Jury Indicts Cleveland on Murder

Ten new felony charges were levied Thursday against the Nevada man police say caused the July 15 shooting and hostage crisis in Twin Falls.

Clark Cleveland, only 26, faces a life-time in a prison cell. A Twin Falls grand jury handed down an indictment against Cleveland on Wednesday, accusing him of first-degree murder and 11 other felonies for allegedly unloading the clip of a .22-caliber semi-automatic pistol at seven human targets, wounding an officer, terrorizing a woman and claiming the life of a Utah man. The Spring Creek, Nev., man held responsible for the July 15 hostage crisis in Twin Falls appeared Thursday in Twin Falls County 5th District Court for a 10:30 a.m. hearing in front of Judge G. Richard Bevan. After Cleveland stood silent when asked for his plea, the court entered a plea of not guilty and set a trial date of Jan. 17, 2012. The new charges come nearly two weeks after Cleveland ended the tense hostage situation by surrendering himself by police. Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loebs noted the scope of the investigation into Cleveland's alleged crimes. "When we were still in the process of analyzing (the information), we spoke with a lot of agencies that worked on the case, put together reports from each agency, reviewed a number of witnesses and then analyzed which charges to file," he said. Twin Falls Police Capt. Matt Hicks noted last week that as many as nine agencies responded to the July 15 incident, making the event one of the largest deployments of law-enforcement personnel this area has seen. The indictment contains charges of first-degree murder, aggravated battery on an officer, aggravated assault on an officer, aggravated assault, second-degree kidnapping and eluding an officer. It does not provide a narrative account of

County Considers Tool to Keep Cattle Confined

As Twin Falls County considers fining large production animal owners for their wayward beasts, cattlemen are concerned a new law could become a tool of country squabbles.

BY BEN BOTKIN
bbotkin@magicvalley.com

BUHL • Joe Gellings checks his fences often. With a herd of Salers cows fenced in at his rural Buhl ranch, the cattleman knows that keeping an eye on the electric wires is crucial. A wandering deer or dog could damage the fence and lead to a potential escape. He also makes sure his cows have plenty to eat so they're less likely to try breaking through the fence in search of feed. Making sure their animals stay where they should be is part of daily life for the Magic Valley's farmers and ranchers. But exceptions occur, and problems with large, loose production animals have Twin Falls County officials considering an ordinance to fine owners who don't keep their animals in check. It's intended to provide a tool to streamline how the county holds owners accountable for their animals. Currently, if the county wants to recoup costs from responding to runaway animals, a civil action and a lengthy court process against the animals' owner is required, said Lt. Daron Brown of the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office, which brought the ordinance forward for consideration. This ordinance, if passed, would allow officers to write a citation, as they do with traffic offenses. During a Thursday hearing, county commissioners held

Twin Falls County commissioners are considering passing an ordinance to fine residents who allow their large production animals to roam free. Here are the details:
Animals impacted: Livestock and fowl weighing more than 25 pounds.
What it means: Owners may be punished if their animals are roaming free and not on the owner's property or under control.
The costs: For the first violation, the fine is up to $50 per animal, per day. A second offense within two years results in a fine of $100 per animal, per day. A third offense is a misdemeanor, which can result in a fine of up to $1,000 and six months in jail.

off on making a decision, which will come within 10 days. Brown stressed that the ordinance is aimed at those who continually don't keep their livestock off roads and other people's property. He also says it's a safety issue, noting that he has hit an 800-pound heifer with a county vehicle. "That's a lot of dense weight for a vehicle crash or a motorcycle to run into," he said. "And people are injured because of it every year." Officers also spend time preventing accidents. Last week, deputies responded to an incident near Hollister with 30 loose cows. Deputies kept watch over the cattle to make sure they didn't approach U.S. Highway 93 until the animals' owner arrived. Please see CATTLE, M3

The Wolf Hunt is On

The Idaho Fish and Game Commission adopts this season's hunt proposal with few changes.

BY KIMBERLEE KRUESI
kkruesi@magicvalley.com

Idaho's new wolf hunting season rules have finally been approved.

The Idaho Fish and Game Commission adopted the rules on Thursday while meeting in Salmon. The final version only included a few tweaks to the original proposal drafted earlier this month. This season will run from Aug. 30 until March 31, 2012. However, it will be extended in the Lolo and Selway zones until June 30 to coincide with black bear season. As originally suggested, the hunt will not include quotas except for areas near the Montana border.

This will be Idaho's second wolf hunt since the animals were reintroduced to the state in 1995. The first ran from fall 2009 to spring 2010 with 188 of a limit of 220 wolves killed.

Also new this time: a trapping season will run from Nov. 15 until the end of the hunting season. The original proposal had suggested trapping should only be allowed for 10 weeks. Kenny Anderson, the commissioner representing the Upper Snake River region, requested an increase to hunt limits in his region.

"I want more for my area, a better hunt and to take out more wolves," he said during the commission meeting. Wolf tag sales have lagged this year in comparison to tags sold during the first season. One reason being that hunting and killing wolves is much harder than hunters originally anticipated. Earlier this month, Fish Please see WOLF, M3

Will Oakley Become Cradle of Presidents?

Mitt Romney and Jon Huntsman Jr. both want to be president of the United States. If either is elected, all 763 residents of Oakley should be invited to the inauguration.

That's because it's hard to see how Huntsman or Romney would be in a position to run the free world without the Cassia County community's influence on their family histories.

Huntsman especially. He's the grandson of David Haight, an Oakley native who served on the Quorum of Twelve Apostles of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the great-great-grandson of Horton Haight, the Mormon pioneer who essentially developed Oakley.

David Haight's daughter Karen married Blackfoot native Jon Huntsman Sr., who would become the Fast Food Container King.

While working for an egg producer, the senior Huntsman invented the plastic egg carton. He formed his own company in 1970, and soon developed the "clamshell" container for the Big Mac.

Before he became a titan of industry, Huntsman Sr. served in the Nixon administration. That later opened some doors for Jon Jr., who was hired on as a staff assistant to President Reagan. From there, he found a role in the administrations of a succession of presidents, with a brief break for a stint as governor of Utah.

Romney's grandfather moved to Oakley in 1913, pretty much because he had to. Gaskell Romney had been a prosperous expat American Mormon carpenter in Mexico, but lost everything in the 1910 revolution and had to return to the U.S. Romney's dad, George, grew up poor in El Paso, Texas, and Los Angeles before Gaskell Romney relocated to Idaho because he could feed his family on a hardscrabble potato farm near Oakley.

Too hardscrabble, it turned out. The enterprise failed.

In 1916, the Romneys moved to Salt Lake City and eventually to Rexburg, where Gaskell Romney was able to make a living in the construction boom that accompanied U.S. entry into World War I. The family returned to Utah in 1921.

Mitt Romney was raised in Michigan and spent some time near Glenns Ferry as a youngster. After Brigham Young University, Harvard Law School and an LDS mission in France, he went to work for management consulting companies in Massachusetts, then started his own venture-capital firm in 1984.

In 1999, Mitt Romney was hired to rescue the troubled 2002 Salt Lake City Winter Olympics. That accomplished, he returned to Massachusetts and successfully ran for governor in 2002. Romney sought the GOP nomination for president in 2008, losing to Sen. John McCain.

If there ever is a Huntsman or a Romney inauguration, the loser is sure to be invited:

They're third cousins, once removed.

Area Educators Attend Summer Institute

BY BLAIR KOCH
For the Times-News

WENDELL • Attending summer school by choice? Teachers do.

More than 500 state educators visited Wendell this week for the two-day Idaho Summer Institute of Best Practices conference.

Institute Director Katie Cutler said the program began six years ago when the Wendell and Gooding school districts each had grant funding available for professional development.

Instead of sending a handful of teachers from each district to out-of-state conferences, Cutler said, the districts pooled the money together and created a development conference for everyone. "It's just grown from there," she said.

Now, the development training is given in Idaho Falls and Payette as well, and teaches everything from math and reading standards to tapping into the latest technology and fostering relationships with students.

Wendell Elementary School second-grade teacher Andrea McCarty attended seminars on how to help keep students motivated and engaged in the learning process, and was grateful for the session on upcoming state curricula changes.

"It's a good resource, especially since the conference is so close to home," McCarty said. "They really give you a lot of resources. ... I'm looking forward to having effective strategies, something that will be helpful to me so I can help my students be more effective learners and so that they'll want to continue learning."

Planning for the summit begins nearly a year in advance, said Rob Sauer, deputy superintendent of the Idaho State Department of Education.

"We begin looking in September what will be taught in July," Sauer said. "It's about finding the needs that are in the field and then being able to match up the right people in the field to come and address those."

The program is funded in part through state funds. Educators also each pay a $100 registration fee.

Buhl Highway Lane Closed Over Weekend

TIMES-NEWS

One lane of U.S. Highway 30 near Buhl will be closed through the weekend after it collapsed into a hole created by a broken, abandoned water line.

The Idaho Transportation Department's emergency repair of the road is expected to extend into next week, after part of U.S. 30's eastbound lane sank into a ruptured pipe running under it on Wednesday. According to an ITD release, the pipe has been temporarily plugged by Buhl's water department, after ITD unearthed it during exploratory digging on Wednesday.

The hole ITD dug near Buhl's eastern city limit will remain open to dry over the weekend, and is protected by a concrete barrier with a temporary lane for eastbound traffic in U.S. 30's median. A 20 mph speed limit is in place through the work zone.

ITD said water from the ruptured pipe saturated the ground below the roadway, eroding the pavement. Crews expect to complete repairs by Monday, but drivers should use caution while traveling in the area until work is completed.

BPA to Raise Rates 7.8 Percent for Some Utilities

PORTLAND, Ore. • The Bonneville Power Administration has reached an agreement on Northwest power rates it hopes will end years of dispute over the way consumers share the benefits of low-cost hydroelectricity from the Columbia River system.

The agreement affects the federal power marketing agency's residential exchange program, established in 1981 to provide customers of private utilities such as Portland General Electric, PacifiCorp and Puget Sound Energy with a share of the electricity sold mostly to consumer-owned public utilities around the region, The Oregonian reported.

The agreement includes all the investor-owned utilities in the region, their state regulators, ratepayer advocates for public and private utilities, and the consumer-owned utilities representing 88 percent of BPA's public utility demand.

Among BPA's public customers are many Minnicassia cities, including Burley, Rupert and others. City councils were asked this year to sign off on the rate agreement.

BPA Administrator Steve Wright praised regional utility leaders and others who set aside longstanding litigation and its uncertain effect on power rates to support the settlement.

"Northwest citizens are far better off as a result of the time and patience the parties invested in the negotiations," Wright said.

Bonneville also announced plans to raise wholesale power rates for its consumer-owned utility customers by 7.8 percent in October, a bit less than the increase the agency was talking about a month ago, and far less than the 12 percent to 20 percent range that was discussed last year.

"A 7.8 percent rate increase is still a big, painful increase, but it's better than what Bonneville was suggesting initially," said Kevin O'Meara, deputy director of the Public Power Council, an advocacy group for publicly owned utilities.

The BPA said the rate hike was needed to help cover the costs of fixing aging dams, fuel purchases and repairs at the Columbia Generating Station nuclear plant, and fish and wildlife conservation.

A higher rate increase was avoided by the settlement agreement and by borrowing more from the U.S. Treasury, adopting a mechanism that will adjust rates when financial reserves become depleted.

BPA also said it will reduce the rate it charges for integrating wind power with its transmission grid by 4.7 percent. The integration cost has been a hot-button issue, and Bonneville said those costs are increasing.

The agency said the rate reduction is possible because of some additional geographic diversity of the wind projects on its system and changes to the calculation of necessary reserves.

In addition to marketing power from 31 dams and a nuclear plant, Bonneville operates three-quarters of high-voltage transmission lines in the Northwest and

Judge Orders Utah Businessman Held in Jail

SALT LAKE CITY • A federal judge on Thursday refused to release a well-known St. George businessman charged with mail fraud, despite an offer from friends and family to put up $1 million in property to guarantee he won't flee.

In issuing his ruling, U.S. Magistrate Judge David Nuffer cited Jeremy Johnson's pilot's license, extensive international contacts and apparent access to large amounts of cash as reasons to keep him jailed.

Johnson has donated generously to charity and to the political campaigns of Utah's attorney general. He made international headlines in January 2010 when he purchased a plane to fly doctors and other critical supplies to Haiti following a devastating earthquake.

Corrections

PARK CITY, Utah (AP) • In a story Wednesday about the death of Olympic silver medalist Jeret "Speedy" Peterson, The Associated Press reported erroneously that he lost his 5-year-old sister to a drunken driver. His half-sister was 18 at the time of her death.

ITD bridge inspector Jim Holland was misidentified in several references in a Wednesday story. The Times-News regrets the error.

The explanation of a chart that accompanied Thursday's front-page story, "Idaho's Drug Problem," was incorrect. The weights of drugs seized represented what all city, county and state jurisdictions in Idaho seized in 2009 and 2010, as reported in Idaho State Police Crime in Idaho reports. The Times-News regrets the error.

Jerome Robbery Suspect Gets Trial Date

TIMES-NEWS

A 23-year-old Jerome man has pleaded not guilty to three felony counts stemming from a June bank robbery.
Joseph Jacobs is slated to face an Oct. 5 jury trial in Jerome County 5th District Court. He entered his plea on Monday.

Jacobs is charged with robbery, grand theft and burglary. Prosecutors say Jacobs robbed the Jerome D.L. Evans Bank branch at 980 S. Lincoln Ave. on June 10. Police arrested Jacobs the same day at a residence near the bank, where they allegedly found Jacobs unarmed and with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Of course, Magic Valley cattlemen aren't interested in seeing their prize animals wander down a road unsafely. But they have some concerns about the ordinance.

Bill Brockman, a cattleman and former county commissioner, said he's worried it will lead to fines caused by bickering neighbors.

"Those are our wives, our families, our grandkids that drive those roads, so safety is of paramount importance," he said.

Charlie Howell, president of the Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association, agreed, saying the organization supports the safety goals, but has some concerns about the proposal's specifics.

For example, the ordinance doesn't give officers the discretion to make judgment calls about whether an offense merits a citation, he said, adding that he would prefer allowing a warning for a first offense.

Brown said he would hope officers would take neighbors' disputes into account, adding that more than warnings are needed.

"We've been giving people warnings for years because we didn't have the teeth to enforce this," he said.

July 15, driving from near Filler toward Twin Falls. Police say he then crashed into another vehicle at the intersection of Fillmore Street and Pole Line Road and ran to the Hampton Inn hotel on Fillmore Street, carrying a .22-caliber semi-automatic pistol.

There, he allegedly shot ISP Trooper Nick Walker in the leg, fatally shot Tracey Ivie, 43, of Lindon, Utah, in the chest and took a woman, now identified as Sharon Knudsen, hostage. Reports do not list Knudsen's age or place of residence.

Upon taking Knudsen at gunpoint, police say Cleveland barricaded himself in a hotel stairwell, starting a nearly three-hour standoff that ended in his surrender.

On Thursday afternoon, Loeb declined to provide a timeline for three of the major incidents of the morning: the shootings of Ivie and Walker and the abduction of Knudsen. The indictment of first-degree murder notes that Cleveland allegedly shot Ivie while holding Knudsen hostage. Exactly when Walker was shot has not been disclosed.

