Working with Idaho education reform

Still in play: Funding safety net for public schools

By Ben Botkin

Times-News writer

BOISE - Idaho schools with declining enrollment may have a new friend in Sen. Dean Mortimer.

The Idaho Falls Republican told the Times-News that he's working long viewed the funding as a valuon a compromise of legislation that eliminated school districts' oneyear safety net that provides 99 percent of the prior year's funding when attendance drops.

Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter signed into law two of three education reform bills brought forth this session by public schools chief Tom Luna. Its elimination has been a the 99 percent funding net has source of concern among school officials and educators, who have

About the bills

• Two of three "Students Come First" education reform bills have been signed into law, while the plan's centerpiece was reworked and introduced Friday in the Senate Education Committee.

What's next: The third piece of the puzzle faces a committee vote to move to the Senate floor.

 A bill to restore part of a funding safety net for schools that face enrollment reductions may be introduced this session.

What's next: Sen. Dean Mortimer, R-Idaho Falls, said he may introduce such a bill this week.

School consolidation an option; will not be required yet

By Ben Botkin Times-News writer

BOISE - You could call it a $10.74 million choice for next year.

School district consolidation isn't required in Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna's "Students Come First" plan. Still, the financial details of the statewide education overhaul inform lawmakers that they'll save $10.74 million a year if they choose to fund school districts in the Gem State's seven "least efficient" counties as if those districts were consolidated.

Where the savings are

Consolidation of Idaho's 115 public school districts into 44 countywide districts would save $15 million annually, according to the State Department of Education. The most savings would come from:

$2,500,998 Twin Falls County $1,944,429 Gooding County $1,722,471 Canyon County Shoshone County $1,580,528 $1,474,923 Payette County Bingham County $974,088 Lincoln County $592,606

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Military action in Libya widens no-fly zone

The opening phase of coalition action in Libva bruised Moammar Gadhafi's forces and set the stage for extending a nofly zone across the country today. Here are answers to four key questions. Full story on Main 5.

Why did the military engage Gadhafi's forces?

Ben Rhodes, a deputy national security adviser, said the U.S. acted because of the "imminent threat" of a humanitarian crisis in Libya. If coalition forces did not engage, the U.S. government feared that civilians would be in danger.

What is the aim of the military action?

President Obama has stated that removing Gadhafi is not the military's mission. The operation is following specific guidelines; the U.N. Security Council did not sanction regime change. The direction of the campaign is shifting from crippling Libya's air defenses to expanding the no-fly zone and setting the stage for humanitarian aid.

How is the rest of the world reacting?

Discord was evident over whether the operation should be controlled by NATO. Turkey blocked the alliance's participation, while Italy issued a threat to withdraw the use of its bases unless the alliance was put in charge. Germany also questioned the operation, and Russia railed against the airstrikes as outside meddling "reminiscent of a medieval call for a crusade."

What countries are participating in the effort?

The UK, USA, France, Canada, Spain, Italy, Denmark, Norway, Qatar, Jordan and the UAE.

Idaho House passes CAFO secrecy bill

BOISE – The House passed with a 61-7 vote on Monday a bill that would keep under wraps more information about dairy nuincluding some of the information that appears on inspection reports.

Rep. Judy Boyle, R-Midvale, comes on the heels of a critical report on the dairy industry that an environmental watchdog group issued using inspection reports. Nutrient management plans detail how animal waste from large facilities is disposed of.

Boyle contended that the information is a private business matter because it involves information like trient management plans, fields where dairy waste is put, and the amount spread.

Rep. Wendy Jaquet, D-The bill, sponsored by Ketchum, was among those opposed, citing concerns about the bill hampering counties' ability to monitor confined-animal feedlot operations.

> The bill still needs to pass the Senate.

Here comes another skywalking Johnson

oey Johnson was the star of the last College YOU of Southern Idaho men's basketball team to win a national championship - in 1987 - and now there's another Johnson waiting in the wings.

ESPN ranks the 6-foot, 3-inch guard the 23rd-best high school prospect in the country. He may have the best leaping ability of any prep player in America, scouts say.

Nick's father famously had a vertical leap of 52 inches - nearly 4 1/2 feet. The younger Johnson can sky as well, averaging 17.8 points and 5.6 rebounds in his senior year at Finlay Prep. Nick is the nephew of Basketball Hall of Famer Dennis Johnson, a 14-year NBA veteran.

Consolidation

Consolidation-based savings aren't listed as an option to cut costs for the Luna plan in the upcoming fiscal year, which starts in July. But for fiscal year 2013, which covers the 2012-2013 school year, the education overhaul has a price tag of $60.6 million. Without native programs and proconsolidation, other estimated savings in the plan total just $49.95 million for

Bliss celebrates local Eagle Scout project

Times-News correspondent

BLISS - Bliss residents were treated to a blast from the past Wednesday evening thanks to Clayton Schoessler, who hosted an open house for visitors to see his recently completed Eagle Scout project.

The project is a compilation of class photos from Bliss High School from 1946 to present. Each year's photos have been similarly formatted and identically framed, then mounted inside a rack along the top of the hallway throughout the high school.

Schoessler said he chose this particular project because it was something that meant a lot to the community and was a needed addition for the school.

Schoessler was in second grade when he saw a recruitment flier from an area scout troop and decided he wanted to be a Boy Scout. Because there is no functioning troop in Bliss, he's traveled to Hagerman, Gooding and most recently Buhl on the road to getting his Eagle Scout tinal (GI) problems like acid reflux, heartburn and ulcers may be eliminated with a new type of chewable tablet. Scientists say that GI problems are not the result of excess acid, but the body's inability to deal with it. Pepstat 380 is a patent-pending formula that contains an extract known as DGL that strengthens the body's natural defenses against acid.

Pepstat goes to work immediately on stomach acid while addressing the cause of GI problems. Scientists say that the DGL in Pepstat improves the body's protective substances, increases the lifespan of digestive tract cells, inhibits the H. pylori bacteria that can cause ulcers and improves blood supply to the area. Articles have appeared in publications like the British medical journal The Lancet showing DGL to be as effective as Zantac® or Tagamet®. Pepstat also works faster than Prilosec® and Prevacid®. Pepstat may make these drugs obsolete because DGL has no known side effects. Study results and additional information can be found at key2health.com.

House votes to keep dairy records secret

BOISE — The House voted 61-7 to allow dairies to keep secret the details of how they manage their cows' waste.

