Hagerman
Fossil Beds
re-open today

Trail overlook remains closed for renovation and erosion control after fire

By Kimberlee Kruesi
For the Times-News

The Hagerman Fossil Beds National Monument will re-open today, despite concerns that it would be closed for years after sustaining extensive fire damage.

The monument closed last August after an estimated 4,300 acres within its boundaries burned in the 300,000-acre Long Butte Fire.

“What we realized is that the nature of the fire moved so fast that it actually didn’t damage many of the fossils or the resources from which the monument was created from,” said Carol Ash, chief of interpretation and education. “As we began to do evaluations in the fall, we realized there was no reason to keep the monument closed.”

While the national monument will re-open today, the Oregon Trail Overlook will remain closed for work crews to begin renovation and erosion prevention. American Conservation Experience (ACE), a nonprofit organization dedicated to restoring national parks, has been hired to re-seed the area with native plants.

“Planting native plants and offering as much information on the importance of native species will be the theme of the monument this year,” Ash said.

If exotic plants were to take over the monument, it could potentially send a crippling ripple effect across the area’s ecosystem, harming species dependent on native plants.

Ash said ACE will lay down matting to deter soil erosion to reduce the chances of mud slides. Crews will install picnic areas, handicap-accessible parking and handicap accessibility to trails.

The National Park Service will also replace welcome signs that were damaged in the fire or by hunters’ gunshots, she said.

Idaho and the wolf

Idaho prepares for renewed hunts; groups concerned about political meddling

By Ben Botkin
Times-News writer

The gray wolf’s days of roaming Idaho’s high country without hunters to contend with are numbered.

The next chapter of the state’s struggle with the wolf is on the horizon, now that Congress has passed a budget bill that, among many other things, takes the predator off the federal endangered species list.

For hunters and ranchers angered over the wolf population’s appetite for livestock and wildlife, the change will give Idaho back what they’ve wanted all along: state management of wolves, including hunts.

For environmentalists, the precedent-setting congressional move to delist an animal raises questions about the strength of the Endangered Species Act and the place both science and politics have in the process.

Management timeline

1915: Congress appropriates $125,000 to eradicate wolves and other Western predators.
1930s: The last wolf in Idaho is killed.
1967: Gray wolves listed as endangered.
1980: U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Northern Rocky Mountain Wolf Recovery Plan is signed. It recommends reintroducing wolves in central Idaho and Yellowstone National Park with a goal of 30 breeding pairs in Idaho, Montana and Wyoming before delisting wolves and turning to state management.
1994: Idaho Fish and Game Commission supports wolf reintroduction in central Idaho as an experimental, nonessential population to allow state control of wolf management.
March 2002: Idaho Legislature passes a joint resolution approving the state’s wolf management plan.
2007-09: U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service begins and completes the delisting process through two attempts; Idaho’s plan becomes part of the change.
2010: Idaho’s wolf hunt kills 188 wolves. A federal judge overturns the delisting of wolves.

Panel gives direction to T.F. school’s board

Fulcher

What’s next?

Board Chairwoman Teresa Berry said the panel’s decision cannot be rejected, and a vote on the matter has not been scheduled, though Xavier’s next board meeting is slated for 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Cindy Fulcher’s time as Xavier Charter School’s principal effectively ended on Thursday.

Fulcher will lose her post, pending a vote by the Twin Falls charter school’s board of trustees, after a panel tasked with deciding her future at Xavier determined she should be fired.

Xavier Vice Principal Thad Biggers informed the school’s staff of the panel’s decision on Friday morning.

Fulcher has been on paid administrative leave since August, and in October sued the school’s board in an effort to keep her job.

An out-of-court settlement of that lawsuit led to the formation of a panel, independent of Xavier’s board, to determine Fulcher’s employment. During a March hearing, panel members and former educators Kay Jones, Terry Nelson and Mary Gervase heard arguments from both Fulcher’s and Xavier’s lawyers.

Ultimately, they sided with Xavier, which argued that Fulcher withheld “vital information” about a potential teaching hire who lacked teaching certification.

Fulcher was not available for comment on Friday.

Fulcher, a Xavier founder, earns $75,083 per year as principal. The school has spent around $19,600 in legal fees this fiscal year,

Obama predicts Congress will raise federal debt limit

President Barack Obama confidently predicted Friday that Congress would raise the nation’s borrowing limit to cover the staggering federal debt rather than risk triggering a worldwide recession, but he conceded for the first time that he would have to offer more spending cuts to Republicans to get a deal. Pushed to the brink, Obama said, the two parties would find “a smart compromise.”

In an interview with The Associated Press, Obama also took pains to promote his long-term plan to cut trillions of dollars from federal deficits as a fairer, more compassionate alternative to a Republican plan that surged to party-line passage Friday afternoon in the House.

Two injured in rollover

Times-News

Two Caldwell residents were taken to a Jerome hospital after their car rolled on the interstate Friday.

Allison Hill, 17, was headed west in a 2005 Chevrolet Impala when she lost control of the car near milepost 185, near Eden, according to the Idaho State Police. The Impala went into a broad slide and into the median, where it rolled once. ISP received the call about the rollover at about 5:10 p.m.

Hill was taken by ground ambulance to St. Benedicts Family Medical Center, as was one of her passengers, Debra Olsen, 51. Another passenger, Amanda Drake, 18, also of Caldwell, was not taken to the hospital, according to ISP.

Information on Hill and Olsen's conditions was not immediately available. St. Benedicts ER staff declined to provide their conditions Friday evening.

ISP continues to investigate the crash. Officers were helped at the scene by Jerome County sheriff's deputies and EMS.

Burley Public Library celebrates 100 years of sharing knowledge

By Laurie Welch
Times-News writer

BURLEY — A hundred years after the Burley Public Library officially threw open its doors, it still serves its original purpose — providing public access to information.

The library celebrated its 100th anniversary this week.

"This is a continual story of how people use the library, with use being high and space always being too small," said librarian Julie Woodford.

The library, which started as a collection of books at the Fremstad Drugstore on the corner of Main Street and Overland Avenue, has evolved into a city hub of offering programs, public Internet access and a chance to check out other city's library materials without leaving town.

Local historian Kathleen Hedberg, who authored the book, Cassia County Idaho, The Foundation Years, said the Woman's Club of Burley started collecting books for the library in 1908, and kept the collection in the drugstore.

In 1911, the Ladies of Civic Improvement secured the former Burley Land Co. building for the new library, where it officially set up shop.

Early accounts of the library told of the founders' dreams of having a room where women could rest and brush the dirt off after the ride into town on unpaved roads.

"I think that really speaks to the importance of books," Woodford said.

By 1914, schoolchildren were checking out 250 books per month from the library.

Burley residents corresponded with philanthropist Andrew Carnegie about library funding from 1911 to 1922. Funding was eventually approved, but never collected by the city. The library became publicly funded by a 1922 mill levy.

That year, the library moved to the city-county building, where Burley Centennial Park now stands, and later moved to locations on Overland and Oakley avenues before returning to the city-county building. It moved to its current location on Miller Avenue in 1959. The library has since added a children's section and community room, and expanded its adult fiction section.

"I can tell you what has not changed, and that is the continual support for the library and the recognition of its importance to the community," Hedberg said.

Hagerman Valley Inn co-owner Mark Bolduc said the re-opening will also create more economic growth in Hagerman.

"It'll be a big spruce in the community as a whole," said Bolduc, a member of Hagerman's chamber of commerce.

Bolduc said since the monument is usually closed in the winter, Hagerman hasn't yet experienced any economic consequences from the closure.

"If the monument had remained closed this summer, we would have been impacted since that's when people come to visit the area," he said. "I wouldn't be surprised if more people visited this summer, since the economy has forced people to take smaller trips to save money and so we'll have people from all around traveling here instead of out of the state."

Wolves

For Idaho, the change will return things to how they were in early 2009, when the wolf was last delisted and placed under a state management plan approved by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. That fall, the state held its inaugural hunt before the wolf was again given endangered protections by a federal judge.

"Idaho has done everything correctly to get sustainable wolf populations under the ESA, and Fish and Wildlife agrees with us," U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson, R-Idaho, said in an interview with the Times-News.

The predator will also be off the list in Montana, another Rocky Mountain state where the population has taken root. But even with the congressional action, the wolf remains an endangered species in Wyoming, which doesn't have an approved state management plan. When Wyoming's legislators and the federal government can both agree on one, the wolf will be delisted throughout the Northern Rockies.

Delisting didn't take place immediately with President Barack Obama's signature on the budget bill Friday. The U.S. Interior Department has 60 days to restore the delisting rule that includes Idaho's plan.

Even then, Idaho state officials will have decisions to make. Wolf hunts are likely.

"As a commission and after talking to the governor's office, we intend to open the season for wolves as soon as possible," said Wayne Wright, the Idaho Fish and Game Commission chairman from Twin Falls.

Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter

Great Lakes wolves could come off endangered list

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Federal officials said Friday they would try again to remove Endangered Species Act protections from gray wolves in the western Great Lakes region, where they are thriving after being threatened with extinction decades ago.

Courts have overruled several attempts by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to drop wolves from the endangered list, siding with environmentalists whose lawsuits contended the predator's status remains shaky even though about 4,200 wander forests and fields of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Agency officials said their new proposal addresses concerns raised by federal judges and should survive legal challenges.

will have to decide by April 20 if he wants to sign a bill the Idaho Legislature passed this year that allows him to initiate disaster declarations and enlist the aid of law enforcement for wolf hunts. This week, he told reporters he has legal questions about the state bill and hasn't made a decision yet.

That bill aside, Otter's support of state management is well known.

"We believe that we have proven our ability to effectively manage these predators," said Jon Hanian, Otter's spokesman. "We've had a very successful hunting season, and the governor is supportive of any effort that actually moves the ball on this issue."

Idaho's management plan wouldn't give the state free rein to eradicate wolves. The plan that Idaho lawmakers passed in 2002 called for a minimum of 15 breeding pairs — about 150 wolves — to give the state a buffer above the federal government's 10 breeding-pair minimum.

Stan Boyd, executive director of the Idaho Wool Growers Association, served on the state committee dur-

Two charged in burglary of Cassia County home

BURLEY — Two young men charged with burglarizing a home in Cassia County both waived their preliminary hearings Friday.

Zane Bud Harman, 19, and Ty Cody Buck Bedke, 20, both of Burley, have been charged with felony burglary, grand theft and conspiracy for allegedly robbing a house owned by Wayne and Holly Bean at 200 West 503 South in Cassia County.

Documents show that on Dec. 28, 2010, Wayne Bean called emergency dispatchers to report a robbery after returning home

In a sworn affidavit by Cassia County Sheriff's Deputy Gale Garrett, Wayne Bean named Zane Harman as a possible suspect.

Both Bedke and Harman pleaded not guilty to the charges on March 28.

ing the 1990s to address wolf management. The 2002 plan was its final product.

"You had some really level-headed folks come in, but this issue is so emotional on both sides, and of course along with the emotions come the lawsuits," he said.

The wolf population has grown in Idaho, a source of angst for cattlemen and sportsmen dealing with maimed livestock and diminishing wildlife.

"It's the people here in Idaho that know where the wolf is accepted and where it isn't," Boyd said.

In Idaho alone, there were an estimated 87 packs and 705 wolves at the end of 2010, a figure that's grown rapidly since 66 wolves were reintroduced in central Idaho and the Yellowstone region in the mid-1990s. More than 1,600 wolves are in the Northern Rockies.

Kimberly man faces four meth trafficking charges

Times-News

Idaho State Police say they bought nearly 90 grams of methamphetamine from a Kimberly man, then found another 115 grams in his truck when they arrested him in February.

Bernardo Chairez Benites, 42, is charged with four counts of felony trafficking in methamphetamine for allegedly thrice selling the drug to people working with state and federal law-enforcement personnel as the officers watched.

When officers carried out an arrest warrant for those alleged crimes, they say they found Benites with four times the amount of meth needed to pursue a trafficking charge in Idaho.

Benites' scheduled appearance in Twin Falls County 5th District Magistrate Court on Friday was rescheduled for May 6 at the request of his defense.

On Feb. 15, ISP troopers and a U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives agent were conducting surveillance on Benites' 443 Polk St. home when they found him driving nearby.

Upon pulling Benites over and arresting him on a felony warrant for three meth trafficking charges, troopers searched his truck, finding 115.7 grams of meth.

After he was advised of his Miranda rights, Benites admitted that he intended to sell the drugs, according to ISP Trooper Joseph Chandler's sworn affidavit.

But ISP didn't actually take Benites in before building their case against him.

On Feb. 3, ISP and U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency agents arranged a controlled purchase of meth from Benites, according to Trooper Jerod Sweesy's sworn affidavit. They outfitted two individuals with $1,300 to buy drugs, and placed a digital audio recorder on one.

According to Sweesy's report, he watched as the two subjects working with ISP bought 28.7 grams from Benites in the parking lot of the Kimberly Ridley's Family Markets.

On Feb. 7, ISP used the same method to buy 28.9 grams of meth from Benites, Sweesy's report states.

On Feb. 9, Sweesy wrote, a purchase of 28.7 grams of meth was made by the same team on the 400 block of Polk Street West in Kimberly. At about 10:15 p.m. that night, Benites allegedly called one of the people who would buy meth from him and said he thought he was being watched.

Sweesy's report also notes intent to seek school zone enhancements for the alleged drug deals that occurred at the Ridley's parking lot, as it's within 1,000 feet of Kimberly Elementary School property.

T.F. County adds zip lines to zoning code

By Sky Buffat
Times-News correspondent

With a vote of 2-1, Twin Falls County commissioners moved Friday to follow the lead of the city of Twin Falls in adding zip lines to the allowable uses for open space areas in the county's zoning ordinance.

The commissioners emphasized that a special-use permit will be required for any future zip lines, allowing discussion of the site specifics for each application. Friday's vote merely put the definition of the word "zip line" in the zoning ordinance and added the word itself to the allowable uses.

Commissioner George

Urie voted against the ordinance change, expressing that to his knowledge all comprehensive plans relative to the Snake River Canyon — where developers would like to place a zip line — emphasize preservation.

Urie also said that as for the economic stimulus a zip line could bring, he felt more people would enjoy the canyon as it is than the way it would be.