Cleveland also allegedly fired at five other officers — ISP Trooper Chris Clausen, Twin Falls Police Officer Aaron Nay and Twin Falls

The Indictment

A Twin Falls grand jury indicted Clark Cleveland on 12 felonies this week. Here's a roundup of those charges and the alleged crimes behind them.

Count 1: First-degree murder for fatally shooting Tracy Ivie.

Count 2: Aggravated battery on a police officer with a deadly weapon for shooting Idaho State Police Trooper Nick Walker in the leg.

Count 3: Aggravated assault with a deadly weapon for pointing a gun at witness Jeff Bulkley.

Count 4: Second-degree kidnapping for holding Sharon Knudsen hostage.

Counts 5-6: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun twice at ISP Trooper Chris Clausen.

Counts 7-8: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun twice at Twin Falls County Sheriff's Deputy Eric Steele.

Count 9: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun at Twin Falls County Sheriff's Deputy Ted McIntyre.

Count 10: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun

County sheriff's deputies Eric Steele, Ted McIntyre and Morgan Case — but they were not hit. Loeb said Walker is expected to make a full recovery.

In all, it is believed Cleveland fired his weapon 10 times, each time with the intention to harm others.

Loeb initially charged Cleveland with two felonies: aggravated battery on an officer with a deadly weapon and eluding an officer. A preliminary hearing on those charges was set for this morning, but that case is now dismissed, superseded by the grand jury indictment. Cleveland remains in custody of the Twin Falls County Jail on $2 million bond.

Count 11: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun at Twin Falls Police Officer Aaron Nay.

Count 12: Eluding a peace officer for fleeing a pursuing police vehicle at excessive speed and causing damage to persons or property.

Penalties Upon Conviction

Here are the possible prison sentences Cleveland could face if convicted, per state law.

First-degree murder: minimum 10 years, maximum life sentence or death.

Aggravated battery on an officer: maximum 30 years.

Aggravated assault: maximum 5 years.

Second-degree kidnapping: minimum 1 year, maximum 25 years.

Aggravated assault on an officer: maximum 10 years.

Eluding an officer: minimum 1 year driver's license suspension, maximum 5 years prison.

Weapons enhancement: additional 15 years per conviction.

— Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid on the possibility of a compromise being struck for a new deal on the debt limit

OUR VIEW

TF May Need Public Transit Long Before We Can Afford it

At the end of the day, only a community’s investment makes public transportation viable.

South-central Idaho’s most successful public transportation service is scuffling, and that bodes ill for the future of public transit in the rest of the region.

According to the Idaho Mountain Express of Ketchum, even though Mountain Rides’ bus service has seen an overall 10 percent increase in ridership over last year, the company may have to reduce routes and cut staff to make ends meet in 2012.

That trend has implications beyond the Wood River Valley because Twin Falls, with 44,125 residents, is on the brink of the population threshold needed to support a comprehensive public transportation system.

Nationally, public transit has been hard hit by the recession, and for exactly the reasons Mountain Rides is suffering: Local governments are dialing back support.

“The problem with cuts in local funding is that we leverage it to federal grant dollars,” Mountain Rides Executive Director Jason Miller told the Mountain Express. “If we lose $100,000 in local funding, we could actually be losing $320,000 in overall funding.”

Trans IV, the grant-funded, College of Southern Idaho-based system that offers personalized public transit in the Twin Falls area, could potentially lose funding from the city of Twin Falls as part of budget cuts — which would have a major impact on the service.

It’s happened elsewhere in Idaho. In Coeur d’Alene — which has about the same population as Twin Falls — the North Idaho Community Express and the Kootenai Area Transit System ran out of money and shut down service in January.

Mountain Rides provides free around-town bus service in the Ketchum-Sun Valley area and in Hailley, paid-fare bus service between the north and south valley and paid-fare commuter van service between the Magic and Wood River valleys. By tradition, it’s integral to the way the 21,000 residents of Blaine County get around.

Public transit has a far lower profile in Twin Falls, but the need is growing. The city’s master transportation plan predicts a steady increase in traffic in the next decade over a network of streets the city is already struggling to find the resources to maintain.

It may be years before there are enough resources in local government to change that. Combined with the real prospect of fewer transportation dollars from the federal government, Twin Falls may have a population of 70,000 or more before it can get serious about running a citywide network of buses.

By then, the total volume of traffic clogging the city’s streets could be half-again — or even twice — what it is today.

There will come a time when public transportation isn’t an issue that can be kicked down the road any longer in Twin Falls. Going forward, our elected officials would be wise to keep that in mind.

Debt Crisis? It Pales in Comparison to the One in Your Wallet

Loren Steffy

Houston Journal

Assuming we survive law-makers’ reckless disregard for the country’s economic welfare during the next week, maybe it’s time we took matters into our own hands.

After all, we can complain about the federal debt, about Washington’s wanton spending and the dishonesty with which leaders from both parties approach the crisis, but we are ignoring the potentially bigger problem: us.

As bad as the federal finances are, the finances of most American households are worse. Those who say the government should manage its money the way we do at home ignore the ugly truth — it is.

From 2001 to 2008, U.S. household debt almost doubled, to $13.8 trillion from just under $7 trillion, according to the Federal Reserve. In the past three years it has dipped, but the wave of debt has hardly receded. By the first quarter of this year, household debt was at more than $13.3 trillion.

The ratio of total U.S. debt to gross domestic product was higher in 2007 than at any time since 1929, Amir Sufi, a finance professor at the University of Chicago, wrote recently for Bloomberg News.

Much of the rising household debt in the years leading up to 2007 was, of course, mortgage-related, and since then, many more households have been plunged into debt by job losses, medical expenses or both.

While politicians are right to be worried about the effect that mounting federal debt is having on the nation’s financial health, high household debt levels are equally damaging to the nation’s economy. Indebted households spend more of their income on interest, and have less to spend on goods and services.

So while we demand action from Washington, we should make some demands of ourselves as well.

The first thing is to stop adding to our discretionary debt — that is, the debt we choose to assume rather than debt that circumstances such as job loss force on us. High-interest borrowing is a particular concern. U.S. credit-card debt rose in May for the first time since 2008, topping $793 billion, or more than $14,600 per household, and carried an average annual interest rate of 13 percent, according to CreditCards.com.

If you haven’t already locked in your existing debt at a low interest rate, this week would be a good time to do so. Interest rates are likely to soar if the government defaults on its debt next week. Even if a default is avoided, rates probably will rise if the recovery gains steam.

Beef up your cash hoard. Personal finance gurus recommend an “emergency fund” of three to six months worth of spending capacity. Now, some are suggesting you double that. Of course, in the event of a default, the dollar’s value will plunge, undermining your efforts. Still, the more you have in your cash hoard, the greater the chance there will be something left after Congress gets through with it.

Companies are in the same boat, and whether you’re looking at your own employer or individual investments, companies with strong cash flows — those that spend less than they earn — will be better able to weather a crisis.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Director Reynolds

In response to the letter submitted by Sue and Tom Burnikel regarding the Senior Center board of directors (Sunday, July 17), thank you for taking the time to voice your concerns.

As the president of the board, I am also concerned about the board. I think everyone who serves with me shares a sincere concern that we meet our commitment to our community seniors and that we continue to do our very best as volunteer board members.

It was mentioned that we deserve scrutiny. I agree and would add that we welcome scrutiny as should the boards of any organization working on behalf of the community. The Twin Falls Senior Center Board meetings are always open to the public. We meet every third Wednesday of the month at 1 p.m. at the center, 530 Shoshone St. W.

While every decision made by the board does not meet with unanimous agreement, I believe that our record shows that every action has demonstrated our commitment to the well-being of the seniors in our community. We are also very concerned with the successful management of the center, the welfare of the active members who share in the daily life of the center, and creating a positive and supportive working environment for our employees and volunteers. It’s a big job!

We hope that interested members of the community who are willing to share their skills, talents and commitment, will consider service on the board. Our next elections take place in January 2012.

In the meantime, the doors of the senior center are open every weekday, and we look forward to visiting with you at center or by phone at 734-5084.

MICHAEL JOHNSON

(Editor’s note: Michael Johnson is the president of the board of directors for the Twin Falls Senior Center.)

Dear Mr. Simpson

This is an open letter to Rep. Mike Simpson.

I’ve been a teacher educator in south-central Idaho for three years and before that in Virginia for eight years. I work with many schools and teachers in the Twin Falls area, and I understand education policy, finance and teaching (K-12); in other words, I understand education policy and practice from many different perspectives, including being a taxpayer and voter here.

Your public support and co-sponsorship of the All Children are Equal Act for Title I formula fairness is especially significant because you represent primarily rural schools and constituents. I’m sure you know that an overwhelming majority of school children in Idaho qualify for free and reduced lunch and Title I funds.

Additionally, in this terrible economy, we must look to and invest in the future by addressing the needs of all learners in Idaho; they will soon be adult citizens, employees, professionals, employers, taxpayers and voters. Congress, now, must invest in rural education, which the ACE Act does; or, we must despair current conditions and give up on our future, too.

A good public school education in Idaho and in America, worthy of its mission and the funds taxpayers invest in it, must help all children ace the test of democratic citizenship and give them the chance to achieve their American Dream. The ACE Act is designed to help Idaho children do just that!

I look forward to you being able to tell us in Twin Falls that you will support and co-sponsor the ACE Act, HR 2485, for Title I formula fairness.

Tests Show Suspect Idaho Sprouts Uncontaminated

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) • Tests show no traces of salmonella were found at a northern Idaho sprouts facility that was blamed for several cases of food poisoning.

Moyee Springs' Evergreen Produce recalled its alfalfa and spicy sprouts under pressure from the Food and Drug Administration, which said the plant was linked to 25 cases of salmonella poisoning in people from Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and New Jersey. But The Spokesman-Review reports test results from Thursday showed no traces of the organism on dozens of packages of sprouts, seeds, wash water and processing surfaces.

FDA spokeswoman Stephanie Yao said the negative test results don't rule out Evergreen as the source, because the pathogen could have tainted only a portion of the food.

Nadine Scharf, the owner of Evergreen Fresh Produce, said she's had to lay off 10 of 14 workers and her company is on the verge of collapse after customers stopped making orders in the weeks following the government action. She's had to sell three vehicles to raise cash to pay her bills.

"We are about down to nothing," Scharf said.

Investigators with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said those who were sickened with salmonella, including three who were hospitalized, had all eaten spicy sprouts and alfalfa sprouts from Evergreen. The cases involved 10 people from Washington, three from Idaho and 10 from Montana.

Scharf said her 23-year-old company has followed a careful protocol of human hygiene, tests on wash water, quarterly inspections and routine disinfections for years, and her plant has always had a clean record. She's gone to producing 6,000 pounds of sprouts a week to producing small amounts of mung bean, clover and broccoli sprouts, Scharf said.

"Hopefully our business can get back on an even keel again," she said.

Since 1996, there have been 30 reported outbreaks of food-borne illnesses connected to raw or lightly cooked sprouts, the FDA said.

“Hopefully our business can get back on an even keel again.”

Idaho Supreme Court Throws Out Guilty Plea in Murder Case

BY REBECCA BOONE
Associated Press

BOISE • The Idaho Supreme Court unanimously ruled Thursday that a lower court was correct to order a new trial for a man who said he was coerced into pleading guilty to murder.

A judge ordered the trial for Trevor Booth, who pleaded guilty to murder in the 2005 shooting death of Leonard Kellum. Booth had filed a petition for post-conviction relief, saying his attorney used coercive and threatening tactics to get him to make the plea.

He also claimed that his attorney wasn't adequately prepared to go to trial — even though Booth felt he had nothing to lose by facing a jury.

Booth initially denied involvement in the shooting, but later admitted to it, according to court records. Booth said Kellum was his drug supplier and that Booth had fallen behind on payments. Booth said Kellum had threatened him and his family, and that he shot Kellum out of self-defense.

His attorney told him that his best bet was to plead guilty because if he went to trial, he'd face a mandatory life sentence. The attorney also told Booth and his family that a guilty plea would likely result in a fixed 10-year sentence.

Booth was given a sentence of 30 years to life in prison, but tried to appeal and lost that case. On the post-conviction relief petition though, Judge Gregory Culet agreed that the defense attorney's representation wasn't reasonable because he gave Booth erroneous information about the sentencing requirements.

The state contested the lower court's finding, saying that while the defense attorney's understanding of the sentencing statute was wrong, the prosecutor and judge on the original case both appeared to have shared the same belief. That, the state contended, showed that Harris' interpretation of the statute wasn't unreasonable.

But the high court rejected those arguments, saying in effect that two — or even three — wrongs don't make a right.

"The language of the statute makes it clear that in cases where the state chooses not to seek the death penalty, the court is required to impose an indeterminate life sentence with at least 10 years fixed," Justice Jim Jones wrote for the court.

Census: Idaho Still Has More Men Than Women

BOISE (AP) • Idaho still has more boys than girls, and more men than women.

New estimates from the U.S. Census Bureau show 785,324 of the 1.5 million residents counted in Idaho last year were male, while 782,258 were female. A decade ago, Idaho's 1.3 million population included 648,660 men and 645,293 women.

Males also still outnumber females in ages under 18 in Idaho, with 220,247 boys and 208,825 girls.

In 2000, the census estimated 189,726 males and 179,304 females in that same age group.

IDAHO WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY IN IMMIGRATION SCAM

BOISE • A southwestern Idaho woman has pleaded guilty to a scam that targeted immigrants seeking U.S. citizenship.

Crystal Tijerina, of Caldwell, faces up to 25 years in prison at her Oct. 12 sentencing in U.S. District Court in Boise. The 29-year-old pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of mail fraud and misuse of U.S. government seals as part of an agreement with federal prosecutors.

The U.S. Attorney's Office say Tijerina offered assistance in filing immigration paperwork while operating the business, Soluciones Economicas, in a scheme that started in June 2009 and lasted nearly a year. Authorities say she took money from immigrants and gave them fraudulent documents with U.S. government seals.

BOY SCOUT ABUSER ENDS UP IN UTAH

BOISE • A former Boy Scout camp counselor who admitted abusing dozens of youngsters in the 1990s is out of prison and living in Utah.

The Idaho Falls Post-Register reported Wednesday that Brad Stowell was released June 13.

Department of Correction spokeswoman Teresa Jones says Stowell must abide by both states' parole guidelines.

Stowell has had a history of violating his parole.

Following his 1997 arrest and guilty plea to molesting two boys, Stowell was imprisoned in 2005 for a violation.

He was released in 2008, but was back behind bars five weeks later for violating parole. An officer found a laptop computer with Internet access in his Boise apartment.

WOMAN BACK IN JAIL THREE DAYS AFTER RELEASE

BOISE • A southwestern Idaho woman who used MySpace to entice a 13-year-old boy has been arrested three days after her release from prison.

Ruth Alvarez, of Caldwell, was released Monday on supervised probation after serving seven months in a rider program, where she received counseling and treatment. Authorities say the 34-year-old was arrested Thursday for being around children without supervision, a violation of her probation.

