Flag flies low for Filer's Pearl Harbor survivor — among Idaho's last

By Eric Larsen
Times-News writer

Leroy Kohntopp carried the weight of the word "hero" on a farmer's strong shoulders for nearly 70 years.

The longtime Filer resident was a 24-year-old sailor on the USS Maryland when Japanese torpedoes capsized the nearby USS Oklahoma in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, on Dec. 7, 1941.

He was local president of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association until the area chapter dissolved in 2005, and flew the U.S.

flag in front of his Filer retirement home until April 8, when he died at age 93.

That flag has flown at half-mast since, but Robert Kohntopp said his family will raise it back to the top today, just as his father did across the years he watched five children, 13 surviving grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren grow.

Leroy Kohntopp will forever be counted among the 60,000 military personnel stationed in Pearl Harbor during the attack that signaled the

Loss for wolves sets ESA precedent

Obama's support for lifting protection delivers bitter pill to conservationists; experts warn of future meddling

By Matthew Brown

BILLINGS, Mont. — The White House is poised to accept a budget bill that includes an unprecedented end-run around Endangered Species Act protections for gray wolves in five Western states — the first time Congress has targeted a species protected under the 37-year-old law.

Lawmakers describe the provision in the spending bill as a necessary intervention in a wildlife dilemma that some say has spun out of control. Sixty-six wolves were reintroduced to the Northern Rockies from Canada in the mid-1990s; there are now at least 1,650.

But legal experts warn the administration's support of lifting protections for the animals opens the door to future meddling by lawmakers catering to anti-wildlife interests.

The endangered act has long been reviled by conservatives who see it as a hindrance to economic development. Now, the administration's support for the wolf provision signals that protections for even the most imperiled animals, fish and plants are negotiable given enough political pressure, experts said.

Officials in Montana and Idaho already are planning public hunts for the predators this fall, hoping to curb increasingly frequent wolf attacks on livestock and big game herds.

"The president could have used some political capital to influence this and he didn't," said Patrick Parenteau, a professor of environmental law from the Vermont Law School. "The message to the environmental community is, don't count on the administration to be there" for the protection of endangered species.

Congress OKs budget; bigger fights still ahead

Congress sent President Barack Obama hard-fought legislation cutting a record $38 billion from federal spending on Thursday, bestowing support for the first major compromise between the White House and newly empowered Republicans in Congress.

"Welcome to divided government," said House Speaker John Boehner of Ohio, Republican point man in tough negotiations with the president that produced a bill no one claimed to like in its entirety.

A NEW COUCH FOR CAMERON

ASHLEY SMITH/Times-News

Terri LeDeaux sits with her sons Cruz Cameron Vaca, right, 5, and Tarryn, 2, on their new couch Thursday at their home near Jerome. Cameron has suffered from a Chiari malformation and a blood disorder, and the family won a living room set from Aaron's furniture store after LeDeaux entered a contest.

Jerome family wins Aaron's giveaway

JEROME — Terri LeDeaux used to sit on her worn maroon couch and stroke the back of her 3-year-old's head to lull him to sleep.

For hours, mother and son would sit in that position — Cruz Cameron Vaca would cry because of the pain in his head and LeDeaux would let tears of her own fall down her face.

The small boy suffered from a blood disorder and a cranial malformation that caused his brain to be smashed and fluid to be blocked in his spinal column, causing temporary paralysis, nerve damage and other problems. The now-lively 5-year-old had neurosurgery last June to give his brain room to expand.

LeDeaux said it's been a long road for the family. But her son is her hero, she said, and would repeatedly tell her throughout his hospital visits that everything was going to be okay.

"Have faith!" he told her. "Jesus told me it will be okay."

Now, Cameron gives out many more smiles than tears.

On Thursday, Cameron and his mother had reason to smile when a new couch arrived from Aaron's furniture store. LeDeaux entered a Facebook-based nomination program designed to recognize a family in need and was chosen to receive about $2,000 worth of furniture. Aaron's received around 200 entries and picked one winner each from Utah, Colorado and Idaho. LeDeaux's application included her son's story of survival and her family's story of struggle.

"I never thought I would win," she said. "But wow, look at this!"

A loveseat, end tables, a cocktail table, two lamps and a sofa were delivered and placed in LeDeaux's living room while Cameron and his brother Tarryn, 2, played outside in the grass.

Former TFHS student wins big at arts contest

By Amy Huddleston
Times-News writer

Fourteen contestants showed off their talents Thursday night at the Danny Marona Performing Arts Scholarship Finals, held at the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium.

Dubbed "The Big Kahuna," the competition, started by retired performer Danny Marona, is in its fourth year and helps south-central Idaho's young adults continue their talents in the arts.

Performances ranged from singing to pantomime. But it was Andrew Bortz's piano playing and singing that brought home the first place prize of $5,000. Bortz played the jazzy love song Everything, and dedicated it to anyone in the audience who has ever wanted a song devoted to only them. The suit-clad 19-year-old is a former Twin Falls High School student who now attends Whitworth University in Spokane, Wash.

Son: Mom cried N.Y. river plunge ‘terrible mistake’

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A suicidal mother who loaded her four children into a minivan and drove off a boat ramp into the frigid Hudson River changed her mind as the van sank and cried, “I made a mistake, I made a terrible mistake,” said her 10-year-old son, who survived by crawling out a window and swimming ashore.

Lashanda Armstrong had warned in a cryptic Facebook message just before the fatal plunge: “I’m so sorry everyone forgive me please for what I’m gonna do. ... This Is It!!!!”

Her 10-year-old son, the only survivor as his mother and three siblings drowned, says she had told the children, “You’re all going to die with me,” but then tried, too late, to back out of the river, according to a woman who found the sopping wet boy.

Meave Ryan was driving past the boat ramp in Newburgh, about 60 miles north of New York City, on Tuesday evening when she spotted the boy, La’Shaun Armstrong, waving his arms.

Ryan said the boy told her that his mother had had a “big, big argument about my stepdad’s cheating on her,” then piled the four children in the minivan and sped into the river.

Ryan told The Associated Press on Thursday that La’Shaun said Armstrong had held him and the other kids — boys ages 5 and 2 and an 11-month-old girl — as the minivan began sinking.

“She was holding on to all of them and said, ‘If I’m going to die, you’re all going to die with me,’” Ryan said. “She said that two or three times.”

But as the vehicle sank, La’Shaun broke free of his mother’s grasp and clambered out a window.

Ryan said: “While he was doing that, he heard his mother saying, ‘I made a mistake, I made a terrible mistake.’ And she tried to reverse the car out, but at that time it was too late. He said, ‘Mommy, I’m going to go get help,’ and she said, ‘OK.’ And that was the last he heard from his mother.”

Ryan drove the boy to a nearby fire station. Rescuers immediately went to the river, but it was too late: They found the van about 25 yards from shore in 8 feet of water. Lashanda Armstrong and three children were dead.

Ryan’s account conforms to reports from police, who say Armstrong was involved in a domestic incident at her apartment Tuesday evening and within minutes had plunged off a boat ramp into the river just a half-mile from her apartment in a hard-luck section of the city.

“I don’t know if we’ll ever find out what Lashanda Armstrong was thinking when she left that home and drove to the river,” Newburgh police Chief Michael Ferrara said.

“A lot of people can connect with that song and it gets the audience involved,” Bortz said after he won, adding that he will use the scholarship money to keep his dream of one day teaching at a university and composing music alive.

An additional $500 was given to the winner’s choice and Bortz offered it up to the Twin Falls High School band program taught by his father, Dennis Bortz.

“He has been a big influence in my music,” Andrew said. “I started playing when I was 5 or 6 and I never gave it up.”

Second-place winner Whitney Smith, of Twin Falls, took home $2,500 for her medley singing performance of My Fair Lady, and third-place winner Stephanie Sloan, from Hailey, won $1,500 for her guitar and singing rendition of I Will Survive.

In search of Idaho’s ‘spudnut’ moment

Idaho’s own Sarah Palin has hauled a venerable confection long associated with Idaho out of the flour bin of history.

The Sandpoint-born former Alaska governor, who is thinking about running for president, recently criticized President Obama for a line in his State of the Union speech about the need for a “Sputnik moment” to drive American innovation.

Palin told Fox News that what’s needed is a “spudnut” moment and held up the family owned shop that was a favorite of her grandfather’s as a small business that is “not looking for government to bail” em out.”

On her Facebook page, Palin posted further thoughts on Sputnik vs. Spudnut and shot back at critics who have taken her to task for the analogy.

“We’d be well off if we had a greater appreciation for the free market ingenuity of ordinary American entrepreneurs, both great and small — whether they make high-tech gadgets or potato doughnuts,” Palin wrote.

The former governor was referring to The Spudnut Shop in Richland, Wash. According to USA Today, owner Val Driver said Palin’s grandfather was a friend and he would sit in the shop’s “amen corner” six days a week with some of the local businessmen.

Palin’s mother, Sally, was raised in the area and Palin would visit her grandparents when she attended college in Idaho.

Spudnuts — they’re doughnuts made with potato and wheat flour — have a long, if tenuous, association with the Gem State.

Al and Bob Pelton of Salt Lake City sampled potato-based doughnuts in Germany, and eventually developed a dry potato mix that was easy to duplicate — and thus franchise. They launched their Spudnut Shops franchise in 1948, using flour made from Idaho potatoes.

In 1954, there were more than 300 Spudnut Shops in 38 states. By 1964, the Peltons were selling about 400,000 spudnuts per day.

The brothers retired in 1968 and sold their company to Pace Industries, which five years later sold it again. By 1989, the remaining 28 franchises were on their own.

There are 35 Spudnut shops today in nine states. The only Idaho outlet is SugarDoodles Sweetshoppe in Meridian.

The Peltons sold Spudnut flour or frozen batter as part their $1,750 franchise fee. Recipes for the doughnuts still abound — there are 15 of them on Cooks.com alone — but the most authentic is probably to be found at Tasteofhome.com, which starts with a pound of russet potatoes that you peel and mash. But they’re not for the faint of heart — literally.

Each spudnut contains 3.2 grams of fat and 17 milligrams of cholesterol.

United States’ entry into World War II. But to his family, he was much more than a hero.

“He was one who loved his fellow man and would serve them,” Robert Kohntopp said of his father.

Leroy Kohntopp didn’t talk much about the attack, his son said, other than to mention a recurring nightmare about being trapped in the bottom of the USS Maryland. But his character spoke through his service, be it through the survivors association, his seven years as a bishop with The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, or bringing a neighbor goods from his farm.

“He was a very hardworking man who loved his family,” Richard Kohntopp said. “He was a very service-oriented person. He would do things spontaneously for other people.”

Today, he represents another loss among the dwindling fraternity of Pearl Harbor survivors. Their numbers diminished to an estimated 3,000 across the U.S. last year, and continue to decrease as even the youngest survivors of the attacks reach their 90s.

The Pearl Harbor Survivors Association has gone through multiple changes in leadership over the past couple of years. On Thursday, Arthur Herriford was too ill to speak on the phone about the group he led in 2010. In the Magic Valley, the chapter Leroy Kohntopp led had dwindled to just 16 members before it was dissolved in 2005.

“When they came together, they wanted to come together again not to rehash things, but to just have pure fellowship as American citizens,” Leroy Kohntopp said of the association in a 2010 interview.

The Sons and Daughters of Pearl Harbor Survivors, established in 1973 to keep the memory of the attack alive, hopes to carry the banner when the survivors group no longer can. And informally, the families of survivors like Leroy Kohntopp will continue to share their memories with their younger generations.

Leroy Kohntopp’s grandchildren are all old enough to remember him, his son said, so now it’s up to them to share those memories with their children.

“I think they’d teach them the same values that I’d mentioned about dad,” Robert Kohntopp said. “That he’s someone you’d look up to based on his values and how he’d treated other people, and his kindness toward people. I think that’s his legacy.”

Wolves

Environmentalists still count Obama as an ally on other issues, ranging from climate change and wilderness preservation to oil and gas exploration. Yet experts in wildlife law say that in the scramble to pass the budget, the administration is circumventing one of the country’s bedrock environmental laws.

That’s a bitter pill for conservationists, who hoped a Democratic White House would more aggressively protect a law many say was ignored under the Bush administration.

The next potential blow to the law already is looming. A 2012 budget request from the Department of Interior would impose a sharp spending cap on a program that allows citizens to petition for species to be listed as endangered.

Those petitions were used for the majority of the species added to the list over the last four decades.

“We are having the worst attack on the Endangered Species Act in 30 years while we have a Democratic Senate and a Democratic White House,” said Kieran Suckling with the Center for Biological Diversity. “They are trying to shut citizens and scientists out of the endangered species process.”

To date, the Obama administration has listed 59 species as endangered — a rate of about 30 a year, according to Suckling’s group, which closely tracks endangered species issues.

That’s up significantly from the Bush years, when the average was eight per year, but far behind the 65 species per year under the Clinton administration.

Western lawmakers who backed the budget bill rider said the wolf issue was unique and merited special intervention. Federal judges over the last decade had repeatedly blocked attempts to downgrade the legal status of an animal population most biologists agreed was thriving.

Meanwhile, wolf attacks have generated resentment among ranchers and sportsmen. Those groups are increasingly frustrated they have been unable to strike back against the predators.

J.B. Ruhl, an expert in the Endangered Species Act at Florida State University, warned against reading too much into the wolf provision, which was latched on to a must-pass bill needed to avert a government shutdown.

“It seems to me the planets had to be aligned just right to make this happen,” Ruhl said. “There might be a wing of the Republican party that would love to see the Endangered Species Act reformed, but I don’t think they are going to be able to ram that through anytime soon.”

Support within the Obama administration for lifting wolf protections predates the budget negotiations. That stance mirrors the government’s actions under the Bush administration, when officials first proposed lifting protections.

The White House referred questions to the office of Interior Sec. Ken Salazar.

Interior spokeswoman Kendra Barkoff refused to directly address the legislation. She said the agency views the Endangered Species Act as a “critical safety net” that has prevented the extinction of hundreds of imperiled species.

A test explosion is carried out Thursday morning along Washington Street North, just north of Filer Avenue. Crews used 400 pounds of explosives to start excavation of a new drainage system as part of the Washington Street widening project.

Crews blast open trench along T.F.'s Washington

Times-News

Drivers stopped along Washington Street North on Thursday morning were treated to a rare sight — explosive blasts in Twin Falls.

Workers completed a test blast just north of Filer Avenue, near Domino's Pizza, in advance of more over the next few days. The work will create a trench about 20 feet deep to hold a 36-inch storm drain pipe along the sidewalk next to the northbound lanes, part of ongoing construction on Washington Street.