Monday's vote to make Idaho dairies' nutrient management plans exempt from disclosure under the state Public Records Act sends the measure to the Senate.

The Idaho Dairymen's Association has raised concern about an activist group, Idaho Concerned Area Residents for the Environment, obtaining those plans to harass dairies.

Bob Naerebout, the Dairymen's Association's director, says any violations found during dairy inspections would remain public

Rep. Wendy Jaquet, a central Idaho Democrat, voted against the measure, saying counties like Gooding that have seen an influx of large dairies over the last two decades fear the changes could make it more difficult to keep tabs on large agricultural operations that impact water quality.

BOISE — House lawmakers marked the end of an era Monday, voting 42-28 for the final installment of the $855 million "Connecting Idaho'' road-building program whose debt provisions made it one of the most disputed programs in state history when it was begun six years ago.

This year's money goes to two stretches of U.S. Highway 95 in northern Idaho near Sandpoint and Worley, as well as improvements to state Highway 16 to help link Emmett to Interstate 84 in southwestern Idaho.

Connecting Idaho has been disputed since 2005, when then-Gov. Dirk Kempthorne proposed selling bonds to construct roads more quickly than with annual appropriations, improving safety and speeding over-the-road commerce. That riled not only anti-debt conservatives, but also served to highlight the provincial animosities that dominate Idaho's highway debate, as lawmakers in regions that haven't gotten projects felt they got a raw deal.

"It's loved by representatives that have a project in the area, they always love this," said Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls and a critic, during Monday's debate. "And it's loved by ITD because it allows them to build projects.'

Though the funding still must survive the Senate, lawmakers there have historically passed the bill more willingly than their House coun-

Observers of Monday's House debate could hear the relief in some representatives' voices at finally washing their hands of having to vote annually on the program.

'This is the last corridor — this is it," said Rep. Maxine Bell, R-Jerome. "I've held my nose and voted for this ever since (Kempthorne) brought this up."

Man arrested after incident with repo man

POCATELLO — Pocatello police have arrested a man after a repossession agent reported the suspect crashed into his car and ran over his foot as he escaped.

KIFI-TV reports 31-year-old Jacque Carr was arrested Saturday after rying to prevent his car from being repossessed.

Police say Carr got into his vehicle, backed up into the repo man's vehicle and drove off, running over the repossession agent's foot.

Carr was arrested and taken to the Bannock County jail. He faces charges for aggravated battery and leaving the scene of an acci-

Cool Season Grass Tips

Cool-season grasses are those grasses that grow primarily during the spring and fall of the year. These grasses become dormant during the hottest portion of the summer and during the coldest part of the winter. Cool-season grasses generally maintain some green color year around except under extreme heat and cold. Included in the category of cool-season grasses are tall fescue, bluegrass, turf type fescue, perennial ryegrass and mixtures of any of these grasses.

Planting a Mixture of grasses are more adaptable to varying growing conditions such as shade, soil moisture and temperature. A mixture of grasses also increases the chance of survival from turf diseases since mixtures have varying levels of resistance to different diseases.

Best Time to Seed is from mid-August to mid-October, depending on the location in the state. Seeding in the spring is generally not satisfactory since young seedlings do not have enough time to develop a root system capable of providing needed moisture before hot, dry summer weather arrives. If you must seed in the spring, you may want to consider a temporary cover, such as annual ryegrass, until the fall. Another option would be to seed the cool-season grass with the intent of coming back in the fall and over seeding the areas that do not survive. Next week warm season grass tips.

No quick fix seen for nuclear plant

FUKUSHIMA, Japan (AP) - Officials are racing to restore electricity to Japan's leaking nuclear plant, but getting the power flowing will hardly be the end of their battle: With its mangled machinery and partly melted reactor cores, bringing the complex under control is a monstrous job.

Restoring the power to all six units at the tsunami-damaged complex is key, because it will, in theory, drive the maze of motors, valves and switches that help deliver cooling water to the overheated reactor cores and spent fuel pools that are leaking radiation.

Ideally, officials believe it should only take a day to get the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear under control once the cooling systems are up and running. But it could take days or weeks to get those systems working.

"We have experienced a very huge disaster that has caused very large damage at a nuclear power generation plant on a scale that we had not expected," Hidehiko Nishiyama, deputy director general of Japan's Nuclear and Industrial Safety Agency, told reporters late Monday.

The nuclear plant's cooling systems were wrecked by the massive earthquake and tsunami that devastated northeastern Japan on March 11. Since then, conditions at the plant have been volatile; plumes of smoke rose from two reactor

The crews resumed the work early Tuesday, plant spokesman Motoyasu Tamaki said.

In another setback, the plant's operator said Monday it had just discovered that some of the cooling system's key pumps at the complex's troubled Unit 2 are no longer functional — meaning replacements have to be brought in. Tokyo Electric Power Co. said it placed pumps, but it was unclear how long it would take for them to arrive.

If officials can get the power turned on, get the replacement pumps working and get enough seawater into the reactors and spent fuel pools, it would only take a day to bring the temperatures back to a safe, cooling stage, said Ryohei Shiomi, an official with the Nuclear and Industrial Safety Agency.

And if not? "There is nothing else we their reactor cores.

"I would say optimistically that things appear to be on the verge of stabilizing," said Bill Borchardt, the commission's executive director for operations.

What caused the smoke to billow first from Unit 3 and then from Unit 2 on Monday was under investigation, nuclear safety agency officials said. In the days since the earthquake and tsunami, both units have overheated and seen explosions outside

Is nuclear power just too risky?

o one thought the Interstate 35W bridge across the Mississippi River in Minneapolis would collapse. No one thought the Gulf of Mexico would be fouled to the horrible extent that it was by the BP oil spill. The awful convergence of disasters in Japan - a 9.0 earthquake followed by a tsunami and a devastating nuclear power emergency - seemed almost unimaginable.

Bob Herbert

Worst-case scenarios unfold more frequently than we'd like to believe, which leads to two major questions regarding nuclear power that Americans have an obligation to answer.

First, can a disaster comparable to the one in Japan happen here? The answer, of course, is yes – whether caused by an earthquake or some other event or series of events. Nature is unpredictable and human beings are fallible. It could happen.

So the second question is whether it makes sense to follow through on plans to increase our reliance on nuclear power, thus heightening the risk of a terrible problem occurring here in the United States. Is that a risk worth taking?