The vote was the second such hurdle proponents of a new zip line, which would run in the area between Canyon Springs Golf Course and Centennial Park, needed to clear. Both the county and city were involved because the site falls in the city's area of impact.

Developers now don't intend to waste any time moving forward.

"We will be submitting a new special-use application next week," said Jody Tatum, spokeswoman for the developers.

That application will be taken to the city of Twin Falls, which will now weigh the next step on its own.

City Zoning and Development Manager Renee Carraway explained that relative to property that is owned by the county but falls within the city's overlay, the city has the authority to act on the county's behalf regarding special-use applications.

Twin Falls County will only be involved in that part of the process if a city decision is appealed.

Once the city receives a special-use application, staff will review it to make sure all required criteria are met. A public hearing will take place before any decision. Tatum said she expects the process will take about a month.

"Every step of this process so far has made things a little clearer, a little better," Tatum said. "Next week's application will be a better fit, but only a little different than it was before."

"Since the county's decision this morning, I've probably gotten 25 calls today," Carraway said Friday. "We're still a small town and news travels fast."

MONTANA
Volcanic plume mapped under Yellowstone

HELENA — Scientists using electric and magnetic sensors have mapped the size and composition of a vast plume of hot rock and briny fluid down to 200 miles below Yellowstone National Park’s surface, according to a new study soon to be published.

The so-called “geoelectric” imaging of a plume to this extent is a first, giving researchers a clearer picture of the material that feeds Yellowstone’s volcanic features, said Robert B. Smith, the study’s co-author, a University of Utah professor emeritus and a coordinating scientist of the Yellowstone Volcano Observatory.

The information will help scientists better understand the evolution of these hot spots that are an integral part of continental drift and are active in 20 places around the world from Hawaii to Iceland, he said.

IDAHO
NEA chief urges Idaho teachers to mobilize

BOISE — One of the nation’s top education leaders has a message for Idaho teachers irritated by lawmakers and a host of education reforms. Mobilize and make a difference at the ballot box.

National Education Association President Dennis Van Roekel challenged Idaho teachers to fight back against budget cuts, the elimination of tenure and new restrictions on collective bargaining imposed by the GOP-led legislature.

Van Roekel delivered his message to more than 550 teachers meeting in Boise for two days as part of the Idaho Education Association’s annual delegate assembly.

GOP lawmakers claimed the reforms are necessary to help balance the state budget. But Van Roekel said the rollbacks of tenure and collective bargaining in Idaho and other states is nothing more than an attack on unions and middle class teachers.

Test megaload will sit over the weekend

LEWISTON — ExxonMobil’s test module will be staying put near Kamiah over the weekend, after a difficult first leg in which power was knocked out to about 1,300 homes and business east of Orofino.

Idaho Department of Transportation spokesman Adam Rush says the 500,000-pound test shipment is scheduled to move again Monday night. He says ExxonMobil and the transport company continue to investigate how the load snapped a guy wire for a high-voltage power line.

Pius Rolheiser, spokesman for ExxonMobil subsidiary Imperial Oil, says the findings will help them adjust plans for future moves. The company is conducting a test trip from the Port of Lewiston, through northwestern Montana to an oil sands project in southern Alberta.

March unemployment holds at 9.7 percent

BOISE — Idaho’s unemployment rate held steady in March at 9.7 percent, the fourth straight month at that record high level.

The Idaho Department of Labor reported Friday that 74,000 Idahoans are unemployed.

The report carries some positive news: Total employment in the state increased by 2,200. That means Idaho now has 688,900 people in the work force, the highest level since April 2010.

The agency also reports that the construction sector picked up 1,100 jobs, an improvement for an industry that has been among the hardest hit during the recession.

WASHINGTON, D.C.
New oil pipeline study finds no new issues

The State Department said Friday that a new environmental study of an oil pipeline from Canada to Texas shows no new issues since a similar report was issued last year.

The report on the proposed $7 billion, 1,900-mile pipeline, comes as President Barack Obama offered his first public comments on the project, which would carry crude oil extracted from tar sands in western Canada, to refineries in Texas. At a town hall meeting on energy last week, Obama said concerns about the potentially “destructive” nature of the Canadian oil sands need to be answered before his administration decides whether to approve a permit for the Keystone XL pipeline.

The pipeline planned by Calgary-based TransCanada would travel through six U.S. states carrying what environmental groups call “dirty oil,” because of the intensive energy needed to extract crude from formations of sand, clay and water.

Obama: Congress must raise debt limit

By Ben Feller
Associated Press

CHICAGO — President Barack Obama confidently predicted Friday that a divided Congress would raise the nation's borrowing limit to cover the staggering federal debt rather than risk triggering a worldwide recession, but he conceded for the first time he would have to offer more spending cuts to Republicans to get a deal.

Pushed to the brink, Obama said, the two parties would find "a smart compromise."

In an interview with The Associated Press, Obama also took pains to promote his long-term plan to cut trillions of dollars from federal deficits as a fairer, more compassionate alternative to a Republican plan that surged to party-line passage Friday afternoon in the House.

And Obama said in his most forceful terms yet that he had the economic record to win re-election after he had "been able to yank this economy" out of recession.

President Barack Obama speaks during an interview Friday in Chicago.

One week after the near government shutdown — Obama signed the bill finalizing that legislation after returning to the White House — the rejuvenated president answered questions in his hometown following an evening of fundraising for his re-election bid and a rare night in his own bed.

On America's wars, he said that a significant number of troops would begin coming home from Afghanistan in July despite expectations that the withdrawal could be modest. He said the U.S. would not expand its military role to end a bloody stalemate in Libya but insisted that Moammar Gadhafi would, in time, be forced from power.

While the House approved the multitrillion-dollar deficit-cuts measure, it was Obama's comments on the debt limit — an issue the White House has labored to keep separate from yearly red ink totals — that altered the debate of the day.

The government is nearing its borrowing limit of $14.3 trillion and risks going into a crippling default. Seizing on public frustration about spending, House Republicans say they won't lift the debt cap without more cuts.

Obama told the AP without doubt: "We will raise the debt limit. We always have. We will do it again."

He warned that anything less would undermine the solvency of the government, roil financial markets and potentially "plunge the world economy back into a recession." Yet when pressed on how the stalemate with House Speaker John Boehner would end, Obama said: "I think he's absolutely right that it's not going to happen without some spending cuts."

The president spoke in the context of his goal that Democratic and Republican lawmakers can agree on a framework for long-term deficit reduction within the next couple of months. That falls within about the same time frame that Congress will need to vote to lift the debt ceiling. The administration says the latest Congress could act on that by early July.

When asked if he thought the perilous stakes alone would cause Republicans to give in, Obama said: "Well, no, I don't expect the Republicans to give in and I get 100 percent of my way, and I don't expect that we're going to give 100 percent of what the Republicans want. I think what we want to do is make sure that we have a smart compromise that is serious."

House passes budget that would reshape government

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — House Republicans approved a budget on Friday that would fundamentally alter Medicare and Medicaid, lower taxes on individuals and corporations, and cut $4.4 trillion from the nation's deficit over the next decade.

With its passing, Republicans have officially put forth their vision for reducing the nation's debt and defining how the federal government fits into people's lives. It's a sharply different approach from the one outlined by President Barack Obama on Wednesday, setting up months of clashes between the two parties over a number of critical fiscal issues.

The first round of that battle will come in town hall meetings across the country over the next two weeks, as congressmen head home for an extended recess.

House Republicans are betting that Americans are so concerned about the nation's mounting debt that they will respond to a bold plan to fix it, even if that prescription includes major changes to Medicare and other entitlements that most people support.

"This is our defining moment. We must choose this path to prosperity," Budget Chairman Paul Ryan, R-Wis., chief architect of the plan, said as two days of debate wound down.

Ryan's budget would spend about $40 trillion over the next decade — $6.2 trillion less than the budget Obama proposed in February. The bulk of the savings would come from federal health-care programs, starting with a repeal of Obama's ambitious new initiative to expand coverage for the uninsured.

Starting in 2022, Ryan also would end Medicare as an open-ended entitlement for new retirees and begin slowly raising the age of eligibility from 65 to 67. Instead of getting government-paid benefits, retirees could choose a private policy on a newly established Medicare exchange.

You won't get far on that license

Q I just moved to Idaho from another state and my driver's license does not expire from that state for another two years. Can I just wait until then to get an Idaho driver's license, or can I just get an Idaho driver's license and keep my other state driver's license?

— Barry

A You can keep your other state driver's license, but after 90 days it just becomes a reminder of where you came from. You see, once you have been a resident of Idaho for 90 days then you must get an Idaho driver's license and your prior state license becomes invalid. Then you must, by Idaho Code 49-301 (4), surrender your old license to the Idaho Department of Motor Vehicles or sign an affidavit stating that you don't have any other driver's licenses in your possession. I have seized quite a few extra driver's licenses from drivers who had more than one and from more than one state.

Speaking of out-of-state licenses, let's talk about suspended driver's licenses. Some people believe that if they have a suspended driver's license and are able to get a license from a different state, they are legal to drive. The truth is that if you are suspended in one state you are suspended in every state. Some states might be slow to find that the driver was suspended, but that does not make it a valid excuse if caught driving with another state's suspended driver's license.

If you have had a suspended driver's license and have to pay to get it reinstated, make sure that it actually has been reinstated before you drive. Remember that just because you sent in a payment does not mean you are automatically reinstated. I believe that the Idaho DMV will notify you when you have been reinstated. This usually comes by way

of getting your driver's license mailed back to you. If it is not, then make sure to call the DMV to find out for sure. There is no sense in adding more costs than just the reinstatement fee.

You must carry your driver's license with you any time you're driving or in control of a vehicle — sitting in the driver's seat. You could be arrested (not usually) for failing to do this since it's a misdemeanor. The good news is that if you can produce a driver's license at court, that shows it was valid when you were cited or arrested, the charge will be dismissed.

In conclusion, I have to mention that looking like a drunk on your driver's license picture will not get you out of a DUI. This also works if you make a face on your license; the officer might just have you make the same face to be sure the license is yours.

COMMUNITY NEWS

CSI offers free test prep

Students who want to understand and do better on their COMPASS placement test before applying for the summer or fall semester at the College of Southern Idaho are invited to take a free workshop on Monday and Wednesday.

Carla Wherry, CSI college success facilitator, said the workshop will prepare students with what the COMPASS test is, what its scores mean, who needs to take it and how to prepare for it. All students applying to CSI are required to take the test, which helps them start their classes at the levels that match their skills.

The workshop is from 7 to 9 p.m. each evening. Students need to attend both sessions. Admission is free of charge but since seating is limited, Wherry advises that those who want to take the class to call her at 732-6525 to reserve their place.

Next NLP class in Rupert is Monday

The next session in "NLP for Me" is planned for 7:30 p.m. Monday at East Minico Middle School, 1805 H St. in Rupert.

The 3rd of four sessions, the topic will be NLP eye accessing cues, and NLP math programs for successful acquisition of math skills.

The final session in the series will be May 17. The topics will be NLP uses for metaphors and NLP parenting tips.

The classes are open to the community and will particularly target teens and parents looking for strategies to help their children be more successful in their academic studies. There will be no charge.

The teacher is NLP Master Trainer Debrah Roundy.

Coin club meets in Paul

The Empty Pockets Coin and Currency Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the meeting room at the Paul City Hall, 152 S. 600 W.

All collectors welcome. Information: 678-3938.

A non-fatal but embarrassing problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a 61-year-old female who tries to eat healthy and exercise, and sometimes I do better than others. But in the past year, I have been suffering from the increasing embarrassment of noisy flatulence, and it doesn't seem to matter what I eat. No pain, except that of embarrassment. I read that it is usually dietary, but it doesn't seem to make a difference. Beano did nothing.

A friend suggested taking acidophilus. Is this a good idea? If so, how much? I don't want to go through unnecessary testing, but could this be a symptom of some other problem or is it something one should expect as we age? I guess you can't die of embarrassment, but sometimes I avoid going out with others.

I am on what I call the "middle-age pack" of Lipitor, Caduet, a daily aspirin and Nexium for acid reflux, which sometimes mimics angina. The Nexium has stopped this problem completely. I had a heart attack due to statin rebound, but that was five years ago. Could any of these medications be causing the problem?

DEAR READER: Initially, there are a few possible causes for your noisy flatulence. The first that comes to mind is swallowed air. It is normal to swallow air while eating and/or drinking. That air is composed of nitrogen and oxygen. The oxygen is absorbed appropriately, but nitrogen can pass through into the intestine and cause the problem. Fortunately, a major portion of it is expelled back through the mouth via burping or belching.

Dr. Peter Gott

Gases such as carbon dioxide can be produced during the normal digestive process because of an interaction between stomach acids and pancreatic juices.

Then there is always the possibility that you are lactose- or gluten-intolerant or have irritable bowel syndrome.

Lipitor and Nexium have the side effect of flatulence. Caduet can cause gas. I am not aware of aspirin being a potential factor. Therefore, you might wish to speak with your physician regarding your medications and ask for his or her direction on the matter.

Other considerations might be to consume ginger, miso or tempeh. Use cinnamon in your cooking or on toast whenever possible, or try a pinch of baking soda in a four-ounce glass of water whenever flatulence presents. Try over-the-counter activated-charcoal tablets, digestive-enzyme supplements or probiotics such as acidophilus, most easily found in yogurt containing live L. acidophilus.

Again, your physician has your complete medical history and is your best guide in the matter.

Dr. Peter H. Gott is a retired physician and author.