Idaho Transportation Department spokesman Nathan Jerke said the test run went well, with no issues with debris. People can expect about two blasts a day between Thursday's site and Caswell Avenue for the next few working days, he said.

Thursday's explosion involved 400 pounds of explosives spread across multiple holes drilled into the ground, according to workers at the scene.

Workers briefly closed the street to traffic between Filer and Caswell for the event, and similar closures will occur with every subsequent blast, Jerke said. The eventual pipe will connect to an underground drain tunnel north of Filer Avenue.

DEBCO Construction of Orofino is the main contractor for the federally funded, $6.5 million Washington overhaul sponsored by the city of Twin Falls and administered by ITD.

Jerke said construction crews are pushing as fast as they can to wrap up the project, which should finish mid-summer after the street's northbound lanes are rebuilt. Spotty weather has slowed efforts somewhat, he said. For the next week, Washington's westernmost southbound lane will remain closed during working hours as crews form and pour concrete for a sidewalk.

Filer punts on new business

By John E. Swayze
Times-News correspondent

FILER — In its ongoing effort to attract new business, Filer is still being choosy about finding the right fit.

Concerns about overextending the city's sewer system led Filer city officials on Tuesday to deny allowing a company that makes formula for infant animals to set up shop in town.

California-based Calva Products Inc. toured the Magic Valley in a January economic development event and expressed interest in locating a new operation at an existing building on Filer's Front Street.

"I really hate to turn an opportunity like this down," said Mayor Bob Templeman, "But it really comes down to deciding what businesses will fit at and what's in the best interest of this community. We just won't have the infrastructure for something like this."

Rob Hegstrom, with Twin Falls-based J-U-B Engineers, estimated that the city could gain $2 million in initial wastewater capacity fee revenue from the company, but voiced his concern that its 60,000 gallon daily water requirement would represent half the capacity of current sewer lagoons.

Hegstrom said waste from the company could also strain the city's new $15 million wastewater treatment plant when it comes online in the fall.

"The decision is up to you, but that amount of water is all at one time and not a continuous flow," Hegstrom told council members. "We could work with them and require that they do some pre-treatment, but it still takes time for the (wastewater treatment plant's membrane bioreactor) bugs, filters and ultraviolet light to complete the process."

Luna recall effort comes to S-C Idaho

Times-News

A group that seeks an August public vote to recall Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna hopes to gain petition signatures at three south-central Idaho locations on Saturday.

Petition drives will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Twin Falls City Park and at Roberta McKercher Park in Hailey, and from 1 to 5 p.m. at Lex Kuna Park in Burley. The group hopes to collect 158,107 valid signatures during the next 2 1/2 months to put the recall effort on an official statewide ballot. Campaign organizer Nancy Berto of Mountain Home has led this effort against Luna, in response to his "Students Come First" education reform package that cleared the Legislature before it adjourned last week.

CSI players enter plea deals on drug charges

Brooks, Cothron scheduled for May 10 sentencing

Two College of Southern Idaho men's basketball players pleaded guilty on Thursday to misdemeanor charges of frequenting a place where illegal substances are present.

Jerrold Brooks, a starting guard for CSI's national championship team, and transfer Luke Cothron entered guilty pleas in Twin Falls County 5th District Court before Judge Roger Harris in a brief hearing.

The basketball players spoke little during the hearing, other than answering "yes, sir" when the judge read them their rights, and providing guilty pleas to a reduced charge with a smaller penalty than the original misdemeanor possession of a controlled substance charge each faced.

According to Twin Falls police, they were found on March 22 sitting in a vehicle filled with white smoke on the 1900 block of Bitterroot Drive in Twin Falls. Police said Brooks, who was driving, pulled the vehicle away when the officer approached, but was pursued and stopped. Brooks and Cothron were in possession of a container of 8.2 grams of marijuana, while Cothron had another 0.7 grams on his person, according to police.

Brooks had told police he got the marijuana from a girl at a bar in Kansas, where CSI played earlier in March in the NJCAA National Tournament, according to police.

The Twin Falls County Prosecutor's Office has recommended the same sentence for each: a $100 fine, one year of probation, 20 hours of community service, and a sentence of 90 days in jail, though neither will have to serve jail time if they successfully complete probation.

The prosecutor's recommendation would also require them to be subject to random drug tests during probation and complete substance abuse evaluations.

The original possession charges had carried penalties of up to one year in jail, a $1,000 fine, or both. The reduced frequenting charges they pleaded to carry a maximum penalty of up to 90 days in jail, a $300 fine, or both.

Sticker shock in Blaine County

Blaine County commissioners figured the tab for replacing Friedman Memorial Airport would be steep. But they weren’t prepared for how steep. Consultants advising the county and its partners on the new airport now say the previous cost estimate — $130 million to $160 million — wasn’t even close. It’ll be more like $285 million, by the time utilities, equipment and other factors are taken into account — and maybe $326 million by the time the project is finished. That’s a problem. Consultants reckon the Federal Aviation Administration might be willing to pony up to $192 million; that’s less than 60 percent of the cost. And if you take into account the potential proceeds from the sale of the current Friedman site, that still leaves a sizeable deficit to be covered by the taxpayers.

Our view:
How much is too much to pay for a new Blaine County airport?
What do you think?
We welcome viewpoints from our readers on this and other issues.

How sizeable?
Up to $45 million, through a bond issue over 20 years. For a county with a total assessed valuation of $10.6 billion, that’s a lot.
More to the point, a bond issue of that magnitude might tie the county’s hands when it comes time to ask taxpayers to spend more for schools, roads and water and sewer projects.
Consultants plan to meet with the FAA in mid-May. At that meeting, the agency wants to get a sense of the community’s commitment to the project, which could affect how much the FAA is willing to put toward the airport.
“I don’t think we have nearly enough information to know where I would be or where the public would be,” Commissioner Angenie McCleary said Tuesday.
The county wants to wait until the draft environmental statement is available, because it might be too expensive to remediate the sites under consideration — one off Highway 75 near the Blaine-Lincoln County border and the second in Camas County.
But might the total price tag be a deal-breaker for a new airport in Blaine County?
Probably not. The FAA insists the present Friedman site is too dangerous, and unless the agency changes its mind a new airport would have to be built somewhere else.
Yet the cost of doing so could end up being a significant — and long-term — burden on Blaine County property owners who already pay heavy taxes.
Makes us wish that Blaine County had engaged the counties of the Magic Valley in a serious discussion about building a regional airport in Lincoln County.
Potentially, that would have solved one of Twin Falls’ biggest impediments to economic development — air transportation — and kept Blaine County’s airport affordable.

Where your taxes will go in 2011

Taxpayers frantically filing their 1040s — as well as anyone following the spending and deficit debate in Washington — may be asking where exactly their tax dollars are going.

Brian Riedl

Some believe most spending goes to welfare and foreign aid. Others believe defense and corporate welfare dominate the budget. In reality, Social Security and Medicare are the largest programs, and are set to nearly double over the next decade. Overall, Washington will spend $32,137 per household in 2011 — the highest level in American history (adjusted for inflation). It will collect $18,295 per household in taxes. The remaining $13,841 represents this year’s staggering budget deficit per household, which, along with all prior government debt, will be dumped in the laps of our children. Government spending has increased by $5,000 per household since 2008, and nearly $10,000 per household over the past decade. Yet there is no free lunch: If spending is not reined in, then eventually taxes must also rise by $10,000 per household. Washington will spend this $32,137 per household as follows:
• Social Security and Medicare: $10,458. The 15.3 percent payroll tax, split evenly between the employer and employee, covers most of Social Security’s and some of Medicare’s costs. This system can remain sustainable only if there are enough workers to support all retirees, which is why it risks collapsing under the weight of 77 million retiring baby boomers. Unless these programs are reformed, paying all promised benefits would eventually require doubling all income tax rates.
• Defense: $6,465. The defense budget covers

“Government spending has increased by $5,000 per household since 2008, and nearly $10,000 per household over the past decade. Yet there is no free lunch: If spending is not reined in, then eventually taxes must also rise by $10,000 per household.”

everything from military paychecks, to operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, to the research, development and acquisition of new technologies and equipment. Lawmakers drastically reduced defense spending following the collapse of communism in the early 1990s. The 9/11 attacks reversed this trend, and the $2,800 per household increase since 2000 has returned defense spending closer to its historical levels (but still lower than during previous wars).
• Anti-poverty programs: $5,374. Nearly half of this spending subsidizes state Medicaid programs that provide health services to poor families. Other low-income spending includes Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, food stamps, housing subsidies, child-care subsidies, Supplemental Security Income and low-income tax credits. President George W. Bush increased anti-poverty spending to record levels, and it has grown an additional 29 percent since the end of 2008 under President Barack Obama.

• Interest on the federal debt: $1,739. The federal government is $14 trillion in debt. It owes $10 trillion to public bond owners, and the rest to other federal agencies. Record-low interest rates have recently held down these costs. However, the national debt is set to double by 2020, which will combine with higher interest rates to raise annual interest costs to nearly $6,000 per household.
• Veterans’ benefits: $1,190. The federal government provides income and health benefits to war veterans. Spending has leaped 147 percent over the past decade.
• Unemployment benefits: $1,135. Unemployment costs have nearly tripled since the recession began.
• Education: $698. Education spending is primarily a state and local function; 9 percent of the total comes from Washington. The federal education budget has jumped 83 percent since 2000. Most federal dollars are spent on low-income school districts, special education and college student financial aid.

• Health research/regulation: $552. This spending is up 56 percent over the decade, and much of this growth is concentrated in the National Institute of Health. The category also includes the Food and Drug Administration and dozens of grant programs for health providers.
• Highways/mass transit: $522. Most highway and mass-transit spending is financed by the 18.4 cent per-gallon federal gas tax. Washington subtracts an administrative cost and sends this money back to the states with numerous strings attached.
• Justice administration: $510. Justice spending includes federal attorneys and prisons, as well as law-enforcement grant programs. New homeland security costs have added $100 per household to justice spending.
Taxpayers — and the next generation that will be paying nearly half of the bill — must decide for themselves if they’re getting their money’s worth.

Legislators didn’t raise taxes? Think again

After reading how Hartgen, Patrick, Heider, Brackett and Block voted this past legislative session, I hope they do not break their arms patting themselves on their backs for a job well done. They provide no more leadership than a band of blind sheep. If they were all shut in a closet, I don’t think they would come out unless Lawrence Denney told them to. We all know Hartgen does not support public education, but the rest of you should be ashamed of yourselves. You say that you could not do any more than balance the budget and you did not raise taxes, but this is not true. Indirectly, you have raised taxes on almost all of the school districts in the valley. What the state did not provide, local districts must make up by passing supplemental levies just to keep existing teachers and programs. These legislators underfunded education, yet expect student achievement to get better. You supported sweeping school reform without any teacher buy-in. How good with this turn out? This past session, people spent way too much time on silly issues like guns on college grounds and health care not for us. If guns are so needed everywhere, then why don’t you allow the public to have them in the Statehouse? Rep. Ken Roberts quote on guns for every blade of grass was one of the dumbest things to come out of the session, and there were some good ones. Anyway, you seem to have forgotten that he who governs best usually governs least. We do not elect people to follow like blind sheep, especially people like Lawrence Denney.

Burley: No amount of denial will change facts Regarding Laurie Welch’s nicely done story about the city of Burley in April 12 Times-News, “Prosecutor: Meeting law may have been violated”: a few comments about one violation. Comments about the other violations and the egregious conflicts of interest by some elected and appointed officials will have to be said later. As will comments about Mayor Terry Greenman’s hyena-like attempts to silence me, and his and Councilman Casey Andersen’s atrociously animated exhibitionism in City Council meetings when I attempted to hold the perps accountable. John Belushi would have stared in disbelief (or envy) at their behavior. Remember, I am in my 70s. I have been doing this type of stuff for more than 40 years, ever since I was trained by some of America’s finest undercover organized crime and narcotics agents. And I do not work in a vacuum. I can take the heat and I know acutely when politics takes over. So Cassia County Prosecuting Attorney Al Barrus’ statement that my efforts “could have been used in more productive pursuits,” albeit lame and unprofessional, does not disgust me like Greenman’s and Andersen’s have. Walt Disney would have grinned like a Cheshire cat at Barrus’ decision that “through a misunderstanding of the law, the city technically violated the open meeting law” (emphasis mine). Technically doesn’t make sense. Either the city violated the law or it didn’t. Well, it did. Big time! And no amount of denial by Greenman will change things. The city fathers, except Councilman Gordy Hansen but including the $100,000 per year city attorney, met in a closed meeting and illegally discussed the sale of a taxpayer-owned building. Then they “Nixoned” (stonewalled) me. The taxpayers have every right under the sun to know what might be going on with their property. Greenman and his obstinate political serfs apparently think otherwise.

Why Cassia Co. is staying out of Albion road dispute

There is an order to all things in the world. Sad experience proves time after time, that when we step out of order, there is chaos, confusion and contention.

Claims have been wrongfully made that the commission has “lost interest” is “misinformed” or simply “ignores the law”. Nothing is further from the truth. This board of commissioners is very interested, very informed, and is driven by integrity and the law to do what is right — to follow the order of things.

Recently several letters have been distributed through various media attacking the commissioners, other county personnel and attempting to set forth the legal basis for action concerning roads, and perceived roads within various parts of Cassia County.

Personal attacks usually arise when the underlying issues and relevant facts are sparse, non-existent or misunderstood. Therefore we set forth the legal parameters that govern commission action in the arena of jurisdiction over roads. It is our desire that relevant facts be used, in conjunction with the laws set forth by the legislature, in conducting public debate on these matters.

The board is aware of intense opinion and feelings regarding road and access issues. Instead of pandering to those special interests or circumstances, the board has turned to statute and the rule of law to provide order and fairness. The board has diligently worked to understand the relevant law as set forth in code, and not as anecdotally delivered or wondered about in some quarters. The board is comfortable that it understands how road validation statutes apply to their actions, and are prepared to follow that order of things as they have determined is fair and appropriate to all citizens; not just a few.

READER COMMENT
By Dennis Crane, Paul Christensen and Bob Kunau

By this procedure, the board provides for fairness to all interested parties; rather than have any decision appear to be a backroom deal. This is what this board strives for, and it is what we are doing. Were we to do otherwise, it would be like building a mud hut in an earthquake zone — a matter of “when”, not “if” it would collapse.