Concern over global warming has increased the appeal of nuclear power, which does not produce the high levels of greenhouse gases that come from fossil fuels. But there has been a persistent tendency to ignore the toughest questions posed by nuclear power: What should be done with the waste? What are the consequences of a catastrophic accident in a populated area? How safe are the plants, really? Why would taxpayers have to shoulder so much of the financial risk of expanding the nation's nuclear power capacity, an effort that would be wildly expensive?

A big part of the problem at Japan's Fukushima Daiichi power station are the highly radioactive spent fuel rods kept in storage pools at the plant. What to do, ultimately, with such dangerous waste material is the nuclear power question without an answer. Nuclear advocates and public officials don't talk about it much. Denial is the default position when it comes to nuclear waste.

In New York, Gov. Andrew Cuomo said again this week that the 40-year-old Indian Point nuclear power plant in Westchester County, 35 miles north of New York City, should be closed. Try to imagine the difficulty, in the event of an emergency, of evacuating such an area with its millions of residents. "This plant in this proximity to New York City was never a good risk," said the governor.

The 104 commercial nuclear plants in the U.S. are getting old, and many have had serious problems over the years. There have been dozens of instances since 1979, the year of the Three Mile Island accident, in which nuclear reactors have had to be shut down for more than a year for safety reasons.

Building new plants, which the Obama administration favors, can be breathtakingly expensive and requires government loan guarantees. Banks are not lining up to lend money on their own for construction of the newest generation of Indian Points.

In addition to the inherent risks with regard to safety and security, the nuclear industry has long been notorious for sky-high construction costs, feverish costoverruns and projects that eventually are abandoned. The Union of Concerned Scientists, in a 2009 analysis of the costs associated with nuclear plant construction, said that once a plant came online it usually led to significant rate increases for customers:

"Ratepayers bore well over $200 billion (in today's dollars) in cost overruns for completed nuclear plants. In the 1990s, legislators and regulators also allowed utilities to recover most 'stranded costs' — the difference between utilities' remaining investments in nuclear plants and the market value of those plants — as states issued billions of dollars in bonds backed by ratepayer charges to pay for utilities' above-market investments."

The refrain here is familiar: "The total cost to ratepayers, taxpayers and shareholders stemming from cost overruns, canceled plants and stranded costs exceeded $300 billion in today's dollars."

Nuclear power is hardly the pristine, economical, unambiguous answer to the nation's energy needs and global warming concerns. It offers benefits and big-time shortcomings. Ultimately, the price may be much too

Can I get a receipt for those taxes?

By David B. Kendall and Ethan Porter

e're a nation of savvy shoppers, and we expect that details about the products we buy will be readily available to us. Want to know where your pants were made? Look at the label. What about the calorie count for a Big Mac? In many McDonald's, it's right up there on the menu. And after making almost any purchase, we are handed a receipt detailing each item we bought, along with the price.

But when it comes to the largest purchase a typical consumer makes in a given year - the amount he or she spends on federal taxes there's no detailed record of the transaction that comes with sending that check off to the IRS.

The federal government should explain exactly where each person's tax money goes. We need a taxpayer receipt.

A receipt would be easy to create, simple to read and - here's a word you don't often associate with the Internal Revenue Service fun. The document we imagine wouldn't give taxpayers a way to get their money back. But it would show how much you personally spend each year on government programs such as the FBI, NASA and foreign aid, based on their percentage of the federal budget.

Here's how it should work. After filing your taxes, you would receive an itemized receipt, by e-mail if you file electronically or by regular mail if you send in paper forms. The one-page document would cover major items such as defense, Social Security and interest on the debt. It would also include the address of a website that would offer more information on all federal spending, from salaries for members of Congress to Pell grants for higher education to the upkeep of national receipt would be a relative bargain. We estimate that the IRS would have to spend about $15 million to mail the receipts to taxpayers. (Two of three households file electronically, so their e-receipts wouldn't cost much to send.) There would be some costs associated with maintaining the website, but that's a small investment for a very worthy goal: clearing up confusion about the federal budget.

According to a recent University of Maryland poll, Americans on average believe that one-fourth of all federal spending goes to foreign aid. With a tax receipt, a typical middle-class family with an income of $50,000 and $6,883 in federal income taxes and payroll taxes would see that, in reality, only $42.80, or 0.6 percent, of their taxes go to foreign aid.

Polling from Third Way, a center-left think tank, has shown that three-quarters of the electorate believes that the budget deficit can be tamed without touching Social Security or Medicare.

We have created an online calculator to show how the receipt would work, available at www.thirdway.org/ taxreceipt. Let's say that family with $6,883 in income and payroll taxes wants to know how much of that goes to, for instance, the Department of Veterans Affairs. We determine the department's budget as a percentage of the entire federal budget ($124.1 billion out of $3.7 trillion, or 3.3 percent) and multiply the percentage by taxes paid, to get $229.55.

Scholars have long explored the "identifiable victim effect;" a concept that holds that knowing more about where your money goes increases your satisfaction about spending it. A taxpayer receipt won't reduce anyone's tax burden. But it might reduce the burden of paying taxes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Superintendent thanks people wno worked on school Cassia Co. bond

At intervals throughout the history of the area, the community has addressed school facilities needs. A backward glance at the past 60 years of Cassia County includes four bond proposals that were supported by the community to provide the facilities necessary for school operations. During the early 1950s, a bond provided for the construction of a Burley High School, Declo High School and a Raft River High School, along with the Albion Elementary School. In the late 1950s, a separate bond constructed Dworshak Elementary School. A 1973 bond constructed Burley Junior High, Declo Elementary and Mountain View Elementary. A 10-year plant facilities levy during the late 1980s provided for the construction of Oakley Elementary, Raft River Elementary and White Pine Intermediate. The 1996 bond constructed the Burley, Declo, and Oakley high schools and the Cassia Regional Technical Center. All of these projects were built with property tax dollars over time.

There is never a good time to raise taxes, and I am aware that economic conditions in the county, state and nation were factors considered when voters cast their ballot on March 8. The facility needs exist and many of those will near future and will have to be addressed in some manner. I am confident the board of trustees, school personnel and community members will find acceptable solutions to the school facility needs.