QUOTE
“Welcome to divided government.”
— House Speaker John Boehner after Congress sent President Barack Obama hard-fought legislation Thursday cutting a record $38 billion from federal spending

Number of online high school courses isn’t Otter’s call

JEERS: Not so fast, governor. Gov. C.L. “Butch” Otter said that week that he expects the Idaho State Board of Education to require four online classes for high school graduation as part of Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Luna technology-minded reform initiative that passed the Legislature this year. “That will be the starting number,” Luna said. “This decision is going to be made after a lot of research and a lot of discussion through the work of the state board. I am confident that we will have some number. And we have many states that are beginning to adopt graduation requirements when it comes to online credits. ... I think four is a reasonable number.” Otter then added, “That’s the minimum. ... That’s going to be the minimum. And if we experience in Idaho the same things other states have experienced,” Otter said students likely will be taking “12 or 15” online classes. With respect, that’s the board’s decision, and the trustees must first resolve how the main funding mechanism for Idaho public schools — Average Daily Attendance — will be affected by online coursework. As it stands, school districts get paid whenever one student shows up for one day of school. Obviously, that would happen less frequently if students are required to take online courses. We hope the state board, despite the pressure from Luna and Otter to act, takes its time and makes the right call on this issue. CHEERS: To state Rep. George Eskridge, a northern Idaho legislator who’s as conservative as they come, for decrying the demonization of teachers during the just-concluded legislative session. “We’ve kind of inferred through the process that teachers are the problem with our education system,” the six-term Republican told the Spokesman-Review of Spokane, Wash. Teachers were broadly criticized by proponents of Superintendent Tom Luna’s education reform initiative, which phased out teacher tenure and sharply circumscribed bargaining rights. Eskridge is right: Teachers aren’t the problem; our public school system is. JEERS: Good for students at Wood River High School in Hailey for lobbying to curtail the disposal of plastic and paper grocery bags. But their campaign for an outright ban of the bags in Hailey goes too far. According to the Idaho Mountain Express of Ketchum, Wood River High sophomores Chase England, Lex Shapiro and Maggie Williams, members of the school’s Environmental Club, asked the City Council to prohibit use of the bags. Telluride, Colo., banned the free bags in March, following bans in China, Italy and elsewhere. Under the proposal, plastic bags at stores would be proscribed entirely. Paper bags would be permitted, but at a cost of 15 cents each. “Paper is equally bad for the environment because they also use raw materials which leads to deforestation,” Greenberg said. Wood River Valley residents recycle like few others in Idaho. Voluntary measures work; there’s no need for a government mandate.

The war behind the abortion war

Part of the price of keeping the government operating this week is another debate over the financing of Planned Parenthood. Whoopee. At least it’ll give us a chance to reminisce about Sen. Jon Kyl, who gave that speech against federal support for Planned Parenthood last week that was noted for: A) its wild inaccuracy; and B) his staff’s explanation that the remarks were “not intended to be a factual statement.” This is the most memorable statement to come out of politics since Newt Gingrich told the world that he was driven to commit serial adultery by excessive patriotism. The speech in question was Kyl’s rejoinder to the argument that Planned Parenthood provides a critically important national network of women’s health services. “You don’t have to go to Planned Parenthood to get your cholesterol or your blood pressure checked. If you want an abortion, you go to Planned Parenthood, and that’s well over 90 percent of what Planned Parenthood does,” Kyl declared. Planned Parenthood says that abortions, which are not paid for with federal money, constitute 3 percent of the services that the organization provides. That’s quite a gap. But only if you’re planning on going factual. Anyhow, that was definitely a high point. Next year, Kyl is retiring from the Senate and returning to the private sector, where he will have leisure to contemplate that this was the single moment of his public career for which he became nationally famous.

But there’s another part of Kyl’s speech that’s more significant. Take a look at the “good” nonabortion services he does mention. They don’t include contraception, which seems strange since Planned Parenthood has definitely gone public with its association with family planning. And he’s not alone. Sen. Patty Murray, one of the leaders of the defense of Planned Parenthood in the Senate, says that she doesn’t remember any of the lawmakers who wanted to strip Planned Parenthood’s funds mentioning that they supported contraception services. “They just lump everything into one big basket with the word ‘abortion,’” she said. This is important because it speaks to a disconnect in the entire debate we’ve been having about women and reproduction. For eons now, people have been wondering why the two sides can’t just join hands and agree to work together to reduce the number of abortions by expanding the availability of family-planning services and contraception. The answer is that a large part of the anti-abortion community is also anti-contraception. “The fact is that 95 percent of the contraceptives on the market kill the baby in the womb,” said Jim Sedlak of the American Life League. “Fertility and babies are not diseases,” said Jeanne Monahan of the Family Research Council’s Center for Human Dignity, which has been fighting against requiring insurance plans to cover contraceptives under the new health care law. Many anti-abortion activists believe that human life and, therefore, pregnancy begin when the human egg is fertilized and that standard birth control pills cause abortions by keeping the fertilized egg from implanting in the womb. This isn’t the general theory on either count. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists defines pregnancy as beginning with the fertilized egg’s implantation. Dr. Vanessa Cullins of Planned Parenthood says that the pills inhibit the production of eggs or stop the sperm before they reach their destination. “There is absolutely no direct evidence that there is interference with implantation,” she said. Beyond the science, there’s the fact that many social conservatives are simply opposed to giving women the ability to have sex without the possibility of procreation. “Contraception helps reduce one’s sexual partner to just a sexual object since it renders sexual intercourse to be without any real commitments,” says Janet Smith, the author of Contraception: Why Not. The reason this never comes up in the debates about reproductive rights in Washington is that it has no popular appeal. Abortion is controversial. Contraception isn’t. A new report by the Guttmacher Institute found that even women who are faithful Catholics or evangelicals are likely to rely on the pill, I.U.D.’s or sterilization to avoid pregnancy. What we have here is a wide-ranging attack on women’s right to control their reproductive lives that the women themselves would strongly object to if it was stated clearly. So the attempt to end federal financing for Planned Parenthood, which uses the money for contraceptive services but not abortion, is portrayed as an anti-abortion crusade. It makes sense, as long as you lay off the factual statements.

Your red state home companion

POCATELLO — It gets pretty lonely out here on the lava beds of the Snake River Plain if you’re looking for something other than a right-wing rant for company on the car radio. From Twin Falls to Idaho Falls, Rush Limbaugh, Sean Hannity, Laura Ingraham and Glenn Beck rule the airwaves. Beck is on two stations in Pocatello, case you missed one of his conspiracy theories.

Timothy Egan

The public airwaves that brush over this beautiful piece of high country carry a monopoly of thought — that is, until you pick up the first scratchy sounds of KISU-FM. It’s run by a proud conservative, Jerry Miller, but he serves up something different for eastern Idaho. You get a music program called Potato Head Blues, maybe some city hall news — up to 30 hours a week of home-grown programming. On top of that, KISU-FM delivers Morning Edition, All Things Considered, Car Talk, A Prairie Home Companion and Fresh Air with Terry Gross from the stellar lineup of NPR. Late at night, the crisp, authoritative tones of the BBC can be heard in the Idaho Rockies. It seems illogical that when the Republican Congress took aim at public radio, they were going after an audio lifeline much loved by their own constituents in Red State America. The big cities — they can take the hit. But up to 100 stations, mostly rural and small-town, might have gone dark if the cuts from the House had survived. In a multiple-prong attack on NPR, Republicans slashed funding for public broadcasting, then passed an additional “emergency” bill to prohibit independent stations from using federal grants to buy NPR programs. Both cuts have been restored, for now. The amount of money at stake in targeting small stations — about $430 million — would have zero effect on the budget deficit, the Congressional Budget Office reported. By comparison, the state of Idaho got $2.7 billion in taxpayer-funded farm subsidies from 1995 to 2009, according to the excellent data system compiled by the Environmental Working Group.

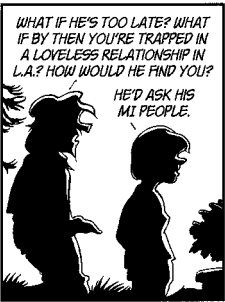

This at a time when crop prices are at near-record highs and big corporate farms are flush. So why go after such a meager sum for public radio, when it means so much to the least-populated areas of America? Spite. Ideology. Choose your poison, it’s there. Some conservatives just hate public radio. They think it’s elitist, snooty pants, full of borrrrrrrring civil discussions and, OMG — that 20-minute piece on chanterelle mushrooms! Surely no one in Idaho Falls cares what the BBC World Service has to say about Ivory Coast. “I can tell you what the people in rural communities are not doing with their free time: listening to public radio,” said Laura Ingraham, who comes up with such opinions from her home in the Washington, D.C., metro area. Like a lot of the Beltway magpies who flock from one partisan clack-fest to the other without bothering with facts, Ingraham is clueless on this topic. Even with a broadcasting signal much weaker than its competitors, KISU-FM is number six among 25 stations in morning-drive-time in the Pocatello region, a metro area of about 90,000, said Miller. But “the government is subsidizing entertainment and journalism,” as George Will has argued. “Is there a shortage of either?” Yes. There is. KISU-FM carries Idaho Reports, the longest-running legislative coverage program in the West. Rush Limbaugh is never going to cover the Boise Statehouse — he tells them what to do. Like most public radio stations, KISU gets by on the usual on-air begging, community support and help from the local college. But nearly 25 percent of its budget comes from a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Take that away — as Congress tried to do, and still plans to do in future budget fights — and Miller knows where he’ll be. “Out on the street begging like Oliver with my tin cup,” he said in an interview. Still, he wishes he didn’t need a dime from the taxpayers. “I’m a conservative,” he said. “I have a political philosophy that leans to the right. I know when I hear slanted reporting — and I do hear it sometimes on NPR. But on the whole, it’s very balanced and detailed.” The current vendetta against public radio was whipped up by a heavily edited sting video of an NPR fundraiser, Ronald Schiller, who called Tea Party members “scary” and “racist” in speaking to a man posing as a donor. And, in a perfect parody of a liberal, this executive told the fake Muslim about the joys of Madeira wines. “This tells us something about the internal culture of NPR,” said Rep. Steve King of Iowa. Maybe. But it tells us nothing about its audience. Miller knows the passion of that audience, first hand. Here in the most conservative part of the country, being informative is not the same as being liberal. So, the people the attacks on public radio will hurt most are those who tend to vote Republican, while listening to the best radio friend of Red State America — and see nothing inconsistent about it. ## Calvin Ray Jibson

March 30, 1925-April 13, 2011

GOODING — Calvin Ray Jibson, age 86, of Gooding, passed away peacefully Wednesday, April 13, 2011, at home with Fae, his wife and sweetheart of nearly 60 years, by his side.

Cal was born March 30, 1925, in Declo, Idaho, to John Robert and Hazel Dell (Anderson) Jibson. He received his education in Declo schools before joining the U.S. Navy in June 1943. He served during World War II in the Pacific as an aircraft weapons specialist and was honorably discharged in March 1946. After the war, Cal returned to Declo and reunited with his high school sweetheart, Anna Fae Quanstrom. They were married Nov. 15, 1952, in Reno, Nev. Their marriage was later solemnized in the Los Angeles California LDS Temple.

Cal worked for Jibson Brothers Construction and retired after 25 years from Operating Engineers. The family then moved to Smith Valley, Nev., where Cal managed the LDS Church farm for 10 years. Cal and Fae have made Gooding their home for the past 20 years and have made many wonderful friends in the community.

He was a quality craftsman and proud to say that he never had to call a plumber, electrician or carpenter for repair work. With his own hands, he built his own archery bows and arrows, a pleasure boat and a large family home in Minden, Nev. He loved archery and fishing but was a wizard in creating beautiful things by hand. He never backed away from a challenge and was always ready at a moment's notice to help others. Cal always said with a smile that he was even able to fix whatever his son, Lynn, broke. He could also sew very well and even helped make his daughter's prom dress.

Cal was an active member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, serving in many positions including, bishop, stake presidency, high council, Scoutmaster, genealogy and instructor.

Cal is survived by his beloved wife, Anna Fae Jibson of Gooding; and six children, Ann Marie (Jim) Frasier of Eureka, Calif., Mark Ray (Mary) Jibson and Thomas Calvin Jibson, both of Dayton, Nev., David Lynn (Kathy) Jibson of Paul, Janis Fae (Mike) Richards of Gooding and Judy Kay (Jon) Barber of Pleasant Hill, Calif. He also has 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Cal was preceded in death by his parents; his brothers, Bill, Lester, Jay, Ralph and Wally; and his sister, Thelma.

The funeral for Cal will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 16, at the Gooding LDS Chapel, 1228 Main St., with Ray Tanner officiating. Viewing for family and friends will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. Saturday at the church. Burial will be at 10 a.m. Monday, April 18, at the Declo Cemetery. Military rites will be provided by the Mini-Cassia Veterans Organization.

Billy Joe Harbison

Jan. 5, 1939-April 15, 2011

JEROME — Billy Joe Harbison, age 72, of Jerome, Idaho, died Friday, April 15, 2011, at St. Luke's Magic Valley Medical Center in Twin Falls.

Billy was born Jan. 5, 1939, in Bozeman, Mont., the son of Elijah John and Edith Ellen Crawley Harbison. His father, Elijah was killed in World War II and the family moved to Grandview, Idaho, and then to Homedale, Idaho. Billy grew up and attended schools around Bozeman and Grandview, Mont. After graduation, he enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1958. He came home and went to work as a dynamiter in construction.

On June 6, 2005, in Jackpot, Nev., Billy married his loving wife, Joan Gail Norris Harbison. Billy inherited an instant family and was thrilled. He was known to all as a gentle, loving person and loved by all who knew him. He will be so lovingly missed by his family and friends.

Surviving him is his wife, Joan of Jerome; stepsons, Eugene Wright of Jerome and Ron (Vickie) Schaffer of Coeur d'Alene; stepdaughters, Robin Shell of Rocksprings, Wyo., and Connie and Brandi, both of Jerome; six step grandchildren; his brothers, John (Carol), Tom (Teri) and Albert Kenison (Diane); his sister, Phyllis (James) Black; and many nieces and nephews.

A private family service will be held. Cremation and private inurnment are under the direction of the Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home and Crematory of Twin Falls. To share condolences online, visit www.magicvalleyfuneralhome.com.

Cleoma Newbry

April 11, 1934-April 11, 2011

LAS VEGAS — Cleoma Newbry, 49-year resident of Las Vegas, Nev., died on her 77th birthday, Monday, April 11, 2011.

Cleoma had worked for more than 20 years for the Social Security Administration prior to her retirement. She and her husband, Glen, enjoyed following the UNLV Rebels basketball team to the national championship in 1990. They also followed NASCAR race driver Rick Carelli, and Glen was able to be a spotter for the team in some races.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Glen; and her son, Glen Jr. She is survived by sisters, Lea Watson and Margie Howard, both of Twin Falls, Idaho; and her brother, Clinton Watson and his wife, Becky of Hazelton, Idaho. She is also survived by daughters, Kathryn Arianoff and Susan Haynie and her husband, Tom, all of Las Vegas, Nev. There are also beloved grandchildren, Marie and Michael Langager, Rebecca and David Leavitt, Emily and Tyler Herdt, Kaitlin and Christopher Mann, and Matthew Jensen. Cleoma was especially fond of her great-grandchildren, Hadley and Kason Glen Leavitt and Lorelai Mann. The Langagers are expecting another great-grandson next month.

