

School vote results mixed

While three Magic Valley school districts passed levies Tuesday, one district still couldn't sway voters

DEFEATED

Cassia County

At stake: $41.5 million to build three new schools and update other facilities.
Voters rejected the facilities bond for the third time since 2008.

PASSED

Gooding

At stake: Two-year renewal of $325,000 of yearly maintenance and operations costs.
Gooding School District voters handily approved the levy, with 68 percent in favor.

PASSED

Jerome

At stake: One-year renewal of $650,000 of yearly maintenance and operations costs.
71 percent of Jerome School District voters agreed to continue this levy.

PASSED

Twin Falls

At stake: $7.5 million for two years of operations costs and restoration of student-teacher contact days.
About 55 percent of district voters approved patching holes in state funding.

Dick's Pharmacy to consolidate after 13-year relationship with hospital

The Medical Office Pharmacy is packing its bags, but won't follow St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center's northbound migration in May.
The pharmacy, a fixture in the Twin Falls hospital since 1998, will close its doors for good on April 16. Pharmacy part-owner Dan Fuchs said the new medical center doesn't have enough of-fice space for all the doctors who will move to the new location, let alone extra space to rent to an independent pharmacy.

"Doctors generate more in-come than renting out space," Fuchs said. "The county hospital asked us to come in in April 1998, and we'll be leaving exactly 13 years later."

St. Luke's new, $238 million facility on Pole Line Road is set to start accepting patients on May 21. The new medical center will have an internal pharmacy but no outlet to fill prescriptions after patients are discharged, said St. Luke's spokeswoman Laura Stewart.

Fuchs said he met Friday with Twin Falls County commissioners to ask if the pharmacy could remain in the old hospital building — which will revert back to county ownership after the St. Luke's move — while the county searches for other renters. Fuchs said the commissioners said the building's systems — including phone and costly heating — are all connected, so they couldn't

Ed reform bill OK'd, moves to governor

Vote on second piece expected today

By Ben Botkin
Times-News writer

BOISE — A bill that will likely change for years how Idaho's public school districts and their teachers negotiate contracts is one step away from becoming law.

With a 48-22 vote, the House on Tuesday passed the first of Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna's "Students Come First" bills, sending it to Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter's desk, where it still needs to be signed into action. The legislation allows school districts to fire teachers when enrollment drops and limits the scope of teacher-district negotiations to salaries and benefits.

It also eliminates the requirement that senior teachers be spared from the chopping block when districts lay off educators, and phases out tenure for new teachers in favor of two-year rolling contracts.

"This bill is about returning the balance of authority to school boards and the public," said Rep. Bob Nonini, R-Coeur d'Alene and chairman of the House Education Committee.

CSI to oppose legislation on campus firearms

At a glance

Legislation to prevent Idaho's college and universities from banning weapons on their campuses has been proposed by Rep. Erik Simpson, R-Idaho Falls.

Where it started: House Bill 222 was introduced last week in the House State Affairs Committee.

Where it stands: It awaits a committee hearing and vote, expected today.

What's next: If it passes through committee, the bill would move to the House floor.

College of Southern Idaho administrators want to put the safety on Idaho's latest gun bill.

CSI President Jerry Beck is taking aim at House legislation that would allow people to carry firearms anywhere on campus, except student housing. CSI currently bans weapons from its Twin Falls campus.

"We expect to oppose this," Beck said. "We have not had (gun-related) incidents on campus, and I would hate to change the policy we have."

Hubcaps and the essentials of Idaho chic

I was standing at the gas pump the other day when the guy in the next lane observed that I have two wheel covers on the left side of my Toyota and none on the right.

“Did you jump that sidewalk a little too fast?” he wondered.

The fellow went on to tell me that true Idahoans always wear hubcaps, but you and I know better.

The four essential elements of an Idaho pickup truck — missing tailgate, Bondo on at least part of the surface, mud flaps and two to four dogs in the back — don’t lend themselves to a pimped-out ride. Slapping wheel covers on such a classically disreputable rig, in my opinion, is painting lip-stick on a pig.

I know, I know: It wasn’t always so. When I was growing up in Pocatello in the ’60s, it was unthinkable not to have hubcaps. Hell’s bells, my friends and I stole them in random acts of mischief — and we were all too young to drive.

Wheel covers from a ’65 Mustang were highly prized, but the gold standard was the ’54 Oldsmobile hubcap, which looked a little like a flying saucer from the planet Chromium.

Nowadays, in far too many cases, wheel covers are plastic, which is one of the most fitting metaphors

DON’T ASK ME

Steve Crump

I can think of for the decline of society.

And aside from the fuzzy dice hanging from your rear-view mirror, hubcaps are, for practical purposes, the most useless parts of your vehicle. They’re like neckties and napkin rings.

My new friend at the gas pump advised me to remove the hubcaps from the left side of my car to give the rig sort of a scruffy, lug nut symmetry. I declined. The current two-on-the-left, none-on-the-right configuration allows me to park on the right side of the street when I want to impress someone and on the left side of the road when I don’t.

Still, I did a little survey driving to Boise the other day and observed that at least half the vehicles I encountered were missing at least one wheel cover. In fact, one runaway hubcap passed me on the freeway doing about 90 mph.

It must have been one helluva big rockchuck that driver encountered.

Squatter sentenced on drug charge

Times-News

A former Latham Motors employee found squatting at the defunct company’s Second Avenue dealership was sentenced Monday for felony possession of a controlled substance.

Ted Arthur Long, 52, of Twin Falls will serve a supervised probationary period of three years, avoiding a six-year prison sentence if he behaves. Judge Randy Stoker made his ruling Monday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court. Long must also pay nearly $2,000 in fees and restitution.

According to the court file, Twin Falls police had long watched the location in south Twin Falls as a possible hub of drug activity. Police report finding Long at the old dealership, along with personal belongings, plastic baggies with methamphetamine, a glass pipe and a marijuana bong. Building owner Robert Latham Sr. told police that Long did not have permission to use the building, which has been closed for more than a year.

Filer woman pleads guilty to lotto fraud

Debra Lou Nelson pleaded guilty to felony lottery fraud Monday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court.

Nelson, 53, of Filer, was accused of taking Idaho State Lottery tickets without paying from a Twin Falls convenience store where she worked as a clerk. She was charged in late January, and sentencing is set for May 2. According to the plea deal, the state recommends a suspended prison sentence of five years. Both the state and defense counsel will argue terms and length of probation at the sentencing.

keep just one spot open.

“We can’t afford to keep it running at full capacity, especially since we’re still debating what we’re going to do with the building,” said Commissioner George Urie. “It’s not that we didn’t want him there; it’s just a matter of timing.”

Although St. Luke’s will move patients in May, Urie said it will take a while longer to get everything out of the old building. St. Luke’s lease is good through July, after which the county will go in to sort out what’s left, Urie said.

Fuchs said the drugs and supplies from the Medical Office Pharmacy will be moved to parent company Dick’s Pharmacy, which is close to the old hospital on Shoup Avenue West. He plans to retain all employees and said he hopes not to lose many customers.

In addition to the hospital’s move, Fuchs will have to compete with two businesses that opened during the past couple of years within a few blocks of St. Luke’s new building: Walmart and Walgreens.

Nonini stressed that the bill would end the burdensome practice of long-term agreements.

“For too long school boards have been shackled to agreements made 10, 20, even 30 years ago,” he said, adding that it restores local control to school boards.

Luna lauded the bill’s passage through the Legislature as a “great step forward.”

“Not only will this bill save more than $9 million for our public schools, but it also implements major education reforms that we have talked about for years,” Luna said in a written statement.

But Idaho’s teachers union lamented the House decision and promptly planned rallies today across the state, including in Buhl, Cassia County, Kimberly and Twin Falls.

“Idahoans have spoken out for two months against these bills, but lawmakers refuse to listen,” Idaho Education Association President Sherri Wood said in a written

ABOUT THE BILLS

• Senate Bills 1108 and 1110, two parts of Tom Luna’s “Students Come First” plan, would add a merit-based pay system for teachers, eliminate teacher tenure, and revamp how teacher contracts and labor negotiations play out.

Where they stand: The House passed SB 1108 with a 48-22 vote Tuesday. It is expected to vote on SB 1110 today.

What’s next: SB 1108 moves to the governor’s desk, with SB 1110 to follow if passed by the House.

• Senate Bill 1113, the largest part of Luna’s reform proposal, would add more classroom technology but eliminate 770 teaching positions.

Where it stands: The bill has stalled in the Senate, pending revision.

What’s next: Legislators are preparing a new version, which would be introduced in the Senate State Affairs Committee.

ten statement. “I know teachers. I’ve been in this profession for 34 years, and I know that the voices of teachers will not be silenced.”

House Democrats were joined by nine Republican legislators in voting against the bill, including Rep. Leon Smith, Twin Falls, and Rep. Rich Wills, R-Glenns Ferry.

“As I went through the bill, it became more and more apparent to me that this is a very mean-spirited bill,” Smith said on the House floor. “It goes beyond bashing the union. It bashes teachers and that, to me, is not a good direction to go. It turns teachers into powerless pawns.”

Smith said he’s not a “fan of the IEA,” but wouldn’t want this bill to pass and harm teachers’ rights.

Rep. Donna Pence, D-Gooding, said the bill opens the door to allowing discrimination-based decisions to creep into school staff reductions. She also raised concerns about the bill’s elimination of the one-year safety net that keeps a district’s funding intact when its enrollment drops.

But supporters of the legislation said it’s needed. Rep. Maxine Bell, R-Jerome and a retired school librarian, said she’s known many good teachers.

“Good teachers do not need tenure,” Bell said in an interview, adding that the change will provide a “level playing field” between volunteer school board members and teachers during negotiations.

Rep. Sharon Block, R-Twin Falls and a retired teacher, said the change is needed, adding the vote isn’t one against teachers.

“We love teachers,” she said. “I was a teacher.”

A House vote is expected today on Luna’s next bill that would provide teachers merit-based pay incentives. The third piece of his reform package, which would add classroom technology but cut 770 teaching jobs, remains stalled in the Senate Education Committee.

Idaho’s four-year universities, vocational schools and community colleges if passed. Current law allows university and college administrators to ban firearms from campus.

A committee vote is expected today.

Beck said on Monday he was getting copies of the bill out to school trustees so they can work with local legislators to fight it. CSI allows only law-enforcement officers to carry weapons on campus. Anyone else with a weapon may check it with campus security and retrieve it upon leaving the campus.

Twin Falls Mayor Don Hall, who is CSI’s Law Enforcement Program instructor and a former police officer, said he supports the Second Amendment, but with limits.

“I spent 12 years as a police officer, spent hours in training regarding target acquisition, safe use and deadly force situations,” he said. “If I’m ever called upon to use those (skills), I’ve had the training. Generally, the general public does not.”

In addition, Hall said he didn’t understand the logic behind allowing firearms in

“Are (students) supposed to leave it out in the car to be stolen?” he asked.

Utah is the only state that allows people to carry concealed firearms at all public colleges.

Rep. Stephen Hartgen, R-Twin Falls, supports Simpson’s bill. He said it’s important to remember that most college students are legal adults who are old enough to own firearms based on existing laws, stressing the constitutional rights associated with guns.

“Most of them are adults over the age of 18,” he said, adding that young adults are capable of safely handling firearms.

Medicaid hearing draws emotional testimony

By Ben Botkin
Times-News writer

BOISE — Lawmakers charged with making crucial decisions about the state's Medicaid system heard testimony from scores of people on Tuesday, the vast majority against a proposed overhaul.

Testimony came from a variety of people who flowed into the halls of the Capitol: health care facility chiefs, parents tending to disabled children, and adults with intellectual challenges worried about losing their services. The 240-seat Senate auditorium was packed as both House and Senate health and welfare committees gathered for the joint meeting.

The bill under consideration includes 23 immediate cost-saving items that would trim an estimated

AT A GLANCE

Legislation to reform the state's Medicaid system, saving the state an estimated $39.1 million in the process, was introduced in Boise last week.

Where it started: House Bill 221 was introduced in the House Health and Welfare Committee on March 2.

Where it stands: Lawmakers on House and Senate health and welfare committees heard public testimony on the bill on Tuesday.

What's next: The bill still must pass a Thursday committee vote to move to the House floor.

$39.1 million in state dollars, many involving program changes and reining in services.

The bill's goal is to tighten

Medicaid programs to only what's needed, without entirely eliminating any programs. When factoring in lost federal matching dollars, it amounts to about a $120 million — or 8 percent — spending reduction for the coming fiscal year.

The bill also has long-term goals, such as replacing a current system that pays providers for services rendered with a “managed care program.”

TeRonda Robinson, a representative of Community Partnerships of Idaho, which has a Twin Falls office, said the program changes will lead to cuts for clients and layoffs at the company.

“We will be forced to cut programs and eliminate many jobs,” she said, adding that the loss of community services will force some to live in institutional settings.

She implored lawmakers to think of the bill's impact before voting.

“This bill does not make business sense at all,” she said. “Please defeat this bill.”

Many testifying were particularly concerned about a proposal that would require adults receiving services through the developmental disabilities waiver to be transferred to a program for the aged and disabled when they reach 45 years of age. Among them was Louise Pryor, owner of Advanced Services, which has clients in the Treasure Valley and Mountain Home.

“Many clients are going to lose services by this bill,” he said, adding that he's warned employees about the possibility. “I will have no choice but to look at closing the doors.”

Lawmakers also heard from Michael Wilson, owner of Inclusion Inc., which provides home and community-based services in locations throughout Idaho, including Twin Falls.

He said the change in the waiver program could lead to increased costs for the state as individuals move to a more restrictive and advanced level of care.

Gooding to discuss airport issues

By Emily Katseanes
Times-News correspondent

The Gooding City Council will hold a special meeting tonight dedicated to refining airport leases.

At a Feb. 24 meeting, George Parker asked the council to consider changing how it leases hangar space. Some buildings, like Parker's, have one name on the lease despite several different people renting hangar space. If one of the other people in his building skipped out on payment, he said, he could be responsible for more than his portion of an almost $2,000 bill.

“These hangars are being built without a lot of long thought into long-term management,” he said.

Parker seeks a change to where each of the nine other people in his building have their own lease.

It's easier for the city to issue one lease per building instead, but Mayor Duke Morton said today's meeting will hopefully produce new ideas from citizens that the council can consider.

The council also plans to review the lease of High Range Aviation. The company constructed a building for repairing aircraft on the site of a 1940s-era hangar that was demolished this summer during airport construction. The lease agreement with the city is being revised to better reflect that the agreement is for the new building and the accompanying electricity and gas hookups, said City Clerk Carmen Kersen.

And, the council plans to look at how landfill fees will be divvied out to airport users. Morton said he hopes anyone who keeps an airplane at the Gooding airport will attend the 6 p.m. meeting at the Gooding Municipal Building.

“This is all about how they pay for the space their airplanes are in,” he said.

In other news, the council is applying for an Idaho Community Development Block Grant with the hopes of improving the Gooding Industrial Park. If received, the money will go toward enlarging water lines, putting up street lights and extending a road. Morton said that past grants have helped Gooding become a business-friendly city.

“We're able to do those things, so the companies can come in,” he said. “It's been extremely important to a city like Gooding.”

T.F. rec center committee formed

By Nick Coltrain
Times-News writer

Seventeen community representatives and four staffers for the city of Twin Falls will decide the feasibility of bringing a recreation center or district to the city.