I want to take this opportunity to acknowledge the efforts of many individuals in developing the bond. Community members and school personnel began compiling a list of school facility needs and wants in 2006. Once the initial list of facilities was generated, countless hours of analysis occurred as part of a refinement process to narrow and develop the proposal to be presented to the community. A cross section of community members gave freely of their time and expertise to prioritize and plan projects intended to meet the specific needs that had been identified. Many people traveled considerable distances to visit sites and speak with individuals to bring the experience of others to this school district. The goal of the entire group was to develop a bond proposal that would address facility needs at a minimal cost to property

I want to thank anyone who assisted with bond project concept development to find solutions addressing the greatest needs in each community/school. I am grateful to the people that made preaware of the various projects proposed throughout the school district. It takes a lot of people and a great deal of input to develop a bond proposal. I appreciate our community and I admire all the people that contribute to making this a great place in which to live.

Who needs a rec center when we have YMCA?

I currently live in Texas but I was born and raised in Twin Falls and still have family living in there. I have never sent a letter in to the editor before but I really feel that something needs to be said. I am hoping that I have misunderstood the article about Twin Falls spending more money to put a committee together to decide on a recreation center.

If I didn't misunderstand, may I ask why do you think you need to do this? Here in my newly adopted home town, our city decided that it needed a recreation center as well (there was nothing around like this), but it knew how hard and taxing it would be on city funds to run, so they made a wise decision and chose to form a partnership with the YMCA of Greater

San Antonio. We have a beauscholarships to lower the costs for program fees and never turns anyone away because of an inability to pay.

My suggestion would be to work with the Twin Falls YMCA to make their facilities larger and include more kids' areas (you could add a teen room, a large kids club, more classes like body pump, body combat, indo-row, and cranking machines, the facility could expand to offer gymnastics (gross motor skills classes) so that everyone could afford them and not those that have the money or give up so much so that one child can participate.

The YMCA could offer kids fit classes five times a week free of charge, also kids zumba, kids yoga, etc. I could go on and on. With all the money you will spend on meetings, planning, etc., the city could invest in the Y. You never know, you might be saving a life when you realize that the YMCA offered a child a chance to learn how to swim that would not have been able to pay for the lessons otherwise.

Again, I am hoping that the article I read was misleading and that it meant something else altogether. If nothing else, invest the money back into the schools where it is always needed and welcomed!

LIGHTER SIDE OF POLITICS

Doonesbury

By Bruce Tinsley

It's time we paid teachers more rom the debates in Wisconsin and elsewhere about public sector unions, you might get the impression that we're going bust because teachers are overpaid.

That's a pernicious fallacy. A basic educational challenge is not that teachers are raking it in, but that they are underpaid. If we want to compete with other countries, and chip away at poverty across America, then we need to pay teachers more so as to attract better people into the profession.

Until a few decades ago. employment discrimination perversely strengthened our teaching force. Brilliant women became elementary school teachers, because better jobs weren't open to them. It was profoundly unfair, but the discrimination did benefit America's children.

These days, brilliant women become surgeons and investment bankers and 47 percent of America's kindergarten through 12thgrade teachers come from the bottom one-third of their college classes (as measured by SAT scores). The figure is from a study by McKinsey & Company, "Closing the Talent Gap."

Changes in relative pay have reinforced the problem. In 1970, in New York City, a newly minted teacher at a public school earned about $2,000 less in salary than a starting lawyer at a prominent law firm. These days the lawyer takes home, including bonus, $115,000 more than the teacher, the McKinsey study found.

We all understand intuitively the difference a great teacher makes. I think of Juanita Trantina, who left my fifth-grade class intoxicated with excitement for learning and fascinated by the current events she spoke about. You probably have a Miss Trantina in your own

One Los Angeles study found that having a teacher from the 25 percent most effective group of teachers for four years in a row would be enough to eliminate the black-white achievement gap.

Recent scholarship suggests that good teachers, even kindergarten teachers, increase their students' earnings many years later. Eric A. Hanushek of Stanford University found that an excellent teacher (one a standard deviation better than average, or better than 84 percent of teachers) raises each student's lifetime earnings by $20,000. If there are 20 students in the class, that is an extra $400,000 generated, compared with a teacher who is merely aver-

A teacher better than 93 percent of other teachers would add $640,000 to lifetime pay of a class of 20, the study found.

Look, I'm not a fan of teachers' unions. They used their clout to gain job security more than pay, thus making the field safe for low achievers. Teaching work rules are often inflexible, benefits are generous relative to salaries, and it is difficult or impossible to dismiss teachers who are ineffective.

But none of this means that teachers are overpaid. And if governments nibble away at pensions and reduce job security, then they must

Teaching is unusual among the professions in that it pays poorly but has strong union protections and lockstep wage increases. It's a factory model of compensation, and critics are right to fault it. But the bottom line is that we should pay teachers more, not less — and that politicians who falsely lambaste teachers as greedy are simply making it more difficult to attract the kind of above-average teachers our above-average children deserve.

Moreover, part of compensation is public esteem. When governors mock teachers as lazy, avaricious incompetents, they demean the profession and make it harder to attract the best and brightest. We should be elevating teachers, not throwing darts at them.

Consider three other countries renowned for their educational performance: Singapore, South Korea and Finland. In each country, teachers are drawn from the top third of their cohort, are hugely respected and are paid well (although that's less true in Finland). In South Korea and Singapore, teachers on average earn more than lawyers and engineers, the McKinsey study found.

"We're not going to get better teachers unless we pay them more," notes Amy Wilkins of the Education Trust, an education reform organization. Likewise, Jeanne Allen of the Center for Education Reform says, "We're the first people to say, throw them $100,000, throw them whatever it takes."

Both Wilkins and Allen add in the next breath that pay should be for performance, with more rigorous evaluation. That makes sense to me.

Starting teacher pay, which now averages $39,000, would have to rise to $65,000 to fill most new teaching positions in highneeds schools with graduates from the top third of their classes, the McKinsey study found. That would be a bargain.

Indeed, it makes sense to cut corners elsewhere to boost teacher salaries. Research suggests that students would benefit from a tradeoff of better teachers but worse teacher-student ratios. Thus there are growing calls for a Japanese model of larger classes, but with outstanding, respected, well-paid teachers.

Teaching is unusual among the professions in that it pays poorly but has strong union protections and lockstep wage increases. It's a factory model of compensation, and critics are right to fault it. But the bottom line is that we should pay teachers more, not less — and that politicians who falsely lambaste teachers as greedy are simply making it more difficult to attract the kind of above-average teachers our above-average children deserve.

Do Some Spring Cleaning on Your (Financial) House

It's spring – time to clean out the gutters and wash down the windows. This year, why not do some financial spring cleaning, as well?