Cleoma's family members remember her as a devoted mother and an example of a truly giving spirit. Cleoma constantly gave, hugged, praised and loved those around her. She and Glen are now together forever, which is how they belong.

A service will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 16, at the Palm Mortuary, 7400 W. Cheyenne Ave. in Las Vegas, Nev. No graveside service will be held.

Florence 'Marie' Cain

Nov. 12, 1920-April 6, 2011

BOISE — Marie Cain, 90, a longtime Twin Falls resident, passed away peacefully of natural causes Wednesday, April 6, 2011, while surrounded by her loved ones in Boise.

On Nov. 12, 1920, Marie was born in Wendell, Idaho, to George and Pearce Brennen. She graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1938 and went on to attend business school before marrying Elvis Cain on Sept. 29, 1940. They owned Cain's Furniture and Appliance store in Twin Falls for more than 40 years and were vital contributors to the community. Marie moved to Boise in 2004 to spend the remainder of her life with her daughter, two sons and daughters-in-law, and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren. This was a wonderful blessing, since Marie was such a tremendous matriarch and role model for her family, and she loved every minute that she spent with them.

Devotion to her husband, family, friends, church and community was her life and she lived it with grace and enthusiasm. Marie was a longtime member of the First Christian Church and later Kimberly Christian Church. She developed strong, lifelong friendships, some since high school, and loved traveling, playing bridge and golfing at Blue Lakes Country Club, even achieving a hole in one.

Marie is survived by her children, Dennis (Nita) Cain, Candice Cain and Allan (Terri) Cain; and an admiring family of grandchildren and great-grandchildren, all of Boise. She was preceded in death by her husband, Elvis Cain in 1998; a sister, Edna Shepherd; and a brother, George Brennen.

The family wishes to thank the wonderful staff of Wynwood Assisted Living and St. Luke's Hospice for their compassion and care.

A family memorial service is planned for 4 p.m. Monday, April 18, at the Eastwind Community Church, 4750 S. Surprise Way in Boise. A family graveside service will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, April 22, at Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls, with an open reception following at noon at The Catering Room by Norm's Cafe, 827 Main Ave. W. in Twin Falls.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Boise Memorial Hospice, 600 E. State St., Suite 300, Eagle, ID 83616 (208-938-4100), or to the charity of their choice.

World's oldest man dies in Montana at 114

By Matt Volz
Associated Press

GREAT FALLS, Mont. — Walter Breuning's earliest memories stretched back 111 years, before home entertainment came with a twist of the radio dial. They were of his grandfather's tales of killing Southerners in the Civil War.

Breuning, who was 3 at the time, was horrified: "I thought that was a hell of a thing to say."

But the stories stuck, becoming the first building blocks into what would develop into a deceptively simple philosophy that Breuning, the world's oldest man at 114 before he died Thursday, credited to his longevity.

Here's the world's oldest man's secret to a long life:

- Embrace change, even when the change slaps you in the face. ("Every change is good.")
- Eat two meals a day ("That's all you need.")

Breuning

- Work as long as you can ("That money's going to come in handy.")
- Help others ("The more you do for others, the better shape you're in.")

Then there's the hardest part. It's a lesson Breuning said he learned from his grandfather: Accept death.

"We're going to die. Some people are scared of dying. Never be afraid to die. Because you're born to die," he said.

Breuning died of natural causes in a Great Falls hospital where he had been a patient for much of April with an undisclosed illness, said Stacia Kirby, spokeswoman for the Rainbow Senior Living retirement home where Breuning lived.

He was the oldest man in the world and the second-oldest person, according to the Gerontology Research Group in Los Angeles. Besse Cooper of Monroe, Ga. — born 26 days earlier — is the world's oldest person.

Ex-Marine, advocate kills self after war tours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Handsome and friendly, Clay Hunt so epitomized a vibrant Iraq veteran that he was chosen for a public service announcement reminding veterans that they aren't alone.

The 28-year-old former Marine corporal earned a Purple Heart after taking a sniper's bullet in his left wrist. He returned to combat in Afghanistan. Upon his return home, he lobbied for veterans on Capitol Hill, biked with wounded vets and performed humanitarian work in Haiti and Chile.

Then, on March 31, Hunt bolted himself in his Houston apartment and shot himself. Friends and family say he was wracked with survivor's guilt, depression and other emotional struggles after combat.

Hunt's death has shaken many veterans who served in Iraq and Afghanistan. Those who knew him wonder why someone who seemed to be doing all the right things to deal with combat-related issues is now dead.

"We know we have a problem with vets' suicide, but this was really a slap in the face," said Matthew Pelak, 32, an Iraq veteran who worked with Hunt in Haiti as part of the nonprofit group Team Rubicon.

After news of Hunt's death spread, workers from the Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors met with veterans visiting Washington for the annual lobbying effort by the nonprofit Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans, or IAVA. A year earlier, Hunt had been with other veterans in dark suits calling on Congress to improve the disability claims process.

He had appeared in the group's ads encouraging veterans to seek support from an online network of fellow veterans.

Powerful storms kill 9 in Ark., Okla.

The Associated Press

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, Ark. — Powerful spring storms roared through parts of the South on Friday, toppling trees, smashing buildings and killing at least nine people, including two sets of parents and children who were huddled together as the winds raged outside their homes.

It was the deadliest storm of the season so far. Several tornados accompanied the onslaught, but much of the damage was attributed to straight-line winds — sudden, violent downbursts that struck with hurricane force in the middle of the night.

As the storm howled through Crystal Springs, Eden Davis woke up, grabbed her young child and sat on the edge of the bed waiting to pull a mattress over both of them to shield the pair from flying debris.

"I've never been so nervous about a storm," she said. "I was asleep, but my fiance called me and told me to wake up and that I needed to watch the news because the weather was getting real bad."

Forecasters warned of approaching danger as much as three days earlier, but the winds up to 80 mph and repeated lightning strikes cut a path of destruction across a region so accustomed to violent weather that many people ignored the risk — or slept through it.

The storms began late Thursday in Oklahoma, where at least five tornados touched down and two people were killed. The system then pushed into Arkansas, killing seven more. Dozens of others were hurt.

By midday Friday, the storms marched into Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi. At least three twisters touched down in Mississippi, causing widespread damage but only one serious injury.

Arkansas Gov. Mike Beebe said he had never seen the state suffer so many deaths from straight-line winds. Tornados and floods cause most of Arkansas storm-related fatalities.

"Just trees blowing on people's residences — I don't recall anything even approaching this," Beebe said.

Unlike tornados, which develop from columns of rotating air, straight-line winds erupt from a thunderstorm in unpredictable downdrafts, then spread across the landscape in all directions.

Teams from the National Weather Service worked Friday to learn more about what caused the damage.

Queen Russell, 3, looks at big brother Caleb Russell, 6, and tells him their house is a mess, after a tornado hit Clinton, Miss., Friday. The state was hit by severe storms that caused extensive damage and multiple injuries. Both children were in school when the storm hit.

Firefighter killed, hundreds evacuated in Texas wildfires

The Associated Press

GRAHAM, Texas — Wildfires sweeping across hundreds of thousands of acres in Texas have killed a firefighter, forced hundreds of evacuations and destroyed dozens of homes.

Fire officials said late Friday that the blazes spanned about 655 square miles of parched grasslands, fueled by strong winds.

A 20,000-acre fire destroyed about 30 homes as it burned around Possum Kingdom Lake, a popular recreation spot about 120 miles west of Dallas.

Three large fires burning in Wichita County, about 150 miles northwest of Dallas, had destroyed about 30 homes. A military housing complex near Sheppard Air Force Base was evacuated for two hours but no buildings were damaged.

Authorities say Eastland firefighter Gregory M. Simmons died while battling a separate 3,000-acre blaze. No other injuries have been reported but several towns have been evacuated.

Lost in translation

Vatican embarrassed by error-filled catechism book

By Nicole Winfield
Associated Press writer

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican has again been embarrassed by a botched translation of its teachings, with the launch Wednesday of an error-plagued book that implies the Holy See approves of contraception and euthanasia.

The errors came to light during a Vatican press conference launching “Youcat: Youth Catechism of the Catholic Church,” a youth-focused compilation of the thick volume of core church teachings. The book, a project of the Austrian, German and Swiss bishops’ conferences, is to be given to young people attending this year’s World Youth Day in Madrid.

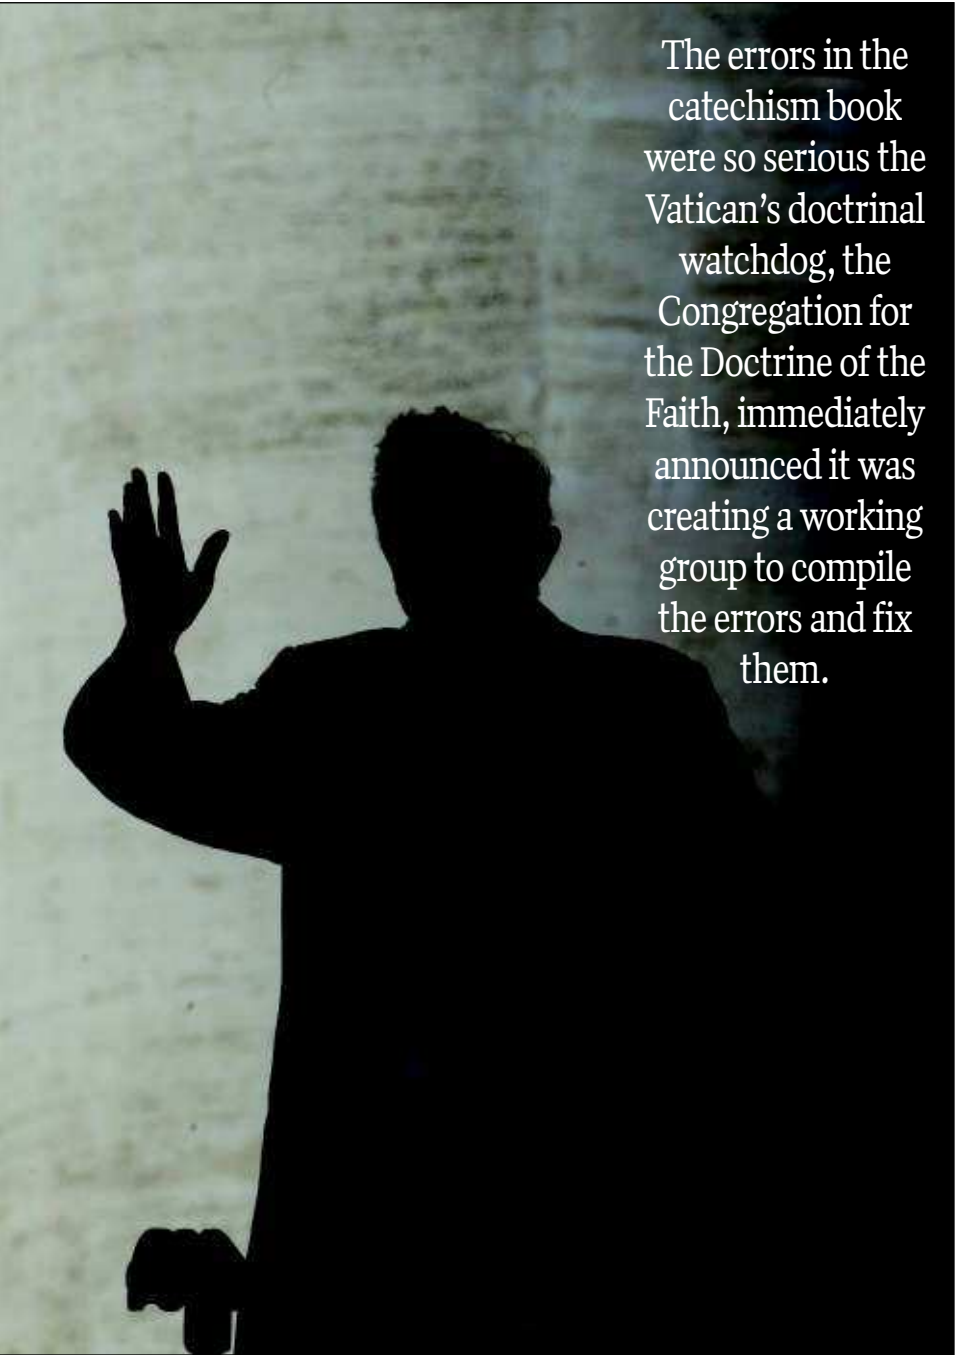

The launch, though, focused heavily on translation and interpretation problems. The errors were so serious the Vatican’s doctrinal watchdog, the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, immediately announced it was creating a working group to compile the errors and fix them.

The Vatican’s problems began on the eve of the launch, when officials confirmed that Nuova Citta, the Italian-language publisher of “YouCat,” had pulled Italian copies to fix an error concerning whether married couples could plan the size of their families.

Editions handed out Wednesday crossed out the erroneous passage and included a paper insert with the correct translation. But at the news conference, another problem in the Italian edition was highlighted in a section on euthanasia. Officials also admitted that French editions had been delayed because of errors in the translation from German about how Catholics should view other religions.

“As you can see, the German language isn’t so easy for everyone,” Vatican spokesman Rev. Federico Lombardi conceded at the end of the press conference.

It was the second time in

The book ‘YouCat,’ a youth-focused compilation of key church teachings, was presented to Pope Benedict XVI at his general audience Wednesday and officially launched at a Vatican news conference.

just a few months that a much-hyped book had mis-translated key church teachings. In November, the Vatican’s publishing house misconstrued the pope’s comments about condoms and AIDS, implying that condom use for prostitutes was justified in some cases.

The mistake, made in Italian editions from the original German, made international headlines since it indicated the church had softened its firm opposition to artificial contraception. The Vatican insisted Pope Benedict XVI was doing no such thing.

Another problem brought to the attention of organizers Wednesday concerned the offering of assistance to the dying.

The book distinguishes between “active euthanasia” and “passive euthanasia,” explaining that “active euthanasia” isn’t condoned by the church because it violates the commandment against killing others.