The new committee — composed of three city councilmen, three city parks and recreation commissioners, four at-large citizens and seven members of local organizations such the Salvation Army — will meet Tuesday at the City Council Chambers to begin work

THE GROUP

What: A 17-member committee will have its first meeting on the feasibility of building a Twin Falls recreation center or establishing a recreation district.

Where: Twin Falls City Council Chambers, 305 Third Ave. E.

When: 11:30 a.m. Tuesday

Councilman Trip Craig expects to last at least through the calendar year.

The committee will look at all options for a potential recreation center, from its location to if it should include a weight room and to long-term operational costs. Craig stressed nothing is set yet and no recreation center or district is even guaranteed to come out of the process. A recreation district would be a separate taxing entity that could use the money to support a recreation center.

“Is (a rec center or rec district) feasible or not? I have no idea,” Craig said at a city Parks and Recreation Commission meeting Tuesday. “This is just to research the possibility of a rec center or rec district.”

Parks and Recreation Commissioner Ryan Horsley said the committee, which he will sit on, will be a great way to inform those who will make a “huge decision.”

“There's too many ‘what ifs’ at this point, but at least we're finally taking the step to kind of address it and answer that,” he said.

Man sentenced for Gooding Co. charge

By Bradley Guire
Times-News writer

GOODING — A man awaiting arraignment in federal court for drug charges first had to face sentencing in Gooding County.

Juan F. Montejano Barraza, 40, received a prison term of six years with the possibility of parole in less than two for felony possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. Fifth District Judge John Butler pronounced sentence Tuesday, also ordering Barraza to pay a $2,500 fine and $401.05 in restitution. He credited Barraza for 182 days spent in Gooding County's custody.

“I don't believe probation or a (retained-jurisdiction program) is appropriate,” said Butler, who noted Bar-raza's federal indictments and a U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement hold.

Defense counsel Harry DeHaan argued that Barraza, found to possess 4 ounces of methamphetamine in September, merely delivered the drug for his contacts as a means to afford it for his own use. Butler said he believed Barraza was minimizing his involvement in drug trade.

Barraza was initially charged with felony trafficking, which carries a mandatory minimum prison term of three years, among other misdemeanor crimes. Possession with intent to deliver has no mandatory minimum. He pleaded guilty to that charge in January.

Meanwhile, Barraza is one of 10 individuals facing federal drug charges handed down by a grand jury in early February. Specifically, he was indicted for five counts of distributing methamphetamine, one count of conspiracy to distribute methamphetamine, one count of distributing marijuana and one count of unlawful possession of a firearm. The indictments claim his alleged crimes were committed during June, July and August 2010.

So far, the U.S. District Court in Boise has not set an arraignment date for Barraza.

Teen pregnancy out of control in S.C. Idaho

Sometime this week or next, the state House of Representatives will vote on a bill that would cut $39 million in adult Medicaid services — health care that goes to the oldest, poorest and sickest Idahoans.

But in the same fiscal year, Idaho taxpayers will spend about $39 million on unplanned pregnancies in related health care, child safety and public safety costs.

What's wrong with this picture? The eight counties of the Magic and Wood River valleys lead the state in teen pregnancies, and the numbers are off the charts.

In 2009, more than three of every 100 girls age 15-17 within the South Central Public Health District became pregnant.

And Jerome County is the epicenter for unplanned pregnancy. It had Idaho's highest pregnancy rate - nearly six per 100 girls 15-17.

"I have never seen numbers like this before, and I've been working in this program on and off for the past 13 years," SCPHD Health Education Specialist Adria Masoner told the Times-News.

It's beyond question that teen pregnancy is a four-alarm public health emergency in south-central Idaho. But it's also a moral crisis, both in terms of lives ruined and the resources it drains from public institutions at a time when their budgets are being cut.

Statistics show that the surest way to spend your lifetime in poverty is to have a baby at 15, 16 or 17, and it's a cost that not only adolescent parents pay. The children of unplanned teen pregnancies, as a group, do worse in school, are more likely to drop out of high school and become enmeshed in the criminal justice system. And their lifetime earnings are a fraction of what kids — from both two-parent and single-parent families — born when their parents were over 21 can expect to make.

For starters, teenage parents with an unplanned pregnancy are far less likely to stay together for long. That means the custodial parent — with little education and few job skills — is probably looking at 20 years of near-minimum wage jobs, with child care eating up a big percentage of his or her paycheck.

There's a large infrastructure in the schools and public health organizations offering services to adolescent parents — and education to those who haven't become one. But ultimately, south-central Idaho's teen pregnancy crisis is going to have to be solved by families.

"Parents don't do an adequate job," Burley Junior High School sex education teacher Janet Bingham said. "They think their kids are too young to know about sexual things."

For a number of Magic Valley teens, a heavy emphasis on family and traditional religious beliefs against contraception and abortion may play into both why they get pregnant and why they don't.

Meanwhile, the media in the form of television programs like MTV's Teen Mom and 16 and Pregnant glorify teen pregnancy.

"In most families it's a big concern, but parents just don't have the tools or the comfort level to talk to their kids about this," Masoner said. "It's not part of the everyday conversation in their homes."

That must change, and soon.

The human cost of bitter partisanship

One of the pleasures of an earthly transition is that you can write nice things about a person while they are still around to read them.

And so, I rise to praise my friend and favorite newspaper writer, Frank Rich Jr. as he leaves The New York Times for New York magazine.

What, you say? You are a conservative and he is among the most politically liberal people in journalism. Or, as someone asked me one night when they heard I was going to dinner with former Sen. George McGovern, "How can you eat with a man like that?" "Easy," I replied. "He's my friend." And so was Ted Kennedy, I am happy to say. After all, Jesus was "a friend to sinners" and if they were good enough for him, they are certainly good enough for me.

The point, though, is irrelevant, but it is indicative of our political discourse today. It is not a cliché to say, "Some of my best friends are liberal Democrats." I write a bi-weekly USA Today column with Bob Beckel whose liberal credentials are beyond reproach.

Why has our political discourse caused us to hate one another if we are of different parties or persuasions? Why must a member of another party or persuasion always be seen as being on "the other side"? The Taliban are on the other side. My fellow American is my fellow American, regardless of politics. There are many reasons for such divisions, none of them valid.

I first "met" Frank when he called me about a column he was working on. I was completely taken aback. After providing him with the information he requested, I do what I often do when meeting someone for the first time. I asked him where he was from.

"From Washington," he said. So am I.

It turned out we both

When you get to know someone, including their failures, insecurities, family dynamics and fears, you come to appreciate them on a level far above the political chatter. Politics come and go; friends are forever.

played clarinet as kids and both owned a KLH stereo, the stereo of choice for teenagers at the time. And we both loved the theater. He was an usher at Washington's National Theatre. I was a frequent patron. We never met, though he might have handed me a program as I walked to my seat.

We would subsequently meet, attend Broadway shows and have meals together, learning about each other and what brought us to our points of view. Our wives often joined us. Frank's wife is Alex Witchel who resembles in my mind the beautiful Chloe Sevigny of HBO's Big Love. Witchel writes for The New York Times Magazine and shares Frank's gift. As far as I know, Frank didn't "convert" to conservatism, or I to liberalism.

If you read his autobiography, Ghost Light, you will understand more of Frank Rich, the man. And that is another point, made recently by President Obama in his Super Bowl Sunday interview with Bill O'Reilly. Asked, "Why do so many people hate you?" the president responded, "They don't know me."

Whether one thinks he might still hate the president if he got to know him is not the point. So many people see other people as labels and define them as such. Republican-Democrat-liberal-conservative-independent-religious-secular. None of these tell you anything about a person.

What are we missing as Americans by dismissing people we may disagree with politically as unworthy of our friendship, or even citizenship in a country that has always been diverse in its opinions? In 1776, a considerable number of our ancestors wanted to remain British and denounced those who didn't as traitors.

Frank Rich's 14 years as chief drama critic for The New York Times and his 17 years as an op-ed opinion columnist may be unsurpassed for writing of this kind.

When you get to know someone, including their failures, insecurities, family dynamics and fears, you come to appreciate them on a level far above the political chatter. Politics come and go; friends are forever.

Tax incentives and subsidies mask federal benefits

Ask not what your country can do for you. Ask what your country has done for you lately.

With apologies to John F. Kennedy, that's what concerned citizens should be doing to get their heads around the debate in Washington about the appropriate size and role of government.

Despite how riveted we are by Washington blood sports, average citizens don't always understand what "government" means. That's not because they're dumb; it's because the nature of government — especially the programs it pays for that affect most Americans — has changed drastically.

Once upon a time, average Americans got most of their paycheck from government directly, in the form of Social Security, public assistance or the GI Bill. Since the 1970s, however, a growing share of federal social largess has been hidden in what Cornell University political scientist Suzanne Mettler provocatively labels "the submerged state" — a conglomeration of tax incentives and subsidies.

Three programs make up most of this "hidden welfare state," as another scholar calls it. The first is employer-based health insurance, which is subsidized by the ability of businesses to deduct some of the costs from their taxes. The second is the home mortgage interest deduction for individuals, and the third is the creation of tax-free retirement accounts, into which employers and employees can contribute. Yale political scientist Jacob Hacker calculates that such "tax-advantaged" programs make up almost a third of America's social welfare spending.

Yet a lot of citizens simply don't recognize these as government benefits. We don't get U.S. Treasury checks for mortgage interest deductions (the deduction just lowers our tax bill). Nor do we directly see the hand of the government in our health care; we deal with a private insurer, private doctors and our employers' benefits representatives, not a national health service. And our 401(k) plans just seem like savings accounts, not a government benefit. The way we've set it all up has, in Mettler's words, "shrouded the state's role, making it largely invisible to ordinary citizens."

In fact, according to a 2008 survey by the Cornell Survey Research Institute, 60 percent of respondents who received a home loan interest deduction told surveyors that they had never used a federal social program, not realizing that the tax break was the result of the government intentionally forgoing revenue to further the social goal of homeownership.

Likewise, respondents who benefited from tax-advantaged education savings accounts, such as 529 plans, were even more likely (64.3 percent) to say that they had not used a government program.

Not surprisingly, this lack of recognition that government is helping us pay for college or a new home affects people's view of how useful Washington is. In the 2008 survey, respondents who had benefited from direct, visible programs — such as those who received unemployment benefits — were significantly more likely than those who benefited from the "submerged state" to report that they paid their fair share of taxes.

The submerged-state problem plagued President Obama's 2009 stimulus. Mettler points out that 1 out of 3 stimulus dollars was "tucked into tax breaks (for individuals) rather than in more obvious forms of social welfare such as relief payments or (direct) job creation." It should be no surprise, then, that a CBS poll found that twice as many Americans thought Obama had raised their taxes as thought he had reduced them, or that, according to a CNN/Opinion Research Corp. poll, more than 50 percent of Americans thought the stimulus helped Wall Street and only a quarter thought it helped the middle class.

The costs of the hidden social programs are not just political. Last year's National Commission on Fiscal Responsibility and Reform found that providing for government programs through tax breaks prevents us from fully acknowledging exactly how the government is spending its money. It called for closing off many tax breaks to provide "accountability and transparency to the federal budget process."

Of course, tax codes tend to make peoples' eyes glaze over. We do battle over abortion rights or illegal immigration, rather than get a grip on the submerged state. Yet it affects more Americans' lives than those issues combined, and we barely have a clue.

Arizona’s quest to change college education

How I wish I could dwell in Arizona, where freedom is locked and loaded. I say this because Arizona lawmakers are seriously floating a bill that would allow college professors and students to bring guns to class.

The measure seems good to go. The gun lobby wants it, Republican legislative leaders want it, and Arizona is Arizona. If this passes, I will be so envious. When I’m not columnizing, I happen to be a college professor — but it appears I will forever teach unarmed, denied the right of rugged individualism.

A guy can dream, though. Creating a classroom atmosphere that blended civil discourse with hair-trigger vigilance would be exciting. Some Arizona skeptics insist guns have no place in academia, but I say there is no good reason why I shouldn’t be able to talk and discuss and consult my notes while also aiming a Glock at the door just in case the next person crossing the threshold might be packing heat with malice aforesought.

A gun would also allow me to better connect with the kids. It’s a drag being seen as an old fogey. Last week — true story — I crossed paths with a favorite student who was bopping along to music emanating from his ear buds. I asked what he was listening to. He shrugged dismissively: “Some techno group. You never heard of ‘em.”

Well, with guns in class, you can bet things would be different. I could say to this same kid, “Hey, check this out, you like my Glock?” And he would say, “Whoa. Dude. Sweet. But I think my Beretta has you beat.” And I would say, “The Beretta is nice, sure. But mine has short recoil and structural plastic.” And he would beam in admiration and say, “Prof, you are the man!” And of course we would immediately bond, if I wasn’t busy casing that classroom door.

Granted, there is always the chance that some innocent might turn the knob and gain unauthorized entry. Consider, for instance, your typical lost student who stumbles in and announces, while checking her e-mail, “OK, so, like, is this the Romance languages course?”

No problem. We in the class would quickly ascertain the nature of the threat, put this interloper in our gun sights, and unleash a cacophonous yell: “Drop the latte! Do we look ‘romantic’ to you?”

I believe this is what Russell Pearce, the Arizona Senate leader, was talking about the other day when he declared that professors and students should be “prepared to take action.” But he may not even realize that a gun would also enable a professor to patrol his room for the purposes of law and order.

Say, for instance, a professor discovers that one of the students with an open laptop is busy shopping for boots on Gwyneth Paltrow’s website, while texting across the room on her iPhone to a grieving guy who just found out that his girlfriend broke up with him, like, two minutes earlier on Facebook. A professorial gun at such a moment might prove to be a valuable enforcement tool (“you too have five seconds to log off!”), although there is always the chance that a student might video the incident and put it on YouTube.

Of course, all this deadly hardware might theoretically pose a problem. If gunplay erupted at my unsecured classroom door, and everyone started shooting, and the campus cops came running, how would the authorities sort the good guys from the bad? The police chief at the University of Arizona asked that question the other day.

I have a solution: On the first day of class, I would distribute, in addition to the syllabus, white baseball caps, and I would require that they be worn at all times. That way, in the wake of a crisis, the responding cops could quickly spot the good guys and refrain from shooting them — assuming that the bad guys show up with a darker cap color.

I do worry that some high-spirited student out in the hall might pop a balloon or a paper bag, and thus invite a hail of bullets through the wall. But I assume the Arizona gun lobby has anticipated such a scenario, and that the educators will explain, to the complaining parent, that, in the real America, this is the price one must pay for a more muscular exercise of academic freedom.

Fix agriculture subsidies, don’t finish them off

Agricultural subsidies have helped bring us high-fructose corn syrup, factory farming, fast food, a two-soda-a-day habit and its accompanying obesity, the near-demise of family farms, monoculture and a host of other ills.

Yet — like so many government programs — what subsidies need is not the ax, but reform that moves them forward. Imagine support designed to encourage a resurgence of small- and medium-size farms producing not corn syrup and animal-feed but food we can touch, see, buy and eat — like apples and carrots — while diminishing handouts to agribusiness and its political cronies.

Farm subsidies were created in an attempt to ameliorate the effects of the Great Depression, which makes it ironic that in an era when more Americans are suffering financially than at any time since, these subsidies are mostly going to those who need them least.

That wasn’t the plan, of course. In the 1930s, prices were fixed on a variety of commodities, and some farmers were paid to reduce their crop yields. The program was supported by a tax on processors of food — now there’s a precedent! — and was intended to be temporary. It worked, sort of: prices rose and more farmers survived. But land became concentrated in the hands of fewer farmers, and agribusiness was born, and along with it the sad joke that the government paid farmers for not growing crops.