Alvarez pleaded guilty to felony enticement last September in a case that started when a woman told authorities about a letter Alvarez wrote to her son expressing a sexual interest in him. Alvarez was sentenced to at least 2 1/2 years in prison

Polygamist Leader Mute as Trial Begins

BY WILL WEISSERT

Associated Press

SAN ANGELO, Texas • A Texas prosecutor told jurors Thursday he would present an audio recording of a polygamist sect leader raping a 12-year-old and other evidence showing the 55-year-old impregnated a 15-year-old girl during the man's sexual assault trial.

The trial began shortly after Warren Jeffs fired his high-powered defense team and a judge allowed the ecclesiastical head of the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints to defend himself.

But when it came his turn to present an opening statement, Jeffs was mute, sitting silently in his courtroom seat.

Then, as the prosecutor continued to present his case, Jeffs stared off into space, appearing not to be paying attention to the proceedings.

"You've sat here now for an hour and not said a word," District Judge Barbara Walther said, then added his continued silence could have "a very bad result."

The silence was a sharp contrast to Jeffs' earlier behavior in court. Then, he spoke for more than 20 minutes, telling the judge he had spent extensive time training his lawyers, but they weren't able to present "a pure defense." He then pleaded for more time to prepare the case by himself.

But Walther turned down that request. Jeffs has burned through seven attorneys in six months, and prosecutors complained his frequent switching of counsel was a delay tactic.

"Mr. Jeffs, the court is not going to recess these proceedings to let you go to law school," Walther said in deciding to start the trial as scheduled.

Jeffs' sect is an offshoot of mainstream Mormonism that believes polygamy brings exaltation in Heaven, and followers see him as God's spokesman on Earth. He is accused of sexually assaulting two underage girls at a remote compound in West Texas. If convicted, he could face life in prison.

The surreal day in court began with Jeffs addressing Walther in long and complicated sentences frequently punctuated by awkward pauses when he would stare intently at the floor.

"The condition of my present defense is such that I cannot use them," he said of his attorneys. "They, not having all needed understanding for my defense, which wants for representation by one who knows and understands the facts of these truths."

Walther asked when he had arrived at the decision, and Jeffs launched into another long-winded answer, assuring her that neither he nor his attorneys have "been idle."

"This has been a continued labor on my part, seeing counsel often have ideas different from the needs at hand," he said, adding that his defense team never "had a true understanding of the facts."

Walther ordered all of Jeffs' attorneys to remain on as side counsel but held firm on no further delays.

"You cannot fire your lawyers in an attempt to get a continuance," she said. "We're going forward today, sir. Can you understand that?"

Jeffs said not allowing him more time to prepare wouldn't allow "true justice to be served, which is the purpose of the court of law in a nation that professes true justice be served."

Walther didn't grant Jeffs' motion to represent himself without first urging him to reconsider. She also said he would get no special favors.

"You have assembled one of the most impressive legal teams this court has ever seen and perhaps ever seen in the state of Texas," the judge said. She later added, "I urge you not to follow this course of action."

Now that Jeffs is representing himself, what he will argue in his own defense is unclear.

One of his former attorneys, Deric Walpole, said Monday he would argue his client's constitutional guarantees of freedom of religion had been trampled by police. But Walpole also hinted Jeffs wouldn't testify or otherwise address the jury during the case.

Jeffs' sect has more than 10,000 members nationwide, and his defense had been financed by an FLDS land trust believed to be worth more than $110 million.

The charges against him stem from a massive police raid in April 2008 at Yearning For Zion, a compound about 45 miles south of the oil and gas town of San Angelo, where Jeffs' trial is taking place. More than 400 children were placed in protective custody, and women who live on the compound appeared on airwaves across the country wearing their traditional, frontier-style dresses and hairdos from the 19th century.

Authorities moved in after receiving an anonymous call to an abuse shelter, alleging that girls on the compound were being forced into polygamist marriages. The call turned out to be a hoax, made by a woman in Colorado, and the children were returned to their families. But police saw underage girls who were clearly pregnant — prompting the charges against Jeffs and 11 other FLDS men.

All seven sect members who have been prosecuted so far were convicted, receiving prison sentences of between six and 75 years.

New Jersey Gov. Christie Released From Hospital

New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie was released from a hospital Thursday evening following emergency treatment for asthma after having difficulty breathing. The 48-year-old governor, who uses an inhaler and is overweight, was taken to Somerset Medical Center around 10:30 a.m. Thursday. The governor, who some Republicans have been trying to persuade to run for president, was headed to a bill signing event when he felt unwell.

Republicans Put Off Vote on Debt Limit

BY DAVID ESPO
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • An intense endgame at hand, House Republican leaders put off a vote Thursday night on legislation to avert a threatened government default and slice federal spending by nearly $1 trillion. GOP leaders announced their decision after abruptly halting debate on the legislation and plunging into an intensive round of meetings with rebellious conservatives.

The decision created fresh turmoil as a divided government struggled to head off a default threatened after next Tuesday that would leave the Treasury without the funds needed to pay all its bills.

As the evening slipped by, the White House poked fun at Republicans led by Speaker John Boehner, who has become President Obama's principal antagonist in a contentious era of divided government. And Senate Democrats pledged to scuttle the measure — if it ever got to them — to force a final compromise.

Boehner summoned a string of Republican critics of the bill to his office.

Asked what he and the speaker had talked about, Rep. Jeff Flake, R-Ariz., said, "I think that's rather obvious. ... There's negotiations going on."

Based on public statements by lawmakers themselves, it appeared that five of some two dozen holdouts were from South Carolina. The state is also represented by Sen. Jim DeMint, who has solid ties to tea party groups and is a strong critic of compromising on the debt issue.

'Lone-Wolf' Terror Attack in Norway Stirs Angst in Europe

Two visions of the Norway atrocity emerge as Europe gropes for answers following massacre that killed 78.

BY KARL RITTER
and DON MELVIN
Associated Press

OSLO, Norway • Norway casts it as the isolated act of a lone-wolf terrorist whose boasts of a far-flung network of anti-Muslim warriors were the fantasies of a deranged mind.

European officials at an emergency counter-terror meeting see a continent-wide threat from right-wing extremists amid mounting Islamophobia — and warn of possible copycats.

Two visions of the Norway atrocity emerged Thursday as Europe gropes for answers following the massacre that claimed 78 lives.

The twin attacks carried out by Anders Behring Breivik have stirred questions in Europe about whether authorities have neglected the threat of right-wing extremists in their push to crack down on Islamist terror groups after 9/11.

Security officials insist they have not, and statistics from the European police agency Europol show no surge in right-wing terror.

Still, many politicians saw the Norway attacks as a violent expression of a far-right populist movement that has swept anti-Muslim parties calling for strict immigration limits into parliaments across the continent.

At an emergency meeting in Brussels, European Union counterterrorism officials warned radicals who share Breivik's ideology might be tempted to follow his lead.

Arctic Scientist Under Investigation for Misconduct

BY BECKY BOHRER
Associated Press

JUNEAU, Alaska • Just five years ago, Charles Monnett was one of the scientists whose observation that several polar bears had drowned in the Arctic Ocean helped galvanize the global warming movement.

Now, the wildlife biologist is on administrative leave and facing accusations of scientific misconduct.

The federal agency where he works told him he's being investigated for "integrity issues," but a watchdog group believes it has to do with the 2006 journal article about the bear.

The group, Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility, filed a complaint on his behalf Thursday with the agency, the U.S. Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement.

Investigators have not yet told Monnett of the specific charges or questions related to the scientific integrity of his work, said Jeff Ruch, the watchdog group's executive director.

A BOEMRE spokeswoman, Melissa Schwartz, said there was an "ongoing internal investigation" but declined to get into specifics.

Whatever the outcome, the investigation comes at a time when climate change activists and those who are skeptical about global warming are battling over the credibility of scientists' work.

Members of both sides, however, said that it was too early to comment on the case, since the agency has not yet released the details of the allegations against him.

Myron Ebell, of the Competitive Enterprise Institute, said the case reinforces the group's position that people should be more skeptical about the work of climate change scientists.

Even if every scientist is objective, "what we're being asked to do is turn our economy around and spend trillions and trillions of dollars on the basis of" climate change claims, he said.

Libyan Rebels Say Chief Dies in Ambush

Earlier report of his arrest on suspicion of lingering loyalty to Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi raises questions about fate of Gen. Abdul Fatah Younis.

BY DAVID ZUCCHINO
Los Angeles Times

BENGHAZI, Libya • The chief of staff for rebel forces fighting to overthrow Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi was ambushed and killed Thursday, according to the rebels' leadership council.

In a terse announcement that left many questions unanswered, the president of the council said Gen. Abdul Fatah Younis and two other commanders were killed as they returned from the eastern front near Port Brega to the de facto rebel capital in Benghazi.

Reading haltingly from a brief communique, Mustafa Abdul Jalil, president of the Transitional National Council, seemed to blame pro-Gadhafi assassins but did not specifically say they had been sent by the regime. Jalil refused to take questions from reporters.

Jalil did not address reports that Younis was summoned to Benghazi for questioning by the rebel leadership on suspicion of lingering loyalties to Gadhafi. One rebel loyalist in Benghazi with close ties to the council said Younis was to be "interrogated" Thursday by the council about alleged contacts with government forces.

The AP quoted a rebel military spokesman as saying rebel security officers arrested Younis and two aides early Thursday at their operations room at the eastern front. The website of the Arab satellite channel Al-Jazeera reported that Younis had been arrested by the rebel council Thursday morning.

Those reports did not explain how Younis was killed by purported government assassins if he was in rebel custody.

Jalil said Younis had been summoned by a rebel judicial committee to "discuss military matters" and was killed on his way to Benghazi. His body had not been recovered, he said.

Jalil said one assassin was captured, but the others escaped. A rebel colonel and a major also were killed in the ambush, according to Jalil.

Younis was mistrusted by many rebel fighters because of his close, 40-year association with Gadhafi. He took part in the 1969 coup that brought Gadhafi to power and served as Gadhafi's interior minister and head of special forces.

Younis defected to the rebels in February, only to get caught in a fierce rivalry with another general for command of rebel forces.

Younis' death was common knowledge on the streets by midday Thursday. Yet it took the rebel council until after 10 p.m. to cobble together a short statement announcing what was described as an ambush.

Drug Maker J&J Cuts Maximum Tylenol Dose

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) • Johnson & Johnson said Thursday that it's reducing the maximum daily dose of its Extra Strength Tylenol pain reliever to lower risk of accidental overdose from acetaminophen, its active ingredient and the top cause of liver failure.

The company's McNeil Consumer Healthcare Division said the change affects Extra Strength Tylenol sold in the U.S.

Starting sometime this fall, labels on Extra Strength Tylenol packages will now list the maximum daily dose as six pills, or a total of 3,000 milligrams, down from eight pills a day, or 4,000 milligrams. Next year, McNeil will also reduce the maximum daily dose of Regular Strength Tylenol and other adult pain relievers containing acetaminophen, the most widely used pain killer in the country.

Besides Tylenol, acetaminophen is the active ingredient in the prescription painkillers Percocet and Vicodin and in some nonprescription pain relievers. It's found in thousands of medicines taken for headaches, fever, sore throats and chronic pain.

But people taking multiple medicines at once don't always realize how much acetaminophen they are ingesting, partly because prescription drug labels often list it under the abbreviation "APAP."

WASHINGTON • The "golden years" may lose some luster for many baby boomers worried about the financial pressures that come with age.

Many of the nation's 77 million boomers are worried about being able to pay their medical bills as they get older, a new poll finds. The concern is so deep that it outpaces worries about facing a major illness or disease, dying, or losing the ability to do favorite activities.

Another major concern among the boomers: losing their financial independence.

The struggling economy, a longer life expectancy, ever-increasing health care costs and challenges facing

Social Security are putting added pressure on the boomers, those born between 1946 and 1964.

According to the AP-LifeGoesStrong.com poll, 43 percent of boomers polled said they were "very" or "extremely" worried about being able to pay for their medical costs, including long-term care. Almost the same number, 41 percent, said losing their financial independence was a big concern.

"I always say I am going to work until I'm in the ground," said Ellie Krall of Manalapan, N.J., one of the boomers polled. "I don't see myself being able to fully retire like people were able to do years ago."

Krall, 50, manager of an orthopedic office and mother of an 18-year-old son in college, said she's worried about paying for health care costs down the road and isn't banking on Social Security.

The oldest boomers are turning 65 this year, but it's the younger ones like Krall who might be feeling more apprehension.

"Boomers are not all created equal," says Olivia Mitchell, professor at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and executive director of the Pension Research Council.

Many older boomers still have a defined benefit pension plan, probably some decent retiree medical insurance and Social Security, said Mitchell, a boomer herself who has studied pensions and retirement extensively.

"The youngest boomers

— the people who were born in the 60s — face more uncertainty about their pensions, their Social Security, their housing and their medical care," Mitchell said.

Her advice: "Push your retirement back two or three or five years if you can. As long as you are still working then you're not drawing down on your nest egg," Mitchell said in an AP interview. "What most people don't realize is how expensive it is to live in retirement."

Many people in their late 60s, and some into their 70s, are still working. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 29.1 percent of people aged 65 to 69 worked at least part-time last year. And almost 7 percent of people aged 75 or older were employed in 2010.

Street Battles in Somali Capital Amid Famine Aid

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) • African Union troops fought house-to-house battles with militants Thursday to clear space for aid groups bringing in food supplies after intelligence reports showed insurgents preparing for a possible attack on squalid camps of famine refugees.

Heavy fighting erupted on the line of control between the government side and territory held by al-Shabab, Somalia's dominant militant group.

At least six people were killed. The AU troops also paid a heavy price, with one official saying 19 were wounded, and some of them were put on an ambulance jet bound for Kenya.

Somalia's famine is unfolding in the middle of a war zone, greatly complicating international efforts to prevent a wave of death. Some 2.2 million people live in an inaccessible famine zone controlled by the al-Qaida-linked al-Shabab.

Thursday's house-to-house fighting was only 2½ miles from the nearest famine refugee camp, said Lt. Col. Paddy Ankunda, spokesman for the African Union peacekeeping force.

The offensive, he said, was to ensure the city streets are safe for aid groups to get humanitarian supplies to the more than 20,000 famine refugees that have arrived in Mogadishu this month alone.

"The agencies have been trying to deliver. Unfortunately, al-Shabab has been bent on ensuring this aid does not reach the people," Ankunda said. "This operation is about the delivery of humanitarian aid."

quantity of ammunition, weapons and a bomb inside a backpack."

Upon questioning, the alert says, he admitted planning an attack on Fort Hood.

Officials have not offered details about Abdo's possible intentions. The infantry soldier from Fort Campbell, Ky., whose hometown is Garland, Texas, applied for conscientious objector status last year. A military review board recommended this spring that he be separated from the Army.

The discharge was delayed after Abdo was charged with possessing child pornography. Fort Campbell civilian spokesman Bob Jenkins said Abdo "was fully aware that he was being investigated for possessing child pornography since November 2010." An Article 32 military hearing last month recommended he be court-martialed; he went absent without leave during the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

Abdo told an AP reporter a week later that he was concerned about his safety and had considered purchasing a gun for protection, but had not yet done so.

The military's criminal investigation division, along with the federal Joint Terrorism Task Force, also investigated Abdo after he was flagged for making unspecified anti-American comments while taking a language class, according to a U.S. official briefed on the investigation.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the investigation is ongoing, said neither the military nor the task force discovered anything at the time to indicate Abdo was planning an attack.