So, we write to share some basic parameters that govern this board’s duties and responsibilities concerning road validation matters in general. In discussing duties and responsibilities it is critical that the law be understood as written by the Legislature. Idaho Code, Section 40-604 discusses the duties and powers of commissioners. Among other items, it sets forth that the “Commissioners shall (1) Exercise general supervision over all highways in the county highway system, including their location, design, construction, reconstruction, repair and maintenance, and develop general policies regarding highway matters. (2) Cause to be surveyed, viewed, laid out, recorded, opened and worked, any highways or public rights-of-way as are necessary for public convenience under the provisions of sections 40-202 and 40-203A, Idaho Code.” And in paragraph (13) of this section sets forth that “(by) July 1, 2000, and every five years thereafter, the commissioners shall have published in map form and made readily available the location of all public rights-of-way under their jurisdiction.”

However, when a highway district is organized under Idaho law, it supplants county commissioners for its identified jurisdiction. Idaho Code Section 40-1310 discusses the powers and duties of highway district commissioners in such case. In relevant part it states: “The commissioners of a highway district have exclusive general supervision and jurisdiction over all highways and public rights-of-way within their highway system, with full power to construct, maintain, repair, acquire, purchase and improve all highways within their highway system, whether directly or by their own agents and employees or by contract. Except as otherwise provided in this chapter in respect to the highways within their highway system, a highway district shall have all of the powers and duties that would by law be vested in the commissioners of the county and in the district directors of highways if the highway district had not been organized.”

In the simplest terms, county commissioners have no right or authority to supervise or exercise jurisdiction over the road matters within an organized highway district boundary. And so for road matters within the Albion Highway District, the board of county commissioners recognizes the highway district commission as being the ultimate supervising authority, answerable in their duties and responsibilities only to the electorate for that jurisdiction, or to the courts in instances of judicial review.

It is also the highway district’s obligation to provide mapping of public rights-of-way under its jurisdiction. Idaho Code Section 40-1310 goes on to state, in relevant part: “By July 1, 2000, and every five years thereafter, the highway district board of commissioners shall have published in map form and made readily available the location of all public rights-of-way under its jurisdiction.”

We would add that the duty is to publish in map form the location of all public rights-of-way under the district’s jurisdiction. This does not necessarily translate into “... cataloging and mapping roads in common use by the public...” as has been posited by some. It is critical in understanding and acting on such legislation to actually deal with what the statutes say, as opposed to merely what one thinks or hopes that they say.

Next, with regard to the road validation process, it is specifically governed by Idaho Code Section 40-203A. That section of Idaho Code sets forth the validation procedure for public rights-of-way. It offers an option to petition by residents, property holders within the relevant highway system, the state of Idaho, or federal agencies or it allows the governing board of the highway system to initiate proceedings if certain conditions exist.

With respect to proposed proceedings concerning 1125 East near Elba, the board of county commissioners has determined after review that any proceedings will have to be initiated by petition of another, and will not be brought forward by the board. The board is aware that there are residents and property holders within the county road and bridge area of jurisdiction that line up on each side of the issue as to whether the road should be validated or not. The board has been advised that evidence will be produced on this issue. Therefore, in order to be fair and to propound the interests of due process to all involved, the board will not initiate proceedings on its own and become an advocate for one position or the other.

Instead, the board will remain neutral on the matter. Then, if a petition for validation is filed, the board will hear all interested parties and make a determination based upon the relevant facts and evidence presented.

To do otherwise would be imprudent, unlawful and unfair.

Public school teachers get plenty of contempt from conservatives

At a time when teachers and their unions are under fire across the nation, my eldest daughter just had a much-anticipated interview with Teach for America. She will graduate from college in May and hopes to be a teacher in the fall.

She was worried that I’d be disappointed she didn’t feel a desire for graduate school.

But I was thrilled. Since graduating from college in 1984, I’ve taught GED courses, English as a second language, composition at a city college and now writing and literature at a public university. I have loved every year, and I don’t think there’s a more important profession.

Think about it: We aren’t legally mandated to spend as much time with any other kind of person as we are with teachers. An American who graduates from high school has been taught by more than 20 teachers and has spent more than 10,000 hours in their company. It’s no wonder almost everyone has a story about a teacher who changed his or her life.

Still, with all the contempt and anger being hurled at teachers right now, it’s alarming to be sending a daughter into the crossfire, especially when new teachers are the first to be threatened with pink slips.

The growing scorn for public school teachers is at every level of education. Teachers are blamed for bad test results, for disrespectful students, for failing schools. They are thought to be lazy, draining public coffers with their monthly salaries and pension benefits (although they actually contribute to their pensions like everyone else).

Last fall, a video posted by blogger Shannyn Moore showed Sarah Palin and her daughter Willow confronting a woman protesting during the filming of Palin’s reality TV series on a fishing dock in Homer, Alaska. When Palin asks the woman about her profession, she replies that she is a teacher, and Palin and Willow, who is of high school age, exchange knowing looks. Palin turns back to the woman. “Oh — a teacher,” she says, her voice oozing condescension.

Susan Straight

“Teachers are blamed for bad test results, for disrespectful students, for failing schools. They are thought to be lazy, draining public coffers with their monthly salaries and pension benefits ...”

This kind of conservative contempt for public school teachers began decades ago with white flight (remember the private schools that sprang up in churches and homes during integration in the 1970s?), and it continues today. In Southern California, it can be seen in the flight of so many families to religious schools — not just the traditional Roman Catholic schools but numerous new church-affiliated facilities. I’ve been told by parents of students who attend private religious schools that public schools are beyond redemption, and they resent their tax dollars subsidizing poor-quality education.

At the very moment my daughter hopes to become a teacher, Detroit is talking about closing half its public schools. In Rhode Island, teachers are being laid off wholesale. California has issued thousands of pink slips.

All over the world, people sacrifice to send their children to school. Afghan girls are threatened yet still walk to school; Chinese children are sent to schools in far-away cities by parents desperate to give them better lives; Kenyan students study by kerosene lamp in one-room schools built by grateful parents.

Here, access to a free education is an essential part of the American dream. I was sent to kindergarten at 4 by my mother, a Swiss immigrant. She taught me to read when I was 3, worried that the school wouldn’t admit me unless I was already literate. I went daily to a kind teacher who let me read advanced books in the corner. I remember her hair, her lips when her mouth moved, and her fingernails. Decades later, she remembers me, and says I told her stories.

I believe it. Because teachers are often therapists, friends, mentors, coaches, sometimes providers of food and school supplies or holders of secrets. And in that way, they are some of the most important people in children’s lives.

And sometimes, despite all the disrespect that’s out there, teachers are appreciated. Last week, I got an email from a Cambodian-American student from San Bernardino, Calif., who now teaches English in South Korea; she was writing to say thank you.

My students, many of them first-generation immigrants, have brought me gifts and invited me to their weddings and New Year celebrations. I have gotten calls of thanks from their parents. And sometimes they have called me not by my name, but by the most reverent word they could summon: Teacher.

I try to imagine my daughter in a classroom this fall, looking out at the faces of children who are thinking of numbers and letters and secrets. I remember the woman who taught me to form the alphabet, the man who taught me long division. I remember my sixth-grade teacher, Mrs. Wolf, playing Cat Stevens songs on the guitar. And I wonder about the children who may one day remember my daughter’s teaching, and in what ways she may have changed their lives.

FAA tries to quell uproar over sleeping air traffic controllers

Publicly fuming, the FAA chief collected Thursday the resignation of the head of the U.S. air traffic system, doubled controller staffing at more than two dozen airports and ordered a sweeping review of the entire system that ensures planes fly safely, as the government sought to reassure the public that air travel is safe despite at least four instances of controllers sleeping on the job.

But present and former controllers told The Associated Press that grueling work schedules and the design of the job itself — sitting in a dark room at night waiting for pilots to call — have made taking naps on the job necessary, even if unauthorized by the FAA. One whistle-blower complained to the Transportation Department that cots can be found in one radar center, most often with controllers asleep in them.

Federal Aviation Administrator Randy Babbitt said this week he was immediately adding a second controller on overnight shifts at 26 airports and a radar facility that had been staffed with a lone controller. Presumably the second controller provides a margin of safety if the first falls asleep.

Moderate Democrats stand with Obama on health care

Tough re-election campaigns looming, a handful of moderate Senate Democrats voted on Thursday to keep the money flowing to President Barack Obama's health care law despite increasing public opposition to the year-old overhaul.

The deal on the spending bill struck by Obama, House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, and Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., required a separate vote on cutting off money for the year-old health care overhaul. The effort failed, 53-47, falling 13 votes short of the 60 votes needed for passage, but it put lawmakers on record — an outcome relished by Republicans looking ahead to 2012.

Moderate Democrats such as Sens. Claire McCaskill of Missouri, Jon Tester of Montana and Ben Nelson of Nebraska stood with Obama in endorsing the health care law last March and they voted with their party leaders on Thursday. Abandoning the law now would have drawn charges of flip-flopping.

Within minutes of the vote, the National Republican Senatorial Committee sent out news releases to Missouri, Montana and Nebraska as well as several other states, criticizing the Democrats on their vote.

Japan orders compensation for nuke plant evacuees

TOKYO — Japan's government on Friday ordered the operator of a tsunami-damaged nuclear plant leaking radiation to pay about $12,000 to each household forced to evacuate from the area.

Tens of thousands of residents unable to return to their homes near the nuclear plant are bereft of their livelihoods and possessions, unsure of when, if ever, they will be able to return home. Some have traveled hundreds of miles to Tokyo Electric Power Co.'s headquarters in Tokyo to press their demands for compensation.

Hiroaki Wada, a Trade Ministry spokesman, said Friday that TEPCO will pay compensation as soon as possible, with families forced to evacuate getting 1 million yen (about $12,000) and individuals getting 750,000 yen (about $9,000).

Homeowners, scared to sell, rush to remodel

By Sandra M. Jones
Chicago Tribune

CHICAGO — After several years of perusing real estate listings and spending Sunday afternoons at open houses, Denise Majeski decided to stay put and fix up her 25-year-old Gurnee, Ill., home.

As the housing market languished even as the economy improved, Majeski determined the financially prudent course would be to fix up the house a little at a time, starting with replacing the windows and renovating the bathrooms.

“Initially we were thinking about moving,” said Majeski, 55. “But that would require a mortgage and additional amounts of money. We can do a home improvement at a pace that we can afford.”

It is a choice more homeowners are making these days and one that is lifting the fortunes of the long-suffering home improvement industry.

Seasonal hiring at Lowe’s Cos., the nation’s No. 2 home improvement retailer, is up 15 percent this spring as homeowners, feeling more secure in their jobs, tackle maintenance projects delayed during the recession. Midwest regional chain Menard Inc. is expanding again. It plans to build 12 stores this year, up from four in 2010.

And Home Depot Inc., the largest home improvement retailer, reported in February its first annual sales increase since 2006, before the housing market crashed. The home improvement business is stabilizing despite the continued weakness of the housing market, Home Depot Chief Executive Frank Blake said at the time.

“People are doing what it takes to be happy where they are,” said Jack Horst, retail strategist at Kurt Salmon, a consulting firm. “They are more likely doing maintenance and replacement than big fundamental changes.”

“People are doing what it takes to be happy where they are. They are more likely doing maintenance and replacement than big fundamental changes.”

— Jack Horst, retail strategist at Kurt Salmon, a consulting firm are enough to make Rebecca and Bill Klies happy in their new home. The couple, in their 30s, bought their first condo last October in a short sale _ in which a lender allows a homeowner to sell a property for less than the amount owed on the mortgage.

Now, the Klieses spend weekends at Home Depot and Lowe’s getting ideas on how to fix up their West Loop loft without spending a fortune. They’ve swapped out light fixtures, recaulked the shower, put up new towel racks, installed a ceiling fan in the bedroom, bought new light switch plates, painted several rooms and touched up the molding.

“These are simple little fixes that make a big difference overall,” said Rebecca Klies.

At the same time, home improvement stores are getting an extra sales boost as homeowners dig out from a winter of record snowfalls and lengthy cold spells. The severe weather has left shingles, gutters and downspouts in need of repair and lawns littered with broken shrubs and damaged trees.

“These are the have-to-do projects,” said Jim Kane, president of Home Depot’s northern division. “We’ve just come through a tough winter, and the winter has just taken its toll on all those things.”

Maintenance and repairs account for about 40 percent of Home Depot sales, up sharply from recent years when home sales slowed, said Daniel Binder, an analyst at Jefferies & Co., in a report last month.

Spending on home remodeling is expected to rise 9.1 percent in the first quarter to $125.1 billion from the same period a year ago, according to a widely followed index from Harvard University’s Joint Center for Housing Studies. The last time remodeling activity for a three-month period topped $125 billion was the second quarter of 2008.

The center predicts the industry to gain momentum this spring with sales jumping 12.7 percent, to $132.9 billion, in the second quarter from a year ago, before tapering off to a 6.5 percent gain, to $123.5 billion, in the third quarter.

More homeowners are tackling basic house projects on their own instead of using general contractors, bringing in electricians or plumbers only for the toughest jobs, said Rich Cowgill, Chicago-area chapter president of the National Association of the Remodeling Industry, a Des Plaines, Ill.-based trade group.

Cowgill said he has noticed an increase in the size of the do-it-yourself classes he teaches as a volunteer at ReStore for Habitat for Humanity as more homeowners attempt to lay tile, replace windows or put up dry-wall.

“People are dressing up their homes because they’ve come to the realization with housing devalues that they’re not going to move,” said Cowgill, who also owns Vision Design and Build Inc., a home remodeling business in Willow Springs.

Kris and Dennis Cortes of Flossmoor, Ill., are typical of the post-recession home remodelers, industry experts said. The parents of five children said they chose to stay in the home they bought 20 years ago and to give the house a face-lift. They are adding a couple of gables to the roof, installing a new garage door and updating the landscaping.

“We could buy the megamansion, but we choose not to,” said Kris Cortes, 46. “We’re choosing to allocate our resources more towards education, charity and savings. I do think the country at large is headed in that direction.”

Avoid common tax filing mistakes

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With taxes due within a week, here are ways to avoid common tax return errors:

File electronically. Filing electronically, whether through e-file or IRS Free File, reduces the errors in a tax return.

Remember Making Work Pay. The Making Work Pay tax credit — available in 2009 and 2010 — is worth up to $400 for individuals and $800 for married couples.

Mail a paper return to the right address. Paper filers should check the appropriate address where to file in IRS.gov or their form instructions to avoid delays in processing.

Check only one filing status. Also, check the appropriate exemption boxes. When you enter Social Security numbers, make sure they are correct.