The farm bill, up for renewal in 2012, includes an agricultural subsidy portion worth up to $30 billion, $5 billion of which is what you might call handouts, direct payments to farmers.

The subsidy-suckers don’t grow the fresh fruits and vegetables that should be dominating our diet. Indeed, if all Americans decided to actually eat the five servings a day of fruits and vegetables that are recommended, they would discover that American agriculture isn’t set up to meet that need. They grow what they’re paid to grow: corn, soy, wheat, cotton and rice.

The first two of these are the pillars for the typical American diet. Over the years, prices of fresh produce have risen, while those of meat, poultry, sweets, fats and oils, and especially soda, have fallen.

Eliminating the $5 billion in direct agricultural payments would level the playing field for farmers who grow non-subsidized crops, but just a bit — perhaps not even noticeably.

But let’s not kid ourselves. Although the rage for across-the-board spending cuts doesn’t extend to the public — according to a recent Pew poll, most people want no cuts or even increased spending in major areas — once the $5 billion is gone, it’s not coming back.

That the current system is a joke is barely arguable: wealthy growers are paid even in good years, and may receive drought aid when there’s no drought. It’s become so bizarre that some homeowners lucky enough to have bought land that once grew rice now have subsidized lawns. Fortunes have been paid to Fortune 500 companies and even gentlemen farmers like David Rockefeller.

Thus even House Speaker Boehner calls the bill a “slush fund”; the powerful Iowa Farm Bureau suggests that direct payments end; and Glenn Beck is on the bandwagon. Not surprisingly, many Tea Partiers happily accept subsidies.

make. But suppose we use this money to steer our agriculture — and our health — in the right direction. A Gallup poll indicates that most Americans oppose cutting aid to farmers; we still think of farmers as stewards of the land, and the closer that sentiment is to reality the better off we’ll be.

By making the program more sensible the money could benefit us all. For example, it could:

- Fund research and innovation in sustainable agriculture, so that in the long run we can get the system on track.

- Provide necessary incentives to attract the 100,000 new farmers Secretary of Agriculture Vilsack claims we need.

- Save more farmland from development.

- Provide support for farmers who grow currently unsubsidized fruits, vegetables and beans, while providing incentives for monoculture commodity farmers to convert some of their operations to these more desirable foods.

- Level the playing field so that medium-sized farms — big enough to supply local supermarkets but small enough to care what and how they grow — can become more competitive with agribusiness.

The point is that this money, which is already in the budget, could encourage the development of the kind of agriculture we need, one that prioritizes caring for the land, the people who work it and the people who need the real food that’s grown on it.

Mark Bittman is a columnist for The New York Times.

CSI students Kenney Alverson, Ode Rovig, Anna Levdanskiy and Kendle Stallings discuss which parts of the Federal budget to trim as part of a one-day workshop mimicking the policy decisions behind reducing the national deficit.

An exercise to ‘STABILIZE THE DEBT’

By Emily Katseanes
Times-News correspondent

On Saturday, people deciding the nation’s budget showed up in sweatshirts and jeans. One even rode in on a skateboard. But instead of gathering in Washington D.C. these decision makers convened at the College of Southern Idaho.

About 25 students, mostly business and economics majors at CSI, took part of Dennis Heiner and LeeAnn Hagan’s one-day workshop “Stabilize the Debt.”

They were tasked with the challenge facing lawmakers to reduce the federal government’s budget deficit from its current projection of 89 percent of the gross domestic product by 2020 to 60 percent of the GDP by 2018.

CSI student Gary Zeyer said he came to the class to see his economic studies in action.

“I’m in economics and this is a good way to understand how to help the economy,” he said. “Everyone always says don’t overspend, but how do you use your money wisely? You can’t always cut on everything.”

For Hagan, who teaches political science, and Heiner, business teacher, the workshop also helps the public conceptualize how difficult congress’ job is and sparks conversation about the national debt amongst regular citizens.

“We can wait until the crisis comes, like they did in Greece or Italy, or we can try and have a discussion about it,” Heiner said.

The class was divided into six groups, who then went through the 22-page booklet called “An Exercise in Hard Choices,” by the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget. The groups chose from different options and scenarios to decide where to cut, increase or maintain current funding.

Heiner and Hagan have been teaching the class since the ’90s and it often draws both to students and community members alike.

Hagan said over the years, the task facing would-be budgeters has shifted with the economy. For a few years when Bill Clinton was president, there was a surplus budget and the class didn’t take place at all. Previously, the class has been tasked with balancing the budget, but this year, with a rising deficit, the goal is just to reduce the debt.

Mounting debt, mounting cost

With the federal deficit topping $1 trillion in fiscal 2010 and forecast at a record $1.65 trillion in the current fiscal year, the cost of servicing the mounting debt continues to swell: Government interest payments were about $200 billion for fiscal 2010; even though annual deficits are projected to decline in the coming years, that figure is projected to soar to more than $840 billion by fiscal 2021 — even more than the estimated cost of Medicare that year

Construction partners turn to making pizza

By Sven Berg
Post Register

IDAHO FALLS — One day, the three partners were hanging sheetrock. The next, they were slinging pizzas all around eastern Idaho.

Unrealistic as it seems, that time frame isn’t an exaggeration. Even after Tim Wright and twin brothers Brian and Geoff Padigimus opened Lucy’s New York Style Pizzeria in Roberts, they continued to do drywall jobs on the side.

But the bottom line was that drywall just wasn’t paying the bills. That’s why Wright and the Padigimus brothers opened Lucy’s in the first place.

“We just thought that Roberts needed some kind of takeout delivery service in that

Protecting Honest Tea’s brand under Coke’s big bureaucracy

Gary Hirshberg likes to joke that he can “count on one finger” the number of entrepreneurial companies that manage to thrive after they have been sold to big corporations.

It’s no joke. The continued success of his yogurt company, Stoneyfield Farm, eight years after its sale to Groupe Danone is the rare exception to the rule that big corporations invariably screw up their entrepreneurial acquisitions, first by overpaying for the hot young companies, then by driving away their key employees and finally by sucking all the innovation and promise out of them by imposing their bureaucratic ways of doing business.

Steven Pearlstein

Seth Goldman, however, is confident he can buck the odds. The youthful founder and guiding hand behind Bethesda, Md.-based Honest Tea completed the sale of his organic drink company to Coca Cola last week after a three-year experiment in which the soda giant took on the role as distribution partner and minority investor.

Any reservations that Goldman might have had about consummating the relationship were more than offset by the considerable power of Coke’s production and distribution system, lowering costs for ingredients and bottles and helping to increase the number of outlets carrying its products from 15,000 to 75,000.

As a result, Honest Tea’s annual sales have tripled to $72 million, gross profit margins have more than doubled, and Goldman has become more convinced than ever that the best way to drive unhealthy drinks from the American diet is from inside Coke’s formidable vending machine.

In fact, Goldman is so convinced that he insisted on plowing most of his proceeds from the sale back into a minority stake, an unusual

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Idaho’s pro photographers coming to Twin Falls

Professional Photographers of Idaho will hold their annual convention in Twin Falls Saturday through March 16.

Photographers from all over Idaho will meet at The Red Lion for print competition, programs and awards banquet.

Professional photographers from Utah and Oregon will present a variety of programs planned for the event.

Jim Fort of Twin Falls is serving as convention chairman and is also president-elect for the Professional Photographers of Idaho for the coming year.

For more information, call Fort at Addison Photography: 733-4522.

Companies could get break on workers’ comp taxes

BOISE — Idaho companies could receive a $3.2 million break on taxes they pay on their workers’ compensation premiums over the next two years.

The State Industrial Commission has about $17 million in the fund it uses to administer the state’s workers’ compensation laws.

But an audit determined that the agency didn’t need to keep so much cash on hand.

So Rep. Dennis Lake of Blackfoot aims to reduce the taxes that companies pay on their workers’ compensation premiums in fiscal years 2012 and 2013.

Lake says he’d rather return the money to employers than use it to prop up Idaho’s general fund, which is beset by shortfalls.

Lawmakers on the Legislature’s Joint Finance Appropriations Committee is still eying the Industrial Commission money to help fill holes in Idaho’s 2012 spending plan

Micron wants to keep its property secret

BOISE — Micron Technology Inc. is asking lawmakers to shield tax records from the public that could provide insight into its research activities.

The Boise-based semiconductor maker’s lobbyist, Mike Reynoldson, told the House Revenue and Taxation Committee on Tuesday that it discloses detailed information about its machinery to tax authorities every year.

But it fears other companies could gain access to that data to glean proprietary information about the company — and its cutting-edge technology activities.

Reynoldson’s proposal, now due a full committee hearing, would exclude those details from public records requests.

Rep. Dell Raybould of Rexburg agreed Idaho needs to close this loophole to protect one of the state’s biggest employers from the prying eyes of competitors seeking advantage in the cutthroat race to produce faster, more powerful computer chips.

U.S. Department of Labor offers training grant for Micron’s laid off employees

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Labor has announced a $1,288,296 National Emergency Grant for continued provision for re-employment and retraining services to about 1,000 workers affected by layoffs at Micron Technology Inc. located in Boise.

“Layoffs are traumatic events, but the Department of Labor is committed to helping workers get back to work and back on their feet,” said Secretary of Labor Hilda L. Solis. “I am pleased that this supplemental funding will help those already benefitting from employment and training services to continue preparing for good jobs in growing industries.”

On Dec. 31, 2009, the department approved a grant for up to $2,398,800, with $1,110,504 immediately released and awarded to the Idaho Department of Labor, which will continue services for this group of workers.

area because there was none,” Wright said. “The whole community really appreciated what we had done, and it’s still a thriving business out there.”

And so, as Lucy’s business grew and drywall jobs stayed scarce, the three Lucy’s owners stopped hanging sheetrock altogether.

They weren’t the first workers to turn their backs on the construction industry as the nation’s housing market took a turn for the worse. They won’t be the last.

Eric Langley of Eastern Idaho Technical College said the number of construction workers seeking advice for a career transition spiked in spring 2010. Workers accustomed to being laid off in the winter months couldn’t find work even when the weather warmed up. In the year that’s passed since then, the numbers of displaced workers looking for new opportunities hasn’t decreased much, he said.

“What I’m hoping for is that a lot of these guys are going to be able to get re-trained,” Langley said. “And then they’re going to be able to take those skills down the road with them.”

Six months after the Roberts store opened in May 2009, the partners expanded. They opened their Idaho Falls store in November 2009.

arrangement that he insisted on as a condition for staying on to manage Coke’s newest brand.

That Coke agreed to the ownership stake is an indication that it appreciates how much Goldman is the Honest Tea brand.

“The business world is riddled with tales of entrepreneurial brands that lost their spark after they were acquired,” Goldman wrote earlier this month in a revealing post for Inc. magazine. “Once the founder loses ownership, his or her motivation to keep building, inspiring and sacrificing diminishes, and as a result, the rest of the team transforms into managers instead of entrepreneurs.”

Goldman’s immediate challenge is to convince Honest Tea’s loyal and crunchy customers that the sale to the sultans of sugar water will in no way change the company’s commitment to producing health drinks in an environmentally sensitive way through fair and honest dealings.

Honest Tea is hardly Coke’s first foray into the category, but most of the earlier acquisitions have not ended well. With Honest Tea, Coke means to demonstrate it has learned from past failures, its own as well as those of other large competitors (remember Gatorade’s Snapple debacle?).

For the moment, that new approach means giving Goldman the freedom to develop and operate Honest Tea brand as he thinks best, while providing whatever help it can in terms of production and distribution.

Honest Tea employees will remain in charge of sales and marketing to its all-important “natural foods” channel and will do the same for Coke’s other organic brands.

Yet Goldman is not naive about the bargain he has struck for himself. Unlike Hirshberg at Stoneyfield Farm, he was unable to negotiate absolute control of his operation, and he’s fully aware that his independence

Debt

“That’s a huge shift in how they’ve thought of it,” Hagan said. “There’s nothing close to a balanced budget.”

Zeyer ended up in a group that harmoniously made cuts, including guaranteeing themselves two congressional years without raises. But Ode Rovig’s group next door clashed over almost every decision, from trimming foreign aid to increasing medical support for former members of the armed forces.

Heiner said even when he was in Boise, watching actual representatives go through the same process as the CSI students, volatile groups eventually came together. “Once you start talking about it, then you find a common ground, universal themes that people hit on,” Heiner said.

By the end of the day, nearly every group voted to raise the qualifying age for social security and Medicare benefits. And, after running their data through a computer program, almost every group managed to reduce the deficit at least a little bit.

Zeyer’s group got close to the goal, with their group reducing down to 66 percent of the GDP by 2012, but only after a few tweaks. The group at first extended tax cuts to lower income households without giving the same break to higher income families.

“It actually hurt us in the end,” he said. “That changed my perspective.”

In Rovig’s group, a controversial tax on life insurance payments helped them get the deficit down to 30 percent by 2023, a move Rovig disliked on principle, but conceded to out of economic practicality.

“We combated each other. It ended up being a good lesson for us,” he said. “Going through the economics, it really opened your eyes to what the government goes through.”

Woman launches bid to recall Tom Luna

BOISE (AP) — A Boise woman irritated with a package of sweeping public education reforms now making its way through the statehouse is focusing her frustration on the proposal's chief architect: Idaho Superintendent of Public Schools Tom Luna.

Nancy Berto, a former secretary at the Mountain Home Air Force Base, said she has formed a committee to begin collecting enough signatures to recall Luna.

She acknowledges it will be a difficult task, considering Luna coasted to a second term last fall by beating Democratic challenger Stan Olson by more than 20 percentage points. And despite the fact that nobody elected to statewide office in Idaho has ever been recalled, Berto said her fledgling campaign will use social networking to promote the effort and tap into the uncertainty and public disdain for Luna's reform plan.

"I know," Berto told The Idaho Statesman. "Not in 121 years. That it's never been done before keeps us motivated, and they didn't have Facebook and e-mail back then."

Luna's plan is advancing through the Idaho Legislature. Bills that would phase out teacher tenure, limit collective bargaining and introduce merit pay have cleared the Senate and were to be debated in the House Tuesday. Another key component of the package — boosting classroom technology, mandating online courses and increasing classroom size — has stalled in the Senate.

Like many teachers, parents and even students, Berto, 66, has joined others to rally, protest and testify against the reforms. She said her determination is fueled in part because Luna never mentioned the reform proposals during his campaign for a second term as public schools chief last fall.

"Now they have amnesia and they do whatever they want," Berto said.

Luna Spokeswoman Melissa McGrath said the results from the November election make it clear Luna has the support to push for the changes deemed best for Idaho schools, teachers and students. Luna drew more than 60 percent of the vote and beat Olson by 21 percentage points.

Idaho law requires that any recall petition drive collect signatures from at least 20 percent of the total registered voters in the most recent election, or close to the 175,000 votes cast last fall for Olson.

Berto must also wait until next month to begin the drive for signatures. Idaho law states that recall proponents must wait for Luna to serve 90 days. They'll have 75 days to do their work.

AROUND THE WORLD

WASHINGTON, D.C.

U.S. 'heartland' near shift from Midwest

America's population center is edging away from the Midwest, pulled by Hispanic growth in the Southwest, according to census figures. The historic shift is changing the nation's politics and even the traditional notion of the country's heartland — long the symbol of mainstream American beliefs and culture.

The West is now home to the four fastest-growing states — Nevada, Arizona, Utah and Idaho — and has surpassed the Midwest in population, according to 2010 figures. California and Texas added to the southwestern population tilt, making up more than one-fourth of the nation's total gains since 2000.