“In so-called passive euthanasia someone helps another person in the dying process and thereby obeys the commandment ‘Love your neighbor,’” it says.

Cardinal Christoph Schoenborn, the archbishop of Vienna who spearheaded the book effort, said the original German book did not use the term “euthanasia,” but rather the less loaded word “Sterbehilfe,” which can either refer to medically assisted suicide or hospice-type care for some-

‘Moved to compassion’

New pastor to take the reins of Twin Falls church

By John E. Swayze
Times-News correspondent

Twenty-five years ago, Roger Sedlmayr set out to lead a life of ministry built on the gospel and a spirit of compassion demonstrated in 1 Corinthians 2:1-5.

He hopes to continue that commitment as pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church in Twin Falls. He replaces the Rev. Lawrence Vedder, who, after serving as the church’s pastor for nearly 17 years, retired last week.

“God has taught me many things over the years, but one of the most important is the value of opening your heart,” Sedlmayr said. “I think about Jesus coming upon a crowd of people and, moved to great compassion, he took the opportunity to give them the message of forgiveness.”

Sedlmayr, 52, was born in Chicago but grew up in Tucson, Ariz., and knew by age 6 that he wanted to be a Lutheran pastor. Family members encouraged that goal by listening to his youthful sermons and sometimes being chastised from the pulpit for falling asleep.

Sedlmayr

“I would preach to my stuffed animals and mother made me a robe,” he said. “I’m not sure how someone that young would know what they wanted to do, but I guess it was the example of my parents, grandmother, pastor and because I went to a Lutheran grade school.”

In 1982, he graduated from Concordia University in Seward, Neb., with a bachelor’s degree in elementary education, but the pull toward ministry remained strong and drew him to complete a Masters of Divinity from Concordia Seminary, Saint Louis, in 1986.

“I figured that if the ministry didn’t work out I could find a job teaching,” Sedlmayr said. “I’m not saying it’s been easy but every congregation has been very supportive.”

Sedlmayr and his wife, Joyce, who graduated with a degree in elementary special education from Concordia University, have pastored congregations in Dickinson, N.D. and Stony Plain, Alberta Canada. The past 14 years Sedlmayr was senior pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church in Fargo, N.D.

While in that capacity, he also served six years on the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod’s North Dakota District Board of Directors, and two years as both the North Dakota Board of Directors chairman and first vice president, helping to set direction in the district and resolve congregational problems in the state’s eastern circuit.

Joyce was raised in Canada but born in Burley, so the decision to accept a call in Idaho was a feeling that they needed to return to the basics of a more personal ministry, as well as reconnect with family living in the area.

“I only got to preach about twice a month in the Fargo congregation and I enjoy preaching a great deal,” he said. “But here I’ll be the only pastor. We’ll also be able to spend more time tying into the life of this congregation and supporting their mission outreach work in groups like the Lutheran Layman’s League, Lutheran Women’s Missionary League and radio broadcasts of Lutheran Hour Ministries.”

Vedder

Goodbye, Pastor Vedder

The Rev. Lawrence Vedder, who retired from Immanuel Lutheran Church last week, began his career as a teacher, coach and dean of students at Lutheran High School in Baltimore, Md. He was there from 1971-78, before moving to Lutheran High School in Portland, Ore., where he served in the same capacities from 1978-81. He then served as principal of Spokane Lutheran School until 1985.

Vedder began his pastoral training that same year at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis. Two years later, in 1987, he moved his family to Twin Falls, where he began his ministry as a vicar, or pastor in training. The illness of then church Pastor Arthur Crosmer brought Vedder into full-time ministry. He was installed as pastor in August 1988.

During his ministry, he saw the rebuilding of the church’s parish hall, construction of it’s Child Development Center, and the addition to Immanuel School.

Vedder was instrumental in helping plan the church’s centennial celebration in 2009. He and his wife, Sharon, said they are looking forward to spending more time on the golf course this summer.

Religions mural keeps graffiti in check

Cinderblock wall depicts many world religions

By Cimaron Neugebauer
The Salt Lake Tribune

SOUTH SALT LAKE, Utah — Taylorsville High School teacher Jessi Cummings spent hundreds of dollars painting over the unceasing graffiti on the wall next to her house to no avail.

“I bought this house and this wall gets graffitied all the time with gang tags,” Cummings said of the 5-foot-high, 80-foot-long gray cinderblock wall outside her house. “I was just sick of it. Police would say, ‘You need to get that taken off.’”

“If I don’t cover it, I get charged, I have to pay a fine in order to have someone else cover (or paint over) it.”

After whitewashing the wall one final time late last year, the English teacher came up with a way to teach nearly Taylorsville High student Natalee Mathews stands near the wall she helped paint, on April 7 in South Salt Lake. A school teacher who lives in the area had a problem with gang graffiti on the wall surrounding her house. She decided to have some of her art students at Taylorsville High paint over the graffiti with a mural of world religions.

40 students about project-based learning and solve her graffiti problem at the same time.

Cummings and history teacher Quinn Longhurst decided to co-teach a world history class in November, and asked students to depict 10 world religions on a mural on Cummings’ wall.

Students picked 10 religions — Buddhism, Sikhism, Scientology, Confucianism, Mormonism, Judaism, Christianity, Santeria, Islam and Hinduism — then learned about each one and their symbols to design their 8-foot section of the wall.

Taylorsville High student Natalee Mathews picked a religion she knew nothing about: Confucianism.

“I thought it would give me a great learning experience, and it turned out to be,” she said. “I learned a lot from this experience and this project, it was super fun.”

The students worked on multiple drafts of their section of the mural before it was ready to paint in November. Students completed eight of the 10 sections of the mural, while Hinduism and Mormonism were left with placeholders that may not be finished.

Longhurst said the project-based learning process puts students in control but allows teachers to shape the path.

CHURCH NEWS

Universalist preacher to visit T.F.

The Magic Valley Unitarian Universalist Fellowship Church will present the Rev. Amanda Aikman at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Twin Falls Senior Center, 530 Shoshone St. W.

Aikman will present a sermon, “Joy, Thou Goddess.” Happiness is elusive and temporary, for example. But what about joy? We can reliably create experiences of profound joy if we make it a priority for our lives. There are practical steps to take, interesting practices to engage in, and some spiritual determination needed. Joy also is a path to justice and liberation.

A workshop, “Receiving Joy,” will follow the sermon from noon to 1 p.m. Bring a potluck dish to share. The workshop is offered on a love-offering basis ($5 to $10 is suggested), benefiting the Fellowship.

Aikman is a Unitarian Universalist minister, joyfulness consultant, and author of “Full-Spectrum Joyfulness.” She served Unitarian Universalist churches in Cleveland, Ohio, and Marysville, Port Angeles, and Kirkland, Wash. She currently is minister at Skagit Unitarian Universalist Fellowship in Mt. Vernon, Wash.

Information about the Magic Valley Unitarian Universalist Fellowship: www.mvuu.org or call 734-6552.

Ascension Episcopal Church lists Easter activities

Ascension Episcopal Church will provide worship experiences this week to commemorate Jesus’ last week on earth.

A special kid-friendly Palm Sunday service will be at 9 a.m. Sunday. Children of all ages will help mark Jesus’ triumphal entrance into Jerusalem. Nursery care will be available from 8:45 a.m.

On Tuesday, the Lenten Study, “Signs of Lent,” will conclude with “The Sign of the Tree” at 7 p.m. This study focuses on Judas as the instrument of Jesus’ betrayal and crucifixion.

Wednesday includes 7 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. services of Holy Communion. A quiet, contemplative service of Tenebrae will begin at 7 p.m., focusing on the growing darkness surrounding Jesus during these last days with his disciples. The labyrinth will be set up in the parish hall at 4 p.m. for private walks and meditation before and after the evening service.

The Maundy Thursday service will begin at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary, and will conclude with the stripping of the altar. Nursery care will be available from 6:45 p.m.

A Good Friday service of Stations of the Cross will take place at 12:15 p.m. An evening service will be held jointly with parishioners at Our Savior Lutheran Church at 7 p.m.

The Great Vigil of Easter will begin at 8:30 p.m. April 23. Nursery care will be available from 8:15 p.m. A festive reception will be held following the vigil.

Ascension Episcopal Church is located at 371 Eastland Drive N. in Twin Falls. Information: www.ascension.episcopalidaho.org or 733-1248. Ascension is handicap accessible.

Our Savior Lutheran plans Easter celebrations

Our Savior Lutheran’s community of faith encourages the community to join them in a week of preparation experiences to transform the lives of all, especially those who aren’t sure why Easter Sunday is the most important celebration in the church year.

During the Passion-Palm Sunday service at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, the focus will be “Reflecting on the Realities of Suffering.” All who accept Jesus as their Savior are welcome to partake in the Holy Communion. Following the service, during coffee and fellowship, small dialog groups will discuss the problem of suffering.

On Maundy Thursday at 7 p.m., the worship focus will be “In Search of Satisfaction and Peace: Relationships are the most important aspect of our lives.”

At 7 p.m. on Good Friday, the interdenominational worship gathering place has changed from Ascension Episcopal Church to Our Savior Lutheran Church. The focus will be on Jesus’ last words.

Easter Sunday, April 24, will begin with a Son-rise Worship Celebration at 7 a.m., followed by breakfast for all until 9 a.m. A second Resurrection Celebration will start at 9:30 a.m., followed by an Easter egg hunt for children.

Presbyterian service features handbells

The Hallelujah Handbells will ring “King of Kings and Lord of Glory” for the Palm/Passion Sunday worship at the First Presbyterian Church, 209 Fifth Ave. N. in Twin Falls. The Chancel Choir will sing “Hosanna and Hallelujah!” Handbell ringers Betty Benefiel, Esther Merrill and Vivian Wells will accompany the choir. A Communion service will be held at 8 a.m. in the chapel and worship in the sanctuary will begin at 10 a.m.

On Maundy Thursday, a worship, hand washing and communion service will take place at 7 p.m. in the chapel on the first floor of the Christian Education Building.

On Good Friday, an ecumenical service will be held at 7 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church, along with Ascension Episcopal Church. Members from all three churches will sing “Surely He Was the Son of God.”

An Easter egg hung and festival will be held April 23 in the courtyard (weather permitting) and fellowship hall.

A sunrise service will be 6 a.m. Easter Sunday, with breakfast and worship at Al and Jo Smutny’s home, 3350 N. 3200 E. in Twin Falls). Rick and Mary Kuhn will sing and play the guitar during the service.

An Easter celebration service will be held at 10 a.m. April 24 in the sanctuary with communion. The Hallelujah Handbells will be ringing “Resonances and Alleluias.” The Chancel Choir will sing “Resurrection Victory.” A brass ensemble will accompany the opening hymn with Skila Jennings and George Halsell on trumpet and Melanie Halsell and Jerry Green on trombone.

Everyone is invited to fellowship immediately following worship. Easter Lilies will be delivered to shut-ins by the church deacons. Information: 733-7023.

Recording artist Paul Saik presents concert

Holy Week at the Twin Falls First United Methodist Church begins on Palm Sunday. During worship at 10 a.m., the children will wave Eco-Palm branches as they process through the sanctuary. Pastor Philip Airhart will conclude his Lenten “Open Door” series with the sermon, “The Door of Salvation” based on Luke 19:36-44.

Renowned Christian recording artist Paul Saik will participate in the morning worship and then present a vocal, piano and organ concert for the public at 3 p.m. Admission is free, but freewill offerings will be accepted.

The final session of the Lenten Soup and Study will be at noon Wednesday in the Fireside Room. The study is from the book, “Hard to Dance with the Devil on Your Back.”

Maundy Thursday will be observed at 7 p.m. Airhart’s topic will be “In the Supper” from John 13:1-17, and Holy Communion will be served.

Easter celebrations will begin at 7 a.m. April 24, with an Easter Sunrise Service in the park at Shoshone Falls. Airhart will present a homily, “At the Crack of Dawn.” Easter breakfast of pancakes, scrambled eggs, hash browns, sausage, cinnamon rolls, juice and coffee will be served from 7:30 to 10 a.m. in the fellowship hall, with donations going to camp scholarships. Celebration through worship will begin at 10 a.m. in the church sanctuary, 360 Shoshone St. E. Airhart’s sermon will be “Why I Believe in the Resurrection” from John 20:1-18. Information: 733-5872 or www.tffumc.com.

Jerome church welcomes new pastor

The First Presbyterian Church in Jerome will welcome its new pastor, Nate Dreesmann and his family, to Jerome on Sunday.

Pastor Dreesmann was named head pastor recently. He will reside in Jerome with his wife, Cari, and their four young children. He will begin his full-time duties immediately and will preach the Sunday sermon at 10:30 a.m.

Dreesmann has served as associate and youth pastor at the First Presbyterian Church in Walla Walla, Wash. He holds bachelor of arts and master of divinity degrees from colleges in California.

He proclaims that “worshiping God should be at the center of the church and our lives. Worship is the heartbeat of the church as the body of Christ gathers to give praises, lift concerns, hear the Word read and proclaimed and offer our whole selves in service to the living God.”

The church will have a Maundy Thursday service at 7 p.m.

Brief communion services will be held at noon, 12:30 p.m. and 1 p.m. on Good Friday. These services are designed for people who find themselves in downtown Jerome. Open communion is practiced (members of all churches are welcome).

An Easter service will be at 10:30 a.m. April 24.

The church is located at 262 E. Ave. A in Jerome. Information: 324-2972.

Hollister church announces Easter services

Easter events for the Hollister Community Presbyterian Church have been announced.

Elder Steve Taylor of Hollister will be the speaker at 11 a.m. Sunday. The service will include palm branches and the “Hosanna.” A One Great Hour of Sharing offering will be received. Refreshments will be served after worship.

Elder Mark Koffer of Twin Falls will speak at and conduct a Good Friday service at 7 p.m. Friday. A dessert and coffee social will follow.

Visitors are welcome. The church is located at 2461 Central Ave. in Hollister.

Center of Prayer begins English services Sunday

The Center of Prayer and Worship will begin English services at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at 259 Main Ave. E. in Twin Falls.

Information: 735-2249.

Rupert Methodist choir presents cantata

The Rupert United Methodist Church, 605 H St., will have Palm Sunday worship at 11 a.m. with a presentation of the cantata, “Walk Worthy,” by the Chancel Choir.