Abdo's arrest came after the owners of a local gun store — the same store where the 2009 Fort Hood shootings suspect Maj. Nidal Hasan bought a pistol used in the attack — called police, the Army's alert said.

Store clerk Greg Ebert said the man arrived at Guns Galore LLC by taxi Tuesday and bought 6 pounds of smokeless gunpowder, three boxes of shotgun ammunition and a magazine for a semi-automatic pistol, paying about $250. Ebert said he became concerned when the man asked questions indicating he didn't know much about the items.

"(We) felt uncomfortable with his overall demeanor and the fact he didn't know what the hell he was buying," Ebert said. "I thought it prudent to contact the local authorities, which I did."

Norway

"Clearly, one major risk is that somebody may actually try to mount a similar attack as a copycat attack or as a way of showing support," said Tim Jones, principal adviser to the EU's counterterrorism coordinator. In September, EU interior ministers are to meet to discuss responses to the Norway massacre.

Across Europe, far-right groups were quick to distance themselves from the Norway attacker. Geert Wilders of the Netherlands' right-wing Party for Freedom tweeted: "Terrible attack in Oslo, many innocent victims of violent, sick mind."

But some political leaders in Holland, which like Norway has grappled with an increasingly fractious debate about Muslim integration, said firebrand anti-Islamic rhetoric can fire the mind of a man like Breivik, who referred to Wilders repeatedly in his sprawling manifesto.

"Wilders has now distanced himself," said Dutch Labor Party head Job Cohen. "But I think it's good to realize that your words do have an effect — and that goes for all politicians, including Wilders. They can influence people and play a role in all kinds of ways."

Ahead of Thursday's emergency counter-terror meeting, EU Home Affairs Commissioner Cecilia Malmstrom spoke of a "huge lack of political leadership" in allowing right-wing sentiment to bleed into mainstream society.

"Blaming Islam or immigration for all sorts of problems has become normal," Malmstrom told the Brussels-based European Voice newspaper. She cited a "permissive climate" in which such views "are no longer seen as extreme."

German Interior Minister Hans-Peter Friedrich said

Germany's intelligence agencies had far-right groups under "intensive" surveillance, but there was a greater risk in extremists like Breivik who operate alone and under the radar.

"Among the right extremists, we know of some who could be dangerous. But they're not the problem — those who we have an eye on — but rather those who radicalize in secret," he told the Rheinische Post.

European security officials, on high alert following the July 22 attacks against Norway's government and a Labor Party youth camp, say no information has emerged to support Breivik's claim of belonging to a shadowy group of modern-day crusaders against Islam, with cells all over Europe.

The head of Norwegian security service PST said the 32-year-old Breivik, most likely did it all on his own — concocting, planning, and executing the massacre with near-total precision.

OBITUARIES

Audine 'Dee' Duncan

Aug. 19, 1922-July 27, 2011

Audine "Dee" Duncan, 88, of Twin Falls, Idaho, passed away Wednesday, July 27, 2011, at home surrounded by her loving family.

Dee was born in Elk Falls, Kan., on Aug. 19, 1922. She was the youngest of six children. Her family moved from Kansas to Springfield, Mo., when Dee was young and later to Kennesaw, Neb., where Dee attended grade school and high school. She married her first husband, Arnie Finnigsmier, on July 6, 1940, shortly after finishing high school. He was killed in a train-car accident. Dee, at 27, was a widow with three young children, Gary, Karole and Grant. While studying to be a beautician, Dee lived in Twin Falls.

On June 9, 1951, Dee married Ray Duncan, and they were blessed with two additional children, Sherry and Kim. Dee belonged to a group called "Gabby Girdles" and was a Lady Elk. Members of the Elks group were instrumental in introducing Dee to Ray. Their married life started on a farm in Jerome. After the farm was sold, Ray and Dee lived in various places: Wendell, Idaho; Eugene, Ore.; and Florence, Ore. After retirement, Ray and Dee moved to Florence, Ore., and then back to Eugene, Ore. About five years after Ray's death, Dee returned to Idaho to live out her life at Wynwood Assisted Living in Twin Falls, where she made several good friendships.

Dee was preceded in death by her entire immediate family. She is survived by Gary and Janice Duncan of Swan Valley, Idaho; Karole and Fred Austin of Bend, Ore.; Grant Duncan of Shoup, Idaho; Sherry and Bill Pappert of North Pole, Alaska; and Kim and Patti Duncan of Eugene, Ore. Dee has eight grandchildren, Lisa Inman, Destry Duncan, Sean Austin, Julie Lemieux, Lori Richardson, Tami Fleming, Greg Duncan and Sam Duncan. In addition, she has 10 great-grandchildren.

Per Dee's request, there will be no service. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests a contribution may be made in Dee's name to the charity of your choice.

Rosalie Adams Cheney

April 3, 1917-July 21, 2011

GOODING • Rosalie Adams Cheney, 94, died on July 21, 2011, in Sandy, Utah.

Rosalie was born April 3, 1917, in American Falls, Idaho, to John and Ella Abercrombie. She married Dee Adams of Manard, Idaho, in 1936. To this union, two children were born, Ronnie and Deann. Dee passed away in Gooding in 1979.

Rosalie lived in Gooding many years; she was very talented and creative. For many years, she taught ceramics and china painting and porcelain doll making in her popular shop, "Rosalie's Ceramics," in Gooding. She loved oil painting as well. She had a natural gift for music, beginning with the harmonica, accordion and then her Hammond organ and piano. She enjoyed her garden and loved to work outside. Mom loved the Lord all her life and is now with Him in heaven.

Rosalie is survived by her two daughters, Ronnie Adams of Sumter, S.C., and Deann Coble of Sandy, Utah; eight grandchildren; 26 great-grandchildren; 10 great-great-grandchildren; and one brother, John Abercrombie of Roseberg, Ore.

A visitation for family and friends will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 2, 2011, at Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. A graveside service will follow at 11 a.m. at the Elmwood Cemetery in Gooding.

Arrangements are under the direction of Demaray Funeral Service, Gooding Chapel. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting the obituary link at www.demarayfuneralservice.com.

Jennie D. Ross

Nov. 17, 1925-July 26, 2011

BURLEY • Jennie Frances Dotson Ross, age 85, of Burley, passed away Tuesday, July 26, 2011, at her home.

She was born Nov. 17, 1925, in Burley, Idaho, to Frank B. Dotson, born and raised in Summerville, W.Va., and Caroline M. (Horton) Dotson, born in Illinois and raised in Iowa. Jennie completed her elementary and secondary education in Burley, graduating from Burley High School in 1943. From 1943 to 1945, Jennie attended Albion State Normal School, secured her elementary teaching credentials and entered public education in Jerome in 1945 — a professional path she followed until retirement in the mid 1980s. In 1967, Jennie received a bachelor of arts degree from Idaho State University.

On Feb. 17, 1946, she married Elmer Wesley Ross at the First Christian Church in Burley and together, they began farming on the "Appleton Heights Ranch" just a few miles west of Jerome. At the time of her death, they were married 65 years.

Jennie returned to Burley with her husband, Wesley and family, in the summer of 1961, and purchased the rental real estate business from her father and mother upon their retirement. Jennie continued her teaching career in Cassia County during the many years they operated the rental real estate business and the Starlite Motel. Jennie enjoyed quilting, gardening, knitting, writing and her grandchildren.

She is survived by her husband, Wesley Ross of Burley (93); her children, Allan (Mary) Ross of Turner, Ore., Darrell (Marcia) Ross of Burley, Carolyn (Wayne) Bell of Eagle Point, Ore., Norman (Sharon) Ross of Houston, Texas, and Gordon (JoAnn) Ross of San Antonio, Texas. She was preceded in death by her sons, Lyle and Calvin; and a grandson, Daniel. Calvin's wife, Gayle, survives, as well as 21 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Jennie, a faithful Christian, was active in the First Christian Church of Burley, and later the Mountain View Assembly of God Church of Burley, and finally the Rupert Assembly of God Church. Today, Jennie is with the Lord Jesus Christ — the promise and hope of the Christian faith.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, July 30, at the Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St. in Burley, where friends and family may call from 1 until 2:15 p.m. Burial will be in the Paul Cemetery.

Louise Mildred (McClain) Essary

April 26, 1926-July 27, 2011

Louise Mildred (McClain) Essary, our beloved mother and grandmother, was lifted into the presence of her blessed Lord and Savior on Wednesday, July 27, 2011.

Louise was born April 26, 1926, in Pocatello, Idaho, to Clyde McClain Sr. and Lucille McClain Rowell. Louise lived in California her first 17 years. Louise married John Hardy Essary Jr. on Jan. 25, 1944. Her husband was drafted for World War II three days after their marriage. When her husband came home from the war, they moved to his home state of Alabama. This is where their first daughter, Jade Avon Essary Boruff, was born. Eighteen months later, Louise, John and Jade packed all their possessions they could get into their car and left for Twin Falls, Idaho. This is where their second daughter, Marlene Ann Essary Quesnell, was born.

For many years, Louise worked the midnight shift at Twin Falls Clinic. She worked this shift so her two daughters would never be home without one parent. Louise devoted her entire life to Jesus and nurturing and loving her children and husband. Louise always gave a helping hand to those in need. Throughout her life, she welcomed numerous families into her home. Louise was recognized for baking the best pies. She enjoyed cooking and entertaining hundreds at her table, using linens, crystal and china. She enjoyed gardening, growing beautiful begonias and roses. Her quiet suffering never went unrecognized. Louise and John had been members of the Bethel Temple Apostolic Church of Twin Falls for 60 years, sitting in the same pew. God was first in her life. She lived by God's word and the Bible was the only book she read.

We will miss her loving touch and the whispers of her voice but the sight of her precious face and her God-filled spirit will carry us all. Fly with the angels, Mama, you are truly free at last. Your destination was heaven and you are there with Daddy.

She was preceded in death by her husband of 63 years, John Hardy Essary Jr.; her parents; her sister and two sons-in-law. Survivors include her daughters, Jade Avon Boruff of Ketchum and Marlene Ann Quesnell of Twin Falls; seven grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; one brother; numerous cousins, nephews and nieces; her lifelong friend, Beatrice Bircheat; and friends, Elaine Hine and Helen Lassiter.

The funeral for Louise will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, July 30, at the Bethel Temple Apostolic Church of Twin Falls, 929 Hankins Road. Arrangements have been entrusted to White Mortuary "Chapel by the Park."

"Dearest Mother, You are at peace. Your lifelong sacrifices will never be forgotten. I am an orphan and you will forever live within the deepest part of my heart. I loved and adored you. Bye. I will be with you again."

Catherine Schmidt Stewart

Sept. 25, 1920-July 26, 2011

KIMBERLY • Catherine Schmidt Stewart passed away Tuesday, July 26, 2011, in Kimberly, Idaho, where she was born to William C. and Ollie Fry Schmidt on Sept. 25, 1920.

She graduated from Kimberly High School in 1938 and worked at J.C. Penney Company in the clothing alterations department. On Aug. 30, 1920, Catherine married F. Raymond Stewart and, as a farmer's wife, she painted, created prize-winning ceramics, made and sold leather goods, taught sewing and raised gladiolus. Her talents were shared through 4-H, Kim-Sen Extension Homemakers Club, Twin Falls Garden Club and the Idaho Department Store Gift Wrap Service.

Catherine is survived by her sister, Frances (Jack) Butler of Kimberly; niece, Sonnie (Ray) Strolberg; nephews, David (Shelly) Butler, Bryce Butler, Darrell (Cindy) Schmidt, Kelvin Schmidt and Royal (Thu)

Hardy. She was preceded in death by her husband, Ray Stewart; brothers, Lee Schmidt and Jack (Luella) Schmidt; infant sister; and a nephew, Brian (Betty) Schmidt.

The family thanks the very caring and professional staff at Oak Creek Rehabilitation Center of Kimberly and Mountain View Center for Geriatric Psychiatry, as well as Dr. Mary Beth Curtis and her nurse, Kaitlyn.

A graveside service will be conducted at 11 a.m. Monday, Aug. 1, at Sunset Memorial Park, with the Rev. Gary Ross of the Kimberly Crossroads Methodist Church officiating, followed by a hospitality hour at Rosenau Community Room, 2826 Addison Ave. E. in Twin Falls. Memorials may be made to the Idaho Youth Ranch or to a charity of the donor's choice.

Family and friends may share their remembrances at www.rosenaufuneralhome.com.

Cynthia Jean Condie

July 13, 1955-July 27, 2011

COEUR D'ALENE • Cynthia Jean Condie, age 56, died July 27, 2011, in Coeur d'Alene.

Cindy was born in Boise, Idaho, on July 13, 1955. She is the daughter of Ron and Norma Cunningham from Burley, Idaho.

She is survived by her husband, Elden Condie; daughter, Jackie Reichert of Spokane; granddaughter, Rachelle Marie (Shelly); stepsons, Travis Condie and Tyson Condie; and stepdaughter, Kristen Condie. She is also survived by her mom, Norma of Burley; her sister, Gaylene and Gary Bondelid of Twin Falls; brother, Greg and Amy Cunningham of Boise; sister, Janice and Scott Naylor of Burley; and 16 nieces and nephews. Cindy was preceded in death by her father, Ron in 2004; and a great-nephew, Zachary Reiger.

Cindy grew up in Burley, where she graduated from high school in 1973. She was married to Bill Anderson from 1973 to 1986 and lived in Willow Creek, Idaho. They had one daughter, Jacqueline Ann Anderson. In 1990, Cindy moved to Coeur d'Allene. Her career was always in banking. Cindy married Elden Condie on June 15, 1996, and lived with him in Coeur d'Alene till the time of her passing.

Cindy will be missed beyond words by all her friends and family. Cindy could light up a room with just her presence and always had the warmest hug for everyone. Everyone that came in contact felt her love. She was truly a beautiful person inside and out and made you want to be a better person. We will miss her every day.

Visitation will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday, July 30, 2011, at Yates Funeral Home, Coeur d'Alene Chapel. The funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 31, at the Coeur d'Alene Wedding Chapel on Seventh and Wallace in Coeur d'Alene. A celebration of Cindy's life will be held at the chapel immediately after the service.

Yates Funeral Homes has been entrusted with the care of final arrangements. Please visit Cindy's memorial and sign her online guestbook at www.yatesfuneralhomes.com.

Max Moore

Oct. 7, 1929-July 22, 2011

JEROME • Max Moore, lifetime Jerome resident, passed away Friday, July 22, 2011, after suffering a stroke.

Born in Jerome on Oct. 7, 1929, to Joe and Gussie Moore, Max attended Jerome schools and then spent two years in the Army stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash. Upon returning to Idaho, he married Irene Hansen of Shoshone. Max worked selling auto parts in Twin Falls and Jerome and was later the "M" in "V&M Partsland" in Jerome. Max and Irene traveled extensively and loved to spend time with their family. They both enjoyed golf.

Max was preceded in death by his wife of 50 years, his parents, his 14 brothers and sisters, and several nieces and nephews. He will be greatly missed by his surviving four children, Katherine of Jerome, David (Sen) of Twin Falls, Dan (Kelly) of Twin Falls and Maxine (Mike) of Jerome; six grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Cremation was performed by Parke's Magic Valley Funeral Home in Twin Falls. Per Max's request, there will be no service.