Double check all figures. While software catches and prevents many errors on e-file returns, math errors remain common on paper returns.

Get the right routing and account numbers. Requesting a federal refund directly deposited into one, two or even three accounts is convenient and allows the taxpayer access to his or her money faster.

Sign and date the return. If you are filing a joint return, both you and your spouse must sign and date the return. E-filers can sign using a self-selected personal identification number (PIN).

Attach forms to the front of the return. Paper filers need to attach W-2s and other forms that reflect tax withholding, as well as other necessary forms and schedules, to the front of their returns.

Request a Filing Extension. If you cannot meet the April 18 deadline, requesting a filing extension for your return is easy and will prevent late filing penalties. You can either use Free File or Form 4868.

Do you owe tax? If so, a number of e-payment options are available. Or send a check or money order payable to the “United States Treasury.”

Soaring food costs pushing millions into poverty

By Martin Crutsinger
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — Soaring food and energy prices, still-fragile financial systems and continued tensions between the United States and China over trade and currency issues will all be on the agenda at meetings over the next three days of global finance officials.

World Bank President Robert Zoellick said Thursday that food prices are 36 percent higher than they were a year ago and already have pushed 44 million people into poverty. He called on major countries to do more to help poor countries meet the challenge of feeding their populations at a time of surging prices.

Finance ministers and central bank presidents of the Group of 20 major industrial countries were involved in talks that began

Thursday on ways to address the food crisis and to better coordinate their economic policies.

Zoellick cited a new World Bank study that showed that another 10 percent increase in global food prices could drive an additional 10 million people into extreme poverty.

That would be in addition to the 44 million people who have been driven into poverty since June because of soaring food prices. The World Bank estimates there are about 1.2 billion people living below the poverty line of $1.25 per day.

“We have to put food first and protect the poor and vulnerable, who spend most of their money on food,” Zoellick said at a briefing to preview the upcoming finance meetings.

Those discussions began

POMERELLE DONATES TO HELPING HANDS

Courtesy photo
Pomerelle Mountain's Kali Burrows delivered canned food items to the Helping Hands Mission in Burley to assist the group in re-stocking its food pantry. On March 2 and 3, visitors to Pomerelle could bring two cans of food and get a night lift pass for $5. The mountain planned to deliver even more canned food to Helping Hands by offering '2 Can $20 Days' March 23, 30 and April 6.

Osteoarthritis sufferer finds some alternatives to surgery

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a 75-year-old with severe osteoarthritis in both knees. I have done well without knee-replacement surgery, owing to a knowledgeable physical therapist. The therapy goal of nearly a year ago was to walk a new puppy a short distance.

Early last year, a torn cartilage was surgically repaired, but the post-op pain continued. Cortisone injections offered no relief. A wheelchair was necessary to get any distance. Otherwise, a cane was necessary for support. Periodically, a lidocaine patch was applied with limited pain relief.

Six months post-therapy, I wear braces for support on both legs while walking my now year-old dog two miles — without pain. I also exercise and participate in yoga at a local health center comfortably and without the braces.

The purpose of my letter is to share my story to encourage other patients to consider alternative treatments before rushing to a surgical option.

DEAR READER: And encourage them you will. Osteoarthritis is a common disorder that can be extremely debilitating. It is more common in older people than it is in those younger, and women are affected twice as often as men.

Treatment is directed toward controlling the pain while maintaining regular movement and preventing joint deformity. Over-the-counter acetaminophen such as Tylenol is often the first step, because it has fewer side effects than some other choices. Other OTCs include topical skin creams such as Castiva, non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) or a glucosamine/chondroitin combination. Corticosteroids injected directly into the painful joint might fall into the line of progression; however, more than two or three a year could be harmful in the long run, and relief is limited in terms of time.

On the home front and only with the permission of a personal physician, readers might ask an opinion regarding applying heat/ice to affected knees, weight loss if appropriate, diet modifications and the incorporation of an exercise program. Perhaps they could also benefit from physical therapy, acupuncture or yoga.

As you pointed out, a cane, brace or wheelchair might be of assistance. Following all this, surgery might be necessary. I certainly take your position that numerous steps can be included into each day before this important step is taken. Thank you for writing.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In a recent article on constipation, you listed bran as one ingredient in your remedy. I know what bran is, but where can I buy it? I have been unable to find it in any store, nor have any clerks heard of such a product.

DEAR READER: To the best of my knowledge, products such as Kellogg's All-Bran, Quaker Oat Bran and many others are available in the cereal aisle of most grocery stores. Bran by itself may be beneficial, so if you buy muffins, waffles and other products, be sure to read labels because many commercial oat- and wheat-bran products contain a minimal amount of bran but lots of sodium and fat. Furthermore, oat-bran fiber can lower the absorption of statin medications prescribed for lowering cholesterol.

Henry Brown 'Duge' Pharris

April 19, 1918-April 12, 2011

BOISE — Henry Brown "Duge" Pharris died Tuesday, April 12, 2011, one week short of his 93rd birthday.

He was born April 19, 1918, on a farm five miles south of Jerome, the second of six children of Guy K. Pharris and Margaret (Adams) Pharris. At birth, Guy called him a "little Dugan," and the nickname Duge stuck for the rest of his life. Duge's early life was spent on the farm in Jerome's Canyonside District. When Duge was 14, his father died unexpectedly, leaving Margaret at the depths of the Great Depression with no income and six children to raise. With his brothers, Duge farmed and did odd jobs and, on the death of his grandfather Adams, Duge took over his grandfather's beekeeping business. When he graduated from Jerome High School in 1936, he sold the bees and raised enough money for one semester at the University of Idaho. Later he attended business college in Salt Lake City, studying to be a bookkeeper and accountant.

During the early part of World War II, Duge was a civilian contract employee of the Navy. On Pearl Harbor Day, he was working at Midway Island. During the battle of Midway in 1942, he was working at Pearl Harbor. Expecting to be drafted, Duge enlisted in the Army, where he hoped to join the Air Corps. At first he was unsuccessful, but eventually he was transferred to the air program. In the spring of 1944, one of his training programs was at the University of North Dakota, where he met Grace Louise Schultz, who was in her senior year of college. Duge and Grace were married at Hondo Air Force Base in Texas on June 10, 1944, shortly before he was shipped to Europe for active duty.

Duge was a bomber navigator in the war, stationed at Bari, Italy. On his first mission, his plane was shot down over Montenegro. Duge and his crewmates were smuggled through German lines by Yugoslav partisans and flown back to Italy after 12 days missing in action. For the remainder of the war, he flew bombing missions to northern Italy, Austria and other German-occupied areas.

When the war ended in 1945, Duge and Grace moved back to Jerome, and he took a job as bookkeeper at Tingwall's department store.

Through a series of circumstances, he eventually found himself managing the whole store and taught himself the various aspects of the dry goods business. During these years, Duge and Grace raised their three children and participated actively in local affairs. In the 1970s, Duge and Grace purchased the store from the Tingwall estate and operated it as Pharris's department store. In 1985, they sold off the merchandise, leased out the store building and retired. Unfortunately, their "golden years" together were brief, as Grace died of cancer in 1987. After a lonely time, Duge was remarried in 1989 to Lula Frank Harrington and moved into Lou's home in Twin Falls. Duge and Lou traveled extensively, played golf and spent several winters at Queen Valley, Ariz., a retirement community that included a number of "Idaho snowbirds." As president of the community association, Duge was the unofficial "mayor" of Queen Valley for a year or two.

Lou died in 2002, and Duge accepted an invitation to share the home of his sister, Betty Pharris in Boise. Duge plunged into life in a new community with characteristic vigor, becoming active in church and community affairs. Up to the last few weeks of his life, he served as a greeter in church, volunteered to assist new immigrants with their English language skills and walked the dog two miles every day.

Duge was a member of the Jerome Presbyterian Church for 50 years, serving as parish clerk, deacon and elder. In Boise, he was an active member of Covenant Presbyterian Church. At various times, he was a member of the Jerome Kiwanis Club, Rotary and the chamber of commerce. He served on the planning commission, the Jerome City Council and for many years on the board of St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome.

Duge was preceded in death by his parents; by his two wives, Grace and Lou; and by his brothers, Harold, John and Carl Pharris. He is survived by his three children, James Pharris (Rebecca) of Olympia, Wash., Margaret Barry (Ronald) of Lake Oswego, Ore., and Kristen Erway (Bruce) of Alameda, Calif.; his sister, BJ Pharris of Boise; his brother, Earl Pharris (Hazel) of Cozad, Neb.; his sister-in-law Virginia Pharris of Hazelton; his grandchildren, Nicholas Pharris, Ingrid Pharris Goebel (Tim), Mark Pharris, Elizabeth Barry, Monica Barry and Anna Erway; and by many loving nephews; nieces; cousins and dear friends.

There will be a graveside inurnment for Duge at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 16, at Jerome Cemetery. A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 17, at the Covenant Presbyterian Church, 4848 N. Five Mile Road in Boise.

GET PRIMITIVE

New classes can teach you ancient techniques

By Ariel Hansen
Times-News writer

Ever wonder if you could have survived in a native tribe a thousand years ago, or as a cavewoman tens of thousands of years ago?

Your life will probably never depend on the skills they used. But why not learn them anyway?

The Herrett Center for Arts and Science at College of Southern Idaho will offer a series of classes titled "Primitive Skills for Modern Man." As the organizers note in the fine print, modern woman is also welcome, of course, as well as modern child 12 or older accompanied by an adult.

"These classes give one an appreciation for the ingenuity of native people and how they overcame different hardships," said Rusty Bowman, who will teach a class on firemaking and assist a class on native plants. "Any time we're more connected to our natural surroundings, we understand it and value it, and we're far more apt to take care of it. This understanding is critical to our successors."

Discard any hopes for boring, droning lectures. Each of the classes will be primarily hands-on, and participants can show off their new skills to their friends afterward. In many cases, they'll even bring home something they made, from a leather pouch to a chipped-obsidian knife.

The workshops are intended to expand the museum's offerings to teens and young adults, as well as to raise money to support the institution in a time when paid field trips have fallen off. They were inspired in part by the popular hands-on academic classes that anthropology professor Jim Woods used to teach at the Herrett.

"Just walking into the museum is kind of like coming into class," said Joey Heck, exhibits manager, describing how he'll use artifacts to give participants an idea of how skills were used prehistorically. "(Students will) make the connection a little more easily than someone who is trying to flintknap on their own without prehistoric reference."

After all the classes are complete, the instructors and any students who wish to show off what they've learned will offer an open house — on a date to be determined — with demonstrations for the public.

FIND OUT MORE

To register for one of the primitive skills classes, or to learn more about what will be involved, contact Joey Heck at the Herrett Center for Arts and Science at 732-6668 or jheck@csi.edu. Early registration is recommended, as class sizes are limited.

Joey Heck, exhibits manager at the Herrett Center for Arts and Science at the College of Southern Idaho, collects willows to make arrows and darts Monday near the building. The center will offer a series of primitive skills classes beginning this month.

'Atlatis (Spear Chuckin' 101)'

When: 6:30-9 p.m. July 25-29

How much: $50 (includes materials)

How you'll go native: Atlatis, often called throwing boards, are the precursors to the bow and arrow and are universal to every continent except Antarctica.

"As far as we know, the bow and arrow was not even introduced in North America until about a thousand years ago or so," Joey Heck said. "Basically (the atlatis) is a stick or a flat board that you carve in such a way that it has a hook at the end, that you use to propel a long arrow with a thin shaft. It flies farther and harder than if you just threw a spear by hand."

Students will carve the throwing boards, probably out of juniper or chokecherry, then harvest dart shafts, probably from willow or wild rose. If there's time, they'll learn a simple fletching method for the darts. Then everyone will stand good and far apart and yell "fore!" or "heads up!" as they practice hurling with their atlatis.

'He Did It Even for Me: Bringing Sarah Home'

(Tate Publishing, $13.99)

In China as an English teacher in the early '90s, Jan Bowman met a child at an orphanage, fell in love and started researching adoption. After overcoming paperwork obstacles and funding difficulties — and watching God perform many miracles to make that possible, she said — she brought her new daughter home and returned to college.

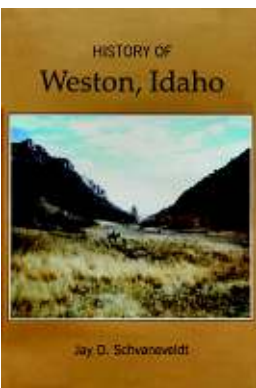

Bowman, a longtime Twin Falls, Buhl and Ketchum resident, considered it a calling to adopt the baby and pull her from an abusive life. Her newly published inspirational memoir began as a private narrative meant for the time that her daughter, Sarah, would eventually want to know about the adoption.

"But as I went on, and friends would read it and encourage me to continue, it became a complete book of my dysfunctional life and then upon asking Jesus into my heart how he began to change me and heal my inner hurts and show me I could function as a healthy adult," said Bowman, a single mother. "He took me from a frightened, insecure girl to a fully confident woman."

Bowman will sign books from 1 to 3 p.m. May 7 at A Shot In The Dark coffee shop in Twin Falls.

'History of Weston, Idaho'

(Mountain Top Publishing, $35.85)

Utah State University emeritus professor and international consultant Jay D. Schvaneveldt is the author of four university textbooks, numerous scientific and technical articles, a handful of regional social and history books and some volumes of poetry. But he calls his newly published Weston history the most ambitious of his regional books.

Schvaneveldt is a Weston resident whose family — like some early Weston settlers — has agricultural ties to the Magic Valley.

His history covers Weston events from 1865 — two years before the original townsite in the Meadows of Cedarville was moved to the bench overlooking Cache Valley — through 2010.

"Crossing the Bear River was a major challenge for many years, and insects, including grasshoppers and Mormon crickets, have plagued the community right from that first summer of 1865 and through many other seasons in the past 145 years," Schvaneveldt said.

He covers settlement struggles, the town's grist mill, its opera and music, school activities, the Mormon church, death and dying and the other matters of town life. His 718-page volume includes sections of photos and newspaper clippings.

'On the Edge of the Forest: Book One'

(Xlibris, $19.99)

Buhl 17-year-old Miranda Ahrens started writing her book of paranormal romance fiction at 15 and re-wrote it at 16. Despite a slow start in learning to read as a child, she's been penning Christian, western, Indian and historical fiction — and attempting to publish it — since she was 13.

"Becoming published has always been my dream, and I really hope that this is only the beginning and I soon can publish the rest of my books," said the Idaho Virtual Academy sophomore, who hopes to become a veterinarian, a book editor and a horse trainer.

