for her — and possibly get a referral to a licensed nutritionist who can help her establish a healthy maintenance plan.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister, "Irma," has hurt us with her words and actions many times. When the drama is over, she will suddenly send an e-mail saying she "misses" my husband and me. I do not want to seem like an unforgiving person, but I'm tired of this repeated behavior. My husband and I feel we're better off not socializing with her and my bother-in-law, but if I respond to her e-mail, it just opens the door for yet another incident. How can we clear the air but not leave ourselves open for another attack?

- FORGIVEN BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

DEAR FORGIVEN: Your feelings are understandable, but this is your sister-in-law — so you can't dodge her forever. This doesn't mean you must see her often. When you do, take an emotional step backward and treat her with the same respect — and degree of closeness — that you would any other acquaintance. When she acts out, absent yourself.

The woman appears to have poor impulse control and a high degree of volatility. And that's a subject that your husband might approach (privately) with his brother-in-law and you should stay away from. Your brother-in-law might be more receptive to the message if he hears it from his wife's brother.

DEAR ABBY: I have been spending more time than usual in doctors' offices now that I care for my elderly father. Lately, a lot of these offices have added TVs to their waiting rooms.

The sets are invariably tuned to 24-hour news channels on which combative people yell at each other. I think this is a bad choice for sick people. Subjecting them to this kind of programming can only raise their blood pressure. If the televisions have to be there, they should show calmer programming, like shows about food and cooking, homes and gardens, science or history.

I have tried making this point to the various health care professionals, but they look at me like I'm from Mars. Am I overreacting?

- TIRED OF YELLING HEADS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR TIRED OF YELLING HEADS: Yes, you are. The next time you encounter this situation with your father, ask the receptionist to please change the channel and I'm sure you will be accommodated.

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1-9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

WARNING
 When purchasing a vehicle, make sure that the title is in the name of the seller. Under Idaho motor vehicle code a vehicle cannot be sold unless the title is in the name of the seller (exception: Idaho licensed dealer). The seller shall provide the new purchaser a signed bill of sale showing the following: Full description of the vehicle, vehicle identification number, amount paid and name(s) and address of the new purchaser. The bill of sale must be signed, dated and show actual mileage at the time of sale. If you have any questions, please contact your local assessor's office.