First, "dust off" your investment strategy to make sure it's still appropriate for your financial situation and your long-term goals.

Next, "de-clutter" your portfolio by selling those investments you no longer need, or that are too similar to others you own. Use the proceeds to buy new investments that can help you diversify. Diversification can help reduce the effects of volatility on your portfolio, though it can't guarantee gains or prevent losses.

Finally, protect yourself from stormy weather by ensuring you have adequate disability and life insurance. Without this coverage, you could expose your family to serious financial strains should anything happen to you.

By doing some financial spring cleaning, you may find that you've swept away some of the obstacles to achieving your goals.

BREWING UP SOME SAVINGS

Small brewery tax bill proposal supported by barley growers, brewers alike

Yeast feeds in a decanter Saturday afternoon in Von Scheidt Brewing Company's micro brewery in Twin Falls.

By Blair Koch Times-News writer

Since December of 2009, Pat Scheidt has been hard at work carving out a name for himself and the craft beers he produces.

Scheidt, owner and brewmaster of Von Scheidt Brewing Company in Twin Falls, is considered a microbrewer.

His production is less than 100 barrels of beer a year - a small amount compared to the hundreds of billions of barrels made each year by commercial brew-

The Brewer's Employment and Excise Relief (BEER) Act, introduced on March 9 by U.S. Sens. Mike Crapo and John Kerry, D-Mass., would help small beer brewers like Scheidt by reducing current excise tax rates.

"It would reduce my tax by about half," Scheidt told the Times-News on Monday. "We're moving forward toward expanding but doing it dollar by dollar."

"Like any private business, craft brewing is all about supply and demand," Crapo said in a press release. "In touring Idaho last year, I met with many craft brewers who are seeking to expand their business because they are seeing increased demand for their product. In addition, this legislation will expand the ready markets for our barley, wheat and hops producers in Idaho. I remain optimistic this bill will pass this year to create new jobs and new markets."

Scheidt, who operates on a skeleton crew at 157 Second Ave. W. in Twin Falls, said the savings wouldn't be enough for him to but said the bill may spur compehire additional help immediately

THE BEER ACT

- Would reduce current $7 per barrel excise tax for small brewers to $3.50 per barrel, up to the first 60,000 barrels produced.
- Lowers excise tax from $18 per barrel to $16 per barrel for production between 60,001 to two million barrels a year.
- · Raises ceiling defining small breweries by increasing it from two million barrels to six million barrels.

On a national level, the bill would free up nearly $50 million a year. Instead of paying those funds toward taxes, the bill would allow small brewers to invest in their business.

Hurst elected NAWG president

By Cindy Snyder Times News correspondent

BURLEY - A Cassia County farmer has been elected president of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

Wayne Hurst first became involved with grain organizations in the late 1990s, at a time when farmers were experiencing very low wheat prices. The National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG) worked closely with Congress to develop programs that kept of a lot of farmers in business through that difficult period.

Even though he had been farming for almost 20 years, he says that experience was "when I really became aware of the importance of a national farm organization."

He decided to become more involved with the Idaho Grain Producers Association, first by representing Cassia County and then on the executive board. Hurst served as IGPA president in 2006.

Clark Kauffman of Filer has known Hurst for many years through IGPA and chaired the NAWG nominating committee that recommended Hurst be elected president.

"Wayne has a quiet strength about him," Kauffman said. "He can influence people by quietly asking them questions and getting them to think about why and how they are doing something."

That could be very important in a year when debate is expected to begin on the 2012 Farm Bill. "Wayne is so well informed. Well thought out policies and facts are pretty hard to argue with unless you just want to argue," he added.

Dean Stevenson, has also worked with Hurst through IGPA and other organizations. He too thinks Hurst is Pasture is what makes the difference in the cost-calculations, Gray said. He pointed out that all operations would require the same hay for winter feeding.

"You tend to get what you manage for," Gray said.

Before beginning an intensive grazing management system, producers need to assess their pasture and know its carrying ca-

Producers are also likely to see additional costs initially for fencing and management time as they move from a continuous pasture to rotational grazing.

Other speakers focused on how to match forages to grazing needs, and how to implement intensive management practices.

Every three minutes another person falls behind on credit card debt. It's no wonder, since every major credit card company has nearly doubled the minimum monthly payment on consumers' bills. Federal Regulators forced the change because of their concern about the growing mountain of consumer debt, which stands at $2.17 trillion. Many consumers can only pay the minimum payment, which can take up to 30 years to pay off. Now, relief is in sight for millions of Americans.

CreditGUARD of America, non-profit licensed debt management service provider, is making a new program available to lower debt payments and become free of all credit card debt in only three to five years. Consumers need only $2,000 or more in total credit card debt and are falling behind on any account, to cut their payment by 35% to 50%, and reduce or eliminate interest charges altogether.

Over 200,000 families, located throughout the U.S. have regained financial independence with CreditGUARD's licensed, bonded and insured service. CreditGUARD of America has received high marks in consumer surveys showing high consumer satisfaction and confidence. The CreditGUARD debt management program can lower your monthly payments by hundreds and save you thousands!

One such case is Sandra L. who proclaimed "CreditGUARD cut my monthly payment by $656 and saved me over $29,206.53 in interest. They saved my way of life and gave me back my piece of mind! Now I can see myself on my way to becoming debt free." or

Jeffrey C. who said "CreditGUARD of America helped me consolidate 3 of my credit cards into one affordable payment. They are now saving me nearly $200 a month. Now I will be debt free in 2 years or less"

Donna Scott holds her dog Snooks as she talks about her home and the surrounding property Wednesday afternoon near Wendell. The log house house took about five years to build.

A Western home with personal touches

By Melissa Davlin Times-News writer

WENDELL - Donna and Jack Scott have the seclusion they crave, without sacrificing

Their house, built with Douglas fir logs, sits on the edge of the Snake River Canyon, combining the Western log look with the Scotts' personal style.

When the former Twin Falls couple bought the land in 1998, the 35-acre property had just a barn and stone house, both built in 1914. The area where they wanted to build their house was filled with sagebrush and stone. Donna explained.

Jack Scott

So the Scotts got to work. Jack cleared a whopping 1,268 dump truck loads of dirt and rock from the area yes, he kept track. The couple lived in the stone house during construction, which took about five years, then moved into the log home in 2003, as they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

For the home design, they consulted an architect, then took plans to Meridianbased PrecisionCraft Log and Timber Homes.