When the Census Bureau announces a new mean center of population next month, geographers believe it will be placed in or around Texas County, Mo., southwest of the present location in Phelps County, Mo. That would put it on a path to leave the region by midcentury.

"The geography is clearly shifting, with the West beginning to emerge as America's new heartland," said Robert Lang, a sociology professor at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas who regularly crunches data to determine the nation's center. "It's a pace-setting region that is dominant in population growth but also as a swing point in American politics."

NPR exec caught blasting tea party on hidden video

A National Public Radio executive was captured on hidden camera calling the tea party movement racist and xenophobic and said NPR would be better off without federal funding, in an embarrassment likely to fuel the latest round of conservative attacks on public broadcasting.

The video was posted Tuesday by James O'Keefe, the same activist whose undercover videos have targeted other groups opposed by conservatives, like the community organizing group ACORN and Planned Parenthood.

It drew swift reaction from Republicans in Congress, who are renewing efforts to cut funding to public broadcasters. NPR and PBS have long been targets of conservatives who claim their programming has a left-wing bias. Similar efforts in the 1990s and 2005 were not successful, although public broadcasters take the threat seriously.

National Public Radio said in a statement that it was "appalled" by the comments from Ron Schiller, the president of NPR's fundraising arm and a senior vice president for development.

Schiller informed NPR that he was resigning from his position before the video was shot, NPR spokeswoman Dana Davis Rehm said Tuesday. He was expected to depart in May, but has now been placed on administrative leave.

YEMEN

Army hits university, injuring at least 98

SANAA — The Yemeni government escalated its efforts to stop mass protests calling for the president's ouster on Tuesday, with soldiers firing rubber bullets and tear gas at students camped at a university in the capital in a raid that left at least 98 people wounded, officials said.

The army stormed the Sanaa University campus hours after thousands of inmates rioted at the central prison in the capital, taking a dozen guards hostage and calling for President Ali Abdullah Saleh to step down. At least one prisoner was killed and 80 people were wounded as the guards fought to control the situation, police said.

Yemen has been rocked by weeks of protests against Saleh, inspired by recent uprisings in Egypt and Tunisia that drove out those nations' leaders. Saleh, a key U.S. ally in the campaign against al-Qaida, has been in power 32 years. In a sign that the protests are gaining traction, graffiti calling for Saleh to step down surfaced Tuesday in his birthplace, village of Sanhan, for the first time since the protests began.

Students at Sanaa University have been sleeping on campus since mid-February, shortly after the start of the protests calling for the country's president to step down.

LIBYA

Libya fractured by fighting, defections

TRIPOLI — A Libyan general has switched sides in one of two fiercely contested western cities that remain strongholds of the opposition to Moammar Gadhafi, state television said Tuesday.

Fierce fighting continued in the city of Zawiya, which has emerged as one of two key battlegrounds in the area around the capital, Tripoli. While Gadhafi controls the capital, his opponents have seized control of much of the east of the country and are working on formation of a competing government for the country.

In an "urgent" onscreen caption, Libya's state-controlled television station reported that Maj. Gen. Khalid Shahmah, whom it did not further identify, switched sides to join the rebels in Zawiya. It did not clarify his role in the Libyan military.

Droves of Libyan officials have defected from Gadhafi's regime. On Tuesday, Musa Kuni, Libya's former consul-general to the nearby North African country of Mali, appealed to Libyans of ethnic Tuareg descent like himself to join the opposition.

Opposition leaders accuse the Libyan government of recruiting mercenaries from sub-Saharan Africa to fight anti-Gadhafi forces. The rebel spokesman in Misurata, the other battleground city in western Libya, said his anti-Gadhafi fighters had captured several fighters from Mali and Chad.

College of Southern Idaho Science Club and Sustainability Council member Nic Carlson, 21, left, and Onsen Farms owner James Reed work on the catwalk next to a banana tree in the Buhl farm's greenhouse Saturday. Want to get in touch with your food? Reed is happy to put visitors to work.

IN LOCAL FOODS

By Ariel Hansen ♦ Times-News writer

Perhaps you're already a local foodie who regularly recommends fresh greens from Fairfield or goat milk from Buhl. Or perhaps you've just discovered how many of your neighbors are eating food grown in south-central Idaho.

What you may not know is that many of those producers will welcome you to come and see how that food is taken from raw resource to marketable product. Start with one of these five tours — or all of them, if you really love local food — and you'll come away set to charm the guests at your next dinner party with tales of how the ingredients got to their plates.

Learn the tales of trout, tilapia

Fish Breeders of Idaho, 18374 U.S. Highway 30, Hagerman

Tour details: Free. By appointment only; call owner Leo Ray at 837-6114 a few weeks in advance to arrange a tour. Minimum group is 10 people. Tours are available between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays only. Plan for 30-45 minutes.

What you'll see and do: Thanks to geothermal spring water, Fish Breeders produces catfish, tilapia, trout, sturgeon and sturgeon caviar. The processing plant and laboratory aren't open to the public due to inspection regulations, but you'll get to walk right up to the concrete raceways where the fish are raised — if you want, you can put a hand in the water. The fish will shy away, though, Ray said.

You'll learn how Ray and College of Southern Idaho collaborated to capture fish from local rivers, and what goes into raising them.

The process of harvesting eggs, for example: Once a year, female fish with traits that the producers want to pass on are captured and biopsied to determine whether the nuclei of their eggs are close enough to the cell walls. If it is, they are given the same hormone that pregnant women are given to induce labor, then a Caesarean section is performed to harvest about 100,000 eggs from each of three or four females. "We've been doing this for 20 years and we've had one fish die in the process," Ray said.

What to bring: Part of the tour is outdoors, so wear a hat if it's sunny, a warm jacket if it's cold. The tour travels over gravel, so flat shoes are advised.

What you might come away with: Ray produces 300 pounds of caviar a year (that is expected to rise to between 1,000 and 3,000 pounds next year) and 100,000 pounds of fillets and other cuts. These products are available for sale at the end of the tour.

— Ariel Hansen

WHEELCHAIR OR CANE?

On each farm, there are restrictions on where individuals with mobility concerns can go during tours; some are basically inaccessible to those with physical disabilities. Ask in advance to find out what you will or will not be able to see and do before arranging a tour.

Taste Magic Valley's bounty

Meet the cows, taste the cheese

Ballard Cheese, 1764 S. 2100 E., Gooding

Tour details: $2.50 per person. Call (934-4972) about three days in advance, to ensure the operators are available; they occasionally travel to promote their products. The tour lasts about one to 1 1/2 hours. Groups of fewer than 12 are preferred.

What you'll see and do: "We go with them and the first thing we look at is the cheese processing, then after we get done with that then we go out to the milking parlor, and talk about the type of cows, milk production, how the milking process works, and answer any questions they might have," owner Steve Ballard said. "Then we move out to the cows and look at them, talk about how they're fed, and what the characteristics of the cows are."

The most common question: What makes cheese yellow or orange? "It's because it has annatto, a plant vegetable dye," Ballard said, noting that Ballard Cheese doesn't use that dye. "All the cheese we market is white, just how it comes out with the milk."

With advance arrangements, and arrival at specific times of day, you can also help feed the cows, Ballard said.

What to bring: Wear closed-toe shoes, and be aware that if you bump into machinery or other structures you might get a little dirty.

What you might come away with: With advance arrangements, you can do a cheese tasting; otherwise, cheese is available for purchase.

A resident of Ballard Cheese's Gooding farm greets a visitor in 2008.

College of Southern Idaho Science Club member Melissa Johnson, 19, rakes at the Onsen Farms greenhouse while Gerardo Aguilar, 20, of the CSI Sustainability Council, works behind her Saturday afternoon.

Harvest your own salad

Onsen Farms, 4799 B River Road, Buhl

Tour details: Free. By appointment only; call James Reed at 720-0673 or 543-0987. Tours take a few hours and vary depending on visitors' interests.

EarthHeart Springs also hosts work experiences each Saturday, available to the public; for information, call Reed or visit sustainability.csi.edu.

What you'll see and do: It depends on what the farmers are doing that day. "Right now, we're harvesting quite a bit of arugula, basil, Swiss chard, kale, celery, parsley, culinary herbs, flowers for the tables (at Twin Falls' Local Dish restaurant), and we have a lot of stuff in seed pods ready to be planted soon; cucumbers and tomatoes are ready to go in," Reed said.

You'll learn about the soil amendments and pest control methods Onsen Farms uses, how the farm markets its products in the community, and how it uses geothermal and hydroelectric energy.

"There's almost no food being grown in greenhouses in Idaho, so it's kind of a unique baby," Reed said.

Even more unique? The 14-foot-tall banana tree.

Be ready to get your hands dirty helping to plant or harvest, Reed said; the farm will supply gloves, if needed.

What to bring: You might spend time in a greenhouse or outside in the fields, so dress in layers. Wear work clothes, including shoes that can get grubby, and bring a water bottle and hat. "If it's sunny, it's very bright in the greenhouse," Reed said.

What you might come away with: Visitors get to harvest their own salad from the greenhouse, and eat it on site. Other products may be available for sale, depending on the season.

Feds are mulling changing raw milk cheese rules

By Michele Kayal
For The Associated Press

In the pastures of north-eastern Vermont, Jasper Hill Farm's Ayrshire cows feast on grass and clover, producing a fresh, sweet milk that fuels some of the country's most beloved cheeses.

"Our approach is to distill the landscape," says Mateo Kehler, cheesemaker and co-founder of the creamery. "The cow goes out on fresh grass after every milking, harvests that grass and brings it to the farm. We take that and turn it into a cheese that really is reflective of the geography and climate that we live in. It is a taste of place."

Except that food safety officials say it also is a potential source of dangerous pathogens like E. coli and salmonella.

Kehler and other artisanal cheesemakers swear by "raw" milk — straight-from-the-udder and unpasteurized — saying it gives their products personality and depth of character by retaining the good bacteria that otherwise are killed during pasteurization. Selling raw milk is illegal in most states, but federal law allows cheese made from raw milk as long as it is aged for 60 days, a period intended to kill harmful bacteria.

But the Food and Drug Administration is re-examining its regulations, a move that has caused concern among cheese makers. They worry that the agency will lengthen the mandatory aging period or, possibly, ban raw milk cheeses altogether. FDA officials are meeting this week in Washington with members of the American Cheese Society to discuss the issues.

"We'd like to know more about any pending regulatory changes that may occur and how we can help prepare our cheesemakers," says Christine Hyatt, president of the 1,200-member group. "I would hope that we can work together to create some standards and safety protocols for cheesemakers that would not require additional regulatory changes."

An outright ban would remove some of the world's most famous cheeses from American shelves: Parmigiano-Reggiano, Gruyere and Roquefort all are made with raw milk. But even extending the aging period, cheesemakers and experts say, could leave a notable hole on your cheeseboard.

"Over the years we've developed a number of American treasures that have really become part of the larger food movement," says Rob Kaufelt, proprietor of

New York's Murray's Cheese shops.

Aging cheeses allows the acids and salts in it to kill harmful bacteria. Advocates of longer aging say more time could kill more bacteria. But opponents cite studies that suggest older cheese is not necessarily safer. At least one study found that E. coli can survive in cheese for more than a year.

At Meadow Creek Dairy in southwest Virginia, cheesemaker Helen Feete and her daughter Kat produce Grayson, a supple, pungent cheese reminiscent of Italian taleggio that has won prizes from the American Cheese Society five years running. Coaxing the cheese and its pliant rind to survive the 60-day mark was the greatest challenge in creating it, says Kat Feete, and having to push it even further would send them back to the drawing board.

"We're already very limited by the 60-day rule in what we can do," says Feete, noting that the new product probably would be stronger and very different from the prize-winning Grayson. "I would have to start the whole process of figuring out our cellars and our cheesemaking procedure almost from scratch."

Rogue River Blue, a woodsy, aromatic blue cheese from Oregon's Rogue Creamery that is wrapped in brandy-soaked vine leaves, has been hailed by Fairway Markets' master cheesemonger Steve Jenkins as "the most complex amalgam of flavors in the entire realm of gastronomy." The cheese is also becoming "the ambassador for the American cheese movement," says creamery president David Gremmels. Rogue River Blue, he says, was recently added to the roster of the famous Parisian cheese shop Laurent Dubois.

"That says a lot," Gremmels says, "an American artisan cheese in Paris."

Critics of extending the aging period say banning raw milk cheeses would throw the baby out with the bath water. Instead, many cheesemakers and their advocates say they would like to fortify the safety and testing procedures that many of them already practice.

In France, Kaufelt says, thousands of tiny producers — "kitchens, backroom operations" — function under the same rules of sanitation as the large producers. "If those small cheese makers can do it without customers worrying about what they're buying or eating, then certainly we should be able to do the same thing here," he says.

ADVENTURES IN LOCAL FOODS

Tour details: Free. Operators suggest calling (543-4272) a few days in advance for an appointment, but tours are also available Monday through Saturday during store hours; Sunday by appointment only. Groups of 15 or fewer are preferred. Tours of the plant take 10-15 minutes; longer if you also tour the farm.

Winter store hours: 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays; noon to 6 p.m. Sundays.

Around mid-April, depending on weather, Cloverleaf switches to summer store hours: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Get inside the milk plant

Cloverleaf Creamery, 205 Broadway Ave. S., Buhl

weekdays; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays.

What you'll see and do: On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the plant produces milk products, so you'll see milk being bottled. On Tuesday and Thursday it's butter and ice cream, while Saturdays are usually devoted to the creamery's new products, including yogurt and cottage cheese. Every day, tour groups will go through the plant and see all the equipment in operation.

"It's all very transparent, which is a lot of what the whole local food movement is about," owner Bill Stoltzfus said. "Most of the food you get in the store came from somewhere completely anonymous. This is really in touch with what goes on to produce the product."

During poor weather, the tour typically doesn't include the farm, because of ice or mud, but during summer tours you can meet the cows.

What to bring: You'll walk through a foot bath as you enter the plant, to clean the bottoms of your shoes, so choose a shoe you'd wear in the rain. During some processing operations, you might need to wear provided booties or hairnets.

What you might come away with: "We typically give out small samples of things if people want to try them," Stoltzfus said. And in the store, you can buy milk products, eggs, butter, fish, frozen items and scoops of fresh ice cream.

Watch the barrel-to-bottle transformation

Tour details: Free without tasting; tasting is $5 for a flight of three wines (21 and older only; ID required). Tour is by appointment only (543-6938); tasting room is also open for winter hours, 1-5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Operators prefer groups of fewer than 15. The tour takes 15-30 minutes, depending on what is happening that day and whether the tour group will participate.

What you'll see and do: For the next three weeks, the winery will be bottling wines, and tour groups can take part if they ask when making the appointment.

"We'd have them put the gloves on, and they could probably cork some of the bottles, or take them off the bottling line," owner Claudia

Snyder said. Tours can see wine drained out of the oak barrels, watch the barrels be washed, and see the wine put either into stainless steel tanks for bottling or back into the barrels for additional aging.

"Even if you're not into wine, it's informative," Snyder said. The tour will cover yield per acre, how many bottles the winery makes each year, what makes one grape better than another, and which varieties are best for this area. "All the grapes are 'born in the soil of Idaho'; that's our tagline."

As spring continues, tours might also include a walk in the vineyards and demonstrations of vine pruning.

What to bring: Aprons are available to borrow if you are concerned about a drop or two splashing onto your clothing; if you want to see the vineyards, wear work clothes and shoes. If you wish to taste the wines, don't forget a designated driver.