THE MARKET AT A GLANCE

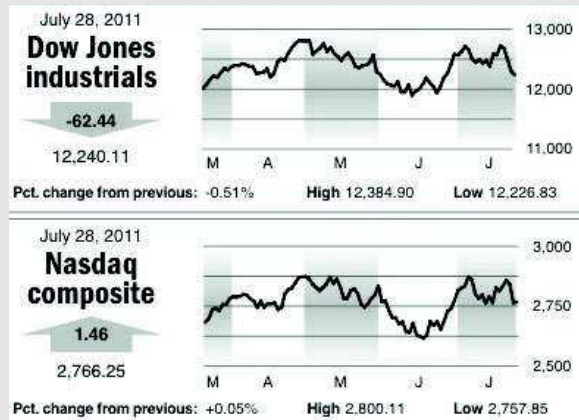

NEW YORK (AP) • A late sell-off wiped out the stock market's gains Thursday as investors worried that a bill headed for a vote in the House of Representatives would fail to break a stalemate over raising the country's debt limit.

The market was up for much of the day but started to sink in the last half-hour of trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 62.44 points, or 0.5 percent, to close at 12,240.11.

The Standard & Poor's 500 fell 4.22, or 0.3 percent, to 1,300.67.

The Nasdaq composite index edged up 1.46, or 0.1 percent, to 2,766.25

Kauffman Completes UMSL Training Program

The University of Missouri - St. Louis awarded the Chancellor's Certificate in Public Administration: Government Finance Officer to Debbie Kauffman, treasurer of Twin Falls County.

To qualify for the certification, Kauffman attended about 21 hours of public administration training through UMSL's program in Public Policy Administration.

The Chancellor's Certificate Program gives county finance professionals an opportunity to further their education and learn how to more efficiently administer the duties of their offices.

$3.33 billion

Samsung's net profit slid 18 percent in the second quarter as weakness in semiconductors and liquid crystal displays countered the electronics giant's growing strength in smartphones. Samsung, the world's biggest manufacturer of memory chips, LCDs and flat screen televisions, earned $3.33 billion in the three months ended June 30, it said Friday in a regulatory filing. Samsung earned 4.28 trillion won the same period last year.

Wireless Auction to Cut U.S. Debt?

WASHINGTON (AP) • The debt ceiling battle could produce an unlikely winner: smartphone users.

Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid's current plan would direct the Federal Communications Commission to auction off highly valuable radio spectrum to wireless carriers desperate for more airwaves. Companies such as AT&T and T-Mobile USA say they need more capacity to keep up as their customers increasingly use iPhones, tablets and other portable devices to handle mobile applications, online video and other bandwidth-hungry services.

The plan could generate critical revenue for a government spending beyond its means. Congressional budget officials estimate the auctions would raise $13.1 billion for deficit reduction.

Reid's proposal would also be a big victory for public safety officials: It would set aside airwaves and money for the construction of a nationwide wireless broadband network that would let police officers, firefighters and emergency medical workers communicate across agencies and jurisdictions.

"Spectrum auctions are a win-win-win," said Tim Doyle, a spokesman for the Consumers Electronics Association.

But the proposal still faces significant hurdles. For one thing, a competing debt ceiling plan from House Speaker John Boehner contains nothing on wireless spectrum auctions.

States Won't Give Higher Rates to Wind

Despite protest, nine projects proposed for the area won't be eligible to receive the state's favorable published rates for more of the power they planned to produce.

TIMES-NEWS

A handful of Idaho wind energy developers will have to negotiate how much they'll be paid for the energy they produce after state regulators said again that they'll offer special rates to only the smallest producers.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission on Wednesday reaffirmed four June 8 orders stating that it won't extend to 14 proposed projects its previously larger cap on the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act rates that created a favorable climate for the development of wind energy in Idaho. Contracts for the proposals — including nine in the Mini-Cassia area — became effective on or after the deadline for the expanded rate cap expired, the PUC said in a Wednesday release.

The state is required to determine and publish the special rate for projects that develop up to 100 kilowatts. During the state's wind industry infancy, the PUC opted to extend the rate to projects that produce up to 10 megawatts — 100 times the mandated cap — through Dec. 14, 2010. The rate is based on the price of natural gas, and pays qualifying wind and solar producers based on the cost a purchasing utility — Idaho Power, Areva and Rocky Mountain Power in the Gem State — avoids by not having to generate or buy power from elsewhere.

Idaho's regulated electric utilities petitioned the PUC last November to reduce the energy cap it offered, claiming that large Idaho wind projects were breaking themselves into smaller 10 MW projects in order to take advantage of PURPA rates that were higher than what they could negotiate with the utilities.

The utilities claimed the increased cap forced them into buying power they don't need at rates that aren't reasonable for their customers.

In June, the Northwest and Intermountain Power Producers Coalition argued that the 10 MW cap has worked "remarkably well for Idaho" and called its loss "unfortunate."

But the proposed Cotterel project near Burley represents the type of development the utilities railed against. Shell-owned Cotterel WindEnergy Center initially responded to a 2009 Idaho Power bid request as one large 150 MW project, according to the PUC. But after an agreement wasn't reached, it was divided into five 10 MW projects, for which Cotterel submitted five PURPA contracts scheduled to start in 2014.

Under the 10 MW cap, the projects' projected earnings stretched to $716.4 million over 20 years.

MAGIC VALLEY BRIEF

Shakin' Not Stirred Plays Twin Falls. Boise-based Americana band Shakin' Not Stirred will play for the Magic Valley Arts Council's concert and wine tasting on Saturday.

It's set for 7 p.m. at the Twin Falls Center for the Arts' outdoor stage and plaza. Tickets are $20 at the center or at 734-2787.

Shakin' Not Stirred delivers swing, jazz, folk and soulful homegrown tunes, and their three-part harmonies cook.

The band features Michelle Coleman on guitar and vocals, Dominique Tardif on mandolin and vocals, Daniel Reed on bass and vocals, Josh Bogle on lead guitar and vocals, Andy Pendle on dobro and lead guitar and Tom Tompkins on electric violin.

Shakin' Not Stirred has performed with Carrie Rodriguez, David Grisman and Bearfoot. In 2010, the band headlined the Governor's Arts Awards.

Cold Springs Winery and Magic Valley Distributing will provide tasting of local, European and California wines.

S.V. Symphony Opens Season of Free Concerts

BY KAREN BOSSICK
For the Times-News

SUN VALLEY • During the past two years the Sun Valley Summer Symphony's focus has been on musical superstars like the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, Itzhak Perlman and Garth Brooks.

This year, the spotlight is back on the orchestra — with large orchestral works and even an all-orchestral pops concert on Aug. 6 that will feature the music of John Denver and The Mamas & the Papas. The symphony's season of free concerts starts Monday at the Sun Valley Pavilion, where some listeners snag seats under the Pavilion's roof, and others brings picnics to the lawn behind.

"The Aug. 16 finale — Mahler's 'First Symphony' — will be big and explosive and also an emotionally charged way to end the season," said the symphony's executive director, Jennifer Teisinger.

That's not to say the symphony won't have big names this year.

Certainly, the biggest takes the form of a tiny 11-year-old named Jackie Evancho, who has been burning up the talk show circuit, appearing on "The Tonight Show" and even "20/20," where she was described as a superhero with a powerhouse voice.

Evancho will kick off her orchestra tour with a Sun Valley Summer Symphony appearance, at Sunday's 6:30 p.m. benefit for the symphony. She will appear with two other up-and-coming guest artists — violinist Ryu Goto, whose sister Midori has performed with the symphony, and jazz pianist Alfredo Rodriguez, who was discovered and subsequently promoted by Quincy Jones.

Sunday's show is the only concert for which there is a fee; Please see SYMPHONY, E2

Symphony Season

The Sun Valley Summer Symphony begins Monday and continues through Aug. 16. The free concerts begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Sun Valley Pavilion, with the exception of the Family Concert focusing on percussion, which starts at 2 p.m. Aug. 13. A big screen will be set up on the lawn outside the Pavilion for symphony fans who bring picnics. Pre-concert talks will be held at 4 p.m. on Aug. 4, 7 and 8 in the Sun Valley Opera House. For details, go to svsummersymphony.org.

A PASSION FOR FASHION

Twin Falls native Bryce Black is on this season's "Project Runway." You can expect edgy fashions from the Portland designer.

BY MELISSA DAVLIN
mdavlin@magicvalley.com

Bryce Black's fashion design career started when he was a 6-year-old in Twin Falls.

His sister, Alyssa Black, could never find clothes for her Barbies. So Bryce stepped up and made gowns from toilet paper and socks. The clothes were "very fashionable and fitted well," recalled his mother, Cindy Shotswell of Jerome.

Since then, Bryce has moved up in the fashion industry. The 26-year-old Portland, Ore., resident is competing on season nine of fashion reality show "Project Runway," which debuted last night.

Bryce grew up in Twin Falls and graduated from Twin Falls High School before moving on to the The Art Institute of Portland, where he received a degree in apparel design. He took classes at Portland Sewing School, where he created designs for owner Sharon Blair's clothing line, Studio SKB.

At the studio's April fashion show, Bryce's line stood out. One of his creations did double-duty as a cape and skirt. When the model was done with her first walk, Blair said, Bryce flipped the creation to a completely different look, and the model walked again.

"This was one of the first times I had ever seen people stand up and applaud at a fashion show," Blair said in a Tuesday phone interview.

Bryce's designs are modern and edgy — one picture from his portfolio features one-legged jeans, and another shows an asymmetrical black dress with black feathers on the skirt.

Shotswell said her son has always had a keen fashion sense.

"He was always very fashion conscious and always giving Please see PASSION, E2

Meet Bryce Black

The Times-News caught up with Twin Falls native and Project Runway contestant Bryce Black. Here's what he had to say about fashion, Idaho and stretch denim:

What sort of design did you do in school?

Not much, Black said. "I didn't really think of fashion as a career until I was like 17, and then I didn't really act on it until I was 21," he said in a Thursday phone interview. He would help with costumes, but didn't learn how to sew until he moved to Portland.

How much is your style influenced by your Idaho upbringing?

Buckin' Up Some Fun

A Gooding bar and restaurant has a new recipe for drawing crowds: free Wednesday-night rodeo action all summer.

GOODING • With the sound of metal clanging on metal, a rope is pulled and the chute doors open. A bull explodes into the arena set up in the outdoor lot adjacent to Rowdy's, twisting and convulsing in midair, doing its darndest to buck Charles Bridges III off its back.

A whirlwind of cattle hide and angry snorts ensues. Within seconds the winded Bridges, a Twin Falls 17-year-old, sits wounded on the ground. With a dislocated shoulder, he is assisted over the fence, and the bull leaves the arena, its dignity intact.

"I got lucky," Bridges says just moments after his shoulder is popped back into place.

people fashion advice that was really appreciated and right on target,” Shotswell said. Blair wasn’t surprised that Bryce made it to “Project Runway,” which pits up-and-coming designers against each other in competitions where they create clothes with specified materials and themes. One week, the designers might make clothes from recycled materials, and the next week, they could compete to create a dress for a celebrity. A designer is eliminated each week, and the winner receives $100,000 to start his or her own line and a photo spread in Marie Claire magazine. No matter how the show turns out, this won’t be the last you see of Bryce, Blair said. “I just know that he’s going to have a great future in the apparel industry,” she said.

Black

“A lot, actually. I still work with denim and, you know, knits and t-shirt knits.” Other fabrics you’ll find in his arsenal: Flannel and leather.

What is your signature? Black said he tends to use everyday fabrics in surprising ways. One of his dresses has a bodice made of stretch denim and a skirt of black feathers. “It’s like this really casual fabric you wear every day, but in this high fashion avant garde way,” he said.

Why did you decide to try out for Project Runway? “I had had a few instructors and friends tell me that I should just try out,” said

Black, who graduated from the Art Institute of Portland on March 25. He hopes getting his name out there will help his career.

How much support have you had from Idaho fans? Tons, Black said. Former coworkers, classmates and distant relatives have all rallied behind him. “Half of Idaho is rooting for me,” he said.

Any style tips for Magic Valley residents? “If somebody really wants to start dressing a little more fashionable, I would say do your research.” Get online and find looks you like, then figure out how to do them for cheaper. “You can always go find what they’re doing for less,” he said.

Rowdy’s

For Bridges, who rides with the Canyon Ridge High School rodeo team, constant risk is part of the sport. For spectators at the Rowdy’s bar on Wednesday nights, the up-close setting means seeing everything — from the sweat dripping off cowboys after a rough ride, to the tending of injuries, to the inevitable spray of dirt from fighting bulls pawing the ground.

The weekly roundup isn’t competitive, it’s not tied to an association circuit and there’s no big paycheck awarded during last call. But cowboys are drawn to an enthusiastic pen of fresh bulls and an adoring crowd, and there’s no admission fee to take in the show.

“People will spend, but they want to be entertained,” said Stacey Parks, a certified public accountant who owns the Gooding bar and restaurant with partner Johnny Urrutia, a local entertainer, Realtor and former rodeo man of Gooding. “I’ve owned the bar for 16 years but had leased to several parties over the years, but about two years ago took it back over and remodeled it. We wanted to do something different, offer something unique and fun, and this fit the bill.”

The bull riding was Urrutia’s idea, Parks said. “I’m the conservative one,” Parks said, laughing. “At first I thought he was crazy. The idea of getting bulls in and preparing a riding area, keeping the crowd safe, I didn’t know how we would pull it off.”

But they did. Now in their second year, the Wednesday-night rodeos are increasingly popular. Many people come earlier than the 7 p.m. start to have dinner before heading out the side door for the real action.

Every week, the crowd can expect to watch about 10 cowboys ride.

“People have come from all over to see what this is all about,” Parks said. “I have people calling all week to find out who is coming to ride and when it is. It’s become our mainstay.”

Parks and Urrutia recently added canvas shading and wooden benches throughout the dusty lot. Rock and country music set the partying tone while waitresses in black tank tops and embellished designer jeans keep the food and drink coming.

“It’s a lot of fun,” said Lori Nebeker of Gooding. “The social atmosphere is great, and it’s something different to do. My husband used to ride, and so it kind of takes us back. It’s just a great time.”

The cowboys get a kick out of the close quarters, too.

“You ride with so much adrenaline when you can see and hear the crowd cheering for you,” said Cody Brooks, 17, of Richfield. “This setup is unique because at other rodeos you’re far away and you don’t really see much or hear much from the arena. But here you see everything.”

Other highlights of this year’s season, which begins Monday with symphony music director Alasdair Neale conducting:

The Aug. 7 concert will feature pianist Yefim Bronfman, considered one of the most talented virtuoso pianists playing today. He will perform Prokofiev’s “Second Piano Concerto.”

On Aug. 11, Quartetto Gelato will present a mix of romantic tenor arias and gypsy music with the symphony in a concert that will feature a world accordion champion, a banjo and a mandolin.

“It’s an evening of Italian music, which we don’t often do as most Italian music is operatic.” Teisinger said.

On Aug. 12 violinist Vadim

Gluzman will perform Korngold’s “Violin Concerto.”

“He played a Tchaikovsky piece in 2009, and he was so fantastic that the audience gave him a standing ovation after the first movement.” Teisinger said.

Another new thing this year is a collaboration between the symphony, the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and The Community Library focusing on minimalism.