Published under the pen name of M. Desiree, "On the Edge of the Forest" features 17-year-old Olivia, in numb denial after the death of her parents. She moves to a Wyoming town where something strange happens every night of the full moon.

"People disappear when they venture out into the heart of the forest," Ahrens said. "Olivia searches for the truth, as it is the only thing to keep her from going crazy with pain and guilt."

There's a handsome and mysterious love interest, too. And her discoveries leave Olivia with a difficult choice to make about him.

The teen author has three more books in the series that she hopes to publish.

Ahrens

'Press the "Fix Me" Button'

(Balboa Press, $30.95 hardback, $13.95 paperback)

Twin Falls' Richard A.M. Powell — a naturopathic physician, wellness coach, pastoral counselor and CEO of Southern Idaho Naturopathic Clinic — tapped into a personal past of drugs, sexual abuse, homelessness, incarceration and divorce for his first book.

"I'd been searching for answers my entire life," Powell said in a press release. "I questioned everyone I could, and when they didn't have the answers I wanted, I got even angrier. And then one day, it became clear: Everything I was looking for was right in front of me. The hard times I went through happened for a reason — to show me that only I had the power to change myself."

The result is an instruction manual for a better self. Powell said he offers step-by-step advice toward peace, positive thinking and empowered life changes.

"I started writing this book from a 9-by-10 cell in the state correction institution when I was 16 years old," he said. "It's taken me over 25 years, but I hope I can help and inspire anyone who wants to change but just doesn't know how to."

'Molly b'Damn: The Silver Dove of the Coeur d'Alenes'

(Aventine Press, $28.95 hardback, $16.95 paperback)

Jean Davidson of Pocatello, born and raised in Rupert, published her debut book under the pen name A. Jaydee. The novel is full of history, Davidson said, but has a fictional flavor as it follows the true story of a girl who became a legendary Idaho prostitute in the late 1800s.

"Maggie Hall immigrated to America in 1873 but was forced by her husband into prostitution," Davidson said. "Using her married name of Molly Burdan, she headed West and landed finally in the mining town of Murray, Idaho. With a thirst for adventure and a fiery temper, Molly became legendary for her wealth, beauty and kind heart, always first in line to help the poor and unfortunate who crossed her path."

Murray residents accepted Molly, and she made her permanent home among its miners and mountains. A yearly festival there still bears her name.

The inspiration for Davidson's research? Encountering Molly's weathered headstone in an old cemetery years ago. Now Davidson is working on a cookbook and a Molly b'Damn sequel.

Army band, chorus perform in T.F.

CSI music professor will conduct selection

Times-News

Music from patriotic to popular selections will fill the air as the internationally acclaimed U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus from Washington, D.C., perform in Twin Falls this month. The free concert is set for 7:30 p.m. April 27 in the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium.

The Field Band travels thousands of miles each year as the premiere touring musical representative for the U.S. Army. Since its formation in 1946, the band has appeared in all 50 states and in more than 30 countries on four continents.

Col. Thomas Palmatier is the band's commander and conductor, along with Maj. Bruce Pulver, deputy commander and associate conductor.

Palmatier of Ballston Spa, N.Y., is the ninth director in the Field Band's history and has more than 20 years' experience in military music. He was appointed to the position in 2007 and previously was commandant of the U.S. Army School of Music. He has received two awards of the Legion of Merit and seven awards of the Meritorious Service Medal.

Pulver joined the Field Band as deputy commander in 2008. He has received the Meritorious Service Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the Army Commendation Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster and the National Defense Service Medal with Bronze Star.

CSI music professor George Halsell will direct the Field Band for the performance of "American Overture for Band" by Joseph Willcox Jenkins. Halsell, a CSI faculty member for 17 years, has performed with Baltimore Symphony, Harrisburg Symphony and Cincinnati

Ballet Orchestra. He composed "Symphony in Five Episodes" in 2009 for Magic Valley Symphony's 50th anniversary season and received the Governor's Medal for Excellence in the Arts in 2010. His new work for orchestra, "A Stygian Adventure," was written for and recently premiered by the Brazos Valley Symphony Orchestra in College Station, Texas.

The 65-member Field Band, along with the Soldiers' Chorus, presents a diverse program of marches, overtures, semi-classical music, choral arrangements, patriotic selections and instrumental and vocal solos.

Past performances include concerts and ceremonies in the U.S. and Europe commemorating the 50th anniversary of World War II, the 750th anniversary of Berlin, presidential inaugural parades, the rededication of the Statue of Liberty and the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City. The band has been featured in national broadcasts on Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, plus international jazz festivals in Switzerland, Belgium and the Netherlands.

The Soldiers' Chorus, formed in 1957, is conducted by Capt. Leonel Pena and has performed in all 50 states, Canada, Mexico, India, the Far East and throughout Europe. The musical backgrounds of the 29-member mixed choral ensemble range from opera and musical theater to music education and vocal coaching.

Pena became the band's associate bandmaster and chorus director in 2009. He was commander of Staff and Faculty Company at U.S. Army School of Music in Norfolk, Va. His military awards include the Meritorious Service Medal, two Army Commendation Medals and three Army Achievement Medals.

The April 27 concert is presented by Times-News and CSI.

Jazz pianist joins orchestra for pair of free concerts

By Karen Bossick
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — The Sun Valley Summer Symphony has its guest artists.

Now, so does the Wood River Community Orchestra.

Jazz pianist Paul Tillotson will join the orchestra this weekend as it presents two free spring concerts.

The first will be at 4 p.m. Saturday at St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Ketchum, and the second at 4 p.m. Sunday at the Community Campus Auditorium in Hailey.

The concerts will feature two premieres of Tillotson's orchestral compositions titled "Dear Old Dad" and "Simple Pleasures."

They also will feature Beethoven's Fifth symphony, George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," "March of the Gladiators" and snippets from "Mary Poppins," as well as a piece by Mozart and one befitting local superhero Adam West, also known as "Batman."

The program also includes a world premiere of a composition by Sun Valley Summer Symphony founder Carl Eberl called "Where Else But Idaho?"

KAREN BOSSICK/For the Times-News

Paul Tillotson, who plays New York and Sun Valley, will join the Wood River Community Orchestra on a few numbers this weekend.

mer Symphony founder Carl Eberl called "Where Else But Idaho?"

"We'll have a full wind section — two flutes, a clarinet, a trumpet and bassoon. And, of course, we're delighted to have Paul Tillotson, who is part of our steering committee. We've been talking with Paul about playing with us for a couple years, and our schedules finally matched," conductor Andy Lewis said.

Ketchum resident Minette Broschovsky said she's looking forward to the concerts.

"I really believe in what they're doing," she said. "They have a passion for playing music that I found when I began playing the ukulele. They played at (Idaho Sen.) Clint Stenett's memorial service. They've played before the 'Live at the Met' movies at the Hailey theater. ... They've really become the community's orchestra."

California indie rock band plays TF

Times-News

We Shot The Moon, a rock group from San Diego, will perform at 7:30 p.m. April 22 in the Fine Arts Auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho.

The five-man group, formerly known as Honor Roll, describes itself as a piano-heavy indie rock band with shades of Jack's Mannequin, Coldplay, Switchfoot, Muse and Weezer. According to frontman Jonathan Jones, the band specializes in quirky rock that doesn't fit into the super-indie, hipster crowd. The group played more than 300 live performances last year, largely to promote its latest album, "A Silver Lining."

The concert is produced by the CSI Program Board. Doors will open at 7 p.m.

Admission is free to CSI students with current ID and $5 for the public. Most of the group's songs are available on YouTube.

Spend an evening with improv comedians

Times-News

Members of the Haphazard Comedy Club at the College of Southern Idaho will present an improv comedy show, 8-9:30 p.m. April 22 in room 108 of CSI's Aspen building.

Haphazard, an improvised comedy troupe formed this year at CSI, held its first standalone show in March after prepping with sessions of comedy exercises and critiques of each other's routines.

Club adviser Brendan Rowlands said the performers do comedy in the style of "Whose Line Is It, Anyway?" with their own twists. The show is targeted to an adult audience, but children are welcome as long as they do not become a distraction to the audience or performers. Seating is limited to 120.

General admission is $2, or $1 for students with activity cards. Information about the club: Rowlands at 732-6859 or browlands@csi.edu.

Hosted by Aldo Leopold Foundation, Center for Humans and Nature, and U.S. Forest Service employees. Leopold, author of the conservation classic "A Sand County Almanac," is renowned for his work as an educator, philosopher, forester, ecologist and wilderness advocate. The film explores Leopold's life in the early part of the 20th century and illustrates his continuing influence by exploring current projects that connect people and land: urban children in Chicago learning about local foods and ecological restoration; ranchers in Arizona and New Mexico maintaining healthy landscapes by working on their own properties and with neighbors in cooperative community conservation efforts; and wildlife biologists who are bringing back threatened and endangered species to landscapes where they once thrived. Free admission.

Music, presentation/ Twin Falls

Calendar deadlines

Don't miss your chance to tell southern Idaho about your arts event. The deadline for entries for the Entertainment calendar is 5 p.m. the Friday prior to publication. That means today, if you want your entry to appear next Friday. Send submissions to Ramona Jones at ramona@magicvalley.com.

hilarating extremes, blending traditional arts and circus skills in classic African style. The group members learned acrobatics as children on the beaches of Kenya, and now they serve as artistic ambassadors for Kenya as they travel the globe. They perform gravity-defying human pyramids, balancing, tumbling, limbo dancing, hurling through hoops and contortions, all while clapping to a Benga beat. Learn more: kenyasafiacrobats.com. Tickets are $23 for adults or $16 for children, at 732-6288, CSI Fine Arts box office or at csi.edu/artsontour.

Lecture/Twin Falls

Herrett Forum presentation by Marc Kassis, at 7:30 p.m. in Rick Allen room at Herrett Center for Arts and Science. His talk is "Astronomy Paradise at the World's Largest Twin Optical Telescopes, the Keck Observatory in Hawaii." Kassis, an astronomer at the giant installation on Mauna Kea, Hawaii, discusses how the Keck Observatory maintains its position as premier optical and infrared observatory in the world. Kassis, a Twin Falls High School graduate, received his undergraduate education at Willamette University in Salem, Ore., graduate degrees in physics and mathematics, and a doctorate in astronomy from Boston University. He built an instrument for the NASA Infrared Telescope at the Keck Observatory. Free admission.

Presentation, games/Twin Falls

College of Southern Idaho Sustainability Council's Green Week activities: coffee cup games with "Java Man," 11 a.m. to noon on east side of the CSI gym and noon to 2 p.m. north of the Student Union; prizes and free popcorn. Honors students host a discussion/debate about organic vs. non-organic foods, 6 p.m. in CSU Shields building, room 117. ## NEXT WEEK

Ceremony, music/Twin Falls

College of Southern Idaho Sustainability Fair, 3-6 p.m. APRIL 22 at the Health Sciences and Human Services Building; coincides with a plaque ceremony for the Health Science building (awarded LEED Gold certification last year for energy efficiency). Includes CSI Jazz Ensemble with music at 3 p.m.; plaque ceremony at 3:30 p.m.; followed by hip-hop dance and music by rock band SKITTISH ITZ, 4:45-6 p.m. Free appetizers; raffle prizes. Information: Randy Smith, 732-6817; Jan Simpkin, 732-6840; or Sarah Harris, 732-6813.

Comedy/Twin Falls

Stand-up comedy, "How to be Funny While You're Standing Up" performance, 7 p.m. APRIL 22 at the Turf Club, 734 Falls Ave. W. The comedy competition is the final part of the five-week class taught by retired performer Danny Marona. Five students are selected to perform their stand-up routines in front of a live audience, with judges choosing a winner from the group. Judges are Broc Johnson from 99.9 The Buzz, KEZJ's Brad Weiser and former class finalists and tag-team judges Kate and Nelson Woods. Open mic session follows at 9 p.m. with remainder of stand-up comedy class. Tickets are $17 in advance at CSI's Community Education Center in the Taylor Building, 732-6442, or $20 at the door. Proceeds from the event benefit Magic Valley youth through the Danny Marona Performing Arts Scholarship Fund.

Music/Twin Falls

We Shot the Moon and Alma Desnuda, 7:30 p.m. APRIL 22 at College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium. We Shot the Moon, a four-piece self-proclaimed "quirky rock" ensemble, features a piano-heavy feel-good beat layered with melody and soul. Alma Desnuda performs its earth-funk music for the opening act. General admission is $5, and free for CSI students.

Comedy/Twin Falls

Haphazard Comedy Club improv show, 8 p.m. APRIL 22 at College of Southern Idaho Aspen Building, room 108. The improv comedy is reminiscent of "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" in format. Area amateur comedians perform games and scenes based on audience suggestions. Children are welcome, but the family-friendly show is geared toward adults. Admission is $2 or $1 with current student ID. Haphazardcomedyclub@gmail.com or 732-6859.

Country/Twin Falls

Gary Braun, 7-10 p.m. APRIL 22 at Zulu After Hours, 1986 Addison Ave. E. Braun, one of the original Braun Brothers, performs his single act, featuring guitar, vocals and a unique blend of easy listening country music. No cover.

Dance/Burley

Golden Heritage Senior Center public dance, 7 p.m. APRIL 22 at 2421 Overland Ave. Live band with a variety of music. $5 admission. 878-8646.

Your entertainment choices this week run from exhilarating acrobatics to original jazz to the far side of the universe.

One of the most intriguing acts on the calendar is the globe-touring Kenya Safari Acrobats, who blend traditional African arts and circus skills. They perform Wednesday in Twin Falls for Arts on Tour; if their publicity photos are any indication, lively is an understatement.

Sax player Brent Jensen — who's done more than anyone to promote jazz in Twin Falls — is bringing together musicians from Seattle, Salt Lake City, Rexburg and Twin Falls tonight for a "Jazz Composers Showcase" of their original compositions.

And the distant universe? That's supplied by Twin Falls High grad Marc Kassis, a Hawaii astronomer who's coming back to town to lecture Wednesday about work at Keck Observatory, which he dubs astronomy paradise.

Other visiting speakers include photojournalist Mark Edwards, lecturing Thursday on poverty, human rights abuses and environmental degradation; and actor-singer-writer Daniel Beaty, appearing Tuesday at a College of Southern Idaho poetry event.

Los Angeles-based motivational speaker Alexis Jones, a CBS "Survivor" contestant in 2008, will be in Twin Falls tonight for the first half of the "Change for Children" fundraiser; Saturday's second half is a talent show headlined by local acoustic musician Laura Taylor.