What you might come away with: In addition to the flights of wines available for tasting, bottles of the winery's varietals are available for sale.

A sloppy Joe with a taste of India. Sort of

By J.M. Hirsch
Associated Press writer

Think of keema as the sloppy Joe of India.

You pretty much brown ground meat — in this case turkey, but chicken, bison or lean beef would be fine, too — with a bit of oil, garlic and diced onion. Then you add spices (technically the "keema"), a bit of yogurt to make it creamy and some fresh herbs. That's it.

While you could continue the sloppy Joe analogy and spoon the mixture onto burger buns, you also could get some naan flatbread. Most grocers sell packages of naan in the bakery section.

KEEMA TURKEY WITH PEAS AND MINT

2 tablespoons canola oil
1 large yellow onion, diced
2 cloves garlic, minced

While the cooking technique of this dish will remind you of the venerable sloppy Joe, the taste will take you to India.

AP photo

1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger
1 pound lean ground turkey
1 tablespoon garam masala
1 teaspoon turmeric
2 tablespoons tomato paste
1/2 cup water
1 cup fresh (or thawed frozen) peas
1/4 cup plain Greek-style yogurt
Salt, to taste
2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
1/2 tablespoon chopped fresh mint
4 large naan or other flatbreads, warmed

In a large skillet over medium-high, heat the oil. Add the onion and garlic, then saute for 5 minutes. Add the ginger and cook for another minute.

Add the turkey and cook until the meat starts to brown, about 7 to 8 minutes. Add the garam masala and turmeric, then saute for another minute. Add the tomato paste and water and heat, stirring to mix, for another minute. Add the peas, then cover and cook for 3 minutes.

Uncover the pan, then stir in the yogurt. Season with salt, then stir in the cilantro and mint. Serve with naan.

Justin ‘Juddy’ Howard

March 14, 1991–March 6, 2011

Justin “Juddy” Howard, 19, of Twin Falls, left the earth peacefully Sunday, March 6, 2011.

Justin was born March 14, 1991, in Twin Falls. He was blessed with an older brother and sister, Kristopher and Kaylee Watts. At age 3, he was given the nickname “Juddy” and, to his family, that was his name. Growing up, Justin loved to draw, ride his skateboard, hang out with his friends and play his guitar. He had an incredible talent to draw and an imagination like no other. That imagination blessed him with some good storytelling and a knack for writing lyrics. He graduated from Magic Valley High School in 2009. Justin tried many different sports during his school years, but there was nothing more important to him than his love of music and his guitar. Several months ago, he joined a band that became his lifeline. Josh, Hale, Eric Odlin, Zamis Rockstahl, Torey Clark and Ryan Reeves are the brothers of “The Death of Herod,” and they are left with an unimaginable loss of a brother. His friends will remember him by his big heart, his smile and his way to make them laugh. His grandparents will remember him by his chubby cheeks they couldn’t stop “smooching.” His mom, brother and sister will share his lifetime of memories forever.

Justin is survived by his mother, Kim (Chris) Grata; his sister, Kaylee Watts; his brother, Kristopher Watts; his grandpa, Vaughn (Cel) Schmechel; his favorite aunt, Tammy Hall; uncle, Rob (Amber) Lewis; several cousins and hundreds of friends. He was preceded in death by his grandma, “Rosie” Schmechel, who is watching over him once again.

We will miss you, little brother. Rest in peace and be good, Son. We WILL see you again someday.

Please come celebrate Justin’s life with us at 2 p.m. Thursday, March 10, at the Kimberly Church of the Nazarene, 3550 E. 3750 N. in Kimberly. Services are under the direction of Serenity Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls.

Ronald Harry Huddleston

April 5, 1922–March 3, 2011

Ron and his twin sister were born to Silas and Velma Huddleston in Amsterdam, Idaho, on April 5, 1922.

Ron died Thursday, March 3, 2011, in Damascus, Ore.

In the 1940s, Ron spent time in Los Angeles, Calif., and Seattle, Wash., before settling in the Portland, Ore., area. He was retired from the insurance business. He enjoyed fishing, camping, golf, gardening and traveling in his RV, particularly to visit his sister whom remained in Idaho. He loved spending time with his family.

Ron is survived by his wife, Lois; daughter, Terry; granddaughter, Denise; great-grand-daughters, Amanda and Emma; and his beloved sister, Donna Lorain; as well as several nieces and nephews.

A service was held March 8 in Gladstone, Ore. Burial will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday, March 11, at the Hagerman Cemetery in Hagerman, Idaho.

We love you and will miss you very much.

Don Malone

March 3, 1935–March 6, 2011

HANSEN — Don Malone, 76 of Hansen, Idaho, passed away peacefully at his home Sunday, March 6, 2011, surrounded by family.

Don was born March 3, 1935, in Searcy, Ark., to Earnest and Ruby Malone. Don later moved to California, where he met and married Kay Clasey in 1955. The family relocated to Kimberly, Idaho, in 1959. They had four children, Rick, Dwayne, Steve and Ruby. Donald worked road construction for several years and later worked for Collins and Sons in Kimberly. Don loved spending time outdoors. Some of his favorite places were Trinity Lakes, Anderson Ranch and Salmon Dam. He was an avid fisherman and hunter. Don also enjoyed a good game of pool and spending time with his grandchildren. He will be missed.

Malone and Steve (Marylin) Malone, all of Fort Morgan, Colo.; daughter, Ruby Thomas of Kimberly; and two sisters, Francis Blackston of Keensburg, Col., and Bessie (J.C.) Ward of Fayetteville, Ark. Also surviving are his 12 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, Earnest and Ruby Malone; and brothers, Jay Malone and Conley Malone.

A private family service will be held for Don. In lieu of flowers, please make a donation in Don’s name to your favorite charity. Those wishing to share condolences may do so at www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com.

Dennis Wayne Everett

Nov. 26, 1945–March 4, 2011

MOUNTAIN HOME — Dennis Wayne Everett, 65, of Mountain Home and formerly of Shoshone, passed away (gone fishing) Friday, March 4, 2011.

A memorial service with military honors will be held at 1 p.m. Monday, March 14, at the Idaho State Veterans Cemetery in Boise. Cremation was under the direction of Rost Funeral Home McMurtrey Chapel in Mountain Home.

Dennis was born Nov. 26, 1945, in Gooding, the son of Dennie and Bernice (Braun) Everett. He went to school and graduated in 1964 from Shoshone High School. In December of 1969, Dennis joined the U.S. Marine Corps and served in the Vietnam War as a helicopter gunner and as an air traffic controller. Dennis worked for Union Pacific Railroad and then went to work at the Idaho State Correctional Institution. He retired after 20 years and moved back to Shoshone to care for his mother. Dennis also enjoyed fishing and hunting birds and small game, but fishing was his passion. If Dennis could have fished every day, he would have.

Dennis had a severe stroke in March of 2009 and moved to Mountain Home, where his son, Aaron and family, could care for him. He was a very wonderful and generous man who loved to laugh and had a wonderful sense of humor.

Dennis is survived by his son, Aaron and his wife, Tabitha Everett of Mountain Home; his daughters, Victoria Everett and Trish Fitzpatrick, both of Boise; his sisters, Robin and her husband, Eddie Arriz, and Kathy and her husband, Wayne O’Neal, all of Utah; brothers, Daniel and his wife, Donna Everett of Utah, and Ted and his wife, Noline Everett of Arizona; six grandchildren, Logan, Jayden, Owen, Shawn, Scott and Savana; and numerous nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents; and his brother, Bruce.

On Saturday, April 2, a service will be held at 11 a.m. at the Shoshone City Cemetery in remembrance of both Dennis and his mother, Bernice. All are welcome.

Last great-grandson of Ulysses S. Grant dies

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The last surviving great-grandson of Ulysses S. Grant has died in a southwest Missouri home brimming with artifacts from the nation’s 18th president and commander of the Union forces in the Civil War.

Ulysses S. Grant V spent part of his youth in the home of his grandfather, Jesse Grant, who was the late president’s youngest son. Jesse Grant’s wife, Elizabeth, is credited with helping to save the artifacts.

As an adult, Grant V became a custodian to the items — including his famous relative’s letters, his will, his China and even the flag said to have flown over the Appomattox Court House when Robert E. Lee surrendered. Some of the items have been sold in recent years.

“It was everywhere growing up,” said Grant V’s grandson, Ulysses S. Grant VI. “It was an everyday part of our life.”

Grant VI said his grandfather died Wednesday at age 90 at his home near the Springfield-area town of Battlefield, which received its name for its proximity to a Civil War clash. He had suffered a stroke previously.

Grant VI said Grant V was “proud of his heritage” and “the smartest man I ever met.” He said they had a special relationship because he was born on his grandfather’s 50th birthday.

Ruth Marie Wagner Simpson

June 27, 1927 - March 1, 2011

RUPERT — Ruth Marie Wagner Simpson passed away Tuesday, March 1, 2011, in her home with her family by her side.

She was born June 27, 1927, in Anaconda, Mont., to Evert and May McKlem Hanson. Her parents later divorced and her mother remarried William D. Wagner who adopted Ruth.

Ruth graduated from high school in Anaconda and then attended one year of college at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. Ruth's father accepted a teaching position in Rupert and they all moved here. Ruth went to work for the local telephone company and began attending church at the United Methodist Church in Rupert.

Ruth met her true love, Johnny Simpson, while on a blind date. Her mother took one look at them together and knew they were meant for each other. They dated for a year, then married Dec. 10, 1948. The early years were a busy time; they were building their businesses, Simpson's Autobody and Simpson's Mobile Home Court, and starting a family.

They were both involved in service organizations; John was in the Lions Club and Ruth, the Ladies Lions Club. They loved to play bridge with friends and go dancing. Ruth had a very active life; she joined Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, became a volunteer juvenile probation officer, began a business, "Ruth's Pampered Poodle Parlor"; joined Minico Soroptimist as a charter member and held several offices. Ruth had such a love for children and reading that she became the Story Lady at the DeMary Memorial Library; she later worked for the library and became a board member. Her sorority sisters still get together every month and are known as the "OSS" (Old Sorority Sisters).

Ruth attended and became a board member of Christian Women's Club, a national non-denominational organization devoted to spreading the word of God and his saving grace. When the national organization discontinued in the Mini-Cassia area, the board members formed the "Ladies Lifeline Fellowship." This organization is still providing fellowship at luncheons every month. Ruth had a very active spiritual life at the United Methodist Church; she served as church historian and was a member of the United Methodist Women. Her church was her salvation after the death of her husband, and she had many friends there.

Although Ruth was involved in many organizations, her family always came first. She loved being a Scout leader and baseball coach for her son and a Campfire Girl leader for her daughter. Her life became even busier with the birth of her grandchildren, then her great-grandchildren; she was so active in their lives.

Ruth was preceded in death by her parents, her husband of 48 years and her first child. She is survived by her son, John Arthur Simpson DDS and wife, Joye; her daughter, Alice Marie Mann and husband, Thomas; her grandchildren, Jason Mann, John and Erin Mann, Michael and Becky Mann, Michelle Mann and fiancé, Jason Rollins, Heidi and Matt Lyman, and Andrea and Justin Anderson; her great-grandchildren, Elizabeth, Ethan, Garrett, Holly, Kolby, Lynnzay, Austin, Courtney, Cali, Hunter, Jackson and Summer.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to the DeMary Memorial Library in Rupert. The entire family wants to thank Dr. Margo Saunders, Cameron McHan, Dr. Joe Peterson, Minidoka Memorial Hospital, Country Side Care and Rehabilitation, and Minidoka Home Health and Hospice for their excellent care.

A memorial service will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, March 11, at the United Methodist Church in Rupert, with Pastor Pamela Meese officiating. Urn placement will follow in the Rupert Cemetery. Services are under the direction of Morrison Funeral Home and Crematory in Rupert.

Gene L. Glenn

Aug. 17, 1922 - March 3, 2011

On March 3, 2011, heaven's gates opened wide to welcome Gene L. Glenn. He passed away at St. Luke's Hospital in Boise, Idaho, from complications related to congestive heart failure.

The 88-year-old husband, father, grandfather, uncle and friend was born Aug. 17, 1922, in Wellsville, Utah, to Harold and Jane Glenn. Gene graduated from Cache Valley High School in 1941 and moved to Twin Falls, Idaho, where he lived for the remainder of his life. He proudly served his country as a United States Marine in World War II. On Oct. 19, 1947, Gene married Ruth Bilbao and started his career at Twin Falls Tractor and Implement in 1948. He began as a mechanic but when he began selling farm equipment, he found his true "niche." He became familiar with many farmers and ranchers in the Magic Valley area and in Nevada.

He purchased the business in 1969 and he and Ruth became the sole owners. In 1979 with great pride, he built a new facility that the business has operated out of since. Gene had the ability to seize opportunity, so he expanded to Jerome, Idaho, with the opening of Northside Implement. The work relationships that started when Gene's selling career began continue on today through the next generation of those representing our agricultural communities.

Gene was a longtime member of Blue Lakes Country Club and a lifetime member of the Snake River Elks Lodge. He served on the dealer advisory board for New Holland farm equipment company. In his younger years, he enjoyed water skiing, hunting, fishing, gardening and piloting his own airplane. He was an avid golfer and loved to play cards. Gene and Ruth traveled throughout the United States, Europe and Mexico and, for the past 30 years, they spent the winter months at their home in Hawaii. Gene was a hard-working, self-made man who taught his family values that will be passed onto generations to come. Nothing was more important to him than caring for his family.

Gene was preceded in death by his parents and four brothers. Surviving Gene is his wife of 63 years, Ruth; his three daughters, Julie Ann (Bob) Wildman, Jeannine (Randy) Berriochoa and Carla Glenn, all of Twin Falls; four grandchildren, Wesly Gene Standley of Twin Falls, and Amaya, Katalina and Kristiana Berriochoa from Boise.

A celebration of life will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday, March 10, at St. Edward's Catholic Church, with Father Meidrad Schallberger officiating. Interment will be held following the service at the Sunset Memorial Park Cemetery in Twin Falls. All services are under the direction of Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home of Twin Falls.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to La Posada Inc. at 355 Fourth Ave. W., Twin Falls, ID 83301; the Ascension Priory, 541 E. 100 S., Jerome, ID 83338; or to a charity of choice.

Howard H. Wilcox

Sept. 30, 1927 - March 7, 2011

Howard H. Wilcox, 83, of Twin Falls, born Sept. 30, 1927, passed away peacefully at his home on Monday, March 7, 2011, with family at his side.

He was the son of Paul and Sarah Wilcox of Heyburn, Idaho. Howard graduated from Heyburn High School in 1945. He served proudly in the U.S. Navy on the USS Massachusetts. In 1947, he married the love of his life, Opal Rudolph, and in this marriage, they were blessed with three children, Michael, Connie and Kurtis. In his early years, Howard worked for the city of Burley and the Burley Flour Mill. In 1955, he moved to Rupert, where he worked for OK Tire Shop. In 1963, he moved to Twin Falls, where he opened and managed Big O Tire Shop. In 1970, he worked for Cenex in Curry, Idaho, until he was forced to retire for health reasons.

He loved to fish and hunt and spent countless hours fishing at one of his favorite fishing holes at Clark Canyon Reservoir in Montana, where he met many friends throughout the years and always enjoyed swapping fishing stories. He also traveled the United States extensively and Germany, England and other parts of Europe.