The center is bringing in some pieces of art by Carl Andre, Sol LeWitt, Brice Marden and Agnes Martin that normally wouldn’t be seen outside museums for a new exhibition titled “The Literal Line: Minimalism Then and Now,” said Kristin Poole, the center’s co-director.

The symphony will play John Adams’ “The Chairman Dances” on Aug. 4 and Nico Muhly’s “Wish You Were Here” on Aug. 7.

And at 6 p.m. Aug. 9, The Community Library will host art critic and curator Robert Storr, whom Poole describes as “smart and funny,” to address how we see minimalism in our society. His talk will be followed at 6 p.m. Sept. 1 with a lecture on minimalism in architecture by Aaron Betsky.

SUZY BOGGUSS
AMERICAN FOLK SONGBOOK
ON TOUR

Ms. Bogguss reached the Top 15 in 1989 with Cross My Broken Heart and in 1991 with a duet with Lee Greenwood, Hopelessly Yours. The 1991 Platinum album Aces spawned three Top 10 hits—Outbound Plane, Aces and Letting Go. In 1993, Bogguss climbed to No. 2 with John Hiatt’s Drive South, followed by the Top 5 hits, Just Like the Weather and Hey Cinderella. Her albums “Voices in the Wind” and “Something Up My Sleeve” struck gold in 1992 and 1993.

If roaring speed makes your heart race, there's only one place to be on Saturday.

On a closed-off stretch of Idaho Highway 75, Sun Valley Road Rally drivers will push their cars to the limit, and police radar guns will be determining top-speed honors — not dispensing tickets. You can meet the drivers, then watch from the grandstands as they put their cars to the test.

The best deal in entertainment: That's definitely the Sun Valley Summer Symphony's season of free concerts. The selections are performed by an orchestra of professional musicians gathered from around the country. If your budget is tight, skip the big-ticket benefit concert headlined by child star Jackie Evancho on Sunday, and pick a free concert later in the week. You'll hear a highly polished performance at the perfect price.

Best bet for colorful costumes and intriguing moves: the Idaho International Dance and Music Festival's gala performance tonight in Burley. Expect close to 200 dancers from six foreign countries — a notable spectacle for the Magic Valley.

Best tradition: Twin Falls Municipal Band's weekly outdoor concerts, of course. If you've never packed a picnic and spread a blanket on the grass beside your neighbors, do it Thursday night. The band's summer concerts are a Twin Falls institution.

Best new discovery: Find a local artist to patronize at the First Thursday Open Studios Tour around Mini-Cassia. Chatting with the painters and potters just might turn you into a local-art collector.

Last chance: Oakley's production of the "Foot-loose" musical closes its run Saturday night. You've got two more nights to catch the show, and the town's old opera house always delivers surprisingly talented casts.

For details on these events — and many others — see the full calendar in today's Entertainment section.

25th Annual Spudman Triathlon Saturday

BY RYAN HOWE
rhowe@magicvalley.com

BURLEY • The Burley Lions Club — along with 2,200 athletes, hundreds of volunteers and thousands of spectators — will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its Spudman Triathlon on Saturday at Burley Golf Course Marina. From humble beginnings of about 100 participants in its first year, Spudman has blossomed into one of the most popular triathlons in the West. Longtime race director Scott Bloxham credits the countless volunteers for making Spudman a highly regarded event among triathletes. “Our chairmen have been really consistent the last four to five years, so as we’ve increased the numbers in our race they’ve handled it very well,” said Bloxham, who leads 21 committee chairmen overseeing about 225

MAGIC VALLEY BRIEFS

Locals Struggle at Junior America’s Cup: Kyle Miley and Kade Crossland struggled Thursday, as did the rest of Team Idaho at the Junior America’s Cup in Evergreen, Colo. Miley, of Twin Falls, shot an 83 while Buhl’s Crossland carded an 80 on Day 2 of the 17-team tournament. Par is 70 for the tournament. Only one player out of the 98 participating is under par for the tournament. Idaho slipped four places to 14th in the team standings with one round to go. Northern California holds the overall team lead.

ICGA Tournament Results: Lonnie and Shawna Nelson won the championship flight of the Idaho Couples Golf Association event which wrapped up in Jackpot, Nev., on Thursday. The Nelsons scored a 129.6 on the Chapman scoring system. Low score across all flights went to Marty and Karen Mangum, who scored 122.8 out of the second flight.

STEPHEN MEYERS • TIMES-NEWS

Twin Falls Cowboys outfielder Ryan Fuchs, center, is mobbed by teammates T.J. Ellis (3) and Tyler Wolters (19) after his game-ending single Thursday as the Cowboys beat Coeur d’Alene 7-6 to stay alive at the Class AA American Legion Baseball state tournament at Skip Walker Field in Twin Falls.

STAYIN’ ALIVE

Twin Falls trailed by three going into the bottom of the ninth inning, but the Cowboys scored four to stave off elimination at the Class AA American Legion Baseball state tournament.

BY STEPHEN MEYERS
smeyers@magicvalley.com

Not today. The two words were written on a few Twin Falls players’ wristbands, and the phrase echoed throughout the dugout at Skip Walker Field with enthusiasm. Thursday would not be the final day playing baseball together for the six seniors on the Twin Falls Cowboys. They’ll live to play another day as the Cowboys staved off elimination from the Class AA American Legion Baseball State Tournament, earning a wild 7-6 comeback win over Coeur d’Alene Thursday afternoon. “This is not my last day playing with these guys,” said Cowboys’ pitcher Cy Sneed. “I love these guys to death. It isn’t over. We all get along good and I like this group of guys. It’s a special group of guys. We’ve done some special things.” The ninth inning would qualify as one of those special moments.

Ryan Fuchs drove in the winning run with a two-out single up the middle to score John Hohnhorst, pinch-running for Sayer Conrad. This after a lot of confusion on the field. Trailing 6-3 heading into the bottom of the ninth, the Cowboys — who didn’t get a hit off Colin Comack until the fifth inning — hit three straight singles, loading the bases with no outs. T.J. Ellis worked a walk to score Marcus Donaldson, bringing up Sneed, who had hit a two-run home run in the sixth inning to put the Cowboys on the board. In the ninth, Sneed ripped what appeared to be a two-run double into center field over the outstretched glove of Jason Pattis, scoring Tyler Wolters and Jayson Welker, who avoided Joseph Roletto’s tag at the plate. The second base umpire, however, ruled that Pattis caught the ball and then called T.J. Ellis out at first for not tagging up. Sneed stood incredulous at second base before eventually returning to the dugout. The runs still counted, as those two had tagged, and Conrad ripped a single on the first pitch he saw before Fuchs stepped up and made any lingering controversy irrelevant. “I don’t know about everybody else, but I was in a glass case of emotion,” said Fuchs. “I was happy, then I didn’t know what was going on. I didn’t even to know what to think. “I just told him (Sneed) that we’re still tied. We still have to go out and play the game. I was just trying to be the mediator and not let everyone’s emotions get out of control.” The Cowboys will play today at 4 p.m. against Treasure Valley, again trying to stay alive for another day. “We’re not done. This was one of the most exciting games I’ve ever played in my life. I cannot say enough about these guys,” Sneed said.

Jerome Bows Out of State Tournament

TIMES-NEWS

Jerome’s Class AA American Legion Baseball State Tournament run ended Thursday in a 4-1 loss to Prairie at Skip Walker Field. Gary Koopman struck out 12, but eight walks doomed the Cyclones. Prairie hit a two-out single in the second inning to score two and Zack Reeder added a two-run double in the sixth.

The Cyclones only recorded eight hits in their two games at state. “I was confident that we were going to get to them today,” said Jerome coach Kenneth James. “I’m proud of (the players) for getting here, against all odds.” Jerome, which played the season with a roster of 11, lost 18 games to start the season and entered the Area C Tournament seeded fourth out of five teams. It was the first state tournament experience for Jordy Garrard. “It’s sad to think that I won’t play again for a long time,” Garrard said. “I’ve never been to state in high school or Legion or anything. It’s a lot different. The crowds are bigger and louder. It was a lot of fun.”

Burley Drops State Opener

Jake Mills struck out 13 and allowed just four hits, but two unearned runs spelled disaster for the Green Sox.

TIMES-NEWS

Despite a gem by pitcher Jake Mills, the Burley Green Sox lost a 2-1 heartbreaker to Coeur d’Alene in the first round of the American Legion Baseball Class A state tournament Thursday in Ontario, Ore. Mills struck out 13 batters and gave up four hits. Jackson Kunz hit a solo home run in the fourth inning, but that’s all the run support the Green Sox could muster. “We didn’t have any productive outs,” said Burley coach Kevin Kunz. “Jake pitched so good, one of the best outings he’s had, and we just didn’t help him enough.” A two-out error by Burley in the sixth inning led to both Coeur d’Alene runs. The Green Sox (27-16) look to stay alive in the one-loss bracket, where they face a rematch with Area C foe Hillcrest at 10 a.m. today.

FIRED

United States men’s soccer coach Bob Bradley was fired Thursday. Bradley led the U.S. to memorable moments including beating world No. 1 Spain in the 2009 Confederations Cup and the heart-stopping 1-0 win over Algeria in the 2010 World Cup, but he could not survive a dismal showing in the 2011 Gold Cup.

Idaho Picked Sixth in WAC

Hawaii was predicted by both media and coaches to win the conference in its final season as a member.

LAS VEGAS (AP) • Idaho was picked to finish sixth in the eight-team Western Athletic Conference by both the coaches and the media, according to preseason polls released at the conference’s football media day Thursday. Hawaii was picked to win the conference title in both polls, picked ahead of Fresno State and Nevada. The Warriors return quarterback Bryant Moniz, who led the country in passing, total offense and touchdowns last year as the team went 10-4.

With Short Preseason, Doctors Stress Safety to NFL Teams

NEW YORK (AP) • NFL doctors and experts in heat-related illnesses spoke with each team this week. The message, delivered loud and clear: practice caution.

These mandatory conference calls assume greater importance because of the 4½-month lockout that ended Monday. Offseason workouts and minicamps were eliminated by the work stoppage.

“We don’t know where these people are coming from, and normally they would be in their team’s facility for four months training,” said Dr. Douglas J. Casa, kinesiology professor at the University of Connecticut’s Neag School of Education, and the chief scientist at the Korey Stringer Institute. “You might have a player going to Houston and he has been training in a more northern climate.

“We were trying to reiterate the most basic and important concerns when someone is exercising in heat. The real primal things: exercise in the heat, getting ready to handle it, the basic precautions, what are you looking for if there is a problem.”

Stringer, an offensive lineman for the Vikings, died at 27 in August 2001 of exertional heat stroke. The institute, established in 2010, operates independently but has a working relationship with the NFL.

“This has been a real point of emphasis since Korey died,” said Dr. Andrew Tucker, the head team physician for the Baltimore Ravens. “With this unique preseason, coaches and clubs are under the gun to get a lot of work done in a short period of time. I would anticipate intense and fast-paced practices, which combined with extreme environmental conditions can be a recipe for problems.”

Also participating in the calls with the 32 teams were NFL doctors Hunt Batjer and Richard Ellenbogen, who primarily addressed head injuries. Dr. Margaret Kolka, former head of the Army’s environmental medicine division, and Casa spoke about heat-related injuries.

New York Giants associate team physician Dr. Scott Rodeo emphasized the uncertainty permeating this offseason.

“This camp may be more challenging as athletes may not be in optimal physical condition due to lack of organized training activities during the recent lockout,” Rodeo said. “Team medical staffs are just now examining the athletes for the first time in several months, so we need to take extra care in evaluating the athletes.”

Casa noted the critical nature of monitoring players in their first five days of strenuous activities at training camps, which began opening Wednesday. Those players are not “heat-acclimatized” and are far more vulnerable to significant problems.

“It is a hyper-concern right now and being more cautious is essential,” said Casa, stressing that the phone calls were not done to “scare people.”

“We have no idea on the physical shape of these people,” he added. “Some teams could have half the people there that are new faces.

General managers and coaches are worrying about signing players, and players are worrying about learning the playbook. Sometimes you must take a step back and safety has to come first.”

Doctors and trainers always emphasize hydration and rapid cooling during rigorous workouts. Will players, particularly fringe ones trying to make an early impression, heed the danger signs and not push themselves too far?

That has been a problem more on the youth level than in college or the pros, Casa noted.

Jets head team physician Dr. Kenneth Montgomery predicts the elimination of a second daily, full-pads practice — the dreaded two-a-days — will benefit everyone. And not only for training camps, but right into the season.

“It means a much safer practice when there is less contact,” Montgomery said, “and players are not as beat up and they are less likely to get major injuries.

“When players will feel more healthy and rested as we finish training camps, they will feel better prepared and will perform optimally at each practice rather than, say, having just six hours of recovery after two-a-day sessions.”

Montgomery sees an added benefit to that: Veterans who abhorred the old-style training camps just might stick around the game longer.

“Wouldn’t you like to keep a LaDainian Tomlinson around the younger guys and in the locker room as an influence?” he said.

Tiger Woods to Return at Firestone

Woods has been out for 11 weeks to heal injuries to his left leg. While away he missed two majors and fired his longtime caddie.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. • Tiger Woods will return to golf next week at the Bridge-stone Invitational, ending an 11-week break to heal injuries to his left leg.

Woods announced the decision on his website on Thursday.

On his Twitter account, Woods says he’s “feeling fit and ready to tee it up at Firestone next week. Excited to get back out there!”

It marks the third-longest layoff of his career, only this time Woods returns with as much uncertainty about his future as ever. Along with questions about the strength of his left knee and Achilles, he embarks on this latest comeback with a new caddie. Woods has plunged to No. 21 in the world — his lowest ranking since Jan. 26, 1997.

Browne Leads U.S. Senior Open

TOLEDO, Ohio • Olin Browne had two eagles down the stretch and finished with a 7-under 64 Thursday for a two-stroke lead after the opening round of the U.S.

Senior Open.

Browne, a three-time winner on the PGA Tour, had four birdies, two eagles and a bogey.

Playing late on an oppressively humid day at lengthy Inverness Club, Browne was two strokes clear of Mark O’Meara and Michael Allen, who each shot bogey-free 66s.

Immelman Leads PGA Event

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. • Trevor Immelman shot a 6-under 64 Thursday for a one-stroke lead after the first round of the Greenbrier Classic.

The former Masters champion carded seven birdies and a bogey on the redesigned Old White TPC course for his best round of the year.

Gary Woodland, Billy Mayfair, Derek Lamely, Webb Simpson and Steven Bowditch each shot 65, while four others had a 66.

Meena Lee Leads at Women’s British

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland • Meena Lee of South Korea overcame wet conditions to shoot a 7-under 65 Thursday for a two-stroke clubhouse lead in the first round of the Women’s British Open.

She had seven birdies and no bogeys in her round played mainly in a heavy rain.

Moniz has been picked by media as the WAC’s preseason player of the year on offense.

Fresno State and Nevada each received 11 of 41 first-place votes in the media poll, and were separated by one point overall in the coaches poll.

Utah State linebacker Bobby Wagner was picked as defensive player of the year.

As far as Idaho is concerned, sixth is a spot at which it can fly under the radar as it did in reaching the Humanitarian Bowl two seasons ago.

“I’m very excited about getting this season kicked off,” said Idaho coach Robb Akey.