On the music scene, you'll find Twin Falls High's Jive! troupe on stage tonight and Saturday for its spring music-and-dance show, and jazz pianist Paul Tillotson is joining a Wood River orchestra for a pair of free weekend concerts in Ketchum and Hailey.

Also in Ketchum, Sacramento jazz and blues singer Yves Evans is headlining tonight's "Black History" choral concert of old spirituals. You'll hear narration about the music that slaves imported from Africa and Indonesia.

Actor Daniel Beaty to present at CSI

Times-News

Actor, singer and writer Daniel Beaty will be the keynote speaker at the College of Southern Idaho's National Poetry Month observance at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Fine Arts Recital Hall.

Beaty has travelled in North America, Europe and Africa and has performed on stage and on television. His credits include HBO's "Russell Simmons Presents Def Poetry;" NBC's "Showtime at the Apollo," Black Entertainment Television's "106 & Park," his solo play "Emergency," an orchestral work called "Darwin's Meditation for the People of Lincoln" and his new musical called "Breath and Imagination" about the life of Twin Falls acoustic folk-reggae musician Ethan Tucker will open the show for Beaty. The show is free for CSI students with current ID and $5 for the public.

T.F. graduate speaks on Hawaii observatory's innovation Wednesday

Times-News

The title of the talk says it all: "Astronomy Paradise at the World's Largest Twin Optical Telescopes, the Keck Observatory in torate in astronomy from Boston University, where he built an instrument for the NASA Infrared Telescope Facility on Mauna Kea.

"In between my sophomore and junior years at Willamette, I took a year off to explore what physics had to offer by first interning at the Brookhaven National Laboratory in New York," Kassis wrote. "My second physics adventure took me to Chile where I participated in a National Science Foundation Research Experience for Undergraduates astronomy program hosted at the Cerro Tololo Inter-American Observatory in La Serena, Chile, and my interest in astronomy began while hanging off the back of the 0.6m Curtis-Schmidt telescope."

For the past seven years, his job has been to keep the Keck Observatory's instruments and visiting astronomers working as efficiently as possible.

No tickets are required for the free public lecture. The Herrett Center for Arts and Science is on the north side of the College of Southern Idaho campus.

The title of the talk says it all: "Astronomy Paradise at the World's Largest Twin Optical Telescopes, the Keck Observatory in Hawaii." Twin Falls High School graduate Marc Kassis — a support astronomer at the giant installation on Mauna Kea, Hawaii — will give a free Herrett Forum lecture at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Herrett Center's Rick Allen Room in Twin Falls.

"Using the twin 10-meter W.M. Keck Observatory telescopes, astronomers from all over the world explore the local and distant universe with unprecedented power and precision," Kassis wrote. "During this presentation, I will share how the observatory maintains its position as the premiere optical and infrared observatory by continuously implementing innovative technologies. Studies of the black hole at the center of our galaxy and planets outside our solar system depend on these technologies."

Kassis studied physics and mathematics at Willamette University in Oregon and earned a doc-

Rusty Bowman, who will instruct the Herrett Center's upcoming fire-making class, holds a bundle of tinder he set alight using traditional methods.

'Fire!'

When: 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 27

How much: $35 (includes lunch and materials)

How you'll go native: Good luck, Joey Heck said. "From my experience, it's a tough thing to learn. ... I suspect we'll be lucky to teach everyone how to get smoke that day."

Instructor Rusty Bowman is more confident, though he acknowledges that firemaking definitely requires practice.

"They should be able to come out of the class with enough of an understanding to be able to get materials on their own, and make fire," he said, describing techniques that can be used. A bow drill, for instance, looks like a tiny bow and arrow and uses a spindle to create the friction that starts the fire.

Students will also learn to make tinder bundles from local fibers to catch that spark and provide the basis for a full-blown blaze.

"At the end of the day, I want to have a competition, 'Survivor'-style, about who can get a spark the fastest or start a fire the fastest," Heck said.

Joey Heck ties cordage, which Native Americans used for ropes, sandals and fishing nets.

ASHLEY SMITH/Times-News

'Cordage Making'

When: 6:30-9 p.m. April 26 and 29; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 30

How much: $35 (includes materials and April 30 lunch)

How you'll go native: Students will go to Rock Creek Park to harvest fibers of dogbane, a plant that was popular among the area's native tribes. "It makes a really nice, strong, fine thread," Joey Heck said. He'll also explain how stinging nettle, sagebrush and milkweed can be used for thread, cord and rope, and how to build up thin cords into thicker ropes. "Cordage was used for so many things: nets, knife handles, fishing line, snares."

If students advance quickly, they can use their cord to create a small pouch to take home. And those who plan to take the tool-making class later should save their cordage to tie to a bone fishhook they'll carve.

'Pump Drills'

When: 1:30-5 p.m. July 16

How much: $20 (includes materials)

How you'll go native: Do you have something that needs a hole in it? Take a cue from the native people of Central America and make a pump drill. "It has a spindle, typically with some sort of weight on it, and a point to do the drilling. There's a crossbar handle that you then twist up on the spindle, and with an up-and-down motion, the spindle will turn, and drill through material," Joey Heck said. Native Idahoans were more likely to use a different, simpler kind of drill, but the pump drill will be more immediately rewarding to students.

Students will use recycled lumber and string to make their own pump drills — then compete to see who can make a hole most quickly.

'Beginning Flintknapping' and 'Intermediate Flintknapping'

When: Beginning: 6:30-9 p.m. June 21 and 24; and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 25. Intermediate: 6:30-9 p.m. June 28 and July 1; and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 2.

How much: Beginning: $50 (includes materials). Intermediate: $50 ($40 for students continuing from "Beginning Flintknapping").

How you'll go native:

Try flintknapping, and you'll quickly gain respect for the artifacts you see in museums. In the introductory course, students will use tools similar to those used by Native Americans and get a feel for working with obsidian.

"I'm hoping students pick that up quickly, and then we can make some very simple tools," Joey Heck said. "They wouldn't be finished in the sense of arrowheads or spear points, just flakes that come off obsidian when they strike it."

He will encourage beginning students to advance to the intermediate class, though students with previous flintknapping experience could jump directly into the intermediate group. The latter class will cover making bifaces, in which both sides of the stone have been worked with percussion flaking.

"Once they get the hang of making these bifaces, we'll move into arrowheads, and look at weapons from this region," Heck said. If students progress well, they could go home with a knife blade or a large spear point.

ASHLEY SMITH/Times-News

Joey Heck demonstrates flintknapping, a technique used to make arrowheads and knife blades.

'Native Plant Identification and Usage'

When: 6:30-9 p.m. May 10 and 13

How much: $20 (bring a picnic May 13)

How you'll go native: For liability reasons, Joey Heck and Rusty Bowman can't suggest you eat or medicinally use native plants, but this class is a great start for those who want to begin to accurately figure out what that growing thing is and what the native people used it for.

"Students are going to learn to identify a number of local plants, as well as plants the Shoshone used to use in this area, chokecherry and serviceberry, willow and camas," Heck said, describing how juniper was used for tool handles, wild rose and willow for arrow shafts, and other plants for cord-making, shelter-building and other uses critical for survival.

"When one is able to identify plants, it connects them to their surroundings," Bowman said.

'Designer Deerskin'

When: 6:30-9 p.m. May 24 and 27; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 28

How much: $50 (includes materials and May 28 lunch)

How you'll go native: No, you won't harvest your own animal or tan any hides — the deer leather the class works with will come from Moscow Hide and Fur. Students will use the leather to make a parfleche, a folded pouch traditionally decorated with natural dyes. It was "used sort of like a prehistoric handbag," Joey Heck said. "Most of the bags that I've made have all been about 8 inches square, but people will be able to take what they learned from that and apply it to a bigger piece of rawhide."

Students who plan to take the "Stone & Bone" class might instead make a pouch to carry the tools they'll make.

'Stone & Bone'

When: 6:30-9 p.m. June 6-10

How much: $50 (includes materials)

How you'll go native: Awls, needles, obsidian scrapers, hammer stones, bone fishhooks ... with these tools in your deerskin pouch, who needs a modern toolbox? Well, you might.

"We'll probably use a mix; (for) some things it's just so much easier to use modern tools," Joey Heck said. "I have stones that people can use for sanding things, but sandpaper works much faster. If they really want to work with primitive tools, and we have the primitive tool available, they can use that."

Students' initial toolkit will include five or six tools, depending on the time available, made from stone collected in the Magic Valley and bone from Moscow Hide and Fur. "Once students do make their tools, they can then use those tools to make other things, or attempt to make other things," Heck said.

Magic Valley Speedway primed for NASCAR season

By Linda Brittsan
Times-News correspondent

As much as drivers and fans look forward to the start of a new season Saturday night, the most widely recognized name in auto racing will also celebrate a return to Magic Valley Speedway.

NASCAR is back at the Twin Falls track after a three-year absence. Terry Buell, associate promoter and track announcer at MVS said the return of the sanctioning body will be a dynamic addition to what already promises to be an exciting season.

"NASCAR recognized that Magic Valley Speedway was an elite weekly series track and admired our continued success even through difficult economic times," Buell said. "They really wanted the track back as a NASCAR home track and part of the NASCAR Whelen All-American Series. The addition of NASCAR brings even more credibility and fan recognition."

Whelen Engineering, manufacturer of emergency lighting systems, sponsors the All-American Weekly Racing Series at more than 50 tracks in the United States and Canada. Magic Valley Speedway is the only track in Idaho with NASCAR affiliation, meaning the feature series (Mr. Gas Late Models) champion is a good bet to be honored at the year-end banquet as state champion.

"However, they'll also be competing against others across the nation for the national championship," said Buell. "These important competitions will be played out each and every Saturday night, and drivers, family, friends and fans are all a part of it."

As a former NASCAR champion himself, MVS owner Eddy McKean knows first-hand the appeal of an invitation to a NASCAR banquet.

"They treat you like royalty, it's pretty cool to go," McKean said. "This year the Mr. Gas Late Models drivers are racing for a $10,000 points fund. That sounds pretty good, too."

Along with the Late Models, MVS will feature the Budweiser Super Stocks, Brennan's Carpet Pony Stocks, Quale's Electronics Hornets and Jr. Stingers. The Street Stocks will be welcoming a new sponsor, Project Filter.

MVS also introduces two new divisions this season in the TVgoldandsilver.com Thunderdogs and the Quale's Electronics Pro Hornets. The Thunderdogs will include "themed" vehicles of any body style, challenging each other in virtually uninhibited competition. The Pro Hornets will be made up of drivers who have experience built up in either the Hornets division or another class.

LEADING THE WAY Athletes shine at windy Buhl invite

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

BUHL — Sleep on Wood River at your own peril.

After falling well behind in the first leg of the boys sprint medley relay at Thursday's Buhl Rotary Invitational track meet, the Wolverines threw it into high gear.

After getting the baton in fifth place, Ben Stout made up the entire deficit on the first lap of his 800-meter anchor leg and crossed the finish line well ahead of the chasing pack to bring Wood River home in 3 minute, 44 seconds.

"I just zeroed in on the lead. It's better to have guys to target (during the race), because running front all the time is a lot harder," said Stout, who covered half a mile in 2:01 to shore up a 53-second split in the 400-meter leg. "We were thinking about the school record (3:36) but I think this is one of the best medley times we've put up in quite a while."

One runner who did a lot of leading was Richfield's Sasha Kent, who cruised to a win in the girls 3,200-meter run, completing the race in 12:04.

Jerome's Mackenzie Chojnacky was absent from the race, as she's in Coeur d'Alene with the school's speech and debate team for the state competition. That dampened Kent's performance, though she was still satisfied with the time.

"I ran 11:56 on Monday, and considering the wind I'm happy with today," said Kent. "The wind was tough — half the time you feel like you're running really fast and the other half, I just put my head down and pretended I wasn't running into the wind."

"I was kind of upset when I saw (Chojnacky) wasn't going to be here. I know she would have been ahead of me and it's good to have someone to run with. But there was a lot of good com-

CSI baseball welcomes Southern Nevada

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

It won't have quite the same fanfare as a year ago, but it's still Southern Nevada coming to town this weekend.

The College of Southern Idaho baseball team welcomes the Coyotes for a critical four-game Scenic West Athletic Conference series, which begins today.

The Golden Eagles (23-13, 15-9 SWAC) hold a five-game edge over their guests for third place in the conference standings entering this weekend's play, but they have conference co-leaders Salt Lake and Western Nevada remaining on their schedule, while CSN just has Western Nevada remaining of the two.

While the Coyotes (21-19, 10-14) are having a subpar season by their standards and lost a home series to CSI for the first time in March, they are playing better, including matching CSI's result at Salt Lake by taking one of four games against the Bruins last weekend.

"When we got them down there they were at the bottom in a lot of things, with injuries and guys out and things like that," said CSI coach Boomer Walker. "They're playing a lot better baseball, and we're going to have to play well in order to have a chance to win. That's good, because that will put pressure on us to play well."

CSI has won seven of eight, but labored heavily during last weekend's series win against Eastern Utah, committing 13 errors and showing little fight until the sixth inning of Game 3.

The Eagles know they won't get away with that if they want to keep pace in the conference race, with both Western Nevada and Salt Lake, who are tied at 21-3 in the conference, six games up on CSI.

"It's going to be typical Southern Nevada baseball," said CSI pitcher Travis Huber. "They're going to play you hard and keep playing until the final out of every game."

Today's doubleheader begins at 1 p.m., with Saturday's starting at noon.

Golden Eagles softball hosts Snow

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

Its dreams of hosting the Region 18 Tournament all but shattered, the College of Southern Idaho softball team can finally play without any pressure.

Sort of. With last weekend's four-game Scenic West Athletic Conference series at second-ranked Salt Lake Community College wiped out due to weather, the 11th-ranked Golden Eagles' chances of hosting the region tournament for the first time are all but ended.

They remain 4.5 games behind the Bruins with 12 to play.

But that isn't changing the mindset as CSI welcomes Snow College to town this weekend for a four-game set that may not mean a whole lot in the scheme of things.

"We know that the wheels are going to have to come off for us to lose the second seed, but we're still holding out hope that we might get to host that tournament," said CSI coach Nick Baumert. "We know that not getting those games in dealt our chances of doing so a big blow, but we've still seen the same attitude in the girls when they came back out on Monday and went to work."

The Eagles (31-13, 25-6 SWAC) swept an abbreviated set against Snow earlier in the season, winning three games in one day. The fourth was, appropriately, snowed out.

But that was then, and the Badgers (14-16 SWAC) are coming off a split against North Idaho, one of the two teams trying to unseat CSI for second place and the final bye in the region tournament.