Howard is survived by his wife, Opal of Twin Falls; two children, Connie (Bob) Lancaster of Twin Falls and Kurtis (Gail) Wilcox of Columbia Falls, Mont.; eight grandchildren, Kim (John) Young, Mark (Aubrey) Stout, Shaun (Sara) Wilcox, Stephanie Wilcox, Wendy (Bill) Saxton, Chris Wilcox, Brandon Wilcox and Jaiman Wilcox; and eight great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents; one son, Michael H. Wilcox; three brothers; and two sisters.

As he requested, there will be no funeral service. Cremation was under the direction of the Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home in Twin Falls. The family would like to express their sincere gratitude to Hospice Visions for their wonderful care.

Those who wish to share condolences or memories may do so at www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com.

Lee Anne Winter Walker

Aug. 8, 1934 - March 6, 2011

Lee Anne Winter Walker passed away peacefully in her sleep Sunday, March 6, 2011, after a long illness.

She was born on Aug. 8, 1934, in Tremonton, Utah, the daughter of Leland Cowan Winter and Alice Melvina Williams Winter.

She is survived by her children, Melodi (Craig) Mathews, David (Peggy) Lynette (Cary) Welch and Kelly (Mark) Murdock; sisters, Gae Marie Duersch and Nada Joyce Peterson; 23 grandchildren; and 33 great-grandchildren, with four great-grandchildren on the way. Lee Anne was preceded in death by her husband, Reed Sanders Walker; and her sister, Vila Jeanne De La Mare.

The funeral service is scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday, March 11, at the LDS Chapel, 259 N. Mall Drive in St. George, Utah, with a viewing from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Internment will be at 10 a.m. Saturday, March 12, in the Pella Cemetery in Burley, Idaho.

Family and friends are invited to share memories and condolences online at www.heidemanfunerals.com.

Arrangements are under the direction of Heideman Mortuary, 1081 E. 700 S., St. George, UT 84790 (435-674-5000).

Brian Lee Ohlensehlen

Feb. 4, 1981 - March 7, 2011

Brian Lee Ohlensehlen was born a special Child of God on Feb. 4, 1981, in Twin Falls. He was carried to his Heavenly home Monday, March 7, 2011.

His parents are Bob and Darlena Ohlensehlen of Twin Falls. Brian had a brother, Jim, and a sister, Cindy. During his life, Brian especially touched the hearts of his nieces and nephew, who loved Brian dearly. In return, Brian taught them and many of us about care and compassion for those who have not been as well blessed as most of us are. Many people have touched Brian during his life, providing aid and comfort that he was not able to provide for himself.

Brian enjoyed music; one of his greatest pleasures was to sit and enjoy listening to music. He also enjoyed being out and about in the community. He took in the county fair every fall. Brian enjoyed sitting in the rocker and would rock for hours at a time.

When Brian was 2, he began attending school in Gooding at the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind. He attended there until he was 12. Then he attended Harrison Elementary and Robert Stuart Junior High. He has since attended the programs at the Center for Independent Living. He was baptized and a lifelong member of the Lutheran Church.

Like most children, Brian moved out of his home when he was nearly 20 and spent his adult life in the Clearwater, Hillcrest, Campus View and Bitterroot homes. There, Brian was blessed to have shared his home with many of God's other special children and to have been cared for by dozens of people. In their eyes, Brian was the same as the rest of us. They loved him and cared for him as if he was one of their own family.

With all of the medical issues that Brian faced during his life, there were many physicians who were instrumental in giving Brian extra years to be with his family. There are too many to list everyone but in the beginning, it was Dr. Paul V. Miles, Dr. Ronald Miller and Dr. Jack Trotter; in the later years, Dr. Richard Hammond, Dr. Steve Kohtz and his nurse, Jenn Klinsky.

Brian's family would especially like to thank Dr. Ron Miciak and the nursing staff at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center for the excellent care Brian received in his final days. We are truly blessed to have such an excellent and caring medical staff who are there to treat not only the patient but to help the family through a difficult time as well. Brian's family would like to thank all of those who have given Brian a kind word, a gentle hand and loving care.

Brian was preceded in death by his paternal grandfather, A.E. Ohlensehlen; and is survived by his parents, Bob and Darlena Ohlensehlen; his brother, Jim (Wendy) Ohlensehlen; his sister, Cindy (Herb) Gonzales; maternal grandparents, James and Helen Kendrick; paternal grandmother, Betty Ohlensehlen; nieces, Madison, Sydney and Sadie Ohlensehlen, Camryn Stuhlborg, and Olivia, Leah and Hope Gonzales. His is also survived by his extended family at Clearwater Care Center.

A service of remembrance will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, March 10, at the Peace Lutheran Church in Filer. Arrangements are under the direction of Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home of Twin Falls.

The family requests memorials in Brian's name be sent to the Peace Lutheran Church, 600 Stevens Place, Filer, ID 83328.

Those wishing to share condolences may do so at www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com.

Irene Palacios

March 27, 1974 - March 3, 2011

HEYBURN — Irene Palacios, 36, of Heyburn, passed away Thursday, March 3, 2011, in a fatal car accident.

Irene was born March 27, 1974, in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, to Amelia and Roberto Campos. She grew up there and moved to Idaho with her two older kids, Joel Aaron Islas and Amelia Nohemi Islas. She later was married to Marcelino Sanchez and conceived Ruth Sanchez and Omar Sanchez. She was a very active member of the Apostolic Assembly in the Faith of Christ Jesus in Burley, Idaho. She worked at McCain's for many years. She loved to spend time with family, shopping, decorating and baking. Her favorite color was blue.

She is survived by her loving kids and extended family.

Her viewing was held Tuesday, March 8. The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 9 at the Truth Tabernacle Church, 2459 Highland Ave., Burley. Burial will follow at Heyburn Cemetery across the road from the old Simplot building. A gathering for family and friends will take place after burial back at the church.

Patrick Richard Ready

June 26, 1969 - Feb. 28, 2011

BUHL — Patrick Richard Ready, born June 26, 1969; died Monday, Feb. 28, 2011, at his home in Buhl, Idaho.

Rather than try to write something about this truly one-of-a-kind son, brother, uncle, friend and co-worker, we thought it would be better to have him describe himself in his own words:

"Born in a one-room hospital in Cottonwood, Idaho, to a mother and a father who was at work waiting for a call (hey, that's how they did it in those days). The doctor declared me to be the pinnacle of human evolution and immediately retired. It's all been downhill from there. Not really. Three older brothers and two older sisters. I'm the youngest but strangely, not the baby of the family. Lived in Cottonwood for a few months, then moved to Kamiah, Idaho, for a while where my earliest memory of falling down a staircase made of splinters and exposed nails occurred.

"Moved to Lewiston, Idaho, where I had a great childhood and got a pretty darn good education. Four years in the U.S. Coast Guard as a quartermaster after high school. Loved every minute of it. There is no more exciting place to be than on the bridge of a small ship heading out to sea in really bad weather when all the other boats are heading in. Separated from the Coast Guard as a first class petty officer. Attended college next few years. Started at Lewis-Clark State but then transferred to the University of Idaho. Graduated with a B.S.

degree in biology and minored in botany and zoology. Took forestry, wildlife and range sciences courses while I was there, too.

"Five years working at an ornamental conifer nursery in north-central Idaho. Now six years as a fish health technician for Clear Springs Foods in Buhl, the world's largest producer of rainbow trout. I've had a pretty good run. Just 35 more years until retirement. Or death. I'd like to be killed by a bear because no matter how big a jackass you were, all they will remember is that you were killed by a bear. I take that back. I'd like to be killed by a bear after a long man vs. bear battle, not like that jackass they made the movie about."

Pat will be missed by his mother and father, Loretta and John Ready; his brothers, Joe Ready, Mark and his daughter, Alexandra; and his fiancée, Rene Bear and Jack and his wife Margaret and their daughters Veronica and Anna Ready and his sisters Lori and her husband Chuck Bierhaus, Lisa and husband Mark Brazington, Pat also leaves behind niece Gabrielle and her husband Aaron and daughter Lillian Decicio, and nephew Luke and his wife Sandy Brazington. And of course his loyal cat Jeff.

Rosary will be recited at 10:30 a.m., with a funeral Mass celebrated at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 12, at the All Saints at St. James Church, 1519 Ripon Ave. in Lewiston, Idaho. In lieu of flowers or gifts please send a memorial donation to the charity of your choice.

■ 48-HOUR DISTRIBUTION: These seldom seen full uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills are being moved from the private vaults of the World Reserve Monetary Exchange for immediate distribution to Twin Falls area residents. They are only being released banded together in Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios each loaded with its own full uncut sheet of never circulated $2 bills for just forty-eight dollars per bankers portfolio. That's a real steal because only the first 7,069 residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List are getting the Vault Stacks full of real money just by calling 1-877-316-7099 to beat the 48-hour deadline.

Twin Falls area zip codes turn up cash for residents

Valuable uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills are actually being released to the first 7,069 callers who find their zip code on the distribution list below and beat the 48-hour deadline to get Vault Stacks full of real money

By Keith Berrymore
UNIVERSAL MEDIA SYNDICATE

UMS – Twin Falls area residents who find their zip code on the Distribution List will feel like they just won the lottery. That's because for the next 48 hours, full uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills are being released by the World Reserve not to banks, not to dealers and not just to the rich and famous, but directly to Twin Falls area residents who beat the order deadline. The only thing residents need to do is look for their zip code on the Distribution List printed in today's publication. If their zip code appears on the list, they need to immediately call the Distribution Hotline before the 48-hour deadline to get the Vault Stack containing three protective bankers portfolios each loaded with its own full uncut sheet of never circulated $2 bills. But only the first 7,069 residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List can even get the Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios full of real money. "The Gov't shut down printing of $2 bills in September 2006 and likely won't print more next year, so the money is being released until our last remaining $2 bills are completely gone," said Jefferson Marshall, Executive Director of the private World Reserve. "That's why we've set up a Toll Free Distribution Hotline to make sure residents get them now," he said. "But everything in our vault may soon be gone. So residents who want to get the uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills had better hurry and call right now," Marshall said. So those who get in on this now will be the really smart ones. Just think what they could be worth someday. "Rare uncut sheets of real Gov't issued currency have sold at prestigious auction houses for thousands of dollars. Currency values always fluctuate, and there are never any guarantees. But at just forty-eight dollars the full uncut sheet and bankers portfolio is a real steal," Marshall said. "You would expect to only see uncut money sheets on display in the Oval Office or under guard at the Smithsonian," he said. "In fact, they are so seldom seen, banks don't even have them. That's why I've issued a directive to release a limited number of never circulated uncut sheets of valuable $2 bills from our private vault reserve to residents of the Twin Falls area. Residents whose zip code is not on the Distribution List can't have our Vault Stacks of these full uncut sheets of $2 bills," Marshall said. "These full uncut sheets of $2 bills will be highly sought after and are extremely popular to hand out as gifts for friends and family," he said. Most people have never even seen a single $2 bill featuring President Thomas Jefferson on the front and the signing of the Declaration of Independence on the back let alone one of these full uncut sheets of never circulated bills. "We're bracing for all the calls. With just hours left, we're doing our best to make sure Twin Falls area residents get through. But, it is important that residents find their zip code on the Distribution List and call the Toll Free Hotline right away to beat the deadline. Because when our release is over, it's over," he said. "We're allowing residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List to claim as many as 10 Vault Stacks. But, since you can't get these Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios full of uncut sheets of money at banks, credit unions or even the Federal Reserve the limits will be strictly enforced," Marshall said. "So, residents who want these full uncut sheets of real money need to call right now. If lines are busy keep trying, we promise to answer all calls," he said. ■ On the worldwide web: www.Uncut2Dollar.com

■ FULL UNCUT SHEETS: Above is one of the valuable full uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills that are actually being released to Twin Falls area residents. These crisp seldom seen uncut sheets of real money are being released on a first come, first served basis. That's why Twin Falls area residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List need to call 1-877-316-7099 right away with Dept. Code ZC945 to get the Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios full of real money since they're only being released by the World Reserve for the next 48 hours.

■ VALUABLE: Pictured to the left are the Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios, each loaded with a valuable uncut sheet of never circulated $2 bills. It's impossible to predict how much the bills will be worth in the future. But, since the Gov't shut down printing in 2006 on all $2 bills you better believe at just forty-eight dollars and shipping the bankers portfolio is a real steal.

How to get the money

The Toll Free Distribution Hotline opens at 8:30am today for Twin Falls area residents only. The World Reserve has authorized the release of full uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills to residents who beat the 48-hour deadline. If lines are busy, keep trying all calls will be answered. If you miss the deadline you'll be turned away from this offer and forced to wait for future announcements in this publication or others, if any. The only thing readers need to do is find their zip code on the Distribution List below and be one of the first 7,069 residents who call and beat the order deadline to get the Vault Stack containing three protective bankers portfolios, each loaded with its own full uncut sheet of never circulated $2 bills for just $48 per portfolio and shipping. There is a strict limit of 10 Vault Stacks per household. To get yours call the Toll Free Hotline number below or visit us online at www.Uncut2Dollar.com

Play time: South boys win all-star game

By Stephen Meyers
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — The code word was “cherry.” Kale Weekes from Castleford was to clear the lane and let Nolan Stouder of Wendell dunk.

Stouder gave the crowd what it was looking for as he slammed the ball home with the two-handed power dunk with four minutes remaining in the 2A/1A District IV all-star game.

“We decided at halftime that we would have a code word to clear out the lane and let other players dunk,” Weekes said. “We thought we would just play around at the end of the game.”

Said Shane Bingham of Carey: “We were excited. We don’t have anyone of the team who can dunk, so it was cool to actually see one in person.”

The fans saw dunk attempts, long-range 3s, smooth dribbling and fancy passes in the South's 73-64 victory over the North squad Tuesday night.

Brawn Baker of Declo led the South with 14 points, teammate Davis Jones added 12 and Castleford's Tyler Hansen chipped in 11.

There may not have been much cohesion (or defense) but each team pushed the ball throughout, looking for the easy bucket on the fast-break.

“It was fun to be able to take any shot and kind of showboat a little bit and have fun,” Jones said.

Jones spearheaded the fast-break attack with no-look passes and crossovers for the South, which built a 10-point lead at halftime and never let up the rest of the game — at least until the final four minutes, when the game turned into a slam-dunk contest.

After Stouder's slam, Weekes attempted three times to throw one down but failed, as did Glenns

“I was getting them down in warm-ups,” Weekes said. “Too bad I couldn't get one down, but it was still a lot of fun.”

Utah State wants to keep it going

BSU, Idaho aim for tourney titles

By John Marshall
Associated Press writer

LAS VEGAS — Utah State steamrolled the rest of the Western Athletic Conference with one of the best seasons in school history, winning the regular-season title by five games.

Now that it's conference tournament time, another Aggies romp is coming up, right?

Possibly. It's just that Utah State isn't looking at it that way.

With an NCAA berth not quite a sure thing and so many close games during the season, the 23rd-ranked Aggies aren't going to take any gambles on their trip to The Strip.

“It's a one-week event where you have a chance to get the automatic berth and that's the way we always approach it,” Utah State coach Stew Morrill said.

Led by WAC player of the year Tai Wesley and a talented group of seniors, Utah State (28-3, 15-1) set a school record for wins on the way to its fourth straight WAC regular-season title. The Aggies won 26 of their final 27 games, became the seventh team in the 49-year history of the conference to lose one league game or less and were ranked for seven straight weeks, their longest run since the 1970-71 team was in the polls for 11 straight weeks.