The Holy Thursday service will be at 7 p.m. On Good Friday, there will be a prayer vigil from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and worship service at 7 p.m. Stations of the Cross will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and April 23 in the Sanctuary. A Bunny Brunch and Egg Hunt for infants through sixth grade will begin at 10:30 a.m. April 23 in the Fellowship Hall. On Easter Sunday, April 24, a Sunrise Service will be held at the Paul Cemetery Pine Chapel and worship at the church will begin at 11 a.m.

Pastor Pamela Meese will be giving special messages each Sunday.

The Community is invited to attend any or all services. Worship services are broadcast on the church radio station KUMC LP 101.7 FM each Sunday and again at 5 p.m. on Thursdays. Information: 436-3354.

Rupert LDS church hosts Easter fireside

A Soft Touch Easter fireside will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Rupert LDS West Stake Center, 26 S. 100 E.

All are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Lighthouse Fellowship plans Easter events

Lighthouse Christian Fellowship will hold a family Easter celebration from 10 to 11:30 a.m. April 23 at the church, 960 Eastland Drive.

The event features music, skits, the Easter story, an Easter egg hunt and more. Come and bring your friends. Admission is free. Information: 737-4667.

Community Christian Church plans egg hunt

Community Christian Church will host a free community Easter egg hunt at 10:30 a.m. April 23 at the church, 303 Grandview Drive in Twin Falls.

Children of all ages from toddler to fifth grade and their families are welcome to search for 2,000 prize-filled eggs, enjoy coffee and hot cocoa, and meet other families in the Twin Falls area.

Children will be assigned to age appropriate hunts to ensure a safe and fun experience for all participants. Information: 410-0538.

YOUNG WOMANHOOD AWARD

Jazlyn Marie Nielsen has earned a Young Womanhood Recognition Award through the Young Women’s Program of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

To earn the award, girls age 12 to 18 set goals in eight value areas — faith, divine nature, individual worth, knowledge, choice and accountability, good works, integrity and virtue — and strive to achieve them through church and community service projects. Young women who earn the award receive a medalion that stands as a symbol and reminder of the goals she has accomplished.

Nielsen’s projects included teaching dance at the Boys and Girls Club and arranging a community performance for them through the Twin Falls School District, caring for a young mother’s children when she had a new baby, reading the Book of Mormon, baptism temple service, moving a family into their home and teaching for a youth celebration.

Nielsen, 18, is the daughter of Kim and Pamela Nielsen of Twin Falls and a senior at Twin Falls High School. She is in the Twin Falls 19th Ward, where she has held leadership positions in her Young Women’s youth group.

“They are the ones that go out and get the knowledge, we kind of guide them in the direction we want them to go,” Longhurst said.

Longhurst and Cummings gave students primary sources of information on each of their chosen religions, but then asked them to visualize that information and represent it in their picture.

Cummings said she thinks students like Mathews remembered what they learned because they did a project.

“She didn’t have to regurgitate information onto a test that she is going to forget,”

she said. “She actually remembers what she did, what she learned.”

Mathews agrees.

“One of the main reasons why I remembered is because it was really fun,” she said. “I have never painted a mural before, so by doing this it just kind of stayed in my brain.”

Idaho's jobless rate holds at 9.7 percent

By Blair Koch
Times-News writer

Idaho's unemployment rate continues to be higher than the national average, according to a report released Friday by the Idaho Department of Labor.

It reported Idaho's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for March remained unchanged for the fourth month in a row at 9.7 percent.

Lincoln County continues to have one of the highest unemployment rates in the state, at 13.4 percent.

Eighteen of Idaho's 44 counties recorded higher rates in March than in February while 21 saw rates drop. The other five were unchanged.

The lowest rate continued to be reported by Owyhee County at 5.6 percent, down three-tenths from February.

Although job growth remains essentially flat, Department of Labor Regional

Economist Jan Roeser said the latest report shows positive signs.

"The civilian labor market is showing growth," Roeser said.

She pointed out that in Twin Falls County, 476 people entered the job market in March, which was more than was added in March 2010.

The work force in Twin Falls County grew by over 770 people from February to March of this year.

"That is a sign that people are more optimistic about the job market and the ability to find work," Roeser said.

Another positive indicator is found in March unemployment insurance payments.

"While still extremely high, were 31 percent below last year's levels at $43.5 million with the number of claimants down 24 percent to just over 41,000," a press release said.

Department analysts believe a stabilizing unemployment rate combined with year-over-year job growth offers evidence that Idaho's economy is moving toward recovery.

"This recovery has been slow and it will continue to be a slow recovery," Roeser said.

The same general pattern occurred during the last severe recession of the early 1980s when unemployment stabilized for three months at a then-record high 9.6 percent and year-over-year

Auto price haggling less likely to pay off

By Maria Panaritis
The Philadelphia Inquirer

PHILADELPHIA — New-car buyers won't like the sound of this, but the days of waltzing into a showroom and talking tough with a desperate salesman until they get the price they want may be coming to an end.

Turmoil in tsunami-ravaged Japan, where work at automotive assembly plants and parts factories has slowed or halted — coupled with soaring global gasoline prices and lean inventories — has helped raise the prices of vehicles being sold in U.S. showrooms just as the busy spring-buying season approaches.

The supply squeeze is affecting Japanese automakers, but even some of the domestic automakers are grappling with shortages of Japanese-made components that go into their cars, analysts said.

All that, combined with rising interest in fuel-efficient vehicles as crude-oil prices soar, is amounting to a supply-and-demand shift less favorable toward consumers, industry observers said.

"They're going to pay more than they did in January on a lot of vehicles," said Michelle Krebs, senior analyst at online car-buying resource Edmunds.com, in West Bloomfield, Mich. "If they can wait till production becomes more normalized, then prices should stabilize."

According to dealership sales data analyzed by Edmunds, the price of a typical vehicle went up $120 during the first week in April compared to the first week in March, with increases biggest among Japanese compact models, Krebs said.

"Vehicles like Mazda, for example, the average price went up $370 a vehicle, and that was mainly because of their small cars, the Mazda 2 and 3," she said.

Consumers feel the pinch of pricier gas and food

By Christopher S. Rugaber
Associated Press writer

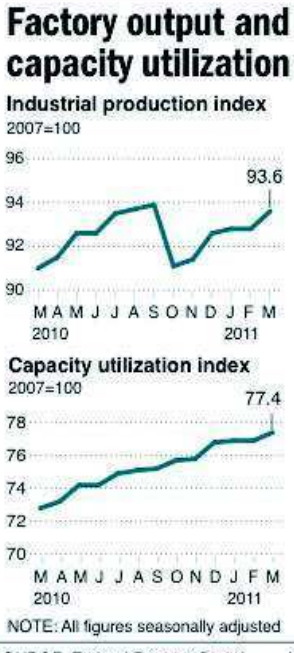

WASHINGTON — Americans are paying more for food and gas, a trend that threatens to slow the economy at a crucial time.

So far, the spike in such necessities hasn't stopped businesses from stepping up hiring or slowed factory production, which rose in March for the ninth straight month. Still, higher gas prices have led some economists to lower their forecasts for growth for the January-March quarter.

Consumer prices rose 0.5 percent last month, the Labor Department said Friday. Nearly all of the gains came from pricier gas and food.

When taking out those two volatile categories, core inflation was relatively flat. But at the same time, employees are only seeing small, if any, pay increases.

"People have less money to most Americans just as the economy is gaining momentum. Businesses added more than 200,000 jobs in March and February, the best two-month hiring stretch in four years. And the unemployment rate has fallen to a two-year low of 8.8 percent.

Consumers also have a little more money to spend this year, thanks to a one-year cut in Social Security taxes.

But most of the extra $1,000 to $2,000 per person is filling the gas tank. The national average for a gallon was $3.82 on Friday — nearly $1 more than a year ago. In five states, the average price is exceeding $4 a gallon.

How big the economic impact will be is the critical question. Many analysts expect food prices will come down and oil prices will stabilize by summer. If companies continue to create jobs, consumer spending will rise faster. That would give the economy a boost by fall.

U.S. manufacturers are seeing more business, according to a separate report on Friday from the Federal Reserve. Factory output rose in March, bolstered in part by a jump in auto production.

One concern is automakers are bracing for some disruptions in the supply of parts from Japan, which is recovering from a 9.0-magnitude earthquake and tsunami that caused widespread damage.

Nigel Gault, chief U.S. economist at IHS Global Insight, predicts the economy will grow only 1.8 percent in the January-March period, down from an earlier estimate of above 3 percent. Rising inflation will likely cut consumer spending growth to half its pace in the previous quarter.

Still, rising exports and business purchases of computers and other equipment should

Business taxes completed? You may still have work to do

NEW YORK— Small business owners across the country are getting back to focusing on their companies now that they've filed their income tax returns. But many of those owners may still have some tax work to do.

Those who had to rush to compile their returns should

SMALL TALK

Joyce M. Rosenberg

find ways to avoid the last-minute angst next year. That's especially important for owners who run into the same situation year after year.

Some owners may find that sending in their return doesn't mean they're done with the IRS this year. The government may have questions about the return. Or owners may discover they made a mistake and need to amend the return.

Making the tax process easier

If you had to sweat to get your return completed, then you need to think about how to get next year's return done with a minimum of stress.

Some owners struggle because they try to do it all themselves. Others have books that are chaotic — if they even exist at all. Then there are the procrastinators, who just don't get around to starting on their returns until the deadline is painfully close.

In many cases, the solution is to get some help. Hiring someone, even a part-time bookkeeper, to help you maintain organized and accurate books will simplify compiling next year's return. Hiring an accountant or tax attorney to do the return will also calm your nerves. And maybe save you money on taxes, since a paid

SUDOKU

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Conceptis Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I recently returned from a vacation where we had a disagreement regarding hotel service and towels.

Regarding the towels, my wife thinks we should hang them to dry daily for reuse later. I say the cost of washing the towels is included in the price of the room, and I want a fresh towel daily.

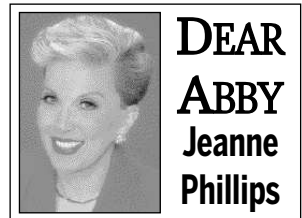

The other issue is my wife feels obligated to tip the housekeeping staff. I have never felt that obligation. Not a single housekeeper has been exceptional, regardless of the hotel we stayed in.

We're hoping you could shed some light on hotel etiquette.

— WEST VIRGINIA TRAVELER

DEAR TRAVELER: Your wife appears to be a conservationist. Although you prefer fresh towels daily, many travelers voluntarily forgo this service to help hotels conserve water and save energy. If you prefer to do otherwise, that's your privilege — and it's not worth arguing over.

As to tipping the housekeeping staff, has it occurred to you that you have never received exceptional service because you never offered a tip? Some hotel guests talk to the housekeeper at the time they arrive to request extra hangers, soap, washcloths, etc. — and offer a gratuity at that time. And when they do, the staff usually goes out of their way to be accommodating. Try it — they need the extra money, and they'll spoil you if you let them.

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Parker," and I have a 4-year-old son, "Ethan." Recently, my mother-in-law suggested we have a will drawn up, stating who will take care of Ethan if something happens to us. She's an attorney and has offered to do it for us.

Parker and I agree that it is a good idea and appreciate her offer to do the paperwork. The problem? We don't want her raising our son. We have another relative in mind.

My mother-in-law is a nice enough person and would not be cruel or abusive to Ethan, but she was not a good mother to Parker and his siblings. She's extremely selfish and self-absorbed. We know she'll be extremely offended if we don't name her as our child's guardian.

I would like to hire another attorney, but she will take offense to that as well. She hasn't stopped hounding us about this issue. Please tell us how to handle this.

— TRAPPED IN THE GOLDEN STATE

DEAR TRAPPED: Hire an attorney and have the document drawn up. And when your mother-in-law raises the subject again, you and Parker should thank her and tell her it has already been done, so she doesn't have to worry about it anymore. The woman may be selfish and self-absorbed, but she is absolutely right that you should have your wishes put in writing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were taught differently regarding how to serve ourselves a meal. Typically, we each "plate up" a desired amount of food in the kitchen, where it is prepared, rather than bring serving dishes to the table. Then we carry our plates to the table to eat.

Should my husband serve himself first (as I was taught the cook/hostess is served last), or should I go first (as he was taught women precede men)?

— DINERS' DILEMMA

DEAR D.D.: You're not "the hostess"; you are the wife. If your husband wishes to defer to you, let him spoil you. You'll both be happier that way.

P.S. I'm sure you can find a way to spoil him back.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

When Fortune means to men most good, She looks upon them with a threatening eye. — William Shakespeare

Today's heart slam is a somewhat delicate one after West finds the most testing lead of a spade. Now the defenders are in place to cash a spade winner as soon as they obtain the lead. How should declarer cope with the possible threats in hearts and clubs?

Ruffing diamonds in dummy seems needlessly risky. Declarer can guard against a bad trump break with East having the length by leading out the heart king and ace. But then he is reduced to needing the club finesse, a 50-50 shot.

An alternative line is to forget about 4-1 heart breaks (trumps split 3-2 over two-thirds of the time) and play to ruff out the clubs, using the heart ace as a late entry to dummy. Alas, with the cards lying as they do, no matter how many rounds of trump South draws before trying to ruff the third club, West can overruff with his heart jack and can cash the spade winner. Back to the drawing board!

The winning solution is to take the spade lead, cash the club ace, heart king and queen, then lead a club to the king and play a third club from dummy. If East discards, you can ruff, and draw the last trump to make 13 tricks. If East either plays the club queen or ruffs in with the master trump, you pitch your spade loser instead of ruffing. This way you can ruff the next spade in hand, draw the trump, and run the clubs.

ANSWER: This is a quantitative sequence, not Blackwood, since no suit has been agreed upon. Your partner has suggested more than a strong no-trump, probably with a 5-2-4-2 pattern. Although you have no high-card extras, your quick tricks and powerful club intermediates suggest six clubs rates to be the best slam.

IF APRIL 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: During the next six to eight weeks, your life can make a clear cut change of direction that will be lead to improved circumstances and fulfillment. The people you meet will have your best interest at heart and you can launch plans without a hitch. May is particularly a good time to make a serious romantic commitment or to pursue a new job or career because your judgment about people and vision of the future possibilities is right on target. Avoid making important changes or decisions during November as you may be on a wild goose chase so may invite criticism as well as failure.