"I've got to think they're going to play a lot better than they did down there," Baumert said. "They've got a young pitching staff and they'll be throwing a lot better too, so we're going to have to play just as well as we did down there, and maybe a little better."

Today's first pitch is set for 1 p.m., with Saturday's doubleheader kicking off at noon.

Lakers' road to repeat may go through Chicago

By Brian Mahoney
Associated Press writer

Kobe Bryant has all that championship experience, and perhaps the NBA's best supporting cast. The Miami Heat have the promise of what LeBron James and Dwyane Wade can deliver in their first postseason together, and the Boston Celtics think their playoff-tested group can do it again.

"You don't ever know if you're going to win a championship until you get there, but you know you have the pieces that can compete for one," Wade said. "That's where we're at right now."

But to win an NBA title, those teams may have to go past Michael Jordan.

Well, past his likeness anyway.

The Chicago Bulls, with dynamite point guard Derrick Rose, earned home-court advantage by finishing with the league's best record for the first time since Jordan ruled the NBA. Keep on winning, and the Bulls would open the finals at the United Center, with its statue of Jordan outside.

And what a story it would be if his old coach was on the opposing sideline.

Phil Jackson, who led Jordan and the Bulls to six NBA titles, is expected to retire after this season. The Lakers would love to send him off with a sixth title in Los Angeles and a remarkable fourth three-peat.

They are the No. 2 seed in the Western Conference and endured a five-game losing streak late in the season. But they still have Bryant, seeking to tie Jordan with a sixth ring, and loads of interior depth with Pau Gasol, Lamar Odom and they hope a healthy Andrew Bynum.

And they might be back on track after closing the regular season with two straight victories.

"Maybe we turned a corner the last two nights," Jackson said. "We can't do anything easy. We're bipolar."

The playoffs start on Saturday, with Chicago hosting Indiana in the opener. Also Saturday, the Heat play Philadelphia; Atlanta and Orlando meet in a postseason rematch, and Portland visits Dallas.

The Lakers get started Sunday against New Orleans, after West No. 1 seed San Antonio welcomes the Memphis Grizzlies. The Celtics drew the New York Knicks, in their first postseason since 2004 and confident they are dangerous with the Carmelo Anthony-Amare Stoudemire tandem; before scoring leader Kevin Durant and the Oklahoma City Thunder face the new-look Denver Nuggets in the nightcap.

The Bulls may lack the star power of some other heavyweights, but they've spent the last few months making believers of all of them. Led by Rose, perhaps the MVP favorite, Chicago went 62-20 for its best record since finishing with the same mark in 1997-98, Jordan's final season.

"Chicago's a good team and there's a reason why can they keep coming at you in waves," Knicks coach Mike D'Antoni said, "and they play hard."

Carlos Boozer and Joakim Noah provide a strong tandem inside and the Bulls not surprisingly were a top defensive club under coach Tom Thibodeau, the architect of the Boston defense that knocked out Wade, then James in last year's playoffs on the way to the finals.

That duo then joined Chris Bosh in Miami, and after some early struggles and more scrutiny than any team should endure, the Heat surged into the postseason with 15 wins in their last 18 games and perhaps can still meet the expectations that were raised last July.

Betemit, Gordon power KC past Seattle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Bruce Chen pitched eight strong innings, Wilson Betemit and Alex Gordon drove in two runs apiece and the Kansas City Royals beat the Seattle Mariners 5-1 in a rain-shortened game on Thursday night.

The game was called after a delay of 47 minutes in the bottom of the eighth.

Chen (2-0) allowed six hits and walked one in his fourth career complete game and second in his last four starts dating to his final game last year. He improved to 4-0 against the Mariners and has won his last six decisions overall to even his career record at 50-50.

RAYS 4, TWINS 3

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Johnny Damon hit a two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning, giving Tampa a victory over Minnesota.

Carl Pavano pitched eight shutout innings for the Twins, but was denied the victory when closer Joe Nathan gave up a two-run double to Matt Joyce in the ninth.

YANKEES 6, ORIOLES 5, 10 INNINGS

NEW YORK — Nick Swisher hit a sacrifice fly in the 10th inning and the New York Yankees rallied from a five-run deficit to beat the Baltimore Orioles and sweep the rain-shortened series.

After Joba Chamberlain used his big body to save a run in the eighth by blocking the plate and keeping the Yankees within 5-4, Jorge Posada led off the bottom of the ninth with a tying homer on the first pitch from closer Kevin Gregg.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PHILLIES 4, NATIONALS 0

WASHINGTON — Back at his best after an unusually brief outing, Cliff Lee struck out 12 in a three-hit shutout, allowing Philadelphia to overcome its own problems at the plate in a victory over Washington.

ROCKIES 6, METS 5, FIRST GAME ROCKIES 9, METS 4, SECOND GAME

NEW YORK — Troy Tulowitzki belted his major league-leading seventh homer during the second game of a doubleheader to help Colorado wrap up a four-game series sweep.

Tulowitzki also homered in the opener before the Rockies' bullpen held on in a wild ninth inning. The sweet-swinging shortstop terrorized New York pitching all series, going deep each game and finishing 10 for 16 with eight RBIs.

BREWERS 4, PIRATES 1

PITTSBURGH — Randy Wolf had 10 strikeouts and allowed only three hits in 6 2-3 shutout innings to lead Milwaukee to its fourth straight win and seventh in eight games.

MARLINS 6, BRAVES 5

ATLANTA — John Buck drove in the go-ahead run with a seventh-inning single to help Florida win its second

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Mediation resumes in NFL, players dispute

MINNEAPOLIS — The NFL and its locked-out players started talking again, and they talked all day.

The only sign of progress or productivity, though, was the nine hours or so both sides spent in the federal courthouse on Thursday. Sworn to secrecy about specifics of the court-ordered mediation, neither the league nor the players provided much insight about where they're at in their dispute over the division of this $9 billion business.

They'll meet again today. Commissioner Roger Goodell, Carolina Panthers owner Jerry Richardson, Kansas City Chiefs owner Clark Hunt, Pittsburgh Steelers owner Art Rooney and New England Patriots owner Robert Kraft were among those on hand for the closed-door session with U.S. Magistrate Judge Arthur Boylan.

NFLPA executive director DeMaurice Smith was joined by attorneys, linebackers Ben Leber and Mike Vrabel, as well as Hall of Fame defensive end Carl Eller.

"We had a full day. It was constructive to get together," said Jeff Pash, the NFL's lead negotiator.

MLB leans toward extra replay for 2012

NEW YORK — More replay could be coming for Major League Baseball next season.

MLB is leaning toward expanding replay for 2012 to include trapped balls and fair-or-foul rulings down the lines, a person familiar with the talks tells The Associated Press. Commissioner Bud Selig and a group of umpires discussed the extra video review at spring training and were in agreement, said the person, who recently spoke on condition of anonymity because the matter is still being discussed.

Baseball began using replay late in the 2008 season, though only to check potential home run balls. The NFL, NBA, NHL and the NCAA had already employed instant replay.

NBA fines Lakers, Jackson $75,000 each

NEW YORK — A person familiar with the decision says the Los Angeles Lakers and Phil Jackson each have been fined $75,000 for comments the coach made about collective bargaining.

The two fines come a day after the league fined Lakers star Kobe Bryant $100,000 for using a derogatory gay term in frustration over a referee's call.

Lincecum donates $25,000 to Stow Fund

SAN FRANCISCO — Giants ace Tim Lincecum is giving $25,000 to assist the longtime San Francisco fan who was attacked outside Dodger Stadium last month.

The two-time NL Cy Young Award winner's donation will go to the Bryan Stow Fund to help with the 42-year-old paramedic's medical bills and other expenses. The father of two was beaten in a parking lot outside Dodger Stadium after the teams' March 31 season opener and remains hospitalized in Los Angeles in a medically induced coma. No arrests have been made despite a $150,000 reward.

"This was a senseless act of violence and I wanted to help out Mr. Stow and his family," Lincecum said in a statement Thursday. "It's also close to me because not only is Mr. Stow a Giants fan, but I have family and friends who are firefighters, police officers and paramedics and this honors their service to the community."

Georgia player with broken neck making progress

ATLANTA — Injured Georgia baseball player Johnathan Taylor is using his arms and regaining strength after breaking his neck in an outfield collision, though doctors were unsure Thursday whether he'll be able to regain use of his legs.

Taylor was injured when he collided with center fielder Zach Cone in the third inning of a home game against Florida State on March 6.

KU ticket official sentenced to 57 months

WICHITA, Kan. — A former associate director in charge of the University of Kansas ticket office and "gatekeeper" for stolen tickets was sentenced Thursday to 57 months in prison for her role in the $2 million conspiracy.

Prosecutors accused Charlette Blubaugh, 44, of providing tickets for basketball and football games to others who then sold them for personal profit.

Blubaugh and her husband, Thomas, both of Medford, Okla., pleaded guilty in January to a single count of conspiracy to defraud the United States through wire fraud, tax obstruction and interstate transportation of stolen property.

Cink, Henry lead Texas Open after Na's meltdown

SAN ANTONIO — J.J. Henry and former British Open champion Stewart Cink are atop the Texas Open leaderboard after shooting 5-under 67s, but the spotlight belonged to Kevin Na during a historic meltdown on No. 9.

Na set a PGA Tour low Thursday with a 16 on the par-4 ninth, chopping his way through a nightmarish hole during an otherwise solid first round. The South Korean was a combined 4 under on the other 17 holes to finish 8-over 80.

Adam Scott, the defending champion, was a stroke back in his first round since his runner-up finish at the Masters. Scott shot a 68 and was tied with Charley Hoffman, Jhonattan Vegas, Vaughn Taylor and Kevin Chappell.

Canadiens beat Bruins

BOSTON — Carey Price returned as Montreal's starting playoff goalie with his third postseason shutout, Brian Gionta scored twice and the Canadiens opened the series with a 2-0 win over the Boston Bruins on Thursday night.

Price started one of the Canadiens 19 playoff games last year when they reached the Eastern Conference finals. Jaroslav Halak started the others but was traded to the St. Louis Blues in June.

Kaleta, Sabres skate past Flyers

PHILADELPHIA — Ryan Miller stopped 35 shots for his second career postseason shutout and Patrick Kaleta scored to lift the Buffalo Sabres to a 1-0 win over the Philadelphia Flyers in Game 1 of the Eastern Conference playoff series.

Miller stopped every shot under all types of pressure and carried the Sabres to the clutch opening win. The teams have met eight times in the postseason and the Game 1 winner won the series each time.

Boise State football player charged with battery

BOISE — Police have cited Boise State defensive tackle J.P. Nisby for misdemeanor battery for an altercation at a downtown bar.

The 22-year-old Nisby is charged with choking another man during an argument early on April 3. Witnesses say the men were separated by bystanders.

The victim called police about 4 p.m. that day, officers investigated and ticketed Nisby.

Boise State officials say they are aware of the charge against the senior from Stockton, Calif.

Nisby hasn't practiced this spring because coach Chris Petersen wanted him to focus on his responsibilities off the field. He won't participate in Saturday's 5 p.m. spring game at Bronco Stadium.

Nisby emerged as a key backup for the Broncos last season. He finished with 16 tackles, 4.5 tackles for loss and three sacks.

CSI's Jackson, Gosar honored by NJCAA coaches

College of Southern Idaho guard Pierre Jackson has been named the Division I Player of the Year by the NJCAA Men's Basketball Coaches Association.

The association also named CSI head coach Steve Gosar Division I Coach of the Year.

The honors are the latest in a slew of postseason accolades for Jackson and Gosar, who led CSI to a 33-4 record and the NJCAA national championship.

Jackson, who signed with Baylor on Wednesday, averaged a team-high 18.7 points for the Golden Eagles and was named Scenic West Athletic Conference Player of the Year and NJCAA Tournament Most Valuable Player.

Gosar, 75-24 in three seasons at CSI, was named SWAC Coach of the Year and the NJCAA's Coach of the Tournament at the NJCAA tourney in Hutchinson, Kan.

Ex-CSI player Matkin signs with Youngstown (Ohio) State

Former College of Southern Idaho and Twin Falls High School player Devan Matkin has signed a National Letter of Intent to play for Youngstown (Ohio) State.

The 5-foot-10 Matkin averaged 7.4 points, 2.8 rebounds and 1.8 assists at Tallahassee (Fla.) Community College this past season.

She played most of her high school career at Twin Falls before spending her senior season at Vallivue High School in Nampa. She averaged 4.9 points and 2.6 rebounds as a freshman at CSI during the 2009-10 season.

"Devan fills needs that we wanted to address with recruiting, and that was to get skilled players and get better shooters," Youngstown State coach Bob Boldon said. "Her size and athleticism will provide some versatility for us. We're really excited about adding Devan to our squad."

Vandals add 2 more hoops recruits

MOSCOW — Idaho basketball coach Don Verlin has bolstered his 2011 recruiting class by signing two more players in the late signing period.

Verlin announced Wednesday that Idaho native Connor Hill and Mansa Habeeb, of Buffalo, N.Y., will be joining the Vandals next fall.

Hill, 6-2, 180-pound guard, helped propel Post Falls High School to a 23-5 record and a fourth-place finish in the Idaho state tournament this year. He averaged 21.7 points, 5.8 rebounds and 3.5 assists per game.

Habeeb, 6-3, 210-pound guard, played two seasons for Southeastern Iowa Community College and will join Idaho as a junior. Habeeb averaged 12.8 points per game and shot 51.3 percent from the floor last season. He also averaged 5.3 rebounds, 1.6 assists and 1.4 steals as a sophomore.

Blackfoot basketball coach won't be rehired

BLACKFOOT — Blackfoot High boys' basketball coach Jonathan Packer says school officials have told him they will not renew his coaching contract for next year and asked him to resign.

Packer tells the Blackfoot Morning News that he won't resign. Superintendent Scott Crane said he could not comment specifically about Packer's contract, but said no decisions have been made about anyone's extracurricular contracts.

If the Blackfoot School Board does not renew Packer's contract, he has the right to an informal review where he can explain why he disagrees with the board's decision.

Packer was placed on leave from Dec. 22 through Jan. 10 after five former players were charged with hazing teammates in the locker room and on the bus during the 2009-10 season.

Buhl didn't record a hit the rest of the game.

"This game should have come down to a clutch hit at the end. The score said 10-4, but it was much closer than that. We left a lot of runners on base. We watched a lot of third strikes," said Buhl coach Brady Swallow.

Kimberly added three insurance runs in the fifth, with RBIs by Clay Mathews, Morse and Lee, who finished 2-for-3 with three RBIs.