WAC TOURNEY

Today through Saturday
Orleans Arena, Las Vegas
Vandals: Idaho, the No. 4 seed, opens tourney play on ESPN2 at 1 p.m. (MST) Thursday against Wednesday's Hawaii-San Jose State winner.
Broncos: Boise State, the No. 2 seed, has a double bye and plays on ESPN2 in Friday's 10 p.m. (MST) semifinal.

Utah State even has a signature win, beating Saint Mary's by 10 on the road Feb. 19.

Still, there's an uneasy feeling when teams from smaller conferences have to wait for an at-large bid from the NCAA tournament selection committee. Better to win the conference tournament and leave no doubt by getting the automatic bid.

So, even after a regular season that earned it a double bye into Friday's semifinals, Utah State isn't taking anything for granted. The tournament, which opens today at Orleans Arena with Hawaii facing San Jose State and Nevada against Fresno State, features numerous potential pitfalls for the Aggies — and they know it.

“We had a lot of close games in conference play and whoever we play will definitely concern us,” Morrill said. “A lot of teams in our league are definitely capable of playing with us.”

Barkley to get academic as NCAA hoops analyst

By Rachel Cohen
Associated Press writer

NEW YORK — Charles Barkley's analysis after a first-round blowout in the NCAA tournament: “Duke graduates their players, but that team they did has not graduated a player in like seven years.”

Never one for understatement, Barkley was in fact exaggerating Tuesday when he imagined that scene. But not by much. The brash Hall of Famer plans to lobby for better graduation rates in his new job as a college basketball commentator.

CBS and Turner Sports' new 14-year, $10.8 billion deal to televise the NCAA tournament adds announcers from the NBA broadcasts on TNT to March Madness. And Barkley is mad about how few Division I players, especially African-American men, earn degrees.

“They got $10.8 billion. That's a lot of freakin' money,” Barkley told The Associated Press. “The players aren't getting any of it, so clearly somebody is making money. I'm not opposed to people making money, but we do have an obligation, to, like, ‘OK, you know what? We're making a (ton) of money. Let's at least make sure these kids get educated.’”

JIM RICHARDS/For the Times-News

The College of Southern Idaho men's basketball team celebrates its District I Championship win over Cochise (Ariz.) College Tuesday night in Scottsdale, Ariz. The win earns CSI a trip to next week's NJCAA Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan.

CSI men whip Cochise, earn NJCAA tourney berth

By Jim Richards
Times-News correspondent

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Second-ranked College of Southern Idaho had never seen a press like the one unranked Cochise College applied Tuesday night. But it's pretty clear that Cochise had not seen anything like CSI in quite some time.

Thanks to secure guard play and a significant rebounding advantage, CSI (29-4) advanced to the NJCAA Tournament with a convincing 94-75 victory in the District I Championship game at Scottsdale Community College.

“It's nationals and it feels great,” CSI guard Darius Smith said. “It took us a little while to get used to the air and then we just had to get into the flow of the game.”

Smith didn't score, but dished off a game-high 10 assists to go with nine rebounds and four steals. Gerson Santo and Kenny Buckner earned top scoring honors with 21 apiece, while Buckner pulled down a game-best 12 rebounds. Pierre Jackson scored 20 for CSI, which outrebounded Cochise 46-29 and stayed even with Cochise in turnovers at 21 apiece.

“We haven't seen a team like this,” said CSI coach Steve Gosar. “We haven't seen a team press us like this all year, but I thought we handled it pretty well.”

Cochise (22-11) stayed even at 11-11 just over four minutes into the game, but a 25-8 CSI run opened the lead to 36-19 with 8:47 remaining in the first half.

Jackson had 14 points first-half points on 6-for-7 shooting, including a pair from 3-point range in the opening half and CSI hit 5 of 7 beyond the arc and 20 of 34 from the field overall (59 percent) in the first half to open a 52-36 halftime lead.

CSI limited Cochise to 13 of 28 shooting (46 percent) in the first half.

Cochise made a run early in the second half, pulling within 68-59 with 11:43 remaining in the game, but would get no closer.

From there, Espirito Santo hit three field goals and added three free throws and Jackson drilled a pair of 3-pointers to open the lead to 83-65 with 7:29 to play.

The neutral court game was played in front of a sparse crowd and hardly carried the aura of a key playoff game.

“We were really shooting the ball well,” Gosar said. “We play two point guards and we have two pretty good ones. When we have guards like that is sure makes it easier.”

Unranked Cochise finished fifth in the Arizona Community College Athletic Conference and was the third seed at regionals, but upset second-place and top-seeded Arizona Western in the Region I title game last Saturday.

Next up for CSI is a March 16 date with Redlands (Okla.) Community College in the first round at nationals.

“It means everything,” Smith said of earning a trip to Kansas. “It's just a wonderful feeling.”

Jackson earns bragging rights on 'big brother'

It's always hard to impress a big brother. Pierre Jackson may finally have some ammunition.

The College of Southern Idaho sophomore scored 20 points as the Golden Eagles punched their ticket to the NJCAA Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., with a 94-75 in over Cochise (Ariz.) College Tuesday night in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Growing up in Las Vegas, Jackson said former CSI star Juan Pattillo was “like a big brother” to him. When the Eagles jumped to No. 2 in the NJCAA rankings on March 1, Jackson phoned Pattillo with the news.

Pattillo wasn't impressed, reportedly telling Jackson, “You can't talk until your No. 1.”

Pattillo was No. 1. As a sophomore, the 6-foot-6 forward averaged a team-high 17.4 points, leading CSI to a 30-2 record and three weeks atop the national poll.

But Pattillo's team didn't make it to Hutch, falling to Salt Lake Community College in the Region 18 title game.

“He didn't get past this one,” said Jackson, whose team-leading 17.8 scoring average and high-flying game are both reminiscent of Pattillo, despite a seven-inch differential in height.

Jackson has one up on “big brother” now and planned to inform Pattillo of that fact.

“We're not No. 1, but we made it farther than ya'll did,” Jackson said of his planned message to Pattillo.

CSI cowgirls still atop national standings

By Diane Philbin
Times-News writer

After starting off the spring rodeo season this past weekend in Ogden, Utah, with a third-place showing at the Rocky Mountain Regional Rodeo and finishing second at the Weber State University Rodeo, the College of Southern Idaho women's team was able to hold on to the top spot in the Rocky Mountain Region as well as in the national standings.

Chuck Povey is in first place in the women's regional all-around and national standings, while teammate Traci Bailey sits third in the region and fourth in the national standings. Samantha Logan leads the region in barrel racing.

"The competition this year in the region is stronger," said CSI coach Steve Birnie. "Kendra Hoffman from Southern Utah University will be pushing Chuck for the all-around title and Traci could jump in there too."

The CSI men's team is in second place trailing only Utah Valley University in the regional and national standings.

Oren Larsen of CSI leads the men's all-around regional standings and Zach Hutchison is the top bareback rider.

The CSI men had a second-place finish in the Rocky Mountain Regional Rodeo, with Larson earning a second-place finish in bareback and bull riding. For the women, Bailey won breakaway and a third in barrels. Both Larson and Bailey claimed all-around titles. Monty Johnson was a winner in the saddle bronc.

"Our rough stock guys are keeping us in it. They are the men's team bread and butter," said Birnie.

At the Weber State rodeo, the men's team secured first place. Larsen won his second all-around title after placing first in bareback, second in bull riding and fourth in saddle bronc. Povey took second in goats, third in breakaway and finished second behind Hoffman in the all-around. Dustan Birrer took the win in saddle bronc.

"Both teams missed some opportunities at the Weber State rodeo," said Birnie. "Dustan rode well. Overall, the girls had a decent weekend but Thursday was tough."

CSI will host rodeo action

March 17-19 at the Eldon Evans Expo Center in the Shawn Davis Arena. There will be a Rocky Mountain Regional Rodeo March 17 at 7 p.m. General admission tickets will be $5. The 35th annual CSI Intercollegiate Rodeo will be March 18-19 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults (purchased in advance) or $9 at the door. Tickets for children ages 4-12 years old will be $5.

South girls run past North

By Stephen Meyers
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — Well, this was kind of awkward.

Just three weeks removed from playing each other in the Class 1A Division II state title game, Dietrich's Shayla Porter and Richfield's Mirian Rivas played on the same team Tuesday night in the girls 2A/1A District IV all-star game.

"That was weird," Rivas said with a laugh. "We still have some hurt feelings from losing the state championship game, but she's a good athlete and it was fun playing with her," Rivas said.

Both were on the losing end this game as the South team ran past the North, 43-36.

Kassie Ottley of Raft River led the South with 11 points, Nadine Giardina of Hansen added nine and Sabrina Wybenga pitched in with seven.

Not that the score mattered all that much.

By the fourth quarter, each team was shooting 3-pointers a good three feet behind the line and Declo's Melissa Carson and Oakley's Kori Poulton attempted underhand, "granny shots."

"It was fun to just throw up random shots and not get in trouble for it," said Mollee Shrum of Glenns Ferry, who scored nine points for the North.

Rivas also scored nine, while Porter and Danielle Baker of Gooding each scored six.

Each team came out slug-gish and out of sync in the first quarter, understandable since each team practiced for only 45 minutes Monday night.

"We were kind of just running around and were like, 'Here you take it, no you take it, I don't want it,'" Ottley said. "It was weird to just touch a basketball again."

The South took control in the second quarter on an 8-0 run, outscoring the South 14-5 in the period to take a nine-point lead into halftime.

Rivas tried her best to mount a comeback in the fourth quarter, hitting a 3-pointer and recording two steals that led to layups to pull the North all-stars within six, but they ran out of time.

Still, for Rivas it was an opportunity to play with the district's best players.

"It was fun to play with the best players," Rivas said. "I met new people and they're all awesome girls and great athletes. I wish them the best of luck."

Ottley enjoyed the opportunity to play with instead of against her rivals.

"You know them because you've played against them. It's just fun to finally be able to be on a team with them. You're friends but you always end up going against each other and it was a nice change tonight," Ottley said.

Said Rivas: "This is the best way a senior could end their career," Rivas said. "It was fun. It's the last time playing with people you know in the sport you love."

at Western Kentucky on Monday, did make it to nationals as a CSI freshman. Those 2006-07 Golden Eagles took fourth place.

Jackson hopes to better that next week in CSI's first trip to nationals since Pattillo was there. But Tuesday night was all about the celebration.

"I'm super excited. I can't stop smiling," said Jackson after turning in another in a long line of clutch performances that earned him Scenic West Athletic Conference Player of the Year honors.

When Cochise trimmed a 21-point CSI lead to nine in the second half, Jackson drilled a pair of treys and the outcome was never in doubt again. "They made their run and we got the lead back up and had to finish it from there," said Jackson.

Jackson said Cochise often ran a box-and-one defense focused on stopping him.

His approach to that: "Whenever I got an open chance, I tried to get a shot off," he said.

And more often than not Jackson found the bottom of the net, earning more than just a big win in the process.

Now he's got some bragging rights as well.

Aldridge, Blazers hand Heat 5th straight loss

MIAMI — Shortly after LeBron James called LaMarcus Aldridge one of the top All-Star "snubs" in NBA history, he scored 26 points and led the Portland Trail Blazers to a 105-96 win over Miami — sending the Heat to their fifth straight loss.

Gerald Wallace scored 22 for Portland, which won its seventh straight on the road and fourth straight overall. Brandon Roy and Andre Miller each scored 14 for the Blazers, who got 11 from Nicolas Batum and 10 more from Wesley Matthews.

Dwyane Wade scored 38 points and LeBron James added 31 points, 11 rebounds and eight assists for the Heat, who are the 12th team in NBA history to have a 12-game winning streak and five-game losing streak in the same season.

Chris Bosh was held to seven points on 3 for 11 shooting.

LAKERS 101, HAWKS 87

ATLANTA — Kobe Bryant scored 26 points to pass Moses Malone on the career scoring list.

The Lakers took a three-game losing streak into the All-Star break. Since then, they've won eight straight, a streak that began with a similar 104-80 home win over the Hawks on Feb. 22.

Bryant passed Malone for sixth place on the list.

The Lakers' 7-footers — Andrew Bynum and Pau Gasol — both had double-doubles and dramatically affected the Hawks' shot selection. Center Al Horford relied on jump shots for his 17 points.

76ERS 110, PACERS 100

INDIANAPOLIS — Thad-

deus Young scored 18 points and Andre Iguodala, coming off back-to-back triple-doubles, finished with 16 points and 10 assists for Philadelphia.

Jrue Holiday scored 16 points and Jodie Meeks added 15 for the 76ers, who have won seven of eight.

BUCKS 95, WIZARDS 76

WASHINGTON — Brandon Jennings scored 23 points and Andrew Bogut had 14 points, nine rebounds and seven assists in his first game back after an injury.

John Salmons had 22 points for the Bucks, who ended a two-game losing streak. Jennings scored 10 points in the third quarter and the Bucks led 75-52 after three.

WARRIORS 95, CAVALIERS 85

CLEVELAND —

Monta Ellis made a career-high six 3-pointers — all in the second half — and scored 24 points, and Stephen Curry added 23 points.

Ellis made all 5 of his 3-point attempts and scored 17 in the third quarter as the Warriors won for the second time in eight games.

SUNS 113, ROCKETS 110

PHOENIX — Hakim Warrick scored a career-high 32 points starting in place of injured Channing Frye and the Phoenix Suns added to their recent mastery of Houston.

Vince Carter scored 15 of his 32 points in the fourth quarter, including two of his five 3-pointers, in the Suns' seventh consecutive victory over Houston.

Idaho won 10 league games this season, its most since 1994, and handed Utah State its first conference loss in 26 games, 64-56 on Feb. 9. San Jose State has scoring machine Adrian Oliver, who is third in the nation at 24.3 points per game and can single-handedly keep the Spartans in games.

Utah State also had trouble against fifth-seeded Hawaii, needing double overtime to beat the Warriors on Jan. 29, and scratched out a four-point win over third seed New Mexico State in the penultimate game of the season.

Boise State might present

the biggest challenge.

The Broncos had a lopsided loss to Utah State in early February, but have been on a roll since, winning their final seven games to finish second in the WAC. Boise State, which also gets a double bye into the semifinals, ended up 19-11 under coach Leon Rice, the most wins in school history under a first-year coach.

"I do like the way we're playing," Rice said. "We're playing with great energy and great enthusiasm. My goal was for these seniors to have a great legacy. They've put themselves in a really good position for this tournament."

GREGG MIDDLEKAUFF'S QUOTE OF THE DAY

"If you are lucky enough to find a way of life you love, you have to find the courage to live it."

John Irving

Ohio State suspends Tressel 2 games for violation

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio State suspended football coach Jim Tressel for two games and fined him $250,000 on Tuesday for violating NCAA rules by failing to notify the school about information he received involving two players and questionable activities involving the sale of memorabilia.

Tressel also will receive a public reprimand and must make a public apology. The NCAA is investigating and could reject the self-imposed penalties and impose additional sanctions.

Ohio State athletic director Gene Smith said he never seriously considered firing Tressel for violating his contract, which specifies that he must immediately report any — the word is underlined in the contract — information which pertains to violations of NCAA, Big Ten or Ohio State bylaws and rules.

"Wherever we end up, Jim Tressel is our football coach," Smith said. "He is our coach, and we trust him implicitly."

Last December, the NCAA suspended quarterback Terrelle Pryor and four teammates for the first five games on the 2011 season for selling jerseys, championship rings and trophies to a local tattoo parlor owner. The suspensions came just 16 days after the U.S. attorney told the school of a federal investigation that included players.