Todd Gailey, client representative at PrecisionCraft, said most clients choose one of the company's 65 existing floor plans and modify it. With the Scotts, though, "the floor plan actually was their baby."

Get grounded in the garden
College of Southern Idaho's horticulture program will hold its annual "Introduction to Gardening" class, a six-week, one-credit course with classroom and lab activities for all gardeners.

It's for beginners as well as veteran gardeners who want to grow better, horticulture professor Dave Kiesig said. You'll learn the fundamentals of vegetable and flower gardening, including how plants grow, what soil amendments to use, types and styles of gardening, planting techniques, water and fertilizer management, pest recognition and control, and weed control. You'll also start plants from seeds in the CSI greenhouse.

Class will meet 6:30-7:50 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, March 29 to May 5. Cost is $105. Information: Kiesig at 732-6431 dkiesig@csi.edu.

Learn to prune like a pro

Puzzled about pruning? Here's a chance for hands-on learning.

Students in the College of Southern Idaho's Horticulture Club and their instructor, Dave Kiesig, will hold their annual fruit tree pruning workshop April 2 at Centennial Park.

Fruit trees that used to be part of Twin Falls pioneer I.B. Perrine's orchard still dot the landscape in the park and nearby Canyon Springs Golf Course. Kiesig, his students and volunteers who show up for the learning experience will all work on pruning and revitalizing the historic trees. Volunteers will learn tips for their own fruit trees.

No registration is required. Simply show up at Centennial Park anytime between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wear gloves and bring whatever tools you have, including pruning saws, loppers, bypass hand pruners, ladders or pole

Information: Kiesig at 732-6431 or dkiesig@csi.edu.

Garage clutter got you down? Tips for cleaning, organizing

By Dee-Ann Durbin Associated Press writer

Garages may have started out as a place to store cars, but gradually they've become a place to store almost everything else, from sports equipment to dog food to holiday decorations.

As the weather gets warmer and the spring cleaning urge hits, it's a good time to take stock of your garage. Is it a functional space or just a repository for junk? Are there more logical ways to store your belongings?

Before you rush out and buy new shelving and cabinets, professional organizer Cindy Tyner recommends putting some serious thought into how you want to use your garage. She says the No. 1 mistake people make is pulling everything out of the garage first and then getting overwhelmed when they try to cram it all back in.

'People go out and buy things, like storage systems and bins, and say, 'This is what I need to get me organized,' but the things don't fit the purposes they need," said Tyner, who owns an Ann Arbor, Mich.-based organizing business called Functional Spaces.

Once you've decided how to use your garage, here are some tips to help you finish the job:

• Pick a sunny day and clear out all your belongings. Decide what will stay, what can be donated and what should be thrown away.

"If you haven't used it in a year, you need to ask yourself, does it make sense to it's a family heirloom, should it be sitting in the garage where you can have a variety of problems and moisture?"

Because the walls in the Scott home are so tall, PrecisionCraft used a pipe and cap system, with metal pipes running vertically through the walls to discourage the logs from settling.

"Jack's house was probably the first house we used that system on," Gailey said.

The floor plan itself has plenty of the Scotts' personality. The mud room has an attached bathroom where Jack can shower if he gets too dirty while tending to their Angus cattle. The room also has a large pantry with plenty of room for the fruit Donna cans. Both the mud room and the front door enter into the large kitchen. Did Did you know that Black Dogs are generally the last to be adopted and are euthanized in shelters in much large numbers? People may consider them too "plain", or simply don't notice them because their dark color makes them disappear in their kennels. Whatever the reason, black dogs are not given the attention they deserve. So PLEASE give our black dogs a chance!

Bo is a beautiful 10-week-old blue merele Australian Shepherd mix puppy. He is gray and white and has freckles on his nose. Bo is very cute and gets along with other puppies and dogs.

Roscoe is a darling Australian shepherd mix puppy. He has medium length hair and is black with brown throughout his coat. Roscoe is very affectionate and is going to be a very beautiful adult doggie.

Cassie is a young adult German Shepherd mix. She is a dilute tri-color with the classic German Shepherd ears and nose. She is affectionate and obedient.

Kate is a black lab puppy that is about 16-weeks-old. She has white on her feet and is very cute.

Annie Oakley is a black border collie mix puppy. She is about 14-weeks-old and is very cute! Come meet her todav.

Calamity Jane is an adorable border collie mix puppy. She is about 14-weeks-old. Jane is mostly black with a white diamond on her chest. She is so cute!

Abbey is a cute Cow dog mix puppy! She is about 6-monthsold and is black with brown speckled legs and a docked tail. Her mother was a blue heeler and her father was a Labrador. Abbey would make a great family pet and child companion. She has been patiently waiting to find her future family for many months.

> The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/ neutering and the first set of vaccinations

DEAR ABBY: My job requires me to travel out of town several nights a week, leaving my wife home alone. She recently invited a mutual (male) friend out for dinner during my absence. He's the other half of a couple we socialize with frequently. (His wife was also out of town.)

I told her I was uncomfortable with it. I don't think married men and women should go out alone with members of the opposite sex. She maintains that it wasn't a "date," that she was just having a meal with a friend.

I value your opinion and would like to know how you feel about this. Did I overreact? Is it appropriate for a married woman to go out for a meal alone with a man other than her husband?

- FEELING CHEATED ON IN ILLINOIS DEAR FEELING

CHEATED ON: With some couples this wouldn't be an issue. However, how I feel about it is not as important as how YOU feel about it. If you have explained your feelings to your wife and she knows it made you uncomfortable - innocent as it was - then it shouldn't be repeated. I can't help but wonder how she would react if you told her you had run into the man's wife on one of your business trips and the two of you had had dinner together - and plan to do so again in the future.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever my father comes into my room to wake me up, he opens the shutters on my windows. After spending hours in a dark room, the bright light hurts my eyes.

I have talked to him about it several times, but usually find myself apologizing for being overly sensitive about the matter.

Abby, even when he has promised not to, he still does it. Is there anything I can do to make him stop?

SENSITIVE EYES IN RICHMOND, VA. DEAR SENSITIVE EYES:

Yes, there is. Take responsibility for waking yourself up by getting an alarm clock so you no longer need your father's "help."

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister is being married in a few months. The wedding is in her hometown, which is more than 1,400 miles from where we live. My husband and I have three small children.