“I think we have a chance to be a very good football team.”

Idaho quarterback Brian Reader and linebacker Tre`Shawn Robinson talked Thursday about the energy and excitement of their 2009 Humanitarian Bowl run and their thirst to make it back to the post-season.

Reader takes over for Nate Enderle as the team’s chief signal caller after garnering spot duty last season.

Kicker Trey Farquhar and punter Bobby Cowan, two of the best in school history, both return as well.

“If we stay healthy,” Akey said, “we have a chance to do a lot of things this year.

“I’m excited about what I believe we can do.”

Information supplied by the University of Idaho was used in this report.

volunteers. “Our groups have been really good about handling the situation and our chairmen have been really good about having everybody prepared for it.”

Spudman is an Olympic-distance race, featuring a 1.5K swim, 40K bike race and 10K run. It starts and finishes at Burley Golf Course Marina.

Heyburn native and elite triathlete B.J. Christenson has won the past two Spudmans and will return this weekend seeking a threepeat.

“(Spudman) is what got me started in the sport,” said Christenson, who took part in his first Spudman as a junior at Minico High School before going on to become an All-America steeplechaser at College of Southern Idaho and University of Utah.

Christenson, who now resides in North Salt Lake, Utah, where he manages a running store and coaches privately, has qualified several times for the prestigious Ironman World Championships in Hawaii, where he will compete again later this year.

He finished the 2010 season ranked sixth in USA Triathlon’s national rankings in the 30-34 age group. Earlier this month he won the Rocky Mountain Regional Championship in Coalville, Utah.

Christenson said he enjoys returning to his triathlon roots in Burley each year, “not only as a tribute to that, but also it’s my hometown and it was always on my bucket list to knock it off. Now that I’ve done it, I want to continue to do it for as long as I can.”

TODAY'S NATIONAL MAP

Lincecum Dazzles as Giants Top Phillies

PHILADELPHIA • Tim Lincecum threw six scoreless innings, Pablo Sandoval hit a solo homer and San Francisco beat Philadelphia 4-1 on Thursday night in its first game with Carlos Beltran.

The All-Star outfielder was 0 for 4 with two strikeouts in his debut with the defending World Series champions, who won two of three against the major league-leading Phillies in a rematch of the NLCS.

Lincecum (9-8) showed no negative effects from the stomach illness that forced him to push his start back two days. The two-time NL Cy Young Award winner allowed three hits, struck out six and worked around four walks.

The Phillies hadn't lost consecutive games since June 4. They went a club-record 45 straight games without dropping two straight.

Mets 10, Reds 9

CINCINNATI • Lucas Duda and Jason Bay each drove in three runs with bases-loaded doubles and New York got its first ever four-game sweep in Cincinnati.

Wright went 3 for 5 to extend his hitting streak to seven games (15 for 33, .455) since coming off the disabled list on July 22. He was 9 for 19 with five RBIs in the series.

Brewers 4, Cubs 2

MILWAUKEE • Ryan Braun had three hits, including a home run, to lead Milwaukee to its first sweep of Chicago at home since May 2005.

The Cubs rode a three-game win streak into Milwaukee but struggled mightily at the plate during the series, scoring just four runs in three games.

Marlins 5, Nationals 2

WASHINGTON • Mike Stanton homered for the second straight game and five Marlins relievers held Washington to one run over 5 1-3 innings as Florida completed a three-game sweep.

The Marlins won their fifth straight and improved to 14-5 since July 5.

Padres 4, Diamondbacks 3

SAN DIEGO • Jesus Guzman had two RBIs and rookie Luis Martinez drove in the go-ahead run as San Diego avoided a three-game sweep and won for the second time in six games.

Martinez and Orlando Hudson each had an RBI single in the sixth inning as the Padres erased a 3-2 deficit. Daniel Hudson contributed to Arizona's troubles with two walks and a hit batter in the inning.

Pirates 5, Braves 2

ATLANTA • Andrew McCutchen had three hits, including a double in the fifth inning that gave Pittsburgh the lead and a two-run homer in the ninth.

McCutchen had been 1 for 11 in the series, which included wins by the Braves in 19 and 10 innings, before meeting with manager Clint Hurdle before Thursday's game. Hurdle said he asked McCutchen to compare video of his swing from recent games and when he was having more success.

Astros 5, Cardinals 3

ST. LOUIS • Wandy Rodriguez pitched seven innings and retired the last 13 batters he faced and Jason Bourgeois hit a tiebreaking double in the fifth inning.

American League Angels 12, Tigers 7

DETROIT • Mark Trumbo homered and drove in a career-high five runs.

Trumbo also tripled, doubled and scored three times in the rookie's fourth three-hit game. Needing just a single for the cycle, he grounded out leading off the ninth inning.

Rays 10, Athletics 8

OAKLAND, Calif. • Desmond Jennings hit his first career home run and later added a two-run double in a seven-run seventh inning as Tampa Bay rallied from five runs down.

B.J. Upton and Evan Longoria also homered, helping make a winner out of right-hander Wade Davis (8-7), who struggled early before settling down to retire 17 straight batters.

Royals 4, Red Sox 3

BOSTON • Billy Butler hit a

Today is Friday, July 29, the 210th day of 2011. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:
On July 29, 1981, Britain's Prince Charles married Lady Diana Spencer at St. Paul's Cathedral in London. (However, the couple divorced in 1996.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date:

In 1588, the English attacked the Spanish Armada in the Battle of Gravelines, resulting in an English victory.

In 1890, artist Vincent van Gogh, 37, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in Auvers-sur-Oise, France.

In 1914, transcontinental telephone service in the U.S. began with the first test phone conversation between New York and San Francisco.

In 1921, Adolf Hitler became leader (the "fuehrer") of the National Socialist German Workers Party.

In 1948, Britain's King George VI opened the Olympic Games in London.

In 1957, the International Atomic Energy Agency was established. Jack Paar made his debut as host of NBC's "Tonight Show."

In 1958, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the National Aeronautics and Space Act, creating NASA.

In 1967, an accidental rocket launch aboard the supercarrier USS Forrestal in the Gulf of Tonkin resulted in a fire and explosions that killed 134 servicemen.

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford became the first U.S. president to visit the site of the Nazi concentration camp Auschwitz in Poland.

LEGAL NOTICE

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game was informed by the Bureau of Fisheries that harvest objectives for targeted hatchery returns in fisheries in the Lower Salmon River, and the mainstem of the South Fork Salmon River have been met. These fisheries also intercept and impact salmon destined to other areas where they are needed to meet harvest goals and for hatchery broodstock and natural spawning.

To reduce interceptions of salmon required for hatchery broodstocks and natural spawning and to meet harvest goals for fisheries in other areas, the Fisheries Bureau recommends closing the Lower Salmon River from the Highway 95 Time Zone Bridge upstream to the mouth of Short's Creek and the mainstem South Fork Salmon River from the posted boundary about one mile upstream of Fourmile Campground upstream to the posted boundary about 100 yards downstream of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game weir and trap to fishing for Chinook salmon.

Pursuant to his authority under Idaho Code Section 36-106(e)(6) (A), the Idaho Department of Fish and Game Director hereby closes the Lower Salmon River from the Highway 95 Time Zone Bridge upstream to the mouth of Short's Creek and the mainstem South Fork Salmon River from the posted boundary about one mile upstream of Fourmile Campground upstream to the posted boundary about 100 yards downstream of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game weir and trap to fishing for Chinook salmon effective the end of fishing on July 28, 2011.

Copies of Order 11-26 are available at the Idaho Department of Fish and Game headquarters, 600 South Walnut, PO Box 25, Boise, ID 83707.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Tuesday, the 22nd day of November, 2011, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock a.m. of said day at the front steps of the Lincoln County Courthouse, 111 W. "B" St., Shoshone, in the County of Lincoln, State of Idaho, Ryan M. Fawcett, as Successor Trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property situated in the County of Lincoln, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to wit:

W½ OF LOTS 11 AND 12 IN BLOCK 14, MOUNTAIN VIEW ADDITION TO THE CITY OF SHOSHONE, LINCOLN COUNTY, IDAHO, AS THE SAME IS PLATTED IN THE OFFICIAL PLAT THEREOF, NOW OF RECORD IN THE OFFICE OF THE RECORDER OF SAID COUNTY.

The Successor Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above referenced real property, but for purposes of compliance with Section 60-113, Idaho Code, the Successor Trustee has been informed that the street address of 602 E. 6th St., Shoshone, Idaho, is sometimes associated with said real property.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by WILLIAM L. MONTGOMERY and SARAH R. MONTGOMERY, Husband and Wife, Grantor, to Ryan M. Fawcett, Successor Trustee, for the benefit and security of IDAHO HOUSING AND FINANCE ASSOCIATION, recorded March 4, 2009, as Instrument No. 186325, Mortgage records of Lincoln County, Idaho. THE ABOVE GRANTOR IS NAMED TO COMPLY WITH SECTION 45-1506 (4)(a), IDAHO CODE. NO REPRESENTATION IS MADE THAT THEY ARE, OR ARE NOT, PRESENTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS OBLIGATION.

The default for which this sale is to be made is the failure to pay when due, monthly installment payments under the Deed of Trust Note dated February 27, 2009, in the amount of $1,058.00 each, for the months of October, 2010, through July, 2011, inclusive; and for each and every month thereafter until date of sale or reimbursement. All delinquent payments are now due, plus accumulated late charges, plus any costs or expenses associated with this foreclosure. The accrued interest is at the rate of 5.00% per annum from September 1, 2010. The principal balance owing as of this date on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is $159,346.96, plus accrued interest at the rate of 5.00% per annum from September 1, 2010.

DATED This 22nd day of July, 2011.

ORDINANCE NO. 1279

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BURLEY, IDAHO, AMENDING TITLE 10, CHAPTER 7 OF THE BURLEY CITY CODE RELATING TO THE DEFINITION OF JUNKED PROPERTY AND PROHIBITIONS RELATED THERETO; ALLOWING TWO (2) JUNKED MOTOR VEHICLES TO BE KEPT BEHIND OPAQUE FENCE; CLARIFYING THE EXCEPTIONS OF KEEPING SUCH ITEMS IN BUSINESS OPERATIONS; AND, PROVIDING THAT THIS ORDINANCE SHALL BE IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT FROM AND AFTER ITS PASSAGE, APPROVAL, AND PUBLICATION ACCORDING TO LAW.

WHEREAS, the City of Burley does recognize the value of promoting and protecting public health, safety, and general welfare by providing for the regulation of the accumulation of junk, including junked or abandoned vehicles, within the City of Burley; and,

WHEREAS, the City of Burley desires clarify the role of real property owners, tenants, occupants or other persons with interest thereto to maintain property free of junk and abandoned property;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BURLEY, IDAHO AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: That Section 10-7-1 of Burley City Code shall be amended as follows:

10-7-1: DEFINITIONS:

HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND EQUIPMENT: All articles usually referred to as household goods and articles used in housekeeping including but not limited to chairs, tables, davenports, beds, refrigerators, stoves, washers, dryers, furnaces and appliances.

MACHINERY: All articles used for farm or domestic purposes, machinery or equipment, and all metal or wooden machinery, motors, equipment, tools or property.

MISCELLANEOUS PROPERTY: All other property including but not limited to rope, iron, brass, copper, tin, lead, rubber, rags, baggage, bottles, scrap, toys, bicycles, boats, containers and batteries.

MOTOR VEHICLE: Any vehicle propelled or drawn by power other than muscular power designed to travel on the ground by wheels, treads, runners or slides and to transport persons or property or pull machinery; a "motor vehicle" shall include, including but not be limited to, automobiles, trucks, trailers, motorcycles, ATVs, tractors, buggies or wagons.

WRECKED, ABANDONED, DISMANTLED, DAMAGED, DILAPIDATED AND JUNK:

(A) Wrecked: The disordered or broken remains of anything that has been demolished or otherwise ruined and is in a state of ruin or dilapidation and as particularly applied to motor vehicles herein called a junk motor vehicle shall be further defined as an unsightly motor vehicle (or part or parts thereof) which;

1.) does not carry a current or valid State registration and/or license and is not in a garage or other building;

2.) cannot be safely operated under its own power; or

3.) is not in a garage or other building and does not have any one of the following: foot brakes, hand brakes, headlights, taillights, horn, muffler, rearview mirror, windshield wipers, inflated tires, or adequate fenders.

(B) Abandoned: Abandoned is the relinquishment or giving up with the intent of never again resuming or claiming an interest in the thing. With regard to motor vehicles, a motor vehicle is deemed abandoned if it does not carry a current or valid state registration and/or license regardless of its operability.

(C) Dismantled: Dismantled is the taking of pieces of the thing.

(D) Damaged: Damaged is that which has been impaired, injured, hurt and harmed.

(E) Dilapidated: Dilapidated is caved, fallen into partial ruin, injured by bad usage or neglect.

(F) Junk: Junk shall mean scrapped, wrecked, ruined or dismantled.

The foregoing words in this Section shall have such further meaning as may be defined in a generally accepted dictionary. (Ord. 807, 7-20-1970)

Section 2: That Section 10-7-2 of Burley City Code shall be amended as follows:

10-7-2: ACCUMULATION PROHIBITED:

(A) No person shall place, allow, discard, maintain or store any dismantled, wrecked, abandoned, junked, damaged or destroyed household goods or equipment, motor vehicles, machinery or miscellaneous property upon any public street, alley, sidewalk or upon private property within the City.

(B) No person, whether he be the owner, tenant, occupant, lessee or otherwise of any private property or premises shall place, allow, discard, maintain, park, store or permit to be stored, placed, allowed, discarded, maintained, parked or stored upon a property or premises in the City, for a period of time exceeding forty eight (48) hours, any wrecked, dismantled, abandoned, junked, damaged or destroyed household goods and equipment, motor vehicles, machinery or miscellaneous property as in this Chapter defined. (Ord. 807, 7-20-1970)

(C) Notwithstanding any other provision it shall be permissible for any person to keep up to, but no more than, two (2) inoperable, junked or unused vehicles on his or her property so long as the vehicles are kept behind a six foot (6') opaque fence or structure which has the effect of blocking the view of the vehicles from public or private property.

Section 3: That Section 10-7-5 of Burley City Code shall be amended as follows:

10-7-5: EXCEPTIONS:

This Chapter shall not apply to any property or premises where items are enclosed in a building or to any property or premises lawfully situated, licensed, and permitted to operated as a business where the same is a part of said business enterprise necessary to the operation of said business on said property or premises; provided, however, in the case of businesses whose inventory consists of the items, the property upon which such items are placed shall be enclosed by a fence at least six feet (6') in height and of such a material that such fence shall prevent persons outside the premises from seeing the materials stored on the premises through the fence.

PASSED AND APPROVED this 19th day of July, 2011, by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Burley.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 16-year-old girl. I have good grades, participate in sports and activities, and I'm involved in my church. My parents have always trusted me and given me freedom because they know I can handle it.

I want to attend a concert in a bigger town with a friend. However, my parents insist I must have an adult with me. I feel I'm responsible enough to go to the concert without one. How can I convince my parents? (A parent would be driving us to and from the concert.)

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN AN OLD GAFFER AND AN OLD GEEZER?

A GAFFER SEES A PRETTY GIRL AND RECALLS HIS YOUTH WITH A SMILE...