HOROSCOPE
Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You can stir up resentment if you seem too stern. That temporary taste of disapproval may trigger trouble so do your best to slap a smile on your face. Avoid taking on extra obligations today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): No time for negativity. You may be much too busy spending time with a special someone to worry about the bank balance. This is not a good time to enter into a financial contract or to try a new investment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Delete the dilemma. It would be wonderful if all of life's problems could be handled the same way you handle a computer document. If something stalls or blocks you, just save it for another day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stalemates get stale quickly. You don't want to let simmering resentments fuel your emotions. Get out and about; do something out of the ordinary and the ordinary will appear in proper perspective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Conquering today's challenges will make you stronger. The more you stretch yourself to the limits to handle the latest crisis, the more opportunities you will have to build physical or mental muscles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Leave the credit card on the credenza. Money could burn a hole in your pocket under these stars. Be realistic. You might not be able to afford as much as you wish, so don't let temptation rub it in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You have that sinking feeling when emotions run hot and cold. Someone close might not know what will happen next because reactions are unpredictable. Don't let anyone push your buttons today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): There is usually a kernel of truth in corny homilies. "A stitch in time saves nine" might be a good motto for you to meditate upon today. Double check your bank account for errors and omissions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are possibly being offered chicken soup when strong medicine is needed. This is a time when it is essential that you think for yourself and refuse to let little problems turn into major ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You will end up with the emotional bends if you change your position too quickly. Loved ones might not be able to gauge your reactions, or they set the bar so high you get tired of jumping for it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make yourself into a desirable package; no plain brown wrappers needed. Shine your shoes, get a haircut, or put together an outfit that tells the world you have arrived. Experiment with new outlooks.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If you look through the glass darkly, all you may see is the darkness. When you are pessimistic about your own financial abilities you are unlikely to convince anyone else to take a gamble on your ideas.

Spring game should provide answers for BSU

By Jason Chatraw
Times-News correspondent

BOISE — With Boise State's 2011 season-opener still more than four months away, tonight's 2011 Blue & Orange Game at Bronco Stadium will be a strong indicator of which players will be stepping into key roles.

After losing a slew of seasoned veterans to graduation, BSU won't have an easy time replacing the likes of Austin Pettis, Titus Young, Ryan Winterswyk and Jeron Johnson. But the next superstar might very well be identified in today's 5 p.m. affair.

More than anything, BSU coach Chris Petersen is looking for a better performance from his defense, one that looked uncharacteristically weak in a scrimmage earlier this spring. But he is convinced the problem isn't talent.

"We've talked a lot about needing to have some great sideline energy during games," Petersen said. "It was good (in our earlier scrimmage) but what was missing was energy on the field."

"When you take out guys like Ryan Winterswyk, Winston Venable, Jeron Johnson and Byron Hout (who sat out spring practice due to a foot injury), it's much different. That's what we're working through. It wasn't a lack of effort. It's just the next step of communicating and working with one another that needs to be made. And hopefully it can be better on Saturday."

Venable, Johnson and Winterswyk were all vocal leaders on BSU's defense a year ago — and all players who made their presence felt. While much of the Broncos' defense returns, those pivotal players' positions will be up for grabs and watched closely.

The battle for Venable's nickel slot as a hybrid linebacker and safety will be interesting between senior Hunter Smith and incoming junior college transfer Dextrell Simmons, both of whom have played well this spring.

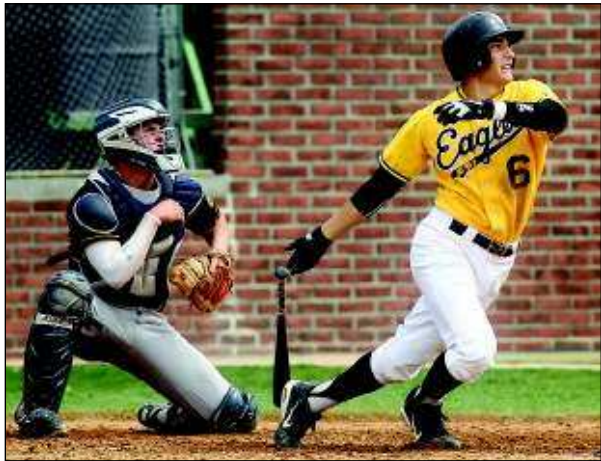

On the offensive side of the ball — one that didn't struggle in the Broncos' first scrimmage — the receiver role is the main one that coaches and fans alike will be watching. While sophomore Geraldito Hiwat appears to be the breakout player at receiver, sophomore Kirby Moore returns to the field after red-shirting last season.

One looming question is this: Can Tyler Shoemaker elevate his game to be the clutch receiver BSU seems to be missing as it heads into 2011?

Every unknown won't be fully answered today, but a clearer picture should begin

Golden Eagles split with So. Nevada

By David Bashore
Times-News writer

For the College of Southern Idaho baseball team, Friday's doubleheader with the College of Southern Nevada was all about the pitching.

In Game 1 the Golden Eagles had it, in Game 2 they didn't. Predictably, CSI won the opener 3-2 and lost 9-6 in the nightcap to split with their guests from greater Las Vegas.

Ferrin, Mills lead Burley past Jerome in 5-3 win

By Ryan Howe
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Burley baseball team got a solid pitching performance from Joe Ferrin and took advantage of critical Jerome miscues in earning a 5-3 win on Friday.

"This was one of my better (outings) this season," Ferrin said. "I've really been hitting the bullpens and working on my form. I'm more focused on my form, and if I don't throw it that hard, who cares. Just get it in the zone, just throw strikes."

Ferrin went six innings without giving up an earned run.

"We had a good defense behind us and that's what you should have as a pitcher," Ferrin said. "They do exactly what they're supposed to do. When they hit a ground ball you know they're going to field it. You've just got to have confidence in your defense, and then you're not scared to throw the pitches you need to throw."

Jake Mills hit 3-for-3 with a solo home run that sparked a three-run fifth inning for the Bobcats. Taylor Carson had an RBI and was 2-for-3 with a double and a triple.

Jerome gifted Burley three runs. An error in the first inning led to an unearned run. A wild pitch and a passed ball in the fifth plated two more.

"The last couple games we've played have been uncharacteristic in terms of our defense," said Jerome coach Tom Bobrowski.

Canyon Ridge softball earns first-ever win over Bruins

By Stephen Meyers
Times-News writer

Canyon Ridge didn't really know how to react.

The players were excited, but struggled to find the right words. Head coach Lyle Hudelson, an assistant at Twin Falls for seven years, tried to downplay the significance of beating his former team.

But after centerfielder Alex Schamber made a brilliant diving catch to seal a 5-3 win for the Riverhawks — the first win for Canyon Ridge in their rivalry with the Bruins — it was celebration time.

"Oh it feels good," said Canyon Ridge catcher Karly Hudelson. "Our goal all season was to beat Twin. Once I got the schedule at the beginning of the season I said, 'That's the day we beat them.'"

Added pitcher Lauren Shotwell: "We came out knowing we could win and we did."

Twin Falls (8-3, 6-1 Great Basin) jumped on Canyon Ridge (10-2, 4-1 GBC) early as freshman Rainey Dyreson blasted a solo home run into centerfield.

But the game took a weird turn in the bottom of the first.

After two seasons of being beaten in nearly every sport by the Bruins, Canyon Ridge has been put in a serious mental disadvantage when it faces Twin Falls.

"It's the Twin Falls-Canyon Ridge thing. You have to get over the nerves," said Lyle Hudelson. "I told my team we have nothing to lose here. All the pressure is on Twin Falls. Canyon Ridge, we haven't beat them in many things. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain here."

On Friday, it was Twin Falls who lost the mental edge.

Dyreson walked the first two CRHS batters, throwing 10 straight balls to start the game. The next batter, Karly Hudelson laid down a sacrifice bunt, but Dyreson's throw to first was wild, rolling all the way to the fence in right field as the outfielder wasn't covering behind first base.

Schamber and Brinley Miller easily scored — as did Hudelson.

"My coach gave me the bunt sign, I bunted and once I saw the ball go, I was like,

"I'm going until he wants me to stop! Once I got to third, I knew this must be a good thing," Karly Hudelson said.

The Bruins never fully recovered. Dyreson did hit her second home run in the seventh, but it was too little, too late.

"They were all nervous because it's Canyon Ridge you know and it's a big rivalry," said Twin Falls coach Leslie Phillips. "Just mentally, they were thinking way too much. They were trying to make too much happen instead of just letting it happen."

Golden Eagles grind out sweep

Times-News

Baumert's Bash-ers came to the rescue just in the nick of time Friday, even if their namesake wasn't around to see it.

T.J. Surrage's two-out single in the bottom of the seventh inning tied the College of Southern Idaho softball team's second game of the day against Snow College, and Marina Groenewegen sent the fans home happy with a two-run walkoff shot an inning later as the Golden Eagles edged the Badgers 7-5 to complete a sweep after a 3-0 win in the opener.

Groenewegen's second round-tripper of the game capped a rally from 5-2 down in the seventh inning as 11th-ranked CSI (33-13, 27-6 Scenic West) won its sixth in a row.

The rally came after Baumert was ejected for the first time in his tenure as skipper for arguing a bang-bang play at first base. He'll be suspended for the first game of today's doubleheader, which is scheduled to begin at noon.

In Friday's opener, CSI scored in the first inning and took a 1-0 lead into the bottom of the sixth, where it plated two more to provide some breathing space. The Eagles ended the game by turning a double-play with the tying run at the plate.

"We haven't played a lot of close games this year and the kids responded well. We played flat today, but it was good to see them win two close hard-fought games," said CSI coach Nick Baumert. "It's almost like you're coming off a bye weekend (with last weekend's games canceled) and that does make a difference with timing and all that. We were able to salvage a sweep today and our hitters were able to get the big hits when we needed them."

Six of CSI's seven runs in Game 2 came via the longball. Nikki Brailsford, Kelsey Bryant, Mikkel Griffin and Groenewegen all had solo shots to go with Groenewegen's walkoff blast.

Griffin's seventh-inning homer vaulted her into a tie atop the all-time CSI single-season home run list at 24. With her next trip around the bases she'll surpass the 2009 total set by Megan Zimmerman. At 83 RBIs, Griffin is just two short of Zimmerman's mark in that category, also set in 2009.

the left-field wall for a two-run homer in the second inning — and Brandon Petite slammed the door in the seventh.

"Once Travis gave up the home run he got really tough, and Brandon threw great," said CSI coach Boomer Walker. "In Game 2, if you had told me beforehand we'd score six runs I'd feel pretty good. We battled, it just wasn't enough."

The Eagles were stung in Game 2 by two subpar pitching performances. Tyler Vavra retired the first five batters of the game but then allowed the next eight to reach base, sparking a four-run second inning — anchored around No. 9 hitter Dalton Gust's three-run double — that chased Vavra from the game.

Caleb Olson and Cody White navigated the next five innings on the mound, but Tyler Duffin's struggles continued as he gave up four runs over the last two innings.

Gust finished 4-for-4 with four RBIs to spearhead Southern Nevada's attack, while Morin doubled and drove in three runs for CSI. Despite pitching struggles on the front and back end of Game 2, the Eagles committed only one error and otherwise played fairly well. It was a far cry from the miserable stretch they endured last weekend against Eastern Utah.

"It was tough to get a read on today," said Morin, who raised his conference-leading batting average to .409. "I think the pitching will be there, and the other stuff is starting to come around. Guys are getting their confidence levels back to the way they were when we were playing really well."

The two teams will play again today, starting at noon.

In the handshake line after the game, many Twin Falls players hugged their former coach and today, the Bruins and Riverhawks play two more in another opportunity for Coach Hudelson to beat his former team.

"That's a good team there. I coached a lot of those girls. Coached some of them when they were 11 and 12 years old, so I still care for them," said Lyle Hudelson. "This game isn't personal. There's a lot of pride that goes into that game. When you build relationships with kids, you can't just throw it away because it's a game."

The Tigers also struggled some with situational hitting.

"Unproductive outs are absolutely killing us offensively," Bobrowski said. "We can't get the bunt down to move a runner. ... Most of it isn't necessarily experience, but emotions. Their emotions get the best of them sometimes with some of our guys."

Jordy Garrard and Spencer Parker each had a base hit to lead off the seventh inning for Jerome. With the tying run on first, Mills relieved Ferrin and closed out the game with a pair of strikeouts and a groundout to third. "He did his job," Burley coach Devin Kunz said of Ferrin. "He struggled at times getting ahead and threw more pitches than he needed to, but when he keeps the ball down like that he's going to be tough."

Colorado Rockies catcher Chris Iannetta celebrates after scoring on a bases-clearing triple and a throwing error in the second inning of Friday's game against the Chicago Cubs in Denver.

ROYALS 6, MARINERS 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Luke Hochevar gave up one hit in seven innings and Jeff Francoeur homered and drove in three runs to help Kansas City beat Seattle for its fifth victory in six games.

ANGELS 4, WHITE SOX 3

CHICAGO — Maicer Izturis had three hits and drove in two runs, and the Angels bullpen extended its scoreless streak to 25 1-3 innings.

Chacin, Iannetta pace Colorado Rockies

DENVER — Jhoulys Chacin tossed a six-hitter for his first career complete game, Chris Iannetta hit a bases-clearing triple and the Colorado Rockies won their seventh straight, beating the Chicago Cubs 5-0 on Friday night.

The Rockies are off to their best start in franchise history, improving to 11-2 behind the performance of Chacin, who's picking up the slack quite nicely with ace Ubaldo Jimenez sidelined due to a cracked tendon on his right thumb.

In windy and cool conditions, Chacin (3-0) struck out seven and walked two. He smacked his fist into his glove when the Rockies recorded a 5-4-3 double play to end the game.

NATIONALS 4, BREWERS 3, 10 INNINGS

WASHINGTON — Adam LaRoche's 10th inning fielder's choice scored Jayson Werth with the winning run.

PADRES 4, ASTROS 2

HOUSTON — Chris Denorfia doubled and homered

and Ryan Ludwick drove in a pair of runs.

MARLINS 4, PHILLIES 3

PHILADELPHIA — Pinch-hitter Greg Dobbs hit a go-ahead two-run single against his former team.