Taking our entire family and staying for three or four days will cost almost $3,000. Two of the children would not be able to attend the ceremony without causing a disruption, due to naps, feeding, etc. In spite of the financial burden and the fact that it will be a difficult trip for the children, the bride-to-be is demanding that all of us be there.

Abby, are we obligated to make this trip, or would it be acceptable for only my husband to attend? If he goes alone, he will have time with his sister and the rest of the family, whom he does not get to see very often. We want to do the right thing, but the reality is that taking our family of five would be difficult and stressful for himself and talk some sense into his sister. While it is wonderful that she would like to have all of you at her wedding, an invitation is a request - not a summons. If being there with the children would be stressful financially, logistically and emotionally, you are right to stay home.

- ANXIOUS IN OHIO DEAR ANXIOUS: Your husband needs to assert

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"In skating over thin ice, our safety is in our speed." — Ralpĥ Waldo Emerson

At the rubber bridge table, South was the sort of player who considered it beneath his dignity to take more than a few seconds to play any deal, regardless of the degree of difficulty or the money at stake. Declaring six hearts today on a top diamond lead, he won in dummy and drew two rounds of trumps. He took an immediate spade finesse, and when it lost and a diamond came back, he won dummy's ace and took a second club finesse. When that lost, he threw his hand in disgustedly, conceding one down. He also made the mistake of saying there was nothing he could have done about it, giving North the chance to ask him if he wanted to bet on the outcome on proper declarer play. The bet was taken, the hand reconstructed, and North took over the reins.

North won the diamond lead, took the diamond king to ruff a diamond high, then crossed to the heart jack to ruff another diamond high, drew a second trump and led a spade to the nine. All that declarer had needed to find was a normal break in both red suits, and he could endplay West to lead either a spade or a club into declarer's tenaces and concede the 12th trick. If East had played the spade jack or 10 on the first round of the suit, declarer would have been able to cover, creating a different but equally effective tenace in the spade suit.

ANSWER: Over your partner's fourth-suit forcing call, you are faced with three unpleasant alternatives. You can repeat your hearts or diamonds (in either case suggesting a better or longer suit than you have) or bid three no-trump with length but not strength in the danger suit. That would be my choice, though I can't say I like it.

Today is Tuesday, March 22, the 81st day of 2011. There are 284 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On March 22, 1765, Britain enacted the Stamp Act of 1765 to raise money the American colonies. (The Act was repealed the following year.)

Today in

On this date:

In 1638, religious dissident Anne Hutchinson was expelled from Massachusetts Bay Colony for defying Puritan orthodoxy.

Stephen Decatur was killed in a duel with Commodore Barron Tames Washington, D.C.

In 1820, U.S. naval hero

In 1882, President Chester Alan Arthur signed measure outlawing polygamy. In 1929, a U.S. Coast Guard vessel sank a Canadian-registered schooner, the I'm Alone, in the Gulf of Mexico. (The schooner was suspected of carrying bootleg liquor.) 1933, In during Prohibition, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a measure to make wine and beer containing up to 3.2 percent alcohol legal.

In 1941, the Grand Coulee hydroelectric dam Washington state went into operation.

In 1958, movie producer Mike Todd, the husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, and three other people were killed in the crash of Todd's private plane near Grants, N.M. 1968, President Lyndon B. Johnson named William Gen. Westmoreland to be the Army's new Chief of Staff. In 1978, Karl Wallenda, the 73-year-old patriarch of "The Flying Wallendas" high-wire act, fell to his death while attempting to walk a cable strung between two hotel towers in San Juan, Puerto Rico. In 1991, high school instructor Pamela Smart, accused of recruiting her teenage lover and his friends to kill her husband, Gregory, was convicted in Exeter, N.H., of murderconspiracy and being an accomplice to murder and was sentenced to life in prison without parole.

Ten years ago: An 18year-old student opened fire at Granite Hills High School in El Cajon, Calif., wounding three classmates and two teachers before he was shot by a police officer. (Jason Hoffman later hanged himself in jail.) Yevgeny Plushchenko captured the World Figure Skating Championships crown in Vancouver, British Columbia. Animation pioneer William Hanna died in Los Angeles at age 90.

Five years ago: More than 125,000 hourly workers of General Motors Corp. and auto supplier Delphi Corp. were offered buyouts to help cut the companies' huge labor costs. The Basque separatist group ETA announced a permanent cease-fire with Spain. A Gabon-bound ferry sank off the coast of Cameroon; more than 120 people are believed to have died. A bus carrying cruise ship tourists plunged off a highway in northern Chile and tumbled down a mountainside, killing 12 Americans.

IF MARCH 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: With Uranus in your part of the zodiac, you are sure to have an exciting and unusual year ahead. This is your year to obtain your 15 minutes of fame and to break free from your cocoon. Make loyalty a top priority in June, because even though you insist on freedom you also may meet up with someone who has potential as a permanent romantic partner. If you are already harnessed to a soul mate, you might be able to land the job of your dreams or make a successful career change in June. In September your judgment is better than usual so that is a great time to make long range plans and irrevocable decisions.

HOROSCOPE Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your natural inclination to fight opposition to your ideas could goad you into making large errors. You are unlikely to receive good advice today; sidestep making promises you are unable to keep.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relationships could experience difficulty today. Hold on tight to what you already have and refuse to get your feathers ruffled if things don't go quite as planned. Be as fair and equitable as possible.

GEMÎNI (May 21-June 20): Your personal chat room is open and you are anxious for communication. This could be a good day to get online and meet new people, but hide your personal information and remain discreet.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Avoid decision-making or discussions. Your special someone might be in the mood to break from the routine and try something exciting and different. This might interrupt your schedule.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strike a balance. Although you cannot argue with intelligent analysis, you might refuse to budge from sheer obstinacy. The people you value the most may take extreme measures if their desires are thwarted.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Put other people first. A fixation on having what you want, without considering what others need, can prevent you from seeing eyeto-eye with key people. Thriftiness is admirable, but not always desirable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can't say yes and you can't say no, so just be right there when the whistle blows. The outcome might be up in the air for a few days. You may find that some people are unpredictable or unreliable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your charm and intelligence shine brightly today in anything you undertake. Avoid making agreements or spending significant sums of money because unusual attractions and unpredictable results prevail.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Put things in proper perspective. An organization or club that is meant to be a place for social activities should not be the center of your existence. Don't be distracted by group dynamics.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Social gatherings might center on political maneuvering and hypocritical bantering. Remain poised so that changing allegiances don't place you in the doghouse. Keep an eye out for unusual requests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When the cosmic winds blow trouble your way, take shelter. This could be a good day to study new technologies or master a new communication device. Accentuate the logical instead of the emotional.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Unusual and odd items and gadgets attract you today. A gregarious mood prevails and new friendships can present tantalizing possibilities. Demonstrate your independence and get away from the crowd.

the lead the rest of the way.