A GEEZER DOES THE SAME THING BUT HAS NO IDEA WHY HE'S SMILING.

JEREMY! HOW COULD YOU LOSE A WHOLE SUMMER'S WORTH OF PAYCHECKS??

I DIDN'T SAY I "LOST" THEM...

I SAID I'M JUST NOT SURE EXACTLY WHERE THEY ARE.

YOU MEAN WITHIN THIS GENERAL AREA?

LET'S SAY WITHIN THIS GENERAL HEMISPHERE.

IF JULY 29 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Your sector of the zodiac is free of surprises and unnecessary stress during the year ahead. You can settle down into a pleasant routine and build your strength as ambitions grow. Plan to put your most important plans into motion in October or November when you will have cosmic help. That is a good time to make permanent improvements in the general direction of your life and to find lucrative opportunities. Late January or early February is a good time for wise business decisions, but in March you can successfully start or interview for a new job, or even meet a romantic partner when your popularity hits a high note.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Someone could say the magic words that unlock your originality and pep you up just when energies are lagging. There is a tendency to indulge in lavish entertainments or overdo expenditures on luxuries.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Ask favors of your favorites. The boss might be more forgiving of minor errors and more likely to let you leave work early today. However, you might be expected to put in extra hours next week.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Relish a love of personal independence. You may be feeling your amorous oats tonight, but only find pure contentment with the tried and true. Pass up the temptation to make impetuous purchases.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): In the long run, it might be better to make do, or do without. You could be over confident about income. Gather information and get all the facts, but hold off on purchases that stretch your resources.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Time is the one commodity that can't be replaced if you waste it. The water-cooler crowd may entice you into discussions that distract you from essential business. Prioritize the day so the night is fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may be mired in "the more the merrier." It is possible to go overboard with expenditures on entertainments and amusements. It is easy to gain cooperation from others, but not all promises will be kept.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If some is good, you probably think that more is better. You need to guard against overindulging in the good things in life. Enlist some extra hands to help with a pending project or running errands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do a balancing act with the bank balance. The money you waste on this and that throughout the day might add up quickly. Your special someone is probably in the mood for extra spoiling and indulgences.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't buy the whole cow just to drink a glass of milk. It is easy to be enthused by a new hobby and get in over your head. Act sensibly to avoid starting bad habits and use common sense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The check is in the mail. You might hear what you want to hear from someone who wants to maintain the peace by being creative about the facts. You could hear excuses or rationalizations today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Less is more. As they say, "You can never be too rich or too thin." It isn't necessary to spend a great deal of money to make a dazzling impression. You might be at odds with an insincere person.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your sense of adventure can make this a fun-filled weekend. It is easy to set off without a destination in mind. You take it for granted that people will overlook mistakes and forgive you for not being on time.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

"It was strange How things turned out — the chances! You'd just got To take your luck in life, you couldn't change Your luck."

— Wilfrid Gibson

In this deal from the second round of the Spingold tournament held in New Orleans last summer, Nick L'Ecuyer found an extra chance in a difficult three-no-trump contract.

West leads a fourth-highest spade two and East continues the suit. You pitch a heart from dummy, and the defense erroneously leads a third spade. What do you discard from dummy, and how do you plan the play?

You have excellent chances in either minor, but it's tough to get any additional chances from the hearts because you have to discard twice from dummy. If you pitch two hearts from the board, you can't exploit a 3-3 split. If you pitch a club from dummy and cross to the club king to lead a heart up, West will win the heart king and play back a club to kill the dummy.

At one table, declarer simply tested diamonds from the top. He took the king and ace from hand, then led a third diamond, falling back on the club split or a squeeze. This line gave him an excellent mathematical chance — by my calculations about four chances in five, but today was not his lucky day.

L'Ecuyer found an extra chance after pitching a heart from the board. He tested clubs first, West discarding a spade, then cashed the long spade to extract a heart from West. Next he played three rounds of diamonds. West could cash his long diamond but was employed at trick 12 to concede two hearts by leading away from his king.

ANSWER: Assuming two spades is a weak jump response (the standard meaning for that action by an unpassed hand in competition), you should raise to three spades now to continue the pre-empt. This auction does not show extras; with a game-try you would cue-bid or bid two no-trump, if appropriate. Bidding directly makes West's decision far harder at his next turn if he has extra shape or high cards.

Representing Self, Polygamist Leader Mute as Trial Starts

BY WILL WEISSERT
Associated Press

SAN ANGELO, Texas • A Texas prosecutor told jurors Thursday he would present an audio recording of a polygamist sect leader raping a 12-year-old and other evidence showing the 55-year-old impregnated a 15-year-old girl during the man's sexual assault trial.

The trial began shortly after Warren Jeffs fired his high-powered defense team and a judge allowed the ecclesiastical head of the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints to defend himself.

But when it came his turn to present an opening statement, Jeffs was mute, sitting silently in his courtroom seat.

Then, as the prosecutor continued to present his case, Jeffs stared off into space, appearing not to be paying attention to the proceedings.

"You've sat here now for an hour and not said a word," District Judge Barbara Walther said, then added his continued silence could have "a very bad result."

The silence was a sharp contrast to Jeffs' earlier behavior in court. Then, he spoke for more than 20 minutes, telling the judge he had spent extensive time training his lawyers, but they weren't able to present "a pure defense." He then pleaded for more time to prepare the case by himself.

But Walther turned down that request. Jeffs has burned through seven attorneys in six months, and prosecutors complained his frequent switching of counsel was a delay tactic.

"Mr. Jeffs, the court is not going to recess these proceedings to let you go to law school," Walther said in deciding to start the trial as scheduled.

Jeffs' sect is an offshoot of mainstream Mormonism that believes polygamy brings exaltation in Heaven, and followers see him as God's spokesman on Earth. He is accused of sexually assaulting two underage girls at a remote compound in West Texas. If convicted, he could face life in prison.

The surreal day in court began with Jeffs addressing Walther in long and complicated sentences frequently punctuated by awkward pauses when he would stare intently at the floor.

"The condition of my present defense is such that I cannot use them," he said of his attorneys. "They, not having all needed understanding for my defense, which wants for representation by one who knows and understands the facts of these truths."

Walther asked when he had arrived at the decision, and Jeffs launched into another long-winded answer, assuring her that neither he nor his attorneys have "been idle."

"This has been a continued labor on my part, seeing counsel often have ideas different from the needs at hand," he said, adding that his defense team never "had a true understanding of the facts."

Walther ordered all of Jeffs' attorneys to remain on as side counsel but held firm on no further delays.

"You cannot fire your lawyers in an attempt to get a continuance," she said. "We're going forward today, sir. Can you understand that?"

SOUTHWEST IDAHO WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY IN IMMIGRATION SCAM

BOISE (AP) • A southwestern Idaho woman has pleaded guilty to a scam that targeted immigrants seeking U.S. citizenship. Crystal Tijerina, of Caldwell, faces up to 25 years in prison at her Oct. 12 sentencing in U.S. District Court in Boise.

The 29-year-old pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of mail fraud and misuse of U.S. government seals as part of an agreement with federal prosecutors. Authorities say she took money from immigrants and gave them fraudulent documents with U.S. government seals.

Utah's Huntsman Challenges Conservatives on Conservation

BY PHILIP ELLIOTT
Associated Press

WASHINGTON • Touting a record that could complicate his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, former Utah Gov. Jon Huntsman challenged his party Thursday to protect the environment and acknowledge climate change as a real threat.

Huntsman, who is trailing in the polls but is working to build a campaign that could deny front-runner Mitt Romney the nod, criticized those who question the science behind climate change and loathe the government's role in fighting it. His tough message was unlikely to endear him to conservatives who hold great sway in the party's nominating process.

"We will be judged by how well we were stewards of those (natural) resources," said Huntsman, a veteran of three Republican administrations who until this spring was President Barack Obama's ambassador to China.

"Conservation is conservative. I'm not ashamed to be a conservationist. I also believe that science should be driving our discussions on climate change," he added.

Polling on the issue gives Huntsman little reason to embrace — or promote — his position or his moderate environmental record while governor.

Conservative Republicans have grown more vocal in their doubts about climate change.

Meanwhile, in an interview broadcast Thursday night by Fox News Channel, Huntsman faulted Obama's handling of the debt crisis, saying "the president has shown no leadership. ... He doesn't have a plan on the table."

Of the mounting federal debt, he said: "We've got to get on with this cancer that has taken over this country. We need to cut it out. We need to radiate it."

On the environment, Gallup polling has shown a decline over the past few years in the share of Americans saying that global warming's effects have already begun — from a high of 61 percent in 2008 to 49 percent in March. The change is driven almost entirely by conservatives.

In 2008, 50 percent of conservatives said they believed global warming already is having effects; that figure dropped to 30 percent this year.

The platform is no longer compatible with Rupert's pool, he said, while Oakley is seeking a replacement for its own.

The council approved the request.

- Council members tabled a request to declare five police cars surplus, however, to give it more thought.

Sgt. James Wardle said some of the cars have been vandalized, some cannibalized for parts and others are just worn out.

"We can get more money for those cars that are damaged from the crush yard than we can by auctioning them off," Wardle said. "Where these have no windows and are damaged and bad motor and stuff, you'd be lucky to get $100 for them at auction."

Outdated light bars and radar units also need disposed of, he said.

The council's next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 9 at Rupert City Hall.

PUBLIC INVITED TO SATURDAY ANIMAL CONTROL DISCUSSION

BY LAURIE WELCH
lwelch@magicvalley.com

PAUL • The public is invited to help Minidoka County Animal Control Facility officials and volunteers brainstorm ideas to improve the conditions at the struggling facility in Paul.

A 10 a.m. Saturday roundtable meeting will be held at the Best Western Burley Inn & Convention Center, 800 N. Overland Ave. The county's animal control facility has struggled to meet its $90,000 annual operating needs, as funding previously provided through fees and a reserve account has dwindled.

County Animal Control Officer Steve Mani said donations and volunteers have recently poured into the center from across Mini-Cassia, and now the public's input is sought on how the facility will move forward.

"We really need this public support and we definitely need their help," Mani said.

Take Part

A public roundtable discussion of Minidoka County animal control issues will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Best Western Burley Inn & Convention Center at 800 N. Overland Ave. To learn more about donating to or volunteering at the Minidoka County Animal Control Facility, call 438-2200.

Mani said facility projects are progressing, including the return of bids for a proposed cover for the outdoor kennels and for partitions in the upper inside kennels.

Mani said the meeting is open to everyone concerned about the shelter, animal control board members and representatives from the county and the cities that participate in the county's joint-powers animal control agreement.

The Jerome Robbery Suspect Gets Trial Date

TIMES-NEWS

A 23-year-old Jerome man has pleaded not guilty to three felony counts from a June bank robbery.

Joseph Jacobs is slated to face an Oct. 5 jury trial in Jerome County 5th District Court. He entered his plea on Monday.

Jacobs is charged with robbery, grand theft and burglary. Prosecutors say Jacobs robbed the Jerome D.L. Evans Bank branch at 980 S. Lincoln Ave. on June 10.

ISP Cracks Down on Driving

TIMES-NEWS

A joint effort by the Idaho State Police, Idaho Transportation Department and area law-enforcement agencies increased patrols to combat aggressive driving from July 15-26. During that span, ISP Region 4 troopers made 1,009 contacts, leading to a variety of arrests and citations.

tense hostage situation by surrendering himself by police. Twin Falls County Prosecutor Grant Loebs noted the scope of the investigation into Cleveland's alleged crimes.

"When we were still in the process of analyzing (the information), we spoke with a lot of agencies that worked on the case, put together reports from each agency, reviewed a number of witnesses and then analyzed which charges to file," he said.

Twin Falls Police Capt. Matt Hicks noted last week that as many as nine agencies responded to the July 15 incident, making the event one of the largest deployments of law-enforcement personnel this area has seen.

The indictment contains charges of first-degree murder, aggravated battery on an officer, aggravated assault on an officer, aggravated assault, second-degree kidnapping and eluding an officer. It does not provide a narrative account of Cleveland's alleged actions that morning.

Based on information provided by officials, it is believed that Cleveland fled a traffic stop by an ISP trooper shortly before 8 a.m. on July 15, driving from near Filer toward Twin Falls. Police say he crashed into another vehicle at the intersection of Fillmore Street and Pole Line Road and ran to the Hampton Inn hotel on Fillmore Street, carrying a .22-caliber semi-automatic pistol.

There, he allegedly shot ISP Trooper Nick Walker in the leg, fatally shot Tracey Ivie, 43, of Lindon, Utah, in the chest and took a woman, now identified as Sharon Knudsen, hostage. Reports do not list Knudsen's age or place of residence.

The Indictment

A Twin Falls grand jury indicted Clark Cleveland on 12 felonies this week. Here's a roundup of those charges and the alleged crimes behind them.

Count 1: First-degree murder for fatally shooting Tracy Ivie.

Count 2: Aggravated battery on a police officer with a deadly weapon for shooting Idaho State Police Trooper Nick Walker in the leg.

Count 3: Aggravated assault with a deadly weapon for pointing a gun at witness Jeff Bulkley.

Count 4: Second-degree kidnapping for holding Sharon Knudsen hostage.

Counts 5-6: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun twice at ISP Trooper Chris Clausing.

Counts 7-8: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun twice at Twin Falls County Sheriff's Deputy Eric Steele.

Count 9: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun at Twin Falls County Sheriff's Deputy Ted McIntyre.

Count 10: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun at Twin Falls County Sheriff's Deputy Morgan Case.

Count 11: Aggravated assault on an officer with a deadly weapon for firing a gun at Twin Falls Police Officer Aaron Nay.

Count 12: Eluding a peace officer for fleeing a pursuing police vehicle at excessive speed and causing damage to persons or property.

Penalties Upon Conviction

Here are the possible prison sentences Cleveland could face if convicted, per state law.

First-degree murder: minimum 10 years, maximum life sentence or death.

Aggravated battery on an officer: maximum 30 years.

Aggravated assault: maximum 5 years.

Second-degree kidnapping: minimum 1 year, maximum 25 years.

Aggravated assault on an officer: maximum 10 years.

Eluding an officer: minimum 1 year driver's license suspension, maximum 5 years prison.

Weapons enhancement: additional 15 years per conviction.

Upon taking Knudsen at gunpoint, police say Cleveland barricaded himself in a hotel stairwell, starting a nearly three-hour standoff that ended in his surrender.

On Thursday afternoon, Loebs declined to provide a timeline for three of the major incidents of the morning: the shootings of Ivie and Walker and the abduction of Knudsen. The indictment of first-degree murder notes that Cleveland allegedly shot Ivie while holding Knudsen hostage. Exactly when Walker was shot has not been disclosed.

Cleveland also allegedly fired at five other officers — ISP Trooper Chris Clausing, Twin Falls Police Officer Aaron Nay and Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies Eric Steele, Ted McIntyre and Morgan Case — but they were not hit. Loebs said Walker is expected to make a full recovery.

In all, it is believed Cleveland fired his weapon 10 times, each time with the intention to harm others.

Loebs initially charged Cleveland with two felonies: aggravated battery on an officer with a deadly weapon and eluding an officer. A preliminary hearing on those charges was set for this morning, but that case is now dismissed, superseded by the grand jury indictment. Cleveland remains in custody of the Twin Falls County Jail on $2 million bond.