The Bulldogs took Game 2 8-6 as Champlin went 3-for-3 with two RBIs and Sam Bourgeois earned the win on the mound. Hamilton smacked another home run for Buhl, but it wasn't enough to lift the Indians.

With the two wins today, Kimberly sweeps the season series over Buhl. The Bulldogs also beat the Indians 13-4 and 25-3 on April 5.

"It's a conference game, it's always high energy. We're always ready to play our toughest against Buhl," Mathews said.

Kimberly plays nonconference games against Glenns Ferry and Canyon Ridge before wrapping up SCIC play with a double-header against Filer on April 26. The district tournament begins May 4.

"Both teams battled today and we'll get a chance to see them again," Swallow said.

Traveling series such as the Intermountain Pro Trucks, Legends, Pro 4's and Vintage Prints will again make the rounds at MVS this season. A new addition to visiting series appearances will be the Winged Sprint Cars, scheduled for seven events at MVS this year.

The open-wheeled Modifieds, once a staple at MVS, are scheduled for a 150-lap event July 30.

Among the newest happenings for the 2011 season is a demolition derby, "flying" bus and other mayhem scheduled for May 14. On Aug. 13, MVS fans can experience a blast from the past as former track champions race Hornet cars for additional bragging rights.

Ticket prices at the gate start at $11 for adults and $6 for children ages 6-12. Children under 5 are admitted free. Family ticket packages

m. Individuals desiring to be included on the Commission's mailing list should so indicate by writing to the Secretary of the Commission.

n. Comments, Protests, or Motions to Intervene: Anyone may submit comments, a protest, or a motion to intervene in accordance with the requirements of Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR 385.210, .211, .214. In determining the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests or other comments filed, but only those who file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules may become a party to the proceeding. Any comments, protests, or motions to intervene must be received on or before the specified comment date for the particular application.

o. Filing and Service of Responsive Documents: Any filing must (1) bear in all capital letters the title "COMMENTS", "PROTEST", or "MOTION TO INTERVENE" as applicable; (2) set forth in the heading the name of the applicant and the project number of the application to which the filing responds; (3) furnish the name, address, and telephone number of the person protesting or intervening; and (4) otherwise comply with the requirements of 18 CFR 385.2001 through 385.2005. All comments, motions to intervene, or protests must set forth their evidentiary basis and otherwise comply with the requirements of 18 CFR 4.34(b). All comments, motions to intervene, or protests should relate to project works which are the subject of the amendment application. Agencies may obtain copies of the application directly from the applicant. A copy of any protest or motion to intervene must be served upon each representative of the applicant specified in the particular application. If an intervenor files comments or documents with the Commission relating to the merits of an issue that may affect the responsibilities of a particular resource agency, they must also serve a copy of the document on that resource agency. A copy of all other filings in reference to this application must be accompanied by proof of service on all persons listed in the service list prepared by the Commission in this proceeding, in accordance with 18 CFR 4.34 (b) and 385.2010.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE SALE
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Thursday, the 18th day of August, 2011, at the hour of 3 o'clock P.M. of said day, at the offices of Title Fact, Inc., 163 Forth Avenue North, Twin Falls, Twin Falls County, Idaho, 83303, David E. Wishney, a member of the Idaho State Bar Association, as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to wit:
Lot 13, Block 97, Twin Falls Townsite, Twin Falls County, Idaho, according to the final and amended plat thereof recorded in Book 1 of Plats, page 7, records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above-described real property, but for purposes of compliance with Idaho Code Section 60-113, the Trustee has been informed that the address of 628 2nd Avenue West, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, is sometimes associated with said real property.
Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Michael D. Hutchison, an unmarried man, as Grantor, to David E. Wishney, a member of the Idaho State Bar Association, as Successor Trustee, for the benefit and security of Washington Federal Savings, Beneficiary; said Deed of Trust having been recorded on May 7, 2002 as Instrument No. 2002-008882, records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The above Grantor is named to comply with Idaho Code Section 45-1506(4)(a). No representation is made that said Grantor is or is not presently responsible for this obligation.
The nature of the default for which this sale is to be made is the failure of the Grantor to pay monthly installments in the sum of $472.00 each, due for the months of December, 2010 and January, 2011, and $478.00 each, due for the months of February, 2011 through April, 2011, in accordance with the provisions of the Promissory Note of even date, secured by said deed of trust.
The original loan amount was $37,500.00, with interest thereon at the rate of 7.25% per annum commencing on May 3, 2002. The unpaid balance of said Promissory Note, including accrued interest through April 1, 2011, is $23,939.90, with interest accruing thereafter at the rate of $4.26 per day, until paid, late charges of $68.48, inspection fees of $25.00, and miscellaneous fees of $15.00.
All delinquent amounts are now due and payable, along with all accruing late charges, and all costs and fees associated with this foreclosure. The sale is made without representation, warranty, or covenant of any kind or nature.

Found Dogs:

A female Pitbull was found in Buhl 3-28-11. She is brown and is about 4-months-old. She was wearing a collar but no tags. Call to identify.

Avail. for Adoption:

Did you know that Black Dogs are generally the last to be adopted and are euthanized in shelters in much large numbers? People may consider them too "plain", or simply don't notice them because their dark color makes them disappear in their kennels. Whatever the reason, black dogs are not given the attention they deserve. So PLEASE give our black dogs a chance!

Deuce is a handsome Labrador. He is middle aged, probably about 5-years-old, and is solid black. Deuce is very mild and sweet. He will make a nice family companion. Come meet him today.

Kate is a black lab mix puppy that is about 5-month-old. She has white on her feet and is very cute. Kate is not going to get very big. Her build is short and stocky. Kate is a fetching fool! She loves to have people throw balls for her! She is very sweet and has been waiting patiently to find her forever family.

Annie Oakley is a black border collie mix puppy. She is about 14-weeks-old and is very cute! Annie loves to play with the other dogs, and loves human companionship as well. Come meet her today.

Calamity Jane is an adorable border collie mix puppy. She is about 14-weeks-old. Jane is mostly black with a white diamond on her chest. She is so cute!

The adoption fee is $75 and includes spaying/neutering and the first set of vaccinations.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

“Who is he that hath everything according to his will? Neither I, nor thou, nor any man upon the earth.”
— Thomas a Kempis

After South had optimistically jumped to four spades at his second turn, West led the club king and declarer ruffed. Unthinking players would now start immediately on the crossruff, without taking the trouble to notice that this line of play would inevitably leave them one short of the contract.

South found a better play at the second trick when he led ace and another diamond. The 2-2 split was very good news for declarer, but now East's return was clearly marked with the threat of the established diamonds confronting him. He shifted to a heart to force dummy.

When South's 10 fetched the jack, it was clear to declarer that there was still no advantage in ruffing and reverting to the crossruff. There would still be only nine tricks total.

So South refused the apparent gift of a ruff on the board. Instead, he discarded a club, leaving West in a hopeless position. If West played a club, South would score an overtrick by ruffing clubs twice more and throwing the blocking diamond nine from hand on the third trump in dummy.

If West played a heart, be it a high or low one, he would set up the 10th trick, the rest of the hand being played on a crossruff. So West played a trump — his best shot. However, declarer drew two rounds of trump and played the third diamond. East could trump this, but it was the defenders' last trick, since dummy was high.

ANSWER: The normal treatment of your pass of two hearts is that it suggests some values. (An immediate double would be a negative double.) When your partner shows a real spade suit, you can emphasize your support and your heart control by jumping to four hearts. This suggests a singleton or void in hearts, and from here on, partner can take control.

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

Today is Friday, April 15, the 105th day of 2011. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On April 15, 1861, following the Confederate takeover of Fort Sumter, President Abraham Lincoln declared a state of insurrection and called out Union troops.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:
In 1817, the first permanent American school for the deaf opened in Hartford, Conn.

In 1850, the city of San Francisco was incorporated.

In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln died, nine hours after being shot the night before by John Wilkes Booth at Ford's Theater in Washington. Andrew Johnson became the nation's 17th president.

In 1912, the British luxury liner RMS Titanic sank in the North Atlantic off Newfoundland, less than three hours after striking an iceberg; some 1,500 people died.

In 1945, during World War II, British and Canadian troops liberated the Nazi concentration camp Bergen-Belsen.

In 1947, Jackie Robinson, baseball's first black major league player, made his official debut with the Brooklyn Dodgers on opening day. (The Dodgers defeated the Boston Braves, 5-3.)

In 1959, Cuban leader Fidel Castro arrived in Washington to begin a goodwill tour of the United States. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resigned for health reasons (he was succeeded by Christian A. Herter).

In 1960, a three-day conference to form the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) began at Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C. (The group's first chairman was Marion Barry.)

In 1980, existentialist philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre died in Paris at age 74.

In 1986, the United States launched an air raid against Libya in response to the bombing of a discotheque in Berlin on April 5; Libya said 37 people, mostly civilians, were killed.

Ten years ago: U.N. investigators arrested Bosnian Serb army officer Dragan Obrenovic in connection with the Serbian Army's slaughter of some 7,000 Muslim men and boys. (Obrenovic later pleaded guilty to five war crimes charges and testified against his one-time superior officers; he was sentenced to 17 years in prison.) Punk rock icon Joey Ramone, 49, died of lymphoma at a New York hospital.

Five years ago: A U.S. airstrike aimed at militants holed up in eastern Kunar province in Afghanistan mistakenly killed seven civilians.

One year ago: An ash cloud from an Icelandic volcano drifted over northern Europe, causing the largest disruption of flights since the 2001 terror attacks. President Barack Obama, visiting the Kennedy Space Center, predicted his new space exploration plans would lead American astronauts to Mars and back in his lifetime. Civil rights leader Benjamin Hooks, one-time executive director of the NAACP, died in Memphis, Tenn. at age 85.

OPEN HOUSE TODAY • 12-2PM LAST CHANCE

DEAR ABBY: Could you please reprint a letter you ran a few years ago about the dangers of purchasing a pet rabbit for children at Easter? As a rabbit owner for eight years, I'm all too familiar with the misconceptions and ridiculous theories associated with these delightful creatures. Every point in that letter rang true to me, and I beg anyone considering giving a child a rabbit to reconsider.

When I bought my bunny, it was near Easter time. Most pet stores didn't offer them, and I was told it was because of the large number of rabbits found dead or abandoned on the streets because the selfish, inhumane people who bought them for the holiday disposed of them the next day. These dear little animals deserve owners who will love and respect them. Please don't waste their lives.

— CAITLIN IN L.A.

DEAR CAITLIN: I'm happy to oblige. The letter you requested carries an important message that can't be repeated often enough:

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Easter is coming. Many families still purchase live rabbits as pets for their children. Parents often think rabbits are good "starter" pets and don't understand what they are getting into. As a result, many of these poor creatures end up in animal shelters, and children learn that pets are disposable.

Before getting rabbits, people should consider:

1. Are they willing to make a seven-to-10-year commitment? That is the average lifespan of a rabbit.
2. What will happen if their child gets bored with the bunny after six months?
3. Is there a place in their house for a rabbit cage?
4. Are they willing to pay to get it spayed/neutered and provide vet care?
5. Do they know that most rabbits hate to be held? Will their child accept that?
6. Are they willing to ensure that children under 7 won't pick up the rabbit without supervision? Rabbits are fragile; their legs or spine will break if accidentally dropped.
7. Can they provide three hours of exercise every day in an escape-proof area outside its cage?
8. Do the adults want the rabbit, too? A rabbit should be a family pet.

If people have questions about rabbits and their care, please ask them to contact my organization. We are happy to answer questions. Our website is www.rabbit-network.org, and our phone number is (781) 431-1211.

Finally, if a rabbit is right for you and your family, please adopt one from a shelter or rescue group. You'll enrich your family with a new member and also teach your kids the value of saving a life. Thank you.

— SUZANNE TRAYHAN,
PRESIDENT, HOUSE RABBIT NETWORK

DEAR SUZANNE: The topic of bunnies, baby chicks and ducklings as Easter gifts is one that recurs every year. I hear from people who work in animal shelters deploring the fact that these helpless little creatures are later dumped when they cease to be novelties. I hope readers will take to heart what you have written, particularly the suggestion that if a rabbit is going to be adopted, a shelter or rescue group can be an excellent resource.

IF APRIL 15 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Look forward to a year of repeated opportunity and business success. From now through the end of May is a good time to grab the brass ring by stretching further than usual. You have the skill as well as the opportunity to put important plans into motion. Make permanent improvements in your life by accepting whatever comes close and by not pursuing whatever seems hard to obtain. You would be wise to get all conflicts settled and all debts paid up to date before the fall. The stars are not lined up for success so avoid making major changes or decisions next November.

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): We live in a digital age. If you work your fingers to the bone, sometimes all you get are bony fingers. You might not get a reward for your diligence, especially if you are performing routine or boring jobs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): It is possible to be alone without being lonely. Work diligently to get your to-do list completed — even if you must toil at one task without a helping hand. Someone will tag along for the pleasant jobs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Analyze your habits. If you feel that you are not getting the most out of your efforts, it is time to make a change. At the same time, you should not make a change without thinking it through thoroughly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Discuss without demanding a dispute. The open mind can see limitless possibilities but the narrow mind sees only problems. Take constructive steps to avoid confrontations or misunderstandings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Ravenous wolves aren't satisfied by a Caesar salad. Your attempts to be delicate, dainty and discreet might fall on deaf ears. Hold off on making key financial decisions and avoid key negotiations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It is a better idea to avoid a difficult situation rather than adding fuel to the fire. If there is a standoff brewing over bills or shared resources, then it is wise to delay making additional purchases or expenditures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Because you will reap what you sow, it pays to be generous and conscientious even if it requires extra effort. With your flair for organization, you can make a valuable contribution to the community.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Mountains and molehills must meet in the middle. You can't minimize a problem, but you needn't blow it out of proportion either. Someone previously cooperative might be briefly antagonistic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Never borrow from Peter to pay Paul. It is possible to make a mistake with your piggy bank because you are rushed to fulfill too many obligations. Wait to make a crucial financial decision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Being warm and witty doesn't necessarily make you wise. You seem to have an on-off switch that gives you a great deal of charisma when you're on, but poor judgment and aggravations when you're off.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Play it unplugged. A creative idea might be blocked by a lack of funds or a focus on business needs, but when you put away artifice and airs everything falls in place. Singles may find an amorous hookup.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You must share a bone of contention instead of burying it. If you hide a problem or an unpaid bill, it will only come back to bite you. Don't add any additional credit card debt to your current obligations.