The University of Idaho football team released its 2011 football schedule Monday, with one glaring omission — the Vandals will not play Boise State University for the first time in 40 years.

Since 1971, Boise State and Idaho have played each other in football, but not this season with Boise State joining the Mountain West Conference in July. Idaho will remain in the Western Athletic Conference.

The Vandals open the 2011 season with back-toback games in Moscow for the first time since 1991 and only the sixth time since 1930 when they take on Bowling Green on Sept. 1 match of the Vandals vs. and the University of North Dakota on Sept. 10.

"We're opening with a great."

BOISE STATE-FRESNO STATE GAME WILL BE NATIONALLY TELEVISED

For the 11th straight season, the Broncos will travel to California for a non-conference game at Bulldog Stadium as BSU plays Fresno State Friday, Oct. 7, with a 7 p.m. MDT start on ESPN. Boise State holds a 9-1 record over the Bulldogs in nationally broadcast games starting in 2001 when the Broncos upset No. 8 Fresno State, 35-30 in Fresno.

Last season, Boise State shutout Fresno State 51-0 at Bronco Stadium in the team's last matchup as Western Athletic Conference members.

Boise State moves to the Mountain West Conference in July, with Fresno remaining in the WAC until its move to the MWC in 2012. The Broncos start the 2011 season also on ESPN in the Georgia Dome against the University of Georgia in the Chick-fil-A Kickoff Classic. Kickoff is scheduled for 6 p.m. MDT.

Randolph leads Jazz past Grizzlies 103-85

MEMPHIS, Tenn. – Zach Randolph scored 19 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as Memphis Grizzlies maintained their hold on the final Western Conference playoff spot with a 103-85 victory over the Utah Jazz on Monday night.

Seven Memphis players finished in double figures as the Grizzlies won for the third time in four games. Darrell Arthur scored 14 points on 7-of-11 shooting from the field, while Tony Allen had 12 points.

Paul Millsap led Utah with 15 points, while Al Jefferson scored 12.

While the Jazz shot 49 percent for the game, they committed 19 turnovers. Utah was outscored in the paint 66-40 and outrebounded by Memphis 40-30, including 14 offensive rebounds for Memphis.

CELTICS 96, KNICKS 86

NEW YORK - Kevin Garnett had 24 points and 11 rebounds, Rajon Rondo added 13 points and 12 rebounds, and the Boston Celtics a spirited 96-86 victory over the New York Knicks on Monday night.

With blood flowing and showed the Knicks they will be tough to beat next month a first-round playoff series. Paul Pierce scored 21 points and Ray Allen had 15 for guards Raymond Felton (left Boston despite a poor shooting night and a cut on his hamstring), but hardly head that briefly forced him missed a beat. Eight women, four men picked for Bonds jury

By Ronald Blum Associated Press writer

SAN FRANCISCO Barry Bonds finally sat across the court room Monday from the 12 people who will judge whether or not the greatest home-run hitter of all time lied about taking drugs.

Following a daylong selection process, eight women and four men were picked to hear the federal government's case against the 46-year-old former San Francisco Giants star, who is charged with four counts of lying to a grand jury and one count of obstruction for testifying in 2003 that he never knowingly used performanceenhancing drugs.

Among the jurors there was no shortage of opinion on baseball's Steroids Era or drugs in sports, though all indicated they could rule impartially in the case of Bonds, who holds the time home run leader was records for home runs in a charged with lying to a federal career (762) and a season

Juror No. 69 was angered Congress investigated steroids in sports "on my dime."

"They should be solving things like the national debt," he said. He made it onto the panel, even though he said Bonds had "probably not (received) a fair trial in the court of public opinion." Jurors were identified by number rather than name, and U.S. District Judge Susan Illston said their identities won't be revealed until the day after the verdict. "We got a fair and imparopen process," said Bonds' lead lawyer, Allen Ruby, said outside the courthouse.

From the initial pool of potential jurors who filled out 19-page questionnaires last week, Illston dismissed 38 based on answers, which the last five years, and man said. whether they were familiar ions on the case.

kids last year that were thrown in the mix and I don't think they knew what to expect. As a team we've grown up this year. Last year we were a little immature, and you could see that in big games. But when we play together, we're tough."

Moon, who has verbally committed to play baseball at Utah Valley University, doesn't hesitate when asked who the early favorites are in the Great Basin Conference.

Twin Falls and Minico.

"Of course they're the teams to beat," Moon said. "They've proven themselves. They've built two good programs and you've got to give it to them. Coach Kunz, on the other hand, is building a great program, too. Our team two years ago was (awful), and he's built it up... As a team we've got to prove to the community that we're here to play. As a team we can do it, if we come together and stay strong."

Now in his third season, Kunz said he's ready to see more tallies in the win column. The Bobcats finished last season with a 13-17

"I like what we have, but we don't have a lot of depth," Kunz said. "We just need to get some work in. And we've got to get healthy." Burley's depth suffered a significant blow when No. 1 pitcher Jake Mills broke his throwing hand during the basketball season. He recently had the cast and two pins removed and is expected to return in April.

Tennessee (33-2) led by as set an NCAA record with her

"I don't want to rush it. It's good to win nonconference games, but league is the most important thing," said Mills. "The seniors this year, we all want to win. We don't expect anything but winning. We drill that into the younger kids' heads. Losing is not acceptable."

In the long run, Mills' injury could end up helping Burley develop a deeper bullpen as other pitchers will have an opportunity to step in. Joe Ferrin, Luke Bloxham, Craig Christensen, Taylor Carson and Jacob Wiseman are all expected to log innings on the mound. "Once everybody's healthy, we've got seven guys who can throw strikes, get guys out and win games," Mills said. Burley baseball has steadily improved the past two years, going from 12-37 (.244 winning percentage) in the two seasons before Kunz arrived to 23-36 overall (.389) in Kunz's two seasons at the helm. In addition, Burley's legion team is 52-35 over the past two years. Notwithstanding, perhaps Moon summed it up best: "We still have a lot to prove."

If they indeed prove that they can put it all together, then perhaps the sun will still be shining on the Bobcats at the end of the season as well.