The school did not learn until January, however, that Tressel had been tipped off to the federal investigation back in April.

"Obviously I'm disappointed that this happened at all," Tressel said. "I take my responsibility for what we do at Ohio State tremendously seriously and for the game of football. I plan to grow from this. I'm sincerely saddened by the fact that I let some people down and didn't do things as well as I possibly could have."

N.D. scraps hydraulic lifts after death

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Notre Dame announced Tuesday that it will no longer use hydraulic lifts for videographers at football practices, five months after a student fell to his death when one of the machines toppled over on a windy day.

The school said it will instead use remote-controlled cameras — a system The Rev. John Jenkins, Notre Dame's president, said fulfills a pledge made after Declan Sullivan died.

"I said in the days after Declan's death that we would do everything in our power to make changes to ensure that such an accident does not happen again — here or elsewhere," Jenkins said in a prepared statement.

The Indiana Occupational Health and Safety Administration is investigating what caused the lift holding Sullivan to fall as he filmed practice on Oct. 27. The National Weather Service reported gusts of up to 51 mph at the time. State officials have said they are looking at whether federal and state workplace safety rules and industry standards might have been violated, including a rule barring workers from using scaffolds during storms or high winds.

Animal rights group targets Iditarod

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Two of the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race's most accomplished mushers are defending the race that is now under renewed attack by animal rights activists after 100 sled dogs were killed at a tour business in Canada in an unrelated event.

"By being quiet we become guilty by association. We have to speak up," said four-time Iditarod champion Martin Buser, who four times has received the race's humanitarian care award. Buser is running in his 28th Iditarod and was leading the race early Tuesday.

Buser was first to arrive at the checkpoint in Nikolai, about 350 miles from Anchorage. He was followed by Robert Bundtzen and Hugh Heff.

While People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals targets the Iditarod each year, the slaughter of the dogs in Canada has energized their efforts to end the race that began in 1973. The dogs belonged to Howling Dog Tours Whistler Inc., and were killed last April by a company employee after bookings slumped from the 2010 Olympic games in Vancouver.

The owner of the business thought the dogs would be humanely destroyed but the employee shot and slit their throats. The killings were revealed after the employee applied for workers' compensation for post-traumatic stress.

PETA senior campaigner Virginia Fort said the incident is another example of the inherent cruelty in dog mushing and sled dog racing.

"The best way to stop this abuse from happening is to stop supporting the Iditarod," she said.

Iditarod Trail Committee executive director Stan Woolley said PETA is seizing on an unfortunate and unrelated incident and unfairly connecting it to the Iditarod in its ongoing campaign against the race.

dogs that don't make the grade or have outlived their racing days is false. He points to his own kennel as an example of what is considered proper care of sled dogs throughout their lives. All his retired racing dogs are adopted, he said.

Iditarod musher Aliy Zirkle, who also has received the race's humanitarian care award, said in her more than 20 years of mushing she has never known of dogs being shot, bludgeoned or drowned.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING SUPERVISOR

The Times-News is seeking a high-energy and enthusiastic classified advertising supervisor with strong interpersonal skills and who possesses an entrepreneurial spirit. The successful candidate will have real estate, automotive and/or recruitment advertising sales experience and will demonstrate the ability to effectively manage, lead, and generate revenue growth for recruitment, real estate, auction, and service directory categories.

Primary responsibilities include growing the number of recruitment, real estate and commercial classified customers as well as making the Times-News and www.magicvalley.com THE PLACE for buyers and sellers of household and miscellaneous items to connect. The Classified Supervisor will be responsible for exceeding print and online classified advertising revenue goals and will collaborate with the Advertising Director to develop and implement sales strategies to exceed goals. They will recruit, train, coach and manage a first class, diverse and talented classified department.

Requirements:

- Previous sales management experience.
- Knowledge of marketing and competitive media.
- Must be a decisive problem-solver and possess strong written and verbal communication skills.
- Serve on one or more community boards/activities.
- Computer skills including proficiency in Microsoft Word, Excel & PowerPoint.
- College degree or equivalent experience

We want to talk to people who have confidence in media companies, understand the power of effective advertising and approach challenges with a high level of enthusiasm that rubs off on those around them. This is a solid marketplace with opportunity for revenue growth.

DISTRICT MANAGER

Times-News has a full time opening for an ambitious, team oriented leader to join a fast paced Circulation department. This position will involve growing circulation and readership by maintaining superior customer service and supervising contracted delivery positions. The successful candidate must have strong leadership and training skills, good organizational, communication, and problem solving skills, as well as previous experience in a team environment. Top applicant must be a self-starter and possess the ability to multi-task. Computer skills, reliable vehicle and valid driver's license are required. Applicants must be able to work flexible hours.

ENVIRONMENT AND HEALTH REPORTER

It will be your job to take in, make sense of and report on the issues that define our region. A wide range of regional and national environmental stories play out on the ground in south-central Idaho, from water fights to endangered species and energy policy. It is also home to a diverse, growing rural health care system in the midst of adapting to meet local needs and state and federal reforms. You will be tasked with staying ahead of developments across a large section of Idaho and divining what deserves coverage, with a focus on what matters to local residents.

Twin Falls is the largest community in south-central Idaho — locally known as the Magic Valley. About 40,000 people live in Twin Falls, which is located between the world-renowned Sun Valley resort to the north and vast open deserts to the south. It is surrounded by smaller communities that rely on the Times-News for local news and information.

The Times-News is the region's largest and longest-running newspaper. It is operated on the belief that good journalism can empower small communities. Please visit our website: <http://www.magicvalley.com>.

Qualifications: At least a bachelor's degree, with previous experience with newspapers and websites a plus. You must have an inquisitive mind, be personable, and have a strong sense of accountability. Be as much at home perusing government documents as you are visiting with sheep ranchers and conservationists out in the desert. You must provide your own transportation and have a valid driver's license and auto insurance. Submit a cover letter, resume and three writing samples online.

“We are dedicated to what we do.”

“Everybody here works hard to bring the community the news they want and need. We are very dedicated to what we do and are eager to do it better and better.”

The Times News is seeking candidates who are ready to achieve success, are highly motivated and goal oriented.

“We’re all strongly motivated and it shows in our work.”

Nick Coltrain,
Reporter

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Books will speak plain when counselors blanch."
— Francis Bacon

Every so often a play comes up that you see only in books. Cover up the East-West hands and we'll find out what you've been reading these days.

In three no-trump on a heart lead, you play low from dummy and capture East's jack. At trick two you run the diamond queen, West discarding a low spade and East ducking. How do you continue?

With no dummy entry to the diamonds and all the missing black-suit honors marked with West, it looks bad. But there is a way out: Play a second diamond to the ace, then a third diamond, discarding your last heart! What you have done is created a heart stopper in dummy. If the opponents want to play hearts, dummy is going to take a trick in the suit.

In practice East won the diamond king and shifted to a club ducked to West's queen. West didn't have much choice, so he did his best by playing the ace and a heart, putting dummy on play. Dummy's two remaining diamonds were cashed, and now everyone was down to four cards. Dummy had the jack-doubleton of both black suits; West, the guarded king of both black suits; and South, the ace-doubleton in clubs and the A-Q of spades. South now played the ace and a second club, giving up a trick to West's king, but took his eighth and ninth tricks with the A-Q of spades.

So, did you prove yourself to be a bookworm?

ANSWER: The most likely game for your side is four spades, but you have no reason to assume this is not a partscore deal. To maximize your chances of getting to the best contract and bid your suits in the right order, respond two diamonds and plan to bid spades at your next turn. Bear in mind that with your singleton heart, someone is pretty sure to reintroduce hearts.

Today is Wednesday, March 9, the 68th day of 2011. There are 297 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On March 9, 1861, the Confederate Congress, meeting in Montgomery, Ala., authorized the issuing of paper currency, in the form of interest-bearing notes, which were initially printed by a New York firm, the National Bank Note Co.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1661, Cardinal Jules Mazarin, the chief minister of France, died, leaving King Louis XIV in full control.
In 1796, the future emperor of the French, Napoleon Bonaparte, married Josephine de Beauharnais. (The couple later divorced.)
In 1862, during the Civil War, the ironclads USS Monitor and CSS Virginia (formerly USS Merrimac) clashed for five hours to a draw at Hampton Roads, Va.
In 1916, Mexican raiders led by Pancho Villa attacked Columbus, N.M., killing 18 Americans.
In 1932, Eamon de Valera was appointed head of government of the Irish Free State.

In 1945, during World War II, U.S. B-29 bombers launched incendiary bomb attacks against Japan, resulting in an estimated 100,000 deaths.
In 1954, CBS newsman Edward R. Murrow critically reviewed Wisconsin Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's anti-Communism campaign on "See It Now."

In 1964, the Supreme Court, in New York Times Co. v. Sullivan, ruled that public officials who charged they'd been libeled by news reports could not recover damages unless they proved actual malice on the part of the news organization.

In 1977, about a dozen armed Hanafi Muslims invaded three buildings in Washington, D.C., killing one person and taking more than 130 hostages. (The siege ended two days later.)

In 1981, Dan Rather made his debut as principal anchorman of "The CBS Evening News."

Ten years ago: A judge in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., sentenced 14-year-old Lionel Tate to life in prison for killing 6-year-old Tiffany Eunick. (Tate's first-degree murder conviction and sentence were overturned; he pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and received a new sentence of probation, but later pleaded no contest to robbing a pizza delivery man, receiving concurrent 10-year sentences for the robbery and parole violation.) Attorney James St. Clair, who'd represented President Richard M. Nixon at the height of the Watergate scandal, died in Westwood, Mass., at age 80.

Five years ago: Bowing to ferocious opposition in Congress, a Dubai-owned company, DP World, relinquished its quest to take over operations at U.S. ports. John Profumo, the former British Cabinet minister whose affair with a prostitute rocked Britain in 1963, died in London at age 91.

One year ago: Vice President Joe Biden, visiting Israel, condemned an Israeli plan to build hundreds of homes in east Jerusalem. Former television producer Robert "Joe" Halderman pleaded guilty in New York to attempted grand larceny for trying to blackmail talk show host David Letterman. (Halderman was sentenced to six months in jail; he actually served four months.) Doris "Granny D" Haddock, a New Hampshire woman who'd walked across the country at age 89 to promote campaign finance reform, died at age 100.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old gay man. On New Year's Eve, there was a block party on the street I live on. My neighbors, "Tim" and "Marie," are a good-looking 30-ish couple.

I was watching the fireworks when Marie sat down next to me and said, "Tim and I would like to get to know you better. How about we drop by for drinks some night after we put the kids to bed?" She said this while stroking my upper thigh with her hand.

I find the idea of being intimate with her husband appealing, but I have never "been with" a woman and I don't think I want to be. It seems to me the most prudent approach would be to pass on this opportunity, but how do I do it without offending or causing embarrassment for one of my neighbors?

— CAUGHT IN THE FIREWORKS, HOUSTON

DEAR CAUGHT: Does this neighbor know your sexual orientation? If the answer is no, just thank her and tell her you're not into threesomes. Because it has taken you so long to give her an answer, she probably won't be surprised that a liaison is not your cup of tea. However, if she does know, tell her with a wink: "Thanks for the offer — I'm not into threesomes. But you can send Tim over anytime."

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: After 30 years of marriage, my husband is more interested in watching politics on TV than interacting with me. We are, by mutual consent, no longer intimate — but he totally ignores me. He will talk to anyone who looks his way, but he doesn't talk to me.

His idea of doing something together is driving around the countryside for four hours looking at the scenery. He'll lie on the couch and watch TV or read while I'm a few feet away and not say more than a dozen words to me all day.

I can't do this much longer. What do you suggest?

— NEGLECTED WIFE IN GREENVILLE, S.C.

DEAR NEGLECTED WIFE: Perhaps you should spend less time with your husband. Couples who spend a lot of time together can find conversation difficult because they have nothing fresh to bring to it.

Do some things with female friends so you won't feel so shut in and isolated. This way you will have more experiences you can discuss. Also schedule some diversions you can enjoy together that don't involve conversation. How about a movie or a play, or a volunteer activity you can both be involved in? If this doesn't help, then consider counseling.

DEAR ABBY: I don't understand why people need others to take sides in an argument. If someone is upset and wants to cut someone out of his/her life, why does that person expect family and friends to do the same — even if the disagreement had nothing to do with them? Some of them lie to force the issue. I just don't understand — especially because we're talking about adults.

— PUZZLED IN COON RAPIDS, MINN.

DEAR PUZZLED: They do it to punish (and isolate) the person they're mad at. However, if you make plain to the manipulator — because that's what the person is — that you will not be dragged into the middle of something that's not your business, you'll be better off.

P.S. What makes you think that all adults ACT like adults? Surely I'm not the only person who has seen a grown-up behave like a 5-year-old.

IF MARCH 9 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Because you only tend to see what you want to see, someone could sell you the Brooklyn Bridge this month. Don't make any commitments of your heart, money or time until early April. Throughout April and most of May the cosmic lights are green for a lasting romantic rendezvous, a job change, or key financial decisions. Your gullibility quotient is at a high point again in June, so wait until August for a first date or important presentation that could impact your career. Be aware that September is not a good month to begin any important project; plan around it.

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't let your love life become just another daily routine. Keep the sparks burning or they may flicker out. Don't become so familiar with your significant other that you omit simple things like "please" and "thank you."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Keep the home fires burning. Set aside some extra time to spend with your loved ones. A simple dinner at home could seem like a gala event if you spend it with someone you care about and exert extra effort.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Know your enemy. If you find yourself with the wrong crowd, you could be in for a confrontation. Stick with those whom you know and trust today. Your day will run smoothly if you keep the mood light.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Home is where the heart is. Keep apprised of the goings on in your household — and if there are problems, take the time to discuss them and search for solutions. Let your wisdom be your strength and share it with your loved ones.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Weave a tapestry of romance. You and a loved one are in perfect sync and able to achieve cosmic bliss. Let your affable nature come through for you; diffuse a tense situation through kindness and understanding.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Plot the next move. If you anticipate the next task before you are asked to do it, you will be that much ahead of the game. Going the extra mile at work on your own initiative is likely to earn you raves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Give peace a chance. Avoid confrontation at all costs, even if it means making a personal sacrifice. You'll get your way regardless of what happens — and you'll look that much better if you keep your cool.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't let the pressure get to you, especially if the pressure is only in your head. Go at your own pace and don't get bogged down worrying about the so-called competition. A good friend can help clear your head.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Roll with the punches. Someone may create conflict, but you can win the day by keeping your cool and lulling them into complacency with gentle persuasion. Don't let the little things bother you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Check the books. It is likely that you have made an error — but, surprisingly, the error works in your favor. You are finally able to reap a few dividends and hold your head up high. Hold off on entering agreements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The lightbulb can't choose what type of moths it attracts. Nor can you choose which companions will be drawn to your charms. Be discerning in the partners you choose; not everyone is a good match.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Family time is quality time. Enjoy harmony and bliss your experience with loved ones today. Use inner guidance to appraise new acquaintances, as you will be easily able to discern who is trustworthy and sincere.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

WARNING

When purchasing a vehicle, make sure that the title is in the name of the seller. Under Idaho motor vehicle code a vehicle cannot be sold unless the title is in the name of the seller (exception: Idaho licensed dealer). The seller shall provide the new purchaser a signed bill of sale showing the following: Full description of the vehicle, vehicle identification number, amount paid and name(s) and address of the new purchaser. The bill of sale must be signed, dated and show actual mileage at the time of sale. If you have any questions, please contact your local assessor's office.