PIRATES 6, REDS 1

CINCINNATI — Charlie Morton pitched his second career complete game in gusty winds, limiting the NL's most prolific lineup to five hits, and the Pittsburgh Pirates ended their four-game losing streak.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
RANGERS 5, YANKEES 3

NEW YORK — Undefeated Matt Harrison and Texas tied an AL record by turning six double plays and the Rangers picked up where they left off last October.

The teams played for the first time since Texas battered the Yankees to win last year's AL championship series in six games. The Rangers won this time with pitching, thanks to Harrison (3-0) and his sure-handed fielders on a chilly, windy evening.

Texas turned double plays on grounders by the first six hitters in the New York lineup — Alex Rodriguez, Mark Teixeira, Robinson Cano, Derek Jeter, Andruw Jones and Nick Swisher.

BLUE JAYS 7, RED SOX 6

BOSTON — Jose Bautista singled in the go-ahead run in a four-run seventh inning and Toronto deepened the misery of the struggling Red Sox.

INDIANS 8, ORIOLES 2

CLEVELAND — Justin Masterson pitched seven strong innings for his third win, Asdrubal Cabrera had four RBIs and the surprising Indians kept the AL Central standings flipped upside down.

Second day of NFL mediation ends

Talks resume next week

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Negotiators for the NFL and its locked-out players wrapped up a second day of court-ordered talks Friday with no signs of significant progress. They plan to sit down again next week.

The two sides left the federal courthouse in Minneapolis after about four hours of talks, following nine hours of meetings on Thursday. They will meet again Tuesday.

Hall of Famer Carl Eller, who is representing retired players in the antitrust lawsuit against the league, said he thinks the two sides are “moving forward” but the process “slowed a little bit” Friday.

“There is progress, but it wasn’t like we’re right around the corner,” Eller said. “We could resolve it if we had met on the weekend, but maybe not.”

U.S. Magistrate Judge

Arthur Boylan, who is overseeing the sessions, assigned some weekend homework, according to Michael Hausfeld, an attorney for the players.

“The judge has asked us to provide answers to over a half-dozen questions that he’s asked,” Hausfeld said, declining to provide details. “There’s a lot of work.”

With the 2011 season in jeopardy, Boylan is overseeing this round of talks after 16 days of mediated sessions in Washington failed to secure a new labor pact.

“We need to have some productivity,” Eller said. “We need to come out of here with something, and I think that there is a sense of realism on the judge’s part. It’s not just talk. Just getting together to talk is not productive.”

U.S. District Judge Susan Richard Nelson, who ordered the mediation, is still considering a request from the players to lift the lockout imposed by the owners. After an April 6 hearing, she said she planned to rule on the injunction request in a couple of weeks — which would mean next week.

Players including MVP quarterbacks Tom Brady and Peyton Manning filed the request along with a class-action antitrust suit against the league. The lawsuit has been combined with two other similar claims from retirees, former players and rookies-to-be, with Eller the lead plaintiff in that group.

NFL commissioner Roger Goodell, four team owners and several league executives and lawyers left the building without speaking to reporters. NFL spokesman Greg Aiello, via e-mail, declined to comment.

DeMaurice Smith, the NFL Players Association executive director, also refused to talk. He left the courthouse with lawyers and line-backers Ben Leber and Mike Vrabel, two other plaintiffs in the antitrust suit filed March 11 when the last collective bargaining agreement expired, the union dissolved and the lockout began.

NBA PLAYOFF PREVIEW

By Brian Mahoney
Associated Press writer

A look at the eight first-round series in the NBA playoffs, which start this weekend:

EASTERN CONFERENCE
No. 1 CHICAGO BULLS (62-20)
vs.
No. 8 INDIANA PACERS (37-45)
Season series: Bulls, 3-1.
Storyline: With the best record in the NBA — and their best since Michael Jordan’s final season — the Bulls begin the quest for their first championship since Jordan left after winning his sixth in 1998.
X-Factor: Tyler Hansbrough. Wasn’t a part of the rotation for much of the season and played in only one of the first three meetings, then had 29 points and 12 rebounds in Indiana’s win.
Prediction: Bulls in 5.
No. 2 MIAMI HEAT (58-24)
vs.
No. 7 PHILADELPHIA 76ERS (41-41)
Season series: Heat, 3-0.
Storyline: The Heat, who closed the regular season playing at the level that was expected of them when LeBron James and Chris Bosh joined Wade in Miami, open with a Philadelphia team that exceeded expectations in Doug Collins’ first season as coach but struggled down the stretch.
X-factor: Thaddeus Young and Lou Williams. If the 76ers have any advantage in the series, it’s when the teams go to their benches. Young was in double figures all three games, while Williams scored 24 as a reserve in the March 25 game.
Prediction: Heat in 4.
No. 3 BOSTON CELTICS (56-26)
vs.
No. 6 NEW YORK KNICKS (42-40)
Season series: Celtics, 4-0.
Storyline: Like last season, the Celtics hope to prove their late-season struggles were meaningless and start another run to the NBA finals against the Knicks, who are back in the playoffs for the first time since 2004 and believe they are a dangerous underdog in the 14th postseason matchup between the longtime rivals.
X-factor: Toney Douglas. The Knicks are a different team when the streaky backup guard is making 3-pointers, and they may have to call on him often to defend Rondo.
Prediction: Celtics in 6.
No. 4 ORLANDO MAGIC (52-30)
vs.
No. 5 ATLANTA HAWKS (44-38)
Season series: Hawks, 3-1.
Storyline: Rematch of last season’s second-round series, the most lopsided four-game sweep in NBA history. Orlando won by an average of 25.3 points and the Hawks would go on to change coaches, replacing Mike Woodson with Larry Drew.
X-factor: Josh Smith. The Magic don’t have a great option to defend the power forward spot, and the versatile Smith, who averaged 17.5 points, 10.5 rebounds, 4.0 assists and 2.3

blocks, could be able to take advantage of his matchup.
Prediction: Magic in 6.
WESTERN CONFERENCE
No. 1 SAN ANTONIO SPURS (61-21)
vs.
No. 8 MEMPHIS GRIZZLIES (46-36)
Season series: Tied, 2-2.
Storyline: Back in the postseason for the first time since 2006 and still seeking their first victory in a playoff game after 12 losses, the Grizzlies start against a Spurs team that could open without All-Star Manu Ginobili, who sprained his right elbow in the regular-season finale and is doubtful for the opener.
X-factor: Tony Allen. Has brought solid defensive play and postseason experience from his years in Boston, and has been a scorer against the Spurs. He scored 20 in both Memphis wins, and he’s likely the best option to defend Ginobili.
Prediction: Spurs in 6.
No. 2 LOS ANGELES (57-25)
vs.
No. 7 NEW ORLEANS HORNETS (46-36)
Season series: Lakers, 4-0.
Storyline: Seeking a third straight NBA title, the Lakers open against the Hornets, whose surprisingly strong season was ruined when power forward David West was lost with a torn knee ligament.
X-factor: Emeka Okafor. In his first postseason, he has to not only defend against the Lakers’ depth inside but find a way to provide some offense as well.
Prediction: Lakers in 4.
No. 3 DALLAS MAVERICKS (57-25)
vs.
No. 6 PORTLAND TRAIL BLAZERS (48-34)
Season series: Tied, 2-2.
Storyline: Following two straight first-round eliminations, the Blazers seem to be considered the trendy underdog pick this year, even though Dallas won its final four games to tie for the second-best record in the Western Conference.
X-factor: Rodrigue Beaubois. Both Jason Kidd and Jason Terry had their struggles against Portland’s tough defense, and if that continues the Mavs will need a big contribution from Beaubois, who averaged 17 points in his two appearances against the Blazers.
Prediction: Trail Blazers in 6.
No. 4 OKLAHOMA CITY THUNDER (55-27) vs. No. 5 DENVER NUGGETS (50-32)
Season series: Thunder, 3-1.
Storyline: The Thunder are considered one of the top challengers to the Lakers in the Western Conference, but draw a dangerous first-round opponent in the Nuggets, who went 18-7 after trading Carmelo Anthony to the Knicks in February.
X-Factor: James Harden. Must provide the third scoring option behind Kevin Durant and Russell Westbrook, especially because the Thunder bench could have difficulties matching the deeper Nuggets one.
Prediction: Thunder in 7.

Rookie Steele among rare 7-way tie at Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO — PGA Tour rookie Brendan Steele wrangled the winds and nearly emerged at the Texas Open solely atop the leaderboard.

But on the tour’s toughest day in years, no one got off that easy.

Steele carried the lead before double-bogeying on the par-4 15th, then blew a chance to reclaim it by missing a 6-footer for birdie on the final hole, keeping him in a rare seven-way tie atop the leaderboard at 3 under Friday.

That is tied for the second-most crowded leaderboard in the PGA Tour after 36 holes since 1970. Strong winds prevented anyone from breaking out, and Friday’s average round of 75.289 was the highest on the tour since the 2008 British Open.

“I got pretty beat up out there,” Steele said. “I think we all kind of did.”

After missing what would’ve been his fifth birdie, Steele tapped in No. 18 to finish at par-72. He shared the lead with Geoff Ogilvy (72), Rich Beem (70), Kevin Sutherland (70), Chadley Hoffman (73), Brandt Snedeker (72), and Kevin Chappell (73).

A day that began with 5 under leading the pace was undone by winds that whipped higher than 30 mph. Players helplessly watched tee shots sail into the woods, and just 13 players shot under par Friday after there 50 sub-par scores in the opening round.

Defending champion Adam Scott followed his opening-round 68 with a 74. But on a day like this, 2 over was good enough to leave the Masters runner-up and three others just a stroke back.

“I can’t imagine anyone really running away with it,” Scott said.

COCHRAN SHOOTS 64 TO LEAD BY OUTBACK BY 2 STROKES

LUTZ, Fla. — Russ Cochran isn’t hitting his driver well. You would just never know it by his first-round score at the Outback Steakhouse Pro-Am.

Cochran shot a 7-under 64 to take a two-stroke lead over John Cook and Jay Don Blake at the Champions Tour event even though the 52-year-old left-hander hit only 10 of 14 fairways and averaged just 270 yards off the tee.

“I came over here and played in the pro-am (Thursday) and didn’t really drive it that well,” Cochran said. “Hit it in the water two or three times and just didn’t feel as good over (the ball).”

“I was teasing my pro-am partners yesterday. They were going to see a personal record of me hitting it in the hazard, I thought.”

Though Cochran wasn’t hazard free, he somehow managed a bogey-free round, starting it with birdies on Nos. 10-12.

Cook and Blake shot 66s and were a stroke ahead of Kenny Perry, who birdied five holes on his back nine after shooting 1 over on the front, making his Outback Pro-Am debut in his third Champions Tour tournament.

Expect plenty of radio chatter at Talladega

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Some compare it to trying to land a date for the prom. Really, it’s just two parties haggling over a potentially lucrative business deal.

Only in this case, the negotiations are taking place at nearly 200 mph.

Drivers who usually only talk to their crew chiefs, spotters and perhaps a teammate will be chatting it up with a bunch of guys they’re trying to beat during Sunday’s restrictor-plate race at Talladega Superspeedway, all looking for someone to go along with a one-car-leads, one-car-pushes, then-we’ll-switch arrangement.

“There will be a lot of pleading, a lot of begging,” Clint Bowyer said.

At Talladega and Daytona, the two NASCAR tracks where horsepower is limited by devices that keep speeds from getting out of hand, teams have learned that two cars paired together can go much faster than drafting in a larger pack, which used to be the norm on these big triovals.

One car runs out front with another right on his bumper, shoving him along. After a few laps, they must switch positions to keep the pusher from overheating his engine. During practice sessions on a gloomy, windy Friday, that’s about all anyone worked on: running in tandem and perfecting the all-important switch.

Those tactics will be crucial in the Sprint Cup race. But the more intriguing subplots can only be heard, not seen, as drivers flip from one channel to another on their radios, looking for a partner during the ebbs and flows of a typical race.

Lightning beat Penguins

PITTSBURGH — Three broken teeth and a fat lip didn’t prevent Martin St. Louis from helping the Tampa Bay Lightning bite back to even their first-round playoff series with the Pittsburgh Penguins.

St. Louis had a goal and assist, Eric Brewer scored and added two assists and the Lightning rebounded to beat the Penguins 5-1 on Friday night.

Vincent Lecavalier, Nate Thompson and Mattias Ohlund — into an empty net — also scored. Simon Gagne had three assists and Tampa Bay, coming off a 3-0 loss Wednesday night, rediscovered its high-powered offense to blow the game open with a three-goal first period.

Craig Adams scored for the Penguins, who came out flat and will have two days to regroup for Game 3 at Tampa Bay on Monday night.

For St. Louis, the performance was payback after the diminutive forward was livid that no penalty was called after he was cracked across the face by Zbynek Michalek’s errant stick in the second period of Game 1. After a late-night trip to the dentist and two root canals, St. Louis was still unhappy but ready to move on when returning to practice Thursday.

CAPITALS 2, RANGERS 0
WASHINGTON — Jason Chimera and Jason Arnott scored in a 1:57 span in the second period, Michal Neuvirth made 22 saves and the Washington Capitals beat the New York Rangers 2-0 on Friday night to take a 2-0 lead in their Eastern Conference playoff series.

After playing a scoreless and somewhat jittery first period, the Capitals dominated the Rangers the rest of the way.

Game 3 is Sunday in New York.

BSU

to emerge about what this season’s BSU team is going to look like.

While it may seem like another practice game, Petersen said the team isn’t treating it as such, insisting that it will be a spirited competition.

“There’s nothing we do around here that isn’t competitive,” Petersen said. “The defense is going to have a chance to win.

“We told the players, the winners are getting fed and the losers are not. And we told the losers to not even think about using university water and showering here. Go home and use your own showers if you don’t win. I think they get a kick out of that.”

The offense will face the defense and the game will be split into four eight-minute quarters with a five-minute halftime.

BSU will score the game between the offense and defense, with the offense getting the typical six points for a touchdown, three points for a field goal and one point for a PAT. The defense will get six points for a touchdown, three points for forcing a turnover, three points for a fourth-down stop, two points for a quarterback sack, one point for forcing a three-and-out and one point for holding the offense to a field goal in the red zone.

And to the victor, go the spoils — that is, if you consider Teriyaki bowls spoils.

“We have Teriyaki bowls, but not a lot of them,” Petersen quipped, re-emphasizing that losers don’t get fed.
